Health Registration Legislation Amendment Bill 2004

Explanatory note

This explanatory note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament.

This Bill is cognate with the Health Legislation Amendment (Complaints) Bill 2004.

Overview of Bill

The object of this Bill is to amend various Acts which provide for the registration of health practitioners:

- (a) to standardise, as far as practicable, the concepts of “professional misconduct” and “unsatisfactory professional conduct” where used in those Acts so that they relate to conduct that demonstrates that the knowledge, skill or judgment possessed, or care exercised, by the relevant health practitioner in the practice of their profession is significantly below the standard reasonably expected of such a health practitioner of an equivalent level of training or experience, and
- (b) to make a contravention of proposed section 34A (4) of the Health Care Complaints Act 1993 by a health practitioner (relating to requirements to provide information to the Health Care Complaints Commission) a type of unsatisfactory professional conduct under those Acts, and
- (c) to make it clear that when disciplinary proceedings in relation to a complaint are taken under those Acts the complaint may at that stage relate to matters arising out of the investigation of the complaint as originally made, and

- (d) to remove any requirements that complaints under those Acts need to be verified by statutory declaration, and
- (e) as a consequence of the Health Legislation Amendment (Complaints) Bill 2004.

The Bill also amends the Medical Practice Act 1992 and the Nurses and Midwives Act 1991 to enable a person to be represented before the relevant Professional Standards Committees by a non-legal adviser and to ensure that members of the New South Wales Medical Board or the Nurses and Midwives Board cannot sit on the relevant Professional Standards Committees.
