 Scheme to a person who is in a de facto relationship, within the meaning of the Property 6 (Relationships) Act 1984, with a contributor or former contributor to the Scheme. The 7 effect of this is that same sex partners of persons who are entitled to, or who are 8 receiving, benefits are now to be dealt with as spouses and will be entitled to the benefits 9 payable to spouses on the death of a contributor or former contributor. 10

Item [2] makes a consequential amendment. 11

Item [3] enables savings and transitional regulations to be made as a consequence of the 12 amendments to be made by the proposed Act. 13

Item [4] inserts proposed Part 6 of Schedule 6 (proposed clauses 12–20), containing 14 savings and transitional provisions. Proposed clause 12 contains definitions. Proposed 15 clause 13 makes it clear that the extended definition of spouse applies only to members 16 or former members who die after the extended definition commences. 17

Proposed clauses 14–20 enable the Minister to enter into arrangements with the FSS 18
 Trustee Corporation (FTC), the SAS Trustee Corporation (STC), other trustees of 19 superannuation schemes and other persons for the purpose of giving persons who have 20 previously elected to take a conversion benefit and transfer to the First State 21 Superannuation Fund or other superannuation schemes the right to elect to revoke that 22 election. An arrangement may not take effect with respect to a former contributor except 23 with the former contributor's consent. An arrangement may cover the election by former 24 contributors to give effect to the arrangement, the reinstatement of the former 25 contributors in the Police Superannuation Scheme, the rights and obligations of a 26 reinstated contributor, obligations with respect to employer contributions, the payment of 27 benefits or other amounts from other superannuation schemes to STC, workers 28 compensation benefits, the adjustment and reduction of benefits and other related 29 matters. A former contributor covered by an arrangement has the right to elect to give 30 effect to the arrangement (that is, to be reinstated as a contributor). An election may not 31 be made, or is revoked, if a benefit becomes payable to the person before the election 32 takes effect. An arrangement is to have effect according to its tenor and has effect 33 despite any other provision of the Principal Act or any other Act or regulation or other law 34 or the rules of any affected superannuation scheme. Any action taken by the Minister, 35 STC, FTC or any trustee or other person in accordance with, and for the purposes of, an 36 arrangement before it takes effect is validated if the arrangement takes effect. STC, the 37 STC Board, FTC, the FTC Board and persons acting under their direction are not subject 38 to any action, liability, claim or demand for things done or omitted to be done in 39 connection with revocation elections or an arrangement, or proposed arrangement, or in 40 connection with the provision of information for the purposes of proposed clauses 14–19 41 or an arrangement, or proposed arrangement, or for the purpose of executing the 42

Explanatory note

Item [3] extends the definition of spouse for the purposes of the State Superannuation Scheme to a person who is in a de facto relationship, within the meaning of the Property (Relationships) Act 1984, with a contributor or former contributor to the Scheme. The effect of this is that same sex partners of persons who are entitled to, or who are receiving, benefits are now to be dealt with as spouses and will be entitled to the benefits payable to spouses on the death of a contributor or former contributor.

Items [1], [2] and [4]–[8] make consequential amendments.

Item [9] enables savings and transitional regulations to be made as a consequence of the amendments to be made by the proposed Act.

Item [10] inserts proposed Part 9 of Schedule 25 (proposed clauses 27–35), containing savings and transitional provisions. Proposed clause 27 contains definitions. Proposed clause 28 makes it clear that the extended definition of spouse applies only to contributors or former contributors who die after the extended definition commences.

Proposed clauses 29–35 enable the Minister to enter into arrangements with the FSS Trustee Corporation (FTC), the SAS Trustee Corporation (STC), other trustees of superannuation schemes and other persons for the purpose of giving persons who have previously elected to take a conversion benefit and transfer to the First State Superannuation Fund or other superannuation schemes the right to elect to revoke that election. An arrangement may not take effect with respect to a former contributor except with the former contributor's consent. An arrangement may cover the election by former contributors to give effect to the arrangement, the reinstatement of the former contributors in the State Superannuation Scheme, the rights and obligations of a reinstated contributor, obligations with respect to employer contributions, the payment of benefits or other amounts from other superannuation schemes to STC, the adjustment and reduction of benefits and other related matters. A former contributor covered by an arrangement has the right to elect to give effect to the arrangement (that is, to be reinstated as a contributor). An election may not be made, or is revoked, if a benefit becomes payable to the person before the election takes effect. An arrangement is to have effect according to its tenor and has effect despite any other provision of the Principal Act or any other Act or regulation or other law or the rules of any affected superannuation scheme.
