Honorable Members of the Legislative Council, and Members of the Legislative Assembly,—

It is with pleasure that I call you together for the discharge of your important duties in the Fourth Session of the Thirty-first Parliament, and the first since my appointment to the high office which I hold.

Since my arrival in New South Wales I have recognised with pride the feelings of loyalty and devotion to the Crown displayed by all sections of the community.

It has been my privilege to join with the people of New South Wales in celebrating the Coronation of Their Most Gracious Majesties the King and Queen and I was deeply moved by the enthusiastic demonstrations of affection for Their Majesties which were manifest on all sides.

The present occasion is of special significance in the history of the State; for, within the period of this Session, the 150th Anniversary of the foundation of Australia will occur. I trust that the labours of this Session will fittingly crown the wonderful development of that period.

I have noted with feelings of pride the progress that has been made in building up, here in the Southern Hemisphere, the largest, though practically the youngest, community of entirely British race outside Britain itself. Looking back over history and scanning present visible evidences of progress in a country and a half—which is but a short period in the life of a nation—one feels that good use has been made of opportunities for development despite the troubles and vicissitudes of the world in which we live and work.

My advisers have expressed to me their profound gratification that the industry, trade and commerce of the State have shown great resilience and that normal conditions are being steadily re-established. They are confident that the nature of this recovery, and the measures by which it has been aided, are such as to warrant the belief that it will prove a lasting benefit to the community and a fitting reward for the measures of sacrifice on the part of all sections by which the major difficulties of recent years have been resolved.

My Ministers are especially encouraged by the evident increase in employment and the corresponding steady decrease in unemployment. My advisers have already announced that special administrative measures are being adopted to fit the remaining unemployed—and especially the younger men—for the types of employment that are becoming available. Moreover, for those others who must necessarily wait for work of a kind which they can perform, or be fitted to perform, a substantially improved system of social aid is being provided. My advisers inform me that this represents a consummation of plans which they have been progressively developing for some time past, and that, in view of the sound Budgetary position and the increasing prosperity of the community, they feel justified in extending still further this important social and economic service.

They propose especially to intensify and extend the services which they have been providing for the training of those youths and younger men who have not yet attained a place in industry.

It is the view of my Ministers that steady economic improvement creates the opportunity for the adoption of a progressive policy for the social betterment of the community as well as a general policy designed to diffuse the fruits of prosperity as widely as possible. While this is being implemented transition will be effected, as rapidly as circumstances permit, from emergency taxes and emergency legislation. My Ministers have every intention of continuing such measures vigorously, yet with due care and deliberation, in order to effect the smooth transition into conditions which they consider should be the normal circumstance of a State so richly endowed as this. They inform me that they are fully conscious that new problems are constantly arising and that these will receive their best attention. They have observed, and anticipate some continuance in, the trend towards higher price levels, and the probability that these may ultimately approach the level of predepression years. They recall that right from the time of the collapse in prices which precipitated depression and severe unemployment seven years ago, recovery in general price levels and the elimination of price-cost disparities were always viewed not only as a necessary accomplishment, but as a necessary condition of the restoration of prosperity. This being so, they welcomed especially the very satisfactory increases that are being realised in prices of the major primary products. They emphasise that these add directly to the incomes of rural producers—who have for years fought adversity with magnificent courage—while indirectly they add to the incomes of practically all sections of the community, and, in particular, increase the volume of employment and make possible the rise in wages and other individual incomes.

MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY,—

Early in the Session you will be asked to consider the Budget for the current financial year.

Last year the expectations of my Ministers were slightly exceeded and the Budget showed a surplus of a little under £100,000, excluding the operations of the Main Roads Department, after providing from State revenues approximately one and a half million pounds for repayment of the National Debt through the Sinking Fund. This year, again, a balanced Budget will be presented for your consideration, together with proposals for reduction of Special Income Tax and Wages Tax.

HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL, AND

MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY,—

My advisers propose to submit for your consideration a lengthy programme of legislation and to implement new policy measures in regard to important matters, such as housing, closer settlement, uniformity of wages in Federal and State jurisdictions, extension of Moratorium, extension of Irrigation and Electricity in rural districts, creation of a Soil Conservation Service to check soil erosion, railway development in City and Country, as well as measures to implement the new Federal Aid Roads Agreement and the Federal Rules in regard to Air Navigation, and laws providing for regulation of practice on the Stock Exchange.

In order to complete a comprehensive scheme of facilities for home construction and housing improvement my Ministers have been developing three new organisations to operate each in their allotted sphere, side by side, with the Advances for Houses Department of the Rural Bank. These are, firstly, co-operative Building Societies on an actuarial basis designed (by the aid of indirect Government financial aid through the Government Guarantees Act) to provide facilities for persons of small and moderate means to acquire their own homes or small property investments; secondly, through an extension of the Homes for Unemployed Trust, to provide modest but attractive homes on very easy terms without deposit for persons unemployed or intermittently employed—such homes being of two kinds, Urban Homes in open-space suburbs with an adequate allotment of ground, and Rural Homes in suitable country districts each with an area sufficient to enable the occupier to increase his well-being by producing for his own use; thirdly, through a steadily developing housing improvement in the congested Metropolitan districts through the medium of the Housing Improvement Board. Encouraged by the success of the rural housing settlement at places like Gundy Gumly, near Wagga, my advisers propose to proceed with further projects of the same character to improve the homes accommodation available for rural workers.

New legislation will be needed to facilitate the work of each of the housing organisations.

My advisers are engaged in implementing an active policy of Closer Settlement. Under this policy voluntary subdivision will continue alongside acquisition by agreement and compulsory resumption where necessary. Particular attention will be paid to the careful selection of estates from the point of view of production and market outlets, and of the type of settler. A system of specially low interest rates and easy capital instalments during the period of establishment will be provided, where necessary, for lands set apart under the provisions of the Closer Settlement Acts. A new measure will be introduced to meet this necessity.

Legislation will be introduced also for the purpose of promoting uniformity of decisions as between the State and Federal jurisdictions in respect of wages and hours.

The present Moratorium Act, unless renewed, would cease to be operative in February next. My advisers consider that its continuance for a further term is essential, and propose to submit legislation to that effect.

Believing that the expansion of industry and the productive development of the State require an increase in public utilities, my Ministers propose to continue actively with the construction of major public works over a wide field.
These include the progressive extension of water, sewerage and drainage services throughout the Metropolitan and Newcastle areas; provision of similar services in country towns, construction of roads and railways to provide access to natural resources, power development, water conservation, afforestation, and other works of a developmental nature. Measures of authorisation will be submitted where not already existent, as well as further measures providing for financial autonomy for the Road Transport authorities in the Metropolitan area and Newcastle, and for the Hunter District Water Supply and Sewerage Board.

Proposals will be placed before you involving the reconstitution of the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Public Works.

In order to increase the drought-resisting capacity of our rural industries, my Ministers consider it essential to proceed with an extensive scheme of water conservation in the north-western portion of the State. The flow from artesian bores, which for many years have supplied water for stock purposes to large areas of pastoral lands in this section of the State, is decreasing. It is proposed, therefore, to undertake extensive water conservation works to supplant this failing supply. My advisers propose to bring forward legislation to cover the first stage of this work, which will involve a storage dam at Keppit, on the Namoi River, a diversion weir at Boggabri, and a channelling system to serve an area of approximately three and a half million acres. Other irrigation works already in hand will be proceeded with.

As part of a general policy of increasing the amenities of rural life proposals for the development of the power reserves of the State and the extension of electricity supplies to rural districts have proceeded, and the Government has commissioned experts from overseas to work in conjunction with the Electricity Advisory Committee and expert officers of the public services upon the preparation of a plan for co-ordinating power generation and distribution throughout the State, having regard to the possibility of utilising hydro-electric reserves, and including a scheme for the electrification of certain railway lines. My advisers intend to bring before you legislation designed to implement their proposals in this regard, and, in particular, they will provide for the inter-connection of the Burrinjuck and Port Kembla electricity systems, which already serve a wide area.

You will be invited to consider a proposal for the setting up of a soil conservation service in this State. My advisers fully appreciate the national importance of the menace of soil erosion, and as a result of extensive investigations carried out over the past four years they feel that the further development now contemplated will be of immense value.

In order further to promote the progress of rural industries, my advisers will re-introduce the measure to co-ordinate the control and eradication of noxious plants.

A new Federal Aid Roads Agreement has been executed with the Commonwealth Government, under which additional monies will be available for the upkeep and improvement of the main roads of this State. A Bill to ratify this agreement will be submitted to you.

Following upon a conference between representatives of the Commonwealth and State Governments convened for the purpose of discussing methods for securing uniformity in the control and regulation of Aviation throughout the Commonwealth, my Ministers propose to submit for your consideration a measure providing that the Commonwealth Rules in force from time to time in regard to certain matters relating to Air Navigation and Aircraft shall apply to Air Navigation and Aircraft within the jurisdiction of this State.

My Ministers are considering proposals for a reduction in the number of Members of the Legislative Assembly.

In 1931 the International Conference of Public Education at Geneva, to which the Commonwealth of Australia was a contracting party, recommended raising the compulsory school attendance age to 15 years. More recently, a conference in Sydney of Ministers, representing five States of the Commonwealth, unanimously agreed to recommend to their respective Governments legislation to implement this proposal by the year 1940. They further recommended statutory provision for the part-time attendance of unemployed to the age of 18 years. My advisers are giving careful consideration to these recommendations, which involve educational, economic, and social problems of great importance.

Legislation will be brought before you to amend the University and University Colleges Act, in order to make statutory provision for fixed grants to the University over a definite period of years. This Bill will also enable the University authorities to secure funds for special purposes to equip the University in a modern way, so that it may give a more powerful lead in the cultural, professional, and scientific life of the community.
Following a report furnished by the Committee appointed to consider the replanning of Macquarie-street, legislation will be brought down at an early date providing for the replanning, over a period of years, of the whole of the eastern side of Macquarie-street. Competitive designs are being sought for a group of buildings to accommodate new Law Courts and for the improvement of Queen's Square.

A Bill providing for the fixation of speed limits for motor vehicles and to make further provisions in regard to the control and supervision of motor traffic will be submitted for your consideration.

A measure will be introduced to authorise the construction of a roadway over the Circular Quay section of the City Railway, which is at present in course of construction. It is considered by my advisers that this roadway will form an important link in the traffic arteries of the City.

Negotiations have been concluded between my Ministers and companies working the rich mineral deposits at Lake George providing for construction of a railway between Bungendore and Captain's Flat. The agreement will be submitted for ratification by Parliament during the present Session. An agreement has also been made with the Commonwealth Government and a company formed to operate the Newnes Shale Oil Undertaking for the development of this enterprise. A Bill to ratify the terms of this agreement will be submitted for your consideration.

These two agreements provide for the opening up of two new industries to develop latent resources of the State, to add to its productive wealth and provide additional employment for its people.

It is intended to place before you a measure relating to medical practitioners, designed to give wider powers for the control of the profession.

A Bill to raise the standard of the private hospitals of the State and safeguard the interests of the public and a Bill to amend the Pure Foods Act with the object of preventing the exploitation of the public will be submitted.

My advisers also contemplate implementing a comprehensive scheme of national hygiene for improvement of the health and physique of the nation.

My Ministers have before them the report of the Royal Commission of Inquiry into Allegations against the Police in connection with the suppression of Illicit Betting and await the further report of the Commissioner. The report now before Ministers involves questions of administration which raise the whole question of “off-the-course” betting. My advisers are giving earnest consideration to this and related problems.

Other measures which will be placed before you include a Bill to amend the Local Government Act in a number of directions considered desirable; Bills to effect amalgamations and realignment of boundaries of certain Local Government areas; an amendment of the Farmers' Relief Act to extend the period for the receipt of applications for stay orders; a measure providing for registration of stock and station agents; measures to regulate the manufacture and sale of stock foods and medicines for the purpose of protecting the public from misrepresentation, and to provide for the control of fungicides and insecticides; a consolidating measure relating to the constitution of Drainage Trusts and their administration; a Bill to deal with the administration of Technical Education; a Child Welfare Bill; a measure relating to the care of mentally defective persons; a Statute Law Revision Bill; and certain amendments to the law relating to Workers' Compensation, the Regulation of Coal Mines, Film Quotas, and Pharmacy.

I now leave you to the discharge of your important duties with the earnest prayer that under Divine guidance your labours may conduce to the welfare and happiness of all.

Mr. Lloyd moved, and Mr. Wilson seconded the motion, That the following Address-in-Reply to the Speech which His Excellency the Governor had addressed to both Houses of Parliament on opening this Session of the Parliament of New South Wales be now adopted by this House:

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FOURTH SESSION OF THE THIRTY-FIRST PARLIAMENT.

WEDNESDAY, 18 AUGUST, 1937.

The House met pursuant to adjournment. Mr. Speaker took the Chair.

Mr. Speaker offered the Prayer.

QUESTIONS:—Mr. Speaker said that he desired to seek the co-operation of Members in the asking of Questions. It has been laid down on many occasions that Questions asked without Notice should not be read to the House. Such Questions should be asked in terms that are brief and concise, and should be of an urgent nature. In future, he intended to limit such Questions to those of an urgent and important character, and did not propose to allow the reading of Questions without Notice. Members were therefore requested to place on the Questions and Answers Paper all Questions that were not of specific urgency, and also all Questions involving the furnishing of detailed information. The disinclination of Honorable Members to placing Questions upon the Questions and Answers Paper was sometimes due to the fact that such Questions were not answered promptly, and he would therefore ask Ministers to arrange with their Departments for the Answers to Questions on Notice to be supplied with as little delay as possible.

Mr. Teague

And so it was resolved in the affirmative.

Ordered by Mr. Speaker, That the third reading stand an Order of the Day for To-morrow.

5. LOCAL GOVERNMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL.—The Order of the Day having been read, Mr. Speaker left the Chair, and the House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole for the further consideration of the Bill. Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair, and the Chairman reported progress and obtained leave to sit again To-morrow.

6. PRINTING COMMITTEE.—Mr. Brown, on behalf of the Chairman, brought up the Fourth Report from the Printing Committee.

7. ADJOURNMENT.—Mr. Spooner moved, That this House do now adjourn.

Debate ensued.

And it being 6 o'clock, p.m., Mr. Speaker, pursuant to Sessional Order adopted on 17th August, 1937, adjourned the House until Tuesday next, at Half-past Two o'clock, p.m.
The House met pursuant to adjournment. Mr. Speaker took the Chair.

Mr. Speaker offered the prayer.

1. DEBATE—READING OF SPEECHES—QUESTIONS:—Mr. Speaker said that he desired to make some observations with regard to the rules governing debate in general, and particularly to the reading of speeches.

The attitude of the House of Commons upon the important question of the reading of speeches was indicated by an extract from the House of Commons Debates, set out on page 391 of volume 80, Fifth Series, as follows:

"Mr. Speaker: It is a breach of the rules of the House for the Honourable Member to read his speech. I would suggest to him that he should put away the manuscript from which he is reading."

The House of Commons still regarded the reading of speeches as a breach of its rules.

To indicate the more recent rulings lit this House upon the question, be referred Honourable Members to rulings by many Speakers, including Mr. Speaker Meagher and Mr. Speaker Levy.

On the 11th ultimo he had pointed out that it was not in accordance with parliamentary practice to read the whole of a speech, although there was no objection to the reading of brief extracts and pertinent references. Occasions may arise, however, when, in the exercise of its descretion, the Chair may relax this rule and allow latitude to party leaders.

It was apparent to him that some Honourable Members paid very little regard to the Standing Orders. As Speaker, it was essential for him to be guided and directed by the Standing Orders, and by the practice and usage of the House. Therefore, in order that Honourable Members might realise his intentions in this direction, he desired to indicate to the House that he proposed in future that the provisions of Standing Orders Nos. 145 to 157 inclusive, and 166, should be more closely observed.

Mr. Speaker further said that Honourable Members would recall that on the 18th ultimo he had sought the co-operation of the House in the asking of questions. He hoped that Honourable Members realised that the reading of questions was even more unparliamentary than the reading of lengthy extracts or quotations when delivering a speech.

He desired to again remind Honourable Members that should they find it necessary to quote statistics and introduce explanatory references into their questions, they should place such questions upon the business-paper.

He desired to protect the rights of every Honourable Member, and he thought that the asking of very lengthy questions encroached upon the time of other Honourable Members to such an extent as to limit their opportunities at question time, and reduced the number of individual questions rather unfairly—consequently all oral questions should be concise, and of an urgent character.

Captain Chaffey laid upon the Table the following Paper:—Balance-sheet of Art Union in aid of the funds of the A.I.F. Wives and Children's Holiday Association (Furlough House), drawn 29th May, 1937.

“(e) A ballot-paper shall not be informal for any reason other than the reasons specified in paragraph (d) of this proviso, but shall be given effect to according to the voter's intention, so far as his intention is clear.

“(f) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this proviso at any election at which only one candidate is to be elected, and at which there are not more than two candidates, a ballot-paper...

3. (a) If on any count two or more candidates have an equal number of votes and one of them has to be excluded, the returning officer shall determine by lot between them which of them shall be excluded.

(b) If in the final count for the election of a candidate, two candidates have an equal number of votes, the returning officer shall decide by his casting vote which shall be elected; but except as provided in this paragraph he shall not vote at the election.

That in the opinion of this House legislation should be immediately introduced to provide equal pay for the sexes engaged on similar work in all Government departments, and for all those engaged in private industries that are not subject to interstate competition.

5. Mr. HERRON to move,—

That, in the opinion of this House, the only practical method of absorbing the unemployed members of the community and making adequate provision to meet the effects of labour-saving and labour-displacing machinery, is the introduction of a forty-hour week in industry, and that, in view of the shortening of working hours in other countries of the world, the necessary legislation be introduced forthwith.
