That under section 13 of the Letters Patent, in the absence of His Excellency, Message signed by the Lieutenant-Governor by deputation from the Governor was in order, 154.
That amendment was in order to substitute another name in a motion to appoint a member to the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Public Works, and against a demand for a ballot, 181.
That special reference to provision in the Crown Lands Bill, in reference to the repeal of existing legislation, was not necessary in the Title, 208.
That clause 9 of the Crown Rents Bill which interfered with actions pending or a judgment obtained should be mentioned in the Order of Leave, and that therefore the Bill was improperly before the House, 208.
That since the adoption of the Additional Standing Orders, altering the character of the Motions for Adjournment, the practice of the House of Commons in respect to two motions of a similar character being moved consecutively, did not apply to these questions, 247.
That Papers should not be laid upon the Table of the House which reflected upon the conduct of a Member of, or referred to a debate in, the House, 265.
That Bills coming from the Council could not be ruled out of order in this House on the ground of informality in its initiation there, 265.

That question as to what was a matter of "public importance" under the Additional Standing Order in reference to Adjournments of the House was not a matter for him to decide, 465.
That in future cases of swearing in new Members he would put in operation the Standing Orders of the House of Commons, passed on 30th April, 1886, which prevented the interruption of the business, 505.
That provision in Marrickville to Burwood Road Railway Bill (No. 2) was covered by the order of leave, 511.
That in Supply, during the discussion of a Minister's salary, reference could be made to subsequent items, as the Committee had a right to criticise the Minister's policy when voting his salary, 517.
That Honorable Members should sit in the Chamber in a manner respectful to other Honorable Members and to the occupant of the Chair, and so that the passages would be left clear between the seats, but that it was a matter to be left to the good taste of Honorable Members, 517.
That certain provisions in the Eight-hour Bill were beyond the order of leave, and also referred to rules in reference to preparation and drawing of Bills, 521.
That the Net-fishing in Port Hacking Prohibition Act Amendment Bill was beyond the order of leave, 521.
That motion was one of privilege dealing with language which denounced Parliament as "rotten and corrupt," 524.

NINETEENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

AUDITOR-GENERAL

ON

THE TREASURER'S STATEMENT OF THE RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURE OF THE CONSOLIDATED REVENUE FUND, AND OTHER MONEYS, FOR THE YEAR 1889.

(Under Act 33 Victoria No. 18).

1. THE Treasurer's Statements of his Receipts and Disbursements, under all divisions of the Public Accounts during the year 1889, were received for examination on the 22nd March, and were returned for correction on the 22nd May. The Statements were received back from the Treasury on 24th June, amended as required, except in one particular, which, however, was finally acceded to on 12th July, and I have now the honor to submit those Statements of the Public Accounts for 1889 to the Legislative Assembly, with the following Report and explanations, as directed by the 38th section of the Audit Act of 1870.

GENERAL STATE OF THE BALANCES.

2. The gross amount of the year's operations under the three General Divisions of the Public Account, namely, the Consolidated Revenue Fund, the Loans Fund, and the Trust Fund, together with the Balances resulting at the close of the year, are as follow:—

Credit Balances in Cash and Securities on 1st January, 1889	...	...	...	...	...	£4,691,359	18	2
Receipts within the year 1889	...	...	...	...	...	17,558,728	3	2
						£22,250,088	1	4
Disbursements during the year	...	...	...	...	...	16,703,213	17	2
Credit Balances at 31st December, 1889	...	...	...	...	...	£5,546,874	4	2
Consisting of—
Cash and Securities at 31st December, 1889	...	...	...	...	...	£4,416,027	7	4
Cash and Securities in London at 31st October, 1889	...	...	...	...	...	1,130,846	16	10
						£5,546,874	4	2

The transactions in London during November and December furnished a net increase to the balance at credit of £1,794,397 1s. 1d., the accounts for which will appear in the Statement for 1890.

The

The total actual credit balance at 31st December, in Sydney and London, was therefore ... ..	£7,341,271	5	3
Adding to this the Temporary Issues which fall to be adjusted by Cash thereafter, on account of the—

Other Temporary Advances... ..	10,807	14	9
	<hr/>
There results a total balance of Ways and Means, in Sydney and London, at 31st December, of... ..	£7,696,065	14	1

Contributed by—

Do Balance of Old Loans Account ... ..	132,326	0	4
	<hr/>
	<hr/>

The foregoing figures, it may be noticed, are exclusive of the entries arising out of the Issue of Treasury Bills, authorized by the Act 53 Victoria No. 9, inasmuch as their nominal proceeds add nothing to the General Balance Credit, as will be explained further on.

THE CONSOLIDATED REVENUE FUND.

3. The Consolidated Revenue Fund income during the year consisted of the following receipts from—

Taxation ... ..	£2,677,168	17	5
Land Revenue ... ..	2,137,563	10	3
Receipts for Services rendered ... ..	3,924,954	18	5
General Miscellaneous Receipts ... ..	327,253	17	4
	£9,066,941	3	5

The Overdraft at 31st December, 1888, having been, as ascertained on a readjustment of outstanding credits on "Advances to Contractors," &c., and the transfer to Temporary Issues of the Expenses on account of the Centennial Park in 1887 and 1888

	1,237,108	12	5
	<hr/>

The remainder shows the amount available to meet the current Liabilities of 1889

Exclusive of issues of a temporary nature, the charges upon the Revenue Account actually paid during the year were:—

Towards the Interest and Extinction of the Public Debt	£1,805,770	8	10
For other Statutory and Regulation Expenses ... ..	361,229	17	8
For Expenditure under the Annual Appropriation Acts	7,025,773	2	10
	<hr/>
In all ... ..	£9,192,773	9	4

There

There was thus an excess of final Disbursements over Income, at the 31st December, 1889, of ... ..	£1,362,940	18	4
Adding the balance of Payments over Receipts in London during the months of November and December, adjusted in Sydney during the present year ... ..	148,728	3	2
<hr/>
The actual Cash Overdraft on the Revenue Account in Sydney and London appeared at the close of the year to be ... ..	£1,511,669	1	6

4. Under the authority of the Act 53 Victoria No. 9, however, Treasury Bills were issued to the amount of £1,907,100, and the proceeds were credited to the Consolidated Revenue Fund, upon condition of being redeemed at a rate of not less than £150,000 annually, to commence with the present year. This arrangement was made to provide temporarily for the extinction of the actual and estimated overdraft on the Revenue Account of £2,600,000. The actual overdraft, however, had only reached at Sydney, on the 31st December, the sum of £1,362,940 18s. 4d., as shown above, but by the credit of £1,907,100 on the 31st December there was created a financial surplus of £544,159 1s. 8d. towards meeting further overdrafts, estimated to accrue subsequently to the close of the year, by the discharge of liabilities outstanding at that date.

5. As the balance surplus just quoted differs considerably from what is stated at page 11 to be at the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, it is necessary to explain that, for the purposes of this Statement, the sum set out as "Balance of Old Loans Account" must be treated, by the Acts under which it arose, as part of the Revenue Account; and further, that the amount of "Other Payments," being of a temporary nature and recoverable, cannot properly be treated as a part of a deficiency debt. The figures therefore stand thus:—

Cash Balance Revenue proper ... ..	£57,038	12	6
Cash Balance unexpended of Old Loans ... ..	132,326	0	4
Temporary Issues ... ..	354,494	8	10
<hr/>
	£544,159	1	8

6. In regard to placing the Balance on the "Old Loans Account" to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Account, an explanatory memorandum is attached (Appendix B). The Revenue being pledged to the repayment of the Loans is entitled to credit for all unexpended or unused Balances of the sums borrowed towards meeting its obligations when they mature, and those Balances cannot be "appropriated" to any other service except under an Act of Parliament. Reference was also made to the matter in my Report on the Accounts of 1883, in which it was suggested that advantage should at least be taken of this Balance to apply it in redemption of the old Debentures as they mature, and so far reduce the annual charge against the Revenue for interest thereupon. An opportunity for doing this will occur again during next year, when there falls to be paid off £225,000 of the Old Loans Bonds.

7. It should be remarked here also that the amount of the Temporary Issues, taken credit for above as a recoverable asset, has been increased by the amount of the expenditure in advance on account of the Centennial Park (51 Victoria No. 9), as explained in paragraph 8 of last year's report. With the additional expenditure of £56,915 2s. 8d. now shown in 1889 as a recoverable item, the total advance on this account reached £143,986 14s. 1d.

8. There is another matter that also requires adjustment, namely, the expenditure in connection with the Vote of £150,000, taken in 1879, for the erection of a new Free Public Library, out of what was then treated as Surplus Revenue. The bulk of that Vote was applied in payment of compensation for land and buildings, resumed between Elizabeth and Castlereagh Streets in 1880, with the presumed intention to erect thereupon the new Library Buildings, while a part of the Vote has since been expended in the reconstruction and extension of the old building in Macquarie-street. A portion of the resumed land and buildings has in the meantime been used for High Schools for Boys and Girls and for a new Public School. Now that the original purpose of the Vote of 1879 has been carried out otherwise, it is necessary that the actual expenditure for other than Library purposes should be transferred to some other head of service, as Parliament may direct. Fuller details will be found in Appendix C.

9. Although the Revenue Account is now shown to have a balance on the credit side it must be borne in mind that, until the actual Revenue balances the excess of expenditure over income, it must yet be considered as overdrawn to the extent of that excess. Until they be paid off the Treasury Bills merely constitute a fixed or legal form of the liability which existed prior to and independently of their issue on the part of the Revenue for the repayment of temporary drafts upon the Trust Funds.

10. There is, however, another element affecting the condition of the Cash Balance, as it stood at the close of the year, to which attention was drawn in the sixth paragraph of last year's Report, namely, the establishment of Cash Credit Accounts with the Banks for the discharge of public liabilities prior to their being brought into the Public Account. By that process expenditure on account of Railway Working Expenses had been met by drafts on a Cash Credit Account with the Australian Joint Stock Bank to the amount of £81,345 18s. 1d., which, not having been transferred to the Public Account on or before the 31st December, does not, of course, appear in the Treasurer's Statement. As there was a sufficient balance (£181,005 13s. 7d.) on the Vote for the Working Expenses of the Railways for 1889 to have allowed of the transfer within the year there is no apparent reason why it was not made.

11. The Cash Credit just referred to was established in June, 1889, upon a letter from the Secretary for Railways, dated 1st March, asking that "a Credit to the amount of £100,000 in favour of the Railway Commissioners be opened with the Bank doing the Railway business, and be maintained at that amount during the year." A Treasury Minute of 31st May explains the arrangements under which it was proposed to open a Cash Credit Account to meet the request of the Commissioners, but the arrangement differs materially from that pointed out in my Minute of 29th April, 1889, replying to the Treasury reference to me on the Commissioners' letter. The statement that the proposal to substitute a Cash Advance for a Cash
Credit

Credit would unnecessarily weaken the General Account of the Government in the Bank" is hardly intelligible in the face of a Bank Credit Balance at the time of £1,370,463 Os. 2d., and the fact that early in this year, when the Bank Balance was only £913,492 19s. 8d., a Cash Advance was actually made for the same amount in closing the Credit Account, goes to show that there was little force in the argument against it.

12. The drafts against the credit, or, in other words, the sums advanced by the Australian Joint Stock Bank, up to the close of the year, amounted to no less a sum than £1,204,876 1s. 4d., of which, as above stated, there remained a balance against the Treasury of £81,345 18s. 1d. The whole of those Advances, with further sums to the extent of £113,980 2s. 8d. up to the close of the Account in March of this year, making in all £1,318,856 4s., have unquestionably been made in a manner quite opposed to the principles of the Audit Act.

Moreover, the repayments to the credit of the Commissioners, by way of periodical recoups to the Bank for their Advances, were made upon Vouchers bearing acquittances couched in terms inadequate to meet the facts of the case. This was pointed out to the Treasury in my minute of 25th September, which will be found with the other correspondence on the subject in Appendix D.

As the Treasury declined to furnish any other acquittances in substitution for those, which there was no alternative but to reject, an acquittance was obtained from the Bank covering specifically each amount repaid to cover the Commissioners' drafts, and thus enabled me to pass the Vouchers and allow the Treasurer credit for the same.

13. The Cash Credit Advances by the Associated Banks which remained untransferred on 31st December, 1888, have been cleared during the year, after being first enlarged to the amounts following, viz. :—

The Casual Labour Boards	... ..	£108,219	13	9
Supplementary Account opened in favour of the Principal Under Secretary for like services		1,450	0	0
Refunds of Pastoral Rents under the 100th section of the Crown Lands Act of 1884	...	149,168	6	10
Centennial Park Account	... ..	4,411	5	7
		£263,249	6	2

As the Audit Act recognizes no arrangement for making payments of any kind on account of the Public Revenue without appropriation by the Legislature, nor, when such exists, for making, or arranging for, payments, except in the manner prescribed by sections 11 to 14, the whole of these cash credit transactions must be held to have taken place contrary to the Audit Act.

14. It is difficult to understand why this course should have been followed when there was statutory provision, in one form or other, for making the payments in the regular way, and it is very much to be regretted that the salutary provisions of the Audit Act for the regulation of the Public Accounts have been disregarded in the way above stated.

15. The Vote of £20,000, item 615 of 1886, and the Supplementary Vote thereto of £30,000, taken in 1887, having been passed subject to a schedule of particulars of the expenditure thereof being laid before Parliament, a detailed statement showing the disposal of these Votes is given in Appendix E.

16. In the item of £1,084 16s. 2d. for Preliminary Expenses of Municipal Institutions (page 54) there is included a sum of £294 18s. 3d. for the conveyance, by railway, of representatives to the Annual Conference of the Municipal Association of New South Wales, held at the Town Hall, Sydney, in September last; but, as the Municipalities Act of 1867 affords no sanction for such an expenditure, the Treasury have been asked to provide a Parliamentary authority for the payment of the amount, which has, in the meantime, been disallowed in the Treasurer's Accounts.

17. The Nominal Liabilities of the Revenue, under statute and otherwise, so far as known to the close of the past year, are set forth as usual in Appendix A. The apparent balance of undischarged claims, £1,770,309 3s. 5d., is of course subject to modification by the lapsing of unrequired balances of appropriations. It is much to be regretted that as yet no provision has been made for absolutely closing the accounts at the 31st December in such a manner as to remove the uncertain elements in them which now preclude a satisfactory and definite statement of the position of the Revenue Account at the close of the Financial year.

18. The current demands of the Public Service were provided for by Temporary Supply Acts up to 10th October, the date of the passing of the Appropriation Act of 1889.

Those Acts covered an appropriation of moneys to the extent in all of £5,493,252 in anticipation of the final Act of Appropriation for the year, and include appropriations which are not represented in the final Act to the amount of £111,700.

There appears to be no reason why omissions of this kind should occur from year to year—on the contrary their occurrence is calculated to create confusion and apparent discrepancies in the accounts. The correct course is undoubtedly to enumerate in the final Act all previous temporary Acts of Appropriation for the same services.

19. The first of the Temporary Supply Acts for 1889, 52 Victoria No. 18, provided for current claims up to 31st March, but as it did not pass until the 8th of that month, payments were made at the Treasury during the month of February without appropriation or warrant to the amount of £625,611 1s. 4d. The Act referred to contains a schedule of those payments, and likewise an indemnity to the Colonial Treasurer and all other persons for having thus anticipated the sanction of Parliament in making them. This is the second occasion on which an Act of Indemnity has been passed for the expenditure of the Revenue without Parliamentary sanction since the Audit Act of 1870.

THE TRUST FUNDS ACCOUNT.

20. The Trust Funds show a comparatively small augmentation of the balance at their united credit of £30,448 19s. upon the transactions of the year. Exclusive of investments, the gross receipts and transfers were £4,713,589 16s. 10d., and the reissues, £4,683,140 17s. 10d., leaving, with the balance from the year 1888, a gross credit balance of £2,893,618 3s. 3d. at 31st December.

21. The greater portion of that balance (£2,319,227 12s. 3d.) has now been invested in Government securities, Treasury Bills at par, bearing interest at 4 per cent., having been issued under the Act 53 Victoria No. 9, to the amount of

£1,652,100

£1,652,100, in lieu of temporary advances to the Revenue Account. As interest at 4 per cent. was paid upon the overdraft of the Revenue Account, the actual investment of the amount in Treasury Bills, while placing both the Revenue and Trust Funds in a legal relation to each other, does not practically make any immediate difference in the condition of either fund. The investment was only completed on the 31st December.

22. The extent of operations upon each separate head of account may be seen at pages 11 and 113, where also are shown the variations in the balances between the commencement and close of the year. The investments in Treasury Bills were distributed as follows, viz. :—

Public Instruction Endowment Account ... ..	£18,600	0	0
Civil Service Superannuation Account ... ..	310,000	0	0
Assurance Fund, Real Property Act, 26 Vic. No. 9 ... ..	16,000	0	0

Municipal Council of Sydney Sinking Fund, 50 Vic. No. 13 ... ..	6,500	0	0

Perpetual Trustee Company (Limited), 52 Vic. ... ..	20,000	0	0
Permanent Trustee Company of New South Wales (Limited), 52 Vic. ... ..	20,000	0	0
University of Sydney—William Roberts' Bequest Trust... ..	4,000	0	0
	£1,652,100	0	0

There were also similar investments on account of the—

Colonial Treasurer's Master in Equity Account	£230,000	0	0
Colonial Treasurer's Master in Lunacy Account	25,000	0	0
	£255,000	0	0
Making in all a total issue of ... ..	£1,907,100	0	0

23. The Superannuation Account of the Civil Service exhibits considerable expansion, the year closing with an increase of £68,301 6s. 7d. in the balance at its credit, which then amounted to £362,119 4s. 3d., as the result of five years' operation.

The number of pensioners paid within the year was 321, as against 203, the total amount showing £34,793 3s. 9d., as against £22,004 15s. in 1888. The recipients of gratuities numbered 155, as against 66 in the previous year, and the expense to the Fund reached the sum of £21,375 10s. 6d., the amount for 1888 having been only £10,449 4s. 3d.; but as there was a special contribution by the Consolidated Revenue Fund towards a portion of those gratuities of £13,088 8s. 3d., the cost, as a whole, to the Superannuation Account was only £8,287 2s. 3d., or a decrease of £2,162 2s.

24. The annual rate of pensions in course of payment, exclusive of those provided from Schedule B, amounted, at 31st December, to £41,358 14s. 5d., or an increase during the year of £15,606 11s. 6d. The increased rate, however, together with the gratuities, is still considerably within the nominal income of the Fund, derived from the deduction of 4 per cent. from the salaries of Public Officers, augmented, as that now is, by the interest payable on the accumulated funds under the 54th section of the Civil Service Act of 1884. The Report of the Civil Service Board for 1889 affords further information as to the condition and prospects of the Superannuation Account.

25. The pensions and gratuities paid from the Police Superannuation Fund amounted to £15,272 7s. 2d., an increase of £1,545 15s. 7d. over the previous year, and in excess of the year's income by £7,730 3s. 6d. That excess was partly met, as usual, by a transfer of £6,596 14s. 3d. from the Police Reward Fund, leaving still a reduction of £1,133 9s. 3d. on the balance at the credit of the Superannuation Fund, the balance on the combined funds being reduced upon the year's operations by £2,132 7s. 8d.

26. Finding that a large portion of the "Over Issues" Account was taken up with transactions connected with Loan Services, it was suggested to the Treasury to state these in a separate line. That suggestion was acceded to, and it may now be observed that the Loan portion of the Account stood at the close of the year with a balance credit of £70,164 6s. 4d., distributed to the several services in Statement D, at page 114.

Many of these items arise out of the temporary use of moneys at credit of Loan Votes for services that were not permanently chargeable thereto. This has perhaps been in some cases unavoidable, but there is reason to believe that, to meet a present exigency, sufficient care has not always been exercised in correctly placing expenditure when first incurred where it is intended to be finally charged.

Some provision is made for temporary charges by the "Railway Stores Account" and the "Advances to Contractors Account," but it would seem to be insufficient, especially since the Railway Service has reached such large dimensions, and is likely to require a very much larger margin of funds available for preliminary purchases, and for services at first of a necessarily mixed character.

27. In connection with the Public Schools Property Fund, a question arose as to the interpretation of the provisions of the fourth section of the Public Instruction Act of 1880. An advance of £10,000 (and subsequently a further sum of £4,904 7s.) was made to the Public Instruction Department in general terms for "additional expenditure" to be charged to the fund quoted, without any specific authority for the application of the moneys raised by the sale of school property to the purposes described in section 4 of 43 Victoria No. 23. On application for such authority, minutes of the proceedings of the Governor and Executive Council were furnished for the sale of the school sites, &c., but they contained no directions for the disposal of the proceeds.

To use the money so raised in a general way for any new sites or buildings, except in replacement of those sold, appeared to be an irregular course of proceeding, as it practically involved the expenditure of money outside the limits of Parliamentary sanction. This would obviously be the case where a school property had been obtained for a comparatively small sum out of a Vote, and disposed of at a large profit, unless the larger sum was specifically required for and devoted to the replacement of the old property by a new and better one for the same purpose.

28. That view of the case, so far as relates to the investments, was disputed by the Minister for Public Instruction, and was also declared by the Attorney-General to be untenable, but both the Minister and the Attorney-General claim that the power to sell includes the power to convey, a power that could not well be, nor was, in any way disputed. The Attorney-General's opinion is, however, to the effect that the authorities of the Governor and Executive Council were imperfect, and advised that in future they should include not only power to sell, but also to convey and to invest. This has been attended to in recent authorities of the kind.

29. The object of the section 4 in question appears to be the same as that of section 37 of the Public Works Act of 1888, adopting the principle of section 21 of the Railway Act 22 Victoria No. 19, and which is held to mean that ample authority is intended to be conveyed in cases where lands resumed or purchased are unavoidably in excess of requirements in one direction, and not sufficient in another, for the sale of excesses, and the application of the proceeds to make good deficiencies for the same purposes.

This view of the matter seems certainly to be supported by the further provision of section 95 of the Public Works Act, for the disposal of superfluous lands (as also in section 22 of 44 Victoria No. 16), but, there being no similar provision in the Public Instruction Act, the wording of clause 4, as it stands, may seem to justify the wider interpretation contended for by the Minister for Public Instruction; but in that view the procedure under it, as already indicated, is certainly liable to irregularity, if not abuse. See Appendix F for explanatory correspondence and the opinion of the Attorney-General above referred to.

THE TREASURER'S ADVANCE ACCOUNT.

30. The Treasurer's Advance Vote for 1888 was duly adjusted by the 31st December, 1889, and upon the corresponding Vote for 1889 there remained, at the same date, a credit balance of £91,944 3s. 6d. (For details of the application of the difference, £108,055 16s. 6d., see Appendix G.) Excluding the transfer adjustment to the Revenue of the Vote of 1888, the operations upon the account as a Trust Fund during the year represented credits to the amount of £593,353 12s. 1d., and issues to the amount of £501,409 8s. 7d. These figures serve to indicate that a very free use is made of the Advance Account for temporary payments, many of which, it is believed, might very properly have been postponed until the ordinary funds became available to which they were chargeable.

31. This free use of the Advance Fund is calculated also to create difficulties in clearing payments which, under pressure, are so apt to be made without due inquiry into the circumstances in which they are alleged to be required. A notable instance of this occurred on 31st December, 1888, where a payment in advance was made to the Railway Revenue of £5,000 to meet a claim supposed to be due to the Railway Department for the conveyance of exhibits to the Melbourne Centennial International Exhibition. The payment having been made, it had of course to be covered, and a Supplementary Vote to the amount was taken for it, and carried to the credit of the Advance Account.

Through an incidental query it came under notice that the great bulk of the exhibits were not sent by rail at all, but were sent to and returned from Melbourne by sea. On being pressed for a statement to justify their charge of £5,000, the Railway Department utterly failed to show that they had any claim to more at the very outside than £600 or £700 for the service, and in consequence a surcharge of £4,300 was forwarded to the Treasury, with a view to an adjustment of the error before the close of the year, but no attention was paid to it, leaving the Railway receipts of 1888 overcredited by £4,300, and the ordinary revenue overdebited in a like amount. Further particulars of this case are given in Appendix H.

GENERAL LOAN ACCOUNT.

32. The year opened with a cash balance at the credit of the General Loan Account of £3,055,574 17s., raised under Loan Acts up to 48 Victoria No. 26, inclusively. To this was added a credit of £1,500,000 as part proceeds of a new loan negotiated in July under the Acts 48 Victoria No. 26, and 52 Victoria No. 16.

The disbursements for Loan Services detailed at pages 71 to 79 show that for all such services up to 48 Victoria No. 26, inclusively, only £259,970 11s. 11d. were required, and under 52 Victoria No. 16, £896,100 authorized by that Act for Renewal of Loans were brought to account by the close of the year. The remaining payments were made on account of services authorized (£1,209,810 14s. 6d.) in connection with Loan Acts 50 Victoria No. 28, 52 Victoria No. 17, and 53 Victoria No. 23—on account of neither of which Acts has any loan yet been raised.

33. The additional loan above referred to was for three and a half millions sterling, and was placed as Inscribed Stock by the Bank of England under the Act of 1883, bearing interest at £3 10s. per cent., for thirty years from the 1st June, 1889. The gross proceeds—£3,584,104 19s.—show that the loan was negotiated at a premium of £2 8s. 0 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. per cent., but the usual charges having amounted to £57,894 10s. 10d., and the net proceeds being, consequently, £3,526,210 8s. 2d., the nominal premium is reduced to 14s. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. nearly.

34. The whole Loan having been brought to credit in London by the 31st December, and bearing interest from the 1st June previous, the principal must be treated as an addition to the Public Debt for the year 1889, although, following the practice of former years, where a Loan cannot be fully credited in Sydney within the year, it is excluded from the Annual Statement of Outstanding Debt which accompanies the Accounts.

35. The over-issue of Debentures under 39 Victoria No. 18, noticed last year, has been corrected by a retransfer to the Assurance Fund of the principal and premium, £7,668 (with a corresponding retransfer of the interest paid thereon to the Revenue Account). Debentures were also paid off to the amount of £946,600—by renewals, £901,100, and by revenue, under the Million Loan Act of 1867, £45,500.

36. The operations of the year have therefore left the Public Debt at the close of it as follows:—

So

So far as can be approximated, the following services are answerable for the existing debt, and accrued interest from 1st January, 1890, in the proportions understated:—

	£	46,616,449	9	2	1,819,643	11	6

37. The total annual expenditure to the end of 1889 for Loan Services amounted to £44,748,551 12s. 1d., as detailed at pages 115-116, and in Appendix I.

38. An additional Loan Act, 53 Victoria No. 23, giving authority to borrow a further sum, in all of £5,089,896, was passed in October, covering a large and varied range of services. Towards meeting those services there was expended a sum in all of £324,952 5s. 1d., taken out of the General Loan Balance in hand in anticipation of the Loan authorized to be raised for them.

39. Attention was directed in last year's Report to the anomalous condition of the General Loans Fund, consequent on the want of agreement between the purposes for which moneys had been raised and the purposes to which the moneys had been applied.

Excepting the amount required for the renewal of Loans under 52 Victoria No. 16, £1,390,600, the Loan of 1889 is credited as a further instalment on account of the Act 48 Victoria No. 26, or an addition of £2,135,610 8s. 2d. to the amount already borrowed in excess of authorities to expend under it, making a total of £8,840,828 7s. 5d. raised for railway lines for the construction of which no sufficient authority had been, nor has yet been, obtained. This is the more remarkable that the Public Works Act, passed on the 5th June, 1888, practically repealed the appropriations of 1884, or at all events precluded action in regard to the railway lines referred to until each had passed through the process prescribed by that Act, including a specific Act of Parliament to fully authorize its construction.

In the circumstances, to have further exercised the borrowing powers granted under the Loan Act of 1884 for railways or other works where the authority for the construction of them beyond a certain limit of cost was liable to be negatived by the operation of the later Act of 1888 appears to require explanation and justification.

40. Inasmuch, moreover, as there is not in any of the Loan Acts of 1871 and subsequent years, nor in the Loans Fund Amalgamation Act of 1879, any provision whatever for disposing of any surplus money arising out of excessive Loans, or short expenditure of appropriations, there would seem to be a necessity for some supplementary Act of Parliament to direct the manner in which such surplus money shall be applied. There are already considerable sums in the position referred to which, although treated as written off from the Appropriation Accounts, cannot be expended for their original purpose, nor be "appropriated" to any other purpose except in the reduction of the debt incurred by the Loan for it. In the meantime the money merely goes to swell the cash balance on hand, of course bearing all the while a profitless charge for interest.

41. The Unapplied Balances of sums authorized to be raised by Loan, for all services classed under the General Loan Account, at the close of the year amounted in gross to £19,525,183 4s., but a large proportion of this is subject to the operation of the Public Works Act of 1888, and consequently the amount as a whole may not improbably be reduced, and the details of the appropriations may have to be varied. To meet this sum, including the Loan of 1889 in full, there was a balance on hand in Sydney and London, in cash and Exchequer Bills, of £4,208,235 18s. 9d., thus showing that to complete the whole of the services, if carried out, and at their estimated cost, so far as stated in the several Loan Acts, there would still require to be raised a sum of £15,316,947 5s. 3d.

THE RAILWAY ACCOUNTS.

42. The balance of collections from intercolonial traffic with the Colonies of Queensland and South Australia for the year was in favour of this Colony, and has been credited at the Treasury in due course. The like accounts with the Colony of Victoria showed sums due by New South Wales through the year to an amount in all of £20,261 16s. 1d., which has been adjusted, as usual, with the Treasurer of Victoria. The collections on account of the tramline traffic to Lady Robinson's Beach from Rockdale were £1,343 18s. 1d.

Prior to June last the freight and traffic charges, as between the Railway Commissioners and the steamship companies, were adjusted at the Railway Traffic and Audit Branches at Newcastle, and the net amount only was remitted to the Treasury, but since the abolition of the local offices the gross collections by the Commissioners are credited at Sydney, and the claims of the companies are paid direct from the Treasury. In this way a sum of £4,723 2s. 7d. will be seen at page 53 as steam freight refunded.

The gross credits during the year to the Railway Revenue	...	£2,616,636	13	6 are, therefore, subject to the following deductions, viz. :—

£4,300, explained above, were...	...	2,486,807	15	7
Showing an increase on the year 1888 of	...	£99,454	9	9

The above figures include, as usual, sums paid out of Votes of Parliament, or other sources, for the value of work done by the Railway Department, and brought to account during the year. Those sums amounted in all to £132,247 11s. 8d., an increase over the similar credits of 1888 of £25,950 12s. 4d.

43. The gross receipts realized and credited to the close of the year exceeded the gross payments within the year for working expenses by the sum of £900,133 18s. 5d., or an advance on 1888 of £67,645 11s. 10d. The following table shows the progressive condition of the relation between income and expenditure within each year from 1884 to 1889, and of the balance of realized earnings in reduction of the annual charge for interest on capital, and other items not accounted for as working expenses :—

44. In regard to the accounts of the Railway receipts furnished for audit, a question of some difficulty arose as to the signatures which should be attached to the monthly attested accounts required by the Audit Act to be furnished by the officer or officers responsible for the collection of the Railway revenue under the Government Railways Act of 1888, and also to the collection vouchers furnished daily to the Treasury in support and explanation of the sums deposited in the name of the Railway Commissioners in the Bank appointed to receive the Railway collections on behalf of the Public Account.

From the commencement of the new Railway administration in October, 1888, to the 31st December, 1889, a monthly attested account was supplied, signed by one of the Commissioners for himself and colleagues, but upon requiring a similar signature to the daily receipt or collection vouchers, the Commissioners demurred on the ground that their signature to the attested accounts was sufficient, and also that it would involve the consumption of a large amount of time that was wanted for more important work. It should be stated that the vouchers in question are signed by the Accountant or some other subordinate officer "pro Commissioners."

Finding that the Audit Act in no way recognized the signature of a delegate to any document which, by the nature of it, is intended to fix the responsibility of its contents upon the Accounting Officer himself, and that the Commissioners declined to affix their own signatures to the documents in question, a case was submitted for the opinion of the Attorney-General upon the point. That opinion was to the effect that as a matter of strict law there could be no doubt that the Public Accountant should himself sign the vouchers, and not by a deputy.

45. The Commissioners, thinking that the case had not been put fully before the Attorney-General, obtained a further opinion upon their view of matters, but that second opinion emphasized the former one at greater length, with a suggestion, however, that "if the Auditor-General thinks fit to dispense with the signatures of the Commissioners to the vouchers, and the transmission of the returns and the subscription of the declarations by them, he may legally do so." There is a further suggestion that the toll-collectors might sign the vouchers, transmit the returns, and subscribe the declarations as Public Accountants, and expressing "a hope that the Auditor-General and the Commissioners may be able to come to a satisfactory arrangement between themselves, by which the public interests may be conserved, and, at the same time, the law maintained."

At

At an interview with the Chief Commissioner on this subject, one way out of the difficulty appeared to be that the Government should be asked to appoint the Commissioners' Accountant to be the Accounting Officer for the Railway receipts under the Audit Act, and also to be the Accounting Officer for the Railway expenditure. If the Commissioners should succeed in obtaining such an authority from the Governor and Executive Council, it was stated that, of course, the vouchers would have to be accepted in that form. Two separate minutes were accordingly prepared with that view, and forwarded by the Commissioners to the Minister for Railways, and those minutes were subsequently by the Treasury referred to me, asking confirmation as to my assent to the proposition.

46. Feeling that there were grave objections to the proposal on several grounds, however well disposed to assist in getting over the difficulties started by the Commissioners, I considered it necessary to take the opportunity of stating reasons why the proposed appointment was inconsistent, at several points, with the relation in which the Commissioners stand to the Government under the Railways Act, as solely responsible for both the collections of the Railway revenue and the expenditure of the Votes for the maintenance of the Railway establishment.

Special attention is invited to the opinions of the Attorney-General and to the correspondence in connection with this subject, more especially to my minutes of 26th March, 1890, in reply to the Treasury reference, as the points raised reach beyond the Railway Commissioners, and may affect other Public Officers who are held responsible as Public Accountants.

If to meet the supposed difficulties it should be contemplated to make an alteration in the law, it appears to me that any alteration in the direction indicated would destroy the principle of personal responsibility on which the Railways and Audit Acts are framed. [Vide Appendix J.]

47. In the meantime the local inspection of the accounts of the Toll-collectors or Station-masters is carried out as frequently and as fully as the Staff of Inspectors at my command will allow. The results are compared with certain returns supplied from the Commissioners' Traffic Auditor's Office, and hitherto with the Commissioners' Attested Accounts, and the Treasury Collection Vouchers in support thereof. In the absence of the attested accounts there is no authoritative basis on which the audit of the Commissioners' accounts can be rounded up, but the process of inspection and audit by this Department in its ultimate results is effective in ascertaining that all cash, reported by the Station-masters as collected, is actually credited to the Public Account, and in ascertaining what sums remain uncollected or outstanding from any cause at the respective collecting stations so far as actual debits appear in the station books. As, however, there are necessarily considerable intervals between the visits of the Inspectors, the ultimate audit cannot be completed so early as might be desired.

48. During the past year 269 stations were visited once, with results very much about the same as were secured during 1888, and such results as continue to show the value of the independent inspection by this Department of the local station accounts. With the increasing numbers of collecting stations that will have to be formed on the new lines of railway now in course of authorization, there must be provided extra inspecting strength to successfully cope with additional accounts, and it may then become a question whether or not such inspection should take a wider scope than at present. Being chiefly a review audit, attention is given more to the ground work of the accounts than to their details, those being of course dealt with daily by the Commissioners' Audit Staff, while the local inspection is for the most part limited to the cash transactions of a few weeks prior to the visit of the Inspectors.

49. A schedule of variations in rates, or of additional rates, that have come under notice in the course of examination by the Inspectors as wanting a higher authority than that of the Commissioners, in terms of the Railways Act, but for which such authority was subsequently supplied, will be found as Appendix K.

50. It may be of some interest to note that at the 31st December, 1888, the amount outstanding in the Railway station books as uncollected earnings to that date was £106,512 2s. 6d., and that during the year 1889 there was debited as earnings the sum of £2,580,122 14s. 6d., or a gross total of £2,686,634 17s. to be accounted for by the Commissioners, and at the close of the year was represented by—

Cash remittances to the Treasury through the Public Account ... ..	2,466,531	5	7
Accounts for Services paid by Public Departments through the Treasury ... ..	132,247	11	8
Special Credits allowed under Authority, as a set-off against Earnings and Refunds of Excessive Charges made from the cash takings prior to remittance ... ..	23,989	0	6
Uncollected or outstanding ... ..	63,866	19	3
	£2,686,634	17	0

The special refunds and credits making up the above sum of £23,989 0s. 6d. are very numerous, and as they do not come into the Treasury Accounts in any way the Inspectors take special care that in every case they are justified by existing regulations, or are otherwise properly authenticated. Similar arrangements are carried out in the Accounts of the Tramway traffic.

MISCELLANEOUS.

51. The Certificates of Discharge to the Treasurer have been issued subject to certain disallowances, which are set forth in Appendix L.

52. The Mint Bullion Accounts and the Savings' Bank Accounts have, after the usual examination, been certified to correctly represent the books and vouchers supporting the same.

53. The following Special Statements in continuation of similar ones accompanying former years' Accounts are appended, viz. :—

Statement of Advances to Public Officers and others awaiting adjustment (Appendix M).

Statement of Surcharges raised and recovered upon the Expenditure and Revenue Accounts (Appendix N).

Statement of Authorities granted by the Governor and Executive Council in relief of Public Accountants under Sections 30 and 31 of the Audit Act (Appendix O).

Statement of the Registration of Brands Account, 30 Victoria No. 12; of the Rabbit Account, 46 Victoria No. 14; and of the Abattoirs Fund, 14 Victoria No. 36 (Appendix P, Nos. 1, 2, and 3).

54. The cases of default that have come under notice during the year were the following, viz. :—

- Mr. W. P. Jones, Railway Goods Clerk, Petersham, found deficient £116 8s. 1d. He was allowed to make good the deficiency, and was dismissed the Service.
- Mr. J. T. Abbot, Railway Clerk, Quirindi. Deficiency, £5 16s. 10d., which was made good, but he was dismissed.
- Mr. W. Webb, Railway Goods Clerk, Albury, was found deficient £239 1s.; absconded. £17 12s. was due for salary, and Guarantee Society made good the remainder.
- Mr. J. R. M'Garrety, Station-master, Coolabah, was prosecuted at Dubbo in April, 1889, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment in Bathurst Gaol. His default was ascertained to be £414 16s. 7d. Of that sum £16 12s. 5d. was recovered by salary due and £100 from Guarantee Society. The remainder, £298 4s. 2d., was written off as loss to the Revenue.
- Mr. W. Calcutt, Clerk, Parramatta Gaol, embezzled £66 18s. 7d. of moneys entrusted to him, of which £27 1s. were recovered. £18 0s. 7d. short adjustment of amount for gratuities to prisoners were written off by authority of the Governor and Executive Council; deficiency otherwise, £21 17s. The defaulter is understood to have left the Colony. There was no prosecution in the case.
- Mr. J. Dick, Gaoler, Mudgee (sentenced to imprisonment for life for shooting a warder) was found to be a defaulter in the sum of £108 19s., of which £104 16s. were recovered. Deficiency was £4 3s.
- Mr. C. G. S. M'Shane, Clerk in the Registrar-General's Office, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for embezzling £47 5s.
- Messrs. H. C. S. Hiddilston and S. E. Raper, Clerks in the Registrar-General's Office, were also prosecuted for embezzlements. The latter, after three trials, was discharged, and the former has been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment, but the amounts cannot be stated pending the issue of further proceedings at law in connection with them.

55. Under this head may be mentioned an accumulated deficiency in the accounts of the Money Order and Government Savings Bank during a period of eighteen years, from 1868 to 1885, amounting to £2,263 16s. 8d., arising out of robberies by bushrangers, sundry frauds, &c., in twenty-four cases. These sums were, at my suggestion, written off to debit of Profit and Loss Account, in the books of the Department named, by an Executive Council minute of date 30th April, 1889. That minute also directs the values of forfeited money orders as they occur from time to time to be placed to the credit of the same account.

56. Subject to the exceptions noticed in the foregoing observations and explanations, and to the adjustment of outstanding advances in full accordance with the Services and Votes to which such advances have been charged in the accompanying statements, subject, also, to the disallowances specified in Appendix L, I consider that the Abstracts of Accounts now submitted are correct Abstracts of the Treasurer's Receipts and Disbursements within the year 1889.

EDWARD A. RENNIE,
Auditor-General.

APPENDIX B.

MEMORANDUM respecting the Unexpended Balances of Appropriations for Loan Services hitherto included in the "Old Loans Account," but the sum of which forms part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, in terms of the Acts under which the moneys were borrowed.

THE balance unexpended upon the "Old Loans Account" is now £132,326 0s. 4d., and ought to stand as a part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, in accordance with the several Appropriation Acts out of which it arises.

The statement of those Old Loans Services prior to the Act 35 Victoria No. 5, which introduced a new system of account for receipts and expenditure under Loan Appropriations, was made a separate one, purely for convenience in keeping the accounts; yet, while the sum of the Old Loans has existed and and has appeared as if a separate fund, the amount at its credit at any time has always been and is now legally a part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. The amount now at credit of the account is the remnant of the proceeds of debentures to the amount of £450,000, issued in 1870, to balance up all previous loans to that date, without regard to whether the amount was actually wanted or not, a by no means provident arrangement, for it covered (besides a multitude of small balances, which at the time could not have been wanted) three whole appropriations for a sum, in all, of £55,000, viz. :—£20,000 for a Wesleyan College, £10,000 for District Courts, Sydney, £25,000 for a Penitentiary. The first of these services was provided for 34 years ago by the Affiliated Colleges Act as a contingent liability of the revenue, but has never been applied for; and the second and third have never been carried out, although voted, the one 27 and the other 24 years ago. A glance at the latest Ways and Means Estimates shows that there are none of the balances retained for expenditure and forming the balance of £132,326 Os. 4d. that can now be required, nor, if required, but what could probably be met without much difficulty. At all events, the original appropriations are now of so old a date (the latest now nearly 20 years old) that it becomes a question whether they ought now to be any longer considered to be operative without a new appropriation either from Revenue or Loans. The money belongs to the Revenue, as the Revenue is pledged to the repayment of the Loans of which those balances form a part.

APPENDIX C.

MEMORANDUM respecting the operations upon the Vote (item 844) taken in 1879 of £150,000 in part appropriation of the Surplus Revenue for the erection of a New Free Public Library.

ON the strength of a vote of £150,000, late in 1879, for the erection of a new Free Public Library, there was resumed by the Government in November, 1880, the block of land, on which then stood St. James' Church of England school buildings, and likewise the land between those buildings as far as Market-street, with frontage to Elizabeth and Castlereagh streets, but no portion of the property so resumed has ever been applied to the erection of a new Free Public Library. In 1885, on the other hand, a new Free Public Library was arranged for by the rebuilding and extending of the old Library in Macquarie-street, and by the resumption of additional land adjoining thereto. Towards that expense there was applied an old unexpended Loan Vote of £25,000 (25 Vic. No. 19), and to the present time a sum of £18,358 6s. 10d. only out of the vote of £150,000 above referred to, leaving still a balance of £2,314 6s. 6d. unexpended, as shewn in statement below.

The remaining portion of the vote was disposed of by writing off in 1888 and 1889 a sum of £31,503 8s. 1d., the payment in 1881 and 1882 of compensation for land resumed, other than St. James' School property, £59,805 19s. 6d., and for the school property itself, £37,930 9s. 1d., with a small sum of £87 10s. for expenses of the Colonial Architect's Department in connection therewith.

The St. James' School building was converted into High Schools for boys and girls, at a cost of £2,478 11s. 1d., and a new building for a Public School in Castlereagh-street was erected on a portion of the resumed land outside of the St. James' School property, at a cost of £2,199 7s. 9d., both of these sums having been charged to the Consolidated Revenue Fund under the annual votes for Public Instruction.

Some Parliamentary sanction, whether by loan or otherwise, ought now to be made for the rectification of the past charges for school purposes against the vote of 1879, for a Free Public Library, that is to say, for the cost of resuming the St. James' School property, and also the proportionate cost of the block occupied by the new Public School adjoining the High Schools in Elizabeth and Castlereagh streets. Whatever may be done with the remainder of the land the cost of it ought now, that a new Free Public Library has been constructed elsewhere, to be transferred to some other vote applicable to the purpose, whether from the Revenue or Loans Account, and so much of the old vote as has not been legitimately applied be written off to the credit of the Revenue.

APPENDIX D.

MEMORANDUM for the Under Secretary for Finance and Trade upon a letter of the Secretary for Railways, dated 1st March, 1889, asking "that a credit, to the amount of £100,000, in favour of the Railway Commissioners, be opened with the Bank doing the Railway business, and be maintained at that amount to the end of the year."

Department of Audit, 29 April, 1889.

A FIXED advance, to be recouped as drawn upon by the Commissioners, is, in the Auditor-General's opinion, preferable to a credit account, as the latter is not in accordance with the Audit Act.

A cash advance of £100,000 will be amply sufficient for the purpose, as it can at any time be recouped to the extent of the pay vouchers, which the Commissioners may forward to the Treasury. Those pay vouchers will form a final pay voucher to the Treasurer's disbursement, and so come under immediate audit here. It would be a very desirable condition that the recoup vouchers should not be for more than a fortnight's payments. It is, however, desired that in connection with this arrangement the Railway Commissioners should be directed to furnish the Auditor-General with a monthly account current, certified by themselves personally, showing their operations upon the proposed advance, and giving references to the cheques drawn, and to the vouchers which may be sent to the Treasury for recoup. This account current, accompanied by their Bank pass-book, will afford an effective means of check upon the transactions of the Commissioners.

There would be no charge for interest to the Commissioners by this arrangement, but if there were their proposal to use the railway receipts to meet it is quite inadmissible.

ISSUED ON ACCOUNT.

The Treasury, New South Wales, Sydney, 29 June, 1889.

I HEREBY acknowledge to have received from the Colonial Treasurer the sum of thirty-three thousand and eleven pounds ten shillings and three pence sterling for the wages specified in the foregoing abstract, cheques for which have been drawn against the cash credit of £100,000 in the Australian Joint Stock Bank, and I hereby undertake to furnish the Auditor-General, within thirty days from the date hereof, true and satisfactory accounts, duly vouched and receipted.

Treasury Minute.

Subject :—Proposed advance of £100,000 monthly to the Railway Commissioners.

The Treasury, New South Wales, Sydney, 31 May, 1889.

REFERRING to the letter of the Secretary for Railways, dated 1st March last, asking "that a credit to the amount of £100,000 in favour of the Railway Commissioners be opened with the Bank doing the railway business, and be maintained at that amount to the end of the year," I beg to state, for the information of the Colonial Treasurer, that I have conferred with the Auditor-General, and am now in a position to make the following recommendations:—

1. The credit required might be opened as suggested. In this recommendation I differ from the Auditor-General, who thinks the credit should be opened by an actual transfer of cash, the effect of which would be to unnecessarily weaken the general account of the Government in the Bank.
2. The credit should be limited to the payment of salaries and wages, leaving all contractors' accounts to be paid, as at present, over the counter at the Treasury.
3. The account should be operated upon by cheques signed by the Accountant, and countersigned by the Paymaster for Railways. The fidelity of these gentlemen should be guaranteed in a sum commensurate with the liability (say) £1,000 cash.
4. Adjustment of the payment for wages should be made fortnightly by lodgment of the vouchers at the Treasury. It will then permit of the advance account being recouped by transfer from the Railway Appropriation Vote. The same remark applies to the salaries, which should also be recouped as soon as possible after payment. The object is to have the least possible interval between the payments and the receipt of the vouchers at the Treasury.
5. This mode of advancing the public funds is foreign to the system which has prevailed at the Treasury since 1864, but under the circumstances of the new railway administration it is considered that the experiment may be tried, without in any way constituting a precedent for other Departments.

Memorandum

Memorandum re Cash Credit Account of £100,000 in favour of Commissioners of Railways.

Department of Audit, 26 September, 1889.

In returning the papers explanatory of an arrangement establishing a cash credit account of £100,000 with the Australian Joint Stock Bank in favour of the Railway Commissioners, it is pointed out, for the information of the Treasurer, that the arrangement is quite opposed to the provisions of the Audit Act, sections 10 to 13, and that, consequently, no transactions under it can in any way be recognized in this Department. Should it appear, however, by the Bank sheets that drafts against the said cash credit affect the interest that may be due by the Bank to the public by way of reduction thereof, such reduction will have to be made the subject of a surcharge against the Treasurer. It is noticed, moreover, that by the 4th paragraph of the Treasury minute of 31st May, it was provided that the vouchers to the drafts by the Commissioners against the cash credit were to be lodged at the Treasury, and would consequently, when covered by Treasury cheques, form complete vouchers to the cash sheet entries of payments, and thus come under audit as final payments.

Instead of such a process the voucher under query and subsequent ones of the same character are made advances to be accounted for exactly in the same way as hitherto. The new arrangement is therefore no improvement upon the old one, but on the contrary has superadded to it an arrangement which is very correctly described as a "mode of advancing the public funds foreign to the system which has prevailed at the Treasury since 1864," and which is beyond doubt, as already stated, an illegal one in view of the Audit Act of 1870.

It is urged, therefore, that the cash credit be at once cancelled, and the requisite advances be henceforth made to the Commissioners for Railways in accordance with the system previously in operation. Adverting, however, to the acquittance on the voucher No. 19,050 under query (the first I am informed which has appeared under the cash credit arrangement), it is further pointed out that the form of it is quite inadmissible, inasmuch as while the funds are placed to the credit of the Commissioners for Railways, the acknowledgment of receipt and the obligation to account for the money so advanced to them is signed in the first person by an officer to whom the money is not paid.

It is requested therefore that in place of "I," at the commencement of the acquittance, the words be substituted "The Railway Commissioners, New South Wales," and that the second "I" on the eighth line be corrected to "they," also that all the words from "cheques" to "Bank" be expunged.

The signature at the foot should also be signed by one or other of the Commissioners over their designation "Railway Commissioners, New South Wales." This change is required under the opinion of the Attorney-General as to the legality of delegate signatures to revenue documents, a copy of which was forwarded to the Treasury on the 24th instant, as in accordance with the opinion of the Crown Solicitor, given at a personal interview with that officer on the subject, the same principle stated by the Attorney-General as applying to Revenue vouchers applies also to acquittances for money issued to Public Accountants as advances to be accounted for. The acquittances to subsequent vouchers which may be found in the form objected to will be forwarded for amendment at an early date.

APPENDIX F.

Interpretation of section 4 of the Public Instruction Act 43 Vic. No. 23.

Department of Audit, 15 July, 1889.

Memorandum in reply to a reference from the Treasury upon a letter dated 3rd July, 1889, from the Department of Public Instruction, asking for the transfer of £4,904 7s., the balance to the credit of the Public Schools Property Trust Account to the credit of the Department.

THE fourth section of the Public Instruction Act of 1880 seems to me to require that the sale of any land acquired for the purposes of public instruction, and the reinvestment of the proceeds of such sale be in each case effected under the authority of the Governor and Executive Council. The account entitled the "Public School Property Trust Account" should not therefore be operated upon without such authority. It appears, however, that an advance was made to the Under Secretary for Public Instruction on the 15th February last, of £10,000 on his application, and an obligatory receipt taken to account for it in three months. The purposes of the advance are described to be for "Additional expenditure during the current month, such advance to be charged to Public School Property Trust Account."

Accounts have not yet been received (but have now been specially asked for) to show whether the money so advanced has been expended "in the purchase of other lands, or in the erection of school buildings," under the specific authority in each case of the Governor and Executive Council, payments for which fell to be made in the month of February last.

Until a proper adjustment be made of the advance already made of £10,000, I am of opinion that no further issue should be made out of the special fund in question.

I desire to add that it seems to be very doubtful whether in case of a sale of land or buildings, the proceeds should be applied to any other general purpose of public instruction than to the providing of a site or a building, in substitution for the one disposed of as unsuitable or otherwise. The cost of the original acquisition is paid from the Revenue for a specific purpose. Should the sale realize a sum greater than that cost the excess becomes a receipt to the Revenue, the appropriation of which, except to provide a substitute for the property sold, can hardly have been intended by the clause of the Act referred to. On the other hand, should the cost of substitution be less than the proceeds of the sale, the difference should go to the credit of the Revenue and not be expended, except under a vote of Parliament.

E. A. RENNIE,

The Under Secretary Finance and Trade.

Minute by the Minister of Public Instruction.

Subject:—The Auditor-General's Memorandum, 15th July, 1889.

Department of Public Instruction, Sydney, 22 July, 1889.

THE Auditor-General is evidently usurping a power which he does not possess when he seeks to impose certain duties upon this Department beyond what the law requires. His contention is that the legal construction of the 4th section of the Public Instruction Act requires that the sanction of the Governor shall be obtained to the sale of land, and again, separately, to the investment of the proceeds. Now it is a strange thing that the Act mentions the sanction of the Governor, and follows with three consequences of such sanction to sell, to convey, and to invest. The general sanction can never be construed to include only one of these Acts, but without doubt governs them all. No lawyer has yet refused his title for his client because the sanction of the Governor was not given to convey by specific Act; and if the general body of lawyers admit that the Executive authority to sell includes to convey, we may take it that their interpretation is correct, and likewise applies to investment.

However, as this is simply a point of law which the Auditor-General has raised, and on which I strongly differ from him, I must ask him if he has any objection to the Attorney-General's opinion being obtained for mutual guidance.

As to the mode of investment, I really think the view taken by the Auditor-General is one which he hardly has arrived at with any certainty. Parliament has expressed in a broad way how the investment may take place, and no narrow construction of the language of the Act can for one moment be defended. To limit the investment only to the replacement of land sold is to take the most narrow view possible, and certainly is in most express and direct conflict with the plain and clear language of the Act.

Memorandum.

Subject:—Minute by the Minister of Public Instruction upon the Auditor-General's memorandum of 15th July, 1889 (Try. 89-5,677).

I CAN have no possible objection to the proposal of the Minister of Public Instruction that the opinion of the Attorney-General should be obtained as to the interpretation or legal construction of the 4th section of the Public Instruction Act for mutual guidance.

It is most probable that such opinion will coincide with that of the Minister so emphatically expressed against the views stated in my memorandum, and also at greater length in a later communication to the Under Secretary for Public Instruction (an extract from which I append for the information of the Colonial Treasurer); but in stating those views I have been guided by the general principles laid down in the Audit Act as to requirements for checking the public accounts. One of those requirements is that due authority shall be produced to me for the collection of public money, and also for the expenditure of the same. In the case in question authorities are issued under the 4th clause of the Public Instruction Act, which refers only to the sale of certain lands (and such sale of course includes a proper legal conveyance to a purchaser); but it is very respectfully submitted that while one who has the right under instructions to sell as a trustee is of course also bound to convey, he must also in dealing with the proceeds act under specific instructions coincident with, and directly arising out of, the instructions to sell. Hence I consider that the minutes of the Executive Council are imperfect, inasmuch as they do not include directions for the application of the proceeds of sale in terms of the Act. It is very far from any desire on my part to usurp functions which the Audit Act does not invest me with, but I am bound at least to ask for such authorities as may seem in my judgment to be necessary for the due protection of the Revenue, and to the best of my ability to secure that the intentions of Parliament in regard to it are duly observed, and if the authorities or explanations sought are not furnished to me, or appear to be insufficient or unsatisfactory, it becomes my duty to report the facts to Parliament.

The general principle appears to me very clear, that any process by which moneys come into the possession of the Government in connection with the Revenue, over and above what is specifically voted out of it, cannot legally be expended without the express sanction of Parliament, and I do not think, however otherwise a purely legal interpretation may indicate the intention, that in this case it could have extended to the expenditure of large profits which are most likely to accrue from the sale or exchange of properties acquired originally at comparatively small cost, and thus add to the annual appropriation of the Revenue for Public Instruction.

Extract from letter to the Under Secretary for Public Instruction, dated 30th July, 1889 (vide par. 4 of letter referred to).

Notice to Public Accountant of non-receipt, at the Audit Office, of Accounts in Adjustment of Advances.
Sir, Department of Audit, Sydney, New South Wales, 11 July, 1889.

I have the honor to inform you that I have not yet received accounts in adjustment of the following advances made to you for the service of your Department, viz.:—Date, 15 February, 1889; amount, £10,000. And to request your attention to the matter with the least possible delay.

I have, &c.,
E. A. RENNIE,
Auditor-General.

To the Under Secretary for Public Instruction.

Sir, Department of Public Instruction, Sydney, 26 July, 1889.

With reference to your letter of the 11th instant, notifying the non-receipt by you of accounts in adjustment of an advance from the Treasury of £10,000 in February last for the service of this Department, I am directed to invite your attention to the terms of my letter of the 22nd instant, relative to an advance from the Public School Property Trust Account. The Accountant states that there are no special accounts in adjustment of the advance in question. In view of the power vested in the Minister, under clause 4 of the Public Instruction Act, the amount has been absorbed in the general expenditure on school-sites and buildings. Schedules and vouchers in adjustment of this expenditure for the months of January, February, and March, have already been sent to you.

I have, &c.,
E. JOHNSON,
Under Secretary.

E. A. Rennie, Esq., Auditor-General.

Sir, Department of Audit, 30 July, 1889.

1. I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 26th instant in reply to mine of the 11th, requesting an adjustment of a special advance of £10,000 made to you in February last, from which I gather that that advance has been used for the general expenses of school-sites and buildings, and that this has been done under the assumption that the Minister is invested with the sole power of so applying the moneys derived from the sale of lands acquired for school purposes under Act 43 Vic., No. 23, section 4.

2. The section referred to, however, limits the action of the Minister, not only in the sale of acquired property but also in the specific application of the proceeds of the same for the purchase of "other lands," or in the erection of school buildings for the maintenance of the several classes of schools provided for by the Act, and for no other, &c., by being made subject to the authority of the Governor and the Executive Council.

3. I have therefore to request that I may be informed whether that authority has been obtained for the expenditure of the proceeds of the sales which, so far as they are concerned, would appear to have had the prior sanction of the Governor and Executive Council.

4. I desire to add, that in my judgment a general authority to expend whatever money may be on hand at the credit of the Public School Property Trust Fund for general purposes would not properly meet the case. It appears to me very doubtful—perhaps I should say extremely unlikely—that the Legislature, in framing the 4th section of the Public Schools Act, contemplated giving the Minister power to add to the Votes of Parliament sums derived in the way specified, or to use such sums in any way except in the way of replacing sites or school buildings found to be in unsuitable positions by others of equal value, and in the immediate vicinity of those disposed of. In the case of a school being abandoned altogether, the cost of the site or building has, it may be assumed, been defrayed out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund; and in such a case it is clear, according to the general principles ruling in regard to the administration of the public revenue, that the revenue has a right to the proceeds until the amounts shall have been appropriated to such purposes as Parliament may determine. In like manner, if the cost of replacement should be less than the proceeds of sale of the old property, the balance in excess is undoubtedly due to the revenue, and is not available for any other purpose except as may be voted by Parliament.

5. The transactions in regard to the year 1884, to which you refer in a previous letter of the 22nd instant, were in many respects irregular, as noted in my report upon the Treasurer's accounts of that year, and it now appears that the mode of dealing with a previous advance of £7,233 8s. 11d. for that year's purposes was also irregular, but unfortunately was not brought under my notice at the time. The whole matter, however, having been brought before Parliament in the report of your Department for 1884, and in my general report for the same year, it cannot now well be gone back upon. But the precedent afforded by the action of 1884, irregular in my judgment, does not preclude the question being now raised as to the interpretation of clause 4 of the Public Schools Act.

I have, &c.,
E. A. RENNIE,
Auditor-General.

The Under Secretary for Public Instruction.

Copy of clause 4, 43 Vic. No. 23.

ALL land, acquired under this Act, or by grant, purchase, or bequest in future for the purposes of public instruction, shall be held by the Crown in trust for the maintenance of the several classes of schools herein provided for, and for no other, except in cases wherein other conditions shall be imposed by law, and the Minister shall have power, subject to the Governor, to sell any such lands, and to convey the same to the purchasers thereof, and to invest the proceeds arising therefrom in the purchase of other lands, or in the erection of school buildings for the purposes aforesaid.

Sir,

Department of Public Instruction, Sydney, 18 September, 1889.

Referring to your communications, dated 30th July and 8th August last, respecting the interpretation or legal construction of the 4th section of the Public Instruction Act, as to the appropriation of the proceeds from sales of Public School property, I am now directed to transmit, for your information, a copy of the opinion given by the Attorney-General upon the question.

I have, &amp;c.,

E. JOHNSON,

Under Secretary.

The Auditor-General.

COPY opinion of the Attorney-General re section 4 of the Public Instruction Act as to the appropriation of the proceeds from the sale of Public School property.

I AM of opinion (although the matter does not seem to me to be so clear as it appears to the Minister for Public Instruction) that the words in section 4, "subject to the Governor" (which mean "when authorized by the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council"), govern merely the words "shall have power to sell," and the special Executive authority is not necessary to enable the Minister to convey the land, or to invest the proceeds therefrom in the purchase of other land, &c., &c.

"If you grant anything you are presumed to grant to the extent of your power, that also without which the thing granted cannot be enjoyed": per Sir John Coleridge, in Lord v. The Commissioners for the City of Sydney, 12 Moore's Privy Council cases, page 499.

The authority to sell therefore includes the authority to convey, and, unless special authority to convey is required, special authority to invest is not required. If the words "subject to the Governor" do not—as I think they do not—govern the words "and to convey the same," neither do they govern the words "and to invest the proceeds, &c." It would be as well, however, in future, for greater security, if the Executive minute were drawn so as to give special authority to sell, to convey, and to invest the proceeds, &c., &c.

The contention of the Auditor-General that the investment of the money is to be restricted in the way suggested by him is untenable.

G. B. SIMPSON, A.-G.

APPENDIX H.

Sir,

Department of Audit, Railway Branch, Sydney, 5 August, 1889.

I have the honor to draw your attention to the enclosed papers, having reference to the payment to the Railway Department of a sum of £5,000 in December last out of the Treasurer's Advance Account, to be recouped by vote of Parliament, for the conveyance of exhibits to Albury en route to the Melbourne Exhibition.

The papers disclose that the amount was estimated on the assumption that a large number of exhibits would be forwarded by rail, whilst the letter of the Secretary to the Exhibition Commission distinctly states that as a matter of fact a very small number were sent, the bulk going by sea.

As in these circumstances it would appear that the railway revenue has reaped an undue advantage, it seems very desirable that an investigation should be made with a view of ascertaining the value of the service actually performed by the Railway Department for the £5,000 for which it has obtained credit, and which sum it is understood is now on the Estimate before Parliament.

I have, &amp;c.,

E. A. RENNIE,

Auditor-General.

The Under Secretary Finance and Trade.

[Enclosures.]

PRECIS.

Carriage of exhibits by rail to and from Melbourne Exhibition.

In August, 1887, the Exhibition Commission applied for free carriage of all exhibits, under proper supervision, to and from the Exhibition. This was granted by the Minister for Works.

In January, 1888, the Minister asked the Commissioner to report as to the probable cost of conveying the exhibits over the New South Wales Railways, and from estimates of the trainage of exhibits promised for the Exhibition the Commissioner, assuming that the quantity of exhibits stated thereon would go from Sydney to Albury by rail (and return same way), ascertained that the freight would be about £10,233, and submitted that this loss should not fall upon railway revenue.

Later on (24/3/88) the Commissioner suggested that the Railway Department charge only the actual working expenses for this service—assumed to be 50 per cent. and that the amount (£5,000) be charged to a vote to be taken for the purpose.

To this the Treasurer agreed, and directed the amount to be noted for the Estimates, which was done by the Chief Inspector of the Treasury.

On 29th December, 1888, the Railway Department applied for payment of the £5,000, which was paid at Treasury on 31st December from the Treasurer's Advance Account pending the passing of the Estimates.

Upon perusal of the papers in this Department it would appear that the sum of £5,000 paid to Railways is largely in excess of the legitimate charges for freight in connection with this service.

In his report of 18th August, 1888 (after the opening of the Exhibition), the Goods Superintendent stated that thirty-five trucks of exhibits had been forwarded to Albury from Sydney and other stations (which, on an average of 6 tons per truck, would be 210 tons); and further "freight charges, &c., would have amounted to over £600." Two of the trucks contained only 15 cwt. and 17 cwt. respectively.

On 9th April the Secretary to Exhibition Commission, in his S9-S64, disputing his liability for freight on two rolls of paper from Liverpool to Darling Harbour, said: "As a matter of fact, the proportion of exhibits forwarded to Melbourne by rail has been exceedingly small; and up to the present date the quantity of exhibits returned in that way has been very greatly less. By far the greater number of exhibits have been * * * transmitted by sea to Sydney, and, as above stated, by sea to Melbourne."

Audit Department, 18 July, 1889.

Immediate.

Immediate.

THESE papers after a long detention in the Railway Department have apparently been returned to this Department in error, instead of through the Under Secretary for Finance and Trade, to whom they are now forwarded.

It is abundantly clear that the Railway Department had no legitimate claim to the full amount of £5,000 now under question. The estimate of the service which the Department might possibly be called upon to perform was imaginary and misleading, and was based upon the assumption that the promised exhibits would be conveyed overland, an assumption which events have proved to have been incorrect. (Vide Audit Office procès of 18th July, 1889.)

According to the papers the Railway Department has only established a claim to about £600 or £700, and taking the latter sum as representing the service, all in excess of that must be regarded as having been erroneously credited to railway revenue.

It is therefore requested that the sum of £4,300 be refunded from Railway Tolls, 1888, and placed to credit of votes as on account of item £5,000: "Cost of conveyance by railway of exhibits to the Melbourne Centennial Exhibition" on Supplementary Appropriation for 1888, Miscellaneous Services, Colonial Secretary's Department.

A surcharge note for £4,300 is enclosed for the overpayment under voucher 12,447, Trust Fund, 1888, and which is requested to be acted on not later than the 31st instant.

APPENDIX J.

Subject:—Signatures to vouchers accompanying remittances of railway collections to the Treasury.

Sir,

Department of Audit, Sydney, 3 September, 1889.

I have the honor to request that you will have the goodness, at your earliest convenience, to submit the enclosed case for the opinion of the Attorney-General.

The accompanying correspondence will serve to explain the circumstances under which I have thought it desirable to obtain a legal opinion, more especially as the question of accepting delegated signatures both for revenue and expenditure accounts is constantly recurring.

Your attention is specially requested to my memorandum to the Treasury, dated 1st November, 1888, a copy of which is with these papers, as it explains more fully the nature of the case. It may seem unnecessary to require a definition of responsibility in the circumstances, but it has been found difficult to get accounting officers to regard their own signatures as anything more than mere formalities, or as involving any possible legal consequences to themselves.

A collection voucher (2) and an attested account are also enclosed (to be returned) for reference if requisite.

I have, &c.,

E. A. RENNIE,

Auditor-General.

The Crown Solicitor.

[Enclosure.]

Case for the opinion of the Attorney-General.

By sections 1, 2, and 3 of the Audit Act of 1870, a "public accountant," that is a person "charged with the duty of collecting or receiving revenue," is required to pay his collections to the Treasury or to a Bank, as may be directed by the Governor in Council, accompanied by vouchers bearing his signature, and shall transmit to the Auditor-General a return in a form prescribed by the Act, to which he shall make and subscribe the solemn declaration directed by the Act 9 Victoria No. 9.

The collections by the Railway Commissioners (sections 19 and 20 of the Railway Act) are paid daily to one of the Banks duly authorized to receive them, and are credited daily in the Treasury Accounts, but the vouchers giving the particulars of such collections are signed by the Railway Accountant, pro Commissioners, and neither by the Commissioners collectively nor by one of them for himself and colleagues.

The

The Auditor-General objected to accept the signature of any officer as a delegate for the purpose indicated, and required the signature of at least one of the Commissioners, and then as covering the joint responsibility of himself and his two colleagues; but that, provided a voucher containing the full particulars of the daily collections, say for a month, were so signed by one or more of the Commissioners, he was prepared to accept such voucher as probably sufficient to satisfy the requirements of the Audit Act.

The Railway Commissioners demur to signing either a daily or a monthly voucher, on the ground that they sign the monthly attested account for the Auditor-General, specifying the sums in gross paid daily to the Bank, as in their opinion that account renders unnecessary their daily signature, or their signatures at all, to the vouchers which they are required to send "to the Treasury."

The advice of the Attorney-General is respectfully solicited as to whether the daily vouchers to the collections by the Railway Commissioners can be legally accepted without their personal signature, or whether a weekly or monthly collections voucher can be legally accepted in lieu of a daily one, provided it bear the personal signature of one or more of the Commissioners?

Re signature of Secretary or Assistant Secretary for Railways as to Railways Pay Vouchers.—
Try., SS/8.936.

In returning these papers, I desire to call attention to the fact that the Audit Act recognises no delegation to another of responsibility by a public accountant for his dealings with public moneys, and that, consequently, any documents that require certificates of correctness or obligatory receipts to account, or in any other way require evidence upon the face of them sufficient for a Court of Law to fix the responsibility upon the public accountant concerned should have his own signature attached thereto.

It is observed that this proposed authority refers to expenditure accounts only, and has been given as sanctioning a continuance of a practice which I have always objected to as unsound in principle. It has been consequently necessary for me, for example, where a certificate by the Secretary only averred that the expenditure set forth in a pay voucher had been duly authorised to call for the minute paper in which the responsible officer has recorded his authority by his own signature or initials.

Unless, therefore, the Secretary or other Railway Officer be duly invested with the responsibility contemplated by the first and relative sections of the Audit Act, I cannot legally accept such officer's signature. If the authority of the Commissioners is not in some way produced to me I shall have no evidence that the moneys appropriated by Parliament for railway purposes have been expended under their own control and management as directed by the 19th section of the Government Railways Act of 1887.

It would probably be very inconvenient that in every case a payment should wait for the signature of one or other of the Commissioners, but whether to an abstract or schedule covering a number of pay sub-vouchers, as in the case of advances or to a single separate account, such signature should undoubtedly be appended before being sent on here for audit, and certainly all obligations to account for advances or for moneys placed to their credit should be signed by one or other of the Commissioners in the name of the rest, as I conclude they are jointly responsible.

It appears to me, further, that in regard to revenue documents no other signature than that of the Commissioners, or of one of them for the rest, ought to be admitted, except as a temporary measure: the daily collection voucher, if signed for immediate convenience by the Secretary or Cashier, should be covered as soon as possible by the signature of the responsible accountant, either upon the voucher itself or by a weekly or monthly recapitulatory voucher.

Of course the monthly attested account of collections can only be signed by the Chief Commissioner, or by one or other of the Commissioners on behalf of the rest, unless indeed they be wholly relieved from the responsibility involved, a course which would be at variance with the 19th and 20th sections of the Railway Act.

Crown Solicitor's Office, Sydney, 21 September, 1889.

I have the honor to return herewith the papers herein forwarded to me from your Department on the 3rd instant, and to state that I have, in compliance with the request in your letter of that date, submitted them to Mr. Attorney-General Simpson, a copy of whose advising thereon will be found upon the other side of this letter.

Copy opinion of the Attorney-General.

THERE can be no doubt that as a matter of strict law moneys collected or received by every "public accountant" when paid into the Treasury or a Bank should be accompanied by vouchers bearing the signature of such "public accountant," and not the signature of some one deputed to sign for and on behalf of such accountant.

The returns transmitted to the Auditor-General in the form in the First Schedule to the Audit Act are altogether separate and distinct from the vouchers.

G.B.S., 19 Sept., 1889.

Gentlemen,

Gentlemen,

Department of Audit, 24 September, 1889.

I have the honor to refer you again to my letter of 19th February last, and subsequent correspondence enclosed herewith and to inform you that, I having referred to the Attorney-General the question as to the necessity of your attaching your own personal signatures to the vouchers furnished every day by your Department to the Treasury as explanatory of the amounts of your daily collections pursuant to the opinion which the Attorney-General has favoured me with, and of which I enclose a copy. I have now to renew my request for statements of receipts from the 23rd October, 1888, as conveyed in my letter of 19th February last, duly signed by you or by one of your number as for the Railway Commissioners, New South Wales.

I desire to state further that should you prefer to sign covering statements only, instead of each daily voucher, it will be necessary that such statements include the particulars of all miscellaneous items of receipts not classified as tolls collected on the railways or the tramways as now specified in the daily collection vouchers.

The Railway Commissioners.

Sir,

Department of Audit, 24 September, 1889.

I have the honor to enclose, for the information of the Treasurer, copy of an opinion given by the Attorney-General upon the question submitted by me as to the legality of delegated signatures to vouchers representing collections of moneys payable by public accountants to the Treasury, from which it will be seen that a delegated signature is not admissible in strict law.

I have to request therefore that in accordance with the direction of sections 1, 2, and 3, of the Audit Act, collection vouchers, furnished in support of credits in the Treasurer's cash sheets, in future bear the personal signatures of the public accountants responsible for the collection of the public revenue or of other moneys payable into the Treasury.

Office of the Railway Commissioners of New South Wales.
Sydney, 5 December, 1889.

The Honorable the Minister for Railways,—

THE Auditor-General having requested us to attach "our personal signatures to the vouchers furnished every day by the Railway Department to the Treasury, as explanatory of the amounts of our daily collections," and in doing so stated that he is supported in his request by an opinion given by the Honorable the Attorney-General, we deem it necessary to lay the matter specially before you, as it is practically impossible for us to meet the wishes of the Auditor-General except by attaching our signatures to a mass of papers in a purely perfunctory manner; and, even in doing this, much time, which should be devoted to important duties in connection with the management of the railways, would be expended. Apart from this objection, we venture to say that the case submitted by the Auditor-General does not fully disclose the true position of the matter or the bearing of the Government Railways Act of 1888 upon it. Under this Act the Commissioners have power to confer a legal right to their officers to collect tolls (section 31), and the Commissioners, in doing so, make them (the officers) collectors of public revenue under the Audit Act, and they therefore are the persons legally liable to account for such revenue.

The Commissioners, not being the direct receivers of this revenue, and not having any personal knowledge in the matter, cannot be asked to make any declaration or sign vouchers.

Further, the Commissioners do not authorise them to collect tolls, &c., as their agents, but confer upon them (the officers) offices which give them the legal right to receive the money payable for tolls, &c.

In bringing this matter under notice, we think that its importance warrants our asking that it may be placed before the Honorable the Attorney-General.

E. M. G. EDDY,

Chief Commissioner.

W. M. FEHON,

Commissioner.

CHARLES OLIVER,

Commissioner.

The Attorney-General,—Provided it can be done with safety, I do not think any unnecessary mechanical work should be thrown on the Commissioners. I should be glad if my honorable colleague would review the case—W.McM., 27/12/89.

The Crown Solicitor.—G.E., 28/12/89, B.C. Crown Solicitor, 30/12/89.

Opinion of the Attorney-General.

I HAVE delayed "reviewing this case" and writing an opinion upon it, at the request of the Crown Solicitor, who wished, I think, to place before me—in a personal interview with one of them—the views and contentions of the Railway Commissioners. I have now seen Mr. Oliver, with the Crown Solicitor, and have read the memo. of the Commissioners, which was submitted to the Minister for Railways on the 5th, and forwarded to the Crown Solicitor on the 30th December last. My opinion of the 19th September was simply that, "as a matter of strict law, moneys collected or received by every 'public accountant' when paid into the Treasury or Bank, should be accompanied by a voucher bearing the signature of such 'public accountant,' and not the signature of some one deputed to sign for and on behalf of such 'accountant.'" The question to be determined, as I understand it, is as to whether the vouchers referred to in sections 2 and 3 of the "Audit Act of 1870" are to be signed by the Commissioners or by the persons who actually receive the money, and as to the persons by whom the returns are to be transmitted and the declarations subscribed. I am of opinion that as a matter of the very strictest compliance with sections 2 and 3, the Railway Commissioners should sign sign the vouchers, transmit the returns, and subscribe the declarations. Section 20 of the Railway Act provides that all moneys payable to the Commissioners under that or any other Act "shall be collected and received by them on account of, and shall be paid into the Consolidated Revenue" and that the provisions of the "Audit Act of 1870" and of any other Act relating to the collection and payment of public moneys and the audit of the public account shall save as in that Act otherwise expressly provided apply to the Commissioners, and to all officers and employees under that Act. The Commissioners are charged with the duty of collecting and receiving revenue, and also with the duty of disbursing money on account of the Public Service. (See section 19, Railway Act.) They are therefore, by section 1 of the "Audit Act of 1870," "public accountants" and as such public accountants they "collect and receive" moneys payable to them on account of the Public Revenue, although under section 31 they appoint persons to whom the tolls are actually paid. The Commissioners are the persons who alone can recover such tolls by action at law. The "toll collectors" are mere servants of the Commissioners, although I am of opinion that if a very strict compliance with the provisions of sections 2 and 3 of the "Audit Act of 1870" is considered necessary by the Auditor-General, the Commissioners should sign the vouchers, transmit the returns, and subscribe the declarations. I am also of opinion that the provisions of those sections can be complied with if the vouchers are signed—the returns transmitted and declarations subscribed by the "toll collectors." They are also "public accountants" within the definition of a public accountant, contained in section 1. They are charged by the appointment of the Commissioners with the duty of collecting or receiving, and they do collect and receive revenue (although the tolls are due to the Commissioners), and they are officers and employees under the Railway Act to whom, under section 20, the provisions of the "Audit Act of 1870" apply. Considering the difficulty in the way of the Commissioners signing the vouchers and transmitting the returns, and the almost impossibility of their being able conscientiously to subscribe the declarations, I advise that if the Auditor-General thinks fit to dispense with the signature of the Commissioners to the vouchers and the transmission of the returns and the subscription of the declarations by them he may legally do so.

I have given the question every consideration with a desire to relieve the Commissioners of irksome obligations requiring the sacrifice of very valuable time and the imposition of very considerable labor, and also with a desire to point out as clearly as I can the legal aspects of the case, and to prevent the Auditor-General from being compelled to require such a very strict compliance with the Audit Act as will necessitate the irksome obligations and the sacrifice of valuable time, and the imposition of labor to which I have alluded. I hope that the Auditor-General and the Commissioners may be able to come to a satisfactory arrangement between themselves by which the public interests may be conserved, and, at the same time, the law maintained. If such an arrangement cannot be come to it may be considered desirable that legislation should take place. I don't at present, for the reasons I have mentioned, see any necessity for such legislation.

G. B. SIMPSON, A.-G., 8/2/90.

[Treasury, No. 143, 20 Feb., 1890.
Railways.]

Office of the Railway Commissioners of New South Wales,
Sydney, 18 February, 1890.

THERE has for some time been a question under consideration between the Railway Commissioners and the Auditor-General in regard to a certificate, under the provisions of the Audit Act, in connection with the Railway revenue. The Auditor-General has requested the Railway Commissioners to give a personal attested account in regard to the total daily and monthly receipts. The Railway Commissioners find themselves in a difficulty in giving such a certificate, as, in addition to their inability to go into the necessary details, they have no personal knowledge of the actual cash takings, and they consider that Mr. Wickham, the Accountant, is the officer who has full knowledge of the Railway receipts, and should give, on their behalf, the attested account asked for.

The opinion of the Honorable the Attorney-General has been obtained, and, inter alia, he states:—

"Considering the difficulty in the way of the Commissioners signing the vouchers and transmitting the returns, and the almost impossibility of their being able conscientiously to subscribe the declarations, I advise that if the Auditor-General think fit to dispense with the signature of the Commissioners to the vouchers, and the transmission of the returns and the subscription of the declaration by them, he may legally do so."

The Chief Commissioner has discussed the matter with the Auditor-General to-day, and the latter is agreeable to accept the signature of Mr. Wickham, if he is appointed under the authority of the Governor and Executive Council to be the Accounting Officer for the Railway receipts under the Audit Act.

The Railway Commissioners ask, therefore, that the Honorable the Minister for Railways will agree to and obtain the necessary sanction to this course.

The Under Secretary, Finance and Trade.

Here-with.—A.M.L. Under Secretary, Finance and Trade, 21/2/90. The Auditor-General,—I would be glad to have your confirmation of the last paragraph but one of this letter.—G.E., 17/3/90, B.C.

Office of the Railway Commissioners of New South Wales,
Sydney, 18 February, 1890.

THERE is a question outstanding with the Auditor-General in regard to the necessary attested accounts required by the Audit Act in connection with the Railway expenditure, and the same difficulty is experienced, as explained in a minute of even date herewith, regarding the Railway revenue. The Chief Commissioner has discussed the matter with the Auditor-General to-day, and the latter is agreeable to accept the signature of Mr. Wickham, the Railway Accountant, if he is appointed under the authority of the Governor and Executive Council to be the Accounting Officer for the Railway expenditure under the Audit Act. The Railway Commissioners ask, therefore, the Honorable the Minister for Railways will agree to and obtain the necessary sanction to this course.

In

In reply to Treasury Papers Nos. 142 and 143.

26 March, 1890.

Proposed appointment of an officer to relieve the Railway Commissioners from personal responsibility in regard to their signing attested accounts of their collections and other documents representing receipts and payments in connection with the Railway Service now requiring their signatures under the Audit Act.

Paper No. 143.

THE statement made in the paper marked Treasury, No. 143, 1890, viz., that the Auditor-General "is agreeable to accept the signature of Mr. Wickham if he is appointed under the authority of the Governor and Executive Council to be the Accounting Officer for the Railway Receipts under the Audit Act" is a correct statement, but without explanation it is liable to be misunderstood, and it is not impossible that the Chief Commissioner at my interview with him did not perceive the full bearing of it. It will be observed that the agreement to accept the signature of Mr. Wickham is made contingent upon a condition which I did not, nor do I now, recommend should be fulfilled, and which, in my judgment, the Government are not likely to fulfil in the face of the decided opinion of the Attorney-General respecting the relative bearings of the Railway and Audit Acts upon the responsibilities of the Railway Commissioners. Nevertheless, should the Government see fit to grant the authority asked for by the Commissioners, I should feel bound to pass the documents now, in my view requiring the personal signature of one or other of the Commissioners, although signed by any other officer who may be so authorized; but, considering as I do that the granting of such authority would be irregular, if not illegal, I should feel also bound to call the special attention of Parliament to the matter.

I take it that the whole gist of the "Government Railways Act of 1888" is to invest the Commissioners appointed under it as a body corporate with full responsibility for all details of management, including the collection and accounting for all tolls or other receipts arising out of the Railway traffic.

Accordingly the whole of the clerks, officers, and employes in the Railway service have been made by the Railway Statute the servants of the Commissioners only; are appointed by them to assist in the execution of the Act; and, so far as any of them are collectors or receivers of Railway moneys, they are accountable directly to the Commissioners, and not to the Government, for their collections or receipts. They cannot, therefore, be classed as public accountants in the sense of section 1 of the Audit Act, nor be required to observe the directions of sections 2 and 3 of the same Act.

Were the Government to appoint Mr. Wickham, or any one of the Commissioners' Officers, to be the Accounting Officer to the Government for the Railway revenue, the effect would be to make him an officer of the Government while still a servant of the Commissioners, and to invest him with responsibilities which by law are laid upon the Commissioners alone, an arrangement which, in certain conceivable circumstances, would prove an embarrassing one. In any case a signature is of no value if it is not expressive of responsibility. Hence for audit purposes (as well as for others) the signature to a document of a person responsible for its contents is a sine quâ non prior to its acceptance or examination. In the case in question the Government, having committed the whole railway property, and the appointment of all persons required for its management, to the control of the Commissioners, can look to them only, and not to any of their servants, for such a tangible expression of the results of their proceedings in regard to money matters, and of their responsibility for them, as is designed by the Audit Act in requiring their personal signatures to statements of facts connected with their duties as collectors of Railway Receipts on behalf of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

In asking the Government to relieve them from the responsibility of signing the papers, and to accept the signature of their Accountant, it must be presumed that his signature is a satisfactory certificate to the Commissioners themselves of the bona fides of the statements he puts before them, and if so, why should they not do what they ask the Government to do, viz., endorse or rather adopt his statements as their own—a course which every head of a department is obliged to follow?

The reply appears to be that it involves, in checking and comparing returns and other documents, such an immense amount of labor on the part of the Commissioners to satisfy themselves before attaching their signatures to papers, as seriously to interfere with other duties. Now, apart from the fact that one of their principal duties is the collection and accounting for moneys to an amount of nearly three millions annually, what is absolutely required of the Commissioners for audit purposes amounts to no more than a monthly attestation to the accounts which reach their office daily from their station-masters, and the lodgment of the same in one of the Government Banks to the credit of the Public Account, together with a daily voucher to the Treasury, under the signature of one or other of the Commissioners, not necessarily with all the detailed particulars now given on the face of the receipt voucher, as those might be stated on the back of it by the Accountant. With very effective machinery for the purpose, and a staff of servants for working it, absolutely under the control of the Commissioners, and with the Bank's acknowledgment of the receipt of moneys paid in daily, as received by their cashier (which it is presumed the Commissioners take care to see) it is hard to conceive what real difficulty there can be in the way of their endorsing to the Government the statements above referred to.

The moneys daily received by the cashier, and shown by him to be actually banked, with the Traffic Auditor's check on the same, constitute the basis of the declaration that a statement embodying the facts of such receipts is a true and faithful account of all moneys collected, &c., and the evidence before them that such moneys have been received and paid to the Treasury, ought to be sufficient to satisfy the Commissioner who may attest the account that to the best of his belief it is a true statement. The evidence simply of the daily Bank receipt as agreeing with the total of the daily vouchers sent to the Treasury ought, it appears to me, in the same way to leave no difficulty as to the signing of it.

Were the statements and vouchers intended to show "earnings" instead of actual cash receipts, the case would be different.

Treasury paper, marked 90/142.

THE question here as to relief from the personal signatures of the Commissioners to expenditure vouchers is virtually the same as that in regard to receipt statements and vouchers, although it refers to operations proceeding upon a different basis, yet with a similar statutory obligation. The 19th section of the Railways Act directs that the whole amount appropriated by Parliament for the working expenses of the Railways and Tramways "shall be expended under the control and management of the Commissioners." The amount so appropriated for 1890 is £1,852,762, and ought to be placed to the credit of the Commissioners in such instalments as may be arranged by the Treasury. For each of such instalments, if not made under accountable receipts, the Bank receipt, as for the Commissioners, should be a sufficient discharge to the Treasurer. If portions of the vote only are issued to the Commissioners, and those under accountable receipts, such receipts ought undoubtedly to be signed by one or other of the Commissioners, in token of their joint responsibility, and such other portions of the vote as are now paid direct by the Treasurer ought not to be so paid, except under some document bearing the signature of one or other of the Commissioners, as an assurance that the expenditure is being made under their control and management. The present and recent arrangements for the expenditure of the working expenses vote are, however, in my judgment, very unsatisfactory, and not in accordance with the terms of the 19th section of the Railways Act, nor in regard to the acquittances for moneys paid over to the Commissioners, under accountable receipts, in accordance with the Audit Act. The proposal to make the Railway Accountant the accounting officer for the railway expenditure would not in my view improve the position of matters, nor for reasons already given would it be at all a legal or expedient measure. At present the Commissioners furnish me with schedules, approved under their own signature, of all claims which they have passed for payment, but except in a recent instance there is no personal acquittance given to the Treasury for the money with which those approved claims are paid, nor, so far as I am aware, have the Treasury any knowledge that the so-called advances are approved by the Commissioners, or that the individual vouchers in which those issues are made are covered by such approval.

I think that all the requirements of the case can be sufficiently and simply met by the following course, which I strongly recommend to be adopted, viz. :—

The Commissioners, under their own hands, to make requisition on the Treasury monthly, or even fortnightly, for so much of the vote placed by Parliament at their disposal for working expenses as they may require. (say £50,000 or £100,000 at a time; the Treasury to place such amounts to the Commissioners' credit as a public account, and obtain a Bank acquittance for the same.

The Commissioners to pay all claims against the working expenses vote. The Railway Accountant to prepare a fortnightly or monthly account current, to show the receipts from the Treasury, the payments, and the balance on hand, certifying to the Commissioners the correctness of the entries and of the vouchers in support thereof, and such certified account current to be approved simply by any two of the Commissioners.

The account current to be sent to the Auditor-General, with the vouchers in support. (The schedules of approved accounts to be furnished separately as hitherto.)

I desire to add, in conclusion, that I have thought it advisable to avail myself of the opportunity afforded me to state at some length, but as concisely as possible, the views I entertain in the matter now referred to me by the Treasury, and respectfully to urge, whatever conclusion may be arrived at in regard to the questions under review, that the present unsatisfactory arrangements respecting the Railway Accounts of Receipts and Payments, as they appear to me, may be speedily brought into closer harmony with the Railway and Audit Statutes.

The Agent-General to The Bank of England.

New South Wales Stock, 3½ per cent. (1918)—Second issue of £3,500,000.

To the Governor and Company of The Bank of England,—

Gentlemen,

9, Victoria-street, Westminster, S.W., 21 August, 1889.

Referring to my previous communication with you and to my written instructions to you of the 27th June last to place upon the market a loan of £3,500,000, and referring to your letters of 2nd and 12th June, 1885, to the Agent-General for New South Wales, I have now formally to request that you will be good enough to undertake the inscription of the loan of £3,500,000 which has so been raised by the New South Wales Government through you.

For this purpose, I and Mr. Donald Larnach, in exercise of the powers conferred upon us by certain Letters Patent with which you are acquainted, have created a further amount of stock called "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent.," and determined that the amount of such stock shall be issued at the rate of £100 of stock for every nominal amount of £100, which shall be represented by the scrip certificates or letters of allotment respectively, to be issued to subscribers for any part of the said loan, and in proof thereof I enclose a duplicate of a Deed Poll under date 8th day of July last, which has been duly enrolled.

To enable you to carry out the inscription and management of this further amount of stock under the Colonial Stock Act, I have duly made and lodged with the Inland Revenue Commissioners the necessary declaration to bring the stock under the provisions of that Act, and I send you herewith a print of that declaration, dated 9th July last.

In further exercise of the powers conferred on me as aforesaid, I beg to adopt and confirm with reference to this new issue of New South Wales Stock, the terms and conditions for the inscription and management of the same by you, as set out in your letters above referred to of the 2nd and 12th June, 1885.

In accordance with the usual practice, you will please pay to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue the composition for stamp duty, so as to enable the stock that shall be inscribed in your books to be transferred, free of duty, and the Commissioners will no doubt receive the duty from you under a similar arrangement to that made with reference to the previous issue of New South Wales Stock.

On behalf of the New South Wales Government I have to request that you will be good enough to carry out this arrangement, and to pay to the Commissioners the amount of composition payable for stamp duty in respect of the stock as inscribed in your books.

On behalf of the New South Wales Government I authorize you, on the terms of your letters of the 2nd and 12th June, 1885, above referred to, to issue to the holders of inscribed stock, who may desire the same, from time to time stock certificates to bearer, in pursuance of the provisions of the Colonial Stock Act, 1877; and I further authorize you to transfer the dividend warrants by post in the same manner and on the same conditions as the warrants for dividends on Government funds are sent.

I have, &amp;c.,

SAUL SAMUEL.

And whereas the whole of the said amount of £5,500,000 of capital stock has been issued, and is now inscribed in the books of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England in the names of the several persons entitled thereto.

And whereas by another Deed Poll under the hands and seals of the said Sir Saul Samuel, and William Richmond Newburn, dated the 6th day of October, 1885, after reciting as therein was recited, and that the Governor, with such advice as aforesaid, was about to borrow and raise in Great Britain under the authority of the said "Public Works Loan Act of 1881," "Public Works Loan Act of 1881, No. 2," "Public Works Loan Act of 1883," and "Public Works Loan Act of 1884," a sum of money by the issue of £3 10s. per centum Inscribed Stock, the said Commissioners declared that in exercise of the power conferred on them by the said letters patent respectively, and by virtue of the "Inscribed Stock Act of 1883," they had created an amount of £5,500,000 sterling of capital stock to be called "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent." and had determined that the same should be issued at the rate and on the terms therein mentioned, and that the interest or dividend to be paid thereon should be at the rate of £3 10s. per centum per annum, and should be payable half-yearly at the Bank of England on the 1st day of April and the first day of October in every year, until and including the first day of October, 1924, on which day the capital should be repaid at par at the same place.

And whereas the whole of the said amount of £5,500,000 of capital stock referred to in the Deed Poll lastly above recited has been issued, and is now inscribed in the books of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England in the names of the several persons entitled thereto.

And whereas by another Deed Poll under the hands and seals of the said Sir Saul Samuel and Frederick Holkham Dangar dated the 15th day of July, 1886, after reciting as therein was recited, and that the Governor, with such advice as aforesaid, was about to borrow and raise in Great Britain, under the authority of the said "Public Works Loan Act of 1884" a sum of money by the issue of £3 10s. per centum Inscribed Stock, the said Commissioners declared that in exercise of the powers conferred upon them by the said Letters Patent respectively, and by virtue of the "Inscribed Stock Act of 1883," they had created an amount of £5,500,000 sterling of Capital Stock to be called "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent." and had determined that the same should be issued at the rate and on the terms therein mentioned, and that the interest or dividend to be paid thereon should be at the rate of £3 10s. per centum per annum and should be payable half-yearly at the Bank of England on the 1st day of April and the 1st day of October in every year, until and including the 1st day of October, 1924, on which day the capital should be repaid at par at the same place.

And whereas the whole of the said amount of £5,500,000 of Capital Stock referred to in the Deed Poll lastly above recited has been issued, and is now inscribed in the Books of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England in the names of the several persons entitled thereto.

And whereas by another Deed Poll under the hands and seals of the said Sir Daniel Cooper and Donald Larnach, dated the 16th day of April, 1888, after reciting as therein was recited, and that the Governor, with such advice as aforesaid, was about to borrow and raise in Great Britain, under the authority of the said "Public Works Loan Act, 1884," a sum of money by the issue of £3 10s. per centum Inscribed Stock, the said Commissioners declared that in exercise of the powers conferred upon them by the said letters patent respectively, and by virtue of the "Inscribed Stock Act of 1883," they had created an amount of £3,500,000 sterling of capital stock, to be called "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent.," and had determined that the same should be issued at the rate and on the terms therein mentioned, and that the interest or dividend to be paid thereon should be at the rate of £3 10s. per centum per annum, and should be payable half-yearly, at the Bank of England, on the 1st day of March and the 1st day of September in each year, until and including the 1st day of September, 1918, on which day the capital should be repaid at par at the same place.

And whereas the whole of the said amount of £3,500,000 of capital stock referred to in the Deed Poll lastly above recited has been issued, and is now inscribed in the books of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England in the names of the several persons entitled thereto.

And whereas the Governor with such advice as aforesaid being about to borrow and raise in Great Britain under the authority of the said "Public Works Loan Act of 1884," and "Repayment of Loans Act of 1883," a sum of money by the issue of £3 10s. per cent. Inscribed Stock the said Commissioners have determined to create and issue for that purpose an amount of not exceeding £3,500,000 sterling of "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent." in addition to and to rank pari passu with the said amounts of "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent." so created and issued as aforesaid respectively and determined and appointed the time at which the same shall be redeemable and the terms and conditions on which the same shall be issued.

And whereas it is expedient that such determination and appointment shall be declared and manifested under the hands and seals of two or more of the said Commissioners.

Now therefore these presents witness that they the said Commissioners, in exercise of the powers conferred upon them by the said Letters Patent respectively and by virtue of the "Inscribed Stock Act of 1883," do by these presents declare that they have created an amount of £3,500,000 sterling of Capital Stock to be called, "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent." to be in addition and rank pari passu with the said amounts of £5,500,000, £5,500,000, £5,500,000, and £3,500,000 "New South Wales Stock," "Three and a half per cent." heretofore created and issued as aforesaid respectively, and they have determined that such Capital Stock shall be issued at the rate of £100 of stock for every nominal amount of £100 which shall be represented by the Scrip certificates or Letters of Allotment respectively to be issued to subscribers for any part of such Capital Stock when the instalments payable thereon shall have been fully paid, and that the interest or dividend to be paid on the said amount of £3,500,000 sterling of Stock so lastly created by them as aforesaid, or any lesser amount which shall be issued shall be at the rate of £3 10s. per centum per annum, and that a quarter of a year's interest or dividend shall be payable on the 1st day of September, 1889, at the Bank of England, and that thereafter the said interest or dividend shall be payable at the same place half-yearly on the 1st day of March and the 1st day of September in each year until and including the 1st day of September, 1918. And further that on the said 1st day of September, 1918, the capital shall be repaid at par at the same place.

And they do further declare that the revenues of the Colony of New South Wales alone are liable in respect of the Stock hereinbefore described, and the dividends thereon, and that the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom, and the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury are not directly or indirectly liable or responsible for the payment of the Stock or of the dividends thereon, or for any matter relating thereto.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

OLD LOANS ACCOUNT.

(MINUTES RESPECTING DISPOSAL OF BALANCE AT CREDIT OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 24 July, 1890.

The Auditor-General to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Department of Audit, Sydney, 31 July, 1889.

I have the honor to request that you will have the goodness at your earliest convenience to submit, for the consideration of the Treasurer, the following observations and suggestion in regard to the Old Loans Account, on which at this date there is a balance unexpended of £132,326 Os. 4d.

That balance ought to stand as a part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, in accordance with the several Appropriation Acts out of which it arises.

The statement of those Old Loans Services, prior to the Act 35 Victoria No. 5, which introduced a new system of account for receipts and expenditure under Loan Appropriations, was made a separate one purely for convenience in keeping the accounts, yet, while the sum of the Old Loans has existed and has appeared as if a separate fund, the amount at its credit at any time has always been and is now legally a part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The amount now at credit of the account is the remnant of the proceeds of debentures to the amount of £450,000, issued in 1870 to balance up all previous loans to that date, without regard to whether the amount was actually wanted or not, a by no means provident arrangement, for it covered (besides a multitude of small balances which at the time could not have been wanted) three whole appropriations for a sum in all of £55,000, viz. :—£20,000 for a Wesleyan College; £10,000 for District Courts, Sydney; £25,000 for a Penitentiary.

The first of these services was provided for thirty-four years ago by the Affiliated Colleges Act as a contingent liability of the Revenue, but has never been applied for, and the second and third have never been carried out although voted, the one twenty-seven and the other twenty-four years ago.

A glance at the latest Ways and Means Estimates shows that there are none of the balances retained for expenditure, and forming the balance of £132,326 Os. 4d., that can now be required nor if required, but what could probably be met without much difficulty. At all events the original appropriations are now of so old a date (the latest now nearly twenty years old), that it becomes a question whether they ought now to be any longer considered to be operative without a new appropriation, either from Revenue or Loans.

I would suggest therefore, and strongly urge that the whole of this Old Loan Account be at once written off, and carried back to its proper position to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, and thus so far reduce the nominal overdraft on that Account.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD A. RENNIE,
Auditor-General.

Chief Inspector.—G.E., 5/8/89. Memo. herewith.—F.K., 15/8/89. The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

The Auditor-General's suggestion respecting the Balance at the credit of the Old Loans Account.

[Memorandum.]

The Treasury, New South Wales, 15 August, 1889.

I would be very glad to recommend the adoption of the course suggested and strongly urged by the Auditor-General in his letter of 31st July, namely, to write off the appropriations and balances of Appropriations for Loan Services provided for by Acts, prior to the Act, 35 Victoria No. 5, and transfer the sum of £132,326 Os. 4d. at the credit of the Old Loans Account to the Consolidated Revenue Fund, were it not that I consider such a proceeding would be a most improper one, and fraught with unpleasant and probably dangerous consequences.

In order to maintain the high position to which our securities have attained in the money market of the world it is necessary, I consider, that moneys raised by Loans should be expended on reproductive, or on public works of a permanent character.

To

To make use of £132,000, borrowed for certain public works, for the purpose of reducing to that extent the overdraft on the Consolidated Revenue Fund, because the works for which the moneys had been raised had not been, and probably would not be, carried out, would, when known, have a prejudicial effect on the securities of this Colony.

In addition to this, however, the course suggested seems to me to be illegal. The Acts under which the loans referred to were raised, contain each a clause to this effect:—"All sums borrowed under this Act shall be paid to the Colonial Treasurer, and shall be by him placed to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, and shall be applied towards the respective purposes for which the same shall have been so raised, and shall be accounted for in the same manner as if they had formed part of the current annual revenue of the Colony."

The moneys raised under the various Loan Acts referred to were not placed to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, but to the credit of an account called the Loans Account as a matter of convenience, and also because it was considered, and rightly too, I think, that by placing the money to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund it was probable some amount might not be applied towards the purpose for which it was raised. If, however, the Auditor-General's suggestion were adopted the moneys would not be applied as directed by the Acts; but in another way and for another purpose never contemplated when the Acts were passed.

The proper procedure under the circumstances would seem to be to apply the sums, not required for the purposes for which raised, for such other services as have been or may hereafter be provided for by loans.

I regret that for the reasons stated I cannot recommend the adoption of the Auditor-General's suggestion.

F. KIRKPATRICK,
Chief Inspector.

The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

I must say that I perfectly agree with the Consulting Accountant, and I am perfectly sure that Parliament would sustain the same view.—W.M.M., 4/7/90.

Mr. Ross.—Please have a copy of the minute of the Chief Inspector and the Honorable the Treasurer's decision in the matter forwarded for the information of the Auditor-General.—For U.S., F.K., 4/7/90. Done.—R.M.R., 4/7/90.

No. 1.

The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade to The Auditor-General.

Sir,

The Treasury, New South Wales, Sydney, 7 July, 1890.

Referring to your letter of 31 July, 1889, in which you "suggest, and strongly urge" that the balance at the credit of the Old Loans Account—amounting to the sum of £132,326 0s. 4d.—should be transferred to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, I am directed to hand you, enclosed, a copy of Mr. Chief Inspector Kirkpatrick's minute on the subject, together with a copy of the decision of the Colonial Treasurer, which, you will observe, is adverse to your proposal.

I have, &c.,

(For the Under Secretary),
F. KIRKPATRICK.

No. 2.

The Auditor-General to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Department of Audit, Sydney, 24 July, 1890.

I have to acknowledge receipt of a letter, dated the 7th instant, signed for you by Mr. Kirkpatrick, and enclosing a copy of a minute prepared by him, under date 15th August, 1889, respecting a matter which I considered it my duty to submit for the consideration of the Colonial Treasurer, by my letter of 31st July, 1889, but which it would appear was only brought under his notice on the 4th of the present month.

I take leave to say, in the first place, that I consider I have reason to complain that such a minute as that penned by Mr. Kirkpatrick should have been sent to me at all, and sent it would appear by the direction of the Treasurer, containing, as it does, expressions of opinion that I had proposed a "most improper proceeding, fraught with unpleasant and dangerous consequences, illegal, &c.,"—language for which, as applied to the substance of my letter of 31st July, there are certainly no just grounds. The minute assumes that I proposed to expend the money in question for Revenue purposes. There is nothing in my letter to justify such an interpretation, nor any other than what I stated in my Report to Parliament on the accounts of 1883, and also in reply to a letter from the late Chief Inspector of Accounts, Mr. Thomson, dated in 1883, asking my views on this very subject. Holding, as I do, that the money always formed part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, and that there were now really no liabilities attached to it for expenditure, my proposal was not to make it revenue for any purpose, but that there being no longer any necessity to keep it standing as a separate portion of the Consolidated Revenue Fund Account, it should, like any other balance of appropriation, be written off, and "so accounted for in the same manner" as any other "part of the current annual revenue of the Colony"—strictly in terms of the Acts under which the money was directed to be "placed to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund."

The suggestion that my proposal to state the accounts in accordance with the law would, "if known," seriously affect quotations of the Colony's securities on the London market, is surely far-fetched and imaginary. But if anything respecting the disposal of the comparatively paltry sum in question could have such an effect, it would, in my opinion, be the publication of a minute, which avowedly declares that the money borrowed under those old Loan Acts had not been dealt with according to law, for reasons which never existed when the loan expenditure was first made a separate statement, as a part of the Consolidated

Revenue Fund Accounts, in the year 1856, and which seeks to justify the proceeding, while it proposes to dispose of the residue in a manner which the Acts containing the clause quoted, commencing "all sums borrowed, &c," give no countenance to. I take it that the holders of, and investors in, our Colonial bonds chiefly concern themselves to be satisfied that their interest is punctually paid, and the principal met at maturity. Of this the lenders have had abundant experience during the last thirty years, and the fact is doubtless one main reason why our securities hold so high a place. If the holders of the remaining bonds in the old form of debentures were to hear that, instead of expending the few thousands that have accrued as savings on their loans in a sort of spendthrift fashion—perpetuating the debt, in fact—they were retained to redeem some of their bonds, their sense of the value of their securities would certainly be all the greater.

I had written thus far when I perceived, by the Votes and Proceedings, that the papers under reply had been laid upon the Table of the Legislative Assembly. I have, therefore, the honor to request that you will move the Colonial Treasurer to now have the goodness to supplement them by likewise placing before the Assembly this communication.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD A. RENNIE,
Auditor-General.

The Consulting Accountant.—W.M., 29/7/90. G.E., 29/7/90. Memorandum herewith.—F.K., 4/8/90. The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

No. 3.

Memorandum from The Consulting Accountant to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 4 August, 1890.

I THINK it will be found, upon perusal of this letter (24th July, 1890), that the Auditor-General is in error when he states that there is nothing in his communication of 31st July, 1889, to justify the interpretation that he proposed to expend the balance at the credit of the Old Loans Account for Revenue Services.

In the concluding portion of that communication the Auditor-General "suggests, and strongly urges, that the whole of this Old Loans Account be at once written off, and carried back to its proper position, to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, and thus so far reduce the nominal* overdraft on that account."

The effect of this operation, if carried out, would be to pay Revenue obligations to the extent of £132,326 Os. 4d. out of Loan moneys, and this is the course which I still venture to think would be a most improper one, and fraught with unpleasant and probably dangerous consequences, and which I also venture to think would be an illegal course.

But as the Auditor-General now disavows the suggestion of any such course of action, the objections taken in my minute of 15th August, 1889, no longer apply; and, with a view to a settlement of the question, the Treasurer will probably consider the propriety of making provision in the next Loan Bill for the application of this unused balance towards meeting new Loan Services.

F. KIRKPATRICK,
Consulting Accountant.

Submitted.—G.E., 5/8/90. Approved.—W.M., 5/8/90.

* The actual overdraft at this date (31st July, 1889) was £1,690,129 7s. 5d.

METROPOLITAN FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.

(SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.)

Presented to Parliament, Pursuant to Act 47 Vic. No. 3.

The Chairman of The Fire Brigades Board to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir, Head Quarters Fire Station, Castlereagh-street, Sydney, 17 March, 1890.

I do myself the honor to submit, on behalf of the Fire Brigades Board, its Sixth Annual Report for the year ending 31st December, 1889. Incorporated with it is to be found the Annual Report and Statistical Returns of the Superintendent of Fire Brigades. There is also appended lists of the names of the Insurance Companies and Municipal Councils which contributed to the revenue of the Board during the year, in accordance with the 15th section of the Act. It will be observed that at the beginning of the year the names of five new Companies were added, viz., the British and Colonial, the Mutual, Hong Kong, Netherlands India, and Straits. During the year, however, two Companies ceased business, viz., the Equitable of New Zealand and the Industrial Mutual. Taking the list of Insurance Companies first into consideration, it will be noticed that the amount held at risk attained the enormous amount of £53,583,000, and when comparing this amount with that of the previous year, viz., £50,528,368, it will be observed that there has been an increase of the insurances of property in the city and suburbs of £3,054,632. Since the inauguration of the Board in 1884, when the amount held at risk was £36,690,987, each year has seen an increase of an amount reaching more than £2,000,000. It cannot be ascertained whether the whole of this increase is natural or artificial, that is attributable to the more extensive use of insurance by the public, and to an increase in the number of buildings and in value, of the contents of warehouses and dwellings, or to the increased valuation, resulting either from speculation or rise in wages and cost of material. It is evident, however, that this additional increase of £16,882,013 extra, means that precautions must be taken for the prevention and extinction of fires. The Board is fully alive to this, and has given effect to its deliberations by—first, thoroughly equipping the Brigade with first-class plant and appliances, and the erection of stations; and, second, by the extension of the Fire Alarm System throughout the city, and most part of the thickly-populated suburban districts and localities of importance; and, thirdly, by maintaining and subsidizing efficient Volunteer Fire Companies in suburban districts.

In respect to the Municipalities which contribute in accordance with the Act, an increase in the ratable value of the property is found. Last year's total for all Municipalities was £4,419,293, showing an increase of £125,331 on the previous year's amount. The increase from the first assessment in 1884, which then aggregated £3,053,604, is £1,365,489. The necessity of a general extension of fire protection is thus further demonstrated.

The Report of the Superintendent will show that, while carefully guarding against any lavish expenditure, or of increasing the annual levies to any extent, the work so far has been carried out satisfactorily. Speaking from a commercial point of view, it cannot be denied that the department has, in a large measure, checked incendiarism, and has besides, materially prevented the spread of fire. Up to this time the northern part of the city with its large warehouses and shipping has been practically unprotected, owing to the difficulty of securing a site suitable for a fire-station. During the past year, offers of sites were invited from persons owning property in the vicinity of the Circular Quay, but though a few eligible sites were offered, there were none which the Board could thoroughly recommend, owing to the exorbitant prices asked, although the Board did submit for your consideration two sites, which, excepting their price, would have been suitable. These matters were duly represented to yourself as the Head of the Department, and after considering all the facts and the importance and requirements of that part of the city, a promise was made that the subject should have the early attention of the Government. This promise has been fulfilled, and it is pleasing to record that the Government has so promptly taken the matter up, and decided to dedicate a site at the Circular Quay. It is therefore hoped that the erection of the station will be an accomplished fact during the year 1890.

The question of procuring a site for the fire-station at Newtown has also engaged the attention of the Board. Its recommendation to the Government for the lock-up to be dedicated for the purpose has again and again been urged, and during the past year a deputation of the Board waited on you, and pointed out the special advantages of the site for the erection of a fire-station for the protection of Newtown and the surrounding boroughs.

In

In the Superintendent's report reference is also made to the efficiency of the department, which, he states, is very satisfactory. He also refers to the water supply of the City and Suburbs, and the Board fully endorses his remarks. In regard to the extension of fire protection generally, the Board's recommendations in the past still hold good, and whilst having no desire to again repeat them, or to cause any undue alarm, there are still one or two matters which perhaps might be referred to in this report. While assisting the Volunteer Companies, as a whole, to tide over difficulties in regard to extra requirements, so long as good service is given in return, the Board has had under consideration the formation of an Auxiliary Corps, which would in all cases work more in conjunction with the Permanent Brigade, as it would be more under its immediate control and direction. It is believed that such a Corps would materially aid the operations of the Brigade without adding much more to the expenses of the department. Whatever may be the success attained, the Board has resolved to try the experiment.

The Board again call attention to its anomalous position, which can be surmised from the various proposed amendments in the Act, as embodied in the last annual report. The Board is made responsible under the Act for the protection against fire of the lives and property of the inhabitants of these Municipalities of the County of Cumberland, which are brought under its provisions, and yet it is not clothed with the authority possessed by an ordinary Inspector of Nuisances. At present the Superintendent can report to the Board, but the Board have not the power under the present Act to remedy the evil. It cannot cause the removal of the smallest of the innumerable hazardous elements with which the city of Sydney is at present charged. The warehouses, offices, &c., recently erected and in course of erection, which outwardly appear the picture of solidity, are in many instances honeycombed with passages, well-holes, lifts, and shafts; others are little better than stone and brick shells, with wooden boxes, called offices, the ceilings and walls being frequently cased in soft wood, and there is no public authority which can enforce regulations for the public safety against fire. The Board and the Insurance Companies know that the regulations of the Building Acts are a dead letter; that rows of apparently separate buildings are allowed to be converted into one risk; that in some instances rows of apparently harmless-looking shops are immediately over cellars knocked into one, containing combustible goods. There are no provisions for the storage of combustible matter or for the removal of combustible rubbish, or for providing against the possible spread of fire through awnings, or woodwork, windows, skylights, or the electric lighting of buildings. Surely if buildings reaching an altitude of 130 feet, or higher, are allowed to be built, particularly in narrow streets, some provision should be made whereby any disaster resulting therefrom should be visited on the contractors or owners.

It may be said, let the Insurance Companies look after these matters, but many companies decline to have anything to do with such risks, and besides which, there are many dangerous risks which are absolutely uninsurable, and should be suppressed or relegated to parts where their power of mischief would be at an end.

The Board, as a Board, has nothing to do with the indemnity against losses occasioned by fire. To it has been entrusted the responsibility of protecting the citizens against fire, and of preventing fire. It is scarcely fair to impose such responsibility without enabling it to fulfil its functions.

The Board feel that it has only done its duty by calling attention to these matters, and express a hope that you will give the suggested Amended Act your early consideration.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES BOWN,

Chairman, Fire Brigades Board

APPENDIX VII.

Mr. Superintendent Bear's Report.

To the Fire Brigades Board,—
Gentlemen,Metropolitan Fire Brigade Head-quarters Station,
Sydney, 3 February, 1890.

I do myself the honor to submit to your Board herewith my Sixth Annual Report of the working and general efficiency of your Brigade and the several Volunteer Fire Companies, together with the details of fires attended in the City and Suburbs of Sydney, for the year ending 31st December, 1889.

The total number of alarms received for fires or supposed fires was 272; of these 33 were false alarms, 14 proved to be only chimney alarms, and 225 were actual fires. Of the actual fires 179 were slight or trifling, 17 were serious, and 29 resulted in total destruction.

Of the 225 actual fires 157 were insured, 28 not insured, and in 40 instances insurances on the buildings or contents could not be ascertained.

In addition to the ordinary fires there have been 31 chimney-fires, requiring the attendance of firemen with hand-pump only, and 2 casualties in which life was lost or endangered, but in which no damage was done to buildings or their contents, making an aggregate total of 305 calls for fires, false alarms, chimney-fires, and casualties.

The fires of 1889 as compared with those of 1888 show a decrease of 41; in chimney-fires attended with engines an increase of 4; and those attended by firemen with hand-pump a decrease of 20.

In fires which were slight there has been a decrease of 43; in serious a decrease of 2; and in fires which resulted in total destruction an increase of 4. Among the buildings totally destroyed are classed shed-buildings, weatherboard cottages, &c., the damage done in five cases only being of an extensive character, one of which was outside of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade area.

Attached are detailed statements of the various fires attended by the Brigade and the Volunteer Fire Companies, as well as those unattended, but which have been reported to the Brigade from various sources, and a member of the Brigade was sent to obtain the necessary particulars.

The various summaries appended show the particular dates, time of calls, time of outbreak, trades, localities, insurances, hourly and daily, weekly and monthly. There is also appended a summary of the "Supposed origin of Fires" for the year.

Referring to the summary of localities, it will be noticed that in the City of Sydney alone there were 171 calls, 122 of which were for actual fires, 19 were false alarms, 9 were chimney-fires reported as houses on fire, and 21 were chimney-fires attended by firemen with hand-pump only.

Of the actual fires in the City there were in Denison Ward 21; Cook and Macquarie Wards, 20 each; Bourke Ward, 16; Gipps Ward, 14; Brisbane and Phillip Wards, 12 each; and Fitzroy Ward, 7.

In the suburbs there were 134 calls—of which 103 were for actual fires, 14 were false alarms, 5 were for chimney-fires reported as houses on fire, 10 were for chimney-fires which were attended by firemen with hand-pump only, and two casualties.

The suburbs affected in regard to actual fires only were as follows, viz. :—Newtown, 11; Balmain and Paddington, each 10; Redfern, 9; Marrickville and Petersham, each 7; Ashfield and Woollahra, 6 each; Leichhardt and Parramatta, 5 each; Glebe, 4; Darlington, Manly, and Waverley, 3 each; Alexandria, Enfield, and Waterloo, 2 each; and the other suburbs, one fire each.

In summarizing the trades it will be observed that private dwellings have been mostly affected by fires, the number for all classes of damage being 84; but taking the actual trades into consideration the most notable stand in the following order, viz. :—Licensed victuallers, 15; grocers, 8; Government buildings, produce merchants, and stables, 6 each; butchers and engineers, 4 each; boarding houses, bootmakers, and boot manufacturers, confectioners, drapers, and milliners, fancy goods dealers, importers, and printers, 3 each; bakers, banks, bedding manufacturers, chemists, furniture dealers, general dealers, ironmongers, jewellers, merchants, publishing offices, ships, storekeepers, skating rinks, timber merchants, and wharfingers, 2 each; other trades affected, one each; and are to be found in the "Summary of Trades."

During the year telephonic communication has been established between the Head-quarters Fire Station and Messrs. Hoffing & Co., Pitt-street, and between the Head-quarters Fire Station and Darlington Hall; between No. 2 Station and the Redfern Police Station, and each of the Volunteer Fire Stations at Parramatta were connected by telephone. All Volunteer Fire Stations (with the exception of Ashfield, Burwood, Manly, and Parramatta), all theatres and all music halls (with the exception of the Academy of Music), the Government Printing Office, the Railway Department and the Town Hall are in direct telephonic communication with our three permanent fire stations.

The various police stations are also connected up through the Central Police Station. The various wharves, warehouses, business houses, and many public buildings are also in telephonic communication, though indirectly, through the Telephone Exchange at the General Post Office, which is open to receive and transmit calls for fires at any hour of the day or night. In the month of May the 200-shutter exchange board arrived, and was fitted up in the Head-quarters Fire Station, and has proved a success.

I trust that during the year 1890 we shall be able to place Ashfield, Camperdown, and Randwick in telephonic communication.

On the 21st of January, 1890, thirty telephone fire-alarms were landed, and before the end of the month twenty of them were erected and put in full working order at the following positions, viz. :—

At the corner of George and Park Streets.
 „ York and King Streets.
 „ Pitt and King Streets.
 „ Elizabeth and King Streets.
 „ College and Liverpool Streets.
 „ William-street and Boomerang Road.
 „ William and Victoria Streets.
 „ Park and Elizabeth Streets.
 Macquarie-street, in front of Parliament House.
 At the corner of Hunter and Castlereagh Streets.
 „ Hunter and George Streets.
 „ Market and Pitt Streets.
 „ King and Sussex Streets.
 „ Sussex and Erskine Streets.
 „ Kent and Margaret Streets.
 „ Elizabeth and Hay Streets.
 On the building of Messrs. A. Hordern & Sons, at the Haymarket.
 At the corner of Sussex and Liverpool Streets.
 „ Kent and Bathurst Streets.
 „ Kent and Market Streets.

Six others will be erected at the undermentioned positions, viz. :—

At the corner of York and Market Streets.
 „ George and Wynyard Streets.
 „ George and Goulburn Streets.
 „ George-street and Union Lane.
 „ Factory and Dixon Streets.
 „ Riley and Oxford Streets.

Your Board will remember that as far back as July, 1888, I placed myself in communication with Messrs. Kingsbury and Co., agents for the Western Electric Telegraph Company, with the view of getting a Special Telephone made to my own ideas and measurements, to be fitted in iron boxes suitable for the telegraph poles. In the month of June of last year the model was supplied, which I considered very suitable for the purpose, and thirty of them were ordered by your Board on the 8th of July, and arrived as before stated, the manufacturers had delayed the delivery of them for further improvements.

I am very confident of their success, especially so if I obtain the co-operation of the police and the public, as the instruments in question are very simple. Keys have been given to the police and other public bodies, and persons living in the vicinity of the said alarms.

I am pleased to be able to report that the Government has recognized the necessity for a permanent Fire Engine Station for the protection of the enormous properties at the northern end of the city, and I have reason to believe that a very suitable site has already been decided upon. The importance of a fully-equipped station in this locality cannot be exaggerated, and I trust that before long practical steps will have been taken towards its erection. The delay occasioned by sending to a station upwards of a mile away, and the time required for an engine weighing three tons to travel the same distance, gives every opportunity for a fire to get good headway before we can reach the vicinity.

Since the 19th of March a man has been stationed on watch in the tower at the Head-quarters Station from sunset until 6 a.m., and a watchman's electric clock has been placed in my office in communication both with the tower and the telephone room, the man on duty in each place being required to record every quarter of an hour. Eleven calls for fires and four false alarms were given from the tower.

In the three stations of the Brigade the duties now number 17 watches of 8 hours each during the 24 hours. This is exclusive of attending fires, watching at fires, cleaning and repairing engines and appliances, cleaning stations, attending drills, learning the position of fire plugs and hydrants, and various other work. All this cannot be carried out without bringing a severe strain on all hands, especially so after a large fire, and if the watching duty in the tower is to be kept up when the system of telephone fire-alarms is complete, and the 1,000 screw-down hydrants are put down in the City, which will entail a great deal of extra labour in periodical inspections, additional men should be employed.

During the past year a light fire-escape has been built by the Brigade for the No. 2 Station, George-street West, which will be run to all fires within a certain radius from that station.

The fire-escape which was built in 1888 for the Head-quarters Station is now being altered for the purpose of running it to fires with a horse in accordance with my report to your Board on the subject. This will not only be the means of getting the escape to fires more quickly, but the men with it will be fit for work when they arrive.

Many high buildings have been erected during the year both within the City and beyond it, and although our large telescopic fire ladder, hoisting out to 75 feet is sufficient for the majority of houses, I fear it would be of little use to some of them. With the object of placing us in a more favourable position in this respect I have written several letters to London, America, and Germany, for particulars of the different ladders in use, especially those reaching to a height of about 100 feet, and the number of men required to work them. This I need hardly point out is an important consideration with the small force at my command.

Five of our Volunteer Fire Companies, viz., Ashfield, Newtown, North City, Waverley and Woollahra have made special arrangements for taking their appliances on to a fire by means of horses, and as a consequence these Companies are enabled to attend fires more quickly than was formerly the case.

The water supply generally has been much improved during the year, but there are still many streets in the City to which this remark does not apply, some having very little water and some none at all. However, the Water and Sewerage Board are gradually doing away with the old state of things and have resolved to put down 1,000 screw-down hydrants in the City, and many of the old water mains which are almost choked up are to be replaced by new and larger pipes, and to abolish the old fashioned fire-plugs altogether. When these works are carried out and most of the City supplied with water from the Paddington Reservoir, or from the proposed new reservoir near the present Woollahra Reservoir we shall be very well off, and there will be sufficient pressure for the extinction of most fires happening in buildings on the lower levels. For the large buildings on the higher levels we shall always have to trust to steam fire engines.

The boilers of the two steam fire engines which were taken over from the Insurance Fire Brigade are both very much worn, and will require either to be renewed or to have new tube boxes fitted to them.

These engines which were built in the years 1870 and 1871 have done a great deal of work, and the engine-work requires thoroughly overhauling. As the repairs or renewals of these boilers will occupy some time, I propose in a future report to recommend the purchase of a large steam fire engine and after this is supplied to disable the old engines one at a time, and then thoroughly to go into the question of cost. In the meantime I have sent to the makers of the engines for an estimate for supplying new boilers.

The whole of the Volunteer Fire Companies when at fires have worked in entire unison, both with the Metropolitan Fire Brigade and amongst themselves, and through your Board I desire to express my obligations to them for their valuable co-operation during the past year, especially so at the late wharf fire. My best thanks are due to the officers and members of the Police Force, and to the city Turncocks for the very valuable assistance which I have received from them on every occasion.

I have also to offer to your Board my sincerest acknowledgment for the unvarying support accorded to me, and I trust it is pleased with the result of the year's working.

In conclusion I have to state that the condition of the Brigade with regard to discipline and general efficiency is very satisfactory; but it is my duty to point out that the rapid growth of the city entails much extra labour on all hands, and the work at times brings a very severe strain on so small a force. In all cases, however, our men have worked cheerfully and well.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM D. BEAR,
 Superintendent M.F.B. and Inspector of Kerosene.
