S

SPEAKER (continued):—

RULES OR—:

✓ That if an Authority conducting an Inquiry were not a Judicial Tribunal (an assurance given by the Attorney-General), matters referred thereto were not subject to the sub judice rule, 17.

✓ That, despite the Order of the House that the Address-in-Reply should take precedence, that order was subject to the provisions of Standing Order No. 386, 17.

That provisions of existing law could be discussed as matter of Urgency, 57.

That the laws of another State of the Commonwealth, being entirely outside the jurisdiction of this Parliament, were not open to debate (Motion could be moved in amended form), 57.

That he would not rule against a Motion of Urgency on the grounds that it sought to discuss the desirability of a course of action already available under existing legislation, but would leave it to the House to decide, 58.

✓ That an Urgency Motion was out of order when the consequent substantive motion would anticipate debate on a Notice of Motion which, he had been assured, would be reached within a reasonable time, 67.

✓ That it was competent for the House to order that a motion of Government Business be taken forthwith, 67-8.

That it was not in order to move an amendment which sought to omit a substantial part of a Question and re-insert most of the part proposed to be left out, 131.

That amendments must be strictly relevant to the original Question, 141.

That, under Standing Order 49, it was the prerogative of the Speaker to determine whether a matter was definite, urgent and of public importance, 147.

That, although a motion "That the Question be now put" was before the House, it was competent for the House to deal with a motion for suspension of a Member, as Standing Order 387 provided that disorder be dealt with forthwith, 155.

That, although an amendment to recommit a Bill at the Report stage had been defeated, a motion for recommittal on the motion for the third reading was in order, 185.

That only those matters which are identical with issues before a Judicial Tribunal could be regarded as sub judice, 215.

That an amendment which provided for a different method did not necessarily constitute a direct negative, 218.

That a motion specifically expressing the sympathy of the House with residents of stricken areas was not open to an amendment which sought an opinion of the House regarding Governmental action, 223.

That an amendment which altered a condemnatory motion to a laudatory one was not necessarily out of order. The amendment under consideration would allow the House an opportunity of expressing its approval of the Government's Housing Programme—not merely negatively by voting against the original motion, but positively, if it saw fit, by voting for the amendment. He ruled the amendment in order, 226.

That the subject-matter of a motion for the Adjournment under the 49th Standing Order must be specific, 311.

That, although it is the prerogative of the Executive to determine the terms of a Royal Commission, a Member of the House was entitled to use the forms of the House in an endeavour to have such terms altered, 351.

That, the Premier having announced in the House the intention of the Government to appoint a Royal Commission, he felt that the matters into which the Commission would inquire must be regarded as sub judice, 351-2.

That it is improper for the Assembly to discuss the Clerk of the Parliaments, therefore, a motion dealing with that officer in his capacity of Returning Officer for the Legislative Council Elections was out of order and should be submitted in a different form, 377; dissent negatived, 377-8.

Dissent from Ruling:—

That the Motion (Mr. Treat°, "Legislative Council Elections—Secret Ballot") was out of order, negatived, 377-8.

DEPUTY:—

Allows 3° of Bill to be taken forthwith, 201, 315(°), 402, 449, 453.

Allows Member, not being a Minister of the Crown, to table Papers, 82.

Fixes 3° for (To-morrow), 44, 102, 105, 364, 388 (°), 399; (later hour of day), 77, 287 (°).

Robert Dougias Gorman, Esquire, appointed to act as, during absence of George Booth, Esquire, 110, 139.
