The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both manual and automated processes. The goal is to ensure that the information is both reliable and up-to-date.

The third part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the results. It shows that there has been a significant increase in sales over the period covered. This is attributed to several factors, including improved marketing strategies and better customer service.

Finally, the document concludes with a series of recommendations for future actions. It suggests that the company should continue to invest in research and development to stay ahead of the competition. Additionally, it recommends regular audits to ensure ongoing compliance with all relevant regulations.

WAYS AND MEANS.

(EXPLANATORY STATEMENT.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 24 January, 1877.

---

EXPLANATORY Statement of the Public Accounts of New South Wales, as embodied in the Ways and Means for the Year 1877.

CONSOLIDATED REVENUE FUND.

The Ways and Means now submitted for the year 1877 are similar in arrangement, it will be observed, to those of each and every year since the passing of the "Audit Act of 1870." By thus adhering to a uniform system there is secured the advantage of comparison with former Ways and Means, and consequently of ascertaining how far the estimates of Revenue have been realized, and whether and to what extent the Expenditure has exceeded or fallen short of the amount at which it was originally estimated. As on former occasions, therefore, the statements now submitted in connection with the Consolidated Revenue Fund consist of three debtor and creditor accounts. These are—

1. An Account of Revenue and Expenditure for 1875.
2. An Account of Revenue and Expenditure for 1876.
3. An Account of estimated Revenue and Expenditure for 1877.

When the Colonial Secretary (Mr. Robertson) made the Financial Statement, on the 8th December, 1875, for and in the absence of the Colonial Treasurer (Mr. Forster), then on his way to England, he submitted an account of Revenue and Expenditure for 1874, one of actual and estimated Revenue and Expenditure for 1875, and an account for 1876, in which he showed the proposed expenditure in relation to the estimated income. With, however, the exception of a few appropriations, amounting to £7,633, which it is found necessary to retain for future use, the account for 1874 may now be considered closed. The accumulated surplus of £895,055 16s. 10d. shown in the account submitted by Mr. Robertson, for that year, has been increased to £910,613 5s. 8d. by the lapsing of some of the appropriations then estimated as likely to be required for expenditure. The difference, namely, £15,557 8s. 10d., has been brought forward and credited to the account for 1875.

ACCOUNT

ACCOUNT FOR 1875.

When the account for 1875 was submitted with the Ways and Means for 1876 the accumulated Surplus at the end of that year was estimated to amount to £1,424,045 2s. 7d. As the last Financial Statement was however made before the close of the year 1875 the Revenue and Expenditure therein shown was to a certain extent necessarily an estimate only. In the account now submitted the Surplus is shown to be £1,616,958 4s. 7d., which is as accurate an estimate as it is possible to make at the present time. The following statement shows in a concise form how the larger sum is arrived at :—

The surplus formerly shown was...	...	...	...	£1,424,045	2	7
To which have to be added—
1. Increase on surplus of 1874 brought forward	...	...	...	£15,557	8	10
2. Revenue of 1875 in excess of estimate	77,387	11	3
3. Lapsed appropriations written off in excess of estimate of such	...	140,913	13	6
					233,858	13	7

Making together ... .. £1,657,903 16 2

From this amount the following additional charges have however to be deducted :—

1. Supplementary appropriations in excess of the amount estimated in December, 1875	...	...	...	£32,096	10	0
2. Further special appropriations	...	4,607	0	4
3. Amount of a further Supplementary Estimate for 1875 and previous years	...	...	...	4,242	1	3
					40,945	11	7

Leaving the surplus of ... .. £1,616,958 4 7
shown in the account now submitted for 1875.

The Revenue for 1875 was estimated by Mr. Lloyd on the 19th November, 1874, at £3,519,240; on the 1st April, 1875, by Mr. Forster, at £3,630,240; and on the 8th December of same year by Mr. Robertson, when it was possible to do so with much more accuracy, at £4,044,608. The actual net Revenue for that year amounted to £4,121,996 11s. 3d., being £77,388 in excess of Mr. Robertson's estimate, £491,756 in excess of Mr. Forster's, and £602,756 in excess of Mr. Lloyd's. Notwithstanding that these large excesses over the estimates of Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Forster were mainly the result of an unprecedented demand for land, still it will be seen from the accompanying statement that there was a satisfactory increase under several important heads of revenue. The large decrease which this statement shows under the head of Stamps is, of course, owing to the expiry of the Stamp Duties Act, on the 31st December, 1874, and the lapsing, through some informality in its introduction, of Mr. Forster's Bill to reimpose Stamp Duties. Mr. Lloyd estimated that under a renewal of the Stamp Act a sum of £100,000 would be collected in 1875, while Mr. Forster, who made his Financial Statement at a later period, only estimated £50,000, as his Bill if passed would have been in operation only for a portion of the year.

STATEMENT showing the actual Revenue of 1875, and wherein the Estimates of such were under or over the amounts realized under each head.

Mr. Lloyd, on the 19th November, 1874, estimated the charges against the revenue of 1875 at £3,434,961 5s. 11d., which included debentures maturing that year to the amount of £51,500. Mr. Forster's estimate of 2nd April, 1875, also inclusive of these debentures, was £3,578,318 13s. 9d., and Mr. Robertson's of 8th December of same year was £3,515,618 14s. 3d., but that was after taking credit for £260,000 on account of appropriations not likely to be required. In the account now submitted for 1875 it will be observed that the actual expenditure, so far as that can at present be ascertained, is somewhat less than the lowest of these three estimates, being only £3,415,650 12s. 4d. The variations which have occurred since the account was first submitted by Mr. Lloyd have been caused by appropriations written off, and by supplementary estimates of expenditure.

The revenue of 1875 amounted to	...	...	...	£4,121,995	11	3
And the expenditure, as above stated, to	...	...	...	3,415,650	12	4

If to this surplus be added that of 1874 and previous years, viz.	...	...	...	910,613	5	8
				<hr/>
There is produced a cumulative surplus at the close of
1875 of	...	...	...	1,616,958	4	7

The appropriations of 1875, retained on the 31st December last, for expenditure during the present year, amount to £66,760 13s. 10d. As it is, however, likely that some portion of the sums so retained may yet have to be written off, the surplus above shown will of course be increased to a corresponding extent.

Although the revenue of 1875 exceeded that of 1874 by the sum of £615,872 1s. 2d., the expenditure of the former was only in excess of the latter to the extent of £453,308 3s. 4d.

ACCOUNT FOR 1876.

The only account previously submitted for the year 1876 was that included in the Ways and Means of 8th December, 1875. In that account the Revenue was estimated at £4,166,900, and the Expenditure at £3,917,007 18s. 2d. In addition however to that Expenditure there was a charge of £735,800 for debentures maturing during 1876, as it was considered more desirable to pay the amount out of the accumulating surplus on the Consolidated Revenue Fund than to follow the practice of former years by renewing a loan, much of which had been contracted for works, now no longer of service.

On the 8th July last, or about seven months after the original Estimate of Expenditure for 1876 was submitted, it was found necessary to submit an Additional Estimate for that year amounting to £484,240 17s. A large portion of that sum was for works of a character such as had in former years been the subject of Loan Estimate, and which indeed were in the first instance submitted as such but subsequently withdrawn and placed on the Additional Estimate, as forming a reasonable charge against the accumulating surplus on the Consolidated Revenue Fund. In that Estimate there was a sum of £227,959 8s. for Public Works of general utility, £67,899 for Roads and Bridges throughout the Colony, £2,800 for Railway Services, £41,800 for the extension of Telegraphs, £35,000 as a further Loan to the Corporation of Sydney, while £4,548 was for Postal Services, £58,909 5s. 7d. for Re-votes of 1875 and previous years' appropriations, and £15,325 3s. 5d. for other Services of a general nature.

Although

Although the reductions made by the Legislative Assembly in the Estimates-in-Chief for 1876 and the Additional Estimate referred to, amounted to £102,354 10s. 9d., other charges to the amount of £200,316 19s. 1d. have been added to the present account. These consist of additional special appropriations, £127,854 5s. 9d. (of which £125,623 7s. 11d. is for the refund of revenue principally in connection with land sales), and a Supplementary Estimate charge of £72,462 13s. 4d. On the other hand the expenditure is reduced by £260,000, the estimated amount of appropriations which are likely to be written off as not required.

The amount of appropriations written off the account for 1875 was £400,913 13s. 6d.; but this large sum was owing in a great measure to the lapsing of appropriations for Public Works under the seventeenth clause of the Audit Act which were revoked and made chargeable to the Revenue of 1876. As it is intended to bring in a Bill shortly to amend the Audit Act of 1870 in which provision will be made for keeping appropriations for Public Works and other special Services (including those of 1876) alive for a longer period than the law now allows, it is not anticipated that the estimate of Appropriations for 1876, likely to lapse, will exceed the £260,000 above referred to.

The year 1876 having expired, it is now ascertained that its Revenue amounts to £5,037,661 16s. 6d., which is £870,761 16s. 6d. in excess of Mr. Robertson's estimate of December, 1875. By the following statement it will be seen wherein the actual income exceeds the estimate.

TREASURY BALANCES.

Before dealing with the account of estimated Revenue and Expenditure for 1877, it may be convenient to state first the sums which were at the credit of the different Public Accounts, according to the books of the Treasury, on the 31st December last, and how the funds belonging to them were then disposed of. By referring to the statement attached to the Ways and Means, at page 95, further details of the following synopsis of these balances will be found.

Had all the advances made from the Consolidated Revenue Fund to the Loan Funds, pending the sale of Debentures, been repaid before the 31st December last, the Cash Balance thereon would have been, as already shown, £2,720,807 5s. 3d. instead of only £1,945,807 5s. 3d. as above stated,—that is, it would have been increased by £775,000 the amount still outstanding. As there is, however, no necessity for negotiating the recent Loans authorized by Parliament for Railways and other Public Works, nor any advantage to be gained by so doing, so long as the balance on the Consolidated Revenue Fund is so much in excess of immediate requirements, the sum now due from Loan Funds is more likely to be increased than diminished during the present year.

In accordance with the Banking arrangements sanctioned by the Legislative Assembly in May last, various sums, amounting in the aggregate to £1,450,000, were deposited during the past year in nine of the City Banks, and are now bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum. The following are the respective deposits in each of these Banks, viz. :—

The

The interest received on Bank Deposits during 1876 and credited to the Consolidated Revenue Fund, amounted to £52,628 11s. 3d., which is £14,359 17s. more than was received during 1875. This sum does not, however, represent the whole amount for interest last year, because on some of the Special Deposits which had not been at interest for six months there had accumulated a sum of £12,417 6s. This amount would bring the interest for the year up to £65,045 17s. 3d. In addition to this a considerable sum for interest was saved in consequence of the large advances made to Loan Accounts from the Consolidated Revenue Fund during the last two years.

ESTIMATED ACCOUNT FOR 1877.

On referring to this account, which will be found No. 3 of Ways and Means, page 13, it will be seen that the estimated surplus at the close of 1876 is brought forward on the credit side, viz. ... .. £1,679,608 17 7

To this is added the estimated Revenue for 1877 ... 4,908,410 0 0

making together a gross credit of ... .. 6,588,018 17 7

If from this is deducted the estimated Expenditure, viz. 4,181,952 5 8

---

There is left an estimated cumulative surplus of ... £2,406,066 11 11

The estimated surplus on the year alone—that is, the difference between its estimated Revenue and Expenditure, is ... .. £726,457 14 4

It will be observed from the statements attached to Ways and Means marked A and B, at pages 17 and 21, that the estimate of Revenue for 1877 is £129,252 less than the actual Revenue of 1876. The smaller amount estimated for Land Sales would alone more than account for this difference, but as there are some increases anticipated in other branches of the Revenue the following comparative statement, under a new arrangement, is here given to show what these are and how the reduction mentioned is arrived at.

On comparing the estimated Expenditure for 1877 with that of 1876, it will be found that there is a reduction of £57,258 17s. 10d., thus—

The Expenditure on account of 1876, exclusive of

Debentures paid off, is estimated to reach ... .. £4,239,211 3 6

While the 1877 Estimated Expenditure amounts to only 4,181,952 5 8

Being a reduction of ... .. £57,258 17 10

On comparing in detail the Estimates-in-Chief for 1877 with the Estimates as passed for 1876, it will be found that there are scarcely any increases in the Salaries of the Civil Servants. In the Department of the Colonial Secretary an additional Battery of Artillery is provided for at an estimated cost of £9,828, and an additional Company of Naval Brigade, consisting of fifty-three persons, at a charge of £746. Under the head of Police there is an increase of £8,632, chiefly for additional constables; £2,500 for a Reformatory for Boys, and £50,000 additional for Immigration.

In the Department of Justice and Public Instruction, the only change of importance is an increase of £30,000 for Public Instruction.

In the Department of the Secretary for Finance and Trade, the estimate of 1877 is about £9,000 less than the appropriations for last year.

As

As might however be expected, the Secretary for Lands Departments show an increase of over £70,000. Of this sum £8,300 is in connection with the management of Conditional Land Sales, which are increasing rapidly every year, and of course requiring an increased staff to manage the business. There is also an additional sum of £30,000 for fees to Licensed Surveyors, and £15,000 extra for temporary assistance in the Charting and Compiling Branches of the Surveyor General's Department, besides other increases to his staff rendered absolutely necessary in consequence of the immense amount of land sales now taking place.

In the department of the Secretary for Mines there is a decrease of £8,000, and in the department of Public Works the decrease amounts to no less a sum than £187,932, exclusive of a sum of £132,959 5s. 7d. for revotes, for which there is no corresponding item in 1877. The reductions in this department are chiefly in Public Works, which in 1876 were unusually large, owing to the great number of items that were transferred from the Loan Estimate to the Additional Estimate for that year.

Under the head of Railways there is, as must necessarily be the case so long as Lines are being constructed, a large increase. The increase on the 1877 estimate over appropriations of 1876 is £57,715, but this is more than counterbalanced by the larger revenue likely to be collected during the present year.

In the Departments under the control of the Postmaster General the gross increase is £31,000. Of that, £19,000 is for the conveyance of Mails, £1,000 extra for Country Postmasters, and about £5,000 for an addition to the Head Office Staff and for contingent expenses. There are also £6,000 for increased expenses in connection with Telegraphs, consequent upon the opening of new stations in the interior.

Amongst the Special Appropriations there is an increase of £50,000, under the head of Revenue refunded, as it is anticipated that many of the provisional pre-emptive right sales and conditional purchases will be cancelled during 1877, and the deposits refunded. There is also an increase of £35,000 under the head of Endowments to Municipalities, to meet the demands which are likely to arise in the event of the Bill now before the Assembly becoming law. On the other hand, there is a reduction of £40,000, under the head of Interest on Loans, on account of the large amount of Debentures finally paid off during the past year.

Besides those mentioned there are many other variations in the Estimates of a less important character, with the particulars of which it would, however, be useless to encumber this document.

LOANS ACCOUNT.

The usual statements explanatory of the position of the various Loan Funds will be found attached to the Ways and Means, commencing at page 45. Since the last accounts of this nature were submitted a new Loan (40 Vic. No. 12) amounting to £2,236,000 has been authorized, but no portion of the funds has yet been raised. The documents connected with the Loan Services consist of a General Account of Assets and Liabilities, and ten subsidiary accounts and statements. The General Account exhibits on the one hand the Liabilities outstanding for Public Works, &c. ; and and on the other, the funds now available, or yet to be raised, to meet these. From this account it will be seen that the following were the Liabilities, according to the books of the Treasury, on the 31st December, 1876, viz. :—

TRUST FUND.

The statement of balances on the Public Accounts of this Colony, on the 31st December last, which will be found at page 96 of the Ways and Means, shows that there was an aggregate balance on the Trust Fund Accounts on that date of £854,571 7s. 11d., which was represented by—

Cash in Bank of New South Wales ... ..	£283,594	13	11
Securities in Treasury Chest belonging to the following accounts, viz. :—
Government Savings Bank ... ..	£377,094	14	9
Clergy and School Estates ... ..	153,181	19	3
Police Reward Fund ... ..	19,200	0	0

Other securities ... ..	5,200	0	0
			570,976 14 0
			£854,571 7 11

In the statement submitted with the Ways and Means of 8th December, 1875, the balance on the Trust Fund Accounts amounted in the aggregate to £922,790 4s. 10d., so that there has been a reduction since then to the extent of £68,219 16s. 11d.

On the 31st December, 1875, the balances on these accounts amounted to ... ..	£757,909	4	10
The Receipts during 1876 were ... ..	1,378,058	15	6
Together ... ..	£2,135,968	0	4
The Disbursements during same period were ... ..	1,281,396	12	5
Which left the balance at ... ..	£854,571	7	11
on 31st December last, as above shown.

During

During the past year investments were made on behalf of the undermentioned Trust Accounts to the extent stated in connection therewith, viz. :—

Church and School Estates—

Government Debentures, £30,600; for which the sum of £29,070 was paid, being at the rate of 95 per cent.

New South Wales Four per Cents., £16,781 19s. 3d.; for which the sum of £15,934 17s. 3d. was paid, being at the rate of £94 19s. per cent.

Government Savings Bank—

Government Debentures £89,200, for which the sum of £84,740 was paid, being at the rate of 95 per cent.

Assurance Fund—Real Property Act—

Government Debentures £10,000, for which the sum of £9,500 was paid, being at the rate of 95 per cent.

Of the £23,200 Government Debentures in the Treasury Chest on 31st December, 1875, belonging to the Police Reward and Superannuation Funds, £4,000 matured and were paid off in 1876. No new investment of the proceeds took place, however, as the demands upon these funds are now considerably in excess of their annual revenue.

On the 31st October, 1875, the amount at the credit of the Government Savings Bank in the books of the Treasury was £340,375 18s. 7d., as shown by the statement attached to the last Ways and Means, of which £287,894 14s. 9d. was invested in New South Wales Four per Cents. During the last Session of Parliament the sum of £8,253 3s. 5d. was appropriated for interest on the uninvested funds at the credit of this account in the Treasury from 1st September, 1871, to 31st December, 1875, so that no loss has been sustained for interest up to that date. As already stated, further investments were made during last year to the extent of £89,200. The amount at the credit of the Government Savings Bank on 31st December last was £397,814 6s. 10d., of which the sum of £377,094 14s. 9d. was invested in Government Securities. The increase in the funds of this institution since 31st October, 1875—a period of fourteen months—is only £57,438 8s. 3d., which, considering the progress of former years, is not so satisfactory as could be wished. The Bank came into operation on the 1st October, 1871, and on the 31st December of that year there was a balance at its credit in the Treasury of £13,710 15s. 7d.

	Balance.	Annual increase.
On 31st December, 1872, it had increased to	£ 75,857 16 3	£ 62,147 0 8
On 31st December, 1873, to	195,224 5 3	119,366 9 0
On 31st December, 1874, to	301,966 15 9	106,742 10 6
On 31st December, 1875, to	351,189 18 8	49,223 2 11
On 31st December, 1876, as above stated, to	397,814 6 10	46,624 8 2

From this statement it will be seen that the annual increases have been diminishing since the year 1873. This is no doubt partly owing to the fact that the ordinary banking institutions of the Colony allow as high a rate of interest on deposits for fixed periods as the Government Savings Bank, and partly also to large withdrawals by those gold-diggers who have for several years past been emigrating to the Queensland Gold Fields.

PUBLIC DEBT.

The Public Debt has not been increased to any great extent since the last Ways and Means were submitted to the Legislative Assembly. The statements then attached thereto, explanatory of the Debt, showed the amount outstanding on the 31st October, 1875, to be ... .. £11,473,437 9 11

Before the close of that year Debentures had been paid off to the amount of ... .. 2,800 0 0

Thus leaving the Debt on 31st December, 1875, at... £11,470,637 9 11

To this sum there have been added—

1. Debentures negotiated in London during 1876, being the balance of those issued under the Railway Loan Act, 36 Vic. No. 17, viz. :— ... .. 901,500 0 0
2. Debentures sold under the Act, 39 Vic. No. 18, as investments for certain Public Trust Funds, to the amount of ... .. 130,000 0 0
3. Balance of the New South Wales Four per Cents. issued under the Funded Stock Act, 36 Vic. No. 21, viz. :— ... .. 16,381 19 3

Making together ... .. £12,518,519 9 2

This amount was, however, reduced by Debentures paid off during the same period, viz. :—

1. Debentures issued under various Acts which matured in 1876, to the amount of ... .. £735,800 0 0
  2. Debentures paid off by annual drawings under the Railway Loan Act, 31 Vic. No. 11 ... .. 23,200 0 0
- These deducted ... .. 759,000 0 0

on 31st December last, the annual interest on which amounts to £562,359 1s. 8d.

In consequence of the large and growing surplus on the Consolidated Revenue Fund, it has been considered inexpedient to negotiate at present the two last large Loans authorized by Parliament. The cash balance on that Fund on 31st December last was £1,945,807 5s. 3d.—a sum much in excess of immediate requirements, and which it is proposed to utilize during the present year, by making such advances as may be found necessary to meet claims as they arise on those Loan Funds on account of which no Debentures have yet been sold. By doing this the Public Debt will remain stationary, and a considerable amount be saved for interest which would otherwise have to be paid. Such a prosperous condition of the Public Revenue cannot fail to enhance the Securities of this Colony, both at home and abroad.

The following are the Loans which have not yet been negotiated :—

Public Works and other purposes, 38 Vic. No. 2	...	£806,200	0	0
Public Works, 39 Vic. No. 18—balance of Loan	...	112,190	0	0
Public Works, 40 Vic. No. 12	... ..	2,236,000	0	0
In all	... ..	£3,154,390	0	0

In

In addition, however, to this sum there is a balance of £175,838 13s. 1d. short raised on the Debentures issued under the Railway Loan Act, 36 Vic. No. 17. Debentures for £1,901,500, the nominal amount of this Loan, were negotiated in London in 1875-6, but as they only bore interest at the rate of 4 per cent., they sold at a discount equal to £9 4s. 11½d. per cent. Instead of raising this deficiency either under the original Act or under a new one, it may perhaps be considered preferable to pay the amount, when required, under an appropriation of Parliament, out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. On two occasions when 5 per cent. Debentures sold at a premium, the amounts raised thereby in excess of the Loans authorized were transferred to the credit of that Fund.

The holders in England of the interminable Debentures, which the Government has the option of paying off in 1882, were allowed the option of either taking payment of them at par in London on 31st December last, the date on which the coupons to the bonds they hold would be used up, or of exchanging them for new Debentures with coupons attached for five years payable in the Colony, at the termination of which period the Government will probably exercise its right to pay off the whole amount, namely, £240,330. Some of the holders in England have availed themselves of the offer of the Government, and it is expected that many more will do so in July next. The option was not given to the colonial holders because there was no inducement for them to accept it.

With the exception of these interminable Debentures, which it is not binding upon the Government to pay off at all, no others fall due until the year 1888, on and after which date a larger or smaller portion of the Public Debt falls due almost every year until 1906, when the last issue matures.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

WAYS AND MEANS.

(DIFFERENCE BETWEEN, OF PRESENT AND LATE COLONIAL TREASURER.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 2 May, 1877.

MEMORANDUM explaining the difference between the Ways and Means now submitted for the Year 1877 and those submitted by the late Colonial Treasurer on the 24th January last.

CONSOLIDATED REVENUE FUND.

WHEN the late Treasurer, Mr. Stuart, made his Financial Statement, it was the intention of the Government to introduce a Bill to amend the Audit Act of 1870, chiefly for the purpose of extending the period within which Votes of Parliament would be available for the services for which obtained. Under the present law, all grants of public money for the expenditure of which contracts or engagements had not been entered into before the close of the year for which they were given lapse, and cannot be used again unless under a fresh Vote of Parliament. This provision has been found, more especially of late years, very inconvenient and even detrimental to the public interests; for the late period at which the annual Appropriation Acts have frequently been passed, has precluded contracts for the numerous public works therein provided for, being taken within the time prescribed. Where it has been found necessary that these works should be carried out, the sums originally provided for them have been re-voted, but much delay has arisen in consequence of this course having to be adopted.

The late Treasurer did not include in his Estimates-in-Chief for 1877 any of the appropriations of 1876 which, for the reasons above stated, may be considered to have lapsed on the 31st December last, because it was his intention to insert a clause in the Bill to amend the Audit Act (which he subsequently introduced), that would apply to such appropriations and have the effect of keeping them alive until the end of the present year. In other words, the Bill was to have a retrospective as well as a prospective application. It has therefore become necessary to recast the accounts submitted by Mr. Stuart with his Ways and Means, provision having been made in the Additional Estimates for 1877, now before the Assembly, for those Votes of 1876 which actually lapsed under the 17th clause of the Audit Act.

ACCOUNT FOR 1875.

The accounts now submitted are in many respects similar to those submitted in January last, although, for reasons which will be stated in connection with each, the results are somewhat different. The first account of the present Ways and Means is for the year 1875, and shows a surplus of £1,615,525 17s. 3d. In the corresponding account submitted with the Ways and Means of January the surplus at the close of 1875 was estimated at £1,616,958 4s. 7d., being £1,432 7s. 4d. greater than that now shown. This difference is caused by the addition of a few items to that part of the Supplementary Estimates which relates to the Services of 1875 and previous years. £4,242 1s. 3d. was the amount of these Services in Mr. Stuart's estimate, while £5,674 8s. 7d. is the amount in the present one, being an increase of £1,432 7s. 4d., a sum which, of course, reduces the previous surplus to a like extent.

ACCOUNT FOR 1876.

In the account now submitted for 1876 the estimated surplus at the close of that year, including the surplus of 1875, is shown to be £2,059,586 4s. 11d., while in the one submitted by Mr. Stuart it was only estimated at £1,679,608 17s. 7d. being a difference of £379,977 7s. 4d. This large increase in the estimated surplus of 1876 is to a certain extent accounted for by the lapsed appropriations of that year, which will be re-voted as 1877 Services, while at the same time the larger balance thus carried forward to the present year will meet the amount of such re-votes.

The following statement will show more clearly how the increase of £379,977 7s. 4d. in the surplus of 1876 arises.

The votes of 1876 which have lapsed under the 17th clause of the Audit Act, but which the House will be asked to re-vote on the Additional Estimates for the present year, amount to	...	£415,924	16	8
--	-----	----------	----	---

This additional credit of 1876 is, however, in effect, reduced by the increase in the Supplementary Estimates for Services of 1875 and previous years already mentioned, viz.	...	...	£1,432	7	4
---	-----	-----	--------	---	---

When

When the late Treasurer laid the Supplementary Estimates for 1876 before the Legislative Assembly, the year had not expired, consequently it was not then known to what extent the votes of that year would prove deficient. Since then, however, the deficiencies have been ascertained with more exactitude, and provision made for them accordingly in the present Estimate. Compared with former Supplementary Estimates, the present one is not excessive. The following are some of the principal items included therein :—

ACCOUNT FOR 1877.

In dealing with the account for 1877, it will be necessary to explain more fully the various changes which have been effected since the last account of Estimated Revenue and Expenditure was laid before the Assembly by Mr. Stuart. It may, however, be convenient in explaining the account for 1877 to follow the course adopted adopted with respect to the one for 1876. The surplus which it is now estimated will have accumulated by the close of 1877 is shown to be .....	£2,524,059	0	11

The surplus formerly estimated amounted to ... ..	2,406,066	11	11
<hr/>
Thereby showing an increase of ... ..	£	117,992	9 0
over the Ways and Means of January.	<hr/>

This large increase is accounted for in this way :—

Additional credits—

1. Increase in the surplus, brought from the account for 1876 ... ..	£379,977	7	4
2. Increase in the Revenue likely to be derived in 1877 from Land Sales by auction ... ..	400,000	0	0
<hr/>
Total Additional Credits ... ..	779,977	7	4

From which has to be deducted the amount of the Additional Estimate for 1877, viz. :— ... ..	728,275	7	4

Less a reduction in the Estimates-in-Chief for 1877 as compared with those submitted by the late Government, of ... ..	66,290	9	0
<hr/>

The late Treasurer estimated that the sales of Land by auction during the present year would amount to £1,250,000 ; but as one-half of that sum was realized during the first quarter of the year, it has been considered advisable to estimate under this head a further sum of £400,000. It would not however be safe to go beyond that amount at present, as the long-continued drought, from which some of the most fertile districts of the Colony have suffered severely, cannot fail to check for a time the demand for land.

Excepting in the Estimate of the Minister for Lands, in which there is a reduction of about £67,000, no material alteration occurs in the Estimates-in-Chief now submitted for 1877. It has been deemed expedient to make as few alterations in these Estimates as possible, and rather than encumber them with new items to submit an Additional Estimate at the same time.

The Additional Estimate amounts to ... ..	£728,275	7	4
But of this the Re-votes of 1876 amount to the large sum of ... ..	415,924	16	8
<hr/>
Leaving for new Services ... ..	£312,350	10	8
<hr/>

The

The principal items embraced in this amount are the following:—

Refund to the City Corporation of the grant of 1876 ...	£10,000	0	0
Harbours and Rivers Navigation Works ... ..	52,291	0	0
Public Works and Buildings ... ..	142,406	18	2
Roads and Bridges... ..	53,545	0	0
Electric Telegraphs, ... ..	37,800	0	0
Railways ... ..	1,200	0	0
For services of Hydraulic Engineer ... ..	3,000	0	0
Expenses connected with Small-pox Hospital Ship ...	5,686	1	0

Although the lapsed appropriations of 1876, which it is proposed should be re-voted, are charged in the account for this year, they do not, on that account, form a legitimate charge against the Revenue of 1877. They are chargeable rather against the Surplus brought from the account of last year. The object in view in treating them as appropriations of 1877 is to secure for them a longer currency than they would have if treated as appropriations of 1876,—an arrangement which will doubtless obviate the necessity for having them again re-voted, in the event of its being found impracticable to undertake at once the works for which they were originally obtained.

To ascertain therefore the correct estimated charge against the Revenue of 1877, it is necessary to deduct from the proposed expenditure the amount of the Re-votes included therein, thus—

Expenditure as per Estimates-in-Chief (less the vote of £60,000 for the Treasurer's Advance Account)	£4,115,661	16	8
Expenditure as per Additional Estimates ... ..	728,275	7	4
	<hr/>
Amounting together to ... ..	£4,843,937	4	0
Deducting from this the amount of Re-votes included in the Additional Estimates, viz. ... ..	£415,924	16	8
	<hr/>
There is left an Estimated Expenditure of... .. against the Revenue of 1877.	£4,428,012	7	4
The Revenue of 1877, as now estimated, amounts to	£5,308,410	0	0
Deducting, therefore, from this the estimated expendi- ture properly chargeable thereon, as above shown, viz. :— ... ..	4,428,012	7	4
	<hr/>
There remains an estimated surplus, on the year 1877 alone, of ... ..	880,397	12	8
If to this sum be added the accumulated surplus brought from the year 1876, viz. ... ..	£2,059,586	4	11
Less the amount of Revotes, which is in reality a charge thereon ... ..	£415,924	16	8
	<hr/>
	1,643,66	18	3.
Then there is produced the estimated accumulated surplus shown in the account for 1877, viz. ... ..	£2,524,059	0	11

GENERAL REMARKS.

It has not been considered either desirable or necessary to submit with these Ways and Means, which are simply a continuation of those recently submitted by the late Colonial Treasurer, the usual statements relating to the various Loan Funds. The Loan Accounts attached to the last Ways and Means showed the position of each of those Funds on the 31st December, 1877. No fresh Loans have been negotiated since then, as the funds requisite to meet Services provided for by the Loan Acts 38 Vic. No. 2, and 40 Vic. No. 12, have been advanced, without inconvenience, from the large cash balance at the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Attached to the Ways and Means will however be found a Statement of the Balances on the Public Accounts of the Colony on the 30th April last, and of their distribution. From this document it will be seen that there was at the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund a sum of £2,666,529 5s. 1d., and that there was owing to it by the two Loan Funds abovementioned a sum of £925,000, for advances made thereto pending the sale of Debentures. These two sums amount to £3,591,529 5s. 1d., which represents the actual cash balance at the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund on the last day of April, 1877.

TREASURY BALANCES.

(APPLICATION OF, FROM ONE HEAD OF SERVICE TO ANOTHER.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 17 January, 1877.

---

The Deputy Auditor General to The Honorable the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly.

Sir,

Under the directions contained in the 18th section of the Audit Act of 1870, I do myself the honor to submit to you, for presentation to the Legislative Assembly, copy of a Minute of the Governor and Executive Council authorizing the application of a balance from one head of service to another, as detailed below.

Department of Audit, 16 January, 1877.

I have, &amp;c.,

E. A. RENNIE,

Deputy Auditor General.

---

MINUTE of the Executive Council authorizing the application of the sum of £300 from the Vote of £13,500, for "Lunatic Patients," to the Vote for Contingencies, of the Asylum for Imbeciles, &c., at Newcastle.

Minute Paper for the Executive Council.

76-9,574.

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 29 December, 1876.

£300 to be transferred from Vote of £13,500 for Lunatic Patients (1876) to Vote for Contingencies of Newcastle Asylum for Imbeciles, &c.

I RECOMMEND that, for the supplementing of the Vote for Contingencies of the Asylum for Imbeciles, &c., at Newcastle, the funds remaining at the credit of which vote will be insufficient to meet the claims upon it due at the end of the year, authority be given, under the 18th section of the Audit Act of 1870, for the transferring of a sum of £300 to that vote from the vote of £13,500, "for maintenance of patients transferred to licensed houses, or maintained in temporary or branch establishments, and to supplement the votes for the existing Asylums, &c."

ALEX. STUART.

Approved.—H.R., 2/1/77.

---

THE Executive Council advise, as herein recommended, that authority be granted, in terms of the "Audit Act of 1870," for the transfer from the vote for maintenance of patients transferred to licensed houses, &c., of the sum of £300, to meet claims for contingencies of the Asylum for Imbeciles, &c., at Newcastle, the vote for which has been found insufficient for the purpose.

ALEX. C. BUDGE,

Clerk of the Council.

Min. 76/62, 30/12/76.—Confirmed, 6/1/77.

(Under the Act 33 Vic. No. 18.)

1. For nearly two-thirds of the year the Supply for the Services of 1876 was voted month by month, under the Temporary Supply Acts named below, at the rates sanctioned by Parliament for the previous year, viz. :—

3. The Annual Appropriation Act, however, does not exhaust the Parliamentary Appropriations for the year. There are, as will be seen on reference to Appendix C, No. 1, both Fixed and Unfixed Statutory Charges on the Revenue under Loans and other Acts to the extent of over a million and a half sterling. Of these the following items form a summary, viz. :—

1876, as above stated...	...	...	3,449,953	6	3

We arrive at a Total Financial Liability to the extent of £5,091,048 14 9

4. The statements dealing with the Receipt and Expenditure of the moneys thus appropriated, which are herewith presented, and upon which it is my duty now to report, were furnished to me on the 28th of March last; were examined by me and returned to the Treasury for correction on the 28th June; and were finally returned to me with the necessary emendations on the 19th July.

After careful examination and comparison with the Treasurer's Accounts, as audited by me from day to day, and excepting in so far as they may be affected by the remarks which I may find it my duty to offer in the course of this Report, I am now in a position to certify to the correctness of the statements.

5. The transactions of the year, as shown in the Treasurer's Balance Sheet, pages 10 and 11, resulted in a Credit Balance on the Consolidated Revenue Fund, on the 31st December, 1876, of *£1,945,807 5s. 3d.

At the same date there was a Credit Balance on "Old Loans Account" of	...	...	...	...	...	£195,139	9	2 and
On "Special Loans Account," including a sum of £250,000 advanced from the Consolidated Revenue Fund, of	...	...	...	...	...	513,547	9	10 whilst
The "Trust Fund Account" showed a Credit Balance of	...	...	...	...	...	854,571	7	11
Making the aggregate total	...	...	...	...	...	£3,509,065	12	2

6. The distribution of these Balances on the 31st December, 1876, was as follows, viz. :—

London Account on 30th September, 1876, and in-course of transmission	...	...	...	...	...	£772,464	10	1
Public Account, Sydney (less unrepresented cheques)	...	...	...	...	...	543,795	1	4
Loan Funds (less overdraft, £24,585 17s. 6d.)	...	...	...	...	...	128,547	9	10
Special Deposits in the Banks under Executive Council
Minute of 10 April, 1876	...	...	...	...	...	1,450,000	0	0
Cash in Treasury	...	...	...	...	...	43,281	16	11
Securities in Treasury Chest	...	...	...	...	...	570,976	14	0
						£3,509,065	12	2

7. The Banking arrangements under which the "Special Deposits" are made were submitted for the approval of the Legislative Assembly in the Session of 1875-6, and the Agreement, extending over a period of three years, from the 30th June, 1876 (ordered to be printed on the 10th May), will be found in the Votes and Proceedings of your Honorable House.

It does not appear that the Resolution of the Committee was referred by the Government for confirmation by the House; but resting upon the Resolution of the Committee, the Treasurer proceeded to make the Deposits shown in the Statements for periods of twelve months to the several Banks named.

8. It is right that I should point out that the several sums were taken from the moneys at the credit of the "Public Account" in the Bank of New South Wales without the Warrant of the Governor.

Besides the restrictions imposed by the Audit Act, the question arises whether, under the 55th section of the Constitution Act, the Governor's Warrant is not legally indispensable to the issue of the Public Funds for any object whatever. It has been held by Mr. Attorney General Dalley that the Audit Act interposes no bar to the operations of the Treasurer upon the Public Account for the purpose of making deposits in other Banks than that in which the Public Account is kept; but I am not aware that the question has been considered in view of the Constitution Act as below quoted, and therefore I deem it my duty to draw attention to the subject in this place—

"No

* NOTE.—The Advances made temporarily to Loan Funds, pending the sale of Debentures, amount to £775,000, which, if taken into account, would swell the net Balance at credit of "Consolidated Revenue Fund" to £2,720,807 5s. 3d.

“No part of Her Majesty’s revenue in the said Colony arising from any of the sources aforesaid shall be issued or shall be made issuable except in pursuance of warrants under the hand of the Governor of the Colony directed to the Public Treasurer thereof.”—18 and 19 Vic., cap. 54, sec. 55 (New Constitution).

12. With reference to the question of making advances from the Consolidated Revenue to the Loan Funds : as the practice has no legislative sanction, I would take leave to suggest whether this irregularity, if I may so term it, might not be remedied by a few words in the Loan Acts, justifying the proceeding.

LOAN FUNDS.

13. The prosperous condition of the Consolidated Revenue Fund has enabled the Government to postpone the realization of the Public Works Loans Act of 1876 (40 Vic. No. 12)—

Authorizing for Railways ... ..	£1,999,000	0	0
„ Harbours and Rivers ... ..	135,000	0	0

„ 39 Vic. No. 18 ... ..	112,190	0	0
Making a total of ... ..	£3,330,228	13	1

14. With regard to the sum of £175,838 13s. 1d. short-raised under the Railway Act (36 Vic. No. 17), it may probably be found expedient to obtain the sanction of Parliament to the debiting of this balance to the Consolidated Revenue Fund, seeing that the full nominal amount of the Loan has been raised, the deficiency representing merely the loss on the negotiation.

15. On the 31st of December the Public Debt stood at £11,759,519 9s. 2d., bearing interest at the rate of £562,359 1s. 8d. per annum.

16. In pursuance of the provisions of section 36 of the Audit Act, I have to report that a sum of £109 7s. 5d., was found to be missing in the office of the Comptroller-General of Prisons, on account of confiscated moneys paid into his Department during the years 1872-3-4. This sum, under the authority of the Government, is in course of liquidation by a monthly deduction of £9 7s. 6d. from the salary of the Assistant Comptroller.

17. A default was likewise discovered in the accounts of the Clerk of Petty Sessions at Gunning (deceased). The amount, £3 18s. 4d. (collections short-paid to the Treasury), was, at my instigation, as there was no possibility of recovering it, authorized to be written off, by Minute of the Governor and Executive Council, No. 42 of 24th April last.

18. Executive authority has also been given for the writing off of a sum of £23 8s., purloined by one of the members of the Police Force, under the following circumstances:—Constable John Anderson was employed as clerk to the Superintendent of Police, Maitland, the latter being frequently absent on inspections. The Superintendent signed certain cheques for travelling allowances to be paid to Police at out-stations, which the clerk (Anderson) ought to have distributed: instead of doing so, he cashed the cheques and no doubt appropriated the money himself, and absconded. A warrant was obtained for his apprehension, but he was never traced.

19. Under the 31st section of the Audit Act executive authority was given for the passing of certain informal accounts in connection with the Election Expenses in District of Camden, in the month of February, 1875. Acquittances for the expenditure of £104 11s. 1d. were not to be obtained from the Returning Officer; but as there were no grounds for supposing that the disbursements had not been duly made, and as it appeared that the defects could not otherwise be cured, the case was submitted for treatment under the provisions of the section of the Audit Act before quoted.

20. Under the same section the Governor and Executive Council authorized the passing of the Accounts of the Returning Officer for East Maitland. Disbursements amounting to £29 1s. were found on examination to be unsupported by vouchers; but being of the usual character, and the defects said to be incapable of correction, the case was submitted to the Governor and Executive Council to be dealt with.

21. It is my duty further to report that the defalcations of Mr. E. N. Waller, Clerk of Petty Sessions and Land Agent at Tumberumba, noticed in the Deputy Auditor General's Report on the Statement of 1875, still remain unsettled.

Appendix A.

22. A case was submitted for the opinion of the Attorney General in connection with the short collection of Fees under the Dog Act Amendment Act (39 Vic. No. 6.) It was contended that one-half fee only was due in cases where registration was effected between the months of March and September. A copy of the case submitted, with Mr. Attorney General Dalley's opinion, supporting the view taken by the Audit Department, will be found in the Appendix.

Appendix B,
Nos. 2 and 3.

23. Statements of the Registration of Brands' Account, and of the Public Abattoirs' Fund, have been prepared in continuation of those furnished with former Reports, and will be found in the Appendix.

Appendix C
and D.

24. For a complete analysis of the Assets and Liabilities of the Colony, I beg to refer Honorable Members to the Statements C and D in the Appendix, which exhibit a full and clear account of the Financial position of the Colony at the close of the year.

25. The Accounts of the Government Savings' Bank have been examined and certified, in terms of the Act; and the Bullion Accounts of the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint have also been subjected to monthly examination and audit.

26. The Expenditure of the Parliamentary Grants by the Trustees of the Museum is reported direct to Parliament, and is not submitted to me for examination and audit.

27. I append a Schedule of Disallowances on the Treasurer's Payments; and Appendix E. I have to report that, for want of vouchers, and replies to queries on the subject of his disbursements, I have not yet been able to furnish the Treasurer with the Monthly Discharges for the months of October and December last required by the 28th clause of the Audit Act.

28. It is further my duty to furnish a Schedule of Transfers of Balances from Appendix B No. 1. one Head of Service to supplement Votes for other Services found insufficient. These are made under the authority of the Governor and Executive Council, in pursuance of the 18th section of the Audit Act, and the particulars of them will be found in the Appendix.

29. Renewed application was made in the course of the year by the Commissioner for Railways for a Warrant for the re-issue of certain sums which had been returned to the Treasury, and passed to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. The re-credits consisted mainly of the value of rails and materials charged to the Railway Votes, issued to Contractors and returned by them to the Stores on the completion of their contracts; but inasmuch as Warrants had been already given for the full amount of the vote, it was held that the Auditor General could not certify that the money was legally available for expenditure without a fresh vote of Parliament. There is nothing that the House of Commons watches with so much jealousy as attempts by the Departments to enlarge Votes of Parliament by additions obtained from re-credits of the kind here objected to. The Committee of Public Accounts of the House of Commons lay it down as a strict principle that all re-credits shall be carried to the Revenue, and be inapplicable for re-issue except with the knowledge and sanction of the House.

30. There are two open items of long standing against the Imperial Government which it is right that I should report. In the latter part of the year 1875, the account of which a copy will be found in the Appendix was forwarded by me to the Treasury. The Disbursements, which are of small amount (£41 0s. 10d., and £178 17s. 10d.) were made in the years 1868 to 1870, in connection with the battery of Royal Artillery stationed in Sydney. I suggested for the consideration of the Colonial Treasurer that steps should be taken for the settlement of the accounts by charging the same to the Unforeseen Vote, or to the Expenditure on Account of Imperial Forces, but no action was taken, and the question still remains in abeyance. The second item is a sum (£169 2s. 4d.) payable in connection with a Royal Commission, appointed by the Earl of Belmore under instructions from the Secretary of State in the year 1869, to inquire into the question of Kidnapping of Natives of the Loyalty Islands. The Colonial Treasurer's attention was called to the matter in September, 1875, and a settlement urged upon him; but, up to this time, no action appears to have been taken, and the amount which was temporarily charged to the Unforeseen Vote remains still unadjusted in the books of this Department. Although unconnected with the Statements of 1876, these accounts stand as unsettled items in the Public Ledgers, and appear to me, therefore, to be legitimate matters for comment in this Report. My letters to the Treasurer, with the Accounts in detail, will be found See Appendix F. in the Appendix.

31. Before closing this Report, I would take leave to notice the serious difficulties thrown in the way of the Government Departments, and the great public inconvenience occasioned throughout the Country, by the delay in passing the Annual Appropriation Act. A good deal of odium has been thrown upon the Audit Act, as opposing unnecessary obstacles in the way of the expenditure of money, and the prompt settlement of claims by the great public Departments. I am bound, however, to say, and I say it with all due respect, that the secret of the difficulties and inconveniences complained of lies in the late period at which provision is wont to be made for carrying on the Public Service; and that the remedy is in the hands of your Honorable House.

Department of Audit,
10 August, 1877.

C. ROLLESTON,
Auditor General.

APPENDIX A.

Case for the Opinion of the Honorable the Attorney General.

Registration of Dogs under the Act 39 Vic. No. 6.

The full reduced fee of 2s. 6d. having been demanded for Registration of Dogs between the months of March and September, it has been objected that one-half fee only is due, on the ground that section 3 of the Amending Act refers only to the rate, and both Acts being to be read together, does not alter the privilege contained in the proviso of the 4th section of the Principal Act as to half the fee only being paid between the months of March and September.

The opinion of the Honorable the Attorney General is respectfully requested.

13 September, 1876.

E. A. RENNIE, D.A.G.

I am inclined to think that the Amending Act (39 Vic. No. VI) only makes provision for one fee payable on registration. The proviso in the Principal Act (6 Gul. IV, No. 4), which provides for half payment when the Registration happened after March and before September, is contained in the section (4) which prescribes the fees payable on registration. By section 3 of the Amending Act, "so much of the Principal Act as prescribes the fees payable on registration is repealed." The half payment is not specifically provided for in the Amending Act.

APPENDIX F.

The Auditor General to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Department of Audit, 10 September, 1875.

I have the honor to enclose statements of expenses paid in 1868, 1869, 1870, for sundry articles and services, chiefly in connection with the Royal Artillery, and which were at the time charged by the Treasury as advances on account of the Commissariat or Imperial Government.

These advances were all outstanding at the close of 1870, and still remain open items in the Treasury Accounts.

It is understood that some correspondence has taken place in regard to these expenses, but that difficulties have arisen in obtaining an adjustment of them.

From the fact of their being paid direct by the Treasury instead of by the Military Accountant from the Military Contribution Fund, it is possible that they were not correctly charged to the Imperial Government.

The amounts are not large, and the expenditure occurred prior to the Audit Act of 1870. To obviate further delay and troublesome correspondence with the Imperial Treasury, it is suggested for the consideration of the Honorable the Treasurer that it be written off either to the Unforeseen Vote or to the account of Imperial Forces, for the respective years.

I have, &c.,

C. ROLLESTON.

Department of Audit,
13th August, 1875.

Sir,

Department of Audit, 9 September, 1875.

I have the honor to enclose a statement of expenses paid in 1869, chiefly on account of the Royal Commission of Inquiry into Kidnapping of Natives of Loyalty Islands, which stood on account at the end of 1870 as Advances on account of the Imperial Government.

These sums do not appear to have been yet repaid; but perhaps some arrangement has been made with the Imperial Government on the subject. If not, it is desirable that these accounts should be closed as early as possible.

I enclose the vouchers to the payments, from which it will be seen that they were originally authorized to be charged to "Unforeseen" provisionally.

As the expenditure occurred prior to the Audit Act, it is suggested for the consideration of the Honorable the Treasurer whether it would not be advisable to transfer it to the Unforeseen Account of 1869, and leave any repayment that may be hereafter recovered from the Imperial Government to be credited as an ordinary miscellaneous receipt.

I have, &c.,

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 9th instant, respecting outstanding Advances on account of Royal Commission of Inquiry into Kidnapping of Natives of Loyalty Islands, &c., which you suggest might be charged to the Unforeseen Vote for 1869, and I am to acquaint you, in reply, that the Balance on the Vote alluded to was written off a long time ago.

Referring to your reply of the 22nd to my letter of the 10th instant, I have the honor to re-enclose the Statement of Advances on account of the Royal Commission of Inquiry into Kidnapping of Natives of Loyalty Islands, &c., and to submit that, as my former suggestion is deemed impracticable, application should be made to Parliament for a vote to cover the amount, unless indeed it should be considered a preferable course to write off the claims as irrecoverable under the sanction of His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council.

I have, &c.,

The difference between the Balances and Cash and Securities, as shown on previous page, viz., £34,484 15s. 8d., is the balance of payments over receipts in London, as shown by the accounts of the Financial Agents there for the month of December, 1876, received by the last mail, but not in time for being passed through the books of the Treasury prior to this audit.

Having ascertained the state of the Government Accounts in the Bank of New South Wales, Sydney, at the close of business on the 22nd instant, and the state of the Government Account with the London Branch of the Bank of New South Wales, as per latest advices, together with the amounts at Special Deposit in the various Banks in Sydney, we certify that the Balances exhibited by the books of the Treasury have, with the above explanation, been satisfactorily accounted for.

We also certify that 1,056 Debentures, of the value of £100 each, Series A 4, Nos. 251 to 1,306, amounting to the value of £105,600, authorized to be raised under the Loan Act 39 Victoria, No. 18, are deposited in the Treasury Safe, awaiting negotiation.

The

The difference between the Balances and Cash and Securities, as shown on previous page, viz., £37,224 4s. 8d., is the balance of payments over receipts in London, to the extent of £30,068 12s. 8d., as shown by the accounts of the Financial Agents there for the month of May, 1877, received by the last mail, but not in time for being passed through the books of the Treasury prior to this audit, and the sum of £7,155 12s., being for an interest claim not yet adjusted.

Having ascertained the state of the Government Accounts in the Bank of New South Wales, Sydney, at the close of business on the 17th instant, and the state of the Government Account with the London Branch of the Bank of New South Wales, as per latest advices, together with the amounts at Special Deposit in the various Banks in Sydney, we certify that the Balances exhibited by the books of the Treasury have, with the above explanation, been satisfactorily accounted for.

We also certify that 1,056 Debentures, of the value of £100 each, Series A 4, Nos. 251 to 1,306, amounting to the value of £105,600, authorized to be raised under the Loan Act 39 Victoria No. 18, are deposited in the Treasury Safe, awaiting negotiation.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

BORDER DUTIES.

(CONVENTION BETWEEN NEW SOUTH WALES AND SOUTH AUSTRALIA.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 20 June, 1877.

CONVENTION made and entered into between the Honorable JOHN ROBERTSON Colonial Secretary, and the Honorable ALEXANDER STUART Colonial Treasurer, for and on behalf of the Colony of New South Wales of the one part, and the Honorable SIR HENRY AYERS, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, Chief Secretary, and the Honorable ROBERT DALRYMPLE ROSS, Treasurer, for and on behalf of the Province of South Australia, of the other part.

For the purpose of enabling each of the Colonies of South Australia and New South Wales to receive the duties of Customs to which it is entitled on goods imported from one to the other by way of the river Murray or across the boundary between the respective Colonies without the actual collection of such duties by Customs officers on the occasion of each importation it is agreed as follows:—

1. That for a period of one year from the sixteenth day of December one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six inclusive goods of all kinds including live stock shall be imported from South Australia into New South Wales and from New South Wales into South Australia by way of the river Murray or across the boundary between the respective Colonies without collection of Customs duties or charges of any kind upon any such importation save as hereinafter excepted.

2. That during such period there shall be paid to New South Wales by South Australia by equal quarterly payments the sum of thirty-five thousand pounds (£35,000) as the consolidated rate payable by that Colony in lieu of the collection of Customs duties.

3. That the duties on goods which prior to the sixteenth day of December instant shall have been imported into New South Wales from South Australia by way of the river Murray or across the boundary between the respective Colonies and shall then be in any of the New South Wales bonded warehouses on that river or its tributaries and the duties on all goods which may hereafter during the continuance of this Agreement be placed in the present or any future bonded warehouse in New South Wales on the said river or its tributaries from South Australia shall be collected by New South Wales and paid over to South Australia without charge.

4. That should the Legislature of New South Wales during the period of one year set forth in the first clause of this Agreement reduce or repeal the Customs or Excise duties at present imposed by law the yearly sum to be paid to New South Wales shall in a corresponding manner be adjusted and reduced such adjustment to be determined by the amount of duties collected during the year 1876 on the dutiable article or articles affected by such alteration of the law.

5. That should the said Legislature during the same period of one year increase the Customs or Excise duties at present imposed by law or impose new duties upon articles now admitted free the sum to be paid to New South Wales shall be adjusted and increased by the proportional amount received or receivable on the articles so subjected to Customs duties which shall be imported into New South Wales by way of the river Murray or across the boundary between the respective Colonies or be taken out of bond for consumption during the next succeeding six months after the Act imposing such duties shall come into operation.

6. That nevertheless it shall be optional for New South Wales or South Australia on the Legislature of either Colony passing any measure altering the Customs or Excise duties at present in force in such Colony to retire from this Agreement on giving thirty days' notice of its intention so to retire.

7. That the Government of South Australia shall afford all customary facilities for the transport under bond of goods destined for consumption in New South Wales to the boundary between the respective Colonies.

8. That all tobacco grown in either Colony and imported into the other Colony in leaf shall be subject to the duty payable on such tobacco by the Tariff of the Colony into which it is imported and all tobacco manufactured in either Colony and exported into the other shall be subject to the duty payable on manufactured tobacco in the latter Colony less the amount paid in the former upon the imported leaf such additional duty to be accounted for by the Colony collecting it to the Colony from which it is imported.

9. That nothing herein shall be held to prevent New South Wales making such arrangements not inconsistent with this Agreement with Victoria as it may think fit in reference to Customs duties on goods imported into New South Wales from Victoria by way of the river Murray or establishing and maintaining such Custom Houses and bonded warehouses and making such regulations as it may think fit for the collection of Customs duties on goods imported from or through Victoria by way of the river Murray but any goods imported into South Australia by the said river from Victoria or across the said river from Victoria via New South Wales shall be altogether exempt from the provisions of this Agreement and shall be chargeable with duty according to the South Australian tariff then in force and the New South Wales officers of Customs shall co-operate with the South Australian Customs officers and take all proper steps to prevent the provisions of this Agreement being in any such way infringed.

10. That either Government shall be entitled to terminate the Convention at any time on giving to the other Government notice in writing of its intention three months prior to such termination.

ISSUE OF BONDED STORES—SHIP "WINDSOR CASTLE."

No. 1.

Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., to The Colonial Treasurer.

(A.)

Sir,

Sydney, 29 March, 1877

We have the honor to enclose a copy of a letter addressed to the Collector of Customs by Mr. Alex. D. Fernie, Commander of the ship "Windsor Castle," of which up to the present time no notice whatever has been taken.

We beg to request your early consideration of this matter, as Mr. Fernie has already been subjected to very considerable annoyance by the Custom House Officers, and a continued disregard of his requirements causes great inconvenience in the working of the ship.

We have, &c.,

GILCHRIST, WATT, & CO.,
Agents for the ship "Windsor Castle."

[Enclosure.]

Captain Fernie to The Collector of Customs.

Sir,

Sydney, 28 March, 1877.

I have the honor to request that you will cause an officer of Customs to remove the seal from the store-room of the "Windsor Castle" before 10 a.m. to-morrow, for the purpose of getting stores for my crew. I am reluctantly compelled to adopt this course, as both tide surveyors refused this afternoon to do so. I may also add that I have been put to considerable inconvenience by your officers, lately, which I should not be subjected to.

I have, &c.,

ALEX. D. FERNIE,
Commander, "Windsor Castle."

No. 2.

Minute of the Postmaster General (acting for the Colonial Treasurer).

In the absence of the Colonial Treasurer, I see no objection to an officer attending, removing the seals and opening the hatches or store-rooms of the "Windsor Castle," in order to enable Captain Fernie to obtain supplies for the use of his crew. The officer should attend at times convenient to the captain.

S. SAMUEL,

29/3/77.

Collector of Customs.

The Collector of Customs.—G.E., 29/3/77, B.C.

No. 3.

The Collector of Customs to The Colonial Treasurer.

Sir,

Custom House, Sydney, 3 April, 1877.

It is my painful duty to make a serious complaint against Mr. Eagar, your Under Secretary, for a most improper and illegal interference with the discipline of this department, in my absence after business hours, on Thursday last. On the 29th ultimo, Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co. (mised no doubt by Captain Fernie, of the "Windsor Castle"), wrote a letter to you in which they state most falsely that I had up to that time taken no notice of a letter of Captain Fernie's of the previous day, in which he requested an issue of stores. The truth is that instantly on the receipt of that letter I sent a tide surveyor on board the "Windsor Castle" to deliver stores, when he was told that the captain was on shore and had the key of the store-room, but that he could get down to the stores through a dirty, steep, perpendicular hole which they pointed out. The officer, who had filed an information against Captain Fernie for breaking the Customs' seals, knew from that and other circumstances that this was done purposely to insult him, and very properly refused to go down this dirty hole, and on reference to me I upheld him in this refusal, as in duty bound.

In your absence this letter was shown to Mr. Samuel, who, knowing me so well, could hardly have believed it, but having nothing but improbability against the statement contained in it, wrote the most harmless minute possible on the subject.

Armed with this minute, and knowing that I had left the office, Mr. Eagar rushed to the Custom House, and, as the tide surveyors were also gone, he compelled the chief clerk to send an extra tide waiter (who has no authority to break seals or deliver stores) to carry out his wishes.

I have this morning renewed my order that the tide surveyors (while they are always to be ready to issue a proper supply of stores) are not to degrade themselves by going down Captain Fernie's dirty hole, but to enter by the proper door for the purpose, but I have no security that Mr. Eagar may not again make his appearance, after hours, and upset my authority.

I trust, therefore, that you will take measures to put a final stop to Mr. Eagar's illegal and improper interference with this department, over which he has no authority whatever.

3

I beg to repeat emphatically that there has been no refusal or delay in issuing stores to Captain Fernie, although a further supply might have been fairly and legally refused after the Customs seals had been twice broken on board that vessel, and I regret much that a respectable firm like that of Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., should have been led into a statement so injurious to themselves and so unjust to me.

I have, &c.,
W. A. DUNCAN,
Collector of Customs.

Minute of the Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

THE facts of the case referred to in Mr. Duncan's letter of 3rd April, 1877, are as follows:—

On the morning of the 29th March, I received from Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., the letter marked A, with its enclosure. I was not able to give it immediate attention, as I was engaged in endeavouring to effect a settlement of Mr. Krefit's claim, which took up some time. At about 3:30 p.m., Mr. Gilchrist drove up to the Treasury with Captain Fernie, and asked me if the letter of his firm had been considered, as it was of consequence to the captain (in view of the Easter holidays, extending from 30th March to 2nd April inclusive, during which time the Custom House would be shut) that he should have an answer on the 29th March. I told Mr. Gilchrist that the Treasurer was out of town, but that I would go with him to Mr. Parkes and submit his letter. We drove at once to the Colonial Secretary's Office, where I was informed that Mr. Parkes had just left (as I understood) for the country. I then made inquiry, and found that Mr. Lloyd was at Newcastle. We then proceeded to the Works Office, and had an interview with Mr. Hoskins, who recommended that we should see Mr. Samuel. We drove out to Mr. Samuel's house, and Mr. Gilchrist and Captain Fernie stated their case fully to Mr. Samuel, upon which he made the minute written across the paper marked A, with a view to afford the captain the desired relief.

It was then about half-past 4, and Mr. Gilchrist observed that the minute was of little use, as the Custom House was closed. I offered to go with him and see what could be done. We (that is, Mr. Gilchrist, the captain, and myself) then drove to the Custom House, which was shut; but having obtained admittance, I found Mr. Llewellyn, the Chief Clerk, to whom I handed the Minister's order, which I requested him to act upon, and which he cheerfully and readily consented to do. I then returned to the Treasury.

I make no comment on the tone of Mr. Duncan's letter (of which I might justly complain), but leave the Honorable the Treasurer to form his own judgment in the case.

Captain Fernie to The Colonial Treasurer.

Sir,

Ship "Windsor Castle," Sydney, 13 April, 1877.

I have the honor to forward to you herewith a copy of the correspondence that has taken place between Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., Mr. Duncan (the Collector of Customs), and myself, in reference to the conduct of the officers of the Customs in connection with my ship, and a communication I was obliged to make by my agents to the Colonial Treasurer.

You will see, in the difficult and embarrassed position in which I was placed from my letter to Mr. Duncan, that I have been unable at various times to obtain from the store-room of my ship the necessary stores for the cabin and crew, because of the neglect of the officers of the Customs to come and remove the seal when required, and that on one occasion, after having kept the signal flying for a day and a half for a Custom House officer to come on board, and none having arrived, I was compelled to order the door to be opened that the supplies required for that day might be obtained, and that for so doing I was prosecuted by the direction of the Collector of Customs, and the case terminated most properly by being dismissed without any evidence being required on my behalf.

On the 29th March last, a Custom House officer attended on board and delivered out such stores as in his opinion were sufficient for the ship's use until the following Tuesday, the 3rd April, when, it was said, an officer would attend in the morning of that day and give out further stores. No officer came on that day, nor has there been any from the 29th March to the present time, and in consequence of such gross neglect (although I have an abundance of stores on board), I have been obliged to purchase all that have been required for myself and crew.

I regret that the correspondence is not in terms more becoming official communications; but if my denunciation of the conduct of the Collector be considered strong, I trust you will see that it was justified by the facts, and by the extreme provocation of his having, in a letter to Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., dared to speak of my statement as an "impudent falsehood."

Mr. Duncan's extreme irritation was no doubt occasioned by the fact that the Postmaster General, in the absence of the Colonial Treasurer, gave directions that I should have the relief that I had not been able to obtain from the Collector of Customs.

I have the honor to request that the matters may be inquired into, and I shall be happy to attend at any time, and to establish the facts as set forth in my letter to Mr. Duncan of the 11th instant.

As

As for the last fourteen days I have not had access to the ship's stores, and it is necessary that I should not only have what is required for the use of the crew, but also be afforded an opportunity to take an account of the stores preparatory to my departure, I have respectfully to request that you will give directions that an officer be sent on board to remove the seals for these purposes.

I have, &c.,

ALEX. D. FERNIE, Master,
Ship "Windsor Castle."

[Enclosure No. 1.]

Captain Fernie to The Collector of Customs.

Sir,

Sydney, 28 March, 1877.
I have the honor to request that you will cause an officer of Customs to remove the seal from the store-room of the "Windsor Castle" before 10 a.m. to-morrow, for the purpose of getting stores for my crew. I am reluctantly compelled to adopt this course, as both tide surveyors refused this afternoon to do so. I may also add that I have been put to considerable inconvenience by your officers lately, which I should not be subjected to.

I have, &c.,

ALEX. D. FERNIE, Commander,
"Windsor Castle."

[Enclosure No. 2.]

Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., to The Colonial Treasurer.

Sir,

Sydney, 29 March, 1877, 10:45 a.m.
We have the honor to enclose a copy of a letter, addressed to the Collector of Customs, by Mr. Alex. D. Fernie, Commander of the ship "Windsor Castle," of which up to the present time no notice whatever has been taken.

We beg to request your early consideration of this matter, as Mr. Fernie has already been subjected to very considerable annoyance by the Custom House officers, and a continued disregard of his requirements causes great inconvenience in the working of the ship.

We have, &c.,

GILCHRIST, WATT, & CO.,
Agents for the ship "Windsor Castle."

[Enclosure No. 3.]

The Collector of Customs to Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co.

Gentlemen,

Custom House, Sydney, 3 April, 1877.
I have received from the Treasury a letter of the 29th March, written by you, in which you state, no doubt on the authority of Captain Fernie, that "no notice whatever" had been taken by me of a letter sent by him to me on the previous day. I beg to inform you that this statement is an impudent falsehood; that immediately on receipt of Captain Fernie's letter I sent a tide surveyor on board to deliver stores, when he was informed that the captain was on shore, and that he had the key of the store-room in his pocket.

I regret that a firm that I have so long and so highly respected should have been led into so false a statement, which has led naturally to other acts of a most irregular and disorganizing character, in my absence on Thursday last.

I have, &c.,

W. A. DUNCAN,
Collector of Customs.

[Enclosure No. 4.]

The Collector of Customs to Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co.

Gentlemen,

Custom House, Sydney, 5 April, 1877.
You must be very well aware from long experience that I have no disposition to offend you, but everything the contrary; but as you have allowed yourselves (I was willing to believe unconsciously) to make a monstrously false charge to the Treasurer against me as Collector of Customs, it was my duty to repel that falsehood, which I again do in the most emphatic terms which I can command, being well prepared by superabundant evidence to prove the truth of that denial and the falsehood of your charge.

I have, &c.,

W. A. DUNCAN,
Collector of Customs.

[Enclosure No. 5.]

Captain Fernie to The Collector of Customs.

Sir,

Ship "Windsor Castle," Sydney, 11 April, 1877.
My agents, Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., have handed to me your letter of the 3rd of April, in which you have dared to state that the statement made by Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co. to the Colonial Treasurer on my authority "is an impudent falsehood."

Your letter is characteristic of the writer in its intemperate and offensive language, and more that of an impudent bully than what is becoming in the Collector of Her Majesty's Customs. It is greatly to be regretted that after so lengthened an official experience as you have had, you have not yet learned to express yourself in language more becoming your office, and more respectful to those whose duty compels them to have official communication with you.

The communication made to the Colonial Treasurer was perfectly true, and the statement made in your letter of the 3rd April, that the tide surveyor was informed that the captain was on shore, and that he had the key of the store-room in his pocket, meaning thereby that I had deprived him of access to the store, is perfectly untrue. I have never had the key of the store-room out of the ship. It is now two months since my ship was finally discharged, and from that to the present time I have had nothing but the most vexatious annoyances from the department under your control. As it is my intention to bring the matter under the notice of the Government, I will here detail some of the annoyances to which I have been subjected:—

On the 6th March, being in want of stores for the ship, the usual signal for a Custom House officer was hoisted at 8 a.m., and continued flying till 6 p.m., but no person arrived to deliver the stores.

On the 7th, the signal was hoisted again at 8 a.m., and was continued till noon without any response. As the stores were urgently required, I, at 10 a.m., sent to the Custom House to request that an officer might be sent on board to open the hatches; the message was taken by Mr. Alfred Mossman, who made the request both to Mr. Eames and Mr. Smythe, and they replied that it was not store day, and they did not know whether they would come or not. Having waited till 12 o'clock, and no officer having arrived, the seal was from necessity broken by my order to obtain the stores required for use on that very day. Mr. Smythe arrived just as the seal was broken, but before any one entered the store; he then refused to deliver any stores, saying he would have nothing to do with it, and would report it to the Collector; he then left the ship, leaving the store-room door open.

Immediately after he left, the signal-flag was again hoisted, and an officer was sent to take charge of the ship, and at half-past 3 o'clock another messenger was sent to the Custom House with the request that an officer might be sent to remove the one in charge and to attach the seal to the door, which was done.

On

On the 16th March, stores being again required, the signal-flag was run up and Mr. Eames came in answer, and opened the door without requiring any key, he having descended by the proper communication—that is, a companion way from the poop, being the only mode by which the Custom House officers have ever had access to the store-room, excepting when they went down the main hatch.

On the 23rd, the signal being hoisted again, a supernumerary came on board, and removed the seal and opened the door by the same communication without requiring any key, but he would not give out sufficient stores to last for one week.

On the 26th, the signal-flag was flying from 8 a.m. till 6 p.m.; at a quarter to 4 o'clock an officer from the Customs arrived, who refused to take off the seal or open the door to allow stores to be had, because he was not permitted to go through my private sitting-room to the store-room, and he refused to go down the usual and proper communication from the poop, to which no objection had ever before been made, and which is the only way by which the officers of the ship have access to the store-room.

As the officer refused to deliver stores on the 26th, the signal-flag was kept flying during the whole of the 27th, but no officer came, and we were put to great inconvenience for want of the necessary stores.

On the 28th, the signal-flag was flying all day, but no officer from the Customs arrived, still occasioning much inconvenience for want of the stores required. It was on this day that your vexatious and harassing prosecution for my having been compelled by the neglect of the Custom House officers to break the seal on the 7th was heard and dismissed.

Immediately after the dismissal of the case, I, in the presence of Captain Moodie, requested both Mr. Smythe and Mr. Eames to go on board and remove the seal, but they both peremptorily refused to go, and did not; afterwards—about 4 o'clock on the same day, I wrote to the Collector of Customs requesting that an officer might be sent to remove the seal from the store-room before 10 o'clock on the following morning, to enable me to get stores for my crew. On the 29th, the signal-flag was hoisted at 8 and kept flying all the morning. I remained on board till forty minutes past 10 o'clock, and no officer having arrived, I then left the ship, and went to the office of Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co. About ten minutes to 11 Mr. Eames went on board, and refused to go down by the proper communication to the store-room, but again insisted upon going through my private sitting-room, which the officers of the ship refused to permit. I waited till 3 o'clock, the flag flying all day, and the seal not having been removed nor any reply received to my letter to the Collector, I then went with Mr. Gilchrist to the Treasury, for the purpose of seeking relief from the Treasurer from the vexatious conduct of the Customs Department, and finding the Treasurer was not in town, I proceeded to the office of the Colonial Secretary, and finding that Minister also absent, I proceeded to the office of the Minister for Works. Mr. Hoskins referred me to Mr. Samuel, the Postmaster General, as a gentleman who had had more experience in such matters. I then proceeded to the residence of Mr. Samuel, to whom I made my complaint, and he seeing the necessity of the case, gave directions to Mr. Eagar to see that an officer was sent on board to deliver the stores. An officer arrived at 4.45 p.m., and Mr. Llewellyn and Mr. Smythe came to see that that officer performed his duty, and such stores were given out as in their opinion were sufficient to last till the morning of the 3rd of April, when he said an officer would be sent down to take the seals off and allow me to have a further supply of stores. There was no officer sent down on the 3rd of April, nor on any day since, and although I have an abundant supply of stores on board, I have been compelled to purchase for my own use and for the maintenance of my crew, because of the neglect of the Custom House officers.

This is the sort of conduct I have experienced from your department, and I adhere to the statement made by Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., to the Treasurer, and assert that the only impudent falsehood is that which is contained in your letter to Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., of the 3rd April.

In this letter you say "that you sent a tide surveyor on board to deliver stores, when he was informed that the captain was on shore, and that he had the key of the store-room in his pocket." This is wholly untrue. The officer was not informed that I had the key of the store-room in my pocket, but he was informed that I had the key of my private sitting-room in my pocket, and that he could not go through that room. I am not aware whether it was by your direction that the officer insisted upon going through my private room, but from occurrences that happened long since, and which are no doubt still fresh in your memory, I do not think that it is at all improbable. Had an intimation been made to me that it was the Collector's desire that my private apartments should be searched, I would gladly have afforded the officer every facility for that purpose.

I have borne with a great deal of annoyance from your department, and should long since have made a formal complaint to the Government, but I have been unwilling to do so. I will now forward to the Colonial Treasurer a copy of the whole correspondence, in the hope that a stop may be put to the petty tyranny to which I have been subjected, and that it may be considered whether a person capable of writing your letter of 3rd April to Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co. is a fit person to preside over the Customs Department.

I regret very much that I placed my agents, Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, & Co., in a position to be subjected to such insolence from you as they have experienced in this matter.

I have, &c.,
ALEX. D. FERNIE, Commander,
Ship "Windsor Castle."

*Subject:—*Delivery of stores on board the "Windsor Castle."

I SHALL be glad if the Collector of Customs will arrange for the attendance of an officer at 3 p.m. on board the "Windsor Castle," in order to allow Captain Fernie to obtain necessary stores from the sealed store-room, and to make an inventory of the stores.

Minute of the Collector of Customs.

IN accordance with the preceding minute, I sent Mr. Tide Surveyor Eames, at 3 o'clock, on board the "Windsor Castle," to deliver stores, and make arrangements for taking an inventory, which would occupy some hours.

I enclose Mr. Eames's report, which shows that Captain Fernie is determined to persist in his insolent and offensive conduct to the Customs officers, and proves that he is unworthy of any consideration on the part of the Government.

Perhaps the Treasurer may not be aware that vessels while in port are not entitled by law to use one ounce of dutiable stores. It is only by a stretch of the law that they are allowed to use a small quantity of any surplus inward stores which may be on board, during the discharge. Outward stores are not allowed to be touched till the vessel goes to sea. I have not sought to deprive Captain Fernie of what concession is made to others, but I do think it more than questionable whether a privilege not sanctioned by law should be extended to a person who admits having ordered the Customs seal to be broken.

(The stupid blunder in the information, and miscarriage of justice in the Police Court, makes no difference as to the fact, which is undisputed.)

[Enclosure.]

Mr. R. L. Eames to The Collector of Customs.

Sir,

Custom House, Sydney, 18 April, 1877.

In accordance with your instructions, I went on board the "Windsor Castle" at 3 h. p.m., and informed Captain Fernie that I had come to issue stores. He said, "Very well; but I also want an inventory of the stores taken." I replied "that I could not remain while that was being done, as it would take some time, but that he had better put it off until the morning, when I could send an officer for that special duty." He then said that he wanted it done at once, and that he would take as long about it as he pleased. I told him that I could send an officer at once, but that if that officer was obliged to remain all night, he would have to pay for such officer. He said "he would do no such thing." I again told him I was ready to issue stores at once, to which he replied, "Well, then, go and take the seal off." "I will do so," I said, "by going through the door in the cabin," which he positively refused to permit. I consequently refused to remove the seal.

I then went on deck, followed by Captain Fernie, and calling on Mr. Read, who was with me, to hear what I said, again told Captain Fernie I was willing to open the seal, by getting at it the easiest way—that through the cabin—to which he again gave a flat refusal. I remarked that that was the way I had always gone to issue stores each time I had done so this voyage, which he loudly said was a falsehood; upon which I raised my stick, but checked myself in time.

This ended the conference, and I came ashore.

The Collector of Customs to The Colonial Treasurer.

Forwarded for the information of the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer.—W.A.D., 20/4/77.

Mr. R. L. Eames to The Collector of Customs.

Sir,

Custom House, Sydney, 19 April, 1877.

Referring to my letter of the 18th instant, reporting to you the conduct of the master of the "Windsor Castle," when, according to your instructions, I went on board that vessel at 3 h. p.m. to open the seal of the store-room, I beg to state that, as that letter was written very hurriedly and under excitement, barely giving an account of what took place as concisely as possible, without any comments or explanations, I should now like to make a few remarks on the subject.

The primary cause of the whole of the trouble which has arisen on board the "Windsor Castle," between the master of that vessel and the Customs, since the case came off at the Water Police Court, is not, as might have been supposed, our unwillingness to give out stores, but the desire of the master to force an officer of Customs to squeeze down through a square shaft from the poop-deck, about 14 feet deep, to the store-room, instead of going there by a door in that shaft, leading from the starboard after cabin, just as if a man were required to enter a house by the chimney instead of by the street door.

As the duty of issuing stores is entirely for the benefit of the ship, I feel assured that the Honorable the Treasurer, when aware of all the circumstances, will, as well as yourself, see that our course of action has been correct in asking for admittance by the easiest mode of access.

An officer of Customs who, in the discharge of his duty, happens to come into unfriendly relations with the masters of ships, or other private persons, is placed at a very great disadvantage, as they can see the Treasurer personally, and, without the possibility of the officer being able to defend himself, traduce him.

In my long nine years' experience as tide surveyor, I have never been so grossly insulted by any one as I have been by the master of the "Windsor Castle."

I have almost invariably met with civility from the numerous ship-masters it has been my lot to come in contact with, even when, as not unfrequently happens, having to perform an unpleasant duty.

I may add, that many of the ship-masters at present in the port with whom I have conversed on the subject entirely condemn the course of action Captain Fernie is pursuing.

I have, &c.,

1st Tide Surveyor.

Sir,

Custom House, Sydney, 9 May, 1877.

I do myself the honor to report, for the information of the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer, that the Customs' seal has been broken a third time on board the "Windsor Castle," and that a large quantity of stores for the outward voyage, as well as the inward stores, are now concealed from the Customs officers, who are unable to make a rummage to enable the vessel, which is ready for sea, to clear; and certainly she ought not to be cleared nor allowed to leave the port under the circumstances without a thorough rummage, and payment of duty on any stores that may be found to have been illegally abstracted.

It seems to me that the whole strength of the Government should be put forth to inflict exemplary punishment on Captain Fernie for his audacious and unprecedentedly lawless conduct.

With respect to the rummage, I could go on board with my Writ of Assistance and break open the store-room, but this is a course to be pursued only when everything else has failed; I suppose, however, that it must come to that, which, however, will be no adequate punishment.

The Secretary, Newcastle Co-operative Steam Tug Company, to The President of the Marine Board.

Newcastle Co-operative Steam Tug Company's Office,
31 July, 1875.

Sir,

The masters of the steam tugs of this Company having from time to time made complaints relative to the obscuration of the light at Nobbys, caused by the smoke from the smelting establishment at Port Waratah, it was deemed advisable to communicate their complaint to your honorable Board, with a view of representing the great risk to life and property, as also retardation of ingress to and egress from this port at night. But upon receiving information that the subject would be brought before the House of Legislature, it was thought prudent to await the issue.

You may surmise the disappointment, when reading the report of the discussion in the House on the 22nd instant, to find that the Honorable Member, Mr. W. C. Browne, stated that he had recently called the attention of the Colonial Treasurer to the matter, and that that honorable gentleman stated that no complaint had been made at the Treasury or to the Marine Board.

I note that the Honorable W. Forster read a memorandum from you to the House, in which you admit that "during certain winds fumes partially obscure the light," and then admit "the evil," but beg to point out that the light is only obscured during off-shore winds, when the weather is invariably fine.

This is exactly what is complained of, and I beg most respectfully to remind you that off-shore winds invariably prevail for about nine (9) months in the year, and the weather being, as you state, invariably fine, masters of vessels avail themselves of the opportunity to remove their vessels in the harbour or proceed in and out of this port in tow of this Company's steamers. It is then that there is no light to be seen at Nobbys, and of course the reason is not that the light is out, but that smoke from the Waratah furnaces envelopes it.

Finding that the motion for adjournment of the House was negatived, I, on behalf of the proprietors of this Company, respectfully request that you will cause inquiry to be made upon this matter if you deem it necessary, and that the Chairman of the Local Board here be instructed to call for papers and persons and take evidence, when I have no doubt that sufficient data will be afforded you, and will cause you to represent the gravity of the matter in a different form before Parliament.

I am, &c.,

Secretary.

Adverting to your letter of the 31st July last, I have the honor to inform you that reference has been made to the Board of Trade in England to inquire if any remedy is known there, short of abolishing the industry, which would prevent the evil acknowledged to exist by the fumes of the copper works obscuring the Nobbys light.

Mr. J. J. Morgan to The President of the Marine Board.

Dear Sir,

Bell's Chambers, 175, Pitt-street, Sydney, 6 August, 1875.

Having seen in the Press various letters as regards the light-house at Newcastle not being visible at certain times on account of smoke, why not the various mine-owners be compelled to consume their smoke, as in the London river above-bridge boats, also the various factories along the bank side and Walworth. Before I left England, my brother had made and was making smoke doors on account of the nuisance.

Mr. J. Johnson to The Colonial Treasurer.

Respected Sir,

Hill End, "Empire Hotel," 9 August, 1875.

I only saw your answer to the question of the smoke nuisance at Newcastle this day, and I think it my duty both to you, the Country, and myself, to acquaint you with some remarks that bear upon the question.

Some four or five years ago, knowing that a Company were about to erect smelting furnaces at Newcastle, I wrote to the Manager (Mr. Thomas) offering to erect there furnaces on my patent smoke-consuming principle, sending my plans and conditions; that I would erect the furnaces on the principle of this—no cure no pay. Mr. Thomas sent my plans back and informed that he had laid them before the Directors and they declined to adopt my plan, as the consumption of smoke was nothing to them. I have erected furnaces of every shape by hundreds in the Old Country, and when Sir E. D. Thomson's Bill came into operation in this Country I got orders and executed them to the amount of about twenty; these were from firms that did not cavil about a pound. The Nuisance Inspector, seeing the benefit derived from my furnaces, he went very unwisely to work, and instead of letting me cure as many as I could get orders for, he summoned thirty-two persons on one day before the Magistrates under the Act. This put the mill-owners in a rage, and they called a meeting, and all agreed to be forced before they would stand such interference in their trade; and when the cases came on there was a majority of Magistrates on the Bench that were owners of boilers and other furnaces, and the cases were adjourned sine die, and there has nothing been heard of the Smoke Nuisance Bill since. More than this, eight firms that had given me orders to cure their furnaces withdrew their orders and would not have them done, and a Member of the House was one, Mr. Booth, of Balmain.

This affair at Newcastle is quite another thing; and as to it being impossible to consume the smoke, that is all fudge, for it is simply a question of £ s. d., and more attention to feeding the furnaces, that is attended to at present. Every furnace in the Colony can be cured, and to the advantage of the proprietors in a saving of fuel, as common sense will show, that if all the carbon that passes away as black smoke was thrown into a flame by the aid of the oxygen that is in the atmosphere.

The Honorable T. Garrett is acquainted with—

Your obedient servant,
JOSEPH JOHNSON.

President of Marine Board.—W.F., 13/8/75, B.C. G.E., 13/8/75.

No. 7.

Dr. Brookes to The Colonial Treasurer.

Sir,

I have the honor to bring under your notice a matter of paramount importance to the interests of this port, and to invite your special attention thereto.

From time to time there have appeared letters in the local Press, and the subject I perceive has recently, moreover, been made matter of inquiry in Parliament, concerning the obscuration of the light stationed on Nobbys, at the entrance to this port, arising from the dense fumes emitted by the copper-smelting furnaces situate at Port Waratah.

Inasmuch as there appears to be some doubt entertained as to the precise nature and extent of the evil complained of, as well as of the remedy to be applied for its diminution or entire removal, I have felt it to be my duty to furnish you with further information on the subject derived from actual observation of its cause and effects.

Perhaps I shall render myself best understood by first describing the relative positions of the smelting works in question and the light on Nobbys.

These works are situate on the banks of the south channel, which virtually form a portion of the harbour of Newcastle, and lying in a direction almost due west from its entrance. The promontory known as Nobbys, upon which the light-house has been erected, stands in a direct line almost due east of these works, and forms a conspicuous landmark to the entrance of the harbour. Hence, during the prevalence of westerly winds, which are the prevailing winds during the winter months, the smoke arising from the chimneys of these furnaces strikes across the entrance of the harbour in the direction of Nobbys, sometimes completely enveloping it from base to summit.

The number of chimneys in connection with these works amount to ten or a dozen, from which it may be readily inferred that the volume of smoke emitted is at all times large. But that which is even of far more importance than its volume is its density. This, however, is by no means uniform.

Whenever what are known as the "calcining furnaces" are in operation the smoke therefrom is generally surcharged with the elements sulphur, arsenic, &c., &c., forming so dense a body as to render it impossible for it to ascend to a high elevation and so diffuse itself in the upper atmosphere.

On these occasions, and more especially where a heavy humid atmosphere prevails, it strikes in a dense dark impenetrable line along the horizon, distinguishable for miles in whichever direction the wind may drive it. Thus, when the wind happens to be from the west at a time when the calcining furnaces are in use, this dense stream of smoke in its easterly course passes on a level with and obscures the light on Nobbys. So complete is the obscuration of this light at times from this cause that the faintest glimmer from it cannot be perceived at even so short a distance, no more than if it had no existence.

As a case in point, I may mention that on last Wednesday evening and within half-an-hour of its being lighted, and before the sun had well disappeared below the horizon, the smoke from these furnaces so completely enveloped and obscured the light that no ray from it could be discerned for a considerable period. To vessels passing along the coast, or "lying off and on," as the nautical phrase terms it, this intermittent obscuration of this otherwise conspicuous beacon-light is not only exceedingly perplexing to the mariner but positively misleading and dangerous. The pilots moreover experience great difficulty in the performance of their ordinary duties, arising from this cause, and are by no means inapprehensive that sooner or later some casualty may occur involving both life and property, in spite of every precaution on their part to avert such a calamity.

There

There are occasions again, not of unfrequent occurrence, when from this cause peculiar and serious risks are incurred by the Hunter River steamers on their arrival from Sydney at this port early in the morning before day-break. An incident of the kind, of which I had personal experience, may serve to illustrate many similar cases. About the middle of last month I was returning from Sydney on board the steamer "Hunter." We arrived off the port before day-break, on a singularly calm clear morning, through which the light on Nobbys had been visible many miles off. All at once the light disappeared, so that neither land or light were visible. The consequence was that we had to blow off steam, and lie-to for nearly an hour, not daring to approach too near the entrance to the harbour for fear of disaster. Being aware that the steamer "Coonambarra," bound for the same destination, was a little ahead of us, this precaution was both prudent and necessary. When the smoke lifted we found ourselves in close proximity with a large steam collier, the "City of Hobart," a tug-boat with a vessel in tow, and the "Cyclops" with a mud-punt in tow,—all of which were hidden from our view until the dense cloud of smoke had been driven away by the breeze.

Mr. Cecil Darley, Assistant Engineer in the Harbour Department, arrived the same morning in the "Coonambarra," and the following is something like his description of the scene:—The vessel neared the entrance to the harbour with a comparatively clear atmosphere, when all at once there arose a dense cloud of smoke, which completely enveloped the steamer, and obscured the light on Nobbys. At length the light peered through the dense medium, with a faint glimmer "like that of a candle seen through a small aperture." She proceeded slowly and cautiously in rounding Nobbys until, warned by the sound of the breakers over the Oyster Bank, that she was not on her proper course—then backed astern, and again shaped a course nearer to Nobbys, and here found herself in rather close proximity to a vessel. To avoid collision she again went astern, and remained stationary for some time, until enabled to sight the "black buoy," when by its guidance she reached the wharf in safety.

The foregoing incidents of what took place on the occasion in question are not of unfrequent occurrence, and serve to show the extreme danger incurred by vessels making the port under such circumstances. This danger is considerably enhanced by the large number of ships now frequenting this port, and seeking to effect an entrance to the harbour under the most favourable conditions, on finding themselves all at once, and at a most critical moment, deprived of those means erected for their guidance, and upon which they are accustomed to rely with confidence on making their entry into port.

Now, as to the means of modifying or wholly extirpating the evil. On this head I confess my inability to prescribe a course of proceeding which shall be at once effective in securing the desideratum, and compatible with the process of copper-smelting as at present carried on at the site of the works in question. However, I may be permitted to point out to you that a Select Committee of the House of Commons took evidence and reported on the evil effects arising from similar works carried on at Swansea. In that report I think—but am not sure—the Committee recommended some alteration in the construction of the furnaces, by which the evil might be considerably abated if not wholly overcome. I am aware also that Vivian Lambert and other large smelters have so far succeeded in the alteration of their works as to prevent the escape into the outer atmosphere of the sulphur, arsenic, and other impurities arising from their calcining furnaces, by the construction of chambers, through which the smoke is made to pass, and in which those ingredients are now deposited.

If, upon inquiry, the means adopted there have been found to be effectual in obviating the worst feature of the evil complained of, there can be no valid reason why the Copper Companies here should not be required to adopt a similar means. I therefore venture to suggest that reference be had to those sources of information upon the subject, with a view to their being brought into operation here; and I commend this course with the more confidence, because it appears that the adoption of this system of chambers and tanks has been attended by no other inconvenience to the smelters than the outlay of additional capital, which the utilization of the collected product partially or wholly repays. In any event the subject, when viewed in all its phases, is one well worthy your consideration, both as a sanatory as well as a precautionary measure against possible consequences involving risk to life and property likely to ensue out of preventable causes.

WILLIAM BROOKES.

Sir,

Adverting to your letter of the 31st July last, I have the honor to inform you that reference has been made to the Board of Trade in England to inquire if any remedy is known there, short of abolishing the industry, which would prevent the evil acknowledged to exist by the fumes of the Copper Works obscuring the Nobbys light.

Sir,

Sydney, 1 October, 1875.

I have the honor to inform you that extensive copper-smelting operations are carried on at a distance of about 2 miles west from the Nobby light at Newcastle, and that during certain states of the atmosphere the light is obscured by fumes from the manufactory, much to the annoyance and danger of the shipping community.

It is contended that the fumes are not inflammable, and that there are no means, short of abolishing the industry, of remedying the evil.

I am therefore directed by the Marine Board to inquire if a similar state of things has been brought under your notice in reference to any of the English lights; and if so, if any means have been discovered to overcome the difficulty.

The Manager, Hunter River Copper Works, to The Secretary, Marine Board.

Sir,

Hunter River Copper Works, Port Waratah, Newcastle, 5 October, 1875.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 30th ultimo, inquiring whether any attempt has been made to burn or otherwise consume the smoke or fumes which escape from our smelting furnaces, and said to obscure Nobbys light, or whether, in my opinion, it is considered impossible to remedy the present state of things. In reply, I have the honor to inform you that no attempt has been made to condense the sulphur fumes which escape from the smelting furnaces, because I believe it to be practically impossible to do so without seriously interfering with their working. Large sums have been expended in Swansea in endeavouring to effect a like object, but, I have heard, without any appreciable success, and our system of smelting is precisely the same as is there so extensively carried on.

I may mention that we are situated at least 4 miles in a direct line from Nobbys light, and have been in full operation for nearly nine years without hearing a single complaint about our fumes, until it was recently referred to in Parliament. Our ordinary fuel smoke is all consumed before it leaves the chimneys, which is not the case with the numerous steam-vessels, tugs, crane engines, locomotives, and manufactories employing steam power, in immediate proximity to the light, and which, in my opinion, have more to do with its obscuration than our sulphur.

Sir,

Board of Trade (Harbour Department),

Whitehall Gardens, S.W., 28 December, 1875.

I am directed by the Board of Trade to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 1st October last, in which you state that the Nobby light is at times obscured by the fumes from a neighbouring copper-smelting manufactory, and that it is contended that there are no means of remedying the evil, short of abolishing the industry.

As regards your inquiry whether a similar state of things has been brought under the notice of the Board in reference to any of the English lights, and, if so, whether any means have been discovered to overcome the difficulty, I am to acquaint you, for the information of the Marine Board of New South Wales, that no case of a light in this country presenting features similar to those mentioned by you has come under the notice of this Board, and that under present legislation there would be no legal remedy for such a case.

The Board of Trade are not, however, prepared to say that there ought not to be a legal remedy.

Sir,

Sydney, 8 June, 1877.

Referring to the evil effects produced by the escape of the fumes from the Copper Works at Waratah, I have the honor, by direction of the Marine Board, to inform you it has been suggested to the Government that the nuisance would be abated if the chimneys were made higher. I am therefore requested to make inquiries as to whether you are disposed to increase the height of the chimneys, with the view of endeavouring to remedy the evil so very generally complained of.

No. 15.

The Manager, Hunter River Copper Works, to The Secretary, Sydney Marine Board.

Sir,

Hunter River Copper Works,

Port Waratah, Newcastle, 15 June, 1877.

In reply to your favour of the 8th instant, inquiring whether we would be disposed to increase the height of our chimneys, with the view of endeavouring to prevent the obscuration of Nobbys light by the sulphur fumes, I have the honor to inform you that my Company would be only too glad to incur any reasonable expense in remedying the evil complained of if they only knew how to do so; but I am quite sure that raising the chimneys would not have the desired effect, Nobbys being too far away (about four miles) to be affected by any alteration of this kind; the course taken by the fumes depends on the state of the atmosphere, sometimes coming to the ground close to the Works, and at others going far beyond the 'light-house. So far as my experience goes, I know no means of condensing the sulphur fumes without so interfering with the smelting operations as to practically stop them. I will, however, move my Directors to institute inquiries at home, and ascertain if any plan for preventing the escape of sulphur from furnaces like ours has yet been discovered, with a view to adopting the same here.

The inconvenience arising from our smoke is certainly more imaginary than real; for instance, a shipmaster writing to the S. M. Herald a week or two ago said, "that when leaving Newcastle in the 'Maitland' on Saturday night he could not see a ship's length ahead, owing to our smoke," when at the time every furnace had been out at least twelve hours, and the dampers put in, so that not a particle of smoke could have reached Newcastle. I enclose newspaper slips. I may further state, for your information, that, for the next twelve months, only nine (9) out of twenty-one (21) furnaces will be at work, so that the escape of fumes will be reduced by more than one-half.

Downing-street,
16th May, 1877.

Sir,

I enclose a copy of a paper recently presented to Parliament, containing correspondence in regard to Her Majesty's ships visiting the groups of uninhabited islands lying in the track of vessels trading between this country and the Australasian Colonies.

You will see that the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty are of opinion that great and unjustifiable risks are incurred by the captains of those vessels who persist in making their course in very high latitudes, and I have to request that you will make their Lordships' views as widely known as possible in the Colony under your Government.

My Lord,

At the request of my Responsible Advisers, I have the honor to forward, and to recommend to the favourable consideration of your Lordship, and of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the enclosed ministerial memorandum by Sir James McCulloch.

2. It will be seen that the object of this memorandum is to urge the importance of issuing instructions that "Her Majesty's ships shall visit, whenever practicable, the groups of uninhabited or unfrequented islands which lie, more or less, on the outward and homeward tracks of vessels trading between Great Britain and the Australasian Colonies, in order that relief may be afforded to shipwrecked persons, should such be found thereon."

3. Sir James McCulloch further observes, that the recent "discovery of a number of persons, saved from the missing ship 'Strathmore,' on the Crozets (in the Southern India Ocean), after six months privation and suffering, coupled with the fact that at least one other passenger vessel for Australia is now given up as lost, has invested this subject with fresh and painful interest."

[Enclosure in No. 1.]

Memorandum for His Excellency the Governor.

(No. 566.)

SIR James McCulloch has the honor to submit to His Excellency the Governor that it is advisable to communicate at the earliest opportunity with the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, with a view to the issue of instructions to officers commanding Her Majesty's ships to visit, whenever practicable, the groups of uninhabited or unfrequented islands which lie, more or less, in the outward and homeward tracks of vessels trading between Great Britain and the Australasian Colonies, in order that relief may be afforded to shipwrecked persons, should such be found thereon.

His Excellency will probably recollect that in 1868, after the rescue of the survivors in the case of the "General Grant," which vessel was wrecked long previously on the Auckland Islands, the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty were good enough to say, in reply to a letter from the Melbourne Chamber of Commerce, that periodical visits should in future be made by the ships on the Australian Station to the islands in the neighbourhood of New Zealand. Whether the directions then given continue to be observed this Government is not aware. In any case, no reference was made at that time to the islands situated between the Cape of Good Hope and Australia, which late events have shown to demand equal attention.

Recent telegraphic intelligence of the discovery of a number of persons, saved from the missing ship "Strathmore," on the "Crozets," after six months privation and suffering, coupled with the fact that at least one other passenger vessel for Australia is now given up as lost, has invested the subject with fresh and painful interest. Had it been the practice of Her Majesty's ships to examine the "Crozet" and other islands in the Southern Indian Ocean when navigating those waters, it is more than probable that the unfortunate persons alluded to would have been relieved from their distressing position at a much earlier date, and possibly many lives would have been saved.

Sir James McCulloch, therefore, begs to request that His Excellency will be so good as to write to Lord Carnarvon on the subject by the outgoing mail. He feels persuaded that it has only to be brought under the notice of Her Majesty's Government to ensure immediate attention. It is suggested that ships of war should receive orders to make a careful examination of the various island when sailing in adjacent seas; and that the officers commanding at the nearest naval stations shall cause like examinations to be made by the ships at their disposal as frequently as the exigencies of the service will permit.

With reference to your letter of the 15th instant,† and the Despatch of the Governor of Victoria, in regard to the importance of Her Majesty's ships visiting, whenever practicable, the groups of uninhabited or unfrequented islands lying, more or less, on the outward and homeward tracks of vessels trading between Great Britain and the Australian Colonies, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to request you will state to the Earl of Carnarvon that their Lordships have already been in communication with the Committee of Lloyd's on this question.

Admiralty, May 10, 1876.

Sir,

With reference to your letter of the 3rd instant, drawing attention to the fact that three first class ships, trading between Great Britain and Australia within the last nine months, are unaccounted for, and requesting that one of Her Majesty's ships should visit from time to time the islands lying in the ordinary track of vessels making the Australian voyage, or that one of the Australian squadron should be despatched on that service, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you, for information of the committee for managing the affairs at Lloyd's, that with every wish to meet their request, my Lords are unable to give directions for one of Her Majesty's ships on the Australian Station to search the outlying islands, as they are quite beyond the limits of the Australian command.

2. Orders, however, will be given for any vessel proceeding from the Cape of Good Hope to Australia, when possible, to sight the Crozet Islands sufficiently near to examine them.

3. In making this communication my Lords desire me to observe that it has come to their knowledge that ships, in making the passage from this country to Australia, appear to incur very great risk by going too far south, and making the run amongst icebergs and floating ice, and that if this is the general practice their Lordships cannot feel surprised at several vessels being now missing.

4. My Lords further desire me to call attention to the first page of the sixth edition of the "Australia Directory," vol. I., which directs that "after rounding the Cape of Good Hope, vessels bound to the south coast of Australia should run down their longitude on or about the parallel of 39° S., where the winds blow almost constantly from some western point, and seldom with more strength than will admit of carrying sail. In a higher latitude the weather is frequently more boisterous and stormy, and sudden changes of wind, with squally wet weather, are almost constantly to be expected, especially in the winter season, and after passing the islands of St. Paul and Amsterdam. Islands of ice have also been encountered in those regions, as was almost fatally proved by Her Majesty's ship 'Guardian' striking against one in latitude 46° or 47° S., and nearly foundering in the beginning of summer."

I am also directed to draw your attention to the foot-note on page 1 of the same work indicated by an asterisk.

5. As an illustration of the above remarks, a chart of the southern hemisphere is herewith transmitted, showing the late tracks of the steamship "St. Blyth."*

My Lord,

I have the honor to bring under your Lordship's notice a "Memorandum" which has been handed to me by my Government, in which they express their hope that Her Majesty's Government may be induced to establish a depôt of food and clothing on the "Crozet Islands," for the use of any persons who may unfortunately be wrecked there.

2. The recent loss of the "Strathmore," together with the fearful sufferings experienced by the crew and passengers who succeeded in reaching the shore, has naturally attracted much attention to these islands, which, from their position in the direct course of ships trading to New Zealand and Australia, are a constant source of danger to vessels employed in that trade; and in view of the largely increased and still increasing trade between England and these Colonies, it would seem desirable, now that attention has so unfortunately been drawn to the subject, to take some steps which would at any rate alleviate the sufferings of any persons who may in future unfortunately be wrecked upon them.

3. The cost of establishing such a depôt as that proposed could not be large, while it may be the means of saving many valuable lives.

[Enclosure in No. 5]

Memorandum for His Excellency.

THE Chamber of Commerce at Christchurch recently drew attention to the privations and sufferings of the survivors from the wreck of the "Strathmore" on the Crozet Islands, and suggested that the Home authorities should be urged to place thereon a supply of food and clothing for the relief of castaways.

As these dangerous islets lie in the track of vessels making the voyage from Europe to Australia and New Zealand, there can be no question as to the desirability of taking the precaution to prevent any persons who may hereafter be unfortunately cast ashore there from encountering sufferings such as those to which the survivors from the "Strathmore" were exposed. The Government, therefore, beg that his Excellency will represent this matter for the favourable consideration of the Home Government.

It appears from correspondence between the Lords of the Admiralty and the Committee of Lloyd's, with respect to Her Majesty's ships calling at the islands between the Cape of Good Hope and Australia, for the purpose of rescuing persons who may be shipwrecked upon any of them (a copy of which correspondence was laid before the House of Commons, and printed), that my Lords decided to give orders that Her Majesty's ships proceeding from the Cape of Good Hope to Australia shall, in future, when possible, pass the Crozets sufficiently near to examine them.

The Government venture to express a hope that, on the representations made herein being conveyed to the Lords of the Admiralty, they will see fit to supplement the instructions they have already given, by directing that a supply of food and clothing shall be landed on the islands, as promptly as possible, from one of Her Majesty's ships; and that whenever the group is subsequently visited, the depôt shall be inspected, and the supply renewed as far as may be necessary.

Sir,

With reference to the letter from this Department of the 15th of May last, and to the reply from the Admiralty of the 18th of the same month,* in regard to the importance of Her Majesty's ships visiting, whenever practicable, the groups of uninhabited or unfrequented islands lying, more or less, in the track of vessels trading between this country and the Australasian Colonies, I am directed by the Earl of Carnarvon to transmit to you, to be laid before the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a copy of a Despatch from the Governor of New Zealand,† enclosing a memorandum from his Government expressing their hope that the Lords Commissioners will supplement the instructions they have already given upon this subject, by directing that a depôt of food and clothing be established on the Crozet Islands for the use of any persons who may unfortunately be wrecked there.

Lord Carnarvon desires me to add an expression of his own strong hope that it will be in the power of their Lordships to comply with the suggestion made by the New Zealand Government.

I am, &c.,

The Secretary of the Admiralty.

No. 7.

Admiralty to Colonial Office.

Admiralty, March 10, 1877.

Sir,

With reference to your letter of the 21st February last,‡ and its enclosures relative to the establishment of a depôt of food and clothing in the Crozet Islands for the use of any persons who may be shipwrecked there, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you, for the information of the Earl of Carnarvon, that great difficulties exist in the way of placing depôts on these islands, as they are all iron-bound, and, as a rule, inaccessible. Landing anywhere, even under favourable auspices, is precarious. The weather, as a rule, is extremely boisterous, accompanied with fogs, and there is only one known anchorage in the whole group, and this is a small and open one on the leewardmost island.

2. The group consists of five islands or clusters of islets, the largest of which is about 13 miles in length and 7 in breadth, and they occupy an area included in 35 miles of latitude and two degrees of longitude.

3. My Lords desire me here to observe that the "Strathmore" was lost on the northernmost of the group, which appears to be the smallest cluster, so that depôts on any other of the islands would in the case of that ship have been wholly useless. To place depôts on each of the islands would, therefore, appear to be the only solution of the proposal recommended, and to do this would involve much risk and a great outlay of time.

4. Their Lordships further consider that it would be very undesirable to carry out the suggestions made in the communications before referred to, as ships can have no possible excuse for nearing the Crozets when making a passage to Australia or New Zealand; and if depôts were provided there it would be tantamount to offering a premium for them to navigate in the neighbourhood. There is abundance of ocean room to the northward of these islands, and, in their Lordships' opinion, it is a dereliction of duty in any captain going near them, considering the fogs and tempestuous weather that prevail in their neighbourhood; and, further, that in the lower latitude of 40° S., or thereabouts, finer and more favourable winds are found.

5. In conclusion, my Lords would remark that in all the discussion which has been brought about by the lamentable affair of the "Strathmore," the fact that this ship was more than 80 miles out of her reckoning at the time of the wreck appears to have been entirely lost sight of.

I am, &c.,

Colonial Office.

No. 8.

The Earl of Carnarvon to the Marquis of Normanby.

Downing-street,
March 17, 1877.

Sir,

I have received your Despatch of the 12th of December,* enclosing a memorandum from your Ministers expressing their hope that the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty will, in addition to the orders they have already given, that any of Her Majesty's ships proceeding from the Cape of Good Hope to Australia shall, when possible sight the Crozet Islands sufficiently near to examine them, issue further instructions that a depôt of food and clothing shall be established on the islands for the use of any persons who may unfortunately be wrecked there.

2. I have been in communication with the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty upon the subject, and I enclose a copy of the reply I have received from their Lordships.†

3. From this letter your Ministers will learn that great difficulties exist in complying with their suggestion, owing to the inaccessible nature of the Crozet Islands; and, moreover, that depôts would have to be established on each of the islands, owing to the scattered nature of the group, in order to ensure that persons shipwrecked there would be able to avail themselves of them.

4. But, in addition to these difficulties, their Lordships again point out, as they did in their letter to the Secretary of Lloyd's, dated the 10th of May, 1876,‡ to which your Ministers refer, that the Crozet Islands do not lie in the proper track of vessels trading to Australia and New Zealand, and that great and unjustifiable risks are incurred by those captains who persist in making their course in such high latitudes.

5. The opinions which their Lordships express appear to me to be conclusive, and as it is desirable that their views should be known as widely as possible I propose to lay the correspondence which has passed on the subject before Parliament.

Admiralty, March 19, 1877.

Sir,

With reference to previous correspondence respecting the Crozet Islands, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to send you herewith, for the perusal of the Earl of Carnarvon, a letter, dated the 4th January last, from Captain Lindesay Brine, of Her Majesty's ship "Wolverine," reporting his visit to these islands in the South Indian Ocean.

I am, &amp;c.,

The Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Enclosure in No. 9.

Report respecting the Crozet Islands, South Indian Ocean.

H.M.S. "Wolverine," Sea, lat. 37° 9' south, long. 150° 57' E.

4th January, 1877.

Sir,

I have the honor to submit to you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the following report of an examination of the Crozet Islands, made in accordance with the directions of their Lordships, to ascertain if there was any appearance of castaways or vessels which may have wrecked there.

2. We left Simon's Bay on the 18th of November; proceeded to the south until we fell in with the prevailing westerly winds, in latitude 35° south, longitude 18° east. We then steered straight for the Crozet Islands until we reached latitude 43° 26' south, longitude 36° 10' east, the islands then being 622 miles distant. We now entered a dense fog which continued with rare intervals of open sky until the morning of the 30th, at which time we had nearly run our estimated distance.

3. We were on the point of heaving to, to wait for the weather to clear, when a sudden lift of mist disclosed for a few minutes the west end of the Twelve Apostles about three miles off on the bow.

4. This point of the island is remarkable for its lofty group of pinnacle rocks closely resembling the Needles. These, although attached by their base to the island, appeared when first seen like sharp jagged peaks arising separately from the sea, and it was the low morning light penetrating between the open spaces that caused them to stand out so clearly, the island itself was not visible. A high rolling sea broke heavily on the weather shore.

5. At about 9 of the forenoon the fog again lifted, and I steamed in for the land to examine the Twelve Apostles—the island on which the "Strathmore" was wrecked—firing guns to attract attention.

6. It was evident that no close observation could be made, unless a change took place in the weather, but most fortunately the fog cleared away, and was succeeded by two singularly fine and calm days, and we were thus able to examine the shores, bays, and hill-slopes within a distance from which any people or signs of wreck could have been distinctly seen.

7. A small cairn, raised by the survivors of the "Strathmore," still exists at a point on the ridge about 300 feet above the sea. A grassy plateau, where they were encamped, was covered with white albatrosses sitting on their nests, and the rocks were crowded with penguins. Sea birds of various kinds were numerous, attracted by a good stream of fresh water which flows from the hill over the cliff into the sea.

8. After completing the examination of the Twelve Apostles, I steamed across to Hog Island, and examined its leeward coast. Here, as at the Twelve Apostles, the valleys and hill-sides were dotted with white albatrosses. The top of this island was covered with snow, and, although it was now the summer of these latitudes, large quantities of snow were still lying in the clefts of the rocks near the shore. The windward or west side of Hog Island is precipitous and much exposed, and I did not see any places where wrecked people could settle; but upon its lee or eastern slope there were several fairly sheltered positions, where the landing would not be difficult. The lower sides of the hills are covered with coarse grass. There are numerous birds and rabbits, and several fresh water streams.

9. I now proceeded to Penguin Island, the southern extremity of the Crozet group. This is a bare precipitous rock, about four and a half miles in circumference. I could not see any water here, and very few birds. This volcanic island appears to be destitute of any means of preserving life, and unfortunately it is, from its position, the most dangerous for vessels proceeding by a great circle route to Australia.

10. The search round the shores of the windward islands occupied one day, and the next was employed in a similar manner examining the Eastern Islands.

11. The first visited was Possession Island, the largest and most important of the group. When off Nairne Bay we observed on the beach a hut, several casks, and two boats, one of which seemed to be in fair condition. The sea being smooth and the wind light, I decided to anchor, and send in our boats to search the shore, as I thought it probable we should find some record left by people who might have gone there in the hope of meeting a sealing vessel.

12. Upon landing, our interest was immediately excited by the strange sensation of finding ourselves surrounded by animals which evidently had not the slightest fear of men or their guns. Hundreds of seals, which were resting on the damp grass bordering on the stream, which at this point enters the sea, made no attempt to escape from us. The albatrosses also would not move from their nests on the ground. These magnificent birds—measuring, in several instances, eleven feet across the wings—only showed resistance when actually seized, and even then did not seem to have any sense of danger. The bay was alive with birds. We observed the white and sooty albatross, petrels of various kinds, black hens, Cape pigeons, numerous gulls, and a few wild duck; and the rocks were covered with seals and penguins.

13. The hut was about twelve feet long, and contained six sleeping bunks. It was rudely constructed with staves of casks. There was a stove inside on the right of the door, ingeniously made out of an old fish-kettle; the funnel was formed by a series of small iron hoops nailed together. There were a number of empty casks outside, together with other debris, belonging to a sealing establishment. There were two whale-boats hauled up on the beach. One of these was useless; the other, with some slight repairs, could be made seaworthy. The name "J. A. Brink" was cut on the door of the hut. We found no document or any signs of the bay having been lately visited. The following record was placed in a tin box and secured to the stove in the hut:—

"Her Britannic Majesty's Ship 'Wolverine,' 17 guns, visited each island of the Crozet Group, to ascertain if there were any shipwrecked people on them, and finally called at this bay on the 1st December, 1876, on her way to Perth, Western Australia, from England."

14. We concluded our examination by steaming round and searching the steep and desolate shores of East Island, the last of the group.

15. Soon after leaving the land, and while the Crozets were still visible, we passed close to a large iceberg, whose height was estimated at 300 feet, and the circumference at the water-line about 3 miles.

Remarks.

16. Judging from my experience, I would submit that merchant vessels should be cautioned against going down to a higher latitude than the 44th parallel. In the stormy latitudes south of this the westerly gales propel a ship through the water at a great speed, and the seas are so high that it would be difficult to check the speed or haul to the wind to clear danger. The Crozets are in a known position, and can be avoided by careful navigation; but this is not the case with icebergs—if one of these should happen to be floating in the line of course of a vessel going through the water at a rate of 12 or 13 knots during a fog by day, or on a dark night, it would not be seen until it was too near to be avoided, and destruction would be certain. Icebergs in these southern seas should be considered as representing rocks or shoals in unknown positions. Merchant ships rushing blindly through these dangers run most criminal risks; they play a daring game of chance, at which the lives of the passengers and crews are hazarded. It is more than probable that the majority of the ships reported as missing in these seas are missing because wrecked by sudden and violent contact with drifting icebergs.

17. In the event of people being cast away on the Crozets, I would recommend that, if possible, they should establish a look-out place on the Twelve Apostles; this island is the one which would most probably be sighted by ships, and an object placed or a man standing on the ridge where the "Strathmore" cairn is erected would be seen at a great distance. The north-east point of the Twelve Apostles is by the chart placed in longitude 50° 41' east. Our chronometer placed the point in 50° 36' east. This is, assuming the latitude to be correct, as no observations for latitude could be obtained. If our longitude is correct, the Twelve Apostles should therefore be placed five miles west of their present position on the chart.

18. Attached to this letter is a copy of the log for the two days that the "Wolverine" was examining the Crozet Group.

DUTIES OF PILOTS CONCERNING BELLIGERENT VESSELS.

(DESPATCH RESPECTING.)

Presented to Parliament by Command.

(Circular.)

Downing-street,
7th June, 1877.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit to you for your information and guidance a copy of a letter from the Foreign Office, from which you will perceive that Her Majesty's Government, having regard to the existing state of war between Russia and Turkey, are of opinion that the enclosed instructions should be at once issued to Pilots in the Colony under your Government. I also enclose a copy of the Instructions as issued by the Board of Trade in this Country. I request that you will immediately take the necessary steps for making the instructions public.

I have, &c.,
CARNARVON.The Officer Administering the Government of
New South Wales.

The Foreign Office to the Colonial Office.

Foreign Office,
25th May, 1877.

Sir,

I am directed by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to transmit to you, to be laid before the Earl of Carnarvon, a copy of a letter (dated 23rd May, 1877), which his Lordship has caused to be addressed to the Board of Trade on the subject of the instructions to be issued to British Pilots, with a view of preventing infractions of Her Majesty's neutrality during the war between Turkey and Russia.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE.The Under Secretary of State,
Colonial Office.

The Foreign Office to the Board of Trade.

Foreign Office,
23rd May, 1877.

Sir,

With reference to the letter from this office of the 3rd of August, 1870, relating to the instructions to be issued to British Pilots, with a view of preventing infractions of Her Majesty's neutrality during the Franco-German War, I am directed by the Earl of Derby to state to you, for the information of the Board of Trade, that, after consultation with the Lords of the Admiralty and the Law Officers of the Crown, he considers it desirable that a similar notice should now be issued to be observed during the present war between Russia and Turkey.

The Law Officers have, however, suggested that some words should be added defining the nature of the danger out of which Ships of War may be piloted, and I am to transmit to you, to be laid before the Board, a copy of the notice as amended by them with this view.

I am, &amp;c.,

(Signed) JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE.

To the Secretary of the Board of Trade.

PILOTS.

BRITISH Pilots are directed by the Board of Trade not to pilot Ships of War of either belligerent, except in British waters, within three miles of the shore, or to do more than pilot such Ships into or out of British ports or roadsteads, when they are not at the time engaged in any hostile operations, but Ships of War in distress may always be piloted out of immediate danger, other than the danger of immediate or imminent capture.

(Immediate.)

Board of Trade,
(Harbour Department),
Whitehall Gardens, S.W.,
24th May, 1877.

Sir,

I am directed by the Board of Trade to acquaint you, for information of the Pilotage authority, that Her Majesty's Government, having regard to the existing state of war between Russia and Turkey, are of opinion that the following instructions should be at once issued to the Pilots in your district:—

“British Pilots are not to pilot Ships of War for either Belligerent, except in British waters, within three miles of the shore, or to do more than pilot such ships into or out of British ports or roadsteads when they are not at the time engaged in any hostile operations, but Ships of War in distress may always be piloted out of immediate danger; other than the danger of immediate or imminent capture.”

I am accordingly to request that you will immediately take the necessary steps for making these Instructions known to the Pilots.

I am, &amp;c.,

EDWARD STANHOPE,
Secretary.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT.

(DESPATCH RESPECTING.)

Presented to Parliament by Command.

(Circular.)

Downing-street,
8th September, 1876.

Sir,

With reference to my Circular Despatch of the 22nd October, 1875, I have the honor to transmit to you a copy of the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1876" (39 & 40 Vic., cap. 80).

2. I also transmit to you a copy of a letter from the Board of Trade, calling special attention to certain sections of the Act.

3. You will perceive that the Board of Trade promise further communications respecting some of the more important provisions of this measure which particularly affect the British possessions; and I need now only add that, as your Government is doubtless aware, a great amount of consideration was given, during the framing of the Act, to its bearing upon the Colonial Shipping interests.

I have, &c.,
CARNARVON.The Officer Administering the Government of
New South Wales.

The Board of Trade to the Colonial Office.

(Copy.)
No. 11,740.Board of Trade,
Whitehall Gardens,
24th August, 1876.

Sir,

I am directed by the Board of Trade to call the attention of the Secretary of State to the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, and to suggest that it should at once be forwarded to each of the Colonies. Some of the clauses will have operation throughout the Empire and some in the United Kingdom only.

As regards those which have operation in the United Kingdom, it will be observed that in clauses 6 and 7, which provide for the detention of unseaworthy ships in the United Kingdom, provision is made for appointing as Assessors of the Court of Survey, which when differences arise will have to decide the case, persons to be recommended by the Governments of the different British possessions.

It will probably be well to wait till the machinery of these Courts is more complete than it is at present, before attempting to put this provision into operation, and the Board of Trade will communicate again on the subject.

By clause 17 provision is made enabling Her Majesty by Order in Council to make certificates granted after survey in British possessions abroad, of equal validity in the United Kingdom with certificates of survey granted in the United Kingdom under the Merchant Shipping Act, so that unnecessary surveys may be dispensed with. The Board of Trade will be ready to inquire and report to Her Majesty upon any application made under this section.

Under section 23, space occupied by deck cargo is to be measured and charged for. Detailed instructions under this section are in preparation and will be sent to the Secretary of State.

INSTRUCTIONS TO OFFICERS IN BRITISH POSSESSIONS ABROAD.

Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

THE Orders in Council relating to Colonial Certificates issued for the British possession of Victoria, on the 30th March, 1871, of New Zealand, on the 9th August, 1872, of New South Wales, on the 30th August, 1873, and of South Australia, on the 12th May, 1874, and appended to circulars Nos. 472, 572, 662, and 744, have been revoked, and in their place have been substituted the appended Orders in Council, which will come into force on the 1st April, 1876.

By these amended orders a cumulative domicile of three years in any of the Australasian Colonies has been substituted for three years domicile in the particular Colony required by the revoked Orders.

Also, the provisions contained in section 8 of the "Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869," have been now extended by Order in Council (copies of which are appended) to Certificates of Competency granted to Masters, Mates, and Engineers, by the Board of Examiners under the Governor of Tasmania, and by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

As the Colonial Certificates of Competency referred to in the said Orders in Council are to have the same force as the similar certificates granted by the Board of Trade in the United Kingdom, such a Colonial Certificate must be accepted as occupying in every respect the place of one of the latter, and as entitling its bonâ fide holder to act in the capacity stated in it, or any inferior (but not superior) capacity in any British ship, all over the world without the possession of a Board of Trade Certificate.

Colonial Certificates will have to be used, produced, and delivered at the times and on the occasions at and on which Imperial Certificates of Competency would have to be used, produced, and delivered.

When it appears from a certificate (Imperial or Colonial) officially produced to the officer, that its owner possesses other certificates, their production also should be required, and if they are not produced their owner's explanation in writing should be demanded and forwarded to the Registrar General of seamen, with the least possible delay.

Officers in the British Possessions abroad are empowered by regulation 9 in the Order in Council to demand, and if necessary detain, any such Colonial Certificate which they have reason to believe has been improperly issued, or has been forged, altered, cancelled, suspended, or to which the person using it is not justly entitled.

Whenever this power is exercised, a report of the facts and circumstances must be sent by the officer, with the least possible delay, to either the Board of Trade or the Government of the possession in which the certificate was originally granted or may purport to have been granted, accordingly as communication may be easier and quicker.

As the withdrawal of a certificate would in some cases entail inconvenience, not only upon its possessor but also upon the owners of the ship and cargo, it is scarcely necessary to caution officers that the exercise of the power should only be resorted to when the evidence is perfectly clear; and if the ship is bound to the United Kingdom, and the report abovementioned has been sent to the possession in which the certificate was originally granted, the Board of Trade should nevertheless be informed of the facts.

Every case of death of a Colonial Certificate-holder which may come to the officer's knowledge should be reported without delay to the Government of the possession in which the certificate was granted.

The attention of Officers and Functionaries in the possessions abroad engaged in the conduct of Official Inquiries in wreck and discipline cases is directed to the fact that the certificates to which the Orders in Council apply will be liable to cancellation and suspension in precisely the same way as certificates granted by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Acts, and by the same Boards, Courts, and Tribunals. The provisions of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," as to Courts of Inquiry will therefore be applicable to the Colonial Certificates in question, with the exception of the provisions specified in the Orders in Council.

It will be noticed that Regulation 8 in the Orders in Council provides that the cancellation or suspension of a certificate shall involve cancellation or suspension of all the other certificates (if any) possessed by its owner. With the view of carrying this regulation strictly into effect, it will be desirable that the Court should endeavour to ascertain and should specify in their decision the particulars of all the certificates possessed by any person whose conduct is the subject of an investigation by them.

In cases of cancellation and suspension of such Colonial Certificates, copies of the report of the Court, and of the evidence, together with the respective certificates, should be sent to the Governments of the British possessions by whom the several certificates possessed by the offender were originally granted. A full report upon the case and the evidence should, at the same time, be sent to the Board of Trade, as required by the Act, and the sentence, giving the number of each certificate dealt with, and the possession in which it was granted, should be mentioned in it.

The holders of Colonial certificates which are cancelled or suspended, should be referred to the Government of the possession in which the certificate was originally granted, instead of to this Board, if they desire to appeal from the sentence or to apply for a mitigation of it.

These instructions must be understood as having reference only to the certificates referred to in the said Orders in Council.

EDWARD STANHOPE,
Secretary.
THOMAS GRAY,
Assistant Secretary.

ORDERS IN COUNCIL REFERRED TO.

At the Court at Windsor, the 12th day of February, 1876.

Present :

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by the "Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869," it is among other things enacted, that where the Legislature of any British possession provides for the examination of and grant of Certificates of Competency to persons intending to act as masters, mates, or engineers on board British ships, and the Board of Trade reports to Her Majesty that they are satisfied that the examinations are so conducted as to be equally efficient as the examinations for the same purpose in the United Kingdom, under the Acts relating to merchant shipping, and that the certificates are granted on such principles as to show the like qualification and competency as those granted under the said Acts, and are liable to be forfeited for the like reasons and in the like manner, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council,—

1. To declare that the said certificates shall be of the same force as if they had been granted under the said Acts.
2. To declare that all or any of the provisions of the said Acts which relate to Certificates of Competency granted under those Acts shall apply to the certificates referred to in the said order.
3. To impose such conditions and to make such regulations with respect to the said certificates and to the use, issue, delivery, cancellation, and suspension thereof as to Her Majesty may seem fit, and to impose penalties not exceeding fifty pounds for the breach of such conditions and regulations.

And that upon the publication in the London Gazette of any such Order in Council as last aforesaid, the provisions therein contained shall, from a date to be mentioned for the purpose in such Order, take effect as if they had been contained in the Act, and that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty in Council to revoke any Order made as aforesaid.

And whereas the Legislature of the British possession of Victoria have provided for the examination of and grant of Certificates of Competency for the foreign trade to persons intending to act as masters, mates, or engineers on board British sea-going steamships, which certificates are hereinafter denominated Colonial Certificates of Competency, and the Board of Trade have reported to Her Majesty that they are satisfied that the said examinations are so conducted as to be equally efficient as the examinations for the same purpose in the United Kingdom under the Acts relating to merchant shipping, and that the certificates are granted on such principles as to show the like qualifications and competency as those granted under the said Acts, and are liable to be forfeited for the like reasons and in the like manner.

And whereas Her Majesty, by Order in Council dated the 30th day of March, 1871, has been pleased to declare that (subject to certain conditions and regulations therein contained) the said Colonial Certificates of Competency granted by the Steam Navigation Board of Victoria appointed by the Government of the said possession of Victoria shall be of the same force as if they had been granted under the said Acts relating to merchant shipping.

And whereas by the condition or regulation, numbered 5, contained in the said recited Order in Council, it is provided that such Colonial Certificates of Competency shall be granted only to persons who have been domiciled in the said possession of Victoria, or who have served in ships registered therein, for a period of or for periods amounting to at least three years immediately preceding their application for such Colonial Certificates, and that Certificates of Competency granted contrary to this regulation shall be regarded as improperly granted.

And whereas it has been represented to Her Majesty in Council that the provisions of the said 5th condition or regulation in the said recited Order in Council of the 30th day of March, 1871, should be modified and amended so as to admit of domicile in or service in ships registered in any of the following Australian Colonies, viz., the Colonies on the Continent of Australia, and New Zealand and Tasmania, forming part of the three years domicile required under the said condition or regulation. And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that such modification and amendment are expedient, and that the said recited Order in Council should be revoked and a new Order in Council, modified and amended in manner aforesaid, substituted in lieu thereof.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of Her Privy Council, doth hereby direct that from and after the 1st day of April, 1876, the said recited Order in Council of the 30th day of March, 1871, shall be and the same is hereby revoked; provided, however, that the revocation of the said Order in Council shall not affect or invalidate any Colonial Certificate of Competency granted thereunder prior to the said 1st day of April, 1876, and subsisting at that date.

(3.) At the Court at Windsor, the 12th day of February, 1876.

Present :

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, it is (among other things) enacted that where the Legislature of any British possession provides for the examination of and grant of Certificates of Competency to persons intending to act as masters, mates, or engineers on board British ships, and the Board of Trade reports to Her Majesty that they are satisfied that the examinations are so conducted as to be equally efficient as the examinations for the same purpose in the United Kingdom under the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping, and that the certificates are granted on such principles as to show the like qualifications and competency as those granted under the said Acts, and are liable to be forfeited for the like reasons and in the like manner, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council,—

1. To declare that the said certificates shall be of the same force as if they had been granted under the said Acts.

2. To declare that all or any of the provisions of the said Acts which relate to Certificates of Competency granted under those Acts, shall apply to the certificates referred to in the said Order.

3. To impose such conditions and to make such regulations with respect to the said certificates, and to the use, issue, delivery, cancellation, and suspension thereof as to Her Majesty may seem fit, and to impose penalties not exceeding fifty pounds for the breach of such conditions and regulations.

And that upon the publication in the London Gazette of any such Order in Council as last aforesaid, the provisions therein contained shall, from a date to be mentioned for the purpose in such Order, take effect as if they had been contained in the Act, and that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty in Council to revoke any Order made as aforesaid.

And whereas the Legislature of the British Possession of South Australia has, by the Marine Board Amendment Act, 1873, provided for the examination of and grant of Certificates of Competency for foreign ships to persons intending to act as masters, first mates, only mates, or second mates, or as first class engineers or second class engineers on board British ships, which certificates are hereinafter denominated Colonial Certificates of Competency, and the Board of Trade have reported to Her Majesty that they are satisfied that the said examinations are so conducted as to be equally efficient as the examinations for the same purpose in the United Kingdom under the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping, and that the certificates are granted on such principles as to show the like qualifications and competency as those granted under the said Acts, and are liable to be forfeited for the like reasons and in the like manner:

And whereas it has been represented to Her Majesty in Council that the provisions of the said fifth condition or regulation in the said recited Order in Council of the 12th day of May, 1874, should be modified and amended so as to admit of domicile in or service in ships registered in any of the following Australasian colonies, viz., the colonies on the Continent of Australia, and New Zealand and Tasmania, forming part of the three years domicile required under the said condition or regulation. And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that such modification and amendment are expedient, and that the said recited Orders in Council should be revoked and a new Order in Council, modified and amended in manner aforesaid, substituted in lieu thereof.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of Her Privy Council, doth hereby direct that from and after the first day of April, 1876, the said recited Order in Council of the 12th day of May, 1874, shall be and the same is hereby revoked; provided, however, that the revocation of the said Order in Council shall not affect or invalidate any Colonial Certificate of Competency granted thereunder prior to the said 1st day of April, 1876, and subsisting at that date.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT.

(DESPATCH RESPECTING.)

Presented to Parliament by Command.

(Circular.)

Downing-street,
9th January, 1877.

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit to you a copy of a letter from the Board of Trade, showing the arrangements which have been adopted by that Department for measuring the deck cargo space of vessels, in accordance with the provisions of section 23 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876.

2. The Board of Trade desire that these arrangements should be made known to the various Colonial Governments, so that they may be able to follow a similar course.

3. It is suggested by that Department that the Officers of Customs in each of the Colonies should be instructed to report to the Board of Trade any case in which a ship arrives in the Colony from the United Kingdom, carrying deck cargo in excess of the amount stated in Form Surveys 104a, in order that the necessary steps may be taken in the matter; and it is pointed out that if any Colonial Government adopts the plan thus adopted in this country and issues a form equivalent to the Form enclosed to ships leaving the Colony for the United Kingdom, and also causes the necessary entries to be made in the Official Log, it will greatly facilitate the measurement of the deck cargo space on arrival in the United Kingdom.

4. As it is desirable to secure, as far as possible, uniformity of practice in carrying out the provisions of the section of the Act referred to, I request that you will bring the enclosed letter under the careful consideration of your Government, and that you will report to me at your earliest convenience what action has been taken in the matter.

The Officer Administering the Government of New South Wales.

I have, &c.,
CARNARVON.

The Board of Trade to the Colonial Office.

DECK CARGOES.

SIR,

I am directed by the Board of Trade to state for the information of the Earl of Carnarvon, that in order to prevent unnecessary delay and inconvenience in measuring the deck cargo space of vessels in accordance with the provisions of section 23 of the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1876," they have decided upon adopting the following arrangements.

With regard to vessels clearing outwards from ports in the United Kingdom considerable difficulties have arisen, especially in the case of small quantities of deck cargo taken in at the last moment. The Board of Trade have therefore determined upon accepting a Form of Declaration from the owners of the ships stating the maximum amount of deck cargo they intend carrying, and this statement will, as a general rule, be acted on, and in the absence of grounds for suspicion, be acted on without requiring the deck cargo space to be measured in this country. With respect to vessels clearing inwards at ports in the United Kingdom, the deck cargo space will be measured by the Customs officer who boards the ship, and he will give a form to the master of the ship, stating the tonnage of the space in question, and will make an entry of the same in the Official Log Book.

Form Surveys

The dues will be charged in the case of ships clearing outwards on the Declaration Form (Surveys 104a) and in the case of ships clearing inwards on the Form (Surveys 104).

The Board of Trade have issued the necessary instructions to their officers in this country, and have requested the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to instruct the Officers of the Customs whose duty it will be to measure the deck cargo space of each foreign-going vessel upon its arrival in the United Kingdom.

Circulars 65 and 86.

The details of the practice will be found in the Instructions and Forms accompanying this letter.

The Board suggests that the Governments of the several Colonies should be informed of the arrangements that have been made, so that they may, if necessary and desirable, be able to follow a similar course. The Board would further suggest that the Officers of Customs in each of the Colonies should be instructed to report to the Board of Trade any case in which a ship arrives in the Colony from the United Kingdom, carrying deck cargo in excess of the amount stated in Form Surveys 104a, in order that the necessary steps may be taken in the matter.

The Board of Trade would also suggest that if any Colonial Government adopts the plan thus adopted in this country, and issues a Form equivalent to the Form herein enclosed to ships leaving the Colony for the United Kingdom, and also causes the necessary entries to be made in the Official Log, it will greatly facilitate the measurement of the deck cargo space on arrival in the United Kingdom.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) THOMAS GRAY.

The Under Secretary of State, Colonial Office.

INSTRUCTIONS TO MEASURING SURVEYORS.

INTERNATIONAL TONNAGE.

THE Board of Trade forward herewith for the information and guidance of officers concerned in the duties of measurement and registry of ships, a copy of a recently issued Order in Council which extends to vessels of the Kingdom of Norway the advantages held out by the 60th section of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1862."

In consequence of the amount of deduction for propelling power being different in the two countries, option is granted by the enclosed order to the masters of steam ships of the Kingdom of Norway whereby the said masters may elect to have the engine room measured under the rules relating to British ships.

When the engine room is measured according to the British rules in such cases, a "Certificate of British Tonnage" is to be granted, adopting thereon the gross tonnage as stated in the Norwegian Certificate of Registry, and deducting from the gross tonnage the allowance for engine room under the British rules, and also the allowance on account of spaces occupied by seamen or apprentices, and appropriated to their use.

A copy of the document furnished to the Norwegian master is to be sent to the Principal Surveyor for tonnage, with a note thereon of the measurement of engine room and the amount of deduction under the Norwegian rules.

The fees for admeasurements under the accompanying Order in Council are to be the same as for the admeasurement of British ships for the time being, but only for the spaces actually measured.

At the Court at Windsor, the 17th day of May, 1876.

Present:

The Queen's most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by the "Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it is enacted that whenever it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the Principal Act have been adopted by the Government of any foreign country and are in force in that country, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct that the ships of such foreign country shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers, and thereupon it shall no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions; but such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their Certificates of Registry or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the Certificate of Registry of British ships is to be deemed the tonnage of such ships.

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships now in force under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," have been adopted by the Royal Norwegian Government, with the exception of a slight difference in the mode of estimating the allowance for engine room, and such rules are now in force in the Kingdom of Norway, having come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1876, Her Majesty is hereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct as follows:—

1. As regards sailing ships, that merchant sailing ships of the said Kingdom of Norway, the measurement whereof shall after the said 1st day of April, 1876, have been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such sailing ships, testified by the date thereof, shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers and other national papers, in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British sailing ships, is deemed to be the tonnage of such ships.

2. As regards steam ships, that merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Norway, which are propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine room, the measurement whereof shall after the 1st day of April, 1876, have been ascertained and denoted in the registers and other national papers of such steam ships, testified by the dates thereof, shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such registers or other national papers, in the same manner, and to the same extent, and for the same purpose, in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of British ships is deemed to be the tonnage of such ships: Provided nevertheless, that if the owner or master of any such Norwegian steam ship desires the deduction for engine room in his ships to be estimated under the rules for engine room measurement and deduction applicable to British ships instead of under the Norwegian rule, the engine room shall be measured and the deduction calculated according to the British rules.

CAMPBELL'S WHARF.

No. 1.

Mr. R. D. Cunynghame to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir,

Sydney, 2 July, 1830.

I beg to enclose Mr. Crawford's certificate, which you directed me to procure on the 25th instant, when I had the honor of an interview with you, from which you will perceive that Mr. Crawford is not aware of any obstacle being in the way of my receiving the lease of my property, and who also knows I had insured the friendship of Sir Thomas Brisbane from the favourable testimonials I brought with me to this Colony.

As it would be of the greatest consequence to me at present to receive the lease of my ground, which I have now been in possession of since 1823, upon which I have laid out nearly £400 on buildings, &c., and which was measured 4th May, 1825,—I therefore beg you will have the goodness to supply me with the lease in question, which will be conferring the greatest favour on me.

I have, &c.;

ROBT. D. CUNYNGHAME.

I see no grounds for withholding the deed applied for. The former appears to have been cancelled without questioning or invalidating Cunynghame's right.—R.D., July 24th.

Request the Surveyor General to report whether he is aware of the reason why the former lease was cancelled, or of any objections to issue a fresh one. 27th July, 1830.

Robert Cunynghame, the ship-builder, requests to have the lease of his premises delivered to him. This is a case which I can make nothing of. A lease of his premises adjoining Mr. Campbell's Wharf was registered under Act and recorded, dated 30th June, 1823, but there is written across it in the register, and in the handwriting of Major Goulburn, "The lease has not been issued of this land."—F.G. Why or wherefore does not appear.

Give me an extract of the lease, including the date, boundaries, and conditions, and also a copy of See enclosure B Major Goulburn's note on it.

Was this land reserved in the Government notice respecting the Sydney allotments and streets published lately?

Does not appear to have been; the reserve (No. 19) specifies Cunynghame's allotment as a boundary.

[Enclosure A to No. 1.]

Certificate.

At the request of Mr. Cunynghame, a builder, in Sydney, I beg to certify that a lease of a piece of ground near to Dawes's Battery was prepared in his favour during the administration of Sir Thomas Brisbane, that the same was duly registered in the Office of the Colonial Secretary, and I am not aware of the reason why that deed has been withheld from him.
Hill End, 1 July, 1830. ROBT. CRAWFORD.

[Enclosure B to No. 1.]

Extracted from Register of Sydney Leases, No. 19, folio 334.

Memorandum of Mr. R. D. Cunynghame's lease, dated 30 June. Contents not stated.

Boundaries—on the west side by 164 links of the road leading to Dawes's Battery, commencing at Campbell's north-west corner; on the north side by a line of 323 links to the water of Sydney Cove; on the east by 200 links of the cove to Campbell's north-east corner; and on the south by Campbell's northern boundary 300 links to the first corner.

Conditions—for twenty-one years from 30 June, 1822. Quit rent of 6d. per rod, commencing from that date. If over due twenty days, to be recovered by distress or otherwise, and in case of no distress being found the land to revert to the Crown. Not to alienate any part without the consent of the Governor, otherwise the lease to be void.

A grant to be given of the premises on payment of twenty-one years quit rent, in advance, or erection of buildings of £1,000 value, subject to the Governor's approval, the grant to be subject to a quit rent not exceeding double the sum reserved in the lease. In the event of the whole or any part of the land being required by Government before the expiration of the lease, it may be resumable upon payment for the improvements and the value of the unexpired term of the lease, to be ascertained by arbitration of two persons mutually chosen, but in case of the refusal of the lessee to choose a person on his part, both to be nominated by the Government.

The Colonial Secretary to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 27 July, 1830.

I am directed by His Excellency the Governor to inform you that a lease of an allotment in George-street, situated between the land of Mr. Campbell and Dawes's Battery appears to have been executed on 30th June, 1823, by Sir Thomas Brisbane, in favour of Mr. R. D. Cunynghame, but not delivered, as is stated in a memorandum in the handwriting of Major Goulburn, on the registration thereof in this office, and to request that you will report to me, for His Excellency's information, if you are aware why this lease was cancelled, or of any objection to a fresh one being issued.

With reference to your letter of the 27th ultimo, informing me that a lease of an allotment in George-street, situated between the land of Mr. Campbell and Dawes's Battery, appears to have been executed on the 30th June, 1823, by Sir Thomas Brisbane, in favour of Mr. R. D. Cunynghame, but not delivered, and requesting my report as to the cause of this lease being cancelled, or of any objection to a fresh one being issued,—I have the honor to report to you, for the information of His Excellency the Governor, that no correspondence relating to it can be discovered in this office, and it appears the lease was not transmitted here; but the circumstance of there being charted on the plan of the town an allotment similar to that described by Mr. Cunynghame seems to corroborate his statement that it was measured to him, and I am not aware of any objection to his receiving a fresh lease of it.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency Lieutenant-General RALPH DARLING, Commanding His Majesty's Forces, Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c.

WHEREAS much inconvenience has been occasioned by the want of sufficient titles for allotments of land in the town of Sydney; and whereas such titles have not been issued by the Government, except in a few instances, since the 30th day of June, 1823: Now therefore, in order to remedy this inconvenience and give the necessary security to private property, I, the Governor, by virtue of the authority in me vested, do hereby ordain and proclaim, that on application being made, a grant in fee simple shall be issued, under the conditions hereinafter specified, to every person (or his lawful representative) who, on or before the said 30th day of June, 1823, was bonâ fide in possession by lease from the Government, whether such lease be now expired or not, or by mere right of occupancy of any allotment of land in the said town of Sydney not hitherto alienated by the Crown, and not specified in a certain order of the Government bearing even date herewith, number 30, or otherwise notified heretofore as being required for public purposes: Reserving, however, and keeping harmless all rights of other private individuals which may be lawfully established at any time thereafter: And in order that all parties interested may have an opportunity of proving such their respective rights, a description of each allotment, with notice of the intention to complete a grant thereof, shall be published three months previously for general information: And whereas considerable sums of money are due to the Crown as quit-rents upon the said allotments, the immediate exaction of which, as hath been represented to me, would be exceedingly oppressive to the parties concerned, but the total remission of which would be equally unjust to such other parties as have regularly paid the same: Now, therefore, in order to render the payment of the said sums as little burthensome as possible, I do further proclaim that the grants herein intended shall be issued under the following conditions, namely, that no arrears of quit-rent shall be demanded for the said allotments beyond the aforesaid date of the 30th of June, 1823, and that such arrears as have been accrued since that date shall be calculated at the rate of 6d. sterling per square rod per annum, instead of 9d. as heretofore; and also that they shall be liquidated by instalments payable annually, in addition and equal to the regular yearly quit-rent until the whole be satisfied: And I do further order, that in all other respects the grants to be made out in pursuance of this my proclamation shall be in the same form and subject to the same quit-rent and other conditions of every kind as are laid down for general adoption in the order of the Government number twenty-nine, dated 29th day of May in the present year, or such modifications of the same as may be in force at the time of issuing each of the said grants respectively.

Given under my hand and seal, at Government House, Sydney, this eighth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine.

Sir,

Sydney, 3 September, 1833.

Enclosed is a memorial to His Excellency, accompanied with a draft of my property, requesting His Excellency to confer on me, for mutilating my ground towards the water, that corner of ground which can be of no earthly service to Government but of the utmost consequence to me. Knowing your anxiety to serve every deserving person, please allow me to beseech you will give it your support.

[Enclosure to No. 6.]

To His Excellency Major-General RICHARD BOURKE, Governor-in-Chief of New South Wales.

The Memorial of Robert Dryborough Cunynghame, ship-builder, of George-street, Sydney,—

Your Memorialist humbly sheweth, that he arrived in this Colony in 1823 with such favourable testimonials to Sir Thomas Brisbane as to induce him to bestow on your Memorialist a piece of ground bounded by the property of the Honorable Robert Campbell on the south, George-street on the west, Government ground adjoining Dawes's Battery on the north, and Sydney Cove on the east, for the purpose of a ship-building yard and laying down a patent slip for heaving-up vessels for repair, which was ratified by your Excellency's predecessor, General Ralph Darling, in the year 1830.

As your Memorialist finds that Government is about to fence in the ground adjoining Dawes's Battery, and that the line laid down below high-water-mark cuts in quite a different direction from your Memorialist's measured boundary, as your Excellency will observe from the pencil line on accompanying draft made in 1825, which line will prevent your Memorialist from hereafter constructing the patent slip; and your Memorialist not being inclined to oppose the said line of fence being run in that direction: your Memorialist begs your Excellency will grant him as compensation for the line cutting in frontage to the water that piece of Government ground fronting George-street, being a line of continuation with that taken by Government, which can be of little or no service to Government, it forming at present on Government ground between Government wall on George-street and the fence now advertised to be put up by Government an acute angle of 44 degrees, so that your Memorialist may not be a sufferer but be still enabled to erect a slip, and your Memorialist will ever pray.

This description, as is gathered from a memorandum thereto attached, was extracted from the Colonial Secretary's Register of Sydney Town Leases. I am not aware of any objection to the use of this description for the deed of grant, as Mr. Lewis, when he went over the ground for the purpose of determining the point above alluded to, found it quite correct. I beg to state, for the information of the Governor, that I am desirous of obtaining His Excellency's permission to enlarge a portion of my wharf, by running it out so far as to admit of ships discharging at low tide.

I am aware that where there is sand or mud the Government must prefer deepening the water by employing a dredge, to narrowing the cove by the enlargement of wharfs; but at the spot to which I allude there is a ledge of rock, and it is only upon this rock that I propose to extend my wharf. I have the honor to request, therefore, that His Excellency will instruct the officers who take cognizance of such matters to examine the spot and report upon my application.

I may be permitted to observe that during nearly forty years I have, with the permission and encouragement of successive Governors, been constructing and adding to my wharf, during which period a large sum has been drawn by the Government from it, the whole at first, and more recently one-third of the wharfage, having gone into the public Treasury.

The Colonial Engineer to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir, Royal Engineer Office, Sydney, 27 September, 1842.

In returning the papers relative to a supposed encroachment by Government on land adjoining Dawes's Battery in the occupation of Mr. Robert Cunynghame, I have the honor to report, having conferred with Mr. Lewis on the subject, who states that the boundary of Mr. Cunynghame's land is distinctly laid down in conformity with the description of the deed, and agreeably to the accompanying sketch. Mr. Cunynghame, however, wants to claim a right of extending his boundary from the point A (see sketch*) due east across the water front of Dawes's Battery. My having commenced to fill in the glacis of the Battery to the low-water line A.B., led to Mr. Cunynghame's letter of complaint. I presume, however, that the Government have undisputed right to the land as far as low-water-mark; and that Mr. Cunynghame cannot make use of land beyond the point A, which would cut off the Government water frontage. The deed also defines distinctly the four sides of Mr. Cunynghame's land.
