MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

BROKEN HILL AND SUBURBAN GAS
COMPANY'S BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 2 MAY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. COLLS,

MR. DE COURCY BROWNE,
MR. HAYES,

MR. DAY.

G. DAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Joseph Palmer Abbott, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are Member for Wentworth in the Legislative Assembly? Yes.
2. You represent the district in which it is proposed to establish this Gas Company? Yes. I may say that the Company has been formed and registered in Sydney under the Companies Act with a capital of £10,000, £8,000 of which has been subscribed.
3. Is the township of Broken Hill a municipality? No.
4. Are the residents in favour of its being made a municipality? They have applied for it to be incorporated, and the matter is now before the Executive Council, I believe.
5. I suppose that Broken Hill is a pretty large place? I have not been there since it has become a large place, but it has a population of 10,000 persons.
6. There are very rich mines all round the township? Yes.
7. And large workings are going on in all directions? Yes.
8. I suppose that the usual notices in connection with a private Bill have been given? Yes. I may state that the price of the gas has not been fixed in the Bill. It has been left to the Committee to say what it shall be; but of course in determining the price per cubic foot they will have to take into consideration the distance that the coal will have to be hauled.
9. There is nothing in the Bill to compel the inhabitants to use the gas unless they like? No.
10. Although it may be laid down all over the town, still no one need take it unless he likes? No. The Bill is a copy of the Tamworth Act.
11. If the charges for the gas are too high it is only natural to suppose that the people will not take it? Yes.
12. The charges would have to be in keeping with the demand? Yes.
13. It is more than likely that if any price were fixed in the Bill for the gas it would rest entirely with the people to say whether they would take it or not? Of course it would.
14. It is more than likely that the promoters will bring the gas within the reach of the inhabitants? Yes.
15. The coal would have to be brought a long way? Yes, from Newcastle.
16. Have you any idea of the cost of carriage from Newcastle to Broken Hill? I do not know what it is; but the general maximum price fixed for gas is about 16s. per 1,000 cubic feet. That is the price which is fixed in the Tamworth Act. There is a good deal of land carriage to Tamworth. It would be principally principally water carriage to Broken Hill. I do not know what the price ought to be fixed at, but I think that 20s. would be a fair maximum. The Bill, I might mention, is designed to give any municipality which might be created powers which cannot be now given until there is a municipality in existence.

17. Mr. Colls.] Has there been a petition received against the Bill? No. Every one will be delighted to get the gas, I am sure.

18. Has there been any objection to the incorporation of Broken Hill as a municipality? I have not heard of any.

19. Chairman.] The Tamworth Act says that the price of the gas shall at no time exceed 15s. per 1,000 cubic feet? That would be a fair enough price for gas at Broken Hill, having regard to the cost of hauling the coal.

20. Have you read the Bill carefully? I drew it.

21. Does it contain any provision to compel the promoters to erect the gas-works within a certain time? I do not think there is any provision of the kind. I produce a copy of the memorandum of association; it is certified to by the Registrar-General. [Appendix.]

22. If there had been any objection to the Bill of course you would have heard of it? Everyone I have heard from is very anxious that the gas-works should be established.

Thomas Frederick De Courcy Browne, Esq., M.P., sworn, and examined in his place:—

Browne, Esq.,

23. Chairman.] You are one of the Members for Wentworth? Yes.

24. The township of Broken Hill is situated within your electorate? Yes.

25. How long is it since you were there? Three months.

26. Have you any idea of the number of its inhabitants? The population is between 9,000 and 10,000.

27. What is the area of the township? It is 2 miles by 1½ mile.

28. Most of the population is located within that area? The whole of the population.

29. Have you been in communication with the townspeople? Yes, I know all about them.

30. Have you heard of any of them objecting to the erection of the gas-works? Oh, no; they are all in favour of the proposal. The whole of the capital was subscribed locally; it was subscribed in an hour.

The works are in course of construction. Some of the plant has arrived in Adelaide, and the remainder will arrive there in May.

31. That is a pretty good guarantee that the Company intend to go on with the works? Yes.

32. It is principally a mining population on Broken Hill? Purely so.

33. Will the gas be useful in mining operations? It may be used in some of the mines for lighting purposes—I mean in the surface workings and shallow workings where the ventilation is good. It will be used throughout the whole of the town.

34. Is the population increasing or decreasing? It is increasing steadily.

35. The mines are very rich? Yes.

36. The whole of the Company's coal would have to be taken from Newcastle? Yes.

37. Have you any idea of the cost of carriage between Newcastle and Broken Hill? It is about £2 18s. a ton for coal.

38. Then the coal would cost the Company nearly £4 a ton before it was delivered at Broken Hill? About £3 5s. a ton.

39. Do you think that the maximum price of the gas should be any less than 20s. per thousand cubic feet? I think that is a very reasonable amount.

40. Mr. Hayes.] It is rather a high rate? In the Orange Act the rate is fixed at 17s. 6d., in the Bathurst Act at 15s., in the Mudgee Act at 15s., in the Tamworth Act at 15s., and in the Goulburn Act at 15s.

41. Chairman.] Whatever the maximum price of the gas may be fixed at it will rest with the people of Broken Hill to say whether they will take it or not? Yes.

42. If it does not suit them to take the gas they need not use it? No.

43. There is no compulsion whatever in the matter? No.

44. I suppose it is more than likely that the promoters will make the charges as reasonable as possible? Yes, as low as possible. They do not want more than 8 or 10 per cent. dividend; all the shareholders are in business in the town.

45. It is a registered Company? Yes.

46. What is its capital? £10,000, in 10,000 shares of £1 each. 8,000 shares have been subscribed for, and the Company hold the remaining 2,000 shares in trust for the shareholders. They will sell them at a premium if it is required, but they do not intend at present to put them on the market.

47. I suppose the Bill is virtually a transcript of the Acts you have mentioned? Yes.

48. Mr. Hayes.] You limit the operations of the Company to the town and suburbs? To Broken Hill and suburbs.

49. Chairman.] Are you aware whether the Company require any amendment in the Bill? No, they are quite content with the Bill.

THE BROKEN HILL AND SUBURBAN GAS COMPANY'S BILL.

APPENDIX.

[To the Evidence of J. P. Abbott, Esq., M.P.]

MEMORANDUM of Association of the Broken Hill and Suburban Gas Company (Limited) —

- 1 The name of the Company is the "Broken Hill and Suburban Gas Company (Limited)."
 - 2 The registered office of the Company will be situated in Broken Hill, in the Colony of New South Wales.
 3. The objects for which the Company is established are—
 - (a) To manufacture gas, and supply the same in the town and suburbs of Broken Hill, and in such other places as shall be determined upon by the said Company, and to carry on the business of a Gas Company in all its branches
 - (b) To manufacture, render saleable, and deal in coke, tar, pitch, asphaltum, and all residual products obtained in the manufacture of gas.
 - (c) To conduct and maintain works for manufacturing, receiving, and purifying gas, and all other works, buildings, pipes, plant, machinery, appliances, and apparatus necessary or proper for the manufacture or supply of gas.
 - (d) To purchase, lease, exchange, or otherwise acquire lands, buildings, easements, collieries, plant, machinery, and all other real and personal property, and any rights and privileges necessary to or convenient for the said Company for the purposes of its undertaking.
 - (e) To purchase or otherwise acquire and undertake all or any of the business property and liabilities of any other Company engaged in or in any way connected with the manufacture of gas.
 - (f) To borrow or raise money by the issue of or upon bonds, debentures, bills of exchange, promissory-notes, or other obligations or securities of the Company, or by mortgage or charge of all or any part of the property of the Company, or of its uncalled capital, or in such other manner as the Company shall think fit.
 - (g) To invest the moneys of the Company not immediately required upon such securities as may from time to time be determined.
 - (h) To sell, improve, manage, develop, lease, mortgage, dispose of, exchange, or otherwise deal with all or any part of the property of the Company.
 - (i) To increase or reduce the capital of the Company to such amount as may be found desirable.
 - (j) To obtain an Act or Acts of Parliament and all other powers and authorities for enabling the Company to carry into effect all or any of its objects.
 - (k) To do all such other things as are incidental to or necessary for, or conducive to, the above objects, or any of them.
 - 4 The liability of the members is limited.
 5. The capital of the Company is ten thousand pounds, divided into ten thousand shares of one pound each.
- We, the several persons whose names and addresses are subscribed, are desirous of being formed into a Company in pursuance of this Memorandum of Association, and we respectively agree to take the number of shares in the capital of the Company set opposite to our respective names

Page 11, clause 26. Omit from “Every,” in line 7, to “railroad” in line 43, and insert

26. Every bridge to be erected for the purpose of carrying the said Tramway over any road shall be built in conformity with the following regulations, namely:—

The width of the arch or opening shall be such as to leave thereunder a clear space of not less than thirty feet between the abutments at the level of the surface of the road and up to a height of twelve feet therefrom if the arch or opening be over a public road, and of not less than twenty feet at the level of the surface of the road and up to a height of twelve feet therefrom if the arch or opening be over a parish road (not being a tramroad or railroad), and of not less than twelve feet if over a private road (not being a tramroad or railroad), and of not less than twenty-five feet if over a tramroad or railroad.

The clear height of the arch or opening from the surface of the road shall be not less than sixteen feet for a space of twelve feet if the arch or opening be over a public road, and not less than fifteen feet for a space of ten feet if over a parish road, and not less than fourteen feet for a space of nine feet if over a private road in case such public road, parish road, or private road respectively is not a tramroad or railroad, and in case such road is a tramroad or railroad then the clear height of the arch or opening from the surface of such road shall be not less than seventeen feet for a space of twenty-five feet.

The descent to be made in the road in order to carry the same under the bridge shall not be more than one foot in thirty feet if the bridge be over a public road, one foot in twenty feet if over a parish road, and one foot in sixteen feet if over a private road, in case such public road, parish road, road, or private road respectively is not a tramroad or railroad, and in case such road is a tramroad or railroad the descent shall not be greater than the ruling gradient of such tramroad or railroad.

And every bridge erected for carrying any road over the said tramway shall be built in conformity with the following regulations, that is to say :—

There shall be a good and sufficient fence on each side of the bridge of not less height than four feet, and on each side of the immediate approaches of such bridge of not less than three feet.

The road over the bridge shall have a clear space between the fences thereof of thirty-five feet if the road be a public road, and twenty-five feet if it be a parish road, and twelve feet if a private road.

The ascent shall not be more than one foot in thirty feet if the road be a public road, and one foot in twenty feet if a parish road, and one foot in sixteen feet if a private road, in case such public road, parish road, or private road respectively is not a tramroad or railroad, and in case such road is a tramroad or railroad the ascent shall not be greater than the ruling gradient of such tramroad or railroad.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

BROKEN HILL TRAMWAY BILL.

TUESDAY, 22 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. O'CONNOR,		MR. COOKE,
MR. BARBOUR,		MR. CROUCH,
	MR. MELVILLE.

D. O'CONNOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth, Barrister-at-law, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Alexander Riddel, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Mr. Butterworth.] Do you reside at Broken Hill? I reside at Thackaringa.
2. You have resided in the district for some time? For three and a-half years.
3. I think you were formerly journalist at Broken Hill? Yes; owner of the Broken Hill Times.
4. What are you at present? Mine-owner.
5. How far is Broken Hill from Thackaringa? About 22 miles.
6. And you know the line of country which will be traversed by the proposed tramway? I do.
7. Are you acquainted with the requirements and general features of the country? Yes.
8. Do you know that the Government of South Australia have constructed a railway to the South Australian Border, at the town of Cockburn, where the proposed tramway will terminate? Yes.
9. How far is Cockburn from Thackaringa? Eight miles.
10. Then that would make the whole distance from Cockburn to Broken Hill via Thackaringa about 28½ miles? Yes.
11. On the first part of the proposed line, from Cockburn to Thackaringa, the country is not mineral? No; it is a plain.
12. What would be the length of that part of the line running through Thackaringa Mines? About 3 miles.
13. Chairman.] Will it run right through the mines? Yes; there will be mines on both sides. There are about twenty-eight good mines there; silver and lead mines; and copper is also found there in large quantities.
14. Mr. Butterworth.] And would the line go entirely through leases which have been granted? Largely so.
15. The next mining place after leaving Thackaringa would be the Pinnacles;—how far is that? About 12 miles.
16. Does the line there pass through leases or near leases? The Big Hill mines are on the south side of it, about 3 miles away.
17. Is the land the line will pass through all leased land? No; it is nearly all Crown land after you leave Thackaringa.

A. Riddel,
Esq.
22 Nov., 1887,

- A. Riddel,
Esq.
22 Nov., 1887.
18. How far would the Pinnacles be from the line? They would be close by—not half a mile off.
 19. And then the mines on both sides would be a little further off. What is the distance from the Pinnacle mines to Broken Hill township? Between 7 and 8 miles.
 20. Does the route pass through many leases? Yes; it passes close to the White Lead country, which is a continuation of the Broken Hill lode.
 21. Then there seems to be, from the plan, a continuation of mines from the White Lead right up beyond Broken Hill through to the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? Yes.
 22. That is the end of the proposed line? Yes.
 23. And the proposed line would go along the whole of that route? Along the line of the lode all the way.
 24. What is the distance that it would pass through the township? About $1\frac{1}{2}$ mile in the town; with the reserves adjoining, about 2 miles.
 25. And from Broken Hill township the line would proceed to Taltingan? Yes.
 26. Mr. Cooke.] Who is the owner of the land at Broken Hill through which the line would pass? There are tramway reserves in the town.
 27. Mr. Butterworth.] Will the portion of the line from Broken Hill to Taltingan run through leases? A few; I think three or four.
 28. Is there much land for sale in that part? No.
 29. What is the distance from Taltingan to the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? That will be about 9 miles.
 30. Will the line pass close to many lodes in that part? Yes; along the foot of the hills all the way.
 31. The Silverton tramway line is not to go beyond Broken Hill? No; that is the terminus at present.
 32. The proposed terminus for this line is immediately opposite the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? Yes.
 33. On the south side of the creek? Yes, Stephen's Creek—the present water supply.
 34. Will the construction of this line increase the value of the land in the different townships? Yes.
 35. What is the population of Cockburn, where the line commences? The population of Cockburn is about 250.
 36. What is the population of the other places on the line? The populations are—Thackaringa, 200; Pinnacles, 200; Broken Hill, 5,000; Taltingan, 350; Mount Gipps, about 100; and at the intermediate mines there will be about 300 inhabitants scattered along the track.
 37. Are there a good many mines at Rockwell Paddock? About 130 leases on parallel lodes to that of Broken Hill.
 38. Therefore it would run parallel to the proposed tramway? Yes.
 39. How far would that be from Broken Hill? The connection would be at Taltingan. The road there comes in from the Rockwell district. Down to the south end of Broken Hill it will be between 8 and 9 miles.
 40. Do you know the present population of this place? Rockwell has about 200 inhabitants, but it is rapidly increasing.
 41. I see on the plan a few mines marked below Rockwell Paddock? Those are big copper-mines, Pretty's copper-mines. He is working them, and exporting a large quantity of stuff down the Darling.
 42. That will be south-west of the line? The nearest point for him will be the Pinnacles.
 43. How far would that be? About 8 or 9 miles.
 44. Is that a continuation of this lode that you speak of? Yes, a continuation of the same mineral country.
 45. Is the population increasing in those places? Yes, very rapidly. They cannot get a sufficient number of miners.
 46. And along the proposed line is the population increasing in those other places? Yes. Thackaringa has only been settled five months, and there is a public concentrating apparatus to treat the poorer class of ores, and the bigger Companies are going to work the heavy stuff.
 47. With respect to Silverton, is the population increasing there? No; it has decreased by one half.
 48. Within what time? The last ten months.
 49. Is it still decreasing? Yes. It had a slight increase from the railway works, but that was only temporary.
 50. Was there telegraph communication with Silverton sometime before the telegraph communication was established with Broken Hill? Yes.
 51. Would that be between Silverton and Wilcannia? No, Menindie.
 52. And it would go on from that place to Sydney? To Wentworth, and then to Sydney and Adelaide.
 53. Do you know when telegraph communication was opened with Broken Hill? It was on the 20th August last year.
 54. And how long before had it been open to Silverton? About twelve months.
 55. Was there a large increase of population in Broken Hill immediately after the opening of the telegraph? No, there was a uniform increase independent of the telegraph. It was as low as 1,500, but now the population is 5,000.
 56. Was there a large exodus from Silverton to Broken Hill? Yes, immediately before the opening of the telegraph and since.
 57. I suppose that the value of the land about Silverton has gone down since the time that the tramway first started? Yes, it is unsaleable at the Crown Lands upset price.
 58. Do you happen to know the distance by the present route passing through Silverton from Cockburn to Broken Hill? I think about $33\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
 59. Are there many mines along that line? There is only one—the Umberumberka.
 60. What is the relative value of the land in Broken Hill now, comparing it with the time when this scheme was first mooted? It has not influenced it in any way. If you mean from the time that the proposed line was mooted, I may mention that it was promoted simultaneously with the Silverton tramway. Twelve months ago a block of land comprising a quarter of an acre in the centre of the town was pegged out in the salt bush. It is now worth about £1,500.
 61. Mr. Butterworth.] Would the construction of the tramway increase settlement? Yes; but it would be of greater importance in cheapening the cost of carrying the minerals to market.
 62. It will cheapen it very considerably, I suppose? Yes; and the public concentrating works will be in operation, and we shall be able to send the mineral to Adelaide.
 63. There are large works being put up at Thackaringa, are there not? Yes.

64. For smelting have they to bring their coke from a distance? Yes; from the seaboard—from Port Harry.
65. I understand that these mines are chiefly silver and lead mines? Yes; except those at Thackaringa. That has more clean ores than the others. The Pinnacle and Rockwell, and White Lead all require concentration.
66. And ore of that description costs much more for carriage? It will not pay at all unless the freight is very low.
67. And when the ore is much more valuable, as when it is silver ore, there is much less freight? Yes; when it is concentrated. There are ores at Broken Hill south which cannot be concentrated, and which will not pay for mining and exporting.
68. Then if the line is constructed do you think it will enable silver-mines to be worked at a profit which cannot be worked at a profit now? Decidedly.
69. It will tend to develop the mineral lands through which it passes? Yes.
70. With respect to whose lines along the line of the proposed tramway between Broken Hill and the "Mount Gipps Hotel," what are they? Of the same class as the White Lead. The ore requires concentration.
71. Therefore there would be a great deal of freight in the working of these? Yes.
72. Have you any knowledge of the cost of constructing such works as tramways? No; but I can say that there are no engineering difficulties on the road. There are not more than two cuttings of any importance on the whole track.
73. Were are they? Both at Thackaringa.
74. What class of country is it? It is a plain, or undulating country, consisting of ridges of very low hills.
75. I suppose you could give us no idea of the cost of the line? I should think it would be about £1,500 a mile.
76. And if the line were made in your opinion there would be much more employment for miners opened up along the route? Yes.
77. Would other portions of the field be benefited by the construction of the line? Yes; all the mines east and north of the terminus, more especially those of the new Waukaroo tin-field.
78. How far would the Waukaroo tin-field be from the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? The nearest point would be about 10 miles from the terminus of the line.
79. Would that be to the north-west? A little to the north-west. It is on the Yaukawena Creek.
80. How far is Silverton from Waukaroo? About 16 miles.
81. Mr. Cooke.] What is the character of the land through which it passes? Excellent land, with no water—saltbush country.
82. Where do you get the timber from? From South Australia.
83. Mr. Butterworth.] Then this proposed line would serve a number of mines that are at present without accommodation? Yes.
84. And supposing the Silverton Tramway Company carried the whole output of the mines adjacent to it, will there not in your opinion still be ample business for the new Company? Yes, certainly.

THURSDAY, 24 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. BOWMAN,
MR. COOKE,

MR. CROUCH,
MR. DAVIS,

MR. MELVILLE.

D. O'CONNOR, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth, Barrister-at-law, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Alexander Riddel, Esq., recalled, and further examined:—

85. Mr. Butterworth.] I asked you a question yesterday which I believe you did not quite understand; I want to know whether in the Government townships of Thackaringa, the Pinnacles, Broken Hill, and Talingan there is a great deal of land for sale? Yes, I understood you to ask about the surrounding country.
86. Mr. Davis.] I presume that the intervening land is taken up for mineral purposes? Yes, where marked on the map.
87. Mr. Butterworth.] Is it a fact that the Broken Hill tramway will give access to the following mines at Thackaringa:—The Pioneer, Gipsy Girl, Thackaringa Syndicate, Alberta, Hibernian, Comstock, Bonanza, Gipsy Boy, Lady Brassey, Gipsy Queen, Homeward Bound, Dan O'Connell, King William, and Goat Hill? Yes, it will give access to those mines.
88. Are there other mines besides those at Thackaringa? There are.
89. Are all those mines I have mentioned at work? No; most of them are.
90. Does the Big Hill Mining Company's claim lie between Thackaringa and the Pinnacles? Yes.
91. Is it a large lode? Yes.
92. Nearly as big as the Broken Hill lode? Yes.
93. Is work carried on in it? Yes.
94. You know the Pinnacle Mines? Yes.
95. Are they at work? Yes.
96. How many mines are at work there? About eighty—that is at the Pinnacle Tribute Mine alone.
97. Are there other mines at the Pinnacles at work? Yes.
98. How many tons a day of ore do they produce? About 25 tons of ore concentrates from the treatment of 100 tons of crude ore.
99. Is the output likely to increase? Yes.
100. Has a large amount of capital been spent in the mine? Yes.
101. Do you know how much? I should think about £60,000.

A. Riddel,
Esq.
24 Nov., 1887

- A. Riddel,
Esq.
24 Nov., 1887.
102. Will the tramline affect those mines in regard to carriage? Yes.
103. Both of ore and of produce? Yes, coke and timber will have to be carried; the timber comes from South Australia.
104. The produce of that mine is at present sent away by bullock teams, is it not? Yes.
105. At a cost of how much per ton? Fifteen shillings.
106. What would be the cost to carry it by the tramway? I think it would be 5s. a ton.
107. Do you know the Lady Bevy's, the North Pinnacle, and Stirling Hill? Yes.
108. Where is that? As near to the line as the Pinnacle Tribute, one on each side; the Lady Bevy's is on the line of the track.
109. The route of the tram seems to pass through the Pinnacles; if the line is correctly marked on the map the Lady Bevy's is south of it and close to it.
110. Are these mines at work? Yes, the Lady Bevy's has a lead 40 feet thick, and fifteen men are in constant employment there.
111. And how many at Stirling Hill? Stirling Hill has about six men employed.
112. And how many at the North Pinnacles? About four I think.
113. Are those mines at work? Yes.
114. Are they likely to produce a large quantity of ore? Yes.
115. And are they all close to the proposed tram-line? Yes.
116. And what would be the nearest tram-line for them at present? It would be the Silverton tram, towards the Nine-mile; but instead of taking the stuff there they go to Cockburn by bullock team.
117. Because it would be so far across? Yes.
118. How far would it be? About 5 miles from Stirling Hill, and more from the other places.
119. Would the following mines be served by the Broken Hill tramway:—White Lead, White Lead South, Central White Lead, Rising Sun, White Lead Proprietary, Broken Hill South Extended, Central Broken Hill, Broken Hill Extended? Yes, those mines will be served by the line.
120. Are those valuable mines? They are.
121. All at work? Yes, all at work.
122. Is the output likely to be large? Yes.
123. Would they be better served by the Broken Hill tramway than by the present one? Decidedly.
124. Will the Broken Hill proprietary's property be better served by this new tramway than by the present one? Yes, inasmuch as the distance will be 5 miles shorter than the other.
125. I want to ask a question about the mines lying beyond Broken Hill, towards the proposed terminus at Mount Gipps. Are the following the chief mines to which the Broken Hill tramline will give access:—Round Hill, Consolidated Big Hill, Round Hill No. 1, White and Co., Beehive, Barrier Queen, J. J. Williams, Broken Hill Junction, Broken Hill North, Victoria Cross, Imperial Blocks, Cosgrove's Dream, Sultan, Copper Blow, Potosi, George, and the Broken Hill United? Yes, it will give access to all those mines.
126. Are they, with one or two exceptions, all at work? Yes.
127. And does the present price of stock in those mines show that the public have confidence in their future? Yes.
128. And none of these mines are directly served by the Silverton tramway at present? No, not directly.
129. They are beyond the terminus? Yes.
130. The produce of these mines which I have mentioned is silver, lead, and copper? Yes.
131. Are the chief copper-mines Thackaringa, Pretty's, and the Anaconda? Yes.
132. And with those exceptions they are chiefly silver and lead? Yes.
133. Now, to come to the proposed tramline;—are the following mines at work within a radius of (say) 5 miles of the terminus of the lines:—Eaglehawk, Grace Darling, the Minerva, Moorkaie, and the Silver Age? Yes.
134. Have those lines big lodes? Some of them.
135. Which? The Silver Age, the Moorkaie, and the Minerva.
136. From your personal knowledge can you say that all these mines are within 5 miles of the proposed terminus? Yes, less than 5 miles.
137. Then, to come to the Poolamacca mine. Will the construction of the tramway lessen the carriage to that mine? Yes.
138. By how much? By a distance of about 10 miles.
139. Are the Poolamacca tin-mines having a large output? They will presently if they have not hitherto. Machinery is being erected.
140. Is the present price of the shares of this mine high? Yes.
141. I mentioned, yesterday, the Waukaroo mines;—are they tin-mines? Yes.
142. Are they numerous and large? Yes; there must be 150 leases of 40 acres each.
143. How many of them are at work? About twenty. None of the leases are issued, but twenty of them are nevertheless at work.
144. Chairman.] Do you mean to say that they have been refused, or that they are waiting for the leases? They are waiting. There has not been time to issue the leases.
145. Mr. Butterworth.] I think it was mentioned yesterday that the Waukaroo mines are about 9 miles from the terminus? Yes.
146. What would it save in carriage going to the terminus instead of to the present tramway? It would save at least 10 miles.
147. Is the Yankowena close to Waukaroo? Yes, at the southern end of Waukaroo, near the creek.
148. Are there any buildings in that town? Yes, two hotels, and stores.
149. Is it likely to be a large settlement? There are likely to be three settlements within 5 miles of there.
150. I want you to speak about the mines at the Rockwell Paddock. Are the following mines in that district at work:—Sydney Rockwell, Melbourne Rockwell, Central Rockwell, Dora Maiden's Rockwell, Arnheim's Rockwell, Wilcannia Syndicate, Red Hill, Stansfield's, De Baun's, Anaconda, and others? Yes, those mines are at work, with three exceptions. There are three not at work.
151. Are those lodes large? Yes, very large.
152. What is the distance between Broken Hill and Parnamoota? About 20 miles.
153. And how far from Silverton is it? The same distance.

A. Riddell,
Esq.

24 Nov., 1887.

154. Are the mines round Purnamoota valuable mines? Some of them are.
155. With large lodes? No, small, rich lodes.
156. Speaking generally, in the district that the proposed tramline would serve are there millions of tons of ore which, with better facilities for communication, ought to give a large profit? Certainly.
157. Are they chiefly low grade ores? The Rockwell paddock ores are chiefly low grade ores.
158. And the other mines along the line? There are numbers not mentioned which have not been fully developed.
159. And would many of them pay? Yes, with concentration it would pay to work them.
160. Although they would not pay at the present high rate for trucking? No.
161. You speak of the whole district as the Barrier? Yes.
162. Can you give some idea of the population of the Barrier? Upwards of 8,000 at present.
163. And how many of that population will be affected by this proposed tramway? About 6,500.
164. Besides that, are you of opinion that the tramway will tend to promote settlement? Yes; there are homestead lessees about there.
165. Besides the present mode of transit being so expensive, is great delay sometimes caused by the use of bullock drays? Yes.
166. In wet weather? Yes, they get bogged; and in dry weather there is a scarcity of teams.
167. And great difficulty in getting water, is there not? Yes.
168. Have they frequently to go many miles out of their way to get water? Yes, 5 or 10 miles off the main track. It is not so much that they come off the line as that they have to go off the camping ground, going further away before stopping, and carrying food for the cattle.
169. What effect has that? It makes the carriage dearer. They have to camp perhaps two days before proceeding again.
170. Are the people of the district, speaking generally, favourable to the tram? Yes, very favourable.
171. Have you spoken to a large number of them on the subject? I have.
172. And, speaking generally, this tramway opens up to a great extent a different line of country from that opened up by the Silverton tramway? All except Broken Hill, that is the only point at which the Silverton tramway touches it.
173. I believe this produce from the Barrier, speaking generally, cannot be carried to the New South Wales seaboard at remunerative rates? No.
174. The distance is too great? Yes.
175. It is over 800 miles, I believe? About 800 as compared with 260 to Port Parry.
176. In the event of the Bill passing, do you know how long it would take to construct the line? I should say within nine months.
177. And it would be, in your opinion, a great public convenience? Yes.
178. Is there a large pastoral settlement that would be benefited by the line? Yes, towards the north.
179. Is all the country about there occupied pastorally? Yes.
180. And as more mines are opened up there will be a greater demand for coals? No, the ore will be sent to the seaboard, where the smelting will be done. They concentrate it and send it away. But there will be a large timber trade from South Australia.
181. The tendency is to send the ore to the seaboard? Yes.
182. Are the ores rich in silver smelted on the field? Yes.
183. The coke which is at present brought into the field is only the coke which is used by the Broken Hill Proprietary Company? That is so.
184. Looking at the plan generally, can you say that it fairly represents the position of the different places upon it? Yes, it does. It is my own plan, and was issued as a supplement to the Broken Hill Times some time ago. [Plan produced.]
185. I want you to look at the account given at the back of the plan. You see the names of a number of mines, and the market value of those mines on October last, given. Can you tell me if the following values were the fair market values on 10th October last:—

Broken Hill, Proprietary...	£3,040,000
" Block 14	850,000
" South	80,000
" North	54,000
" Junction	150,000
" Extended	5,000
" Central	66,225
Big Hill	11,250
Pinnacles	169,250
Round Hill	56,000
Gipsy Girl	12,800
Pioneer	50,000
Lady Brassey	16,000
Rising Sun	40,000
South Broken Hill, Extended	20,000
Victoria Cross	32,000
Imperial	21,000
Cosgrove's Dream	50,000
						£4,723,525?

They were, but they are higher now.

186. And besides the mines mentioned, are there many others which are not upon the market? Yes.
187. I will ask one more question with regard to the plan;—are there a number of holdings not shown on the plan which have been taken up since the plan was made? Yes, and numbers of them are being worked.
188. Of course the names of many individual mines do not occur here? No. At Thackaringa alone there are over sixty. They are shown on the plan, but not named.

- A. Riddel,
Esq.
24 Nov., 1887.
189. Chairman.] Are you in a position to show of your own knowledge that the people in the district from Thackaringa along the route are favourable to the construction of the proposed tramway? Yes, very largely so.
190. Mr. Cooke.] I want to ask you a question about the character of the land;—what sort of land is it through which the line will pass? An excellent red loam, which would grow anything with rain or with irrigation.
191. Any water? No.
192. What kind of timber is there? There is no timber, it is only scrub.
193. Where is the nearest timber found? At Werribara, in South Australia.
194. What distance is that from the mines? 180 miles.
195. What is the cost of the timber per 100 feet? About 18s.
196. And what kind of timber is used in the mines? Large heavy timber, either round or square—hard-wood.
197. Is not soft wood or Australian pine used? No.
198. What size are the blocks along the line shown on the plan? The average is 40 acres.
199. And what number of population do you think there is between Cockburn and Broken Hill, not including Cockburn, that will be benefited by the line? About 250 at present.
200. Are most of the lodes opened up? No; they are waiting for something to turn up.
201. What do you mean? Some method of treating the ores or reducing them.
202. Do you wish me to understand that the opening of the line will help to facilitate the opening up of the country? Yes, especially with regard to taking the ores to the concentrator at Thackaringa.
203. And 250 will be benefited by that? Probably more than that number—350.
204. Did you not say yesterday that there are 200 people at Thackaringa? Somewhere about that. That includes the inhabitants all round Thackaringa.
205. You said yesterday that the Rockwell lodes were 5 or 6 miles from the tramway? Fully that.
206. Will this be the nearest and best route from the mines to the smelting works? Yes.
207. And the line will serve the mines at Rockwell also? Yes.
208. Do you know of any interest that will be injured by the construction of the line? None, except the Silverton Tramway Company.
209. Chairman.] The people in the district will not be injured? No, none of them.
210. Mr. Crouch.] Has there been any expression of public opinion on the part of the residents of Broken Hill to the proposed tramway? A petition has been signed, according to a telegram in this morning's Herald, by 1,000 people in the district in favour of the proposed tramway.
211. Mr. Bowman.] Are you one of the syndicate? No, I am not, but I am a mine-owner in the district.
212. Mr. Crouch.] What distance will be saved by the construction of the line? Five miles from Broken Hill.
213. And what saving do you reckon that will make in the transit of goods? They will be allowed to charge 9d. a mile.
214. What is the charge made by the present Company? I do not know; they have not opened the line for traffic yet.
215. Does the Bill arrange for any specific tariff? It does.
216. The maximum is named? Yes.
217. Mr. Cooke.] At present all the traffic from these outlying places—Rockwell, White Lead, the Pinnacles, and Thackaringa—to Cockburn is carried by team? Yes, to Cockburn.
218. What is the rate of carriage? Fifteen shillings from the Pinnacles, and £1 from Broken Hill, and over £1 beyond that distance.
219. Mr. Crouch.] What distance is it from the terminus of the proposed line to the Poolamacca tin-field? About 30 miles.
220. What distance from the nearest point on the other line? About 10 miles more.

Samuel Barrett, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- S. Barrett,
Esq.
24 Nov., 1887.
221. Mr. Butterworth.] What are you, Mr. Barrett? Mine proprietor.
222. And how long have you been living in the Broken Hill district? Over three years.
223. You have been travelling over what is called the Barrier district? Yes.
224. Are you interested in the mines which will be affected by the proposed tramway? I have claims at Thackaringa, the Pinnacles, White Lead, and Rockwell.
225. Do you know the line of country that is traversed from "Mount Gipps Hotel" right down through these places to Cockburn? Yes.
226. Have you had any opportunity of judging of the feeling of the residents of the district in reference to the line? On Thursday last some papers were distributed for the residents to sign, and people came forward very readily, and asked to be allowed to go round to get names. At Thackaringa on Friday night last the whole of the people with two exceptions had signed the petition, and at the Pinnacles it is the same. I cannot say anything with regard to Silverton.
227. Will the construction of the line increase the value of the land in the townships along it in your opinion? Yes.
228. Will it also increase the number of mines at work? Yes.
229. That is to say, the reduction in freight will make it pay better to open up mines of a low grade? Well, at the present time part of the mines near the Pinnacles will not pay without a reduction in the cost of carriage.
230. Do you know anything about the cost of constructing the line of tramway? I have not studied the expense of it at all. Some years ago I was in that line of business. Everything is very easy as far as the country is concerned, there are no special gradients.
231. Speaking of the character of the country generally you would say that there are no engineering difficulties? None.
232. And would other portions of the field be benefited by the construction of the line besides those it actually runs through? It will affect the Rockwell district the most.
233. Will it affect the Big Hill district? Yes, the line runs through it, or very close to it, and also the South Rockwell district.

S. Barrett,
Esq.

24 Nov., 1887.

234. Will it go near Pretty's copper-mines? Yes.
235. And I suppose near all the mines situated between Broken Hill and the proposed terminus? Yes.
236. Can you tell us that the plan is a fairly accurate plan of the district? Yes.
237. Do you say that from Thackaringa right along to the Pinnacles and Taltingan up to the "Mount Gipps Hotel," along the whole course of that line, the mines are almost continuous. Is there any great distance between them? The greatest distance is the continuous lode from Broken Hill to Mount Gipps.
238. And from Broken Hill to Thackaringa;—what about that part? There is a small distance between the White Lead and the Pinnacles with no immediate mines.
239. I suppose there is great difficulty at present in getting the ore down at the Rockwell Paddock? Yes.
240. Where do they send the ore from there? From Rockwell right through the Pinnacles to the border.
241. The whole way by bullock teams? Yes.
242. And that is very slow? It is very slow; about 12 miles a day on the average.
243. And what will the distance be from Rockwell? It depends upon what part of Rockwell Paddock you speak of, it will be from 33 to 40 miles.
244. Is there sometimes a great extent of water along that track? Yes.
245. And in wet weather they get bogged, I believe? Yes.
246. Will the construction of this line lessen the cost of carriage to the Poolamacca mine by reducing the distance? Yes.
247. Do you know the Waukaroo tin-mines? Yes.
248. Will it lessen the cost of carriage from there? Yes, considerably.
249. And those mines that I have mentioned—the Waukaroo, the Poolamacca, the Rockwell Paddock, and Pretty's copper-mine—are all mines lying off the immediate line of tramway, and which will be benefited by the construction of the tramway? Yes.
250. And from your knowledge of the district can you say that there will be millions of tons of ore that with a tramway would return a large profit, but which without a tramway will not pay at the present freights? In the Rockwell Paddock I anticipate that there will be a very large quantity of low grade ore that it will not pay to work without a tramway somewhere near.
251. But you cannot speak as to the quantity? No, I cannot.
252. In the case of low grade ores they can only be worked if freight is low? Yes.
253. Therefore one effect of this proposed tramway will be to greatly increase the number of mines that are being worked? Yes.
254. And therefore to increase settlement in the district? Yes.
255. Do you know at all what the population is in the district? I could only guess what the population is.
256. Do you know the population of Broken Hill? Yes; between 4,000 and 5,000.
257. And of Silverton? About 2,000 altogether.
258. And at Thackaringa? At present from 300 to 400.
259. And at the Pinnacles? About 100, and at Rockwell about 100 more.
260. What would be the population between Broken Hill and the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? I should say about 200 at Round Hill, and scattered about from there to Mount Gipps about 100 at the present time.
261. I believe that the tramway in course of construction to Silverton only passes through the mines near Silverton? Yes; the Umberumberka mines. I am not aware that there are any other from there to Broken Hill. There is the Nine Mile district some miles away.
262. With that exception the line does not pass through mineral country? No.
263. Now, assuming that the Silverton tramway carries the whole output from the mines near it, will there still be ample business for the proposed new line? I think that there will be ample business from the Pinnacles and Thackaringa districts to make the proposed line pay apart from the Broken Hill trade.
264. And the present price of stock in the mines all along the proposed line is sufficiently high to show that the general public have confidence in the mines? Yes, I think so.
265. In fact you may look at this proposed line as serving to a large extent a different district from that served by the other line? Yes.
266. And in your opinion would the construction of this new line be a great public convenience? Yes.
267. I do not know whether you are acquainted with the value of those mines. Could you speak from your own knowledge of the value of the mines on the 10th October last. You will see the value given in the list produced? I think that Pinnacles were below the market value at that time. There is no doubt that the amounts given in the list are near the mark. Some of the blocks have gone up considerably, and others have gone down a little. There has been on the whole a substantial increase.
268. And besides those mentioned would there be many mines not open to the market in that district? Besides these there are the White Lead Proprietary (the present value of it is about £30,000 or £35,000), the White Lead Central, and the Rising Sun South, and one or two others that are not included in this that run along the line of the tramway, and there may be other mines not included.
269. Mr. Cooke.] What will be the difference between the cost of carriage by this tramway from Cockburn to the terminus and the present cost of carriage? I do not know what it is intended to charge.
270. Mr. Butterworth.] Do you know what they are paying at present? From £1 10s. to £2 from Cockburn to Broken Hill.
271. Chairman.] Do you know of your own knowledge if the people along the proposed line are favourable to the construction of the tramway? Yes, I do.
272. Mr. Cooke.] Along the whole route? I know they are favourable at Thackaringa and also at Broken Hill.
273. Have the people manifested any opposition? No.
274. Have the people residing between Cockburn and Broken Hill offered to give the land, I mean the private land-owners? I am not aware that there are any private land-holders along the line.
275. Mr. Butterworth.] This land is almost entirely Government land I believe the whole way along the route? Yes.
276. There are no private freeholds? I think the line will go through one conditional purchase.

FRIDAY, 25 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. COOKE,

MR. CROUCH,

MR. MATHESON.

D. O'CONNOR, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth, Barrister-at-law, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Charles Bath, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- C. Bath, Esq. 277. Mr. Butterworth.] Are you one of those who are applying for this Bill? I am.
 278. Has a preliminary Company been formed? Yes.
 25 Nov., 1887. 279. How many shareholders are there? Forty.
 280. And are you and the other members prepared to find the capital necessary to construct and equip the line? Yes.
 281. What do you estimate the amount of the capital to be? £150,000.
 282. Do the preliminary Company intend to give the general public an opportunity to join them as shareholders? Our present intention is to construct and equip the line before offering shares to the public. We may possibly allow the public to join us in our undertaking.
 283. The present intention is to construct the line first? Yes.
 284. You do not know the district yourself? No.
 285. Has the Company been registered? I do not think it has.

Arthur Ebsworth, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- A. Ebsworth, Esq. 286. Mr. Butterworth.] What are you? A licensed surveyor.
 287. You have seen the survey that has been made? I have seen the plan. [Plan produced.]
 25 Nov., 1887. 288. Is this the survey from which you made your description? Yes.
 289. This is signed by Mr. Dalton, is it not? Yes.
 290. He is a licensed surveyor? Yes.
 291. And it was from that survey that you made your description? Yes.
 292. Have you read the description which forms the schedule to this Bill? Not since it has been printed.
 293. I will read it through and ask you whether it is correct. [Schedule read.] Is this copy of the schedule as corrected in one part by substituting the words "north-eastern" for the words "north-western" an accurate description, and is it the schedule referred to in clause 1 of the Bill? Yes.
 294. That correctly describes the lands according to this survey across which it is proposed to make the tramway? Yes; except that the proposed tramway does not follow the blue line on the plan for about 8 chains south-easterly from the central part of portion 38 in the parish of Albert, and the south-western boundary of the town of Willyam, parish of Picton.

Charles John Royle, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- C. J. Royle, Esq. 295. Mr. Butterworth.] What is your business? I am a merchant carrying on business in Bond-street, Sydney.
 25 Nov., 1887. 296. You are one of those who are applying for this Bill? Yes.
 297. And you are one of the large preliminary Company which has been formed? Yes.
 298. Has that Company been registered yet? I do not know. It is about to be, I believe.
 299. How many shareholders are there? There are forty.
 300. Are you and the other members of the Company prepared to find the necessary capital to construct and equip the line? Yes.
 301. What do you estimate the capital to be? About £1,000 each; altogether £150,000.
 302. Is it your present intention to construct and equip the line before any shares are offered to the public? We thought of doing so.
 303. And when it is formed possibly shares may be offered to the public? Yes; probably we shall let them come in.

Charles Launcelot Garland, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- C. L. Garland, Esq., M.P. 304. Mr. Butterworth.] What are you? A newspaper proprietor, and Member of the Legislative Assembly.
 25 Nov., 1887. 305. Do you know this district of Silverton and Broken Hill? Fairly well; I spent some days in examining it.
 306. When were you there? About four months ago.
 307. What part of the district did you travel through? I travelled by coach to Thackaringa, where a number of lead and silver mines exist. It is a very important mining centre, and I went from there on foot to Silverton.
 308. Did you go beyond Thackaringa towards the Pinnacles? From Silverton I went to the Pinnacles, examining the country about there, and from there I went to Broken Hill. From Broken Hill I went north to about Round Hill. I examined the country all round there.
 309. Have you had any experience in mining? Yes, about twenty years experience.
 310. You found that these were lead and silver mines? Lead and silver principally. There were some copper-mines.
 311. Do you know if many mines contain ore of a low grade about there? I am given to understand, but I did not examine the mines, that at Thackaringa the mines are principally low grade mines, which require railway communication in order to be worked with profit. The proposed tramline will probably be of greater advantage to Thackaringa than to any other part of the field.
 312. It is necessary in order to make the mines pay? Yes. The mines at Thackaringa will probably give a larger amount of traffic than the Broken Hill mines, by reason of the amount of bullion which will require to be carried, and the amount of concentrated ore which it will pay to carry. 313.

313. There are concentrating works I think, are there not? There are at the Pinnacles. From my examination of the opinions I should be of opinion that the line is warranted to that place alone if it did not go any further. I think from the amount of ore in that locality the construction of the line would be warranted by any private Company for the development of the Pinnacle mines alone, even if the Thackaringa mines were left out.

C. L. Garland,
Esq., M.P.
25 Nov., 1887.

314. Chairman.] Are you sure it would be of great advantage to those enterprising people in that district if a tramway were constructed? I am satisfied of that, and I cannot see how they can prosper unless they get one.

315. Mr. Butterworth.] There are a large number of mines which could not be worked at a profit at present unless a cheap means of communication were provided? Decidedly.

316. Therefore the construction of the line must tend to increase settlement in that mining district? Yes.

317. Did you visit the White Lead mines? I did not go further south than the southern mines on the Broken Hill lode, a little south of Broken Hill, but judging of the appearance of the country there I should say that it is a mineral country similar to that which I passed through.

318. Going from that point you went to Round Hill, did you not? Yes.

319. And along that line there is a continual series of mines? Yes, and the ores are rich along the whole distance. It will take very many years to work it.

320. They are very big lodes I believe? Very large. I was underground in the Broken Hill Mine, and the lode in that mine is the largest I ever examined.

321. Mr. Crouch.] How many years is it estimated that it will take to work out the Broken Hill lode? The manager of the mine calculates that there are 900,000 tons of ore in sight above the water level which will require to be mined, and allowing for intrusive rock there will be 700,000 tons of ore above the water level, which would yield an average of over 32 oz. per ton. That will give some idea of the magnitude of the deposit.

322. Mr. Butterworth.] Are there any valuable mines beyond Broken Hill? The best worked mine to the north of Broken Hill is the Broken Hill Junction.

323. How far is that beyond Broken Hill? It is just beyond block 16; it is between Broken Hill north and the two blocks which the Company have recently floated in London.

324. Do you know of any rich mines north of Broken Hill? The Junction is about a mile north of Broken Hill, at block 13 of the Proprietary Company, and that mine has been considerably developed. Two shafts, I believe both going more than 200 feet deep, have been sunk, and some very rich ore has been obtained in that mine, so rich that it is said that the ore as paid for shipment to England paid the working expenses of the mine.

325. Is there any other rich mine north of Broken Hill? The only other I am acquainted with north of Broken Hill Junction is the Broken Hill North, which is a valuable mine on a very large lode. To the north of that mine is Cosgrove's Company, occupying several blocks.

326. How far is that? Two miles north of block 13. When I visited the field they had only just commenced to open up what appeared to me to be a very valuable silver lode. Since then the reports of the manager, which have appeared in the public press, show the lode further developed, and it has proved a very valuable lode.

327. And with regard to Round Hill—are there any mines working towards there? At Round Hill considerable mining is taking place, but I had not an opportunity of going under ground or of inspecting the works.

328. Chairman.] At Round Hill there are valuable mines? Yes.

329. Mr. Butterworth.] Can you say of your own knowledge, or from what you heard in the district, whether there would be any advantage in the district having a line of tramway from Broken Hill to the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? Most assuredly the line will have to be constructed.

330. There will be a sufficient amount of traffic? There will be quite sufficient. I should say that if there was no mining machinery or bullion to be carried at all there would be enough traffic.

331. Speaking generally, you have no doubt that if this tramway is carried out from Cockburn through Thackaringa, the Pinnacles, and other places, through Broken Hill up to the "Mount Gipps Hotel" a great quantity of mining operations will be able to be carried on at a profit which it is impossible to carry on profitably now? Most certainly.

332. And so far as you know the line will not injuriously affect other interests? Well, it will not affect the interests of the general public, except beneficially, but if you ask me whether it will affect the line which is already in course of construction I should say that inasmuch as this line will be a shorter and a nearer route, and more advantageous to the public generally, the public will avail themselves of it to a greater extent than they will of the other.

333. Mr. Crouch.] Then this would have been a better line to have constructed from the first? Yes, in the interest of all concerned.

334. Chairman.] Do you know that from Thackaringa up to the Pinnacles it is a pretty well mineralised country? Decidedly, the whole belt of country extending from Thackaringa east, over which I went. So far as the plains are concerned, my opinion, after carefully examining them, is that eventually, although they are much more difficult to prospect than the ranges, they will be prospected and found to be as rich as the ranges. There is no scientific reason why they should not be.

335. Mr. Cooke.] That is, the rock is covered by alluvial deposit? Yes.

336. That it merely covers the lodes which in all probability extend along the north and south? Yes.

337. Chairman.] Do the plains go to the north? I did not go further north than I have stated, but the whole country after leaving Thackaringa is pretty well level country.

338. Mr. Butterworth.] In the direction of the line? Yes, and the hills themselves, or what are termed ranges. We should only consider their undulations. There are not what we should call hills in the eastern districts of the Colony. There are no engineering difficulties whatever in the way of the construction of a tramway.

339. Had you any opportunity of judging of the feeling of the people in the district about the formation of the proposed line? Judging by the feeling of the people at Thackaringa and the Pinnacles, where the line is proposed to go, the people there are decidedly in favour of railway communication, and no doubt if that portion of the Colony were nearer to the seat of Government the Government would undertake to make the line; what I mean is that the interests involved there and the traffic warrant the Government in constructing a line as a commercial undertaking.

C. L. Garland, Esq., M.P. 340. Mr. Butterworth.] You said that you had had twenty years experience in mining;—what kind of experience? Experience as a practical miner—experience in gold-mining and gold-saving—underground work and battery work. I served my apprenticeship, and I have had a wide experience since doing so. I have always been connected with mining, and have invested in mining, and taken a personal interest in it. I had experience at Sunny Corner, and I had experience in Queensland and on the Thames gold-field, in New Zealand.

25 Nov., 1887.

Alexander Matheson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

A. Matheson, Esq. 341. Mr. Butterworth.] You are a solicitor? I am a solicitor, residing in Sydney.
 342. Are you one of those who are applying for this Bill? I am not applying for the Bill, but I am one of the preliminary Company. My name is not attached to the Bill.
 343. And that Company has not been registered yet? It has not been registered yet.
 344. There are forty shareholders, are there not? There are.
 345. And are the members of the Company prepared to find the necessary capital to construct and equip the tramway? We are.
 346. What is to be the amount of the capital? About £150,000.
 347. And the present intention of the Company is to construct and equip the line before any shares are offered to the public? Yes.
 348. After that some shares may be offered to the public? Yes.
 349. And from your knowledge of the Home money market do you look upon the scheme as a good investment for Home capital? I do. I believe I can get the whole of the capital from Scotland if required.
 350. You have recently paid a visit to Scotland? I have recently come out from Scotland.
 351. But you have been in the Colonies before? I was here some years ago.

25 Nov., 1887.

TUESDAY, 29 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. BLACK, | MR. BOWMAN,
 MR. CROUCH.

D. O'CONNOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth, Barrister-at-law, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Harry Bingham Thomas, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

H. B. Thomas, Esq. 352. Mr. Butterworth.] You are a solicitor carrying on your profession in Sydney? I am.
 353. Do you produce a declaration which purports to be signed by a number of persons resident in the Barrier district and interested in mining there? Yes; it is an expression of desire.
 354. By whom? I think there are some 601 signatures of various residents in the district of the Barrier who are interested in the mining development of the district.
 355. What is the desire they express? That this proposed tramway should be constructed from the South Australian border via Thackaringa and Broken Hill to near the "Mount Gipps Hotel," as described in the application dated 18th August, 1887, for a Bill for that purpose, signed by John Woods and others, and published in the Broken Hill Times.
 356. As far as you know that expression of desire has just arrived from that district? Yes; by post.

29 Nov., 1887.

THURSDAY, 9 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. COOKE, | MR. MELVILLE.
 D. O'CONNOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. H. B. Thomas, of Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Westgarth, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill. The Hon. H. E. Cohen, instructed by Mr. A'Beckett, appeared in support of the petition of Mr. William P. Macgregor, Mr. William R. Wilson, and Mr. William Jamieson, against the Bill.

Thomas Frederic De Courcy Browne, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

T. F. De C. Browne, Esq., M.P. 357. Mr. Cohen.] What is your name? Thomas Frederic De Courcy Browne.
 358. You are one of the representatives of the district of Wentworth in the Legislative Assembly? I am.
 359. Are you well acquainted with Broken Hill, Silvertown, and the surrounding districts? I am.
 360. With its industries and its population generally? I am.
 361. Have you had any business relations with the district and its people? I have had business relations with the district ever since it has been occupied for mining purposes, that is to say, since 1882.
 362. Do you know the route of the existing tramway—the Silvertown tramway—from Cockburn on the South Australian border, to Broken Hill? Yes; thoroughly.
 363. Have you been over it? Yes; half a dozen times. That line, I believe, is now completed.
 364. To Broken Hill? Yes.
 365. Is it open for traffic? It was opened for traffic on the 20th January.
 366. Have you been at Broken Hill since it was opened? I was there at the opening, and remained there five days afterwards.
 367. From what you saw and from your knowledge of the district and its population, what is your opinion as to the capacity of that tramway to serve the traffic wants of the district through which it runs? It could do eight times the traffic at present on the line, at the very least. The traffic is light for the capacity of the line.

9 Feb., 1888.

368. Will you tell us generally what direction this Silverton tramway takes? The present line runs over flat country to the Umberumberka, and then from Umberumberka to Broken Hill it is almost level. There is one cutting about 10 feet deep on the line after you pass Umberumberka.
369. Does it pass through Silverton? Yes.
370. Through Silverton to Broken Hill? Yes.
371. Is there a tramway reserve at Broken Hill? Yes, two tramway reserves. They are both used by the Silverton Tramway Company.
372. Is there a goods station erected? They are building a very large station at Broken Hill, on what they call section 14. That is the site for the passenger station generally—the railway station terminus.
373. Is there a passenger and light goods station being constructed on another part? They are running over section 14 to what they call the Tramway Reserve 3079, right into the heart of the town.
374. Is there any other branch that you know of being constructed through the goods station at section 14? Yes.
375. By the Silverton Tramway Company? Yes. It starts from the goods terminus on section 14 down the four blocks. That brings them on to the surface of the mines on the Broken Hill line of lode.
376. Can you tell whether this part you are speaking of runs to block 15? That is the intention, to bring it right along to block 16.
377. Is block 16 further north than block 15? It adjoins North Broken Hill.
378. Chairman.] Is that the block floated the other day in England? Yes.
379. Mr. Cohen.] Do you know what this branch would cost? The directors inform me that it will cost £40,000. There is one bridge alone that will cost £10,000—not a bridge, an iron viaduct.
380. This amount is in addition to the cost already incurred in the construction of the main line to Broken Hill? Yes. This branch is being constructed simply to get the traffic of the mines.
381. What mines? The Broken Hill Proprietary, Block 14, British Broken Hill, Broken Hill Junction, Broken Hill North, Brisbane Blocks Company, Broken Hill South Central, and some three or four other undeveloped mines.
382. The Victoria Cross? That is near adjoining the White Lead and other Companies round about.
383. Does the Broken Hill underlie one of the mines? Yes, the Brisbane Blocks, right underneath block 13.
384. Do I understand you to say that, besides the mines you specifically mention, there are other mines it is intended to serve? Other properties that will develop into mines.
385. Have you a plan? I have a plan at my office.
386. Can you tell me what the traffic services of the group of mines you have mentioned is about equal to per week? At the present time?
387. Yes? About a thousand tons, that is, to and fro.
388. Both ways? Yes.
389. Chairman.] A thousand tons of goods? Yes. It is principally coke and timber; then the bullion and ore come as return freight.
390. Can you tell me whether there is any general merchandise traffic? There is the mercantile traffic for the Broken Hill township and immediate locality, which cannot be very large of course. That would be under a thousand tons.
391. A week? Yes. I cannot speak positively, I only speak approximately.
392. Do you think that the Silverton tramway is equal to that traffic? The Silverton Company can do ten times the traffic there is now.
393. That is the traffic of all kinds? Yes, ten times the traffic. The traffic at present is trifling in comparison to what the line can do.
394. Have you formed any opinion as to what the weekly capacity of the Silverton tramway is in tonnage? Yes. I have discussed that matter with authorities on the subject. The Silverton Tramway Company can do 100 tons an hour, if necessary, from the border to Broken Hill, and they can do the same amount of traffic back. The line from Cockburn to Adelaide, that is towards Terowie, would be incapable of doing that traffic, because it is only a single line, 300 miles in length. The line from Cockburn to Broken Hill is only 34 miles in length.
395. You also say that they can carry 100 tons per hour back traffic, that is backwards and forward: simultaneously? Yes. There is no difficulty with the sidings they have got. They can start a train every hour from Cockburn, and with the engines they are using now they can draw twenty trucks at the rate of from 18 to 20 miles an hour. It is a very level line.
396. Is the Silverton tramway line connected with the railway service of South Australia? Yes.
397. Do you know whether there is any agreement existing between the Government of South Australia and the Silverton Tramway Company? There is an agreement.
398. For traffic purposes? For traffic purposes. The South Australian rolling stock goes right into Broken Hill.
399. I understand then that the engines of the South Australian line run right through over the Silverton line on to Broken Hill. Are the trucks also run upon that line? Yes; all the rolling stock.
400. All the South Australian rolling stock employed in the traffic passes directly on to the Silverton line to Broken Hill? Yes.
401. Have you had any statements made to you by any Minister of South Australia as to their willingness to connect their rolling stock with any other line but the Silverton tramway line? The Commissioner for Public Works, Mr. Catt, told me they would not connect with any other line.
402. But the Silverton tramway? But the Silverton tramway. In fact they have an agreement to that effect. It would not pay them to do otherwise.
403. From your knowledge of the line and its capabilities can you give this Committee any idea as to the maximum population requirements which the Silverton tramway could serve? It could serve the requirements of a population of fully 25,000 people; that is, 17,000 more than there is at present.
404. Than there is where? In the district. The population of Broken Hill district now is not over 8,000.
405. When you say Broken Hill district what do you mean? I take in Silverton, Uriowie, and Waukaroo.
406. Does this map [plan produced] represent the settlement in the district? It is not exactly correct, but it gives you a general idea.
407. You have spoken of Uriowie and Waukaroo;—are they in the direction of Broken Hill rather than near Cockburn? Yes. The nearest place to Waukaroo is Broken Hill, by about 4 miles shorter than to Silverton. All the traffic goes in from Uriowie to Broken Hill.

- T. F. De C. 408. What direction would Uriowie be from Broken Hill? To the north-west.
 Browne, Esq., 409. And Waukaroo? It is on the road to Uriowie; you go right through it. Waukaroo is what they
 M.P. speak of as the Poolamacca tin-mines.
- 9 Feb., 1888. 410. From present appearances can you form any idea as to what the population of this Broken Hill district is likely to be by the end of the present year? I see the police have computed the population—have made a sort of informal census—and have put the population of the Broken Hill country at about 8,000. Judging from the developments of the mines I should not be at all surprised to see the population of Broken Hill this day twelve months, that is all the district, increased to fully 14,000 or 15,000. It is the greatest mining district I ever saw in the whole of Australia, and I have been over every one of them.
411. Do you know the route proposed by the Bill now before the Committee? I went over it.
412. You have been over it? Yes, in order to make myself acquainted with the whole thing. I have been three times along the general route; I went from Broken Hill to the Pinnacles, from the Pinnacles to Thackaringa, and from Thackaringa to the border.
413. Can you give us your opinion as to the feasibility of the line, or as to any difficulties there may be along this route? The line is perfectly feasible. From the border to Thackaringa the line is level; from Thackaringa to the Pinnacles it is hilly; I should say very hilly. There will be some heavy cuttings there; in fact a very large number of heavy cuttings; and then from the Pinnacles into Broken Hill it is comparatively level again.
414. What would be the distance from the South Australian border to Thackaringa? Nine miles and a half.
415. Between those two points is the country settled at all by population? There is nothing in the country between Cockburn and Thackaringa but rabbits. They are there literally in millions; you can sit in your buggy and kill them with stones on the side of the road.
416. What is the population at Thackaringa? Until the last four months the population was about fifty, but within the last four or five months it has increased to 400 or 500, that is men, women, and children. There are between 200 and 220 miners employed there.
417. The 400 would represent the population? The whole population.
418. How far does the Silverton tramway run in the direction of Thackaringa? The distance from the tramway to Thackaringa would be about four miles and a half.
419. From what you know of the country do you think there would be any difficulty in so extending the Silverton tramway by a branch down to Thackaringa? No. You have only to lay the rails on the ground; the country is perfectly level.
420. Do you know that the construction of such a branch is contemplated by the Silverton Tramway Company? It is; in fact I understood from them it has been got ready; plans are being prepared.
421. Do you know if there is any arrangement between the owners of the Thackaringa mines and the Silverton Tramway Company for the construction of a branch line? I have been so informed by the owners of the Barrier Ranges concentrated works, which will be the largest thing of the kind in Australia, and the owners of the Great Pioneer Mine. The Barrier Ranges Silver-mining Association say that there is an arrangement being come to with them for their traffic by the construction of a branch from the Silverton Tramway Company to the Thackaringa mines.
422. Do you know whether the mine-owners to which you refer are interested in the Silverton Tramway Company? Some of them are largely interested as shareholders.
423. I suppose they are therefore more likely to patronize the Company in which their interest is as shareholders than a Company in which they are not shareholders? Undoubtedly. It is human nature to imagine that.
424. What is the population of the Pinnacles? The Pinnacles at the present time is comparatively deserted. In reality there has only been one Company—the Pinnacles Company or the Pinnacles Tribute Company, both the same property—and although costly machinery has been erected it has been a failure; hence the mine is not working at the present time. There never were more than 150 persons at the Pinnacles at its best time. It is a locality which has got what I may call a prospective value.
425. Do you think there is likely to be any large traffic over there? There never will be a large traffic from there. You could not call it large in any sense of the word.
426. Do you think their traffic could easily be provided for, say by teams? The present traffic?
427. Yes? I should say the present traffic could be provided for by a couple of teams a week. They would do the whole of it. In reality there has been no mining done there at present, though I hope and am confident that in the early future you will see it a very busy small mining centre, employing perhaps a couple of hundred men. It is very difficult country to work and to prospect.
428. Do you think it will be practicable for the Silverton Tramway Company to provide for any development of traffic that might take place at the Pinnacles? There is not the smallest doubt. It would be simple enough to lay a light line on the grass from the nearest point up to the Pinnacles. You would not have a hill to go over.
429. What would be the nearest distance at which the Silverton Tramway line could connect so as to provide for the Pinnacles traffic? I can only give you a pretty shrewd guess—between 8 and 9 miles. I should imagine that the railway line could not shorten the route, because the country being very level the road runs very straight, and it is 9 miles from about where the station is now to the Pinnacles.
430. Nine miles from where? From the railway station, section 14, Broken Hill.
431. Is it your opinion that the connection should take place from Broken Hill to the Pinnacles? That would be the most economical. You might get a shorter line by going to Silverton and cutting across. It is possible. Nine miles is about the distance. You could get closer by going back on the line towards Silverton.
432. Is there any mining between Broken Hill and the Pinnacles? None whatever.
433. Have you read the schedule to the Broken Hill Tramway Bill, the schedule to the route? Yes; I have read this.
434. Have you formed any opinion as to the feasibility of the route there described? I do not see how they are going to get a line into Broken Hill by this route; it is impossible.
435. When you say it will be impossible to get it into Broken Hill why do you form that opinion? The present tramway reserve, which goes through Broken Hill, is occupied wholly by the Silverton Tramway Company, and there would not be room for a second tramway along the reserve; it is too narrow.

T. F. De C.
Brown, Esq.,
M.P.
9 Feb., 1888.

436. Have you considered whether or not a second line is necessary in the interests of the district for the purpose of serving the traffic? I should be only too happy to think that a second line was necessary, or would be beneficial to the district; I would be quite proud of it; but I say most unreservedly and emphatically that a second line is not wanted, that the present Silverton Tramway Company can do the traffic for three times the population that there is at present in the district.
437. Are you interested directly or indirectly in the Silverton Tramway Company? I have not a share; I have no interest directly or indirectly in it, and I never had any, and moreover I do not hold a share on the whole of Broken Hill.
438. Have you had the opportunity of ascertaining whether it is the desire of residents of these districts to have a second line constructed? The great bulk of the business people are opposed to it. I have got a big petition to present to the House against this Broken Hill Tramway Bill. All the business people in Broken Hill are opposed to this present line.
439. What would be the effect upon Silverton of the construction of this now proposed line. If there was a second line it would do Silverton a very serious injury. It would divert traffic away from it, and to divert traffic from a small town cannot possibly improve its prospects. The Silverton people are totally opposed to the second line, as one would naturally expect them to be.
440. Comparing this proposed Broken Hill tramway line with the Silverton tramway line, which do you think would the better provide for the different sources of traffic, speaking generally? Undoubtedly the present, or the Silverton Tramway Company. It would meet all the traffic to the north of Silverton and Broken Hill, which promises to be a very big item in the future, that is the Uriowie and the Waukaroo and the Poolamacca tin-mines. Then there is Purnamoota and the Day Dream country.
441. Purnamoota and the Day Dream are almost due north of Silverton, are they not? North-north-east.
442. Mr. Thomas.] I understood you to say that you were not interested at all in the district? I did not say that. I said that I held no shares either directly or indirectly in the Silverton Tramway Company.
443. How do you come to give evidence—is it voluntarily given? I was asked to come here and give evidence as to what I knew of the country and the district.
444. Do you receive any remuneration for this at all? I do not. It would be a bad thing for the man that offered me remuneration; it would not be comfortable for him.
445. Chairman.] You have been connected for a long time in business with this district? Intimately. I do a very large business in that district.
446. I do not understand your answer to Mr. Thomas's question. You are a voluntary witness? I was asked to come here and give evidence.
447. By whom? By Mr. A'Beckett. I was asked as one of the representatives of the district, who knew the district thoroughly.
448. You are in business in Sydney? Yes; mining business.
449. I presume that you have been acting for some of these gentlemen? I act for nearly everybody up there—for all the Companies. I do pretty well all the leading business.
450. Is the plan submitted a pretty fair sketch of the line, as to where it starts from the South Australian border? I fancy it is a very fair sketch.
451. Are there not a lot of mines right up to Broken Hill? You come to nothing until you come to Thackaringa, 9 miles from the border. That was the origin of the Barrier Ranges Silver Company. It was taken up ten years ago.
452. From Thackaringa to the Pinnacles, are there not many mines there? No, there has been nothing done. I daresay you would not find twenty men at work between Thackaringa and the Pinnacles, except it may be men who are on the lookout for something. There was once a craze for tin and rubies, and people were there through the ranges looking to see what they could find.
453. From the Pinnacles to Broken Hill what is there? Nothing at all. It is dead level country. You come out of the hills when you leave the Pinnacles. There are three round hills that stand up, and you can see them about 25 miles away.
454. Are you aware what this proposed tramway would cost. Of course it is a matter of calculation? I could not tell you. It is a little bit out of my line. I have a general idea of what the other line cost, and I should say that this line would cost not very much less than 30 per cent. more, because it has got very hilly country to go over.
455. What did the other line cost? Mr. Macgregor, in his speech at the opening, said that the line from Cockburn to Broken Hill via Silverton, cost £146,000, that is without rolling stock and the erection of stations and other buildings there now.
456. Would it be over a quarter of a million? No, I do not suppose it would. The stations and all, that perhaps would bring it up to nearly £200,000.
457. Mr. Cooke.] You said that the population would be perhaps four times as large as it is in a very short time? No. I said that there would be 14,000 or 15,000, that the present population would be nearly doubled.
458. If this be so will it not require more carrying accommodation than this line will supply? No. The present Silverton line can do 14,000 tons per week.
459. You said 100 tons an hour? Yes.
460. If they could carry 100 tons an hour the trucks would require to be loaded? That is simply a matter of getting men. Plenty of men are to be had at Broken Hill.
461. I understand that there is a large quantity of low grade ore at Thackaringa? I suppose there is, but there are not more than fifty or sixty 40-acre blocks taken up. These all contain more or less low grade ore, that is, ore rich in lead but very poor in silver. Not one of these blocks have been worked under the blessings of our leasing system. The present population of Thackaringa is about 400; that includes men, women, and children. There are under 200 miners working there at the present time.
462. Is it not a fact that because the ores are of low grade, and because of the difficulties of carriage between the mines there is not a larger number of people employed? It is not because of the low grade ore, because the ore is payable in the lead mines, but there are a lot of other areas in which there is low grade ore, the owners of which are too poor to put up smelting appliances. In the second place they are too poor to send ores to Adelaide to be smelted; and, in the third place, there is no one there to buy the ore from them. The Barrier Ranges Concentrated Company are putting up the best works in Australia there. They intend to buy ore upon assay from men who raise 5 or 10 tons a week.

- T. F. De C. Browne, Esq., M.P.
9 Feb., 1888.
463. Do you not see that the very answers you have given to my question support the proposal of a tramway on that route—if the men are so poor, and cannot afford to work them, a tramway to Thackaringa would facilitate the working of these mines, inasmuch as it would give cheaper carriage;—is not that an argument in favour of the concession of this line? To strike a line from Cockburn to Thackaringa would be $9\frac{1}{2}$ miles, while to make a branch line to Thackaringa from the present Silverton line would be only $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles, so that the people could get the same accommodation by a link of $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
464. Suppose that the branch line were made, would it not be increasing the distance by one-third, inasmuch as it would describe the course of two sides of a triangle, and it would supply only one locality, instead of the country that intervenes between Thackaringa and Broken Hill? As a matter of fact the branch line would be absolutely shorter, in my opinion, than the new line.
465. That is a matter of measurement? I have made inquiries, and those who intend building the branch line say that it will be 8 miles.
466. You said something about an agreement between the South Australian Government and the Silverton Tramway Company;—do you know the nature of it? I never saw the agreement. The Commissioner for Public Works distinctly stated that they would not connect with any other line, and he is master of the situation.
467. You said that the reserve going into Broken Hill township was not sufficiently wide to admit of two tramways;—is that a fact? It is.
468. Is the reserve ground leased? Yes.
469. Is the adjacent land Crown land? Yes, but it is all occupied.
470. The adjoining lands being Crown lands the reserve could be widened? No, it could not, because it is all occupied and built upon.
471. On both sides? There is not a spare allotment in the whole township of Broken Hill. There are 1,400 allotments registered there—a thing which is without parallel in the history of mining in this country.
472. Was the construction of the line to Thackaringa in contemplation before this line was projected? That was part and parcel of the original conception of this line from Cockburn to Broken Hill. I took very great interest in connecting the border, in having railway communication with Broken Hill and Silverton, and I was consulted, and had a lot of conversation with the promoters at various times before the Silverton Bill was introduced into Parliament. They intended to construct a line through to Thackaringa, and to run a line out to Purnamoota; in fact there is notice of a Bill now to Poolamacca, 50 miles out. It is a terrible country that in dry weather. Teams cannot travel, and the cost of living there is increased enormously by the difficulties of transit.

WEDNESDAY, 15 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BOWMAN, MR. MELVILLE,
MR. COOKE.

D. O'CONNOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. H. B. Thomas, of Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Westgarth, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill. Mr. Browning, instructed by Mr. A'Beckett, appeared in support of the Petition of Mr. Wm. P. Macgregor, Mr. Wm. R. Wilson, and Mr. Wm. Jamieson against the Bill.

Thomas Frederic De Courcy Browne, Esq., M.P., recalled, and further examined:—

- T. F. De C. Browne, Esq., M.P.
15 Feb., 1888.
473. Mr. Thomas.] Is the small plan of the proposed tramway substantially correct? Well, it gives one a general idea.
474. What is the aggregate distance through which the Silverton Company's tramway passes of actual mineral land? Between the border and Silverton there will be about 2 miles, that is between Cockburn on the border and Silverton; between Silverton and Broken Hill there will be about 6 miles. Of course the land is in detached pieces.
475. What is the aggregate length of mineral country through which the tramway now proposed will pass between the South Australian border and the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? Between 10 and 11 miles.
476. You think there would not be less than 10 or 11 miles? I do not think so.
477. You are not taking into consideration the mines near Mount Gipps at all? No, but it is all mineral country.
478. I think you said that the Victoria Cross adjoined the White Lead mines? The Victoria Cross is at one end of the line of range and the White Lead is at the other.
479. I understood you to say that they were nearly adjoining? I do not think I said that.
480. I suppose they are from 5 to 6 miles apart? Hardly that; I daresay from 4 to 5 miles.
481. I think you said that this plan represented generally the amount of settlement in the district? I did not say so; I was asked whether the plan was substantially correct as showing the route of the two lines. There is apparently a lot of settlement shown here which does not exist.
482. I think you said that there is only one Company at work at the Pinnacles? I doubt if there is one Company at work there.
483. Do you know the Big Hill? It is near the Pinnacle. There is a big lode there, but there are very few men working on it; you can hardly call the mine at work in the mining sense of the word.
484. But there is a registered Company with a large capital, is there not? It is quite possible; I do not know.
485. Do you know the South Pinnacle Company? I have heard of it.
486. Do you know that it has been at work for some years? In a small way; I believe there are three or four men employed.
487. Do you know the Middle Pinnacle? I believe there are two or three men at work on it.
488. All these mines are at work? Well, they are occupied. At the present time there are about twenty-five men employed all about the Pinnacle; they are merely holding the land. There are certainly 489.

T. F. De C.
Browne, Esq.,
M.P.

15 Feb., 1888.

489. Did you see the report in the mining news in yesterday's Sydney Morning Herald? I did not.
490. It is stated that the Pinnacle Mines were at work? I did not see it.
491. I believe that you said that there would be no larger settlement in that district than there is at the present time? I said nothing of the kind. I said that there had been a large number of men at work at the Pinnacle mine, but that at the present time the mine was really not at work. There are a few men pottering about, holding the land in order to save the leases from forfeiture. I dare say there may be more men there when the Company have got over their present financial difficulties.
492. There will be a large traffic, I suppose? There is a concentrating work put up at the Pinnacles Company. Concentrated ore would be in the proportion of one to five; that is to say, 500 tons of ore would show 100 tons of concentrate; concentrating works would therefore reduce the traffic.
493. But would there not be a good deal of traffic if this line were constructed? I should not call it a good deal of traffic for a railway line of any description; 100 tons a week would be no traffic at all for a railway line.
494. But you are only speaking of the Pinnacle; you are not speaking of the White Lead, and the other mines in that direction? No, I am only speaking of the Pinnacle.
495. If a branch were constructed by the Silverton Tramway Company from Broken Hill to the Pinnacle would it not take four times the distance to the South Australian border than if a line were constructed direct? No.
496. Would it take three times greater? No; I doubt if it would be twice as great.
497. But you would be going round three sides of a square? It is 34 miles from Cockburn to Broken Hill, and it is 21 miles from Cockburn to the Pinnacle.
498. That is a very much greater distance? I admit that it might be about twice the distance.
499. Have you any idea where it is proposed that the branch line from the Silverton tramway should branch off to the Thackaringa mines? At a distance of about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles, I should think.
500. Still you say that the distance would not be greater than by the direct line from the border? I do not think it would be.
501. What do you mean to convey when you say that you have no interest whatever in Broken Hill shares? I mean to say that I hold no shares in the Silverton Tramway Company, directly or indirectly.
502. But you were only speaking of the Silverton Tramway Company? That was the question put to me.
503. As a matter of fact you are interested in the various portions of the district? Yes, in a small way.
504. I think you also stated that there was no mining whatever between Broken Hill and the Pinnacles? Of course I did not include the township.
505. I believe that Mr. Cohen asked you whether there was any mining between Broken Hill and the Pinnacle, and you said none whatever? Of course there is South Broken Hill and other mines, but then I reckoned them as part of Broken Hill.
506. You said practically that the two places joined? No; there is a big barren plain between the two places.
507. What is generally understood as Broken Hill? All the mines on that line are generally understood to be Broken Hill. They stretch away from the township north and south.
508. If you had been asked whether there were any mines between Broken Hill township and the Pinnacle you would have said a great many? Of course.
509. What is the width of the present tramway reserve passing through Broken Hill? Three chains.
510. And the whole of that is occupied by the existing Silverton tramway lines? It is all required by the Company. Three chains is a narrow width for a double line, and for shunting.
511. Still, in Oxford-street, in Sydney, which is not a chain wide, there is a double line? Yes, but there is no shunting done in Oxford-street.
512. If room were economised I suppose there would be plenty of room for both lines? I do not think so. I do not think it would be safe for the public. Of course I do not profess to give an expert's opinion.
513. But it sounds reasonable to suppose that there would be room, does it not? If you were to ask a railway man whether 3 chains would be sufficient for a double line and for shunting he would say that it was much too narrow.
514. I think you said that not one of the mines at Thackaringa were being worked? That would be an absurdity. If I am reported as saying that I am wrongly reported.
515. As a matter of fact there has been mining there? A great deal was done at Thackaringa in the early days.
516. I think you said that there was no one to buy ore from the miners at Thackaringa? There was no one to buy ore until the Dry Creek Smelting Works were started. There has been a small trade doing with firms in Adelaide, who bought choice samples of ore from mine-owners on various portions of the silver-field, but there is no recognised Company or buyer to whom a man having 5 or 10 tons of ore to sell could sell to. Now the Dry Creek works have started of course it is different.
517. Do you know the English and Australian Smelting Company? Yes.
518. Have they any representative in the field? They have an agent at Silverton.
519. So that miners can sell their ore? If it is good ore. They are very particular what ore they buy.
520. As a matter of fact there is someone who can buy ore from the miners? Oh yes, all along, for the last two years.
521. What do you intend to convey then by your answer? Speaking in a general way an ordinary party of miners had no opportunity of selling 5 or 10 tons of ore as it came from the mine as they can now do to the Dry Creek smelting works.
522. I understand you to say that that small plan on the table is substantially correct? As showing the route.
523. Adjacent to the line proposed along its whole length there are a number of blocks or surveyed portions shown? Yes.
524. And there appear to be none between Broken Hill and Silverton? The man who prepared this plan had his orders evidently.
525. Are there any leases on the Silverton mine? The line between Silverton and Broken Hill passes through some four or five leases. At the Limestone Crossing there are a lot of leases, that is about 7 miles from Broken Hill. This plan, I suppose, is prepared by the promoters of this line of tramway.

T. F. De C. 526. Where are the concentrating works on the field? There are concentrating works at Thackaringa and at the Pinnacle. The works at the Pinnacle belong to the Company, the works at Thackaringa are public.
Browne, Esq.,
M.P.

15 Feb., 1888. 527. So that as a matter of fact mines so long unworked will now be worked by reason of the convenience afforded by these concentrating works? It is not the case that the non-working of the mines has been due to that cause; it has been due to the want of money.

528. Do you mean me to infer from that answer that there would be sufficient inducement to go on mining if there were sufficient facilities? I do not say that. A large number of speculative leases have been taken up in these localities. They make the place appear to be largely occupied on paper, but as a matter of fact I do not think I should be exaggerating if I said that not one lease in seven on the Barrier is now being worked. They are held for speculative purposes. There may be ore in them or there may not, they have never been tried.

529. Mr. Browning.] I understand that this small plan before us does not correctly represent the routes? It does substantially.

530. In a general sort of way, but it does not accurately represent the distances? In a general sort of way it gives a good idea of the route. But you could not mark out the distances upon it.

531. Mr. Thomas.] In addition to the tramway reserve to which I have referred there is a street of a chain and a half wide on each side? Yes.

William Peter Macgregor, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

W. P.
Macgregor,
Esq.

15 Feb., 1888.

532. Mr. Browning.] What are you? I am a grazier and mining director.

533. You are acquainted with the Barrier Range country, and particularly with the mining portion of it? I am.

534. Are you acquainted with any of the mines? I know a large number of them.

535. In what way? I act in the capacity of director to some thirteen mines on the field.

536. Do you know the principal traffic-producing mines at Broken Hill? Yes; there is the Broken Hill Proprietary itself, block 14; the Junction, British Broken Hill Proprietary, and the Central. They are at present the principal traffic-producing mines.

537. And will these mines be well served by the Silverton tramway now in course of construction? They are being well served.

538. That line is sufficient for their traffic requirements? Yes.

539. What is the population of Broken Hill and the vicinity? The population of the town itself would probably be about 4,000.

540. Will that include the immediate neighbourhood? It is hard to give an estimate, but I should say that there would be about 7,000 or 8,000 in the neighbourhood. I understand you to refer to the Broken Hill district.

541. Do you consider that the Silverton Tramway Company can adequately serve the requirements of that population? I think they could serve the requirements of a population three times the size.

542. Do you know the Thackaringa group of mines? I do.

543. Are any of them now producing ore? Two mines with which I am connected, the Gipsy Girl and the Pioneer, export from 50 to 60 tons a week. As far as I know those are the only ore exporting mines in the whole group, with the exception of a little odd lot, which would not amount to 20 tons a month.

544. How far are the Thackaringa mines from the Silverton tramway line? $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

545. What is the population in the locality of the Thackaringa mines? I believe that all told there are between three and four hundred people there, including the station hands and rabbiters.

546. Do you know if the Silverton Tramway Company are prepared to construct a branch to Thackaringa from their line? If the traffic demands it.

547. What do you estimate is the present output of the Thackaringa mines? I have already said that the Gipsy Girl and the Pioneer, which are the only two ore exporting mines in that locality, produce about 50 tons a week between them. The Gipsy Girl produces 30, and the Pioneer from 20 to 25 tons per week.

548. Is it a fact that there are public concentrating works being made at Thackaringa? Yes; I am chairman of the Company.

549. What is the capacity of the works? They take 30 tons of crude ore a day, and on the average value of Thackaringa seconds they turn out about 10 tons of concentrate. It goes about 3 tons of crude ore to 1 ton of concentrate.

550. To what degree would they increase the output of ore for traffic purposes? Running continuously they would increase it by 10 tons a day or 60 tons a week.

551. Do you know the Pinnacle? Yes.

552. How far is it from Thackaringa? 12 miles.

553. Are there any mines between Thackaringa and the Pinnacle? No.

554. Are there any mines at work at the Pinnacle at present? Three weeks ago when I was there there were half a dozen men at the Pinnacle itself. There are about half a dozen prospecting claims, but I have no idea of the number of men that they employ; it varies. No mines there are exporting any ore.

555. Chairman.] What are the names of the mines? They go chiefly by the block numbers.

556. Mr. Browning.] What is the traffic to and from the Pinnacle from Thackaringa at present? I should judge that it would be as much as to supply a population of 200 all told. There may be that number in the district. When I sat down to a dinner-table at the eating-house there the other day there were only three other individuals beside myself, but there are camps scattered about.

557. Are there any concentrating works at the Pinnacle? Yes; they belong to the mine.

558. Are they now idle? Yes.

559. If they were working full time at what would you estimate the output? About 20 tons of concentrate a day. So far however the plant is a total failure; they cannot concentrate with it at all.

560. What is the distance from the Pinnacle to Broken Hill? About 8 or 9 miles.

561. Are there any mines between those two places? Not until you get quite close to Broken Hill.

562. Do you know the mineral country north of Broken Hill? Yes, well.

563. Does it include any mining centres? Yes; there are silver-mines at Purnamoota, and there are tin-mines at Poolamacca, and in the Waukaroo paddock, also in the vicinity of what is called Lake's Camp. Then there is a small group of mines close to Mount Gipps Station. 564.

W. P.
Macgregor,
Esq.

15 Feb., 1888.

564. Would the country you are describing be best served by the existing line, or by the proposed line? About 50 per cent. of the traffic would go to Silvertown, and about 50 per cent. to Broken Hill itself. The proportion going to Silvertown would be best served by the existing line, and so far as the Broken Hill traffic is concerned it would not matter whether there were two or three lines.

565. That is from the north into Broken Hill? Yes; into Broken Hill itself. The distance for cartage would be the same in any case.

566. But so far as the Silvertown traffic is concerned the existing line would be adequate? Yes. I should like to make myself understood upon this point. What I mean is that the existing line is not only equal to the present, but to a much larger traffic, and that so far as the Broken Hill traffic is concerned it would have to come into Broken Hill in any case, and the cartage would not be shorter or longer.

567. Do you know if the Silvertown Tramway Company would be prepared to put in a siding or to make an extension in any place for traffic purposes? In any case where the traffic would justify the outlay the Company would be only too happy to put in a siding.

568. Is any extension now being made? The Broken Hill Proprietary itself is now putting in a siding, which will cost £14,000, to join the Silvertown line.

569. Do you know the siding in section 14? We are running a mineral siding down to junction with them. We run down from the tramway terminus to the boundary of block 10. The Silvertown Tramway Act gives us no power to go upon their land.

570. What do you estimate will be the cost per mile of the line now before the Committee? Our line has cost us £3,500; that is the mere line itself. Station buildings and water supply will make the line cost us £5,000 altogether. I should imagine that this line would cost more, as there are heavy cuttings going through the Barrier.

571. Could the proposed line be made into Broken Hill without interfering with the Silvertown Tramway Company's line? It would require to cross some portion of our line. If the plan produced is accurate it would require to go right across it.

572. Has the South Australian Government entered into any arrangement for connecting its traffic at Cockburn with the Silvertown Tramway Company's line? They run the traffic at the present time, charging the Silvertown Tramway Company so much per train of a certain weight.

573. Do you know if the South Australian Government has stated its intention not to connect with any other line? I do. It was stated in reply to a question asked in the House of Assembly in Adelaide.

574. What is the population of Cockburn? I do not think there are more than six or eight individuals there altogether. Outside the officials the place is absolutely deserted. There was a population of about 200 while the railway was in course of construction.

575. Knowing this district as well as you appear to do, and its resources, do you consider that a second or a competing line from the South Australian border to Broken Hill would be a public advantage or a necessity? I certainly do not.

576. Chairman.] You are a large shareholder, and a director of the Silvertown Tramway Company? Yes.

577. Mr. Thomas.] You spoke of a private branch line from the Silvertown tramway line to Thackaringa being $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles in length;—at what point from the South Australian border on the Silvertown tramway line would that branch strike? About 3 miles from Cockburn.

578. Making the line $6\frac{1}{2}$ or 7 miles in length? We have what is called a Thackaringa siding on our line.

579. But the distance from Thackaringa to Cockburn would be about 7 miles? Yes.

580. What would be the distance by the proposed line of the Broken Hill Company? It would be about 6 miles. They are carting the ore now over that distance at 7s. 6d. per ton; that includes loading and unloading. I do not think that under those circumstances a line would pay.

581. Do you mean to say that the Silvertown tramway branch and that part of their main line will be only 1 mile further than the route proposed by the Broken Hill Tramway Company? I think perhaps it might be shorter.

582. You say that the Silvertown Company are putting on a siding at Broken Hill? Yes.

583. Have they the necessary authority? Yes. They are running a line up to the boundary of the Broken Hill block.

584. When did they obtain that power? Under the first Act.

585. Providing that the proposed line were constructed according to the route shown on the plan from Cockburn to Broken Hill it would carry a great deal of the traffic which now has no opportunity of passing to and fro? No. It would pass through the White Lead—that mine does not export 1 ton of ore at the present time.

586. What about the Pinnacle? The Pinnacle has expended £50,000 and gone broke.

587. I think you said that there were no mines between Thackaringa and the Pinnacle? There is nothing along that route.

588. Then where is Big Hill situated? I know all about Big Hill; I have an interest in it, and I shall be glad to get 6d. each for my shares.

589. But is not the Big Hill between Thackaringa and the Pinnacle? There is a hill, but I do not know that it is correct to call it a mine.

590. Is it not on the proposed line? It is to the south of the proposed line.

591. But the mine would be workable and payable if the proposed line were made? They have driven right through the hill and they have never got a lode. There is nothing but a lot of mullock there, so I do not know how it can be said that the mine would be payable.

592. I think you said that 50 per cent. of the northern traffic would go to Silvertown, and 50 per cent. to Broken Hill;—would any go to Piesse's Nob? The road down to Piesse's Nob is rough, and is not suited to teams, while the road into Broken Hill is as level as a bowling-green. Teamsters would prefer to go to Broken Hill.

593. But the traffic to Piesse's Nob and Broken Hill would be greater than to Silvertown? I do not admit that there would be any traffic to Piesse's Nob at all. It is a mistake to call these blocks near Piesse's Nob mines. They are mineral leases, and they are not worked at all; they are simply held upon speculation. Some of them have been worked, and some of them have not been worked at all. None of them are exporting ore, with the exception of the Eaglehawk Company.

594. That is because there are not facilities for exporting ore? No; because the ore does not exist.

W. P.
Macgregor,
Esq.
15 Feb., 1888.

595. Does it not exist in any case, with the exception of Eaglehawk? None that I know of; that is ore of a payable character.
596. But suppose they had facilities for smelting and for cheap carriage? They could not smelt there except at a loss. The idea of smelting on the field has been abandoned, except by the Broken Hill Company.
597. But could not any of those mines be made payable if they had the requisite carriage? The only way to make the ore payable would be by concentrating, and concentrators are not placed where crude ore has to be carried to them; they are placed sufficiently near to permit of the ore being automatically conveyed to them. What is actually carried from the concentrators is from one-third to one-sixth the bulk of the crude ores.
598. Still all these concentrates would have to be carried to Broken Hill and elsewhere? Yes.
599. So that there is evidently a necessity for some means of carriage? The concentrating Company will put up works as soon as there is sufficient work to keep them going. At the present time, however, there is no work for them in that part of the district.

TUESDAY, 21 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BOWMAN,

MR. CROUCH.

MR. COOKE,

D. O'CONNOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth, instructed by Norton, Smith, and Westgarth, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Pill. The Hon. H. E. Cohen, instructed by Mr. A'Beckett, appeared in support of the Petition of Mr. William P. Macgregor and others against the Bill.

James Angus, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

J. Angus, Esq.
21 Feb., 1888.

600. Mr. Cohen.] What is your profession? I am a railway contractor, principally.
601. Have you anything to do with the management of mining companies? I have.
602. Have you visited the Silverton and Broken Hill districts? I have.
603. Have you also been to the Pinnacle mines and to the Rockwell Paddock? Yes.
604. How long since were you there? I was there when the tramway was opened—I think about a month or three weeks ago.
605. How long were you in the district altogether? About a week.
606. While you were there did you travel through these districts? A good deal. We had a buggy and pair all the time, and we did not lose any time.
607. I understand that you were at the Pinnacle, and also at the Rockwell Paddock? I went down the Pinnacle shaft.
608. Did you also visit the Rockwell Paddock? I visited the South Rockwell mine.
609. What do you estimate the population of the Pinnacle and the Rockwell mine at? I was at the Pinnacle when the shift changed, and there were two men went down the shaft and two men came up. There was one man in the public-house bar beside the publican. That is all I saw.
610. Are those the whole of the people you saw at the Pinnacle? Yes.
611. Did mining seem to be very active there at that time? That was all the mining that was going on then. There were two men on the shift, an engine-driver and the foreman.
612. What was the population of Rockwell so far as you saw it? On going out to Rockwell we met one buggy on the road with the manager of the South Rockwell mine in it. There was one man working at the bottom of the shaft. I did not go down; but I was informed that there was one man at the bottom. There was a man there pumping water, and his mate, and that is all I saw at Rockwell. There is really very little traffic on the road to account for very much work anywhere.
613. Are you interested in the Silverton tramway? Not in the slightest.
614. You told us that you were a railway contractor;—what has been your experience? I have been building railways and public works since I was a boy. I have been a contractor for twenty years.
615. Chairman.] You belong to the firm of Topham & Angus, I believe? Yes.
616. Mr. Cohen.] Have you carried out any contracts in New South Wales and elsewhere? In New Zealand and Victoria, and in New South Wales.
617. Have you had any large contracts? Contracts extending up to pretty well half a million.
618. Do you see the Silverton tramway line marked upon the small plan in front of you? Yes.
619. Do you notice the lower line marked on the plan—that is, the line which it is now proposed to construct? Yes.
620. Which line, in your opinion, is more likely to secure the traffic from the Rockwell Paddock? It seems to me only a matter of going to Broken Hill from Rockwell Paddock so far as both the present tramway and the proposed tramway are concerned.
621. Then you think the Silverton line is equally convenient for the traffic as the proposed Broken Hill tramway? I cannot see any difference.
622. So far as you can see, the nearest point for the Rockwell traffic to get on to the line will be at Broken Hill? That is my own opinion, and there is a very good road from Rockwell to Broken Hill.
623. Have you been over the Silverton tramway—that is, along the line of route? Yes.
624. Have you been able to form an opinion as to its capabilities for traffic, both present and prospective? I made two trips over the Silverton tramway with the inspecting engineer, and I had every opportunity of inspecting the various works. I consider that it is quite equal to the requirements of Broken Hill.
625. Will you give us your opinion, not alone as to what you have seen as to the present requirements, but with regard to the probable development of the trade to Broken Hill? I think there is no limit to what you might carry upon that line so far as ordinary traffic is concerned. I think it will carry all the traffic which it will be required to carry for many years to come. If the single line is pushed it is only a question of laying a double line, but I think the single line will carry all the traffic for many years.

626. You say that with the construction of a double line there would be, practically, no limit to the goods traffic? If a double line were constructed there would be no limit.
627. Did you go over the Silverton tramway line from Broken Hill to Cockburn, on the South Australian border? Yes. J. Angus, Esq.
21 Feb., 1888.
628. What is your opinion as to the manner in which the tramway has been constructed, that is, as to its durability and strength? It has been well and faithfully constructed. Nothing has been left undone to make it a work of a permanent character. I have found no particular defect.
629. So far as you saw, the line is well and faithfully built? Yes.
630. Can you say whether in construction it is equal to the South Australian line from Petersburg to Cockburn? From appearances it is.
631. What is the gauge of the South Australian line upon that section? Three feet six.
632. The same gauge as the Silverton tramway? The same gauge.
633. Do you know whether the same rolling stock runs from the South Australian line on to the Silverton tramway line? The traffic inspector at the banquet at Silverton on the opening of the tramway distinctly said that arrangements had been entered into with the South Australian Government to find the rolling stock. The one rolling stock serves both lines.
634. There is a continued service? Yes.
635. Can you say whether the Silverton tramway line can carry as many tons per day over its length, which I believe is 35 miles, as can be carried by the South Australian Government on its line from Petersburg to the border, a distance of 160 miles? I should say that the tonnage was in favour of the Silverton tramway and the shorter distance.
636. Do you know whether already ample provision has been made for sidings on the Silverton tramway, or whether there would be any difficulty, if there were not sufficient sidings, in making sufficient? If the ground is available there could be no difficulty whatever in making any amount of shunting places or staff stations; in fact the traffic to be carried depends upon the distance between the staff stations, and, of course, general appliances—trucks and motive power.
637. You were in the district about a week? Yes.
638. Can you say from what you saw of the district that there is any prospect of permanent settlement beyond that dependent upon mining? The only thing I saw to be done was to kill rabbits, and run a few sheep.
639. I infer from what you say that in your opinion any large, permanent settlement which might take place in this district would be induced by mining purely? I certainly think so.
640. So that in the event, unfortunately, of the mining falling off or failing in their districts you think the population would fall off proportionately? I certainly think so.
641. Then so far as you could see was there any other source of traffic which would be likely to sufficiently maintain these tramway lines other than that arising from the mining interest? I did not see any other, nor did any other strike me.
642. Did you visit the tin-fields to the north of Broken Hill? No.
643. Do you know where they are? I am not acquainted with them.
644. You have not been over the country between Broken Hill and the tin-mines to the north? No, I have not.
645. Have you had your attention drawn to any plans showing their position? I take no interest in the tin-fields, and therefore I do not remember anything connected with them.
646. You are not able to give us any opinion? I should not like to venture an opinion unless I had been over the country and had seen it.
647. Have you formed any estimate of the carrying capacity in tons per week of the Silverton Tramway Company's Line? I am not altogether an expert in traffic, although I have had a good deal to do with it in one way or another.
648. You have not made any computation? No. I should not like to venture an opinion as to the capacity of the line. You can run a great deal of traffic on a single line with proper management.
649. You have already told the Committee that you think that the Silverton tramway line is equal to any probable traffic that might arise in these districts, but you now say that you are not able to compute it in tons? From what I saw going on I should not think that the traffic at present exceeds from 3,000 to 5,000 tons a week. Of course that is not nearly the limit of what could be carried on a single line. I know that from my experience in running ballast for construction.
650. When you say from 3,000 to 5,000 tons per week do you mean to say that that is all? I mean to, and from the Border.
651. You say that that is the outside estimate at the present time? Yes.
652. You think that no more is likely to arise within the next twelve months? That I cannot say.
653. Chairman.] Are you a miner? Yes.
654. A practical miner? Yes.
655. Have you been engaged in that line? Not in working, but I have paid a good deal in wages.
656. Do you think your one week's experience entitles you to speak so authoritatively with respect to it? If I can go over a country I can tell at once whether a line can be laid down. I know the output of Broken Hill Proprietary, and I know the population of Broken Hill.
657. But you cannot tell what is in the bowels of the earth? That, of course, I cannot tell; but I know that it would take nearly twelve months before any of the mines could be opened up and developed to give any traffic.
658. Mr. Cooke.] How long would it take to construct the proposed tramway? I could not say. It depends upon the means employed.
659. Chairman.] Supposing you had the contract—it is a distance of about 40 miles? Taking the country through which the other tramway passes I should think it would take about twelve months.
660. Mr. Butterworth.] Did you go into any other mine beside the Pinnacle and Rockwell mines, in that part? I was at the Copper Blow and the Potosi and other mines.
661. Did you go to Pretty's copper-mine? No; I did not hear of it.
662. Are you aware that it is much nearer to the proposed line than to the present line? I do not know anything about it.
663. Did you go to the Thackaringa mines? No.

- J. Angus, Esq. 664. Are you aware that the proposed line passes through those mines? No; I do not know.
665. Are you aware that what are said to be the largest concentration works in Australia are now going up at Thackaringa. I do not know anything about them. As far as concentration works are concerned they are against railway traffic.
666. Did you go to the White Bead mine? No.
667. Are you aware that it is very close to the proposed line? No.
668. Is it not true that the population of mining districts may be trebled or even multiplied by ten in a few months? It may.
669. And equally that places may be deserted, as Silverton has since the construction of this very line? No doubt the population fluctuates very much.
670. Did you traverse the country between Broken Hill and Piesse's Nob; and the "Mount Gipps Hotel"? No; I was not in that direction.
671. Are you aware that that is 9 miles through which this proposed tramway will pass that is not served at all by the present line, and that the whole of it is mineralised country? I have not been up in that direction.
672. Chairman.] Were you at Big Hill? No.
673. Mr. Butterworth.] Then your opinion of any mine to the south or west of Broken Hill is founded upon the fact that you saw five men at the Pinnacle—four men in the mine and one in the public-house—and three men at Rockwell. That is the only information you can give us? Yes.
674. Chairman.] Is there not a blacksmith's shop at Rockwell? I think I was told that they were putting in the bellows when I was there.

Max Thompson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- M. Thompson, Esq. 675. Chairman.] What are you? I am the Assistant Engineer for Existing Lines in the Colony of New South Wales.
- 21 Feb., 1888. 676. Mr. Cohen.] Have you lately been over the Silverton tramway line? I have.
677. For the purpose of inspecting it? Yes.
678. I presume you did inspect it? I did.
679. Did you make a thorough inspection? From beginning to end.
680. I believe that the inspection you made is required by the Silverton Tramway Company's Act, is it not? Yes.
681. Did you make a report to the Government of your official inspection? I have not sent it in yet, but I believe it will be sent in to-day or to-morrow.
682. First of all, will you give us your opinion as to the manner in which the line has been constructed? My opinion is that it is a thoroughly well constructed line, in fact just the same sort of construction as the line in the South Australian territory.
683. You think it just as strong and durable? Yes.
684. You think the carrying capacity of the Silverton tramway is equal to the carrying capacity of the South Australian line from Cockburn to Petersburg? Yes.
685. That is, the Silverton tramway will carry all the traffic which will be brought to it by the South Australian line running from Petersburg to Cockburn? Yes.
686. Can you say whether, having regard to the length of the Silverton tramway line, its carrying capacity is beyond that of the South Australian line from Petersburg to Cockburn? I think that the tramway would carry more than the South Australian line would carry in the same time.
687. Mr. Cooke.] For what reason? On the Silverton line they have a crossing-place midway upon the length of the line, and as far as I can recall the crossing-places on the South Australian line they are far apart, consequently they can run more trains upon the Silverton tramway from both ends than could be run upon the other line.
688. In case the traffic increases very much on the South Australian line between Cockburn and Petersburg, what do you suppose the railway authorities will do? They will have either to duplicate the line or put in additional crossing-places.
689. I suppose they have facilities for that kind of thing? Yes.
690. Mr. Cohen.] Do you think the Silverton tramway line can be made to carry all the traffic which can be brought to it by the South Australian line, the South Australian line having added to it all the facilities necessary for any traffic which might go along it? I should certainly think so.
691. Have you visited what I may call the Broken Hill and Silverton Districts once, or more than once? Only once.
692. When was that? During last month.
693. How long were you there? About six days.
694. From what you saw of the district are you of opinion that a second line is required to meet the traffic? I do not think so.
695. Do you think that, having regard to the probable extension of the railway system of New South Wales to Broken Hill, it is desirable to have a second line constructed from the South Australian Border to Broken Hill? In that case I think it would be less desirable to have a second line.
696. Have you been informed, or did you ascertain what is the haulage per week upon the Silverton Tramway line? I believe it is between 1,500 and 2,000 tons, but I could not say for certain. I only know from hearsay.
697. Was that the full traffic both ways? To and from the border. What I know I have heard since from inquiries I have made. I was there at the opening of the line.
698. Were your inquiries made from persons in the district or from persons interested in the line? No.
699. Chairman.] Are you a miner? No.
700. You went to the district for the sole object of inspecting this line? Yes.
701. And for nothing else? No. Of course I visited mines.
702. Did you get instructions to test the value of the country in relation to the probable success or otherwise of the line? No. The information I have just given was received in conversation with persons whom I knew to have visited the district. Of course I could not tell whether they were interested in mines there or not.

C. A.
Goodchap,
Esq.

22 Feb., 1888.

720. Then, so far as regards the White Lead mine and the other mines going up to Broken Hill itself, supposing they were all in work, they would be better served by the proposed tramway than by the existing line? Undoubtedly, because the present line is some distance away from them, whereas the proposed line would go quite close to them.

721. Then when you said that the line might be disadvantageous between the Pinnacle and Broken Hill I presume you meant in the interests of the present Company? I meant to say that it is undesirable that lines should run in competition when there is only sufficient traffic for one line.

722. Do you mean undesirable in the public interest? I mean it is undesirable, having regard to the capital which is invested; you have two Companies, both struggling for the one object, with only sufficient traffic for one line. I think that it is undesirable, having regard to both public and private interests.

723. But I suppose the public might profit? That is an undue advantage which the public should not receive.

724. The mines between Broken Hill and the "Mount Gipps Hotel" would be better served by the proposed tramway passing through them, I suppose? Undoubtedly by the proposed line, inasmuch as there would be a shorter distance to traverse.

725. The proposed line would save them cartage? It would be an advantage to the general public that that line should be constructed by the Broken Hill Company, because the distance to the Border would be shorter.

726. It would be an undoubted advantage that some line should be constructed there? I could not say that, because I know nothing of that part of the country.

727. Would it be an advantage to the mines if they were being worked? If they were being worked.

728. Now, with reference to the tramway reserve at Broken Hill, showing a width of 3 chains with a road of a chain and a half on each side, is the whole of that reserve in your opinion requisite for the purposes of the Silverton Tramway Company in order that they may run their trains without danger or inconvenience? They certainly do not require that width to run their trains. It is a 3 foot 6 gauge. You would want 6 feet on each side. Seventeen feet would be ample for a single line, that is, for running purposes. It would be possible to run a quadrupled line on that width of reserve. That would be of course for mere running purposes.

729. If a siding were required what width would be necessary? That would depend upon whether it was a siding to which carts could go to unload, or whether it was a siding simply for the purpose of shunting trucks before taking them up to the platform.

730. Do you think it would be desirable to make a shunting place in the middle of the township? I should say not. In the first place I doubt whether 3 chains would give sufficient room for the purpose. You would require a very much larger space to make a terminus.

731. But as far as mere running goes, the space which I have mentioned is ample for the present line and the proposed line to run side by side? Ample. It is nearly 200 feet.

732. Mr. Crouch.] You have not been to Broken Hill? No.

733. I believe you sent an officer of the department to report upon the Silverton line? Yes.

734. Was his report generally favourable? I have not yet received it.

735. Mr. Cohen.] I understood you to say that the traffic between Broken Hill and Piesse's Nob would be better served if it were to be carried on to South Australia by the proposed rather than by the existing line? On the ground that it is the shorter distance, always assuming that the grades are about the same.

736. Assuming, as you have suggested in some of your answers, that there may not be sufficient traffic to justify the construction of the Broken Hill tramway, is it your opinion that the extension from Broken Hill to Piesse's Nob should be constructed by the Silverton Tramway Company? I think so. I am looking at the authority given in the Act for the Government to come in and purchase the lines at any future time, and it would be undesirable that there should be two lines running in competition with one another. Looking at the matter from that standpoint it would be desirable that there should be one line only going to this point.

737. Chairman.] You think it desirable that a tramway should be taken a little beyond the Pinnacle? Yes, so as to take in the mines.

738. Have you any information as to the value of the land along the proposed route? Yes.

739. You know that it is mineralised country? Yes.

740. And that there are many lodes? Yes; I have the stock exchange value of the mines along the line.

741. Do you not think that it would be desirable that a line should be constructed between Pinnacle and Broken Hill in order that the inhabitants might be saved the terrors of the bullock dray? If there were any large amount of traffic it would certainly be desirable to have railway communication.

742. Mr. Bowman.] We have been informed that there is a plain of some hundreds of miles in extent between the Pinnacle and Broken Hill. One witness told us that he saw three men at the Pinnacle and six at Thackaringa? My information shows that there are 200 people at Thackaringa at the present time.

743. Mr. Crouch.] In view of the power which the Government have to purchase the Silverton tramway line, do you think it would be desirable to construct a competing line? No, not from that standpoint. I think it would be better to double the Silverton line.

744. Mr. Butterworth.] But the doubling of the Silverton line would not serve the Thackaringa and other mines? No, certainly not. If present anticipations are realized there must some day be a railway in that direction.

745. Mr. Bowman.] A director of the Silverton Tramway Company, and of a number of mines in the district, Mr. Macgregor, says that the Silverton Tramway Company are quite prepared to run a branch line from the present tramway to Thackaringa if there were enough traffic to make it pay. Do you not think that that would be better than the construction of a second line? Certainly, I only said railway communication. I did not specify any route.

746. Mr. Butterworth.] I think you said you had a report with reference to the capital value of the mines along the route of the proposed tramway? I could furnish you with the information, but I have not it with me at the present moment.

ON THE BROKEN HILL TRAMWAY BILL.

THURSDAY, 23 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BOWMAN,

MR. COOKE.

MR. CROUCH,

D. O'CONNOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth, instructed by Norton, Smith, and Westgarth, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill. The Honorable H. E. Cohen, instructed by Mr. A'Beckett, appeared in support of the Petition of Mr. William P. Macgregor and others against the Bill.

Ducan Grant, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

747. Mr. Cohen.] What are you? I am a railway contractor and mining speculator.

748. Are you connected with the Silverton Tramway Company? I am a director of the Silverton Tramway Company, also of some mining and concentrating Companies, and of several other Companies.

749. So that you are thoroughly acquainted with the Broken Hill and Silverton districts? Yes, I know each very well.

750. You are acquainted with the district along which the proposed Broken Hill tramway will pass, that is, Thackaringa and the Pinnacles? I know the Thackaringa district very well, but I do not know the Pinnacle. I know the country from within a mile or two of the Pinnacle up to Broken Hill very well.

751. You are acquainted with the country intervening between the Pinnacle and Broken Hill? Yes. I have shares in a number of mines along there.

752. How long have you been in the district? I reside in Melbourne. I go to the district occasionally. My head-quarters are at Melbourne.

753. Do you know how many mines at Thackaringa are sending ore to market? I do not know of more than two at the present time that are sending away any ore to speak of—those are the Gipsy Girl and the Pioneer. I am connected with the smelting works at Dry Creek, and so I know.

754. Have you any idea of what quantity both these mines are sending weekly? They generally send batches of about 50 tons. I think the average would be from 20 to 30 tons per week from both. They are always saying they will be sending more, but they do not send it. We might receive a batch of 50 tons from the Pioneer, and then we would not receive any more for a month; and the same with regard to the Gipsy Girl. The smelting Company with which I am connected have a contract with these mines to smelt their ore; that is how I know their output.

755. Where are the smelting works of which you speak? At Dry Creek, near Adelaide. We have a concentrating plant going up in the neighbourhood of these mines at Thackaringa to take their poor ores.

756. Do you think that will cause a larger output from the mines? I daresay there will be more ore. The ore which it will not pay to take away from the field will be concentrated. It is in reality an old system of washing. By this means the ore is reduced from about 5 or 6 tons of crude ore to 1 ton of concentrate, and the poor ores are made to pay. No doubt there will be a little more ore going away when this plant is at work, but it is a small plant, and will do only about 10 tons a day of concentrates, I dare say the output will be about 20 or 30 tons per week. Of course it will have the effect of reducing the amount of freight to be carried from the mines.

757. Do you know the line of route that it is proposed that the tramway sought to be authorized in the Bill should take? I have not seen the plan yet.

758. Looking at the plan before you, do you think that the proposed route would greatly cheapen the cost of transit to market from Thackaringa, from the Pinnacle, or from Broken Hill down to the Border? So far as Thackaringa is concerned there would not be much difference. We have a siding on our lines about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Thackaringa, but they are not sending in ore to it yet. Of course a minimum price has to be charged, say 3 or 4 shillings a ton, and if the ore has to be carried any distance to the tramway of course it does not pay. It would pay better to carry it direct. The carriage might be cheapened by a shilling a ton, but that would be all, at the outside. Of course there would be a greater difference so far as the Pinnacle is concerned.

759. The greater the mileage over which the haulage takes place the more the cost per mile can be reduced? Yes; you will notice the same thing if you look at the tariffs of any Government line. You will find that they take goods for 10 miles for almost the same rate as they are carried 6 or 7 miles. The short distances do not pay. When you get up to 150 miles of course the rates gradually get cheaper. Of course I have had a great deal of experience in this matter as a railway contractor. We have often run goods ourselves for months together.

760. Have you had any large contracts? Yes; in Tasmania and South Australia.

761. Up to what amount? The last line that we made was 35 miles, from the main line to beyond Fingal, in Tasmania.

762. Have you made any calculations as to the tonnage per week which would require to be carried by the proposed tramway in order to make it pay interest upon the cost of construction? I made a calculation with regard to the Silverton tramway before I went into it. I estimated that if we got 2,000 tons a week we should make a fair dividend. I think that any Company could pay a small interest on about 1,500 tons. If they did less than that I think they could not do it. I am speaking now of the total carriage upon the line. It was represented to us that the Broken Hill traffic would be larger than it has turned out to be. It was said that it would be something like 5,000 or 6,000 tons, but I reduced it by one-third and brought it down to 2,000 tons a week; but we have not yet received that amount. We have now been running six or seven weeks, and Miller Brothers were running about six weeks before us. Our highest week's work has been 1,850 tons. Of course the freight fluctuates according to the coke. A shipment of 2,000 tons of coke will come in, and that of course will swell the returns of one week, but then we may go a little time without coke. I suppose the average would be about 1,600 tons per week. There will be more traffic within a few months. It takes a ton of coke to smelt a ton of bullion. At the present time the output of the Broken Hill mine is from 250 to 260 tons a week of bullion, and that, within a ton or two, is the quantity of coke that they use.

763. Is that from the Broken Hill mine alone? There is only one mine sending away bullion. It will not pay the other mines to smelt; they have not a sufficient body of ore; it pays them better to concentrate and to send it to Dry Creek.

764. Do you think that the Silverton Tramway Company's line will be equal to the Broken Hill trade for some considerable time? I do not think the traffic will ever be so great as to prevent our carrying it over the line. We could take a thousand tons a day easily. We could run trains every hour or so.

765. Mr. Crouch.] On a single line? Yes, we should only have to have sidings. Silverton is only 16 miles from Broken Hill, and we could pass there. I dare say we could run five or six times the amount of traffic that we are at present running. At the present time there are two trains a day, and they are sufficient for the requirements of the whole place; in fact they are scarcely kept going. They are going to run a special passenger and goods train on the 1st of the month, but the South Australian Government think that it will be a loss. However they are willing to try it. The train will be for passengers and light goods. We could run ten trains a day, I think, if necessary.

766. You say that 1,500 tons a week would give a small dividend upon the outlay in construction. Apart from the trade from Broken Hill do you think that any such amount of traffic as that per week is likely to be obtained for the proposed tramway? Apart from the Broken Hill traffic there is no traffic at all. There is no coke going up to any other mine, and there is very little ore. The other places are called mines, but there are only a few men prospecting upon them. Of course we are doing the Silverton traffic as well as the Broken Hill traffic. I dare say we get 150 tons a week from Silverton. There are two or three mines there which send us a little ore.

767. I understood you to say that there were 250 tons of coke a week going to Broken Hill. Do you know when it is likely that there will be a coke traffic up to Broken Hill of 5,000 or 6,000 tons a week? I should very much like to see it, but I do not know how it is to come about unless ten more Broken Hills are developed. I daresay they will soon be using double the quantity of coke which they are now using. They may be producing shortly 500 or 600 tons per week, but none of that could go to the proposed tramway, because we have a contract with the Broken Hill proprietary for the whole of their traffic for five years. That was agreed to at the last meeting of the Board. They asked us to make a rebate on certain timber, and we offered to do so if they would give us a five years' contract on all their mines, and they agreed to our proposal.

768. Have you contracts with any other mines at the present time? No; they are not worth making the contracts with. A lot of these mines are said to be at work, but they are not producing a pound of ore. It seems to me that all that you have to do at the present time is to buy on the bed rock, and wait for the shares to go up and then sell them.

769. Is it proposed to extend the Silverton tramway line further north? We could do so if the traffic warranted it. Of course we must see something to warrant us in the expenditure. The Broken Hill proprietary are connecting with us at the present time.

770. As a matter of fact the Company would be prepared to go anywhere if the traffic would show itself? Yes, but I do not see much prospect of it at the present time.

771. Do you know the mines in the Rockwell Paddock? Yes, I was there last week.

772. How far are they from Broken Hill? From 9 to 12 miles.

773. Do you think the proposed tramway is likely to serve that district better than the proposed tramway? No, I think they would both be about the same. The one would be about as good as the other. There is no traffic, however, at present. I went to one claim there, the Sydney Rockwell. I saw one man, and two were said to be working below, but there was no one living there, and we had a great deal of trouble to get a drink of water. The men are prospecting, and that is all you can say.

774. Do you know the district north of Broken Hill, towards Piesse's Nob? Yes.

775. Is there no ore going from that district? There is not a pound from that district yet.

776. Do you know the tin-fields? I have not been out to them, although I know where they are. The suggested branch from Silverton to the tin-fields would be nearer by 10 or 12 miles than the other route, and if the tin-fields go ahead the line, I have no doubt, will be made. We do not know yet what the tin-fields are. However we have two years to think about the matter, and if meanwhile the tin-fields go ahead I daresay we shall extend the line in that direction.

777. The line direct from Silverton to the tin-fields would better serve those fields than a line which would bring the traffic down to Broken Hill? Yes, it would be nearer. The carriage would be a little cheaper. Of course when the distance becomes greater the difference begins to tell. The line, however, from Silverton would be the shorter.

778. Is the rolling stock used by the Silverton Tramway Company its own stock? No; we arranged with the South Australian Government to run for us. We were going to put on our own stock, but the Government demurred, and said they would rather make a contract for a number of years and run our traffic, making Broken Hill their terminus virtually instead of Cockburn.

779. Has the South Australian Government arrived at any decision with reference to connection with other lines which may be constructed from the Border to Broken Hill? They are bound by their contract to carry our traffic. I believe the Commissioner for Public Works, however, has said that although the Government would not connect with any other line, still if traffic were brought to the Government line they would take it away. They would not run two lines, but I do not suppose that any Government would refuse to carry away traffic which might be brought to it.

780. Can you say whether the Silverton tramway can carry as much traffic over their line as can be carried upon the South Australian line between Cockburn and Adelaide? One line can do exactly the same work as the other. The Silverton Company's line is built upon the same plan as the Government line. We have to run only 34 miles, and I suppose the South Australian Government would have to run from 250 to 300 miles from Cockburn to Adelaide. Of course we could do more work on our line within a given time than the South Australian Government could do upon theirs, owing to the difference in distance.

781. That is to say, you could run more trains in the day? Yes, and we could carry all the traffic going over their single line.

782. Do you regard the proposed tramway as a competing line with the Silverton tramway, or do you think it is necessary to meet the requirements of the district? Of course the line will be of no use unless it obtains the Broken Hill trade. Unless the Company can obtain a share of the Broken Hill proprietary's trade they will not be able to live. Two-thirds of our traffic comes from that claim.

783. How many blocks have the proprietors? Seven. They have floated off two blocks, 15 and 16, and they are going to float off block 10. They are now working 12 and 13. 14 is being worked, and in a few months from now will be sending away ore and will be requiring coke.

D. Grant,
Esq.
23 Feb., 1888.

784. Mr. Cohen.] I observe from the big plan that the Silverton tramway terminus will be in the tramway reserve, between Beryl and Blende streets, just near Bromide-street? That is the passenger terminus.
785. The reserve for that passenger terminus is in the centre of the town? Pretty well.
786. Can you tell me how great a width of the tramway reserve is likely to be occupied by the passenger terminus? We shall require it all. We have a double line, and there will be buildings. There will not be any too much room. We are fencing off the land now for the purposes of the terminus.
787. Mr. Crouch.] Are the Broken Hill people themselves opposed to the construction of this second line? I cannot say. I believe some petitions have been sent in, but I have not seen them.
788. Mr. Butterworth.] Where is the present passenger terminus? We have not a passenger terminus erected at present. We stop at the goods station, and coaches are run to and from the town.
789. Have you any power under your Act to make a passenger terminus in the middle of the town? I do not know; I have not read the Act. I know that the land was reserved for tramway purposes.
790. I observe that the schedule of your Act makes the line stop at the western corner of lease number 13, Broken Hill? I do not know where that is, but I know that the passenger station is to be at the point I have indicated. It will be upon the tramway reserve, and I am not aware that anyone else has a right to it. It will be a loss for us to run down there, but we are doing it for the convenience of the passengers. We shall not charge any more for the extra distance.
791. The terminus you are speaking of is not yet built? No, we are arranging for it.
792. Has any part of it been built? No. Our manager is there fixing it up.
793. You said just now that a portion of the land was fenced off; how long is it since that fence was started? I was there three weeks ago, and I arranged for the fence to be gone on with at once, but it is very hard to get labour.
794. We have evidence with reference to the market value of the various mines at present; you will see the list on the paper attached to the small plan? Some of the values are higher than those given in this list—the Rising Sun, for instance, is higher.
795. Yet you say that there will be no traffic, except from Broken Hill? I did not say that. I said that we had to rely upon Broken Hill at the present time for traffic. Of course I cannot say what they may be in two or three years time.
796. You will see in the list to which I have referred you that values are placed on other mines besides Broken Hill. If there is not considerable traffic from those mines it stands to reason that they will be entire failures? It does of course.
797. If these mines realise any considerable value it stands to reason that there must be a considerable quantity of ore? Yes; but nobody would build a railway on a speculation of that kind.
798. Have you been to any other place along the proposed line of route except Thackaringa? Yes; I have been to the Big Hill, but it is not worth much just now.
799. Have you been to the White Lead? Yes; I have had shares in nearly all of them. You can get a buggy at Broken Hill and drive round the White Lead and these mines within an hour.
800. It is 6 or 7 miles from Broken Hill, is it not? I do not know the exact distance, but I know that it is possible to drive out in about 20 minutes.
801. Are you still interested in a good many of these mines? I have not gone down that way much. I have gone more to the north lately, but I have had shares in nearly the whole of these mines.
802. Although you are interested in them you do not think any of them are of any value with the exception of the Broken Hill mines? I cannot see any decided traffic to rely upon from any other mines.
803. If these mines are of any value they have still to be developed and the traffic has still to come? Of course if they have traffic they will be all right.
804. Out of the four or the five blocks belonging to the Broken Hill proprietary there is only one shaft at work? There are several shafts, but the Broken Hill proprietary is the only mine that is sending anything away.
805. There are four or five different blocks forming the Broken Hill proprietary, but the ore now produced is coming out of one single hole? No; out of four or five. It comes out of one mine, but not out of one shaft. About a mile of the Company's property is being worked.
806. Out of the four different blocks now comprising the Broken Hill proprietary they are now raising ore from only one spot? No; from several spots. They are getting their dividends from 80 acres; they are working two blocks.
807. I understood you to say that there would soon be double the present amount of coke going to Broken Hill? Yes.
808. And that will be used in the same mine? Yes.
809. The Broken Hill south has not yet struck? They are not getting it heavy yet.
810. The proposed line from Silverton northward goes, I believe, to Purnamoota, but the tin-mines at Poolamacca are a good deal further to the eastward, are they not? I cannot say exactly from this plan.
811. Is not Poolamacca considerably north-east of Broken Hill? I do not know exactly where the Poolamacca mines are, but I know from surveys that they are about equal distances from Broken Hill and Silverton. Of course when you get to Silverton you are 20 miles from the border, whereas at Broken Hill you are 30 miles from the border, so that there would be 10 miles saving in carriage.
812. Mr. Crouch.] Are the tin-fields more likely to be served by the present than by the proposed line of tramway? If they were sending away ore from the field at the present time they would send it via Silverton, because the transit would be less costly.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

BROKEN HILL TRAMWAY BILL.

(PETITION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAR BEFORE SELECT COMMITTEE—W. P. MACGREGOR AND OTHERS.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 29 November, 1887.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of William Peter MacGregor, William Robert Wilson, and William Jamieson, of Broken Hill, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

SHOWETH:—

1. That leave has been obtained by Daniel O'Connor, Esquire, from your Honorable House to bring in a Bill intituled "A Bill to authorize the construction and maintenance of a tramway from Cockburn, on the border of South Australia, to Mount Gipps via Broken Hill."

2. That your Petitioners will be seriously and injuriously affected, and prejudiced and subjected to great loss, if such Bill is passed, on the following grounds:—

a. That your Petitioners are large shareholders in a tramway authorized by Act of Parliament in 1886 to be constructed from Cockburn to Broken Hill, via Silverton.

b. That this tramway is already open for traffic to Silverton, and almost completed to Broken Hill at a cost of nearly £200,000.

c. That this tramway is ample for all the traffic requirements of the district.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that they may be heard by their counsel, attorney, or agent, or in person, before your Honorable House, or before the Select Committee, in opposition to the said Bill and the provisions thereof, so far as the same relates to the said tramway, with liberty to adduce such evidence as they may be advised in opposition thereto, or in support of this Petition.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

Dated this 26th day of November, 1887.

WM. R. WILSON.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

BROKEN HILL TRAMWAY BILL.

(PETITION AGAINST—INHABITANTS OF BROKEN HILL AND SILVERTON.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 23 February, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned inhabitants of Broken Hill and Silverton and adjacent localities,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That a Bill entitled "The Broken Hill Tramway Bill," is sought to be passed through the Parliament of New South Wales, authorising the construction of a Tramway from Cockburn, the terminus on the western boundary of the Colony of New South Wales of the South Australian railway system, to the "Mount Gipps Hotel," via Thackaringa, Pinnacles, and Broken Hill.

That under the powers conferred by the Silverton Tramway Act, 1886, a Tramway has been already constructed from Cockburn (the starting point of the proposed new line), via Thackaringa, Silverton, and Mount Gipps Station Run to Broken Hill, and was opened for traffic on the 12th day of January last.

That it is recited in the preamble of the said Bill, now before your Honorable House, that "The mineral richness and commercial importance of the districts surrounding Thackaringa, the Pinnacles, the White Lead, Broken Hill, Round Hill, and Mount Gipps, in the said Colony, require that greater facilities for transit than now exist to and from the said districts should be provided," whereas in truth and fact the existing Silverton Tramway Company's line fully and adequately meets the requirements of the localities recited in the preamble of the Bill, with provision of a large increase of traffic.

That the enterprise and public spirit of the Silverton Tramway Company in expending nearly a quarter of a million sterling to connect the districts of Silverton and Broken Hill with the nearest railway system, and thus lessen the cost of living and the working of the mines, is deserving of recognition by your Honorable House in a way other than would be conferred by the authorising of a second and totally unnecessary line, such as the line now under your consideration.

That the Silverton Tramway Company are prepared, with the authority of Parliament, to make and construct any sidings or extensions of the existing line for facilitating traffic in any of the districts before named, if such extensions be required.

That by far the greatest portion of goods traffic to and from Cockburn and Broken Hill is and will be supplied by and on account of the mines of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, the Block 14 Company, the British Broken Hill Company, the Broken Hill Junction Company, and adjoining mines, all of which are being connected by an extension with the existing Tramway at their own expense, amounting to over £40,000.

That the authorising of a second line to Broken Hill and beyond it will inflict heavy loss on many of your Petitioners and other inhabitants by their tenements being intersected and in some cases wholly taken from them for the purposes of constructing the second line, as no Crown Land is now available along the proposed route through the town of Broken Hill, and any diversion from it will be through improved lands, the compensation likely to be paid being no adequate recompense for the loss of the land.

That the traffic obtainable from the few working mines at Thackaringa will be almost wholly carried by the existing line, as the owners of large concentrating works now being erected at Thackaringa have contracted with the Silverton Tramway Company for the carriage of their ores.

That the traffic probable from the Pinnacles will not at most exceed one hundred tons per week, but at present it is too trifling to state as little or no mining is carried on there.

That the traffic to be expected from the localities other than Broken Hill is so small as not to be seriously entertained as a reason for the authorisation of any tramway, let alone a second one.

That the Local Land Board has refused to recommend the granting of the lease of the land required for this second line now before the Committee.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that for the reasons set forth herein your Honorable House will refuse to sanction the construction of the line as is in the before named Bill mentioned.

And, as in duty bound, we will ever pray.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

THE BROKEN HILL WATER SUPPLY BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 2 MAY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BRUNKER,
MR. DE COURCY BROWNE,

MR. FLETCHER,
MR. KELLY.

J. N. BRUNKER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Thomas Marshall, Esq., solicitor, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Harry Stockdale, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Mr. Marshall.] You have inspected the route to be traversed by the aqueduct from the Darling down to Broken Hill, and visited the Menindie and Speculation Lakes? I have.
2. Do you know the requirements of Broken Hill? I do.
3. Is it necessary for them to have a water supply? It is most necessary.
4. Is there any other way of getting a permanent supply than by the plan provided for in this Bill? None that I know of.
5. Along the route which the pipes and flumes will traverse, including the lakes, will the water supply scheme be beneficial to that part of the country, or will it affect it prejudicially in any way? It will be most beneficial. The people are all anxious to have it.
6. Then from the point of starting from the Darling to the township is it the universal opinion of the people that a water supply is necessary? Yes.
7. And that it will improve the surrounding country? Yes.
8. I suppose it will cost vast sums of money to the originators of the bill? Yes.
9. Chairman.] Do you know the locality of Broken Hill? I do.
10. What is the population? 8,000 or 10,000 people.
11. What supply of water is there there at present? It is at present carried from different places. There is a little in the Government dam, and a little in Stephens' Creek, but I do not know whether the creek is not exhausted now.
12. The supply generally, then, is very bad? Yes, very bad. In October they were thinking of bringing water by rail from South Australia, but a providential thunderstorm did away with the necessity for that.
13. And it is considered that this water supply scheme which is being started by private enterprise will be beneficial to the whole of the population in that district? It will be very beneficial.
14. Mr. Fletcher.] Are you aware of any opposition to this scheme? No; but I am aware that there is a rival scheme.
15. Are you aware of any opposition to this scheme? I am aware of none whatever.
16. Have you any knowledge of the nature of the water that is got from the mines at Broken Hill? I have.

H. Stockdale,
Esq.
2 May, 1888.

- H. Stockdale,
Esq.
2 May, 1888.
17. And in your opinion is it fit for domestic use? It is not, and it is not used for domestic purposes. There is only one mine the water from which can be used for watering stock, the Sydney Rock Mine.
18. And from your knowledge of the district, more particularly Broken Hill itself, do you believe it would be possible to get any water supply in the immediate locality of Broken Hill? Not a permanent supply. Temporary supplies can be found.
19. Do I understand you to say that the inhabitants depend absolutely upon storm waters for their supply? They have done so up to the present time.
20. Mr. Kelly.] Your scheme would be beneficial to the whole of that country if carried out? Yes; it would benefit the country very materially. It is a mining country.
21. And would it be beneficial to the grazing country too? Yes. The station through which the pipes will pass is owned by one man, Mr. Hughes. His manager has offered us every facility, in the hope that if the water supply scheme is carried out the station may rely upon it in a bad year.
22. Mr. Fletcher.] You are doubtless aware that it has been the intention of past Governments to inaugurate an irrigation scheme for the whole Colony? Yes.
23. Would this water supply scheme if carried out in any way interfere with a comprehensive scheme of irrigation? No, not at all; we do not claim any rights or privileges in connection with the scheme.
24. Chairman.] What Mr. Fletcher wants to know is whether your taking the waters of the Darling will interfere with any general scheme of irrigation? No. What we mean to do is to take water only at a time when it is running strongly, to take in fact the surplus waters of the river. We shall always have a surplus supply in a large reservoir, which we shall fill when the river is high. When the water is low in the river we shall not require to go to the Darling at all.
25. Mr. Fletcher.] Then what you mean to convey is that the water you will conserve is the water that would flow to the sea? Yes, exactly.
26. Mr. Kelly.] Are you aware that the Government have already impounded the water in Menindie Lake? Yes. I saw the works in course of construction.
27. It is not proposed to use that water? No, we guarantee to put more water into the lake. It saves 14 miles of piping, and we shall keep the lake higher than we found it. Our scheme will make the lake permanent for all time, because we shall put more water into it than the evaporation and our supply scheme will take out of it.
28. Mr. Fletcher.] Then you will keep this particular lake as high as the Government when they constructed their dams, intended it to be? Yes, higher, because we shall put more than double the quantity into it than we shall take out of it.
29. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] You are one of the promoters of this Bill? I am.
30. How long have you been at Broken Hill? Twenty-one or twenty-two years.
31. How long have you been connected with this water scheme? Since last September or October.
32. Have you been over the route of the proposed works from the Darling where you purpose diverting the water to supply Broken Hill? Yes, many times.
33. How many times? Forty or fifty times.
34. Since last September? No, within the last twenty years. I crossed it over twenty years ago, and I have been over it three or four times within the last three months.
35. Has any survey been made? There has.
36. By whom? By Mr. James, C.E.
37. Have any plans been made of it? Yes.
38. Do you propose to call Mr. James to give evidence? I do not know. He can be called if necessary. I have no objection.
39. You say that there is no other water supply obtainable there? No; I did not say that. I said there was no permanent local supply, only such as could be got from the storm waters, and of that I am positive.
40. And it is the universal opinion up there that this Darling River scheme is the only one available? No; I did not say that. I said that it was the universal opinion that the scheme would be generally beneficial, and that the people were all in favour of a water scheme.
41. Are you correct in saying that none of the water from any of the mines is fit for human consumption? Yes.
42. You are sure of that? Perhaps some little supply from some mine may be used, but it is not considered beneficial, and people do not use the water. They prefer to buy water and cart it from long distances.
43. Are you aware that there are thousands of gallons of condensed water used daily there? No; I am not aware of that.
44. Has any Company been formed in connection with this scheme? No.
45. No capital subscribed? Yes.
46. How much? I do not know that I am at liberty to answer that.
47. You must? Well, no definite sum has been subscribed, but several gentlemen are perfectly satisfied to take it up. They are well-known, wealthy men, who can carry out the scheme.
48. How much capital has been subscribed? If you ask me that I cannot say. I do not know whether any has been subscribed, but these gentlemen have guaranteed to carry out the scheme.
49. So that at present there is no capital subscribed? No.
50. But the promoters are prepared if the Bill is passed to carry out the scheme? Yes.
51. By what means—a public company or their own capital? I do not know. It must be by their own capital. At the present moment it is only a syndicate.
52. How much capital has been subscribed by the syndicate? £5,000.
53. About what distance is it from the Darling to Broken Hill by this route along which you intend to convey the water? Sixty-six miles.
54. At what point on the Darling do you intend to divert the water? Near Menindie, the most permanent hole.
55. What is the difference in the level between Menindie and Broken Hill? Between 700 and 800 feet. The real fall is all the last 10 miles. The rest of the route is very flat. The water would be pumped up with one pump in the last 10 miles, and it will run down to Broken Hill, having a fall of 150 feet.

THURSDAY, 3 MAY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BRUNKER.

MR. DE COURCY BROWNE, | MR. KELLY.

J. N. BRUNKER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Thomas Marshall, Esq., solicitor, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Harry Stockdale, Esq., called in, and further examined:—

56. Chairman.] Did I understand you to say yesterday that the water taken from natural sources is very frequently unfit for human consumption? Yes, it is of very inferior quality. Typhoid at the present time being rampant within the township is attributable to that. The doctors have written to the papers complaining that the water is causing sickness.

H. Stockdale,
Esq.

3 May, 1888.

57. It is generally admitted that the water in its natural state is detrimental to health? Yes. The cess-pits in Broken Hill are just cut out of the soil, and the soil being loamy the excrement of 10,000 people finds its way into any water-holes. The only water that there is is soakage and storm water.

58. Mr. Marshall.] What is the charge for this soakage water at Broken Hill? It was 7s. 6d. a hundred gallons when I left; I believe that now it is 10s. The water from the Government dam is charged for at the same rate.

59. You were asked yesterday by Mr. De Courcy Browne whether the Company was formed. Do you not know that a Company has been formed, consisting of Messrs. G. H. Cox, R. H. D. White, Henry Westcott, Joseph Marshall, Frederick Squire Tidswell, John James Horrocks, Edmund Henry Taylor, James Ranken Peebles, Henry Stockdale, George Adams, Montague Marks, and T. A. Strickland. Do you not know that those are the present Company, and that they are seeking the power to construct the water works? Yes, but I considered that that was a syndicate. I thought that a Company was not a Company until it was registered, and had deeds of association. I know that these gentlemen have formed themselves into an association to carry out the scheme in its entirety.

60. And they are the persons asking for these powers? Yes.

61. At present they have only subscribed £5,000 towards preliminary expenses, but they have undertaken to subscribe the balance? They have.

62. Mr. Kelly.] I understand that Broken Hill is a mineral country? It is.

63. Have you any copper in the neighbourhood of the town? Yes, in all the mines there are traces of copper.

64. Do you know that where you have copper you have poisonous water necessarily? I have heard so.

65. Have you carbonates of copper there? Yes, and carbonates of lead. Mr. Piper, the underground manager of the Broken Hill mine told me that he had brought up fox terriers, but was unable to keep them, because they died from the fumes around the mines. The men get leaded there in the workings. There was a case of a man whose insurance, although he had passed for a first-class life, was refused because of his having been leaded.

66. You say that there is copper all through the soil more or less? Yes, and there is copper in the mines.

67. And the drainage water would come over those lodes of copper? Yes, over all the surface lodes, anything cropping up.

68. Do you know of your own knowledge that carbonates of copper are more or less poisonous? I have heard that they carried deadly poisons.

69. Is there any country lying north-west of Broken Hill which is stocked? Yes, the country is stocked on all sides.

70. Are there any people living on the other side of Broken Hill who have stock? Yes, all the country is stocked.

71. How do the people reach the nearest water from Broken Hill in dry seasons with fat stock travelling to market? I do not think that it is possible in dry seasons to get to the market, unless they use the stock wells of the lessees as a matter of favour.

72. If this water supply system were carried out would it be possible to reach the market from Broken Hill by travelling on the route of the water mains? Yes, they might follow that route, as the pipes will be within a mile or two of the road all the way.

73. Do you think your Company would be likely to assist people to get water when travelling stock? That is one of the things respecting which advice has been specially given to the engineer, who will explain that matter. There are to be valves at different stages.

74. And in that way you conceive that you will be doing even more good than in carrying the water to Broken Hill? Yes, even a greater public benefit, I believe.

75. How much water would you imagine there is in Menindie lake. Is it possible to affect that supply by what you will take out of it? No, because we guarantee to put in a far greater quantity than we take out or will be lost by evaporation. We could send 40,000 gallons into it as easily as we could send 1,000 gallons, and we only require 40,000 or 50,000 gallons a day for the supply of Broken Hill. Except when the Darling is still, we should be pumping into Menindie Lake, and I think that would make it a permanent supply of water. I do not think that the evaporation would amount to anything like half the quantity that we should put in. The requirements of Broken Hill at the present time are between 40,000 and 50,000 gallons a day. No doubt the people would consume more if the water which they got were cheaper and of a better quality.

76. Are the people suffering from the want of water at the present time—would they be more comfortable if they had more? That is so. You cannot get a bath at any hotel for love or money. You can get a salt water bath for 1s. 3d. down the town, but you cannot brush your hair after it, and to get that you must walk a $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile.

John William James, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

77. Chairman.] What is your profession? Civil Engineer.

78. You have been engaged on this Broken Hill water supply scheme, I believe? Yes.

79. Have you the plans of the proposed works? I have.

876—B

J. W. James,
Esq.

80. 3 May, 1888.

- J. W. James, Esq.
3 May, 1888.
80. Will you give the Committee any information you can with reference to what it is proposed to do as to the levels, and the probability of the successful carrying out of the undertaking? It is proposed to take the water direct from the Darling River, utilising one of the lakes on the route.
81. What is the distance from the river at the point from which you take the water to the works? The distance from the river to the pump at Lake Speculation is $16\frac{1}{2}$ miles. That is termed the first section. The distance from that point to Broken Hill, to the centre of the township, is 51 miles and a few chains, making a total length of $68\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the river into the town. That allows for a circuit round Menindie Lake.
82. What are the net levels? It is an ascending grade from the river bank until the Rockwell Paddock is reached. It is an ascending grade the whole of the way from Menindie to Lake Speculation, but there is little difference between the two points. There is no great impediment in the way, not more than 20 odd feet; but from there to Lake Speculation, at the foot of the Rockwell Paddock, it proceeds between two shafts. Everything is taken in a direct line, that is where the first heavy altitudes begin.
83. What is the gradient? Between 700 and 800 feet, to the Rockwell Paddock.
84. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] Can you give us a more exact estimate than that? If I turn up the plans I can. The reduced levels are all on the plans.
85. Chairman.] And you think it possible by the scheme to carry the water successfully from the Darling to Broken Hill? Yes.
86. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] Will you kindly give us your qualifications, Mr. James? I have a certificate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, Great Westminster, London. I was a pupil of George Robert Stephenson, who signed my certificate. I am a life member of the Geological Society of England, Burlington House, Piccadilly; I hold an engineer's and surveyor's certificate under the Navigation Act of Queensland, 1876; and I was admitted as a geological surveyor in London, in 1876.
87. Under what body? I was a geological surveyor to be sent out to the Crown colonies in Africa.
88. Under what authority? The President and Council of the Geological Society, London.
89. That is, you are a surveyor of the Geological Society, London? Yes.
90. You have been employed in the Water Supply Department of this Colony, have you not? Yes, I have; in the Harbour and Rivers Department.
91. How do you propose to pump this water to Broken Hill? By relays of pumps.
92. Just explain shortly how you mean? Well, the relays will be at certain points, say at point A and again at point B where there would be a tank.
93. A would represent the point on the Darling? Yes, and B would be a certain distance from the Darling, say 8 miles, according to the contour of the country, and the next would perhaps be 8 miles further on, and so on to the point of termination, utilising a standpipe where necessary to do away with the expense of pumping. The water would be placed at such an altitude at one point that its own weight would carry it to a certain point further on.
94. Do you purpose using pipes from the point A to the point of termination? Yes.
95. What size? From point A to point B, which would be Lake Speculation, forming section No. 1, it would be necessary to use a large pipe.
96. How large? A pipe of not less than a foot possibly. That will be decided by the cost and other circumstances. It might be 18 inches, but a foot is all that would be necessary for years to come.
97. That would be to carry the water from the river to the first section? Yes.
98. What sized pipe do you purpose using after passing Lake Speculation? A 9-inch pipe for a certain distance, and after that a 6-inch pipe to the terminus.
99. Can you tell me from memory what the discharge of water will be at your point of termination from a 9-inch pipe? The discharge during twenty-four hours will be according to the speed at which you are working your pump.
100. Give us the formula, that is the way to do it? You can get 150,000 gallons through comfortably in twenty-four hours. The only thing to be looked to is the friction head, which will reduce it.
101. What do you calculate the friction head at? It will depend upon the way the pipes are laid. The easier the gradient the better it will be.
102. Take the first section from the river, where there is 12 feet of a rise. What will be the friction head there on that distance? I forget the exact calculation, it is not very heavy.
103. You cannot tell what the friction head would be from memory? No.
104. At the point of termination at Broken Hill what do you purpose doing with the water; will you have a retaining dam or reservoir? Yes, a large surface reservoir.
105. How much below the level of Broken Hill township is the reservoir to be? It will be above the level of Broken Hill.
106. How much? It is about 75 feet above the town.
107. Then the water will come from the reservoir to Broken Hill by gravitation? Yes, to a certain point it will, but it will not go over the whole township.
108. Will you pump the water from the reservoir to Broken Hill? To supply the higher parts we shall, but going round the side and away to the northward the water will be carried by gravitation.
109. Will you pump the water from the reservoir into the township? It will go by gravitation into the lower part, and it will be pumped up into the higher parts.
110. Chairman.] Have you any filtered beds? No, none are provided for at present.
111. Mr. Kelly.] Have the promoters of this Company questioned you as to the feasibility of this scheme? Oh yes.
112. Have they questioned any other engineer? That I do not know.
113. Do you think it likely that they would do so? I believe that they would. Mr. Westcott, one of the promoters, is one of the best public men in the country.
114. You do not think it likely that he would put his money into it unless he thought it was going to be a success? I am perfectly sure that he would not.
115. You are a geological surveyor? Yes.
116. You have seen and know something about Broken Hill? Yes, a little.
117. Are there indications of copper there? There are.
118. All round the township? I could not say exactly. You can see it in the Rockwell Paddock.
119. Are carbonates of copper poisonous? Certainly.
120. Would water in soil containing it be poisonous? If it went directly through it, not if it went over it.

121. If water was conserved in the neighbourhood of Broken Hill in any excavation, do you think it would be as good as the Darling River water? If it was rain water it would.
122. Even if it went through carbonates of copper? Carbonates of copper would not affect it, unless there was a large quantity of water lying stagnant on the carbonates.
123. There is arsenical iron, pyrites, and lead in the neighbourhood of Broken Hill? Yes; and what they term lead-poisoning takes place, but that is nothing else than arsenical poisoning in a different form.
124. Do you think the water from the Darling would be preferable to any water that could be conserved in the neighbourhood of Broken Hill? I do. All surface water would be good.
125. But if it is lying on the surface where poisonous fumes are coming up, and which are precipitated and fall upon the ground, will it be good then? No, it will not, if you are close to the fumes.
126. If any portion of the fumes were washed into a dam? A few miles from it there is very little to fear, and the reservoir is some distance from Broken Hill.
127. You have that poisonous stuff on the surface at Broken Hill, I believe? Yes.
128. Would it be possible to conserve water on the surface and have it as good as water pumped up from the Darling? The water from the Darling would be the best.
129. Suppose a man makes a tank in the town and utilises the rain-water, there being poisonous elements in the surface of the soil, and fumes rising from them, would that water be as good after it had been over those poisonous fumes and that poisonous stuff, as the Darling water? No. You can go further than that. Rain water from the roofs of the houses there is heavily charged with arsenic.
130. Chairman.] The question is whether the water conserved in close proximity to where these fumes arise will be equal in quality to the water taken from the Darling? It is very evident that any water close to the fumes of such large furnaces must always be impregnated more or less.
131. Mr. Kelly.] Have you any knowledge of what the general supply of Broken Hill is? Upwards of 40,000 gallons a day.
132. Is that sufficient for the requirements of the people? No. You may assume that over 20 gallons per head will be required for the twelve hours.
133. What is the quality of the water? It is very bad; bad in colour, thick, and as for taste it is something horrible.
134. And the cost? I think 7s. or 8s. a tank—as much as a horse would haul—they have so far to go for it.
135. What distance? Seven or 8 miles. When we were in camp at the Rockwell Paddock we had to go much further than that.
136. Mr. Marshall.] Is it possible to supply the town with condensed water? It would be possible, if you had clean salt-water to condense from.
137. But with the water from natural sources? That would be the water in the mines, I suppose. I do not think it is practicable. It could be done at a very heavy cost.
138. Then these poisonous fumes are constantly precipitating poisonous matter? They are.
139. And would that precipitation affect any kind of water supplied by those works or otherwise? It would at the first contact; but, of course, the greater the bulk of the water the greater the solution.
140. And there is a constant precipitation? Yes; but in bringing a line of pipes into the town the water would be completely covered.
141. And that is what you intend to do? Yes; that is the meaning of keeping the reservoir at the back of the Maculka ranges in the Rockwell Paddock.
142. Then the water carried into the town by your scheme would not be affected by this precipitation? It would not until the big smelter got into the Rockwell Paddock. It is so far away, and the area is so large that I do not see any probability of that.
143. Is not the present means of water supply affected by soakage? It is greatly affected by it.
144. And does that have the affect of causing sickness in the town? Yes; it carries all zymotic diseases with it.
145. Mr. Kelly.] Are you the same Mr. James who was in the employ of the Government and suggested water schemes for Dubbo and various other towns throughout the Colony? I am.
146. Chairman.] Have you any idea of the amount which is likely to be expended by the Company on these works? I estimate the approximate cost, allowing £20,000 for labour, at £145,000. The estimate will be affected very greatly by the cost of the carriage of materials inland. I had a large experience of that in another country, carriage being there the heaviest item. I estimate it at £4 a ton.

WEDNESDAY, 13 JUNE, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BRUNKER,

MR. DE COURCY BROWNE; | MR. KELLY.

J. N. BRUNKER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Thomas Marshall, Esq., solicitor, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Hugh Giffen M'Kinney, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

147. Chairman.] What are you by profession? A civil engineer.
148. Do you know anything of the country between Broken Hill and the Darling? Well, I have made it my special study to make up the country generally; but I have not a personal knowledge of it. I have not been over it. I have been to Wentworth and to a considerable distance up the Darling; but I have not been over that part between Menindie and Broken Hill. I may state, that for the Water Commission I worked out the catchment areas of all the principal streams and rivers in the Colony, so that in that way I got a pretty good amount of information about matters of that description. In fact, I marked them all out on a map, which accompanied the first report of the Royal Commission on the conservation of water.
149. Do you consider then, from your general knowledge of these matters, that a scheme is practicable to convey water from the Darling to Speculation Lake, and from that place to Broken Hill? It is possible; but I should scarcely call it practicable. I mean that it is a very much bolder proposal than I have ever heard of for the supply of water to any town.

H. G.
M'Kinney,
Esq.
13 June, 1888.

H. G.
M'Kinney,
Esq.
13 June, 1888.

150. What is the distance? It is about 70 miles.
151. You think it possible? Oh yes, decidedly.
152. What you mean by that, I suppose, is that it would be a somewhat difficult and expensive work? Expensive, and attended with great risks.
153. With great risks? There is great risk of breakage in such a long line of pipes subjected to pressure. In fact, to provide for breaks it would be necessary to have relieving reservoirs at intervals between Menindie and Broken Hill. That would be the necessary way to minimise the danger.
154. But having a knowledge of the liability of risk and breakage in undertaking this work the Company will, I presume, make provision so as to avert anything of the kind. Would your knowledge as a professional man lead you to think that? They should certainly do so; but it is quite another matter whether they would appreciate the risks or not.
155. That, of course, would depend upon the professional advice they had? No doubt.
156. Have you any idea of the necessity for a supply of water to Broken Hill? I am well aware that a supply is very necessary, both from the reports that I hear in the Mines Department, and the reports I read in the public papers.
157. Having seen the plan, have you any reason to change the opinion you have just given? I have not. As I say, I think the scheme is possible, but it is one attended with a great deal of risk and expense. There is one point that occurs to me in regard to the supply of so many engines with fuel along the line. I am not aware that the country is densely timbered, but I should fancy it is not. I should fancy that fuel would be found an extremely expensive item for so many pumping stations.
158. But with provision made for pumping stations you think the scheme would be carried out? It is possible to do so.
159. Have you any knowledge of the quality of the water of the Darling? I know that when it falls low at a good number of places it is inferior; but speaking generally, it is good. I have seen it very low at about 40 or 50 miles above Wentworth; but I should not like to give any decided opinion about the quality of the water. I know that in some places it does become inferior.
160. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] You have a copy of the evidence before you; will you just glance at Mr. J. W. James' evidence—question 86. Have you any knowledge as to the character of those certificates; is there any professional qualification in any of them? Being connected with the Geological Society of England is not a matter which would give any experience of value in connection with this work. As to his position in the Institute of Civil Engineers, I understand that Mr. James is an associate of that institution.
161. Do you know the professional value of a certificate of the Institute of Civil Engineers to enable you to form an opinion as to his status as an engineer on water supply? I know that the position in the Institute of Civil Engineers which Mr. James occupies is one which the rules of the institution state is intended for people who do not follow engineering as a profession, but who are connected with engineering. I am sorry I have not a copy of the rules of the institution with me. There are several different grades in the Institute of Civil Engineers. First, there is the honorary degree. That is for distinguished engineers, or patrons of engineering. Then there is the degree of member of the institution. That is intended for engineers by profession who have attained to some standing. Then there is the degree of associate member. That is intended really for younger members of the profession who have not had any great experience. Then there is the degree of associate for those who are professionally allied to engineers. One of the contractors on the Sydney water supply works was an associate.
162. He was not a professional? No.
163. "I am a life member of the Geological Society of England"—does that carry any professional distinction as an engineer with it? I should say not as an engineer.
164. "I hold an engineer's and surveyor's certificate under the Navigation Act of Queensland, 1876"—can you give us the value of that distinction? I really could not.
165. You are connected now with the Department of Water Supply? I am engineer for water conservation.
166. Question 91 says, "How do you propose to pump this water to Broken Hill? By relays of pumps." Question 93 says, "A would represent the point on the Darling? Yes, and B would be a certain distance from the Darling, say 8 miles, according to the contour of the country, and the next would perhaps be 8 miles further on, and so on to the point of termination, utilising a stand-pipe where necessary to do away with the expense of pumping. The water would be placed at such an altitude at one point that its own weight would carry it to a certain point further on"? I must say that the meaning of that is very obscure.
167. Can you give us any intelligent explanation of what that means. I cannot say that I can. It says here that "the water would be placed at such an altitude at one point that its own weight would carry it to a point further on." That must mean that it would be pumped up to a considerable height at one place and the weight would carry it from there. I fail to see how there is to be any great saving in power in that way. I cannot see any service it is likely to do to affect the object mentioned here.
168. Chairman.] But it is possible to place the water at an altitude that would enable it by its own weight to carry further on? It could be forced into a stand-pipe, and that would force the water further on. But still it seems to me that there is no saving of power in that way. If there is anything at all it certainly would not be anything of importance.
169. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] You have a fair general knowledge I presume, of water conservation and water-works generally in various parts of the world, both from observation and from reading? I have had a pretty wide experience. I have been employed all my life on water works.
170. With regard to a scheme which purposes to raise the water from the Darling River at Menindie, pump it into a lake 16 miles further, lift it out of that lake by pumping, and send it by relays of pipes 68½ miles, are you able to give any opinion as to the character of such a scheme? It is certainly a proposal such as I have never heard of before. I have gone to a good deal of trouble generally to keep myself acquainted with proposals that have been made to supply both cities and country towns, and I have never seen a case that would correspond to this; I mean where pumping was carried on so boldly to such an extent.
171. Can you tell us what the discharge of a 6-inch pipe at a distance of 68 miles from the Darling River would be into a reservoir at Broken Hill? It would be very small indeed. It is a matter that would require

H. G.
M'Kinney,
Esq.
13 June, 1888.

require a certain amount of working out; but, as I understand, the pipe was intended to start off with a larger size before that. Of course, the discharge of a 6-inch pipe would depend upon whether the power of the engines was kept up to such an extent as to keep up the discharge. The friction of a 6-inch pipe is a great deal more than the discharge proportionately than the friction with a 10 or 12-inch pipe, so that to force the same quantity of water through a 6-inch pipe you want an engine of much greater power. I worked out what would be the friction in an 8-inch pipe for that length of 70 miles, and I found that it would be almost equivalent to doubling the height, that is, the head of friction would be something like 800 feet. The question how much water would be discharged at the end of that distance is one that can scarcely be answered, because if you provide a greater power you can discharge the whole supply; but you want to increase your power as you diminish your pipe.

172. Taking the rise from Menindie to Broken Hill at 800 feet, just for argument's sake, the friction head would make that equal to 1,600 feet? Yes; it would be quite that.

173. For which power would have to be provided? Yes; the power would have to be provided for that. I fancy that in connection with a scheme like that, the question of fuel would be a very serious one. Of course, as I say, I do not know whether fuel is available in large quantities, but engines of the power that are mentioned here would use up a large quantity of fuel.

174. Give us an idea of what the engine-power would be at Menindie to pump that water into Lake Speculation, a distance of $16\frac{1}{2}$ miles, with a rise of 22 feet, and a 12-inch pipe? It would be well to have your engine able to deliver double the quantity you required. To raise 359,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours to a height of 2,130 feet (I thought when I heard about the pumping that was to be done here, that the total head, including head for friction, would amount to about that) would require 161 horse-power, without allowing anything for friction. That is the actual power exercised in raising the water to that height. The total amount of power that would be required in this case, I should say would be, at the very least, 300-horse power. That would be a very low estimate indeed, and without allowing anything for spare power.

175. Chairman.] 300-horse power would be required to supply what quantity of water? The actual theoretical horse-power to carry 359,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours to a height of 2,130 feet, would be 161.

176. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] That is the friction height? That is the friction height. I was taking it as 1,000 feet to be raised altogether, and being doubled by friction.

177. You say it will take 300-horse power? That is allowing for waste of horse-power generally. It would not be less than 300.

178. This idea of having relays of pumping stations from Menindie to Broken Hill; have you in your reading or observation ever heard of such a scheme? No, I have not.

179. At these pumping stations then, every 8 miles a similar power for machinery would be required? Yes; but what I mention there is the total power for the total height. You would want (say) ten stations of 30-horse power each.

180. Mr. Kelly.] Without the friction? That would be allowing for the friction. I took the height as very slightly more. I did not know what the details were. I just heard that it was proposed to raise the water up to Broken Hill, and I took the height of Broken Hill, which I knew was over 1,000 feet.

181. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] With so many pumping stations as that would there not be a great risk of breaking down and delays, and the possibility of the stoppage of supplies? Yes, there certainly would. That would have to be provided for in several ways, duplicating machinery, and providing reservoirs. I do not know what size they will be, but I should say that every one of these should hold at least one day's supply.

182. Chairman.] Assuming that you had an 8-inch pipe and these 30-horse power engines were supplied at intervening stations, the number required being somewhere about seven or eight, what would the discharge be then? You could discharge over 150,000 gallons a day easily with them.

183. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] Mr. James says that he would start with a 12-inch pipe, reduce it to a 9-inch pipe, and finish up with a 6-inch pipe. Do you call that a professional idea, such as an engineer competent to carry out a water supply would indulge in. He starts with a 12-inch pipe, reduces it to a 9-inch, which increases the friction and requires greater power, and then reduces it to a 6-inch, which requires more friction and more power to deliver a certain quantity of water? It certainly seems a curious arrangement, but there may be some reason for it. Reducing it to a 6-inch pipe at the last is certainly taking it smaller than I should do. The friction in a 6-inch pipe discharging 150,000 gallons per day would be very high indeed.

184. And very risky, I presume, for the pipe? The velocity would be high of course. I would not like to say that there was any actual risk in discharging that; but certainly the power wanted would be high.

185. Mr. Kelly.] I heard you say that you had made a calculation of the catchment of the Darling at Menindie? I have got calculations of the catchment areas of all the rivers in the Colony. It is at the end of the first report of the Water Commission.

186. Do you see the elevations that are described on the chart at 8 miles apart. There are ten pumping stations with a rise of 900 feet? Yes.

187. Now do they propose to force the water to an altitude of 100 feet at each station, and to run it from that altitude down; or do they propose to send the water gradually up that altitude at every 8 or 9 miles, according to the plan? According to the plan they run the water in most cases along the natural inclination of the ground. They have elevated tanks in some cases, or stand pipes; it is not very clear what they are exactly.

188. How can they bring in that case their pressure to bear, if they first of all pump the water up to an altitude without a direct pressure. It appears to me that they must have a direct pressure on their pipes for the 8 or 9 miles. They cannot drive it to an elevation and then drive it down through the tank and up the pipes. They must either use gravitation or force. They might drive it up 150 feet and then down to the tank a mile away and let it flow of itself; but in this case they propose to force it by mere power, do they not? Yes.

189. There is no use, as I can see, in raising the water at the pumping stations? I cannot see any sufficient reason.

190. You cannot see any object in these tanks at the pumping stations excepting enough to supply the pump or help the water along? One great object of a stand-pipe is to steady the flow. 191.

H. G.
M'Kinney,
Esq.

13 June, 1888.

191. But there is a reservoir? I do not see how both are required.
192. If you send it to an altitude and bring it down by gravitation you do away with force? Yes. I entirely fail to see the point in that arrangement.
193. Do you think that anybody who would suggest such a thing as that understood it practically? Certainly, on the face of it, it is not a thing that would be expected by anybody. He might have had some reason for it which does not appear on the plans. He has no reason that suggests itself, and as to the reason that is given in the evidence it is certainly not quite intelligible. It mentions there too a friction head which would depend upon the way the pipes were laid.
194. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] If it were going down hill it would be a horse of another colour? "The friction depends very little indeed on the way the pipes are laid." If they are laid with abrupt bends it adds to the friction; but if they are laid uniformly the friction is really the same whether the water is running up or down hill. The friction depends upon the length of the pipe, its circumference, and the velocity of the water.
195. Mr. Kelly.] And you see no necessity for these reservoirs at stated intervals, excepting that they would act in the case of a breakdown. They would afford a supply at each place in the case of the breakdown of any particular section? Yes. I should say that at least a day's supply would be required at everyone of these stations for that purpose.
196. What would be the cost of working the scheme as proposed; could it be worked cheaply? I should fancy that would be one of the most serious objections to it that it would be very expensive. Pumping stations are very expensive to work. I know that that large pumping supply they have on the Goulburn in Victoria costs about £2,000 a year to keep up. Of course, the engines there are much larger, the power is greater; but I question whether each of these pumping stations would not cost £600 or £700 a year.
197. As to the matter of wood, you have some knowledge of the Darling? In regard to the fuel I merely throw out the idea that if it is a country where fuel is difficult to obtain that is a very serious drawback.
198. What quantity of wood would the whole pumping machinery consume daily; what would a 300 horse-power engine cut up into ten thirties consume in wood? I should say it would be scarcely safe to reckon less than 12 to 14 pounds of wood per horse-power per hour. Say you had 300-horse power working twelve hours per day that is considerably over 22 tons per day altogether for fuel.
199. And how much coal would you allow per horse-power? A little less than half, I am speaking approximately. Roughly speaking dry wood would go about two of wood to one of coal.
200. Would these engines require to be of concentrated powers to require no greater than 20 tons daily, or would they be the ordinary engines? I should say they would be much about the average. I do not fancy it would be much over that. Of course, I could not give it exactly. It depends upon a great number of things. If you use wood not quite dry you use a very much larger quantity than if you use it dry. It makes a very wide difference indeed.
201. Chairman.] The same applied to coal—you consume a great deal more of some quality of coal than of another? Decidedly.
202. Mr. Kelly.] Have you been at Broken Hill? No.
203. Chairman.] Have you seen the pumping machinery at Maitland? No.
204. Mr. Marshall.] What power engine were you calculating for? I was assuming the rule generally.
205. Would it make any difference where engines are in duplicate, supposing you have only one engine? If you had duplicate engines of course you would provide against a breakdown.
206. If the scheme provided for duplicate engines would that not make a difference? Oh yes, decidedly.
207. Would an 8-inch pipe carry a sufficient supply for the district? An 8-inch pipe would carry an ample supply; an 8-inch pipe with a velocity of a little under 2 feet per second.
208. Do you know the quality of the water in Menindie Lake and the Darling? I cannot speak from personal knowledge.
209. You do not know anything about the retention of the water by the river? No; I cannot speak as to the state of the water in the river or the quantity there.
210. You have not surveyed the line, and of course you cannot tell what fuel there is? No.
211. They can if they like burn wood that is just half dry? Decidedly. It requires more of it, of course.
212. If it were very heavily wooded the cost of the fuel would not be so great as if it were scarce. Certainly not.
213. Do you know anything of the different wood for fuel? I have not tested the woods in this country.
214. Blood wood? I have never tried it for engine wood.
215. And box? I believe box is very good.
216. Outside the question of fuel the scheme with an 8-inch pipe is practicable and sufficient for the requirements of the district? It is quite possible; but it is a very risky scheme.
217. Do you know of a similar scheme anywhere in the world? No; I do not.
218. That is the only thing, you think, that it will probably be an expensive one? Yes, and very liable to risk. That is what I should consider the greatest objection to it.
219. If the engines were properly duplicated and great care taken to strengthen anything that might go wrong would there be any danger as to the constant supply of water? I think that in addition to that it would be necessary to have service reservoirs so as to provide for the possibility of a break.
220. If the service reservoirs were at different intervals would then the scheme be thoroughly secure? I think so, provided that these reservoirs contained, say each of them, at least one day's supply.
221. If they contained a week's supply, as they are intended to, what would you say of the scheme? I should say that if it were well carried out, the pipes properly laid, it would be quite practicable.
222. Wrought-iron pipes? Those are much less liable to breakage than cast-iron pipes.
223. Chairman.] What time do you think would be occupied in completing the work? Well, the quantity of pipes required would be a very heavy order indeed.
224. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] Could it be done in 18 months? I suppose the pipes would be manufactured in the Colonies?
225. Mr. Marshall.] Would you be surprised to hear that Tangye would complete all that order in two months and land them here in four in a special steamer? The information I have about the scheme is very meagre, and it would be quite impossible for me to estimate the time.
226. Mr. Kelly.] If you do not know anything as to the time that it would take to construct this system, have you any idea of what the cost would be from first to last? There again I would want to go into the matter of the wrought-iron pipes. Seventy miles of cast-iron pipes would weigh about 7,800 tons.

227. The question I asked you was could you give any information as to the total cost of the thing? I could not with the information at hand.
228. How thick are wrought-iron pipes usually? Of course they vary very much according to the pressure. I have used them only in short lengths. We used them on the Sydney water supply works for flumes.
229. How thick were they? They were, I think, generally about three-sixteenths of an inch.
230. Were they turned over and riveted? They were.
231. Have you had any experience of these pipes in the ground;—Have you ever seen them after they have been in the ground for five years? I have not seen wrought-iron, I have not seen cast-iron.
232. How long do you think wrought-iron pipes would last in a saline country? I know that in ground impregnated with salt they would corrode very quickly.
233. Do you know the Darling is a saline country? The plains that I saw from Wentworth up to within 40 or 50 miles of Broken Hill were to a great extent salt.

H. G.
M'Kinney,
Esq.

13 June, 1888.

Charles O'Neill, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

234. Chairman.] What is your profession? A civil engineer.
235. What are your qualifications? As a civil engineer generally I have been engaged in all kinds of works for between thirty and forty years.
236. What are your professional qualifications? I am a member of the Institute of Engineers.
237. Have you been connected with water supply works professionally engaged? Yes.
238. What works? Well, I have been in New Zealand, at the Thames, and at Auckland. I reported on the Auckland works. I was in Otago preparing large schemes for reservoirs for supplying water to the gold-fields. I was in Glasgow when the works were brought in. At that time I held the position of Chief Assistant in the Public Works Office of Glasgow.
239. Have you any knowledge of the scheme now under consideration? I have.
240. Have you seen the plan that has been prepared? Yes.
241. Do you consider the scheme a practical one? I do.
242. What power do you think it would take to drive the water from the Darling to Speculation Lake? It is proposed in that scheme to take it up in lifts—seven lifts.
243. What would be the power required, assuming that these pumping stations were provided according to the plan suggested? You might take generally an 80-horse power engine nominal.
244. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] At each station? At each station.
245. Chairman.] And how many stations do you assume would be required in the 70 miles? Seven.
246. And assuming that 8-inch pipes were used the full distance, what quantity of water would that discharge at Broken Hill? I have taken an 8-inch pipe to be brought up as far as the reservoir. We propose to put a larger pipe from the reservoir to Broken Hill, because the flow will be by gravitation as a matter of course from the reservoir, and it will require a larger pipe.
247. What sized pipe? All the water I propose to take will be 400,000 gallons.
248. Are you engaged on the work? No; I was engaged to give a special report on the plans.
249. What would be the discharge according to your proposition? Over 400,000.
250. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] An 8-inch pipe? A 9-inch pipe from the reservoir.
251. Have you been to the Darling? No, I have not.
252. Chairman.] Do you propose to filter the water? Yes, into filter beds.
253. That, of course, would assist in contributing a supply of good water or a system that would improve the quality of the water? Yes; it would clarify the water.
254. How long do you think it would take to complete the work? I think it will be done in six months.
255. What is the character of the country? I am judging from the plans of the section. It appears that there is a little part of rough country towards one end, but the rest seems comparatively easy.
256. Do you think it possible to provide fuel in the locality to supply the engines? I cannot tell; I have not been there.
257. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] Will you look at question 93 of the evidence;—Have you any idea what it means? I presume that it means to force the water up to a certain height, and to let it go after that by gravitation.
258. Can you form a clear idea really of what Mr. James meant by the answer to that question? He intends by that to utilize a stand-pipe where necessary, to bring the water up on the stand-pipe so that it may go over the next section instead of by pumping—I believe that is what he means, but it is not very clear—and so on to the point of termination, utilizing the stand-pipe where necessary to do away with the expense of pumping.
259. Mr. Kelly.] Have you seen the distances between those engine pumping stations? Yes.
260. How far are they? They vary. Some are 9 miles, some 8 miles, some 6 miles.
261. What is the elevation you intend to raise the water every 8 miles; 50 feet? Yes; I think about that.
262. To carry out his idea there his tank would be how many feet in the air to send the water by gravitation;—How large a tank would he want to make that water gravitate 8 miles at an altitude of 150 feet? If you will look at the plan you will see one tower 80 feet. I think his meaning was to pump the water up to the top of the tower, and then from that tower it would gravitate for the next 10 miles. I would not have such a thing at all.
263. Would any practical man have it? No; because there is no necessity for it.
264. You think you require eight or nine 80-horse power engines? Yes. Say a 40-horse power nominal, and then you generally allow 70 per cent. or so—say 80.
265. An eighty nominal would be how many actual? That is the actual. The nominal is the power fixed by the Admiralty of 7 lb. to the square inch. From that you can make it anything you like.
266. Have you any idea how much wood they would consume, these eight or nine engines of 80-horse power? An ordinary engine will take about 4 lb. of coal per hour. The wood, I suppose, would be five times that.
267. You said something which I could not understand about taking this water up in lifts? It does not mean straight up. It is merely calling it a lift, taking it up in sections 8 or 9 miles apart. You force it up.

C. O'Neill,
Esq.

13 June, 1888.

- C. O'Neill, Esq.
13 June, 1888.
268. And then, of course, that stand-pipe question comes in? The only idea of the stand-pipe was to attempt to save the cost of pumping at one station. And then you see that the flatter you have a grade the less water will go through it, and the grade is very flat. In taking a 9-inch pipe from the reservoir we will carry over 400,000 gallons an hour at the full. The grade is shown as one in ten.
269. Have you had to do with wrought-iron pipes? No; I have not. They are of comparatively recent invention. The pipes as taken to here will be tested to 700 lb. on the square inch.
270. Chairman.] Have you gone through the whole of this scheme? Yes.
271. You consider it a practical scheme? Yes; quite practicable.
272. A very costly one, I suppose? I do not think so. I was in Melbourne three or four years ago at the Exhibition, and a party came to me from Temora, and wished me to give a report on bringing the water from some river to Temora, 50 or 60 miles.
273. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] From Lake George? No; I think it was from some river. I reported upon the matter, and a report was sent in to the Minister for Mines. It was a large scheme. It was intended to carry a big flume of water. The cost would have been about £200,000.
274. You think that this scheme is practicable? Quite practicable.
275. Mr. Marshall.] With your knowledge of New South Wales, do you think it would be beneficial as well? It would be beneficial.
276. The cost of this construction would be considerably under £200,000? Considerably under.
277. What do you think this roughly would cost? £165,000.
278. That would cover everything? Everything.
279. That is judging every possible lavish expenditure? Fair common sense expenditure. That would include double engines.
280. Have you seen a similar water supply to this? Not exactly. It is a long supply 60 miles. The Loch Katrine scheme is only 40 miles, a gravitation scheme.
281. Is it elevated at all? Yes; it is pretty high up. The main pipes that were laid down in Edinburgh in 1824 are quite fresh yet. That length of time is rather astonishing for even a cast-iron pipe.
282. Mr. Kelly.] Would you imagine the cost to be reasonable? The wood is the main thing, and Mr. De Courcy Browne says there is plenty of wood there.
283. Mr. Marshall.] Have you any idea of the total consumption per horse-power? About 12 lb.

Harry Stockdale, Esq., recalled, and further examined:—

- H. Stockdale, Esq.
13 June, 1888.
284. Chairman.] Would the construction of this work furnish a supply of water to travelling stock? Yes; at every stage there would be mains for the watering laid down. There will be a much larger reservoir than is necessary at each stage.
285. It would be not only a benefit to Broken Hill, but to the whole of the surrounding locality? Yes. There is no water possible to be got in ordinary seasons on the road to Broken Hill. Steven's Creek is full to-day and dry to-morrow. It will be a general benefit.
286. Mr. Kelly.] You have been along this route yourself? I have.
287. Where the stations are proposed to be erected wood is abundant? Yes.
288. I think, if my memory serves me right, you gave evidence to the effect that you did not intend to take the water out of the Darling? On account of the quickness of getting it into Broken Hill we start from Speculation Lake; but at the same time we will pump into that from the river.
289. And you pump out of the lake at the other side? Yes.
290. And you take advantage of the flooded condition of the river to fill the lake? From the river we lift with a foot-pipe. We put in, suppose, 400,000 gallons in about six hours. We will put in a million gallons a day.
291. Do you calculate to exhaust Speculation Lake by pumping to Broken Hill? I wish to stop evaporation, and keep the water as near as I can at its present level by putting in twice the quantity we are taking out.
292. You will keep the water always in the same condition in Speculation Lake, and if Menindie Lake should not be enough you will supply Broken Hill from the Darling? The Government having blocked the place up we did not consider that we were justified in taking advantage of their work, and taking so much water out of that lake without putting something back. If we take the water from there we guarantee to put far more into it. We only pump for a mile there, because it falls in at one side of the lake and the rest is water. We can send a million and a half through every twenty-four hours.
293. In the event of a drought what would you do? In the event of a drought we have a large reservoir. At present we would not use much over 100,000 gallons. The consumption of water at Broken Hill at present is 70,000 gallons.
294. Where do you propose to get your water in the event of a dry season? We fill this reservoir without surplus water.
295. Do you take the water out of the Darling in a dry season? No; we do not use the Darling at all in a dry season. We have a reservoir capable of holding from 30,000 to 50,000 gallons of water, 5 miles from Broken Hill. It runs down by gravitation.
296. In the event of that being exhausted, where would you go for water, if Menindie Lake was low? If Menindie Lake was bad we would take from the Darling. We take from Speculation Lake greatly for quickness. It saves 15 miles.
297. Have you inquired into the question of the wholesomeness or goodness of the water? I have at that particular place.
298. Is it all alike? No; the hole in the Darling at Menindie is said to be the best in the river. The people there tell me that they never knew less than 9 feet of water in this hole, and less than a mile in length in the severest drought ever known, and that the water is perfectly good.
299. If you were pumping out of that hole would not the water from the salt holes come into it? There is a chain of holes then; when it becomes low.
300. But the river runs underneath? It might run underneath, but I think the salt is retained by the beds. The water comes through the gravel more or less pure. I know that in Cooper's Creek you can wet your feet in two holes, one salt and the other fresh.
301. You think that the water will be always fresh in Menindie water hole? It has always been so.

302. You think it would remain so even if water were pumped out? I do not think we should ever use it when the Darling was still. We will have 50,000,000 gallons held there. Our idea is Speculation Lake filled from Menindie Lake, and Menindie Lake supplied from the river at its big height.

303. Chairman.] With reference to the charge for water at Broken Hill. You ask in the Bill to have the right to charge for all water at a price not exceeding so much per gallon? The price has not been decided upon. The decision we came to was to supply water at less than one-third of the average price of Broken Hill water.

304. What is that now? I suppose 8s. or 9s. a hundred gallons. I think that they are bringing by train from Silverton now, and it might be £1. I think we could supply it at from 2s. to 3s. We would be very glad to take a shilling a hundred gallons in good seasons. In bad seasons it rises there to £1 a gallon. I see by the papers that they expect to pay £1 a bucketful for it.

305. You cannot fix the rate now? I had rather not. It will be less than a third of the average rate, whatever that may be.

H. Stockdale,
Esq.
13 June, 1888.

WEDNESDAY, 20 JUNE, 1888.

Present:--

MR. BRUNKER,
MR. DE COURCY BROWNE,

MR. JONES,
MR. KELLY.

J. N. BRUNKER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Thomas Marshall, Esq., solicitor, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

William Christopher Bennett, Esq., called in, sworn and examined:--

306. Chairman.] You are engineer for roads and bridges? Commissioner and engineer for roads and bridges, for sewerage, and for tanks and wells. I mention tanks and wells because they touch upon this matter.

307. You will notice by the Bill that it is proposed to use the waters of the Darling River, Menindie, and Speculation Lake, for the purpose of supplying Broken Hill with fresh water. Have you any knowledge of the locality? I have never been there; but I know the locality from maps, and from dealing with these tanks and wells, as well as one can know it without a personal inspection, and also from the reports of my officers.

308. Can you give us any information with regard to the present supply of water at Broken Hill? I can; it is in a very precarious state, and has been a source of considerable anxiety to me. Some three years ago, when Mr. Wright and Mr. Abbott were in office, they sent for me and gave me a very urgent charge about the water supply, both at Silverton and at Broken Hill, to make what arrangements were possible to meet the exigencies of a water famine as soon as possible. We excavated a tank at Silverton, another at a place called Rathole, another more recently at Broken Hill, and we are excavating a fourth at a place called Round Hill, near Broken Hill, calculated to be a reservoir of larger capacity than the ordinary tanks. We also partially excavated a well at Broken Hill. The tanks at Silverton and Rathole are nearly full of water, there being something like 3,000,000 gallons in each. The well at Broken Hill was abandoned by the contractor, and we have been using every effort either to let it or get men to do it by day work, and to extend it by a drive so as to increase the supply. We have at last—three or four days ago—succeeded in letting it. We have been supplying from the Broken Hill tank, and charging for the water in order to check the demand; but that tank is now, I am sorry to say, empty.

309. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] The one at Broken Hill? Yes. It was filled before it was quite completed by a sudden rain storm, and the officer there very properly allowed the rain to come in rather than lose it, and it has been a standby for Broken Hill until now.

310. Chairman.] That is dry now? Yes.

311. What did you say you are charging for the water? One shilling per hundred gallons. Seeing that we had no water to supply the people at Broken Hill, on the recommendation of our officer up there, who is a very energetic man, we made arrangements with the tramway company, and sent up pipes, and have applied to the Mines Department to get the use of the water in the Rathole tank, with a view to conveying it to Broken Hill. The work is now going on, and I see by a paragraph in the paper this morning, is approaching completion, and we will be able to supply water when we get permission from the Mines to take from the Rathole tank. But that is only a partial and temporary supply. We are dependent upon the rainfall to fill the other reservoirs. We are improving them as far as we can, so as to be ready to receive the rain when it comes.

312. Chairman.] What is the source of supply at the Rathole? It is a mere catchment for the rainfall. There was an objection at Broken Hill to the tank being the recipient of drainage water from the houses, but the town has spread a great deal since we made the tank. We applied to have the catchment area reserved, but we could not succeed in getting it reserved. However, we have made drains to cut off this drainage as well as we could, and the tank will be comparatively safe, but if the town spreads it will have to be abandoned.

313. Do I understand that the Rathole is the largest supply and gives the most permanent supply? The Rathole has been least drawn upon; it is not more permanent. The Broken Hill tank is exhausted, because it was drawn on all at once, notwithstanding the price.

314. What is the nature of the supply there now compared with the demand. If you had a continuance of dry weather what would be the condition? It is very precarious indeed. The Rathole tank is only something over 3,000,000 gallons, and if that is expended we cannot very well draw water from Silverton, in the face of an impending water famine. In that case we would be in a very bad way indeed. I should add that if it had not been for the knowledge that private enterprise was going to supply water in some shape or other—I do not refer to this company in particular, or to any company; I do not know how many there are—we would have taken more adequate steps to supply water.

315. The population of Broken Hill is increasing, is it not? It is increasing; but private enterprise being in the field we did not want to do anything to prevent its operation.

316. You think it would be a public benefit if a scheme of this kind could be carried out—a scheme that would supply Broken Hill with water by private enterprise? A very great benefit, and a good example. There are only one or two places where it has been done before—Hay and Deniliquin.

Bennett, Esq.

- W. C. Bennett, Esq.,

317. By a good example you mean that these matters should be taken up by private enterprise instead of by the Government? Yes, not by the Government.
318. It is proposed to carry this water from the Darling to Broken Hill, which is a distance of between 68 and 70 miles. A plan showing the direction in which it is proposed to lay the pipes is before the Committee. Having seen the plan, and from what you know of the general character of the country, do you consider the scheme practicable? Well, in a mechanical sense it is not impracticable, that is all I can say about it. But I should think that in a country showing inequalities like that there must be some much easier and nearer source of supply available. It is quite a tour de force. I do not recollect seeing anywhere a proposal so large with reference to pumping. The only analagous proposal that I know of was the proposal to supply the British army with water on their advance to Berber, from Suakim. That was only on a small scale, of course, and a temporary thing. I think there is an objection from an engineering point of view to one part of the proposal, and that is the idea of keeping up the water in Speculation Lake by pumping. They would have to pump the whole of the evaporation over an immense area. It would be much better to lay down a separate line of pipes. I only had a cursory glance at this paper late last night, and the quantity stated here to be pumped from the Darling to Speculation Lake would be quite inadequate.
319. Mr. Kelly.] And the percolation? And the percolation besides. They would have to pump each year 4 or 5 feet deep over the area of the lake at least. If they cannot rely on the lake on the end of the period, they must pump through a pipe direct to their first intake from the Darling.
320. Chairman.] A witness was asked,—“How much water would you imagine there is in Menindie Lake. Is it possible to affect that supply by what you will take out of it” to which he replied—“No; because we guarantee to put in a far greater quantity than we take out or will be lost by evaporation. We could send 40,000 gallons into it as easily as we could send 1,000 gallons, and we only require 40,000 or 50,000 gallons a day for the supply of Broken Hill?” That may be correct enough, but I do not see any estimate there of the evaporation and absorption.
321. Except when the Darling is still, we should be pumping into Menindie Lake, and I think that would make it a permanent supply of water. I do not think that the evaporation would amount to anything like half the quantity that we should put in? The evaporation is very easily ascertained. Our experience teaches us that evaporation and absorption in that climate will amount to nearly 6 feet. Take the area of the lake, calculate the depth at 6 feet, and that is how many cubic feet you will have to pump. If you provide for that, it is alright; but I think, judging simply from guess, they will find the quantity proposed to be pumped is very far short of that.
322. That is the evaporation? Yes. Of course, they may have floods; but then there are certain seasons when the Darling does not flow for a couple of years.
323. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] If the lake is 13 miles long and an average of $5\frac{1}{2}$ wide, is it possible, do you think, to keep up the evaporation of such an area as that? It is a question of figures, and may be easily worked out; but I give you the depth they will have to provide for as between 5 and 6 feet.
324. Mr. Jones.] All over the lake? Yes, of course; that is not fatal to the scheme, because I point out that if they find they cannot do that it is simply enough to put a pipe round for the 16 miles and an engine to pump through it; but even that would be very expensive.
325. Chairman.] It is proposed by this scheme, I think, to have supply-pipes every 8 miles? ———
326. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] You have to lift the water every 8 miles higher and higher as you go? Yes; we have an illustration of that at Botany. The water is lifted 140 feet in 6 miles.
327. Chairman.] And what would be the output from a 9-inch pipe? That is a matter of calculation; I could not tell you now. The 30-inch pipe from Botany supplies 5,000,000 gallons a day. The great difficulty would be in supplying the intermediate engines with fuel, and the getting them on the ground would be a gigantic cost. I should say this scheme should not be resorted to unless every other means of supplying from a reservoir in the hills at Broken Hill had been exhausted.
328. Mr. Jones.] You think from the number of engines employed in this scheme it will be a very costly one? Yes; more than that. Unless very great care is exercised it will be very uncertain.
329. Chairman.] How do you mean uncertain? You may have leaks and bursts. When the great heat of the summer sun comes to play upon those pipes there will be great expansion and contraction. Unless it was provided for by india-rubber joints and appliances, which deteriorate, the contraction would tear the pipes asunder. You would not be able to bury them deep enough to put them beyond the change of temperature.
330. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] That plan you have looked at is simply a plan showing the levels from the Darling River to Broken Hill? Yes.
331. In the absence of a plan showing the scheme in detail, together with the report of a qualified engineer, would the Committee be able to form a correct estimate of the value of this scheme. Of course we are all laymen, none of us are professional men that I know of? Well, of course, you could form an approximate idea, but only an approximation. There is enough data there to form an approximation.
332. As to the practicability of the scheme? Yes. As I have said, the scheme is not absolutely impracticable, though I consider it so in an economic sense. In a mechanical sense it is not.
333. It purposes here to lift the water by a series of lifts every 8 miles, that is to have some seven or eight pumping stations from the river to Broken Hill. Is not such a method of raising water attended with very serious risks as to the steadiness or the permanency of the supply? Yes; I pointed out that.
334. It would be very costly also in its working? Very.
335. Liable to great risk of accidents from contraction of the pipes, and the breakage of the engines? Yes, and would require constant inspection along the pipe line.
336. Almost daily? Almost daily.
337. Hence, as an economic scheme for the supplying of a town 68 miles distant with fresh water, you do not think it comes within the realms of practicability? No.
338. Mr. Jones.] They propose here to use a 9-inch pipe for a certain distance, and after that a 6-inch pipe? I do not concur with that graduated proposal.
339. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] Is not such a proposal condemned by competent engineers on water supply? It is not used, because if you force water through a 6-inch pipe you require a more powerful engine.
340. The friction is greater? Yes; I do not know which way it is to be graduated, whether from the river to Broken Hill, or from Broken hill to the river. Near Broken Hill, where is the greatest ascent, the engine power required will be greater because the natural levels require a greater lift, but if a smaller pipe is used the power required will have to be greater still. Of course, there is the element of strength in a smaller pipe.
the

W. C.
Bennett, Esq.
20 June, 1888.

341. It is proposed to start from Menindie with a 12-inch pipe, then after a certain distance is passed a 9-inch pipe is to be used, and then to the terminus a 6-inch pipe? I think that is a mistake.

342. It is not such as a competent engineer on water supply would propose in an economic sense? I would not like to be too positive, but in my opinion it would not.

343. Mr. Jones.] There is the evaporation at Broken Hill too? That is an element that would have to be encountered in every scheme. It is the very great evaporation of the lake that I see great difficulty in.

344. Mr. Kelly.] There are several pumping places, and it is proposed, if I understand it aright, to raise the water 100 feet up to each pumping place, from one pumping place to another. Then we would have if I understand the suggestion aright, to pump that water the whole 8 or 9 miles? Yes, between each station.

345. Then you would have that force of water? Yes. If I understand rightly, it proposes to have a stand-pipe. The stand-pipe will be at the engine house. To the top of this stand-pipe the water will be pumped, and then it will turn over and gravitate in a pipe to the other engine. That mode of action has become superseded now, and has been for many years.

346. Straight force? Direct force, as at Botany. I know that thirty-two years ago, when the Botany water supply was proposed, Mr. Ryder, the engineer who was displaced by Mr. Bell, had a scheme for a stand-pipe, had all the drawings made, and they were thrown aside by Mr. Bell, who put in air vessels. That is a very practical instance of it here. The Botany engines as now working have been a decided success, and Mr. Bell rejected the stand-pipe for the present mode of action, the air-vessel.

347. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] It is an obsolete idea? I think it is.

348. Mr. Kelly.] There is no necessity then, in your opinion, for those stand-pipes at all? No. There is only one way that they may be of use. You may be able to have the pipes a little lighter, because the throb of the engine is not in the pipe.

349. Could you obtain for us the area of water in Speculation Lake, and the actual evaporation, and probable percolation? I can give the Committee that; it is between 5 and 6 feet in depth.

350. Chairman.] They would require to keep up a supply of 6 feet? Say 5 feet, in order to be safe.

351. To contribute what you consider a fair supply? Yes, for twelve months.

352. Mr. Kelly.] Could you form any idea at all as to the cost of this scheme? No; I would not like to. I could tell you the cost of a bridge, but this is a matter I would have to go into figures about to give anything that would be of the slightest value.

353. Would very large engines and boilers be required for this work, for these various pumping stations? Yes they would be tolerably large sized engines. I would not like to say what power.

354. How heavy do you think would be the biggest boiler? I would not like to give an opinion. In the first place there are so many varieties of boilers and so many varieties of pumps.

355. It is proposed to use, if I understand Mr. Stockdale aright, a 40-horse power nominal? Of course, there is the size of the pipe to be pumped through, and the water to be delivered, and a number of elements, so that I could only give the merest guess.

356. Could you give us roughly about the weight of a capable boiler? I am dealing with a matter now for the City for some pumping engines, and I will let you know the horse-power, the quantity of water, and all the particulars of that engine and boiler, and it will give the Committee some idea.

357. You have had experience with india-rubber joints? Some.

358. When they are once tightened, in a hot climate, do you find that the pipes shrink and leak? Yes, they leak, and the india-rubber disintegrates, so that it drops to pieces.

359. When you have an extension of pipes several miles long, as in this case, the contraction is great, and the expansion is great? The contraction would be.

360. You think the joints would leak? Yes, I think so.

361. It is proposed to put down light wrought-iron pipes instead of cast-iron? Yes.

362. I think Mr. Stockdale said that his pipes would be one-eighth of an inch thick wrought-iron pipes? They would not last any time.

363. If wrought-iron pipes one-eighth of an inch thick were laid down in saline country—what we call salt-bush country—how long would they last? They would last two or three years.

364. Mr. Marshall.] Could you suggest any other packing for the joints besides india-rubber? There might be turned joints, but even they would soon leak.

365. If the advice is taken of competent engineers of course the promoters of the scheme could avail themselves of the latest improvements, whatever they may be? Of course.

366. If you are informed that they do not actually bind themselves to this plan, but will adopt anything that may suggest itself, do you think it is possible to couple with their scheme other things so as to carry the thing through practically and successfully—whatever engineer of sufficient knowledge may be able to suggest to carry it through practicably? I have said before that the thing is not impracticable; but I do not think that it should be tried before the means of Broken Hill are exhausted.

367. Do you know of any other scheme that would have for its object the supply of water to Broken Hill? No, I do not.

368. Do you know of any better scheme? No, because I have never investigated the matter. That is why I say "until other means are exhausted."

369. If competent engineers were employed could they suggest to the Company what other means they could use to make the scheme a perfectly sure, cheap, and practicable one? It would be a difficult thing to make it cheap. You might, of course, by getting such skill as no doubt the Company would get, make it as cheap as it was possible to make such a scheme, but I question very much whether you could make it comparatively cheap.

370. The tanks that are already constructed at Broken Hill are open, of course? Yes.

371. Any precipitation from smelting might possibly fall into the water now? Yes; from the air.

372. From fumes? Oh! yes.

373. It is proposed to construct a tank 5 miles from Broken Hill, holding a twelve months supply of water. Do you not think that modern engineers, having the fact of this precipitation in view, could keep that tank constantly full, and unaffected by the deposit from fumes, sufficient to supply the requirements of

Broken

W. C. Bennett, Esq.
20 June, 1888.

Broken Hill? I have not objected to the tank at Broken Hill; I object to nothing; but I point out that the means of keeping that tank full are very expensive indeed.

374. I understand you to say that you do not know of a better scheme at present? Simply because I do not know anything about the locality, but in such a broken country there must be natural facilities for reservoirs.

375. Along the line of route where it is proposed to lay these pipes, of course the layers of the pipes could defect which was saline country and which was not—Would the wrought-iron pipes be affected by country which was not saline, and could not they then lay cast-iron pipes? Yes; but the weight would be tremendous; and the water of the Darling when the river is low is saline too.

376. But it has already been given in evidence that it is only proposed to use the waters of the Darling at its highest levels, and we have also been told that the length of saline country to be passed through on this route is very short indeed? If you use the waters of the Darling at its higher levels, how do you couple that with the idea of pumping the water into Speculation Lake?

377. We intend to supply Speculation and Menindie Lakes with the waters of the Darling at its highest levels, and then to supply the water-hole at Broken Hill from the lakes? But if you pump from the Darling to supply the low-levels of the lake, then you pump saline water.

378. It has been mentioned in evidence that it is only intended to touch the waters of the Darling at flood-time? Then it will run in.

379. They can, during the highest flow of the Darling, avail themselves of flood-water to fill the lakes? Yes.

380. Mr. Jones.] Suppose the water is only to be pumped in in flood-time from the Darling—are the lakes of sufficient area to hold the supply? The water would flow into the lakes at flood-time.

381. And not require to be pumped? No.

382. Mr. Kelly.] Have you any idea of the catchment area at Botany? 7,000 acres. I know it very well, because I dealt with it for the Water Commission.

383. How much water daily has been consumed by Sydney from Botany? I made a calculation twenty-two or twenty-three years ago, a very close calculation indeed, for the Water Commission—you will find it in the Water Commission Report in the records of the House—that, using every possible means that they could to economize all the water that fell on that catchment they would be able to supply Sydney with about three and a quarter million gallons daily, and there was a singular confirmation of my estimate twenty years afterwards by the fact that the amount they were able to pump in in those times was three and a quarter millions daily. It was a singular instance of theory verified by practice.

384. Do you know anything of the rainfall of Broken Hill as compared with that of Botany? I suppose it is not more than one-third or one-fourth—one-fourth, I think—of the ordinary supply at Botany. The calculation I made was for 21 inches in sixteen months, which was the lowest record we could find. Using that as a measure of the rainfall I calculated that three and a quarter millions would be supplied, so that Broken Hill would be at least half the quantity.

385. Chairman.] Is not the quantity received by catchment affected by the character of the country upon which it falls? Yes. Sandy country will deliver very little indeed until it is quite saturated; but at Botany, which is sandy country, the water percolates through the sand. The sand acts as a huge reservoir.

386. Then the sand is charged altogether? Well, when it is charged the water flows away; but at Botany the sand acts as a huge reservoir for the immediate receipt, and gradual giving out of the water.

387. Mr. Kelly.] Going on that basis, do you think 10,000 acres a good catchment, with a reservoir impounded between two hills and a creek to catch enough water to supply 40,000 gallons a day? It is a simply proportion sum: If 7,000 acres at 21 inches will supply 3,250,000 gallons, what will 10,000 acres at 10 inches supply.

388. Mr. Jones.] But there is more evaporation at Broken Hill than at Botany? Yes; rather more. I have said 5 or 6 feet for evaporation at Menindie Lake; the consonant we used at Botany was 4 feet.

389. Mr. Kelly.] You say that 10,000 acres should supply at least 50,000 gallons? Yes; certainly much more.

390. If there were any places for impounding water there? Yes.

391. That you do not know? No. Another important thing is the character of the catchment, because the country is metalliferous, and the water may or may not be objectionable.

392. Chairman.] So far as the quality is concerned? Yes. No one could speak of that without positive inspection and analysis of the water.

393. Mr. Kelly.] Are you aware that any arrangements have been come to by the Government to use the water of Speculation Lake by anybody, is it under your department? No, it is under Mr. Moriarty's department. I know that they have put dams to prevent the water receding into the Darling, which were objected to at first, but I understand now that they are a very great success.

394. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] What amount of water do you use per day per head of the population—20 gallons? More than that. The unit of supply was 50 gallons, but I think 70 is now the unit.

395. So that a population of 10,000 people at Broken Hill would be entitled to about 700,000 gallons, taking it on an average at 30 or 40 gallons a day? Mr. Hannah estimated the consumption now at 25,000 gallons a day, and he is a very close calculator, very economical.

396. Chairman.] At Broken Hill? Yes.

397. Mr. Kelly.] They take from the tank there? Yes.

398. The consumption of the people of Sydney you say is about 50 gallons per head? About 50 gallons; 70 gallons are provided for.

CHRISTIAN CHAPEL LANDS SALE BILL.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, for whose consideration and report was referred on the 25th November, 1887, the "Christian Chapel Lands, Sale Bill,"—beg to report to your Honorable House:—

That they have examined the witnesses named in the List* (whose * ee list, p. 4. evidence will be found appended hereto) ; and the Preamble having been satisfactorily proved to your Committee, they proceeded to consider the several clauses and the Schedule of the Bill in which it was deemed necessary to make an amendment.

Your Committee now beg to lay before your Honorable House the Bill as amended by them.

ALFRED ALLEN,
Chairman.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

CHRISTIAN CHAPEL LANDS SALE BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 7 DECEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. ALLEN,		MR. HUTCHISON,
MR. HENSON,		DR. ROSS.

A. ALLEN, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Percy M'Culloch appeared on behalf of the Promoters of the Bill.

Mr. William Canvin called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Mr. M'Culloch.] What are you? Clerk in Messrs. M'Culloch and Company's office.
2. Have you examined the description in the Bill of the conveyance of this land from Mr. Perry to the trustees? Yes.
3. And found it correct? Yes; it is identical.
4. Did Mr. Stephen survey the property? Yes; I instructed him to do so.
5. And he is out of town? Yes; he is in Melbourne, and will not return for a week or two.
6. Did you see his partner, Mr. Ebsworth? Yes.
7. What did he say? He told me that Mr. Stephen would not be back for another week.
8. And he himself could not give you any information? No.

Mr.
W. Canvin.
7 Dec., 1887.

Mr. John Lockley called in, sworn, and examined:—

9. Mr. M'Culloch.] Where do you reside? At Pyrmont at present.
10. What is your occupation? Carpenter and builder.
11. Are you the John Lockley mentioned in this conveyance of the 12th August, 1868, by which certain land in Elizabeth-street was conveyed by Jonathan Stephen Perry to you and others upon a certain trust mentioned in the deed? Yes.
12. He conveyed to yourself and others certain land in Elizabeth-street? Yes.
13. That is the land in respect of which you are now seeking to obtain an Act of Parliament? Yes.
14. The same land? Yes.
15. Chairman.] Has the land been lately re-surveyed? I do not know anything about that; latterly I have not been attending the church.
16. You do not know whether there has been any alteration in the area? No.
17. What is the object in asking for this Bill; what do you desire to do? I believe the church wants to dispose of the ground.
18. Mr. M'Culloch.] You are one of the surviving trustees? Yes.
19. Chairman.] You have no objection to the sale? No; I think it is in the interests of the congregation.

Mr.
J. Lockley.
7 Dec., 1887.

- Mr. J. Lockley.
7 Dec., 1887.
20. You have heard no one object to it? No; I think it is the general wish.
21. Perhaps you can tell what are the difficulties of carrying on worship at that church? The trams are a great nuisance, they interfere greatly with the meetings. Another objection is that the locality is not considered a suitable one for a church. The congregation is subjected to great annoyance from the back, people chopping wood, and making noises.
22. Mr. McCulloch.] Who are the surviving trustees? Matthew Wood Green, George Morrison, and myself. Mr. Wood Green is in America.
23. There is a church or chapel on the land? Yes; it has been there for nearly twenty years.
24. And it has been used for worship by the congregation? Yes.
25. And is now found inconvenient for the purpose? Yes.
26. And it is impracticable to carry out the proposed change without the sanction of Parliament to the sale of the land? Yes.
27. Mr. Henson.] The cost of the present building was defrayed by subscriptions, was it not? Yes; by the subscriptions of members.
28. Chairman.] And of the public? No; they never asked the public to contribute.
29. Where is Mr. Morrison? I could not say; I have not seen him for some time.
30. Is Mr. Morrison agreeable to the passing of this Bill? I think so.
31. Dr. Ross.] We ought to have Mr. Morrison here. We certainly ought to have a majority of the trustees; you are only one of the trustees? Mr. Green, I believe, wrote a letter to the effect that he would be agreeable to the sale of the land.
32. There are two trustees dead? Yes.
33. Since they died has any application been made to the Supreme Court to get substitutes appointed? I believe not. I have never heard of any such application.
34. Has the Bill been submitted to the congregation to receive their approval? Yes.
35. And they approved of it? Yes.
36. What value do you put on the land? I can scarcely say.
37. Approximately? I think from £30 to £40 a foot.
38. What is the area? It has 32 feet or 34 feet frontage.
39. Will it sell well? I believe so.
40. Chairman.] According to your estimate then the land would be worth about £1,200? Yes; exclusive of the buildings. I should think the value of the land and of the building would be £1,800 or £2,000.
41. Is the congregation a very large one? I think the average attendance is 150 or 200.
42. Mr. Henson.] How long is it since you held a meeting of the trustees? I should think it must be nearly fifteen years. There is no necessity for any meeting.
43. Chairman.] You would be consulted if anything had to be done? Yes. On one or two occasions the church and the trustees were called together to take steps with regard to the borrowing of money.
44. Dr. Ross.] Is there any debt on the building now? I could not say; I believe there is not.

Joseph Stimson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- J. Stimson, Esq.
7 Dec., 1887.
45. Mr. McCulloch.] Do you know this property in Elizabeth-street? Yes.
46. In what capacity are you here? I am here as one of a committee appointed some two or three years ago to try and get this Bill passed.
47. A meeting of the congregation? Yes.
48. Chairman.] Was that meeting unanimous? Yes.
49. Mr. McCulloch.] In what way is that chapel inconvenient for the congregation? The chief reason at that time for the desire to get this Bill passed was that the trams caused great annoyance. No lecturer could deliver a lecture in the chapel without the thread of his discourse being broken many times. The fact of there being an incline in the road made the inconvenience ten times worse, because of the amount of puffing of the engines which it caused.
50. The whole of the congregation unanimously desired this Bill to be passed? Yes.
51. You have never heard any complaints or objection whatever? No.
52. And there has been no protest? One person refused to sign the paper, but he said that as the majority were in favour of the proposed sale he would not object to it in any shape or form.
53. Mr. Henson.] Was he a member of the congregation? Yes; he attends the church regularly now, and he offers no opposition to the passing of the Bill.
54. Mr. McCulloch.] You know that the congregation is desirous that the land should be sold, and the money used to buy another site? Yes; they wish us to have the power to do so if we see a suitable site.
55. Where is Mr. Morrison? He is in Redfern.
56. Has he any objection to attend this Committee? He was the one who would not sign the paper; but he does not object to the Bill.
57. Will he have any objection to give evidence, and state that he does not object to the Bill? Not that I know of. I have had no communication with him.
58. And Mr. Green? We have a letter from him.
59. Have you that letter with you? I think it is in your hands. Mr. Green passed through Sydney lately on his way to America, and he said we ought to have been out of that chapel long ago, as there is such a bad neighbourhood at the back. Sometimes stones come through the window whilst preaching is going on.
60. What is the purport of the letter that you received? That Mr. Green had no objection whatever to the proposal to sell the land, but was very pleased to think that we were taking such a move.
61. What was that move? To get power to sell the land and build a place of worship elsewhere. He said it was a pity that the deeds were ever made out where they were.
62. Chairman.] Mr. Green was one of the original promoters there, I believe? Yes.
63. Was it through his instrumentality that the chapel was built? Yes; it was while he was preaching.
64. And when the chapel was built there were no trams there? No. I was worshipping there four or five years before the trams were made; and the trams have made a great difference.
65. Mr. Henson.] Did Mr. Green intimate that he had no objection to your buying a suitable site? Yes; and not only that, if we were anywhere near he would make it his business to come and assist us if necessary.

Rev. John Franklin Floyd called in, sworn, and examined :—

Rev.
J. F. Floyd.
13 Dec., 1887.

98. Chairman.] You are the minister of this chapel? Yes.
 99. How long have you been minister of this congregation? This is my ninth month.
 100. Are the congregation anxious to have this Bill passed, empowering the trustees to sell this property and purchase another site? Yes.
 101. You are acquainted with this Bill? I know nothing of the Bill. I have never read it.
 102. Have you heard anyone dissent from the proposal to sell the ground? As far as I know, the congregation are unanimous. They were to have seen one of the trustees last night, and I learn this morning that they have seen him, and that he has given his written consent.
 103. Do you know Mr. Morrison? Not personally; only as one who attends at the services.
 104. You do not know whether that is his signature? I could not say.
 105. Have you received a letter from another trustee, Mr. M. W. Green? Yes; I have been requested to lay before the Committee the following letter:—

Mr. Charles Woollams.

Dunedin, 12 December, 1887.

Dear brother,

Kindly pardon my delay in answering your letter. In accordance with your request, I hereby resign my position as a trustee of the Christian Church building, in Elizabeth-street, Sydney.

As I and Mr. Perry are the only two who are really fully aware of all the circumstances in the case, and Mr. Perry, I daresay, will not remember them so well as myself, I have wondered whether you could really get an Act passed without my coming over to give evidence before a Parliamentary Committee. If such should be necessary I would try and arrange to come, although it would be better if you can arrange without having to go to such an expense. I sincerely hope you may be successful.

I hope the church is prospering. I shall always feel warmly to the church in Sydney as the scene of my early struggles. My earnest desire for you is that you may faithfully uphold the principles for which we contend, and be greatly blessed and honoured in all your efforts. With kindest Christian regards to all the brethren and sisters,

I am, dear brother,

Yours very sincerely,

M. W. GREEN.

106. Do you know Mr. Green? Yes.
 107. Do you know his handwriting? I have not seen much of his handwriting, but from what I have seen I should take this letter to be in his handwriting.
 108. You are anxious to have the Bill passed? Oh yes; I think it is almost a matter of life and death with us. The disturbances which take place during the services of the congregation are something fearful. You cannot realise it unless you are there. Our Sunday-school is so much disturbed that we have to shout at the top of our voices, and then people cannot hear at a distance.
 109. Mr. Hutchison.] Is it dispersing the congregation? I think so. The situation is a very unfavourable one.
 110. You have not taken any part in reference to this movement for the sale of the land? No; I have taken no action, except in a general way, the matter being in other hands.
 111. Dr. Ross.] Has there been any meeting of the congregation respecting the sale? I believe that meetings off and on have been going on for a number of years; but those meetings occurred before my time.
 112. Have they agreed to the sale of the land? I have not heard a dissenting voice on the subject. There can be none, as far as I know, unless it is that of Mr. Morrison.
 113. What do you value the site at? I could not estimate the value of it.
 114. Have you heard the congregation mention any value? No; I have not.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

CHURCH AND PERKINS STREETS (NEWCASTLE) BILL.

TUESDAY, 18 OCTOBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. FLETCHER, MR. O'SULLIVAN, MR. HASSALL,

J. FLETCHER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

E. Broad, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

George William Webb, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Mr. Broad.] You are the Mayor of the city of Newcastle? Yes.
2. Have you read the preamble of this Bill? I have.
3. What is the object of passing the Bill? To give us power to make a high and low level for Church and Perkins Streets, to make them trafficable.
4. Are the present gradients too steep? Yes; the gradient is 1 in $5\frac{1}{2}$.
5. Some proceedings were taken in the Supreme Court some years ago against the Borough to stop them doing this very thing? Yes.
6. You have read the Appendix A to the evidence of Joseph Creer on a former Bill? Yes. [Appendix A.]
7. Have the Council received any protest against the present Bill? None whatever.
8. Chairman.] Is it a fact that in the absence of this work it is impossible for vehicular traffic to go in that direction? It is utterly impossible.
9. As Mayor of the city do you think that it would be an advantage to the citizens generally to have this work done? I do.
10. Mr. Hassall.] Will the work do any injury to any person? It will do no injury to any one; it will improve property in that direction.

G. W. Webb,
Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.

Edward Scott Holland, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

11. Mr. Broad.] You are Town Clerk of the city of Newcastle? Yes.
12. How long have you held that office? Eleven years.
13. Have you read the preamble of the Bill before the Committee? I have.
14. Are you of opinion that the work is desirable in the mode contemplated by the Bill? I am.
15. And that it will be beneficial to the inhabitants generally? Yes.
16. Have you a plan showing the streets in their present state, and what it is proposed to do? Yes. [Plan produced.] For a distance of about 50 feet it is proposed to have a high and low level at the intersection of Church and Perkins Streets.
17. What is the present gradient? 1 in $5\frac{1}{2}$.

E. S. Holland,
Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.

- E. S. Holland,
Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.
18. What will be the effect if the proposed alteration is carried out; will it be safer? It will be perfectly safe for traffic because there will be retaining walls on both sides of Perkins-street.
19. What is the present mode of getting from Perkins-street to Church-street? By a number of rugged steps; that is the only way.
20. If the proposed alteration be made there will be proper access? The access will be very easy both for vehicular and foot traffic.
21. What will be the width of Perkins-street if the alteration be made? Between the retaining walls 25 feet.
22. What will be the width of Church-street? It will be lessened by 30 feet.
23. What is its present width? 66 feet.
24. What is the provision for footpath? 6 feet.
25. Will the proposed alteration affect the owners of private property? Not at all; it will improve the property.
26. Chairman.] You remember an action being brought against the Council some years ago applying for an injunction? Yes.
27. Do you remember what advice the Judges then gave the Council? They advised the Council to seek Legislative authority to do the work.
28. Is it known to the citizens that the Council are seeking such power as is contemplated by this Bill? It is.
29. Have you had any objections to it? None whatever.
30. When the Bill was previously before Parliament were there any objections to it? There were not in the early stages, but there were at the last when it came on for the third reading.
31. What were those objections? Because the Council sought for power to construct high and low levels in a good many streets.
32. This Bill simply proposes to deal with the intersection of Church and Perkins Streets? That is all.
33. You seek no extended power to deal with any other streets? No.

APPENDIX.

[To the Evidence of George William Webb, 18th October, 1887.]

October 4th, 1869.

THE Mayor also reported that the recent appeal to the Full Court to reverse the order for an injunction made by His Honor Judge Hargraves to restrain the Council from continuing the works in King and Wolfe Streets on the present plan was argued before the Supreme Court on the 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th ultimo, and was, with expression of deep regret on the part of the Judges, dismissed with costs, His Honor the Chief Justice stating most emphatically that, from his own personal knowledge of the locality, and from the information derived from a careful consideration of the affidavits and plans filed on both sides, he had no doubt whatever the Council had pursued the very best course that could have been adopted in the interest of the public, and for the residents in King and Wolfe Streets in particular; and that no plans appeared so good as that of the Council, and advised that the Council should apply to Parliament for authority to construct the streets according to the present design. Judge Faucett fully concurred in the Chief Justice's opinion, and considered that, taking into consideration the extraordinary difficulties the Council had to overcome, they had pursued the best course for the general interests of the ratepayers; and in granting the injunction His Honor Judge Hargraves gave expression to his opinion that the Council had done what they believed to be the very best for the interests of the public, but in his opinion the common law gave them no power or authority to act in the manner they were doing.

The Mayor further stated that also, as the relators had also applied to the Court for an order against the Council to compel it to remove the present wall at the intersection of King and Wolfe Streets, but which had not yet been granted, he should strongly recommend the Council to resist no further, but cheerfully comply with any such order when served upon the Council.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND PROPERTY BILL.

(PETITION FROM CAPTAIN F. R. L. ROSSI, OF GOULBURN, PRAYING TO BE HEARD AT BAR OF HOUSE OR BEFORE SELECT COMMITTEE ON.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 21 June, 1888.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The Petition of Captain Francis Robert Lewis Rossi, of Rossville, Goulburn, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH :—

1. That your Petitioner is an opponent of the Private Bill now before your Honorable House intituled "Church of England Property Bill."

2. That your Petitioner is a Trustee in whom is vested by the Crown for the benefit of a large body of parishioners the Church of Saint Saviour's, Goulburn, and all the lands thereto annexed, which by the terms of the said proposed Private Bill will be subject to be mortgaged or sold irrespective of Petitioner's concurrence or consent.

3. That the necessity or advisability of such a radical and unprecedented change in the method of dealing with Church property as the total ignoring of Trustees (unheard of and unknown in secular instances), is in excess of the setting forth of the preamble of the Bill, and that such Bill if allowed will work most injuriously unless the consent of the Trustees be in all cases required, or the provisions of the Bill made inapplicable to Crown grants.

That your Petitioner therefore prays that your Honorable House will cause inquiry to be made in the premises with a view to the rejection or amendment of the said Bill, and that your Petitioner may be heard in opposition to the Bill, either before the bar of your Honorable House or its Select Committee.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Rossville, Goulburn, 20th June, 1888.

F. R. L. ROSSI,
Captain.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND PROPERTY BILL.

(PETITION FROM DANIEL P. M. HULBERT, M.A., AGAINST.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 3 July, 1888.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales now assembled in Parliament.

The Petition of the undersigned Master of Arts, Student of Laws, and Member of the Senate of Cambridge University,—

MOST HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

1. That your Petitioner has seen with much grief another "Private Bill" presented to your Honorable Chamber, which if allowed to pass would not only subvert the public policy of the State but destroy the conservative character of sundry existing statutes in New South Wales.

2. That the said Private Bill asserts in its preamble a palpable error; for your Petitioner would respectfully remind your Honorable Assembly that their lordships of Her Majesty's Privy Council upon two several occasions gave unanimous decisions in favour of the appellants against the Metropolitan Prelate of Cape Town in Southern Africa, whereby Rev. Mr. Long on the one part, and the Bishop of Natal on the other part, vanquished Primate Gray, the last named respondent being also condemned in costs to more than £4,000 for his temerarious autocracy.

3. That the learned Law Lords assigned as their reason for so deciding, that Her Majesty had no right whatever to issue "Letters Patent" for formation of Bishoprics or Ecclesiastical Districts, contrary to the statutes existing in any Colonial Dependency, possessed of an independent Legislature, and that therefore any such documents produced by Primate Gray, or other similar Prelate so circumstanced, were simply valueless and void in law, and that English Colonial Churches thereby "were in no worse position, or any better position," by being thus placed on an equal footing with any other religious incorporations.

4. Furthermore, your Petitioner humbly solicits your Honorable House to remember that the only "parishes" legally constituted by statutes are those which were created and duly surveyed and mapped in the offices of Her Majesty's Surveyor-General, and that "no Prince or Prelate, State or Potentate," within New South Wales ought to disregard those lawful "parishes" or treat them as if of no legal value whatever for ecclesiastical subdivisions.

5. That it is of gravest consequence not to permit this "Private Bill" relating to English Church Estates, wherein frequent mention of the words "parish and diocese" is contained, there being no church and state within this vast territory, or any superiority of one religious incorporation over another, nor is it sanctioned even by Governor Sir Richard Bourke's "Act of Parliament."

6. That clauses, Nos. 3 and 4 manifestly point out retrospectively a design and latent intention to make legal sundry lawless actions, which have been wantonly and furtively consummated, and that, inasmuch as only in March recently, your Honorable House rejected a smaller measure of intended spoliation from the Crown, your Petitioner begs that similar condemnation of this larger attempt at wrong-doing will be as cordially dealt with by you.

7. That by existing statutes, all moneys accumulated by reason of non-payment to your Petitioner of statutable allowances due to him, either are, or ought to be in Her Majesty's Colonial Treasury to the credit of Trustees appointed by the Crown; but by the "Private Bill" in question, all control over such or other accumulated funds, would be handed over to individual "Bishops," and their own receipts, or those of some deputies, are to be accounted a due and sufficient discharge for "all sales, mortgages, or leases of lands or buildings thereon," contrary to the plain and peremptory precepts of the statutes in esse.

8. That by reason of the scandalous injuries wrought by many prelates in England and Wales, by fines for renewals of leases of divers kinds, the Crown nominated and appointed a Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners, only three or four of whom were or are clergymen, whereby not any English Bishops now have power to lease church lands or buildings of any kind, consecrated or unconsecrated, and at no period of ecclesiastical history in England had any one of the Episcopal Bench power to alienate or sell any real estate or mortgage even half an acre thereof as "security for loans" for erecting any buildings or any other transitory objects of spiritual persons.

9. That no sort of "Incumbent," whether of the Episcopate or Presbyterate hath, by Ecclesiastical Laws of England, any right whatever to deprive his successors of beneficiary interests in lands, churches, or cemeteries, or of any fees and lawful emoluments appertaining to the occupancy and use thereof; and that to pull down and destroy and sell the bulk of the materials of any building erected almost entirely at the public costs, and out of the annual revenues of the Crown in New South Wales, as was lawlessly done by the Commissary Sowerby, was not only grievously injurious to your Petitioner, but a public contempt of the Queen's "supremacy over all persons ecclesiastical and civil" in New South Wales; he, the said Commissary, having had no "Act of Parliament" to authorize such removal.

10. That therefore your Petitioner respectfully solicits your Honorable House on no account to sanction "the absolute powers of sale or mortgage" of any ecclesiastical lands in New South Wales, since it is, and was, manifestly the intention and design of the Crown to re-enter upon and utilize for other "State purposes," any "forty or more acres," designated "glebe lands," or what not besides, whenever circumstances might arise to justify such policy; even as was done by the resumption of the 400,000 acres of "church and school lands," whereby your Petitioner was painfully deprived and mulcted after having been allotted by the Crown £50 a year for eighteen years, by authority also of the Legislature; his name having been produced to your Honorable House as one of the beneficiaries entitled to such allowance of £50 per annum out of those revoked estates.

11. That by section 21 of 8 William IV, the Crown commanded that whensoever any such devoted lands by improvements yielded more than £150 per annum for one officiating minister, then that—"The clergyman who was next licensed to officiate in the church or chapel, the first clergyman consenting as aforesaid, and after so securing the £150 aforesaid to the first clergyman, shall be paid a yearly stipend of £100 sterling, such second officiating minister being in the same township or ecclesiastical district." Your Petitioner was so appointed by the Governor Denison "by and with the active consent of the Rev. Wm. Sowerby, the first clergyman"; all the outlying adult persons pertaining to Commissary Cartwright and William Sowerby signing, and duly accepting his own ministrations, whereof the records in attestation exist in Her Majesty's Registrar-General's and the Auditor-General's offices, and other documents, and yet not £1 of the surplus income, "beyond the £150 per annum," was ever paid duly to himself.

12. Once more, by 20 Victoria, No. 4, 14th December, 1857, two years after the arrival of your Petitioner in Goulburn district, the Crown and the two Houses of Parliament thus decreed in clauses 5 and 6:—"It shall not be lawful for any trustees of church lands in New South Wales, either directly or indirectly, by any contract or warrant of attorney to encumber or borrow money thereon, or in any other way to charge the estates as a security for any loan whatever."

Your Petitioner consequently most humbly prays your Honorable Assembly to take all the above premises into your serious consideration, that you may perceive it is not without just cause and very righteous indignation he protests against the passing of any such "Private Bill"; and that you therefore will maintain and uphold the existing statutes in their integrity, in order that Her Majesty and her successors may retain authority over these "church lands."

And your Petitioner will ever pray.

23rd June, 1888.

MANLY, pro GOULBURN.

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

COOMA CHURCH OF ENGLAND LANDS SALE BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 27 JUNE, 1888.

Present:—

MR. DAY,		MR. COLLS,
MR. BARBOUR,		MR. HUTCHISON,
		MR. STEVENSON.

GEORGE DAY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR:

Henry Dawson, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] What are you? I am a solicitor, and a member of the Assembly.
2. You are a member of the electorate of Monaro? Yes.
3. You are aware of the object of this Bill? Yes.
4. Do you know anything about the land? I have known it all my life.
5. Have you any recollection of the time when it was purchased? No.
6. How far is it situated from the present Cooma Church? One portion of the land referred to, which is the 37 acre block mentioned in the second schedule of the Bill, is about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the church, and about 3 miles from the parsonage.
7. Then, from your knowledge of the land, it is perfectly useless for church purposes situated as it is? Yes.
8. The object of the trustees is to dispose of the land and apply the proceeds for the purpose of paying off the debt on the present church? Yes, and to apply the proceeds to other church purposes. There is a small debt on the parsonage.
9. The money is to be applied to church purposes? Yes.
10. I suppose the trustee can make no use of the land? No, he can get no rent for it. I produce the plans. I may say that the land is not within the town boundary of Cooma. The parsonage is in Murray-street.
11. Are you aware whether all the proper notices in accordance with the law have been given, and proper advertisements put in all the papers? Yes, that has been done.
12. Have you received notice of any objections to the sale? None whatever; the whole of the congregation interested are in favour of it.
13. If there had been any objection to the sale you would have heard of it? Yes. It has been advertised both locally and otherwise.
14. Mr. Stevenson.] I believe there is only one surviving trustee? Yes, only one.
15. Mr. Colls.] Have you a glebe connected with the church? No. This land was bought in 1858. Cooma was then a very small place. It was intended for a glebe, and it was bought with church means. The town of Cooma went north instead of going south. They have built another church and formed a new burial ground, and this land is of no use whatever.

Esq., M.P.

27 June, 1888

Robert Dawson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- R. Dawson,
Esq.
27 June, 1888.
16. Chairman.] You have lived at Cooma for a number of years, I believe? Yes; I lived there before it was proclaimed a township at all, and I have been there forty-nine years.
 17. You were police magistrate at Cooma? Yes; up to thirteen months ago, when I retired.
 18. How long were you police magistrate at Cooma? Thirty years.
 19. And you became one of the trustees of this portion of land? Yes; myself, the Commissioner of Crown Lands, Mr. John Lambie, and Mr. Francis Smith, were the trustees, but they are both dead.
 20. And you are the sole surviving trustee? Yes.
 21. Do you remember when the land was purchased? According to the deeds, which are here, it was purchased on the 21st June, 1858.
 22. Mr. Barbour.] And what is the date of the Crown grant? 29th December, 1858.
 23. Chairman.] Then this land was purchased from the Government with private money? Mr. Druitt purchased the land himself and paid for it, because he wanted a piece of land to run a horse on. There are 37 acres. He also purchased with his own money a piece of land for a glebe, to run his cows on. Since then the parsonage has been moved into Cooma, and the land is perfectly useless.
 24. Then he bought the land, and it was conveyed to you, John Lambie, and Francis Smith, in trust for church purposes? Yes. There are two pieces, one of 37 acres and the other of 14 acres.
 25. Have you any recollection when the old Church of England was built? As near as I can say, about the year 1842.
 26. It was anticipated then that the town would go in that direction? Yes. When they selected that land there was a township laid out, but there was only a hut or two on it. The site was thought a nice one, the scenery being pretty. The township went in another direction, 2 miles away, and the place was left with the church standing, and no other building near it.
 27. And it was found difficult to use it for church purposes, so it was abandoned altogether? Yes; no services have been held there for years.
 28. And it was found necessary to build another church 2 miles further down the creek? Yes. They have built a good church in the town.
 29. Do you find it necessary now, on account of not being able to make anything out of the land, to ask Parliament to enable you to sell it, and use the money for church purposes in the town? Yes.
 30. Is there a church debt? There is a debt due on the parsonage.
 31. And your object is to sell the land and devote the money towards defraying the debt on that church? Yes.
 32. Mr. Hutchison.] Is the church finished? No; there is a tower to erect. The church has been built thirteen or fourteen years, but we never had the money to finish it.
 33. Chairman.] The proceeds of the sale of the land are to be devoted to paying off the existing debt of the church, and to other church purposes? Yes.
 34. What are the other church purposes? The parsonage house.
 35. But every shilling is to be devoted to church purposes? It is all for church purposes. We have £500 in the Bank at interest, which is intended for the erection of the tower, which will cost £1,000.
 36. What do you mean by other church purposes—do you mean to pay off the debt on the present church? There is no debt at present, except that we are in want of a further sum towards the erection of the tower. When the land is sold we may have enough to complete the whole thing. We may also have to put a new roof on the church.
 37. Mr. Colls.] Can you form any idea what amount the land will realize? I have no idea; I suppose about £2 an acre—altogether a little over £100.
 38. Chairman.] You have already had a Bill passed? Yes, and these lands were omitted.
 39. If it had not been for some mistake, the land would have been included in the Bill? Yes, and that would have saved us all this expense.
 40. Do you remember how long it is since that Bill was passed? About two years.
 41. I suppose you have taken all the necessary steps to get the matter advertised in the papers? Yes, I believe that has been done.
 42. You are still residing in Cooma? Yes.
 43. Have you heard any objection to the sale of the land? Not the slightest.
 44. Have you conferred with the Archdeacon? Yes; it is his wish that the land should be sold.
 45. And you have heard of no objection from anyone? Not a single objection.

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

GOULBURN AND TUENA TRAMWAY BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 13 JUNE, 1888.

Present:—

MR. STEVENSON,
MR. COLLS,
MR. BALL,

MR. HOLBOROW,
MR. JEANNERET,
MR. TEECE.

R. STEVENSON, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

G. E. Russell Jones, Esq., Solicitor, appeared on behalf of the Promoters of the Bill.

Griffith Evan Russell Jones, Esq., sworn and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are the Solicitor for the Bill? Yes.
2. You have published the necessary advertisements in the local and metropolitan newspapers as well as in the Government Gazette? Yes.
3. You have also paid into the Colonial Treasury? Yes.
4. You prepared the Bill? Yes; it was prepared in our office.
5. The contents, as far as you are aware, are perfectly true? Yes.
6. Is it actually necessary for the development of the mineral resources and the commercial interests of the district of Tuena that greater facilities for transit than now exist should be provided by the construction of this tramway? I believe so.
7. The persons whose land the line will traverse are set out in the schedule appended to this Bill? Yes.
8. Any interference with their rights, I presume, is provided for in the form of arbitration or otherwise? Yes.
9. Have you received any communication from any one signifying a desire to oppose the Bill? No.
10. Do you expect that the construction of this tramway will increase the revenue of the Government railways? I am led to believe so.
11. I see by a clause of the Bill that the gauge of this proposed tramway is 3 feet 6 inches? That, I believe, is an error. We want to make it 4 feet 8½ inches.
12. If the Government should construct a railway from Goulburn to Crookwell, would the promoters of the Bill be willing to connect with Tuena from that point? I should think so myself; but that is a question that Mr. Griffin will be able to answer.
13. If it were found necessary to widen the gauge provision is made for such in the Bill? We wish to widen the gauge at once; to have that clause altered so that the gauge will be wider.
14. Before commencing the tramway a survey will be made, and a map and book of reference open for public inspection? Yes.
15. Would the construction of this tramway have a tendency to give an advantage to a large number of persons in the development of the mineral resources of Tuena and the neighbourhood? I am informed so.
16. The preamble of the Bill sets forth that it is necessary for these gentlemen to develop the resources of this district that they should have the power to construct this tramway? Yes.

G. E. R. Jones,
Esq.

13 June, 1888.

John

John George Griffin, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

J. G. Griffin,
Esq.
13 June, 1888.

17. Chairman.] You are one of the promoters of this Bill? Yes.
18. Mr. Teece.] Can you give us any idea of the quantity of traffic there is likely to be on this tramway? We anticipate a very large traffic from Tuena of mineral directly, and in taking coke and other things to the mine, different materials which would be required for making houses and so on, plant required for machinery, and goods for the use of the people who have settled there. There is a large population there, and it is likely to increase. We anticipated that we should have something very much like the Broken Hill traffic—a largely increasing one. Up to the present time it has certainly been increasing very much.
19. Chairman.] Are you a resident of Sydney? Yes; I am Mayor of Manly.
20. Mr. Teece.] Can you give us any estimate of the population settled? The population now, commencing at Peelwood, would be about 200; at Cordillera Hill, about 500; between Cordillera Hill and Mount Costigan, about 300; and at Mount Costigan, about 800. These are all engaged in mining, or connected with mines. Probably they would be mostly miners and their families, and the tradesmen supplying them. This population is largely increasing. Six months ago I know there were not 400 people there, and a year ago there were not 50, or at any rate there were not above 100, except at Mount Costigan mine.
21. Chairman.] Are you acquainted with the proposals contained in this Bill for the construction of this tramway? I am.
22. Have you had an opportunity of forming an opinion as to whether the proposal is acceptable to the people of Tuena and the surrounding neighbourhoods? I have heard every expression of opinion favourable to it.
23. You are not aware of anyone likely to oppose it? I have not heard of a single person objecting to it, neither directly nor indirectly.
24. Can you point out any beneficial results that are likely to accrue to the public? I think that the opening up of a district such as that, which has been neglected for many years, from an agricultural and a pastoral point of view, as well as a mining, would make it of very great service to the public generally.
25. Would the fact of the construction of this tramway tend to cheapen carriage? Very considerably so. At present there are 60 miles of land carriage.
26. Of course you have already said that it would stimulate the mining industry? Largely.
27. Are you aware what the freight per mile is at the present time, and what they propose to charge in this Bill? We have sent a good deal of goods up, but I cannot tell per mile exactly what it costs. I know that we expect to reduce the price from 50 to 75 per cent. on the land carriage, that is to say, from Goulburn to Tuena. I could find that out exactly from our own books.
28. Is the traffic large in the way of carriage on this line? It has very largely increased, especially the carriage of coke.
29. You have to take the coke for smelting purposes from Newcastle? All the coke comes from there. A very large quantity of coke goes both to the Cordillera and Costigan mines, both of which are smelting. It is not as if these mines were only scratched on the surface, but they are sending back bullion and concentrated ore.
30. Then I take it that the construction of this tramway will cheapen the smelting of these ores? Very largely. That is the main object of it, to cheapen carriage to and from the mine. I might mention to the Committee that there is 9 miles of mineral country, all of which in one line is taken up, besides various offshoots. That 9 miles contains a variety of companies whose capital would amount to approaching a million, and the bulk of that money has to be spent yet in the construction of a variety of things connected with mines.
31. I presume there is no wood or natural resources in that district for making coke? There is plenty of wood there, but it is not suitable for smelting purposes.
32. Where does your coke come from principally? From Newcastle.
33. Then it has to traverse all the Government railways? It has to come all over the Government railways. The experiments we have made with coke, made somewhere in the vicinity, have not been satisfactory. It will benefit the railways very much; besides that it will bring the bullion back, and that is a heavy item.
34. There is carriage both ways then? Yes.
35. Have you more than one smelting furnace? There are two smelters at the Cordillera and two at the Costigan mine now, and there will be smelters at the various other mines.
36. Have you any idea of what the average consumption of coke is per week or month? It is very much increasing; it increases enormously as they go on smelting.
37. Is the country between Goulburn and Tuena heavy in wet weather? Yes; parts of it very heavy.
38. Of course this would increase the carriage very much, which you would tend to cheapen? In very wet weather it is much more expensive.
39. Have you any idea what saving the tramway would effect in the cost of smelting? As coke is the chief item in smelting, it would reduce the cost by 25 or 30 per cent.
40. I think you said, in answer to Mr. Teece, that you could not state what the cost per ton was for carriage? I cannot from memory; I shall be able to find out in a very short time; in fact I do not have anything to do with the carriage of goods that are sent out.
41. It is not only the cost of carriage, but also the length of time the teams are on the road? Yes.
42. Are there any other gentlemen in the company besides those named in the Bill? Not at present. It is contemplated to form a company. It was simply to arrange the preliminaries for the introduction of the Bill that we confined the company to these persons.
43. The company is actually formed? Yes, in that form.
44. These names are put forth simply to comply with the law? They are the names of the sole promoters.
45. I presume that the road is practically a bush track? A good deal of it is metalled.
46. If the Government should construct the railway to Crookwell, would the promoters of the Bill be willing to connect with Tuena from that point? Yes.
47. Mr. Jeanneret.] You propose to alter the gauge? The gauge is, or should be, 4 ft. 8½ in.
48. Do you propose to take the main road at all for the tramway? No; the plan does not go by the main road. It goes generally through the valleys. We do not interfere with the main road in any way.
49. Where do you propose that the terminus of the tramway shall be? We have specified Tuena, but for our own purposes Costigan will be far enough.

ON THE GOULBURN AND TUENA TRAMWAY BILL.

50. How would you get from Crookwell to Tuena? Instead of going right into Crookwell, we would have J. G. Griffin, Esq. to start at the watercourse and follow the creek round.
51. Mr. Teece.] Your surveyed line and the line surveyed by the Government for their railway from Goulburn to Crookwell are almost identical as far as Laggan? Yes. 13 June, 1888.
52. What distance is it by measured line from Goulburn to Laggan? I think it is about 25 or 26 miles.
53. What will be the distance from Laggan to Tuena? About 35 miles.
54. In the event of the Government constructing their railway to Crookwell, what would you do? Half of it is done. We do not want to run parallel with the Government railway. If they make their line, we will start from where they leave off; but we think that we shall construct our line much quicker than the Government will construct their railway.
55. Mr. Jeanneret.] But suppose you construct your tramway from Goulburn to Crookwell or Tuena, and the Government should determine to construct a railway along the same route, what would be your course then? I do not think that it is at all possible. If the Government begin to construct within a reasonable time after we get our Bill we shall not attempt to begin there; but if the Government delay, and we commence our line, and they proposed afterwards to construct theirs, they would take our line from us, because we should construct our line in exactly the same strength and character as if it were a railway.
56. You would be willing to hand over to the Government at cost price that portion of the tramway? I do not say at cost price; we never contemplated such an eventuality as that. I am quite sure that it can be easily met. If it should arise, we should not stand in the way.
57. Mr. Holborow.] If you were certain that the Government would construct a line from Goulburn to Crookwell, and you saw that tenders were called for the work, and you had your Bill, I suppose you would be prepared at once to start from Tuena? Yes. Directly we find that the case we shall abandon the part which the Government propose to construct.
58. You want railway communication to your mines as early as possible? Yes.
59. Mr. Ball.] Do you have any difficulty at the present time in procuring vehicles sufficient to transport goods from the railway station at Goulburn? Sometimes we have a lot of goods delayed, and we have passengers delayed. The accommodation at present is not adequate to meet the requirements of the traffic. I refer more particularly to the goods traffic.

MR. COLLS,

MR. HOLBOROW,
MR. JEANNERET,
MR. TEECE.

R. STEVENSON, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

G. E. Russell Jones, Esq., solicitor, appeared on behalf of the Promoters of the Bill.

Alfred Austin Gallagher, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

60. Chairman.] What are you? A mining broker.
61. Do you know the district between Goulburn and Tuena? I do. I had a few particulars of the amounts paid for the carriage during the last twelve months in connection with the Costigan mine. The land carriage between Goulburn and Tuena was 2,242 tons, at about £2 10s. a ton, £5,602 18s. 7d. The amount of the railway freight from Sydney to Goulburn paid by the company was £2,093 7s. 5d., making a total of £7,696 6s. A. A. Gallagher, Esq. 14 June, 1888.
62. Mr. Barbour.] You mean to say that that is the gross? I have taken the tonnage on the different routes during the twelve months. The average rate paid is £2 10s. a ton, but we have paid as much as £3 10s. a ton.
63. Mr. Holborow.] That estimate is for four months, is it not? It is for thirteen months.
64. Chairman.] Have you any great difficulty in getting goods carried? Yes, great difficulty. At one time the works were stopped completely for want of coke. We estimate that the carriage will be nearly doubled this year, as we are doubling the plant at the mine. That would make the amount of freight for the year over £15,000.
65. Mr. Holborow.] Is there not a large amount paid for return carriage? Yes, £912. I put that at 20s. at the very lowest, the weight being about 76 tons a month.
66. Chairman.] Do you think it absolutely necessary to pass this Bill in view of the increasing trade of the district and the development of the mine? I do.
67. Of course the construction of the tramway would largely increase the traffic on the railway? Yes, because all the stuff would go by Goulburn instead of by Newbridge.
68. Mr. Barbour.] Are there other ways of reaching Tuena than viâ Goulburn? Yes; you can go to Newbridge.
69. Is that place nearer to Sydney than Goulburn? No; it is further from Sydney. There is a difference of about 5s. 6d. in the railway freight.
70. Have you used that road? Yes. We have used both roads. We were so hampered for want of supplies that we were obliged to do so.
71. Chairman.] Have you any idea of the amount which has been paid for carriage on the line? I have taken the whole on the two routes and put them together. We should send the whole of the stuff viâ Goulburn if this tramway was constructed.
72. Mr. Holborow.] You have only mentioned the Mount Costigan mine. Have you anything to do with the Cordillera? No; I am speaking only of one mine. The Cordillera Company have been getting more stuff than we have.
73. Mr. Barbour.] What would you estimate as the gross freight paid by all the companies together during the last twelve months? £12,000.
74. How many tons would that represent? About 3,200. 75.

- A. A. Gallagher, Esq.
14 June, 1888.
75. Does half of that belong to the Mount Costigan mine? We have had about two-thirds, but in the future our share will only be one-half.
76. Mr. Colls.] What would be about the weight of the machinery that has gone through your hands? Only about 10 tons—say 20 tons for stores and other stuff; that would leave a good margin.
77. Chairman.] What population is there in that district? I should think about 2,000. We have about 100 employed at the mine.
78. Mr. Colls.] What you send most is store goods? We send coke.
79. Chairman.] Are you aware that a large quantity of coke is waiting at Goulburn requiring conveyance? I believe so; but it is not for us; it is for the Cordillera Company.
80. Mr. Barbour.] Where does the coke come from? Newcastle—the Co-operative Colliery. We get some also from the Singleton Coke Company.
81. Mr. Holborow.] The amount of tonnage which you have stated only comes from your mines, it does not include the traffic of the inhabitants? No.
82. Mr. Ball.] Are you aware that there are other mines working besides those you have mentioned? I understand that the Peelwood Mine will soon be ready for smelting, and there are mines for 10 miles there which will eventually be ready for working.
83. Chairman.] It is a very large mineral district, I believe? Yes. About 15 miles of it have been taken up.

W. A. Harper, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- W. A. Harper, Esq.
14 June, 1888.
84. Chairman.] What are you? A civil engineer.
85. Are you acquainted with the Tuena Tramway Company? Yes; I selected the route.
86. Have you any plans showing the route? Yes.
87. Do you produce the plans as exhibits? I do; I produce the plan of the proposed Government line from Goulburn to Crookwell. It is a copy of a Parliamentary plan.
88. You ask to be allowed, if the Government do not construct this line, to carry the tramway on the same route? Yes.
89. Do you also produce a plan of the route from Tuena to Laggan? Yes.
90. That is, from the point where the Government propose to construct a railway from Goulburn to Crookwell, is it not? Yes; about 3 miles from Crookwell.
91. That is a survey of your own? Yes.
92. In the event of the Government constructing the proposed line from Goulburn to Crookwell, are you aware whether the company are willing to carry the line from that point? Yes, they are.
93. I presume that that is the reason why you have only taken the survey from Tuena to Laggan? No. I think the Company wished to construct it the whole way, but I could not improve on the other route. We will adopt this from Goulburn to Crookwell, if we can get it.
94. Mr. Barbour.] And you have made a further survey on your own account from there to Tuena? Yes.
95. The plan you have produced shows that survey? Yes.
96. What is the character of the line—will it be easy or difficult to construct? It is very easy for about 25 miles. The total distance from Sydney is 201 miles. From Laggan, the junction, to Tuena township is 39 miles.
97. Do you know what the distance is from Laggan to Goulburn? It is about 32 miles.
98. Do you know what the distance is from Goulburn to the junction? 28 miles.
99. Mr. Colls.] Is the land all taken up there? No; there is a great deal of Crown land between Laggan and Tuena.
100. Is the schedule to the Bill prepared in accordance with the plans you exhibit? Yes; I prepared the schedule.
101. Mr. Barbour.] What would be the character of the tramway? Sixty-pound rails will be used.
102. The same as on the Government railways? The same gauge, but lighter rails.
103. Is it called a light line? It may be regarded either as a light railway or a tramway.
104. Mr. Jeanneret.] Does the line run through the present township of Peelwood? No.
105. How far off will it go? About 2 miles. They were anxious for the survey to go through Peelwood, but it could not be done.
106. Why? Because it would have been a bad position for the line. It would have necessitated altering the whole of the line. We took it as near to the township as we could get it.
107. You cannot get the railway to the township then? We could run a branch line to Peelwood.
108. You will put a siding there? Yes; we are anxious to do that.
109. Will the terminus be in the township of Tuena? Just on the boundary of the township.
110. How far from the present telegraph office? I do not know; I have never been into the town.
111. Does it go near the school? No; it goes just to the boundary.
112. Chairman.] Do you know what the gauge is? Four feet eight and a half inches, the same as that of the Government lines.
113. Mr. Jeanneret.] Is there any difficulty about taking the line right into the town? No, none at all. We only stopped on the boundary because it was a good place to start the line from, and no arrangements had been made to take land.
114. But if there is no difficulty about the land I suppose you would run the line right into the town? Yes. It is practically in the town.
115. Chairman.] Will you look at clause 3 of the Bill? How do you account for the difference between the statement there that the gauge of the line is to be 3 feet and your statement that it is to be 4 feet 8½ inches? I was not aware that there was any idea that the gauge should be 3 feet. It must be a misprint.
116. Mr. Barbour.] Then the gauge mentioned in clause 3 is an error? Yes; the gauge is to be 4 feet 8½ inches.
117. Mr. Jeanneret.] I understood you to say that if there was no difficulty about the land you would run the tramway into the town of Tuena? Yes.

Charles Augustus Goodchap, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

118. Chairman.] You are Commissioner for Railways? Yes.
119. Have you seen a copy of the Tuena Tramway Bill? Yes.
120. Have you read it? Yes.
121. Have you any objection to the Bill as proposed? I should say that it would be very undesirable to pass the Bill in view of the circumstance that the Government have proposed to construct a line from Goulburn to Crookwell. There certainly would not be room for two railway lines there.
122. You are not aware, I presume, that the projectors of the Bill are willing, in the event of the Government carrying out the line from Goulburn to Crookwell, to connect at that point. Would your objection in that case apply? No; that is the course that I was going to suggest.
123. I think you had better make to the Committee any statement on the subject which you have to make? I think it would be a desirable course that the company should construct a line from Crookwell to Tuena; but I should suggest that the gauge should be 4 feet 8½ inches, and I think that running powers should be taken over the line by the Government similar to those granted under Bennett's Act, the measure which authorized the construction of the line from Granville to Roschill. I should insert clause 13 of Bennett's Act in this Bill mutatis mutandis. A scale of tolls should be prepared for agricultural produce, minerals, coke, coal, firewood, and perhaps sand and timber, and there should be a rate not exceeding twopence per ton per mile. That would be a miscellaneous class. I think it should also be stipulated that in the classification of goods relation should be had to the classes of goods contained in the Government classification. Such as are in the first class under the Government classification should be in the first class of goods mentioned in the Bill; and the second and third and fourth classes in the Government classification should be in the corresponding classes under the Bill. Otherwise we might find goods which should be in the first class put into the fourth class, and a larger amount charged for their carriage than would be reasonable.
124. Mr. Barbour.] Would you suggest that there should be more classes? I suggest an addition to those in the Bill to include the articles I have named.
125. Then you would suggest that the same classification should be adopted as is used on the New South Wales Railways? Yes.
126. And as to the rates? I should leave them to be fixed by the company, but not to exceed the amount named as the maximum. I would put a clause in to the effect that the maximum rates are to include the terminal charges. The rates proposed are very high. There has been a dispute in England as to whether the charges on the railways include the terminal rates. No doubt they intended to include them, but the companies have been charging not only the maximum rates under their Acts, but extra sums for terminals, which have been very much objected to by the trading community. It will be necessary to insert a clause in the Bill to provide that the charges shall include terminals.
127. Could that be put in as an addendum? Yes, as an addendum to the classification. I think that the clause referring to the purchase of the tramway by the Government at a future time should also be made similar to the 32nd clause of Bennett's Act. This Bill gives no power to resume, except after the expiration of twenty-one years from the passing of the Act. Bennett's Act gives power to the Government to resume the line at any time.
128. Chairman.] Have you any idea what the trade is at the present time in connection with the proposed line? Yes; I estimate that the trade between Goulburn and Crookwell would amount to something like £40,000 a year.
129. Do you know whether there would be any difficulty in getting away the coke and such things as are carried up at the present time? Yes; I believe there is a very great difficulty in getting it to the mines, and I think it may be accepted as an axiom that where traffic of an agricultural or mineral character has to be brought 20 miles otherwise than by rail or water it will not be remunerative.
130. Have you any idea as to the amount paid to the railways in connection with the mines at the present time? I am not in a position to state that.
131. Mr. Barbour.] Looking at it from a general point of view, your opinion is that such a line would be beneficial to the country? I have no doubt about it: a line from Goulburn to Crookwell will be a very remunerative line. Beyond that point the country is not agricultural—it is mineral; and its success will depend upon the character of the mining operations.
132. Chairman.] I understand from the evidence you have given that you would raise no objection to the line being continued by the company from that point? No; provided that it is continued on the same gauge, and the rails are laid down not lighter than 60 pounds to the yard to admit of Government rolling stock going over them.
133. Mr. Jeanneret.] You said that you had no doubt that the extension of the line from Goulburn to Crookwell would be remunerative. If the Bill is passed, then unquestionably this company will have power at once to construct the line. How do you propose to reconcile your intention to construct a line with the powers which are to be given to the company? I understand that the company do not now propose to go from Goulburn to Crookwell.
134. It would be of no use constructing a line from Crookwell to Tuena unless the railway were extended from Goulburn? They will have 33 miles to construct.
135. Yes; but they will not be likely to wait for the Government to proceed with theirs? I see the company, in the Bill, ask to be allowed five years to construct the line.
136. If power is given to the company to construct the line, either the Government should go ahead with their portion, or the company should be allowed to do so? Five years is given for the construction of the whole line. I should put in a stipulation that in the event of the Government agreeing or undertaking to construct a line to Crookwell within two years that portion of the Act should not be operative.
137. Mr. Barbour.] As I understand your evidence, you object to the line being made from Goulburn to Crookwell, as the Government intend to make that line? Yes.
138. But you have no objections to this line from Crookwell to Tuena? No.
139. Should the Government decide not to make this line within the next two years, you do not see any objection to the company being authorized to do it? I think two years a reasonable time.
140. Mr. Teeco.] The company proposed to join at a point 162 miles from Sydney. On the line there is a valuable unsold Government village reserve. In your opinion, would it be more advantageous to the Government

- C. A. Goodchap, Esq.

- Government if they were to effect a junction at that reserve? That I am not prepared to give any opinion upon at present. If you get a private line you will have power, under the Government Railways Act, to come in at any point that may be agreed upon.
141. Mr. Jeanneret.] Supposing these powers are given to the Tuena Tramway Company, and they immediately construct a line from Tuena towards Crookwell, will that hasten the carrying out of the Government line from Goulburn? I could not say.
142. If the traffic was coming down, the Government would be desirous of getting hold of it, would they not? Undoubtedly.
143. Chairman.] From what you know of the matter, you have no doubt that the line will be adopted? Yes; from the information which will be given to the Committee I am quite certain that it is a line that will be approved of.
144. Mr. Holborow.] You estimate the traffic from Goulburn to Crookwell to amount to about £40,000 a year? Yes.
145. But you do not include the revenue to be derived from the Tuena and Cordillera mines? I have, in part. I put it down at the very lowest possible amount. I calculated that the revenue from that source would be about £7,000 a year.
146. Mr. Teece.] Have you any information from the Railway Department as to the increase of revenue from Goulburn this year, as compared with last year? I have not. I think there is an increase.
147. Mr. Barbour.] As to the point of connection, you prefer that to be decided by the Government engineers? Yes.
148. Chairman.] Do you know the distance from Goulburn to Crookwell? Yes; it is 33 miles.

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

GRAFTON SCHOOL OF ARTS TRUSTEES ENABLING BILL.

TUESDAY, 13 DECEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. H. CLARKE,		MR. S. W. MOORE,
MR. M'FARLANE,		MR. SEE.

J. SEE, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. J. F. Thomas, Solicitor, appeared on behalf of Mr. J. M. Curtis, agent for Messrs. Meillon & Laman, Solicitors for the Bill.

Mr. James Francis Thomas called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] What are you? I am a solicitor, and clerk to Mr. J. M. Curtis, who is agent for Messrs. Meillon & Laman, of Grafton, the solicitors for the Bill.
2. Will you kindly tell us what you know about the object of the Bill? I have no personal knowledge, but Mr. Curtis has received written instructions to counsel to draw the Bill.
3. Will you kindly tell us what those instructions are, or the material parts of them? They are as follows:—

Mr.
J. F. Thomas.
13 Dec., 1887.

"It would appear that some years before the date of the Crown grant the land had been dedicated as the site for a School of Arts, and in or about the year 1860 the Committee erected a small lecture hall, together with wings on either side, consisting of some four rooms, which were used as a reading-room, Committee-room, class-room, and library respectively.

"In the year 1870, the number of members having considerably increased, and greater accommodation being required, the then Committee of Management, after obtaining the sanction of the members of the institution, caused an addition to be made by the erection of a two-storey brick building (in front of the hall), which answered the purposes of the institution fairly well for some time, but for several years past it has been felt by the members of the institution that there is great need of further enlargement in order to provide increased accommodation for classes in connection with the Technical College, and also for lecturers on scientific and instructive subjects, and for other necessary purposes of the institution; and further, that the present buildings are in such a bad state of repair that unless the necessary reparations and additions are made within a short time the cost of carrying them out will be materially increased.

"It was therefore decided, by a resolution carried at a general meeting of the members held on the 22nd September last, that steps should be taken to obtain Parliamentary authority enabling the trustees to raise by mortgage or otherwise upon the security of the freeholds belonging to the institution, a sum not exceeding £3,000, to be devoted under the direction of the Committee for the time being, and as it may deem fit towards carrying out the additions, alterations, and improvements provided for in certain plans and specifications prepared by Mr. Blackman, architect, Sydney, subject to such deviations as may be found necessary in respect to the foundations and front of the main building.

"Of course all money to be borrowed will be spent on buildings only.

"Since

Mr.
J. F. Thomas.
13 Dec., 1887.

"Since the foregoing case was prepared, instructions have been received from the Committee that they would like to have inserted in the Bill a power to sell the land, either privately or by auction, with usual clauses protecting purchasers; but that before any sale can take place the resolution authorizing it must have been passed by a majority of two-thirds of the members present and entitled to vote at a special meeting of members, fourteen days' notice of which should be given by advertisement in two separate issues of at least one local newspaper, and have been confirmed by a like majority of the members present at a subsequent special general meeting, of which a similar notice has been duly given as aforesaid, and held at an interval of not less than fourteen days, nor more than one month, from the date of the meeting at which such resolution was first passed."

4. Has that been done? It simply says here that instructions have been received from the School of Arts Committee that they would like to have that inserted in the Bill.
5. Does the schedule contain a correct description of the land referred to in the Bill? It corresponds with a copy of the description in the grant as given to us.

John McFarlane, Esq., M.P., sworn and examined in his place:—

- J. McFarlane, Esq., M.P.
13 Dec., 1887.
6. Chairman.] You are acquainted with Grafton? Yes.
7. And you know the School of Arts there, and the condition of it? Yes. I was Secretary to the Grafton School of Arts for a considerable time.
8. Do you know of your own knowledge that the members are anxious to obtain power to sell the site or mortgage it for the purpose of improving the institution? Yes; and I may say that the building is sadly in need of repair. It was so four years ago. The front wall is cracked.
9. And the foundations have sunk? Yes; the sinking was the cause of the cracking of the wall.
10. That is in consequence of the sandy nature of the soil? Yes; it is a bad foundation, a sandy foundation. The Committee of the School of Arts obtained the services of an architect from Sydney, Mr. Morell, to specially report upon the building, and he strongly recommended that either a new building should be erected or that substantial support be given to the wall.
11. And the back part of the building—the hall part—is altogether insufficient for the requirements of the place? Yes; it is too small.
12. You have read the preamble of the Bill? Yes.
13. And you have told us that the building is in a bad state of repair, and that you know of your own knowledge that the Committee are anxious to acquire the powers which this Bill will give? They have been so for the last four or five years.
14. And you know of no objection on the part of anyone to this power being given them? None whatever.
15. Mr. Moore.] You say that the present condition is unsuited to the requirements of the institution? Yes. The hall is far too small; it is overcrowded with only 200 or 300 people, and it is reckoned that a hall suitable for the place should accommodate 600 or 700 people. In fact public meetings on any particular question have to be held in the theatre, which is a building of a very temporary character.
16. Mr. H. Clarke.] But independently of the condition of the building you think it necessary to borrow a certain sum of money to either repair the old building or to make additions to it? Yes.
17. Chairman.] Or to obtain power to mortgage or sell? Yes.
18. Perhaps a more suitable site might be obtained than the present one? Possibly; but I do not think so. There were several lengthy discussions about obtaining a new site, but the majority of the members always seemed to be under the impression that the present site was most suitable.
19. It is central, but not so elevated as some of the other sites that might be obtained? There are some higher sites. I think it is intended to sell only a portion of the land; I do not think it is contemplated to sell the whole. It is a very large block of land, and if a portion of it were sold there would still be fair accommodation for the new building.
20. The site is a very valuable one? It is one of the best positions in the city; it is at one of four corners equally good.
21. It is at the corner of Prince and Victoria streets, and near to the post-office? Yes; almost adjacent.
22. Mr. Thomas.] You mentioned that the foundation was sandy;—might it not for that reason be desirable to purchase another site? A foundation of that nature can always be remedied by making a concrete foundation, but of course it entails the expenditure of a large sum of money.
23. Chairman.] That would scarcely be the reason for selling it. It would probably be because the site is so valuable that they might purchase another eligible site of less value? I do not know the opinion of the members at the present time. I am speaking of four or five years ago. It was proposed at that time to change the site, and a good many members were in favour of it; but the majority were against it.

(2.) Mr. Ellis presented another Petition, in reference to this Bill, from the Reverend Sydney Calvert Jackson Grime, and Frances, his wife, and William Howard Greenway, and Charles Sweetland, all of Newcastle, praying that the House will either reject this Bill or amend the same, by restricting the quantity of land to be taken under its provisions to sufficient for the construction of Hunter-street, and by making better provision for securing the due and prompt payment of the compensation payable thereunder.

Petition received.

VOTES No. 75. TUESDAY, 10 APRIL, 1888.

2. HUNTER-STREET NEWCASTLE EXTENSION BILL:—

(1.) Mr. Hassall presented a Petition from Alexander Ogilvie Grant, of Parramatta, praying that the Hunter-street Newcastle Extension Bill may not receive the sanction of the House without such alteration as may secure to the Petitioner the right of compelling the Borough Council of Newcastle to purchase all or so much of the several allotments as will not destroy the value of the land, and at such fair prices as may maintain for the Petitioner his income as life tenant, and protect the interests of the tenants in remainder.

Petition received.

VOTES No. 78. TUESDAY, 17 APRIL, 1888.

8. HUNTER-STREET NEWCASTLE EXTENSION BILL:—Mr. Hawthorne, for Mr. Levien, presented a Petition from Alexander Ogilvie Grant, of Parramatta, representing that he has presented a previous Petition against the passing of the Hunter-street Newcastle Extension Bill as it at present stands, and praying that he may be heard by Counsel or Attorney before the Select Committee appointed to report on the said Bill.
- Petition received.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

HUNTER-STREET NEWCASTLE EXTENSION BILL.

THURSDAY, 15 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

MR. CREER,		MR. ELLIS,
MR. HENRY CLARKE,		MR. FLETCHER,
	MR. SLATTERY.

J. FLETCHER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

Henry Buchanan, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined.—

1. Mr. Broad.] I believe you are the Mayor of Newcastle? I am.
2. How long have you been an alderman of Newcastle? About four years altogether.
3. Do you know whether the object proposed in this Bill, namely, the extension of Hunter-street, has been long before the Corporation? It has been before the Corporation off and on for the last ten years. They have been trying to arrange to get this street through.
4. I believe the post-office, the court, and the banks are all situated close to the present terminus of Hunter-street? Yes.
5. If the street were extended in the way proposed by this Bill much easier access to these institutions would be afforded to a great number of the inhabitants? Yes.
6. What course at present do persons residing near the sea take to reach these public buildings? They have to go round by Scott-street.
7. That is a much longer distance round? Yes. The first block of land we seek to take the street through is 11 chains by 5 chains in extent.
8. Referring to the plan appended to the Bill, what is the block marked deep red at the end of the plan? Those are buildings on the proposed extension.
9. Where does the drainage from these buildings go to? It makes its way down into the centre of the block which we propose to open, the block marked deep red. The centre of this block is much lower than Watt-street.
10. If the proposed extension were carried out, would the Corporation be able to devise a better system of drainage? Yes.

H. Buchanan,
Esq.
15 Mar., 1888.

H. Buchanan, Esq. 11. Has the Corporation received any medical report as to the insanitary condition of this locality? Yes. I have two reports on that subject, one from Dr. John Harris, and the other from Dr. Beeston. They are as follows:—

15 Mar., 1888.

Newcastle, 13 March, 1888.

HAVING been practising in Newcastle since 1875, I have repeatedly observed that the site of the proposed extension of Hunter-street, between Watt-street and Pacific-street, is one of the most unhealthy spots in this city, owing to the fact that it is a hollow which is completely without drainage. It is, moreover, the site of several miserable tenements, which are built in lanes or back yards, and which should not be inhabited by human beings.

For several years I have recommended any patient of mine living there to remove at the first available opportunity. If it were only to get rid of this abomination, the extension of Hunter-street is advisable; but, in addition, it will give facilities for draining the surrounding houses, which is, indeed, badly needed. On sanitary grounds, I consider the extension of Hunter-street will be of the greatest value.

JOHN HARRIS, M.D., &c.

His Worship the Mayor of Newcastle,—

Watt-street, Newcastle, 14 March, 1888.

In answer to your request that I should report on the proposed extension of Hunter-street, I have to state that in my opinion the proposed Act, if carried out, will be one of the greatest boons we have had in the city, looking on it merely in a sanitary point of view.

Last year, when typhoid fever was so prevalent here, the greater part was located in and around the district which this extension purposes opening up.

The city would also get the benefit of the sea breeze in its purity, without having, as at present, to be satisfied after it has passed over the present unhealthy area.

I am, &c.,

JOSEPH L. BEESTON, L.K.Q.C.P.I., &c.

12. Has a valuation been made as to the probable cost of the resumption of this land required for the purpose of the extension? Yes.

13. What is the amount of that valuation? About £33,000.

14. Notwithstanding this probable cost the council are of opinion that it is their duty to go on with the scheme? Yes. The council are convinced that it will be a benefit to the city, by improving its sanitary condition, and by affording better ventilation by allowing fresh air from the sea to go right through Hunter-street.

15. And it will provide direct access from the most important street of the city to the sea-shore? Yes.

16. Mr. Ellis.] Will the cost be £33,000 after you have carried out the scheme in its entirety, after the resumption and resale of the land? No; that is only the cost of the resumption.

17. Then you are not taking into consideration what you are going to get back? No.

18. Mr. Broad.] How do the council propose to raise the necessary funds for this resumption? We ask in the Bill for permission to borrow the amount until we repay it from the sale of the frontages to the street.

19. They also ask in the Bill for power to resume more than is actually required for the purpose of this extension, with the idea of reselling the land at each side of the proposed street? That is the object; but at the same time the lines of the allotments do not go on a line with the street, and by taking the street through it would leave but a very narrow allotment on each side.

20. But still there would be portions of land left not required for the scheme, and which you could resell? Yes.

21. And you think at a profit—something that would go in reduction of the cost? We do not expect any profit so long as we carry out the scheme.

22. I understand that it will be necessary to take up the gas and water pipes in Pacific-street, Telford-street, and Lane-street? Yes, and also to take up and relay the gutters.

23. And you are prepared to compensate all the owners of private lands for any land you may resume or any injury done to their adjoining properties? Yes.

24. Mr. Ellis.] With regard to the £33,000, has there been any calculation made as to what it will really cost the borough after the resale of the resumed lands? There has not been any estimate made of the length of the street which is to be made.

25. You expect the cost primarily to be £33,000; how much do you expect to get back? I could not say.

26. There has been no calculation made? No; it would all depend upon the price the land would bring.

27. Is the reserve marked on the plan through which the proposed street will run a Government reserve? Yes. It is the old night-soil paddock.

28. Is it vested in any trustees or reserved for any particular purpose? I could not say.

29. Has the Government been communicated with with regard to the right to go through this reserve? I was not in office when it was applied for, and I do not know.

30. Mr. Creer.] Hunter-street is the main business street of Newcastle? Yes.

31. And there is no doubt that if this proposed extension is made it will become a portion of the principal street of Newcastle? Yes.

32. And business places being built upon it the outlay will be recouped in the shape of rates in a few years? The rates would meet the outlay for making the street in a very short time.

33. Mr. Ellis.] What about the frontages that will be created when the street is carried through the Government reserve? We ask for power to resell the other frontages in order to recoup the citizens the £33,000, but I do not think we should have any power to resell the frontages of the reserve.

34. I am asking what your idea is as to what should be done with those frontages? My idea is to make a reserve of them, to continue the land as a reserve, and also to carry the bus stand there.

35. Has night-soil been deposited on this reserve lately? No; not for eighteen months. It is grown over with grass.

36. Mr. Slattery.] What is the distance from Hunter-street to Zaara-street? 17 chains.

37. Are the mayor and all the aldermen of Newcastle unanimously of opinion that this land should be broken up and the extension of the street carried on? There is only one dissentient in the council.

38. How many members of the council are there? Twelve.

39. So that eleven are in favour and one against the proposal? Yes. He is not against opening the street; he is only against the way in which we ask that it should be done.

40. You as mayor and ten aldermen besides are in favour of the extension, and the one objecting councillor is not opposed to the opening of the street, but takes a different view as to how it should be done? Yes.

41. Chairman.] I think you said that Hunter-street was the main street of Newcastle? Yes.

42. Do you know of your own knowledge whether there has been a strong agitation on the part of the citizens of Newcastle for years past to get Hunter-street continued to the beach? Yes; there has been such an agitation.

43. Is it the general opinion that by continuing Hunter-street from its present terminus to the beach the health of the people of Newcastle would be promoted? Yes, this is the opinion of the citizens, and also of the medical officers residing there. H. Buchanan,
Esq.
15 Mar., 1888.
44. It is proposed to take a larger area of ground than is required for the street—do I understand that the reason of that is that there will be several narrow strips left, and the council, in order to deal fairly with the land-owners, propose to take in this particular block so as to continue the street straight, and also to prevent injustice being done to the landowners? That is the intention.
45. With regard to the Government reserve, I understand you to say that you only seek to put the street through it, and that it is the intention that the severed portions on either side should still continue a reserve? Yes, that is the intention of the council at the present time.

Edward Scott Holland, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

46. Mr. Broad.] You are town clerk of the Borough of Newcastle? Yes. E. S. Holland,
Esq.
15 Mar., 1888.
47. How long have you occupied that position? Twelve years.
48. How long has this question of extending Hunter-street been before the council in any definite shape? About ten years.
49. Do you think that the necessity for the extension has in that time increased to any appreciable extent? Yes, it has.
50. In what way do you think the proposed extension will principally benefit the inhabitants of the borough? It will benefit them in a sanitary point of view.
51. And in any other way? By providing a direct outlet to the sea.
52. Is it proposed to effect improved drainage? Yes; when this extension is made it is proposed to carry the whole of the drainage from that locality into the sea.
53. Would there be a much easier access from the beach to the principal street of Newcastle? Yes; there would be a direct route right through.
54. The principal public buildings, I believe, are situated in Hunter-street? Yes; the banks, the court-house, the post-office, and many others.
55. Is there any considerable population down by the beach who would be benefited by the extension? There are many building sites which will be utilized as soon as this extension is carried out.
56. And the value of these building sites would of course be much enhanced by the formation of the street? Yes, considerably.
57. If this Bill passes, do you think the council will be able to dispose of to advantage what may be called the surplus land that would be acquired under it? Yes, I think so.
58. Would the sale of that land in any measure recoup the council for the outlay? Yes, I think it would recoup the council.
59. Mr. Ellis.] Was any objection raised in the council to resuming more land than was absolutely necessary for the street? The question was carried in the council almost unanimously.
60. That you should resume land on each side of the street? Yes, on each side.
61. Was that question raised in the council? It was mentioned in the speech of one of the aldermen.
62. Was it debated? There was some slight debate upon it—some reference to it.
63. You are aware that the proposal is to take more land than is absolutely necessary for the street? Yes.
64. And when the proposed extension was agreed to by the council this fact was distinctly before the aldermen? Yes; it was mentioned by one of the aldermen in his speech.
65. Was it distinctly before them and debated? Yes, it was.
66. Chairman.] You are aware that a petition has been presented to the Legislative Assembly against the passing of this Bill? Yes, I have heard of it.
67. Do you know the contents of that petition? No.
68. You are aware, I presume, that it asks the Legislature to reject or amend the Bill? I was not aware that the petitioners wished to amend the Bill in any way.
69. Have you, as council clerk, a reasonable opportunity of ascertaining the feeling of the citizens outside the council in this matter? Yes, I have.
70. Have you good reasons for believing that a large majority of the people are in favour of the continuation of Hunter-street? Yes, a very large majority.
71. Has the council received any notification from the citizens, by petition or otherwise, against the powers sought under this Bill? None whatever.
72. Then I understand you to convey to the Committee the opinion that the council are in accord with the people in seeking to get this Bill passed through Parliament? Yes.
73. Mr. Creer.] You remember that this matter was brought before the council at least ten years ago? Yes, about ten years ago.
74. Do you recall the reasons why at that time the council could not purchase the first block—Croasdill's block? I think it was on account of the exorbitant demand made for the land at that time.
75. Do you remember if any objection was made by their agent on the ground that they could not sell as they had no power under the will of the late Mr. Croasdill? There was something about not having power to sell, and the family were very much scattered, and there was no real power to part with the land.
76. Chairman.] Then, are the Committee to understand that in consequence of the will of the late Mr. Croasdill, preventing the trustees from selling this land, the Municipal Council require the Bill, as the only means by which to resume the land, and get this street through? Yes, it is the only means.
77. I believe that so far as the council are aware there can be no sale until the children are of age—Mr. Cann's children? Yes; that is a back block through which the street will pass.
78. Am I correct in saying that some of the children are only six years of age? Yes; they are very young.
79. Then the council are of opinion that if they were to wait until the young children became of age this land might at that time be very much enhanced in value with buildings upon it, so that the continuation of the street would be almost impossible? Yes; it would be impossible under the circumstances, except at an enormous cost.

80. Mr. Ellis.] Do you know anything about any negotiations, or attempted negotiations, with the Croasdill family in which they were content to give the council what land is required under this Bill, if, in return, they got the frontages facing the reserve; do you know anything about any negotiations of that sort? Only in the shape of a conversation; no application to the council has been made.
81. Would the council have power to enter into any negotiations of that character? I do not think so.
82. The reserve is a Government reserve, and the council have no control over it? Yes.

Lancelot Alexander Wilkinson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- L. A. Wilkinson, Esq.
15 Mar., 1888.
83. Mr. Broad.] I believe you are the surveyor who was employed by the borough council to make the survey for the purposes of this Bill? Yes.
84. The coloured plan attached to the Bill is a correct plan of your survey? It is a lithographed copy of my plan; I believe it to be correct.
85. Do you hand this plan into the Committee as an exhibit? Yes.
86. What is the nature of the land on each side of the proposed extension after passing Zaara-street;— is any of it suitable for building purposes? It would be. The land on the left-hand side would be a magnificent site for building purposes.
87. And, in your opinion, would the extension of Hunter-street in the direction proposed enhance the value of this land for building purposes? Yes, it would.
88. Would the construction of these works in any way interfere with the traffic of the borough in these cross streets while they were going on? No; I do not think they would materially interfere with the existing traffic.
89. And you think that the whole of the works proposed by this Bill could be compensated for by money payments—that is to say, that no injury would be done that money could not compensate? I do not think there would be any extraordinary injury.
90. Chairman.] Would any damage be done that money could not compensate? No, not that I am aware of.
91. You are aware that the council are asking for power to take more land than is necessary for street purposes. When making your survey, did you pay any particular attention to the system of drainage as it then existed? No; I did not pay particular attention; I observed it in a casual sort of way.
92. Were there any sanitary arrangements for surface or other drainage? Between Watt-street and Pacific-street the drainage was very bad, and most offensive.
93. According to the plan, it is in this particular section that the population is mostly located at the present time? Yes.
94. You say that the drainage there is very defective? Very defective, in fact there did not seem to be any drainage at all.
95. Is the drainage from the dwellings, consisting of house slops, &c., allowed to find its way off the ground the best way it can? Yes; it is only taken away by evaporation and what slight soakage there may be.
96. Are you aware that it is the intention of the council when constructing the street to make proper sanitary arrangements? I believe they intend to take steps to bring this locality into a healthy state.
97. You say that from your observation you believe that this street will be a great advantage to land-owners through whose property it is proposed to carry it? Yes; it will be a great advantage to these people, and it will give a quicker access to the town.
98. Is it your opinion that the continuation of this street from Watt-street to the ocean will be an advantage to the citizens generally? Yes, I think it will be a very great advantage to the whole city.
99. You are aware that a larger area of land is asked for than would be required for the formation of the street? Yes.
100. Is it a fact, according to your plan, that by merely taking the strip of land required for the street, say a chain wide, the result would be that narrow strips of land would be left along the side of the street? Yes.
101. Properties would be left very narrow, and in some instances almost three-cornered in shape? They would be narrow strips. There might be some variation in shape, but they would not be exactly three-cornered.
102. I understand you to say that if you had only taken the width of the street you would have left very narrow strips in many allotments, and thus injured the property-owners very considerably? Yes; it would have rendered some quite useless.
103. Mr. Slattery.] They have no drainage at the present time, and then they would have perfect drainage? Yes.
104. Mr. Ellis.] What would be the width of the strips on each side? Some of them would go about 19 feet. They would be 19 feet by 160 feet.

John Frogley, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- J. Frogley, Esq.
15 Mar., 1888.
105. Mr. Broad.] You are a land valuer? Yes. I am a builder and contractor, and land valuer for the Municipal Council of Newcastle.
106. Acting under instructions from the council, did you in May last make a valuation of land which is proposed to be resumed by the Bill now before the Committee? Yes.
107. Is this a copy of the valuation which you made? Yes, it is a true copy.
108. The total amount of the valuation there stated is £32,777? Yes.
109. Is that a fair and just valuation according to your belief? Yes, at market rates.
110. And in your opinion the council will not be called upon to pay a larger sum than the amount of the valuation? Not for the land and properties.
111. Not in the aggregate? No.
112. Do you think that the amount which you have put down would amply compensate the persons whose land was taken? Yes; we made a very good allowance. There was some land sold, about 200 feet from this land, in Watt-street for £30 a foot. We have allowed these people £60, and we have made a similar allowance in proportion all through.
113. And you have taken into consideration what you may call contingent damages. You have not put a hard-and-fast sum. You have allowed ample for anything you consider they could possibly claim? Yes.

114. Do you put your valuation in as an exhibit? Yes. (Appendix A.)
 115. Mr. Ellis.] You have had considerable experience in Newcastle in valuing property? Yes.
 116. You have been a resident of Newcastle for a good many years? For twenty years, and I built a great part of it.
 117. Chairman.] Do I understand that the valuation you have given is more than the property would realise at public sale by auction? Yes; it is slightly above what it really should be, so as to make sure that there would be no after consequences.
 118. Mr. Ellis.] You think the valuation is slightly above what the property would fetch? Yes.

MR. ELLIS.

J. FLETCHER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Earnest Broad, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

H. J. Brown, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Petitioners against the Bill.

Henry Joseph Brown, Esq., sworn and examined:—

119. Chairman.] What are you? I am a solicitor, residing at Newcastle, and solicitor for the Petitioners against this Bill.
 119½. Will you state to the Committee the objections which the Petitioners have to the Bill? The Petitioners are Messrs. Charles Sweetland and William Howard Greenway, who are trustees of land which will be affected by the Bill. They are trustees of the pieces of land marked on the plan No. 4 and No. 6 William Croasdill, and No. 3 Edward Davis. They are trustees for the daughters of the late William Croasdill, one of whom, Mrs. Frances Grime, is in Newcastle. My clients do not object to the street being carried to a certain distance, that is to say, as far as Zaara-street, but they do object to any land on either side being taken by the council compulsorily for purposes of speculation. The Bill deals with two sets of reserves—one set vested in the council, and the other set still apparently vested in the Crown. The Bill does not empower the council to sell the land on either side of the part of the street that goes through the reserve vested in them, but it gives power to take and sell on either side of the part going through the Crown reserve leading down to the water's edge. Supposing this were done, and the council made the road and sold the land on either side, it would practically form a barrier in the middle of the most important place of recreation belonging to the Crown. The part shown on the plan as the site of the old gaol has a precipice of about 50 feet at the front, facing the sea, and is very precipitous on either side, and, in fact, is so within a few feet of where the edge of the proposed road would go. There is also a very steep ascent to it from about Zaara-street. I think, therefore, that if the street were carried simply to Zaara-street and there stopped, it would be as far as it should go in the public interest; there would be a danger of sand-drift if it went further. There is a mistake in the Bill in speaking of Lane-street, where, I suppose, Zaara-street is meant. There has been a subdivision of the block between Telford-street and the reserve, and if an additional chain on either side, as proposed, be given, there will be portions of each block there left on the hands of the original owners. I think also that the owners of the land proposed to be taken ought to have some notice given to them. The Bill does not provide for any such notice. The Bill does not provide for consequential damage; it simply provides for payment for the land taken, but not for damage to any building or any other injury that may be sustained by the land at either side. I think that the council ought not to be allowed to take possession before they pay for the land, and this, I believe, is the usual custom in such cases. As it is, the property of my clients is the only place where there are houses, and the council might be for twelve months in possession of the rents, and my clients be without their money. There would have to be some other alterations in the framing of the Bill to meet the case. The 2nd clause provides as follows:—"That the said council shall at their own expense replace and restore the said pavements, gutters, pipes, and mains after the construction of the said new street." Well, they might not do that for years. I think also that the provision in the 4th clause that the street should be "open and dedicated" ought to be amended, and the words "fit for traffic within eighteen months" substituted, because the houses might be pulled down and the place left waste for an indefinite time. The clause states, "upon its completion, or within twelve months," but the land may be open and dedicated, but the street may never be completed. There is also a little matter with respect to arbitration. There is no provision as to what shall be done in case both arbitrators should fail to make their award within a given time; that is a matter which ought perhaps to be seen to. There are many clauses having reference to arbitration, but this is not among them. Then, in clause 15, there is an apparent inconsistency. The clause states:—"All costs of any such arbitration and incidental thereto to be settled by the arbitrators shall be borne by the council, unless the arbitrator shall award the same or a less sum than shall have been offered by the council, in which case each party shall bear his own costs incident to the arbitration, and the costs of the arbitrators shall be borne by the parties in equal portions." I do not know what distinction there can be between the cost of arbitration and the costs of the arbitrators, unless the arbitrators' fees are meant, and these, of course, would naturally be part of the arbitration expenses. I think that the words in the latter part of the clause should be struck out. Perhaps it would be better to strike out the arbitration clauses, and simply say that the arbitration should be in accordance with the Arbitration Act. Clause 22 gives the council power to purchase any lands adjacent to the lands included in the schedule. This, of course, would come in with the objection to their taking any land at all for selling purposes. If the Committee think that they should have power, then perhaps it will be as well to leave it in, because otherwise there might be little bits which might be left on the hands of the original owners. I notice that although it is professed that power is not required to sell any part of the public reserve vested in the council, yet the plan shows the full width through these reserves as well as through other places—the width of the street, and the chain on either side—as shown in this plan of Newcastle, which I hand in to the Committee as an exhibit.

Brown, Esq.

H. J.
Brown, Esq.
22 Mar., 1888.

120. Do I understand that your clients merely object to resuming more land than is required, or do they object absolutely to the construction of the street? They do not object to the construction of the street if it is considered to be in the public interest that it should be constructed; but they object to more land being taken than is required for the work.

121. If no power is given to take more land than is required for the street, is it not probable that narrow strips will be left on either side which will be virtually useless? I am not sure. That might obtain, no doubt, in some cases, but, on the other hand, by taking the chain on either side, as proposed, the difficulty comes in again. There will be about 25 feet frontage to Watt-street on one side, and, I suppose, about 41 feet on the other.

122. If the council only take 1 chain, the value of the remaining portion of the property on each side of the street would, I presume, be enhanced? It might, or it might not. If it were it would be so much the better for the owners, and so much the better for the council, because the council would then get heavier rates; and inasmuch as there are some valuable houses all along this frontage, the more land you take the more houses you pull down, and the more people placed in difficulties to find a place to go into.

123. Then, as a resident of Newcastle, and one who thoroughly knows the locality, is it your opinion that the requirements of the public would be met by taking only 1 chain? I think so. I think they would be better met.

124. Mr. Creer.] There is nothing in the Bill which makes it compulsory that the council should take 3 chains? The third clause states:—"The lands described in the first schedule hereto, and delineated on the plan in the second schedule hereto, with such right of ingress, egress, and regress upon the adjacent lands as may be necessary for the making and repair of the said street, shall, by virtue of this Act, and without the necessity of any conveyance, be vested in the said council and their successors in office in fee-simple upon the passing of this Act."

125. But that could be met by saying "or any portion thereof"? No; you would have to specify the quantity to be taken, otherwise there would be uncertainty as to the extent of the land the council would take.

126. Mr. H. Clarke.] Are you clearly of opinion that it would not be desirable to resume any land beyond that actually required for the extension of the street? Yes, and as far as Zaara-street only.

127. Mr. Ellis.] Under this Bill, would the council have power to sell the frontages on each side of the reserves? Yes, singular to say, they would have power to sell the portion of the reserve which is still vested in the Crown, but would have no power to sell the portion of the reserve vested in themselves.

128. Chairman.] In what part of the Bill is this provided? Clause 27 gives the council power to sell any lands they may have purchased under this Bill, and that they do not require for the new street. Clause 28 gives the council power to lease these lands, and clause 29 provides that the powers to sell given in the 27th section should extend to the Crown Lands. Then clause 30 says:—"The powers of sale and demise contained in the twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth sections shall not extend to the lands which the council holds for public purposes." Therefore, under these provisions the council would have no power to sell the portions of their own reserves.

The Rev. Sydney Calvert Jackson Grime called in, sworn, and examined:—

Rev.
S. C. J. Grime.
22 Mar., 1888.

129. Mr. Brown.] Your wife is interested in a portion of the land proposed to be resumed by the Newcastle Municipal Council for the purpose of extending Hunter-street? Yes.

130. Do you know the views of the other ladies who are interested in the subject? No, I do not.

131. But so far as your wife and yourself are concerned, what are your views? That the street should go through, but that we should not be losers so far as compensation is concerned.

132. You object to the Municipal Council taking the whole of your property? Yes.

133. Do you think that it would be in the public interest that the street should be extended right down to the water's edge, as shown on the plan? Certainly not.

134. How far do you think the street should go, in the public interest? I think as far as Zaara-street, where it impinges upon the beach.

135. From Zaara-street to the place marked on the plan as the gaol, is there any incline? Yes, there is a considerable incline. It is very steep.

136. What is the nature of the land? It appears to me to be almost conglomerate. I do know whether it is on account of anything that has been placed there in later years, since the gaol was built, but it is of a very rough nature.

137. Any sand? No; I did not see any sand.

138. Not on the hill? No; not as far as I remember, not on this side.

139. Supposing the street to the width of a chain went through your land, could you say how much would be left on either side? As far as I remember, about 25 feet on the one side and 41 feet on the other.

140. And that would be useful for building purposes? Yes.

141. Then as long as the street is only made to this distance you will have no objection to the passing of this Bill? None whatever.

142. Are you desirous that the street should go through? Yes.

143. You think it would be a good thing? I think so.

144. Chairman.] You say you think it would be a good thing if the street went through this particular property? Yes.

145. And your only objection to the proposal is owing to their desire to take more land than is actually required for street purposes? Yes.

146. If they contented themselves with only taking a chain wide your objections on behalf of yourself and your wife would cease? Yes.

147. You say that in your opinion Hunter-street should only be continued as far as Zaara-street. Why should it not go to the beach? Simply because you would have to go over a large hill, or else tunnel through it, and that portion of the hill, I am given to understand, is a reserve, and the proposed street would divide that reserve which at the present time is for the use of the people, and would run right round as far as the fort. The street would run right through that particular reserve, which is a reserve on the side of the beach. I do not think that would be advisable.

148. You say it is very rough and steep before coming to the reserve. Do you think that all things being equal, if the council saw its way clear to make a passable road beyond Zaara-street it would not be desirable to go closer to the beach? No; I certainly do not think so.
149. Mr. Broad.] Do not the Government contemplate making a drive round this hill? I have heard so.
150. And this street, if extended, would intersect that drive? Zaara-street would be almost on the drive.
151. But if the street were extended across to where the goal site is, would it not intersect the Government drive, and so be a convenience to the people? No; I do not think it would be any public convenience.
152. In what way would the public be injured if the council saw their way clear to make a road through? They would intersect the reserve, which is now a reserve for the public, I believe extending right round the coast.
153. But the street would merely intersect the Government drive? Yes, but it would go through the Government reserve.
154. But the Government are going to make a drive round the reserve, how would it injure the public if there was another road to intersect the Government drive? There is no necessity for it, because if you take a direct line you will find that at Zaara-street the road line is almost impinging upon the beach, therefore that point seems the natural terminus of the street, without going over the hill, which is high, and, I think, rather an ornament to the coast-line.
155. Mr. Brown. Have you gone to the extreme point of this hill? Yes.
156. Can you say whether it has a gentle slope or is precipitous? It appeared to me to be rather precipitous.
157. Chairman. Could not the sand be filled up and the size of the reserve increased considerably if the council had power to go down there? It might be so.
158. Mr. Ellis.] There is a certain amount of danger in interfering with natural land marks on the coast? Yes; that is one of my reasons for mentioning it. I do not think that it is advisable to interfere with the natural formation of the coast, because we might have what we have had in another place at Newcastle—a sand-drift.
159. Chairman.] I presume that you have no other reasons than those you have mentioned for objecting to continuing the road beyond Zaara-street? No.

Rev.
S. C. J. Grime.
22 Mar., 1888.

Charles Sweetland, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

160. Mr. Brown.] You are manager of a bank at Newcastle? Yes.
161. And one of the trustees for the daughters of the late William Croasdill, owners of the land, part of which is intended to be resumed under this Bill? Yes.
162. Have you, as a trustee, any objection to sufficient land being taken for the continuation of the street? No.
163. Do you object to any more land being taken? Yes.
164. How far do you think it would be prudent, in the interests of the public, to carry this street; do you think it would be prudent to carry it to the water's edge? No; I think that if it was carried as far as Zaara-street it would be quite sufficient.
165. It would then impinge on the beach? Yes.
166. Have you noticed what the incline is beyond Zaara-street to the top of the Gaol Hill? Yes; but I do not know the exact height. It is very considerable.
167. Have you noticed the sea side of the hill? Yes; frequently.
168. Is that steeper than the other? Yes.
169. Would it be possible to take a road down that side of the hill? Oh, no. You might go through the hill, but certainly not down the hill.
170. Assuming that the street were extended only to Zaara-street, and proper compensation paid, you would have no objection, as a trustee, to this Bill? No.
171. But as a trustee you feel it your duty to object to more land being taken than is required for the street? Yes; I object to more land being taken than is required for the street.
172. Chairman.] I understand that you are speaking as a trustee? Yes.
173. In what way can the land of which you are a trustee be affected by continuing the street beyond Zaara-street? It cannot be affected by carrying the road beyond Zaara-street; that is, I suppose, a matter of public interest. The only thing I am interested in is the street through the estate.
174. You speak as trustee of the estate? Yes.
175. But I understood you to object to an extension of the street beyond Zaara-street? No; I did not. I was only asked what I thought.
176. Then do I understand you to say that if the council only resumed the 66 feet for road purposes through the estate of which you are a trustee you would have no objection to the street being so made? No, no objection; provided, of course, compensation were given.
177. Mr. Creer.] Do you not think that if the street were carried to the hill steps could be made down to the beach? You can make a ladder anywhere.
178. Do you not think it is advisable that there should be some outlet to the beach? Yes, I think it is.
179. I believe there is no outlet to the beach from Scott-street? No.
180. Nor from King-street? No.
181. Nor, in fact, from any other street in the city? No.
182. Do you not think that if the road were carried down to the beach an outlet would be afforded to crowds of people on holidays, and that it could be made in such a way that while affording easy access it would beautify the city, and be a considerable advantage in connecting the beach with the main street of Newcastle? Yes, I think it would.
183. Mr. Ellis.] Then why do you think that the street should not go further than Zaara-street? On the ground of economy. I did not see how they were going to build a street over a hill 50 ft. or 60 ft. high.
184. Then did you consider that the outlet from Zaara-street would be sufficient? Yes, I thought so then, but of course if they chose to expend money to go over the top of a mountain and down to the beach it would be a question for the Corporation to take into consideration.
185. You do not think any public evil would result by doing so, that it is only a matter of expense? That is all. It has been said that the sand might drift in there, but I do not think anything of that.

C. Sweetland,
Esq.
22 Mar., 1888.

C. Sweetland, 186. Mr. Broad.] It was stated in evidence that the drainage of the property of which you are trustee was very defective. If the street were extended as proposed would it not enable the council to materially improve the drainage of the locality? That is a matter for a skilled man to say.
 22 Mar., 1888. 187. Is not the drainage very defective there? No; it is very good at present. At one time it was defective.

APPENDIX A.

[To Evidence of John Frogley.]His Worship the Mayor,—
Sir,

Newcastle, 16 May, 1887.

In accordance with your instructions, we have made a valuation of the land and property which would have to be resumed by the proposed extension of Hunter-street to the sea.

The extent of land to be resumed is 3 chains wide, from the east side of Hunter-street to the sea.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

HUNTER-STREET, NEWCASTLE, EXTENSION BILL.

(PETITION AGAINST—REV. S. C. J. GRIME AND OTHERS)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 7 March, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Humble Petition of the Reverend Sydney Calvert Jackson Grime, and Frances, his wife, and William Hazard Greenway, and Charles Sweetland, all of Newcastle,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

1. That a Bill has been introduced into your Honorable House to enable the Borough of Newcastle to construct a street continuing Hunter-street in that Borough, from its present termination to the sea-shore, and for that purpose to acquire and re-sell certain lands, and to raise certain loans.

2. That your Petitioners are interested, either as trustees or beneficiaries, in certain of the lands proposed by the said Bill to be taken for the construction of the said street and for the purposes of lease or sale.

3. That your Petitioners do not object to sufficient land being taken from them for the construction of a street, should it be considered desirable to do so in the public interest, yet they respectfully urge that it is unjust and contrary to public policy that any Borough Council should be authorized to take lands against the will of the owners simply for the purpose of selling or otherwise dealing with the same, or to expend the ratepayers' money for any such purpose.

4. That the said Bill makes no proper provision for the speedy payment of any compensation to be awarded to the owners of land taken, and your Petitioners respectfully submit that the said Bill should be so amended as to require payment for land taken to be simultaneous with taking possession, otherwise your Petitioners may not only lose the rents of their land on which several buildings are erected, but may also lose for an indefinite time interest on the purchase money.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased either to reject the said Bill or to amend the same by restricting the quantity of land to be taken under its provisions to sufficient for the construction of the said street, and by making better provision for securing the due and prompt payment of the compensation payable thereunder.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray; &c.

W. H. GREENWAY,
CHAS. SWEETLAND,
SYDNEY C. J. GRIME,
FRANCES E. GRIME.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

HUNTER-STREET NEWCASTLE EXTENSION BILL.

(PETITION IN FAVOUR OF—RATEPAYERS, NEWCASTLE.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 7 March, 1888.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Ratepayers in the Municipality of Newcastle, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

1. That there is now a Bill before your Honorable House having for its object the resumption of certain land, in order that a street at Newcastle, called Hunter-street, may be extended in the direction of and as far as the shore of the Pacific Ocean.

2. That the opening up of such extension will afford facilities for the better drainage of a considerable block of land thickly populated in the Municipality.

3. That currents of air from the ocean, in the direction of Hunter-street (which is the main thoroughfare in the City) are now completely intercepted by the houses on the east side of Watt-street, on the site of the proposed extension, and the ventilation and sanitation of a considerable portion of the City is consequently interfered with.

4. That the proposed extension will start from the very centre of the chief public and Government buildings in Newcastle, including the Court and Custom Houses, the Banks of New South Wales, Australian Joint Stock, Commercial, New Zealand, London Chartered, Union, Australasia, Federal, and Government Savings Banks, and it will provide a most desirable outlet for the press of traffic in that neighbourhood, as well as a convenient approach to a great number of people.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to favourably consider their representations of the advantages which they respectfully submit will be obtained by the extension of Hunter-street, in the direction of the ocean, and the benefit that will accrue to the citizens of Newcastle by the passing of the abovementioned Bill.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

HUNTER-STREET, NEWCASTLE, EXTENSION BILL.

(PETITION TO BE HEARD AT THE BAR OF THE HOUSE, BY COUNSEL OR ATTORNEY IN OPPOSITION TO—ALEX. O. GRANT.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 10 April, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales.

The Petition of Alexander Ogilvie Grant, residing at Parramatta, in the Colony of New South Wales, gentleman,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

1. That there is a Bill now before your Honorable House, entitled a Bill to enable the Borough of Newcastle to construct a street continuing Hunter-street from its present termination to the sea-shore, and for that purpose to acquire and re-sell certain lands and to raise certain loans.

2. That your Petitioner has presented to your Honorable House a Petition praying that such Bill may not receive the sanction of your Honorable House without such alteration therein as may secure to your Petitioner full protection for his interests and the interests of the tenants in remainder in the land proposed to be taken by the said Borough Council of Newcastle.

And your Petitioner humbly prayeth that your Petitioner may be heard at the Bar of your Honorable House by Counsel or by Attorney against the passing of such Bill, and in support of the objections raised by your Petitioner in the Petition already presented.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Parramatta, April, 1888.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

HUNTER-STREET, NEWCASTLE, EXTENSION BILL.

(PETITION IN OPPOSITION TO—ALEXANDER OGILVIE GRANT.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 10 April, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales.

The Petition of Alexander Ogilvie Grant, now residing at Parramatta, in the Colony of New South Wales, gentleman,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

1. That it has come to the knowledge of your Petitioner that a Bill to enable the Borough of Newcastle to construct a street continuing Hunter-street from its present termination of the sea-shore, and for that purpose to acquire and resell certain lands and to raise certain loans is now before your Honorable House.

2. That your Petitioner is a life tenant of a portion of the land which the Borough propose by their Bill to acquire.

3. That part of the allotment number two of a subdivision of Newcastle has been leased by me to a Mr. Shedden, of which lease there was eleven years unexpired on the nineteenth day of January last.

4. That another portion of the same allotment is under lease to Mr. Sparkes for twelve years from the first day of January last.

5. That the Borough propose taking from lots seven and eight of said subdivision about twenty-one feet of land by which they would utterly spoil the premises known as the "Caledonian Hotel," now under lease to a Mr. David Beveridge, of which six years from the first day of April instant is yet unexpired.

6. That the back portion of said allotments seven and eight is on lease to Mr. Hooley for six years from the fourth day of October last.

7. That by the proposed purchase by the Borough of Newcastle of lots seven and eight the buildings of Beveridge and Hooley are rendered useless.

8. That the income derived from the property at the present time will, when the leases referred to run out be largely increased, and the value of the interest of the tenants in remainder greatly augmented.

9. That your Petitioner has reason to believe that the amount proposed to be raised and expended by the Borough of Newcastle for the purposes of the Bill will not enable the Borough to pay such an amount to your Petitioner for land severance compensation and compulsory sale as would yield him his full life interest, and provide for the tenants in remainder according to the full and fair value of the estate.

10. That your Petitioner has to preserve the interest of the tenants in remainder whose shares would be lessened in value by the proposed Acts of the Borough Council of Newcastle.

11. That no notice was given to your Petitioner or to his agent in Newcastle of the intention of the Borough to apply for such powers, and your Petitioner was only recently and accidentally made aware of the proposed damage to his property.

And for these and other reasons your Petitioner humbly prayeth,—

That the said Bill may not receive the sanction of your Honorable House without such alteration as may secure to your Petitioner the right of compelling the Borough Council of Newcastle to purchase all or so much of the several allotments as will not destroy the value of the land, and at such fair prices as may maintain for your Petitioner his income as life tenant, and protect the interests of the tenants in remainder who will take after him.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.
Parramatta, April, 1888.

HUNTER-STREET, NEWCASTLE, EXTENSION BILL.
(PETITION AGAINST—ALEXANDER O. GRANT—AND PRAYING TO BE HEARD BY COUNSEL.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 17 April, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of
New South Wales.

The Petition of Alexander Ogilvie Grant, now residing at Parramatta, in the Colony of New South Wales, gentleman,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

1. That it has come to the knowledge of your Petitioner that a Bill to enable the Borough of Newcastle to construct a street continuing Hunter-street from its present termination to the sea-shore, and for that purpose to acquire and resell certain lands, and to raise certain loans, is before your Honorable House.

2. That your Petitioner has presented to your Honorable House a Petition against the passing of the said Bill as it at present stands.

And your Petitioner humbly prayeth that your Petitioner may be heard by Counsel or Attorney before the Select Committee of this Honorable House appointed to report on the said Bill.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

KIAMA TRAMWAY ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 28 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

MR. CAMERON, | MR. FLETCHER,
MR. TEECE.

A. CAMERON, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Present:—Thomas Marshall, Esq. (Solicitor for the Bill.)

Thomas Marshall, Esq., sworn and examined:—

1. Chairman.] What are you? I am a solicitor of the Supreme Court.
2. You are conversant with the provisions of the Bill now under consideration by the Committee? Yes.
3. The line of tramway to which that Bill refers is, I believe, laid down in the main street of Kiama? Yes.
4. And the Bill is rendered necessary to enable the Council to get the full working of the property already constructed? It is.
5. Will you explain to the Committee what the main necessity for the measure is? The principal Act empowers the Council to occupy a breadth of 9 feet in laying down the tramlines, but they have exceeded that area, and it is necessary to pass this Bill in order to extend the provisions of the original Act, as it is very doubtful whether, through their having exceeded the width allowed by the Act, they can legally run the trams. If an accident occurred probably the Council would be liable.
6. Mr. Fletcher.] Is it a single or a double line? They have laid a double line, but originally a single line was intended. It is only intended to use a single line. Sufficient width has not been allowed to enable the trams to pass.
7. What is the width? 9 feet is allowed by the original Act; 12 by this Amending Bill.
8. Has there been any objection offered to the Bill at all? No.
9. The people are in favour of it? Yes; they are clamouring for the Council to get it through, and to get the tramway into working order.
10. Is it the intention of the promoters of the original Act to alter the width of the gauge at all? No.
11. What is the gauge? I think it must be 3 feet 6 inches.

T. Marshall,
Esq.
28 Mar., 1888.

Henry Frederick Noble, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

12. Chairman.] You are Mayor of Kiama? Yes.
13. And you attend here to-day representing the Municipal Council with regard to the Tramway Bill now before Parliament? Yes.
14. You are acquainted with its provisions? Yes.

H. F.
Noble, Esq.
15. 28 Mar., 1888.

H. F.
Noble, Esq.
28 Mar., 1888.

15. And it is absolutely necessary that the Bill should pass before the tramway can be brought into operation? Quite so.

16. An Act to authorize the construction of the tramway was passed some time ago, I believe? Yes.

17. Will you explain how it is that that measure is unworkable, and why it is necessary to pass this Bill? The original Tramway Act provided for the borrowing of a sum of money. The Council got an overdraft from the bank, and failed to borrow the money before the construction of the tramway. Then, when they came to borrow the money, they found that they could not do so under the original Act, as they ought to have borrowed the money for the construction of the tramway, and not to pay off an overdraft at the bank. That is one of the reasons. Another reason is that the trams in running on the line take up slightly more space than the original Act allows.

18. What is the gauge of the proposed tram now? 3 feet 6 inches, I think—a double line.

19. Mr. Teece.] Why do you wish to repeal the main portion of clause 6 of the original Act, having reference to charges? Well, the intention of the Council at the time of their getting the original Act passed was for the parties owning the quarries to find their own rolling stock and motor. We found that that would not work, and we then had a motor manufactured in England, and trucks made. There is only one person who owns a quarry of any importance at Kiama, and we do not want to work the line ourselves and charge a tonnage rate, but to let the motor and rolling stock for the conveyance of the metal. We do not want to work it, and we have not power, under the original Act, to let it.

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

LEICHHARDT COUNCIL CHAMBERS (MORTGAGE) BILL.

MONDAY, 15 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. COLLS,
MR. DAY,

MR. GARRARD,
MR. HAWTHORNE,
MR. STEVENSON.

J. S. HAWTHORNE, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Benjamin Robert Moore, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are the mayor of the borough of Leichhardt? Yes.
2. You are aware that this Bill has been asked for by the council? I am.
3. Where do you hold the council meetings now? In a building on the Parramatta Road, which we rent from Mr. Macnamara.
4. What is the rental? £2 per week.
5. Is the building suitable for the purpose? Very unsuitable.
6. Your object in asking for the Bill is to erect premises which will be more suitable for the requirements of the borough? Yes.
7. Is this proposition approved by the council generally? By the whole council.
8. There has been no opposition to it? The whole of the aldermen signed the petition which was presented to Parliament.
9. You have already purchased the land? Yes; and paid for it.
10. Is the site suitable for the purposes of a town-hall? I do not think that there is any better around Sydney.
11. Have you heard of any opposition from the ratepayers to the proposal? None; mostly speaking they all approve of it.
12. You think that the erection of the building is likely to prove advantageous to the borough generally? Yes.
13. Mr. Barbour.] Are you able to pay for the building out of your funds at present? We are not.
14. How do you propose to raise the money? On the security of the land and buildings.
15. You think that you can obtain sufficient by mortgage of the land and buildings to pay for the cost of erection? Yes.
16. That mode of erecting the building is approved of by a majority of the ratepayers? Yes.
17. Mr. Stevenson.] How much do you propose to expend? About £6,000. The contract price for the building is about £5,600.
18. Mr. Garrard.] I understand that you are of opinion that the receipts from the hall and rooms will pay the interest on the loan? Yes. There will be a hall which will accommodate 800 people. Then there are lodge-rooms which I am sure, from what I know of the requirements of Leichhardt, will always be let.

B. R. Moore,
Esq.
15 Nov., 1887.

In

B. R. Moore, Esq.
15 Nov., 1887.

In addition to this there are rooms providing ample accommodation for the council and its officers. At present there is no suitable building in the borough for the holding of large public meetings, or lodge meetings. All the meetings which are held take place on the Petersham side, because of the want of accommodation in the borough.

19. Mr. Stevenson.] You do not propose to have any shops? No.
20. Mr. Colls.] There is to be a library, I presume? Yes; it will come under the provisions of the Municipalities Act.
21. Chairman.] Has the municipality ever considered the advisableness of starting a School of Arts in connection with the building? I have not heard anything about it.
22. Mr. Garrard.] I understand that you purpose keeping the town-hall account separate from the ordinary borough account? Yes.
23. What will be the probable income from the town-hall? I have not the least doubt that it will pay fair interest on the money.
24. A large number of meetings are held in Leichhardt? Yes.
25. It is a lively borough? Yes; but we have no proper building in which to hold large meetings.
26. Is the site which you have purchased a central one? Yes.
27. How did you raise money to purchase it? It was paid out of the ordinary municipal funds. We set apart £4,000 for the loan for the purpose.
28. To what extent have you borrowed? To the full extent allowed by law.
29. Now you want power to borrow on this freehold? Yes.
30. At present only your rates and revenue are mortgaged to your debenture holders? Yes. The £4,000 which was set apart for town-hall purposes we propose to apply to general purposes. There are 52 miles of streets in the borough. It is a large and a new borough, and there is a great deal of general work to be done.
31. Mr. Stevenson.] What provision have you made in the event of the hall not returning sufficient to pay the interest on the cost? I have no doubt that it will return sufficient to pay the interest. We have to make allowance for rent for the council chambers, which will go a long way towards paying the interest.
32. Mr. Garrard.] For the accommodation which you will have in the new buildings you will be able to charge at least £4 a week rent as against the general borough account? Yes.
33. Chairman.] At what rate do you think you will get the money? From 5 to 6 per cent. There is a party who is willing to advance the money, provided that Parliament passes this Bill.
34. What interest did you pay on the last loan which you raised? 6 per cent.
35. Mr. Garrard.] As there is a reasonable prospect of this paying better security than the rates, do you think you are likely to get the money at a lower rate of interest? I believe so.
36. Mr. Barbour.] Have you entered into calculations as to the probable returns from letting portions of the building? I have not; but I know that two or three lodges are willing to take the rooms.
37. Chairman.] There are six benefit societies in Leichhardt at present which have to hold their meetings outside the borough? Yes.
38. I presume that when the hall is erected they will hold their meetings there? I am under the impression that they will.
39. Mr. Garrard.] What is the population of the borough? About 15,000.
40. You propose to erect the hall in the most populous part of the borough? Yes.
41. Close to the present tram terminus? Yes.
42. Chairman.] The Government propose to erect new post and telegraph offices adjoining the town-hall site? Yes.
43. Mr. Barbour.] How much money do you expect to raise on the land and buildings? About £6,000,—that is the cost of the buildings.
44. Mr. Garrard.] What is the value of the land at present? About £3,000; I may state that the building is in progress, and is supposed to be finished by the middle of April.
45. How long is it since the Council determined to apply for the Bill? About six months.
46. The ratepayers have had plenty of opportunity to protest against it if they had thought fit? Yes.
47. Mr. Stevenson.] How long is it since you accepted a contract for the building? About six or seven weeks.

Allan McGuire, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- A. McGuire, Esq.
15 Nov., 1887.
48. Chairman.] You are council clerk of the borough of Leichhardt? Yes.
49. How long have you held that position? One year and nine months.
50. You are aware that the council have asked for this Bill? Yes; unanimously.
51. Was a resolution carried in favour of it? Yes, and entered on the minutes.
52. Mr. Garrard.] Was it given notice of in the usual course? Yes, it was given notice of verbally; then it was printed on the business paper, and posted out three days before the meeting, when it was fully discussed.
53. Chairman.] Do you produce the deeds of the land? I do. [Deeds produced.]
54. Have you heard of any objection on the part of the people to the Bill? None.
55. What is the present indebtedness of the borough? £31,000.
56. What is the amount of your annual rate? The general rate is £6,250.
57. Is the borough a progressive one? It is in a very progressive state.
58. The building which you use at present for council chambers is totally inadequate? Yes; we have no accommodation at all.
59. Mr. Garrard.] Do you think that the town-hall is likely to prove a paying concern? Yes. I think the rooms are likely to be continually occupied. There are four lodge-rooms with ante-rooms.
60. Mr. Barbour.] What is the extent of the land? About $\frac{3}{4}$ of an acre.
61. Mr. Garrard.] What do you value the land at? We paid £2,420 for it two years ago; but I should think it was worth £3,000 now.
62. Have you made any estimate of the probable revenue to be derived from outside sources? I have not gone into that.
63. I presume that if a suitable building were available you could not get sufficient accommodation to meet your requirements for less than double the rent which you are now paying for Council Chambers? I am quite certain about that.

64. Therefore you will have £4 or £5 a week rent to charge against the general borough account? Yes. A. McGuire, Esq.
 65. Mr. Day.] What number of ratepayers have you on the rolls? 5,000.
 66. Mr. Garrard.] What is the difference between the ordinary revenue of the year before last and this year? £500. 15 Nov., 1887.
 67. Do you expect a similar increase this time? I estimate that there will be more, because there are more buildings going up.

—————
 Evan James Williams, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

68. Chairman.] You live at Leichhardt? Yes. E. J. Williams, Esq.
 69. You were at one time mayor of Leichhardt? Yes, a few years ago. 15 Nov., 1887.
 70. How long is it since you ceased to have any connection with the council as alderman? About five years.
 71. You have a large amount of property at Leichhardt? Yes; about the Parramatta Road and Norton-street.
 72. Have you heard of any public movement in opposition to the intentions of the council with regard to a town-hall? None whatever.
 73. Do you think that on the whole it is agreeable to the general body of the ratepayers that the building should be erected? Yes.
 74. Do you think the site a suitable one? Yes; it is centrally situated.
 75. You think that the municipality is in need of some large public hall in which to hold meetings? Most undoubtedly.
 76. Mr. Barbour.] Have you seen the plans of the building? Yes.
 77. Do you think them suitable? Yes.
 78. Not too extravagant? I do not think so, considering the importance of the municipality.
 79. Do you think the building will be adequate to the present requirements? I have no doubt it will be for some years to come.
 80. Do you think that the council will get any income from the letting of the rooms? I should think they would get a very fair revenue.
 81. Do you think it would be sufficient to cover the interest on £6,000? I should say so, if you include an amount equivalent to what would be the rent for the council chamber.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

LIVERPOOL CHURCH OF ENGLAND GRAMMAR SCHOOL LAND SALE BILL.

TUESDAY, 24 APRIL, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,		MR. DAY,
MR. NOBBS,		MR. McCULLOCH.

J. NOBBS, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. P. V. McCulloch appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

The Right Reverend Alfred Barry, D.D., Lord Bishop of Sydney, called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Mr. McCulloch.] You are the Bishop of Sydney? I am.
2. You have read the proposed Bill? I have.
3. You know the land with which it is proposed to deal? I have seen it, but I do not know it well. I have seen it sufficiently to be able to form an opinion with reference to the course which is now proposed.
4. You are, I believe, the sole trustee? No. The land is held by what is called the corporate body—that is, the Church of England property trustees, Diocese of Sydney.
5. But you are their representative? I am the chairman of the trustees. The property has been transferred to them.
6. You are also, I believe, one of the trustees of the land upon which it is proposed that the grammar school shall be erected? I am one of the Moore College trustees.
7. I believe that the land which it is proposed to sell is not suitable for the purposes for which it was granted, that is, for the purpose of a school-house in connection with the church? No. Perhaps it would be better if I were to read to the Committee a statement, addressed by the incumbent and churchwardens of Liverpool to the corporate trustees, with reference to this matter. It is in these terms: "Gentlemen,—There is a block of land, about 3 acres, selected in this town, belonging to the church, on which stand a new school building, 20 ft. by 60 ft., and a substantial master's residence. Since the withdrawal of aid from denominational schools the building has been unused. The residence has been let at a rent which has enabled us to put the building in repair, and to make the Sunday-school house more useful. To assist in maturing plans for the removal of Moore College to Sydney, and to utilise the present college buildings for a middle class grammar school, and with the sanction of the Primate we wish the trustees to take the necessary steps for passing a Bill through the Legislature, empowering them to sell or let on long lease the land and buildings referred to. In the event of the passing of the Bill we wish the proceeds of sale or lease to be invested, and the annual income to be appropriated towards the part maintenance of the head master of the proposed middle school. Should the grammar school scheme prove a failure within seven years we desire that the proceeds referred to be considered a trust fund for St. Luke's parish, and appropriated to parish purposes, and particularly towards maintaining in efficiency the present Sunday-school buildings." That document is signed by Mr. Priddle, the incumbent of St. Luke's, Liverpool, on behalf of himself and the churchwardens.

Right Rev.
A. Barry,
D.D.
24 April, 1888.

- Right Rev. 8. Mr. Barbour.] There is no doubt that the piece of land referred to in the deed is unsuitable for the purposes for which it was intended? The Sunday-school is found to be more conveniently situated nearer to the church.
- A. Barry, D.D.
- 24 April, 1888. 9. You have other lands more suitable for the purpose? Much more suitable.
10. The trustees desire the power to sell and to apply the proceeds to educational purposes? Just so.
11. The same purposes, in short, as were contemplated by the original grant? Perhaps I ought to say cognate purposes. The idea will be brought before you of establishing in the building, which is now used as a theological college, a Church of England Grammar School, which we think will carry out a principle thoroughly in harmony with Mr. Moore's original intention. The income unfortunately will not be sufficient to maintain such a school. At the outside it would not exceed £150 a year. It is proposed to apply a portion of the proceeds to the endowment of the school, with the provision that if the grammar school should fail, the endowment should revert to the parish and be held in trust for educational purposes there. I may say that, as Bishop, I thoroughly approve of both schemes, not merely as a trustee but as the guardian of church property. I approve both of the selling of the land and also of the attempted maintenance of the grammar school.
12. You think the new purpose will be equally beneficial? Yes, under the present circumstances more beneficial. It would be hard to maintain a denominational school there under existing circumstances.

Percy Vernon M'Culloch, Esq., sworn and examined:—

- P. V. 13. Mr. Barbour.] You are the solicitor for this Bill? Yes.
- M'Culloch, Esq.
- 24 April, 1888. 14. Have you a copy of the deed of grant of this land? I can give you the original deed as an exhibit, and I will let you have a copy in the course of a few days.
15. It is a grant of 3 acres 2 roods 11 perches, as mentioned in the preamble of the Bill? Yes.
16. The trustees have found that the land is not suitable for the purposes for which it was granted? No.
17. You wish for power to sell this land, and to use the proceeds as an endowment for a Church of England Grammar School on other land, which is also mentioned in the preamble? Yes.
18. Have you copies of any other documents in connection with the matter? I have a consent from the trustees and grantees under this grant, vesting the property in the Church of England Property Trust, Diocese of Sydney. It is dated 25th December, 1884. It refers to the land mentioned in the grant.
19. Mr. Day.] And those parties are now the applicants for this Bill? Yes. I also hand in an attested copy of the will and codicil of Thomas Moore, which devises the land to trustees upon trust for a college or establishment, to be called Moore College, for the education of boys or youths of the Protestant persuasion in the principles of Christian knowledge, and such other branches of moral, useful, and general information as the trustees under the said will and testament should from time to time direct and appoint, and as should be consistent with and in furtherance of the testator's intention and desire.

Thomas Whitford Taylor, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- T. W. 20. Mr. M'Culloch.] You are one of the aldermen of Liverpool? Yes.
- Taylor, Esq.
- 24 April, 1888. 21. You know the purposes for which this Bill is asked? Yes.
22. You think that the land which it is proposed to sell is not suitable for the erection of a school-house? I should think not, for various reasons. It is a long way from the Church of England, and the clergyman himself has actually built a school, not later than last year, adjoining the church. I have known the land for the last six years.
23. Have you heard of any objection to this Bill? No. We all met at the College, under the presidency of his Lordship, and it was then agreed that as the grammar school was to be put in place of the Theological College the proceeds of the sale of this land should form the nucleus for the endowment of that school. Mr. Priddle and the churchwardens signed a consent conveying this land for the purpose intended, and not one of the parishioners has, I believe, objected.

Ion Brown Bosley, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- I. B. 24. Mr. M'Culloch.] You are a resident of Liverpool, and a member of the Church of England? Yes.
- Bosley, Esq.
- 24 April, 1888. 25. I believe you are acquainted with the purposes for which this Bill is required? Yes.
26. Are you of opinion that the land referred to is not suitable for the purposes of a school-house? It is not in my opinion suitable.
27. You think that a school-house is not required there? No.
28. There is a piece of land available more suitable for the purpose? Yes.
29. It is proposed to sell the grant of land, and to apply the proceeds to the endowment of a grammar school which is to be established at Moore College? Yes.
30. Do you think that course advisable? Yes.
31. You have heard no objections raised to that course by the parishioners? No.

 NORTH SHORE BOROUGHS WHARVES BILL.

 REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, for whose consideration and report was referred, on the 27th September, 1887, the "North Shore Boroughs Wharves Bill," and to whom was also referred on the 4th October, 1887, "the Petition from Prosper Orleans Williams, Alfred George Milson, Thomas Brocklebank Gaden, and James Robinson Love, on behalf of themselves and other ratepayers of the Borough of East St. Leonards, in opposition to the Bill, and praying to be heard by Counsel or Solicitor before the Select Committee," and a similar "Petition from Thomas Edgar Creswell and Henry Herbert Robey, of East St. Leonards, on behalf of the North Shore Rowing Club," and on the 2nd November, 1887, "the Minutes of Proceedings of and Evidence taken before the Select Committee on this Bill during the last Session,"—beg to report to your Honorable House,—

* See list, p. 8.

That they have examined the witnesses named in the List* (whose evidence will be found appended hereto), and that the Preamble having been satisfactorily proved to your Committee, they proceeded to consider the Bill, in which it was deemed necessary to make certain amendments.

Your Committee now beg to lay before your Honorable House the Bill as amended by them, with an amended Title.

No. 2 Committee Room,
Sydney, 8th May, 1888.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

NORTH SHORE BOROUGH'S WHARVES BILL.

1887.

(SECOND SESSION.)

MONDAY, 4 JULY, 1887.

Present:—

MR. ABBOTT,

MR. WITHERS.

MR. IVES,

I. E. IVES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Walter Edmunds, Esq., Counsel, instructed by F. B. Wilkinson, Esq., appeared for the Petitioners.

P. O. Williams, Esq., Solicitor, appeared for the parties against the Bill.

Nicholas M'Burney, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are the mayor of East St. Leonards? Yes.
2. You represent one of the parties petitioning for this Bill? Yes.
3. What is the object of the Council? The object of the three Councils who are applying for the Bill is to have places of access to the boroughs, so that goods and passengers may land there. We intend to utilize these wharves for the benefit of the people.
4. What convenience already exists there? In East St. Leonards there is a public wharf at the foot of what they call the Eastern Wharf Road.
5. No other public wharf? No; that is all that the borough has control over.
6. Is this wharf in a useful condition—can it be approached from the water? Yes, vessels discharge coal and timber there. There is sufficient depth of water for a vessel to lay alongside the wharf.
7. What is the area of the wharf? I do not know.
8. What frontage is there to the harbour? About 66 feet, I think.
9. Beyond this wharf East St. Leonards has no other public wharf? No. We have places at which we could land at high water.
10. Do you know the extent of frontage which East St. Leonards has to the harbour? I do not know. The streets which abut on to the water are the Western Wharf Road, High-street, and Jeffrys-street. There are one or two other such streets, but I do not think wharves should be made at the foot of them just now.
11. Mr. Abbott.] Has this matter been referred to the ratepayers in any way? No, not in the way of public meetings, or anything of that kind. So far as I know nothing has been done to ascertain their wishes in the matter.
12. Has their attention been directed to it in any way, except by the advertisements with respect to this Bill? No.
13. Has any demand on their part been made for the Bill? Yes; I have heard several say that we ought to have more means of access to our borough.

N. M'Burney,
Esq.

4 July, 1887.

N. M'Burney, 14. How many of them? I cannot say.

Esq.
4 July, 1887.

15. Are the ratepayers aware that you have power in this Bill to expend all the rates on these wharves if you think proper? I cannot say that they are. The council decided to borrow £3,000 for the construction of wharves. They have done nothing in the matter yet.

16. Did they get permission to borrow this money on the security of the rates? Yes.

17. I suppose you found out that you did not have power to construct wharves outside the municipality? We applied to our solicitor, who took counsel's opinion upon the point, and that is the reason why we are applying for this Bill.

18. What are the rates in East St. Leonards? This year they amount to between £3,000 and £4,000 I think.

19. At the present time is there any great difficulty at North Shore in the way of discharging ships? The traffic has increased wonderfully of late at the Eastern Wharf. Mr. Grant's wharf is nearly always occupied by timber and coal laden ships. I have heard it stated that if there were additional wharfage accommodation warehouses would be put up. Mr. Wilson has put up a warehouse at the foot of Jeffrystreet.

20. Is he an alderman? Yes.

21. Has any other alderman put up a warehouse? No.

22. Have you an alderman named Glacken? Yes.

23. Has he been applying for permission to erect a wharf? Not that I am aware of.

24. Mr. Withers.] What is the probable cost of the proposed wharves? We have permission to borrow between £3,000 and £4,000. I do not think that they would cost more than £500 a-piece. We propose to erect three wharves.

25. Have you any evidence as to the probable income which you will derive from them? Certain ratepayers have said that they would give £100 and £150 a year for the lease of them; nothing definite however has been said.

26. Do you know the names of the persons who are likely to tender for a lease of these wharves? I cannot remember their names at present. One or two persons have spoken to me about a wharf at the foot of Jeffrystreet, but we do not propose to construct a wharf there.

27. The ratepayers know that you are asking for this Bill? It has been advertised.

28. Have any petitions been received against the measure? Not while I was in the council. I was out of it for twelve months. I do not think that any petition has been received against it.

29. I suppose that the estimate of cost is based upon reliable information? The council clerk will give you the exact estimate. We got Messrs. Humphrey and Cracknell to prepare plans of wharves which were to cost a certain sum each.

30. Mr. Abbott.] Are the rates of St. Leonards at present subject to any charge? We have borrowed I think £15,000 already.

31. Mr. Withers.] Is the borough a progressive one? Yes; the revenue is increasing at the rate of about £400 or £500 a year.

32. Your income of £4,000 a year is derived from the city rate? Yes; it includes the lighting rate. We have levied this year a sewerage rate, which amounts to £250.

33. Mr. Edmunds.] Have the prospects of this speculation been fully considered by the council? Yes; it has been discussed frequently.

34. Mr. Williams.] Were you present at any of the discussions? Yes.

35. Are there any minutes of them? I do not think that there is any minute, for no definite offer, as far as my memory serves me, was ever made by a ratepayer to lease the wharves. As far as I know nothing was done which would justify an entry in the minute-book.

36. Mr. Edmunds.] This scheme has been brought forward after a full consideration by your council? Yes.

37. Besides the places which you have named is there any other part where a public wharf could be erected in the borough? No; there are a few streets abutting on to the water, but they are so precipitous that it would be almost impossible to make a wharf at the foot of any one of them.

38. On what terms did the Lands Department propose to grant a lease of the foreshore? We received a letter from the department, but I cannot tell you the purport of it at present.

39. Have you a lease of the Eastern Wharf? Yes; it adjoins Mr. Grant's timber-yard.

40. Is there not a difficulty with reference to the construction of a wharf there between the borough and the Lands Department? There is a wharf there already. Vessels are in the habit of landing cargoes there.

41. Is not this wharf in the occupation of the North Shore Ferry Company? No; it is let by the council to Mr. Grant.

42. Mr. Williams.] Mr. Grant has full control over this wharf? Yes; except that he has to allow private boats to land their passengers there.

43. The council has parted with all control over this wharf? Yes; except that the Government are allowed to land anything free of charge there.

44. Who erected the wharf? I do not know.

45. Was it the municipality or the Government? I cannot say.

46. Where do the borough council propose to erect these wharves? At the foot of High-street, Willoughby-street, and Western Wharf Road.

47. There is a good wharf already at High-street? Yes; it is used by the North Shore Ferry Company. The Whaling Road, which runs down there, has never been opened yet.

48. Does the council propose to pull down the wharf at the foot of High-street? It has not been taken into consideration yet. It is not a wharf that would answer the purpose of the council.

49. What do the council require? They require a wharf of their own.

50. Is not this wharf beyond the boundary of the municipality? I do not think it is.

51. Is it not beyond low-water-mark. Is there not deep water frontage right up to the wharf? I dare say that there is 12 feet of water there.

52. Is it not a fact that the North Shore Ferry Company, before a wharf was erected there, offered to build a wharf and to pay the council £20 a year for it, which offer they refused? I believe it is a fact. I was not a member of the council at the time.

N. McBurney,
Esq.
4 July, 1887.

53. Nevertheless, you wish to get permission to erect a wharf at the very same place? Yes.
54. What was Humphrey and Cracknell's estimate for a wharf at that point? I do not know. The council clerk will be able to furnish you with the information.
55. Do you propose to lease the wharf? Yes; we have no tenant yet.
56. What rent do you expect to get from it? Mr. Grant pays £75 a year. We think that we could get £75 or £100.
57. Would it let better than Mr. Grant's wharf? Yes; it would open up the traffic in the borough of St. Leonards. If a wharf were constructed at this point horses and cargo could be landed there, and it would do away with the heavy traffic which exists alongside the tramway on the Milson's Point Road.
58. Are many of the residents in favour of this Bill? Yes.
59. Who are they? Mr. Kelly and Mr. Slatter are opposed to it.
60. Can you name any others? No; I could furnish you with a list of the names if you wish.
61. You have no definite tenant for the wharves? No.
62. And in order to build a wharf at High-street you would have to pull down or alter the present one? I think that it would have to be pulled down.
63. Do you propose to lease the proposed wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street? As far as I know the idea is to lease the whole of them.
64. To whom are you going to lease them? We have no tenants for them yet.
65. Has anybody expressed a willingness to lease that particular wharf? No.
66. Has Mr. Alderman Glacken? No.
67. Mr. Ball? He has made no offer.
68. Did he offer to give the council £600 if he were allowed to erect a wharf there? Not to my knowledge.
69. He has property adjoining the wharf? Yes; he is very anxious to get the street made.
70. Has he not been one of the chief agitators to get a wharf there? Yes; he has spoken about it as much as any one has, perhaps he has said most on the subject.
71. Is it not a fact that this Bill was brought in because the council were thwarted in their effort to erect a wharf there? I do not think so.
72. Did not the council threaten the North Shore Rowing Club that if they were not out of the place within twenty-four hours they would pull down their shed? I do not know.
73. Were you not a member of the council when it was pointed out that it would be illegal to erect a wharf there? Yes; we took counsel's opinion on the subject.
74. Did you not get a letter from my office on the subject? Yes; we got numerous letters.
75. Do you not know that an application was made to the Minister for Lands on behalf of the council for a lease of this frontage, and that a petition signed by all the property-holders in the vicinity was sent in against it? I do not recollect that.
76. Have you ever heard of such a petition? No.
77. Do you not know that a petition, signed by Mr. Chisholm, Mr. Milson, Mr. Tucker, and other large property-holders, was sent in to the Minister against the erection of a wharf there, on the ground that it was an unnecessary work, and an unwarrantable expenditure? Perhaps they did; I do not know anything about it. I know that the rowing club took steps to maintain their position.
78. It is as near to Willoughby-street as it is to Milson's Point? I would sooner go to Milson's Point.
79. It is a very steep grade? Yes.
80. Is it not much steeper there than it is at Milson's Point? At present it is.
81. Is not the street almost wholly lined with private residences? Yes; there is only one shop in the street.
82. Why have you invited the borough of St. Leonards to join in the petition for this Bill? So as to lessen the expense.
83. What water frontage have they got? I think that they have water frontage about Longueville, Mossman's Bay, and the whole of Middle Harbour.
84. Your rates are already pledged for £15,000;—do you want to borrow up to £19,000? Yes.
85. How much of this £15,000 have you expended already? It has all been expended, except a thousand pounds which was borrowed specially for sewerage works.
86. You want to pledge the rates for a further sum of between £3,000 and £4,000? Yes.
87. Mr. Abbott.] What is the interest on the £15,000? Six per cent. The rates are increasing at about the rate of £500 a year.
88. Mr. Williams.] The footpaths and roads are in a bad state in St. Leonards? A good many of them are.
89. Is the traffic from the Eastern Wharf Road so great that it has become inconvenient at the present time? I do not think it is inconvenient at the present time. I think it will be inconvenient in the future.
90. The council was very much annoyed when they found that the North Shore Ferry Company had put up a wharf at the foot of High-street? Yes.
91. Mr. Withers.] Is a fair majority of the council in favour of this Bill? I believe so. I cannot recollect that anyone opposed the motion to ask for a Bill.
92. I suppose that the traffic is increasing all over the borough? Yes.
93. Would the erection of these wharves be a good investment; has the progress of the place been retarded by the want of such accommodation? I do not think that it has. I believe that it would be a means to advance the interests of the borough.
94. These means of access would be of general benefit to the people? I think so. I have lived in the borough for eleven or twelve years, and I believe that it would tend to advance the place.
95. The borough is suffering from the want of facilities in this direction? It is suffering exactly. I think that it would be of general benefit to have these facilities.
96. From what quarter does the opposition to this Bill come? I believe that it has emanated from the North Shore Rowing Club.
97. Who are they? The club is composed of a number of residents of North Shore who got permission from a former mayor, Mr. Pitt, to erect a rowing club shed at the foot of Willoughby-street. The permission I believe was a verbal, not a written, one. I believe that the understanding on which they got the permission was that they were to remove the shed whenever they were called upon. They have frequently been called upon to remove it, but they have not done so. It is built on the spot where we propose to erect a wharf.

- N. M^cBurney, 98. Mr. Abbott.] It is outside of the municipality? I do not think it is.
 Esq.
 99. Is there any necessity to erect a wharf there? Perhaps not this week or two. I think it would 4 July, 1887. advance the place if one were erected. I do not think that the traffic warrants the erection of the wharf for a week or two.
 100. Has there been any necessity up to this time for such a wharf? No; I think that a wharf should be erected at the foot of High-street before the other two are begun.
 101. Would a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street be accessible in the present state of that street?
 No; the council could not make it accessible for traffic within a period of six months. The expense will be about £600.
 102. High-street is round in Careening Bay? Yes.
 103. Is there a wharf at the end of that street or does it abut on private property? I think it abuts on
 Mr. Lord's property.
 104. It is not at the end of the street as surveyed by the Government? I think the street deviates a little.
 105. Mr. Williams.] Would not steam traffic or anything else in Careening Cove be a great interference with the rights of property owners, I mean the smoke, dirt, and dust? I think that property owners ought to keep pace with the times.
 106. Would it not be impossible for people with large interests to continue to reside there? No, not more than it is for the people who live on the main road and other places where the traffic is great. There are a number of houses that suffer from the traffic of the North Shore Ferry Company.
 107. The water is not very deep at the foot of Willoughby-street? No; not so deep as it is at High-street.
 108. There is not more than 4 feet of water there at low-water? Not at low-water, as far as the present street is concerned. There is sufficient water for boats, but not sufficient for horse-boats.
 109. Who is going to run horse-boats there? I do not know.
 110. Mr. Edmunds.] Was there an attempt on the part of the North Shore Rowing Club to get a lease of this frontage in their own name? I think that the Government said that the club would have to apply to the council for such a lease. I am sorry that Mr. Pitt did not bind them down to the payment of a rent, so that we might get rid of them without any trouble.

Percy Augustus Temple, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- P. A., Temple, 111. Chairman.] You are council clerk of the borough of East St. Leonards? Yes.
 Esq.
 112. Do you produce plans of the proposed wharves and jetties? Yes. They were specially prepared
 4 July, 1887. by Messrs. Humphrey and Cracknell.
 113. Can you refer to the minute of the council authorising the erection of these wharves? I have not the minute-book with me.
 114. Do you know that such a resolution was passed? Yes.
 115. What is the estimated cost of each wharf according to these plans? It is £1,000 a piece. Permission has been obtained already to borrow £3,000 for the erection of three wharves.
 116. Mr. Withers.] Has anything been said about the approaches to the wharves? No.
 117. Chairman.] What frontage has the borough of East St. Leonards to the harbour? I do not know.
 118. You know the names of the streets which abut on to the harbour? Yes. I produce a plan which shows the names of those streets, as follows:—Fish-street, Palmer-street, Walter-street, Western Wharf Road, Eastern Wharf Road, Jeffrys-street, Beulah-street, Campbell-street, Peel-street, Willoughby-street, High-street, and Benboyd Road. It is proposed to erect jetties at the foot of Western Wharf Road, Willoughby-street, and High-street.
 119. Mr. Abbott.] What has the revenue of the borough been during the last three years? In 1884 it was £4,200; in 1885, £4,350; in 1886, £4,500; and this year, £4,800. These figures do not include what we get from the Government.
 120. And a sum of £15,000 has been borrowed on the security of the rates? Yes; for ten years.
 121. How many years have expired? The first loan of £5,000 has about half expired.
 122. Has there been any general demand—not an isolated demand—by the ratepayers for these wharves?
 Yes; more especially by those who live in the streets adjacent to those three points.
 123. Has there been any general demand for a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street? Yes; by those who live in the street.
 124. Why? I suppose because it would advance the place.
 125. Would a wharf be of any advantage in view of the present state of the street? No; but the street is being cut down to a proper grade. It will average about one in fifteen, which will be quite accessible for vehicles.
 126. Can you name a dozen people who have asked for this wharf? No; not at present.
 127. How many ratepayers are there in the borough? About a thousand I should think.
 128. Have 250 persons out of that number expressed a wish for such a wharf? No.
 129. Is it generally known by the ratepayers that this Bill will enable the Council to spend the whole of the rates upon these wharves if they think proper? I do not know whether it is or not. The business of the council is conducted in public.
 130. Do you know that the Bill gives this power to the council? I expect it does. It would be ridiculous to exercise it.
 131. Could you not better invest this money in the repairs of your streets; are there not a number of streets which are still unformed? No; there are only two difficult streets left now, Willoughby-street and Kirribilli-street, excepting, of course, the streets round at Neutral Bay and Cremorne. The streets in the populous parts of the borough are all formed, with the exception of Willoughby-street and Kirribilli-street, which are under way.
 132. What is the boundary of the other borough? Walker-street.
 133. You have part of Berry-street in your borough? No.
 134. Are the rates of the borough increasing at the rate of £500 a year? No; at the rate of £300 a year.
 135. The increase of £300 this year is the largest increase that you have ever had? Yes? 186 houses have been built since the last assessment was made.
 136. Has the council authorised an application to the Government for a loan of £3,000 for the purpose of erecting three wharves at a cost of £1,000 each? Yes; that was the understanding.

P. A. Temple,
Esq.

4 July, 1887.

137. Have you seen the specifications? Yes; they are on the table now.
138. What is the cost of each wharf according to the specifications? £1,000.
139. Mr. Withers.] What revenue do you expect to derive from each wharf? I think that we shall get £200 a year for any one of them.
140. Is the approach to the foot of Willoughby-street in course of formation? Yes; it is being constructed at no cost to the council, for we are getting curbing and guttering stone out of this street for other parts of the borough.
141. The grade will be suitable for vehicular traffic to the water's edge? Yes; and an approach will be made to the foot of Willoughby-street whether a wharf is erected there or not.
142. You think that it would be a profitable investment to build a wharf there? Yes.
143. Is not £200 a year an excessive rent for such a wharf? No.
144. Mr. Abbott.] The Eastern Wharf is the only public wharf at present in St. Leonards? Yes.
145. What does the borough council get for that wharf? £105.
146. Why do they not get £200? Because the frontage, which is only 50 feet, is not sufficiently large to berth a vessel. It is let to Mr. Grant, who owns the adjoining wharf, and if it were let to a stranger he would experience very great difficulty in landing cargo at all. At the foot of Western Wharf Road and Willoughby-street we have a frontage of 100 feet.
147. Chairman.] But you will be subject to the same difficulty of overlapping a private wharf in each case? We have more than double the frontage there that we have at the Eastern Wharf.
148. Have you any title to the triangular piece of land, as shown on the plan, at the foot of Willoughby-street? No; we expect to get a lease of it from the Government.
149. Mr. Abbott.] Have you been promised a lease of it? We have been asked to pay a certain rent. I hand in a copy of the official papers. [Vide Appendix A I.]
150. Mr. Withers.] You are sure that you can get £100 a year for each wharf? Yes; I am quite sure of that.
151. What about the approaches to the other two wharves? They are completed.
152. Mr. Abbott.] What rent are you paying for the land? As to the Western Wharf the Government have fixed the rental at £20 a year for five years on the condition that we erect £500 worth of improvements upon the land.
153. Mr. Williams.] How can you claim a right over High-street? The Government have promised to give us a lease of the land at the foot of that street.
154. Is it not at the foot of Whaling Road? No; the plan is not correct in that respect; the Whaling Road originally ran down to the water.
155. Is there not a wharf at the foot of High-street? Yes; there are two jetties—one belongs to Mr. Hayes and the other to the North Shore Ferry Company.
156. Do you know that the North Shore Ferry Company, before they built that wharf, offered to build a wharf and pay the council £20 rent a year for it? Yes; the council refused the offer, because they intended to build one themselves.
157. Now they want to pull down that wharf and build one of their own? We have a distinct promise from the Government that the existing wharves shall be removed as soon as we are in a position to build wharves of our own.
158. Have not the North Shore Ferry Company erected a wharf at Neutral Bay? No; it is a Government wharf.
159. Do not the company pay a rent for the use of that wharf? I think they pay nothing.
160. Do you not know that they are paying a rent to your council? I am sure that they are not.
161. Is there any wharf that they have erected by permission of the council for which they are paying rent? No.
162. Is there any such wharf in your borough? We receive no rent from the company.
163. Have they expressed a willingness to pay you rent? Yes, at different times, if they could get sole control of the ends of the streets.
164. They were willing to erect wharves at their own expense, and pay you a rent for them? Yes; if they could get exclusive use of the ends of the streets. The council are opposed to such a proceeding.
165. Is it not the intention of the council to lease these wharves as soon as they are erected? Yes; by public competition.
166. Are you sure that you get £105 a year from Mr. Grant? Yes.
167. Is it not £75? No; it is £105.
168. Have you to pay anything out of this sum? Yes; we pay the Government £2 a year, I think, for the foreshore.
169. Is not the grade much easier in Jeffrys-street than it will be in Willoughby-street? No; the grade in Willoughby-street will be much easier than it is in Jeffrys-street when the present work is completed. Moreover it is a much longer street than Jeffrys-street.
170. On what ground do you expect to get £200 a year from each of these wharves? The lease of the Eastern Wharf was sold at public auction for £105 a year. There was considerable competition, and Mr. Grant, the adjoining proprietor, was the successful bidder. Considering that this wharf is a very small one, and would not be of nearly as much use to anyone as it is to Mr. Grant, we calculate that we shall get £200 a year for each of the proposed wharves. At High-street we shall provide for vehicular traffic. Such a wharf is very much wanted in the borough.
171. Have you at any time seen the traffic on the Milson's Point Road inconveniently crowded? Yes.
172. Would it not be just as convenient for persons coming down from Lane Cove Road to go to Kirribilli Point, as it would to go down High-street? The distance would be about the same. It would be more convenient to go to High-street; it takes about 7 minutes for a vehicle to cross from Milson's Point to the Circular Quay. I do not think that it would take more than 10 minutes for a vehicle to cross from High-street to Sydney.
173. Is it not three times as far from High-street to Sydney as it is from Milson's Point to Sydney? I do not think so.
174. The only effect of diverting the vehicles to High-street would be to lessen the traffic on Milson's Point Road? Yes.
175. There would be no traffic as far as High-street is concerned? No.
176. When was the Eastern Wharf let to Mr. Grant? About two years ago.

- P. A. Temple, Esq., 177. Is it not a fact that the North Shore Ferry Company are willing to make extended provision for vehicular traffic at Milson's Point if the Government would permit them to put down the necessary piles and wharfage at their own expense? I am not aware of it.
- 4 July, 1887. 178. And that they have offered to put on larger boats? I do not know.
179. Mr. Withers.] Is it not a fact that this company has made special overtures to the council? No; not since this Bill has been projected.
180. Is there any hope of an immediate and a prospective revenue from these wharves? I think so.
181. Mr. Edmunds.] Were not the proposals of the North Shore Ferry Company based upon the condition that they should have a monopoly of the wharf? Yes.
182. For what period? I cannot say. It was either three or five years, I think.
183. Mr. Williams.] Mr. Grant has a monopoly of his wharf? Anyone may land material there, subject to a scale of charges. Private boats can land their passengers there free.
184. Why is the council so anxious to erect this wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street;—is it not a fact that they want to turn out the North Shore Rowing Club? No; it is simply to get revenue.
185. Mr. Edmunds.] Is it not a fact that the council are agreeable to allow the North Shore Rowing Club to erect their shed in a more suitable place? A letter was written to that effect, but we have received no reply to it yet.
186. Mr. Withers.] Milson's Point is the only outlet at present in St. Leonards for vehicular traffic? Yes.
187. Mr. Edmunds.] From whom has the opposition to this Bill come? The North Shore Rowing Club.
188. Were you council clerk when this club was permitted to erect their shed? No. I have a copy of the minutes which refer to the matter. They extend over the years 1879, 1880, 1881. I produce the minute-book and a copy of the various minutes. [Vide Appendix A 2.]
189. Mr. Williams.] Could not a wharf for vehicular traffic be easily erected at Blue's Point? No; it is not in our borough.
190. Has any petition been sent in to the Government in opposition to the proposed wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street? Yes.
191. Mr. Edmunds.] Do you know that this action of the council has been taken upon legal advice? Yes; upon the advice of Mr. Salomons and Mr. Knox.

(SESSION 1887-8.)

THURSDAY, 27 OCTOBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. IVES,	MR. LYNE,
MR. TRICKETT,	MR. R. BURDETT SMITH,
	MR. WITHERS.

I. E. IVES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. P. O. Williams, Solicitor, appeared for the Petitioners against the Bill.
 Mr. H. H. Robey appeared in person for self and Mr. T. E. Cresswell.
 Mr. Pring, Counsel, appeared for the promoters of the Bill.

Donald Munro, Esq., called in and examined:—

- D. Munro, Esq., 27 Oct., 1887.
- Chairman.*] You are mayor of the Borough of Victoria? Yes.
 - You are aware that the Boroughs of East St. Leonards, St. Leonards, Victoria, and North Willoughby are applying to Parliament for power to erect wharves beyond their boundaries? Yes.
 - Will you tell the Committee the nature of the existing accommodation in your borough? The only accommodation we have is at Blue's Point, and it is very limited. The Council has called for tenders to erect three jetties. We got permission from the Government to erect those jetties on condition that we pay a total annual rent of £50 for them; but through some defect in the Municipalities Act we find that we cannot erect wharves beyond the line of reclamation. We apply jointly with the other boroughs for this Bill, so that we can expend money, without being subjected to annoyances by ratepayers beyond our boundary.
 - For the erection of how many wharves did you get permission from the Government—one or three? Three jetties; but we intend to erect only one at present.
 - What is the estimated cost of one jetty? £2,000. A tender has been accepted.
 - Have the council considered what income they are likely to derive from this jetty? They have not. They are simply, in the interests of the public, going to erect a jetty for the convenience of the passenger and vehicular traffic.
 - Mr. Trickett.*] It would be a very great convenience to residents and visitors? Yes; to the whole of the St. Leonards electorate.
 - The wharves will be built with a view to meet the requirements of transit boats, which will carry passengers and vehicles? Yes, and for the accommodation of watermen.
 - Chairman.*] Is there much traffic to the wharf as it now exists? Yes, there is a large traffic now. It is very seldom that there is not a vessel at the wharf. It is always utilized, and very often the traffic is completely blocked.
 - Mr. Trickett.*] Has any public meeting been held in favour of the Bill? No.
 - The general feeling of the public is in favour of the project? Yes; and more particularly since the tramway has been running to Milson's Point.
 - Chairman.*] You are borrowing money to erect wharves? No; we have borrowed it; it is lying at the Bank.
 - What interest are you paying? We are paying 7 per cent., and we are getting 6 per cent.

14. If you spend £2,000 on one jetty, and pay a rent of £50 to the Government, it will bring your annual outlay on that jetty up to £190? That has nothing to do with the question. We want to give accommodation to the public.

D. Munro,
Esq.

27 Oct., 1887.

15. But in order to give that accommodation it will cost you £190 a year? Yes; very likely.

16. So far you have not made any scale by which you will charge the public a rate for using this jetty? No.

17. Mr. R. Burdett Smith.] It is desirable, and it will be for the benefit not only of the ratepayers and residents of these four boroughs, but also of the public generally, to erect these wharves? Certainly; the place is blocked up through the want of this accommodation.

18. And not only the boroughs, and the ratepayers of those boroughs, but the public generally, are in favour of this proposal? Certainly.

19. Mr. Withers.] Do you think you will get £200 a year for that particular wharf? I cannot tell; I am told that we shall get £450 a year for it.

20. Has your Council ever discussed the question of probable rent? Oh yes; they expect to get £500.

21. Do you think that £500 is a fair return on an expenditure of £2,000? I should rather think so.

22. Have you brought the basis of your calculation with you? No.

23. Do you think yourself that there will be a revenue of £300 a year? I am quite sure of it.

24. Mr. R. Burdett Smith.] Apart from the question of revenue, it will be a general public benefit to have these wharves? Yes.

25. Mr. Withers.] On what did you base your estimate of the cost—on plans and specifications? Yes; we have an engineer; we had to submit the plans to the Government for their approval.

26. Mr. Trickett.] You would be able to utilize the wharves for the purpose of landing blue metal and other material that you required in the boroughs? No; not at this particular jetty; one jetty is meant for vehicular and passenger traffic; the other two jetties are intended for commerce of any sort.

27. You would be able to utilize one of them for the purpose I have named? Yes; two of them.

28. Would not that be a great advantage also? Yes; at present blue metal is landed at Blue's Point for the boroughs of St. Leonards and Victoria.

29. Mr. Withers.] How much larger is the proposed wharf than the existing one? It extends 160 feet; it is very superior to the present one.

30. Mr. Lyne.] What is the difficulty with the Government at the present time in this matter? Under the Municipalities Act we cannot expend money beyond our boundary, that is the line of reclamation which is laid down by the Harbours and Rivers Department; we cannot spend a shilling for the accommodation of the public beyond that line, without the consent of Parliament.

31. If you put up only one jetty will you still have to pay a rent of £50 to the Government? I do not know about that; I cannot exactly answer you.

32. What length of lease did you get? I am not prepared to answer the question.

33. Mr. Trickett.] Is there a written lease? No; I think we only got permission from the Government to occupy.

Edward Mann Clarke, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

34. Chairman.] What are you? I am a timber merchant. I have been mayor of East St. Leonards.

E. M. Clarke,
Esq.

27 Oct., 1887.

35. You are aware of the intention of all the four boroughs at North Shore to apply to Parliament for power to erect wharves outside their boundaries? Yes.

36. What is your opinion with regard to the advantages that will be derived by East St. Leonards from the passing of the Bill? They will be very great, for the simple reason that at present we have only one wharf in the whole place. It is limited in width to about 50 feet, and the ends of the streets they now propose to use for wharf purposes are much wider, namely, from 100 to 115 and 200 feet in width. The wharf at the bottom of Eastern Wharf Road is let for £105 a year. The council were compelled to take that course because the land on either side had been alienated. On one side there is the Commercial Wharf, and on the other the North Shore Ferry Company's Wharf; and there was no room for a vessel to lie alongside the municipal wharf, without overlapping one of these wharves.

37. You are not in the Municipal Council at the present time? No.

38. Do you believe that this wharf, if erected, would be for the general good of the public, independently of the boroughs that are immediately connected with it? I certainly believe that it will be for the general good of the public.

39. At the present time there is no public wharf in East St. Leonards, except this one which is leased? It is the only one.

40. Mr. Withers.] Have you any idea of the probable revenue that will be derived from this expenditure? I believe that either of the wharves if erected will realize from £100 to £150 a year.

41. Are you aware of the amount which it is proposed to expend at Blue's Point? I do not know the exact amount; I know that they propose to erect a wharf there.

42. You have not seen any plan? No.

43. Do you think that an expenditure of £2,000 on a wharf there will be justifiable? I certainly do, because the wharf accommodation is very limited, and it is nearly always occupied.

44. Are you aware that the Government demand a rent of £50 a year from this wharf if it is erected? They not only demand it but they have been receiving it for some time.

45. Do you think that £190 a year, including that £50, would be a fair return for an expenditure of £2,000? We had plans prepared, during my mayorship, of three wharves, and the estimated cost of them was £2,500.

46. Have there been different proposals before the different councils? I do not think so; it was a general scheme.

47. Have you had any opportunity to arrive at any estimate of the revenue that will be derived from the erection of a wharf at Blue's Point at a cost of £2,000? Three years ago I was prepared to give £200 a year for the present wharf. From four to five years ago I paid the North Shore Ferry Company £250 a year for a wharf that had about 200 ft. frontage.

48. Do you think that the wharf might be let at £300 a year? I think so.

49. Is it likely to reach £500 a year? It will eventually.

50. You think it will be a good investment to build this wharf? Yes.

51.

E. M. Clarke, Esq.
27 Oct., 1887.

51. For the benefit of the city as well as of St. Leonards? I am sure of it; for instance, the Land Company of Australasia are now spending about £20,000 upon what we know as Whiting's brickyards. They are erecting kilns, and at the present time they have the wharf loaded with coal, although they are not nearly ready to begin operations. We have other brickworks in course of erection at the present time.

52. Do you think that the crowded condition of the traffic in Milson's Point Road justifies this additional wharf accommodation? I certainly think so; in wet weather it is not at all unusual to see horses slipping down and blocking the whole of the main thoroughfare.

Allan Douglas Bell, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

A. D. Bell, Esq.
27 Oct., 1887.

53. Chairman.] You are an alderman of the Borough of St. Leonards? Yes.

54. Are you aware that the four boroughs of North Shore are applying for a Bill to enable them to erect wharves and do other matters outside their boundaries? Yes.

55. What water frontage has the Borough of St. Leonards? It has a water frontage at the end of all the streets that lead into Middle Harbour.

56. Is there any accommodation in the shape of wharves in your borough at present? Yes; there is a wharf at Mossman's Bay, which we leased lately from the Government, and which we have leased to the North Shore Ferry Company.

57. At the present time you cannot bring any material into the borough from Sydney, except through the Borough of Victoria, or the Borough of East St. Leonards? No.

58. And you consider that it would be of great advantage to your borough to be able to do so? Yes.

59. Have you formed any idea of the cost of the proposed wharves;—are there any wharves projected by your council? The wharf to be erected at the end of Musgrave-street, by the North Shore Ferry Company, was to cost £200.

60. And what rental would you derive from it? They took a lease for five years, at a rental of £20, and undertook to erect a wharf of the value of £200. We pay £5 a year, I think, to the Government.

61. If a wharf were erected at this place a transit boat would be able to run to it instead of to Milson's Point as at present; it would afford greater accommodation to the ratepayers in your borough, and save them a vast amount of haulage on the Milson's Point Road? Mossman's Bay would be further away from the centre of our borough than either Blue's Point or Milson's Point.

62. At the present time, whatever traffic there is between your borough and Sydney must go via Milson's Point? Exactly so. At one time the whole of the traffic went from a wharf at Blue's Point, until it was blocked.

63. Can you state the probable revenue that will be derived from the erection of the other wharves? No. The present wharf realises £150 a year. A small wharf at the bottom of a street, 40 feet wide, the Eastern Wharf, is rented to Mr. Grant for £150 a year.

64. Mr. Withers.] Do you think that the absence of these wharves is interfering with the general progress of North Shore? I do.

65. Do you think it would be a good investment for a private person to build the wharves? I am sure that if the corporation were allowed to erect the wharves, before very long we should have a penny ferry running to North Shore instead of a two-penny one, as at present.

66. Have you lived long in St. Leonards? For forty years. We have no more wharf accommodation now than we had forty years ago.

67. You think that the requirements of the district justify this expenditure? Yes.

68. Mr. Williams.] How do you know that the eastern wharf has been let to Mr. Grant for £150 a year? It was let by auction.

69. Were you present? No; I read the report of the sale in the newspapers.

70. What interest as regards water frontage has your borough in this matter? We have all the foreshores to Middle Harbour from Long Bay right round to Sirius Cove.

71. Why do you contemplate making wharves at present in your borough? We have not any wharf at the present time.

72. I suppose you are merely joining in this matter to strengthen the position of the other boroughs? We have no power to erect wharves. We land our goods at Blue's Point Road. We have no other private wharf to land our goods at.

73. Where else could you land? At the bottom of High-street.

74. What is the width of High-street? It is 40 feet, I think.

75. Do you suppose you can get private land there? No.

76. Is it not a fact that the present wharf, the one that the Ferry Company are using, is at the bottom of private property? No; it is at the bottom of High-street.

77. Is it not at the bottom of a road 30 feet wide? 40 feet, I believe.

78. It is not High-street proper? It is the bottom of Whaling Road. High-street runs into it.

79. Do you swear that the wharf is not erected at the bottom of private property—not at the bottom of a street? I am prepared to swear that it is erected at the bottom of a street, between the properties of Mr. Lord and Mr. Hayes.

80. Do you not know that the approach to the wharf is by private property? I do not know it; I know it is a public road under the control of the Borough Council.

81. The wharf which is being used is sufficient for all necessary traffic; it is a very good wharf, is it not? It may be good enough for the passenger traffic. It belongs to the North Shore Ferry Company. It is not a place at which you could land coals or goods in any quantity.

82. Is there not a wharf belonging to Mr. Hayes round the corner, at which goods could be landed? What has the borough to do with that?

83. Is it your idea that if the borough get power to have wharves they shall have power to lease them? I do not think the council should have power to lease all the wharves. I think that a landing-place should be reserved at each wharf for the public, and for private boats.

Joseph Waterhouse, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

J.
Waterhouse,
Esq.
27 Oct., 1887.

84. Chairman.] You are an alderman of the Borough of East St. Leonards? Yes.
85. Are you aware of the nature of this Bill? Yes.
86. It is an understood fact that the ends of streets at high-water-mark is the boundary of the Municipality, and that you wish power to erect jetties beyond that limit, and to utilise those streets? Yes, that is the object of the Bill.
87. What steps have your borough taken in reference to this matter? They have got permission to borrow £3,000.
88. Have you already borrowed any money? No; we have permission to borrow for wharf purposes.
89. Have you any estimate of the cost of any of these jetties? Yes, we have plans and specifications for three wharves, namely, for one at the Western Road, one at Willoughby-street, and one at High-street. The estimated cost of the work is about £3,000. We should not be compelled to build three wharves. We could borrow £1,000 to build one where it was most urgently required.
90. Would it be to the public benefit to spend that amount for this purpose? Yes; I may say that we have no wharf accommodation at Milson's Point at present. We have one wharf, the eastern wharf, which was let I think for three years, because we could get no one to land any goods there. It has a frontage of only 50 feet, without overhanging Mr. Grant's wharf on one side, or the North Shore Ferry Company's wharf on the other, so we thought it best to let our wharf for £105 a year to Mr. Grant.
91. At the present time, with the exception of this wharf, the borough has no public wharf accommodation? None. All the wharves are in the hands of private individuals. There is no chance of getting a wharf there anywhere. The western wharf is hemmed in by Government properties. They have 60 feet of our frontage hemmed in.
92. If you erect one or more jetties will they be free to the public; will there be a scale of tolls? We would let the wharves.
93. Would the general public be called upon to pay a toll in order to cross the wharves? Oh, no; I consider that in each instance there should be a certain amount of accommodation reserved for the public, light boats, &c. I believe we should have the power to take wharfage for goods the same as we have at the eastern wharf. I feel certain that if a wharf were erected at either Willoughby-street or High-street it would produce £100 a year. A little time ago the Government landed certain pipes in connection with the water supply on the eastern wharf, and although there is a clause in the lease that such material shall be landed there free of charge, still we had to pay Mr. Grant £50 or £60 for demurrage before the pipes could be shifted. There is no room for landing such heavy material on this wharf. We have to pay wharfage for landing such material on a private wharf.
94. From the natural formation of the land the whole of the traffic is brought on to the Milson's Point Road? Yes.
95. Consequently the outlet is not nearly sufficient for the requirements of the district? No; I have seen several accidents to carts in consequence of the trams running on the main road. There is only a space of 20 feet between the track and the kerb.
96. Any of the proposed wharves would divert the traffic from the main road? A wharf at High-street would divert it altogether from that line, and one at Willoughby-street would relieve the main road altogether, except about 200 or 300 yards.
97. Mr. Withers.] For how long have you lived at St. Leonards? For fifty years; since I was a boy.
98. Are you in a position to form an estimate of its requirements in this respect? I think so. I was actively engaged in business there for ten years.
99. Do you think that the district has suffered from the want of public wharf accommodation? I feel quite sure that it has. I was engaged in the wood and coal trade. I used to have hundreds of tons of coal delivered at the wharf, and it used to cost me 1s. 3d. to get the coal carried into my yard.
100. You think that the people are inconvenienced through the want of proper accommodation? Yes, and property has depreciated in value, too.
101. Would you invest in a speculation of this kind yourself? Yes; I think it is a good investment for anyone. I know a gentleman who has spent about £10,000 in erecting a store and a wharf.
102. In what quarter does the opposition to this Bill arise? It comes from only the North Shore Rowing Club, who own a boat-house at the bottom of Willoughby-street.
103. What can their objection be? Because they have built a boat-house on the wharf, and it would be an expense to them to remove it.
104. In the event of the Bill being passed would the council act arbitrarily towards them? I think I should like to give them some compensation for the removal of the shed before I spent money in any other way. We offered them some time ago a site either at Beulah-street, facing the Circular Quay, or at Peele-street.
105. If the Bill is passed will you operate on that wharf at Willoughby-street? A sum of £200 was voted last week for kerbing and guttering the street, and we cannot go any further until the Bill is passed.
106. Mr. Pring.] I suppose you know pretty well what the popular feeling in the district is with regard to this Bill? Certainly. A petition was signed by 523 persons for the removal of the boat-house and the erection of wharves, and only four persons signed a petition against the proposal.
107. The great weight of public opinion is in favour of the Bill? Yes, in the four boroughs.
108. Mr. Withers.] I suppose it was a matter of regret on their part that they should be called upon to petition for the removal of the boat-house? Yes, we have offered the club the choice of two sites, but they will not go from Willoughby-street.
109. Is it to the interest of the borough that these people should move on? Yes, I may say that on the assurance of the council that Willoughby-street will be completed, two gentlemen have spent some thousands of pounds on the erection of fine houses there.
110. Mr. Williams.] Suppose the council were to build a wharf at Willoughby-street, what would they do with it? Let it.
111. And would they do the same with a wharf at High-street? We have done nothing at High-street. The Ferry Company has jumped the claim.
112. Suppose you got permission to erect a wharf there, would you let it also? If we thought it necessary to have more than one wharf we should build one at High-street with a view to let it.
113. Do you think that a wharf at Willoughby-street will pay? I can see that Mr. Grant's wharf pays.

- J. Waterhouse, Esq.
27 Oct., 1887.
- I see half a dozen vessels which cannot get unloaded for want of accommodation. We can get no place at which to land our blue-metal. We shall suffer this great expense of paying wharfage until we can get this additional accommodation.
114. If you let the wharf would you have to pay for the landing of the metal all the same? We should make provision like we have done at the eastern wharf that all such material should be landed free. I know one person who is willing to give £200 a year for the wharf at Willoughby-street when it is erected.
115. The name of the person? I decline to give the name. He is a gentleman who resides in the district.
116. Is it Mr. Bale? No, it is not.
117. Is it Mr. Glacken who is going to give £200? No; he is opposed to making a wharf there.
118. Who is the person? I decline to give his name; but I may say that when I leave the Borough Council I shall very readily give £200 for the wharf myself.
119. Mr. Withers.] Have you any idea of giving up your seat in the council? I cannot be too sure of the result of the next election. It is not a bed of roses to be an alderman.
120. Mr. Williams.] What is the estimated cost of the wharf at Willoughby-street? £1,000. We do not expect to spend more than that amount altogether.
121. Would that be sufficient to put up a wooden structure, facing walls, and everything necessary? It will do all that we want to do.
122. Mr. Pring.] Did you get this estimate from a professional man? Yes, from Messrs. Humphreys and Cracknell. It cost us £70 for plans and specifications.
123. Mr. Williams.] What is the grade of Willoughby-street? It is 1 in 14; a lower grade than you will find in either Erskine-street or Woolloomooloo.
124. Is it not very much steeper towards the top? Two or three feet are being cut off there now.
125. About 100 yards before you come to Alfred-street is not the grade more than 1 in 14? When we take off those 2 or 3 feet it will not be more than 1 in 14 or 1 in 14½.
126. How much does the Borough of East St. Leonards owe? I think that our standing debt is about £18,000 or £19,000.

Perey Augustus Temple, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- P. A. Temple, Esq.
27 Oct., 1887.
127. Chairman.] You are council clerk at the Borough of East St. Leonards? Yes.
128. Do you produce the plans and estimates of the proposed jetties? Yes, at the foot of High-street, Willoughby-street, and Western Wharf Road. [Produced.]
129. In the event of the Bill being passed, which wharf does the council intend to erect first? I cannot say; we have permission from the Government to borrow money for the erection of three wharves.
130. What is the width of Willoughby-street? It is 50 feet.
131. In the authority which the Government have given you for the erection of wharves they also grant you a right to a small triangular piece of land near Willoughby-street? Yes.
132. The whole frontage which you derive from the Government gives you a side line of about 120 feet to Willoughby-street? Yes, without overlapping any adjoining boundaries.
133. What is the estimated cost of the jetty? We propose to spend £1,000 there.
134. Will the extension of the wharf 120 feet alter the grade of Willoughby-street to any material extent? It will make it considerably easier; the grade for the first part, Kirribilli-street, one-third of the distance, is 1 in 14, and for the rest of the distance it is 1 in 17, which is easier still.
135. Has the council made any estimate of the probable rent from the wharf? No estimate has been made.
136. What do you think would be a fair return on the outlay? I think that the council should get at least £250 a year when the wharf and the road are made. The wharf will have a frontage of 120 feet, and a depth of 120 feet.
137. Although you have permission to borrow money, you have not borrowed any yet? No; we are waiting until the Bill is passed.
138. Mr. Pring.] Have you the Government's promise of the lease of the triangular piece of land? Yes; I hand in the letter. [Appendix A 3.]
139. Mr. Williams.] The council have the promise of the lease of this piece of property if the Bill goes through? It is to that effect. The lease of the Western Wharf Road is completed; we have paid the money; I produce the authority to occupy. [Produced.]
140. What is the total income of the Borough of East St. Leonards from rates and other sources? It was £4,800 this year.
141. After deducting the salaries and working expenses, including the item of interest, what is the net income? I think that we should have £3,000 to expend on new works.
142. How much do they owe? £15,000.
143. Not more than that? No.
144. What is your overdraft at the Bank? We have a credit at the Bank of close on to £1,000.
145. What interest are you paying on the £15,000? 6 per cent.
146. Have the council any definite offer from anyone to take the wharf at Willoughby-street when it is erected? Not that I am aware of.
147. The proposal is to let the wharf? I have every reason to believe that they will let it, reserving a right for private boats and steamers to land passengers there free of charge.
148. Have you had any letters from gentlemen who signed the petition, desiring to withdraw their signatures? None whatever. I know of no objection to the Bill, except on the part of the rowing club.
149. A number of property-owners have objected to the Bill? No.
150. Have they not petitioned the Lands Office against the granting of the lease? I do not know, as a matter of fact, that they have done so. I know that most of them are members of the North Shore Rowing Club.
151. Mr. Pring.] Do you know whether the council have ever offered the club another site for their shed? Yes.
152. Have they on more than one occasion made such an offer? Yes; on two occasions. The council offered them the choice of two or three sites, but they received no reply. The sites were at the bottom of Beulah-street, Walter-street, and, I believe, Peele-street.
- 153.

153. Mr. Withers.] How long have you resided in the district? Six or seven years.

154. Apart from your official position, do you conscientiously believe that the proposed wharf accommodation will be for the general benefit of the community? Yes; and a special advantage to the residents of North Shore. It is an immense district, and it has only one artery, as it were, namely, Milson's Point Road, which is blocked in every way now by the trams.

P. A. Temple,
Esq.

27 Oct., 1887.

William Alexander, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

155. Chairman.] What are you? I am, I suppose, a gentleman; I do nothing; I am a resident of Willoughby-street, St. Leonards.

156. How long have you lived there? Two years.

157. Are you aware of the nature of this Bill? I am.

158. Do you know the nature of the existing wharf accommodation? I do; it is my opinion that it is very inadequate now for the rapidly-increasing population at North Shore, and also that it is very dangerous. I believe that we have only this one wharf, known as Milson's Point, and it is particularly dangerous since the tram-line has been laid, and these carriages run up and down. There is, certainly, not sufficient room for a heavy load to be taken up the street with safety. It was necessary before the tram was made, in consequence of the incline, to cross the street, and go by stages in order to get to the top of the hill. It is a frequent occurrence to see a cart stuck up on the road until the tram has passed. There is no other street at North Shore more suitable for a public wharf than Willoughby-street, inasmuch as it is closer to the centre of population. It would be a much easier grade if the road were properly made according to the plans than the Milson's Point Road.

159. What would the grade be in Willoughby-street? I believe it would be 1 in 14 in the worst part of it.

160. You have had plenty of opportunity to notice the great want that exists for further wharf accommodation? I have had ample opportunity to see that it has been a great drawback to property-holders and ratepayers that the street has not been improved. We have been told repeatedly by the Council that it will not be improved until we get a public wharf at the foot of the street.

161. Mr. Pring.] I suppose you know pretty well what the feeling of the people is with regard to the Bill? Yes; more particularly on account of having interested myself in getting signatures to the petition in favour of the measure. Everyone was pleased to think an effort was being made to get more wharf accommodation. I do not remember that we met with any opposition to the petition, except that which emanated from the boat club, who are private people occupying the end of a public street, for which the Council is supposed to pay £40 a year to the Government.

162. The members of the club are not ratepayers? I do not think that many of them pay rates.

163. Mr. Withers.] Is it a wooden shed? It is a wooden shed, erected at the very end of the wharf, and it would be very easy to remove it. I had a great inclination to employ a tug, at a cost of £5 or £6, to pull it out into the water, and let it float. I thought that the members of the club would be more independent if that were done; they have been struggling hard against the whole community.

164. Mr. Williams.] Were you one of those who threatened to pull down the club shed? No; this is the first time that I have mentioned the matter; I always do things openly; I thought that this was the best place to give expression to my opinion on the subject.

165. Mr. Withers.] Do you think it will be a general benefit to the community to pass this Bill? I am perfectly satisfied on that point.

Edward Aiken, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

166. Chairman.] What are you? I am nothing at present; I am living on my means; I reside at St. Leonards; I have lived there for more than twelve years off and on.

167. Have you at any time been engaged in business there? Yes; I was in the saddlery business at one time.

168. Have you had opportunities during that time of noticing the increase of traffic and the restriction as to wharf accommodation? Yes, constantly.

169. You are aware of the contents of this Bill? Yes.

170. From your general knowledge of the place are you of opinion that it would be of general benefit to the whole district to pass the Bill? Certainly; it is the wish of the people that it should be passed; I was one of those who went round to get signatures to a petition in favour of the Bill; everyone was in favour of the project. I believe we could have got thousands of signatures if we had tried. I never met a soul who was against the Bill.

171. The only outlet at present for the vehicular traffic is at Milson's Point? Yes.

172. There is no other place in the district, with the exception of the wharf at Blue's Point, where any bulk goods can be landed? No.

THURSDAY, 10 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. GARRETT,
MR. LYNE,

MR. TRICKETT,
MR. WITHERS,

MR. R. BURDETT SMITH.

I. E. IVES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Pring, Counsel, appeared for the promoters of the Bill.

Mr. P. O. Williams appeared for the Petitioners against the Bill.

Thomas Edgar Creswell, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

173. Chairman.] You appear here in support of the petition against this Bill? Yes; I represent the Rowing Club, who have presented a petition to that effect. It is signed by myself as captain, and Mr. H. H. Robey as secretary, of the club.

T. E. Creswell,
Esq.

174. 10 Nov., 1887.

T. E. Creswell,
Esq.
10 Nov., 1887.

174. You set forth in the petition, "That the North Shore Rowing Club has for the last eight years occupied a portion of Careening Cove, at the foot of Willoughby-street, adjoining a small stone pier, also at the foot of such street";—by what authority have you occupied this position? I was not a member of the club when it took possession of this place. As far as I can understand we are in possession under a Government lease granted for the purpose of a rowing club. We paid rent to the Government until, I think, January, 1886, and we paid rates to the borough of East St. Leonards as ratepayers.
175. You have no document to show by what authority you occupy? I have no document. There was a lease in existence. I have seen it.
176. You set forth, "That the borough of East St. Leonards applied for a lease of the same site, and your Petitioners lodged objections with the then Minister for Lands against the granting of such lease"? Yes, we did.
177. How was it that this council applied for the same site as you were supposed to occupy? We were given to understand that they wished to build a wharf there; that some persons who had purchased some land in that vicinity required a wharf there.
178. And you lodged an objection to the Bill in order to prevent them from building a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street? Yes.
179. On the ground, as you state further on in the petition, that it would interfere with the club? Yes, and on the grounds that the stone pier which is already there is all that is required, and that a public wharf is not required at all.
180. How do you arrive at that conclusion? The gradient of Willoughby-street is so very steep that a wharf at the foot of it would be almost useless for merchandise or wood and coal, and as for passenger traffic there would not be sufficient room for a steamer to turn round, especially at low tide; in fact, so few people live in the street that a wharf would not be of much use there.
181. Is it not a fact that the gradient is being reduced to such an extent that the street will be suitable for vehicular traffic? The council are doing what they can, I think, to that end; but my idea is that they will never be able to so make the street that a horse can pull a load up, because it is so very steep.
182. Why do you say, "That in the event of the proposed Bill becoming law, such club must be disbanded"? Because we have nowhere else to go to for one thing, and if we had we could not bear the expense of removing our shed.
183. Is it not a fact that the club has been offered the choice of two sites where the shed would be in no one's way,—sites quite as good as the present one? We were offered two sites, but we refused the offer for two or three reasons. First of all, neither site is suitable for a rowing club; and in the next place we took it that the council have no power to offer us a site, seeing that the Government exercise control over the water, and as we were there as tenants of the Government we decided to remain in our present position, although the council offered us a site at the foot of Jeffrey-street, still they have so made the street as to provide for a wharf apparently. It looks as if it is finished as if they intended, when the Bill is passed, to have a wharf there also. I do not know whether that is their intention or not, but it looks as if it were. We were under the impression that if we were to move our shed to that site we should get notice to quit in course of time. The other site in Lavender Bay is not at all suitable for our purpose.
184. What do you think it would cost to remove your boat-shed? It all depends upon the new site. If we had to move it to some different site altogether round in Lavender Bay or Neutral Bay, I daresay it would cost a couple of hundred pounds; but if we could move it, as I suggested in the petition, to the opposite site of Willoughby-street, it would cost us about £50.
185. I do not see such a suggestion in the petition? At all events it is a suggestion of mine if it is not stated in the petition.
186. What was the cost of the shed? I cannot say.
187. You have never seen any documents giving the club authority to occupy this site? I have not seen any letters, though rent has been paid since I have been a member of the club.
188. Mr. Pring.] For how long have you been a member? Seven years.
189. Do you not know that the club originally applied to the Government for a lease of the site, I think about seven years ago, and that the Government refused the application? No.
190. Do you not know that it was the council of East St. Leonards who had a lease of it? Yes; I believe they had a lease; but I say that we hold under a Government lease. The council got a lease for the purpose of a Rowing Club. Of course they cannot carry on a club themselves.
191. Have you any document which will bear out your statement? Not here; there is one in existence.
192. Where is it? Mr. Robey has the custody of all the documents of the club.
193. You know something about the management of the club? Yes.
194. Has it ever paid a penny rent to anybody? Yes, to the Government, up to January, 1886.
195. Although it was the council who had the lease? Yes; we paid rates to the council.
196. Have you any receipts to show for the rent you paid to the Government? I have not. I daresay that Mr. Robey has them.
197. It is your opinion, I understand, that more wharves are necessary for North Shore? I do not think so.
198. You think that the wharf at Milson's Point is sufficient? Oh, yes.
199. For the whole of North Shore? For East St. Leonards. I am a ratepayer of only East St. Leonards; I know nothing of any of the other boroughs.
200. Is it your opinion that the Milson's Point Ferry is sufficient for the purposes of all the people on that side of the water? Yes. The Neutral Bay Ferry serves the other side.
201. I suppose you know the gradient of the Milson's Point Road? Yes.
202. It is a very steep gradient? Not from the ferry. It is pretty steep from what they call the public wharf, where they land wood and coal and stone.
203. Do you know what your boat-shed originally cost? No; I have no idea.
204. I think you are a solicitor in Mr. John Lawson's office? Yes.
205. Are you a property owner at North Shore? No; I am only a ratepayer; I rent a house.
206. You have no commercial dealings over there? No.
207. Mr. Williams.] In your opinion is it desirable to empower the municipality to expend rates in the erection of wharves indiscriminately at the ends of the various streets under its control? It is a most undesirable power, I think, to give to any council.

208. What is the state of the footpaths and of a great many roads in your borough? I think that they are a disgrace to us. T. E. Croswell, Esq.
10 Nov., 1887.
209. How was it that the lease came to be given at all to the council in the first instance? I cannot say, for I was not a member of the club at the time; but I know that the lease stated that it was for the purpose of a rowing club.
210. Have you had frequent opportunities to observe the state of the traffic on the Milson's Point Road? I have passed up and down there nearly every day for the last seven years.
211. Several witnesses have said that it is a constant thing to see the traffic blocked there;—have you seen anything of that kind? I have never noticed any block. I have noticed a horse jibbing on the road now and again; but I do not call that blocking the traffic.
212. Is the road at present more than sufficient for the traffic? It is indeed.
213. Have you been up and down the road at various times of the day? Yes, at all hours. I go up and down the road five or six times a day, I suppose, altogether.
214. Mr. Pring.] I suppose you have never been down the road at 5 o'clock in the morning? Not as early as that; I have been down at 6 o'clock.
215. You know that there is a very heavy traffic in fruit on this road? Yes.
216. Have you ever been down when the fruit carts have been there in the early morning? No.
217. I suppose as a rule you go down there about 9 o'clock, take lunch at home, and return finally about 5 or 6 o'clock in the evening? Yes.
218. So, between 9 o'clock and 1 o'clock, and 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock, you are in Sydney? Yes. I do not think fruit carts could go down Willoughby-street if they could not go down Milson's Point Road. I should be very sorry to take a horse down Willoughby-street with a load.
219. Mr. Withers.] You think that the Borough Council is not a suitable body to be entrusted with the powers of this Bill? No; I think that the Government ought to have control of all water frontages.
220. The municipalities will not have absolute control; they will be tenants of the Government? Yes, except that the ratepayers will have to pay the interest on the borrowed money. I do not think that the rent which they will get from the wharves will be sufficient to pay the interest on that money, especially as regards the wharf at Willoughby-street.
221. Do you think that the proposed wharves will tend to increase the revenue of the borough from the building of large houses and so on? I only speak as regards East St. Leonards. I do not think it will have that effect. I think we have enough wharves there already.

Prosper Orleans Williams, Esq., sworn, and examined:—

222. Chairman.] You are one of the petitioners against this Bill? Yes. I am a solicitor, and also a resident of East St. Leonards. P. O. Williams.
10 Nov., 1887.
223. Amongst other things in your petition you state: "That the erection of such wharves is unnecessary;"—why do you think that it is unnecessary? North Shore is now opening up faster than the Municipality can keep pace with. I think that when you see evidence of a place populating to the enormous extent that it is, it is a sure sign that further wharf accommodation is unnecessary. Another reason why I object to this wholesale power being given to the municipalities is this: Even supposing you have a competent body to day, next year you may have a most incompetent, corrupt, and spendthrift body to deal with this matter. There are I suppose, commencing from the Port Jackson Company's property round to Neutral Bay, at least ten roads at the foot of which the municipality could erect wharves if they chose. It is a notorious fact, I think. I do not speak of only East St. Leonards—that most municipalities squander a great deal of money, and I think that the powers which they already have under the Municipalities Act are amply sufficient to enable them to make mistakes of this kind. I do not say that as a rule they do it from any reason but mistake.
224. How many wharves, public or private, are there at present to accommodate the whole of the northern side of the harbour, that is for loading and unloading vessels, and taking merchandise to North Shore by other than the horse boats? There is a wharf at Blue's Point, a public wharf at Milson's Point, Mr. Grant's wharf, Mr. Wilson's wharf, at the foot of Jeffrey-street, Mr. Hayes's wharf round in Neutral Bay, and the wharf below Mr. Mann's place.
225. Is it possible for a vessel to lie alongside and discharge cargo from the ship's side? It is quite possible for vessels to lie alongside the eastern wharf—because I have seen them there myself—Mr. Grant's wharf, and Mr. Wilson's wharf. Part of the North Shore Ferry Company's property is let, I think, to some coal merchants. I do not know exactly what depth of water there is at Blue's Point. I believe that vessels can discharge there. Not only is it possible to remove cargo from vessels; but I have seen goods being removed.
226. What is the grade from the eastern wharf; why was it let to Mr. Grant? I cannot say.
227. Is it not a fact that the adjoining wharves render the eastern wharf useless to the corporation? I do not think so. I do not agree with that idea at all.
228. To a very large extent useless to the corporation? No.
229. What rental are they getting for it? I am told £105.
230. Why did they let it? For the same reason that they will attempt to let these wharves if they are erected; as they have expressed their intention of doing. They have an idea, I suppose, that they will get some revenue.
231. Do you not know as a matter of fact that a vessel of any size lying alongside Mr. Grant's wharf would overlap the eastern wharf, and thereby be liable to dues from the corporation; that, on the other hand, a vessel lying at the eastern wharf would overlap Mr. Grant's wharf, and consequently that Mr. Grant and the corporation would always be at loggerheads? It might happen that vessels placed in certain positions would overlap. Certainly they need not overlap the eastern wharf from Mr. Grant's wharf. It is quite a matter of Mr. Grant's choice. I suppose he has room to take a vessel alongside of a couple of hundred feet—of 150 feet at least—if he has depth of water. I think that this Bill affords a gross opportunity to a municipality to speculate in a manner which was never intended, and ought not to be allowed, in view of the promise of a Local Government Bill and a Harbour Trust. As to the accommodation at Milson's Point being insufficient for traffic, it is nonsense. There is a splendid road there now. I have been there at all times of the day, and I will undertake to say, except perhaps on one or two trips, there is never any inconvenience at all.

- P. O.
Williams, Esq.
10 Nov., 1887.
232. The Milson's Point wharf of which you speak is private property? Yes.
233. The Ferry Company which owns the wharf has utilized a very large portion of it with buildings? They have erected some buildings.
234. Would there be sufficient wharf accommodation if they were to continue those buildings round the whole of their frontage? I do not suppose the Company are going to interfere with their horse traffic. If they were to put a line of buildings round the whole of their water frontage there would be no accommodation.
235. They could take the horse traffic the same as they do the passenger traffic, under an arch? Exactly. I say that there is ample accommodation for many years to come.
236. Mr. Withers.] Do I understand you to say that the rapid progress of the boroughs is evidence that the wharves are not required? I say that wharves are not required to develop the boroughs, as has been stated by some witnesses.
237. Are you not reversing the natural order of things? No. I say that at the present time extra wharves are absolutely unnecessary for the development of that borough; it is going ahead a great deal too fast; faster than the municipality can keep pace with.
238. Are you of opinion that as the boroughs of North Shore approach the proportions of the City of Sydney less wharf accommodation will be required? No.
239. It is stated in evidence that the want of wharf accommodation is throwing the borough back? That is nonsense.
240. You think then that the construction of wharves will retard the further development of the place? I do not think that. It would not help it a bit. There was evidence given before the Committee last session as to the desirability of establishing a horse ferry at the foot of High street. I say it is absurd; and that nobody with any hope of making the ferry pay would establish one for the next ten or fifteen years. This Bill does not give power to erect a substantial wharf at some place where it was shown it would be of general utility to the borough, but it gives general power to erect wharves whether they are wanted or not.
241. Mr. Pring.] I understand you to say distinctly that it would not be to the advantage of the ratepayers and the residents of these boroughs that they should have this power to erect wharves? In my opinion it would not. Many of the roads and the footpaths are in a disgraceful state. Within a quarter of a mile's walk from the Post Office of Sydney until the last week or two you had to walk over cinders. I say that if the borough is to be allowed to expend rates in paying interest on the cost of useless wharves the ratepayers will suffer very greatly.
242. Do you not think that by letting these wharves—by taking dues at them—they will produce a very much larger sum than the interest on the proposed loan? I am quite sure that they would not.
243. You have given us an instance of a wharf being let at £105 a year; do you not think that the proposed wharves would let at the same rate? I do not believe that you would get £100 a year for a wharf at Willoughby-street. Even if it did produce a little more than the interest on the outlay the cost of maintenance and repairs would make it nil almost.
244. It is your opinion that actually the revenue would be nothing at all? Yes, practically. I regard it as a speculation.
245. Are you a shareholder in the North Shore Ferry Company? No.
246. Are any of your relations? I believe that Mr. James Milson, my father-in-law, has some shares.
247. He is a very large shareholder? No, rather a small one, I think.
248. Are you a member of the North Shore Rowing Club? Yes, for the last four or five years.
249. Have you anything to do with its financial affairs? No.
250. I suppose you know nothing about the lease or the rent? Nothing, except what I have heard.
251. How many of the wharves which you have mentioned are public wharves? I believe that there is a public wharf at Blue's Point and at Milson's Point.
252. How long have you lived at North Shore? Fourteen years.
253. How has the borough progressed during that time? It has been extending rapidly. I suppose that where there was one person when I went there fourteen years ago there are fifty now. It is increasing very rapidly. If the Bill is passed I think it very undesirable that the Municipality should have power to lease these wharves.
254. Mr. Garrett.] You object to the clause giving them that power? I object to such power being given. A municipality should not be allowed to speculate. Directly they erect a wharf they will lease it, and then it will become private property at once. I think that if a wharf is erected for the public good it should be kept for the use of the public by the municipality.
255. Under the direct control of the municipality? Yes; not in the hands of any private individual. They pretend to obviate the difficulty by inserting a clause reserving certain rights to themselves; but we all know that private individuals can break their contracts and agreements. They constantly do it, and I think that something of that sort has happened with regard to Mr. Grant's wharf, because they say it is of no use to them, and that they have to land their materials on private wharves. At all events a man who has leased a wharf from a municipality is entitled to block it up the same as any other man is. It is not a public wharf once it is leased to a private individual. I quite agree that in any event before the erection of a wharf the ratepayers should have an opportunity of saying whether it shall be done or not, in order that an unsuitable wharf shall not be built in an unsuitable place.
256. Mr. Withers.] What would it cost to take a poll of the ratepayers. It might cost the value of a wharf? It ought not to cost anything, because there ought to be a public notice given that a poll would be taken at some place or other.
257. How would that notice be given? Through the press.
258. But that would cost money? If they are to expend something like £1,000 or £1,500 on a wharf, I think they ought to expend a few pounds in giving notice to the ratepayers that it is about to be done.
259. Would a couple of hundred pounds be a fair expenditure for that purpose? It ought not to cost £25.

Walter Liberty Vernon, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined :—

260. Chairman.] What are you? I am an alderman of East Leonards. I have been an alderman for nearly three years, and a resident of East Leonards for four years. W. L. Vernon,
Esq.
10 Nov., 1887.
261. Have you taken any notice of the requirements of the place as regards wharf accommodation? It has always struck me that the wharf accommodation is utterly inadequate to the necessities of the future of the borough. There are $6\frac{1}{4}$ miles of water frontage, and at the present moment there is only one wharf, and that only partly so, in the possession of the corporation.
262. What is the frontage of that public wharf to the harbour? I cannot say; it is very small. It is the one occupied by Mr. Grant.
263. Is the situation such as to render it at all times available to the public? Oh no, it is blocked up by the traffic from the Ferry Company's property. There is always a block there; and I believe it is always more or less difficult to get alongside.
264. Has it a straight frontage? No, it is inside a sort of bow; it is the centre of the bow. There was a scheme to take it further out and get rid of that difficulty, but circumstances have stood in the way.
265. Are there any wharves accessible to the public for the loading or unloading of vessels with suitable approaches for carts? Not one.
266. In the other boroughs? At Blue's Point I believe there is one. I do not think there is any other. I do not think that St. Leonards has one, except in Middle Harbour.
267. Do you think that the erection of wharves would confer a great benefit upon the district? I feel sure that it would. I do not think that North Shore will be enterprising until it is given access to the city in all directions.
268. At the present time is there any sign of activity there; is it increasing or is it at a standstill? It is almost at a standstill. Small suburban houses are going up. This does not add materially to the importance of the place. I believe it is due to the want of proper facilities for bigger enterprises. The corporation is met in every way with difficulties in this respect.
269. Mr. Williams.] Suppose Parliament grants this power which will enable these gentlemen of enterprise to enter on their great schemes what special benefits do you think they are going to confer upon the borough? It will facilitate the landing of cargoes of all description.
270. What particular kind of cargo would the wharves be used for? It is difficult to say. I hope that North Shore will have plenty of manufactures some day. There is nothing to encourage enterprise now. It is difficult to characterise the particular cargoes. If North Shore is to be anything like a large community; if it is to be North Sydney, cargoes of every description should be able to be landed there.
271. Are you able conscientiously to say that there is any difficulty whatever in getting any description of goods taken over to North Shore? I believe it is possible to have things taken over.
272. Have you had any difficulty yourself? I have had very great difficulty and undergone very great expense.
273. In what way? I have built a large property in Neutral Bay, and I have had to get the whole of the material carted over from Grant's wharf. It means going right to the top of the Military Road, and coming down very steep pinches, adding very materially to the cost. It adds something like 3 miles to the distance, whereas you ought to be able to land goods at the head of Neutral Bay. It has cost me I cannot say how much to cart my goods round.
274. Have you not power to land any cargoes at the wharf where the Ferry Company's steamers ply? You cannot do it. It is a passenger wharf. It has been jumped by the North Shore Ferry Company.
275. I do not mean at High-street; I mean at Neutral Bay? We have no right to do so; it is a Government wharf, and the Ferry Company land passengers there purely on sufferance.
276. Would not the Government give you permission to land? It is not constructed for heavy traffic.
277. Did you ever apply for a wharf? No, because we should be rated at a higher rate.
278. Even if you erected a wharf would not the Government rate you all the same? I am afraid that we should be so rated, still we should construct wharves suitable for the traffic. All traffic has to go through the waiting-room, which is only constructed for passenger traffic. The wharf is suitable for passengers only, and not for goods. It is not strong enough for goods. There is not frontage enough, and a vessel would heave round in all directions.
279. There would be no difficulty in removing that waiting-room? It belongs to the Government.
280. Do you think, in view of the fact that the personnel of the municipalities is always changing, that it is desirable that they should be given this wholesale power to erect wharves where they like, irrespective of there being any necessity for them at the time? I say that a municipal body is the proper authority to erect wharves, and further, that if the aldermen do not discharge their duties faithfully, public opinion will always make itself felt at the proper time.
281. In sufficient time to prevent the erection of the wharves? I think that public opinion would put an end to the project in a moment. If we had power to build half a dozen wharves at North Shore, and we foolishly said, "We will spend £20,000," public opinion would say, "No, only build two or three to begin with," and their wishes would be carried out.
282. As regards the wharf at High-street, it is erected at the foot of private property? No, at the foot of public property.
283. Do you swear that it is at the foot of public property? Yes.
284. The approach to the wharf is private property? No, it is a public road.
285. One of the objects of the Bill, I think, is admittedly to turn the North Shore Ferry Company out of the place? I do not think so; I have not heard that much.
286. That is what you intend to do though? No, I think we will encourage passenger traffic all we can. That is my idea.
287. Mr. Pring.] In your opinion the progress of North Shore is being retarded by the want of wharf accommodation? I say so most decidedly.
288. Mr. Withers.] I believe you are a professional gentleman? I am a civil engineer and an architect. I am a member of the firm of Waddell and Vernon.
289. Have you had opportunities to witness the rise and progress of such suburbs as North Shore in other countries? Oh yes.
290. What is your idea of the prospective development of North Shore in a few years time if it is given this additional wharfage accommodation? I consider that, in the future, North Shore will be to Sydney what Birkenhead is to Liverpool. The place is strangled at the present moment for the want of these facilities.
291. You predict a great future for this suburb if it has such facilities? Yes, but it is only my individual opinion.

William Cope, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- William Cope, Esq. 292. Chairman.] You are a resident of East St. Leonards? I have resided there for the last ten years or more. I am a property-holder there.
- 10 Nov., 1887. 293. Mr. Williams.] You know the nature of this Bill? I have not read it. I know that there is a Bill before Parliament seeking to empower the municipalities on North Shore to borrow money for the erection of wharves, and to pledge the rates to pay the interest on that expenditure.
294. What are your views on the matter? My opinion is based upon the experience I have had of municipal improvements. It is quite probable that the money will not be spent as advantageously as it might be spent by, we will say, more carefully considered proposals that would be likely to be obtained from a Harbour Trust or some similar body. Judging by the wharves already made, I should say that the proposed wharves would not be suitable, if they were constructed on the same lines, for the purpose for which they would be required in the future. I think it extremely probable that the work would have to be undone, and that in this way the money would be wasted. I do not think that anybody knows what will be required for that place within the next few years. I am certain that the present temporary structures will not be suitable for heavy work in the future.
295. Chairman.] When you spoke of the wharves already made, what wharves did you mean? I alluded more particularly to the wharf at the foot of Jeffrey-street, which, I think, provides access to Mr. Wilson's iron store.
296. Whose property is it? I understand that it is a public wharf. I do not know whether it is so or not. I do not think that the gentlemen who have to do with these matters are able to give sufficient time sometimes to the consideration of questions involving the expenditure of very heavy sums of money.
297. Mr. Williams.] The municipality proposes to spend £3,000 on the erection of three wharves, namely, at Willoughby-street, High-street, and Western Road. Do you think it is a speculation that is likely to return anything worth speaking of in the way of revenue? I do not think it would pay now. I am not prepared to say it would not pay in the future if proper wharves were constructed.
298. Chairman.] What experience have you had in wharf matters to enable you to form an opinion as to what revenue the wharf would be likely to return? Nothing, except what I have heard from people whose business I have had to do.
299. Practically you know nothing whatever? I will not say that. I think that any man with eyes and ears can know what is going on without having practical experience. I do not profess to have practical experience.
300. Mr. Williams.] Can you say whether the traffic on the Milson's Point wharf and road is so heavy that the present accommodation is not sufficient? I certainly think that we might have more accommodation for crossing the water. I have seen traffic congested at the horse ferry, but the roadway, I think, is quite good enough, although rather steep. I think that if an easier grade could be got it would be a great argument in favour of having some other means of access.
301. Would Willoughby-street be an easier or a steeper grade than the Milson's Point road? It looks very steep. I have not seen the levels taken, but to look at it I should think it was steeper. I do not know if the road is properly made there yet. I should not call it a good grade.
302. Mr. Pring.] I suppose you know that the Borough Council intend to reduce the grade to one in fourteen? I only know it is a very steep grade.
303. You are speaking of it as it is at present? Yes. To get to the main road you have to get on to the top of a hill in a short length of roadway.
304. There is no doubt, I take it, from your evidence, that additional wharf accommodation would be of benefit to the residents and the public generally, if it were placed under proper supervision? Yes.
305. And your principal objection is to the municipality having this power? My chief objection, I say it with all due respect, is that the aldermen have not sufficient time to look after the matter; they seem to pay more for their work than other people do. It is not done as well as it should be done, as for instance, in Jeffrey-street, where a wall which they had put up fell down and had to be rebuilt.
306. I suppose you would be satisfied if the wharves were under the control of a superior body, the Government, for instance? That would be very good. It would save a great deal of trouble, but I am not quite sure that even they would know where to put the wharves. They might build them in wrong places.
307. Suppose before the boroughs erected any wharves they had to get the sanction of the Secretary for Works to the plans and specifications, would that satisfy you? I should think that the protection ought to come from the public to some extent. I do not think that the Minister would have sufficient time to inquire into the matter.
308. Suppose it is provided that before the wharves are erected the sanction of the Government to the plans and specifications must be obtained it would remove a great deal of your objection? It ought to do; but it would not entirely, because as a matter of fact you can get these things done in the public offices in a very perfunctory way. I could employ a person to go and get a thing like that put through. It would remove some of my objections.
309. But it would remove a great deal of your objection? It would remove some of it; but my objection is this: a man is elected not because of his own knowledge of building, or anything of that kind.
310. Do you happen to know how many miles of road there are in the borough of East St. Leonards? No. I know that there are a great many miles of road.
311. I suppose you would not be surprised to hear that there are 30 miles of road? I would not call a great many of them roads. A good many tracks are called roads.
312. I believe you are a shareholder in the North Shore Ferry Company? I have fifty shares, I may have seventy-five. My interest in it is very slight!
313. Mr. Williams.] You think that if this power is given to the municipalities they should only be allowed to exercise it after they had first obtained the sanction of the ratepayers? I certainly think so.
314. You do not think it is sufficient that the plans and specifications should be submitted to and approved of by the Minister for Works? No. I think that some such provision might be made; but I would not like to leave it in that open way, for a Minister has not time to look after these things.

Henry Herbert Robey, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

315. Chairman.] You are one of the petitioners against this bill? Yes, on behalf of the North Shore Rowing Club. I am honorary secretary to the club. H. H. Robey,
Esq.
10 Nov., 1887.
316. You say, "That the North Shore Rowing Club has for the last eight years occupied a portion of Careening Cove, at the foot of Willoughby-street, adjoining a small stone pier, also at the foot of such street;"—by what authority do you occupy? The previous secretary was in the Government, and he got a lease granted to the Borough Council on our behalf. The lease stated that it was granted for the purpose of a rowing club.
317. Do you produce that lease? I have not the lease in my possession. It wound up with the words "for the erection of a rowing club."
318. Mr. Garrett.] For how many years was it granted? For five years; but we were there on sufferance for two or three years before we got the lease.
319. Has the lease expired? It expired two years ago.
320. You have not got any further holding? No.
321. Chairman.] At the present time you have nothing to show, except being in possession, as your authority for remaining there? Not from the Government or the council.
322. How long is it since you paid the last rent to the Government or to the corporation? We never paid rent to the corporation. We paid it to the Government every year in advance, up to January, 1886. We never paid any rent to the corporation, although they taxed us.
323. You say, "That the North Shore Rowing Club has gone to great expense in the erection of sheds and in the purchase of boats and gear, and that such club is of great public benefit so far as North Shore is concerned";—what was the cost of the shed? It cost about £250 or £260.
324. You say, "That in the event of the proposed Bill becoming law, such club must be disbanded";—is it not a fact that the corporation have offered you other sites? One very unsuitable site in a very off-hand manner, without any authority, because they had to apply to the Government for a lease. If we accepted their offer it would be for only five years as before on the same terms. They would not give us a guarantee that we could stop there for another five years. They simply said they would give us this lease and at the end of the period they might simply say, "Clear out; we want this place."
325. Mr. Williams.] Where was the site? At the bottom of Jeffrey-street, a very exposed place, and without room.
326. Chairman.] Did they not offer you a site at the bottom of Beulah-street too? No; they offered us only one site.
327. How much would it cost to remove your shed? I have never asked anyone for an estimate. I suppose it would cost over £100.
328. Mr. Garrett.] On what ground do you base this claim or statement in your petition: "That, even if your Honorable House should pass the preamble of the said Bill, your petitioners submit that they are entitled to have certain clauses inserted and amendments and alterations made therein for the protection of the North Shore Rowing Club"? We consider that as a public body we should be protected to a certain extent. We have a number of young fellows in our club, and there are no end of ratepayers objecting to the erection of these wharves.
329. Will you state as strong reasons as possible why these clauses should be put in, and the nature of them? We should consider that we want these clauses for our protection. I consider that if Parliament pass this Bill, the question of the erection of a wharf should be submitted to the ratepayers, so that due cause might be shown why it should not be erected. I mean that the council should be compelled to apply to the ratepayers for permission to erect a wharf whenever it thinks one is necessary.
330. In other words, a poll should be taken by the council whether any particular wharf should be erected or not? I think so.
331. Why is that specially for the protection of the rowing club? We have got the bottom of Willoughby-street. It was only through the influence of our club that the council first got a lease of the frontage there.
332. You think you have some sort of right or tenantry in that site? Yes.
333. And you want to have your interest as quasi tenants recognized before the council are allowed to do anything? Exactly.
334. You base that claim on the fact that you have spent a large sum of money on the erection of sheds? Yes. We consider that we do a public good over there.
335. You consider that because you are a sort of public institution from which the people derive benefit, and which should be encouraged, you should not be disturbed in the occupation, such as it is, which you have of this site by the council without the ratepayers consenting? Yes. Let me explain why the council are now against us: When we first established our club nearly all the aldermen were members of it. For instance, the mayor of the borough was the president, and so on. The aldermen were all more or less connected with the club; but their places have been filled in course of time by men with different interests to serve—with their own little axes to grind, I suppose.
336. How long have you lived there? Twenty-two years.
337. You are in business in Sydney? Yes.
338. You ought to know pretty well the great importance in the public interest of having good landing and shipping places in connection with a place such as North Shore? Yes.
339. Which do you consider the more important, that the rowing club shall be allowed to have this position, or that it should be a position devoted to a public wharf? If it was at all suitable for a public wharf there should not be any answer required to the question, but as it happens some explanation is necessary. Our club-shed comes to the end of the street; there is a stage of about 20 feet, I think, to the shed; and then there is a floating stage at the end of that stage. At the foot of the floating jetty at low water the depth is about 2 feet. I take the view that if a public wharf were erected there for any mercantile purpose it would have to go out twice as far as our floating stage does in order to get anywhere near deep water. In fact we have walked round the foot of our floating jetty at low tide. Then the street is altogether against such an idea. They might manage, if they had some hydraulic lift at the top of the hill to take up loaded carts.
340. Mr. Pring.] How many members are there in the rowing club? About seventy, I think.
341. How many of them are ratepayers? I do not know. Our members are chiefly young fellows.
342. Are there only four of them ratepayers? I cannot say.

- H. H. Robey, Esq. 343. Can you say whether any of them are? Certainly some of them are.
344. Are you a ratepayer? Yes. At all events, the members' fathers or mothers are ratepayers.
- 10 Nov., 1887. 345. Did you ever see this document, marked A, before? Yes.
346. Where is the lease of which you spoke, which had at the end of it the words, "it was granted for the purpose of a rowing club?" I see that it is at the end of this letter. [Vide Appendix B.]
347. I beg your pardon, there is no word about a rowing club in the letter; I understand you think it necessary that there should be wharf accommodation at North Shore in suitable places? It all depends.
348. The only ground of objection is, that this place is unsuitable (first) because the Rowing Club is there, and (secondly) because of the shallow water? The shallow water is the principal objection.
349. Chairman.] You said that nearly everybody was against the erection of this wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street? Everybody in our locality.
350. But a petition signed by 522 persons was presented to the Legislative Assembly in favour of the Bill? Yes; but not by the gentlemen occupying residences around our point. I believe that the signatures to this petition include the unemployed working on the road.
351. Mr. Williams.] Have you ever heard that a Mr. Bale has interested himself greatly in getting this wharf erected? Yes.
352. He has a bit of property over there? I do not know whether it is his own. He has an interest in it, I believe.
353. Mr. Pring.] From whom did you hear that? I do not remember who told me. It is a current topic over there.
354. Mr. Williams.] Has Mr. Bale himself spoken to you about the matter? Yes.
355. Has he evinced any great interest in getting the club-shed removed from that position? Very much so. He told me two or three times that he would pull it down if we did not take it away. He said that he would get it towed out to deep water with a tug. I told him that he would be very sorry if he did.
356. Are you a shareholder in the North Shore Ferry Company? No.
357. Is your mother? No.
358. Any of your people? No.

WEDNESDAY, 23 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—
MR. J. P. ABBOTT, MR. DALTON,
MR. WITHERS.

I. E. IVES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Pring, Counsel, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

John Rodick, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- J. Rodick, Esq. 359. Chairman.] You are an alderman in the Borough of East St. Leonards? Yes.
- 23 Nov., 1887. 360. Mr. Pring.] You have seen the provisions of this Bill;—in your opinion is it desirable that the Borough Council should have the power of making these wharves? That is my opinion.
361. On what do you base it? I have lived over there for a great number of years, and for many years past constant complaints have been made of the want of wharfage accommodation. Nearly three years ago, in consequence of these representations, I moved in the Council of East St. Leonards that we should apply to the Government for a loan of money for the purpose of building these wharves. I believe that they are urgently required, and would return a good interest on the outlay. They would be a benefit to the public as well as a benefit in a financial sense to the borough.
362. What is your business? I am one of the firm of W. Macdonald & Company, of George and Bond Streets, Sydney. The cost of these three wharves, I am given to understand, will be £3,000, and I fully believe that they will return a total revenue of £600 a year. The borough of East St. Leonards has a water frontage of something like 6 miles, and on that frontage we have only one available wharf. I am thoroughly convinced that this Bill is urgently required.
363. Mr. Dalton.] What will it cost to erect the three wharves? We have plans already drawn up, and the estimated cost is £1,000 for each wharf.
364. Chairman.] What interest will you have to pay on the £3,000 which you propose to borrow? Five per cent. Last week we borrowed from the Savings' Bank £2,000 at 5 per cent.
365. Mr. Abbott.] On the security of your rates? Yes. Some time ago I said we might well put down 5 per cent. for wear and tear, so that we might reckon that the wharves would give us a return of something like 15 per cent., that is 10 per cent. clear after paying the interest on the loan.
366. For how long have you been an alderman? Between three and four years.
367. Do you know the wharf alongside Milson's Point, at the termination of the Lane Cove Road? Yes.
368. What rent is the council getting for it? £112.
369. How was it let? By tender.
370. And that was the highest tender you got? Yes. It was let about eighteen months ago.
371. It is the only wharf at North Shore? Yes.
372. When the tenders were invited practically the successful man would have a monopoly of the North Shore wharf? Yes.
373. Yet you could get only £112? Yes.
374. If you have four wharves to let how can you reconcile your statement that you will get a higher rate for the new wharves? I estimate that we shall get a larger return for the new wharves in consequence of their having three times the amount of frontage that the present wharf has; we have only 50 feet frontage now.
- 374½. What is the only wharf now at North Shore which is used for the purpose of landing goods, with the exception of the wharf at Blue's Point? Just so.
375. Who has control of the wharf at Blue's Point? I am not in a position to say.
376. Do you know what the wharf at Milson's Point cost? I am not aware of that. It was constructed many years ago, before I was a member of the council. It is a temporary structure. It did not cost half the money which I expect the new wharves will cost. I should say that it did not cost more than £300 or £400.

377. I suppose that the fact of making three additional wharves will not cause a larger quantity of goods to be landed at North Shore than there is at present? I do not know that there will be any more goods landed there, but they will be landed there very much cheaper by ship and by lighter, instead of being brought as they are now by the horse ferry. J. Rodick, Esq. 23 Nov., 1887.

378. You think that in that way it will be a saving to the people—that instead of having to pay to get the goods over on the transit boat they will land their goods on the wharf? Just so, that is the view I take of it.

379. Do you know where they propose to put a wharf in Careening Cove? It is proposed to build a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street.

380. Could any heavy traffic be carried from that wharf up that hill? Not in its present state.

381. Even if the road is formed could any ordinary load which comes over in the transit boat be carried up that hill? I estimate that any ordinary good horse would take up from 10 to 12 cwt., certainly not a ton. When the improvements are carried out, as we anticipate that they will be, and the street is cut down to a proper grade, I do not think that there will be any difficulty in taking 10 or 12 cwt. up the hill.

382. Are all these boroughs going to be interested in these wharves, are they going to find the money jointly with the Borough of East St. Leonards? Oh no. We are entirely independent of the other boroughs. They are here in their own interests to get power to make similar wharves for themselves.

383. Mr. Dalton.] You said that with the new wharves you expected that a larger quantity of goods would be landed at North Shore? No. My answer was that I did not expect more goods would be landed there, but that there would be better wharf accommodation, and that goods would be landed more cheaply than they are at present. I cannot anticipate without a large increase in the population that there will be any more goods required over there.

384. Even with the same population as you have at present you do not expect any increase in the traffic? Certainly not. Better wharf accommodation will not increase the quantity of goods required.

385. You have also stated that the residents of East St. Leonards would rather have the goods landed on these jetties than bring them across by the horse boat? That is what I have been led to believe.

386. Are you aware that this Bill provides for wharfage charges? Even so, I anticipate that we shall have some control, as a council, in regulating those charges.

387. Mr. J. P. Abbott.] Will you have any charge for taking delivery of goods when they are thrown on the wharves? They must be subject to certain care and custody, but I am led to believe that with any charge of that description goods will be landed there very much more cheaply than they will under a parcel delivery or cart system.

388. Mr. Dalton.] What does the North Shore Ferry Company charge at present for (say) a dray loaded with a ton of goods? I am not sure whether any alteration has been made of late, but I know that at one time they charged the people from North Shore a shilling for the return trip. A short time ago, I understand, they charged any person coming from Sydney 1s. 6d., which was a very unfair arrangement, but whether they charge a shilling on either side at present I am unable to say.

389. Are you aware of the wharfage rates which are charged in Sydney as fixed by the Government? No. It is out of my line of business.

390. Do you know that it is 1s. 6d. per ton for bulk goods, and a packet charge for lighter goods? If they charged pro rata according to the value of the ground it would be about 1d. a ton at North Shore.

391. Is it not a fact that the Oaks Brickworks rented Milson's Point Jetty some two or three years ago from the North Shore Ferry Company? I believe they did.

392. Do you know what rent they agreed to pay them? No.

393. Have the public a right at the present time to land at this wharf, or has the master of any craft the right to lie alongside it, or to discharge goods there? Only by arrangement with the lessee. The Government have a right to land any material there. The people have a right to land there from boats or such like, but not to make use of the wharf to the same extent that the lessee makes use of it.

394. Chairman.] When you said that the Oaks Brickworks had rented the Milson's Point Jetty did you mean the property of the North Shore Ferry Company, or the Eastern wharf, at the foot of the Lane Cove Road, that is the property of the corporation? I have seen their bricks on the Eastern wharf. I am not perfectly sure, but I have been under the impression that they did rent that wharf.

WEDNESDAY, 30 NOVEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. DALTON, | MR. WITHERS.

I. E. IVES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. P. O. Williams appeared on behalf of the petitioners against the Bill.

Mr. Pring, Counsel, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

James Robinson Love, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

395. Chairman.] You are a resident of East St. Leonards? Yes.

396. For how long have you resided there? For twenty-years.

J. R. Love,
Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.

Walter Traill, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

397. Chairman.] You are a resident of East St. Leonards? Yes; I have resided there for nearly fifteen months.

398. Mr. Robey—In the absence of Mr. Williams.] Do you think this application on behalf of the Council is a desirable one? Not in the present circumstances of the borough; not in view of the state of the roads, the kerbing, the guttering, and everything connected with the borough.

399. Do you not think it would be a wiser step to borrow money to improve the streets generally? Certainly.

400. What is your idea of a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street? You could construct a wharf there, but

W. Traill,
Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.

- W. Traill,
Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.
- but it would be very hard work for a horse to take up anything from it, or even from a wharf at the foot of Jeffreys-street. These wharves are not required. They have a wharf already at the Eastern Wharf Road, and anyone can come to it as far as I can hear.
401. If these wharves were erected, do you think it would be any benefit to the public? I cannot say whether it would or not. I think that the money would be wasted. It could be more advantageously expended on roads. If the roads were in thorough repair the council might undertake the construction of wharves.
402. Chairman.] Are you a property holder? Yes.
403. What amount of rates do you contribute in a year? Altogether from £15 to £20. I own only one house at Milson's Point.
404. Mr. Dalton.] Your contention is that before the municipality engages in other works than street making it should put its streets in thorough repair? Yes; the whole of the streets and lanes.
405. What is the gradient of the road to which you referred just now—1 in 10 or 1 in 20? I believe it is 1 in 15.
406. Could not that gradient be altered? Yes; by cutting down the road probably.
407. To what extent could it be altered? I cannot say.
408. How much money should the council expend upon the streets before they enter upon the work of erecting these wharves? I cannot state the amount; it is a mere matter of quantities.
409. Suppose this Bill is passed, do you think it will be advantageous to the council from a revenue point of view? It depends upon what rent they can get.
410. What rent do you think they can get? I am not qualified to say.
411. Mr. Withers.] Where did you reside before you went to St. Leonards? I used to live in lodgings in Darlinghurst.
412. What are you by profession? I served an apprenticeship to an architect; I have not done anything in that respect since.
413. You have never entered into any building speculations? No; I have simply added a couple of rooms to my house.
414. You have not followed up your profession actively in Sydney? No.
415. You do not seem to have given much attention to property as an investment? I have some land at the back of North Shore, and in other places, not household property. I have only one house.
416. How many years did you live in Darlinghurst? I lived in Sydney for about three years altogether. I was about fifteen months in Darlinghurst.
417. How long have you been in the Colony? I am a native of the Colony.
418. Have you had good opportunity to judge of the respective progress of the city and its suburbs? I think that in time it will be a big place.
419. It has been stated by residents of forty years standing that North Shore has been kept back, and will be kept back, for the want of wharf accommodation;—do you think they are misrepresenting things, or are you in a better position with your fourteen months' residence to form an opinion? They are older men than myself. Every man has his own opinion, and I think the council ought to attend to the roads and to the drainage before they undertake the erection of wharves.
420. Would it be a better thing if they did both? I do not see how they can.
421. Are you aware that they propose to open a distinct account in connection with these wharves? No.
422. Are you under the impression that the rates as they come in will be applied to the construction of wharves, and that the streets will be a secondary consideration in the eyes of the aldermen? Oh, no; I understand that the council are to borrow money for the erection of the wharves, and that the rates are to be pledged as security for the payment of the interest on the loan.
423. Do you think there will be no revenue from the wharves at all? No doubt there will be some revenue, but it will not pay in the end. It will be necessary to repair the wharves, and paint them from time to time.
424. Will the increase in the population of the borough lead to an increase in the revenue from the wharves? I do not think so.
425. Do you think that one wharf is sufficient? Yes. I do not think that the people will go to a wharf at Willoughby-street when they can land at Milson's Point, and go up by the tram.
426. Mr. Pring.] Have you made any estimate at all of the cost of the wharf? No; I have not seen plans or anything.
427. Have you read the Bill itself? I have just seen it, and that is all; I have not read it.
428. Are you a member of the North Shore Rowing Club? No; I have nothing to do with it.
429. Your objection is that the roads ought to be in order before the council construct any wharves? Yes.
430. Mr. Withers.] How long do you think it will be before the roads are in reasonable repair—twenty years? They can do it in a less time than that if they set about it in a proper manner.
431. By levying an additional rate? They have a very fair revenue at the present time. I do not know what it is, but they always do things in such a slipshod manner.
432. Mr. Williams.] Do you think that the leasing of the wharves to private individuals will tend to increase the population, or to assist the borough? Not in any way.
433. The Bill gives power to the boroughs to erect wharves and jetties, and to acquire land at the foot of every street, and the only restriction it imposes is that the plans shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary for Public Works;—will that be a safe power to place in the hands of the municipality? I do not think so.
434. Mr. Pring.] Why not? There will be long prices given for the land, and they will have to increase the rates to raise sufficient money with which to pay for it.
435. Chairman.] What land are you referring to? I mean any land that is bought in order to give access to any wharf accommodation.
436. Mr. Williams.] The Bill gives them absolute power to erect a wharf at the foot of any street whether suitable or not. Do you consider that a safe power to give them? I do not think that a wharf is required at the foot of every street.
437. Will it be a safe thing to give them power to do it if they choose? No.
438. Mr. Dalton.] Why? Because I think that a wharf is not required at the foot of every street. If they had three wharves it would be sufficient.
439. Do you think that three wharves are absolutely necessary at the present time? I do not think so. They seem to get along with the present one. I have seen nothing landed at North Shore but a few tons of coal.

Thomas Brocklebank Gaden, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

440. Chairman.] You are a resident of East St. Leonards? Yes; I have lived there for nearly four years.
441. What are you? I am chief inspector of the Commercial Bank of New South Wales.
442. Mr. Williams.] Have you read this Bill? I have not read it.
443. Do you think it is desirable to give the municipality power to pledge the rates for works done outside its boundaries? I decidedly think it is most objectionable.
444. Why so? It might do very well if they had nothing else to do with the rates. The roads at the present time are a disgrace to the borough; they are not safe to walk, drive, or ride in, especially the street in which I live. I think there is no justification for this Bill at all. It is a very difficult and expensive borough to manage, and it is perfectly certain from its present state that they have not enough money with which to make the streets, much less to build wharves which are not necessary.
445. It is said that the progress of North Shore is being retarded in a marked manner by the want of wharf accommodation;—is that your opinion? I do not see how any additional wharf accommodation would advance the interests of North Shore, certainly not the borough with which I am most familiar.
446. Do you think that a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street is likely to advance the population and industries of the borough? I thought there must have been reason for the Bill, otherwise it would not have been proposed; but I have failed to discover the necessity for it.
447. Have you observed the traffic on the Milson's Point Road? Yes.
448. Do you think that the traffic is so congested on that road that it is unable to carry it? The trams seem to get between the vehicles all right. I manage to drive between the trams and the vehicles. It might become too congested in that respect in time to come, but it has not reached that stage yet. It is much easier to drive there than it is in the streets of Sydney.
449. There is nothing like the crush in the traffic there that there is in Sydney? There is no comparison whatever in my opinion.
450. Will the leasing of the three wharves to private individuals materially advance the interests of North Shore? I do not see how it is to do that. I doubt whether anyone will pay them the interest on the money. It must not be forgotten that the wharves will require expensive approaches, and I should not think that the trade of North Shore would justify anyone in paying such an amount as would pay the interest on the expenditure. Perhaps it is a matter upon which I am scarcely competent to give an opinion.
451. Chairman.] You are speaking generally as far as the interests of East St. Leonards are concerned? I am speaking more particularly with regard to that borough, because I am more familiar with it than I am with any of the other boroughs.
452. You are not aware perhaps that this Bill is to enable not only the Borough of East St. Leonards, but the Boroughs of St. Leonards, Victoria, and North Willoughby, to erect wharves on their frontages? I understand that it does extend to St. Leonards.
453. Do you know the extent of water frontage that the combined municipalities possess? I know it by view; I could not name the number of feet.
454. Could you tell us within 10 miles the extent of the frontage? No.
455. Do you know that it extends from the head of Middle Harbour to the head of Lane Cove? I did not know that it includes Middle Harbour.
456. Mr. Dalton.] Do you think it would be advantageous to the Borough of North Willoughby if they had a wharf above the Spit in Middle Harbour, on which to land their coals, and other material, such as road metal? I should imagine it would. It never entered into my consideration at all.
457. Again, on the Lane Cove side would not one or two wharves be equally advantageous to the people? These municipalities may be in a different position to that of the municipality of which I spoke. They may have more money to spend than they require to spend on roads, therefore my objection will not apply to a municipality which has plenty of money.
458. Are you a member of the North Shore Rowing Club? No, my sons belong to the Sydney Club.
459. Are you interested in the North Shore Ferry Company in the slightest degree? No.
460. Mr. Withers.] Your connection with North Shore has been simply in the capacity of a resident? Yes.
461. You have not been mixed up with the mercantile community over there? No.
462. Are you in a position to gauge public opinion as to the necessity for this Bill? I do not attempt to say that my opinion expresses anyone else's opinion. I say that in view of the fact that the corporation have not enough money now to make roads, they should not expend money on anything which is not absolutely necessary. It is highly dangerous on the part of a municipality I think to get into debt for a speculative purpose.
463. Mr. Williams.] Would it be safer to leave this work in the hands of the Government or a harbour trust than in the hands of a municipality? I am not prepared to say that. As a general rule I should say decidedly it was, but there are some municipalities who have very competent men among their aldermen, and of course they would be equal to the occasion.
464. Seeing that the personnel of a borough council changes frequently do you think it would be a dangerous thing to entrust them with a power of this character? I think so.
465. Would it not be better if they were to apply to Parliament for power to erect a specific wharf and show the necessity for it? I should prefer that.
466. Suppose they get power to erect these wharves will it be desirable to give them power to lease them to individuals? I am not prepared to say.
467. Bearing in mind that they will preserve the bottom of the street as a landing place for the public do you think it will be a desirable power to give them? If they let the wharves to private individuals they cease to be public wharves then.
468. Suppose they were to let the wharves, reserving a right to the public to go over them, and a right to the municipality to land their property there free of charge, would they be likely then to bring in a good rental. Would you take a wharf in respect of which the borough and the public had such rights? No. I have not given very much consideration to the question of revenue. I think that the reservation of these rights would certainly lower the amount of revenue.
469. Mr. Prigg.] You have given very little consideration to this matter, I understand? I will not admit that, because this matter of building wharves has frequently been before me. I have considered the question more from the light of the matters which have come under my observation than with regard to the interests of the other boroughs.

T. B. Gaden,
Esq.

- T. B. Gaden, Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.
470. To what matters do you refer? The disgraceful state of the roads.
471. Do you not know that the council have very recently spent as much as £150 on kerbing and guttering your own road? I know that they commenced to kerb and gutter it, but they have not been able to finish it on account of the state of the funds.
472. Do you know that they have let a tender for forming the road there? No.
473. Although you have considered the question as it affects East St. Leonards, yet you are not in a position to tell the Committee the extent of its water frontage? No.
474. How many miles of frontage has it? I cannot give you any idea. I know all the bays. I have been round the frontage over and over again.
475. You signed a petition to the Assembly against this Bill, and yet you state that you do not know that it refers to any other borough than East St. Leonards? I did not understand that it refers to Lane Cove or Middle Harbour.
476. But Lane Cove and Middle Harbour are included in the boroughs mentioned in the Bill? I was not aware of that.
477. Mr. Williams.] Is it necessary to give the municipality power to erect wharves at either Lane Cove or Middle Harbour at the present time, and to expend the ratepayers' money in that way? I think it is quite possible that a wharf at Lane Cove, or at Middle Harbour, might be an advantage to the people, but I am not prepared to say that the municipality should be empowered to build a wharf where they like.
478. You think that the power should be restricted to a particular place for a particular purpose. You think that some greater restrictions should be placed on the action of the Council? I think so.
479. Do you not think it will be desirable that before the municipality is allowed to erect a wharf a ballot of the ratepayers shall be taken? It never occurred to me in that light, and in this off-hand way I should not like to commit myself to an opinion.
480. In view of the fact that the municipality might pledge the rates to the extent of £20,000, behind the back of the ratepayers, would it not be desirable that before it was done they should be consulted in some form or other, by notice or otherwise? It seems a very large power to place in the hands of a municipality—unlimited power to expend money at the expense of the ratepayers—but a remedy for it I am not prepared to suggest.
481. You think that there should be a remedy? I do.
482. Mr. Pring.] I suppose that you know that before the municipality could borrow money they would have to publish a notification of their intention in the Gazette, and in the newspapers? I do.
483. So that any ratepayer could see it and take objection to the proposal? Yes; as to borrowing, but once the money was borrowed the council could spend it as they liked.

Alfred George Milson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- A. G. Milson, Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.
484. Chairman.] You are a resident of East St. Leonards? Yes; I have lived there for thirty-one years.
485. Are you an alderman of the borough? No.
486. Mr. Williams.] You are a son of Mr. James Milson? Yes.
487. For how long has he resided at North Shore? He has been there for upwards of sixty years.
488. He is in England at the present time? Yes. I hold a power of attorney to represent him.
489. You reside in Careening Cove? I do.
490. Have you read the Bill before the Committee? No.
491. Do you know what power it is proposed to place in the hands of the municipality by the Bill? I think so. I think it would be a dangerous power to place in their hands. I do not think that the municipality should be given power to deal with property outside its boundaries. I know that the roads in my borough are in a disgraceful state. It is in debt irrecoverably. It will never be able to redcem itself, and to allow the council to expend more money in what one might term the useless erection of wharves is very undesirable in the interests of the ratepayers. We have already a number of wharves in the borough. I believe that it is proposed to erect a wharf at the foot of High-street; but Mr. Hayes has a wharf there already, and he has not, and never will have, the slightest chance of letting it. It will only be useful for ferry purposes.
492. Is it a large wharf? Yes; it has a frontage of fully 120 feet.
493. Chairman.] What is the depth of water? There is deep water alongside the wharf.
494. What is the nature of the approach to the wharf? The road is not properly made. A railway could be brought down to the foot of the street very easily.
495. As it is now could a horse take up a ton of goods from the wharf? Except at the first pinch it could.
496. Mr. Williams.] That is not the fault of the wharf? No; it is the fault of the municipality.
497. What other wharves are there in the borough? There are wharves adjoining my father's property which may be let. There is no use for them as far as I can see at the present time. There is deep water alongside of them. I refer to a property which used to belong to Mr. Lark, and to one on the opposite side which belongs to Mr. Lord. I am going to reclaim the latter, not with a view to letting the wharf but with a view to making the land. As far as I can see, this Bill is promoted by a few men who wish to use the wharves as coal wharves. It would be a difficult thing for a horse to drag even half a ton of coals up Willoughby-street at the present time. I do not think that the North Shore rowing club's shed, which is erected at the side of the jetty, interferes with public convenience. I have no object in keeping the club there; in fact I have rather a grievance against them, for they have run into my yacht once or twice.
498. Willoughby-street is a very steep grade? Yes. They are cutting it down, with a view, I suppose, to give a better approach to this wharf when it is erected. The wharf will be useful to only a few people, and I think that more important works might be done in the borough.
499. Do you think it would pay to send a horse-boat to Willoughby-street? I should be sorry to have anything to do with it. High-street would be better for that purpose than Willoughby-street.
500. Would it pay to send a horse-boat to High-street? I should not think so. It might lessen the traffic to Milson's Point. It would ease the traffic on the Milson's Point Road, but I do not think it would pay.
501. Is this wharf strictly at the foot of High-street? It is just at the side of High-street.
502. Chairman.] The jetty is on Government land? Yes.

503. Mr. Williams.] Would it not be safer to place the powers of this Bill in the hands of a harbour trust than in the hands of a municipality? I think that the whole of the wharves in the harbour ought to be under a harbour trust, the same as they are in Melbourne. If it can be shown that a public wharf is wanted in the public interest, they have power now to apply to the Government for permission to erect one, and that power, I think, is sufficient to meet all the requirements of the public.
504. Assuming that they have not that power, would it be a sufficient power to place in their hands? Yes; they should not have a wholesale power to erect wharves at the beck and call of every alderman.
505. They propose in letting the wharves to reserve to themselves a right to land goods, and to the public a right to land; would any such restrictions interfere very greatly with the revenue? Certainly; it would control the rental very much.
506. Suppose that Parliament passes this Bill, will it be desirable to give them power to lease the wharves, or should they be made to retain the wharves in their own hands? If Parliament allows them to build wharves it allows them to speculate with municipal money, and if they are allowed to speculate in this way they can let the wharves and do anything with them but to sell them. I say that it is not desirable to build wharves there. The petitioners in favour of this Bill, I may add, are not all ratepayers.
507. Mr. Withers.] I suppose you represent one of the oldest residents over there? Yes.
508. Do you think there is any disposition on the part of your father and of other old residents to keep the borough as it was fifty years ago? Far from that.
509. You desire to see it become a second Sydney? I would like to see the place go ahead. The wharves can be of no possible benefit to the ratepayers. There are sufficient wharves at the present time for all the ratepayers' purposes, or at least for the largest portion of them.
510. You think that the traffic will not return a sufficient revenue to justify the expenditure? I am satisfied that it will not.
511. Will the erection of the wharves tend to increase the business and the building operations to such an extent that it will bring in a permanent revenue to the borough to be applied to the improvement of the streets? I cannot see how it will have that effect, because the Ferry Company now are tapping all the points of vantage. The wharves from a vehicular point of view will be valueless as far as revenue is concerned.
512. Mr. Dalton.] You know the Borough of St. Leonards and North Willoughby? Yes, but not as well as my own borough.
513. Is there any coal within those boroughs? No.
514. Is there any blue metal for road-making? I do not think they have any.
515. Have they any wharves at the present time? Yes; one at Blue's Point.
516. My question refers to St. Leonards and North Willoughby? To get to St. Leonards they always go via East St. Leonards or Victoria.
517. Is it not a fact that the Borough of East St. Leonards can demand, if it chooses, toll on goods landed on the Eastern Wharf Road? I do not know what arrangement they have made between themselves and Mr. Grant.
518. Is there any point on the Military Road where they could tap the waters by an easy descent? I believe that there is a wharf now at the foot of Mossman's Bay, and there is also a wharf at the foot of the Point in the Bay.
519. Are not these wharves private property? I do not know; I cannot say for certain, but the public road seems to come down to the water and the public are landed there by the Ferry Company.
520. Would it be to the advantage of the ratepayers if they could get their coal and metal landed direct from the vessels? The coal would come from Newcastle by railway only.
521. Are you aware that coals can come cheaper by railway than they can be brought round by steamer? Yes, because in the one case the coal is handled only twice, whereas in the other it is handled half a dozen times.
522. What would be the difference between carting the coals from the railway and carting them from the steamers' side to the coal-yard? Very little; perhaps 6d. per ton.
523. Do you know the mileage rate charged on the railways for the conveyance of coal? The railway has not been completed yet.
524. Do you know that it is at least 6s. per ton for the distance, computed at the present rates? I have reason to believe that coal will be the principal item of traffic on this line. I believe that they will have to have a rate which will be sufficiently low to compete with the steamers, or else they will get no freight at all.
525. No road metal can come from Newcastle? No; I think that Illawarra is the principal place for that article.
526. Can it come by railway? I do not think so.
527. It must come by steamer? Yes.
528. Would it not be to the advantage of these two municipalities, leaving East St. Leonards out of the question, if they had a wharf to land their blue metal upon? I think they could make better arrangements with one of the wharves in existence, without going to the expense of erecting a wharf in some unknown spot and making a road to it. There are better facilities at their command now than they could provide, except at considerable cost.
529. What is the distance from either Milson's Point or Blue's Point to the centre of North Willoughby? I should think it is about 3 miles from Milson's Point.
530. What would be the cartage per ton for that distance? The cartage in Sydney is 2s. 6d. or 3s. per ton, and I do not think you will get any carting done for 3s. a ton on the other side. From what I know of the approaches to Middle Harbour and Lane Cove they are very steep. It would take an enormous sum of money to make an approach to a wharf at either place. And if I was a carter I would sooner cart the distance of 3½ miles from Milson's Point or Blue's Point than the 2½ miles, or perhaps more, after the road is made from Middle Harbour.
531. Mr. Williams.] Is there any place in Middle Harbour where an easy approach could be got to the water? I do not know of one. I think the spit is the easiest one. There is a Government road there now. It is all private property in Middle Harbour except in very precipitous places.
532. Could an approach be made to Balmoral of even 1 in 15? No; you might use the Military Road, where they have a wharf.

A. G. Milson,
Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.

- A. G. Milson, Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.
533. How does the distance from Middle Harbour to the centre of North Willoughby compare with the distance from Milson's Point? It is nearly double.
534. Do you know whether the North Shore Ferry Company have very large accommodation at Milson's Point, which they are ready to let? They have large accommodation, but I do not know whether they have actually let it.
535. I understand you to say that it would be very much better for the borough to pay wharfage, which is a certain thing, than to speculate in wharfage property, where the tolls and expenses are uncertain? Yes.

William Cornelius Goddard, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- W. C. Goddard, Esq.
30 Nov., 1887.
536. Chairman.] You are a resident of East St. Leonards? Yes; I have resided there for fifteen years.
537. Have you read the Bill before the Committee? No.
538. Mr. Williams.] Do you think, as far as you have been informed of the objects of this Bill, that it is desirable to place these powers in the hands of any municipality? Certainly not in connection with my municipality.
539. What is the state of the roads, the footpaths, and the drainage there? I consider that the state of them all is such that it will require a very large sum of money to put them into anything like decent order.
540. Is it desirable to give the municipality power to expend the rates in works outside its boundary, such as in the erection of wharves and jetties, sea-walls, and things of that kind? I do not.
541. It is proposed to erect a wharf at Willoughby-street, High-street, and Western Wharf Road;—do the necessities of North Shore demand that those wharves should be erected? I feel sure that they do not.
542. Chairman.] When you answer the question in that wide sense do you refer to the whole of the district, or simply to the Borough of East St. Leonards? I refer to the whole district, but as far as the state of the streets is concerned, I can only speak of my own borough.
543. What accommodation have you at Milson's Point at present? I am a director of the North Shore Ferry Company. We have lately made a road at a cost of £2,500, from our property, giving the best possible grade to be got, and I believe the best grade on that side of the water. We have let a part of this property to a tenant, who has permission to collect wharfages in addition to carrying on his own particular business. We thought the time had arrived when we ought to get a better rental, and we were unable to do so, because our tenant said that he practically made nothing from the wharfage.
544. Mr. Williams.] It is a very large wharf? It has a water frontage of about 600 odd feet.
545. Is it capable of taking a good-sized vessel alongside? Yes; on one side—the side that is let to this tenant—but not on the southerly side.
546. In the bight where it is deep water it is capable of berthing a large vessel? Yes.
547. What are your tenant's wharf charges? He says that they are the same as in Sydney.
548. As to the part that is not let; is there any place where the public can land goods on application to the Company? Small vessels with coal and blue metal can go alongside, but not big colliers.
549. Can they land goods such as coal and metal by paying the same wharfage to the Company as in Sydney? Yes.
550. Where could the Borough of St. Leonards or North Willoughby land their blue metal more cheaply;—at Milson's Point or Middle Harbour? I should say at Milson's Point.

NORTH SHORE BOROUGH WHARVES BILL.

APPENDIX.

[To Evidence of P. A. Temple.]

A 1.

Sir, Department of Lands, Sydney, 6 June, 1887.
 Referring to your letter of the 4th April last, addressed to the Colonial Secretary, requesting that the rents of the water frontages leased to the Municipal Council of East St. Leonards may date only from the time of the passing of the Wharves Bill, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that the rents of the leases referred to must be paid from the 1st January last, and that the issue of the leases will be held over till the council is in a position to accept the same legally.
 I have, &c.,
 STEPHEN FREEMAN,

Messrs. M'Leod and Fitzpatrick attended the meeting of the Council to explain that there had been an error in the wording of the notice appearing in the Government Gazette, and handed in a letter dated the 3rd March, 1881, from the Lands Department to the Hon. Secretary of the North Shore Rowing Club, of which the following is a copy:—

Sir,

"Department of Lands, Sydney, 3 March, 1881.

With reference to your letter of the 17th of September last, stating that the North Shore Rowing Club had erected a boat-shed and landing-stage at the foot of Willoughby-street, St. Leonards, without the permission of the Government, as it was understood that the permission obtained from the Municipal Council to occupy the land at the foot of Willoughby-street was sufficient to warrant the erection, and requesting that necessary permission might now be given, I am directed to inform you that under a report which has been received from the Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers and the Surveyor-General on the subject, there does not appear to be any objection to the boat-shed and landing-stage already erected within the boundaries shown in the annexed description, provided the Borough Council obtain a lease of the area above referred to under the provisions of the 38th section of the 'Lands Act Amendment Act of 1875,' and provided the Rowing Club give a guarantee to remove the structure whenever they may be called on by the Government to do so.

I have, &c.,

CHAS. OLIVER."

The Secretary North Shore Rowing Club.

4th October, 1881.—Letter dated 17th August, 1881, from the Under-Secretary for Lands, relative to the application of the North Shore Rowing Club for permission to erect a shed and jetty at the foot of Willoughby-street. It was moved by Alderman Lord, and seconded by Alderman Eaton, "That a lease be applied for, and that the Council accept the terms offered by the Government."

A 3.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 16 June, 1886.

Referring to your application, on behalf of the Municipal Council of East St. Leonards, for permission to lease a portion of Crown lands at foot of Willoughby-street, East St. Leonards, for public wharf, and to my letter of 16th March, 1886, upon the subject, I have now the honor to request that you will pay into the Colonial Treasury the sum of £40 for rent, from 1st January, 1886, to 31st December next, on notice of receipt of which the lease will be sent on for approval.

There are no charges against your deposit of £10, but the amount will be applied towards payment of rent now called for.

The sum of £30 will therefore still remain due, and if not paid within three months from this date your application for the lease will be deemed to have lapsed.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES OLIVER,

Under Secretary.

The Council Clerk, Municipal Council, East St. Leonards.

Term of Lease:—From 1st January, 1886, to 31st December, 1892.

Rent:—£40 per annum.

Conditions:—The lease to confer no right of purchase; £500 to be expended on a new wharf; approaches to be made for landing from small boats, and that the lessee remove any structure, at his own cost, at end of lease, if so required by the Crown.

[To Evidence of H. H. Robey.]

B.

Sir,

Department of Lands, 6 January, 1887.
In reference to your application on behalf of the Borough Council of East St. Leonards to lease, under 89th section of the Crown Lands Act of 1884, land at foot of Western Wharf Road, Lavender Bay, for the purpose of a wharf on piles, I have now the honor to inform you that it is proposed to grant a lease of a small portion of land for five years, from 1st January, 1887, at the annual rental of £20, and upon conditions that the lease will confer no right of purchase; that any structure shall be removed at cost of lessees, and without compensation if desired by the Government; that the wharf shall be lighted, and access by steps afforded from the water to the street free of charge to the public.

The requisite notice of the intention to grant this lease has been published in the Gazette of 21st December, 1886, and should no valid objections be raised, and the Council are willing to accept the lease, the Governor in Council will be advised to grant it, under the provisions of the above Act, when payment of rent for the first year shall have been made.

The Council Clerk, Council Chambers, East St. Leonards.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES OLIVER,
Under Secretary.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

NORTH SHORE BOROUGH'S WHARVES BILL.

(PETITION IN FAVOUR OF—RESIDENTS OF ST. LEONARDS.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 22 September, 1887.

To the Honorable the Speaker of Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of Property Owners and Residents of the Electorate of St. Leonards,—

SHOWETH:—

That your Petitioners are favourable to the immediate passing into law of the St. Leonards Wharves Bill, without respect to the petition of a small minority of residents representing the North Shore Rowing Club, and for the following reasons:—

- 1st. That the present wharfage accommodation is inadequate for the increasing requirements of this large district.
- 2nd. That the various municipal bodies are paying high rentals for suitable wharf frontages, have paid large sums of money for the preparation of plans, &c., and are debarred from using same by the action of a very small private body, such as the North Shore Rowing Club, who have appealed to your Honorable House, and so obstructed the passage of the Bill giving power to do so.
- 3rd. That the Department of Lands has granted to the Municipal Council of East St. Leonards a lease of the site now forcibly occupied by the North Shore Rowing Club, at the high rental of forty pounds (£40) per annum; that the same is a valuable site for wharf purposes, and at the high rental paid should without delay be made remunerative to the ratepayers.
- 4th. That all or any rights of the North Shore Rowing Club to the land now occupied by them ceased on the thirty-first day of December, 1885; that ample opportunities have been offered them to secure another and less valuable site, but they have made no effort to do so, preferring to occupy at the public expense, to the public loss, and against the public wish, the site they now seek to hold possession of.
- 5th. That the North Shore Rowing Club, as a private body, has no claim to monopolize the public rights, to the detriment of the public funds, public convenience, and in direct defiance of the Government and Municipal authorities, nor have they any rights to impede the progress of a Bill intended by Parliament for the public weal.

We therefore pray that your Honorable House will weigh well the prayer of our petition as representing the voice of the majority, which we are educated to believe must rule, leaving justice and the immediate expediency of the measure to plead our cause with you; and as in duty bound, we, your Petitioners, will ever pray.

St. Leonards, 29th August, 1887.

(THIRD SESSION.)

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

NORTH SHORE BOROUGH'S WHARVES BILL.

(PETITION AGAINST—P. O. WILLIAMS, ALFRED G. MILSON, T. B. GADEN, AND J. W. R. LOVE.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 4 October, 1887.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Prosper Orleans Williams, Alfred George Milson, Thomas Brocklebank Gaden, and James Robinson Love, of East St. Leonards, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, gentlemen, on behalf of themselves and other ratepayers of the Borough of East St. Leonards,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH :—

1. That the Boroughs of St. Leonards, East St. Leonards, Victoria, and North Willoughby have petitioned your Honorable House for and obtained leave to bring in a private Bill, intituled, "The North Shore Borough's Wharves Bill," and that such Bill has by your Honorable House been referred to a Select Committee of your Honorable House for inquiry and report.

2. That your Petitioners are ratepayers of the Borough of East St. Leonards.

3. That the said Bill proposes to give power to the promoters, amongst other things, to erect wharves, and to expend the rates received, upon the erection of such wharves, and upon their repair and maintenance.

4. That the erection of a wharf at the foot of Willoughby-street, East St. Leonards, is not necessary, and it is not expedient that the same should be erected and established, or that the borough should have power to borrow money to erect wharves, or to use the ratepayers' moneys for such purpose, or for the repair and maintenance of wharves or jetties.

5. That your Petitioners will be seriously and injuriously affected and prejudiced by the acquisition of such powers by the promoters, on the following grounds :—

(1.) That the erection of such wharves is unnecessary.

(2.) That it will involve the ratepayers of the borough in unnecessary expense.

(3.) That it is against the spirit of the Municipalities Act to allow the Borough Council to expend the rates outside the boundaries of the borough.

(4.) That a wharf or jetty at the foot of Willoughby-street is altogether unnecessary.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that they may be heard by their counsel or solicitor, or in person, before your Honorable House, or before the Select Committee, in opposition to the said Bill, and the provisions thereof, with liberty to adduce such evidence as they may be advised in opposition thereto, or in support of this Petition.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

NORTH SHORE BOROUGH'S WHARVES BILL.

(PETITION AGAINST—T. E. CRESWELL AND H. H. ROBNEY.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 4 October, 1887.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Thomas Edgar Creswell and Henry Herbert Robey, of St. Leonards, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, Captain and Secretary of the North Shore Rowing Club, on behalf of such club,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

1. That the Boroughs of North Willoughby, Victoria, St. Leonards, and East St. Leonards have petitioned your Honorable House for and obtained leave to bring in a private Bill, intituled, "The North Shore Boroughs Wharves Bill," and that such Bill has, by your Honorable House, been referred to a Select Committee of your Honorable House for inquiry and report.

2. That the North Shore Rowing Club has for the last eight years occupied a portion of Careening Cove, at the foot of Willoughby-street, adjoining a small stone pier, also at the foot of such street.

3. That the Borough of East St. Leonards applied for a lease of the same site, and your Petitioners lodged objections with the then Minister for Lands against the granting of such lease.

4. That the North Shore Rowing Club has gone to great expense in the erection of sheds and in the purchase of boats and gear, and that such club is of great public benefit so far as North Shore is concerned.

5. That in the event of the proposed Bill becoming law such club must be disbanded.

6. That there is ample room for the erection of a wharf or jetty alongside the North Shore Rowing Club's premises, although your Petitioners submit that a wharf or jetty is not required there, the present stone pier being quite sufficient for all purposes.

7. That your Petitioners will be seriously and injuriously affected and prejudiced by the acquisition of such powers by the promoters, on the following grounds:—

(1.) That the erection of a wharf or jetty at the foot of Willoughby-street is unnecessary.

(2.) That it will involve the North Shore Rowing Club in great loss and expense—loss in the event of the club being disbanded, and expense in the event of such club being compelled to remove and re-erect their buildings and to purchase or lease a water-frontage site on the North Shore.

(3.) That, even if your Honorable House should pass the preamble of the said Bill, your Petitioners submit that they are entitled to have certain clauses inserted and amendments and alterations made therein for the protection of the North Shore Rowing Club.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that they may be heard by their counsel or solicitor, or in person, before your Honorable House, or before the Select Committee, in opposition to the said Bill and the provisions thereof, with liberty to adduce such evidence as they may be advised in opposition thereto, or in support of this Petition.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Dated this twenty-ninth day of September, 1887.

T. E. CRESWELL.
H. H. ROBNEY.

NORTH SHORE, MANLY, AND PITTWATER TRAMWAY AND RAILWAY BILL.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, for whose consideration and report was referred on the 12th October, 1887,—the “North Shore, Manly, and Pittwater Tramway and Railway Bill,”—beg to report to your Honorable House:—

That they have examined the witnesses named in the list* (whose * See list, p. 5. evidence will be found appended hereto); and the Preamble having been satisfactorily proved to your Committee, they proceeded to consider the several clauses and the Schedules of the Bill, in which it was deemed necessary to make certain amendments.

Your Committee now beg to lay before your Honorable House the Bill as amended by them.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

NORTH SHORE, MANLY, AND PITTWATER TRAMWAY AND RAILWAY BILL.

TUESDAY, 18 OCTOBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. DALTON,
MR. DAY,MR. GIBBES,
MR. R. BURDETT SMITH.

G. DAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Smith, for Stephen, Laurence, & Jaques, appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

Dr. Clement Alban Benbow called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are practising in Sydney, and resident at Manly Beach? Yes.
2. You are one of the applicants for this Bill? Yes, in conjunction with Mr. Leslie Johnson.
3. I suppose you know the country between North Shore and Pittwater? Yes.
4. Having mixed with the inhabitants of that country I suppose you are pretty well aware of their views as to this project? Yes.
5. Do you believe that this Tramway and Railway will be a general benefit to the country? Yes.
6. Have you made any survey of the proposed line? Yes, I produce one. [Plan produced.]
7. Is it rough country between the starting point of this line, that is Falcon-street, and the Spit? No, very easy.
8. What are the gradients? There is hardly a gradient until you drop towards the Spit, where it is one in twenty.
9. Pending the erection of a bridge you intend, as a matter of convenience, to run a steam punt at the Spit? Yes.
10. What will the charges be? The same as are charged at the Spit at present. They are stated in the Schedule.
11. Will the steam punt be put on there before the tram is completed to Manly? It will be put on as soon as the tram is ready to carry the people to the Spit.
12. Do you intend to start the work at both ends simultaneously? Yes.
13. Have you examined the country between the Spit and Manly? Yes.
14. Have you found a practicable route there? Yes.
15. Is the route which you intend to follow described accurately in Schedule A of the Bill? Yes.
16. How long have you been living in Manly? Two years. I have known Manly for ten years.
17. What is the population of the place? I think the police told me that it is over 2,000.

Dr.
C. A. Benbow.
18 Oct., 1887.

- Dr. C. A. Benbow.
18 Oct., 1887.
18. Do you come into contact much with the people there? Yes; especially on the steamers.
 19. Have you heard of any objection to the construction of this tramway? Yes; I have heard one person object on the ground that the Government should build it.
 20. But the general public are in favour of the Bill? Yes; enthusiastic on the subject.
 21. Have they said anything to you about the proposed railway from Manly to Pittwater? No; except that they are all enthusiastic on the subject. The only opposition on which I have heard is to the effect that the Government should do the work.
 22. I suppose the Government have a large quantity of land along the sea-shore? They have at the back.
 23. Within what distance will the proposed railway go of the Government land? It will go for some distance within half a mile of a large quantity of Government land.
 24. Altogether, so far as you know, the general public are in favour of the construction of these two lines, and of the bridge at the Spit? Yes.
 25. Mr. Dalton.] Has the person who objects to this Bill any land in the neighbourhood? No.
 26. Who is he? Mr. Charles Hayes.
 27. He is a resident of Manly? Yes; he has no property in the village or near the line. It does not interfere with him in the slightest degree. There is a little animus between us, and that is the root of his opposition.
 28. Mr. Gibbes.] Has not Mr. Hayes, or some other person about there, a notion in his head that the object of the Bill is to get a right for the purpose of selling it and not of constructing a line? He may have that idea in his head.
 29. Might not that objection be obviated by inserting in the first clause a provision that you should begin the line in an efficient way within a certain limited time? We would agree to do that.
 30. Would you say six months? We should have no objection whatever to begin the work within six months of the passing of the Bill.
 31. And say within twelve months of the passing of the Bill you shall have completed 3 or 4 miles of the permanent way? I would prefer that you make it eighteen months from the passing of the Bill. We will build it from Manly to Pittwater in eighteen months. I will agree to put down 3 or 4 miles within twelve months.

Dr. Walter Hugh Tibbets called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Dr. W. H. Tibbets.
18 Oct., 1887.
32. Chairman.] Where do you reside? At Manly.
 33. I suppose you have heard, in common with the general public, a great deal of talk with regard to this measure? I have heard very little about it. I have heard rumours of course.
 34. Have you heard anything against the construction of a line from St. Leonards to Manly Beach? No; I have heard nothing against it, and I have heard very little for it.
 35. How long have you been living at Manly? About three years.
 36. Do you think it would be for the benefit of the people of Manly, and for the district generally, to have this tramway made? I do not think it will benefit the people of Manly so much as it will benefit the people outside of Manly. I do not see how we shall benefit much by it.
 37. Will it be more convenient for you to come from Manly to Sydney by steamer than by tramway? I have never seen a plan of the proposed route of the tramway, so I cannot say. I do not know how they propose to take the line.
 38. Do the people of Manly take any interest in the question? My profession takes up a great deal of my time, and I have not been among the people who discuss this question much. I think so far as outside is concerned it will be of advantage; but I do not see what advantage Manly will derive from it.
 39. Would it be for the public good? Yes, I think it would be for the benefit of the public. It would facilitate the outlet from Sydney to Pittwater, but beyond that I do not see what advantage it could be.
 40. It would bring the whole of the Pittwater trade, to a great extent, into Manly? Necessarily it has to come into Manly now.
 41. Are there good roads between Manly and Pittwater? Splendid.
 42. Mr. Gibbes.] Does not some of the traffic come by sea now to Manly, in order to avoid the bad roads? Yes, with heavy timber and so on. Small vessels come from Pittwater to Sydney.
 43. Chairman.] What kind of road is there from Manly to the terminus of the proposed line at Pittwater? It is one of the best that I have ever travelled on in my life; it is a splendid road.
 44. Are there many people located in that part of the country? No.
 45. Any buildings going up there? Yes; there are new buildings going up.
 46. Any cultivation—any clearing of land? With the exception of one or two small lots I see very little cleared land.
 47. Is it very good land? Very sandy.
 48. On the whole, so far as you can gather, the construction of this railway and tramway would be of general benefit to the public? Yes, to the public; but I do not think much of the land between Manly and Pittwater.
 49. Mr. Gibbes.] You see no objection to the project? No; it would be of great advantage to the general public.
 50. Mr. R. Burdett Smith.] It would be a means of promoting settlement? Yes; at Pittwater it certainly would.
 51. Mr. Dalton.] Will it assist Manly? I cannot see how it will.
 52. Are you interested in land on the route? I have some land on the route, but it is such a very small bit that it would not create any interest as far as I am concerned. I have land on the other side of Pittwater.
 53. Mr. R. Burdett Smith.] I suppose it will not have any tendency to divert traffic from any line of railway? I do not think so. I think it would assist the Northern Line, without in any way diverting the traffic.

William.

William Spencer Kelly, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

W. S. Kelly,
Esq.

54. Chairman.] Where do you reside? At the "Oaks Hotel," Military Road.
55. Have you had any experience of the country between Pittwater, Manly Beach, and St. Leonards? Yes, a good deal.
56. Have you heard anything about the construction of a tramway and railway in that district? Yes; I took an interest two or three months ago in getting up a petition asking the Government to construct a tramway to Manly Beach; I presented it to the Secretary for Public Works.
57. Have you heard of any reasonable objection to the project? No; everyone to whom I spoke upon the subject was in favour of it.
58. Would it be for the benefit of the general public to construct this work? I am satisfied that it would be, as far as North Shore is concerned; the means of transit from North Shore to Manly are very bad.
59. It will be a means of facilitating communication between St. Leonards and Manly, and Pittwater and Manly? Yes.
60. Have you heard of any objection to the proposed height of the bridge across the Spit? I have heard some objection, on the ground that it was not high enough; but, on making inquiry, I found that it is considerably higher than the Government proposed themselves; it is 80 feet high, I believe; within half a mile of my place I got 365 signatures to the petition; I did not meet with one refusal; it will be for the public good to have this line constructed; you might have to wait two hours at the Spit before you could get across with a vehicle from North Shore or Neutral Bay; I have seen women and little children standing for hours in the rain and the sun, waiting for a conveyance.
61. Do you think that if this line were constructed the traffic between Manly and St. Leonards would be greater than it is now? I am sure of it, particularly if the bridge were constructed; even without a tramway the traffic would be far greater than it is now; if you happen to miss a punt now you have to wait half an hour before its return to you from the other side.
62. Mr. E. Burdett Smith.] I suppose there are a large number of residents in the vicinity of Pittwater? The population is increasing very rapidly.
63. They are deprived of means of communication with Sydney, except by water? Yes.
64. I suppose it would be a matter of very great convenience to these people to have this railway? Yes.
65. It would not interfere with any Government lines of railway? There is no railway near it.
66. Either in progress of construction or already constructed? No.
67. Therefore it could not divert any legitimate traffic from existing railways? No; the railways are miles away from this locality.
68. The construction of this line would be the means of settling people on land which is now waste? Yes; if means of conveyance were provided in this way all this waste land would be taken up.
69. There is plenty of Government land there? Yes, all the way.
70. And the Government would be able to sell it to much greater advantage if a railway was constructed than they could now? No doubt they would. I go down there sometimes twice a week.

18 Oct., 1887.

George Pile, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

71. Chairman.] You are a member of the firm of Mills & Pile? Yes.
72. Are you acquainted with the country between St. Leonards and Manly Beach? Well.
73. Have you heard that it is intended to construct a tramway between these places? Yes.
74. Do you think it would be to the public good to have one constructed? Certainly.
75. You mix greatly among the people of Manly, North Shore, and Sydney? I do.
76. Have you heard of any reasonable objection to this project? I have heard it said that it would be a good thing if some private company were to take up this matter, so as to avoid the repetition of Government blunders.
77. Do you think it would tend to open up the country and cause more traffic and trade to be done between those places? Yes; I think that it would very much improve the value of the land along the route.
78. Do you think it would improve the value of land in the township of Manly? Yes.
79. Are you aware whether the Government have much land in that locality? Yes, they have a great deal of land.
80. Would it improve the value of that land too? Oh, yes; their land lies to the west of the proposed line of tramway; the bulk of their land lies at the head of Narrabeen Lagoon?
81. Is the land, generally speaking, fit for cultivation? There is no land fit for cultivation in the county of Cumberland.
82. Not fit for kitchen gardens or Chinese gardens? You can use plenty of manure, and make it rich; it is capable of being made rich; it is of a sandy nature.
83. Is it good near the Narrabeen Lagoon? There are some fair patches of soil; the bulk of it is sandy loam.
84. Altogether you think it would be for the public benefit to have this line made? I do.
85. You think it would not injure any interest or class of people residing on the route? No, provided that sufficient care was taken that the approach to the waters of Middle Harbour was not interfered with.
86. At what height do you think the bridge over the Spit should be built so as to allow of easy navigation? The bridge should be sufficiently high to allow the funnel of any of the Hunter River Company's steamers to go under it.
87. Mr. Gibbs.] How many feet? I am told that 72 or 73 feet is the height of the funnel of some of their largest steamers.
88. Above high-water mark, making allowance for any little rise or fall? Yes; I do not think that room should be left for the masts of steamers.
89. You think that 80 feet would be sufficiently high? Eighty feet between high-water mark and the bottom girder would cover everything.
90. Mr. R. Burdett Smith.] Would the line be the means of promoting settlement in the vicinity of Pittwater and Manly Beach? Unquestionably; it would be the means of making Pittwater available to all classes of the people; now it is only available to people of moderate wealth.

G. Pile, Esq.

18 Oct., 1887.

- G. Pile, Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.
91. Do you gather that there is a consensus of public opinion in favour of the project? I have heard so; I have heard nothing to the contrary.
92. It would facilitate, I suppose, the sale of Government lands? Certainly.
93. It would increase the traffic to those particular districts? Yes.
94. And give greater means of communication, I suppose, between the districts and Sydney? Yes, it would be for the benefit of the whole community.
95. I mean also better means of communication with the metropolis? Yes.
96. Chairman.] Do you know the country between George Head and St. Leonards? Yes, well.
97. Do you know Cremorne? I am interested in it.
98. Have you heard any objection to taking a branch line from this tramway to Cremorne? I am one of the proprietors; I cannot speak on behalf of them, but I think it would be beneficial to the public interest if the line had a branch to Cremorne, for by that means I think an easier gradient would be obtained to the table-land of the Middle Harbour, and a saving in distance by land of over 2 miles; the extra steaming from Circular Quay to Cremorne against the steaming from the Circular Quay to Milson's Point would not be, I think, more than three minutes.
99. Mr. Dalton.] Will it enhance the price of land along the route? One thing will follow the other. I think it will very much enhance the value of land.
100. Are you interested in land along the route? I am interested in land which is within a stone's throw I believe of the proposed route. The Queenscliff Estate is within a stone's throw of it, and I think I should be able to sell that land to much better advantage if the tramway were constructed than I should otherwise.
101. In point of fact it will be the means of increasing the value of the vast tract of country between Pittwater and St. Leonards? I think so.

Cyrus Edgar Fuller, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- C. E. Fuller, Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.
102. Chairman.] Where do you reside? At Manly. I am proprietor of the Cumberland Mercury.
103. How long have you been a resident of Manly? I have been a permanent resident for about three years, and an occasional resident for about fifteen years.
104. I suppose you have heard something about this Bill? Yes.
105. Have you conversed with any people on the matter? Yes, with different people.
106. Have you heard of any reasonable objection to the construction of the line? I have heard of no reasonable objection. I have heard of only one objection, and that was made by a person whose land they propose to go through. She does not oppose the project, but she objects to the proposed route, on the ground that it will interfere with the future subdivision of her property.
107. Mr. Gibbes.] What is the name of the lady? Miss Jenkins, of Long Reef.
108. Chairman.] As far as the public is concerned, have you heard any objections to the construction of the line? No; quite the opposite.
109. What is your own opinion? I think it would be a great good to the whole community to have a tramway or railway constructed along that beautiful district.
110. To the people between Pittwater and North Shore? Not only to them, but also to the people of Sydney, because it would open to them an outlet to a beautiful district, which is not equalled anywhere along our coast. It would provide splendid excursion grounds for the people at Narrabeen Lake.
111. Do you think that the line would be welcome to the people of Manly? I am quite sure of that, I have spoken to so many on the subject.
112. Would it increase the value of property in Manly? Yes.
113. Have you heard of any objection to the construction of a bridge over the Spit? No, except outside the Committee Room, by a gentleman who thinks it should be built 100 feet high, but that, I think, is not a solid objection.
114. Mr. Gibbes.] The water is very shallow about the Spit? No, it is rather deep on the eastern side.
115. As far as the current is concerned, a large vessel can go up the harbour? Yes.
116. Mr. Dalton.] Have you any knowledge of the depth of water beyond the Spit? Yes. After you get about a mile or three-quarters of a mile above the Spit it becomes very shallow, and you cannot take a small steamer, with 200 people on board, up there. I have been stranded there myself.
117. Within that distance is there 12 feet of water? Yes, in the current.
118. Chairman.] Have you heard any objection to a branch line from this tramway to Cremorne? Not a word.
119. Do you think it would be for the public benefit to make such a branch line? It think it would; but only from a Sydney standpoint.
120. I suppose the steamers do not call at Cremorne? No, that is why people have not built there.
121. If a branch line were made to Cremorne it would be a means to cause people to settle there? I have not the slightest doubt about that.
122. Would it be any injury to the general public if this tramway were built along the main road? Not as a tramway.
123. Do you know anything of the extent of the Government land near Pittwater and Manly? The Crown has a great deal of land there, and some very good land too.
124. Would this line make that land more valuable? It would increase its value threefold.
125. I suppose that the line will go pretty close to it? It is proposed to take the line for a distance of 5 miles—I mean on the western side—within a quarter of a mile of the Government land. There is Government land near the route almost all the way from Manly to Narrabeen Lake.
126. Are you aware that this Bill asks for power to make a bridge across the Spit? Yes.
127. Do you think it would be more advantageous to the public that the promoters of this Bill should make the bridge than that the Government should undertake the work? It opens up a very large question. Simply speaking, I believe it would be to the interest of the public if the Government were to build the bridge, because they could then control the traffic as they liked, and control the charges too.
128. Have you any information about the approximate cost of such a bridge? My information is based upon estimates which have been derived from Government sources. It is estimated to cost from £40,000 to £50,000.
129. Mr. Dalton.] You know nothing of your own knowledge? No.

William Thomas Ashton Shorter, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined :—

130. Chairman.] Where do you reside? At Petersham.
131. Do you know anything about Manly, Pittwater, and St. Leonards? I know Manly Beach very well. I know a great deal about Pittwater; I go there nearly every week.
132. What sort of country is it between Manly Beach and Pittwater, say within a mile of the ocean right along? It is fair country for about 14 miles along the Pittwater Road.
133. Good land? Yes, in a great many parts.
134. Is it cut up in large or small blocks between the town boundaries of Manly and Pittwater? It is in large blocks to a very great extent between those places.
135. Not into small town allotments? Not until you get to Mona Vale, where they have surveyed small lots. There are rather large property owners between the two towns.
136. Are you aware that it is proposed to construct a tramway from North Shore to Manly, and thence a railway to Pittwater? Yes.
137. Have you heard in the course of your business of any reasonable objection to the project? Only in one instance.
138. A public objection? No, it was made by a lady for private reasons. She does not object to a railway being made there provided that it is taken by a different route. She does not object to a railway being taken through her property in certain parts.
139. Mr. Dalton.] What is the lady's name? Miss Jenkins. She told me that she had no objection to the construction of a railway there, provided that it does not go exactly along the route which is proposed. What she objects to chiefly is taking away 40 feet of the main road. She said to me, "Why cannot they go further back, or go by another route, so as not to take 40 feet of the main road?" I said, "Have you any objection to the line going through your land?" No, provided that they go to the back of my land." She does not want to be deprived of her frontage.
140. Chairman.] From what you know of the people down there, do you believe that it will be of benefit to them? A very great benefit.
141. A general public benefit? Yes, a very great benefit to the local people. I should think that every one ought to be anxious to see such a line begun.
142. What is your opinion with regard to a branch line to Cremorne? I cannot give any opinion.
143. You know Cremorne? No, I cannot give any opinion upon this matter, except as regards the way it will affect the public interests between Sydney and Manly. It would be to the public benefit if the people could be carried comfortably and easily to the waters of Pittwater.
144. Is there any port between Manly Beach and Broken Bay where steamers or vessels could anchor and land passengers? No.
145. Therefore the people of Pittwater have no access to Sydney by ocean unless they come by way of Broken Bay? No.
146. And they must come by land? Yes.
147. Mr. Dalton.] Do you know Miss Jenkin's property? Yes, I do.
148. It is an extensive property? Yes, it extends along both sides of the road.
149. Why does she object to this project? She said it would destroy her road frontage.
150. It is rather a hilly property? Yes, in some parts. It is not very good land.
151. Do you know of your own knowledge that she wants the line to go right through her property, over mountains and hills, so as to make it more valuable? I met her in the coach last Saturday, and she stated distinctly that she wants the line to go behind her property, starting at a point about 4 miles from the Beach. It was quite by accident that I met her. She said that she wanted to get the opinions of those who were interested in the matter. I said that the only interest I had was that I was a property owner at Pittwater, and that I thought it would improve the value of the land there. She said, "Let them go to Pittwater, but do not destroy my property."
152. Will this line injure her property? I should think not. It will very greatly benefit it. If I were in her place, I should be only too glad to encourage such a project.
153. Are you interested in the route? Only so far as desiring easy access to the waters of Pittwater, where I have property. At present the coach accommodation is very good, but it is not sufficient to meet the public convenience.
154. Mr. Gibbes.] Not speedy enough? No; a coach which is only intended to take ten passengers takes eighteen.
155. Mr. Dalton.] You think that a line of railway will make Miss Jenkins' property more valuable than it is now? I am perfectly convinced that it will. I tried to so convince her on Saturday. She said she liked seclusion.

W. T. A.
Shorter, Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.

John George Cousins, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined :—

156. Chairman.] Where do you reside? I keep the "Steyne Hotel" at Manly.
157. How long have you resided there? About four years.
158. Have you heard of a proposition to construct a tramway from North Shore to Manly, and a railway thence to Pittwater? Yes.
159. Have you conversed with the general public on the subject? Yes; with a large number of people.
160. What is the general impression? That it would be a great boon to the residents of Manly and Pittwater in particular, and that it would also benefit the general public of the Colony. It would be a grand thing if the work could be carried out. It would benefit not only private estates, but the public property.
161. Have you heard any reasonable objection to the project? None whatever.
162. Have you travelled between Pittwater and Manly? Yes, within the last week.
163. What sort of accommodation is there for travellers? One or two small accommodation houses.
164. I suppose all the traffic has to go by road along the beach to Manly? Yes.
165. It is not carried on by means of steamers? It is impossible to do so owing to the heavy surf which breaks upon the beach.
166. Would a railway be acceptable to the people between Manly and Pittwater? Yes, to a large majority of them.

J. G. Cousins,
Esq.
18 Oct., 1887.

- J. G. Cousins, Esq. 167. Would it increase the value of property, and bring more trade to the place? Most certainly.
 168. Would it do good to Manly? Yes.
 18 Oct., 1887. 169. Would it bring more trade there? Yes; and increase the value of property generally.
 170. As a resident of Manly you think the construction of the line is desirable, and that there is no reasonable objection to it? Yes.
 171. Mr. Dalton.] The great bulk of the visitors to Sydney usually pay a visit to Manly? Yes; as a rule.
 172. And if a tramway were constructed to that place, you think that these people would avail themselves of it? Yes; I think that many of the visitors who cannot go to Manly now on a rough day, because of their liability to sea sickness, would go there by tramway if there were one. It would be for their benefit as well as for the benefit of the people of Manly and Sydney, to have a tramway to Manly.
 173. Mr. Gibbes.] And a trip from Manly to Pittwater would be taken by them most likely if a railway were built between those places? Yes, especially on holidays.

Samuel Bryant Rowe, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- S. B. Rowe, Esq. 174. Chairman.] You are a Civil engineer, I believe? Yes.
 18 Oct., 1887. 175. You thoroughly understand engineering, measuring, and gradients? I have had a great deal of experience.
 176. Have you examined the country between St. Leonards, Manly Beach, and Pittwater? Yes; in reference to this particular line, I have gone all through it two or three times; I surveyed the route.
 177. Have you any information as to the gradients, and the difficulties to be contented with? Yes.
 178. Is it your opinion, as a professional man, that this line can be constructed with advantage to the public? I think so.
 179. What are the gradients? The steepest gradient is on the new Government road to the Spit, it is 1 in 20.
 180. The route of the proposed tramway is from North Shore along the Military Road to the Spit? Yes; it is almost a dead level until you get to the descent to the Spit.
 181. How far is it from the proposed junction with the Government tramway at St. Leonards to the Spit? It is $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Falcon-street, the starting point, to the Spit.
 182. Mr. Dalton.] At what distance from the Spit do you intend to make the approach to the bridge? It goes back between 30 and 40 chains.
 183. Chairman.] Have you had any practical experience in the construction of tramways and railways? Yes.
 184. How long do you think it would take a company to make a tramway from Falcon-street to the Spit? A very short time. It could be made, I suppose, in six or eight months. There is no work until you get to the bridge itself; there is very little work beyond laying the rails.
 185. In what time could the tramway be made from the Spit to Manly? It could be done easily within ten months, excluding the bridge.
 186. Mr. Gibbes.] How long would it take to build the bridge? There are many preliminaries to be considered, but once the bridge was fairly started, I think it might be done—I should not like to specify less—within two years.
 187. Chairman.] If the promoters of the Bill were bound to build the tramway, with the exception of the bridge, within twelve months to Manly Beach, would it cost them more money, or prejudice their interest in any way? It might be done within that time, still it is not advisable to fix so short a limit.
 188. Suppose it were fixed at eighteen months? It could be done within that time without the slightest difficulty.
 189. You think that the line from Falcon-street to the Spit could be finished within six months? Yes.
 190. Would it put the promoters of the Bill to any great expense if such a provision were made in it? I would rather have it made eight months. There might be a little difficulty in getting the rails from England.
 191. Have you heard any reasonable objection to this project? None whatever.
 192. Would it be for the benefit of the public to build such a line? I think so. I think that the people of Manly would be very much benefited indeed, for it would save them the trouble of crossing the Heads.
 193. Have you any idea of the approximate cost of a bridge across the Spit? I have gone into the matter, my estimate was about £80,000.
 194. You think that it would take two years to make the bridge? If I were writing the specifications for the bridge I should not fix upon any less time than that. It will probably be an iron bridge, and the only difficulty will be about getting in the cylinder foundations.
 195. Do you think that it would be to the advantage of the promoters of this Bill if the Government were to build the bridge? Yes, I do.
 196. Do you know whether it is the wish of the public that the Government should do so? Yes; I have heard very many people express a wish that the Government would build the bridge.
 197. Mr. Dalton.] What is the distance between Falcon-street, the starting point of the tramway, and Manly? Seven miles.
 198. And the distance from Manly to Pittwater? It is 11 miles 15 chains.
 199. You have made an estimate of the cost of the line between St. Leonards and Manly, exclusive of the bridge? Yes; my estimate is somewhere about £2,000 a mile, including the rails.
 200. What is the width of the Government road between the Military Road and the Spit? It is about a chain wide.
 201. Suppose that a tramway were laid on this road, would it impede vehicular traffic? Not so much as is done in Sydney. The roads in the city are very much less than a chain wide as a rule.
 202. Mr. Gibbes.] Suppose we were to provide that within six months the promoters shall make a good start with the work; that within six months thereafter they shall conclude 4 miles of the permanent way from whichever end they like, as a sign of their bonâ fides; and that they shall complete the line from St. Leonards to Manly within eighteen months from the passing of the Bill—would that be reasonable? Yes.

THURSDAY,

THURSDAY, 20 OCTOBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR DALTON, | MR. GIBBES,
MR. R. BURDETT SMITH.

G. DAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Smith, for Stephen, Laurence, & Jaques, appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

Leon Houreaux, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

203. Chairman.] Where do you reside? I am an hotel-keeper and a fruit-grower on the Pittwater Road, L. Houreaux, Esq.

204. I suppose you have heard about this project to construct a tramway and railway from St. Leonards to Pittwater via Manly? Yes, it will be a great improvement. It will induce people to visit the place. The present coaching accommodation is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the public; the fares are too high. 20 Oct., 1887.

205. Do you think that this line will be beneficial to the public? I think so. It will be a great advantage to excursionists. If Frenchmen or Italians or Belgians or Germans come to my place now they are charged £1 each by the coach proprietor. Many people will not come now because the fare is too high. One day it is £1, another day 2s. 6d., another day 15s.; it is not regular.

206. Virtually, he charges what he likes? Yes. People will not travel by Mr. Black's coach because he is too expensive. Yesterday, three customers came to my place, "The Rock Lily Hotel," and he charged them 15s. each for a single fare.

207. Have you had any conversation with the general public as to this Bill? Everyone is very pleased at the idea of the tramway and railway being constructed. At present, whenever a fruit-grower puts his fruit on the boat at Pittwater, and the wind changes, he loses the whole lot.

208. Have you heard anyone object to the project? No, everyone is very glad.

209. Do you think it will increase the importance of the place and enhance the value of land? Yes.

210. It will increase settlement there? Yes, certainly. I am an engineer, and for a long time I worked on the railways in France, Italy, Belgium, and Germany, and I noticed that wherever railway communication was extended it increased the value of property.

211. Mr. Gibbes.] A fruit-grower at Pittwater has to send his fruit to Sydney by ocean, the boats are very small, and if any bad weather comes on the fruit may rot before they start? Yes. Two years ago I had an orchard of 640 acres, and many a time I used to lose my fruit simply because the boat did not go.

James Joseph Roach, Esq., called in and examined:—

212. Chairman.] Where do you reside? I am postmaster of Bay View Post Office, at Pittwater. I have lived there for the last four or five years. I am a storekeeper also, and necessarily come a great deal into contact with the public. J. J. Roach, Esq.

213. Do you ever converse with the public on such matters as railways? Yes; frequently. 20 Oct., 1887.

214. Have you ever had any conversation about this proposed tramway and railway from North Shore to Pittwater, via Manly? Yes.

215. What is the general impression that you gathered from their remarks? That it is very much required, as our communication with the Sydney markets is very bad. At present we cannot get our fruit to Sydney in time for the markets. The carriage is very long, the fruit is spoilt, the freight is high, and, after the charges and commission are deducted from the receipts, our profit is very small.

216. Do these steamers trade regularly to Pittwater—do they go every day? No, once a week; in fact there are no regular steamers at all.

217. Virtually, if your fruit was ripe you would not be able to send it to market at all, on account of the steamers not trading regularly? No; I should have to send it overland to Manly Beach, pay a heavy freight there, and send it to market by the harbour steamers.

218. Have you heard anyone at Pittwater or elsewhere object to this project? I have heard no one who is interested in the district offer any objection. I have heard a few Manly people just give their opinions on the matter, but not against it.

219. Do you, as a resident, think that it will promote settlement? I think so. Pittwater is the garden of New South Wales. It is beautiful land, and is fit for agricultural purposes.

220. Does its fruit grow well? Beautifully. I have an orangery myself, and I have heard men who had travelled in Spain and Portugal, where this fruit is indigenous, say that my trees are equal to any that they had ever seen in those countries.

221. Mr. Gibbes.] You think that the construction of this line will be beneficial to the people you know and to the public generally? Yes.

Patrick Edwin Fallon, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

222. Chairman.] Have you lived long in Manly? I have lived there, on and off, for some time. I have property in the district. P. E. Fallon, Esq.

223. Are you aware that a company has been formed to construct a tramway from St. Leonards to Pittwater, via Manly? I have heard something about it. I do not exactly know the particulars. 20 Oct., 1887.

224. From your knowledge, do you, as a practical man, think that the undertaking will be beneficial to the district and to the public generally? I have not the slightest doubt but that it will. I think it is the most beautiful suburb about Sydney.

225. Do you think that if the project was carried out, travellers and passengers from Manly to Sydney would come by that way instead of by steamer? I think that some of them would.

226. Would it be more convenient for you to come by land—would you sooner depend on the tramway than on the steamer? I would sooner depend on the steamer, of course. 227.

- P. E. Fallon, Esq.
20 Oct., 1887.
227. Mr. Gibbes.] If you owned any property at Manly, you think that the construction of the tramway would increase the value of it? I think it would.
228. It would facilitate trade and create settlement? I think so. Many people object to go to Manly now because of the trip down the harbour.
229. Chairman.] Do you know anything about the proposed railway from Manly to Pittwater? No; I simply read something about it in the newspapers.
230. Do you know anything about the land at Pittwater? I have not been as far as there. I have been as far as Narrabeen.
231. Mr. Dalton.] What would the difference in time be between coming from Manly to Sydney by tramway and coming by steamer? It would depend upon whatever speed the tramway would travel. I could not possibly say. On many days, when stormy winds are blowing, people, although they could get to Sydney as quickly by boat, would prefer to come by tramway.
232. Chairman.] There are times, in very rough weather, when timid people would sooner remain in their homes at Manly than come to Sydney by steamer? Yes; I have done so myself on several occasions.
233. Do you know any people who have been really afraid to leave Manly on account of the weather? I do not know of any such people; but I know that I, myself, have done so once or twice. I have preferred to stay at Manly for the day than to come in to business, and risk the trip across the Heads.

Walter Reeks, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- W. Reeks, Esq.
20 Oct., 1887.
234. Chairman.] What profession do you follow? I am a naval or marine architect. I reside at Alfred-street, North Shore.
235. Are you aware that a company has been formed to construct a tramway and railway from St. Leonards to Pittwater via Manly? I have heard of it within the last hour. I have come to give evidence with reference to the height of the proposed bridge at the Spit.
236. Do you know much of the country between St. Leonards and Pittwater via the Spit? I have been over the ground two or three times.
237. Do you know where they propose to erect the bridge at the Spit? Yes.
238. At what height should the bridge be erected so as to conserve the public interest? I look at the matter principally from a yachtsman's point of view.
239. Mr. Gibbes.] What is the depth of the water at the place where the bridge would go over the Spit? It is shallow water between the entrance to the harbour and the Spit. You cannot get to the Spit without crossing that shallow water.
240. You have been there often? Yes, many times.
241. What is the depth of the channel on the opposite side to the Spit? The depth is very ample to allow any ordinary coasting steamer to go up the harbour. It is certainly not less than 35 feet at that point.
242. How high do you think the bridge should be built above high-water mark in order to enable (say) a large coasting steamer to go up the channel without lowering her funnel? 70 feet.
243. Chairman.] Do you know the height of the last two steamers which were built for the Port Jackson Company—the "Brighton" and the "Fairlight"? Not to a nicety. I should think that it is about 40 feet from the water to the top of the funnel.
244. Do you think it is likely that larger steamers than those would go above the spit? Very much larger vessels can go up there.
245. Would the funnels of such vessels be higher? The funnels of the "Brighton" and the "Fairlight" are high.
246. Mr. Dalton.] The funnels of the Illawarra Company's or the Hunter River Company's steamers are a little higher? Yes, they are about 45 feet high.
247. Chairman.] Do you think that 70 feet above high-water mark would be an ample height for the bridge? It would be as little as you could do with to take coasting vessels under the bridge.
248. Mr. Smith.] What is the depth of water on the bar which exists just before you come to the Spit? Nine feet. You cannot cross it with more than 8 feet 6 inches draught.
249. What does the "Brighton" draw? 6 feet 3 inches, I think.
250. As a matter of fact a very large steamer could not go up to the Spit whether a bridge were erected or not owing to the shallow water? There are vessels in America of over 2,000 tons which do not draw more than 6 feet of water, therefore a large vessel could go up past the Spit.
251. Chairman.] Do you know the water frontage above the Spit? I have been up the harbour.
252. Is the country good for settlement? No, I should not think it is. It is rocky, high, and precipitous.
253. Mr. Smith.] Do you know the height of the bridge over the Parramatta at Ryde, or over the Hawkesbury River? I know both bridges. I could not speak accurately as to the height of them.
254. Are they both less than 50 feet? I think I am safe in saying they are.

Gerard Phillips, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- G. Phillips, Esq.
20 Oct., 1887.
255. Chairman.] Where do you reside? I reside at St. Leonards; I have lived there for about eight years; I am a land agent; and I am also attorney for Mr. John Cooper, through whose land it is proposed to take the tramway for about three quarters of a mile.
256. Have you heard of any public objection to the construction of this line? I have heard of none. I know nothing about it except from what I have read in the newspapers.
257. I suppose the question of the construction of this line crops up in business circles? Yes.
258. Generally speaking the people are in favour of the project? Yes.
259. Would it do good to the district? I am of opinion that it would advance the district very much. It would increase the value of land along the route, and it would be a great facility and help to the public there. I may mention that I know nothing whatever about the terms on which the line is to be constructed, or the kind of tramway which is intended to be placed there. I know nothing except that a tramway is to be placed there. A tramway would be of great assistance to the public if it were properly constructed and kept in the middle of the road.

260. There would be no objection to the tramway running along the road? I do not think so. I have not heard of any opposition. Everyone has said what a good job it would be if a tramway were constructed.

G. Phillips,
Esq.
20 Oct., 1887.

261. Mr. Dalton.] There is no doubt that it would enhance the value of land? No.

262. Have you any interest in the company? Not in the slightest degree. I came here as an amicus curiæ, as the lawyers say.

Charles Austin, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

263. Chairman.] I believe you are the Mayor of Manly? Yes; I have lived there permanently for about fifteen years.

C. Austin,
Esq.
20 Oct., 1887.

264. You are well acquainted with the locality, and the wants and requirements of the public? Yes.

265. Have the Council of Manly ever taken any action either for or against the construction of this tramway and railway from St. Leonards to Pittwater via Manly? It was brought up for the first time at the last Council meeting in connection with an application for the use of some maps &c., belonging to the Council.

266. Have the Council any objection to the project? The Council do not object to a railway, but they wish to see that proper guarantees of their bonâ fides are given by the promoters of the Bill.

267. Mr. Gibbes.] Suppose it were embodied in the Bill that the company should start work within six months, that within six months thereafter they should complete at least 4 miles of the permanent way, and that within a further period of six months thereafter they should complete the line, except the bridge, from St. Leonards to Manly—would that meet your desires? Hardly.

268. Would that not be sufficient evidence of the bonâ fides of the company? The Council wish more particularly that the bridge should be first commenced. The Council seem to want to know who are the promoters of this Bill. The Council have been promised by the Government that a bridge across the Spit shall be built, and a tramway completed within a very short space of time, and that a sum of money shall be placed upon this year's Estimates for that purpose. And in view of this Bill they think that the Government will not ask Parliament for a vote, and that the matter will lie over for a long period. They wish me to ascertain the names of the persons who form this company. It is reported that the work is to be carried out with French or English capital, and that shares in the company are being hawked about. I am desired if possible to exact a definite statement as to whether it is a bonâ fide company or not.

269. Chairman.] Will the Council have any objection to the project if it is commenced within a certain time, and finished within a reasonable time, which is a very short time? The Council have no objection. They applaud the idea of a railway or a tramway coming to Manly. They are anxious to know some particulars about the matter.

270. Mr. Dalton.] In fact the Council require that a certain sum of money shall be deposited by the Company as a proof of their bonâ fides? Yes.

271. Chairman.] Do you not think that if we were to insert a clause to the effect that the works shall be commenced within a certain time, and finished within a certain time, it would protect the public sufficiently? I think so.

272. Mr. Gibbes.] In short, your evidence is, this, that the construction of this line will not injure Manly? No, it will be beneficial to Manly and to the public generally.

273. Mr. Dalton.] Are the people of Manly interested in the height of the bridge at the Spit? It is a matter which they prefer to leave to the Government to consider. It is a question whether a low level bridge with a swing is not better than a high level bridge.

Alderman Robert Evans called in, sworn, and examined:—

274. Chairman.] I believe you are a resident and an alderman of Manly? Yes; I have lived there for about fifteen years.

Alderman
A. R. Evans.
20 Oct., 1887.

275. You know the country all around? I know every inch of it nearly.

276. You know the public wants and requirements of the locality? Yes.

277. Have you heard of any intention to construct a tramway and railway between St. Leonards and Pittwater via Manly? Yes.

278. Do you think it ought to be constructed? I believe it will be a very great boon to the district.

279. To Manly? Not only to Manly, but to the district generally—to the people between Pittwater and St. Leonards.

280. Would it cause more settlement to take place there? As a matter of course that would follow.

281. Is the land along the route fit for cultivation for orchards? There is no good land between St. Leonards and Manly.

282. What sort of land is there at Narrabeen? There is no good land until you get to the other side of Narrabeen. There is no good land between St. Leonards to Narrabeen; it is all sandy and rocky.

283. Is there any settlement between Manly and Pittwater? Yes; several houses have been put up.

284. As to the height of the bridge at the Spit what is your opinion? I think that it should be erected by the Government. The height ought to be 100 feet. I look upon the Middle Harbour as the future coaling port of Sydney. There is not the slightest doubt, I think, that the coal which is got between Sydney and Newcastle, and a great deal of the coal which is brought from Newcastle, will eventually be delivered at Middle Harbour, and instead of vessels, after they have unloaded their merchandise, being towed to Newcastle, they will coal at Middle Harbour, and sail straight away to their destination.

285. Mr. Dalton.] Is there not a bar before you come to the Spit? Yes; but such vessels as the "Collaroy," the "Florence Irving," and ships of that class, have been able to go up there.

286. Ordinary vessels of 1,000 tons, drawing 16 or 17, or even 12 feet of water would not be able to go up the harbour? I am not speaking of the depth of water. I say I have seen large vessels up there.

287. You mean flat-bottomed steamers? They were steamers drawing from 12 to 14 feet.

288. Do you know the depth of water on the bar? No.

289. Chairman.] Have you seen vessels drawing from 12 to 15 feet of water pass over the bar? No; I have seen such vessels in Pearl Bay, which is beyond the bar.

290.

- Alderman 290. How far is it navigable above the Spit? For miles.
 A. R. Evans. 291. Do you think that a bridge well erected and at a proper height would be a great advantage to the general public? Yes.
 20 Oct., 1887. 292. Have you heard any decided objections to the construction of this tramway? Yes; I have heard of several objections. I think that the Government should be careful to satisfy themselves that the promoters of the Bill have the means with which to carry out the work. If so, I think that every encouragement ought to be given to private enterprise of this character.
 293. If the Company is bound down to begin the work within a very reasonable time, and to finish it within a reasonable time, it would be a sufficient guarantee of their bonâ fides; it would be a sufficient protection of the public interests? Yes; it is an important point. Anyhow the line will be a very great boon when it is constructed.

Thomas Steiner McCormick, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- T. S. M'Cor- 294. Chairman.] Where do you reside? At 105, Dowling-street.
 mick, Esq. 295. It is proposed in this Bill to build a bridge, 50 feet high, over the Spit, is there any objection to that? Yes; I think that a bridge of that height would destroy the free navigation of Middle Harbour; for instance, the "Namoi," some of the Illawarra Company's boats, and the Clarence River boats can all proceed up the harbour at present. I have a note from Mr. Thomas, the manager of the Hunter River Company, in these words, "Height of 'Namoi's' mast above water, when vessel is not loaded, 86 feet." The new steamers such as the "Newcastle" and "Namoi" have not any topmast, their mast is all in one piece.
 20 Oct., 1887. 296. Can the "Namoi" get up at all? I think so; there is 10 feet at low water, and 16 feet at high water at my wharf at the Fig Tree.
 297. Mr. Dalton.] What water does the "Namoi" draw? I do not think she draws more than 9 feet; she goes up the Hunter River, and I know it is very shallow near Morpeth.
 298. Mr. Gibbes.] How high do you think the bridge should be in the clear between high water and the lower part of the superstructure? 100 feet.
 299. It would clear any vessels; it would be an ample height? Yes.
 300. But you could do with 80 feet? No; it would be 6 feet too low for the "Namoi."
 301. A height of 100 feet would do for all time? Yes, in my opinion.
 302. Chairman.] Have you heard any objection to the construction of this tramway? No, I have not discussed that matter.
 303. Do you, as a property owner, think that it will be beneficial to the people generally? Not according to this route; I think it is an extravagant route to take; I think the proper way to reach Manly is by railway from the Northern line, round the head of Bantry Bay, where they would have easy gradients, and go straight on to Pittwater.

Frederick Henry Trouton, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- F.H. Trouton, 304. Chairman.] What is your profession? I am a steamboat manager, and master mariner. I was general manager of the A.S.N. Company. I reside in Sydney.
 Esq. 305. Have you heard anything publicly of the proposed construction of a tramway from St. Leonards to Manly? Nothing whatever.
 20 Oct., 1887. 306. Do you know anything about the locality? I know it pretty well, as an old resident.
 307. Would it be for the benefit of the public to carry out the undertaking? I have not that knowledge. I do not live in the neighbourhood.
 308. Mr. Dalton.] Are you acquainted with the soundings of the Middle Harbour? Yes.
 309. What is the depth of water on the bar before you get to the Spit? You will get barely 1½ fathoms at ebb spring tide. The old Admiralty chart has 1½ fathoms on it.
 310. What is the nature of the bar? Sand. It runs from shore to shore. It runs about half a mile up and down the harbour.
 311. Is it possible to remove it by dredging? I think so.
 312. Do you think it would silt up again? Yes; I do not think there is current sufficient to keep the channel clear. It wants a river at the back.
 313. What distance is the bar from the Spit? Three quarters of a mile. It lies between the Spit and Balmoral.
 314. Mr. Gibbes.] What do you think should be the height of the lower part of the bridge so as to clear the masthead of a ship at high tide? It would not be safe certainly under 100 feet.
 315. Would that be ample? I think it would, because you can always make any vessel with extra high mast strike their topgallant mast.
 316. Suppose a vessel that has no topgallant mast wanted to follow a boat race? A big steamer that would have a mast of that height could not of herself go round the Spit.
 317. Would the "Namoi" be able to cross the bar? Yes; she has not a mast of that height.
 318. Mr. Dalton.] It is stated that vessels of the size of the "Namoi" can get up the harbour past the Spit? I am rather astonished to hear that she can. Of course she would not be loaded. I fancy that the "Namoi" would certainly draw 9 feet of water, so she must go when there is water on the bar, and come back when there is water on the bar. She might go there on a holiday. The difference between high water and low water is from 5 to 6 feet.
 319. Mr. Gibbes.] You think that the height of the bridge should be very little less than 100 feet? No; in other places in the world it is not the custom to build a public bridge to fit the height of a mast; the mast is built to fit the height of the bridge. I do not think it would be fair to build a bridge at the Spit under 100 feet high.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

NORTH SHORE, MANLY, AND PITTWATER
TRAMWAY BILL.

(PETITION IN FAVOUR OF—RESIDENTS OF NORTH SHORE.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 15 November, 1887.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned residents at St. Leonards and North Shore,—

Whereas there is a Bill before your Honorable House by Clement Alban Benbow and Leslie Johnston for the construction of a tramway or railway from Saint Leonards to Manly and from Manly to Pittwater, and for the erection of a bridge over the Spit at Middle Harbour: And whereas your Petitioners are very desirous that such tramway or railway should be made, and that such bridge should be erected, but your Petitioners respectfully submit that the charging of tolls for the said bridge would be vexatious and contrary to ordinary usage:

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that provision or arrangements be made so that the said bridge when made shall be free of toll to the public.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

[Here follow 200 signatures.]

A similar Petition was received on 15th November, 1887, from residents of Manly;—79 signatures.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

Oakey Park Coal-Mining Company's Bill.

TUESDAY, 21 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. FRANK FARNELL,
MR. HURLEY,

MR. STEVENSON,
MR. WALKER.

J. HURLEY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Phillip Hurley Sullivan, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are solicitor for this Bill? Yes.
 2. You have published the necessary advertisements in the local and metropolitan papers as well as in the Government Gazette? Yes. P. H.
Sullivan, Esq.
21 Feb., 1888.
 3. And you have paid into the Colonial Treasury the necessary sum in connection with the Bill? Yes.
 4. You prepared the Bill? Yes.
 5. Its contents, as far as you are aware, are perfectly true? Yes.
 6. It is actually necessary for the development of this Company that the railway should be constructed as laid down in the plan on the table? Yes.
 7. Will it interfere in any way with the rights of other persons? No; except that it will run across lands which I believe belong, or did belong, to Messrs. Tucker and Haynes.
 8. Any interference with their rights is provided for in the form of arbitration? Yes.
 9. Have you received any communication with regard to opposing the Bill? I have heard of no opposition whatever except that which I read of in the Australian Star. I made inquiries to find out what it meant, but I could get no satisfaction.
 10. Mr. Walker.] What was the effect of the paragraph? Simply that we were ignoring someone's rights.
 11. Ignoring the rights of someone from whom you had received a communication? I presume it was.
 12. Chairman.] You received some communication—what was it? It was a communication addressed to our managing director, Mr. Fryer, of Katoomba. It is as follows:—
- Mr. Fryer,—
Dear Sir,
- Penrith, 15 February, 1888.
- As the scrip given for Mrs. Doyle's half, the land now being used by the Oakey Park Company is valueless; she does not wish the Railway Bill to pass; consequently I have intimated so to some of my friends who form the Committee on the Bill. I think I can promise you strong opposition to the Bill, unless Mrs. Doyle's shares in the affair are registered. I have no desire to be a member of your Company.
- Yours, &c.,
B. DOYLE.
13. What view do you take of this letter? On Mr. Doyle's marriage with Miss Gray, Mr. Gray gave her 2,500 fully paid up shares.
 14. A sort of marriage dowry, I suppose? Yes.
 15. Mr. Walker.] When did the marriage take place? Three or four months ago.

- P. H. Sullivan, Esq.
21 Feb., 1888.
16. Since then Mr. Doyle has asked his wife to transfer these shares to him? Yes. She actually signed the transfer on a piece of paper and sent it to us, but at a Board meeting we declined to register it.
17. Did you register the transfer of the shares from her father to her? Yes.
18. And all you declined to register was the transfer of the shares from her to her husband? Yes. The Board had justifiable grounds for their refusal.
19. Is Mr. Gray a member of the Board? Yes.
20. Are you aware whether he was present when the Board refused to make this transfer? It was refused at his express request.
21. Chairman.] This letter says, "As the shares given for Mrs. Doyle's half, the land now being used by the Oakey Park Company is valueless." What does he mean to convey? I have no idea. My scrip is in a similar form, signed by the same directors, and it is quite good.
22. Is work being carried on vigorously at the mines? We have now bottomed.
23. There is a shaft being sunk? Yes, 303 feet deep. We are now raising coal.
24. Is the mine being developed vigorously? Oh yes; we have spent nearly £2,300.
25. You fully intend to carry out all the provisions of this Bill? Yes.
26. Mr. Walker.] What is the length of the line? From 16 to 20 chains.
27. Chairman.] At the starting of the Company Mr. Gray promised to give a certain portion of its scrip to his daughter, now Mrs. Doyle. Do the Company still refuse to register these shares in Mrs. Doyle's name? No.
28. So that her interests to all intents and purposes are protected and respected the same as when she was Miss Gray? Yes. I may state that a resolution was arrived at by the Board stating that they would transfer the shares to anybody else but Mr. Doyle, at her request.
29. Mr. Walker.] By the articles of association you are empowered to refuse to transfer any shares when you think you have sufficient reason for doing so? Yes. I have no objection to stating the reasons in this case.
30. Although it is provided that any question of loss may be decided by arbitration, the railway will not injure the adjoining estates by shutting them off from the water frontage? No. I have it on the best authority that it will not interfere with mining if they choose to mine beneath the ground, or with the creek which runs down. The reputed owners of the land through which the railway will run, if constructed, are sinking a shaft on the other side of the Great Western Railway, and their manager informed me that it would enhance the value of their land, and not depreciate it.
31. Chairman.] Is there any provision which will enable those persons who are adjacent to the railway to use it upon payment of a certain charge? No. It was provided for in the original Bill.
32. Do you not think that in the interest of adjoining land-owners some provision should be made in the Bill which would enable them, if they wished, to send their coal to market by this railway? We have 1,300 odd acres, and there is nobody at the back of us.
33. I mean those persons that are situated between you and the Government railway? There is only about 20 chains of land from us to the railway.
34. There can be no objection, I suppose, on the part of the Company to insert a clause providing that those persons lying between you and the Government Railway may have the right to use the line on certain conditions? We have no objection.
35. Mr. Walker.] You expect that this line will increase the revenue of the Government railway? Yes.
36. Chairman.] And that it will give employment to a large number of miners, thereby benefitting the district and the country generally? Yes.
37. Mr. Stevenson.] What is the estimated cost of the railway? About £5,000. We could do it ourselves much cheaper, as you are aware, but the Commissioner for Railways will construct the railway at our cost.
38. Chairman.] They construct the line and make a charge on your Company? Yes. If we did it ourselves we could do it just as effectively, and much cheaper.
39. Mr. Stevenson.] Do they call for tenders? I do not think so.
40. Chairman.] There are lines in that district which have been constructed by the Government at the cost of the land owners? I do not know whether the Government constructed the Lithgow Valley Line. I am informed that they are constructing one to the Vale Colliery.
41. Mr. Walker.] The mine will be perfectly valueless if you do not get permission to construct this line? Yes. We have coal ready to be taken away as soon as it is constructed. We have applied to the Commissioner to test it.
42. Chairman.] Have you any other evidence to offer? I was informed that George Pile, John Yelverton Mills, John Bennett, and the Bank of New Zealand, are all interested in the adjoining coal property; but Mr. Pile has asked us to strike his name out of the preamble of the Bill, as he has nothing whatever to do with the land.
43. You believe that the Bank of New Zealand, Mr. Bennett, and Mr. Mills are interested in the adjoining property? Yes. I have been informed by Mr. Pile that he has no interest in the land.
44. Do you pass through any property belonging to Mr. Rutherford? I am not aware of it. This is the first I have heard of it.
45. Have you received any intimation or threat that anyone is opposed to the Bill? No, excepting the letter from Mr. Doyle, which I have read to the Committee; although I have published the necessary advertisements in the local and metropolitan papers as well as the Government Gazette.

TUESDAY, 27 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

MR. STEVENSON, | MR. WALKER.
J. HURLEY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

P. H. Sullivan, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

P. H. Sullivan, Esq., recalled, and further examined:—

46. Chairman.] At the last meeting of the Committee certain objections were raised to the passing of this Bill: are you aware whether those objections have since been removed? There was a letter from Mr. Rutherford, and also one from Mr. Doyle, objecting to the Bill going through. The meeting was adjourned for the purpose of summoning both these gentlemen to attend, and they were summoned, and I also gave them notice. I saw Mr. Rutherford in the street, and he told me that he had made a mistake, that the railway does not go near his land, and that he was misinformed. He said he would not be in attendance any more, as he was not interested in the matter.

P. H. Sullivan, Esq.
27 Mar., 1888.

47. Mr. Stevenson.] Did he authorize you to make this statement? Yes. I wrote him a letter, pointing out that he was under a misapprehension, and he wrote back to say that I was right and he was wrong. The following is his letter.

Dear Sir,

I gathered from Mr. Hurley's remarks when speaking about the Oakey Park Company's Railway Bill that it went through a part of the E.B. Estate, in fact he is reported to have said so. I am told now that it does not come within some chains of it. If that is so I regret the trouble I have caused, but Mr. Hurley is alone in fault.

Bathurst, 24 February, 1888.

P. H. Sullivan, Esq.,
Solicitor.

Yours truly,
J. RUTHERFORD.

48. Chairman.] Do you know whether the objection raised by Mr. Doyle has also been removed? That I could not say. Mr. Doyle attended the last meeting, at which there was no quorum.

49. Do you know the nature of his opposition to the Bill? Yes. He told our manager, Mr. Fryer, and myself, after the last meeting was over, that he would object to the Bill going through; that unless certain shares which now stand in the name of his wife's father, Mr. Gray, were transferred to him, he would object to the Bill going through.

50. Mr. Walker.] Do you know whether he has been summoned to attend the Committee to-day? I do not know.

51. Are you aware whether he was summoned at all? Yes; he was summoned for the last meeting.

52. Are you cognisant of any change in his relationship to the Company since the last meeting, whether he has been met in any way? We have done nothing, except that we have told him what we have always told him, namely, that we were at all times ready and willing to register the transfer of certain shares from Mr. Gray to his wife.

53. Or to any trustee for his wife? Yes. In fact we emphasised the "trustee for his wife," because banks and other institutions will not register shares in the name of married women; but we said that we would not register him.

54. Are you aware whether any trustee has been appointed? No; he has not appointed a trustee; he has never suggested one.

55. Chairman.] I suppose the object is to secure those shares to the wife for her own benefit, without any interference from her husband? Yes; that is so. They were a gift from Mr. Gray to his daughter before she married Doyle, and Mr. Gray does not wish his daughter to transfer the shares to her husband.

56. So far as you are concerned there will be no attempt on the part of the father to interfere with the shares promised to the daughter previous to her marriage? No.

William Gray, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

57. Mr. Sullivan.] You are a large shareholder in the Oakey Park Coal-mining Company? Yes.

58. You know Mr. Doyle? Yes.

59. His wife is your daughter? Yes.

60. Will you kindly explain to the Committee what has been done with reference to those shares? I have signed the shares over to her, but they are not registered.

61. Have you handed her the scrip? Yes.

62. When you bought this land, before forming it into a Company, you made a promise to your daughter? Yes, I made a promise to my daughter to hold this particular number of shares, 3,000, for her use.

63. In accordance with that did you transfer any? I transferred the 3,000 to her.

64. How did you do that? I merely signed them to her—signed a transfer on the back of the scrip.

65. And to whom did you hand them over? They were both there Mr. Doyle and his wife.

66. And you gave them over to her? Yes.

67. You as a director of the Oakey Park Coal-mining Company, speaking for yourself and your co-directors, are prepared to register Mrs. Doyle as a shareholder at any time she may wish? Yes.

68. And you decline to register Mr. Doyle? I decline to register them to him.

69. For private reasons? Yes.

70. Mr. Stevenson.] When you gave these shares to your daughter you handed them over to her absolutely, to be altogether beyond the control of her husband? Yes.

71. Mr. Sullivan.] And you know as a matter of fact that she absolutely transferred them to her husband, and that the Company refused to register them in his name? She would transfer them to him.

72. Mr. Walker.] Had she not done so? Yes; she transferred them, but we would not acknowledge him as a shareholder.

73. Mr. Sullivan.] She had actually parted with them to him? Yes.

74. And in this you believe consists his objection to the Bill? Yes; he told me so. He told me that if I would register the shares as transferred to him, he would have no objection to the Bill. I told him I would not do this, for certain reasons.

W. Gray, Esq.
27 Mar., 1888.

W. Gray, Esq. 75. Mr. Stevenson.] In handing over the shares to your daughter in his presence did you tell him that they were absolutely for your daughter, and that he was in no way to interfere with them. Did you convey that impression, or did you merely hand them over? I handed them over to him, and signed to her and not to him.

27 Mar., 1888.

76. Mr. Sullivan.] You made a declaration of trust that you held these shares for your daughter's benefit? Yes.

77. Mr. Walker.] Was your daughter married at the time you made the shares over to her? Yes.

78. Mr. Sullivan.] And when you made a certain declaration of trust, undertaking to hand them over, she was single? Yes.

79. Mr. Walker.] She was single when you promised these shares to her? Yes.

80. Chairman.] Did any portion of the land belong to Mrs. Doyle previous to her marriage? No; the land all belonged to me.

81. You say that you handed the shares over to your daughter after her marriage? Yes; sometime afterwards.

82. Were they understood as a marriage dowery? I signed them over to her and not to him.

83. Were they a marriage dowry or a gift previous to marriage? They were a gift previous to her marriage.

84. Mr. Walker.] Are you aware whether since the last meeting of this Committee Mr. Doyle has had any communications with any Member of Parliament, asking him to become trustee for his wife? No; I do not know anything about that.

85. Chairman.] Were the shares transferred to your daughter in the name of Mrs. Doyle, or in her maiden name? In the name of Mrs. Doyle.

86. But the promise to hand them over was made previous to her marriage? Yes.

87. And there was no condition in reference to her marriage with Doyle that they should be transferred? They had nothing at all to do with the marriage. I was not asked or spoken to, nor was it said that they were going to get married at the time.

88. Have you any objection to transfer these shares for the benefit of Mrs. Doyle to any trustee who may be appointed? I would not transfer them to Doyle to be a trustee.

89. Have you any objection to your promise being carried out that these shares should be secured to Mrs. Doyle for her benefit individually? No. I would transfer them for her good.

90. For her sole future benefit, and to any trustees approved of, excepting her husband? Yes.

91. Mr. Walker.] At the time you promised these shares was your daughter engaged to Mr. Doyle? Not that I am aware of.

92. Had you known that she was engaged to Mr. Doyle would you at that time have made the stipulation that the shares should not be transferred to him? I should never have agreed to transfer them to him, because I was against the marriage all through.

93. Chairman.] Referring to Mr. Doyle's letter to the Committee, read at a previous meeting, have you any objection to the registration of these shares in Mrs. Doyle's name, provided an acceptable trustee or trustees are appointed? I have no objection to register them to a proper trustee.

94. And will? And will at any time I am called on.

95. Do you know of anything in the construction of this proposed railway from Oakey Park to the Western Line which will interfere with the rights of other people? No; the construction of the line will injure no one. There is a little bit of land we have to get through, and since we took up this mine and started work they have marked out some small allotments right at the bottom of the Zigzag, which can never form a township. The construction of the line will not interfere with the interests of others, except in the case of a small piece of ground, and this is provided for in the Bill.

96. Mr. Sullivan.] You have seen a notice published in the local papers at Lithgow, and in the Sydney papers, of the intention of the Company to apply for this Bill—such notice setting forth that the proposed railway is to go through these people's land? Yes.

97. And you have heard of no objection? No; I have not heard of any objection; I often speak to Mr. Turnbull, and I never hear him offer any objection.

98. Mr. Turnbull is the manager for the owners of this property? Yes.

99. Chairman.] And it is the intention of your Company to prosecute vigorously the development of this mine? Yes.

100. And to work the railway in connection with the pit? Yes.

101. And with the exception of the opposition offered to the Bill by your son-in-law you know of no other objection? No; I know of none; and I do not think my son-in-law is opposed to it now. The last time he spoke to me he said he was not going to do anything in the matter.

OAKEY PARK COAL-MINING COMPANY'S RAILWAY BILL.

SECOND REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, to whom, on the 1st June, 1888, a.m., was referred back, for further consideration and report, the "Oakey Park Coal-mining Company's Railway Bill," and to whom was also referred "the Petition of Brisbane Doyle,"—beg to report to your Honorable House,—

That they, having examined the witness named in the margin* (whose evidence will be found appended hereto), and heard the Petitioner in opposition to the Bill, still consider the Preamble (as now verbally amended) satisfactorily proved.

Your Committee, on reconsidering the Bill, deemed it necessary to make further amendments therein, and now beg to lay before your Honorable House the Bill as further amended by them, with an amended Preamble.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

Oakey Park Coal-Mining Company's
RAILWAY BILL.

THURSDAY, 7 JUNE, 1888.

Present:--

Mr. HURLEY,		Mr. HENSON,
Mr. COLLS,		Mr. LYNE,
Mr. STEVENSON.

J. HURLEY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

P. H. Sullivan, Esq., solicitor, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill; Brisbane Doyle, Esq., appeared in opposition to the Bill.

Brisbane Doyle, Esq., sworn and examined:—

1. Chairman.] This is a Committee that has been referred back from Parliament upon a Bill for the construction of a railway to Oakey Park colliery. A petition has been presented to Parliament asking that the Bill might be referred back in order that you might give certain evidence concerning the interests belonging either to yourself or your wife upon which you desired to be heard. You are the Petitioner referred to in the preamble that has been read? Yes. B. Doyle, Esq.
7 June, 1888.
2. You are aware that this Bill has been introduced and witnesses have been examined before the Committee upon other previous occasions? Yes.
3. You were summoned to attend several Committees, were you not? I was summoned to attend one Committee, at which there was no quorum; I was present.
4. That is the only summons you received? With the exception of the summons I have received to attend this one.
5. Your petition sets forth that if the Bill is passed it will seriously affect your rights and privileges; will you briefly state to the Committee what you intend to convey by "affect your rights"? I am interested in the passing of this Bill, through my wife, who is half owner of the land on which the Company are working. She acquired her interest in the land under a declaration from Mr. Gray.
6. A declaration of trust? Yes.
7. Mr. Gray is her father? Yes. She has done nothing at all to part with her interest. Certain shares in the Company have been given to her; I take it as equivalent to her interest, as some compensation for her interest. The Company has refused to register those shares, and Mrs. Doyle has not been allowed to have any voice or vote in the formation of the Company or in its directorate, and in all probability, unless some kind of satisfactory arrangement is made with Mrs. Doyle, this matter will engage the attention of the Equity Court. Mrs. Doyle begs, through me, that she may be protected by the House and by this Committee. If the permission of the House was given for the construction of this railway it would seriously affect any action that Mrs. Doyle chose to bring. Mrs. Doyle does not wish to interrupt the proceedings of the Company in any way; but will either buy Mr. Judd or Mr. Gray, who are the largest shareholders, out, or will sell to them at a price they will agree to sell at.

- B. Doyle, Esq. 8. What position did your wife stand in in securing her rights to the land? In answer to that question it might be well if I was allowed to recite the whole of the proceedings and transactions that have taken place with respect to this land, from the time it left Macarthur's hands, who received it from the Crown. Macarthur agreed to sell the land to me for a sum of £1,500.
- 7 June, 1888. 9. Mr. Henson.] Was this before you were married? Before I was married. I looked on that as a very valuable agreement; in fact I was offered £2,000 for half the land.
10. Chairman.] Shortly after? Yes; I agreed to sell half the land to Mr. Gray, being unable to complete the purchase myself, and I allowed the deeds to stand in the name of Mr. Gray, provided he made a declaration of trust to the effect that half the land belonged to his daughter, whom I was to marry. According to the evidence that has been given here, one would think that Mr. Gray had given his daughter these shares as a marriage dowry, and that I became acquainted with the fact that she was the owner of these shares, and married her. I think that on the production of the whole of the papers in connection with the matter it will transpire that instead of receiving any benefit from Mr. Gray he has received a direct benefit from me. While these shares that were given to Mrs. Doyle have been in her possession, she has endeavoured to sell them, but the members of the Company have blocked any sale that Mrs. Doyle might have made, but at the same time they make offers to buy her out at a lower rate than she can really sell for.
11. Mr. Colls.] Do I understand you to say that there is a deed in existence from Mr. Gray to you previous to your marriage? There is a declaration of trust, which Mr. Sullivan has. [Declaration read by the Chairman.]
12. Chairman.] I hold in my hand, Mr. Doyle, a declaration of trust, of date the 14th March, 1887, signed by W. Gray, witnessed by Henry Lumsden, J.P., to the effect that Mr. Gray holds himself ten-fortieth shares in certain land, John Judd holds ten-fortieth shares, and Sarah Gray holds ten-fortieth shares. Is the person referred to here as Sarah Gray your wife? Yes.
13. Has she done anything to your knowledge to convey this land back to her father or to any other person? Nothing that I know of.
14. You have stated that certain overtures have been made to your wife to induce her to sell her shares at a price below what she could have parted with them to other persons? Yes.
15. And she refused to part with or sell any portion of them? She refuses to sell unless she can sell at a price she could buy at. She will do either one thing or the other—sell or buy.
16. You were the first applicant for the land? Yes; I had an agreement with Macarthur for the purchase.
17. And owing to embarrassment you were unable to carry out the agreement you had first entered into? Yes.
18. You then consulted with Mr. Gray, and negotiations were entered into and carried out? Yes. I went to Mr. Gray in the first instance, and asked him to lend me £1,500 to buy, and after looking into the matter Mr. Gray thought so favourably of it that he bought one half for £1,500.
19. You stated that they formed themselves into a Company and refused to allow your wife to have any voice in anything in connection with the formation of the Company or the directorate? Just so.
20. Had she at any time, through yourself, any desire to be represented at that Board at any of their meetings? Yes, I went to the first general meeting of the Company.
21. As her representative? As her representative, with a proxy from her, and was ordered out of the room. I refused to go out unless I was put out, and instead of putting me out the meeting adjourned. They would not carry on the business of the Company while I was present.
22. Are you aware that your wife's name stands in the register as representing the interest she is supposed to hold? I believe it does not.
23. Have shares or portions of her interest been sold? No portion of her interest has been sold, but before arranging this sale with Mr. Gray I had sold certain portions of my interest, about seven-fortieths. And apart from the declaration of trust, even if Mrs. Doyle recognized the seven-fortieths I had sold, that would leave her the owner of thirteen-fortieths, the largest shareholder in the mine.
24. Is Mrs. Doyle's position the same in respect to the number of shares she holds as you yourself would have held had you continued in with Gray? Exactly.
25. You say you are prepared to either buy or sell at a price to be agreed upon? Yes.
26. What do you seek to be protected from in desiring to be heard here to-day? Mrs. Doyle's position is simply this: She, under the declaration of trust, is a half owner of the land; she has received no valuable consideration, and is not recognised as a shareholder, and if any benefit was to accrue from the construction of this line as her position is at the present time she would not participate in that benefit.
27. Mr. Stevenson.] You asked your wife to transfer the shares to you? No, as a matter of fact I have not asked her. As a matter of fact Mrs. Doyle was desirous that the shares should be transferred to me in order that I could protect her interest in the Company. It was done at her own request.
28. Mr. Colls.] Were they transferred to you when you made the sale? No, they were not transferred.
29. Had you her permission? I held an agreement with Macarthur, and I sold at different occasions a one-fortieth interest.
30. Mr. Stevenson.] I would like to know did she actually sign a transfer on a piece of paper in your handwriting to you? Yes, the reason that these shares were transferred to me was this: When the general meeting was held Mrs. Doyle received no notice of it. It is necessary, under the articles of association, for a person holding a proxy to be the owner of 100 shares. Mrs. Doyle transferred 100 shares to me. The transfer was left at the registered office, which is necessary to be done under the articles of association, and when I attended that meeting as the holder of 100 shares Mr. Gray told me that I was the real owner of the shares, and that I was afraid to let them stand in my name. On going back home and telling my wife she transferred the whole of them to me.
31. Were they registered? No; they have not been registered.
32. Mr. Sullivan.] Will the Company be benefited, no matter who is the owner, by your preventing us from getting the railway? It will not be beneficial to the Company.
33. Will it be beneficial to the public generally? I do not believe it will be beneficial to the general public.
34. You have told us that some proceedings are to be taken in Equity? Probably.
35. Is not that the proper place to settle a dispute, when it arises, about shares or anything similar, without stopping the Bill from going through the House? I said that the proceedings of this Committee and the the proceedings of this House would place me in a very awkward position. If the House grants permission I do not know what position we will stand in in asking the Supreme Court not to allow the railway to be constructed.

R. Doyle, Esq.
7 June, 1888.

36. Supposing this Bill is passed, will the shareholders, or persons who claim to be shareholders or claim any benefit from the Company, be in a worse position by the Bill going through than if it did not; will they be prevented from going to the Court of Equity? Going to the Court of Equity would cost me a great deal of money, and I am a poor man. By coming here it costs me comparatively nothing.

37. Chairman.] Will Mrs. Doyle's or your interest be jeopardised? I believe it will be very seriously jeopardised.

38. Will you explain that? If this Bill is passed by the House, which I look on as the highest authority in the land, we cannot get the Supreme Court to deal with us.

39. Will the interest of shareholders in the Company be jeopardised in any way by the passage of this Bill? I imagine so.

40. Mr. Stevenson.] Your wife is a registered shareholder? I believe not. She has never received any communication whatever from the Company.

41. Chairman.] To your own knowledge will not this Company be benefited materially by the construction of this railway? The Company will.

42. Would not the public be? I do not know that any great benefit would accrue to the public.

43. Is it not a fact that the construction of that railway would cause many men to be employed in that colliery? It would be the means of taking them out of others.

44. Will it not tend to develop trade, and bring a great many men to work in that property who are not there now? Yes.

45. Would they not be benefited by the construction of that railway? Yes.

46. And are not the shareholders benefited in the construction? But Mrs. Doyle being the owner and not a shareholder would not receive any benefit.

47. Mr. Stevenson.] Are you aware that Mrs. Doyle has received any communication whatever from the Board that they will register her name with anyone as trustee but yourself? No communication of that kind has ever been received by Mrs. Doyle.

48. Chairman.] Suppose Mrs. Doyle's shares are registered in the books of the Company and she is recognised as a shareholder, will you obtain all that you desire? If she is registered as a shareholder, and is allowed to have a voice and vote in the proceedings of the Company, I obtain all I seek.

49. If you have the assurance of the solicitor for the Company that such concession will be granted to her will you remain satisfied? I have already had that assurance. Mrs. Doyle sent up 500 shares last week to be registered in her own name, and those shares were returned, with the request that she should nominate her father as a trustee, not that anyone else would be acceptable.

50. Mr. Sullivan.] Did you not say in King-street after the last meeting you attended here, to Mr. Gray, Mr. Fryer, and myself, that you were perfectly satisfied as long as things remained as they were then, namely, a verbal acceptance to transfer the shares to a trustee for his wife? Yes, I did say that. And furthermore, I may state that I was quite willing to abide by anything that was done, until I saw this report, in which they endeavoured to make out that I was getting these shares as a marriage dowry, or in an irregular way.

51. Mr. Stevenson.] You have no desire to be a member of the Company yourself? As long as these shares are registered to Mrs. Doyle I am contented to withdraw any opposition.

52. Mr. Sullivan.] Will you consent to either her father, who transferred these shares to her, or her brother-in-law, being a trustee for her? Decidedly not.

53. Whom would you name as a trustee? I do not know that the Company would have any right to ask for a trustee. I want it to stand in her own name.

54. Mr. Collis.] Are you aware whether your wife nominated her father as trustee? She did not, and objected to Mr. Judd.

55. Chairman.] Could you not, having your wife's consent to act in that way, nominate some person to act as a trustee? I would be quite willing if I saw some probability of an agreement hereafter.

56. But if these shares stand in the books of the Company in her name will this not be a sufficient protection for her? If they stand in her name, and she is allowed to exercise all the rights and privileges of membership, I am content. I am not altogether opposing the nomination of the trustees, but I think there is a probability of disagreement hereafter, and I had much rather, and so had Mrs. Doyle, that she went out. She would either buy or sell to them.

57. Did you pay any money out of your own pocket for this land in the first place? No, I did not.

58. Is it not a fact that Mr. Gray paid all the demands? He paid £750.

59. After your marriage your father-in-law promised his daughter a certain number of shares in this Company? No.

60. Previous to the marriage? Previous to the marriage he made a declaration of trust that he held half the land for her.

61. He was careful to hand over her interest conditionally? There was no condition whatever that I know of. No condition was contained in the declaration of trust.

62. You have seen Mr. Gray's evidence, have you not? Yes.

63. Reading the fifty-fifth question, "I suppose the object is to secure those shares to the wife for her own benefit without any interference from her husband." Were those shares at the time not promised to your wife for her sole and individual benefit? No, they were not.

64. Were they for your joint benefit? Gray got his interest in the land £500 cheaper than I could have sold it elsewhere. As a matter of fact I was in difficulties at the time. Mrs. Doyle was put forward as the owner of half the land; Miss Gray she was then. I was to transfer to her the agreement with Macarthur.

65. Mr. Sullivan.] Will you swear that Mr. Gray did not know you were going to marry his daughter at the time? I swear that Mr. Gray knew I was going to be married, and he knew my position. In his evidence he says that he was not aware at that time that the marriage was going to take place; but the marriage was celebrated in his house, and I am almost sure that Mr. Gray's signature was attached to the marriage deed.

66. Did you not make the admission to me in Mr. Lee's office in Lithgow that Mr. Gray did not know that you were engaged to his daughter? Mr. Gray did know, and it was generally known.

- R. Doyle, Esq. 67. Do you know that Mr. Gray has sworn, and will come to-day and swear that he did not at the time he bought the land from Macarthur know that you were going to marry his daughter? I do not know what Mr. Gray is prepared to swear.
- 7 June, 1888. 68. Mr. Stevenson.] Did you not state just now, in answer to a question from me, that you would object to a trust on behalf of Mrs. Doyle—that you wanted the trust in her own name? Yes.
69. Chairman.] Will you name a trustee? I will name two trustees, Mr. Melville and Mr. John Turnbull, of Lithgow.
70. Mr. Stevenson.] Can you not name some one else in the place of Mr. Turnbull to act in conjunction with Mr. Melville? Mr. Turnbull's father, the Manager of the A.A. Company at Newcastle.
71. Mr. Colls.] And you think he would act? If he will not we will nominate Mr. Simon, Superintendent of the City Mutual Life Association.
72. Chairman.] It resolves itself into this: That you are quite willing to give up any opposition to the passing of this Bill conditionally upon trustees being appointed to act for your wife? Yes; I might also remind you that this has been gone into before. When I was not here arrangements were made for these shares to be transferred; but on Mrs. Doyle sending the shares they refused to transfer them, with a request that her father should be nominated as a trustee.
73. Are there any other witnesses you would like to have examined, or would you like to say anything in addition to what you have said, as it is our intention to introduce the Bill at once, in order to have it passed for the benefit of this Company? I quite consent to what has been done, and if they had agreed to do that earlier there would not have been any opposition.

Phillip Hurley Sullivan, Esq., sworn and examined:—

- P. H. Sullivan, Esq. 74. Chairman.] Having heard the evidence of Mr. Doyle, can you be answerable that the rights and privileges affecting the shares held by Mrs. Doyle will not be interfered with, or refused to be dealt with, providing they are under the care of trustees? Yes; I may be permitted to add that at several Board meetings it has been decided over and over again that the shares will be registered to Mrs. Doyle on the appointment of a trustee. Her father wished himself or his son-in-law; but if they do not consent to these, we will accept any decent person.
- 7 June, 1888. 75. Will you accept any of the persons whose names have been submitted? I have no objection personally to Mr. Turnbull, senior; and Mr. Gray and Mr. Judd consent to Mr. Turnbull and Mr. Melville. They do not know anything about Mr. Simon. We would accept Mr. Lees if either of the former gentlemen declined to act.
76. At all events, you will be answerable that the rights and privileges of Mrs. Doyle as a shareholder in the Company will not be interfered with if her shares stand in the name of these trustees? Yes; we accept those trustees. There are three of us here, and we constitute a majority.

APPENDIX.

[Handed in by Mr. Sullivan.]

I, WILLIAM GRAY, of Oakey Park, near Lithgow, in the Colony of New South Wales, farmer, do hereby solemnly and sincerely declare as follows: That I am seized of the land contained in Crown grants vol. 359, folio 105, and vol. 362, folio 15, in trust, as follows, namely, as to ten-fortieth shares unto and to the use of John Judd and his heirs, as to another ten-fortieth shares to the use of myself and my heirs, and as to the remaining twenty-fortieths to the use of my daughter, Sarah Gray, her heirs and assigns: And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of an Act made and passed in the ninth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the more effectual abolition of Oaths and Affirmations taken and made in various Departments of the Government of New South Wales, and to substitute Declarations in lieu thereof, and for the suppression of voluntary and extra-judicial Oaths and Affidavits."

Subscribed and declared at Lithgow, this 14th) day of March, 1887, before me,—)

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

OAKEY PARK COAL-MINING COMPANY'S RAILWAY BILL.

(PETITION AGAINST—BRISBANE DOYLE, PENRITH.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 18 April, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The prayer of your Petitioner, Brisbane Doyle, gentleman, of Penrith,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That the passing of the Oakey Park Coal Company's Railway Bill, now being considered by your Honorable House, will seriously affect the rights and privileges of your Petitioner.

I was summoned to give evidence before the Select Committee of your Honorable House, who were then considering the provisions of the said Bill.

There being no quorum present my evidence was not taken, and as I received no notice of the future meeting my evidence has not yet been taken.

Therefore I pray your Honorable House may, in its wisdom, refer the report of the said Committee back to the Members thereof for further consideration and report. And I also pray I may be cited to attend in person or by counsel in order to give evidence, and also to oppose the said Bill. And, as in duty bound, your humble Petitioner will ever pray.

Dated at Penrith, this 17th day of April, 1888.

BRISBANE DOYLE.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

Oakey Park Coal-Mining Company's Railway Bill.

(PETITION FROM SARAH DOYLE, OF PENRITH, IN OPPOSITION TO.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 17 July, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly.

The humble Petition of Sarah Doyle, of Penrith,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

A Bill styled "The Oakey Park Company's Railway Bill" has been introduced into your Honorable House, to enable the Oakey Park Coal-mining Company to construct a line of railway.

By a certain indenture, which has been produced before your Select Committee, it is proven that one-half the lands being used by the said Company, and required by their railway, are my property.

I have not executed any transfer or conveyance of my interest in the lands, nor have I ever done any act to cause me to part with the property.

I have perused the reports of your Select Committee, and though certain reference has been made to my claim, and efforts made by your Select Committee to afford me protection, I still feel that my true position with respect to the land has not yet been fully explained to the honourable members of your Select Committee.

Therefore I pray, in order that I may afford such explanation, that the Report of your Select Committee may again be referred back to the Members thereof for further consideration and report, and that I may be cited to attend in person, or by counsel, and that my counsel may also be permitted before your Select Committee in opposition to the said Bill.

And your humble Petitioner will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

Signed at Penrith this 16th day of July, 1888.

SARAH DOYLE.

Charles Joseph Byrnes, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are Mayor of the Borough of Parramatta? Yes.
2. Mr. Bowden.] You produce a tracing of the plan which is referred to in the first clause of the Bill, showing the amended alignment of Church-street, Macquarie-street, and Harold-street? Yes.
3. You also produce a plan showing in some respects the present alignment? Yes.
4. With regard to the alignment, it will very much widen the street? The alignment of Church-street and Macquarie-street is very similar to the alignment of Church-street and Albert-street. It is a very sharp turn. It is proposed to widen the street. There will be a great advantage in altering the alignment. There is a property in Macquarie-street which has only a frontage to Macquarie-street. It is of very little value at present. But the proposed alteration will give a Church-street frontage to this property, and will give us four or five valuable shops from which we shall derive rent. Independently of contributing to the beauty of the approach, it will give us this money. That is one of the objects in making the alteration.
5. The owner of this property is Mr. C. W. Miles? Yes.
6. He has proposed to give the Council 25 feet of his ground with a view to the alteration being made? He has written to the Council to that effect.
7. He has also undertaken that only such buildings shall be erected as shall be approved of by the Council? He has submitted plans, which have been approved of by the Council.
8. One result will probably be that the Council will derive considerable revenue from this land, which is now waste land? Yes.
9. Chairman.] The Council does not propose to purchase any land? None whatever.
10. A portion of the land which is shown on this plan belongs to the borough? Yes; the alteration will add to the value and beauty of the place.
11. Mr. Bowden.] The piece of land which blocks the frontage was granted for the purpose of a fountain and other municipal purposes? Yes; it is marked on the tracing blue. It is proposed to put the fountain in another position when the alignment is made. I might state that at the last election this alteration was made somewhat a test question. I was a retiring alderman for the ward which had had a great deal to do with the matter. My opponent found himself beaten by three votes to one. Taking that contest as an indication of the public feeling, they are evidently desirous that the alteration shall be made.
12. St. John's Park is on the opposite side of Church-street? Yes.

C. J. Byrnes,
Esq.
21 Mar., 1888.

- C. J. Byrnes, Esq.
21 Mar., 1888.
13. It has lately been enclosed by the Park trustees? Yes.
 14. By an iron palisading, making it a permanent structure? Yes.
 15. It has made a very great improvement to that portion of the town? Yes.
 16. In doing that have they not widened the street—departed from the alignment, as proclaimed, and thrown some of their land into the street? Yes, as far as I am led to believe.
 17. The Bill, besides rectifying the alignment on the eastern side, will rectify the alignment in connection with St. John's Park? Yes.
 18. It will be an advantage to the borough also? Yes.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

THE PARRAMATTA MUNICIPAL QUARRIES BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 21 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

MR. COLLS, | MR. FRANK FARNELL,
MR. TAYLOR.

H. TAYLOR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Bowden appeared as solicitor for the Bill.

Charles James Byrnes, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are Mayor of the Borough of Parramatta? Yes.
2. Mr. Bowden is solicitor for the Bill before the Committee? Yes.
3. Mr. Bowden.] It will be to the advantage of the town of Parramatta to have the power of purchasing land for quarries? Decidedly. We have valuable stone within the borough and closely adjoining it, which we cannot deal with unless we have the power of purchasing the land.
4. At present the Council are working some public quarries in Parramatta north? Some quarries which the Government have allowed us to work.
5. It has saved a very large amount of money to the borough? Yes.
6. These particular quarries are situated within the borough? Yes, on the north side of the town.
7. There are some houses which pretty nearly adjoin the quarries; in fact the houses are being interfered with by the workings? They will be seriously affected if we do not get power to purchase the land.
8. Chairman.] You want power to purchase either this land or other land suitable for quarries? Quite so, provided that it is within a reasonable distance.
9. Mr. Bowden.] Your primary object is to purchase this land so as to continue the present workings without interfering with private interests? It would be very much cheaper for us to do so.
10. What has the borough saved by working these quarries? A considerable amount.
11. Would there be any limit to the distance,—would about 3 miles be sufficient? If we extend the distance beyond 3 miles it would be better for us to make contracts.
12. Three miles would be quite sufficient limit to allow? Yes.
13. Mr. Frank Farnell.] Would you be prepared to accept this amendment: "But not exceeding 3 miles from the boundary of the borough?" I should accept it. I think the profit would cease to exist if we went any further.
14. Mr. Bowden.] The short title contains the figures "1887" because the Bill was prepared last year? Yes.
15. You produce a plan showing the land fronting the eastern side of George-street, in the vicinity of Albert-street? Yes.
16. It would be a public advantage to get the alteration made? Yes.

C. J. Byrnes,
Esq.
21 Mar., 1888.

- C. J. Byrnes, Esq., 17. Chairman.] In the event of the Council not getting the power which you ask for under this Bill would not the whole of your stone-workings have to cease owing to the proximity of the quarries to these houses? Yes, in that particular quarry. It would be a very serious loss to the borough.
- 21 Mar., 1888. 18. Mr. Frank Farnell.] How do you intend to deal with the people who allege that they are prejudiced by these workings? We have been given to understand that they are prepared to sell.
19. You will be quite willing, if you get the power, to purchase these lands? Yes; that is the object of getting the Bill. We prefer to purchase the lands adjoining the quarry.

Edward James Love, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- E. J. Love, Esq., 20. Chairman.] You are overseer of works for the Borough of Parramatta? Yes.
- 21 Mar., 1888. 21. Mr. Bowden.] You are aware that application is being made for power to purchase land for quarries, particularly a portion of land adjoining the quarries which are now being worked by the Council? Yes.
22. Supposing these quarries were stopped, and the Council were obliged to get their stone by tender, what difference do you suppose it would make to them? It would make a difference of from £700 to £1,000 a year to the Council. For the past three years it has run from £700 to £1,000.
23. Is it necessary, having regard to the position of these houses, that the Council should have power to purchase them in order to continue their works? Yes.
24. Chairman.] In the event of their not being able to purchase these houses, the Council should have power to purchase land in other places within a certain distance of the borough in order to open quarries? Within a reasonable distance. There are good quarries available within a distance of 2 miles.
25. Mr. Frank Farnell.] Are you of opinion that these people will be satisfied to sell their land to the Council? I was given to understand so.
26. Chairman.] Have they complained of the danger to their families from the blasting of the rocks? Yes; they say that the shaking of the plaster in their premises is also a source of danger.
27. Mr. Colls.] Are they expensive buildings? They are only cottages, worth from £300 to £400 each.
28. Chairman.] If these persons will not sell their properties, the Council will have to cease quarrying there, and go elsewhere? Yes; we can only go north; south there is no freestone.
29. Mr. Bowden.] With regard to the alteration of the alignment? The purchase of that piece of land is really requisite; it will make a nice entry into the town, and afford a better view of the street. I should certainly recommend the alteration; it will be a kind of lung to the main street of Parramatta.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

PHARMACEUTICAL SOCIETY OF NEW SOUTH WALES INCORPORATION BILL.

THURSDAY, 13 OCTOBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. CARRUTHERS,
MR. DAVIS,

MR. HASSALL,
DR. WILKINSON.

J. H. CARRUTHERS, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Steel, for Mr. Russell Jones, appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

William Townley Pinhey, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] I believe you are here to give evidence in favour of the Bill before the Committee? Yes, I am. I am Secretary of the Pharmaceutical Society and Secretary and Registrar of the Pharmacy Board. The Pharmaceutical Society was established in 1876, and numbers about 300 members—a larger number, over 400 on the books, some being in arrears of subscriptions. All that is sought to do under the Bill is to provide rules and regulations for the better conduct of the society, there being no attempt whatever to control persons outside the society. The Bill relates simply and solely to the members who form themselves into the society. At the present time the society is in an anomalous position, for being legally non-existent it is not in a position to receive gifts, legacies, or to contract in any way. This is felt to be a great hardship, and cripples the usefulness of the society. Every similar society in Europe, in America, and all but the youngest societies in the different colonies—I refer to other colonies as well as the Australasian colonies—are legally incorporated, the Melbourne Society having been incorporated by Act of Parliament as early as 1884. I hand in our last annual report, also the by-laws now in force, such by-laws being practically identical with those regulating the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain. (Handed in.) The society has from its inception, and almost continuously, been carrying on the education of its students at its own cost, and without any extraneous aid of any kind. During the past two years the society has expended about £300 in one way and another in its educational work, and probably not far short of £1,000 since the society came into existence. The society is now in possession of a library containing some 500 volumes of standard scientific works, has a materia medica collection of about 600 specimens, and a laboratory capable of accommodating about twenty students, and fitted with all the requisites for carrying on classes in practical chemistry and pharmacy. The lectures and practical classes have hitherto been held weekly, but it is hoped that in the near future they may be held oftener, and with the beginning of the next term the laboratory will be open two or three days a week, and oftener if necessary. The society's lecturer is Mr. Edwin Quayle, F.C.S., and during the present year Mr. Lispner, F.C.S., has been acting as assistant lecturer, by reason of Mr. Quayle acting as locum tenens for Professor Liversidge, at the University. Before young men are admitted as apprentices of the society they are required to pass a preliminary examination in Latin, English, and arithmetic, and before being admitted to membership are required to pass a major examination, held in conjunction with the Board of Pharmacy, in chemistry, pharmacy, materia medica, and prescriptions. The examination is written, oral, and practical in each subject, and candidates must obtain not less than 50 per cent. of marks

- in each part of the examination. The Board of Examiners, consisting of Messrs. Bozon, Mayne, and Melhuish, are appointed jointly by the Board of Pharmacy and the Council of the Pharmaceutical Society. I produce synopses of the preliminary and major examinations, such synopses having been approved by the Board of Pharmacy; I also produce copies of last examination papers. [Produced.] It is intended shortly to apply to the Government for the usual £1 for £1 subsidy, to enable the society to extend its work of usefulness, a former application having met with considerable sympathy from the Minister of Public Instruction. It is proposed by the Bill to provide a fund for the relief of distressed members and associates of the society, and for the support of their widows and orphans.
2. In the last Parliament an application was made to pass this Bill;—was there any opposition to it then? No.
3. Have you given full notice of your intention to apply for the Bill? Yes, through Mr. Russell Jones.
4. Have you had any intimation, by notice or otherwise, of any opposition? No, I have not heard of any.
5. Would it be possible for you to attain the objects of incorporation by registering under the Friendly Societies' Act? Certainly not.
6. Why? I do not know of any precedent. I am open to correction—where a scientific body holding the same views as we do—an educational body in its strictest term, which we claim to be, and are—being registered under that Act. We have never dreamt of such a thing. It would not be in keeping with the objects of the society.
7. Mr. Hassall.] Is this Bill different from the last Bill? It is the Bill as it was amended by the Select Committee in the previous Parliament.

Henry William Sadler, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- H. W. Sadler, Esq.
13 Oct., 1887.
8. Chairman.] I believe that you are President of the Pharmaceutical Society? Yes.
9. You are one of the applicants to have this Bill passed? I do not think that my name appears as one of the applicants. I was not on the council of the society at the time the Bill was brought forward.
10. Are the objects of this Bill fully set forth in the preamble? I think so.
11. I suppose you have no other object than to merely regulate the internal working of the society, so far as the Bill is concerned? No.
12. Do you propose to interfere with other persons carrying on any trade by its operation? I do not see in what way we can by the Act of Incorporation.
13. You find it necessary to have a Bill of this description in order to work your society in a proper manner? We do. As we were an educational body we thought it advisable to have an Act of Incorporation to ensure the proper working of the society.
14. You propose to give certain privileges to the members, that is, after examination? Yes.
15. Do you place any undue restrictions on entry to the society which would prevent the general public from reaping the benefits of membership? No; there is nothing to prevent anyone who follows out the section in the Pharmacy Act relating to the sale of poisonous drugs from going up for examination before the Pharmacy Board and obtaining their certificate.
16. The Pharmacy Board you refer to is the Government Board? It is the Board of Pharmacy appointed by the Government under the Pharmacy Act.
17. You do not seek to have any power such as that Board has? No.
18. I suppose in point of fact that the chief object of the society is to impart technical education to the members, and give diplomas showing the degree of efficiency that they have obtained in their studies? Yes.
19. You wish to be incorporated in order to have a legal existence, a legal power to hold land, and a legal membership? Yes. As we are constituted now we have no power to hold land or other property.
20. Has any notice been given to you of any opposition from any section of the trade or the profession? No, I have not heard of any.
21. Mr. Davis.] You do not seek to exercise any power over persons outside your society? No.

Edwin Quaille, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- E. Quaille, Esq.
13 Oct., 1887.
22. Chairman.] What position do you occupy in regard to the Pharmaceutical Society? I am lecturer in pharmacy, materia medica, and chemistry.
23. You give a course of lectures to the students? Yes, a periodical course.
24. On what matters? Practical pharmacy and the principles of pharmacy, elementary physics and philosophy, elementary chemistry, organic and inorganic, a short course on botany and materia medica, then a practical course on pharmacy, a preliminary course on chemical testing to ascertain the purity or impurity of drugs, and subjects of a like character.
25. Is there any other society in the colony where students desiring to get training on these subjects can do so? Not that I am aware of.
26. Do you believe that the legal establishment of such a Board as this will elevate the trade or profession? Undoubtedly.
27. And do you believe so far as you can judge that it is a thing which is necessary in order that the society may carry on its operations with the greatest amount of benefit to itself and to the public? Absolutely.
28. Dr. Wilkinson.] Does not the Technical College undertake some course in practical pharmacy? I believe they do, but I cannot give you any decided information upon the point, because I do not really know what they do, except by common report.
29. But is it not a fact that the Technical College aims at giving such instruction in pharmacy as will enable a man to be a chemist? I believe so.
30. Is your course in practical pharmacy a complete course? Yes, and it is not only the practice of pharmacy but also the principles involved.
31. You know something about the ordinary examinations required in London to enable a man to be a chemist? Yes.

32. Is the course you undertake really of the same standard? Precisely the same as far as our limited means will admit. We are in a state of infancy. We are working on the same lines as they do in London.

33. How long is your course in practical pharmacy? At the present time it would take at least two years, but then we hope to have lectures at more frequent intervals. At the present time they are only holding one a-week, but we hope in the early future to hold them much more frequently, and then of course a man may be able to go through his course possibly in a year.

34. You mean that he would be able to take such a course in a year that he would be practically qualified to pass examination as a pharmacist? Yes, it being understood in any case that he must have been three years duly indentured to a qualified chemist and druggist.

35. Chairman.] You do not propose to restrict persons from the practice of pharmacy unless they have a diploma from you? Oh dear no. We are only endeavouring to restrict entries to the society, and nothing more. We do not propose to interfere with the outside public who do not choose to get a certificate or diploma from us. They are not debarred in any way by this Bill from practising pharmacy. It simply regulates the conduct of our society.

36. Mr. Hassall.] The Bill deals entirely with the present members, and those who may be members in the future? Yes, we claim the right to examine intending members.

E. Quaile
Esq.
13 Oct., 1887.

Caleb Soul, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

37. Chairman.] I believe you are a chemist and druggist carrying on business in Sydney? Yes, as much as any one. C. Soul, Esq.

38. You are aware that this Committee has been appointed by the Legislative Assembly to inquire into and report upon a Bill to enable certain gentlemen to incorporate a Company, known as the Pharmaceutical Society of New South Wales? Yes. 13 Oct., 1887.

39. Have you read the Bill? Yes.

40. Do you wish to give evidence in favour of it or otherwise? No, against it.

41. What are your grounds for objection? It is an exclusive society.

42. In what way? In its dealings, in every possible form. They want to shut out every individual connected with the trade who does not pass what they call their examination.

43. Do you mean to say that they wish to shut out persons who are not registered by them from practising the trade? Oh, yes.

44. Can you point out any clause of the Bill which bears that interpretation or construction? I think that the preamble does so to a certain extent.

45. The preamble is not operative, it has to be proved? It states certain facts which already exist? Oh.

46. Can you point out anything in the Bill to show that it will bear the construction which you have put upon it? Not being a legal man I am not prepared to do that exactly, but I have heard it generally reported that if this Bill pass, in my opinion the society ought to be brought under the Friendly Societies Act—they intend to bring in a Bill which will exclude any one except those who have passed their examination from selling either epsom salts or carbonate of soda. This intention on their part is stated in their official organ, the Chemist and Druggist.

47. Is it their official organ? They distribute it.

48. You have read a statement that this society intends to introduce a Bill later on to give them greater powers and privileges, but there is nothing in the Bill before the Committee which gives them powers or privileges to which you object? Nothing in particular.

49. Your only objection is that if they get this Bill they will come and ask in a future Parliament to have their powers extended so as to create a monopoly? Decidedly. I look upon this Bill as a stepping-stone to another, because at the conference in Melbourne both Mr. Bozon and Mr. Main are reported to have stated that when they got their amending Bill, no druggist, no one out of their society in any way, not even a storekeeper in the country, should be able to sell even epsom salts or carbonate of soda. They say that no drugs, either for internal or external use—I can show you the report—shall be sold except by persons licensed by them.

50. Mr. Davis.] You are speaking of a Bill in the near future? Yes. We were in business before the passing of the Pharmacy Act.

51. Chairman.] Who are the we? My son and I—Washington H. Soul and Caleb Soul—were in business in Pitt-street prior to the passing of that Act. We have applied, as you will see by the Gazette, to the Pharmacy Board, which is composed of a great many gentlemen connected with the Pharmaceutical Society, for leave to sell poisonous drugs under the Pharmacy Act, on the ground that we were in business prior to its enactment, and that, therefore, we were entitled to the enjoyment of its privileges, and they refused our application. The Act says that no person shall be licensed to sell poisons unless under certain restrictions or on production of certain certificate save and except those who have been carrying on business prior to 1876.

52. The Board held that you did not come under that Act? No, they did not hold anything. They will not give any reason.

53. Mr. Davis.] Some members of the Board, being members of the Pharmaceutical Society, are personally interested in rejecting your application? Yes.

54. Chairman.] Do you state that these men, because they are connected with the Pharmaceutical Society exclude you from selling poisons? I believe so.

55. Have you any reason for that belief? No; they simply refused to grant my application. I received a letter from the Secretary, asking for a statutory declaration. We sent it, and since then we have been simply told "no."

56. Mr. Davis.] Are you aware that a similar society has been started in Victoria? Yes.

57. You say that you and your son, that is the firm of "Washington H. Soul & Son," applied to the Pharmacy Board to be allowed to sell drugs, and you have been refused such permission? Yes.

58. You have reason to believe that there are some gentlemen on that Board who are interested in the society? That is my opinion.

- C. Soul, Esq. 59. And you think that if the society is incorporated, other people as well as you will suffer more? I have no doubt about it.
- 13 Oct., 1887. 60. Can you give us a precedent where persons in a similar position to yourself and son have applied for such a license and been refused, or can you give us an instance where a person being in a similar position to yourself has applied for one and obtained it? No.
61. Dr. Wilkinson.] When did you apply to the Pharmacy Board for a license to sell poisons? I think it was in February of this year.
62. In whose name, Soul and Son? In my son's name and my own.
63. Are you both in Sydney? Yes.
64. You personally have been carrying on business as a druggist since when? August, 1872.
65. Mr. Davis.] The Pharmacy Act came into force in 1876? Yes.
66. Dr. Wilkinson.] By the right of practising before 1876 you consider that you are entitled to a license? We were not dispensing everything, but occasionally we dispensed.
67. What do you mean? We were not regular dispensers. We were druggists and druggists' sundries men.
68. Mr. Davis.] Can you not compel the Pharmacy Board to give you a license? It would be too expensive. It is hardly worth while to take that step. We let the public know of the way these gentlemen treat us, and I think that we get the business in another way. The public are very generous. When they see that anyone is not playing a course quite straight they exercise some discretion.
69. Dr. Wilkinson.] You set up as a druggist and chemist in 1872? Yes.
70. Before that where did you get your training? In London, from 1845 to 1862. When I left London I was in the wholesale drug trade. I was never in the retail drug trade.
71. In what position? As a manufacturer.
72. You had never been with a dispensing chemist as an assistant? Never.
73. You are therefore not really trained in such a way as to qualify you to dispense medicines? I do not admit that. I say I have not had the ordinary dispensing training.
74. Therefore if the Pharmacy Board is really a Board which has to give out licenses to men who are qualified, you can scarcely consider that you ought to receive a license from it? I think that we ought, because there are members of the society who were never chemists. Collins, the homeopathic chemist and druggist in George-street, was steward previous to 1872, or about that time, on one of the vessels, and frequently when I used to travel up the north he used to put the ordinary can in my berth. He knew nothing more about dispensing than my foot.
75. Before 1872 you say that you were a wholesale chemist in the wholesale drug trade in England? Yes.
76. You did not apply for any certificate? No, it was not necessary.
77. Do you think that if you had applied they would have admitted you? I had no thought about it. I do not think there was a society in England at that time. It is subsequent to 1845 that the English society has been started.
78. I am speaking about 1872? I was chief book-keeper in a house in 1840, and manufacturer in 1845.
79. Do you think that the position of book-keeper in a druggist's shop would be a very fitting training for a dispenser? Very likely not without further knowledge. My knowledge was not attained in that way.
80. Dr. Wilkinson.] Since you have been in Sydney you have been in the habit of systematically dispensing medicines? I think that for the last three years we have regularly dispensed. We do not do it ourselves. I could not do our business if I tried.
81. Have you ever been what you would call a dispensing chemist, working yourself? No, not in the ordinary acceptance of the term.
82. I suppose that you applied to the Pharmacy Board for a license in your own name? Yes.
83. Surely if you have not had the requisite training in a druggist's shop you really have no right to expect that the Board would license you to sell poisons? I think I know as much of the business as most of them.

Pharmacy Board of New South Wales—Synopsis of Examination of the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, under 40 Vic. No. 9.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Materia Medica , Prescriptions	T. B. Melhuish, M.P.S.
Practical Dispensing, Pharmacy	B. F. Bozon, M.P.S.
Botany, Chemistry	James Mayne, F.R.M.S., M.P.S.

THIS examination shall include Prescriptions, Practical Dispensing, Materia Medica, Botany, Pharmacy, and Chemistry.

The candidate must give to the Registrar notice of his intention to present himself for examination, and pay the fee of three guineas ten days prior to the day of examination.

Candidates for this examination must have passed the preliminary examination. (Examiner, B. F. Bozon, M.P.S.)

In case of rejection a rejected candidate may present himself for re-examination after a period of three months.

Each candidate must make a statutory declaration that for at least three years he has been registered and employed as an apprentice to a qualified chemist, keeping open shop for the compounding and dispensing of physicians' prescriptions.

The candidates will be examined in the following subjects:—

PRESCRIPTIONS.

The candidate is required to read, without abbreviation, autograph prescriptions, translate them into English, and render a literal as well as an appropriate translation of the directions for use. To detect errors, discover unusual doses, and have a general knowledge of Posology; also, to render in good Latin ordinary prescriptions written in English.

PRACTICAL DISPENSING.

To weigh, measure, and compound medicines; write the directions in concise language, in a neat and distinct hand; to finish and properly direct each package. (In awarding marks in this subject the time taken by the candidate in doing the work is taken into account.)

PHARMACY.

To recognise the preparations of the Pharmacopœia which are not of a definite chemical nature, and have well-marked physical characters—such as extracts, tinctures, powders, &c.; to give the proportions of the active ingredients, and possess a practical knowledge of the processes, and the principles of the processes by which they are made, and of the best excipients and methods of manipulation for forming emulsions, pills, &c.

MATERIA MEDICA.

To recognise specimens of roots, barks, leaves, fruits, resins, gums, animal substances, &c., used in medicine; give the botanical and zoological names of plants, &c., yielding them, and the natural families to which they belong; name the countries and sources from which they are obtained, the official preparation into which they enter, and judge the quality and freedom from adulteration or otherwise of the specimens. It will also comprise a practical knowledge of the methods of estimating the value of important drugs, of obtaining their active proximate constituents in a separate state, of identifying them and ascertaining their purity or impurity by tests.

BOTANY.

This comprises an intimate acquaintance with the parts of the flower, fruit, and seed; the functions and mode of arrangement of the different organs of plants; a knowledge of the general principles of classification, and of the Linnæan and De Candolle's systems. The candidate must be able to distinguish practically between each of the following natural orders: Ranunculaceæ, Papaveraceæ, Cruciferæ, Malvaceæ, Leguminosæ, Rosaceæ, Cucurbitaceæ, Umbelliferæ, Compositæ, Gentianaceæ, Convolvulaceæ, Solanaceæ, Atropaceæ, Labiatae, Scrophulariaceæ, Polygonaceæ, Euphorbiaceæ, Orchidaceæ, Iridaceæ, Liliaceæ, Melanthaceæ, Graminaceæ; and refer to their respective orders such specimens as may be shown to him.

CHEMISTRY.

This comprehends an intimate knowledge of the laws of chemical philosophy; a practical knowledge of the nature and properties of the elements and their compounds, both organic and inorganic, especially those used in medicine or the Arts. The different combinations and decompositions must be explained by equations. Also, the qualitative analysis of the more important chemicals—e.g., Nitrates, Chlorides, Carbonates, Sulphates, Phosphates, Oxalates, Tartrates, &c., and the detection of impurities in them; and the volumetric estimation of the strength of all pharmacopœia preparations in which standard solutions are ordered to be used. An elementary knowledge of the properties of light, heat, electricity, and magnetism is also required.

TEXT BOOKS.

The following are the Text Books prescribed by the Board:—

- “The British Pharmacopœia.”
- Pereira's “Materia Medica,” edited by Professors Bentley and Redwood.
- Bentley's “Manual of Botany.”
- Squire's “Companion to British Pharmacopœia.”
- Attfield's “Chemistry—General, Medical, and Pharmaceutical.”
- Fowne's “Medical of Chemistry.”
- Proctor's “Pharmacy.”

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

REDHEAD COAL-MINE RAILWAY ACT AMENDING BILL.

TUESDAY, 14 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. DAY, | MR. BARBOUR,
MR. EWING.

GEORGE DAY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Joseph Palmer Abbott, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] Are you connected with the Redhead Coal-mine Company? I am solicitor for the J. P. Abbott, Esq.
2. Do you know where this Company intend to commence their works? Yes.
3. In what part of the country is it? In the county of Northumberland, the parish of Kahibah, near Newcastle, 14 Feb., 1888.
4. Are you aware that the Company obtained a Bill authorizing them to construct a railway to the Redhead coal-mine? Yes; on the 14th April, 1883, that Bill was passed.
5. Does that Bill give power to construct a railway any time within five years of the passing of the Act to their coal-mine for the purpose of carrying coal? Yes.
6. Do the Company find now that under the original Bill they are not able to construct that line within the time stipulated in the original Act? Yes; it would be impossible for them to construct it.
7. And they are applying to Parliament for another Bill to extend the time in order to enable them to carry out what was proposed in the original Act? Yes.
8. Can you give the Committee any information with regard to the cause that has prevented them from carrying out the railway within five years under the principal Act? Yes; this Company had six grants issued to them by the Crown in the year 1883.
9. Were they grants of mineral lands? They were grants of mineral conditionally-purchased lands, and the balances had been paid up, and the grants were issued, but the Company were delayed in getting their title to some of the land because of the population reserve adjoining Newcastle extending into the land. Until the Act of 1884 was passed there was no way of making the grants valid except by Act of Parliament. After they got their grants issued, and all the titles, as they thought, complete, a number of people went and selected several portions which had been granted to the Company. They went and made purchases on them at the end of 1884. The land was conditionally purchased by those people on the ground that the conditional purchases previously made, and under which the grants by the Crown had been issued to the Company, were invalid. Legal proceedings were then taken by those people who selected these lands, and writs of scire facias were issued out of the Supreme Court, calling upon the Redhead Coal-mine Company to show cause why those grants should not be set aside. There being a provision in the Crown Lands Act of 1884 by which the Crown grants are deemed to be records of the Supreme Court, and the Court then having control over its own records could issue these writs to set these records aside. Under that power the writs of scire facias were issued against the Company on the 19th May, 1886.

J. P. Abbott, 1886. The cases were not argued before the Full Court until August, 1886, and the Full Court then set aside the Crown grants, holding that the foundation on which they were issued was defective, inasmuch as the applicants for the land as mineral conditional purchasers, and as conditional purchasers, had not strictly complied with the law.

Esq.
14 Feb., 1888.

10. Their title, then, was set aside by the Supreme Court on certain points of law? Yes.
11. What were those points of law? One I know was that several conditional purchases had been made by some persons on the same day.
12. Can you state all the grounds? The reasons for setting aside the grants will appear in the writs of scire facias, a copy of which I will hand in. I now hand in one of the writs (Appendix A). There were several similar writs relating to the other portions of land, but the same grounds are stated in every one of them. I will also put in the Crown grant (Appendix B). There were five other writs issued against five other grants, and they were all issued on the same points as set out in that writ of scire facias which I have handed in. Only one case was argued before the Full Court, and the decision of the Court in that case governed all the rest. The Court then made a rule absolute in every case. After that a Bill was introduced into the Legislative Assembly by the Government to validate the grants. The present Chief Justice was counsel for the Redhead Coal-mine Company at the time. The Bill was passed by both Houses, Parliament being of opinion that the Company had been very unfairly dealt with. By that measure the grants were validated.
13. Did that Bill become law? Yes.
14. At what time? It was during the time of the Jennings Government. It would be about the latter part of the year 1886.
15. Then this Company had no opportunity of carrying out the intention of the original Act to make the railway within five years? No; they had not a certain title until the Act which I have just mentioned was passed, in 1886. After that Act was passed, it was not until the beginning of 1887 that the legal proceedings were finally settled, and the matter dropped. It must have cost the Company £2,000 to contest the matter, and they had spent an enormous sum in developing the mine.
16. The Company never found themselves really clear to carry out the intentions of the original Act until 1887? No. I should have said that the Redhead Coal-mine Company were not the original conditional purchasers of the land; they took the transfer of it. They bought out the original holders, and apparently everything was in order when the transfers were taken by the Company.

William Alston Hutchinson, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

W. A.
Hutchinson,
Esq.
14 Feb., 1888.

17. Chairman.] You are chairman of the directors of the Redhead Coal-mine Company? Yes.
18. Were you chairman of the Company when the Act authorizing them to construct a railway was obtained in 1883? Yes, I was chairman at that time, and I have held the same position until now.
19. After you got that Bill passed through Parliament, did the Company make any exertions to construct the railway to their works? Yes; up to that time the pit was put down, the machinery was on the ground, and we had expended about £25,000 on the property, and were prepared to make a railway and bring the coal to market.
20. Did anything intervene to prevent you from carrying out that work? Yes; caveats were lodged in the Supreme Court against the transfer of the property, and of course we could go to no further expense until we had tested those caveats, and an action was brought to make the parties withdraw them, or to test them, and we were unsuccessful in the Supreme Court.
21. Mr. Barbour.] Was there a Bill introduced into Parliament to legalize your Crown grants? Yes.
22. Chairman.] About what time was that? That would be about eighteen months ago.
23. Towards the end of 1886? Yes.
24. And that Bill was passed? Yes.
25. Up to that time your Company had no opportunity to carry out this railway, to construct which they had got authority in 1883? We suspended our operations when our title to the property was questioned.
26. When you had the power to construct the railway, had you sufficient power to do so? No; the title was not complete until about four months ago. We had to pass them through the Lands Titles Office, and to get new certificates issued before we were on safe ground.
27. Then in reality the Company were not in a position to make the railway, on account of the litigation which took place, until about four months ago? They were not in a position to do it until that time.
28. And it was utterly impossible for them to make the railway within the time specified? Yes.
29. Therefore the Company applied to Parliament for an extension of the time granted under the Act? Yes.
30. They do not ask Parliament in this extension Bill to alter the original Bill in any way, do they? No.
31. Mr. Barbour.] Are the Company in a position now to go on with the railway? Yes; proceedings will be taken as soon as the Bill is passed—in fact we are waiting now. A portion of the line will be commenced very shortly in conjunction with another Company.
32. And the railway will be proceeded with with all reasonable dispatch? Yes.
33. Mr. Ewing.] And the Company lost four months in consequence of their title being questioned? It took four months from the lodging of the caveats until we got our titles.
34. And you have been put to an enormous expense in consequence of the proceedings that were taken? We spent £25,000 on the property five years ago, and the interest on that money for four years has been a dead loss to the Company. The expenses of litigation amounted to between £2,000 and £3,000, including the cost of the transfer of the property.

VICTORIA by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen Defender of the Faith
&c. &c.

To the Sheriff of the Colony of New South Wales or his lawful Deputy.

Greeting :

WHEREAS we lately with the advice of our Executive Council of our said Colony by our deed of grant under our Seal of the said Colony bearing date at Sydney the twenty-fourth day January in the forty-fourth year of our reign and recorded and enrolled in the Register Book volume 528 folio 122 in the office of our Registrar-General for the said Colony at Sydney in the said Colony the seventh day of April one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one Reciting that whereas the Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) had in conformity with the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one conditionally selected for the purpose of mining other than gold-mining the lands thereafter described and had duly performed and fulfilled all and every the conditions upon the performance and fulfilment of which they were entitled to become the purchasers of the fee simple of the said lands and to have a grant thereof made to them without reservation of minerals other than gold upon paying for the said lands at and after the rate of two pounds per acre and did thereby in consideration of the premises in our said deed of grant mentioned and of the sum of one thousand two hundred and seventy-eight pounds sterling money well and truly paid into the Colonial Treasury of our said Colony before these presents issued grant unto the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) their successors and assigns subject to the several and respective reservations thereafter mentioned All that piece or parcel of land in our said Colony containing by admeasurement six hundred and thirty-nine acres be the same more or less situated in the county of Northumberland and parish of Kahibah comprising portions one hundred and forty-three and one hundred and forty-four and thereafter more fully described as by our said deed of grant recorded and enrolled as aforesaid amongst other things more fully appears.

And whereas we are given to understand that the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) was a corporation and not a person within the meaning of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one at or before the time when the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) purported to conditionally select for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining in conformity with the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one the lands in our said deed of grant mentioned and described and by reason thereof could not and did not in conformity with the provisions of the said Act conditionally select the said lands for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining.

And further that the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) on the eighteenth day of November one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five did in contravention of the said Act and its Amending Act of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five on one and the same day apply to conditionally purchase for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining the lands in the said deed of grant mentioned and described and also to conditionally purchase certain other separate and distinct selections for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining of other Crown Lands all of the said lands being then and before that time open and available under the said Acts for selection for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining and by reason thereof could not and did not in conformity with the provisions of the said Acts conditionally select for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining the lands in our said deed mentioned and described.

And further that the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) on the day and year last mentioned in contravention of the provisions of the said Crown Lands Alienation Act of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and of its Amending Act of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five at one and the same time applied to conditionally purchase for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining the lands in our said deed of grant mentioned and described being of the area of six hundred and thirty-nine acres and also to conditionally purchase certain other separate and distinct selections for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining of a further area of land amounting to three thousand four hundred and eighty-one acres of Crown Lands making a total area of four thousand one hundred and twenty acres being an area greatly in excess of the area allowed by the said Act to be applied for as aforesaid or to be taken up by way of conditional purchase by any one person at any one time the whole of the said lands being at and before that time open and available under the said Acts for selection for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining and the said Company was in contravention of the said Acts declared the conditional purchaser of the lands as aforesaid and the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) by reason thereof could not and did not in conformity with the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and its Amending Act of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five conditionally select for the purposes of mining other than gold-mining the lands in our said deed of grant mentioned and described.

By means of which said several premises the said deed of grant so as aforesaid granted to the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) their successors and assigns is or ought to be void and of no force or effect in law And we being willing that what is just should be done in the premises command you that by your lawful officers of our said Colony you give notice to the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) that they be before us in our Supreme Court of the said Colony at King-street Sydney on the twenty-seventh day of May instant to show if they have or know of anything to say for themselves why the said deed so granted to them as aforesaid and all duplicates of the same registered under the provisions of the Real Property Act of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two and its amending Acts and the enrolment of the same as hereinbefore mentioned and all entries and memorials in the Register Book of the said Registrar-General relating to such land for the reasons aforesaid ought not to be cancelled vacated and disallowed and why the said Registrar-General should not be directed by the order of our Supreme Court to cancel vacate and disallow our said deed of grant and all duplicates thereof as aforesaid and the enrolment of the same as aforesaid and all entries or memorials in the Register Book of the said Registrar-General relating to such land and why this deed of grant and all duplicates thereof as aforesaid should not be restored into the office of the said Registrar-General there to be cancelled vacated and disallowed as aforesaid And further to do and receive those things which our said Supreme Court shall consider just in this behalf and have there the names of those by whom you shall so give them notice of this writ.

Witness the Honorable Sir James Martin Knight Chief Justice of our said Court at Sydney the nineteenth day of May in the forty-ninth year of our reign and in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

GRANT OF LAND CONDITIONALLY SELECTED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MINING OTHER THAN GOLD-MINING.

Country Lot.

Victoria, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, and so forth :—

To all to whom these presents shall come, greeting :—

WHEREAS, in conformity with the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the lands hereinafter described have been conditionally selected for the purpose of mining other than gold-mining by the Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) of Redhead; and whereas the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited) have duly performed and fulfilled all and every the conditions upon the performance and fulfilment of which they are entitled to become the purchasers of the fee simple of the said lands, and to have a grant thereof made to them, without reservation of minerals other than gold, upon paying for the said land at and after the rate of £2 per acre: Now know ye that, for and in consideration of the premises, and of the sum of one thousand two hundred and seventy-eight pounds sterling money, well and truly paid into the Colonial Treasury of our said Colony, before these presents are issued, we, with the advice of our Executive Council of New South Wales, have granted, and for us, our heirs and successors, do hereby grant, unto the said Redhead Coal-mining Company (Limited), their successors and assigns, subject to the several and respective reservations hereinafter mentioned, all that piece or parcel of land in our said Colony, containing, by admeasurement, six hundred and thirty-nine acres, be the same more or less, situated in the county of Northumberland, and parish of Kahibah, portions one hundred and forty-three and one hundred and forty-four: Commencing on the margin of Lake Macquarie, at the western end of the southern boundary of portion sixty-eight, of forty acres; and bounded thence on the north by that boundary bearing east fifteen chains eighty-four links; on the west by part of the eastern boundary of that portion bearing north twenty-seven chains forty-five links; again on the north by the southern boundary of portion one hundred and thirty-seven, of forty acres, bearing east twenty-nine chains ninety links; again on the west by the eastern boundary of that portion and part of the eastern boundary of portion one hundred and thirty-eight, of forty acres in all, bearing north fifteen chains thirty-four links, thence by a line crossing a road one chain wide, bearing east one chain, and thence by that road bearing north ninety-five links; again on the north by the southern boundary of two acres two roods appropriated for a Church of England burial-ground, and the southern boundary of one acre two roods appropriated for a Roman Catholic burial-ground, in all bearing east eight chains; again on the west by the eastern boundary of the latter appropriation, a line crossing a road one chain wide, and the eastern boundary of two acres two roods appropriated for a general cemetery, in all bearing north ten chains thirty-eight links; on the south by the northern boundary of the last-mentioned appropriation and the northern boundary of two roods ten perches appropriated for a Presbyterian burial-ground, in all bearing west eight chains to the eastern side of the first-mentioned road, one chain wide; again on the west and on the south-west by that road bearing north three chains fifty-four links, and thence north fifty-six degrees forty minutes, west five chains sixty-six links; again on the north by part of the southern boundary of portion sixty-six, of forty acres, bearing east seven chains three links; again on the west by the eastern boundaries of that portion and portion sixty-seven, of forty acres, in all bearing north forty chains sixty-seven links, thence by a line dividing it from the latter portion bearing west two chains seventeen links, and thence by part of the eastern boundary of portion sixty, of one hundred acres, bearing north three chains twenty-nine links; MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

SAINT SAVIOUR'S GLEBE LAND LEASING BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 22 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. COLLS, | MR. DAY,
MR. HAYES.

T. COLLS, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. A. G. Ralston, Barrister-at-Law, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.
Captain Rossi appeared to oppose the Bill.

Augustine Matthew Betts, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Mr. Ralston.] You are one of the trustees of St. Saviour's glebe, I believe? Yes.
2. The glebe is the land described in the first part of the preamble of the Act? Yes, it is.
3. Who are the other trustees? The others are Francis Robert Lewis Rossi, the Honorable James Chisholm, and Andrew Faithful Gibson.
4. I think portions of the glebe have been resumed by the Commissioner for Railways? They have
5. And the proceeds are in the hands of the trustees? Yes.
6. And the trustees are anxious to lease other portions of the glebe;—are they not? Yes--they have let some portions, and are anxious to let other portions.
7. You have made an agreement with the present incumbent, the Venerable Archdeacon Puddicombe? Yes, I produce a copy of the agreement.
8. Was that agreement signed by Archdeacon Puddicombe, Captain Rossi, and the other trustees you have mentioned? Yes, it was. I should also say that it was signed by Mr. Mackellar, who has ceased to be a trustee.
9. In that agreement you have received the consent of the incumbent to lease the land? Yes.
10. And in consideration of that you agree to obtain the passing of a Bill to allow him £300 a year? We agreed to apply for such a Bill, and to endeavour to obtain it.
11. Then, under this agreement, you agree to pay the incumbent £150 a year out of the moneys received by you as provided by the 21st section of the Church Act—then you promise to give him a further £150 if you can obtain the passing of the Bill? Yes, that is so.
12. It is in consequence of this agreement that this Bill is now before the House? Yes, it is in accordance with our undertaking with the Archdeacon.
13. It provides for power to invest the money received from the Commissioner for Railways for the payment of £150, and the allotment of certain portions of the glebe to the clergyman? Yes.
14. Mr. Day.] Is the agreement produced the agreement between the trustees and the clergyman? Yes, it is an exact copy of it.
15. And Captain Rossi signed that agreement? Yes.
16. All you wish to do is to carry out that agreement which you made with another party? That is all we wish to do.

A. M. Betts,
Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.

- A. M. Betts, Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.
17. And all the trustees are equally liable and responsible? Yes.
18. Do any of the trustees object? I understand that Captain Rossi objects, but the others are unanimous in wishing to carry out the agreement.
19. One of the trustees cannot upset all the rest, can he? It would not seem reasonable that he should do so.
20. At any rate the clergyman would have a good action against the trustees if the agreement was not carried out? No; we say in the agreement that we will use our best endeavours; we do not undertake absolutely to obtain the Bill. We could not be sure that Parliament would pass it.
21. And is Captain Rossi the only one of the church district of Goulburn who objects? I am not quite in a position to say that.
22. Do you know of any others yourself? I know that some of the parishioners object on the ground that it is contrary to the provisions of the Church Act.
23. Mr. Hayes.] You do not produce the grant? I have a certified copy.
24. Do you cite the trusts? Yes; the land is granted under the Church Act.
25. And under the 21st section of that Act is it necessary for the trustees to get the consent of the clergyman before they can lease? Yes.
26. The Act also provides in that section that the amount that can be paid to the incumbent is £150 a year? Yes; that is the maximum amount.
27. When you applied to him for power to lease did he make it a condition that his stipend should be increased to £300 a year? He made it a condition that we should give him £300 if Parliament would sanction it, that is, £150 more than is provided for in the Church Act. The Church Act says that the incumbent is to receive £150 a year, and the surplus income is to be applied to church buildings in the adjoining parishes.
28. Have any other churches been built in the town or district? Yes; there are two other churches in the township.
29. Those churches would come under this section both for the erection of the churches and the support of the ministers afterwards, would they not;—have they got any money from the trust? No, none whatever.
30. Can you give the Committee any idea of what is the present income of this trust? It is about £280 a year.
31. In the event of your getting power to lease would that increase the income? We expect that it will; we hope to lease an additional portion of the land, and thereby to increase the income.
32. To any material extent? Unfortunately the time for making these leases, through the proceedings instituted by Archdeacon Puddicombe to set aside the agreement, has passed by to a great extent, and I believe that at the present time there would be a difficulty in leasing the property at all for the next few years. There is no demand now for land for building purposes in Goulburn. The time is passed for the present, and when it will come again is a mere matter for speculation.
33. Then with the present income of £280 a year, how do you propose to provide £300 for the Archdeacon, and secure the same amount to his successor? We should be able to issue some leases at once, and I think we should be in a position to raise the amount, and perhaps that is all.
34. You are aware of the section that provides under the trust that the trustees shall first pay £150 a year to the incumbent, any surplus derivable from the glebe lands to be appropriated to maintaining the dwelling-house for a clergyman, and in supplementing, to the extent of £100 a year, other charges in the same parish or district? Yes, I am aware of that provision.
35. The effect of the Bill if passed will be to hand over to the present clergyman £300 a year, and to take away from others the aid that they should have under the Church Act? I presume that that would be the effect. It would give the £300; then we should be £150 short of the amount which should perhaps be applied to other purposes.
36. The Act provided that the money should be appropriated in a special way? The Church Act never contemplated the original incumbent getting more than £150 a year, but our circumstances are exceptional in Goulburn.
37. I understood you distinctly to say that before this clergyman consented to allow you to lease the glebe he made it a condition that he should receive £150 a year more than he is entitled to under the Act? He made it a condition that we should give him an addition of £150 if we could. It was an absolute condition; on these grounds we applied for the Bill.
38. Mr. Day.] The area of the land is about 8 acres? No; it was 40 acres originally, but out of that about 6 acres were taken by the Commissioner for Railways; 8 acres were reserved by the Act for the incumbent's own personal use, and the lands which we propose to lease are the residue.
39. I suppose it is intended to issue building leases? Yes.
40. It is quite close to the town of Goulburn? It is in the town.
41. If you could lease all the land you would be able to realise more than £300 a year? We certainly should be.
42. Suppose you raised £400 from the leasing of the land, could you hand the other £100 over to the other two clergymen? As matters stand at present we should be bound to carry out the provisions of the 21st section of the Act, and we could do nothing else as regards the surplus. The Bill does not interfere with the surplus in any way, therefore we should have to fall back on the Church Act, unless any other provision be made for the sanction of Parliament.
43. Have any of the trustees named here tendered their resignation? Yes, Mr. Mackellar.
44. The Church Act requires that one-fifth of the entire area shall be handed over to the clergyman for his use? Yes; we have no power to lease that.
45. This Bill would repeal part of the Church Act? It would alter one section, as far as this land is concerned.
46. Chairman.] Do you not consider that after the first £150 is paid the other clergymen have a claim? Of course they have, and that is why we have come to Parliament to make out a case to alter the provisions of the Act.
47. Mr. Hayes.] To take the income away from the others and give it to Archdeacon Puddicombe? Yes; but it must be said that he was not bound to give his consent to the leasing of the land.
48. Chairman.] That would not entitle him to get the other £150? No, but he need not have done it.
He

He knew he was not entitled to £300 unless Parliament would give it. We anticipated that Parliament would see fit to sanction that departure from the Church Act, though it was distinctly understood that the trustees would not hold themselves responsible for getting the Bill, but had simply asked Parliament to pass the Bill. The circumstances connected with the glebe are exceptional, because we have a large amount of money which has been paid to us by the Commissioner for Railways.

49. I presume that the money is invested? It is invested.

A. M. Betts,
Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.

Captain Francis Robert Lewis Rossi called in, sworn, and examined:—

50. Chairman.] You are one of the trustees mentioned in the Bill? Yes, I am senior trustee.

51. And one who signed this agreement? Yes.

52. And you are still a trustee? Yes.

53. Mr. Day.] Is there a law-suit pending in the Court of Equity in regard to the property? Yes, in regard to the administration of the funds.

54. In regard to the land dealt with by the Bill? Yes.

55. Mr. Hayes.] At whose suit? At my suit; I am plaintiff.

56. Mr. Day.] When will the action come on? It is before the Court, on the present list, but there is some delay owing to the present Judge having been engaged as counsel in the case, and being consequently unable to try it.

57. Until that is settled will the Bill prejudice the case? Yes, irremediably.

58. Chairman.] How long has the case been pending? It was instituted about eleven months ago.

59. Mr. Day.] In the event of the Committee not agreeing to your suggestion you could apply to the Judge and prevent them going on with the Bill? That is a legal question.

60. You could apply for an injunction? The Select Committee would not desire, I should think, to foment litigation.

61. Mr. Ralston.] Is it not a fact that the suit that occasioned the delay of the Bill before was not one between you and the trustees but a suit between Archdeacon Puddicombe and the trustees? It was a suit between Archdeacon Puddicombe and the trustees.

62. To set aside this very agreement? I did not follow the thing, but when made defendant I said I would do nothing in the matter.

63. Do you not know that it was to set aside the agreement? I believe it was.

64. Is not this suit of yours simply a quarrel between yourself and the other trustees? I aver most solemnly before God that it is not.

65. Will you tell us in what way your suit touches the agreement? It is in clause 2; I have applied that the accumulated funds shall be handed over to me, but they propose to give them to the incumbent. I am the only trustee—of course we are now going into the whole question—I have to show in Court that they are not trustees at all. Now I show the connection by showing that this money which is referred to in clause 2 of this Bill is the very money that I am asking to be handed over to me as the sole trustee at the time.

66. Mr. Hayes.] You are opposed to the Bill being passed pending the Equity suit you have brought against the other trustees? Yes.

F. R. L. Rossi.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

SAINT SAVIOUR'S GLEBE LAND LEASING BILL.

(PETITION AGAINST—F. R. L. ROSSI, CAPTAIN.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 22 December, 1887.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of Francis Robert Lewis Rossi, Captain, of Rossville, Goulburn,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That your Petitioner has learnt that a Bill, called "Saint Saviour's Glebe Leasing Bill," has been introduced and read yesterday evening, the twenty-first instant, before your Honorable House.

That your Petitioner is a Trustee of Saint Saviour's Church and Lands, and having been so appointed above thirty years is the senior Trustee.

That your Petitioner has never been consulted by Trustees of Saint Saviour's Church in the preparation of the Bill, nor has he seen the Bill till a few hours since; and your Petitioner desires to say, with utmost respect, he is obliged to disapprove entirely from the passing of such a measure.

That your Petitioner, having observed a notice published about October last, by the Honorable Mr. Pigott, of his intention to introduce the Bill, did thereupon give notice in the Government Gazette of his intention to oppose its passing.

That your Petitioner holds a letter written to him by Mr. Betts, on twenty-second January last, informing him, when speaking of Saint Saviour's Church, "the late Trustees now no longer hold office," also a letter following after, from the Honorable James Chisholm, further notifying his resignation; these vacancies have all been duly filled up by the election of other Trustees.

That in connection with some of the foregoing matters, and especially to matters having reference to moneys representing the compensation money paid by the Commissioner for Railways in respect of portion of Glebe taken for Railway purposes, a civil action in the Equity Court has been instituted by your Petitioner, as plaintiff, and is now pending against the Honorable James Chisholm, Andrew Faithful Gibson, and Augustine Matthew Betts.

That your Petitioner therefore humbly prays for the foregoing and other reasons,—

That your Honorable House will cause enquiry to be made on the premises, and that such redress may be afforded as to your Honorable House may seem fit, in order to avert disastrous issues. And that your Petitioner may be permitted to be heard before the Bar of your Honorable House, or before the Select Committee, if appointed.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Sydney, 22nd December, 1887.

F. R. L. ROSSI,
Captain.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

SILVERTON TRAMWAY ACT AMENDING BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 21 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. DE COURCY BROWNE,

MR. DAY,
MR. KELLY.

G. DAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Butterworth appeared as Counsel for the Petitioner against the Bill.

Joseph Palmer Abbott, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are a solicitor of the Supreme Court of New South Wales? Yes.
2. And Member for the Electoral District of Wentworth? Yes.
3. You are aware that an Act was passed some time ago to enable the Silvertown Tramway Company to make a tramway from the South Australian border to Broken Hill? Yes; it was put through at the end of the session rather hurriedly. It was found, on going through the Act carefully, that it required a large number of clerical amendments which are indicated in the Schedule to the Bill before this Committee.
4. The Company have found it necessary to bring in this Bill in order to carry on their affairs? I think so. I hand in a copy of their Act; the amendments which the Company require in the Act are indicated in red ink. I know the locality where the tramway passes through Silvertown. It was originally intended to take the line through Adelaide-street, in Silvertown, crossing the Umberumberka Creek at its western intersection with the town of Silvertown.
5. Is the tramway finished from the border to Broken Hill? Yes. Originally it was only intended to take the line to Silvertown, but it was afterwards decided to take it on to Broken Hill. When the matter was first mooted Broken Hill was a place of no importance, and Silvertown was the largest centre of population on the Barrier Ranges. When the surveys were made it was found that by going through Adelaide-street there would be some very heavy cuttings to make. It was found, upon the plans and sections being taken out, that a better route could be got by taking the line down through Sturt-street. They made it there, but before making it they applied to the Municipal Council for permission to do so. The corporation did not feel that they had any power in the matter—that their assent would be of no real value to the Company, but they said that they would not interfere with the construction of the line that way, and would give their assent to the passing this Bill through Parliament. The Mayor, under the seal of the municipality, has given this consent, which I now hand in. [Appendix A.] The line has been constructed along Sturt-street, and is in working order now. The amendments which the Company require in their Act are merely verbal amendments, with the exception of the deviation and the alteration of the Schedule they in no way affect the principles of the Act.
6. Is there any other evidence that you would like to give? I do not think so.
7. The whole of these amendments, strictly speaking, are merely verbal amendments to make the Act workable? They do not affect in the slightest degree the principles of the Act, or the powers given to the proprietors.

- J. P. Abbott, Esq., M.P.

8. With the exception of the proposed amendment in the schedule they carry out the intentions of the Act? I do not know that that amendment is really an alteration of the Act.
9. Mr. Butterworth.] Do I understand you to say that these amendments have been found necessary for the working of the line? No, I do not say so. I say that some of them have been found necessary for the working of the Company.
10. Is not that limiting your original statement, because you described the amendments as purely verbal amendments? Yes.
11. Do you consider that it applies to clause 3? I said that with the exception of the deviation and the alteration of the schedule.
12. The third clause does in fact make a very important alteration in the Act? I do not know that it does, because the lines are not definitely laid down in the description in the schedule. It says:—"Through the resumed area of Thackaringa Pastoral Holding about $6\frac{1}{2}$ miles to the fenced boundary." There may be a deviation there of 2 or 3 miles, and yet be within the resumed area.
13. This clause must be intended to cover deviations, I presume, which were not allowed by the original Act? I imagine so.
14. It will enable such a deviation to be made as will increase the entire length of the line by about 4 miles? I think the clause says so; I do not know.
15. If I am right in saying that the line is not far short of 38 miles it could be lengthened under this clause by one-tenth of its length, that is, by nearly 4 miles? Yes. The line, as a matter of fact, is constructed, and its length is now known, so it would not be lengthened by 4 miles. If it is 38 miles long it remains 38 miles.
16. Do I understand you to mean that this Bill is really asking for Legislative power to do that which has already been done? To a certain extent it is, because the Company were under the impression that the corporation had power to give their assent; but on consultation with their solicitors it was found that they had no legal power to do that, although they might not interfere with the Company.
17. But only to some extent, I understand you to say? I tell you that I do not know very much about the third clause.
18. It is certainly the most striking if not the most important part of the Bill? There is not much in it one way or another. It does not interfere with any private property; it cannot interfere with any private property. I do not believe it touches a single acre of private land. It is all Government land.
19. You are confining the attention of the Committee to Sturt-street? I do not care what deviation they make. They have built the line through Sturt-street, and between Silvertown and Broken Hill I do not think they could touch an acre of private land.
20. Will it not allow a deviation in quite a different direction;—will it not allow a deviation to take place in Broken Hill itself? That is a matter of legal construction, not evidence.
21. Your evidence has been chiefly upon legal construction; perhaps you will not object to answer the question? I will not answer it. It is a matter of legal construction. I am not going to tell the Committee what the clause means, nor you either.
22. You cannot point to anything which prevents the Company from extending the line in the township of Broken Hill by virtue of the power in this clause? Of course I can. They are limited by the Act to a point in Broken Hill, and they cannot go beyond that. This Bill would give them no power to go beyond the point of limit.
23. They might deviate? Yes; deviate between the two terminal points.
24. A deviation might amount to something very much like a branch line? No; it could not possibly within a mile. Where would they branch to within a mile? The whole country is unoccupied, except Silvertown and Broken Hill, and a few of the mines there. Speaking from my own knowledge, and my recollection of the place, I should not think that this line would go through any mines until it touched Broken Hill, that is the township of Willyama.
25. It goes close to the Umberumberka Mine? I do not think it goes near that mine. I am not sure of that. It is a little way out of Silvertown, towards the border.
26. Is the line being worked between Cockburn and Broken Hill? Yes. I understand that they have entered into a contract with the South Australian Government for a period of five years to carry their stuff.
27. It is not in writing? I imagine it is.
28. The Company do not produce it to-day? No; I have not got it.
29. You have said that the Bill legalises certain alterations which have been made;—is it not the case that there is nothing to limit the Company to these deviations, but that further deviations may be made under clause 3? Yes, of course, within a mile on either side, but to no greater distance.
30. To the extent of one-tenth of the whole length of the line? If a deviation has already taken place from the described route this Bill would not authorize them to deviate any more. If they have deviated a mile, it will not allow them to deviate another mile.

Duncan Grant, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- D. Grant, Esq.
21 Mar., 1888.
31. Chairman.] What are you? I am a railway contractor, and a director of the Silvertown Tramway Company.
32. Do you live at Silvertown? No, at Melbourne.
33. You are aware that an Act was passed in 1886 to enable your Company to construct a tramway to Broken Hill? Yes.
34. Did you notice any defects or omissions in the Act? There are several omissions. The word "railway" is used in place of "tramway," and there are several things of that kind which require amendment. There is a diversion from the original route through the town of Silvertown.
35. The tramway is in working order from the South Australian border to Broken Hill? Yes.
36. Did you have anything to do with the construction of the line? No.
37. Did the Directors find any difficulty about some cuttings near Silvertown? Yes; the reason that the line was diverted from Adelaide-street to Sturt-street was because some very heavy cuttings would have had to be made. The road would also have had to be crossed going into Silvertown, and leaving it, the main road to Menindie. By going down Sturt-street we got a very much better line, and avoided these two objectionable crossings. We also avoided two considerable curves, one going into the town, and the other other leaving it. Again, the road by the Umberumberka Creek is very swampy. It is low-lying ground, and in case of flood the creek would have been very dangerous to any embankment. The creek would have had to be crossed, which would also have been objectionable.

D.

38. The directors came to the conclusion to take the easiest route? Yes; the gradient in Adelaide-street would have been 1 in 40, but the steepest grade in Sturt-street is 1 in 80. We could not have hauled so much with an engine in Adelaide-street as we can in Sturt-street.

39. What did you do? We asked the corporation of Silverton to allow us to go down Sturt-street in lieu of Adelaide-street, and they raised no objection to the proposal.

40. Did they state anything that you would have to do? Our Bill stipulates how we have to lay the line through towns or municipalities. The line is right on the top of the range in Silverton. It is quite level, and can be crossed by drays at any point. It is not fenced in. Adelaide-street is at an incline, and had the line been taken by that route we should have had to make a cutting along the side of the street. Our Bill does not allow of that; it provides that the line must be laid as near the true level of the roadway as possible. It would not allow us to cut down a street 2 or 3 feet. There is a fall of 30 feet between Sturt-street and Adelaide-street.

41. The whole of the deviations are within the Municipality of Silverton? Yes. The deviations would not amount to more than a quarter of a mile altogether.

42. Does it go through private property? Not that I am aware of. It would have been almost impossible to go along Adelaide-street, because we should have had to buy up land there.

43. You found it necessary for the well-being of your Company and the benefit of the public to make these deviations? Yes.

44. You had the concurrence of the Municipal Council? Yes. It enabled us to make the line 13 chains shorter than what was originally intended. It is only $34\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Broken Hill to the Border. There was no survey made before the original Bill was obtained. The promoters did not know at that time that they would meet with the difficulties I have described. It was originally intended, before Broken Hill assumed the dimensions it has, to extend the line to block ten in the township of Silverton, but afterwards it was decided to take the line on to Broken Hill.

45. I suppose the deviation saved money to the Company? Yes.

46. Did anyone suffer by the alteration of the route? No. The public are benefited by the deviation, because Bourke-street is the principal street. The line is not a minute's walk from the principal portion of the town.

47. Generally speaking, there was no objection, and every one must be benefited by the alteration? Yes. We also agreed with the corporation to put a passenger station in the middle of the town. The goods station is outside the town on Crown Lands.

48. You did not bring in this Bill to enable you to make further deviations? Oh, no. We do not require to deviate any further. Our line runs to the point indicated in the Act.

49. You do not intend to lengthen the line? No. We simply want legal power to run the tramway down Sturt-street.

50. That is the principal object of the Bill? Yes.

51. Other amendments are principally verbal amendments? Yes. They are of no consequence to us.

52. Mr. Butterworth.] Do I understand that you have reached your final termination in Broken Hill? Yes.

53. Is it not proposed to run your line any further through the township than where the terminus at present is? We are now constructing it to the terminus. We stopped at the goods station on level ground about half a mile from the terminal point. We are now joining the mines there. Our Act allows us to go to the boundary of the Broken Hill property. We shall go there and no further. We have no power to go on to private lands. We are not seeking for power to make any extension.

54. I understand that the line is not completed yet in the township of Broken Hill? The traffic really does not go into the township. There is a tramway reserve in the township.

55. Is your tramway line complete, or do you intend to carry it further than it is at present into the township? We intend to join the mines. We are constructing it now to join the mines, but our Act allows us to do that. We do not seek any power under this Bill to extend the line.

56. You seek powers to deviate? Only at Silverton. We are not deviating. The line is completed. The Act does not mention in what direction we shall go from Silverton to Broken Hill. We have carte blanche to go where we like between those two points. It is all Crown land. It did not matter how we went; so we took the best route.

57. Do you mean that you are not confined to the tramway reserve? There is only a tramway reserve in the township. We are going down there with a passenger line. We do not seek to take the main traffic into the township.

58. This Bill allows you to deviate anywhere along the whole line, and the line into the township of Broken Hill is, I understand, not complete? No; we must go down to the tramway reserve in Broken Hill. We do not intend to go to any other part of Broken Hill.

59. You do not intend to make any deviation in the township of Broken Hill? No.

60. Mr. Kelly.] I understand you to say that you are going to arrive at some terminal point in Broken Hill? We have not diverged anywhere, except in the township of Silverton. It is usual in all Bills of this class to allow a deviation of a mile.

61. Can you say whether the Bill would not enable the Company to deviate from the goods-shed and run down some other street into the township? There is no street where the goods-shed is; it is outside the town on Crown land; it is half a mile away from the township.

62. Would not the Bill enable you to construct another line from the goods-shed to another part of the town and come round to the terminal point? I do not think so. There is a tramway reserve there for us; it is 6 chains wide; there is a road on either side of it. It is a loss to us to make a tramway through the town for the passenger traffic. We shall charge nothing to the people. We might if we chose stop where we are, and put the people to the cost of a shilling to reach the township.

63. The people of Silverton or of Broken Hill have not offered any objection? No. If our Act had provided for a deviation of half a mile there would have been no occasion for this Bill. They omitted that provision in the original Bill.

- D. Grant, Esq. 64. Mr. Butterworth.] The whole length of the line, as allowed by your Act, is 18 miles 25 chains from Cockburn to Silverton, and 15 miles from Silverton to Broken Hill, that is 33 miles 25 chains altogether? I think it is 34½ miles in length. It was not surveyed when the Bill was passed.
- 21 Mar., 1888. 65. This Bill enables the Company to deviate so as to increase the line by one-tenth of 33 miles 25 chains? It would not be one-tenth, or anything like it.
66. But it enables you to do that. If the work is done as you say, is not that an unnecessary power to take? I do not know anything about that. The work is done.
67. The line, as completed, is 1 mile 15 chains longer than was proposed in the Schedule of the Act. Can you see any reason why Parliament should enable the Company to increase the length to the extent of 3 miles? It may be necessary to put sidings in a mine, or something of that sort.
68. Mr. De Courcy Browne.] You have to go some distance further from your goods-shed in Broken Hill to reach your terminal point? About 20 chains.
69. It is more than 20 chains from your goods-shed to block 14? It will be, through the Company's land.
70. How far is it to block 13? Fully a mile. That would be on the Company's property.
71. Mr. Butterworth.] How much further on public land have you to go? It will be more than 20 chains. If it goes to block 13 it may be a mile. We only go to the point indicated in the Schedule to the Act. Whether the distance is a little longer than that or not I do not know.
72. Chairman.] Do the Committee understand that, whether it is a long line or a short one, you are only going from point to point? Yes.
73. You want to go as straight as you can? Yes.
74. Are you bound, under the Act, to go by any particular way? No. We are bound to take the line between two points. It does not mention how we are to go.
75. Mr. Barbour.] The Bill is to protect you in case you should have to make any deviation? Yes.
76. If you were to make any deviation, even to the extent of a mile, would you interfere with any other interest? Oh, no; it is all Crown land.
77. You would not be going on to private lands? No.
78. Would you be interfering with any claims? No.
79. Have you any intention of making a deviation to that extent? No. The line is complete, except the little bit we are now making.
80. Mr. Butterworth.] Will not a deviation in Broken Hill seriously interfere with the line which the Broken Hill Tramway Company propose to make? I do not see how it can interfere with them. They have not indicated any particular point that I can see. I have seen their Bill, but they have not made any survey yet. If they get their Bill they will have to cross our lines somewhere.
81. Are you not aware that one of the reasons for your opposing their Bill was that you required the whole of the tramway reserve in Broken Hill for yourselves? No; I mentioned that we should require that land. We are not asking for anything in the town of Broken Hill.

[To Evidence of J. P. Abbott, Esq., J.P.]

A.

A Bill to amend the Silverton Tramway Act of 1866

WE, the Mayor and Council of the Municipality of Silverton, hereby express our approval of the Bill to amend the Silverton Tramway Act of 1866, authorizing the construction of a tramway along Sturt-street, Silverton, proposed by the Silverton Tramway Company, a copy of which said Bill is hereunto annexed.

In witness whereof we have, this 4th day of August, 1887, affixed our common seal.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

SILVERTON TRAMWAY ACT AMENDING BILL.

(PETITION TO BE HEARD BEFORE SELECT COMMITTEE BY COUNSEL, ATTORNEY, OR AGENT IN OPPOSITION TO—CHARLES BATH.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 20 March, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Charles Bath, of Sydney, in the Colony aforesaid, merchant, for himself and on behalf of the promoters of the Broken Hill Tramway,—

SHOWETH:—

1. That a Select Committee has been appointed by your Honorable House to inquire into and report upon the Silverton Tramway Act Amending Bill.

2. That a Bill to authorise the construction and maintenance of a tramway, from the terminus in the western boundary of the Colony of New South Wales, of the South Australian Railway, by way of Thackaringa, The Pinnacles, and Broken Hill to "Mount Gipps Hotel," is now before your Honorable House.

3. That the promoters of the last-mentioned tramway are interested in the subject matter of the inquiry referred to the said Select Committee.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that he may be heard by counsel, attorney, or agent before the Select Committee, in opposition to the said Bill and the provisions thereof, with liberty to adduce such evidence as he may be advised in opposition thereto or in support of this Petition.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

Dated this twentieth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

SYDNEY AND SUBURBAN ELECTRIC LIGHTING BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 28 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. H. H. BROWN,MR. BRUNKER,
MR. FRANK SMITH.

H. H. BROWN, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Messrs. Levy and Hemsley, Solicitors, appeared on behalf of the Promoters of the Bill.

Professor Threlfall called in, sworn, and examined.—

1. Mr. Hemsley.] What is your name? Richard Threlfall.
2. What are you? Professor of Physics in the Sydney University.
3. Have you read the Electric Light Bill which is before this Committee? I have.
4. You have had considerable experience theoretically and practically with regard to electric lighting? Professor Threlfall.
28 Mar., 1888.
I have.
5. Would you explain to the Committee whether you think this Bill contains all the necessary provisions for the safety of the public and in other respects, and also favour the Committee with any other general remarks on the subject you may think necessary? It seemed to me that, as far as the general public were concerned, there was ample provision made for their protection, but at the same time there is a reference made in the Bill to some other measures which may perhaps be passed of a general character regulating electric lighting. I do not know whether there are any such Acts in force at the present time. In England there is an Electric Lighting Act, the provisions of which were made so stringent that the result has been to practically stop all electric lighting, or, at all events, to greatly hinder it.
6. Mr. Barbour.] Is that a general Act? Yes; a general Act.
7. Not a special one for any special company? No; there is a general Electric Lighting Regulation Act, and then, of course, there are special Acts. Clause 28 of this Bill states—"Nothing in this Act shall exempt the undertakers from the provisions of any general Act relating to the supply of electricity which may be passed in this or any future session of Parliament." There are certain provisions which will probably be required to be made in a general way for the distribution of electricity; I mean certain limits as to what we call the electro-motive force, or electrical pressure in the mains.
8. As there is no general Act in existence, should not these provisions be inserted in this special Bill? Possibly, for a safeguard, it would be a good thing; but, on the other hand, all the appliances which can be bought for the supply of electric light are made so as to comply with the regulations of the general Acts in other countries, and it is impossible to get any apparatus for electric lighting which is not perfectly safe. All the apparatus are constructed to fulfil the requirements of safety Acts in other countries.

Professor
Threlfall.
28 Mar., 1888.

9. Mr. Hemsley.] What is your opinion as to the desirability of electric lighting? As to that, I think there can be no question. The amount of heat given out per unite of illumination afforded is very much less for electric light than it is for gas light. I would not be quite sure, but I have the impression that it is about eighteen times less. In addition to that, of course, the atmosphere remains perfectly clear; there is no contamination of the air.

10. And what is your opinion as to the relative safety of electricity and gas? Of the two I think that electricity is very considerably the safer.

11. Will you explain why? In all my experience I have never seen an accident arise from electric lighting, but I have seen several accidents from gas. One reason is that there is no chance of anything escaping. There is no chance of any accidents comparable with the accidents which occur from escaping gas. That is one reason. And the other reason is that the electric lights can be turned on and off simply by turning a handle, and this avoids all lighting of matches and the throwing about of ignited particles.

12. Have you any opinion as to the relative cheapness of electricity and gas? That is one of those questions it is very much easier to ask than to answer. A gas company that has its mains down, and which has accumulated through long years a large reserve fund might possibly be able to undersell the electric light through any small portion of the town, but there is no doubt that if the two systems were set side by side, one electric light and the other gas, and if the number of lights required was sufficiently large, say anything up to 2,000 lights, then, under those circumstances, the electric light would be considerably cheaper. Another reason for the cheapness of the electric light is that the buildings that are to be supplied must be within some reasonable distance of the central station. There is no doubt that in the case of Sydney, with the price of gas as high as it is, the electric light ought to be able to compete very favourably with gas. In fact I think it ought to be able to undersell gas at the present price.

13. Chairman.] And in your opinion, in a hot climate like this, it would be a very great advantage if private families had the opportunity of getting their houses lit with the electric light? Yes. Not only would it be a much pleasanter and a much better light, but very much healthier.

14. No fumes and no hot air? Exactly.

15. Mr. Frank Smith.] What is the chief danger to which the public are likely to be liable from the powers proposed to be conferred upon the Company by this Bill? As far as I know it is absolutely impossible, if the mains are properly put down and properly provided with switches, that there can be any danger in any way. I think it is impossible, any more than by laying on water pipes. There have been accidents, small fires, and so on, caused, not in connection with permanent installations, but in places where persons have been allowed to put down wires for (say) two months' trial under the condition of being ordered to take them up again at the end of that time. That is a very bad principle to go upon. The people who put down leads naturally try to put them down just to work out their period of probation, and then they get put down carelessly, and if the electric supply is put down carelessly, of course there is a liability to accident in the shape of fire in the same way as there would be a liability to accident in the shape of fire provided gas pipes were put down carelessly. But it is very much easier to put down electric mains well than it is to put down gas mains well, and there is no reason whatever why there should be any danger of any kind. The notion of danger, I think, arose in the first instance in the early days of electric lighting, when the electro-motive force, or electrical pressure in the mains, was not stereotyped or specified in any way, and some machines were made to work with enormous electrical pressures, many thousand volts, a volt being a unit of electrical pressure. In some cases, when that pressure reaches 3,000 or 4,000 volts it becomes distinctly dangerous to life on the part of anybody touching the wires. But all the lamps that are worked now are made to work at a pressure of 100 volts, and under these circumstances it is impossible by even grasping the two terminals to feel the slightest possible electrification. You can just feel it at the ends of your fingers, and that is all.

16. Mr. Frank Smith.] Will the method of laying down these mains be such as to cause any difficulty with the various municipalities through which they would have to run? I am afraid I do not know about that.

17. Do you say they will run in the same way as water mains? Yes. They will be put underground, and run much in the same way.

18. Mr. Barbour.] Would there be wires or cables? Cables. By cable I mean a wire surrounded by some insulating material. In some cases, perhaps, it would be more advisable to run the wires overhead.

19. Would they be enclosed within pipes? Yes. Underground they certainly would have to be enclosed.

20. And what would be the maximum diameter of the pipes through which the cable would pass? I do not think that in any case a pipe greater than 6 inches would be required. As a rule I do not think the diameter would be anything like so great, but at the outside I should think 6 inches.

21. And the inconvenience and damage to the street would be no greater than that caused by laying a 6-inch gas-pipe or water-pipe? No. It would be exactly the same, neither more nor less.

22. Chairman.] Is it your opinion that in order to prevent these cables coming into contact with any electric wires already constructed by the Government, and thus causing great danger of fire they should be carried underground? As to that, of course, I cannot say. I do not know where there are any electric wires constructed by the Government.

23. I understood this was one objection offered by Mr. Cracknell? I think there must be no doubt that if wires are taken overhead it should be the business of this Company, or anyone working under the provisions of this Bill, to get out of the way of such already existing wires, and that can be done very well. I think there is a clause arranging for that.

24. Mr. Barbour.] And the wires would have to be properly insulated? You could rely upon that being done in the interest of the Company. They would not want to lose their power, and would prevent their wires coming into contact with other wires. It could easily be arranged to avoid that. If you have permanent wires fixed on one side of a street the best course would be to take these electrical wires the other side of the street, and you can always contrive, by taking enough trouble, to get out of the way of wires already hanging. It may involve extending the length of wire in some cases, but I think it is sufficiently provided for in this Bill. Referring to clause 24, I do not quite see the principle on which 10 yards has been fixed as the distance from any part of a telegraph line of the Postmaster-General. I do not see why it should be 10 yards more than 5 or 20 yards. In some cases 2 yards would be ample, and in others perhaps it would be better to extend the distance to 15 yards.

25. Mr. Frank Smith.] Can you give us any particular instance within your own experience of the practical working of the power proposed to be conferred by this Bill? No, I cannot. 26.

Professor
Threlfall.

28 Mar., 1888.

26. Do you know of any place where the powers proposed to be given under this Bill are in operation? My experience of electric lighting is only with regard to the practical construction of the works, and in regard to the theoretical questions involved.

27. Mr. Barbour.] Has the electric light been applied in London? Yes; it has been applied very satisfactorily, but it was not applied by me.

28. Mr. Frank Smith.] Is there any instance within your own personal knowledge? I know of one installation very intimately—the installation of the Edison Electric Light Company. It has a centre at Holborn, near the Holborn-viaduct.

29. Do they operate in the same way as it is proposed the Company should operate under this Bill? I do not know what their Act is. They have been subject, of course, to the general Board of Trade Electric Light Regulation Act. Whether they have a separate Act or not I do not know, but I suppose they must have.

30. Is the Act called the General Board of Trade Electric Light Regulation Act? I do not know whether that is the exact title of it, but it is at all events a sufficiently close description to enable anyone to recognize the Act. I may mention that the general Act to which I refer has been found so unsatisfactory in its working, and so stringent as to prevent the introduction of the Lighting Act. The fear that existed when electric lighting was first introduced was that we were going to create a big monopoly such as the gas companies have become in England, and the members of Parliament were very anxious to prevent the creation of such monopolies. The result was that in this general Act one regulation that was passed was that at the end of, I think, ten or fifteen years the corporation through whose streets the wires and mains passed should have the right of buying the company out at some very low rate indeed—something like the cost of original construction, I believe. This prevented people from putting capital into electric lighting, and the result is that electric lighting in England, as compared with towns on the Continent and in America, is very much behindhand. This was felt to be such an evil that about two and a half years ago, just before Mr. Gladstone went in for Home Rule, a Bill was introduced into the House of Lords by Lord Raleigh, who is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, electricians in England, to change this Electric Lighting Act, and make the conditions as to the purchase by corporations more favourable to the electric light companies. It was admitted on all hands that Lord Raleigh's proposed Bill would meet the case. But Lord Raleigh belonged to the Conservative party, and the Government had a measure in hand of the same general character, and Lord Raleigh was persuaded to drop his Bill until the Government Bill could be brought in. Meanwhile the Home Rule cry arose; and the Government went out of office, and there the matter ended; and I believe it is in statu quo.

31. Mr. Barbour.] Have you any knowledge of any company that has successfully carried out a proposal such as that embodied in this Bill? Yes; it was successful in the case of the Holborn installation, to which I have referred.

32. What company was that? The Edison Electric Light and Power Company, I think. It is generally known as the Edison Company.

33. Has that been successful? It has been very successful indeed. I do not know whether it has been very successful to the shareholders, but it has been very successful as regards the consumers.

34. Has it been much taken advantage of? Yes, very much. When I left London they had, I think, about 3,000 lights running continuously. They had as many lights as their plant could supply, and were increasing their premises to enable them to put down more plant.

35. Have you any knowledge as to whether the consumers have been satisfied or otherwise? I have not had any private communication with any of them, but they appear to go on using the electric light, and there is continually a greater demand for it; so that I imagine they must find it satisfactory. In fact, I think that anyone who has had any experience of using the two lights side by side cannot have any doubt as to which is superior. In the two colleges at Cambridge, where I had a great deal to do with electric lighting, the opinion in favour of the electric light was unanimous.

36. In your opinion would it be an advantage to the public to have the opportunity of using this electric light, although they may be well supplied with gas? I think it would be a very great convenience. Not only is the light more healthy, but I think it is of a better quality. Electricity also affords a ready means of obtaining power for small motors, and for driving sewing-machines, or any other small domestic machinery. These could be very readily, very efficiently, and very safely driven by electricity. I wish to say that I have gained my knowledge of electricity as a branch of mathematics, and it also happens that I have both invented and made dynamo machinery, and have also been engaged in several installations, and at the present moment, in my new laboratory which is being erected for me at the University, the electric lighting system is being carried out with great completeness.

37. Chairman.] By the same gentleman who is promoting this Bill? Yes, Kirkland & Company. But what I want to point out is that my opinions as to commercial matters connected with electricity are quite valueless, except as those of a private individual, but on points of theory you will probably find that I am correct.

38. The electric light is now being satisfactorily constructed at the University? Yes.

39. Under the supervision of Mr. Kirkland or his agent? Yes.

George Kerry Kirkland, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

40. Mr. Levy.] What are you? By profession I am an electrical engineer.

41. You are one of the promoters of the Company interested in this Bill? Yes.

42. Will you give the Committee any information you desire to offer upon the subject? In the first place I should like to hand in a copy of the standards for electric equipments accepted by the Board of Trade at Home, accepted by the Insurance Companies, and which are also in conformity with the Board of Trade's regulations (Appendix A). It is exactly on the lines of what are called the Phoenix rules, and the standard of rules compiled by the engineers at home, that the Company proposes erecting its plant in Sydney. The general purpose of the Bill is simply this. Should it pass through Parliament it is our intention to erect a central station, for which we have already acquired the land in a central part of the city, and to erect plant for the distribution of electricity as a motive-power, and also for lighting purposes. We do not bind ourselves to any particular plant, but should the Bill pass through Parliament we shall obtain the best plant of the latest description, and most economical form, that is possible to be obtained in England, Germany, or anywhere else where the plant is made.

43. Chairman.] I believe that at present you hold contracts for the supply of electric lighting to some of the Government institutions? Yes; I have one large contract for the supply of electric light to the Sydney University; the work is now being carried on. I have three other installations in hand—one for the Masonic Hall, a private enterprise, and another for a new skating rink in Elizabeth-street, Redfern.

44. Mr. Frank Smith.] Have you yourself exercised the powers proposed to be given in this Bill in any other part of the world? No; not myself. I may as well state that this Bill is almost a fac-simile of the Electric Lighting Bill under which licenses are granted by the Board of Trade in England. The only point of difference is that we do not specify any term of years during which we ask to carry out this work. It is merely a continuation similar to the power the gas companies have.

45. Is that Act in operation at Home now? Yes; the Board of Trade in England—of course, there is no such institution in this country—exercises the sole power of granting licenses to corporations, private individuals, or public companies, under the terms of and for the period specified in the Amending Act brought in by Lord Wolverton in 1884. Prior to that the license was only available for five years, and, consequently, this provision retarded electric lighting to a considerable extent; for this reason, that any one erecting a plant, and spending, as he must necessarily do, from £25,000 to £30,000 upon it (and this would only be a plant for 3,000 or 4,000 lights.) I say that before any private individuals or any company could obtain any return from their outlay the corporation, under that Act, could compel them to sell the plant. The Amending Act, however, fixes fourteen years from the time of the completion of the works during which the company, or whoever held the license, would have the sole right to sell and supply the electric light to private consumers and to persons using it for the purpose of obtaining power. It is left optional with the Council to purchase the plant at the expiration of fourteen years, the value to be fixed by arbitration or otherwise.

46. Mr. Barbour.] Is there a clause in this Bill to that effect? No; it was left out on the assumption that the local authorities would not care to take over the work.

47. Would you be willing to have a clause inserted in the Bill to that effect? I should be perfectly willing to have a purchasing clause placed in the Bill on fair and legitimate terms. If this Bill goes through it simply amounts to this, that we are at the present time prepared to spend from £50,000 to £100,000 in erecting this plant.

48. This general plant for the supply of electricity to the people of Sydney? Yes; we have already got a piece of land in Kent-street, on which we intend to place large works, and we intend to spend from £50,000 to £100,000. Then the concern will be turned into a limited liability company. But prior to that the whole arrangements will be carried on by my co-promoter, until the central station is erected and the thing completed. We are prepared to give any reasonable guarantee that we are in a position to carry out this work. We can also give a bond to the Government and satisfy them not only that we have the money, but are in a position to carry the entire work out.

49. Mr. Frank Smith.] Clause 12 of the Bill provides that compensation shall be given for damages; but there appears to be no security on the part of the promoters? There will always be security so far as compensation is concerned; because, if we are in a position to put down the plant, there must be some security?

50. Suppose that damage arises at a time when there is nothing but the plant there, would the plant be of sufficient value by itself? The plant alone, exclusive of the buildings, will cost about £40,000.

51. Chairman.] The value of the land, I suppose, is also considerable? For the land we have paid about £11,000, and, if this Bill goes through Parliament, we intend to erect upon it a building which will cost us another £12,000?

52. Mr. Barbour.] You say that the land is in Kent-street? Yes.

53. Convenient to the centre of the city? It is in a central position, either as regards the Balmain side or the Sydney side. So far as the Corporation are concerned we ask for no special powers; we merely do it mutually with them; we place ourselves under penalties in the event of our injuring their streets, or we give them the option that, in the event of their making any damage good, they may take proper remedy against us.

54. Have you communicated with the Corporation on the subject? The Mayor and all the Aldermen have received a copy of this Bill, and have had it for some considerable time.

55. Have you had any correspondence with the Corporation relative to the matter? We have had no correspondence with them at all. I account for this by the fact that the squabbles going on in the Council have taken up the time, and I believe that this matter will be brought before the Council shortly. I know that several Aldermen, to whom I have spoken, not in their public capacity, but privately, are in favour of the Bill. I may say that, as a matter of fact, all arrangements are made, and, should this Bill go through, the plant will be immediately put down. The Board of Directors are already appointed, and the chairman is one of the Aldermen of the city. The capital of the Company will be, I believe, about £500,000. Our solicitor some time ago wrote to the Municipal Council on the matter. The Town Clerk wrote for a copy of the Bill for each Alderman, and these were posted, but we have heard nothing further from the Council.

56. Chairman.] Have you heard no objection raised? None whatever.

57. From any of the Municipal bodies? No. So far as the Municipal bodies are concerned, we know that all the Councils outside the city of Sydney are only too anxious that the thing should be adopted for their own interest; because, although virtually speaking it is a central station, which we propose erecting for Sydney alone, and will not supply the suburbs, yet we shall be in a position to extend small central stations to any suburb, and shall be prepared to give the municipality of such suburb the option of purchasing under reasonable conditions.

58. Mr. Barbour.] What would be the price of the electric light as compared with the price of gas? At the present time we consider that the cost would be two thirds of that of gas. I have here a paper giving the current prices at which gas is supplied to consumers at several installations. In Bradford, England, there is a private installation of some 2,000 candle-power arc lamps, and I believe, from 800 to 1,500 incandescent 16 candle-power lamps. The 2,000 candle-power arc lamps are supplied at the rate of £1 a month, which would be £12 a year. With regard to the incandescent lamps, consumers who wish to make a contract with the Company can have them supplied at the rate of 4s. per lamp. Should we start our operations, we propose to give the consumers the benefit of burning their electricity either through meters, or we will make a contract with them, whichever they deem best. At present we are in a position to measure the electricity in exactly the same way that gas is measured—through meters. 59.

59. Chairman.] You intend to construct cables underground? Yes; all underground, in a proper sub-way.
 60. And every precaution will be taken that they do not come into contact with Government wires already constructed? The Phoenix rules will settle all questions as to that, because no wire can be taken within a distance of 6 feet on either side of any wire already constructed; but all our wires will be put down in a proper sub-way—each wire separate from the other. We do this for our own security, to provide against loss of current. I may say on this point that clause 24 of this Bill, with regard to the protection of the Postmaster-General, is taken entirely from the English Act. This protects the Postmaster-General and gives him full powers to make alterations should he think them necessary; and a penalty of £50 is imposed for every day that any interruption to the Government cables continues.

61. Mr. Barbour.] Do you wish to say any more with reference to this Bill? Nothing more, except that so far as the financial part of the matter is concerned, we are prepared to give any guarantee that may be thought necessary as to our position and our ability to carry out the work. So far as compensation for damages is concerned, we shall be willing to deposit it in the Treasury, a certain amount to provide against that until the completion of the works.

Henry Pain, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

62. Mr. Levy.] What are you? I am a partner in the firm of Holdsworth & Company, ironmongers, Sydney.

H. Pain,
Esq.
28 Mar., 1888.

63. What experience have you had with regard to the distribution of electricity for lighting and motive-power purposes? I have had no direct experience in that way.

64. Have you seen installations at home? No.

65. Do you think that the supply of electricity to the citizens of Sydney, and particularly to tradespeople would be a public benefit? Yes, very much so.

66. Should this project be carried out, would your firm be likely to avail itself of the system? I should think very likely.

67. Have you had any experience of any installations in Sydney? No.

68. You have seen the Bill; do you think the scheme is practicable, and can be carried out; do you think it would be a benefit to Sydney generally? I think it would be a great benefit, and no insuperable obstacles presented themselves to my mind when reading the Bill through.

69. Do you think the idea would generally be approved of by the citizens? I think that when the citizens come to know the real value and convenience of it they will avail themselves of its advantages.

70. Mr. Frank Smith.] Have you any knowledge of the successful operation in any part of the world of the powers proposed to be given by this Bill? No.

71. Chairman.] Are your premises lit by electricity? No. The premises of my next door neighbour are lit by electricity.

72. Have you heard any expressions from them as to whether they are satisfied with it or not? No, not from them directly; but indirectly I am aware that they are satisfied with it. I have heard many expressions from people who dine there and otherwise use the house in favour of the electric light. So far as we are concerned, one of the advantages we should derive from electric lighting would be the power of lighting the window. With our goods we cannot put gas into the window, because it destroys them, and, like many other shopkeepers, we are reduced to the necessity of lighting the window by means of reflectors from outside, which are only a make-shift. If we could get electricity we could use it in this way very beneficially. There is another point that occurred to me when reading this Bill, namely, that the use of electric light in dwelling houses would remove one great objection which exists in the case of gas. I refer to the destruction of pictures and picture hangings. We know what the brass wire with which pictures are hung rots on the nail, and in time the picture falls down if it is not watched. Then again, so far as I have observed, there are conveniences of adaptation in favour of the electric light. You can put an electric light exactly where you want it, but you cannot always put gas light where you want it.

73. And do you consider in a hot climate like this it would be a great advantage if people could have their dwellings lit by electricity? I should say so decidedly. I do not see that electricity would destroy the use of gas, because we want gas still for cooking.

74. Which do you consider the most dangerous light, electricity or gas? I do not know that I could answer that question, as I possess so little technical knowledge.

William Douglas Bear, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

75. Mr. Levy.] What are you? I am Superintendent of Fire Brigades for New South Wales.

W. D. Bear,
Esq.
28 Mar., 1888.

76. I believe you have had some experience in regard to central electric lighting stations in London, and the lighting of theatres by electricity? I have had experience with regard to the lighting of theatres, but not at the head station.

77. Will you state to the Committee your experience with regard to the safety of the electric light, and its other advantages or disadvantages? So far as I can see electric lighting is carried out on very safe principles in London and elsewhere. Mostly we have to trust to people who are very fond of leaving their machines and overrunning them sometimes, say in the case of the Parliamentary buildings, or in the case of the Savoy Theatre in London. No danger can arise, except that which may occur from a man leaving his machine to overrun, and so loading the wires.

78. Do you think there is more danger attached to electric light than to gas? I should say that the electric light was the safer, as long as it does not run through the streets on poles. I think there is a latent danger in cables being run through the streets in case of accident, because in America several people have been killed by such accidents. This have resulted from overhead wires.

79. Mr. Barbour.] Will you give the Committee a little more explanation of the dangers likely to arise from the wires being overhead? The danger arises simply because they are very apt to make short circuits. They get worn by the weather, and the current goes on to the telegraph lines. In America several lives have been lost through people coming into contact with the naked wires, and several lives have been lost there by the lines being suddenly cut or broken, and people coming into contact with them. This is the danger which has been experienced in America from these wires running overhead.

- W. D. Bear, Esq.
28 Mar., 1888.
80. Mr. Levy.] Do you know the extent of the electro-motive force used there? I do not.
81. Would it be a thousand volts, or less? I should not think it would be less
82. Mr. Barbour.] Would the dangers you have referred to be likely to arise if the electric wires were laid under ground? No.
83. You think it would be better then that these wires should be underground than that they should be stretched on poles? I think they should be laid underground. I do not think they should be laid overhead at all.
84. Chairman.] You consider that it should be compulsory that they should be laid underground? Yes.
85. Mr. Barbour.] Have the accidents which have occurred been numerous, or have they occurred only occasionally? Only occasionally; but they have lost a great many lives by electricity in America. The lives of several firemen have been lost in America when engaged in putting out fires. A man cuts an electric wire to get a ladder up to the window of a burning house, and on coming into contact with the naked wire is killed on the spot.
86. Is there a probability of more fires occurring from electricity than from gas? Fewer fires would occur, I think.
87. In that respect, then, electricity would be safer than gas? Yes. I must qualify this a little. I do not think that in our public buildings we should entirely trust to the electric light. I think it should be combined with either gas or lamps. There should be two or three different lights in a theatre, so that in the event of one failing, the other could be used in case of a panic.
88. You do not know any serious objection to the system of lighting by electricity? None whatever.
89. Have you any knowledge of the use of electricity as a motive-power? I have seen it used as a motive-power for small motors at home. At Simmon's, for instance, they have a motor; but electricity was not used very extensively for this purpose when I left London, which is now nearly three years and nine months ago.
90. Do you know of any objection to the application of electricity by a company for the public use? No; I should say none.
91. And you think the light would be a good description of light, equal to or better than gas? Well, of course if it is steady, it would be better than gas.
92. Mr. Levy.] And less dangerous? Oh, yes; less dangerous.

William Platts, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- W. Platts, Esq.
28 Mar., 1888.
93. Mr. Levy.] What are you? I am a mechanical engineer, representing Marshall, Sons, & Company of Gainsborough, England.
94. Will you tell the Committee what experience you have had in central lighting stations at home? An engineer is not necessarily an electrician, and I can only speak of electric lighting from an engineer's point of view. I have had considerable experience in laying down steam-engines and other electric lighting plant for driving dynamos to produce electricity for lighting purposes in large cities and at Home. For instance, there is the Kensington Court installation, consisting of 5,000 lamps, also the installation at Grosvenor Gallery, which lights the streets and private houses as well as public clubs or buildings in the neighbourhood. At the Vienna Exhibition there is also an installation of 7,000 lamps.
95. Is that lit up by your Company? Partly. We have supplied some engines, and are putting down new boilers. This is a representation of the electric light installation at the late Liverpool Exhibition, which will give the Committee some idea of what the central plant will be in Sydney, though I do not suppose that the latter will be as large. We also lit up the Edinburgh Exhibition; there were 2,500 lights there.
96. From your experience at Home and in other places do you think that if a central station were established here for electric lighting purposes it would be successful, and would be a benefit to the public? Yes, most decidedly. I should think it would be a great benefit, because there are advantages in favour of electric lighting here which do not exist at Home. There is little or no heat thrown from the lights, which is a great consideration in a hot country like this.
97. Have you known during your experience any fatal accidents to have occurred from the use of the electric light? I have known of one instance, in which one of our workmen was killed, but it was through his own carelessness. It was when we were engaged in putting down the electric light at the Liverpool-street Station, London. This was about six or seven years ago, before the wires were insulated. The man slipped from a ladder and caught hold of a wire to save himself. He caught the wire by both hands. If he had only caught it by one hand he would not have been hurt. At the present time, however, all these wires are heavily insulated, so that if you catch hold of any of them you experience no injury.
98. I believe that the wires connected with the central station of the Grosvenor Gallery are underground? Yes, and in sub-ways.
99. Have you ever known any accident to occur where the wires have been insulated? No, never. The accident I have mentioned is the only one I have ever known.
100. Can you give us any opinion as to whether the cost of the electric light at Home is less or greater than the cost of gas? Decidedly less. The cost would be still less out here, where you pay 6s. 6d. and sometimes 12s. 6d. a thousand for gas, as against 2s. 6d. in the old country.
101. Mr. Barbour.] Taking 6s. 6d. as the price of gas, how much less would the price of electricity be? I could not say positively. Perhaps 25 per cent. less.
102. Mr. Levy.] You mean 25 per cent. less than the price of gas at Home, namely, 2s. 6d. a thousand? Yes.
103. Mr. Barbour.] That would be one half of what is paid at present for gas here? Yes; it is about a half less. Of course out here you pay much more for labour than is paid at Home. Here again there is a saving by the use of electric light, because the amount of labour employed in the production of gas is considerably greater than that employed for the production of electric light.
104. Mr. Frank Smith.] Are the insulation wires laid by you always tested by an authority in the various places where you lay them? They have to be manufactured under stringent laws passed by the Board of Trade.
105. Mr. Barbour.] From your experience of different methods of lighting, you believe that the electric light will compare favourably with any other light known at present? Most decidedly so.

106. Do you think it will be one of the principal lights in the future? Undoubtedly, I think so.
107. And that it is quite as safe as, or safer, than gas? Yes.
108. There is less heat, and altogether you think it is a better light than gas? Yes; and it consumes no air, that is another great advantage.
109. Can it be easier applied as a motive power than gas can? Yes.
110. It can be used for driving small machines? Yes. If you go to the exhibition now being held in Sydney you will see a small installation driving some sewing-machines.
111. And if this Company were allowed to erect extensive works so as to be able to supply power and lighting to the city in large quantity, do you think it would be a great advantage to the city? Most decidedly.
112. Mr. Levy.] Will you explain in what respect the electric light is safer than the gas as far as manipulation is concerned? The incandescent or glow lamp will not burn in the air, and has to be enclosed; and directly the globe is broken and the least particle of air gets into the lamp it goes out, and in this way there is absolutely no danger of fire. Then, again, a great advantage of the incandescent system is that no matches are required. Besides the increased safety thus given great convenience results. When you get home of an evening; and enter your room in the dark, all you have to do is to touch the button; and the lamps are lit. In the case of gas, you have first of all to find the matches, which, very often under such circumstances; are not where you expect them to be. In this respect the electric light is much safer in regard to accidents from fire.
113. Mr. Barbour.] It was stated in the papers the other day that electricity set fire to a house on the coast—would there be any chance of the electricity supplied by this company setting fire to anything? I should not think so. I do not see how the house could have been set on fire by electricity. If a house is consumed by lightning the destruction is instantaneous, and the fire would not be the result of a gradual process of combustion.
114. Such a fire would not be likely to occur from the application of electricity by this Company? No.

Present:—

MR. DAY, | MR. FRANK SMITH.
H. H. BROWN, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

A. E. Hemsley, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

Alexander Edmund Hemsley, Esq., sworn and examined:—

115. Chairman.] You are solicitor for the Bill? I am.

116. Will you state to the Committee whether, on behalf of the promoters of the Bill, you have communicated with the City Council of Sydney on the subject of the proposed introduction of electric lighting? Yes. On the 29th March, my firm addressed the following letter to the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Sydney:—

A. E.
Hemsley, Esq.
12 April, 1888.

Re the Sydney and Suburban Electric Lighting Act.

Gentlemen,

We have been directed by the Chairman of the Select Committee, appointed by the Legislative Assembly to inquire into the propriety of and to report upon the above-mentioned Act, to forward you herewith six copies of the proposed Bill presented by Messrs. Henry Taylor and George Kerry Kirkland, and to call your attention thereto.

At the same time the Chairman of the Committee will be glad to learn, at your earliest convenience, your views on the matter, and whether you propose to examine any witnesses thereon, in which case he will feel obliged by your furnishing him with the names and addresses of such witnesses, in order that he may issue the necessary summonses for their attendance to give their evidence before the Select Committee, the further inquiry into the matter having been adjourned until Thursday, the 5th proximo, at half-past 10 o'clock.

Please address your reply to the Chairman, No. 2 Committee Room, Legislative Assembly, Macquarie-street.

117. Did you receive any reply to that letter? None whatever.

George Kerry Kirkland, Esq., recalled and further examined:—

118. Mr. Hemsley.] I believe you desire to supplement the evidence you gave on a former occasion. Will you give the Committee the information you wish to afford? In my evidence on the last occasion I omitted to state that plans would be kept for inspection of all mains; that tests would daily be made, and a record kept of all plant and instruments, for the inspection of Government or Corporation officials. All cables used will stand an insulation test of 500 megohms. The Company will be prepared to furnish a guarantee against damage to private interests, and, for this purpose, to deposit a sum of money in any bank appointed by the Government. This refers to any damage which might arise during the execution of the works.

G. K.
Kirkland Esq.
12 April, 1888.

119. Mr. Frank Smith.] Do you intend to insert an additional clause in the Bill with regard to the plans? Yes; and also the provision with regard to daily tests, which is important, as any person appointed by the Government or the Corporation can see and use the instruments for making these tests. During my last examination before the Committee I was asked to define what amount of pressure was allowed, and the standard for the current as used at Home. The standard now used at Home is 1,000 volt-ampères, or equal to a pressure of 10 ampères under an electro-motive force of 100 volts per hour. That is the standard which the Board of Trade allows at Home, and the restrictions are made so that no current shall exceed 200 ampères.

120. Mr. Day.] Are the promoters of this Bill prepared to pay a reasonable amount into the Treasury for the purpose of compensating private persons for damage that may be done through the working of the electric light? Certainly.

121. Have you considered what the amount would be? That was left open, so that we might meet the views of the Committee.

122.

G. H.
Kirkland,
Esq.
12 April, 1888.

122. In the event of this amount being expended a like sum would be again deposited? Just so.
123. And in the event of any portion of the amount being expended such portion would be replaced by the Company; supposing that £5,000 or £10,000 was the amount deposited, and of this £1,000 was taken out to pay compensation for damage done, would the Company pay in another £1,000 to make up for this amount? I do not think we should do that, for this reason. If there was any damage done it would be when the plant was in course of erection, and the guarantee would of course only apply during the period that the works were in process of execution.
124. But is there no fear of damage after the Company is in working order? None at all.
125. Is there no danger from fire? None whatever. The Superintendent of Fire Brigades stated in his evidence that electricity is safer than gas. Whatever system we adopt will be a continuous current system, and so far as fire is concerned a current will only be established equal to (say) 150 volts, of course with a sufficient electric power to supply the number of lamps we have. Fire cannot possibly take place, because each main is regulated by what is called a safety fuse, and should the mains become overcharged, or the machinery in the engine-room refuse to act, the fuse would melt, and thus prevent any damage being done.
126. What casing will be put round the wires in the streets? They will all be underground, in a proper sub-way.
127. What is the casing? Brick. There will be a kind of brick covering.
128. What are the wires covered with? They are covered with asbestos, then bitumen, and sometimes nigrite, or a compound of india-rubber, gutta-percha, and several other ingredients.
129. Is there any danger of the wires crossing? They could not possibly cross, because they are all carried on proper bearers and carriers. The cables themselves will be almost 3 or 4 inches thick in the main, so that they will be almost as solid as a solid copper rod.
130. Then you think that the use of the electric light in a city like Sydney would not be likely to cause fires? There would be no danger whatever of fires.
131. Have you had any experience of the working of the electric light in commercial buildings or stores? Yes; I am working several installations now. I am at present lighting the Sydney University, where I have a large contract for 340 lamps.
132. Are you aware whether the insurance companies raise the premiums on building supplied with the electric light? No, they do not.
133. They make no difference at all? They make no difference, provided the supply of electric light to the building is carried out according to the rules laid down—the Phoenix rules.
134. And you intend to carry out these Phoenix rules? Certainly, if only for our own safety.
135. Then the insurance companies who undertake the insurance of these large buildings do not raise the premiums on account of the buildings being supplied with electric light? Not in any way; they rather decrease the premiums. I understand that should this enterprise be floated there is a company who would be willing to insure all people who take the electric light at the same rates at which they are insured at present.
136. Then there is no reason to fear that the introduction of the electric light into a commercial building will raise the insurance or be at all dangerous in any way? No; you can take as an instance Her Majesty's Theatre. The insurance on that building is, I believe, lower than if it had been lit with gas alone. There is also the Theatre Royal. The risk in the case of electricity is less, and there is no danger whatever to human life.
137. Chairman.] I suppose you are also aware that some of the steam-boats that ply between Sydney and the North are lit by electricity, and that the light is supplied to the cabins? Yes.

William Price, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- William Price, Esq.
12 April, 1888.
138. Mr. Hemsley.] I believe you are a member of the firm of Henry Bull and Company, warehousemen, Pitt-street, Sydney? Yes.
139. You have, I believe, a very large warehouse? Yes; one of the largest in Sydney.
140. And you have been a merchant in Sydney for a number of years? About thirty-five years.
141. Will you kindly give the Committee your general opinion as to whether it would be desirable that an Electric Lighting Bill should be passed, for the purpose of introducing the light, not only into the streets, but where the owners desire it—into private houses? I think a great many advantages would result from the introduction of the electric light into Sydney. In the first place, it seems to me that the light is very much clearer and brighter than gas; and, in the second place, that where it is used the temperature is cooler than is the case with regard to gas.
142. And you are of opinion that it would be desirable to have the electric light both for street lighting, and for warehouses? I should think there would be little doubt about that.
143. Have you seen the light working in Sydney? Yes; I have seen it at the Redfern Railway Station and I have seen it in London at the hotels and various other places.
144. Have you seen it anywhere else? I have seen it on the continent; in fact, I could not tell you where I have not seen it when travelling at Home.
145. I suppose you have also seen it working well on the steamers? I have seen it on steamers, but I could not say of my own knowledge whether it was working well.
146. Have you travelled on steamers where the electric light was used? No; the light was not used on the P. & O. boats when I travelled in them, about four years ago. I have been on board these boats when the electric light has been used.
147. So far as you are personally concerned would you be disposed, if this Bill were passed, to use the electric light in your premises? That is a matter which would require consideration. All things being equal I should prefer the electric light to gas.
148. That is all things being equal as regards the expense? Yes; I should think it would be safer, for one thing; certainly it would be a better light.
149. Chairman.] I presume that the electric light would not be so injurious as gas to goods contained in warehouses and large stores? It would be less injurious, I should say, because it does not generate so much heat. There are large houses in London in which the electric light is used. For instance, there is the large retail establishment of Allen, Pierce, & Stone, called the "Waterloo House," near Charing Cross

Cross. They have the whole of their building lit by the electric light. It is one of the leading retail establishments in London, and the goods comprise fabrics and textures of the most sensitive nature. The very fact of such a firm using the electric light in preference to gas would indicate that the former was an improvement.

W. Price,
Esq.
12 April, 1888.

150. Mr. Frank Smith.] Can you give us any other instance? I think that the electric light is also used at Swan and Edgar's, at Regent Circus, Piccadilly, another large West End establishment. It is recognized as one of the leading retail establishments in London for first class drapery. I think also that Lewis & Allenby, of Regent-street, use the electric light, but I am not sure. There is hardly a theatre in London that is not lit by electricity. It is a great advantage being of a cooler temperature.

151. Have you ever heard of accidents arising from the use of electric light? Never.

152. Mr. Day.] Are you aware whether or not the introduction of the electric light into large warehouses has the effect of increasing the insurance? I do not know. I should rather think it would tend to diminish the insurance.

153. Mr. Frank Smith.] If you had the electric light in your large warehouse, I presume that you would also keep the gas in case the other failed? Seeing that we have a gas service already laid, it is probable that we should; but if we were lighting a new building I think we should take the electric light, and not consider it necessary to have the gas as well.

154. You do not think there would be any risk? I do not think so.

155. Mr. Day.] Did you ever know an electric light to fail in any large establishment in London? No.

156. Generally speaking, from your experience, you think it would be a good thing for the people of Sydney if the electric light were introduced? I should think there is no doubt about it. It would be a much better light, both for our public streets and our private houses and stores. It would be infinitely better for the lighting of our parks, for instance.

157. Mr. Hemsley.] Would not the electric light also be an advantage in enabling persons to distinguish colours after dark? That would hardly apply to warehouses such as ours, where we do not do a large amount of business at night. I believe you could distinguish colours better by the electric light than by gas, because you have a purer light to guide you, but I have no experience of the kind. In this country we have such a bright sky and clear light that the selling after gaslight is a mere bagatelle.

William Gardiner, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

158. Mr. Hemsley.] I believe you are head of the firm of William Gardiner & Company, warehousemen, of Sydney and London? Yes.

W. Gardiner,
Esq.
12 April, 1888.

159. You are aware of the object of this Electric Lighting Bill? Yes.

160. Will you tell the Committee what experience you have had in seeing the electric lights in the streets and public buildings? I have not had any direct experience of knowledge of it, but I have seen it very largely used at Home, and I have a knowledge of the principle of the light, inasmuch as a connection of ours is one of the leading electricians of the day—Dr. Harkinson, who supplied the electric light at South Head.

161. Would you give the Committee some information as to your experience of the use of electric light in warehouses and other places in London? It is used very much in London in large spaces, such as railway stations. It is used in fact more in large open spaces than in buildings at the present time. Of course it is used in very many buildings. But it is not so necessary in large establishments at Home as it is out here, where the climate is hot, and where the electric light is, on this account, peculiarly suitable, as the heat from it is very small compared with that from gas. Of course, the light is very good indeed, especially the little yellow lights. I do not care so much about the white ghastly light.

162. Electricity is used in warehouses in London? Yes.

163. Could you mention any large warehouse? I do not know that I could. There is an obstacle to the use of the electric light in large warehouses in London, because, up to the present, they have not a public supply. If there was such a supply the warehouses would connect. In the same way, many warehouses did not have hydraulic-power, but as soon as the public supply was provided they were only too glad to obtain it, and so it would be with the electric light. At present they have not a public supply, but if they had I have no doubt that a great many places would use the electric light.

164. I believe you are the resident partner of your firm in London, and are only out here on a visit? Yes.

165. As a matter of fact you know that notwithstanding that there is no public supply in London electric light is in use in many warehouses there? Yes. At present large consumers have to generate their own electricity, which is an expensive process. Their machinery may break down and give them a great deal of trouble, but if they could draw the electricity from a public main, I have no doubt the electric light would meet with a very large consumption.

166. Mr. Day.] Have you seen the electric lighting in full working order in London? Yes, in various places.

167. And each large warehouse provides its own electric power? I believe that is so at present. Possibly two or three may club together and form one installation, but so far as I know there is no general supply. I believe that in some parts of London, the corporation has a supply.

168. But there is no syndicate or company? I do not think so.

169. The supply of electricity by individuals is of course much more expensive than would be the case if there was a general system? Yes. If there was a general supply the light would be much cheaper and more certain. It is the same with gas; if you have to make your own gas it becomes a troublesome and expensive process.

170. If these people in large warehouses in London have already a plentiful supply of gas is there any reason why they should go to this great expense to provide electric lighting? The electric light is so much better, so much purer; gas vitiates the air so much.

171. And they found it to their advantage to go to the expense of introducing the electric light themselves, although they had a plentiful supply of gas? It is done in many places, but warehouses have not done it much. I know of one warehouse that gave it up simply from the uncertainty of the supply. They laid down their engines, but they found that to produce the electricity themselves was too troublesome and too costly. Nearly all warehouses if they could only use a public supply would certainly do so.

- W. Gardiner, Esq.
12 April, 1888.
172. Mr. Helmsley.] Then if there was a Company furnishing a public supply, as proposed by this Bill, it would be very advantageous to the people generally? Yes; especially in a climate like this.
173. I believe that your warehouse is one of the largest in Sydney? Yes; I suppose it is as large as any.
174. If a public supply were obtained would you use the electric light? Certainly; if the Company were in existence and we could draw a main from the street we should connect. Electric light is so much safer. You do away with all open lights. There is no poisoning of the air, and very little heat. In the latter respect the light would be an immense boon in a climate like this.
175. Chairman.] And is not gas injurious to certain kinds of merchandise? No doubt. Looked at in any way the electric light would be an immense benefit to people here; not only to business people, but to all private residents. You simply press a button, and your room is lighted. There is no necessity for lighting matches, or anything of that sort.
176. Mr. Day.] I suppose you could put one of these electric lights in amongst the finest drapery, and it would not catch fire? No, it could not.
177. Mr. Helmsley.] If a Company were started do you not think that there would be very little difference between the cost of the light and that of gas? I do not see why it should be more expensive. I believe the experience at Home is that it is not more expensive than gas if it is properly laid. I know that individuals at Home use it, and produce their own electricity. I know one individual at Home who produces electricity for his own private house, and he says it is as cheap as gas.
178. You saw it used in the house? Yes.
179. Was it a pleasant light? It was delightfully pleasant, and there was hardly any heat from it. If individuals can supply the light as cheaply as gas—which, however, I doubt—there is every reason to believe that, produced by a company in large quantities, it could be supplied as cheaply as gas. With regard to the laying of electric wires I would suggest that some arrangement might be made with the Corporation by which sub-ways would be at once laid down for all descriptions of pipes. The sub-way could be constructed about 5 feet high, along which water-pipes, gas-pipes, and electric-pipes might be carried. This would obviate the necessity of having constantly to break up the streets, and in regard to repairs a man could take his lantern, and simply walk along the sub-way and do what was necessary. In the new streets in London this has been done.
180. Assuming that we cannot have these sub-ways, do you think that if an arrangement were come to between the Hydraulic-power Company and this proposed Electric Lighting Company, the one breaking up of the roads could do for both companies, and that the pipes could be laid together? I do not see why it should not be done. I certainly think that if the Corporation would drop all this antagonism, and act with the desire to pull together they might improve the city very much indeed by making a sub-way and having all the pipes together.

Charles Timothy Starkey, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- C. T. Starkey, Esq.
12 April, 1888.
181. Mr. Hemsley.] You are a member of the firm of Starkey & Taylor, chartered accountants, Sydney? Yes.
182. Have you any experience of the way in which the electric light is worked? Yes, a little.
183. Have you seen it working in Sydney? Yes; I have seen it in the streets and in the theatres.
184. Do you think it works well? Yes. I have also seen it working at Home. I have seen it working in shops in London. It has worked very well indeed. I was only reading this morning a paragraph which appeared in the Sydney Mail about a week ago as to the deleterious effects of artificial lighting. I noticed that the most deleterious light was the candle light, at which I was rather surprised, and that the least was the electric light.
185. In your opinion is it a desirable thing that the electric light should be introduced into Sydney? I think so.
186. From conversations you have had with various merchants do you know whether it would be likely to be utilized by them? I believe it would be adopted if it could be supplied at a reasonable price.
187. Mr. Day.] Do you know whether the electric light in London is supplied by companies, or whether each house has its own machinery? I believe there are companies. It is some years ago since I was at Home, but there were several companies then in existence, and I fancy they paid a royalty.
188. Do they lay mains through the streets, or is machinery used in each house? I could not say.
189. Have you ever heard of any accident caused by the electric light? Only one, and that was seven or eight years ago, when electric lighting was in its infancy. The accident was caused in this way,—The wires had just been laid to some pleasure grounds, and a carpenter walking along a scaffold put out his hands to steady himself, and accidentally touching one of the wires was killed on the spot.
190. The wires were not covered then? No.
191. Such an accident could not happen, I suppose, if the wires were thoroughly insulated? No.
192. Did you ever hear of any accident to the electric light causing damage by fire? No.
193. Did you ever hear of insurance companies raising the rates of insurance in consequence of the use of this light? No.

TUESDAY, 17 APRIL, 1888.

Present:—

MR. DAY,

MR. TEECE,

MR. WITHERS.

H. H. BROWN, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

A. E. Hemsley, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

John Arthur, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- John Arthur, Esq.
17 April, 1888.
194. Mr. Hemsley.] You are a member of the firm of Cramsie, Arthur, & Company, general merchants, Kent-street, Sydney? Yes.
195. Have you had any experience in seeing the electric light in different places, in Sydney and Melbourne? Yes; I have had some experience.
196. Have you seen it in the streets? Yes; in the streets, on steamers, and in theatres. 197.

197. What is your opinion with regard to it? My opinion is that it is a very desirable and necessary thing, and I should be very glad to get an opportunity of using it. John Arthur
Esq.
198. Do you find that it is advantageous, for instance, in theatres? Undoubtedly.
199. In what way? The light seemed to me to be better, and the atmosphere purer and cooler, this is of course of great importance in hot weather. 17 April, 1888.
200. I believe that personally you have had experience of the deleterious effects of gas in your own establishment? Yes. Our warehouse in O'Connell-street is badly lighted, and practically we had to leave it. I found the effect upon my eyes, produced by the fumes of gas to be so injurious, that I could not remain there. The same effect was also produced in the case of my clerks.
201. If a general system of lighting were introduced as proposed by this Bill, would you be one of those who would connect it with your establishment? Undoubtedly, that is if the price were not prohibitory.
202. Have you ever heard of an accident resulting from the use of electric light? No.

Francis Bothamley Lark, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

203. Mr. Hemsley.] You are the sole resident partner in Sydney of the firm of Lark, Sons, & Company, merchants, Sydney and London? Yes. F. B. Lark,
Esq.
204. You have had some experience, have you not, of the working of the electric light—as regards seeing how it works in different places? I have had no practical experience. 17 April, 1888.
205. You have seen the light? Yes; I have seen it on board ship, in theatres, and in hotels.
206. Have you seen it in warehouses? Yes; I saw it in a warehouse in Manchester.
207. Did it appear to work well—was it a good light? So far as I could judge, a very good light—and when I saw it on board ship, it appeared to work well. During the whole voyage it was only unworkable for about half-an-hour.
208. Did it strike you, in the first place, that the air was cooler? Yes.
209. Have you ever been told by anybody who used the electric light that it was very advantageous in mercantile establishments? No; I do not know that I have had any conversations particularly on the subject.
210. If a general system of electric lighting were introduced into the city, would you yourself adopt it for your own premises? Provided it were not too expensive, we should adopt it—and if it could be supplied in a similar manner to gas—that is, by meter—or in such a way that we would not have to pay for our neighbours.
211. And you have no doubt that it would be much healthier? Undoubtedly.
212. Have you ever heard of any accident arising from the electric light? No.
213. Mr. Day.] Have you ever seen it in the streets? Yes; I have seen the brush light in the streets and at the Circular Quay, in theatres, and at the Sydney Railway Station.
214. What is your opinion as to the working of the light at the Railway Station? I can only say—as a railway traveller—that it gives a very good light there, a light superior to that of gas.
215. Then it works well in the open air as well as indoors? Apparently.
216. It can be utilized in any way? I should say so.
217. Do you know whether it is safer than gas as regards fire? I have never heard of any great danger from the electric light—I have always looked upon it as being safer. That is one reason why I should like to see something of the kind established, so that we could adopt it in our own warehouse—where we burn gas for many hours in the daytime. It would be far better, I think, if we had the electric light.
218. Mr. Hemsley.] I presume that gas has not a very good effect on some goods? I do not know that it is a particularly deleterious light. Of course it is of a smoky nature.
219. You cannot distinguish colours well where you are obliged to use gas? No; greens and blues are always difficult to distinguish where there is an artificial light, but we do not use it for that purpose.
220. But there must be cases where they do; and this difficulty would be got rid of at once by the use of the electric light, I imagine? I could not say whether or not you could match colours by the use of the electric light better than by gas. You could match colours better certainly, but I should prefer daylight for anything of that kind.
221. Mr. Day.] Do you think it would be to the advantage of the people of Sydney that the electric light should be introduced here? I think that it would be to the advantage of the people generally, in so far that they would get a better light, that is, provided the expense is not too great. I think the expense is a matter which has a great deal to do with it.
222. How far have you travelled on board ship where the electric light was used? To England and back.
223. And did it work very well? It worked all the way from England, and gave satisfaction all the time. I heard no complaints; I am not sure that the light was used on the voyage to England. As I mentioned before, there was only one hour on the voyage from England during which it was not working.
224. Are you aware whether the use of the electric light would induce insurance companies to raise their premiums? I am not aware; I should fancy myself that the effect would be rather to reduce the rates, but I have not made any inquiries on the subject.
225. Chairman.] You do not consider that there would be very much risk? I should think not. If the wires are properly protected I should say there is no danger.
226. And in private houses you consider it would be preferable to use the electric light in a climate like ours? I should adopt it in my own house if I could get it.

William Samuel Foxall, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

227. Mr. Hemsley.] You are a member of the firm of Wickham and Martin, importers, Clarence-street, Sydney? Yes. W. S. Foxall,
Esq.
228. You have had some experience with regard to electric light? I have seen it in connection with various offices, also at the Railway Station, and in the mail boats. 17 April, 1888.
229. Have you seen it in warehouses and offices? Yes; but more particularly in connection with the railway station at Redfern.
230. Have you seen it in Melbourne? Yes.
231. Have you seen it in any warehouses there? No; I saw it used in Melbourne for street lighting in October last. 232.

- W. S. Foxall, Esq. 232. Did it work well? It seemed to work very well indeed.
 233. Chairman.] Do you think it an improvement on gas? Decidedly.
 17 April, 1888. 234. Mr. Hemsley.] If there was a general system of electric lighting would your firm be disposed to connect it with their establishment? Yes; we should not be large consumers, but in our particular business it would be a great advantage. We suffer somewhat from the effect of gas now. Our class of goods have to be lowered to the floor, because above a certain height the heat from the gas injures them. I do not understand electricity, but I know that it is a cooler light. When in the retail business at Goulburn for a good many years I lost considerably by the effect of gas, which perished elastic, for instance. In fact, the introduction of gas there some years ago was almost a disadvantage rather than an advantage, so far as stocks were concerned.
 235. In your opinion the electric light would be advantageous to the public generally? I think so. I think it would be a great improvement to the city generally, and I have often expressed myself in that way. I notice with some pleasure that they have an electric light facing the Redfern Railway Station, at the top of George-street. I observed it last night particularly, and it seemed to throw a remarkably good light.
 236. Mr. Day.] Was the electric light used generally in Melbourne for street lighting? Not generally; but it was used at several of the more prominent corners where they required a better light.
 237. Do you know whether it was produced there by the Corporation or by a private Company? I do not know.
 238. You do not know whether or not it is laid down in the streets of Melbourne? I could not say.

Edward Lloyd Jones, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- E. L. Jones, Esq. 239. Mr. Hemsley.] You are a member of the firm of David Jones & Company, George-street? Yes.
 17 April, 1888. 240. I believe you have had some experience in the way the electric light is worked? I have not had any practical experience, but I have seen it in the old country, more particularly in London, and with respect to its advantages over gas I may say that, in regard to health, when visiting some of the large soft-goods warehouses in London, and particularly Whitely's, where they have the basement lit by electricity.
 241. How many hands do they employ? 3,000. They employ a great many of these hands in the basement, which had previously been lit by gas. At the time of my visit the electric light had been in use for twelve or eighteen months. The manager informed me that they were well satisfied with the use of electricity, that prior to its introduction there had been numerous complaints of the unhealthiness of the basements; that their assistants were continually taking ill, and that the parents of the younger employes complained that their children were affected by the condition of the atmosphere. But after the introduction of electricity the firm found very satisfactory results, and, in fact, had few or no complaints. I suppose that in the room into which I went there must have been 200 or 300 employes engaged in making up country orders on the basement, which was lit throughout with electricity.
 242. Have you seen any street-lighting? I have seen several large arc lights, but I have been speaking of the incandescent lights.
 243. Then it is your opinion that it would be advantageous to the people generally if the electric light were introduced here? On the ground of health, decidedly so.
 244. And on the ground of light? Yes. I did not think of inquiring when in London as to the effect of the electric light upon colours, as to whether delicate shades could be more easily detected than under gas.
 245. You would think it probable that delicate shades would be more easily distinguished under electric light? I should think so, but I do not know from experience.
 246. As a matter of fact, I believe you cannot detect delicate colours under gas? No; there is great difficulty.
 247. Supposing the question of expense were satisfactorily settled, would you be disposed to establish the electric light in your building? Yes, decidedly.
 248. If there was a general system of electric light? Yes; we are strongly in favour of it. Had it not been for the expense of erecting our own dynamo, engines, and all that sort of thing, if there had been a central depôt for the manufacture of electricity, and it could have been supplied without having to purchase and introduce machinery ourselves on the premises, we should certainly have taken it.
 249. You have only been prevented from doing so in consequence of there being no general system? Yes.
 250. Mr. Withers.] As you are so largely interested in the effect of the electric light upon delicate shades of colour, would you be prepared to introduce the electric light into your establishment without first satisfying yourself that there is not likely to be any great difference in this respect? I do not think that would prevent us.
 251. In your case you close of an evening? We do not use very much gas.
 252. Taking the retail shop, do you apprehend there will be any great difference in the effect upon colour? No, I do not. I should have been almost certain to have heard of it if it had been. In the large establishments in London, such as Whitely's and others, I never heard any objection raised against the electric light, on this or any other ground.
 253. Mr. Hemsley.] In fact, a proof is afforded that these large establishments consider the electric light superior to gas by the fact of their having substituted it for gas? Exactly.
 254. And the use of the electric light in these large drapery establishments in London should be sufficient proof that there is not likely to be any disadvantage in regard to distinguishing colour? Yes. We are prepared to have it introduced into our premises, providing the cost is not too great, and take any risk there may be as to its effect upon shading and colour.
 255. Chairman.] In regard to risk of fire, do you consider the electric light more or less dangerous than gas? I think it is less dangerous.
 256. Mr. Hemsley.] Have you ever heard whether the use of electricity has affected the price of insurance—whether insurance has been raised? I have never heard of its having been raised.
 257. And you think it probable that it would not be raised? I think so, but I have never tested the question. With respect to goods of a delicate nature, they would suffer less under electricity than under gas.

gas. There would be no smoke, and consequently no discoloration, as is the case with gas. I may say, on behalf of my own firm, that we are strongly in favour of the introduction of electricity, and should hail it as a great boon. We have occasionally late hours, when we are getting out our quarterly or half-yearly patterns.

E. L. Jones,
Esq.
17 April, 1888.

258. Mr. Withers.] I suppose in some buildings, not so modern as yours, it is necessary, owing to their construction, to burn a light in some parts all day? Yes, in the basements.

259. In some of the old buildings they have to burn gas all day? Yes.

260. In such cases the electric light would be a special boon? Yes; it would improve the health of the persons employed there very much. On that ground I think it would be very desirable.

261. Mr. Day.] Where electric light is adopted there is no necessity to use matches? No; that would be one great risk done away with.

262. Chairman.] Do you think the light would be a great advantage in private houses? I think so.

263. Mr. Day.] How is the light produced in London, by a company or by private individuals? It is six years since I was in London, and I think then the consumers all had their own machinery. That was the difficulty. It would have been much more largely used if it had been supplied by a company.

264. I presume that the light would be more expensive supplied by individuals themselves than if there was a general system? So I understood.

Benjamin Backhouse, Esq., called in, sworn and examined:—

265. Mr. Hemsley.] I believe you are an architect, and also Chairman of the City Improvement Board? B. Backhouse,
Esq.

266. You have, I believe, recently returned from a visit to Europe? I have.

267. Would you kindly tell the Committee, in a general way, what you think of the electric light as seen by you in the old country, and whether it would be advantageous to the people here to have it either in the streets or in the warehouses? I may say at once that I think it would be an immense advantage, not only in the streets, but also in private dwellings and warehouses. I saw it in operation in various places in London; for instance, at the Charing Cross Railway Station, where there are many thousands of lights constantly going. Although, unfortunately, I had not the opportunity to investigate the matter as I intended, yet, hearing that at Leamington there was a house-to-house lighting by electricity, I wrote to the Town Clerk of that city, who sent me a printed paper [Appendix B] giving a description of what had occurred at the installation of the light, and I believe that subsequently matters went on very satisfactorily. It seems that at Leamington the light is supplied at a central station to distances of two, three, four, and six miles, and possibly further if necessary, and that the most beneficial results have followed. One of the advantages which attaches to the use of the electric light is the fact that the consumption of oxygen is entirely obviated. There are many other advantages, such as cleanliness and the instantaneous lighting and putting out of the light. In a city this latter is a most important thing. In some parts of London great inconvenience is caused by the fact that the lamplighters have large circuits, and in some places the lamps are lit too early, and in others too late. The same thing obtains in Sydney. Then again, what a comfort it would be to us if on some dark afternoon—and this is especially the case in London when fogs come on—the place could be lighted up instantaneously. When I was last in London there was an intense fog. I started from Victoria station, an underground railway station, to see if I could find my way to the central station, and a fog coming on suddenly I had the greatest difficulty to find my way. The light is also an advantage in regard to coolness. Then again, as the light is enclosed in hermetically-sealed globes, the escape of injurious gases is impossible. On this account the light would be safer than gas. I believe it is proved in practice that in the case of inflammable material, if the glass globe breaks the light becomes instantaneously extinguished without the material catching fire. The insurance companies are waking up to this fact, and beginning to encourage the light a great deal. Like everything new, its merits are slow of obtaining recognition, but there is no doubt the insurance companies are now alive to the advantages of the light, and the time is close at hand when they will reduce the cost of insurance on buildings lighted with electricity. I know that it is a common idea that in the event of a house being burnt down the whole town would be deprived of electric lighting for the time being, and would be plunged in a state of darkness. I believe this is entirely overcome both at Eastborne and Leamington by the use of a fuse at the entrance to each house, so that when a certain amount of heat takes place within the house itself and reaches this connection it is fused, and the connection is cut off entirely. That, I believe, has been successfully demonstrated in practice. Then the beauty of the light is another point in its favour. I have seen some rooms in London lighted up in the most artistic manner with imitations of flowers suspended in various parts of the room, having a most elegant and charming effect.

17 April, 1888.

268. On the point of safety, do you think it is possible that if by any chance the wire became uncovered the effect would be that the Post Office, for instance, would be likely to be burnt down. Have you heard of such a thing, and would you think it possible? I have not heard of such a thing, and I do not think any such result would be possible. If I had time to read up a little more on the matter I think I could show that that would be impossible. Twenty or thirty years ago possibly some serious accidents might have occurred, through what is termed a high tension current, but now a low tension current is introduced into private houses and places where electricity is used generally, and there is no danger, and the wires may be touched with impunity. In England there are not more than three or four towns where there is a house-to-house lighting by electricity, so that the electric light is quite in its infancy. Eastborne, I believe, has been lighted with electricity for about five years, so that there they have had considerable experience in the matter, and the supply of the light has been extended from time to time with beneficial results.

269. I mentioned the Post Office because I have heard that such a thing was likely to happen. Suppose, for the sake of argument, there had been any accident in connection with any part of the wires, I believe you say it is connected at the various houses by fuses, so that if an accident happened the Post Office would be as a matter of fact immediately shut off? Quite so.

270. Therefore it could not be burnt down in the way suggested? It could not possibly be. The light has got a long way beyond that stage.

271. Are you aware whether or not the electric light in Leamington is supplied by a company? It is supplied by a company—I think the Midland Brush Electric Light and Power Company. 272.

- B. Backhouse, Esq.
17 April, 1888.
272. Mr. Day.] Have you heard whether any accident has occurred in Leamington in connection with the electric light? I heard of no accidents. During the whole of my inquiries throughout England, where the electric light is used extensively on private premises, I did not hear of an accident having occurred recently. The installation at Leamington was opened about the middle of last year.
273. And in Eastbourne, where you say the light has been in use for five years, did you ever hear of any accident resulting from it? No; I heard of nothing wrong in connection with it. I did not see it myself in working order either at Eastbourne or at Leamington, but I wrote and got full particulars.
274. Mr. Hemsley.] In your position as Chairman of the City Improvement Board, do you think the light would be desirable, generally speaking? I think it would be very desirable. Even if it were double the price of gas I think it would be very desirable, especially in this hot climate. I was at work the other night at the Improvement Board, and really, the gas turned me out. I had to leave the room; it was insufferable. It seems to me that the electric light would be worth three times the price of gas, and I should pay three times as much for it if I could afford it.
275. Mr. Withers.] Do you know whether the light supplied by this Company is the same as the light at the Arcade? I cannot say.
276. There is a portion of the machinery at the Arcade which, if a man touches he is killed instantly. I should like to know how far a similar danger would exist in the case of light proposed to be supplied by this Company? I have it from the best authorities in England, that in actual experience there is no danger if the light is introduced in the manner adopted at Leamington and Eastbourne.

Edward Charles Cracknell, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- E. C. Cracknell, Esq.
17 April, 1888.
277. Mr. Hemsley.] I believe you are Superintendent of Telegraphs? Yes.
278. Have you read the Bill before the Committee? No; I have not had an opportunity of reading it. I have just received a copy for the first time.
279. Would you kindly tell the Committee what is your opinion as to the desirability of introducing a scheme of incandescent electric lighting in Sydney? I think it very desirable that a thorough system of electric lighting of some kind, arc or incandescent, should be adopted as early as possible.
280. Both for street lighting, and for house-to-house and warehouse lighting? For all kinds of lighting. Perhaps it would be preferable to light the streets on the arc system, but the incandescent electric light would certainly be an advantage for all indoor lighting.
281. Being much cooler? Very much cooler than gas.
282. And more healthy? More healthy.
283. And less dangerous? And less dangerous.
284. Mr. Day.] Would it interfere in any way with your wires for the telegraph system? Oh; yes; decidedly. In all lightings of this kind it would be absolutely necessary, and I think the Government should insist, that all electric light companies should place their wires underground.
285. Mr. Hemsley.] Having regard to the fact that it is proposed under this Bill to put the wires underground you see no particular objection to it? No particular objection as long as the leads and cables are put underground.
286. Mr. Day.] Do you think there ought to be any Government supervision over the putting down of these wires? Decidedly. There should be constant Government supervision, with powers to enter premises to see that the leads and lines are properly erected and properly insulated.
287. You think that should be a portion of the Bill? There should certainly be a clause in the Bill to cover that.
288. Chairman.] You mean that there should be a Government inspector? Yes; that there should be a Government inspector placed under me. I think we provided for something of the kind in the Grafton Bill.
289. Mr. Day.] Will you read clause 24 of this Bill, and see what is proposed there? This should be strengthened by giving the Government power to appoint an inspector.
290. These electric wires must be kept away from your wires? Decidedly.
291. At what distance, in places where they cross? In fact they ought not to be allowed to go overhead at all.
292. But underground? It does not matter a bit, we have no underground wires.
293. But you may have directly? We may possibly at some time, but I do not think it would seriously affect us if the wires were laid underground, because then there would be no chance of getting into actual contact. There should be a distance, of course. It would be better to say the wires should be within so many feet of our lines.
294. Only in crossing? In crossing also.
295. That is the most dangerous part? Yes; but I am not so much afraid of the underground system, because I do not suppose we shall come to the underground system unless we adopt a regular conduit or sub-way.
296. Mr. Hemsley.] Would it not be desirable to have a sub-way for telegraph wires, water-pipes, and all other pipes? That is the proper way to carry it out, but it is so fearfully expensive that it becomes a question whether companies would care to go to such an expense?
297. Mr. Withers.] Where does the danger exist? If the electric light wires, carrying such heavy charges, came into contact with the wires it would set fire to our buildings and apparatus, and destroy our telephone exchange, and this we have to guard against. If a gale of wind, a runaway horse and cart, or any similar accident were to knock down their wires and bring them into contact with ours the whole of our telephone exchange would be destroyed.
298. Mr. Day.] But if the wires were put underground there would be no danger? I do not think so; I think it would be far safer to do that, and if we put our wires underground we must take care to put them a certain distance from theirs.
299. They must keep a certain distance from you? It all depends upon who is down first.
300. You think that if the introduction of these wires were placed under the supervision of your Department it would be perfectly safe? Yes. I should make such rules as would ensure the public safety.
301. Mr. Withers.] Is there sufficient width in our streets to keep the lines sufficiently far apart to guard against danger? Yes.

E. C.
Cracknell,
Esq.

17 April, 1888.

302. What distance would they be apart? About a couple of feet would be ample. Not that there would be any particular danger from the fusing of our lines in that way, but there would be this danger, that our very minute charges if we went underground would be affected by the heavy charges from their lines.
303. Our streets are only 66 feet wide. We have paved most of them and arranged for gas and water, and by the time we get our sewerage completed and all these different tunnels for the different pipes, we may, with only 12 feet to work upon, have to go under the foundations of people's houses, and what then? Very close quarters, no doubt; but that can be sufficiently arranged by going deeper.
304. Mr. Day.] I suppose that if Government supervision were exercised in the matter there would be no danger? The Government supervision would provide for a great many of these questions.
305. But if Government supervision were properly carried out there would not be the slightest danger in any way from the introduction of this light? No; we should be careful that there would be no danger.
306. No danger in warehouses or private houses? No; because we must have power to enter.
307. No danger of anyone touching the wires and being killed, or anything like that? That would have to be provided against.
308. What I mean is that there would be no wire left open so that anyone could come into contact with it? We must take care that it is all properly boxed in.
309. And with that care that you suggest you are satisfied that there would be no danger in the introduction of the electric light throughout the entire city? No, not under proper supervision. Of course there is a danger with the arc light, because you must go up to such an enormous power, perhaps over 2,000 volts; but with the incandescent light, which was mentioned just now, if you do not exceed 200 volts there is no danger.
310. If the electric light were brought into operation and gas done away with, would there be any danger of the city being left suddenly in total darkness? No, if proper arrangements were made; because you must duplicate your machinery, duplicate the whole apparatus, and then you would have a system of zigzag, so that every alternate light might possibly go out through an accident, but certainly not all of them.
311. Is this electric light merely in its infancy? No. I think it is now so far advanced that we may safely consider it of established public utility.
312. Do you gain more experience as time goes on? Yes; we have advanced very much since the Grafton Bill.
313. I suppose that every day something new comes to light? Every week or every month. Sometimes it takes a jump. Sometimes we do not hear anything of it for six months or more.
314. Would the electric light be cheaper than gas to warehousemen? In my opinion it would be considerably cheaper when once worked on a proper system.
315. And do you think that the introduction of the electric light would have the effect of raising the insurance premiums or of lowering them? It would have the effect of lowering them, I should say, being far safer.
316. It is less dangerous than gas? Much less dangerous. There is nothing at all to go wrong if the light is properly managed. Your safety-plugs would secure you from fire.
317. Mr. Hemsley.] The safety-plug is what Mr. Backhouse referred to in his evidence as a fuse? Yes.
318. The safety-plug is a plug attached to the main at the entrance to each house for the purpose of cutting off connection in case of danger? If the power is too strong at any time it fuses the plug, and you are cut off, and there is no danger from fire.
319. You have seen it working a great deal in England? Yes; I saw a great deal of the electric light when I was at home.
320. In warehouses? I do not know that I went through any particular warehouses, but I have seen it at work in factories.
321. It was found much healthier, I presume? The warehouses in England are seldom kept open late enough in the cities to necessitate a proper system of lighting.
322. But they have fogs? I have no doubt they would take the electric light if it were cheaper.
323. Mr. Day.] Then you are under the impression that under proper Government inspection this light would be a great benefit to the city of Sydney? I have no doubt about it.
324. And be less dangerous than gas? Yes.
325. More healthy? Yes; because the electric light does not consume the oxygen as gas does. In the case of gas the oxygen is being constantly consumed, and in a close room this has a bad effect; but with the electric light there is nothing of the kind.
326. Do the wires last long after being put down? They ought to last for years.
327. They are encased in something, are they not? Yes; they are coated with different dielectrics—some with gutta-percha, some with india-rubber, and some with pitch only.
328. And would these wires be put into a tube or a pipe? They ought to be put into a pipe to make a good job of it.
329. They would not last so well if placed underground without a pipe? No. I do not think it would be a safe thing, because there is always a chance when the streets are being broken up of a workman putting a pick through them. In Berlin, when I was there in 1885, they were establishing a complete system of arc lighting for the whole of the streets, and they employed lead-coated cables, which they simply put into trenches, and had no sub-way. As far as they have worked it has been very satisfactory, but of course it has only been in existence a very short time—two or three years.
330. Is it at all likely that the wires will become defective or worn out so that they would have to be taken up and repaired? I daresay that in course of years the insulation would become damaged.
331. How long? They ought to run ten years.
332. But the streets would not have to be continually cut up here and there? No; I do not think there would be any chance of that.
333. Supposing we had the City lighted with electricity, and everything in proper order, and proper inspection by the Government, how long do you think these wires would last? The conductors themselves—the metal part of them—would last for ever, but the india-rubber coating or insulation would certainly become destroyed in course of time.
334. How long? They would go at any rate ten years without requiring any attention.
335. Then you think that if these wires were properly laid down there would be no necessity of cutting up the streets to repair them? Not the slightest, because they might lay them in sections. If they were laid

E. C.
Cracknell,
Esq.
17 April, 1888.

laid in sub-ways or pipes they could be laid in sections, and the streets need not be cut up at all. They could have test boxes, so that they could take out one section if necessary and put in a new one.

336. Ought the wires to be under the street or under the footpath? Under the footpath, rather than take up the wood pavement.

337. The footpath would be better for the public and less objectionable to the Corporation who manage the roads? Yes; because otherwise you would destroy the cement base of the wooden pavement.

338. Mr. Hemsley.] You have noticed with regard to the supervision that the Bill provides that if the streets are taken up it must be under the superintendence of the Municipal authorities? I have not noticed that, because I have not read the Bill. I think that the whole thing ought to be under Government supervision, so that in the event of any changing of wires we should see that the wires were properly laid and relaid when necessary. I think that Government supervision would be to the advantage of the Company as well as to that of the public.

339. With regard to inspection, suppose the work was proposed to be undertaken, I presume you mean that notice should be sent to you, and that nothing should be done except under the superintendence of your officer, who would be a clerk of works, and see that the workmen did their work properly? Yes.

340. Mr. Withers.] Have you to consult the City Council at present when you require to erect telegraph posts in the city? No; we have a general understanding with them.

341. There appear to be a great many rival inspectors. If this suggestion were carried out, would you require a number of Government inspectors? I think not. I think one man would be able to look after all these things, certainly for many years.

342. Would he be paid by the Company? No. He should be paid by the Government, and be entirely under their control. His appointment would simply be for the protection of the public.

343. There is no more danger from this light in a building in regard to the light setting fire to anything than there is in the case of gas? No; not if it is properly constructed.

344. Mr. Day.] Is there no danger from accident, owing to one of the incandescent lamps bursting? No. Immediately the air comes into contact with a light it goes out. It would not set fire to a powder magazine.

345. Supposing I took a stick and knocked one of these lamps to pieces when the light was burning inside, would it be likely to set fire to the place? It would not ignite gunpowder; we have tried it. In fact, so sure am I on that point that Colonel Roberts and myself have arranged to light the magazines by means of the incandescent light. I would rather have that kind of light in the magazine than any other. Immediately the air comes into contact with it it goes out.

346. Mr. Hemsley.] With regard to the superintendence generally, are you of opinion that it would be unnecessary or undesirable that in addition to the Government superintendence the municipal authorities should have power to superintend any part of it; for instance, the taking up of the streets? I think the whole thing should be placed under the Government.

347. Chairman.] Do you think the electric light would be cheaper than gas? Yes; I think so.

SYDNEY AND SUBURBAN ELECTRIC LIGHTING BILL.

APPENDIX.

[To evidence of G. K. Kirkland.]

A.

STANDARDS for Electric Equipments of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters.

Adopted January 12, 1882; Amended October 15, 1884, and February 18, 1885.

Capacity of Conductors.

For arc lights, the conductors must have a weight per running foot at least equal to that of the wire (or parallel group of wires) constituting the main circuit of the magnetic regulator of the electric lamps, or of the armature of the machine employed, whichever of these is the largest.

For incandescent lights, wherever a connection is made between a larger and a smaller conductor at the entrance to or within a building, some approved automatic device must be introduced in the circuit of the smaller conductor, whereby it shall be interrupted whenever the current passing through it is in excess of its safe carrying capacity.

The safe carrying capacity of a wire is that current which it will convey without becoming painfully warm when grasped in the closed hand.

Insulation.

All wires, machines, and lamps to be so mounted and secured as to insure complete and continuous insulation, with the exception of those parts (such as portions of the lamps or machines, for example) where insulation is impossible, and in this case accidental contact with exterior objects must be prevented by appropriate screens or the like.

In no case must "ground circuits" be employed, or any portion of the system be allowed to come into conducting connection with the earth through water or gas-pipes or otherwise.

Exposed wires must be covered with at least two coatings, one of insulating material next the wire of a thickness and material approved by the Board, another outside of this, of a material calculated to protect the former from abrasion or other mechanical injury.

Where there is a possible exposure to water, the first or second coating must be impervious to the fluid.

Wherever electricity is carried into buildings by conductors from an exterior source, a "cut-out" must be provided at a point as near as possible to the entrance to such building.

The outgoing and returning wires for arc lights should enter and leave each building at points at least one foot from each other.

The wires passing through the exterior walls of a building should be firmly encased in substantial tubes of non-conducting material, not liable to absorb moisture, and placed in such a manner as to prevent rain-water from entering the building along the wire.

In running along walls and the like, wires should be rigidly attached to the same by non-conducting fastenings (the wires themselves being well insulated), and should not be hung from projecting insulators in loose loops.

All wires should be placed at a distance of 8 inches for arc lights and 2½ inches for incandescent lights from each other, and wherever they approach any other wire or conducting body, capable of furnishing another circuit or ground connection, they must be rigidly secured and separated from the same by some continuous solid non-conductor, such as dry wood, of at least ½ inch in thickness.

For incandescent lamp fixtures and electroliers, exceptions may be made to the foregoing rule, in which the wires can be placed nearer than the above prescribed distance to each other, or to other conductors, provided the fixture is fully insulated at the base from the house and ground piping, and further provided that a double-pole safety catch is placed at the base of each fixture, or at the nearest branch connection, as may be required by the Inspector of the Board.

In all cases when combination (gas and electric) fixtures are used, extra precaution must be used to secure complete and continuous insulation from the gas-piping.

Wherever wires are carried through walls, floors, or partitions in buildings, they must be surrounded by special insulating tube of substantial material.

All joints in wires must be made in such a manner as to secure a perfect and durable contact, continuous wires (without joints) to be used as far as possible.

Globes.

Arc lights must be protected by glass globes, enclosed at the bottom to prevent the fall of ignited particles, and where inflammable materials are present below the lamps, a wire netting must be added to keep the parts of the globe in place in case of fracture during its use.

All broken and cracked globes to be at once replaced by perfect globes.

In show windows and other places where inflammable materials are near the lights, spark arresters should be placed at the top of the globes.

Automatic Shunt.

Wherever a current of such high electro-motive force is employed that if concentrated on one lamp of the series it would produce an arc capable of destroying or fusing parts of such lamp, an automatic switch must be introduced in each lamp by which it will be thrown out of circuit before the arc approaches any such dangerous extent.

Companies furnishing electricity from central stations must enter into an agreement with the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, binding themselves to test their lines for ground connections at least once every day (and preferably three times per day), and to report the result of such tests to the Board weekly.

Means by which those in charge of the dynamo-electric machines will be warned of any excessive flow of current, or means whereby the same will be automatically checked, must in all cases be provided.

Switches and Cut-outs.

All switches and cut-outs, which shift, break, or transmit a current, shall be so arranged as to close one circuit before opening the other, and must be mounted on an incombustible base.

Motors.

The rules and regulations under the head of capacity of wires, insulation, automatic out-cuts and switches, shall be observed where electric motors are used, and in addition the motor frames must be properly insulated and so mounted as to be free from grounds, and each motor shall be provided with an approval switch to prevent an excess flow of current.

Storage Batteries.

When the current for lights or power is taken from storage batteries, the same general regulations are to be observed.

Rules and Regulations for the Prevention of Fire Risks arising from Electric Lighting, recommended by the Council in accordance with the Report of the Committee appointed by the Society of Telegraph Engineers and of Electricians on May 11, 1882.

The difficulties that beset the electrical engineer are chiefly internal and invisible, and they can only be effectually guarded against by "testing," or probing with electric currents. They depend chiefly on leakage, undue resistance in the conductor, and bad joints, which lead to waste of energy and the dangerous production of heat. These defects can only be detected by measuring, by means of special apparatus, the currents that are either ordinarily or for the purpose of testing, passed through the circuit. Should wires become perceptibly warmed by the ordinary current, it is an indication that they are too small for the work they have to do, and that they should be replaced by larger wires. Bare or exposed conductors should always be within visual inspection, and as far out of reach as possible, since the accidental falling on to, or the thoughtless placing of other conducting bodies upon such conductors would lead to "short circuiting," and the consequent sudden generation of heat due to an increased current in conductors not adapted to carry it with safety.

The necessity cannot be too strongly urged for guarding against the presence of moisture and the use of "earth" as part of the circuit. Moisture leads to loss of current and to the destruction of the conductor by electrolytic corrosion, and the injudicious use of "earth" as a part of the circuit, tends to magnify every other source of difficulty or danger.

The chief dangers of every new application of electricity arise from ignorance and inexperience on the part of those who supply and fit up the requisite plant.

The greatest element of safety is therefore the employment of skilled and experienced electricians to supervise the work.

I.—The Dynamo Machine.

1. The dynamo machine should be fixed on a dry place.
2. It should not be exposed to dust or flyings.
3. It should be kept perfectly clean, and its bearings well oiled.
4. The insulation of its coils and conductors should be practically perfect.
5. All conductors in the dynamo room should be firmly supported, well insulated, conveniently arranged for inspection, and marked or numbered.

II.—The Wires.

6. Every switch or commutator used for turning the current on or off should be constructed so that when it is moved and left it cannot permit of a permanent arc or of heating.

7. Every part of the circuit should be so determined that the gauge of wire to be used is properly proportioned to the currents it will have to carry, and all junctions with a smaller conductor should be fitted with a suitable safety fuse or protector, so that no portion of the conductor should ever be allowed to attain a temperature exceeding 150 degrees Fah.

8. Under ordinary circumstances complete metallic circuit should be used; the employment of gas or water-pipes as conductors for the purpose of completing the circuit should not in any case be allowed.

9. Bare wires passing over the tops of houses should never be less than 7 feet clear of any part of the roof, and all wires crossing thoroughfares should invariably be high enough to allow fire escapes to pass under them.

10. It is most essential that joints should be electrically and mechanically perfect and united by solder.

11. The position of wires when underground should be clearly indicated, and they should be laid down so as to be easily inspected and repaired.

12. All wires used for indoor purposes should be efficiently insulated, either by being covered throughout with some insulating medium, or if bare, by resting on insulated supports.

13. When these wires pass through roofs, floors, walls, or partitions, or where they cross or are liable to touch metallic masses, like iron girders or pipes, they should be thoroughly protected by suitable additional covering; and where they are liable to abrasion from any cause, or to the depredations of rats or mice, they should be efficiently encased in some hard material.

14. Where indoor wires are put out of sight, as beneath flooring, they should be thoroughly protected from mechanical injury, and their position should be indicated.

N.B.—The value of frequently testing the apparatus and circuits cannot be too strongly urged. The escape of electricity cannot be detected by the sense of smell as can gas, but it can be detected by apparatus far more certain and delicate. Leakage not only means waste, but in the presence of moisture it means destruction of the conductor and its insulating covering by electric action.

III.—Lamps.

15. Arc lamps should always be guarded by proper lanterns to prevent danger from falling incandescent pieces of carbon, and from ascending sparks. Their globes should be protected with wire netting.

16. The lanterns and all parts which are to be handled should be insulated from the circuit.

IV.—Danger to Person.

17. Where bare wire out of doors rests on insulating supports it should be coated with insulating material, such as india-rubber tape or tube, for at least 2 feet on each side of the support.

18. To secure persons from danger inside buildings it is essential so to arrange and protect the conductors and fittings that no one can be exposed to the shocks of alternating currents of a mean electro motive force exceeding 100 volts, or to continuous currents of 200 volts.

19. If the difference of potential within any house exceeds 200 volts the house should be provided with a "switch," so arranged that the supply of electricity can be at once cut off.

Electric Light and Telegraph Wires.

In electric light work no P.O. telegraph line may be altered (except under the Telegraph Act, 1878) or injuriously affected. Before working within 10 yards of a P.O. line (except repairs or laying connections with mains crossing the line J at the nearest point, and running so for 6 feet on each side of it), at least seven days' notice must be given to the Postmaster-General, and the course and nature of the work (including gauge of wire) specified.

B.

INSTALLATION of the Electric Light at Leamington by the Midland Electric Light and Power Company (Limited).

LEAMINGTON has taken the lead among the towns in the Midlands in the adoption of a general system of electric lighting. Indeed, in respect of the completeness and permanence of the installation it has surpassed even the larger towns in the kingdom where electric lighting has been tried. The era of the new illuminant was inaugurated on Tuesday, November 8th, with excellent effect. The concession for the lighting of the town has been granted to the Midland Electric Light and Power Company (Limited). The present arrangement as to terms is exceedingly favourable to the Corporation and the private consumers, though the Company hope to be able to earn a fair dividend as well as to profit by the splendid advertisement which they derive from the successful lighting of a fashionable town like the Royal Leamington Spa. The project has been taken up warmly by the inhabitants. The Town Council have accepted the Company's offer to light Bath-street and the Parade (having in their last contract with the gas company taken power to dispense with the use of gas in certain parts of the town) the Town Hall and Free Library, and the Pump-rooms. The Theatre Royal, the Warwickshire Liberal Club, the Bath Hotel, the Angel Hotel, the establishments of Messrs. Wackrill and Sons and Messrs. Francis and Sons, a large number of the leading shops in the Parade, and Bath-street, and the private houses of Alderman Bright and Councilor Fell, have also been fitted with the new lights. The total number of lights ordered up to the present time is about 1,500, but but it is confidently anticipated that 6,000, the number for which machinery has been laid down, will be wired in the course of twelve months. The Corporation and the private consumers provide their own fittings, but the mains and the producing plant are the property of the company. The lighting at present is entirely by incandescent lamps. Storage batteries are not used, though they can be adopted if a commercially successful system should ever be discovered. Meanwhile the current is supplied to consumers' houses direct from the central works, and is intended to be maintained day and night, every hour of the twenty-four, and every day of the week.

The engine and dynamo house is built on the Company's freehold land in Wise-street, and the compactness of an electric lighting plant is admirably illustrated by contrast with the neighbouring gas works. The site adjoins the Birmingham and Warwick Canal. The building is 91 ft. by 84 ft. 6 in., divided in its length into five bays, the first of which is separated by a wall from the rest of the apartment to form a coaling shed; the firing ends of the steam-boilers projecting through apertures in the wall into this apartment.

Each of the bays is roofed with an unequally pitched roof, the steep sides forming an angle of 60 degrees with the line of springing, and the flatter side an angle of 30 degrees. The steep sides face the north and are glazed throughout their whole length and height with rolled plate glass. The other side towards the south is slated and boarded with V jointed and wrought boarding on the inner side. The timbers of the roof and skylights are also wrought and chamfered, and the whole is varnished. The roofs are carried by large cast-iron gutters with pockets cast on the sides into which the timbers of the roof are fitted. They thus serve as girders to carry the roof and as gutters to convey the rain-water to the descending pipes. Each gutter is in three lengths, supported at the points of junction between the walls by two cast-iron columns. The height to the underside of the gutters is 13 ft., and to the ridge of the roofs 21 ft. The effect of the interior of the shed is one of great lightness.

The walls are painted black to a height of 5 ft. from the floor, and above that are coloured light buff.

Near one end of the coaling-room is the chimney, an octagon stack 78 ft. in height. Into this the smoke from the fires enters by means of a large brick flue beneath the pavement. 500 cubic yards of concrete brick and masonry give solidity to the foundation of the massive machinery bolted thereto. The architect was Mr. J. A. Cossins, of Birmingham; and the builder, Mr. J. Fell, of Leamington. About twice as much land as is covered by the present works remains in the Company's possession for future extensions.

Three locomotive-type boilers supply the steam to the engines. These boilers are entirely of Siemens-Martin steel and are of the highest class of workmanship. All the plates are flanged and worked by hydraulic machinery. The edges of the plates are planed, the rivet-holes are drilled and the seams are double-riveted (by hydraulic power) throughout. In order to secure excellence in the quality, Messrs. Robey not only make the rivets themselves but roll the rivet-iron from their own selected scrap. The boilers themselves are much larger than any to be found upon locomotive engines, having a total length of 19 ft. 3 in., with an external diameter of band of 5 ft. 1 in., and a total heating surface of 740 square feet. The grate-area is 21.28 square feet. The boilers are all tested by hydraulic pressure to 300 lb. per square inch, and are suitable for a working pressure of 140 lb. The boilers weigh no less than 10½ tons each when empty. The draft is led downwards from the smoke-boxes into the subterranean flue which communicates with the chimney-shaft at one end of the engine-house. There will be practically no smoke visible. There are three pairs of large horizontal engines in all, each capable of exerting no less than two hundred effective horse-power, and designed and constructed expressly for this installation by the well-known firm of Messrs. Robey and Co., of Lincoln. The engines embody the very last improvements in mechanical science, and form undoubtedly the finest and most symmetrical display of motive power for permanent electric lighting machinery ever put down in this country. They are upon the compound principle, having high-pressure cylinders of 15 in., and low-pressure ditto of 26 in. diameter respectively, the stroke of both being 2 ft. 4 in. At the back of the low-pressure cylinder of each engine is a jet condenser, its air pump being worked by a prolongation of the piston-rod in the most direct and simple manner. The high-pressure cylinders are fitted with the Pröell automatic valve gear, controlled by the Richardson electric governor. The effect of this combination may be briefly explained thus:—Instead of the usual slide-valve, the steam is admitted by a lifting or equilibrium valve at each end of the high-pressure cylinder. These valves, which are raised alternately by a rocking lever at the beginning of each stroke of the piston, can be released at any given point in the stroke by the action of a "tripping lever," the position of which, in its turn, is regulated by the intensity of the electric current itself passing through solenoids of the electric governor. Thus, the steam admission, and consequently the power of the engine is always under the control of the Richardson governor, and the electro-motive force is automatically kept constant, whatever may be the number of lamps in circuit. Thus the steady brightness of the lamps will always be maintained. The double crank-shafts are of steel, and machined out of the solid, having counter-weights attached to each crank-web, to balance the reciprocating parts. The main bearings are three in number and are cast in one piece with the massive bed plate of each engine (as are the tubular guides also) to diminish the chances of anything working loose. The cross heads are fitted with cast iron slippers, and the eccentric straps are of the same material. Lubrication has been most carefully attended to in all parts of the engine. The power is communicated to the six dynamos, through a line of intermediate shafting, which stretches across the whole width of the engine-room. Each engine is fitted with a heavy grooved fly-wheel, 10 ft. diameter, driving a similarly grooved pulley on the countershaft by means of nine 1½ in. cotton ropes. Six more grooved pulleys of 6 ft. diameter upon the shafting drive the dynamos by ropes in exactly the same manner. Cotton rope has been used as the means of transmission in preference to leather belting, as the irregularities in thickness at the joints in the latter would seriously affect the regularity of running at the dynamos—the numerous ropes giving a practically uniform rotation.

The precautions against breakdown have been so carefully worked out that a stoppage in the supply of electricity seems almost beyond the range of possibilities. In the first place, two of the three boilers are amply sufficient to supply the three engines, the third being a stand-by. The steam-pipes are so arranged that any given boiler can supply any one or more of the engines. By means of friction-clutches any engine can be instantly detached from the main shafting and another substituted, and the same holds good with each of the dynamos. The shafting itself is in three separate lengths connected by two friction-couplings, either of which can be slackened off without shock or stoppage. In addition to the electric governors before mentioned, the engines have a second, or safety-governor, of the centrifugal type, which would take up the running if such an accident as the breakage of a wire should cause a failure of current through the electric governor.

The electricity is generated by six of the Hookham Patent Dynamos, each capable of supplying 1,000 incandescent lamps of 18 candle power each.

These dynamos have double magnets, disposed horizontally, and shunt wound, and an armature of the "drum" type. But instead of the conductor being wound on the surface of the cylinder, as in the "Siemens" armature, or in grooves cut in the surface, as in the "Weston," the peculiarity of these dynamos is that the conductor lies in channels, cut from end to end of the cylinder, close to the surface, but not breaking through it; so that this armature presents to the action of the poles of the field magnets one unbroken surface of iron—an arrangement that has great mechanical as well as electrical advantages. The armature is 25 in. long by 10 in. diameter, and has 18 effective turns. It gives 110 volts at 760 revolutions, with a current of 500 amperes. The electrical efficiency with this load is 97 per cent., and the commercial efficiency 95 per cent. Each dynamo weighs 72 cwt., and occupies a floor space of 8 ft. by 4 ft.

A variety of instruments which have to be at once sensitive, accurate, and durable, are provided in order to enable the electrical engineers in the dynamo-house to control the supply of electricity in accordance with the varying wants of consumers during the 24 hours. In addition to the Richardson Automatic Electric Governor on the engines already referred to, there are fusible cut-outs on each dynamo to protect these as well as the main leads from accidental short circuiting. Then there are the main switches, twelve in number, arranged in order on an enamelled slate-board, measuring 8 x 5 feet. After these, come the galvanometers, one on each main, showing the pressure in the main by means of an index finger moving in front of a graduated dial; by the side of these are resistance boxes, connected with the magnets of each dynamo so as to control the electro motive force by hand in the event of the automatic electric-governor failing to act; and, finally, there are five registering meters, manufactured by Chamberlain and Hookham (Limited) under Mr. Hookham's patents, which measure and record the current passing along each feeding main. An instrument which should measure electricity as gas is measured has long been wanted, and the present invention—at once simple and accurate—completely satisfies the requirement.

It records the amount of current consumed, the result, reckoned in Board of Trade units, being read from dials similar to those to which the public are accustomed in gas and water meters. To give an idea of its sensitiveness, it will start with one-third of the current used in a single lamp, while it will carry sufficient for 150; its rate of rotation never exceeding about 80 per minute. But, notwithstanding this extreme sensitiveness, it is anything but a delicate instrument in construction; and, will, so far as the patentee has been able to test it, run for years without touching.

It consists, in its present form of an electro-motor, whose armature carries the current to be metered, and drives an electric brake, so arranged that the speed is directly proportional to the current in the armatures. For ordinary house installation permanent magnets have been successfully applied. These act without any loss of current or electric energy at all, while the total resistance of the "household" meter is less than one six-hundredth of an ohm. So that if fifty lamps were burning the entire loss of energy due to the current passing through the meter would be about one-twentieth of one per cent. With any number of lamps above three the readings of the meter are accurately correct; for a smaller number they are slightly in favour of the consumer. The patentee of the meter is Mr. G. Hookham, and it is the property of Chamberlain and Hookham (Limited), Birmingham, by whom it is being manufactured, and who are securing it by patent rights in all parts of the world.

The current is taken from the dynamos through these instruments along two sets of feeding mains carried in brick trenches to two distributing boxes, the one placed near the old well, the other by the corner of the Parade and Holly Walk. The trenches were dug from the Company's works to the lower end of the Parade, and then continued on either side of the Parade to its upper end, with a branch at the Town Hall to the end of Holy Walk. The contract for these was placed in the hands of Mr. Fell. The trench on the Jephson Garden side was 2 ft. square, with a 5 ft. excavation, and on the other side 15 inches square, with a 5 ft. excavation. The trenches were bricked at the bottom and sides, and pointed in cement, and therein the cables were laid on wooden bearers supported on slate brackets, the whole being covered with slabs of stone. During the progress of the work considerable difficulty had to be overcome in dealing with the various gas, water, and sewer pipes, but it was fortunately surmounted without any evil effects.

The current is carried in the first instance to distributing boxes, where equal potential is always maintained by either the hand or automatic regulating devices, under the control of the electrical engineer, in the dynamo house, and already described, and from thence the current is led by distributing mains to the various consumers in the town.

The principle of distribution adopted by the Company is known as Dr. John Hopkinson's 3-wire system, by which without increasing the electric motive force a saving of about two-thirds is effected in the weight of the copper conductors, the sections of all of which were calculated by Dr. J. Hopkinson himself. The conductors were supplied by Calenders, Telegraph, and Bitumen Company (Limited); their insulation resistance is equal to 500 megohms at 60° Fahrenheit, and their total length is 13½ miles. The length of the trenches is 3,500 yards, and the distance from the engine-house to the furthest consumer is 1,850 yards.

The distributing boxes are also utilized for street lighting, circuit switches for the street lampwires being placed therein, so that the whole or any section of the street lamps can be lighted or extinguished in a moment without the necessity of visiting each lamp in turn. The total number of new standards erected on the Parade and Bath-street is seventy, viz., fifty with single lights and twenty with three lights, making 110 lights in all; but when the arrangements are complete the existing gas-lamp posts will be transformed into electric light posts, bringing the total number of public electric lights in Bath-street and Parade to 183, and making them the best lighted thoroughfares of their length in the Midland Counties. The incandescent lamp is used, and the light which the Company contracts to supply is equal to eighteen candles, the whole of which by the aid of silver-plated reflectors is utilized on the streets.

The charge, which includes lighting, extinguishing, and cleaning, is to be the same per lamp as is at present paid for the gas.

The Company have also fitted up and supplied the electric light to the Town Hall and the pump-rooms. At the Town Hall there are 349 lights, and at the pump-rooms 166. The cost of the standards and fittings for the Parade and Bath-street was £542 10s., and the fixtures and lamps for the Pump-rooms necessitated an outlay of £212, and for the Town Hall, £475 11s. 6d., a total of £1,230 1s. 6d. In addition, the Company have contracted to supply the new illuminant to the Theatre Royal, the Warwickshire Liberal Club, the Bath Hotel, the Angel Hotel, Messrs. Wackrill & Sons, Messrs. Francis & Sons, and to a number of other establishments, and to the private houses of Mr. Alderman Bright and Mr. Councillor Fell.

About 1,500 lights were ordered on the day the Mayor and Town Council visited the works, and it is confidently anticipated that 6,000, the whole number of which the present works are capable, will be wired in the course of the next twelve months. The electricity will be charged to the consumers at the rate of from 7d. to 4d. per unit, or from about ½d. to ¼d. per lamp per hour.

The capital involved up to the present time has been about £30,000, and the Company anticipate that when the plant is fully employed they will earn a dividend on this of from 7½d. to 12½d. per cent.

The whole of the work has been planned by Chamberlain and Hookham, of Birmingham. The dynamos and electrical apparatus have been manufactured by them, and the other machinery has been made to their specifications and supplied by them to the Company.

The resident engineer to the Company is Mr. Fred. Thornton, who has had large experience in electric work. The laying of the cables and the wiring of the various buildings has been effected under his superintendence, and has given entire satisfaction.

On the 8th November, shortly before dusk, the Mayor (Mr. S. T. Wackrill), with the most of the other members of the Corporation, the Medical Officer of Health (Dr. Baly), the Borough Surveyor (Mr. D. Normandville), the Mayor of Warwick (Mr. S. W. Stanton), and a number of the principal residents in Leamington and the neighbourhood, met Mr. Arthur Chamberlain, Mr. G. Hookham, at the works in Wise-street. Mr. Chamberlain having shown the party over the establishment and described the machinery and its mode of working, the Mayor made a few congratulatory remarks, in the course of which he attributed to the slow progress of electric lighting in this country to the comparative cheapness of gas. His worship then started one of the engines, and switched on the current to the lamps in the engine-house, the street lamps, the lights in private houses and shops, and the minor lights at the Pump-rooms and the Town Hall. A loud cheer was given as soon as the soft but brilliant light of the electric lamps appeared. After further inspection and explanation, the party started for the pump-room. The electric lights in the shop windows proved highly effective, especially where drapery, pictures, or fancy goods were displayed. The excellent way in which the light brought out the colours of the articles on view, and the fact that, there being no danger of fire, the lamps may be distributed entirely with regard to effect, seemed to be the chief factors in this highly successful result. At the Pump-rooms the corridors and small apartments were found to be splendidly lighted by single and grouped lamps. The historic Pump-room itself, however, was in darkness. The party assembled in the room, and the Mayor having given the word, there was instantly a brilliant illumination. In this case three groups each of twelve incandescent lamps have been fixed in the ceiling. Each lamp bulb is mounted, according to a method devised by Messrs. Chamberlain and Hookham, in a bell-shaped mirror, the reflecting surface of course being on the inside, and the curve being designed to aid the effective diffusion of the light. The result of the switching on of the current was hailed with another loud cheer. The next place visited was the Town Hall, the front and portico of which were already brilliantly illuminated, in a manner which would be exceedingly serviceable in the event of a ball or other assembly causing the use of a large number of carriages. At a signal from the Mayor the lights in the main corridor downstairs and those of the principal staircase were turned on with satisfactory results. The lighting of the staircase effected by a row of twelve mirror-mounted lights over-head, was particularly admired. The lighting of the Assembly Room, however, was the crowning success of the undertaking. The gasaliers have been replaced by incandescent lamps, placed in the ceiling and mounted in the same way as those in the Pump-room. A glorious light flooded the hall, and evoked an almost simultaneous wish among the spectators to see the effect of its effulgence on one of those assemblies of "fair women and brave men" for which the hall is so well adapted. The lighting of the Free Library and other rooms having been inspected and pronounced satisfactory, the party assembled in the Council Chamber which was illuminated very effectively by two handsome pendant electroliers of fourteen branches each.

The Mayor, putting on his chain of office, congratulated his colleagues and the inhabitants generally on the progress of electric lighting and the successful inauguration of the system in Leamington. He also expressed to Messrs. Chamberlain and Hookham the obligation the town was under to them for the favourable terms which they had made with the Corporation and the consumers, and the admirable way in which they had carried out the work. (Applause.) Mr. Arthur Chamberlain, in reply, said that the Mayor, during his four years of office, had assisted in many important projects for the benefit of the town; but he thought that his worship would regard this, the closing public act of his mayoralty, as worthy to hold a place with any other in which he had taken part. (Applause.) Having explained the advantages of the electric light in point of cleanliness, health, brilliancy, and coolness over gas, oil, and other illuminants, Mr. Chamberlain argued that Leamington would advertise not only the Electric Light Company but itself by the step it had taken. The people of Cheltenham were discussing how they might best advertise their town, and he commended to them the example of Leamington. (Applause.) He hoped that the consumers would bear with any imperfections that might appear in the commencement of this—the largest and most complete installation of the electric light yet attempted in the United Kingdom—

(applause)

(applause)—and would appreciate the efforts of the Company to improve the service from time to time. He did not think that his Company and the Gas Company would try to cut one another's throats ; they were too sound men of business, he hoped, for that—(hear, hear)—but the competition would be beneficial, as it already had been, to the consumers pecuniarily, and would stimulate both companies to efforts at improvement. The consumers had been promised that the electric light, should cost them not over 30 per cent., more than gas, but they were giving them in their streets electric light at a cost light for light, less than that of gas. At present, however, the Company were making no charge whatever for the supply, which would be continued free for at least the whole of this month. During that time, however, as the works were not quite complete, the supply would only last from dusk till about 11 o'clock. In the course of the month every consumer, he hoped, would be supplied with one of Mr. Hookham's meters, which could be read as easily as a gas or water meter, and would assist them in practising due economy in the use of the light. As to the street lights, only one-third of the proper number had been fitted as yet. It had been suggested that they should have the arc light in the streets. The effect of that, however, would be, he thought, to make the ignorant stare, but the judicious grieve. (Applause.) It would entirely spoil the effect of the lights in the shop windows, and that was not what they wanted in Leamington. (Hear, hear.)

At the conclusion of the proceedings the company adjourned to the Mayor's Parlour, where refreshments were supplied and the health of the Directors, on the proposition of the Mayor, was cordially honored. Afterwards the public were admitted to see the effect of the light in the various parts of the building

SYDNEY HYDRAULIC-POWER COMPANY'S BILL.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, for whose consideration and report was referred on the 10th February, 1888,—“The Sydney Hydraulic-power Company's Bill,”—beg to report to your Honorable House:—

That they have examined the witnesses named in the list* (whose * See List, page 7. evidence will be found appended hereto); and the Preamble having been satisfactorily proved to your Committee, they proceeded to consider the Bill, in which it was deemed necessary to make certain amendments.

Your Committee now beg to lay before your Honorable House the Bill as amended by them, with an amended Title.

J. GARRARD,
Chairman.

Notice of alteration of situation of pipes.

18. If at any time any local authority should think it necessary or expedient to require the promoters to raise or sink or otherwise alter the situation of any of the pipes which shall be laid down for the purposes of the promoters, or to alter the situation of any pipes which shall have been laid down contrary to any of the provisions of this Act, the promoters shall within ten days next after being required so to do by notice in writing, raise or sink or otherwise alter the situation of such pipes according to the notice, and in default thereof it shall be lawful for the local authority to cause such pipes to be so raised or sunk or the situation thereof otherwise altered, and the expense of doing the work shall be paid by the promoters or repaid by the promoters, and such expenses shall be recoverable in the same manner as damages are recoverable under this Act: Provided that the promoters be not called upon to make such alterations in the situation of their pipes unless such alteration be necessary for the carrying out of city improvements or municipal works.

Page 8. Insert the following new clauses to stand clauses 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39 :—

Power of the corporation of Sydney to purchase at prescribed periods.

34. The corporation of the city of Sydney within whose limits the undertaking, property, and apparatus of the promoters or any part thereof passes or is situate may, after the expiration of twenty years from the date of the passing of this Act or at the expiration of each succeeding ten years thereafter, by giving six months' notice in writing, require the promoters to sell, and thereupon the promoters shall sell to the corporation of the city of Sydney the undertaking, property, apparatus, and business of the promoters upon the terms of paying to the promoters the then value thereof, such value, in case of difference, to be determined by three arbitrators, or any two of them, one of whom shall be appointed by the corporation of the city of Sydney so purchasing, another by the promoters, and the third by such other two arbitrators before they proceed in the arbitration. If either the corporation of the city of Sydney so purchasing or the promoters shall neglect or refuse to appoint an arbitrator pursuant to the above provision for two calendar months after the other of them shall have appointed an arbitrator and given notice thereof to the other of them, then the arbitrator already appointed shall appoint a second arbitrator and such two arbitrators shall jointly appoint the third arbitrator. When any such sale has been made all the rights, powers, and authorities of the promoters in respect to the undertaking, property, apparatus, and business shall be transferred to, vested in, and may be exercised by such corporation of the city of Sydney.

As to appointment of arbitrators

When sale made, rights, &c., of promoters to vest in and may be exercised by corporation.

Moiety of excess of net profits over ten per cent. to be set apart to secure the handing over of the works in good repair, and to be applied in or towards the purchase money payable by the Corporation of Sydney.

35. When the net profits earned by the promoters shall exceed ten per centum per annum on the capital invested in the undertaking, property, apparatus, and business, one moiety of such excess shall be paid by the promoters to trustees to be appointed as hereinafter provided. And such trustees shall invest the same, and the interest to accrue due thereon on behalf of the corporation of the city of Sydney, so as to accumulate the same by way of compound interest, and when and if the corporation of the city of Sydney shall exercise the right of purchase hereby conferred, then the said trustee shall apply the amount of the aforesaid investment in or towards payment of the amount of purchase money agreed or awarded to be paid the promoters by the said corporation, and shall pay over the balance of the said investment (if any) to the promoters.

As to appointment of trustees.

36. The trustees aforesaid shall be appointed in manner following: one trustee shall be appointed in writing by the Corporation of the city of Sydney, one trustee shall be appointed in writing by the promoters, and the third trustee shall be appointed by the said two trustees so appointed, and as often as any trustee shall die or desire to be discharged from or refuse or become unfit or incapable to act in the trust aforesaid, another trustee shall be appointed in his place by the same persons or corporation by whom such trustee occasioning the vacancy was appointed.

37. The promoters shall and are hereby required to bonâ fide commence their works within two years from the passing of this Act, and in the event of their failing to do so, and of such failure being certified under the common seal of the Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Sydney, and published in the Government Gazette, all the powers and authorities conferred by this Act shall thereupon ipso facto cease and determine to all intents and purposes whatsoever. Powers of promoters to cease in the event of their not commencing works within two years.

38. If at any time the promoters discontinue the undertaking for a period of twelve months, such discontinuance being proved to the satisfaction of a judge of the Supreme Court who shall try the issue of fact as not having been occasioned by circumstances beyond the control of the promoters, then and in such case, all the pipes of the promoters laid in the streets shall belong to and vest in the corporation of the city of Sydney. In this section "circumstances beyond the control of the promoters" shall not include the want of sufficient capital or funds. Penalty for discontinuance of operations.

39. The maximum price to be charged by the promoters for water supplied to the public at seven hundred pounds pressure shall not exceed twelve shillings and sixpence per one thousand gallons. Maximum price to be charged for water.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

SYDNEY HYDRAULIC-POWER COMPANY'S BILL.

THURSDAY, 16 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. DAY,

MR. WALL.

MR. GARRARD,
MR. LEES,

JACOB GARRARD, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad appeared as Solicitor on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Thomas Samuel Parrott, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] What is your profession? That of civil engineer and surveyor.
2. You are practising your profession in Sydney? Yes.
3. How long have you been practising your profession in Sydney? About ten or twelve years.
4. Where did you obtain the primary instruction in your profession? In New South Wales.
5. You have recently made an extended tour through Europe, have you not? Yes.
6. Devoting your attention principally to improved mechanical improvements? Primarily, in connection with the proposed scheme for supplying Sydney with hydraulic-power. That was the primary object of my visit.
7. Have you read the Bill before the Committee? Yes.
8. Its object is to grant certain powers to the promoters for the purpose of bringing hydraulic-power into use in the city of Sydney? Yes.
9. You have seen this hydraulic-power in use in other countries? Yes; in London particularly—that is, hydraulic-power as a general supply. Of course in almost every important city in the world it is in use in separate installations, but in London it is particularly remarkable as regards the general supply to the city. In Europe all important docks, and many factories, and works of all kinds, have isolated installations of hydraulic-power; but London is remarkable for the development of a system of general supply in precisely the same manner as gas is supplied to all consumers.
10. Is this hydraulic-power superseding to any extent steam-power? As a general supply, yes.
11. Perhaps the better way would be for you to give an explanation of this hydraulic-power. Will you give us an explanation, for instance, of the London scheme? The system of general supply by hydraulic methods is not very general. There are only certain cities in the world that have adopted it. It was first carried out in the town of Hull, in England, as a general supply to the town.
12. They have very extended docks there, have they not? Yes; but it was more to accommodate the requirements of the warehouses and stores in Hull that it was introduced as a general supply. It had already been in use in the docks, and its use in the docks led to the idea that it would be economical to adopt it for general lifting and hauling purposes in the town.

Parrott, Esq.

13.

T. S.
Parrott, Esq.
16 Feb., 1888.

13. How long since is that? Some twelve years ago. The experiment in Hull was so successful that it was suggested a few years afterwards to apply the same system to London, and, after some little time, an installation was made in the city of London, and it was working, I think, about five or six years ago. Of course I am speaking of the general supply to the city, because I should like to explain that there are local and isolated installations. But, notwithstanding the general development of the London scheme, they have hardly arrived yet at the enormous power of some of the isolated installations in the London docks, that is in the development of the power required over a large area of the city. Still, they are increasing it so rapidly that it will very soon go beyond the power required by any single installation. In London I examined very critically into the working of the general supply system as applied to that city, and the result of my examination of the system there was a conviction that it would be eminently adapted to some of our colonial cities, especially Sydney. Through the courtesy of the directors of the London Company, I, several times, met them as a body to bring under their notice some of the conditions which would have to be met in supplying such a power in Sydney, and was able to elicit from the directors and their engineers their views as to the suitability of such a scheme for Sydney. I should like to say that they were strongly impressed with the suitability of Sydney as a place for the introduction of such a scheme. The reason of that was that Sydney is really the storehouse or supply depôt for almost the whole of a very large colony. In England it is different. The commerce of England goes out from England and comes into England at various points; but New South Wales is a very large colony, and nearly the whole of the supplies come into Sydney while the exports go out of Sydney. Therefore it is essentially a city where a large amount of work has to be done of a nature that is eminently adapted to receive the application of a general supply of power. I put the matter before some experts in London, and they coincided with my views. But even in London, large as the city is, and much as the commerce is concentrated, there are circumstances which make it possible that the supply of power over parts of the city is not so suitable as it is in Sydney. There are large areas in the city of London, even where the power-pipes are laid, where the power is not likely to be required—parts, for instance, where there are comparatively small shops and buildings. Sydney, however, is essentially a city of warehouses, stores, and large offices, and the shipping of the whole Colony—and this is a very important matter in connection with power supply—is concentrated in and about the city. Then, through the courtesy of the engineers and the people connected with the London Company, I was able to see into the practical working of the system in London; and the first thing that is remarkable is the simplicity with which its operations are carried on. The power, although it is called hydraulic-power, is really developed by steam. In London the power is developed at a central station near Blackfriars Bridge, on the south side of the river, in a comparatively small space, on a piece of ground that I think was originally leased by the company. Four sets of engines were erected for developing the power, each of which was, I think, of 200 horse-power. Up to the time I visited these works only two of these sets of engines were in use. It is a principle with these operations in London that a certain amount of power shall be held in reserve. Four sets of engines were erected, but up to quite a recent date the demands of consumers had brought into use only two sets of engines. These two sets are kept constantly working, and the other two are held in reserve to meet an increased demand or any emergency which may arise—any extraordinary consumption of power throughout the city. In the same way two accumulators are erected on the premises. One of them is constantly working, and the other, at the top of the stroke, is held in reserve in the same manner as the two sets of engines. The whole thing is made to work automatically. The men employed on the premises are there simply to see that nothing goes wrong, and in no way to interfere with the accumulators or the working of the engines, or anything of that sort.

14. Do they utilize the Thames water? The water used is from the Thames, but it is filtered before it can be used. It is pumped into tanks at the top of the engine-house. It is filtered by a very simple process, and then passed down into the pumps for pumping into the system.

15. To arrest any sediment in the water or salt? It is not the salt they would concern themselves about in that water; it is simply to get a deposit of muddy sediment which is in the water. I saw several bottles of water after it had been filtered. It is not very clear water, but sufficiently clear for use for power purposes. They are using it now for this purpose.

16. Of course the consumption is increasing every day? Every day there are, I think, new consumers being introduced. I think the consumption now is something like 300,000 or 350,000 gallons a day. Then after it is used in the London cistern the water is passed from the consumers into the sewers.

17. How are the customers supplied from the accumulators? The method of supply is a very simple one, and the question might almost be answered by referring to the method of conveying gas from the central developing station such as we have here, except that in the case of power supply, the pipes, on account of the high pressure, which is 700 or 750 lb., need only be very small. The hydraulic-power pipes are only 6 inches; they have some in London 9 inches, but I think they have very few of them.

18. Wrought-iron or cast-iron pipes? Cast-iron pipes. I made particular inquiries upon that point. From the central station these pipes are laid over the whole area that it is desirable to supply with power.

19. Under ground? Yes, in London; under the roads. I may say that in London it causes them a great deal of trouble, because a great number of its streets are laid in a very expensive manner with the val de travers asphalt. I saw in many of the streets openings being made to these power-pipes for the purpose of laying on power to the consumers. Of course the cutting up of roads of that sort is a very troublesome matter. Partly in consequence of that fact we have asked, I think, in our Bill for power to lay the pipes under the foot-paths in the case of Sydney, or under the water-tables, or in any way that would not involve the tearing up of the roads. We propose to reduce this work to as simple a matter as possible.

20. As to returning the water to consumers? These 6-inch pipes are laid through the principal thoroughfares of London, and over the whole area which it is required to supply with power. Between these pipes, in smaller circles, pipes of smaller diameter are used to supply the same power to other intermediate consumers. When I speak of 6-inch pipes I mean it to be understood that these are really the mains, stretching away to a great distance from the central pumping station. As a matter of fact, the pipes going from Blackfriars Bridge have already reached a point beyond the Victoria Station, a distance, I think, of over 2 miles. It will convey an idea of the efficiency of the system when we understand that in the whole of that distance the consumers are very numerous. Along the banks of the Thames, in the large buildings and offices which line the whole distance, the consumption of power is very great; but notwithstanding

T. S.
Parrott, Esq.
16 Feb., 1888.

- notwithstanding that, they are able to supply power beyond the Victoria Station nearly at the same pressure that it is developed at Blackfriars Bridge.
21. Nearly at the same pressure? Yes; it is hardly possible to detect any loss. In the case of London, I was going to say, the water, of course, coming from the Thames, and being therefore inexpensive, is returned to the sewers after use.
22. Direct from the consumer's premises? Yes. Before reaching the consumer's premises the water has to pass through a meter precisely the same as gas does, in order that the company operating the power may know how much power-water is consumed on each of the premises.
23. Are water-meters more reliable there than they are in Sydney? I have never heard of any complaints against the meters in London.
24. Mr. Lees.] Is it charged for by meter? Yes; at so much per thousand gallons.
25. Mr. Wall.] In the places where the power is used, does it lessen or increase the danger or risk of fire? The power in the water is eminently adapted as a fire-extinguisher.
26. Chairman.] Can you explain how this power can be applied under a low-pressure system of water, for fire-extinguishing purposes? An engineer in England has designed a machine, very similar to a Gifford Injector, which receives the water from the newer mains, and at the same time receives water from the common mains. The power-water is able to lift and bring under pressure the low-pressure water. In that way the water is used as a power and not as an extinguisher, which may be brought to bear on a low-pressure system in case of fire.
27. Mr. Wall.] You think that the adoption of this system of hydraulics would lessen the risk of fires in the city? Undoubtedly; that is only one way in which the risk would be lessened. But there is another very important matter. The power-pipes, that is, small pipes, may be introduced into some of our high buildings in the city for fire extinction purposes specially.
28. Have you any idea of the aggregate amount of power at the present time in use in Sydney and the suburbs that would be superseded by this system of hydraulics? I do not think I am in a position to say. I have gone into the question for the purpose of working out figures connected with the introduction of this power into Sydney. I estimate that in the first year of the introduction of such power there would be something like 300 consumers.
29. That would mean 300 less fires every year, provided that each consumer used his engine in the basement of his building? Yes. Perhaps not so much as that, because I include other things besides—the operations of lifts and hoists, the loading and unloading of ships, steamers, and so on, along the wharves and jetties.
30. Chairman.] Are all or nearly all of the wharves in London and Hull and on the Continent operated upon by hydraulic-power? Only in London and Hull, as a general supply. I think I have already explained that the system is not in general use. It is only coming into general use now. Following upon the success of the operations in London, the people of Liverpool at once saw the advantage of it in such an important place as theirs, and I think about three years ago they followed the example of the capital.
31. Is there less danger attached to the use of water at a pressure of this kind than to the use of steam? Than the use of steam, or compressed air, or any other power.
32. Wherein lies the danger? The only danger I know of can be from leaks or the bursting of the pipes. At all events, within my knowledge no serious accident has ever happened. I know that with regard to the London supply no accident of any note has yet happened. In the first two years there were one or two leaks.
33. Mr. Lees.] Leaks or bursts? Leaks at the joints. They discovered the reason of them, and they have altered the design of the pipes so as to give a greater efficiency to the same pipe of something like 50 per cent.
34. Chairman.] You spoke of cast-iron pipes; what is the thickness of the pipes that would stand such a pressure as 700 lb.? About an inch and a quarter.
35. Does your Company propose to use cast-iron pipes or wrought-iron? I am endeavouring to bring about the use of wrought-iron or steel pipes, but in the meantime the assurance of engineers in London is that cast-iron pipes are quite sufficient for the work. As a matter of fact they are using them to-day.
36. Mr. Lees.] Do you know of any instance of flooding at all? No.
37. Mr. Day.] I suppose that, in the interests of the Company, you would be sure to use the very best description of material for the pipes? It is a necessity in the construction of these strong pressure cast-iron pipes.
38. And for the profitable working of your scheme? Yes.
39. Mr. Wall.] In the event of a leak occurring in any particular pipe, could you shut off the force supplied to these pipes? Provision is made in London for cutting off the power by stop valves at something like every 400 yards.
40. Mr. Lees.] Everything beyond the leak would be valueless as far as power is concerned? That is assuming the leak to be of a very formidable character.
41. Suppose the leak occurred about the middle of the system, would the latter part be void of power while the supply was shut off? It would have to be shut off on both sides of the leak, but there are circuits in our scheme; wherever a circuit can be secured, one is got.
42. Mr. Wall.] In the event of a leak taking place, the force would necessarily eject the water through the leak? Yes.
43. Would it be in your power to shut off the water so as to prevent that force from causing an outflow? Yes; by stop valves at each side of the leak.
44. So that there would be no risk of flood at any particular place where a leak would break out? No; the only trouble would be with regard to the consumers whose places were near the pipe where the leak occurred.
45. Chairman.] Is this power used in connection with lifts in London as well as docks and wharves? Yes. I would like to mention some of the uses to which hydraulic-power may be applied by the public supply system. It may be applied to hydraulic presses, wharf and warehouse cranes, platform cranes, foundry cranes, movable cranes, hydraulic freight lifts, hydraulic passenger lifts, grain elevators, bridges and dock gates, hydraulic capstans, hydraulic coal tips and cranes, electric lighting, differential pumps (for lifting water or sewage), fire-extinguishers, railway gates signals, and switches, hydraulic rivetting, and hydraulic punching and shearing. It is also used in London very largely for builders and contractors contractors plants. When a builder or a contractor has to erect a large building, where of course enormous quantities of stuff have to be lifted to a considerable height, he at once applies to the power company for a certain quantity of power. It is at once laid on to the site of the building. A meter is placed there, and the power is used during the time the building is being erected.

T. S.
Parrott, Esq.

46. What water do you propose to use, salt or fresh? We are asking power to use either salt or fresh water; but the idea of the Company is to use only fresh water.

47. I presume if you use salt water there will be a danger of the pipes, &c., being incrustated with salt? Not so much danger to the pipes as to the smaller parts of the valves and connections. I consulted some of the most eminent chemists in London, and they advised me that we could use salt water without any danger; but, at the same time, I am convinced that there would be a good deal of trouble in regard to the smaller parts of the valves and connections, and that sort of thing.

48. If you used salt water each consumer would return his used water into the sewer, as in London? Yes.

49. Would you use fresh water if you had to pay for it? We propose to return as much of it as will gravitate back to the central station.

50. Mr. Lees.] Where do you propose to get it from? Our present idea is to take it as ordinary consumers from the authorities who at present supply the city with water.

51. Chairman.] What would be your actual consumption—how much do you anticipate you would be able to get back to the central station? I think about three-fourths over the city of Sydney.

52. Your power station would be very low? Yes.

53. With 300 consumers how much water would you use a day? About 200,000 gallons a day.

54. Mr. Barbour.] At what time of the day would you expect it to return? It would be continuously returning.

55. You have one line of pipes specially to return used water? Yes. It would be an actual necessity if we used fresh water. It is a question whether we shall adopt the system. It nearly doubles the cost of laying the pipes.

56. You could not return it by the power-pipe? No; it is actually spent power.

57. In what way is the power applied in case of fires? By means of these hydrants.

58. What does it act upon? Upon the common water, the city water.

59. How would you take it from the mains so as to apply your force in case of fire? There would have to be connections along the city mains with the power mains and these injectors introduced at those points.

60. Chairman.] Where the present water plugs are for instance? It would have to be at shorter intervals. Of course, before that was done, it would have to be a matter of mutual understanding between the water authorities and the power. No water would get back to the main. This pressure water we always understand to mean power, not water.

61. Does the Bill provide for the local authorities having the supervision of all these works? Yes. We could not carry out a work of this sort, except in conjunction with the city authorities.

62. Is there anything in the Bill which gives the promoters exclusive rights over everybody else; will it prevent anybody else coming to the Legislature for power similar to yours? Nothing whatever.

63. Mr. Wall.] Have the municipal authorities considered the Bill? No; we brought the movement under the notice of the city authorities some time back, but I do not think that our communication has been brought before the Council.

64. Chairman.] What is the ordinary pressure exercised by our ordinary mains in the city of Sydney? I suppose that the average would be 30 or 40 lb.

65. You could apply power at the rate of 750 lb.? Yes.

66. And you could graduate that power if necessary by an injector? Yes.

67. It is not absolutely necessary that in applying your power for fire-extinguishing purposes your enormous force shall be used. You could graduate it to a pressure of one? It could be brought down to five, and through intensifiers it could be taken up to 2,000 lb., if it is introduced into factories. There are factories here which would require, I think, about 3,000 lb.; I mean tobacco factories. 750 lb. could be made use of in all these factories. As a matter of fact some machinery is now being made use of in one of these factories in Sydney in quite a makeshift manner in the hope that this power may be introduced here, when the machinery adapted to the reception of this power will be introduced into this factory.

68. Mr. Lees.] Is that Saywell's factory? No; Cameron's.

69. Mr. Barbour.] What is the nature of the accumulator? It is simply a large body pressing on the water, and gives the water that pressure which you wish to get. In the case of hydraulic-power supplies 750 lb. is considered to be the most economical and efficient. It could be raised to 1,000 quite easily by weighting the accumulator. Of course, the steam-engines drive the water until the accumulator is lifted, then the water is at that pressure which it derives from the accumulator being weighted up to a certain given weight.

70. The accumulator is a kind of gasometer? It is an artificial head of water.

71. Unless you had plenty of continuing power it would be of only momentary application? Yes. This is really not an hydraulic-power. The powerful engines have to keep the accumulators up. It is a power developed at one point by steam, and transmitted by means of water.

72. You develop power at this point, and you can have it a mile away without any loss of power? Yes.

73. Chairman.] This main would not be subjected to an irregular pressure. It would always have the same pressure? Always the same.

74. I suppose your experience teaches you that where steam-pipes burst, &c., it is usually owing to unequal pressure—sometimes 50 lb., and other times 150 lb. In this case it can never be so? No; the accumulators always are a protection against that. The accumulator is weighted to something like 80 or 90 tons for 750 lb. That produces the pressure. The water to lift that weight has to be under a pressure of from 700 to 750 lb.; so, having accumulators constantly kept up by steam-engines, the pressure is always available throughout the whole system wherever it is wanted.

75. Is this a greater pressure than any other power would give? Yes, certainly. I may say that in New York, a few years ago, an effort was made to introduce a power supply by means of steam very similar to the London power supply. It has partly failed, but it is still, to some extent, in use for a considerable number of months in the year for heating purposes. There is a great deal of heating required in New York in the winter months. Nearly the whole of the buildings are heated by steam. Although their intention was to apply steam-power, they have failed in that respect.

76. Mr. Barbour.] The steam is too easily got rid of; it is too volatile? Yes.

77.

77. Mr. Lees.] What was the principle in use in Hull before the introduction of this process? Ordinary mechanical appliances for lifting goods into warehouses.
78. Did the adoption of this system interfere with the general arrangements in any particulars? I believe not. In Hull, of course, they had to gain much experience, but I think the company always met with the support of the people in overcoming any difficulties. The difficulties were, I think, nearly all mechanical.
79. Did any existing interests suffer to any great extent? I believe not.
80. How long has it been in vogue in London? About five years.
81. Chairman.] As a general installation scheme? Yes. During the whole of that time new consumers have been taken on daily; but in no instance up to the present time has a consumer, having once taken this power, been known to abandon it for any other method. He has a perfect right to do so, and he has every facility to that end. He need only give notice that he no longer wants the power; it would then be taken off, and he would be at liberty to adopt any other method he liked.
82. Mr. Lees.] Was Hull supplied with water the same way as Sydney, by gravitation? I fancy so, but I am not sure.
83. Would the introduction of a new supply into the present city mains add to the water pressure to so great an extent as to bring about some of the advantages of this scheme? It would increase the pressure in the pipes. That, I believe, is going to be the practical result of the new scheme. It will give a higher head of water than we have at present; but if it were twice the head it is now it would not affect the proposal to introduce a power scheme at all.
84. Chairman.] Can you tell us the power exerted by Waverley, the highest reservoir, to the lowest part of the city? I do not know what it is from memory, but it is something essentially belonging to low pressure. I would like to add, that in a city in America, I forget the name, which had an existing water supply which gave them a power of something like 150 lb., they introduced a power scheme for power purposes.
85. Was that pressure obtained by pumping, or by a gravitation scheme? Originally I say they had a gravitation scheme.
86. The water, which goes by gravitation to Crown-street, has to be pumped up at a large expense to Waverley, in order to get a pressure of 150 lb.? Yes.
87. You do not get this pressure by natural means? No; I might point out that the pressure in Melbourne is very much greater than it is in Sydney, but that is not taken into consideration in any way in discussing the same question as we are discussing now. The necessity for introducing a power scheme in Melbourne was considered just as great as it is here, although they had a natural water supply with double the pressure we have in Sydney. I might further add that this natural pressure in Melbourne has been used—this natural pressure which is so much greater than we can get from our new scheme, and the inconvenience, I believe, has been very great. In summer time, and on hot days, the working of the lifts is almost stopped. Another important matter is that the working of the lifts in that city is, I believe, involving an expenditure of water of something like 500,000 gallons a day. The company only use water for transmitting power.

WEDNESDAY, 22 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR, | MR. DAY,
MR. WALL.

JACOB GARRARD, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Present:—Ernest Broad, Esq., Solicitor for the Bill.

William Gardiner, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

88. Chairman.] You are a wholesale warehouseman carrying on business in Sydney, and also in London? Yes.
89. I believe you have recently returned from England? Yes; about six or seven months ago.
90. You are one of the promoters of this scheme for forming an hydraulic-power company? I am.
91. Are you acquainted with the mode of dispensing this water-power adopted in London? Yes; I have given a great deal of attention to it, and understand it possibly as well as most laymen. We have adopted the same principle at our warehouse in Sydney, and I would suggest that if the members of the Committee went to the warehouse they would see the identical thing that is proposed for the city, only on a small scale. We generate our own power by means of two gas-engines. We have an accumulator of about 30 tons. For the city two accumulators would be wanted of possibly 150 tons each, but precisely in a similar way. By a visit to our warehouse the Committee will be able to see precisely what it is proposed to do for the city. It would be better than taking any amount of evidence, for you could understand in a quarter of an hour exactly what is proposed.
92. I believe you have recently built a large warehouse of several stories? Yes.
93. And I suppose it was actually necessary for carrying on your business that you should have some power similar to this? Quite so.
94. I understand that you have been obliged to generate this power on your own premises? Yes; by means of two gas-engines. We have six lifts. When three lifts are going the one engine will serve, but when the six lifts are going we need the two engines, so that we have always one engine in reserve in case of a breakdown.
95. If a power for general consumption had been obtainable you would of course have availed yourself of it? Yes; it would have saved from £1,000 to £1,200.
96. And you think that the supply of this water-power would be a great convenience to the people of Sydney? An immense convenience.
97. You believe it would be largely availed of by persons requiring the use of power? I do. I took this thing in hand a good deal myself, and I did it because I believed thoroughly in it. It is not a catch-penny idea.

W. Gardiner,
Esq.

- idea. I am not going for a lot of promotion-money, and that sort of thing. The promoters have disregarded that in this matter. They have gone into it mainly in the endeavour to give a good thing to Sydney. I have gone about London, and seen what is being done there. The pipes run along the mains in the streets, and you have simply to carry in a pipe the same as you carry in your gas-pipe or water-pipe, and you are supplied with the power for lift purposes, or driving any machinery. You simply take in your water from a pipe in the main, and you pay for your water by meter. You have no engineer to pay, no expensive machinery to maintain, but this water-power is brought to your door and you simply use it.
98. Of course the London company to which you referred must have obtained the permission of the City Corporation? They did. I believe Mr. Parrott can give you all those particulars. I believe he has a copy of the London Bill. But, broadly speaking, the facts are these—the company are allowed to take water to the extent of half-a-million gallons of water per day from the Thames for nothing, on condition that they throw it back through the sewers. It goes back through the sewers, and flushes them into the Thames again. They get their water for nothing.
99. I was referring more particularly to the question of breaking up the streets for the purpose of laying down the pipes? The same thing has been done in London. You constantly see the streets broken up for these pipes in the same way that they are broken up for other pipes. They are just now installing it at Liverpool. It has been at work at Hull for many years; in fact, it originated there. You have no idea of the convenience it is to the many people in London who have lifts, and who have been enabled to take out the old machinery and utilize the space. They have not got to keep an engineer to attend to the machinery.
100. Can you give us any evidence as to the applicability of this power to fire-extinguishing purposes? They say that by means of a Gifford Injector you can inject a very small jet of about one-eighth of an inch of water into the fire hose, and you can drive it over a church or any other high building with tremendous force; in fact, you would be able to put out fires very much more rapidly than by the present method.
101. You say that in London they return the Thames water back by the sewers. Do you propose using fresh water here? I believe fresh water would be preferred. Salt water can be used, but I am not quite sure whether or not it would be quite as good.
102. Is not the Thames water salt at Blackfriars Bridge? No, perfectly fresh.
103. I believe you have already approached the City Council and laid this matter before them? We have; but, unfortunately, there is a misunderstanding, for which we are extremely sorry, but which we cannot understand. We have been at the City Council for the last three months. I believe a circular has been published, showing what has been done. Three months ago I went to the late Mayor, Mr. Riley, and had a talk with him about this proposal, and it was arranged that we should go as a deputation and explain matters. We did so. We went up in the middle of December, and explained matters to Mr. Riley. He was greatly struck with the scheme. He thought it a good thing, and said it was desirable that the aldermen should see it, and understand more about it. He asked us to write a letter. We wrote a letter, which was sent in on the 15th December, explaining the nature of the scheme, what we proposed to do, the advantages which would be conferred on the city, and so on. We waited and waited, and Mr. Parrott went and saw Mr. Riley again towards the end of the year. At the end of the year he sent in a draft bill. Then at the beginning of the year he went and saw the present mayor, Mr. Harris, and explained matters to him, and he was received very kindly, and so the matter went on. We have been at them for the last three months trying to get them to hear us, and talk over the matter, and we are extremely sorry at the attitude Mr. Harris assumed the other day, and we really cannot understand it. I am sure there is some misapprehension somewhere, because he could never have spoken like that in the face of the repeated applications we made to see the Corporation about the matter.
104. When laying these pipes in London I suppose the mains were laid down in the street itself? Yes. They are generally laid down, I think, under the side of the street, a little way from the kerb.
105. Do you purpose doing that? That would be a matter rather for the consideration of the City Council. We wanted to discuss these matters with them. It has been said by some members of our Board that it might be better, instead of laying the pipe along the street, to lay it inside the kerb on the pathway. It would then interfere less with the wooden streets. But I do not see that this could be an objection if the Company undertake to put the street in order to the satisfaction of the City Surveyor.
106. By the provisions of the Bill you undertake to keep the street in repair for three months? I believe so.
107. In fact there would be no more difficulty, and perhaps not so much, as is at present experienced in connection with gas-pipes? Certainly not so much, because the streets would not require to be broken up so frequently as is the case with gas.
108. And your mains would only be about 6 or 7 inches, as against 15 inches in the case of gas? 6 inches; not larger. Then the pipes are much stronger than gas pipes. The pipes we would put in would be subjected to a pressure of 2,500 lb. to the inch. That is the test pressure.
109. What would be your working pressure? 700 lb., so that in testing they are subject to a pressure three and a half times more than they would have to stand in working.
110. Have there been occasions when pipes have burst and accidents have occurred? Not one. I believe there was a slight leakage on one occasion in London. I was talking to the engineer of the Water-power Company, and he told me that there was some crack or flaw—a tiny little hole—in one of the pipes, which was soon discovered.
111. No damage occurred to the surrounding property? None whatever. If the pipes are tested there does not appear to be any chance of damage. The pipes are of peculiar construction, the joints being very strong, so that it is next to impossible for them to burst. They are specially made with a view to strength.
112. No monopoly is asked for by this Company, that is to say, any other company can come to the Legislature and obtain similar powers? I do not know. Of course, another company could do that, but there would hardly be room for two companies.
113. But as a matter of fact there is nothing to prevent another company applying for these powers? I believe not; I do not remember anything of the sort.
114. Supposing some one else thought that there was room for another company? I do not remember anything of the kind in the Bill.
115. Mr. Barbour.] In your experience in London did you hear any complaint made against the use of this power? No.

W. Gardiner,
Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.

116. And, so far as your experience went, it was approved of by most of the people there? Very much so. I can only tell you that numbers of people there, numbers of the large houses, have had their old system of low-pressure taken out and this substituted. I myself know of one house, a large house, where they use low pressure, and they told me that they would be gladly connected with the new system, but they cannot be so connected because they have all their low-pressure pipes through the building, and they would have to take up the whole thing.

117. Where are these business premises situated? Near St. Paul's.

118. Chairman.] What distance from the water-power site? About 1 mile.

119. Mr. Barbour.] Is this power cheaper than the cost under the old system? Yes.

120. Is it cheaper than any other power you know of? I think so. The power is not only cheaper, but the pipes and the plant are cheaper. I can only compare the two systems and the pipes for conveying the power by the comparison of a cart rope to a whip cord, the low-pressure system being represented by the cart rope and the high pressure by the whip cord; the low pressure would be fully twice the size of the high pressure.

121. And therefore more expensive? Yes; and it would take up a great deal more room, and the high pressure is very efficient and gives great speed. In our own place our contract was that the lifts should make a journey through the seven floors in twenty seconds, and we can make a double journey, that is up and down, in twenty-five seconds.

122. Then it has exceeded your expectations? Very much so.

123. I think you said that this Company has no intention of obtaining a monopoly? None at all that I am aware of.

124. And they do not ask in the Bill for any power giving them an exclusive application of this scheme for any number of years? I would not be sure, but I do not think so.

125. Is it the desire of the promoters to get from the Legislature a monopoly in this matter? I do not think it is. The Bill sets forth what is intended.

126. But as a director you surely know whether it is your desire? I do not think it is. Of course naturally we should hardly expect to find a competitor in the field just as soon as we begin, because it would not pay the competitor, and it would not pay us.

127. But you do not expect the Legislature to give you a monopoly? No.

128. And you come forward believing it to be a power that will be useful for the public, without desiring to put into your own pockets any considerable or long-continued pot of money? No. We will tell you in a moment all the promoters seek for, if you want to know. We have nothing to hide in the matter.

129. In the case of all private speculations of this kind the suspicion is suggested that the promoters have some pecuniary motive, and I want to know what are your expectations, in order that the public may realize exactly the manner in which you bring this matter forward? The capital of this Company is proposed to be £100,000. The promoters propose to take for their risk, and to cover the expense in carrying it through and getting the Bill passed, and all the trouble they have taken, 5 per cent. In the Melbourne Company, I believe, the promoters took 27,000 £1 shares paid up to 10s. We ask for 5 per cent. This thing has been fully discussed by the promoters, and it was thought that they ought to have had a great deal more, but it was considered better not to go in for a large sum, but to take a small amount and give the Company a good chance. I myself think that many companies are strangled simply because of the heavy promotion expenses.

130. Mr. Day.] Where do you propose getting the water from? That would be a matter for discussion with the City Council or with somebody in connection with the Government or the waterworks. We can not say at present what will be done in this respect. There are many ways of getting the water. We could of course get it from the waterworks and pay so much for it; we could use salt water, and take it from the harbour, or we might possibly get water from the old Botany works, or sink for it. There are various ways of getting water.

131. I suppose that if you used salt water it would be useful for flushing the sewers? I suppose so.

132. It would not injure the sewers? That would be a matter for the engineers to decide. I do not know whether it would or not.

133. Supposing the authorities refused to allow you to run it into the sewers, fearing injury from it, you would have to carry it back to the sea? We could simply use the salt or fresh water over and over again. We could have a circular service. For instance, in our own store we have a 400-gallon tank which does the work of our six lifts. The water simply goes round and round.

134. Would there be any difficulty in laying these water pipes under the foot path? I should think not. That again is a matter for the city authorities to determine.

135. But where do you think would be the best—you have had experience in these things? In London, the pipes are laid outside the kerb. One or two members of our Board, and particularly one, who is a very practical man, suggests that it would be better to lay them inside the kerb on the foot path, but that is a matter for the city authorities to determine.

136. Are wooden blocks used in London? Yes; most of the city is paved with wooden blocks and asphalt. They put the asphalt down in the shape of hot powder and ram it.

137. Chairman.] It would be more expensive to interfere with that than even with the wooden blocks? Yes; but the Company has to bear that expense. If the streets are taken up the Company has to relay them to the satisfaction of the City Surveyor.

138. But it is very difficult to properly relay streets broken up like that? It is constantly done in London.

139. But from what you know of the matter do you not think it would be better to lay the pipes inside the kerb on the foot path? I have no experience to guide me. One of our members who has great practical experience in these matters says it would be, but we are quite willing to be guided by the authorities.

140. What would be about the expense of the water-power required for such lifts as we have in this city? A good deal would depend upon the size of the ram and what the lift had to do.

141. What would be the cost (say) of 1,000 gallons? In London they pay various prices, ranging from 2s. 6d. upward, or from about 1s. 6d. or 2s. for large quantities.

142. At any rate this system would be far cheaper than the machinery system? Yes. In our own establishment we saved from £1,000 to £1,200, the amount which would be sunk in machinery to generate the power.

- W. Gardiner, Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.
143. That is for construction—what would you save annually in maintenance? I do not know that we have saved much, because what we have paid for water would simply go against other expenses.
144. Is there not at present some expense for supervision of your gas engine and so on? Undoubtedly you would save your engineer expenses. You simply pay for your water instead.
145. Mr. Barbour.] We are desirous of knowing the relative cost of the present system, as compared with the proposed new system? I have not got the exact figures, and it is a matter in which I have not had any direct practical experience.
146. You must have made some calculations when you were induced to adopt this new system in preference to the old one? The inducement was greater efficiency and a less cost. Mr. Selfe, a very eminent engineer in this line, planned our lifts on the low-pressure system with a tank of water on the roof, and the tank altogether would be about 70 tons. In consequence of this high-pressure system coming to the fore so much in England, I went into the thing thoroughly, and concluded that the high-pressure system was much better and much cheaper, and went away from Mr. Selfe's plans, and, with considerable difficulty at such a distance, got the high-pressure system instead of the low-pressure. We had to use his measurements for a high-pressure system as well as we could. That is the most conclusive testimony I can give of my appreciation of the system.
147. But you formed no estimate? About £1,000 in the construction.
148. And as to the relative cost per annum and the amount saved in the future? I think there would be a saving in the valves.
149. And there is only one engineer instead of two for the two gas-engines? Yes. In the low-pressure system most of the valves have leather. These leathers wear out. In the new system we use tow. We put in about four or five plaited layers of tow between the glands. They are screwed down so tight against the cylinder that has to work in them as to prevent the water coming out. You can fancy how tightly they are screwed up when they resist a pressure of 700 lb. to the square inch. Some of the high-pressure systems have failed simply because leather valves have been used instead of tow packing. In a good many of the houses in London, where the lifts make from 400 to 600 journeys a day, I am told that this packing only needs to be added once in four or six months, and this is a great saving of expense. I believe that this thing is not only cheaper, but it is simpler and better in every way.
150. Mr. Day.] How long will it take the promoters to get the necessary pipes and machinery to commence the work? I should think it would take, after the measure becomes law, possibly six months to begin work. They would have to be ordered from home.
151. Have the promoters any objection to the insertion of a clause in the Bill binding them down to a reasonable time? No. Of course Parliament would not want to do anything unreasonable.
152. Mr. Barbour.] Would twelve months be too short? I do not think so; I think we should agree to twelve months. The engines would have to be made. That takes time. Most of the pipes would be found in stock to begin with. I have no doubt that we could begin much earlier than twelve months. We, of course, would want to begin as soon as possible.
153. Mr. Day.] Have you any idea of the time it would take to finish the work? I should think about twelve months.
154. Would you undertake to have it finished within two years? Yes; at work within two years, I should say.
155. You are willing to be bound to a reasonably fair time within which to do the work? Certainly, it would not answer our purpose to delay.
156. Mr. Barbour.] The promoters would consent to the insertion of a clause providing that the scheme should be in full operation and the Company ready to supply the power within two years? Yes; I made one or two visits to see the water-power works in London, on the south side of Blackfriars Bridge. I went there with Mr. Parrott when he was at Home, and I was greatly struck with what I saw. There are two vertical engines made by the Chester Hydraulic-power Company, which are automatic in their action, and require the attention of only one man. Every now and then, when a great many lifts are at work and a great deal of power used, you see them racing away as hard as they can go; suddenly, there being fewer lifts at work, they will slow down, and occasionally they will stop for an almost imperceptible period of time, and then away they go again the moment the lifts are at work. One man walks about with an oil-can and attends to all that. One man also attends to the fires, which are stoked automatically. They have a curious contrivance like a sort of dredge, something like the steam-dredges used out here, having scoops which go down into the receptacle underneath where the coals are, bring up the coals, and turn them into a trough which travels across the fires, and a man is there simply to see that the fires are properly stoked; so you see it takes only two men to supply all this water-power to London. It would be misleading the Committee if I were to stop there. It takes two men to supply the power to London, but, where the distance is great, (say) 2 miles away, you would require a second accumulator to generate the power.
157. Would the accumulator be placed close to the engines or 2 miles away? Close to the engines.
158. Then you want to increase the power? Yes.
159. If you have to supply the water-power at a distance (say) of 10 miles, you require more power than in the case of 1 mile? Of course; supposing the radius were about 5 miles, if you had to supply a radius of 10 miles you would require an auxiliary power just to refresh your power. But I do not think you would want that at all in Sydney.
160. Mr. Barbour.] Do you, of your own knowledge, know that the accumulated power has ever been placed at any distance from the generator? I have only seen it once, in London, and there the building is close to the engines. There are two 100 or 150-ton accumulators; when one comes down by electricity or some other contrivance the other is set going for the second one, and, as this second one follows, the other is pumped up, so that they are sure to have an accumulator up to give the pressure.
161. And the working of the accumulator will govern the speed of the engine? When your accumulator is up the engine takes it easy, and slows down. This water-power could be used not only for lifts, but for various other purposes—for saw-mills, and even for sewing-machines. Mr. Selfe begins to change his view about high-pressure. Hitherto, he has been rather in favour of low-pressure; but this system of ours has, I think, rather shaken his faith in that system, and for some time past he has been very much in favour of a pneumatic contrivance. If you had the pneumatic principle here, that would only drive your machinery. For instance, you would substitute pneumatic-power for a gas-engine, or pneumatic-power would pump up your water. We propose to give the power direct.

162. Chairman.] You would still use water as the transmitter of power, but the generating power would be steam? Yes, to pump the water—but we propose to give the power direct. If the pneumatic-power company was started, that system could only be used as a power to pump the water to raise your accumulator—in fact, it would only be used instead of gas or steam-engines.

W. Gardiner,
Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.

163. Mr. Day.] Do you know whether there are many lifts used in the warehouses in Sydney? There are a great many, but how many I cannot say.

164. Have you any notion as to the expense of applying your system to one of these large warehouses—say five or six stories high. Would it be a difficult job to make a lift through—would it interfere with the building? All that would be required would be to make a square hole in each floor. The lift could be used outside of a building; we have two or three different kinds of lifts. We have two lifts in the yard simply bolted against the wall, for hoisting cases; you open your valve, and the cases are hoisted up to the top floor. We have two cage goods hoists; they also communicate with the yard and with the warehouse inside. The cages are open both ways—to the yard and to the warehouse. They go inside the building, but work on the same principle by what is called multiplying gear. The chain travels four times the distance that the ram travels. Then we have two other lifts on the finest principle possible—the direct ram principle. Mr. Selfe says it is the best principle in Sydney. The ram goes down into the ground and has a cage on the top, and no accident can happen short of the ram breaking; it is a steel ram, 5½ inches in diameter. To this we have attached what is called a water-balance cylinder, so that it works as smoothly and as easily as you would weigh an ounce of tea or a pound of sugar.

William Christopher Bennett, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

165. Chairman.] I believe you are Engineer for Roads and Bridges, and also for Sewerage? Yes.

166. How long have you been employed in the Government service? Thirty-three years in the service of the Government.

167. How long have you occupied your present position? For twenty-five and a half years.

168. I believe you are the originator of the system of sewerage now being carried on in the city of Sydney and its suburbs? I am not the originator of the scheme. It was originated by a Board. The first man who ever proposed a sewer to Bondi was Alderman Macintosh.

169. That is now being carried out? Yes.

170. The outlet at Bondi serves all the higher levels for sewage? It serves all the northern slopes, leaving a small margin round the shore at the end of the sewers at an elevation over the sea necessary to give a gradient.

171. The outlet of Bondi is by gravitation? Yes.

172. Mr. Day.] What is the fall? 3 ft. 6 in. in the main sewers. One or two at the ends have steeper falls.

173. Is that sufficient to carry everything away? Yes; it gives a velocity of between 2 and 3 feet a second, which is quite sufficient.

174. Chairman.] Then, in addition to that, there is what you may call a lower level sewerage? Small bits, just below the level.

175. How has that been dealt with? We have not proposed to deal with it at all yet. There is no systematic proposal to deal with it.

176. Then, in addition to that, you have been making surveys in some of the suburbs—Balmain, for instance? Yes.

177. In that case, I suppose, it would be necessary for the sewage to come down into some lower level, and then have some power applied for pumping? Part of Balmain; yes.

178. And some of the other suburbs are in the same position? Balmain is the only outlying suburb that is in that position.

179. And some portion of Leichhardt, of course? Very little.

180. But to deal with lower levels of sewage, if I may use the term, some power will have to be applied to convey it to some particular place? Yes; but we do not know how much sewage there will be in these low levels, because a very large proportion of the buildings on the low levels are warehouses and other places where there is not much sewage; and the condition of things is changing every year, so that we could not anticipate ten years ago, when the designs were made, how much sewage we would have.

181. But the bulk of the sewage from city and suburbs will go by your main conduit out to Bondi? Yes; on the northern slopes. The sewage on the southern slopes goes to Botany.

182. Have you seen a copy of the Bill which is before this Committee? No.

183. Are you aware of the existence of companies in England for the purpose of transmitting power by water? I know there are such companies.

184. It would be necessary, I presume, to use some power, whether steam or something else, for the purpose of conveying your low level sewage to a given point? Most likely, and anticipating that, when an assistant in the Department went home two years ago on sick leave, I wrote a memorandum asking him to make inquiries as to the system in use in England for lifting sewage. He made considerable inquiries, more than I intended, and consulted Mr. Shown, the proprietor of a pneumatic process, and also a Mr. Appleby. Both these gentlemen gave an estimate of an hydraulic process. I let these things lie by in the office, waiting until we saw what would really be required. Then I was very glad to see both a pneumatic and an hydraulic system proposed for this city. They would work into our scheme well, and when the gentlemen connected with this came to me I said we did contemplate such a thing, and that their project would give us material aid.

185. Either of these systems, the pneumatic-power or the water-power, would suit you for your low levels? Yes; I also said, "recollect that any action of mine will be entirely subject to the will of the corporation. They are the people in whose interests I am acting, and they must be arranged with, and must be willing co-operators in the matter."

186. But under the Water and Sewerage Bill, are not both the sewerage and water schemes taken out of the hands of one particular council, and placed in those of a body representing the whole area drained or supplied with water? They will be.

187. So that, therefore, it is more the Board that will be called into existence by that Bill than the present existing authorities, who will have to be considered? That is a moot point. The chief locus standi the corporation would have, would be in dealing with the matter as affecting the breaking up of streets.

W. C.

W. C.
Bennett, Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.

188. But I suppose that in any case, whether pneumatic or hydraulic-power is used, the streets will have to be interfered with? Of course.
189. In reference to the two systems, the pneumatic as against the hydraulic, which do you think has the advantage over the other, or are they in this respect equal? I would not like to give an opinion on that. The pneumatic system has been proved to be a success, and is largely in use in England. The hydraulic system, as applied to sewerage, has not been used, but I see no reason why it should not be quite as successful as the pneumatic system.
190. Has not the pneumatic system been objected to on the ground that it would draw in odours, and that the leakage of the valves would give out noxious smells? I have not seen any practical objection of that sort.
191. Is not that one of the practical objections urged against Leneur's system? That is a different thing altogether. I do not call Leneur's the pneumatic process although it is a pneumatic process. The pneumatic process I referred to is Shown's, an English process.
192. The difference between the two, roughly speaking, is that Leneur's is a suction and the other one a forcing of the sewerage? Yes. Shown's merely forces the water from the ordinary sewer up into a higher level, it is a sort of pump. Leneur's process sucks the sewage out of the closets into central depôts. It was contrived for, and is particularly suited to, the low-lying towns of the Netherlands, and it has not succeeded anywhere else.
193. Shown's process is the use of air to force sewage up to a given level? Yes. The ordinary sewers are used.
194. No cleansing operation is carried out by Shown's system; in other words no washing or scouring takes place. The air-power is used for forcing the ordinary sewage along? Yes.
195. If water-power were used for this purpose would it not exercise the same power, given the same pressure, and also have a cleansing effect? Yes. There is no doubt but that the water would be preferable in that respect. My only objection to the water is that it has not been tried, and its effect in the way of oxidation would have to be neutralized in some way.
196. Mr. Barbour.] I suppose you do not object to the water process; it is only that you have not had experience of it? I do not want to commit myself. I see no objection to it at all. On the contrary, Mr. Macdonald, the assistant engineer, who is a thoroughly mechanical engineer, was rather in favour of the hydraulic-power in preference to the pneumatic or any other system he saw.
197. Mr. Day.] Are you of opinion that the hydraulic system proposed under this Bill is worthy of a trial for raising the lower sewage of the city? Certainly. I was very glad to see that the proposal had been made, as, if carried out, it would save us having pipes.
198. Chairman.] In other words, instead of generating a power yourself, if there was a power similar to this, then you would have an opportunity of using it at a cheap rate? Yes.
199. You would be saved the expense of a plant? Yes, and our objection to the particular pump, the Appleby hydraulic pump, on the ground of not having experience of it could be met by our undertaking not to pay anything unless it proved to be a success.
200. In the event of your being ready for the application of a power to your lower sewage, and this water-power being available, before going to any expense in providing a pneumatic plant yourselves you would certainly try this method? No one but a mad man would refuse to do that.
201. If it did not meet your approbation you would have the opportunity of adopting the pneumatic principle? Yes; but I do not think it at all likely. I think we would try with this until we succeeded, because we would have the pipes.
202. And any little difficulty that might arise you would like to overcome rather than try a new system? Yes; because of the great objection to triplicating or quadrupling the number of ducts through the streets.
203. Mr. Day.] If this hydraulic system is adopted a large quantity of water will be used. If salt water is used will it have any effect on the sewers? I would rather not use salt water.
204. Would it have any effect? Well, it is not desirable to introduce salt water into fresh water sewers, some chemical action takes place.
205. Have you sufficient fresh water to flush all the sewers? Yes; we have arranged the sewers so that they flush themselves, but besides there will be a large margin of water available under Mr. Moriarty's scheme. If these people are going to pump salt water at a given pressure it need not go into the sewers at all.
206. It would not be poisoned in any way, or injurious matter get into it? It should go into the sea by a separate duct. I would not advocate the introduction of salt water into the higher levels of the sewers at all.
207. If this Company used fresh water it could go into the sewers with great benefit? Yes; that is what they ought to do. The Chairman of this Committee knows the objection to salt water perhaps better than I do and its effect with regard to oxidation.
208. Mr. Barbour.] If the question were submitted to you as to whether you preferred fresh water to salt water being used, and its effect upon the flushing of the sewers, you would prefer fresh water? Yes. I would not use salt water at all. There is a special objection to the use of salt water in the south, because it would not do to go on the farm.
209. In cases where the sewerage is used for manure salt water would interfere with its usefulness? Yes.

Thomas Rowe, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- T. Rowe, Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.
210. Chairman.] I believe you are an architect, engaged in business in Sydney, President of the Institute of Architects of this City, and member of the Royal Institute? Yes.
211. For how many years have you been engaged in your profession in Sydney? About thirty-one.
212. You have had very large experience in connection with warehouses and other very large buildings which have been erected in Sydney? I think I have built as largely as any other architect in Sydney.
213. Have you ever found any difficulty in reference to what power should be used, and how it should be utilized, for getting to the top of these high buildings? I find there is no other power to suit our purpose for lofty warehouses but the hydraulic-power at present. I have used it in Sydney.
214. You mean high-pressure exercised by water? I have used both high-pressure and low-pressure. If anything, I prefer high-pressure.

215. I suppose that in the low-pressure system the pipes and accumulators have to be much larger than under the high-pressure system? Yes. There must be a certain number of tanks and things, and the plant is more cumbersome. E. Rowe, Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.

216. Then I suppose the high-pressure system would be somewhat cheaper as regards the first cost? I find that in the case of Gardiner and Company's large stores the expense under the high-pressure system was less than that under the low-pressure system.

217. You are aware that a Bill is before Parliament for the purpose of granting power to a proposed water company to carry on operations in Sydney? Yes.

218. Do you know that such a company would be a benefit to Sydney? I do. It would be a very great blessing indeed to a city like Sydney, situated as it is, being so narrow and girdled round with the sea. The sites in our main streets are getting so valuable that, the business and office centre being so circumscribed, the buildings must necessarily rise higher. It has been my experience for several years past that we are gradually getting higher, and my advice to almost every client who builds in our main streets is to build high, and, if he is not willing to build high at present, to prepare for building high in the future. We must go higher, and, having travelled in Europe during the last few years, I have seen the necessity of this from travel as well as from experience here.

219. There are a large number of buildings in Sydney in proportion to the size of the city and its population where power of some kind, hydraulic or otherwise, has to be used? We are thoroughly puzzled now in the case of ordinary warehouses three, four, or five stories high. The old American lift used here years ago has gone out of date. To get power in ordinary stores, say a block of stores four or five stories high, each must have its gas-engine. Then there is an engineer for each engine, and a considerable amount of trouble. I am now building a block of seven stores in York-street, and to the north of this block there are two more stores, making in all nine, and we have to provide lifting power for these nine stores. If this hydraulic-power were available it would be something like connecting gas or water, but now we shall have to get nine gas-engines and nine engineers, and then the power is not so good as if it were hydraulic-power brought in from the street. If such a system were introduced, and it would be perfectly safe, for I see no danger to arise from it whatever, the offices would be located in the uppermost floor instead of being down on the first floor as at present, where the noise is almost intolerable, and where one has to speak very loud in order to be heard. It would be in this respect an immense comfort if there was a proper system of hydraulic lifts running up and down, and persons would prefer to occupy the higher floors as offices.

220. When you were in London did you have brought under your notice the operations of the Hydraulic Water-power Company of that city? No.

221. You are aware that there is such a company in operation in London? Yes. I may mention that I built Hoffnung and Company's large stores as well as Gardiner's, and we have an hydraulic lift there produced by pumping.

222. That is a low-pressure, having a tank on the roof? Yes; still it is a direct acting lift forced up.

223. But under that plan everything has to be on much larger dimensions? Yes. I also had to do with Elliott Brothers' store, where the Otis lift is used. I have had to do with some of the largest and loftiest buildings in the city.

224. Referring to Hoffnung's, I suppose, for the purpose of having an accumulator tank on the roof, it is necessary that the building should be of extra strength to support this enormous load? The tank is not excessively large. We utilize the water over and over again; there is a constant circulation of water.

225. Still you would far prefer the high-pressure to the low-pressure? I should certainly do so.

226. And there is no general steam company in existence in the world which generates steam and supplies it to individual consumers? I do not know of such a thing. It has been suggested to me that in the case of the block of seven stores there should be power sufficient to accommodate the neighbourhood around. That would be a small company in itself.

227. Is there not an objection to that, owing to the condensation of the steam which would have to travel such a distance? Yes. A large boiler would be required, which would have to be fed with coal. Of course it would not compare with this, and there would be some danger.

228. I believe you were at one time an alderman for the city of Sydney? Yes.

229. It would be necessary, I suppose, under the hydraulic-power system, to have mains along the streets for the purpose of conveying that power. Do you think there would be much destruction or much damage done to the streets by laying these mains and the connections which would be made? Not more than in the case of water or of gas. It must necessarily cause a little inconvenience, but not any damage to the streets. I should advise that the pipes be laid inside the kerbstone under the pathway.

230. That is, I suppose, because our streets are made of wooden blocks? Yes. For many years past we have seen the necessity of having two mains of water and gas under the pathways; this is far better than turning up the streets.

231. These main pipes for the conveyance of hydraulic-power would not, I suppose, be more than 6 inches in diameter? I am not certain of that.

232. A gas main would be very much larger? I should think so.

233. And, therefore, it would take up more time and room? Yes. They might cross the street here and there instead of having two lines of mains.

234. Do you think it would be preferable to use fresh or salt water for this power? I should say fresh water would be the best. There would be less danger of oxidation.

235. We have been informed that in London the Thames water is used, and after having been used it is allowed to go into the sewers for flushing purposes; I suppose that would be a benefit in some respects? Certainly, it would be an advantage to flush the sewers in very dry weather.

236. You think if a power like this were available it would be largely used? I think it would be used in a thousand directions and for a thousand purposes now little thought of. Wherever there is a food lift, for instance, from the basement to the principal floor in a private house, or in a hotel, and in a thousand other directions where power is required it could be used. It could be used for sewing-machines and in small factories. I know one instance where there is a food lift running through five stories, which is worked by hand-power. How easily would it be to connect with a pipe, how simple the matter would become; and wherever there is a lift of any kind, or wherever power is required for any purpose, this hydraulic system could be utilized. I think it would be a great blessing to the city of Sydney. If it is good for warehouses, and we have proved that it is, it is good in a thousand other instances.

- E. Rowe, Esq. 237. Wherever power is required this water-power could be used with so much ease and facility? Yes.
238. Mr. Day.] It would do away with a large quantity of machinery, the working of which renders the atmosphere hot and unhealthy? Yes.
- 22 Feb., 1888. 239. It could be utilized in connection with printing-machines; all the newspapers could be printed with hydraulic-power? Yes. Then, again, it would be useful for extinguishing fires. We have lofty buildings, and we have not sufficient water pressure to reach the fire, and this hydraulic-power would remedy this deficiency. I am a constant reader of The Architect and Builder and The Building News, and I have never read anything in opposition to this process of hydraulic-power, but, on the contrary, everything in its favour.
240. In the case of Hoffnung's building, I believe that in the lower part of the city the water supply is not sufficient under natural conditions to reach the top? Not the top, not where the tank is situated.
241. And the water from the main would be almost useless for fire extinguishing purposes on the top of the building? I think so.
242. Therefore, if a fire occurred, some engines would have to be used in the street for the purpose of extinguishing the fire, or some power would have to be applied? I am not so certain. I think fire-hose is kept on the uppermost floors, but when you speak of the top of the roof, where the tanks are, you are correct. Where the water is applied by the hydraulic I believe it would reach the fifth floor.
243. Mr. Barbour.] Force is a great element in putting out fire as well as the saturating power of water, and this force would be supplied by the hydraulic system? Yes; the higher the pressure the greater the body of water you can bring to bear on the burning mass. As to the inconvenience of laying pipes on our pathways and streets that is not to be considered for a moment in comparison with the immense advantage we should derive from this system.
244. Chairman.] In the case, for instance, of Hoffnung's building a large amount of rates is paid yearly to the City Corporation. In the event of the building being removed by fire the Corporation would lose this revenue, and consequently it is to their own interest that such buildings should be preserved intact, and you think that this consideration should outweigh any little inconvenience that might be occasioned by the laying of the pipes to secure this end? Yes; the danger would be lessened, and if you lessen the danger you increase the revenue.
245. Mr. Barbour.] Are you aware of any objections to this motive power being applied in the way this Company propose to apply it? I know of none whatever. I may say that I speak as a representative man, being president of the Institute of Architects, a body composed of about eighty members. We frequently discuss these matters, and I think my evidence in this case can be regarded as that of a representative man.
246. Chairman.] Has this water-power process ever come under the notice of the Institute at their ordinary meetings? Not directly; but in talking with each other at the reading table we have discussed it. No paper has been read on the subject, and there has been no formal discussion. We are in recess now, but when the session is opened in May, I intend, as president, to make some remarks on the general question of building in the city, and this is an item I intend to speak on, and I have no doubt some information regarding it will be elicited.
247. You have no doubt, from the position you occupy, that your views in reference to this question will be endorsed by a large majority of the members of the Institute? I am quite certain.
248. Mr. Barbour.] From the evidence you have given I infer that you not only believe that this will be a useful power, but that it is one of the best powers that can be applied, so far as is known at present? I am strongly of that opinion.
249. And that it is not only safe, but the safest power that could be applied? It is perfectly safe, and I know of no other power so safe.

Vernon Petherick, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- V. Petherick, Esq. 250. Chairman.] I believe you are a representative of the Otis Lift Company? Yes; I am engineer and manager.
- 22 Feb., 1888. 251. It is an American company, is it not? It is an American company, but the company here is really a branch or offshoot. The business got so large that we have formed a second company, intending to have works out here.
252. The company's operations extend over the civilized world, I believe? Yes. We have made more than 75 per cent. of the elevators in the world.
253. You confine yourselves now almost exclusively to the manufacture of lifts, do you not? Lifts of all kinds—lifts for goods, passengers, and other purposes.
254. What power is usually applied to these lifts? It varies according to situation. Out here we have been using practically nothing but hydraulic-power. In New York, where they have steam mains laid down, we make a great many steam passenger elevators. It varies according to circumstances. In some towns where they have a very fine water pressure we have the hydraulic elevator without any intermediate machinery.
255. You spoke of New York having a steam-power; do I understand that there is a steam-power supply company there, or has each individual warehouse its own steam appliances? In the city of New York steam mains are laid down like the water pipes in the street, and small branch pipes are taken from these mains into the separate buildings where they are wanted.
256. Is this steam-power supply company in New York a very large affair? Oh, yes.
257. How long has it been in operation? I should think about seven years.
258. How many stations have they for the generation of steam? When I was there they had one large station, and they proposed to extend it all over New York, and probably by this time they have half a dozen.
259. There is a limit beyond which it would not be desirable to have generating depôts apart? Exactly. That would be a radius of about a mile, at the most.
260. Then at every mile, for proper and economical working, they require to have another generating appliance? Exactly.
261. Owing to the condensation of the steam? Yes.

262. Is this used exclusively for motive power purposes and for heating? That is where it is of great advantage. In New York, in winter, you have very cold weather, and I may say that every place, almost without exception, takes in steam-power. They use it more for heating purposes, taking the average all the year round, than for power. V. Petherick, Esq. 22 Feb., 1888.

263. In a country like this of course it would not be used much for heating purposes? No. If it were not for this inducement in New York they would have laid down hydraulic-power to a certainty.

264. Then, only for the difference in climate, and the use being made of this steam-power for heating purposes, you are of opinion that they would have long since laid down hydraulic-power? Most certainly; they would not have hesitated a second about it; there should be no question as to the two.

265. In your opinion hydraulic-power is much preferable, in lifts and other appliances where power is used, to steam? Most certainly.

266. And especially as regards lifts? Most certainly.

267. So much so that, I suppose, if the two powers were placed at your disposal in any city you would take the hydraulic-power at once? Most certainly, for this particular reason:—Supposing we have two sets of mains laid down, one hydraulic-power and the other a steam main, and we have got a lift here and a lift on the other side. Now, to work this elevator, if you work it by hydraulic-power, which is most easily handled and most convenient, you must have a steam-engine, a pump, tanks, pipes, and so on; or else, if you do not work it on the hydraulic principle, you must have a steam-engine, with belting and gearing, and so on. Now in the other case, with hydraulic-power you simply do away with all the intermediate machinery, and take it right direct in the cylinder of your elevator. There is no intermediate machinery, and there is no attendant required. You just turn on a tap, and there the thing is; there is no skilled attendant needed. In the other case you must have a skilled attendant to look after the engine and machinery.

268. Therefore it is not only cheaper in the first instance but cheaper for maintenance? Decidedly, in every possible way.

269. Can you give us any idea of the proportionate difference between that and either the steam or low-pressure system? I am obliged to speak only by way of a guess, but I should say the one would cost about 25 per cent. of the other; that is to say, hydraulic-power would cost about 25 per cent. of the cost of the other power for a single installation. If you went in for a large installation first, and went on larger and larger, you would arrive at a point when it would be better to have a steam-engine and installation of your own. There is, for instance, a very large building in London in which there are eighteen elevators. It would pay better there for the owners of that building to have a separate steam-engine of their own; that is to say, make a small supply company of themselves, and take the profits.

270. But this is a very exceptional case? Very exceptional.

271. Mr. Barbour.] But even in that case the more the power was applied the cheaper it must be to the company as well as to the individual? Yes; but they get the profits in the other case.

272. But would the profits be so large as to make a difference (say) with twenty lifts? Well, not in proportion. For instance, if the Hydraulic-power Company have 500 lifts, which is quite within the bounds—I may say that we have over 4,000 of our own elevators put up in New York city alone—the proportion between the twenty and 500 would probably make no difference to the Hydraulic Company.

273. Therefore they should be able to supply more cheaply than a private individual? Very possibly—other things being left out.

274. Unless they had a monopoly? Exactly.

275. But if they had no monopoly the pressure of probable competitors would cut down the prices? Yes.

276. So that they could even supply twenty lifts more cheaply than a private individual? They probably would; but I said other things being left out of consideration. Now, in a very large building like that, and in fact much smaller buildings, it would pay them better to have their own installation, for this reason—that they must have a steam-boiler and engine on the premises for other purposes, and they could use the power along with the other.

277. Having the power there they could use it, instead of borrowing from others? Yes; if they have a steam laundry and bakery their attendant is paid for. They have their engine and boiler, and therefore the putting down of a range of pipes and pumps comes to exactly the same thing as taking the power from the hydraulic main, that is to say, they have not to pay for the attendant, who is paid for by the other machinery.

278. They have the power themselves without any additional cost, and therefore they have not to hire it from other people? Exactly.

279. Chairman.] Can you give the Committee any idea of the number of lifts, of all kinds, in operation in Sydney? I should have to guess at it, but I should say there are a couple of hundred.

280. And do you think that if a power so easy of manipulation as the hydraulic-power could be obtained this number would be largely increased? I should expect it to be quadrupled within the first twelve months, if they are anything like smart out here, as I have given them credit for being.

281. You think that the expense of having a separate installation and so on has kept back the use of lifts? Decidedly, in this particular case. We make passenger and freight elevators, and a small description of elevator which we call a dumb waiter. The dumb waiter is used principally for kitchen services, or in large offices to take up books or other light things. In many cases I have not the slightest doubt that, if the mains of the Hydraulic-power Company were laid down, I could trot round and take orders for these small elevators in large offices just like shelling peas. The difficulty is where they want a small elevator, only used for small work, and they have not got any power. In such a case they say it will not pay to put up a gas-engine, which requires an attendant, and that attendant could work half a dozen elevators. It would not pay them to put up a small kitchen or office elevator for light freight, and so on, if they had to have a gas-engine, which, no matter how small, must have an attendant, and so the consequence is they do without it.

282. Then it is your opinion that this power would be as much superior to the different powers at present used as the gas in a dwelling-house or business place is superior to a number of separate lights throughout the building? It is as superior as the gas at present supplied from a central station is superior to the old oil-lamp.

283. And can be supplied as simply? Just as simply. There is no trouble or danger—in fact, there is less danger than with the ordinary gas-pipe, because with the ordinary gas-pipe you may have a leakage which may lead to an explosion.

- V. Petherick, Esq.
22 Feb., 1888.
284. Chairman.] You have had large experience in making connections, and so on—Is it your opinion that less care is taken by gas-fitters in making their connections than by persons who are laying connections for a water service, for the reason that gas does not show itself except by smell, while in the case of water the least leakage is at once apparent? Exactly. I have had considerable experience in laying down gas-mains for waterworks nearly all over the world, and the system we adopt is a very simple one. We lay down a certain length of main, (say) 20, 30, or 50 yards long, and we block the ends and put a pressure on; we can tell exactly whether that pipe leaks or whether it does not. But this is a thing it would be almost impossible to do with a gas-main. It could be done, but it would cost considerable time, and so much care would have to be taken that they make the joints of the pipes as good as they can and chance it; and the consequence is, I suppose, that if we were to go over the whole of the gas-mains in town we would not find twenty lengths that had not a slight leak.
285. Mr. Barbour.] In your experience, gas-fitters and water-fitters are equally careful? Yes.
286. You are aware that a Bill is before Parliament for the establishment of a Water-power Company in Sydney? Yes.
287. Are you aware that similar power is being granted to a Melbourne company? Yes.
288. Did a representative of your company give evidence before a Select Committee in Melbourne? Mr. Hall, of New York, gave evidence before the Melbourne Committee.
289. Are you aware whether his evidence was favourable or unfavourable? His evidence was decidedly favourable.
290. Mr. Day.] How long ago is it since such a Bill was before the Melbourne Parliament? I can only speak from guess, it was before I came here, I should think about twelve months.
291. Has that Bill passed the Parliament of Victoria? That I cannot say.
292. Chairman.] In New York when they are laying down steam-pipes, or any other pipes, is there much difficulty with the City Corporation as to the mode of laying them, or in obtaining power to lay them down? They have very little difficulty of that sort. In New York you might lay down almost anything, as long as they thought there was a chance of its paying. They will lay down any mortal thing in that line in New York, if they see that there is a chance of the citizens benefiting by it. You may put down steam-pipes, electric wires, or anything else, and they will not offer any obstacle.
293. You know of no difficulty being placed in the way by the City Corporation? There is no difficulty whatever, they knew the thing was in the public interest.
294. Do you think this water-power could be applied to fire-extinguishing purposes? Most certainly; it would make a most efficient apparatus for the purpose.
295. And it could be applied to almost anything where power is required? Yes; of course for fire purposes you would not use the water direct from the mains, but only as a power, and one of the greatest difficulties we have with ordinary persons is to get it into their heads that the Hydraulic-power Company use water only as a vehicle for power.
296. And this power would be transmitted by water, and would operate on the body of low-pressure of water? Yes.
297. Mr. Day.] In New York, are the pipes laid along the middle of the streets, or underneath the foot-path? In some cases under the sides walks, and in some cases under the gutters.
298. But in no case in the middle of the streets under the wood-paving? In some cases they are laid under the wood-paving, but generally speaking they go inside the kerbstone.
299. In your opinion where do you think it best in the public interest that the hydraulic-power pipes should be laid, inside the kerbing, or in the street? I should always like to lay them inside the kerbing, but I should not like to speak as an authority in this matter, it is one into which I have not gone closely. Speaking, however, off-hand, I should say that, as a matter of convenience, I would rather have them under the side walk.
300. You think there would be less inconvenience to the general public if the pipes were laid inside the kerbing? I think so.
301. In breaking up the wood-paving the effect is to upset the bond altogether? Yes; and very often they have a concrete base under the wooden blocks, and if you break that base you break the bond and cannot replace it as firmly as before. When I was at Liverpool, I happened to know something about the way the roads were laid down there, and they were making it a very great point. They were laying a road based with concrete and they were very careful.
302. Did you ever see any pipes laid down for hydraulic pressure? Yes.
303. How do they manage on the footpaths, fence it off? Yes; laying down one of these power pipes is not like laying down a 13-inch main. It is laying down a comparatively small-sized pipe, and they fence off a part of the footpath and passengers go on, and there is no obstruction at all. I think that if it were absolutely necessary they could lay the pipes at night, so that there would be no obstruction to the road at all.
304. Chairman.] I suppose that a power main—taking a case like Sydney—with a reasonable installation would be something like 6 inches? Yes.
305. Gas mains run from 24 to 30 inches? Yes; water mains run still larger. In laying a 13-inch main you have to take out a 5-foot trench and there is another 2 feet 6 for spoil from it, so that you have 7 feet 6 taken off the roadway. If you do that on a sidewalk your sidewalk is spoiled.
306. Mr. Day.] I suppose this hydraulic-power could be used to drive any kind of machinery? Yes.
307. Sewing-machines, for instance, and printing-machines? Any machinery whatever; I know of no class of machinery it could not drive. You see you have various intermediate agents. For instance, suppose you wanted to drive a sewing-machine, you can have either little turbine wheels, or little rotary engines where you want high speed. Where you want slow power you can have either an ordinary Ramsbottom engine, very much like a steam-engine, and get any speed you like out of it; or if you want pressure pumps—higher pressure—you can use them. Instead of using steam, as the vehicle of power, you use water, and of course it gets rid of all the fire risks. You have not to pay anything extra for having a steam-boiler on your premises.
308. It rather diminishes the cost in this respect, because you have a water supply? Yes.
309. And it gets rid of all the heat in the building that comes from machines in which fire is used? Yes. There is no difficulty whatever in adopting it to anything.

FRIDAY, 24 FEBRUARY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR, | • MR WALL.

JACOB GARRARD, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

John Alexander Macdonald, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

J. A. Macdonald, Esq.,

24 Feb., 1888.

310. Chairman.] You are assistant engineer in the Department of Roads and Bridges? Yes.
311. You have recently taken a trip to the Old Country? Yes; in 1885.
312. You were requested to make a report on matters pertaining to your Department? Yes; chiefly in reference to the raising of sewage.
313. From the higher levels of Sydney the sewage will be conveyed by gravitation to Bondi, and from the lower levels it is proposed to pump it up on to a sewage farm? I think it runs by gravitation on to the sewage farm. I have nothing to do with the sewerage works of Sydney. The question of power required is with reference to the margin round the harbour.
314. Some power will have to be used to convey the sewage of Balmain to the sewage farm? Yes.
315. Had you an opportunity of seeing the London Hydraulic-power Company's works? I did not see their works. I saw some mains being laid.
316. You are aware that such a company exists in London? Yes. I know they were using hydraulic-power from the mains for rivetting on the extension of Charing Cross Bridge.
317. Was the power supplied by this company? Yes; the contractors took it from the mains in the street.
318. What is the distance between Charing Cross and the southern side of Blackfriars Bridge? I suppose it is about a mile and a quarter.
319. Is that portion of the city a busy one? Charing Cross would be outside the boundary of the city proper.
320. To cross Blackfriars Bridge from the southern side would land you in the city proper? Yes.
321. Until you reached the boundary of the city I suppose it would be a very busy portion? I do not know where the mains are laid exactly. I saw them being laid in Cheapside.
322. Is that a very busy thoroughfare? It is the busiest.
323. Was there much obstruction to traffic while this work was going on? No. The pipes were being laid under the roadway close to the kerb.
324. What was the size of the pipes? I should say that they were of about 2-inch bore.
325. Easily and expeditiously laid? Yes.
326. Much more so than 24-inch gas pipes? Yes; they were using this power, although I did not see it, on the extension of the Metropolitan Railway.
327. For what purpose? For rivetting and punching.
328. This power is applicable to almost any work where power is required I suppose? Mostly; of course it is a question of economy—I refer to the magnitude of the power required—as to whether it would be better to take the power from the company or to have your own plant.
329. Power conveyed by water in this way is a very effectual and economical power? Certainly.
330. The best you know of? Not in all cases.
331. But for lifts and cranes? Yes; for wharf cranes and passenger lifts.
332. Do you know whether it is largely availed of in London for these purposes? I cannot say, it was in its infancy then.
333. Mr. Barbour.] What is your idea about applying this power for the purpose of raising sewage? When I was in England I reported upon three distinct systems for dealing with sewage round the margin of Port Jackson; the first was to erect a pump with a Cornish pumping engine at each existing outflow into the harbour; the second was Shone's hydro-pneumatic system; and the third was a scheme which was invented by Mr. Appleby, in England, to raise sewage by hydraulic-power. The hydraulic system I have not seen tried yet; I do not think it has been tried yet, and so, in reporting to the Commissioner, I reserved my opinion until we made an experiment ourselves. The Shone's system I have seen at work.
334. Chairman.] It forces the sewage, by means of air, up to a given level? Yes.
335. That would not have the effect of cleansing the sewer? Yes; it is perfectly self-cleansing.
336. Would not the application of water to the forcing of the sewage have a better cleansing effect than the use of air? The water from the hydraulic mains does not flow with the sewage.
337. You have not seen Mr. Appleby's invention? It has not been in actual work anywhere yet.
338. Some power will have to be applied for the purpose of lifting the sewage from the lower levels of Sydney? Yes; round the margin of the harbour.
339. If hydraulic power was available do you think it would be advisable to thoroughly test that power before going to the expense of introducing any other system? I should certainly recommend the Commissioner, if the Power Company is formed, to try the system on some station.
340. If the power was available, you would advise the Commissioner to try this method before any other? Yes.
341. Is it likely to be a success, from your knowledge of mechanics? I think so. It is a question of working out the details.
342. Mr. Barbour.] And if the Company was not formed, what would you do? I think it is probable that it would then be tried.
343. Chairman.] By having a generating power of your own? Yes. Of course, I am only speaking of what I should recommend for adoption by the Department.
344. Mr. Barbour.] You consider there is sufficient inducement to experiment and use the power, even if it is done at the Government expense? Yes.
345. Mr. Wall.] Which do you consider the best system, having regard to the general distribution of power, for the purposes of lifts and cranes—hydraulic? Yes.
346. Chairman.] In preference to steam? Oh, certainly. I might draw attention to this fact: that the pressure of air in connection with Shone's system is only about 10 lb. to the square inch. It could not be used for general distribution over the city.
347. Have you visited New York? No.

- J. A. Macdonald, Esq.
24 Feb., 1888.
348. You are not aware of a steam-power supply company being in existence there? I have seen steam supplied for rock drilling machinery at a given distance.
349. Mr. Barbour.] You can speak generally as to the application of this power, although you have not seen much of it applied in your experience? I have had a great deal to do with hydraulic machinery in England.
350. This application of water in the form of motive power has only recently been invented? No; I have had to do with it in England in reference to large works, where it was carried all over the works, and goods warehouses, where it was carried all over the goods sheds for the cranes that are used for loading the trucks.
351. Chairman.] Where each firm has its own generating power? Exactly. Take any large engineering works at Home: it is a usual thing to have a hydraulic pumping plant in the engine-house, and convey the mains all through the works. They use the power in one shed for punching and shearing the iron, in another for rivetting the girders, and for similar work throughout the other sheds. That is only an illustration on a small scale of what is proposed in Sydney.
352. Mr. Barbour.] Generally speaking, you approve of hydraulic-power in preference to steam? Oh, certainly.
353. And to any other power at present used for general purposes? Yes; for general purposes.
354. It is safer and less liable to accidents such as explosions or anything of that sort? Yes.
355. And quite as efficacious in producing results? Yes; for general purposes.
356. Do you think that if this system were introduced in Sydney it would be largely taken advantage of for the application of power? That would be more a commercial point than an engineering point. Where banks and warehouses have lifts at the present time they would not be likely to alter their arrangements, unless they saw some chance of saving money.
357. Chairman.] Take the case of a warehouse where they have an installation of their own. They have to have a steam or gas-engine to raise the elevators, and an engineer probably to look after it. If this power was available by the mere turning on of a tap it would be very much cheaper? It ought to be.
358. Both for construction and for maintenance? It ought to be.
359. Your experience, I suppose, is that where facilities are given to the public they are generally availed of? Yes.
360. Mr. Wall.] Suppose you were called upon in your position to recommend a power for general distribution over the city, would you recommend hydraulic-power? Certainly.
361. Chairman.] Are you aware that there is a sort of water injector which has been patented for the express purpose of applying this power to an ordinary low-pressure system of water for fire-extinguishing purposes? No; but I should think it was a practical thing. I have not seen it.
362. You think there would be no difficulty in the matter? In the form of an injector, I do not think there would be any difficulty.
363. Do you know what kind of water they were using in London—whether it is salt or fresh? I would not be sure. I think it is very improbable that they would use salt water.

Thomas Bunce, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- T. Bunce, Esq.
24 Feb., 1888.
364. Chairman.] What is your profession? I am an engineer.
365. Have you recently been superintending the erection of an hydraulic plant at Messrs. Gardiner Brothers? Yes.
366. Are you in business in Sydney? No; I belong to a London firm—Messrs. Waygood & Company, of London.
367. Were you specially sent out from London to erect this plant? Yes.
368. You have had a large experience in the erection of these plants? Yes; extending over about seventeen years.
369. Principally with hydraulic plants? All hydraulic works during that time.
370. Is this work completed at Messrs. Gardiner's? Yes.
371. Do you know anything of the London Water-power Company? Yes; I was outdoor foreman for Mr. Ellington, the promoter of the London Power Company, for a period of eight years. I have been with Waygood and Company for a period now of nine and a half years, and since the Power Company has been working in London I have put up, or assisted to put up for Waygood and Company, 115 different machines under the Power Company's service in London.
372. You have not had any connection with the Power Company? No more than fixing the work on to their mains.
373. Applying their power to machinery of different kinds? Yes; principally lifts.
374. Where are their works situated? At Falcon Wharf, at the foot of Blackfriars Bridge.
375. How far do their mains extend? I cannot exactly say. I suppose they have 12 or 13 miles of mains down, and the furthest point from the pumping station would be about 6 miles in a direct line.
376. What is the size of the principal mains? 6 inches.
377. It is found amply sufficient for all purposes? Yes.
378. Would it be necessary, if there was a larger demand on the part of the consumers, say 100 per cent. more than at present, to lay larger mains, or are the present mains sufficient to meet all requirements? I can hardly say that. I think the 6 inch main is found sufficient for all present purposes. There are places where they have laid a supplementary main, to be used in case of a breakdown, but that is not all over the service, it is only in particular places.
379. Are the mains laid down in circuits so as to prevent any undue stoppage? Yes.
380. So that if a breakdown occurred there would be comparatively few customers inconvenienced thereby? That is so.
381. What is the distance roughly? I cannot say. They have mains up one street and down another. They work them round that way so that if one end of a street is stopped they can work in from the other end up to particular points.
382. Is this power coming more into general use in London? Yes. As far as our system is concerned we do a great deal of business with them; in fact I may say that we have more orders every month. That was the case up to the time I left Home, and I suppose it continues the same.
383. Where are the mains laid, under the footpath, or under the road? About a yard from the edge of the footpath—just beyond the water-channel.

384. What are the roads made of in the city of London? The roads are all concrete covered with asphalt; some of them are covered with wood.
385. Would it not be more inexpensive to lay them under the footpath? In London a great many cellars are used. These cellars extend under the footpath as far as the edge of the road; they are generally used as coal cellars.
386. Mr. Barbour.] Which is the most advantageous plan, to put them under the footpath or under the road? It would be a matter of opinion. If a house on the opposite side of the street wanted the power you would have to cross the street to it. The roads are pretty wide in most parts where the mains are laid. They can take up part of the road without inconveniencing the traffic greatly. It would inconvenience the traffic altogether if it was laid under the footpaths.
387. Chairman.] A 6-inch main would not require a trench of more than 20 or 24 inches? 18 inches we have.
388. Has there been any accident through the operations of this Power Company in London, through the bursting of a main or anything like that? I have never heard of a bursting since the day the mains were put down.
389. What metal is used—wrought or cast-iron? Cast-iron generally. The pipes are made for the purpose. They are, I suppose, $1\frac{3}{8}$ inches thick. They are all tested to a pressure of 2,500 lb. to a square inch before leaving the maker's works.
390. What is the working pressure? 700 lb. They are all tested in lengths of 100 yards before they are buried in the street.
391. Mr. Barbour.] If there was a fault it would be shown by a leak? The pressure being so strong it would not be at all difficult to find a leak.
392. Chairman.] Do you know whether the city authorities of London have ever raised any objection to the streets being cut up for this purpose? I think not.
393. There is less inconvenience to the public from the laying of 6-inch pipes than there is from the laying of ordinary gas-pipes? Oh, a great deal.
394. Mr. Barbour.] The streets are more frequently cut up to get at the gas mains than to get at the power-pipes? I cannot say; I have not taken any notice of it. The pipes being so much stronger they are laid in such a substantial manner that there is very little danger of their giving way.
395. Chairman.] I suppose if there had been hydraulic-power available, there would have been no necessity for this separate installation that you have laid at Messrs. Gardiner's? Beyond the lifts themselves there would be no power required.
396. How is it driven? By a gas-engine.
397. Neither a gas-engine, nor an accumulator, nor a working engineer would be required? No; at Home we simply turn on a tap in the street or in the building.
398. How is this water given to the consumers, by a meter? It is measured after the power is taken from it, on the exhaust side of the lifts. The water simply runs from the meters by gravity.
399. What guarantee have the customers of the power supplied? I do not know what guarantee. I have never gone through the company's rules. I have never known lifts to be stopped for many minutes altogether, anywhere. Once or twice we have had complaints of the lifts standing for a short time, but it has never happened for more than an hour. It might be occasioned by making a new connection.
400. You have heard no serious complaint of customers being deprived of power? No.
401. Mr. Barbour.] What is your opinion of this power, as compared with other powers, such as steam? Well, the great advantage of the hydraulic-power is that there is no expansion of water. When the valves are closed all power is done away with or stopped. With steam-gear it requires a skilled man to use it, and look after the expansion of steam in the cylinders, but that does not occur with hydraulic pressure.
402. Therefore the risk is less? A great deal. Again, in the case of a burst, as soon as the hydraulic pressure is off the first flint relieves all pressure, but with steam, expansion and heat follow it up.
403. Chairman.] Steam is elastic and water is not so? Yes. The same faults occur with compressed air as with steam.
404. In the one case the steam and air expand, and continue the destructive effects, while in the other a drop of water immediately releases the pressure? Yes.
405. Mr. Barbour.] Have you any remarks to make as to the superiority of this power over any other power? A child or boy can apply hydraulic-power without any risk to himself. It is also a power which if there is a small leak shows itself immediately; that does not occur with either compressed air or steam.
406. Mr. Wall.] How long is it since the company first started in London? About five years.
407. Has this power superseded the power which was in use before? Oh, yes; our firm alone have taken something like seventy or eighty gas-engine plants out that were put in for the purpose of pumping water for lifts; low-pressure lifts are going out of date altogether.
408. Chairman.] Have you ever seen it applied to a low-pressure system of water for fire-extinguishing purposes? I have seen it, but I could not give you any information on that point.
409. There is a sort of injector patented for that purpose? I think there are two or three.
410. You see no particular difficulty in the way of applying it? No.
411. Have you ever seen this injector applied for the extinction of fires? I have seen the effect of the application of this power to the extinction of fires, but I have not seen the actual machine itself. The difference would be 70 or 80 per cent. more by applying a jet of high-pressure water to low-pressure system—it throws the water a distance of 170 or 180 feet.
412. I suppose that, as a rule, this power is cheaper than any other power that could be applied for lifts? We find it very much cheaper than separate lifts, especially in a warehouse where only two or three lifts are required. Where a number of lifts are used—such as at a railway station, where they are bound to keep steam-power—they find it cheaper to have a plant of their own; but where there is no machinery, and only one or two lifts are used, the Power Company is a great deal cheaper.
413. If they had to erect an engine to give the power, would it be cheaper? I do not think it would. The hydraulic-power does not make any difference to the insurance, nor is any skilled man required on the premises.
414. It rather reduces the insurance rate? I suppose it would, supposing injectors are fitted on to the fire main on the premises. It dispenses with an engine and skilled attendance.

T. Bunce,
Esq.
24 Feb., 1888.

- T. Bunce, Esq.
24 Feb., 1888.
415. Do you know of any power that is cheaper than this? No; the power can be conveyed from 200 feet up to a mile or 10 miles by pipes cheaper than by using any other known system.
416. Mr. Wall.] Have you any knowledge of the charges for this power? I gave Messrs. Gardiner Brothers one of the Company's books a short time ago. They have a special charge for low consumers, but after they get beyond a certain consumption—from 2,000 to 5,000 a year—it ranges from 5s. 6d. down to 2s. 3d. or 2s. 4d. a thousand gallons. A small consumer—that is, a man who consumes under 5,000 gallons—has to pay a fixed rate. I have some circulars showing the prices.
417. Chairman.] It is fresh water which they use? They are using fresh water, which they pump from the river, but in most of the docks in London and about the country they use salt water with it.
418. Nearly all the London docks are worked by hydraulic-power? Everyone of them.
419. Have you had any experience of Hull? Yes; I have put up a great number of machines there for the Hull Dock Company.
420. Their docks are supposed to be about as complete as any docks in the world? I suppose so.
421. They are exclusively worked by hydraulic-power? Not exclusively. They have some steam cranes, which they use for special purposes.
422. There they use salt water? I cannot say. I think they make up with salt water, but I have no great knowledge of the last new plant they put up. I was out of the London Company's employ at that time. But Armstrong's first establishment was worked by fresh water. The water was always returned by means of a tank, and the waste was made up from the water main.
423. Where does the returned water go? It always goes to the drains.
424. Where a power company would have to pay for their water that would be very expensive? They do have to pay a certain amount for drawing it out of the river. It is very little. If a company had to pay any great amount for their water, I suppose they would have to add it on to the price of the power.
425. What is the effect of salt water upon the pipes and valves? It does not affect the pipes at all. It affects the valves very little.
426. Mr. Barbour.] Why take the fresh water then? It has not such a tendency to rush. There is less friction with it too. It gives a more effective power. Salt water in itself is of a rather rougher nature than fresh water.
427. Can this power be applied to anything for which power is wanted? You could use it for anything you could possibly imagine. There is nothing but what you can apply hydraulic machinery to.

Frank J. Appleby, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- F. J. Appleby, Esq.
24 Feb., 1888.
428. Chairman.] You are a representative of the firm of Appleby Brothers (Limited) of London? Yes.
429. You are general engineers? Yes.
430. You make a special feature of hydraulic machinery? Yes.
431. How long have you been in Sydney? About three years..
432. Have you any knowledge or acquaintance with the London Hydraulic-power Company's operations? I have no knowledge of their operations. I examined the head station before I left London for Australia. It is situated at Southwark.
433. We have been informed that your firm has some plan of applying water-power to the lifting of sewage and other things? Yes; I have the plan with me.
434. Do you know how far the operations of the London Power Company extend;—what distance from the head station? No.
435. You do not know the size of their mains? I have no particulars.
436. Is water-power coming more into use in London and other parts of the world? Oh, yes. In London it is being very largely used now, and on the Continent you may say that almost every dock has been fitted up with a complete water-power system. It is the case in Genoa.
437. The various docks in London are worked by means of hydraulic-power? Yes.
438. Has it been found most efficient? Most efficient and most economical. The new docks at Tilbury use hydraulic-power entirely.
439. I suppose they have a generating power of their own? Yes.
440. I suppose if this power could be obtained at a cheap and easy rate it would increase the number of small consumers? I think so.
441. Do you know of any objections being raised by the city authorities of London to their streets being destroyed by the laying of these pipes? No; I think no objections have been raised, because the openings which are required are very small. The mains themselves are small, not larger than 8 or 9 inches.
442. What are they—cast or wrought-iron? Cast-iron of a special pattern as to the jointings.
443. These pipes undergo a test before they leave the factory? Everyone is tested. All our pipes are tested before leaving our works.
444. To what pressure are they tested? To 2,000 lb. Their working pressure is generally 700 lb.
445. Mr. Wall.] Are they tested separately, or in sections? Separately always.
446. Chairman.] I suppose this hydraulic-power is available for nearly every kind of machinery for which power is required? Yes; I do not know of a single thing for which it cannot be utilized.
447. Have you ever seen it applied to a low-pressure system of water for fire-extinguishing purposes? No; I cannot say that I have—not off power mains. The system is comparatively new in London. It is only three years ago that they were laying the mains.
448. I suppose you can see no mechanical difficulty in the way of applying it to fire-extinguishing purposes in a similar way as an injector is applied to water? No; it would be a very great safeguard to the city to have these mains laid. In my opinion I can see no difficulty.
449. Mr. Barbour.] As far as you know, has it been applied to that purpose? I am not aware.
450. Suppose this power was available, do you think it would be largely used for lifts? Undoubtedly, especially in the part where they propose to lay the mains. There are many buildings not possessing lifts which would at once put in lifts. In many cases the only hindrance to putting them in is the fact that they have not room for the necessary engines, but if the power was there it would simply be a question of cutting an opening for the lift to work in.
451. Even if they had a place for the engines, would it be cheaper or dearer to use this power? It would be cheaper in every sense, because you would save not only the cost of your engine, but also the expense of a man to attend to it.
- 452.

452. Mr. Wall.] Do you think that the city of Sydney would be suitable, as regards its situation, for the introduction of this system? Yes. I do not see in any way how it would be inadvisable at all. It is not a question of having the pipes above the ground or in any way interfering with the traffic at all. The narrowness of the streets of Sydney necessitates the erection of very high buildings, and undoubtedly the introduction of this power would increase the value of property to a great extent. As regards facilities for loading and unloading vessels, Sydney is terribly behind the times. Undoubtedly there ought to be a system of hydraulic cranes right round Circular Quay. I was surprised when I saw the appliances they are using for discharging cargo.
453. Chairman.] Have you visited Newcastle? Yes. There is a very fine system of cranes there.
454. They were erected by your firm? Those were steam, not hydraulic.
455. You have seen the hydraulic cranes? Yes; they are very fine cranes.
456. Mr. Barbour.] Is it a superior system to the steam? It is much more economical where you have a large area to deal with. In the case of a company supplying mains it would be more economical. On many wharfs in London they will not allow steam-cranes at all; the use of hydraulic-power is a safeguard against the risk of fire.
457. Chairman.] Have you ever been in New York? No.
458. Mr. Barbour.] Do you know of any objection to the application of this power to the various purposes in Sydney? There can be no objection that I can possibly imagine.
459. It is superior to all other powers? Yes.
460. It is cheaper, more efficient, and safer; it is so effective and simple that it can be applied as easily as gas can be turned on? Yes.
461. Chairman.] What would be the effect of salt water, if it was used on the mains and taps, would it be very detrimental? No; I do not think so, because during the greater part of the day the salt water would be continuously in motion.
462. I suppose you would prefer fresh water? Yes; I do not think that salt water would have any very great effect upon the life of the mains. They might want renewing at an earlier date.
463. Mr. Barbour.] Would salt water have a greater tendency to cause a smell than fresh water? Oh, no; it might be possible to use salt water with a certain proportion of fresh water added, which would minimise any corrosion on the pipes.

THURSDAY, 1 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

Mr. Barbour,

Mr. Wall.

JACOB GARRARD, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad, Esq., appeared as Solicitor on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

William Gilmour Murray, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

464. Chairman.] What is your profession? I am a merchant.
465. How long have you been engaged in business in Sydney? Fifteen years.
466. You are a member of the firm of Gibbes, Bright, & Co.? I represent them.
467. You recently returned from the old country? Yes.
468. Had you opportunities, whilst in London, of seeing the operations of water-power companies? I had; but I saw more in America, in San Francisco, Denver, Chicago, and New York.
469. Will you give the Committee any information which you possess about the system, as you saw it applied in those cities? The hydraulic system is in operation in every place that I visited. The most important instance is one that I saw in New York, at the Produce Exchange Company's establishment. They had an immense lift in a building over 400 feet high; the lift went up and came down very rapidly. It acted beautifully.
470. Did they generate their own steam, or was it supplied by a general company? I am not quite sure, but I think they have a general company.
471. You saw it in operation? I went up with it.
472. Is it in a large place of business? Yes; an immense place; there were thousands of people there.
473. How many lifts were there? I think two; but a great number of people could go up with it at one time.
474. Did you see any more in New York? No. In Liverpool, I saw a large one which would lift from 100 to 200 people. It is connected with the railway under the river.
475. For the purpose of raising and lowering the passengers? Yes; you got into a large room on the lift, the door is shut, and you were lowered down immediately.
476. Have they had any accidents? None whatever.
477. Is there any fear on the part of the travelling public? None whatever.
478. Had there been any fear, you would have heard of it? I must have heard of it, had there been any.
479. How long has the lift in Liverpool been in operation? I believe about two years.
480. During that time you are not aware that any accident has occurred? No.
481. Did you see any lifts at work in any other place? Yes; in London, I saw a number of lifts for goods. I do not remember seeing any there for passengers. Goods are lifted rapidly and lowered down quickly.
482. You are not aware whether the power was generated by the owners themselves, or whether it was obtained from a general company? No; there was one general company near the city, and there may have been others.
483. And was the power for these lifts derived from one of the companies? It was.
484. Did you hear of any breakdown or accident occurring from the use of these lifts? No.
485. Did the power supplied by the company seem to give general satisfaction to their customers? Immense satisfaction. At the time that I was there the house that I was connected with were treating with the company to erect a hydraulic hoist, which they have done since.
486. Then, in your opinion, hydraulic-power is coming more into use every day for commercial purposes? It certainly is.

W. G.
Murray, Esq.
1 Mar., 1888.

- W. G. Murray, Esq. 487. Both in the old and the new world? Yes.
- 1 Mar., 1888. 488. Are you aware that a company has been formed for the purpose of bringing hydraulic-power into use here? I am.
489. Do you consider that it will be beneficial to the city of Sydney? I do; I consider that it is quite needed. I took an active part in initiating this Company for the reason I have mentioned, and I think it is a good thing for the public.
490. During your fifteen years in business in Sydney you have seen, I suppose, a great alteration in the style of buildings erected? Yes, a great alteration.
491. They have been erected higher? Yes.
492. And the need of some cheap and inexpensive power to get to the top is apparent? Yes; to get to the top with as little muscular exertion as possible.
493. Do you think that if a company were in operation there would be a large number of applicants for power? I certainly do.
494. Can you tell the Committee of any possible or probable accident that might occur from using it? The only accident that I can conceive of would be from using pipes that are too slender, because the pressure must be very great. Great care must be exercised in that respect.
495. Even if the bursting of a pipe did take place it would not have such a dire effect as steam, would it? Not at all.
496. Did you see, whilst in London, this power applied to the extinguishing of fires? I did not.
497. I presume that any power which would enable high buildings to be better utilized would increase the value of property in the city? It must do.
498. And as a natural consequence it must increase the rate roll of the City Council? Yes.
499. You are therefore of opinion that, in the interests of the citizens individually and of the city generally, a power like this would be a great boon? Yes; no doubt it would. I should mention that I am quite aware that goods are lifted by hydraulic force in many places. At the docks, in London, it is of immense service.
500. It would not pay small consumers, I suppose, to erect works to produce their own hydraulic-power? No.
501. This is where a general company would be beneficial? Yes.
502. During your residence in London did you have an opportunity of seeing the streets opened for laying the pipes? No; I did not see that.
503. You are not aware of the position of the streets in which the mains are laid? No; they were all covered over. I was in Hull too, and I heard from a number of merchants there that they were wonderfully pleased with what had been done in Hull.
504. Hull has extensive docks, has it not? Yes.
505. All served with hydraulic-power? Yes.
506. Do you know if any objection was made by the city authorities of London to the granting of power to the company for opening the streets, and so on? I am not aware, but they are very conservative people, although they have got their hydraulic companies.
507. Can you realize or understand what objection could be made by the city authorities here if anybody wanted to supply hydraulic-power in the city? I cannot, unless it were the danger of increasing the amount of the rates by breaking up the streets.
508. But if the pipes were put down strongly at first it would be done once and for all? I cannot see why there should be any objection to it.
509. But there would not be any interruption of the traffic when putting down pipes as there is when putting down gas mains? No.
510. And the advantage to the city authorities in increasing their rate-roll would more than counter-balance the disadvantages of the interference with the streets? Yes.
511. Mr. Barbour.] I should like you to describe that agricultural company in New York which you spoke of? It is the New York Produce Exchange Company. There is one immense building where about 2,000 people can meet and transact business. A certain number can go up to the top of the building at any time they like.
512. And connected with that building there is a hydraulic lift? Yes.
513. Is it different from the ordinary hydraulic lifts? I do not think so.
514. Is it peculiar from its size? It takes a great number at one time over 400 feet high.
515. Could you give us any idea of the number of passengers it could carry at once? I am not quite sure, but from my recollection the number would be 30 or 40.
516. Is the building 400 feet high? Not the whole of it, but one part of it is that height. From the top of it you can see the great Brooklyn Bridge and Bartholdi's statue.
517. From your intercourse with merchants and business people generally what do you gather to be their general opinion with regard to hydraulic-power? They could not do without it. It is one of those things which they must have.
518. Did you get the impression that it was a superior power to any hitherto applied? Yes, very much.
519. In what respect? It seems so silent, so effective, and so powerful.
520. And economical? I did not hear anyone complain about its cost.
521. Have you any idea as to the relative cost of this power? I am sorry that I cannot say anything about that point. I did not direct my attention to that.
522. And generally speaking it is looked upon amongst merchants as an advantage? As a great advantage.
523. Do you think this Company would be encouraged by having a great many applications for its power? I think so; they ought to be at any rate.
524. And it would be a profitable thing for the Company as well as for the people? It ought to be.

Edward Orpen Moriarty, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Edward O. Moriarty, Esq. 525. Chairman.] You are Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers? Yes.
- 1 Mar., 1888. 526. The water supply of the city of Sydney is under your jurisdiction? It is at present.
527. You are the originator of that scheme? Yes, I am. 528.

Edward O.
Moriarty, Esq.
1 Mar., 1888.

528. And have had the carrying out of the work? Yes.
529. How long have you been engaged in the profession? Nearly forty years.
530. You have also carried out a number of country water supplies, have you not? Yes. All those that have been carried out have been carried out under my supervision—the water supplies of Bathurst, Wagga Wagga, Albury, and the Hunter River, embracing those of Newcastle and the mining townships.
531. Coming to the water supply of Sydney, what is the pressure at which the great bulk of the water is served in Sydney by gravitation? About 70 lb. to the square inch. That is the water supply by gravitation.
532. You have also had a great deal to do in connection with the supply of our harbours with hydraulic-power? Yes; I constructed several hydraulic cranes at Newcastle for the coal trade.
533. Have they been a complete success? Yes.
534. From your knowledge as an engineer are you aware whether hydraulic-power has come more into use of late years? It is quite a modern invention.
535. And seems to be the best power for quiet effectual work? Yes; where you require great power.
536. In the water supply of Sydney, I suppose, the pipes that at present reticulate the city would not bear a higher pressure than 70 lb. to the square inch? I do not think they would bear much more.
537. It would be dangerous to use the present reticulation for the pressure of much more than 70 lb.? Yes, it would.
538. Do you think that if a power company, giving a pressure of say 700 lb. to the square inch, were brought into operation in Sydney it would be beneficial? It would be a great benefit.
539. And water-power could be applied to the use of hydraulic lifts? Yes.
540. And it would be capable almost of indefinite expansion? Quite so.
541. Are you aware whether any injector or ejector has been used to operate upon a low-pressure scheme of water with a jet of high-pressure for fire-extinguishing? I have heard of that.
542. You can see no practical mechanical difficulty in the way? No.
543. It is much on the same principle as the Gifford injector, is it not? Yes.
544. In other words, if a small jet of water is applied to a larger body it will convey that larger body with increased power and volume? It will.
545. Then if such a power was available it would be very valuable for the extinguishing of fires on high buildings? I do not know that it would, because you would require a large consumption of water to throw it. I think a better plan for the extinguishing of fires would be to fall back on the reservoirs already constructed. Waverley reservoir gives a head of 360 feet, and you can draw off any quantity you like.
546. But Waverley only controls the higher levels of Sydney? It can control the whole of Sydney as long as the reticulation pipes are sufficiently strong. It is only necessary to have a proper system of valves to turn the water on.
547. But some of the lower levels are subject to low-pressure,—would it not be dangerous to turn 360 lb. pressure into them? Perhaps, at present, they would not stand it.
548. But you might use Paddington or Woollahra reservoirs? There are the Crown-street, Woollahra, Paddington, and Waverley reservoirs, and all these may be turned on the city at various heights.
549. We have it in the city at lower levels. At Hoffnung's buildings, for instance, the water from the gravitation scheme would not reach to the top of the building. Therefore, if a fire occurred, it would necessitate the use of a steam fire-engine in the street, or some power to enable the water to be thrown to the top, would it not? No; it is only necessary to connect the pipes with the Paddington, Waverley, or Woollahra reservoir.
550. But would there not be a danger of pipes intended to carry only a low pressure bursting if such a high pressure were turned into them? I think that the pipes should be made stronger than they are at present.
551. That is, in any future reticulation scheme, stronger pipes should be used? Yes. Most of the old pipes in Sydney are very thin.
552. But is it not a fact that the mains running down Pitt-street are only capable of carrying water at a pressure of under 100 lb. to the square inch? Yes, at present; that is the old pipes.
553. Therefore, if a fire broke out there, it would be necessary, in order to control that fire, to use the power of a steam-engine to combat it? Yes; I think it would.
554. Mr. Wall.] With regard to this matter of fire in places where it would be necessary to carry water to the top of a high building, would this hydraulic-power be of any assistance in carrying the water from the mains to the tops of the buildings? I do not think you would get much benefit from that.
555. Under your present system, what advantage would the gravitation be. We should still have to fall back upon our present system of fire-engines to force the water to the top of the building, should we not? No; on the contrary. It would only be necessary to connect the city with whatever reservoir was required—either the Paddington, which is 220 feet, the Woollahra, or the Waverley reservoir—and turn on the water from there. These reservoirs command the whole of the lower parts of the city.
556. But suppose firemen were compelled to stand in the street and attach a hose to the main, would that command the whole building if it was connected with the reservoir? Yes; you would have to connect it, and it would command the whole city. There are several zones commanded by certain reservoirs, and you have to open certain valves to bring the water to bear.
557. It would be necessary to connect the mains with the high reservoirs to command all parts of the city? Yes.
558. Would that connection make any difference to the present pipes—would it not give a pressure of more than 70 lb. to the square inch? It depends where you connected with. The pipes are all charged now; and if a fire occurred in any of the higher parts of the city, and you found it necessary to connect the Waverley reservoir, you could turn the Waverley water on the whole of the city.
559. Yes; but by turning on the water to the whole of the city, would not that give a pressure of more than 70 lb. to the square inch in the pipes? It would give a pressure equal to that of the reservoir with which you connected.
560. I think you stated that these pipes would not stand a much greater pressure than 70 lb.? Some of the lower level pipes would not.
561. If you turned on a higher reservoir it would give a pressure higher than the pipes would stand? Yes; some of the pipes might give way.

- Edward O. Moriarty, Esq. 562. Mr. Barbour.] When applying that power you would want new pipes? Pipes capable of carrying it.
- 1 Mar., 1888. 563. And until you get them it would not be safe to apply it? I dare say most of the pipes would stand more than 70 lb. pressure to the square inch.
564. Chairman.] Is it in contemplation to erect cranes round the Circular Quay? Yes; I had an idea of erecting cranes there.
565. In the event of a company being established to supply an hydraulic-power, would it be cheaper for the Government to take that power from the Company than to erect plant of their own? I think it would be; the Company would have a large basis of operation which the Government would not have.
566. I suppose whether you would have a separate plant would depend upon the magnitude of the work you had to do—If you had only five cranes it might pay to obtain the power from the Company; but if you had twenty, it would pay to have a plant of your own? Yes.
567. Do you think a company of this kind would be a very great benefit to the city? I think it would. We never could have done our work at Newcastle without the hydraulic cranes.
568. You are dispensing with the old system of cranes, and getting hydraulic-power? Yes.
569. The work could not be done except by that power? No.
570. And it is done as effectually and as economically as by steam? More so.
571. Mr. Barbour.] How is this power produced? We have two steam-engines of about 30-horse power which pump the water into accumulators, which have a pressure of 700 lb. to the square inch. They work the hydraulic ram connected with the cranes by very strong pipes.
572. In a similar way to what this Company proposes to do, I suppose? I suppose it will be the same.
573. Then you prefer that power to steam-power? Yes.
574. Is it cheaper? It is. The cost of the hydraulic cranes for the year 1887, wages and repairs, was £412; stores and materials, £52, making, you may say, about £467 for the expenses of eight cranes. Each of those cranes constantly lifts 2,000 tons in the twenty-four hours, and all are capable of easily lifting 1,000 tons in ten hours to a height of 30 feet.
575. And if the same work was done by steam can you give us any idea what it would cost? I should have to get you the figures.
576. Would it be twice or ten times as much? Nearly twice as much. The wear and tear of steam cranes is very much greater than that of hydraulic cranes.
577. Mr. Wall.] Do you think the general system of hydraulic-power in the city would be cheaper than the supply of hydraulic-power in isolated cases? Well, we are very favourably situated at Newcastle. The hydraulic cranes are on the front of Bullock Island, and the water is close at hand.
578. Chairman.] What water do you use? Fresh water.
579. Do you prefer fresh water to salt water? Yes.
580. Would there be any serious objection to using salt water? I do not think that there would be.
581. Mr. Barbour.] Do you know of any objection to the application of this power which the Company proposes to place at the command of the public? No; I do not know the slightest objection. I think, on the contrary, that it is very desirable.
582. In your opinion would you prefer it to steam? I think so.
583. Chairman.] In the event of the breaking of one of the pipes, would the effect be more dangerous than the bursting of a steam-pipe? The bursting of a steam-pipe would certainly be worse.
584. Mr. Barbour.] In your opinion, would there be any serious objection to this system of water-power—would the laying of the pipes interfere very much with the streets? Not more than laying down ordinary water-pipes.
585. I suppose small pipes would be used? Yes, all small pipes.
586. What size would the pipes be? 6-inch pipes. At Newcastle the pipes are about 6 inches. You could not use large pipes with the extraordinary pressure you have to work at.
587. Could this power be easily and profitably employed for lifts? That, in my opinion, would be its proper use.
588. Would it be a useful and a cheap power? It would be both cheap and useful.
589. And in a crowded city where space is of value if such a power could be applied by the Company it would occupy less room, would it not, than a steam-engine? Yes; very little space would be required. You could turn on a tap and get the power.
590. And you think it would be an improvement in that respect on the present appliances? Yes; in fact we have no appliances in Sydney deserving that name.
591. You think a field is open for it here, and that it might be made to pay? Yes.
592. And that it would be beneficial to the public? Yes.
593. And the Company would be in a position to supply the power cheaper than it could be done in any other way? I think so, so long as there is an extensive base of operations as there is here. There is one alteration which I would suggest in the Bill. Clause 11, on page 3, says that the pipes may be put down with the superintendence of the local authority. I suggest that the word "consent" should be inserted to make it read "with the consent and superintendence of the local authorities."

TUESDAY, 6 MARCH, 1888.

Present:

MR. BARBOUR, | MR. DAY,
MR. LEES.

JACOB GARRARD, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad, Esq., appeared on behalf of the promoters of the bill.

Michael Chapman, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

- M. Chapman, Esq. 594. Chairman.] You are a member of the Legislature of New South Wales, and an Alderman of the city of Sydney? Yes.
- 6 Mar., 1888. 595. How long have you been an Alderman? About twenty-six or twenty-seven years.
596. On one or two occasions you have been Mayor of Sydney? On two occasions. 597.

597. Have you had an uninterrupted tenure of the office of Alderman? No; I was defeated at the end of the first eighteen months of my aldermanic career. I was out of the Council for about twelve months.
598. Have you been long resident in Sydney? About forty-eight years.
599. During your connection with the Corporation you have seen great alterations in the city of Sydney with regard to buildings and other things? Yes.
600. The buildings which are now being erected are very much larger and higher than the buildings of past years, I suppose? Yes.
601. Have you read the Bill which is before the Committee? I have just glanced over it; I cannot say that I have read it.
602. You know it is a Bill in which power is asked to form an hydraulic-power or water-power company? Yes.
603. Have you had any experience of water-power in connection with lifts for buildings or otherwise? No.
604. Are you aware whether this Bill has been before the City Council? I am aware that it has been before the City Council within the last week or so—I think within the last two or three weeks.
605. Do you know whether the promoters of this Bill have had any communication with Mr. Riley, the ex-Mayor, on the matter? I do not know of my own knowledge, but I have heard that they have.
606. Do you know whether any communication has taken place with the present Mayor? No.
607. Do you think it desirable, in the interests of the citizens, that this power should be given to the Company? No. I think it is the right of the Corporation.
608. Why do you think it is undesirable? Because I think that no company should have the right to cut up the streets of the city, and do as they think proper in laying the pipes, ignoring the rights of the Corporation.
609. You have not read the Bill carefully? No.
610. Would you be surprised to learn that it provides that everything shall be done under the supervision of the city authorities? I am not surprised at that, but I am surprised that no mode of remuneration is mentioned for the City Council.
611. Are you aware that under the provisions of this Bill the promoters propose not only to do everything under the supervision of the City Council, but also to keep that portion of the city which is disturbed by them in order for three months? I am not aware of it; but if it is anything like the order in which the streets are kept by the Gas Company, I most decidedly set my face against it, and so would any citizen.
612. Your objection is based on the experience you have had of the Gas Company? Yes.
613. Is it necessary for the Gas Company to give you notice of their intention to make an opening in a street; or is it done under the supervision of the Council? No.
614. So that if these provisions are contained in this Bill it will be something in advance of the Gas Company's Act? Very little. The Gas Company, though they have done the best they could, have not given satisfaction in this respect.
615. With regard to the principle of water-power, do you think it desirable that it should be brought into use in this city for the purpose of lifts and otherwise? Yes; by the Corporation, who, I believe, at the present time, have the right to supply this power; if they have not, Parliament should give them the right immediately.
616. Do you know of any corporation or self-governing body in any part of the world that supplies a power of this kind to the citizens? No; my experience in other parts of the world is not much.
617. You do not know of any corporation or local governing body that supplies this power to the citizens? No.
618. Do you think it desirable that the Corporation of Sydney should do so? I am of opinion that they have the right already, but if they have not, it is most desirable that Parliament should give them the power.
619. Might not that principle be extended with regard to supplying the city with food, etc.? No.
620. Where is the difference? We have spent hundreds of thousands of pounds in making our streets and improving them, and you would not have to cut up the streets to supply the city with food.
621. Would not the vehicular traffic which brings the food into the city cut up the streets too? This money has been spent for the purpose of meeting the demands of the vehicular traffic. Quite so; I have always considered it an injustice that the control of the vehicular traffic has been taken away from the Corporation.
622. Your objections with regard to the disturbing of the streets refer more particularly to the wooden block system, I presume. Would it not be very much minimised if the power-pipes were laid under the footpath? I do not think it; I think, under any circumstances, the pipes ought to be laid alongside the kerb; but no matter how you do it you make the thing most inconvenient for the people, and in all cases you incur an expense to the Corporation.
623. Hoffnung's buildings, for instance, pay larger rates to the City Council than the buildings which formerly occupied the site? I presume they do. I am not in a position to say, but I presume that they are valued at a larger amount than were the previous buildings.
624. Mr. Barbour.] Consequently a larger income is derived by the City Council? Yes.
625. Chairman.] And if it is necessary that large buildings of that kind should have some power by which they can be utilized to the fullest extent, is it not in the interests of the Council that means of obtaining that power should be granted? Quite so; if the Corporation were allowed to do it.
626. Then I understand that you are clearly of opinion that the Corporation should go into this line of business? Yes; and the Corporation only.
627. Do you not think it would lead to very grave complications, the Corporation being the vendors of an article, especially such an article as power? Certainly not any more than the vending of water.
628. Is there not a difference between the mere reticulation of water through the pipes and the supply of a certain power by pipes? There is no difference between the two things as far as the laying down of the pipes in the streets is concerned. You, as an engineer, must know that there is a difference between the supply of water and the supply of power. But what I refer to principally is the cutting up of the streets and laying down of the pipes. Again, the pipes should not be in the principal streets of Sydney; they ought to be laid in the lanes. I find that the Gas Company object to laying their pipes in the lanes. They will lay them down the centre of the street, or on either side of the street. That is a power which I consider ought not to have been taken out of the hands of the Corporation.

- M. Chapman, Esq.
6 Mar., 1888.
629. What is the size of their mains in the centre of George-street? Some are 9 inches, some are a little more. The size is larger for the principal mains; I suppose they are about 20 inches.
630. That means a larger excavation and a greater interference with the street traffic? Yes.
631. Six-inch mains would interfere less with the traffic? Naturally.
632. Which causes most interference with the traffic, the cutting up of the streets or the cutting up of the footpaths? Both are bad; the cutting up of the street interferes with the vehicular traffic, and the cutting up of the footpaths interferes with the convenience of pedestrians.
633. As the majority of the streets are constructed you cannot make a road so good as it was before it was interfered with; I refer to the concrete block business? They profess to make it as good as it was at first.
634. But you think it is not? I do not think it is possible.
635. Is there any compulsion on the part of the Gas Company to keep the road in repair after the pipes are laid? No, I think not. They profess to make the road as good as they found it; they certainly take great trouble to attain that end.
636. The monopoly which the Australian Gas Company enjoys has been a matter of very great grievance to the City Council for many years past? Yes.
637. And all the evils attending the opening up of the streets have been increased rather than diminished by the action of the Gas Company? Yes.
638. You say that you think the Corporation has already the authority to supply water-power to the city—has it the right to supply any other power to the city? Yes; any power, I think.
639. You think that under its present charter it can supply any power to the citizens if it thinks fit? I may be mistaken, but I think so.
640. Have you visited any of the large warehouses or factories in the city lately? No; not being in business, I have had no occasion to do so.
641. You are aware that a large number of lifts have come into use in the very high buildings? Yes.
642. And that it would be practically impossible to do business unless provision was made to reach the higher levels of these buildings? Yes; by gas or water.
643. You are aware perhaps that in these buildings steam or gas has to be used for generating this water-power? Yes.
644. You think that a general supply, either by the Corporation or by private individuals, would be preferable to individual generation on separate premises? Yes.
645. And more economical? I think so.
646. Mr. Day.] Do the Committee understand that the Council have had under consideration the question of supplying the city with this kind of power? Yes.
647. Have they taken any steps at all towards carrying out the scheme? No steps have been taken as yet. The thing is spoken of, and I intend to table a motion in a few days to the effect that steps be taken in that direction.
648. Was there any question on the subject before the Council before this Company took steps in the matter? No; we never dreamt that we had this power until we had made inquiries after the idea was started by the Company.
649. Do you think that, in the interests of the citizens, this matter should be carried out by the Council instead of by a private Company? I do. My reason for it is that they are and ought to be the proper custodians of the streets, and that they alone should open and close the streets, and be responsible for everything in connection with such work.
650. Mr. Barbour.] I think you said that there was some doubt as to whether this application of the Company to Parliament had been properly before the City Council? The matter of their application has been brought before the Council within the last three weeks, I think.
651. We are informed in evidence that the late Mayor was communicated with on the subject long ago—did Mr. Riley ever report such a communication to the Council? No.
652. Are you aware whether he had been communicated with long ago? I heard him say that he had received a communication from somebody about this matter, but that, in consequence of its being the last week or fortnight of his mayoralty, and it occurring during the Centennial week, it had been overlooked. He certainly never laid it before the Council.
653. Has he lately represented the matter to the Council? He has mentioned in Council what I have told you.
654. He said that he had been communicated with two or three months ago, but that it had been neglected owing to pressure of other business? I would not say that he said it had been neglected. He said that it had been overlooked through pressure of other business.
655. Is there any feeling on the part of the Council that they have been ignored in this matter? Yes.
656. What is the ground of such feeling? They never had a copy of this Bill sent to them until, I think, about a fortnight ago. Aldermen, you know, are human beings, and they say, "Here is a Bill asking for power to do so and so, but we have never had it before us."
657. Have any steps been taken by the Council to examine the Bill during the two or three weeks that they have had it before them? I presume that every Alderman who has had a copy of the Bill has examined it.
658. Has any action been taken on the Bill by the Council—has any motion been brought forward, or has anything been done? Yes; it was decided by the Council to petition Parliament against the passing of the measure.
659. Are you aware of the grounds on which the Council oppose the Bill? In consequence of the ignoring of the City Council. I cannot say that those were the exact words that were used, but they embody their reasons.
660. Is their only ground of objection that of pride or displeasure? Certainly not. The Council are of opinion that the citizens should have some source of income from this Company, and be in a position to purchase the plant after the lapse of a certain time.
661. Have they any suggestions that they would like to make to this Committee relative to their wishes about the Bill? I am not aware, but I presume that they have.
662. Two of the objections to the Bill are that no provision is made for remunerating the City Council, and for enabling them to purchase the plant after a certain time? Yes.

663. You would like the Council to have the power of intimating their intention of purchasing the business at a certain price at a certain time? The wish of the Council is that so much money shall be set aside every year by the Company, and be allowed to accumulate for a term of (say) twenty-one or thirty years, or whatever term may be agreed upon, and that that fund should go towards the purchase of the plant by the Corporation. It is something on the lines of the provision which is contained in the Melbourne Tramway Act. M. Chapman,
Esq.
6 Mar., 1888.
664. Can you point to a precedent of the establishment of such a fund for such a purpose? Yes; the Melbourne Tramway Act.
665. What is the nature of the provision in that Act? It provides, as I have said, for the establishment of a reserve fund which is allowed to accumulate, and at the end of a certain time the money goes towards the remuneration of the Tramway Company for their plant.
666. Is this reserve fund in the name of the Council or in the name of the Company? I would allow neither the Council nor the Company to hold it. I would like it to be held by trustees as a separate matter. A company might get into Queer-street, and a council might spend a lot of money which they ought not to spend.
667. Does the Victorian Act provide that the money shall remain in the hands of the Company, or is it paid to the credit of the Council, or is it paid to the joint credit of the two bodies? I do not know exactly.
668. As to the disturbance of the streets, is it not usual for the Gas Company to disturb your streets? Unfortunately it is. It may have been just on the part of Parliament to give this power, but I question the equity of it. Parliament is too fond of taking away things from the Corporation.
669. Do they make you any remuneration? No. I think we pay £12,000 or £15,000 a year to the Company for lighting the city.
670. You think that there ought to be a provision of the kind you have described in this Bill? I think that any sane man would think so. It is nothing but reasonable.
671. You think the Council should have the right to supply this power to the city? Yes.
672. Has the Council ever asked Parliament to give them a Bill of this kind? No.
673. Had they ever considered the matter before this Bill was brought under their notice? No.
674. On what grounds do the Council think that they ought to have this power in preference to a company? The fact of their being the custodians of the streets. They are those who ought to be the liable for any accidents or occurrences.
675. On the same grounds, I presume, you think you ought to be the owner of the gas-works? Quite so; if we were in a position to break down the present monopoly.
676. Would the ratepayers support you in that contention? I do not know; we would not ask the ratepayers, because I, as the representative of a large ward, am sent in to represent the people the same as you are sent in to represent the people in Parliament.
677. Would the Council undertake a large work, such as the supply of water-power, without first consulting the ratepayers? We would not consult the ratepayers in a matter of this sort. Bear in mind that we exist under a different Act to what the suburban municipalities do. We have got powers which those municipalities do not enjoy.
678. But in any case do you think the Council would undertake a large business of this description without first consulting the ratepayers? I do not know; I do not see the necessity of it myself. It might perhaps be good judgment to take that course.
679. Suppose the Council were deciding upon undertaking the thing themselves, how would they raise the money? They will raise the money.
680. How? Easy enough; we have got a better credit than your Government.
681. You mean to insinuate that if you had not the power at the present time you would have to apply to Parliament for a Bill? Yes.
682. Has any step been taken in that direction? No.
683. You think that not even the Gas Company should have the power of destroying the streets? I think that they ought not to be allowed to put down their pipes without paying compensation to the Corporation.
684. Has any step been taken by the Council with a view to directing them in what way they should lay their mains? They have always ignored the Council in matters of this kind. If you make a street this month they rip it up next month. In hundreds of cases they have done so. In putting down new pipes they never consult us at all. Lately, when we were putting down a new wooden roadway, we represented this matter to them, and we got them to lay down their pipes on each side of the street before we laid our blocks down.
685. If there is a provision in this Bill which reserves to the Council the custody of the streets in this respect, would that obviate your objection to the Bill? But who is to pay for that supervision? I am of opinion that the Council ought to have supervision in this matter. I am of opinion also, that the Council should have remuneration for allowing the Company to tear up the streets.
686. You think that a provision of that kind would, to a certain extent, remove your objections to the Bill? Yes; I do not think that there is one individual in connection with the Council who is opposed to the introduction of this system. Every member of the Council believes that it is necessary for the well-being of the people to have this power; but they are also of opinion that they are the proper authorities who should be applied to in the matter.
687. Can you say why the Council have not taken this matter into consideration and suggested what improvements or amendments they desire to be made in the Bill? The matter has only been before the Council, I think, about a fortnight. It is only about two meetings ago, at all events, that it was brought before the Council, and copies of the Bill were supplied.
688. Would you like the Committee to afford an opportunity to the Council of making known their wishes in the matter, so that the Committee may make what recommendations they think necessary to the House? So far as I am individually concerned, I should be most happy if the Committee would do it; but I cannot undertake to get a statement of their wishes, inasmuch as the Council have decided in full meeting that Parliament be petitioned against the passing of the Bill.
689. Suppose that the Committee are willing to delay the consideration of the Bill so that the Council may make known their wishes in the matter, what time would you require? I should say three weeks. It is almost impossible to do things in a hurry in these places, and you might give us a week longer than that.

- M. Chapman, Esq.
6 Mar., 1888.
690. Would you, as an Alderman, wish the Committee to adjourn the consideration of the Bill still further in order to give the Council such an opportunity? I can hardly say that in the absence of the Mayor. I will undertake, if it is possible, to have any alterations which the Council may consider necessary forwarded to the Committee. The Mayor of the city has all power in this matter. I think it is possible that we might be able to make some amicable arrangement with this Company, and have the matter brought to a crisis. I do not see why the applicants for the Bill should not make an arrangement with the Corporation, and have it framed to suit both parties.
691. Mr. Lees.] Is there any other company of a non-representative character besides the Gas Company which has a right to the use of the streets? No.
692. It is impossible, as a matter of fact, is it not, to make concrete, or asphalt, or wood paving road as sound and intact as it was before it was broken up? The Gas Company profess to do it; but I think it is impossible.
693. Have the Gas Company ever intimated to the Council a wish to make a concession in the way of providing cheap light for the citizens as a return for the privileges which they enjoy? I am not aware of that, but I am aware that they have been very kind to the Corporation in many instances. At one time they had a contract for supplying the city with light for five years at so much per lamp, and I know that at the end of about two years they lowered the rate, giving us the benefit of a cheaper light during the balance of the contract. I must also say that they are the easiest creditors that we have ever had.
694. Has not the correspondence about the introduction of this water-power and this Bill been before the Council comparatively early in comparison with many matters of importance they have to deal with? Quite so. Some matters are perhaps four or five months before they come before the Council through the pressure of business. I often think that it is due to the incapacity of the officers of the Corporation.
695. How long is it since the gas-pipes and the water-pipes were laid under the foot paths of the main streets? At the commencement of the laying of the wooden blocks, about five or six years ago.
696. That entailed a very considerable expense upon the citizens? Immense expense.
697. If our pavements had to be lifted for the sake of accommodating these power pipes it would cause very considerable expense and annoyance? Yes; not only that, but the flagging would be so knocked about and broken that it would compel the proprietor of a property to flag anew, whereas if the pavement were left alone it would last perhaps for five or six years longer. We have had many instances where the flagging has been taken up in connection with the laying down of the kerbing, &c., where the people have been compelled to flag anew at an expense of about £70 or £80.
698. If under the pathways, in conjunction with the gas and water mains, two other mains were laid for the purpose of this power company, would it not materially affect the solidity of the pathways? I cannot say that a 9-inch main would do that. It would have to be laid inside the other two mains, or else it would have to go outside the kerb, which of course would interfere with the wooden blocks.
699. Chairman.] Are the mains laid on both sides of the streets? Yes; water and gas.
700. Mr. Lees.] Are you aware whether at the time the new water scheme was being considered the Council, or some of the Aldermen, if not all of them, took a great interest in the proposed Kenny Hill scheme, seeing that we might require a high pressure of water? Yes.
701. It is a proof that the high-pressure system was under consideration for the purpose of lifts and other works? Yes.
702. Mr. Barbour.] If people want gas to light their shops with they must disturb the streets? Yes.
703. The disturbance of the streets is incidental to the use of the article? To a certain extent. In getting your gas from the main you take the pipe under the pathway to the building; but in putting down the power-pipe you have to go right along the whole frontages.
704. Is it not incidental to the use of gas and water that the flagging should be disturbed? Slightly.
705. The expense of this work is reckoned to a large extent to the wear and tear of the flagging? I cannot go with you there.
706. There is no shopman who wants gas but must expect his flagging to be torn up? Yes, one flag.
707. And if he wanted power to work a lift it would have to be taken up in the same way? Yes. The power pipes would have to be taken along the frontages, whereas the gas-pipes are already laid.
708. If a person wanted a lift he would have to get the power from the main? Yes.
709. Mr. Lees.] Do you know whether any citizens who had good pavements in front of their premises before these pipes were put down have asked for compensation for the damage that was done to their flagging? Scores of citizens have done so.
710. Mr. Barbour.] Would not a provision to that effect be a very proper thing for the Council to suggest to the Committee? You may depend you will have it.

John Trevor Jones, Esq., City Engineer, called in, sworn, and examined:—

- J. T. Jones, Esq.
6 Mar., 1888.
711. Chairman.] You are engineer for the City of Sydney? Yes.
712. How long have you held that office? Nine years.
713. Were you in any private practice previous to that? For a little time—two years. I was engineer in connection with railways, water supply, and mines, in Victoria, for 24 or 25 years.
714. You had a large experience of the water supply system in Victoria? Yes. As senior draughtsman I designed, under the Engineer-in-Chief, five water supplies, which were brought to a successful issue, namely, the Sandhurst, Castlemaine, Harcourt, Geelong, and Clunes water supplies.
715. Sydney at the present time is supplied by a low-pressure water scheme? It may be called a low-pressure scheme, although perhaps a medium-pressure scheme would be a better term to use. It is 141 feet. The pressure in Melbourne is 300 feet.
716. Sydney is served from two sets of reservoirs? Five. We have just abandoned one, the Lachlan tunnel. The reservoir at Crown-street is 144 feet; that at Paddington, 210 feet; that at Woollahra, 280 feet; that at Petersham, 166 feet; and that at Waverley, 360 feet.
717. The greater part of Sydney is supplied from Crown-street and Petersham? Yes; the city out of the Crown-street reservoir chiefly. Petersham supplies the western suburbs.
718. It comes from the Neapean by gravitation? Yes.
719. The higher levels are replenished from the Crown-street reservoir? Yes, by pumping; with the exception of Petersham, which receives its water direct from Prospect. 720.

720. These higher level reservoirs, namely, Paddington, Woolahra, and Waverley, are kept for the higher portions of Sydney and the suburbs only? Yes. From Paddington we supply a good part of Sydney, and propose to increase that part—North Shore, part of Newtown, Macdonaldtown, and Petersham. These are high levels, and could not be supplied from Crown-street. The lead services in the old parts of Sydney are not calculated to stand a high pressure. J. T. Jones,
Esq.
6 Mar., 1868.
721. Some of your pipes which at present form the reticulation service in connection with the Crown-street reservoir would not bear the pressure (of say) the Woolahra reservoir water? No, I fear not; the joints were badly made, and the iron is very largely corroded.
722. This is in the principal business portion of the city, in George-street and Pitt-street? Yes; the lower levels of those streets.
723. So that if power for extinguishing a fire is required in either Pitt or George-street, it is necessary to use some power, other than the mere head of water there, to reach the higher level? There are portions of Pitt and George-street which can be fairly well supplied out of the Crown-street levels.
724. Take Hoffnung's buildings in Pitt-street, perhaps one of the highest buildings in the city, to what head would the water reach by gravitation? An inch jet would throw about 60 feet above the surface.
725. What is the height of the building? It would not be enough to extinguish a fire in the highest story.
726. It would require some power to get the water up to the top of the building? Yes. The Council design to put the Paddington water into these pipes, and then you could deal with these buildings about the Post Office.
727. It means new mains? No; the present mains fed from new trunk mains. They are authorized to be laid.
728. Even then, there would not be sufficient head of water for the purpose of motive-power? No, nor the quantity.
729. But for fire-extinguishing purposes it might do? I would be very glad of another 100 feet on the top of it.
730. If water-power was available to the city of Sydney at a pressure (of say) 700 lb. to the square inch, do you think it would be of great benefit? I think we want more power than we have now. The water-power, as I understand it, is not intended to be applied direct to fires, but is to be used to propel the city water which is supplied from our mains. They have an ejector, which at the same time draws the water from our mains and imparts to it its own force. I have reported to the Council on that question and highly applauded the idea.
731. You are speaking of the application of this power for fire-extinguishing purposes only? Yes.
732. But, with regard to its application to lifts and other things, do you think it would be of great benefit to the citizens? Yes; I have no doubt about it.
733. Do you think that hydraulic-power is more simple and better than steam for purposes of that kind? I do.
734. I suppose it would be impossible to take steam for any very great length, owing to condensation and evaporation? Condensation would be the strongest objection.
735. It does not apply to water? No. Air has its objection too; at 700 lb. to the square inch, it would be a very dangerous thing.
736. In the event of an accident from the busting of a pipe, there is more danger from steam and air than there would be from water? Yes.
737. For the reason that water being non-compressible a mere leak expends its force? Just so.
738. During your career as city engineer, Sydney has been renewed in many respects? Yes; very nearly renewed.
739. And in the general construction of the buildings? Yes; and the road surface.
740. Property, I suppose, has become more valuable, and that has necessitated the erection of higher buildings? Yes; that practice is obtaining very largely in order to utilize the frontages to the greatest extent, and for that purpose lifts are wanted.
741. To utilize these very high stories, they must of necessity have lifts and other appliances? Yes; I think it is incidental to every very high store to have lifts.
742. A great number of these lifts have been erected, and lifts are coming more into use at the present time? Yes.
743. You are of opinion that if a general system of hydraulic-power were available, it would increase the number of lifts? I certainly think it would be largely availed of.
744. I suppose it might be used for other purposes besides lifts? Oh, yes; for many things. It could be used to drive from sewing machines up to larger machinery. It could be used also for the compression of wool. At the present time in large warehouses where they use hydraulic-power for lifts, they have to have a generating plant of their own; that is the plan they adopt.
745. It means expense and the occupation of space? Yes.
746. That could be averted if they could obtain the power from a general source? Yes.
747. Have you seen the Bill which is before the Committee? I have, in its rough form.
748. When was the proposition of the power company first brought under your notice? It was some time last year. I minuted a letter, but I forget the date of it.
749. What letter? I had a letter from two companies. It appeared to me afterwards, and in minuting the second one, I said, "I have minuted this letter before." It appeared to me so similar that I did not recollect the difference. It appears that there were two letters on the same subject.
750. Did it come direct to you, or through the Mayor? Through the Town Clerk.
751. Some time in December last, or earlier, a letter was forwarded to you through the usual channel for report? Yes.
752. You reported upon it, and you presume that it went back to the Mayor? The month of December is a very awkward one for the Council. As far as I was concerned it went back to the Council.
753. Did you hear anything more of the letter or of the report? Nothing has come to me about it since.
754. It would be during Mr. Riley's mayoralty? Yes.
755. What was the next intimation you had about it? A personal visit from Mr. Parrott, who asked me what had become of it. I told him that I minuted it. I supplemented the minute with another and a more favourable report. It was just about the time the fire took place which brought such odium upon me,

- J. T. Jones, Esq.
6 Mar., 1888.
- me, at Hordern's buildings in Buckingham-street. It was a main, which was put there for a cottage at first. So I determined to countenance a scheme which would help to give us a high level pressure in such cases.
756. The site which was occupied by Hordern's stores was originally occupied by a small cottage, and no notice was given to you of the altered circumstances? No.
757. Consequently there was not a sufficient supply of water to cope with the existing state of things? No. There is an abundant supply of water there now. I always make a point of attending very carefully to citizens' wants in this respect, but I had no knowledge of this building being there at all.
758. This occurrence made you send in a still more favourable report upon the matter? Yes.
759. Because you were under the impression that a low-pressure service could have been operated upon for fire purposes if hydraulic-power had been available in the locality? Quite so.
760. What was the next step you took in this matter? Beyond that, nothing has been done since.
761. No letters or reports have come to you during the present year from the powers that be? I believe not. I do not remember any.
762. Do you find much damage done to the streets by the operations of the Australian Gas Company? They are always ready to effect repairs, I believe; but that is in the City Surveyor's Department. When we are going to make a new street, or in any way to make an old one in a more permanent manner, they renew their mains and duplicate them, placing a main on either side of the street so as to disturb the road as little as possible. The Council do the same with water mains. At the same time it is unavoidable that some disturbance should be going on. Unless the pipes are to be put in a tunnel, I do not see very well how it is to be avoided.
763. What is the size of their largest main? They have a 3-foot main coming in at one end of the city. At Kent-street they have an 18-inch and a 20-inch main, I think.
764. Take George-street and Pitt-street for instance, what is the size of the main? 12-inch mains generally, with 4-inch and 6-inch sub-mains.
765. There is no power under their Act of incorporation to compel them to notify the city authorities of their intention to break up any street? I believe not.
766. There is no power to compel them to keep in repair any street which has been broken up for any length of time from that date? It is a long while since I read their Act. I do not think it contains any such power. We have had no trouble, to my knowledge, with them. The City Surveyor would be able to speak more definitely, as the roads are under his charge.
767. I suppose that if any power should be given to any body to break up the streets for the purpose of laying down pipes, a provision which would insist on their maintaining the roads in good order for three months would be a very great benefit? It would be. When suburban municipalities have complained that the roads have sunk where I have laid a trench, I have never experienced any objection on the part of the Mayor or the Council to authorize me to run over the ground again and repair it.
768. I suppose the Gas Company does not do that? I do not know. We try as much as possible to bank up the surface so that it may shrink to its original state.
769. What would be the size of a main for conveying water-power through the city? Under a foot, I presume. I should think a 10-inch main would convey a power under that enormous pressure. It would always depend upon the amount of patronage they got from the public.
770. Would there be much interference with the traffic in the laying down of these mains? Temporarily, there certainly would.
771. In your opinion it would be much better to lay them under the footpaths than under the roadways? Yes.
772. I suppose breakages occur in lifting and relaying pavements for this purpose? Yes.
773. The ratepayers have to renew the pavements? No; the Water Department. If, in laying a water-main under the footpath, we crack any stone, it is replaced with a new stone, or in some other way the pavement is restored to its original condition.
774. If a provision was embodied in this Bill to make it incumbent upon the part of the Company to do that, you think it would be right and proper? I think it would be absolutely necessary to have some such provision. In my letter I have suggested that the Council should require the pipes to be laid in a tunnel and covered with uniform flagging all the way, so that they could be lifted for repairs at any point.
775. Mr. Lees.] Has it ever been read to the Council? It has not been laid before the Council yet. It was made at an inconvenient time of the year.
776. Chairman.] As an engineer, do you think that water-power is more likely to come into general use than it has done in the past? I do.
777. Especially if it can be supplied from a general source? Yes; and under power.
778. Are you familiar with any apparatus, such as an injector, for applying water-power to a low-pressure scheme for fire-extinguishing purposes? I have been favoured with a view of drawings for it, and I understand it thoroughly.
779. You can see no mechanical difficulty? No. I was speaking to Mr. Beare on the subject, and he says that it flaws out the jet.
780. He has witnessed some experiment at some time or other? Yes; in London.
781. It was not a success, owing to the spraying of the water? Yes; so I have been told. Since then a German engineer, whom I took some trouble to see, and who had made a study of this subject in Germany, has told me that a jet has been designed—it can be made for any head of pressure—which would not flaw the water any more than was necessary for extinguishing the fire.
782. Is there not a mechanical device for reducing the pressure if needs be—a reduction valve, or something of the kind? —
783. If you have a pressure of 700 lb. at your command, you can apply as little as 20 lb. with this valve? There are such powers—balance-valves, they call them.
784. Mr. Barbour.] I think you said that there were two power companies in existence? I said that I received one letter, and that as regards the other letter which came before me, its features appeared so similar to the first one that I minuted it as if it had come from the same company.
785. Do you know whether there are one or two companies? Of my own knowledge, I do not.
786. Have you heard anything more of the other company? Only by way of rumour. Mr. Gardiner, I believe, was the instigator of one company, and the other was promoted by the Melbourne company.
787. Did the first letter come from Mr. Gardiner's company? I think so. 788.

788. Mr. Lees.] Was there any great period between the arrival of the two letters? Not a month, I believe. J. T. Jones, Esq.
789. Mr. Barbour.] Do you think that the introduction of this system would be beneficial to the city or otherwise? Decidedly beneficial. I see no objection to it; I have examined it. 6 Mar., 1888.
790. Do you know of any objections? No; provided that provision is made, first to conserve the city's rights, and next to see that the pipes are such as not to burst or give way so as to cause inconvenience. The pressure is a very strong one for any form of pipes. All these things the Council will look after beforehand.
791. It would be to the interests of the Company to have everything strong and in good form? I think so.
792. Would this power be better supplied on a large scale or by individuals? Certainly on a large scale.
793. Would it be cheaper, better, and more reliable? Yes. I do not know whether perhaps this objection would lie against it. If anything happened to the pipes a great many people would be deprived of power while the repairs were being made.
794. The Company propose to lay their pipes in such a way that a very small proportion of the consumers would be affected by any accident. In that case there would be no objection to the scheme? Not so much.
795. You think it would be very useful in case of fire? Extremely useful. The force would be such, I believe, as to break down any obstruction in the way of getting at it, such as glass and thin walls. I have seen a jet break down a single brick wall with its force and the help of the fire.
796. In your opinion the force as well as the volume of water would be very useful in this respect? Yes. I think it is much wanted in Sydney.
797. No matter whether it was done by the Council or by the Company the streets would have to be disturbed in order to lay these power-pipes? Yes.
798. Do you think the opening and the closing of the streets should be supervised by an officer of the Council? Yes; it is so provided in this Bill. The clause might be amplified a little.
799. Mr. Lees.] Would the pipes in Pitt-street be sufficient if you had another 100 feet of head for the purpose of the Company? In Pitt-street the new pipes would stand another 200 feet. It is the service pipes I doubt more than the mains. There are still some pipes about Hamilton-street and the lower parts of Sydney where the soil has been rather salty which are very frail,—so frail that is it dangerous to touch them with a pick or gad.
800. What number of feet of altitude would you require, in addition to what you already have, to give you a power from these pipes to do what the Company proposes to do? I take it that a pressure of between 80 or 100 lb. to the square inch inside the mains is an excellent provision for fire; it will throw water more than 100 feet. A jet would not reach quite so far owing to the obstruction of the air; it would throw a jet 100 feet high.
801. As to lifts, how would it operate? I would never advise any hydraulic lifts to be dependent upon the city water supply, because it is too precarious. In Melbourne they have a 300-feet pressure, but all the higher levels in Collins-street and such places are actually abandoning the system of using the street pipes for hydraulic lifts, for the reason that the pressure is precarious, owing to the great consumption of water in the lower levels. They are ready to adopt any other method. In some places they abandoned the street pipes as far back as nine years ago in favour of gas lifts.
802. What would the Power Company do in Sydney if they were dependent upon the present water supply? They would get plenty of water, but not under pressure. They would draw their water from the city pipes, I apprehend.
803. Do you not think that the proposed pressure is excessive? I think it would be altogether too great for anything, except for hydraulic lifts. It is proposed by what is called an ejector to drive the water from our mains to a much farther distance than it would go by its own force.
804. What sort of pipe would stand the pressure which they propose to use? Say for a 10-inch main, I fancy nothing less than an inch thick would do. It should be of cast-iron, and be four times the bursting pressure.
805. If it has been said in evidence that our present pipes are equal to the required head would you believe that? Certainly not.
806. You have no apprehension of the salt water coming in contact with the fresh water, if salt water is used? I do not think it comes in contact with the fresh water.
807. Do you think that the scheme would be more in the interests of the citizens if it were carried out by the City Council? Yes.
808. Why? Because whatever Company started the system it would start it with a view to profit. For instance, the city of Manchester bought gas-works at an enormous cost, and managed to wipe out the city's debt, I think. I forget the exact facts at this moment, but they supplied gas at 3s. a thousand and paid off a lot of the city's liabilities. There is no doubt that a power service in Sydney would be a very profitable one. I should say that the Council would make a profit out of it too, or possibly give the convenience to the citizens at a less rate.
809. Chairman.] In the case of the Manchester municipality they bought the existing Gas Company out? Yes.
810. They did not go into the gas business themselves? No.
811. Do you not think it would be well for the City Corporation to let other people experiment first, and take the power to buy it at a certain time if they think fit? Perhaps it might be as well.
812. Are not experiments more economically carried out by private companies or by individuals than by corporations? That may be claimed by some.
813. You think that the working of such a principle is so simple that there is no doubt about its success, and, as such, you think without any doubt the City Corporation can take it up? I certainly think so.
814. Mr. Lees.] Does the fact that the streets belong to the citizens help you to come to that conclusion? Yes.
815. And that the Corporation could conserve their rights without any difficulty, consult their convenience in every way, and be responsible for all damages? Yes.
816. Chairman.] But the Company are responsible under the Bill for all damages? That is equivalent.
817. Mr. Day.] Do you think that a private company would make the streets as good as the Council would? Oh, yes, I think they could; I think it would be for the Council to insist upon that.

- J. T. Jones, Esq.
6 Mar., 1888.
- 817½. Do you find that the Gas Company leaves the streets in as good order as the Council? Oh, yes; it is insisted upon, and they do it without much difficulty, I believe.
818. You never find much difficulty with them? I have not the surface of the roads under my charge; I do not remember any difficulty arising in connection with the Gas Company.
819. There is a temporary disfigurement of the road, and it requires a second visit to restore it to its original condition? Yes.
820. Chairman.] What is your practice in laying the mains in the suburbs? My practice is to pile up the earth; after the first shower of rain it gradually subsides, and becomes like the rest of the road. If a foreman has made an error of judgment in this respect, we have to visit it again and restore it to its original condition.
821. Three months gives you ample time to notice any defects and repair them? It is quite enough.
822. If the Power Company have to maintain the roads for a certain period it is a pretty good guarantee that it will be done properly? I think that it is a sufficient provision.
823. Do you think it would be better to lay the pipes under the pathway than under the roadway. Yes.
824. It would be least inconvenient to the public, and easier to get at to carry out any repairs? Yes.

TUESDAY, 13 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

Mr. Barbour, | Mr. Lees.
JACOB GARRARD, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad, Esq., appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

John Trevor Jones, Esq., recalled, and further examined:—

- J. T. Jones, Esq.
13 Mar., 1888.
825. Chairman.] I understand that you are desirous of modifying somewhat the evidence which you have given as to the Bill before this Committee? Yes; it is in reference to the efficiency of power-water to extinguish fires. When I gave my evidence I am afraid I was a little too positive in stating that this could be used freely at a fire; but as I have seen no experiments proving that the power can be retained and conveyed in hoses from the ejector, I would wish to modify that opinion by stating that I will not be responsible for its success, but that I have strong hopes, and am quite ready to believe that a piece of mechanism can be contrived which would enable that to be done. That is all I have to say.
826. Mr. Lees.] We are to understand that unless this power is put on a fire direct from its own source it is dangerous to life and limb? No.
827. It is if it is applied direct to a leathern hose? Yes.
828. Chairman.] Do you know if the Mayor of Sydney has received any request to attend this meeting of the Committee? No.
829. Do you know if he knows that the Committee was to meet this morning? I do not know.
830. Did he make any statement to you that he intended to attend here this morning? No; he has not spoken to me about the subject since I was here before.
831. Mr. Barbour.] As far as you know, has any action been taken by either the Mayor, or the City Council upon this Bill? I am not aware of any action having been taken.
832. Nothing has been communicated to you? No; I do not think any action has been taken.

TUESDAY, 20 MARCH, 1888.

Present:—

Mr. Barbour, | Mr. Day,
Mr. Lees, | Mr. Wall.
JACOB GARRARD, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

Michael Chapman, Esq., M.P., recalled, and further examined:—

- M. Chapman, Esq.
20 Mar., 1888.
833. Chairman.] I understand that a meeting of the City Council has been held to consider the proposed hydraulic Bills? Yes.
834. Were the promoters of the Bills present at the meeting? No.
835. Will you kindly inform the Committee what was the result of the meeting? We had two Bills before us for consideration. We suggested amendments in the Bills. The amendments were adopted by the Council, and the City Solicitor was instructed to prepare them in proper form for the approval of the Council.
836. You are speaking of amendments in both Bills? Yes. Bill No. 2 was more in accordance with the wishes of the Council than was Bill No. 1—that is the Bill before this Committee.
837. Who is the City Solicitor? Mr. Merriman.
838. He was present in an official capacity? Yes. Anyone could have been present. I do not remember whether he was asked to give an opinion during the course of the discussion.
839. Do you know as a fact that he is the solicitor for the Bill No. 2? I cannot say he is as a fact. I know that he had something to do with that Bill.
840. Has he made any report to the Council in favour of any Bill—did he, on that occasion, give any evidence in favour of the other Bill? No.
841. And the result of the Council's deliberations has been to refer the two Bills to the City Solicitor, with instructions that he should express their amendments in legal phraseology? Yes.
842. Can you give us any idea of the nature of those amendments? I can hardly remember them all. One of them is that the pipes shall be laid under the lanes and roadways, and not under the streets. Another is that a certain amount shall be set apart for the Corporation, to assist them in purchasing the plant. I think it is so much per cent. on the paid-up capital, but I am not clear on that point point. The Council were of opinion that long before this eighteen years have elapsed, this power and several other powers will, in consequence of the progress of science, be done away with, in favour of something else, and therefore they thought it would be necessary, if the power were done away with, that the money which had accumulated up to that time should be handed over to them. There were one or two minor amendments with reference to the notice to be given before cutting up the streets. I think that the period was altered from one day to seven days. And instead of one of their officers possibly taking upon himself the duty of giving instructions to that effect it was argued that the decision should rest with the Council or the Mayor.

M. Chapman,
Esq.
20 Mar., 1888.

843. Has not the Mayor always power to instruct an officer as to the duties he shall perform? That is always the understanding; but it does not appear plain enough in this Bill.

844. Would it not be an interference with the prerogative of Mayor to make such a provision? No.

845. You think that a provision that it should be done by the direction of an officer of the Council under the authority of the Mayor would meet the difficulty? Yes.

846. Can you remember any other matters which were touched upon by the Council? There were some minor matters with reference to the time of the notice.

847. Are you aware if the Mayor intends to be here this morning? I am not aware.

848. Then the proposed amendments are—That the mains shall be laid, where possible, in the lanes and by-ways instead of in the main streets; that a percentage on the paid-up capital shall be paid to trustees on behalf of the Council, to enable them to purchase the works, and that, in the event of their not exercising their rights of purchase, it shall go into the general fund of the Corporation? Yes.

849. Would it not cause the Company to charge the consumers more, in order to pay the extra amount? I remember that the same idea was argued with reference to the excise duty on colonial beer. It was argued that the consumer would have to pay the tax, but they have not paid a farthing more for their beer.

850. If the Company are satisfied with (say) a 10 per cent. dividend as long as they have not to pay any bonus or royalty, and a bonus or royalty of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. was put on them, would it not necessitate their having to charge an increased price to the consumers? I think not. I think that a company which can pay 10 per cent. very likely can pay $10\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

851. Do you think that $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on the paid-up capital is better than a percentage over and above a certain rate which may be paid to the shareholders.—If the Company pays 10 per cent., and they are in a position to pay 15 per cent., would it not be better if everything over 10 per cent. were shared between them and the Corporation? How are you to stop them from placing all over and above 10 per cent. in plant?—you could not get at this Company any more than you can get at the Gas Company in this respect. They would augment their plant with all they got over and above 10 per cent. on the investment. The Council would get nix.

852. The Corporation having an interest in seeing that they got a fair division of all profits over ten per cent., would they not be in a position to see whether they had been worked out of their proper amount? They would have to go to law with the Company. The difficulty is in proving these matters. I think it has been lost sight of altogether—the extra expense which would be entailed on the Corporation in connection with this supervision and so forth.

853. The provision virtually is to pay an officer of the Corporation to supervise the works? You will have to create a department, it strikes me.

854. You have an officer at present who inspects the surface of the roads, &c. For example, plumbers in making their connections either for gas or water have to do the work under the supervision of the Council? Yes. It is rather expensive.

855. Would not that officer be able to supervise the laying of the power-pipes? It will entail extra expense, and require an additional officer.

856. Supposing the Company pay a sum to the Council—the Council themselves to be the employers of the officer—equal to the salary of an inspector for this purpose? It would not suit the Corporation; they would not be sufficiently independent in the matter.

857. The officer, although he would receive his salary indirectly from the Company would be an officer of the Corporation? The Corporation see the necessity of this power being distributed through the city; but they want also to protect themselves and the citizens.

858. As to the Company giving seven days' notice of their intention to cut up any streets, I suppose there would be no objection, in case of an emergency or break-down, to their tackling the work at once? No.

859. It merely refers to ordinary cases of cutting up the streets? Yes. Sometimes people are opposed to the Corporation, and do not study them at all in these matters. The Company might have an obnoxious officer, who might be at loggerheads with an officer of the Corporation.

860. Where cases can be foreseen, you think that seven days' notice should be given before anything is done? Yes.

861. It should not be left to the decision of an officer of the Council, but should be done with the consent of the officer after approval by the Mayor? Yes.

862. Mr. Barbour.] It is your opinion that a certain amount should be set aside for the Council in consideration of any extra expense to which they might be put in connection with carrying out this work? Yes.

863. Do you think that the best way to attain that object is by a percentage? That is what the Council decided.

864. Are you not in a position to state what the Council would like to have provided in this matter? I do not remember all the amendments that they decided upon. I have given the substance, as far as I could remember, of the amendments they made in the Bills.

865. Is it their intention to submit their amendments to this Committee after the City Solicitor has put them in proper form, or is there any other intention with regard to them? That I cannot tell you; it was never considered. I presume that this Committee have got the matter in their own hands. I should think that, if the Chairman of the Committee were to write to the City Council for a copy of the amendments, there would not be the slightest objection to sending them to him.

866. As far as you know no steps have been taken by the Council to inform this Committee of their desire with reference to this Bill? I am not aware that any communication has been made to the Council from this Committee. As an Alderman I was summoned here, and I understand that the Mayor was also summoned.

- M. Chapman, Esq.
20 Mar., 1888.
867. Do you know whether the Council have taken any steps to communicate their desire to the Committee? I cannot say yet, because the amendments are not yet prepared. I have no doubt that after they have been submitted to the Council they will be forwarded to this Committee.
868. Chairman.] Is there any reasonable expectation of that being done in view of the silence of the chief member of the Council with regard to our request? I assure you that all letters addressed to the Mayor and Aldermen which have been laid before the Council have been attended to with all respect.
869. Mr. Barbour.] Would you state your own idea as to what is meant by the percentage which you want to be provided for the Corporation? $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on the capital of the Company.
870. Would it be an annual percentage? Yes.
871. Have you made up what the amount will come to? No; I know that it will cost the Corporation $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., and sometimes more to supervise any works in the city.
872. Has any estimate been made of the amount which the Council expect to receive from the Company? I do not know what their capital is.
873. If they do not know what the expense will be, they cannot have any idea as to whether $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. will or will not defray the cost of supervision? I do not know that they have any idea of that.
874. At what time hence do you think the Council should be allowed to purchase the property? I think it was eighteen years. After thirty years it is to be handed over to the Corporation without their paying for it.
875. Chairman.] The pipes at the end of eighteen years are to become the property of the Council, and the plant is to be purchasable in the usual manner at that time? That I am not quite clear about. I feel convinced, in my own mind, that this power will be done away with long before that time, and that you will have a different power altogether in existence then.
876. Mr. Barbour.] You think it is no good reserving that right to the Council? Yes, I do; my opinion is that if at that time it is not required the money shall be handed over to the Council, not for the purpose of purchasing the plant, but for their own use.
877. Mr. Wall.] You think that the Company would invest their surplus profits in additions to their plant? I said that it was possible for them to do so if they felt inclined.
878. Are the gas-works in the hands of the Council? Oh, no.
879. What percentage do they receive from the Gas Company for supervising similar matters? Not a halfpenny.
880. Do you think the gas-pipes entail the same expense for supervision as would the hydraulic-pipes? Not to the Corporation; we have nothing to do with it.
881. Could not the power-pipes be laid in the street with a similar amount of supervision? The carrying out of the gas-works has been a bone of contention to the Council for many years. No matter how careful you may be, and the Gas Company have been very careful in this respect, you cannot make a street anything like it was before it was cut up.
882. The evidence goes to show that the interference with the streets would not be so great in the case of the power-pipes as it is in connection with the gas-pipes? I am of opinion that it would be quite as great.
883. Mr. Barbour.] But the pipes being smaller there would be less interference? I think I said on the first occasion that I knew nothing whatever as to the size of the pipes.
884. Mr. Wall.] Would not a similar provision as to interference with the streets be approved of by the Council? No; because we consider that the Gas Company ought not to have had such powers given to them.
885. Has the Corporation made any estimate of the cost of supervising the laying of the gas-pipes? We have never had to supervise them. Three or four months after they have laid their pipes we have to go round and make the streets.
886. If there were no greater inconvenience with reference to the power-pipes than there is in connection with the gas-pipes there would necessarily be no greater supervision? We should have to make the streets all good. The supervision is to prevent our having to make the streets good.
887. Provided that the Power Company have to maintain the streets for a certain time in the same state in which they found them, the supervision would be no greater in connection with that company than it is in connection with the Gas Company? I do not suppose it would be any greater than is necessary, but the gas-works are not carried out to the satisfaction of the Corporation or of the public.
888. Is there any arrangement with the Gas Company with regard to keeping the streets in repair? They are supposed to keep the streets good; they do the best they can under the circumstances. They are very careful in this respect, but nevertheless it is a cause of great dissatisfaction.
889. I suppose that, in the event of a second hydraulic-power company starting operations in the city, the Council would make the same demand as they are making upon this Company? Yes.
890. Mr. Lees.] In short, your opinion is that the way in which the Corporation has been treated by the Gas Company is one reason why the Council are taking the precaution to protect themselves in this matter? Yes.
891. Chairman.] If the Bill were amended to meet the several points you have raised, you think it would remove some of the objections of the Council? Yes, to any Bill of the kind.
892. You have stated that any correspondence which has been sent to the Mayor and Aldermen of Sydney has been placed before the Aldermen? It ought to have been placed before the Aldermen.
893. If the Mayor is addressed, as the head of the Council, is he not the judge as to whether the matter is of sufficient importance to be dealt with by himself or by the Council? I should think not. An important matter like this Bill is a matter which, I think, ought to have been laid before the Council.
894. But there is nothing to prevent him laying any correspondence which may be addressed to him, as the head of the Council, before the Council? Oh, dear no.
895. It has often been done? Hundreds of times. Many people in writing to the Council write to the Mayor. They do not know whether they have to mention the Aldermen in order to have their communication brought before the Council.
896. On the 20th February I addressed the following letter to the Mayor:—

The Right Worshipful the Mayor of Sydney, John Harris, Esq.

Sir,

Sydney, February 20th, 1888.

As the Chairman of the Select Committee on the Sydney Water-power Bill now before the Assembly, I shall be glad if you will kindly forward me the names of any gentlemen you may desire should be examined before the Committee on behalf of the Corporation; and if you think it desirable to be represented by counsel at the Committee I shall be happy to present your Petition to the House for same. I may inform you that Alderman S. Lees, M.P., is a member of the Committee, and I should gladly have had other Aldermen who are members of the House, but they were not available when the House appointed the Committee.

I am, &c.,

J. GARRARD.

Do

Do you think that a letter couched in those terms is a letter which ought to be laid before the Council? I know that if I were mayor, or acting mayor, I should do so.

897. You have been mayor several times? Yes, and acting mayor several times.

898. If a similar communication had been addressed to you in either capacity you would have had no hesitation in placing it before the Council? I should have considered it my duty to do so.

899. Mr. Barbour.] As an Alderman of Sydney, have you any suggestions which you would like to make for the benefit of this Committee? I would suggest that the Committee, if they see their way clear, take up the amendments which the Council have decided upon, and of which I have given an outline.

900. As prepared by the City Solicitor? As ordered to be prepared by him. There is no doubt that we want such a power in this city. I do not suppose that the Corporation care whose Bill it is, provided that they get adopted the provisions which they require for their own security.

901. How can the Committee get a copy of these suggestions? They might ask for them.

902. You think that if the Committee were to apply to the Mayor he would furnish a copy of them? I think that the Committee might apply to the Mayor and Aldermen. If you apply to the Mayor for a copy of them he may say no, but if you apply to the Mayor and Aldermen it will be for them to decide. I see no reason why a copy of them should not be sent to the Committee.

903. If we have applied to the Mayor repeatedly to afford information to the Committee, and he has ignored our request, is there any reason to expect that he will not treat us in a similar way? I am not aware.

M. Chapman,
Esq.

20 Mar., 1888.

Jacob Garrard, Esq., M.P., sworn and examined:—

904. Mr. Barbour.] As Chairman of this Committee, I understand you have addressed several communications to the Mayor requesting his attendance here? I have.

905. Will you give an account of the different communications? On the 20th February, I wrote this letter to the Mayor:—

J. Garrard,
Esq., M.P.

20 Mar., 1888.

The Right Worshipful the Mayor of Sydney, John Harris, Esq.

Sir,

As the Chairman of the Select Committee on the Sydney Water-power Bill now before the Assembly, I shall be glad if you will kindly forward me the names of any gentlemen you may desire should be examined before the Committee on behalf of the Corporation, and if you think it desirable to be represented by counsel at the Committee, I shall be happy to present your Petition to the House for same. I may inform you that Alderman S. Lees, M.P., is a member of the Committee, and I should gladly have had other Aldermen who are members of the House, but they were not available when the House appointed the Committee.

Sydney, 20 February, 1888.

I am, &c.,

J. GARRARD.

I received a formal reply, dated 22nd February, stating that the letter would receive consideration. On the 1st March, at the request of the Committee, I addressed this letter to the Mayor:—

His Worship the Mayor of Sydney, John Harris, Esq.

Dear Sir,

I have the honor to remind you that I have not yet received a reply to my note of the 20th February, except the usual formal intimation that it would receive consideration.

Sydney, 1 March, 1888.

I am now requested by the members of the Committee to inform you that they have completed the taking of evidence in connection with the Bill, and will (unless your Council desire to offer additional evidence) proceed on Tuesday next, at 10 45 a.m., to consider the Bill in detail.

I am, &c.,

J. GARRARD,

Chairman of Select Committee on Sydney Hydraulic-power Company's Bill.

On the 3rd March, having received no reply to that letter, I instructed the Clerk of the Committee to summon the Mayor as a witness. Later in the day I received the usual formal acknowledgment of the receipt of my previous letter. It merely said that the Hydraulic-power Company's Bill before the Committee would receive consideration as soon as possible. On Tuesday, the 6th March—the day for which the Mayor was summoned—he did not appear, but Mr. Alderman Chapman and Mr. Trevor Jones, the City Engineer, presented themselves in answer to the summons, and were examined.

908. Mr. Day.] By direction of the Mayor? No. Mr. Jones gave us to understand that the Mayor had consented to his coming. On that date, at the request of the Committee, I forwarded this letter to the Mayor.

His Worship the Mayor of Sydney, John Harris, Esq.

Dear Sir,

Referring to my former letters of February 20th, 1888, and March 1st, 1888, I am requested by the members of the Select Committee to express their regret that no reply (except the formal acknowledgment of the receipt) has been vouchsafed, or the names of witnesses submitted, as requested in the above letters; and further, that you have been unable, owing, we presume, to other important duties, to meet the Committee to-day, and give us the benefit of your views on the provisions of the Bill.

Sydney, March 6, 1888.

I have now the honor to inform you that, with a view of meeting your convenience, the Committee have decided to adjourn their meeting until Tuesday next, March 13th, at 1 45 p.m., when we shall be prepared to examine any witnesses whose names in the interval you may submit to me. Failing any additional evidence, the Committee on Tuesday will proceed with the clauses of the Bill.

I remain, &c.,

J. GARRARD,

Chairman of Select Committee on the Sydney Hydraulic-power Company's Bill.

On the 7th March I received the following reply from the Town Clerk:—

Sir,

With reference to your letter of the 6th instant, I have the honor, by direction of the Right Worshipful the Mayor, to request that you will be good enough to embody the propositions contained in same in an official letter to the Council, letting me have the same in time to submit it to the Council on Friday next at 12 a.m.

I have, &c.,

HENRY J. DANIELS,

Town Clerk.

J. Garrard, Esq., M.L.A., Parliament House.

To which I replied on the following morning as follows:—

Sir,

Owing to absence from town your favour re Hydraulic-power Bill did not reach my hands until yesterday evening. In reply to same I have to say I have no proposals to make. The Committee are awaiting propositions from the Council.

Sydney, 9 March, 1888.

I am, &c.,

J. GARRARD.

To J. Daniels, Esq., Town Clerk, Sydney.

- J. Garrard, Esq., M.P.
20 Mar., 1888.
907. Did you get any reply to that letter? No; no answer has yet been received. I may explain with regard to the meeting for Tuesday, the 13th March, that the hour was shifted, to suit the convenience of the Mayor, from 10 a.m. to 1:45 p.m., but afterwards, learning that the earlier hour would be more convenient for his Worship, the meeting was called for that hour.
908. Mr. Barbour.] Did you communicate any further with the Mayor? That is the last communication I have had with him. The Mayor was summoned to attend the Committee meeting to-day.
909. Has he responded to the summons? No.
910. On any occasion has he responded either by letter or by any other means? No.
911. Mr. Lees.] On what date was a copy of the Bill before the Committee sent to the Corporation? On the 16th February, at the request of the Committee, copies of the Bill were sent to the Town Hall for the Mayor and Aldermen.
912. How long was it after the inception of the matter in Parliament? The petition for the Bill was presented to Parliament on the 8th February, and the Committee was appointed on the 10th.
913. There was no correspondence with the Corporation, either through the Mayor or in any other way, prior to that date? I cannot say that; I am only speaking as to my action as the Chairman of this Committee.
914. Mr. Barbour.] Have you any statement to make? No; I have given an account of all that I have done at the request of the Committee.
915. Do you think you have taken every step possible to get the Town Council to express their opinions upon this Bill? Most assuredly. I do not think that any Select Committee has ever gone to the trouble to obtain evidence which this Committee has gone to.
916. No response whatever has been made to the applications of the Committee by the Mayor? No; except the last letter from the Town Clerk, in which I am asked to make proposals.

William Gardiner, Esq., recalled, and further examined:—

- W. Gardiner, Esq.
20 Mar., 1888.
917. Chairman.] I think you have already given a statement of the proceedings of the promoters of this Bill so far as they are connected with the City Council? I have.
918. You made attempts for months prior to the introduction of this Bill to obtain an audience with the Mayor to discuss the proposition? I did.
919. Since you gave your evidence have you, on behalf of the promoters, had any interviews with the Mayor? We have.
920. When? We wrote, requesting an interview, and about a fortnight ago we had an interview with the Corporation. I think we have been treated most scurvily by the Council. I have never received such treatment from any public body in my life. I have been told that we have been characterised in the Council as a set of adventurers.
921. What was the result of your interview? We got an intimation that the Council would probably see us. We waited for more than an hour, and we were told then that the Council would probably not see us. Mr. Alderman Chapman brought out the Mayor and introduced him to us. Mr. Chapman suggested that the Mayor had better invite us to luncheon, which he did. I sat next to Mr. Chapman, and Mr. Wynne sat next to the Mayor. We spoke a good deal about hydraulic matters, and it was decided that after the luncheon was over I was to address the Council for a quarter of an hour on the merits of the Bill. I did so, and I requested the Council to ask me questions. They asked me a number of questions, and it was understood that the Mayor would have a special meeting called for the following Thursday so that we might discuss the merits of the two Bills. We went there on that date, and after waiting for nearly an hour we were told that we should not be required. We heard at the same time that the gentleman who represented the rival Bill was in attendance in one of the rooms; we did not see him.
922. Have you received any communication from the Council as to their decision or their views with regard to your Bill? Personally I cannot say. Messrs. Parrott and Cameron are acting as secretaries to the Bill.
923. Who are the promoters of the other Bill before the City Council? Messrs. Coates & Company, a firm in London, I believe; I do not know anything about them. Three months ago they came under my notice. We—that is, Gardiner & Company—received a letter from Waygood & Company, of Melbourne, enclosing a telegram saying, as far as I can recollect, “Coates & Company not to oppose Gardiner’s hydraulic scheme in Sydney.” I did not know what it meant, and sent it on to the secretaries. We gradually found out that Coates & Company were in the field here. It somewhat accelerated our movements. We had known nothing at all about them until then.
924. Coates & Company are hydraulic engineers, and have erected a plant in Melbourne? They have undertaken to do it in Melbourne.
925. Mr. Barbour.] Have they got the Bill through the Victorian Parliament? I believe they have. We did not know that they had a Bill before the Council here. This matter of ours has been off and on for the last ten years. One or two gentlemen have been connected with the matter for that period, and for two years this Company has been in negotiation. At the end of 1886, Mr. Parrott came Home about it. He brought a note of introduction to me, and we went into the matter very fully in London.
926. Has any correspondence taken place between Coates & Company and your company? Yes; I have a copy of the correspondence with me.
927. Do you desire that it shall appear as an appendix to your evidence? Yes. I hand in a copy of it. (Appendix A.) Coates and Company told us very distinctly that unless we did certain things, which they did not exactly describe, they would bring certain power, which they said they had in the Council as well as in the Parliament, to bear against our Bill.
928. Mr. Lees.] Will you read the letter in which they say that? I do not know whether it appears in the correspondence, but Mr. Swinburn told me distinctly that he has power in the Council and in Parliament, and would use it if we did not admit them to the syndicate.
929. Chairman.] Apart from the correspondence, you say that Mr. Swinburn used such and such threats or expressions to you? Exactly. Mr. Swinburn saw me at our office. He said, “Cannot we be admitted to the Company?” I said, “If you have any proposal to make you had better submit it to Parrott and Cameron, who have the matter in hand.” He said, “Oh, you are the Chairman of the Company.” I said, “I am only an individual, I cannot say anything. If you make any proposal it will be brought before” before the Board in due form; I cannot say anything at all." He informed me that they had power here, and that they should use it to defeat our Bill. This correspondence took place before I saw Mr. Swinburn. He left me under the impression that he was going to make some proposal to the Board, but we have never heard a word from him.

W. Gardiner,
Esq.
20 Mar., 1888.

930. Do you know whether Coates & Company are colonists in Victoria, or whether they are merely there to carry out an installation scheme? I really do not know. I believe that Mr. Swinburn is a resident there. I am told that he is a nephew of Mr. Coates.

931. Who are Coates & Company? I believe they are engineers. Their head quarters, I understand, are in England. I know nothing whatever about them.

932. Mr. Lees.] In saying that Mr. Swinburn said that he would use all his influence against your Bill, do you mean to state that it was an improper expression for him to use? I think he is at liberty to use whatever expression he chooses. He used the expression with the motive of getting Coates & Company admitted to the syndicate, and I understood that he was going to make some proposal to the Board. The other day, when we were turned away from the Town Hall, he was in one of the rooms, waiting for an interview with the Corporation.

933. Chairman.] You think this expression was only an expression which one man in business would use to another to gain his end? That is all; I did not take much notice of it.

934. Your Company are prepared to have inserted in the Bill a proposal to pay $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on the capital to the City Corporation as a fund wherewith to purchase the plant at the end of the term? No; it would be a very foolish thing to do in that form. Our capital was proposed to be £100,000. We should have to pay £2,500 a year to the Corporation, whether we were earning anything or not. If we had to pay that amount, it would be an extra tax upon the citizens—it would be a municipal tax, as I understood the Council the other day. It would be a good deal like the railway tax at Home. It would become a very unpopular tax. By means of this Company, if it comes, taxation will be very much greater throughout the city than it is now. All the buildings will have to be very much higher than they are at present—instead of two or three stories, buildings would be erected half a dozen or ten stories high. The taxation would be half as much again. If you have lifts, it does not matter how high you go with a building. I think the Corporation would be large gainers by this Company. As to paying the $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. tax, it is an absurd thing—no Company could stand it.

935. Will you suggest any alternative proposal by which the Corporation will have any direct benefit accruing to them? When a fair and reasonable dividend is paid to the shareholders, the Corporation might very well then come in.

936. And share in the overplus with the Company? Yes; they seemed to fall in with such a proposal the other day. Mr. Chapman suggested after 10 per cent., so as to get rid of the objectionable municipal tax. It struck us as not at all unreasonable.

937. Your Company would be prepared to embody in the Bill a provision to that effect? Quite willing. It is quite possible for the Corporation to tax any new modern improvement, and make it almost unworkable. Suppose they were to tax the telegraphs, gas, and railways, and a host of other things, enterprise would be stopped at once, and no beneficial results would follow to the city.

938. Mr. Wall.] What power would the Corporation have to prevent the Company from investing their profits over and above 10 per cent. in machinery? They would be bound to invest their money in some machinery to carry the power where it was wanted. Suppose you had half a dozen new streets in Sydney, people would complain very much if you did not carry the pipes to them. In a company of this sort, like gas, you cannot make any profit until you have a certain number of consumers. It would be very hard upon the shareholders if they had to go for three or four years without a dividend, and, at the same time, had to pay a tax of £2,500 a year to the Council.

939. Provided that the returns were 10 per cent. from the beginning, or even at any period, could you not effect these extensions out of the profits above 10 per cent? No; I do not think they would. You know what money is worth here.

240. The objection of the Corporation is that after the profits have exceeded 10 per cent. they have no power to prevent the Company from investing the surplus in machinery; could not some arrangement be made with the Council to provide for the erection of future machinery? Yes, I suppose it could; we went up to the Town Hall the other day to discuss these things. We understood that the Mayor wanted us to be there.

241. The objection of the Corporation is that in the event of the profits exceeding 10 per cent. the surplus will be invested in machinery? I do not think so. We should only invest according to what is wanted. If new plant has to be laid down in new streets we cannot do that without money.

942. Mr. Day.] Would you use the 10 per cent. for that, or would you use the surplus? It would come out of the 10 per cent. We could not pay the Council anything until we had paid 10 per cent.

943. Supposing you earned $1\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. would you use 4 per cent. to extend your works, excluding the Council from any share in the profits? I really do not know. You have asked a question which I have not considered. It is rather a ticklish one. We have not considered the matter, and it is one that requires consideration. I think you had better not ask me for a final decision. In all these things we have been most desirous, in fact most solicitous, to get a conference with the Council. We have wanted all along to work with the Council.

944. Mr. Barbour.] Does your Board consider it a fair thing for the Corporation to ask that a provision be put in the Bill to compensate them in some way for the inconveniences and losses that will be caused through interference with the streets? Personally, I do not think it at all a fair thing. It is not done in London; it is not done in other large towns. In London, in Hull, in Liverpool, the company has to put the streets in order, and keep them in order to the satisfaction of the city surveyor or the city engineer. We undertake to do the same thing, and really if the Corporation of this or any other town chooses to set its back up in this way it stops all modern improvements entirely. Who will run the risk and put a large amount of capital into these things if the Corporation is to get the whole benefit?

945. Mr. Lees.] Is it not so in Melbourne? It is so, and it is a most irregular proceeding. I have not heard of it before anywhere.

946. Do you know we have a Bill before the Council which contains this irregular provision? Yes. If you get $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on £100,000 the Company has to pay £2,500 a year from the start.

- W. Gardiner, Esq.
20 Mar., 1888.
947. Mr. Wall.] Do you know whether Coates & Company are manufacturers of hydraulic machinery? I really do not know whether they are manufacturers or not. I do not know anything about them. I believe they are highly respectable people.
948. Mr. Barbour.] What is the provision in the Victorian Act? I think they have to pay $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on their capital.
949. What is your objection to that provision? It would be utter ruin to the Company to have to pay $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on its capital. If you have to pay £2,500 a year, you are paying a royalty, and you are earning nothing at all.
950. What is the capital of the company in Melbourne? £100,000. I think they called up £48,000. Messrs. Coates & Company got 27,000 shares paid up to ten shillings promoters fees, and 25,000 shares at par not paid up; 48,000 shares were put on the market.
951. Mr. Day.] Have you ever considered whether the City Council is intitled to share in the profits of the undertaking? I have. I told the Mayor the other day I thought it wrong that they should. I told him it would become an unpopular tax by and by.
952. For what purpose do they want this $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.? I do not know; I suppose it is to increase their revenue.
953. You are aware that the City Council has to keep the roads in repair? Yes; but these roads, if they are taken up, will be relaid in the same condition as they were in before by the Company.
954. Chairman.] And maintained for three months? Yes.
955. Mr. Day.] The evidence of the engineers is to this effect, that although these companies repair the roads the bonds of the roads are broken, and the Corporation have to lay out a large amount of money to keep them in repair? They have to be torn up for laying gas-pipes. It always will be so until you have subways through which all pipes might go. They have them in some of the streets in London.
956. Suppose the pipes were laid underneath the footpath, the traffic would not break away the footpaths, the same as the carts would break away the roads if they were laid underneath the roads? I think not. We propose to lay the pipes under the pavement inside the kerb.
957. Mr. Barbour.] I understand that your Company will not be disposed to pay two and a half of its capital? Certainly not.
958. Do you think it will be prepared to meet the Council in any way? In any reasonable way.
959. What is your opinion in that respect? I think that after 10 per cent. is a reasonable thing.
960. You would be prepared to share all profits with them beyond 10 per cent.? Yes.
961. Mr. Lees.] It would prevent you from having a reserve fund? We cannot help that, if the Council insists upon the matter.
962. Mr. Day.] In reality you think that a payment of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. would be a tax upon the people? I do. It must of necessity come out of the pockets of the people.
963. Mr. Barbour.] Would not any excess beyond 10 per cent. come out of the people's pockets? Yes. We should have to charge more for the water to cover this extra expense. We should have to charge a shilling a 1,000 gallons more. All these things are bound to come out of the consumers' pockets.
964. Mr. Lees.] Have you fixed the price per 1,000 gallons? We are thinking of charging a maximum of 12s. 6d. a 1,000 gallons. The minimum might be a great deal less than that.
965. Do you know that it is less in Victoria, notwithstanding that a payment of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. to the Corporation is provided for? It could be done for a good deal less. In London it is done for 2s. 6d. a 1,000, where they have large consumers. In Victoria they get their water for nothing; but here the water would have to be paid for.
966. Had you anything to do with the drafting of this Bill? Simply with regard to amendments. The Bill was submitted to the Board, we discussed it, and made the amendments which we thought necessary. The original Melbourne Bill does not contain one word about the payment of this $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. or anything else to the Corporation.
967. How do you know that? We can show a copy of the Bill where not a word is said about this matter, showing that it was put in at the instigation of the Corporation. It is an unwise decision.
968. Why is the local authority ignored in some cases in this Bill when it is recognized in the Victorian Act? A great many things were inserted in the Melbourne Bill at the wish of the Council. They do not appear in the original Bill.
969. Why are not the local authorities provided for in your Bill? Partly because they have ignored us entirely and have not given us a chance to consult their wishes. We expected that they would have sent for us and stated what they wanted, but they have ignored us altogether.
970. Chairman.] Do you know if the provisions of your Bill were decided upon before the Victorian Bill was finally passed? I do not think they were. The thing has been under discussion for two years; but when this Bill was drafted I cannot quite tell you. My own impression is that it was towards the end of last year.
971. Do you know when the Victorian Act was passed? I think it was some time last year. We have several Acts of this kind. We have the Hull Act, the London Act, and the Victorian Act.
972. Mr. Lees.] You have stated that you left the Town Hall with the understanding that you were to be received there on the following meeting day by the Mayor. From whom did you get that understanding? From the Mayor. I understood somebody to say, and so did my friends, that there would be a special meeting of the Council on the following Thursday, and that if we would attend we should be examined, and could go into the merits of the Bill.
973. Was it stated from the chair? I understood it was.
974. You do not think that the Mayor meant that the public were always admitted to the Council, and that you would be welcome on that occasion? He may have meant that, but I did not understand it in that way. Our object was to discuss the merits of the Bill with the Council.
975. You attended at the Town Hall on the day? Yes. We were told, after waiting an hour, that we were not wanted.
976. You said that, although you were not wanted, the representative of the other Bill was waiting for an audience with the Mayor? We were told that Mr. Swinburn was waiting in the Mayor's room.
977. You did not refer to anyone inside the chamber? No; I only referred to Mr. Swinburn waiting in the Mayor's room.
978. Did you hear it said that you were a set of adventurers? I have been told by an Alderman that we were so described in the Council.

979. Has it been published in the newspapers? No. I have also heard that an Alderman protested against the use of the expression, and pointed out that several of the promoters were men who had been connected with the town for a great many years.
980. You, as chairman of this Company, decidedly protest against the principle of paying $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on your proposed capital to the Corporation? As a first payment, we do.
981. Have you not a prospective value with regard to this enterprise? Possibly we may. After 10 per cent. the Corporation would get it, but in the other way they would take the first $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.
982. Do all enterprises pay at the start? No. That is the reason why it is hard on the part of the public body to grab all that is earned.
983. What guarantee has the Corporation that they will ever be recouped for their trouble? They must take their chance. What do they get from telegraphs, water-pipes, gas-pipes, and a host of other things?
984. Do you think that the Corporation will get an advantage other than a direct one from the operations of this Company? I think that they will get enormously increased rates. I think that if this power comes into use property will increase in value at least one-half. We have only a certain space between the waters to use, and the demand upon that space is growing every day.
985. What was the ratable value of the buildings which were superseded by your present warehouse? I do not know; but it must be very much larger now than it was before.
986. You have been enabled to erect a building of that description because you have at your command a certain power? Certainly. We have half a dozen lifts. It simply is a beautiful power. If the Committee were to pay a visit to the buildings they would see how efficiently it does its work.
987. Mr. Lees.] Do you propose to float this syndicate into a company as soon as the plant is erected? A public local company. If ever there was a bonâ fide venture in this world this is one. The promoters get simply 5 per cent. Coates & Company got £13,500 out of a capital of £48,000; but out of a capital of £100,000 we take 5 per cent. as the promoters.
988. Mr. Day.] Do you mean to say that you will pay all the expense of floating the Company and putting the works into proper working order, and take only 5 per cent. for your trouble? We do. Some of my co-directors say it is a very small reward. I tell you that a more bonâ fide thing has never been before the town.
989. Mr. Lees.] You ask for a power to assign. Am I to understand that the responsibility which is placed upon the promoters by this Bill will be transferred to any one else? We do not contemplate anything of the kind. We take what is usual in connection with these Bills. The Board has never thought over this matter.
990. Supposing the promoters were under a bond to the Corporation and eventually floated the business into a company and sold their interest right out, how would the bond stand? I do not know. This is a local public company, but the other company is not.
991. Chairman.] Under this Bill, I think, the power of purchase cannot be exercised until after twenty years? Exactly.
992. And the power of purchase, if not exercised within six months of that time, will not become exercisable until the end of another ten years? That is so.
993. Do you think it is desirable to shorten the time to eighteen years, and to renew the power of purchase every three years? If it were renewed every three years you at once tax the enterprise. Improvements would not be made. The Company would say, "We cannot spend all this money if the thing is likely to fall in in three years time."
994. It is based upon the valuation at the time of purchase? I do not know that it would be a difficulty. If the Council or the Committee want it, I do not think we should object to it. I think that a longer time is better.
995. You have had a long mercantile experience? Yes, all my life.
996. With regard to a power of this kind, has there been much alteration within the last twenty years; has any new power come into operation? There are only two powers, low-pressure and high-pressure. We propose a high-pressure. High-pressure has come to the fore in England very much of late years. Americans have developed low-pressure to a very high pitch. I may state that even these Otis lifts can take high-pressure power. In fact the Otis power are favourable to our Bill.

William Thomas Poole, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

997. Chairman.] You are one of the promoters of this Bill? I am.
998. You have had a large experience in matters of public works and power generally during your career? I have had a very general experience.
999. You have undertaken some of the largest Government works of this Colony? I have.
1000. And you have made a special study of water-power generally? I have examined that question closely.
1001. I suppose the present water scheme of Sydney is not sufficiently powerful for lift purposes in the city? No; unless with an enormous expenditure of water.
1002. You took a great deal of interest in what was known as the Kenny Hill scheme? Yes; I was known as one of the leading spirits in that matter.
1003. Have you seen any reason to alter your opinion? Not the slightest. I thought then that it would be an enormous advantage to this city to give it a comparatively high level, and therefore a comparatively high-pressure water supply, in contradistinction to the supply it now has. It follows almost as a natural sequence for me to take an interest in this hydraulic-power scheme.
1004. You think that if this power was available it would be largely used. I feel convinced that it will be much used if it can be supplied at a rate that will enable it successfully to compete with steam or gas.
1005. Water has much in its favour as compared with steam for the distribution of power? Unmistakably it has. It is more easily controlled, and less liable to accidents, or to be the cause of accidents of a serious nature.
1006. What is your opinion as to the portion of the profits of this power company to be paid over to the Corporation as a guarantee fund, or as a fund wherewith they can purchase the property at the end of a certain time? The whole thing comes to this: Is this proposal, if carried into legislative effect and then into practical operation, likely to benefit the citizens as a whole? If so, as I pointed out in my previous answer, answer, it will be simply because this power is supplied to them at a cheaper rate than some other corresponding amount of power. Well, if the Corporation have a municipal tax upon the citizens in the shape of a percentage, either upon the capital or upon the profits, and it is an advantage to the citizens individually, and therefore an advantage to them in their corporate capacity, well and good. All I have to say is this: if any undertaking of this kind is to be handicapped by such charges—which are not necessary for its working—then it is so much against the consumers. In point of fact, in this, as in every other case, the consumer has to pay. It would be simply in the form of a municipal tax. If it is absolutely necessary that the Corporation should receive a percentage on the profits of a commercial undertaking, and if that percentage is reasonably low, to cover any fanciful damages we may do to their streets, I do not object to it, as one of the promoters.

W. Gardiner,

1007. Which would meet with your approval in that respect—a percentage on the profits over a given amount, or a percentage on the capital invested? I should certainly think a percentage on the profits; because a percentage on the capital, whether the thing pays or not, is a ruinous affair altogether. It would be simply, in a few years, handing over the whole of the works to the Corporation. Two and a half per cent. on the registered capital of the Company, that is £100,000, if it was all subscribed, would be £2,500 per annum. Considering that this new power will have to force its way into public favour against power already in existence—steam, gas, and hydro-pneumatic-power—it can only be done by its being supplied to the consumer at a low rate. How can they do this, when they have to pay £2,500 a year for the mere privilege of laying their pipes through the streets, and for which the Corporation return no equivalent whatever?

1008. I suppose that, independent of this matter, a large benefit will accrue to the Council from the increased rates that will be derived from the erection of higher buildings if this power is available? Unmistakably that must be the case if this power comes into general use. Of course, it will only do that because it is cheaper, and will supersede other powers. In the commercial and industrial part of the city it will cause three or four or five story buildings to be increased to ten or twelve story buildings. So it must increase the value of the frontages; and in this way the Corporation will derive—and, to my mind, that is their legitimate profit—a large increased rate-roll.

1009. Do you think it is likely that, in consequence of the advance of science, any other power will come into general use—(say) within the next twenty years—which will make this power obsolete? That is a difficult question to answer. Electricity is in its infancy yet, and we hardly know where science will take that matter to. I do not apprehend that within the next twenty years it will be a formidable competitor with hydraulic-power. Then comes the question of gas. We know what it is. We also know what steam does. We know the combinations which may be effected under the head of hydro-pneumatics, using compressed air to force water, or the reverse. Looking at all these matters, I do not think it is likely that within the next twenty years this system of water-power will be seriously assailed. It may be modified; it may be improved; but I do not think it is likely to have a formidable competitor within the next twenty years.

1010. In view of its progress during the last five or ten years, you do not think electricity is a very serious competitor in this line of business? Not yet; but perhaps it may become a most serious competitor in the future.

1011. Will not the Corporation be put to some direct expense in supervising the breaking up of the streets? I do not see that. The Corporation or local authorities are to my mind amply protected under the clauses which compel the Company to replace the material, remake the streets, and maintain them for a definite period. Of course that period, like the maintenance of railway works, is open to question.

1012. Is it necessary that a special inspector shall be employed by the Corporation to supervise your works in this respect? Certainly not.

1013. You think that the inspector who supervises the breaking up of the streets to lay gas or water-pipes can also supervise this work? Easily.

1014. Therefore, if the expense of supervision has been a reason why the Company should pay $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on its capital or some portion of its profits to the Corporation, you think it is of very little weight? Very little indeed. I was once a Corporation officer; I was district and building surveyor; I know something about the matter.

1015. Where were you engaged in that capacity? In Sydney. I had Phillip and Denison wards. I made Devonshire-street and Castlereagh-street. I also remade Botany Road, as it was called, and Abercrombie-street.

1016. You have an intimate knowledge of the requirements of the City Council? I think I possess a fair knowledge of these matters.

1017. Mr. Barbour.] I suppose there will be some little expense connected with the matter? There may be some little expense, but it would be very small in relation to the magnitude of the operations of the city and the benefits conferred. It seems to me it really was not worth the Council's while to take it into consideration if they desire to give the citizens the benefit of the introduction of a new power such as this.

1018. Mr. Lees.] Suppose another company offers more liberal terms, would it be worth the Council's while to consider it? I think it would be worth their while to consider this proposal on a commercial and financial basis, and to ascertain whether it is possible for the company to carry out certain proposals that are contained in No. 2 Bill.

1019. Supposing they have so concluded, and have based their conclusions on the experience of another country? I should join issue with them at once. They have no experience of any country in Australia to guide them.

1020. You know that there is an Act in Victoria? I know there is an Act, but I know that the works are not yet in existence.

1021. Do you know what it provides for? Yes; I know that it provides that $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on the subscribed capital shall be placed in the hands of trustees annually, that this sum shall be put out at compound interest, and then when the period arrives the Corporation may elect to purchase the property, they can out of this sum of money insist that the whole plant and machinery, from top to bottom, shall be put in first class order; that is, renewed out of the remainder. If there is enough they will purchase the plant, and should there be any surplus they will hand it over to the promoters.

1022. Do you approve of that? Certainly not.

1023. What do you think would be the effect of adopting that principle? The effect, first of all, would be that the Company would have to charge such a rate as would meet those charges; that is, such a rate which would render the power too dear, or dearer than any other kinds of power which are easily obtained now. It would practically defeat the whole object of the Bill, namely, to give cheap power to the people.

1024. Would you object to give the Corporation a share of the surplus profits beyond 10 per cent.? No; I think that is a reasonable thing. In consideration of the good agencies—the good offices of the City Council—I should be quite willing, after those who are running the risk now and finding the capital have been paid a fair percentage on their venture, that any surplus should be divided in equal moieties between them and the Corporation.

1025. Mr. Wall.] What is the amount of capital you propose to invest in machinery and pipes? I estimate that it will take about £70,000 to start the works over the area which has been described.

1026. The City Council do not propose to charge you 2½ per cent. on the £70,000? If we subscribed the whole amount they would charge us 2½ per cent. on the £100,000. They propose to mulct us in this penalty of 2½ per cent. on the whole capital subscribed, whether invested in the works or not.

1027. Although you had £50,000 invested in machinery, and the balance of the capital as a reserve fund, they would charge you 2½ per cent. on the reserve fund as well as on the capital? Yes.

1028. Mr. Lees.] It is not likely that you would call it up for the mere sake of having a reserve fund? It might be necessary. We might find it necessary to call up all the money in order to provide additional plant, and before it was obtained or paid for we should be subjected to this fine.

1029. Mr. Barbour.] This Company does not seek any monopoly? No; there is no monopoly.

1030. If the thing was paying too well a similar company would have an opportunity of going into the field? Parliament would never tie up its own hands. It simply gives us powers which it can grant to any other company. We do not ask for any exclusive powers, and this Bill does not take any exclusive powers.

1031. Mr. Wall.] Do you think, providing you require (say) £50,000 to invest in machinery, you would call up the whole amount? My experience with regard to machinery is that no matter how carefully you may make your calculations, when you get into actual work you find that your calculations are exceeded by 10, or 15, or 20 per cent.

1032. You think it would be necessary for you to have a reserve fund? Quite so.

1033. Mr. Lees.] Could you not have a reserve fund out of the profits, and call up one half of your capital? We could not do that.

1034. You say that the damage done to the streets is fanciful? I say it is fanciful, in relation to the provisions in the Bill, to repair and replace the streets, that after that is done and after maintenance is provided for, for which we are answerable, and powers are given to the local authorities to make good anything we have neglected to do or refused to do at our expense, I say that any damage to the streets, over and above all this, is a fanciful damage.

1035. Your proposal is to place the pipes under the pathways? Our proposal is to place them along the pathways, the streets, or lanes, or highways, or anywhere it is approved of.

1036. Do you know that the water and gas pipes are under the pathways at present in some of the principal streets? They may be here and there under the pathways, but as a rule they are not.

1037. Do you know that a certain amount of damage was done to the flagging or pavement in taking up what was new or old in order to lay these pipes? I suppose there was.

1038. Do you know that it cost the citizens a sum of money in that respect? Yes; but the Company are liable in this instance.

1039. Do you know that litigation was threatened, when it was shown that the Corporation was not responsible for the damage done. The stone was of no use? Very likely. There is a lot of it which is scarcely able to hold itself together.

1040. Would you be prepared to leave the pavements as good as you found them? Yes; but we would not be prepared to give them 6-inch flagging for 1½-inch flagging. I should like to say a few words with regard to the elimination, as it is called, of some particular clauses or particular parts of a clause in our Bill as compared with what is known as the Melbourne Bill. Attention has been called to the matter elsewhere, and I should like to allude to it now. In the other Bill power is given to the promoters of the company to open the streets and lay their pipes, in fact to carry on their works, provided that they have the written consent of the local authorities. I, as one of the promoters of this Company, strongly object to such a provision being made in our Bill. We come to Parliament for powers to enable us to ask the City Council to do something for us in writing, and to compel us to carry out the works without loss to the City in its corporate capacity or to individual citizens. But to say that the City Council shall have power actually to veto our Bill after we have got it is, I think, asking a great deal too much. If we do not go on with the works within a certain time our powers lapse under the Bill. Supposing we want to lay mains in a certain direction and our application is postponed month after month by the Corporation, and they decline to give their consent in writing until six months has elapsed, then our Bill is absolutely of no value to us.

1041. Chairman.] You have been long resident in this Colony? Yes; thirty-five years.

1042. You have occupied a prominent position for some time in the community? Yes.

1043. Many of the promoters of this Bill have occupied a similar position? Yes; they are well-known men.

1044. You think that any assertion that you are a set of adventurers is most unjustifiable and most untrue? Yes. I think it is about as pertinent as the term which was applied to me and some other gentlemen some years ago, namely, "Kenny Hill schemers."

Thomas Samuel Parrott, Esq., recalled, and further examined:—

1045. Chairman.] You are acting as secretary to this Power Company? Yes.

1046. You and several directors of the Company waited upon the Mayor and Aldermen upon the 9th instant? Yes.

1047. Have you received any communication since that time from the Town Hall with regard to this Bill? None whatever.

1048. Has any correspondence taken place between you and the City Council? A considerable amount. I beg to hand in a copy of the correspondence. (Appendix B.)

T. S. Parrott,

T. S. Parrott, 1049. Mr. Lees.] You were the first person in connection with the Company to communicate with the Corporation of Sydney? That is a very difficult question for me to answer; it is not in my power to answer it.

Esq.

20 Mar., 1888.

1050. Have you any reason to believe that you were the first? I can only state that when I initiated the movement, which was in April, 1886, a circular was distributed throughout the city, but whether it was furnished to the Corporation I do not know.

1051. What is the date of your first direct communication with the Council? I think it was last December. Although the movement was started two years ago, it was no use going to the City Council until everything was ready to be submitted to Parliament. I had to go to England first.

SYDNEY HYDRAULIC-POWER COMPANY'S BILL.

APPENDIX.

[To Evidence of W. Gardiner, Esq.]

A.

Correspondence between Messrs. Parrott & Cameron, Sydney, and Messrs. John Coates, and John Coates and Company, Melbourne and London.

[This correspondence was brought about through a letter having been received by Mr. Gardiner, the Chairman of the Sydney Company, enclosing a cablegram which the Messrs. Coates, of Melbourne, had received from their London firm, asking them to assist the Sydney Company in carrying out their scheme, and other correspondence from the Messrs. Coates having been brought under the notice of the Company's engineers.]

Hydraulic-power for Sydney.

Dear Sir,

Mercantile Mutual Chambers, 118, Pitt-street, Sydney, 16 January, 1888.

In the work of pushing forward our scheme for supplying Sydney with hydraulic-power, we have several times lately had brought under our notice letters from your firm in Melbourne. The last occasion was a few days ago, when a letter from yourself to the City Council was before that body.

This is causing some confusion, and the Council is asking whether two companies are seeking the same power from the Legislature.

Your action has no doubt been taken in ignorance of what has been done in Sydney.

A strong provisional committee of leading Sydney citizens was formed here months ago*, who instructed our Mr. Parrott to proceed to England to collect information bearing on the question of power supply, and to endeavour to make terms with the London Company to assist in carrying out the installation for Sydney.

All this work was successfully accomplished by our Mr. Parrott, and we are now only awaiting the passage of the Bill which is before the House to at once commence the work of installation.

We shall be glad to supply you with any further information of our progress, and are thankful for the good wishes you express for the success of the undertaking, in your letter to Mr. Gardiner, who is Chairman of the Sydney Company.

We are, &c.,

PARROTT & CAMERON.

* As a matter of fact, nearly two years ago.—P. & C.

Planet Chambers, 8, Collins-street East, Melbourne, 19 January, 1888.

Dear Sirs,

Yours of the 16th January to hand, and must express our surprise at its contents. We wrote to Mr. Gardiner, who said he had referred our letter to you, and have been struck with the studied silence which followed it.

In November, 1886, we made application to the Town Council on behalf of our Sydney friends, and not hearing anything further of our suggestion to work in conjunction with you, pursued our original intention and wrote to the Council on the subject of our former application.

We know that no one had spoken of the matter in Sydney before we wrote, and but for the purpose of putting the scheme into a proper form so as to have the best model to work upon, we should have carried out the scheme before now in Sydney.

We think it would have been more courteous if, instead of waiting till we wrote to the Council, you had replied to our letter to Mr. Gardiner.

Those are the only letters that you refer to.

We may say that we do not require the assistance of the London Company in any way, and as several members of the Sydney Legislature are supporting us, we have written to them explaining how matters stand.

When we were in Sydney last we heard that a move was being made to copy our Melbourne project, but could not hear that any Company was registered.

We have carried out several plants already in various parts of England, Europe, America, &c.

We are, &c.,

J. COATES & CO.

Messrs. Parrott & Cameron, 118, Pitt-street, Sydney.

Dear Sirs,

Mercantile Mutual Chambers, 118, Pitt-street, Sydney, 21 January, 1888.

We are much surprised at reading the contents of your letter of 19th instant, which we will reply to in detail.

You mention that you wrote a letter to Mr. Gardiner, that you received a reply from that gentleman stating that he had sent your letter to us, and that you are astonished at our "studied silence" in respect to this letter.

In respect to this we have only to state that we communicated with Mr. Gardiner in reference to this letter, and he told us he had replied to it.

Your next paragraph points out that you brought this question of hydraulic-power supply under the notice of the City Council in November, 1886.

In April of the same year (you will notice, eight months prior to the date mentioned in your letter) we took the initiatory steps for introducing a power supply to the city of Sydney.

A month later we had a strong Committee of the leading citizens formed, and in June our Mr. Parrott was sent to England for the purpose of entering into negotiations for securing the most efficient installation.

At the time you mention as having brought your proposals forward (of the nature of which we are entirely ignorant) the negotiations in England were practically completed.

In this same paragraph of your letter are the following words:—"And not hearing anything further of our suggestion to work in conjunction with you."

We

We must ask you to accept our assurance that your letter of the 19th instant is the first communication we have ever had from you, and it was only on receipt of that letter, coupled with the letter sent to us from Mr. Gardiner, that we became aware you were interested in the introduction of a power scheme in Melbourne.

In the next paragraph you say, "we know that no one had spoken of the matter in Sydney before we wrote, etc."

You will see by what we have just stated that this is not correct, as we commenced our movements in April, 1886, and they have been continued with vigour up to the present date.

Your next paragraph charges us with a want of courtesy.

This must have been written hastily as you must see from what we have already stated that we were not in any way aware that any steps had been taken in Sydney in this matter by a Melbourne firm, and with regard to Mr. Gardiner's letter, we took the trouble to see him to ask him if we should reply to it, and he told us he had done so himself.

With regard to your next paragraph referring to the assistance of the London Company, and your intention to communicate with certain members of our Legislature, we have nothing to say.

Finally you say:—"When you were last in Sydney you heard that a move was being made to copy your Melbourne project."

We know nothing of any such move, and so far as we are concerned, we do not know what the features of the Melbourne project may be.

Dear Sirs,

Yours of the 21st to hand. Our hasty remarks were based upon the expectation of a reply to our first letter, as we always thought it strange that you did not write, but as we never heard of any other firm preparing to undertake the supply of hydraulic-power to the public of Sydney, we naturally pressed our claim, and having already spent considerable time and money over the scheme, along with our friends, we do not feel justified in surrendering our claim, and shall certainly oppose any connection between the Hydraulic-power Company of London, and Sydney.

Continual references have been made in all the journals to our Melbourne project, which is now all definitely settled and arranged.

Our Mr. Swinburne will be in Sydney on or about February 4, and will, perhaps, give you a call if you wish it.

We are, &c.,

Messrs. Parrott & Cameron, Sydney.

Dear Sirs,

Mercantile Mutual Chambers, 118, Pitt-street, Sydney, 30 January, 1888.

Your favour of the 26th instant is to hand, and we still find your remarks difficult of interpretation.

You say you have always thought it strange that you did not get a reply to your first letter. We never received any letter from you until the one dated 19th instant to which we replied on 21st idem.

You state that you have spent considerable time and money in the furtherance of the scheme for Sydney.

We also have expended considerable sums of money (including the cost of a trip to Europe), and have unceasingly applied ourselves to the working up of our proposals, made in April, 1886, and find it difficult to understand how these labours should have escaped your notice.

We note your remark that you will oppose any connection between the Hydraulic-power Company of London and Sydney.

We shall be glad to receive a visit from Mr. Swinburne if it is his wish to call and see us.

We are, &c.,

FARROTT & CAMERON.

Conversation between Messrs. T. S. Parrott and Geo. Swinburne.

ON February 13th, Mr. Swinburne called at this office and made a request that the Messrs. Coates & Co., of London and Melbourne, should be admitted into the Company that had been formed in Sydney to carry out the hydraulic-power scheme.

I requested Mr. Swinburne to submit any proposal he had to make in writing, and I would at once bring it under the notice of the Directors.

Mr. Swinburne seemed disinclined to do this, and intimated to me that if the Sydney Company did not make a proposal to admit the Melbourne Company, they would use all their influence to prevent the passing of our Bill.

Correspondence between the Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited), and the Mayor and Corporation of Sydney.

The Right Worshipful John Harris, Esq., Mayor of Sydney.

Sir,

York-street, Sydney, 17 February, 1888.

As Chairman of the promoters of the Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited), I am requested to correct the erroneous impression caused by the publication of your speech at the meeting of the City Council on Thursday last.

You are reported at that meeting to have stated that it was "an insult to the Council that such a Bill had been brought before Parliament in such a manner. In the first place it should have come before the Council. . . . Now, a private company wished to take up their streets, and had not the common courtesy to come to the Council or notice them in any way. It was time the Council should take some stand. . . . It was absurd for them to be asked to show consideration to a private company who had treated the Council with such direct contempt. Five gentlemen—Messrs. W. Gardiner, W. H. Paling, W. T. Poole, Jas. Angus, and J. W. Cliff—had the impertinence to go to Parliament, and asked to be allowed to enter, cut up, and make use of the public streets, open and break up any sewers, drains, or tunnels, and yet never consult the Corporation. . . ."

As such statements are founded on a total misapprehension of facts, I beg to submit the following correspondence and other particulars:—

1st. About the middle of November I saw the ex-Mayor, Mr. A. J. Riley, in reference to the objects of the Company, and was most courteously received by him.

2nd. Subsequent to this interview the following letter was sent:—

Gentlemen,

Sydney, 8 December, 1887.

I have the honor to request the favour of an interview as soon as possible with you, concerning the scheme of the Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited), to facilitate the supply of motive power on the high-pressure hydraulic system (as so successfully used in London and Hull) for wharves, warehouses, and other buildings, and for the extinguishing of fires, and other purposes, in Sydney and its suburbs, and to solicit the support of your Council in an application to Parliament for the necessary powers.

By naming an early date on which you would receive the deputation (four or five persons), you would greatly oblige.

I have, &c.,

A. GARDINER,

To His Worship the Mayor and Aldermen of Sydney.

Chairman for the Promoters, Sydney Hydraulic-power Co. (Limited).

To

To the foregoing letter I received the following reply :—

Sir,
I am directed by His Worship the Mayor to acknowledge receipt of your note of the 8th instant, and to state that he will be glad to give you an interview on Wednesday next, the 14th instant, at 11 a.m.
Town Hall, Sydney, 12 December, 1887.
I am, &c.,
JNO. R. PALMER,
Assistant Town Clerk.

Mr. W. Gardiner, 333, George-street.

On the 14th December the deputation, consisting of Mr. Angus, Mr. Poole, Mr. Cameron, and myself, waited upon Mr. Riley, and a general discussion ensued on the objects and merits of the Company, and at Mr. Riley's request the following letter was sent to the Mayor and Aldermen (yourself included) :—

Hydraulic-power scheme for Sydney.

Gentlemen,
In accordance with the request of His Worship the Mayor, conveyed to us at our interview with him on the 14th instant, we have now the honor to lay before you the outline of our proposition to supply Sydney and suburbs with hydraulic-power.
333, George-street, Sydney, 15 December, 1887.

Briefly, we propose to lay down through the streets of Sydney, or along the footpaths, a system of mains to deliver water-power to consumers at a pressure of about 700 lb. to the square inch, and the advantages to the public will be as follows, viz. :—

1. A rapid, sure, and easy means of extinguishing fires.
2. A cheap and reliable means of working passenger-lifts, which are so much needed in this hot climate, to save toiling up long flights of stairs.
3. For compressing and dumping wool and other material with expedition and cheapness.
4. For the working of machinery for all ordinary purposes.
5. For the working of cranes and whips for loading and unloading cargo.
6. For the working of cranes and whips used in the construction of large buildings.
7. For a ready and cheap means of generating electricity for lighting and other purposes.
8. The proposed power will increase the floor-space available for all commercial and industrial purposes fully one-half, and will therefore correspondingly increase the value of all city property. For instance, in London and New York, through the use of this power, buildings were now constructed up to twelve and fourteen stories, and the top floors are found to be the first to let, in consequence of having better light and air, and freedom from street noise.
9. London has over 20 miles of power mains and many thousands of consumers, and the increase there of mains and consumers is very rapid.
10. From the foregoing it will be seen that the advantages offered to the general public are very large, because power of the most simple application can be had from the mains direct to perform any mechanical work, from the driving of a sewing-machine to the working of the most powerful machinery known to modern science, irrespective of the large increase in value which will be given to property through the introduction of the power.

We enclose a tracing showing streets in which it is proposed to lay the mains.
In conclusion, the promoters respectfully request an early interview with your Worship and the Aldermen to go fully into the scheme, with the view of obtaining your concurrence and support.

We have, &c.,
The Promoters, Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited),
W. GARDINER,
Chairman.

To his Worship the Mayor and Aldermen, Sydney.

To this I received your reply as follows :—

Sir,
I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th instant upon the matter hereunder mentioned, and to inform you that it will receive consideration as soon as possible.
Town Clerk's Office, Sydney, 16 December, 1887.

Subject : Supplying hydraulic-power in City.

To the Manager, Hydraulic Company, 333, George-street.

DURING the week preceding Christmas Mr. Cameron left with the Mayor's private secretary a copy of the draft Bill with a note.

Late in December Mr. Parrott again personally brought the matter under the notice of the Mayor.
On the 30th December the following circular letter was sent to each Alderman, including yourself, accompanied by a map of the city, setting forth the area over which it was proposed to operate in the first instance :—

Dear Sir,
Mercantile Mutual Chambers, Pitt-street, 30 December, 1887.
A short time ago we forwarded to the Mayor a statement of our proposed scheme for supplying Sydney with hydraulic-power, describing the objects and scope of the Company.
The Mayor proposes to bring this communication under the notice of the Council, in order to get an expression of their views.

We have now the pleasure to forward to you herewith particulars of some of the objects and advantages of this power scheme, which may assist you in coming to a determination as to its merits when the subject comes before you in due course in Council.

It is proposed to supply the city and suburbs of Sydney with hydraulic-power, which will be available for the extinction of fires, operating passenger and freight lifts, compressing wool, tobacco, and other materials, working cranes, whips, or capstans, for loading or unloading cargo, cranes and whips used in the erection of large buildings, for generating electricity, and for operating machinery generally.

In order to accomplish this purpose a central pumping station would be established at some convenient spot, where the power would be first developed by steam and distributed under high pressure through pipes specially constructed for sustaining the pressure.

The system has proved a great success in England, where several of the principal cities are supplied with power by companies who have acquired the necessary authority to carry out the work. In London particularly it is considered by the citizens to be a great boon, and Parliament readily gave similar power to companies to carry out the like works in Liverpool, Birmingham, and other places.

It should not be forgotten that the proposed scheme is in no way connected with schemes for water supply, or for sanitary purposes, such as are generally taken up by municipal bodies. This scheme is simply for the supply of power over the city wherever it may be required, the power being first developed by steam at a central station, after which the pipes are merely used for its distribution.

This power could be applied to the ordinary service pipes in and about the city from the hydraulic main at any point that might be threatened with fire, and thus prove a most valuable aid to the comparatively low-pressure service in cases of fire. It would undoubtedly increase the efficiency and economy of the lift service, which has now become an important question in the city, and would also largely reduce the fire risks where lifts are now being operated by gas and other engines in the basement. The increased efficiency of the lift service would render it possible to double the present height of the city buildings, and thus largely increase the value of city property.

The

The necessary legislative authority has just been obtained in Melbourne for a similar supply of power in that city, and the work of installation is now being proceeded with.

We attach hereto a plan of the city, showing the area over which it is intended first to operate, and shall be glad to furnish any other particulars that may be desired.

We are, &c.,

W. GARDINER, Chairman.

The second week in January Mr. Parrott waited upon you by appointment at the Town Hall (see letter following), and fully explained the objects of the Company, the interview lasting nearly an hour :—

Dear Sir,

Sydney, 4 January, 1888.

I shall be glad if you can give me an interview any morning this week convenient to yourself.

I wish to see you in reference to a proposal for the supply of hydraulic-power brought under the notice of the late Mayor.

I have, &c.,

T. S. PARROTT.

The Right Worshipful John Harris, Esq., Mayor, Sydney.

On the 3rd instant I addressed you as follows :—

UNDER date 15th December I had the honor of addressing to your predecessor in office a letter bearing on the introduction of hydraulic-power into the city of Sydney, and owing presumably to his retirement I have not as yet received a reply.

As early as October last we inserted the necessary advertisements notifying our intention to apply to Parliament for the Bill; but out of courtesy to the City Council, and to give its members the opportunity of expressing its opinion before going further in the matter, we allowed our notifications to lapse, and commenced de novo.

I would therefore take it as a favour if you would undertake to reply to my letter to your predecessor.

We are anxious that the Bill should be introduced immediately after the assembling of Parliament, and your early attention would therefore be appreciated.

I have, &c.,

W. GARDINER,
Chairman, Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited).

Not receiving any reply to our repeated efforts to induce your Council to consider the matter, and being obliged by the conditions of public business to either postpone the project to some future session or to proceed at once, we adopted the latter course in full expectation of receiving the approval of your Council.

On 16th February, at the request of the Chairman of the Select Committee of the House of Assembly, twenty-four copies of the Bill were sent to the Town Hall for the aldermen.

On perusal of these facts I trust you will see that no discourtesy whatever has been intended, and that on the contrary the promoters have done all they could to consider your Council in such a project affecting the streets of the city.

As the statements of your Worship have gone forth to the public through the press, I am requested to hand copies of the foregoing to the press for publication.

I have, &c.,

W. GARDINER,
Chairman, Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited).

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 3rd instant, upon the matter hereunder mentioned, and to inform you that it will receive consideration as soon as possible.

To the Manager, Hydraulic-power Co., York-street.

Sir,

I am requested by the Committee of the Sydney Hydraulic-power Company to ask the favour of an interview on Monday or Tuesday next at whatever hour you may appoint to ascertain the views and wishes of your Council in regard to our Bill, concerning which we are sure there is some misapprehension on the part of your Council.

I have, &c.,

W. GARDINER,
Chairman.

To the Right Worshipful John Harris, Mayor, Sydney.

Sir,

With reference to your letter of the 2nd instant, requesting an interview with the Mayor in regard to the Bill presented to Parliament by the Sydney Hydraulic Company, I have the honor, by direction of his Worship, to inform you that the matter is now in the hands of the Finance Committee of the City Council, who have decided that a petition be presented to Parliament praying that the proposed Bill may not be passed by the Legislature.

I have, &c.,

HENRY J. DANIELS,
Town Clerk.

W. Gardiner, Esq., Chairman Sydney Hydraulic Co., 87, York-street.

Gentlemen,

For nearly three months we have been endeavouring to obtain an interview with you on the subject matter of our Hydraulic-power Bill, but no opportunity has yet been afforded us of meeting you.

On Friday, 2nd instant, we wrote to his Worship the Mayor, asking him to receive a deputation on the subject, but owing, we are informed, to the matter having passed into the hands of the Finance Committee, our request was not granted.

We now respectfully request that you will allow us to wait upon you in full Council, before coming to a decision on the report of the Finance Committee, recommending Parliament not to pass our Bill.

A representative of the Company will be in waiting at the Town Hall, and will secure the attendance of the deputation at a few minutes notice.

I am, &c.,

For the Sydney Hydraulic-power Co. (Limited),

W. GARDINER,
Chairman.

The Right Worshipful the Mayor and the Aldermen of the City of Sydney.

Sir,

Sir, Town Clerk's Office, Sydney, 7 March, 1888.
 With reference to your letter of the 5th instant, I have the honor, by direction of the Right Worshipful the Mayor, to state that there will be no objection to a deputation being in attendance at the Town Hall on Friday, the 9th instant, at 12 o'clock, in the event of the Council being prepared to receive the same, which is a matter entirely for their own decision.

I have, &c.,
 HENRY J. DANIELS,
 Town Clerk.

W. Gardiner, Esq., Chairman, Sydney Hydraulic Company, 87, York-street.

Memorandum from the Town Clerk, Sydney, to Chairman, Sydney Hydraulic Company.

Sir, Town Hall, George-street, 10 March, 1888.
 Please forward per bearer, for further consideration of aldermen, thirty copies of proposed Bill, and oblige
 Yours, &c.,
 J. R. PALMER
 (For HENRY J. DANIELS),
 Town Clerk.

Sir, 87, York-street, Sydney, 10 March, 1888.
 Your memorandum of this date is to hand, and in compliance therewith I now beg to hand you twenty further copies of the Sydney Hydraulic-power Company's Bill, which are all that are at present available, and would point out that each of the aldermen of the City Council has already been supplied with a copy of the Bill.
 I will, however, if necessary, endeavour to procure another ten copies, so as to make up the complement required by you.

The Town Clerk, Sydney.

I am, &c.,
 W. GARDINER,
 Chairman, Sydney Hydraulic-power Company (Limited).

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

HYDRAULIC-POWER COMPANY'S BILL.

(PETITION FROM MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF SYDNEY AGAINST.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 1 May, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the Municipal Council of Sydney,—

SHOWETH:—

1. That your Petitioners have learned that certain Bills have been introduced before your Honorable House, and that one of such Bills has been duly referred to a Select Committee of your Honorable House, and has been reported upon by such Committee.

2. That it will be necessary, in order to effect the purposes of such Bills, to break up the streets of the City of Sydney, of which your Petitioners are the guardians for the time being.

3. That the breaking up of the said streets would be a serious inconvenience, and would offer great hindrance to the public and the traffic of the said city, which could only be minimized by such work being carried out under the supervision of your Petitioners, with a view to the care of the public convenience.

4. That in view of the premises the following resolution of your Petitioners should be regarded in the consideration of such Bills:—

“That Parliament be petitioned, through his Worship the Mayor, not to pass into law any Bill to facilitate the motive power on the high pressure hydraulic system, for use on wharves and in warehouses, and other buildings in the city, before the Council has had an opportunity of considering such Bill.”

That your Petitioners therefore humbly pray, for the foregoing and other reasons, that your Honorable House will not pass any such Bill into law until your Petitioners have had due and sufficient opportunity for considering the same.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Dated this twenty-eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

JOHN HARRIS,
Mayor.

In witness whereof the common seal of the Municipal Council of Sydney is hereto affixed, this twenty-eighth day of April, A.D. 1888.

HENRY J. DANIELS,
Town Clerk.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

SYDNEY HYDRAULIC POWER COMPANY'S BILL.

(PETITION FROM CERTAIN RESIDENTS OF SYDNEY IN FAVOUR OF.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 1 May, 1888.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned residents of Sydney,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

That whereas the Bill of the Sydney Hydraulic Power Company (Limited), now before your House, provides—

1. For the distribution of hydraulic power throughout the city of Sydney and the suburbs thereof.
2. For the supervision by the local authority of all such works, so far as regards the streets and thoroughfares.
3. For the repair by the Company of all damages, and for the maintenance of all places in which pipes are laid for the full period of twelve (12) months.
4. For the right of purchase of the works by the Council at the expiration of twenty (20) years from the passing of this Bill, or at the end of any and every succeeding ten (10) years for all time; and
5. For the payment by the Company of one-half the profits over and above ten (10) per cent. to a fund to enable the Council to make the said purchase.

And whereas the City Council have resolved to petition your Honorable House to set aside this Bill, and to pass a measure empowering the Council to construct the proposed works, and to enter upon the business of supplying the citizens with hydraulic power: Now, therefore, your Petitioners, being deeply interested in the commercial progress of the city, and desirous of securing those facilities which hydraulic power affords, and believing that the establishment of such works is not within the proper functions of the Council, your Petitioners humbly pray that you will be pleased to give Legislative sanction to the Bill now before your Honorable House, and that you will not arm the City Council with powers to appropriate the funds of the citizens to any such speculative enterprise.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

SYDNEY AND SUBURBAN HYDRAULIC POWER COMPANY'S BILL.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, for whose consideration and report was referred on the 2nd May, 1888,—the “Sydney and Suburban Hydraulic Power Company's Bill,”—beg to report to your Honorable House:—

That they have examined the witnesses named in the List* (whose See List, p. 5 evidence will be found appended hereto); and that the Preamble having been satisfactorily proved to your Committee, they proceeded to consider the Bill, in which it was deemed necessary to make certain amendments, including an amendment in the Title.

Your Committee now beg to lay before your Honorable House the Bill as amended by them, with an amended Title.

JAMES M. BRUNKER,
Chairman.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

SYDNEY AND SUBURBAN HYDRAULIC POWER
COMPANY'S BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 16 MAY, 1888.

Present:—

MR. CREER,
MR. DAY,

MR. FRANK FARNELL,
MR. FRANK SMITH.

GEORGE DAY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

William Christopher Bennett, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are Engineer-in-Chief for Roads and Bridges, and also for Sewerage? Yes.
2. How long have you been in the service of the Government? Thirty-three years.
3. You must have had a great deal of experience with regard to engineering and hydraulic pressure? Not exactly with regard to hydraulic pressure, but I was brought up on hydraulic works.
4. You are aware that there is a Bill before this Committee to enable a company to carry out a scheme for supplying hydraulic pressure to the citizens of Sydney, to be used for raising lifts, and for other similar purposes? I was examined on a Bill of that sort some time ago; I was not aware that there was another Bill until I was asked to attend this Committee, and I have never seen the Bill until now.
5. Have you had any experience with regard to these hydraulic systems in any other country? No.
6. What is your opinion with regard to them in the city of Sydney; do you think that they would be beneficial to the interests of the people? The only opinion I feel called upon to give upon them is this: that their construction would facilitate the raising of any residuum of sewage that might exist after our Bondi and Botany main outflows were connected. The hydraulic system would facilitate this by enabling us to use Appleby's patent. I had the matter investigated with reference to raising this residuum, if any, some two or three years ago. The chief Assistant Engineer was in England, and he there investigated the possibility of pumping up this sewage, or elevating it so as to send it into the sewer, if we required to do so.
7. Lifting it from the low levels? Yes; from the low places at the head of Circular Quay, Woolloomooloo Bay, and Darling Harbour.
8. Would this hydraulic pressure be useful to the system of sewage? Yes; instead of providing the pressure ourselves, we could avail ourselves of the company's pressure.
9. Would it also be useful for extinguishing fires? It might be useful if worked like Gifford's injector. The stream of water at high pressure would convey the low-pressure water to a greater elevation, just on the same principle as Gifford's injector.
10. And do you think it would be useful for raising lifts in buildings three or four stories high? Yes, it would be very useful.
11. Would this system interfere much with the streets in the City of Sydney? Of course it would interfere to the same extent that a gas-pipe would.
12. But the streets could be made good again? Yes; the injury to a wooden pavement is considerable; the pipes would have to be laid under the footpath, if possible.

W. C.
Bennett, Esq.
16 May, 1888.

W. C.
Bennett, Esq.
16 May, 1888.

13. Would it be better under the footway than under the street? Under most footpaths it would, particularly where the street is paved with wood. That is a matter of detail which should be left entirely to the Corporation.
14. Do you think it would be unwise to give power in this Bill to enable the promoters to carry out this hydraulic-pressure system without placing it under the superintendence of the Corporation? I do not think any power should be given that would not be under the control of the Corporation.
15. You think the Corporation ought to have some person to supervise the breaking up of streets? The Corporation should have the sole control of the breaking up of the streets, and all that sort of thing.
16. But should the Corporation have any control over the laying down of the pipes? They should control the whole.
17. I am speaking about the quality of the pipes and the connections? I think it would be well to have the whole thing under the superintendence of the Council.
18. You think it would be far better that it should be under the superintendence of the Council than under a private company? I do not feel called upon to give an opinion about that. A private company should be under the superintendence of the Corporation. They should in every respect be amenable to the Council, and under its instructions and orders.
19. You think it would be better to have fresh water; or could they manage this hydraulic power with saltwater? If they have anything to do with the sewers, I shall object to the saltwater, decidedly; and I think it would be better for the company themselves to have fresh water.
20. Would there be much difference in the cost? It would not be worth talking about; it would be cheaper for the company to have fresh water, because the injury to their pipes by the saltwater would cost them more than they would have to pay for the fresh water.
21. Then, having the control of the sewerage, you would have no objection to allow fresh water to go through the sewers? None.
22. Would it do the sewers good by flushing them? Decidedly; the saltwater, on the other hand, would do harm, because it has a chemical effect, and would produce gases and decomposition of the sewage before its time.
23. But you could do without it? Oh, yes; the sewers are arranged to do without it.
24. Is the fall sufficient? Yes.
25. It is sufficient to carry away the sewage without this additional flushing, but still this would do no harm, and might possibly do some good? Exactly.
26. And if this hydraulic system were brought into operation you would have no objection that the spare water should be carried back to the original place, and sent down the sewers? It would be a decided advantage with fresh water, but I should object to saltwater.
27. Do you think that the hydraulic system proposed under this Bill would be very useful as a power for working cranes, and for other purposes in connection with shipping, and where motive-power is required? Decidedly. All cranes used in shipping in London are now worked with water-pressure, and the system has been introduced at Newcastle, where the cranes are nearly all hydraulic.
28. And this water-pressure would also be very useful in warehouses where they have to lift goods to a great height? Very useful indeed.
29. Can it be thoroughly depended upon—is there no fear of any breakage? Oh, no, not if the work is properly done. I think it is safer than any other power.
30. Safer than steam? Yes.
31. Do the pipes that carry the water often break? No. If the pipes are properly adjusted to the pressure they will not break. If you put pressure on pipes that they are not prepared for, of course they will break.
32. In this system pressure would not be required to that extent? You will have to have a good pressure, but you will provide pipes that will be able to stand it. If you were to introduce this pressure into the ordinary pipes in Sydney, of course they would not stand it. They are not calculated to stand it.
33. I suppose that in a system of hydraulic pressure of this kind they have stop-valves here and there? Oh, yes; you would have it under control. I should not be at all apprehensive of a break, except that an accident might occur to the surface of a street, or some interference with some other pipes, or something else might cause a break, but that would be an accident, and they would no doubt provide stop-valves.
34. And you are of opinion that if this system were brought into operation and the power supplied at a reasonable price, it would be very useful to the citizens of Sydney generally? Yes.
35. And that nearly all the lifts and cranes would use hydraulic power? Yes.
36. And you think there is no danger to the public in any way in connection with this system? Provided it is under the control of the City Council—properly under the control of the Council. That should be a sine qua non.
37. You think it should be under the control of the Council? Yes. I do not offer an opinion as to whether the Council or a company should originate the thing and should carry it on; but I think it should be entirely under the control of the Council as far as the streets and everything of that sort are concerned.
38. But you would not recommend it to be under the control of the Council otherwise than as far as the streets are concerned? I would not offer an opinion on that. My opinion with reference to the matter of private enterprise is that it should be encouraged as much as possible; that too much is done by the Government and incorporated bodies; that private enterprise should be encouraged as far as possible consistent with public safety.
39. But would not the effect be to paralyse, to a certain extent, a private company if some other power had control over them? I do not think so. It is absolutely necessary that the control should exist for the safety of the public and the due care of the streets.
40. Mr. Frank Farnell.] You have not read this Bill? No.
41. You think that, with provisions placing the superintendence and control of the system in the local authority or local Council, this hydraulic-power system would be a boon to the citizens of Sydney? Yes, it would be a boon if the system were placed under the superintendence and the due control of the Council. Of course the thing should be regulated so as not to interfere with the commercial rights of the company; and I think there ought to be a limit also as to charges, because the company get a great privilege, and they should be restricted as to their charges.
42. Chairman.] Are you aware that this system has been in operation in England for twenty-five years? I am not aware as to the length of time, but I know that it has been in operation in England and also on the Continent for a long time.

43. For use in docks, and for working cranes and all that kind of thing? Yes.

44. And have you ever heard of it doing any injury in any way by breakage or bursting? Not at all. I might correct my previous answer and say that I am aware that the system has been in operation in England for twenty-five years, because Sir William Armstrong has been using it for quite thirty years or more.

W. C.
Bennett, Esq.
16 May, 1888.

45. Water used in London is pumped from the Thames, is it not? I speak generally. I do not speak of any particular thing in London or any other place, but the water comes from the water supply generally. I only know in England of fresh water; I do not know of any instance where saltwater is used.

46. Mr. Creer.] Do you think that this hydraulic-power system would be safer and cheaper than the many engines we have now in Sydney? Oh, yes, much. There is no possibility of bursting a boiler or anything of that sort—a contingency to which we are liable at any time in the case of steam.

47. Have you any knowledge of the working of the hydraulic cranes at Newcastle? No, except that I have seen the drawings.

48. Are you aware that there is less breakage from the use of hydraulic power there than from steam power? I think it very likely to be the case.

49. Your opinion is that in carrying a system like this into operation it could be done to greater advantage, and would be better in every respect, by having the sanction and, to some extent, the control of the City Council, rather than if left entirely in the hands of an independent company altogether apart from the City Council? It is absolutely indispensable that somebody should control the company, because people who are only actuated by a commercial spirit, and with the object of getting all the money they can, might do many things that would be inconvenient, and perhaps dangerous, to the public if they were not controlled by the Corporation.

50. Do you think this power would be cheaper than steam, if brought into full working order? Oh, yes. It has superseded steam in England. It is much casier of transmission. In the case of steam you have to have a motor at every place where you want to employ it; but here you only have one main motor, and the power is transmitted through the pipes. It is just possible that electricity may supersede this power some day; but we have not arrived at that stage here yet, nor is it at all likely. We have no great motive-power like a waterfall, or anything of that sort, that could be applied to it.

51. The Chairman asked just now as to the liability to accident. Suppose something went wrong in connection with the pipes at one portion, would that prevent the power being used at other places? Not at all.

Michael Chapman, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

52. Chairman.] I believe you are an Alderman of the Corporation of Sydney? Yes.

53. How long have you been connected with the Sydney Corporation as an Alderman or as Mayor? For about twenty-seven years.

M. Chapman,
Esq.

54. Then you have had considerable experience with regard to companies breaking up the streets for the laying of gas-pipes and water-pipes? Yes.

16 May, 1888.

55. I believe that the Gas Company have control over the streets to a certain extent, and can break them up on condition that they make them good again? Yes. They have had that power ever since I belonged to the Corporation.

56. They are not obliged to lay down the pipes under the supervision of the Corporation? No; worse luck for the citizens.

57. Do they give the Corporation notice when they wish to break up any of the streets or lay down their pipes? No.

58. Has the Corporation any control at all over the work while it is going on? No.

59. Has the Corporation any power to see that the streets are all made good again after being broken up? They have no power. But we have repeatedly called the attention of the Gas Company to the necessity of making good the streets, or, if possible, placing them in the same condition that they were in previously, and they certainly have attempted to do it. I believe that they have done all that they possibly could. But no matter how you try to repair a street when once broken up, it is very difficult to make it anything like as good as it was before.

60. Then the feeling of the Corporation is against the system of allowing anyone to interfere with the streets? Yes; because the Gas Company claim the right to go through the main streets, and will not go into the lanes if they can possibly avoid it. The consequence is that the streets are cut up, when the lanes would have done quite as well for the purpose of lighting.

61. Are you aware that there is a Bill now before this Committee to enable the introduction of a system of hydraulic power into the city of Sydney? Yes.

62. Have you read the Bill? I have read a Bill that was brought before the City Council and approved of. There were two Bills. The first Bill that was brought before the Council was not approved of, because the promoters carefully avoided giving the City Council the rights they were entitled to—that is, the right of supervision and so forth, and of consultation as to where the pipes are to be laid. The second Bill was the one which I presume is before this Committee. It was approved of by the Council, because all that was carefully knocked out of the first Bill was allowed to remain in this one.

63. Have the Council taken this Bill into their consideration? I presume that this Bill, which may be called No. 2 Bill, is the one approved of by the Council.

64. Then the Corporation—representing the citizens of Sydney—would not object to this company, and to their having all the powers proposed to be given them under this Bill? No; they have no objection to any Company having such powers, because the Corporation were of opinion, and are of opinion, that there is sufficient protection for them in this Bill.

65. But I understood you to say that they did not agree to No. 1 Bill? Yes.

66. And they do agree to No. 2 Bill? Yes.

67. Then what you mean is, that the Corporation would have agreed with any Bill that met with their approbation—either this Bill or any other Bill? I will answer you in this way: The Corporation of Sydney approve of the system of hydraulic pressure being introduced into the city. They believe that it will be a benefit to the city, and that it is necessary that it should be introduced.

68. Have the Corporation ever had under their consideration the question of carrying out this hydraulic-power system themselves? Yes.

M. Chapman, Esq.
16 May, 1888.

69. Was there any move made towards carrying it out? The only move that was made was to ask the Colonial Secretary to introduce a Bill into Parliament, giving city, suburban, and country corporations all the powers necessary for the laying down of hydraulic power or electric lighting; that is to say, that powers should be given to them—that it should emanate from them as to how it should be carried out. Sir Henry Parkes has not yet done anything in the matter that I am aware of, but I presume it will be introduced into the Local Government Bill, if we ever have such a thing. I consider it will be a very necessary thing to have.

70. Do you consider that this system of hydraulic pressure would be carried out more to the satisfaction of the people of Sydney under the Corporation than under a private company? In my opinion it would be carried on by the Corporation, or by any Corporation, with more satisfaction than by a private company; but Corporations have no power to lay out city funds in a matter of that sort, and consequently they would have to ask the Government to give them power to borrow money for the purpose. There is an immense difficulty about it, and they have not carried it out.

71. Then, as the Corporation could not succeed in doing this themselves, they have no objection to a company doing it? They have no objection to a company doing it.

72. Provided it is to a certain extent under the supervision of the Corporation? Just so: giving them sufficient power to look after the interests of the citizens.

73. Have you had any experience with regard to hydraulic pressure? None whatever.

74. Do you think it would be useful in warehouses, and for cranes, and in connection with shipping generally? I think it would be very useful. From what little I saw of it at Bullock Island, near Newcastle, it seems to be a wonderful power.

75. And works well? Yes.

76. What is your opinion with regard to the laying of these pipes—do you think that it would be better that they should be laid under the footpath or under the main street? That depends upon the situation. For instance, it would not do to lay them down under a main street like George-street or Pitt-street, or any street made of wooden blocks; but I think the pipes might be laid down the centre of a narrow street or lane.

77. Would there be any difficulty in laying down these pipes under the footpath near the kerb? I rather think there would be an amount of difficulty now, inasmuch as we have the water and gas-pipes under the footway in many portions of the city. But if a subway were made so that all pipes could be carried through, I think it would be beneficial—that is, a subway sufficiently large for workmen to go in and look after the pipes.

78. The gas-pipes are laid under the streets in most places? Yes. Some are now laid under the footways, for instance, in George-street, or very close to the water-way. There is a certain amount of danger even in a subway, because, unless a gas-pipe is thoroughly looked after, the gas may escape, and it is just possible that it might fill the subway, and an explosion might take place which would cause a great deal of damage.

79. Are you aware that there is a large number of engines at present at work in Sydney lifting merchandise and passengers from the ground-floor of warehouses to the upper stories? Yes; I know there are some.

80. This would be a cheaper system altogether than that gas-engine system? I do not know as to its being cheaper; I think it would be a better system.

81. Do you think that the people generally would avail themselves of this power for lifts and cranes, and for other hydraulic-motive purposes; I think so; I know of nothing to the contrary. Of course, it takes some time to educate the people to a new system. We are very fond of carrying on old methods, if possible, and many people would continue to work on the old system rather than have a change.

82. Would it be disadvantageous to the Corporation if there were two Bills of this kind passed in the city of Sydney? Unless both Bills gave the same powers it would be disadvantageous to the citizens, because, unless we had the same power as is contained in this Bill, it would be unfair to the citizens; because, if I remember rightly, the other Bill gives power to the company to cut up the streets at any time without consulting the Corporation. That would be a most unfair thing to the people—that the streets on which they have spent so many hundreds of thousands of pounds should be cut up without their being consulted in any way. I think it would be most unfair to the citizens to allow that to be carried out. Otherwise, the Corporation do not care how many Bills you have if you give the proper protection.

83. But it would be a greater benefit to have one Bill than to have two? I should think so.

84. Mr. Creer.] Is it proposed under this Bill that the city and suburban municipalities shall participate in the profits of the undertaking? Yes; a certain amount will be laid aside to help them to purchase after a number of years.

85. Would they participate in any way in the profits of the undertaking under No. 1 Bill? No. 1 Bill has been improved to this extent—that the Corporation get 10 per cent.; that after the company's 10 per cent. is deducted from the profits, the residue shall be divided between the Corporation and the company. The difficulty would be in ascertaining when they had made more than 10 per cent.

86. No. 1 Bill gives the company power to break up the streets without consulting the Corporation? Yes.

87. Under this Bill, on the other hand, the company must seek permission previous to doing anything? Yes.

88. You are aware that there are a number of small engines used throughout the city for various motive-power purposes? Yes.

89. If this hydraulic system came into operation they could be dispensed with? Yes.

90. And, from your experience, you may be able to say which would be the safer, the hydraulic system or the other? The hydraulic system is decidedly the safer of the two.

91. Are you aware whether the charge for the use of power under this Bill is less or greater than the charge sought to be imposed under No. 1 Bill? No; I cannot say. I did not know that there was any charge specified in the first Bill.

92. Chairman.] Are you not mistaken in saying that No. 1 Bill gave the Council no voice in regard to the breaking up of streets? I spoke of No. 1 Bill as it was before the City Council.

93. That Bill states that the company must give seven clear days' notice to the Council or Corporation before proceeding to break up any of the streets, and section 12 says, "No such street, sewer, drain, or tunnel.

tunnel shall, except in cases of emergency as aforesaid, and except as hereinafter provided, be opened or broken up except under the superintendence of the local authority having the management or control thereof or its officer?" Quite so. Superintendence has nothing at all to do with it. It has nothing to do with the power of breaking up the street. They might go and break up our streets, and all that we could do would be to get a man to superintend.

M. Chapman,
Esq.
16 May, 1888.

94. Mr. Creer.] In part one there is power to pass by-laws regulating the whole affair, but the Council have no voice whatever in these by-laws? No.

95. There is power given to the company to pass by-laws independent of any other power, and, as an old Alderman, do you not think it would be advisable that such by-laws should be submitted to the Council or some other power before becoming law? They ought to be approved of by the Executive Council.

96. Chairman.] I understand that both No. 1 Bill and No. 2 Bill were before the Corporation for their consideration at the same time? Yes.

97. And what did they do with regard to the two Bills? They adopted what we call No. 2 Bill, because all the provisions were in that that were left out of the other—that is, provisions for the security of the city.

98. But those provisions were not in No. 1 Bill? No; they were struck out.

99. Mr. Frank Farnell.] They were not struck out by the Council? No; they were not contained in the Bill in the first instance.

100. Chairman.] Do you think it would be necessary to summon the Mayor to give evidence with regard to this Bill? I do not think so, because the Bill the Committee now has before it was the Bill approved of by the Corporation. It bears the endorsement "approved," signed by the Mayor, whose signature I can swear to.

George Swinburne, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

101. Chairman.] What is your profession? I am a civil engineer.

102. Of Sydney or Melbourne? We were established in London, but lately we opened a branch in Melbourne, as we were asked to undertake the engineering of the hydraulic-power company now formed there.

G.
Swinburne,
Esq.
16 May, 1888.

103. There is a company formed in Melbourne for this purpose? Yes; an Act of Parliament has been obtained there.

104. Has the Act been passed through Parliament? Yes; it was passed through last November.

105. Have you had any practical experience with regard to hydraulic power? Yes.

106. Where have you seen the system at work? In England, in Melbourne, and on the Continent of Europe.

107. Is it in working order now in Melbourne? There are several separate installations in working order there, but the operations of the company have not come into effect yet. There has not been time to carry out all the necessary works.

108. This hydraulic-power system is in full operation in London and in other parts of the world? Yes. In London they supply the public. They have a general public supply there, and also in Liverpool and Hull.

109. You are aware that a Bill is now before this Parliament for the purpose of giving a company power to bring this hydraulic system into operation in Sydney and suburbs? Yes.

110. Are you one of the company? I am one of the company. I am a member of the firm of J. Coates & Company, which comprises John Coates, C. R. Lee, and myself.

111. You have had some experience with regard to the operation of this hydraulic-pressure system;—did you ever know of any accident to occur from the bursting of pipes, or anything of that sort? No; I never knew of any accident occurring in that way.

112. In the places where you have seen the system in operation, was the power generally used by the people? Wherever it has been brought into use it has never been thrown aside, and it is rapidly superseding all other motive-powers in London for lifting and hoisting and for crane work, and it has been used to work dynamos for the electric light, and it will soon be adopted for all sorts of motive-power.

113. It can be applied, I suppose, to almost any purpose where power is required? Yes. It could be applied in the place of any steam-engine by using a turbine, or what they call a hydraulic engine, which is really something similar to a steam-engine, with the difference that you use water instead of steam. In America I believe they have large factories—tailoring factories—where they employ a great number of sewing machines, all working just by turbines; there is no steam motive-power at all.

114. It can be applied even to such a small machine as a sewing machine? Yes.

115. And does it work well? Yes, and very smoothly. There is no noise attached to it. You simply have a turbine by the side of the sewing machine, and a water-pipe going up to the turbine, and by turning the tap you set the machine going, and by turning the tap off you stop the machine.

116. I suppose it displaces steam with regard to all these stationary works? It can displace steam for all kinds of motive-power.

117. And be equally as servicable? Oh, yes; without the danger of having boilers or anything of that kind about the premises.

118. Do you think it would be useful in the city of Sydney? Yes, I think so.

119. For lifts, and for raising goods to high parts of buildings, and taking passengers up and down? Yes. It would enable warehouses and hotels to be built much higher than they are at present, and would do away with the nuisance of having gas-engines and boilers on the premises, which is very disagreeable in hotels.

120. In your experience, have you ever known any of these lifts to break, or any accident to occur? I never knew of any such accident in connection with a public supply; but I have known individual cases where people have had their own installations, and the chains have broken. But the cages are generally provided with safety catches, which stop the cage in its downward course as soon as the chain breaks.

121. Then any accidents must occur through carelessness—through passengers placing their bodies in dangerous positions? Yes.

122. The same as in the case of a railway, where there is no danger except through the careless or wilful action of the person? Exactly. It would simply be through carelessness that anything would occur in that way.

G.
Swinburne,
Esq.
16 May, 1888.

123. Is this system very useful for putting out fires? Yes. It is now being applied extensively in England to that purpose. It is not used by itself for putting out fires, but in conjunction with the town supply. Of course, water at 700 pounds pressure, if let off out of a pipe or jet, would immediately disperse into spray. The pressure is too great. Therefore it would be no use in extinguishing fires. But if applied to the water mains just the same as an injector, this high pressure rushes up the pipe and creates a vacuum on the low-pressure main, and thus draws the water after it at a very great speed, and it will deliver 150 gallons of water 80 feet high a minute. That is in conjunction with the water-supply main. The water-supply main by itself would only deliver water 20 or 30 feet high. The pressure under the hydraulic system is 700 pounds to the square inch.

124. I suppose the pipes are specially made for the purpose? Yes.

125. Did you ever know any of them to burst? No. They are specially constructed, and have no seams such as are found in ordinary pipes, and even in wrought-iron pipes, and no seams like the plating of a boiler.

126. I suppose the water-power would be supplied by meter? Yes; in the same way that gas is supplied at the present time. The pipes would be laid up the street, and services taken off. I may say that in connection with the services a 2-inch pipe is generally used, taken from the mains, but that is generally reduced to a three-quarter pipe at the machine. A $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch pipe is all that is necessary in connection with a lift that will raise 30 cwt.

127. Then no one need pay for any more water than runs through the meter? They only pay for what they use.

128. Have you any idea as to the charge per 1,000 gallons? The maximum charge we applied for is 12s. 6d. per 1,000 gallons, but that is simply a maximum charge in connection with small consumers. The charge I think that will be paid in Sydney by large consumers will be about 3s. 6d. per 1,000 gallons. In London the water-power is supplied at prices ranging from 2s. and 2s. 6d. per 1,000 gallons up to 9s. and 10s. per 1,000 gallons, according to the magnitude of the consumer.

129. This would be far cheaper than the present rate paid in connection with gas-engines? Yes; just in the same way that managing one large system is always cheaper than having a great many small systems. An installation of three or four lifts will take one man to look after it, whereas one man can look after all the machinery of the Hydraulic Power Company alone.

130. How is it proposed to get the water here; is it proposed to use saltwater or fresh water? If the Sewerage Commissioners would allow us to use water from the bay, we would use that water to save expense in laying the mains. I may say that from my investigations I find that saltwater is of greater specific gravity than fresh water, and that there is generally about 3 inches of fresh water floating on the top of saltwater. The fresh water coming down the rivers floats on top, and by having a floating pump we would be able to get a constant supply of fresh water.

131. Do you mean to empty the exhaust water into the sewers? If it were agreeable to the Sewerage Commissioners; but, if not, we would use return mains, and let all the water gravitate back to our pumping station. That would mean a double set of pipes, and the expenditure of a great deal more capital; and I think the proposal I made at first would be a great advantage to the Commissioners, because they would have a large quantity of water with which to flush their sewers.

132. But if the Commissioners refuse permission to send the exhaust water into the sewers if it were saltwater, and would give you permission if it were fresh water, which would you use? We should use fresh water, certainly. We would rather use fresh water from the bay, and allow it afterwards to go into the sewers; but if permission will not be granted for the saltwater or the fresh water from the bay to go into the sewers, then we shall have to put down mains to return the water to the pumping station, and use it over again.

133. You speak of fresh water from the bay;—what bay do you mean? I mean the bay down at Circular Quay.

134. Do you say that there are 2 or 3 inches of fresh water on top of the saltwater? Yes; as a rule there are.

135. Can fresh water be taken off without some saltwater going with it? Yes, I think so, by having a float on the top of the water. A certain quantity of saltwater might come off along with it, but a very small quantity, because saltwater is of so much greater specific gravity than fresh water, and it sinks to the bottom, while fresh water floats on the top. We shall work in conjunction with the Commissioners in respect to this matter. In London they pump the water from the Thames, and it goes into the sewers. They have no return mains there.

136. I suppose almost any weight could be elevated by means of this hydraulic power? Yes, any weight you like; there is no limit.

137. Mr. Creer.] Then hydraulic power is much cheaper than steam? Oh, yes.

138. And safer? Yes.

139. Could it easily be applied to the small manufactories in Sydney? Quite well. It would save a great deal of room on the premises.

140. Where does the pressure come from in Melbourne which is used in connection with the lifts and warehouses? In some cases it comes from the Yan Yean, from the water-mains laid in the streets; but in most cases the different warehouses have their own engines and pumping plant on the premises. Perhaps the Committee may know that at the Eveleigh workshops they are working this hydraulic system up to a pressure of 1,500 pounds to the square inch.

141. Have you ever seen the hydraulic cranes at Bullock Island, near Newcastle? Yes; they have a fine installation there. I may say that all the principal docks in England are fitted up with these hydraulic cranes.

142. Chairman.] Do the companies in England work under any Parliamentary authority? Yes; they all have Acts of Parliament.

143. Have you seen these Acts of Parliament? I have seen some of them. I have seen the Liverpool Act; and I know a good deal about them.

144. In those Acts, is there any limit placed to the amount of interest which the shareholders may derive from the capital invested? I think that in the Liverpool Act they limit the dividends, and the Corporation also have power to buy the concern at the end of thirty years.

145. To what amount have they limited the dividends to the shareholders? I think the Liverpool Act limits the dividends to 6 per cent.

G.
Swinburne,
Esq.

16 May, 1888.

146. And if the profits are more than 6 per cent. the company has to reduce the price to the consumer? Yes.
147. Do you think it would be advisable to adopt a similar system here? As far as my experience goes, it seems more advisable to put a premium, as it were, upon the opening of the streets, and not to limit the dividends. I may say that in Victoria there was a great discussion on that point. At first the Act was passed to limit the dividend of the company to 12½ per cent. A new proposal was made, which would give the Corporation a bonus of 2½ per cent. on the called-up capital, and do away with the limitation of the dividends. The Parliament thought this latter proposal the more advisable one. It was on a similar basis to what was passed in connection with the Tramways Act.
148. Then, in this Bill under consideration there is no limit to the dividend that may be paid to the shareholders? No.
149. But there is a certain amount of money to go to the Corporation? There is a bonus, as it were, for the privilege of opening the streets.
150. Is the bonus on the amount of the profits, or on the amount of the capital expended? On the amount of the capital we expend—the paid-up capital.
151. You pay so much bonus to the Corporation for the right of breaking up the streets? Yes.
152. And then you make due provision at your own expense to repair the streets thoroughly after you have broken them up? Yes. That is already provided for in the Bill. We have to keep the streets in repair for, I think, twelve months after the pipes are laid. If there is any subsidence in the streets, we must put it all right again.
153. Are you aware whether or not this Bill was before the Corporation of Sydney? Yes, it was. Mr. Coates introduced the matter to the Corporation of Sydney two years ago, in June, 1886.
154. But was this present Bill before the Corporation of Sydney for their consideration? Yes.
155. And what was the conclusion to which they arrived? They approved of the clauses in the Bill, and said it would fit in with what their ideas were, that everything seemed to be provided for in the Bill in connection with the Corporation, and that they did not see any reason to oppose it, but would give it their support.
156. And the Corporation are thoroughly satisfied to allow this Bill to pass through Parliament and become law, so far as you know? Yes.
157. Mr. Frank Farnell.] Can you produce any correspondence which you have had with the Municipal Council of Sydney? Yes. I have brought with me all the correspondence we had with the Sydney Corporation, and also with Messrs. Parrott and Cameron, who wrote to us asking us why we were writing to the Sydney Corporation. It was explained to them that we had been in correspondence with the City Corporation for about eighteen months before we received their letter.
158. Do you hand in that correspondence to the Committee? Yes. [Vide Appendix.]
159. Chairman.] Are you aware that certain correspondence took place between Mr. Parrott and your company? Yes. That is included in the correspondence I have just handed in to the Committee.
160. Did you conduct all that correspondence? Yes.
161. The other company made certain proposals to your company? When I was in correspondence with the Corporation they wrote to me, and asked why we were writing to the Corporation on the hydraulic scheme, as they already had a proposal before the Corporation. I wrote back to say that we had been in correspondence with the Corporation on the question since June, 1886, and explained to them that it would be impossible for us to withdraw our proposal from the Council.
162. Do you know Mr. Gardiner? Yes; I came to Sydney and saw Mr. Gardiner, and explained to him—he being the Chairman of the company—what we had already done, and I showed him a copy of the letters we had written to the Council.
163. Do you know the promoters of the Sydney Hydraulic Power Company? The only promoters I have seen are Messrs. Parrott and Cameron, and Mr. Gardiner. I saw Mr. Parrott and Mr. Gardiner when I was in Sydney.
164. Do you know anything about this statement, made by Mr. Gardiner in his evidence before the Committee on the Sydney Hydraulic Power Company's Bill:—"Coates & Company told us very distinctly that unless we did certain things, which they did not exactly describe, they would bring certain power, which they said they had in the Council as well as in the Parliament, to bear against our Bill"? No; I never said anything of the kind. All that I said is contained in the letter that I wrote to Messrs. Parrott and Cameron. I merely said that, as we had already been in correspondence with the Corporation, we must pursue the proposal we had initiated. In my letter to Messrs. Parrott and Cameron I said, "We may say that we do not require the assistance of the London Company in any way, and as several members of the Sydney Legislature are supporting us, we have written to them, explaining how matters stand." That is all I said. Mr. Coates saw Mr. Riley, the then Mayor, who was very pleased with the whole scheme, and said that as far as he was concerned the Council would be very glad to give it all the support it possibly could.
165. Supposing this Bill passes, where do you intend to get the pipes from and the ironwork necessary for carrying out this undertaking? We intend to get everything made here. I have heard that someone in connection with Messrs. Parrott and Cameron and the other company has said that we are merely promoting this Bill, and would not give it up because we wanted the manufacturing of all the work. I should like most emphatically to deny any such thought on our part. We are not manufacturers. We do not employ a man to manufacture in any way, and we are not connected with any firm of manufacturers. We are merely consulting engineers, and as far as we are concerned everything will be thrown open to public competition, and, as we are quite able to draw specifications and plans for all that we want, we intend to get everything made here.
166. If this Bill passes through Parliament, how long will it take you before you have this hydraulic system in working order in the city of Sydney? We can do it within about twelve months.
167. Would that be to supply the main streets? Possibly the main streets. We could lay several miles of pipes within that time, and have the pumping engines and plant in full working order to supply power to the public.
168. You could do this within twelve months? Yes.

MR. MELVILLE.

J. N. BRUNKER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

John Harris, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

J. Harris,
Esq.
17 May, 1888.

169. Chairman.] You are the Mayor of Sydney? Yes.
170. You have examined No. 1 and No. 2 Bills referring to the supply of hydraulic power? Yes.
171. The Bill now before us is one of those Bills? Yes. We had No. 1 and No. 2 Bills before us, and compared them. We started on No. 1 Bill, and when we got to a certain point in No. 1 we found that it did not go far enough, and we then took up No. 2.
172. You mean to say that the Council approved of No. 2? Yes. A special meeting was called for the consideration of the two Bills.
173. Are you of opinion that the enactment will prove of great advantage to the citizens generally? Yes, I believe so.
174. Mr. Frank Farnell.] You are not satisfied with the provisions contained in No. 1 Bill? No; they do not go far enough.
175. It does not provide that the Council should have the requisite supervision? No.
176. I understand that No. 2 Bill gives that power? Yes. And I may say that No. 1 Bill, as sent to us for consideration, is not the Bill before the House. No. 2 Bill is, I think, if possible, even more liberal than the Melbourne Act.
177. Mr. Day.] Are you aware of the names of the promoters of No. 2 Bill? I think Coates & Company.
178. Do I understand that the Bill goes nearer to meeting the views of the Corporation of Sydney than No. 1 Bill? Yes. Some of the Aldermen think that the Council ought to have a Bill for themselves, and they unanimously adopted No. 2 Bill as being the more liberal of these two.
179. I understand that No. 2 Bill gives the Council greater power over the breaking up of the roads than No. 1 Bill? Yes; it gives us more notice. No. 1 Bill provides for three months keeping in repair, and this Bill provides for twelve months, and all the work is to be done under the supervision of the Council's officers, which means a great deal.
180. I believe that there is a provision in No. 2 Bill which provides that $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. upon the paid up capital shall be devoted to a sinking fund, and that the Council may purchase the property at a certain time? Yes.
181. Is there any provision of that kind in the other Bill? No. The first Bill, as far as I could see, was similar to the Melbourne Bill, with this exception, that all the provisions beneficial to the city were eliminated. These are contained in No. 2 Bill.
182. No. 1 Bill, I believe, gave the Council half the profits after the company had taken a 10 per cent. dividend? Yes.
183. It is absolutely necessary that the Corporation should have the supreme control over the streets of the city of Sydney? I think we ought to have.
184. They are responsible for keeping the streets in repair, and I suppose you consider that the streets ought not to be broken up without their consent? Yes; if the clay is only shovelled in it will sink. We require it to be well rammed down, and to have the concrete put on in a proper manner.
185. I suppose you find considerable difficulty in dealing with the Gas Company of Sydney in making up the street after they have been laying down their pipes? It has been a source of trouble ever since I have been in the Council.
186. I suppose that has been a warning to you not to give the privilege to anyone else? Yes.
187. After considering the whole matter, you think that this Bill will be a general advantage to the whole of the people of Sydney? Yes.
188. Have any amendments been introduced at the instance of the City Council? Yes; making the provisions of the Bill still more liberal.
189. You deem those amendments desirable in the interests of the citizens? Yes.
190. Mr. Creer.] The maximum charge is 12s. 6d. per 1,000 gallons? Yes.
191. There is no clause in the Bill limiting the amount of dividends which may be declared? No.
192. The company may continue to charge what rate they like, making, it may be, enormous profits? Yes.
193. Do you not think it would be well to limit the dividends of the company with a view to the reduction of the price charged for the pressure? I think it would be well if the power you speak of were in the Bill, if it is not already in it.
194. Is there no complaint at the present time as to the charges made by the present Gas Company? Oh, yes; we ourselves have complained very much.

APPENDIX.

[To Evidence of G. Swinburne.]

CORRESPONDENCE on the question of hydraulic power between The Sydney Corporation, Wm. Gardiner, Esq., Messrs. Parrott and Cameron, and Messrs. J. Coates & Company.

The Town Clerk, Sydney,—
Sir,

8, Collins-street East, Melbourne, 13 November, 1886.

We have the honor to address your Council, through you, on behalf of the company which is being formed for the purpose of supplying hydraulic power, or what is known as the high-pressure system, for public use in the city of Sydney.

Our immediate object is to make the advantages of the system known to the Council, for if we succeed in doing that we shall not fail to secure their approval of it, and their desire for its local application.

We may say briefly, by way of explanation, that the system is in active and most satisfactory operation in London, Liverpool, Hull, &c., and is highly appreciated by the public and by the local authorities. Its object is the supply of hydraulic power for the discharge of ships' cargoes, the raising of heavy substances into warehouses, stores, &c., the working of machines, lifts, and cranes, and the extinction of large fires.

These

These advantages and a very brief explanation of the system are summarized in the leaflets which we take the liberty of enclosing for the use of the Members of the Council.

With a view to its application to Sydney, the approval of the Council is sought, followed by their consent to the laying down of the necessary mains from the central pumping station to the streets in which the power will be supplied, all of which of course is proposed to be done under the superintendence of the City Surveyor, and only in such way as he shall approve. It will not necessitate the breaking up of the wood pavements, as the pipes can be laid under the footpaths, and that in short sections at a time, and chiefly during the night, so as to interfere to the slightest possible extent and for the shortest period with the traffic.

In London, although the system has been carried into all the principal business streets, and into nearly all the large hotels, the interruption of traffic has been scarcely perceptible, no complaint whatever has been made, and comparatively few people have known that any such work was being done.

With a view to its application to Melbourne, a company has been formed by a few of the leading business men, and a Bill is now before the Victorian Parliament for conferring on the company all necessary powers. This was considered necessary, because of the limited area of the city proper, and the number of the surrounding municipalities into which the company's operations will extend.

A committee of the Melbourne City Council is, however, watching the progress of the Bill, not, however, to oppose, but to facilitate its passing (guarded by all proper precautions), and we have every reason to expect that the Bill will become law before the close of the session.

It does not appear to us that there is any necessity for an Act of Parliament to admit of its application to Sydney.

There would be no occasion to go beyond the limits of the city proper, and there would be no desire to do anything of which the Council would not thoroughly approve.

The Council have, we respectfully submit, ample control of the streets, and the company would be prepared to enter into any contract or give any guarantee the Council might require for the due observance of the Council's directions. The permission of the Council seems therefore to supply all that is needful; but if it should seem to the Council, or their advisers, that we are mistaken in this view, and that for any reason not now apparent to us, legislative powers should be procured, the company will be prepared to proceed with that view, if assured that the Council, whilst reserving for itself full liberty of action, with the view of securing all needful precautions, will sanction and encourage the principle of the Bill.

We therefore beg that, at an early opportunity, this letter may be laid before the Council for consideration, and if there is any further explanation we can give to you or to the Council, or to any committee to which the matter may be referred, we shall be happy to do so, either by letter or a personal visit.

We have, &c.,
J. COATES & CO.

P.S.—If references are necessary, we shall be pleased to send the very best from this city, or to Messrs. McArthur & Co., Sydney.

H. J. Daniels, Esq., Town Clerk, Sydney,—

8, Collins-street East, Melbourne, 7 January, 1888.

Dear Sir,

We have the honor to again address you in reference to our letter of the 13th November, 1886, concerning the proposal we then made of supplying Sydney with hydraulic power on the high-pressure system, similar to that we are now carrying out in Melbourne, and largely used for the working of lifts, cranes, wool-presses, and motive-power.

As we have engineered this scheme in several parts of the world, we feel that we could well justify the confidence that you would place in us by giving us the favour of your support in Parliament to secure the necessary power.

We have carried out similar projects in London, Hull, Lynn, Bristol, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Great Eastern Railway, Great Western Railway, South-Eastern Railway, Amsterdam, Buenos Ayres, South America, &c.

We have erected a large plant in Melbourne, and have the reticulation of the streets in hand, for a public and general supply of water-power for lifts, extinguishing fires, &c., the Government having granted us a special Act of Parliament for that purpose.

We were urged to undertake the initiation of the scheme, and to ask for the support of your Council by several Sydney gentlemen interested in city property, as the ordinary water supply is not always available.

We especially would mention the fact of the application of the high pressure to the extinction of fires, which, in conjunction with the ordinary supply, will deliver 250 gallons per minute 100 feet high, thus securing a greater safety to property, impossible with the low pressure of ordinary supply.

Trusting that your Council will favour our application,—

We have, &c.,
J. COATES & CO.,
Per G. J. BOUDRY.

P.S.—We would also mention that we are at present engaged with a large and extensive scheme of hydraulic machinery for the Wellington Harbour Board, N.Z.—J.C. & Co., per G.J.B.

Messrs. Wm. Gardiner & Co., Sydney,—

8, Collins-street East, Melbourne, 22 December, 1887.

Dear Sirs,

I understand you are interesting yourselves in the formation of a Hydraulic Power Co. for Sydney, and have received cables from our London House and Messrs. Waygood asking me to help you all I can. I have just completed the Melbourne Bill in Parliament, and it was signed by the Governor last Saturday. In November last year we applied to the Sydney Corporation for leave to open streets, and asking them to lend their influence to the passing of a Bill to initiate the hydraulic system. We have not done anything further, owing to the Melbourne scheme having taken up so much of my time.

I was rather surprised to hear when I was in Sydney last month that we were being forestalled, and believe Mr. Paling is connected with your company proposed. I was taking steps to introduce our own scheme, and am in correspondence with friends in Sydney on the matter.

However, I was pleased to receive cables from Home, and will do all I can to assist you in forwarding the scheme on receipt of particulars. I am leaving for Tasmania to-day, but return next Friday, and will be glad to hear from you.

I am, &c.,
GEO. SWINBURNE.
Sydney, 28 December, 1887.

Messrs. J. Coates & Co.,—

Dear Sirs,

Thank you for yours of 22nd instant, which I have handed to Messrs Parrott and Cameron, engineers for the Sydney Power Co.

Yours truly,
W. GARDINER.
118, Pitt-street, Sydney, 16 January, 1888.

Hydraulic Power for Sydney.

John Coates, Esq., Planet Chambers, 8, Collins-street East, Melbourne,—

Dear Sir,

In the work of pushing forward our scheme for supplying Sydney with hydraulic power we have several times lately had brought under our notice letters from your firm in Melbourne.

The first occasion was a few days ago, when a letter from yourself to the City Council was before that body.

This is causing some confusion, and the Council is asking whether two companies are seeking the same power from the Legislature.

Your action has no doubt been taken in ignorance of what has been done in Sydney.

A strong provisional Committee of leading Sydney citizens was formed here months ago, who instructed our Mr. Parrott to proceed to England to collect information bearing on the question of power supply, and to endeavour to make terms with the London Company to assist in carrying out the installation for Sydney.

All this work was successfully accomplished by our Mr. Parrott, and we are now only awaiting the passage of the Bill which is before the House to at once commence the work of installation.

We shall be glad to supply you with any further information of our progress, and are thankful for the good wishes you express for the success of the undertaking in your letter to Mr. W. Gardiner, who is Chairman of the Sydney Company.

We are, &c.,
PARROTT & CAMERON.
Messrs.

Messrs. Parrott & Cameron, 118, Pitt-street, Sydney,—

8, Collins-street East, Melbourne, 19 January, 1888.

Dear Sirs,

Yours of the 16th January to hand, and must express our surprise at its contents.

We wrote to Mr. Gardiner, who said he had referred our letter to you, and have been struck with the studied silence which followed it.

In November, 1886, we made application to the Town Council on behalf of our Sydney friends, and not hearing anything further of our suggestion to work in conjunction with you, pursued our original intention, and wrote to the Council on the subject of our former application.

We know that no one had spoken of the matter in Sydney before we wrote, and but for the purpose of putting one scheme into a proper form, so as to have the best model to work upon, we should have carried out the scheme before now in Sydney.

We think it would have been more courteous if, instead of waiting till we wrote to the Council, you had replied to our letter to Mr. Gardiner.

Those are the only letters that you refer to.

We may say that we do not require the assistance of the London Company in any way, and as several Members of the Sydney Legislature are supporting us, we have written to them explaining how matters stand.

When I was in Sydney last I heard that a move was being made to copy our Melbourne project, but could not hear that any copy was registered.

We have carried out several plants already in various parts of England, Europe, America, &c.

We are, &c.,

J. COATES & CO.

118, Pitt-street, Sydney, 21 January, 1888.

Messrs. J. Coates & Co., Planet Chambers, 8, Collins-street East, Melbourne,—

Dear Sirs,

We are much surprised at reading the contents of your letter of 19th instant, which we will reply to in detail.

You mention that you wrote a letter to Mr. Gardiner, that you received a reply from that gentleman, stating that he had sent your letter to us, and that you are astonished at our "studied silence" in respect to this letter.

In respect to this we have only to state that we communicated with Mr. Gardiner in reference to this letter, and he told us he had replied to it.

Your next paragraph points out that you brought this question of hydraulic-power supply under the notice of the City Council in November, 1886.

In April the same year (you will notice eight months prior to the date mentioned in your letter) we took the initiatory steps for introducing a power supply to the city of Sydney.

A month later we had a strong committee of the leading citizens formed, and in June our Mr. Parrott was sent to England for the purpose of entering into negotiations for securing the most efficient installation.

At the time you mention as having brought your proposals forward (of the nature of which we are entirely ignorant) the negotiations in England were practically completed.

In this same paragraph of your letter are the following words: "And not hearing anything further of our suggestion to work in conjunction with you—"

We must ask you to accept our assurance that your letter of the 19th instant is the first communication we have ever had from you, and it was only on receipt of that letter, coupled with the letter sent to us from Mr. Gardiner, that we became aware you were interested in the introduction of a power scheme in Melbourne.

In the next paragraph you say, "We know that no one had spoken of the matter in Sydney before we wrote, &c."

You will see by what we have just stated that this is not correct, as we commenced our movements in April, 1886, and they have been continued with vigour up to the present date.

Your next paragraph charges us with a want of courtesy.

This must have been written hastily, as you must see from what we have already stated that we were not in any way aware that any steps had been taken in Sydney in this matter by a Melbourne firm; and with regard to Mr. Gardiner's letter, we took the trouble to see him, to ask him if we should reply to it, and he told us he had done so himself.

With regard to your next paragraph, referring to the assistance of the London Company, and your intention to communicate with certain Members of our Legislature, we have nothing to say.

Finally, you say when you were last in Sydney you heard that a move was being made to copy your Melbourne project.

We know nothing of any such move, and, so far as we are concerned, we do not know what the features of the Melbourne project may be.

We are, &c.,

PARROTT & CAMERON.

Messrs. Parrott & Cameron, Sydney,—

8, Collins-street East, Melbourne, 26 January, 1888.

Dear Sirs,

Yours of the 21st to hand. Our hasty remarks were based upon the expectation of a reply to our first letter, and we have always thought it strange that you did not write. But as we never heard of any other firm preparing to undertake the supply of hydraulic power to the public of Sydney, we naturally pressed our claim; and having already spent considerable time and money over the scheme, along with our friends, we do not feel justified in surrendering our claim, and shall certainly oppose any connection between the Hydraulic Power Company of London and Sydney.

Continual references have been made in all the journals to our Melbourne project, which is now all definitely settled and arranged.

Mr. Swinburne will be in Sydney on or about the 4th February, and will perhaps give you a call, if you wish it.

We are, &c.,

J. COATES & CO.

118, Pitt-street, Sydney, 30 January, 1888.

Messrs. J. Coates & Co., Planet Chambers, 8, Collins-street East, Melbourne,—

Dear Sirs,

Your favour of the 26th instant is to hand, and we still find your remarks difficult of interpretation.

You say you have always thought it strange that you did not get a reply to your first letter. We never received any letter from you until the one dated 19th instant, to which we replied on 21st idem.

You state that you have spent considerable time and money in the furtherance of the scheme for Sydney.

We also have spent considerable sums of money (including the cost of a trip to Europe), and have unceasingly applied ourselves to the working up of our proposals, made in April, 1886, and find it difficult to understand how these labours should have escaped your notice.

We note your remark that you will oppose any connection between the Hydraulic Power Company of London and Sydney.

We shall be glad to receive a visit from Mr. Swinburne, if it is his wish to call and see us.

We are, &c.,

PARROTT & CAMERON.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

VICTORIAN COAL-MINING COMPANY'S EXTENSION BILL.

THURSDAY, 1 DECEMBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. COLLS,

MR. JONES.

MR. DAY,
MR. GORMLY,

R. BARBOUR, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Jno. A. Aitken, Esq., appeared for the promoters of the Bill.

John Archibald Aitken, Esq., sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are solicitor for this Bill? I am.
2. Was there an Act passed to authorise the construction and maintenance of this line of railway from land at Mount Kembla to the sea-coast at Port Kembla, near Wollongong? Yes; that Act was assented to on the 29th August, 1884. It is cited as the "Victorian Coal-mining Company's Act of 1884."
3. Was anything done with regard to the construction of this railway? Oh, yes. There was a good deal of money expended. Mr. Saywell will state the exact figures, but I believe it is something approaching £4,000. The surveys were taken out, and the levels taken for the engineering portion of the work, a lot of fencing done, and part of the jetty erected.
4. But something interfered to prevent its being fully carried out within the time? Yes. There were three years to carry it out under section 1 of the Act. The main reason for its not being carried out was that, owing to the depressed state of the money market, it was not expedient or practicable to float a coal-mining company then, which, from very favourable communications which have been received from Home, I believe will now be done within a short period.
5. There is every reason to believe that it will be floated within a short period? Yes. Mr. Saywell is the only proprietor, as stated in the original Act. He is referred to as "Thomas Saywell, of Sydney, merchant, trading as the Victorian Coal-mining Company." Mr. Saywell has not assigned his interest.
6. And he is now intending to carry the matter through? Yes.
7. Do you know of any objections to the extension of the time? No; none at all. The main persons who were objecting to the original Act were the Wentworths, but they are still, to my knowledge, willing to carry out the original agreement, which is embodied in the Act, and which will be revived by the Bill we are seeking now to obtain.
8. Do you know any reason why it was not applied for before the third year had expired? We did apply for an Act to continue it, but, owing to the Session closing so suddenly, the Bill fell through. The advertisements were in, and the Bill drawn, but the Session closing, we had not time to get the Bill through. We were applying for an Act which would be different from this, because we were applying for an Act before the time expired to continue it. This is an Act to revive the Bill. Owing to the proviso in section 1 of the original Act, the third year having expired, it is necessary to get a Bill to revive it.
9. Does counsel advise then that this step is necessary? Yes.
10. And if this step is taken it will be restored? Yes.
11. And there is no objection you know of to prevent it? No.
12. Mr. Day.] Have you had any conversation or opened any communication with the Wentworths about it? With their solicitor, Mr. Barker.
13. I am speaking with regard to this Bill? Yes.
14. And what did they say? They are prepared to let it go on under the same terms.
15. Have they no objections? No objections at all.
16. Are the Wentworths the only persons? No; they are the main persons. I was not the solicitor for the original Bill, but when this Bill was passed there was a special agreement entered into with the Messrs. Wentworth, a rather favourable agreement to them, and they are still willing to carry it out.

J. A. Aitken,
Esq.
1 Dec., 1887.

J. A. Aitken, Esq.
1 Dec., 1887. They get a royalty for the coal passing through their land. Mr. Wentworth stated that he was quite willing to let the matter go on under the same agreement, and his attorney here, Mr. Hill, is under his instructions consenting to the matter.

17. Are there many other owners through whose land this railway passes? There are several other owners, but their interest is fully provided for in the Act.

18. None of these have objected, to your knowledge? No.

19. Advertisements have been put in all the papers according to law? Yes; there was a notice in the Sydney Morning Herald, in the Government Gazette, and in one of the local papers, the Wollongong Argus, all of which I have handed over to the Chairman.

20. Do you know whether this Company is likely to be floated before long or not? From the last cablegram they got from Home it is very likely to be floated within a short period. It looks very favourable, as far as we can see. However, Mr. Saywell is going to continue the matter with the intention of getting it floated without delay, and it is now before parties at Home.

Thomas Saywell, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

T. Saywell, Esq.
1 Dec., 1887. 21. Chairman.] You are the promoter of this Company? I am.

22. The Victorian Coal-mining Company? Yes.

23. And you have been carrying on business, trading as the Victorian Coal-mining Company? Yes.

24. You wish to restore the Act that was passed some time ago, the time (three years) having expired, and to put it in the same position as it was before? Just to extend the time.

25. Have you done any work under that first Act? Yes, I cleared and fenced and surveyed, and such like, but I found out that it was coming to a very great deal more money than I wished to expend upon the thing, and money has been rather tight these last three years in this market, so I thought to see if I could not do anything in the English market, in which I have very great hopes of succeeding, with extension of time.

26. How much have you expended altogether in round numbers? Between £5,000 and £6,000.

27. Mr. Day.] On this line? Yes, with the coal-mine. I think it is over £6,000.

28. Chairman.] You have now a prospect of being able to carry it right through without any further delay? I think so.

29. And if you had the Bill restored, and the powers under it granted, you would have no difficulty in carrying it through now? I do not think so.

30. Do you know, of your own knowledge, if anyone is opposed to the extension of time? I do not know of anyone. I have not heard of any.

31. Was not Mr. Wentworth the principal owner? He objected to my last Bill, but he is now quite satisfied.

32. He is now quite satisfied to continue on the same terms? Yes; in fact I got a letter to that effect.

33. And this Bill is to continue the Act that was granted three years ago? Yes.

34. On the same conditions? On the same conditions.

35. So far as you know there is no one opposed to it? Not so far as I know.

36. Mr. Day.] What is the length of the line from Port Kembla? About $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

37. Four and a half miles to the coal-mine? Yes.

38. The coal-mine has been opened? Yes.

39. And have you taken any coal out of it? Yes.

40. Has the coal been tried? Yes, and found very suitable.

41. Of good quality? Yes. The seam is almost in the Illawarra District all round for miles. It thickens and thins in different places, but the quality is just about the same.

42. Then you are under the belief that you will be able to carry this out if you get an extension of time? I feel confident of that.

43. Mr. Jones.] Has the mine been working the last three years? No.

44. Standing idle? Yes.

45. The difficulty is to get capital to work it? It would take more capital than I like to expend. I think what I have expended now shows a little over £6,000.

46. Have you made any arrangement for increasing your capital? Yes; I am making an arrangement in England.

47. You have some prospect of carrying out the intention of this Bill? I have very good prospects.

48. Mr. Colls.] Independently of opening the mine, what is the proposed cost of the line? I should think it would cost £10,000 a mile.

49. But what you have expended already. You say you have cleared and fenced. What has that cost you, independently of the mine? I should think clearing and fencing —

50. Mr. Day.] And making a jetty? I have not built a jetty there.

51. Mr. Colls.] The intended line? Well, I could not say for certain.

52. About? About £1,000.

53. And the remainder has been expended in opening up the mine? Yes; in opening, surveying, and getting levels.

54. Chairman.] Has the surveying been on the line? Yes.

55. And is that in addition to the £1,000? Yes. I have expended upwards of £6,000.

56. What Mr. Colls wants to know is how much has been expended on the railway and how much on the mine? I should think three-fourths of it upon the railway.

57. That would be about £4,000? Yes; and the remainder on the mine.

58. Mr. Day.] You have all the plans and that ready for the construction of this railway? Yes.

59. You have not provided any rails yet? Not yet.

60. Nor sleepers? Not yet.

61. Are you aware whether this Bill alters in any way the terms and conditions of the original Act? It is only asking for an extension of time.

62. There is no new provision? No new provision that I know of.

63. Mr. Colls.] You are satisfied that the landowners are all content? There is no objection.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

WEST MAITLAND CATTLE SALE-YARDS BILL.

THURSDAY, 14 JUNE, 1888.

Present:—

MR. BRUNKER,
MR. CREER,

MR. SEE.

MR. DAY,
MR. GOULD,

J. N. BRUNKER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Ernest Broad, Esq., Solicitor, appeared on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

John Gillies, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are Mayor of the borough of West Maitland? I am.
2. The Municipal Council deem it advisable, in the interests of the ratepayers, that the privileges asked for in this Bill should be granted? They have requisitioned us to apply for the Bill.
3. You are aware that West Maitland occupies a central position, and that it is supposed to be one of the best stock markets of the northern line, if not, of the Colony? We regard it as the best stock market in the Colony.
4. It supplies all the requirements of Newcastle, Gosford, The Paterson, and all the surrounding districts? Yes.
5. Can you state the number of stock sold annually in the yards? This movement was initiated in 1887, and we had a rough estimate prepared from information supplied by the auctioneers, but I believe the figures now are greater than they were then. In 1886 the number of cattle sold at the yards was 45,250; of horses, 1,522; of sheep, 170,220; of calves, 1,560; and of pigs, 11,816.
6. Considering the large amount of stock which passes through the yards, I suppose you believe that the returns by way of rates will give a fair return on the capital which you intend to invest? Yes; the income on the quantity of stock which I have stated at the rates fixed by the Council would be £1,462 8s. 10d. per annum; but since 1886 more stock has been sold.
7. Have arrangements been made, in accordance with the terms of the Municipalities Act, to borrow money to purchase land for the erection of sale-yards? Every step has been taken, in accordance with the Act, under the advice of the solicitor of the Council.
8. The site which you propose to purchase is the one where sales have been conducted for the last thirty years? Yes.
9. And it is a most central situation? Yes.
10. Mr. Day.] I suppose that this matter has been before the Council? Repeatedly.
11. Have the Council always been unanimous on the subject? Both the Council and the townspeople.
12. The general feeling of the public is in favour of the erection of the yards? Yes; because they conceive that it will be a source of revenue to make up for the wear and tear of the streets in the borough caused by the traffic of stock to the yards. We have no other means of being remunerated.

J. Gillies,
Esq.

14 June, 1888.

- John Gillies,
Esq.
14 June, 1888.
13. Have you taken into consideration the amount of money which these yards will cost? The purchase-money has been fixed, and the amount which we propose to expend in putting the yards into a more convenient condition for the auctioneers and the people having business there has been taken into consideration. I may say that Mr. Brunker has given us all the information in his power, and has assisted us as far as he possibly could in the matter.
14. Have you ever heard of any objection being raised to the erection of the yards? No.
15. Mr. Gould.] What is the amount of the purchase-money? About £6,000. We have purchased the yards conditionally on this Bill being passed.
16. You say that these are the yards where all sales invariably take place? Yes; sales have been conducted there for thirty years.
17. So that no other yards will be interfered with? There are no other yards in the district.
18. Mr. Day.] I notice that in the Bill you are allowed to charge fees within a radius of 2 miles of the yards. Will that distance extend outside the municipal boundary? Yes, to the west. A corner of the yards is out of the boundary of the municipality. That distance will be about a mile and three quarters out of the boundary, but we shall not interfere with any other municipality.
19. Mr. Gould.] Are there any other yards within 2 miles? No; the nearest yards are at Singleton, 30 miles away.
20. Mr. Day.] Who owns the present sale-yards? The Hon. John Eales and Mr. Adams.
21. Are they good yards? They are not in the condition in which the auctioneers would wish to have them, but the auctioneers having only a leasehold do not feel justified in improving them. The Council would put them in good condition to make them convenient for buyers and sellers.
22. Mr. Gould.] Is it desirable that you should have power to borrow money on the security of the rates, fees, and tolls, to be levied at the yards or any other yards? Yes.
23. I see that under clause 3 you ask for power to borrow money upon the general revenue of the borough from whatever source arising. Do you consider it desirable that such a power should be taken in respect to these sale-yards? We consider it absolutely necessary before we can purchase them. Under the Act we are allowed to borrow five times the amount of our annual rates, and we have already obtained permission from the Governor-in-Council to borrow to that extent—£20,000. One of the objects stated to the Government was the purchase of these yards.
24. Mr. Day.] Do you consider it necessary not only to mortgage the present sale-yards, but also to pledge the borough rates for the purpose? We do not propose to mortgage them at present; but we do not know what we may require in the future for other works in the borough.
25. Mr. Gould.] What we want to know is why you consider it expedient to take power to borrow money on the general revenue of the borough to provide funds for the purchase and maintenance of the yards? We have no other means of obtaining money to pay for the yards unless we borrow on the general rates.
26. Mr. Day.] Do you consider that you would not be able to borrow sufficient money on the yards to pay for them without resorting to the general rates? We have provided for the purchase out of the money that we are going to borrow.
27. What money do you think you could raise on the site of the yards? I think we could raise £4,000.
28. And you think it is necessary for you to have power to mortgage the rates for the other £2,000 or £3,000 required? We think that is a wise provision.
29. You think that you would not be able to get along unless you had power to pledge the rates as well as the yards? Without that power we might not be able to extend the yard and improve them as the auctioneers would wish.
30. Mr. Gould.] Is there any necessity for you to borrow £10,000 in addition to the £20,000 which you have already got permission to borrow? We think that we may require to do so in the course of a few years. We already have an overdraft of £5,000. The expenditure of this money has been incurred in the protection of the flood-gates. We wish to pay that amount off.
31. Have you not made ample provision out of the £20,000 loan to pay the additional £2,000 for the yards over the amount that you can borrow on them? Undoubtedly we have.
32. Then you would not require to borrow money on the yards at the present time? Certainly not.
33. Mr. See.] But I understand that you think it possible that you may have to undertake other permanent works in connection with the municipality? Yes, and this provision is our safeguard.
34. The purchase of these sale-yards might really become a difficulty with you unless you had power to borrow sufficient money to pay for them irrespective of your power to borrow for other improvements? Yes.
35. Mr. Gould.] Can you tell me why it has been considered necessary to make provision in the 9th clause of the Bill, that if there should be any disagreement as to the amount of the purchase-money for the yards, the matter shall be determined by arbitration? We thought that it would facilitate matters in the event of the vendors wishing to draw out of the bargain which they have already signed. There was one piece of land, the price of which was not quite complete, and we thought that perhaps some objection might be raised with regard to that, and this provision is merely a safeguard.
36. Have the owners of the land agreed to have the matter of payment settled by arbitration? No. They have given us their price in writing.
37. And the Council's solicitor has prepared a contract between the vendors and the buyers? Yes.
38. Chairman.] What is the nature of the contract between the Council and the vendors? The contract with Mr. Eales is that he will take £5,000 for his two portions of the land, one on either side of Mr. Adams' block, on condition that this Bill passes. We are bound to give the £5,000, and he is bound to sell, that is in writing. Mr. Adams' block is between Mr. Eales' two blocks, and he has asked £1,500 for it. That offer is in writing, but he has said that if certain things transpire in the meantime he may give it for £200 or £300 less.
39. Mr. Creer.] Is there anything in writing about his giving it to you for less? No.
40. Mr. Gould.] There is a binding contract on the part of Mr. Adams to sell to you for £1,500 if the Bill passes? Yes.
41. He can compel you to pay that amount, and you can compel him to sell? That is as I take it.
42. Mr. See.] If we gave you power to go to arbitration you would not be likely to compel him to resort to that course? No.

ON THE WEST MAITLAND CATTLE SALE-YARDS BILL.

Henry Crothers, called in, sworn, and examined:—

43. Chairman.] You are an alderman of the borough of West Maitland? Yes.
44. Have you ever heard of any objection being raised by the ratepayers to the action of the Council with reference to the purchase and erection of these sale-yards? None whatever. They are all in favour of it.
45. The Council deem it necessary to establish the yards in the interests of the ratepayers? Yes.
46. I suppose you are of opinion that an improvement in the yards would be an advantage to vendors and to buyers, and to the public generally? It is very necessary to have improved yards. At present the accommodation is not at all adequate.
47. Arrangements have been made for the purchase of the yards? All the arrangements are complete, subject to the passing of this Bill.
48. You believe that the income will be sufficient to recoup the ratepayers for the outlay? Yes, and leave something handsome for them.
49. Mr. Gould.] Do you think it desirable that the Council should have power to borrow money on the security of the yards? Yes.
50. Do you consider that the power to borrow a sum not exceeding £10,000 is ample for all purposes required? We will not require that amount for the yards.
51. Will it be necessary to charge fees in order to carry on the management of the yards? Yes.
52. Are fees charged at present for the use of the yards? The Council knows nothing about that.
53. Are all the auctioneers in accord with the desire of the Council to purchase the yards? As far as we know they are. They have supplied us with every information that we have asked for. They have offered no opposition. On the contrary, they have assisted us in every way.
54. Mr. Creer.] These yards are not likely to interfere with any other yards? No; there are no other yards nearer than Singleton.
55. Mr. Day.] Have you heard any objection by parties who own land outside the Municipality? No. All the land-owners are perfectly aware of the nature of the Bill.
56. Mr. Broad.] Do you think it reasonable that the Council should have power to charge fees on cattle brought to the yards within 2 miles of the Council's boundaries? I think so; that is to protect us.
57. Chairman.] Although the 2 miles radius will be outside the boundary of the Municipality on the western side, will it not be within the extended area? Not on that side.

H. Crothers,
Esq.
14 June, 1888.

Oliver K. Young, called in, sworn, and examined:—

58. Mr. Broad.] You are an alderman of the Borough of West Maitland? Yes.
59. How long have you been an alderman? Over twelve months.
60. Do you know when this question of the sale-yards was brought before the Council? It has been before the Council for some time.
61. Are the Council unanimous in their desire to carry out the objects of the Bill? Yes.
62. Have you ever heard any objection from the ratepayers? No.
63. Are you of opinion that it would greatly benefit the Municipality if the Bill became law? I think it would benefit the Municipality very much.
64. Do you think that the returns would be sufficient to compensate the Council for the outlay? Yes; they would do more than that.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

YASS ROMAN CATHOLIC LAND SALE BILL.

WEDNESDAY, 26 OCTOBER, 1887.

Present:—

MR. COLLS,
MR. DAY,

MR. F. FARNELL,
MR. O'SULLIVAN,

MR. TEECE.

T. COLLS, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

The Right Rev. William Lanigan, D.D., Bishop of Goulburn, called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are one of the trustees mentioned in the preamble of this Bill? Yes.
2. Who are the other trustees? The Rev. Patrick Dunn, and Morgan O'Connor, a doctor at Wagga.
3. Do you produce the deeds mentioned in the preamble and Schedule? I was not aware of the necessity of producing the deeds. I produce a map which shows the position of these allotments in the town of Yass. [Produced.] It shows five allotments, Nos. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, in the town. In 1871 an Act was passed in which we were named as the trustees of these five allotments. It gave us as trustees power to sell three allotments, saying nothing about the other two. The fact was that we thought we had the right to sell those two allotments. We now apply for the right to do so, and we take this course because we have already sold the larger portion of the allotments, for which we got a legal right to sell. The Commercial Bank has a very fine building at the corner of Mehan and Comur Streets. The post and telegraph offices are erected next to that building. The sale of this property was a great benefit to the town of Yass, because it was in an important situation. It improved the town, and our object in asking for this Bill is principally for the convenience of those people who have purchased the other allotments, and who want to purchase the balance, which appear to be included in the Act of 1871, but which are not so included.
4. Mr. Day.] You had a certain block of land in the town of Yass for church and school purposes? Yes.
5. You sold nearly one-half of it? The larger portion of it.
6. Then in order to give these people access to the allotments which you sold to them you proclaimed a right-of-way? We did.
7. Now you find that when they want to make use of that right-of-way you have no legal power to give it to them? We have no legal power.
8. Although the land belongs to the church you have no legal power to give them the right-of-way which you have contracted to give them? No.
9. And if they had not this right-of-way they would not be able to get on to this land? Their land comes to the public street. It is necessary for their convenience that they should have a right-of-way to their back premises.
10. Have you any buildings on the portions on the other side of the right-of-way? There are no buildings on the two allotments for which we wish power to sell. The church and school and other buildings are on distinct Government grants? These allotments were not Government grants, they were bought by private parties.
- 11.

The Right
Rev. W.
Lanigan, D.D.
26 Oct., 1887.

The Right
Rev. W.
Lanigan, D.D.
26 Oct., 1887.

11. Chairman.] Are you aware that Howard, Caspers, and Hereford, to whom you sold the three allotments, built on all the frontage, and then applied to you for a right-of-way to their back premises? Caspers purchased a portion in Comur-street, with a right-of-way from that street. He then applied to us to get this lane to his back premises, and we sold it to him for his convenience. He then closed the way which he had left before from the principal street. I think that the post and telegraph offices have also applied for a lane to their back premises, and the mistake that we had not the right to give them this lane was discovered only when I actually sent down the document to the Crown Solicitor. He stated that we had no right to sell those two allotments.
12. Mr. Day.] The Government applied for a right-of-way to the post and telegraph offices? Yes.
13. You are willing to give it to them? Yes; but we have not legal power at present.
14. Chairman.] The trustees want power to sell the land, and to provide for the appropriation of the proceeds? We do.
15. All the trustees concur in that desire? Yes, they do.
16. Are all the parishioners agreeable to the sale of this land? I have not asked them publicly, but they are aware that we are selling this land. I have heard of no objection from any one.
17. Mr. Day.] You gave public notice in the newspapers of your intention to apply for this Bill? It was notified in the local papers.
18. And you believe that it is for the benefit of the church that the land should be sold? I believe it is.
19. You intend to apply the proceeds in or towards the erection, maintenance, and support of a Roman Catholic School and teacher's residence in the town of Yass? We do.
20. Or in and towards purchase for that purpose of a building or buildings in the said town? Yes.
21. The lands referred to are not required as a site for a Roman Catholic Church at Yass, nor for the enlargement of the present site? They are not.
22. All the trustees are agreeable to the Bill? They are.
23. The whole of the parishioners are agreeable? As far as I have reason to judge they are.
24. And no one has objected? I have heard no objection.
25. These two allotments were bought by private parties, and for the use of the church? Yes.
26. And dedicated to the church? Yes.
27. They were not granted by the Government for church purposes? No. These five allotments were purchased a number of years ago by private parties for church purposes. They are not the Government grants. The other four allotments are the Government grants. I beg to call the attention of the Committee to this fact, that the Act of 1871 gave power to the trustees to sell allotments Nos. 8, 9, and 10, and that it recites the parties named in this Bill as trustees for allotments Nos. 6 and 7, which would supply the place of my not having the deeds.
