NEW SOUTH WALES.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES.

(REPORT OF, FOR THE YEAR 1858.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 5 October, 1859.

THE REGISTRAR GENERAL to THE HONORABLE THE COLONIAL SECRETARY, reporting on the Registration of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, for the Year ending 31st December, 1858.

*Registrar General's Office,
Sydney, 30 September, 1859.*

SIR,

I do myself the honor to submit to you, for presentation to Parliament, my Annual Abstracts of Births, Deaths, and Marriages registered in New South Wales during the year 1858, by which it will be seen that 13,802 Births, 2,992 Marriages, and 5,883 Deaths were entered in the Registers.

The result of the year's registration, therefore, has been the addition of 25,669 new names to the national records.

BIRTHS.

2. The natural increase of the population by the excess of births over deaths in the year was 7,919, or at the rate of 2.562 per cent. on the estimated population; this is rather more than 1 per cent. in excess of the annual average increase of England and Wales.

The number of births exceeded by 1,299 the number of births registered in the previous year.

3. There were 330 illegitimate births, one case of triplets, and 122 of twins registered. (See Table at foot.)

Total.....	179	151	3	....	118	126
	330		3		122

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES.

4. The quarters births during the last three years were as follows :—

QUARTERS.	1856.	1857.	1858.
31st March .. .. .	.....	2,891	3,179
30th June .. .. .	2,183	3,062	3,392
30th September .. .. .	3,169	3,280	3,704
31st December .. .. .	3,194	3,250	3,527
Totals .. .. .	8,546	12,503	13,802

5. The number of births registered on solemn declaration, after the expiration of sixty days, under the provisions of section XXII of the Registration Act, was as follows, viz. :—

Sydney .....	208
Hamlets .....	116
Country Districts .....	516
Total.....	840

MARRIAGES.

6. The Marriages in 1858 were 2,992, shewing an increase of 90 on the marriages celebrated during the previous year; of this number 118 were celebrated by the District Registrars, viz. :—

In Sydney .....	10
Hamlets .....	4
Country Districts .....	104
Total .....	118

I have here to notice what has been adverted to in previous reports, viz.,—the necessity for a revision of the Marriage Law, with a view to check the irregularities which the defects in the form of Marriage Certificate prescribed by the Act are found, if not to encourage, yet to conceal and to make difficult of detection. I allude to the marriages of minors, without the proper consent of parent or guardian, as required by law.

Upon the face of the certificate there is no evidence of the age of the parties; and if the Minister or Registrar neglects the endorsement of consent (provided by Section XII of the Marriage Act), in cases of persons under twenty-one years of age, the grossest irregularities may go undetected.

The continuance of this state of things is already productive of many evils, and cannot fail of engendering further mischief.

DEATHS.

The Deaths registered during the year were 5,883, viz., 3,644 males and 2,239 females. This is at the rate of 1.90 per cent. on the estimated population, and is rather in excess of the mortality of the previous year, which was 1.67 per cent.

The quarterly deaths registered during the three years, 1856 to 1858, were as follows, viz. :—

QUARTERS.	1856.	1857.	1858.
31st March .. .. .	* 187	1,448	1,561
30th June .. .. .	1,136	1,047	1,334
30th September .. .. .	997	1,078	1,376
31st December .. .. .	1,186	1,273	1,612
Totals .. .. .	3,506	4,846	5,883

* Registration commenced 1st March, 1856.

8. The infantine mortality was as follows, viz. :—

Under two years ..... 2,209, or 37·54 per cent.

Two to five years ..... 433, or 7·86 per cent.

Together ..... 2,642, or 44·90 per cent. on the total deaths.

The following Table shews the comparative per centage of deaths of children under five years on the total mortality in the City of Sydney, the Metropolitan, and Country Districts respectively, viz. :—

AGES.	SYDNEY.		HAMLETS.		COUNTRY.
	Number.	Per cent. on Total Deaths.	Number.	Per cent. on Total Deaths.	Number.	Per cent. on Total Deaths.
Under two years .. .. .	683	41·46	409	52·77	1,117	32·27
Two to five .. .. .	166	10·07	77	9·93	190	5·48
Total under five .. .. .	849	51·54	486	62·70	1,307	37·76
Five and upwards .. .. .	798	....	289	....	2,154	....
Total Deaths .. .. .	1,647	....	775	....	3,461	....

9. The variations in the infantile mortality in the three years are shewn below, viz., per centage of deaths of children under two years on total deaths :—

DISTRICTS.	1856.	1857.	1858.
Sydney .. .. .	36·44	38·67	41·46
Hamlets .. .. .	46·93	52·87	52·77
Country .. .. .	29·24	31·14	32·27

It will be observed that there is an increase of nearly three per cent. in the infantile mortality in Sydney, and a little over one per cent. in the Country Districts, whilst the Hamlets shew a very slight and almost inappreciable decrease.

The larger proportion of deaths under two years in the Hamlets, as compared with the City and Country Districts, can only be accounted for by a greater preponderance of infantile life in the suburbs of the City.

To avoid the high rents and the close and unhealthy atmosphere of the crowded dwellings within the boundaries of the City, the laboring population are driven to seek more healthy, if not more commodious, habitations in the Suburbs, where they can bring up their families.

10. If we compare the causes of death in the two years 1857 and 1858, in Sydney we find that whilst there is no very marked difference in the proportional fatality of diseases of the sporadic class, diseases of the zymotic class (i. e. epidemic or contagious) were much more fatal in 1858 than in the previous year.

In 1857, the mortality from zymotic causes was 11·46 per cent.; in 1858, it was 20·52.

The number of children under five years who died from zymotic diseases in 1857, was 97; in 1858, it was 225; and of this number 138 were under two years, whilst only 75 died under that age the year before.

Scarlatina, diarrhoea, dysentery, and remittent fevers, yielded the heaviest crop mown down under this class of diseases; and they were unusually fatal in the four latter months of the year.

11. Table H. 3, in the Appendix, gives the mortality in each Ward of the City, but as the population is uncertain, it would be useless entering into any calculations as to the topographical mortality which the Table exhibits.

When the next Census is taken, many interesting deductions may be drawn, and important facts be brought to light connected with the mortality returns generally.

12. I shall not pursue the inquiry further on the present occasion; the Tables are sufficiently clear and copious to afford all the information that may be interesting or useful, and when the results of two or three more years registration are brought forward, the sanitary condition of the Colony at different seasons, and in different localities, will be capable of more satisfactory illustration.

I have, &c.,

CHRIS. ROLLESTON,
Registrar General.

Legislative Assembly.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, &amp; MARRIAGES.

(FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31st DECEMBER, 1859).

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 26 June, 1860.

THE REGISTRAR GENERAL to THE HONORABLE THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*General Registry Office,
Sydney, 8 June, 1860.*

SIR,

I do myself the honor to transmit herewith, for presentation to Parliament, the abstracts of Births, Deaths, and Marriages registered in New South Wales during the year 1859. The ten districts which will be found grouped in the first division in table B (see Appendix) form the new Colony of Queensland, and the returns from that division of districts consequently embrace the eleven months ending 30th November only.

2. The Table at foot shews the numbers registered in each quarter of the year, distinguishing males and females. The births numbered 14,415; the deaths numbered 5,642; and the marriages numbered 3,295, or 6,590 persons married. These form an addition of 26,647 new names to the national records.

The

Increase of the population by excess of births over deaths.

The natural increase to the population by the excess of births over deaths was 8,773, or, estimating the gross population at the middle of the year in round numbers at 350,000, at the rate of 2·506 per cent.

The increase in the previous year was 7,919, or 2·562 per cent.; and in 1857 it was 7,657, or 2·552 per cent. The rate of increase was therefore smaller last year than in either of the two previous years.

3. Looking to the actual number of births, deaths, and marriages registered, we find that the births and marriages exceeded the number registered in the previous year; whilst the number of deaths has decreased. The births were 613 and the marriages were 303 more in number; whilst the deaths were 241 less in number.

Annual rates of births, deaths, and marriages,
as compared with England
and Wales.

The annual rates of the year 1859 were, of births 41·18, of deaths 16·12, and of persons married 18·82 to each 1,000 persons living. These rates, as compared with the average of England and Wales, shew an excess of 8·43 children born and 2·49 persons married to 1,000 living, whilst the mortality was 6·34 below the average of the Mother Country; or, giving the results in another shape, there were of the estimated population in the Colony last year, as compared with the average of England and Wales, viz.:—

	New South Wales.	England and Wales.
Born .....	1 in 24	1 in 31.
Died .....	1 in 62	1 in 45.
Married .....	1 in 53	1 in 61.

Queensland Returns for December.
Appendix B.

I have not made any allowance in the foregoing calculations for the registrations wanting in the first division of Districts for the month of December, because their effect would be barely appreciable, the average monthly returns from the Queensland Districts being—births, 89; deaths, 28; and marriages, 19, only.

BIRTHS.

Ratio of births
in the City,
Suburbs, and Country Districts.
Proportion of males to females.

4. The births in Sydney were in the ratio of 1 in 25 of the estimated population, in the Suburban Districts 1 in 23, and in the Country Districts 1 in 24.

The number of males born to the number of females was in the proportion of 105 boys to 100 girls; in 1858 it was 106 boys to 100 girls.

Marked (B.)
Comparative
Table of births
from 1857 to 1859.

The subjoined Comparative Table gives the births in each year from 1857 to 1859, arranged quarterly for the City and the Suburban and Country Districts respectively. The year 1856, being a broken year, is excluded.

The curious may, from the facts exhibited in this Table, be able to deduce conclusions as to the effect the seasons have upon the fecundity of the population. The Returns do not embrace children still-born.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES.

5. The ratio of births registered to the estimated population has fluctuated but little. It was 4.16 to 100 living in 1857, 4.24 in 1858, and 4.12 in 1859. Fluctuation of births in the three years.

There is reason to believe that the slight decrease observable in the ratio of births for last year is due to remissness on the part of parents in the City of Sydney (during the last quarter of the year more particularly) to register the births of their children within the prescribed period (60 days). Presumed remissness of parents in Sydney to register births.

This assumption is borne out by the figures in the Table, where a decrease is (B.) noticeable in the number of births registered in Sydney during the last quarters of both 1858 and 1859.

The deficiency of 1858 was brought up by the increase in the first quarter of 1859, but the Registers for 1860 do not shew a corresponding increase, and from this circumstance I am inclined to believe that the decrease is attributable to negligence on the part of parents, and not to any actual falling off in the number of births.

6. Taking the three years together, the second and third, or Summer quarters, exceed the first and fourth, or Winter quarters, in the number of births, viz. :— Excess of births in the Summer as compared with the Winter quarters.

In Sydney, by .....	312
In the Suburbs, by .....	60
In the Country Districts, by .....	562

In Sydney the second quarter is the highest and the fourth quarter the lowest in point of numbers.

In the Suburban Districts the fourth quarter is the highest and the first quarter the lowest; whilst in the Country Districts the third quarter is the highest and the first quarter the lowest.

The natural inference from the total results would seem to be that in this Colony the cooler season is more prolific in births than the warm season of the year, or the reverse of England, where the Summer season is found to be the most fruitful.

7. The Table below shews the number of illegitimate children, the number of twins, Marked (C.) and the number of triplets registered during the year.

The number of children born out of wedlock was 465, or 3.225 per cent. on the total births; in 1858 the proportion was 2.390 per cent.; and in 1857 it was 2.335 per cent. Whether the gradual increase is attributable to improved Registration, or to the deterioration of morals in the community, I have not sufficient data to enable me to determine. Proportion of children born out of wedlock.

Comparing our state with that of the Mother Country, we are not justified in taking a gloomy view of the question. Comparison with England and Wales.

The proportion of children born out of wedlock in England and Wales fluctuates very materially in different counties, and it is by no means the highest in the populous cities where it might be looked for.

Illegitimate
births in London.

For instance, in the City of London (where the illegitimate births may possibly not all be registered) the proportion is about 4·0 per cent. of the births, whilst in the County of Cumberland the proportion exceeds 10·0 per cent.; the average of England and Wales being somewhere between 6·0 and 7·0 per cent.

Illegitimate
births in the City of Sydney and Suburbs.

In the City of Sydney last year the proportion was 4·41 per cent., and in the Suburbs 2·20 per cent.; or if we class the two together, we reduce the metropolitan proportion to 3·48, or a little below that of London; whilst in the Country Districts 3·12 per cent. only of the births are registered as illegitimate.

Triplets.

The case of triplets, noted in the Table, occurred in the District of Goulburn.

MARRIAGES.

Proportion of marriages celebrated by the different religious denominations.

8. 3,295 Marriages were registered during the year, and of this number 1,074 or nearly one-third—32·60 per cent.—were celebrated according to the rites of the Church of England; 820, or 24·90 per cent., according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church; 889, or 27·00 per cent., by the Presbyterians; 212, or 6·43 per cent., by the Wesleyans; 140, or 4·25 per cent., by other Denominations; and 160, or 4·85 per cent., by the District Registrars.

With reference to the marriages celebrated by civil contract.

Of the marriages performed by civil contract, 3 only were celebrated in Sydney, and 7 in the Suburban Districts, whilst 150 were celebrated by the Registrars in the Country Districts. This fact goes to prove very clearly that where the services of the Church are available persons are by no means satisfied to substitute the civil ceremony; for it may fairly be assumed that the excess of marriages by civil contract in the Country Districts is owing entirely to the paucity of ministerial visitations, and not to any objection to, or want of proper appreciation of the religious ceremony.

Marked (D.)

9. The Table below shews the number of marriages celebrated in each quarter of the years 1857 to 1859, in the City, Suburbs, and Country Districts, respectively.

Decrease in the number of marriages in Sydney.

The decrease in the number of marriages celebrated in Sydney is a very noticeable feature in the Return; it seems to bear remarkable evidence of the pressure of the times upon the industrial classes.

Marriages a test of the goodness or the badness of the times in England.

At Home the Marriage Registers are found to be a certain barometer of the condition and prospects of the people; and there is reason to believe that a similar degree of prudence and foresight regulates the habits of the people of New South Wales; indeed, the figures before us would seem to prove that the same influences do produce the same effects: when people people are well off, and employment is plentiful, they marry—when the times are bad, they refrain from marriage.

We know that in the City of Sydney, during the last two years, labor has not been so plentiful, nor have wages ruled so high, as they were during the six previous years, and we see the effect in the diminution of marriages, from 18·66 per 1,000 in 1857, to 15·76 per 1,000 in 1859; or, in other words, out of 1,000 persons living in 1857, 37 were married; in 1858, 34 were married; and in 1859, only 31 were married.

Effect of the pressure of the times upon the marriages in Sydney.

Had the marriages proceeded in the same ratio to the population as we find them in 1857, there should have been 1,128 marriages instead of 953.

Any serious check to the prosperity of the community is thus seen to repress the natural increase of the population.

10. In the Suburban Districts, whilst the number of marriages exceeded the rate of Suburbs. 1858, they did not reach the standard of 1857. But in the Country Districts, where labor has maintained a more equable rate, it will be seen that the marriages have increased both in the number and in the rate per 1,000.

Country Districts.

11. I must not forbear to notice the remarkable difference between the numbers of males and females who signed the Registers with marks.

Proportion of males and females signing the Registers with marks.

Table C, in the Appendix, shews that, out of 6,590 persons married, no fewer than 1,770, or 26·86 per cent. signed with marks; of these 687, or 38· per cent., were males, and 1,083, or 62· per cent. were females.

There can be no question that many women who make their marks are deterred by timidity from writing their names, and that they are influenced by timidity to a greater degree than men. Hence in great measure arises the apparent educational inferiority amongst them.

Greater timidity of females to be allowed for.

12. Referring to the Returns of the Registrar General of England, and comparing them with ours, I find that they shew the proportion of 41 in 100 women to our 33, and 29 in 100 men to our 21, who make crosses instead of writing their names in the Marriage Registers. Deplorably defective as the state of education amongst us is, we have reason to congratulate ourselves on the favorable comparison with the Mother Country which this universally admitted test of the state of primary education affords.

Comparison with England and Wales.

It is to be regretted that the defects in the form of Marriage Certificate preclude the possibility of extending our inquiries into the relative ages of persons married, the number of minors married, and the number of re-marriages.

Certain defects in the form of Marriage Certificate noticed.

These and other inquiries which cannot be pursued would be interesting, as tending to illustrate the social condition and habits of the people.

13. In the 13th and 14th paragraphs of my Second Annual Report presented to Parliament, bearing date 16 August, 1858, reference was made to the defects in the form of Marriage Certificate, as well as to one or two other defects in the laws affecting marriages, requiring attention.

Further pointing out defects in the form of Marriage Certificate, and the evils arising therefrom.

The chief ones were,—

1st—As to the uncertainty of what was intended by the law to entitle a man to be registered as an “ordinarily officiating Minister of Religion,” for celebrating marriages; and

2nd—The want of check to the solemnization of irregular marriages.

With regard to the first:—Questions have arisen as to the power of the heads of certain denominations to erase the names of their Ministers from the annual list; and also as to the right to refuse to place upon the Register the names of persons calling themselves Ministers of Religion, but having no recognised standing or places of worship. It is desirable that both these questions should be determined.

As to the right of heads of denominations to erase names of Ministers from Register.

With regard to the second:—The marriage of young people under age without the proper consent of parents or guardians has been the subject of frequent complaint, and the defects in the Certificate render the detection of these irregularities (where they are wilfully committed) almost impossible. An amendment of the Form of Certificate is necessary to correct this evil, and I again commend the subject to the attention of the Government.

As to marriages of young persons under age without consent.

Vide Appendix M., 2nd Annual Report.

14. There is another point which I think it proper to notice at the same time; it relates to the civil contract.

With reference to marriages before Registrars.—Amendment in the law proposed.

As the law stands no notice is necessary of an intended marriage before the Registrar. Provided the intended wife is declared "ordinarily to reside" in the Registrar's District, he has no right to refuse to proceed with the ceremony on the spot in the presence of two witnesses. This summary method of proceeding is contrary to the recommendation of the Select Committee of the Legislative Council on the Marriage Laws, presented to the House in 1853,—and, I believe, opposed to the practice in every other country where the civil contract is made binding. It is very desirable that, to prevent the abuse of the privilege, not less than ten days' notice should be required, and publicity given of the intention of the parties to be married before the Registrar, so that the Registrar himself may have the opportunity of inquiring, and parents and friends of objecting, in cases of minority or other supposed disabilities.

Notice of ten days proposed to prevent irregularities.

DEATHS.

15. The number of deaths registered in 1859 was 5,642, viz., 3,494 males and 2,148 females, which was a smaller number by 241 than was registered during the previous year. This is a satisfactory feature in the returns; it implies a lower rate of mortality than has been observed since the registration system came into operation.

Comparative rates of mortality for three years.

The annual rates of mortality of the three complete years were—1857, 1·615 per cent., or 1 in 62; 1858, 1·810 per cent., or 1 in 55; 1859, 1·612 per cent., or 1 in 62—on the estimated population at the middle of each year.*

The range of the mortality in England and Wales in 18 years was from 2·077 (1 in 48) to 2·512 per cent. (1 in 40), the average rate being 2·246 per cent.; and during those 18 years there were two epidemics of cholera, and one of influenza.

The average in New South Wales during the three years was 1·679 per cent., or 1 in 59.

Comparative mortality of males and females.

16. The mortality of males was as 162 to 100 females, and it is somewhat remarkable how little fluctuation is observable in the proportional number of deaths of the sexes. In 1857, it was 162 to 100; in 1858, it was 163 to 100; in 1859, it was 162 to 100.

Proportion of males and females per Census.

By the Census of 1856, the proportion of males to females was 55·2 males to 44·8 females.

If we assume the sexes to have maintained this proportion, we arrive at the conclusion that the mortality amongst males is over three per thousand greater than it is amongst females; the average rate for the three years, 1857 to 1859, being about 19 per thousand males to about 16 per thousand females. But, as in the five years preceding the Census of 1856 we gained an increase of 44 females to every 1,000 males, so it is reasonable to assume a greater proportional increase for the current 5 years, and therefore the comparison may not in reality prove quite so unfavorable to the male sex, as our assumption shews it to be.

Proportion in England and Wales compared with Sydney.

In England and Wales the actual proportion of deaths is 103 males to 100 females, whilst out of equal numbers living the proportion of deaths of males is as 108 to 100 females.

Local analysis of Death Returns deferred till the results of next Census are known.

17. Although Table B, in the Appendix, gives the number of deaths registered in each District of the Colony, it would be premature to attempt to deduce conclusions as to the comparative rates of mortality in the ten different divisions into which the Colony has been distributed.

If we were to take the Census of 1856 as the basis of calculation the results would be unsatisfactory, and possibly very erroneous, since we know not what displacement of the population may have occurred since; I shall wait, therefore, until the results of the Census of 1861 are known, to make a local analysis of the Mortality Returns in the Country Districts.

* The uncertainty as to the overland migration of the people between this Colony and Victoria and South Australia, renders it impossible to arrive at the actual population. It has been estimated, for the purpose of these calculations, upon the basis of the average annual increase of the five years preceding the census of 1856, which gives in round numbers for the middle of 1857, 300,000; for the middle of 1858, 325,000; and for the middle of 1859 about 350,000, including Queensland. Probably these estimates are rather under than over the true quantity, but they are near enough for our present calculations.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES.

18. At foot will be found a Comparative Table shewing the deaths in Sydney, the Suburbs, and Country Districts respectively, for the years 1857 to 1859, arranged quarterly. Marked (E.)

It is satisfactory to notice a decrease in the mortality of the City and Suburbs in each quarter of the year 1859, as compared with the previous year, whilst in the Country Districts there is observable a slight increase in the numbers of the two first quarters of the year only. Decrease in Metropolitan Mortality.

In Sydney there were 241 fewer deaths registered, which implies the difference between 28.28 in 1858, and 23.25 in 1859, or a decrease of 5.03 per 1,000 living, whilst as compared with 1857 the decrease is barely appreciable, being no more than 0.22 per 1,000. Decrease in the City Returns.

In other words, the deaths in the three years were—

In 1857 as 1 in 43.

1858 as 1 in 35.

1859 as 1 in 43.

The average of the three years being 25.00 per 1,000 living, or 1 in 40.

It is a somewhat singular coincidence that the decrease in the deaths in the Suburban Districts (84) should exactly balance the increase in the Country Districts (84), leaving the decrease in Sydney (241) that of the Colony at large.

19. In the Suburban Districts the decrease in the rate of mortality was from 20.92 in 1858 to 16.61 in 1859 or 4.31 per 1,000 living. Suburban mortality.

The fluctuation in the three years was as follows :—

In 1857, 1 in 52 died.

1858, 1 in 48 died.

1859, 1 in 60 died.

The average of the three years being 18.83 per 1,000, or 1 in 53.

If we throw the deaths of the City and Suburbs together, the rates exhibited in the following Table shew the Metropolitan mortality, viz. :— Metropolitan average of Mortality for three years.

* In a Parliamentary Paper, dated 17th February, 1860, the mortality of the Hamlets for the year 1859 is put down as 692. The correction is owing the discovery of an entry of the same death in two districts.

Comparison with London.

The average of the three years is 22·59 per 1,000 living, or 1 in 45; and this is 2·12 per thousand or about one quarter per cent. below the annual average rate of the Metropolitan District of London for the ten years from 1845 to 1854.

Country mortality.

20. In the Country Districts the mortality has not exhibited the same degree of fluctuation as has been noticed in the Town and Suburban Communities. Comparing the Country with the Metropolitan mortality we find a very considerable decrease in the rates exhibited.

Proportion of rural deaths in three years.

For the three years the proportion of deaths to the estimated population in the Country Districts was as follows, viz. :—

In 1857—13·76 per 1,000, or 1 in 73.

1858—15·06 per 1,000, or 1 in 66.

1859—14·29 per 1,000, or 1 in 69.

The average being 14·37 per 1,000 persons living, or 1 in 69;—that is 8·22 per 1,000 below the Metropolitan mortality, and 10·63 below that of the City of Sydney.

Reasons for the excess of mortality in Sydney over the Rural Districts.

When it is considered that the great public institutions for the sick and infirm in Sydney are open to the whole Colony, and that numbers are attracted from all parts by the comfort and attention, if not by the prospects of recovery which they afford,—when the mortality on shipboard, from accidents in the harbor, and from other exogenous sources are taken into account, and when we think on the evils arising from crowded dwellings, improper ventilation, unwholesome exhalations, impurities of all kinds, vice, filth, drunkenness and its concomitants—indigenous evils which prevail in no trifling degree in this naturally healthful city of ours,—the wonder is that the difference between the urban and rural mortality is not greater than the returns shew it to be.

Comparison with England and Wales.

21. The annual rate of mortality per cent. in the Town and Country Districts of England, during the six years 1850 to 1855, fluctuated between 2·228 and 2·816, with a mean of 2·562 per cent., for the Town Districts; and between 1·888 and 2·062, with a mean of 2·001 per cent. for the Country Districts, the difference being 0·561, or rather more than one-half per cent. in favor of the Country Districts; whilst in New South Wales the average for the three years was 2·259 per cent. in the Metropolitan Districts, and 1·437 per cent. in the Country Districts, the difference being 0·822, or a little over three-quarters per cent. in favor of the Country Districts.

These results are both interesting and instructive, they serve to some extent as a test of the accuracy of our own Registration, and they shew us that the same laws of health and disease have corresponding force at Home and at the Antipodes.

Infantile mortality.
Marked (F.)

22. We come now to notice the mortality amongst children, and more particularly amongst the infantile population. The Table, at foot, exhibits the number and per centage of deaths under two years and under five years for each of the three years, 1857 to 1859, in the City, Suburbs, and Country Districts respectively; and here the most prominent feature attracting attention will probably be the apparently excessive number of deaths of infants under two years in the Suburbs, as compared with the City and Country Districts.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES.

Taking the mean of the three years, the deaths of infants under two years in proportion to the total deaths would appear to range higher by 13.52 per cent. in the Suburbs than they do in the City, and 21.70 per cent. higher than they do in the Country Districts. But we must not assume from these figures that there is a greater sacrifice of infant life in the Suburban Districts than in the City as many persons have supposed, and to prove this we have only to look to the number of births and to compare the deaths with them.

23. The following statements are presented with the view of disabusing the public mind as to the erroneous impression that has got abroad, and of placing the facts in their true light.

Apparent excess of suburban over urban and rural deaths under two years.

Showing the relative proportions of deaths to births in the Urban, Suburban, and Rural Districts.

These figures demonstrate the fallacy of the notion, that more than half the children born die before they reach the age of two years. Doubtless the mortality of infants during the first year of their existence is great—it is so in all countries; but we see by the foregoing tables that, taking the deaths of children up to two years of age, the average annual mortality of the three years little exceeds 25 per cent. of the annual births in the City; 21 per cent. in the Suburbs, and no more than 11 per cent. in the Country Districts.

Fallacy of popular impression demonstrated.

24. Tables D in the appendix afford us the means of ascertaining the number of Infants who die before they reach the age of twelve months, and it may be satisfactory to compare the mortality in New South Wales in this point of view with what it is found to be in Victoria.

Child Death—or number of infants who do not survive the age of twelve months.

For the purpose of this comparison I shall throw the City and Suburbs together, so as to make only two divisions, viz. :—

Greater risk in infancy to male over female life.

25. It is remarkable to trace through the foregoing figures evidences of the greater risk to which male life is exposed, even in the first year of existence. Taking the mean of the three years, it appears that out of every 100 males born in the Colony, nearly 12 (11.81) die within the year; whilst of every 100 females born only about 10 (10.11) die.

Chances in favor of infant life in the rural over urban districts.

The greater chances in favor of children born in the Country surviving the first year of their existence are also very clearly exemplified in the figures before us. Taking the mean of the three years, we find that out of every 100 children born 16.66 die in the Metropolitan Districts, whilst only 8.55 die in the Country Districts.

It is quite possible that in some of the widely-extended districts of the interior registration may not have attained the same publicity and perfection it has done in and near the Metropolis, yet a careful examination of the returns from the several districts leaves no grounds for supposing that any important omissions can have occurred, or that any serious neglect of the Registration Law can have escaped the observation of the District Registrars.

Infantile mortality in Victoria

26. In the Colony of Victoria the Returns of the three years 1855 to 1857, shew the following rates of mortality under one year to every 100 Births, viz. :—

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Melbourne and Suburbs .....	20.84	19.24	20.05
Country .....	14.60	12.36	13.50

By comparison with these figures Infant Life in New South Wales would seem to be more cared for, or subject to fewer casualties.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS, DEATHS, AND MARRIAGES.

Since this classification was adopted, Dr Farr has elaborated the English Tables and produced seventeen divisions instead of twelve, but it does not seem desirable to introduce a more elaborate classification in these Colonies where the primary causes of deaths are in many instances unknown, and where the immediate cause of death is often recorded without the guarantee of a Medical Certificate.

The largely increasing number of Medical Certificates received during the last year, and still coming in, affords satisfactory evidence of the importance attached by the Profession to the attainment of reliable information as to the causes of death; and it is hoped that the Members of the Profession, both in town and country, will kindly co-operate with the Registrars in their endeavours to perfect the Returns in this important respect.

28. Before closing our inquiry into the Death Returns, I would wish to illustrate the effect upon life produced by the warm and cool seasons respectively, and I do this by the means of the subjoined Table, which exhibits the rates of mortality for the three years, 1857 to 1859, in the summer and winter seasons; we can hardly be said to have any Spring and Autumn quarters, for we generally jump at once from cold weather to hot, and from hot weather to cold. The Tables in the Appendix will afford any one interested in pursuing this inquiry further the means of making the most minute and varied analysis.

Seasons—effect of warm and cool seasons on Death Rate exemplified.
Marked (H.)

I shall content myself with merely placing the Table before you in its present shape, shewing the effect of the warm and cool seasons upon the rates of mortality in the Metropolitan and Country Districts.

It will be seen that the deaths in the warm season average about seven per 1,000 higher in the Metropolitan Division, and about two per 1,000 higher in the Country Division, the average difference over the whole Colony between the Winter and Summer rate being 3.56 per thousand.

29. The question of relieving the Central Office of the duty of registering births and deaths has been adverted to on former occasions, and a Bill to effect this object was prepared with official sanction, but no further steps have been taken to carry out the intention.

With reference to the establishment of Subregistry Districts
in the City.

There are inconveniences attaching to the registering of births and deaths at the central office, looking at the question officially, but the inconvenience to the public is still greater, so much so that I am afraid it in some measure prevents the attainment of perfect accuracy in the registration for the City; I allude more particularly to the non-registration of births, for the detection of which the same facilities are not afforded by the law as are available for the detection of any omission to register a death.

Inconvenience
attaching to registration in the central office.

The system being now so successfully established, it is very desirable that every means should be adopted to secure the most perfect accuracy, and I have reason to believe that the establishment of two or more sub-registry offices in the city would, by affording greater

Success of system of registration, and proposals for improving same.

greater facilities to the public, and by rendering omissions more easy of detection, tend very much to ensure the attainment of this object.

Number of Returns,
Registrars, and Districts.

30. The Returns (exclusive of the Queensland division) were collected from 79 districts, and there are the same number of District Registrars. A nominal list of these will be found in the Appendix, marked L.

The Returns from the several Registrars are sent in quarterly, and undergo a careful examination. Should any omissions or discrepancies be discovered, reference is made back for the correction of the error, or for explanation. This entails a very heavy correspondence.

Sub-division and re-arrangement of Districts.

31. The sub-division of districts (found inconveniently large) is occasionally called for, and during the course of last year a general re-arrangement of the boundaries of the several districts was made with a view to bring the Electoral, Police, and Registry Districts into unison with each other, and this unanimity it is intended to maintain as closely as circumstances will admit.

Urging the transfer of Church of England
Registers.

Public inconvenience represented.

32. It is well that I should take the present opportunity of urging again the necessity of securing for the use of the public the Church of England Registers of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, at present in the possession of Mr. James, the Deputy-Registrar of the Diocese of Sydney. Urgent representations have been repeatedly made as to the inconvenience attending their present custody; they are acknowledged to be records of great value, and yet they are only accessible to the public as a favor to be granted or refused at the option of the custodian.

Mr. James' claims.

The claim advanced by Mr. James, as compensation for the care and attention bestowed in the collection and arrangement of the Records, and for his labor in the compilation of the Indices, is generally considered, by those who have acquainted themselves with the circumstances under which the Records have been preserved, both just and reasonable; and any one who will take the trouble to compare the records of other religious denominations collected by the Government with those of the Church of England will acknowledge the very superior manner in which Mr. James has discharged his self-imposed duties, and even on this account, irrespective of other considerations, might be disposed to look favorably upon the question of remuneration which alone stands in the way of the transfer of the Records to the proper custody of the Registrar General.

I have, &c.,

CHRIS. ROLLESTON,
Registrar General.

MESSRS. NORTON, SON, AND BARKER, AND OTHERS to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

SIR,

Not having been favored with any reply to the communications we had the honor to address to you upon the subject of the transfer of the Church of England Registers to the department of the Registrar General, we again beg to draw your attention to the matter.

In consideration of the very great inconvenience sustained by the public from the want of a legal right of reference to these records, we feel compelled to urge the importance of having them placed under the control of a responsible public officer.

We trust, therefore, that the Government will take this subject into their early consideration.

MESSRS. NORTON, SON, AND BARKER, AND OTHERS to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 29 November, 1858.

SIR,

The Bill for the transfer of the Church of England records of Births, Deaths, and Marriages to the Registrar General, introduced into the Parliament during the late Session, having lapsed in the Assembly, and consequently no effect having been given to our former representations upon this subject, we beg again respectfully to urge upon the Government the great public necessity which exists for securing possession of these records, and placing them under the protection and control of a responsible functionary. The facts of the case have been so long and prominently before the Government, that we consider it unnecessary to repeat them, but we desire to remind you, that the public interests involved in

in the measure we have recommended are of daily increasing seriousness, and to express our earnest hope that the Executive will take immediate action in this matter.

We have, &c.,

THE UNDER SECRETARY to MESSRS. NORTON, SON, AND BARKER.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
 Sydney, 7 December, 1858.*

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of a letter dated the 29th ultimo, signed by yourselves and other Attorneys of the Supreme Court, urging upon the Government the necessity of securing possession of the Church of England records of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, and placing them under the protection and control of a responsible functionary.

2. In reply I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you that the Government cannot undertake to bring forward any measures of legislation until the new Parliament assembles.

THE REGISTRAR GENERAL to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

*Registrar General's Office,
 Sydney, 26 July, 1859.*

SIR,

As the Session of Parliament is approaching I deem it of importance to renew my suggestions with regard to the transfer of the Church of England Registers of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, from the Bishop's Office to the custody of the Government.

2. It is unnecessary to repeat the arguments used on a former occasion in favor of this proposal. The public records cannot be considered complete whilst these Registers are in other keeping and accessible only by favor of their custodier.

3. I have to request that the matter may again be submitted to the notice of the Honorable the Chief Secretary, with a view to provision being made on the Estimates for such compensation to Mr. James as to the Government may seem fit.

I have, &c.,

 UNDER SECRETARY.

MESSRS. NORTON, SON, AND BARKER to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 29 July, 1859.

SIR,

As the Session of the new Parliament is about to commence, we beg most respectfully to call your attention to your letter to us of the 7th December last, on the subject of the Church of England records of Marriages, Births, and Deaths, intimating that some measure would be laid before the Legislature for the purpose of placing those records under the control of a responsible public functionary.

As it is admitted on all hands that some action is necessary by the Government in this matter, on urgent public grounds, we beg to express a hope that early attention will be given to the subject by the Government.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to THE BISHOP OF SYDNEY.

Colonial Secretary's Office,Sydney, 18 August, 1859.

MY LORD,

Repeated and urgent representations have been made to the Government that it would be greatly conducive to the interests of the community if the Returns of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, registered by the Church of England, which are understood to be now in the Diocesan Registry Office, together with the Indices, were transferred to the Registrar General of the Colony, to render more complete the Records of his department, and to be made generally available for the public benefit; and I am therefore directed by the Colonial Secretary to request your Lordship will be so good as to inform him, whether you see any objection to the necessary legal formalities being taken for effecting such transfer.

2. I enclose for your Lordship's information a copy of a Parliamentary Paper, containing the correspondence which has taken place respecting these records, with some further letters which have since been received on the subject.

I have, &amp;c.,

W. ELYARD.

THE RIGHT REVEREND

THE LORD BISHOP

OF SYDNEY.

No. 7.

THE BISHOP OF SYDNEY to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 20 August, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the Under Secretary's letter, dated the 18th instant, stating that repeated and urgent representations have been made to the Government that it would be greatly conducive to the interests of the community if the Returns of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, registered by the Church of England, which are understood to be now in the Diocesan Registry Office, together with the Indices, were transferred to the office of the Registrar General of the Colony, to render more complete the Records of that department and to be made generally available for the public benefit; and requesting me to inform you if I see any objection to the necessary legal formalities being taken for effecting such transfer.

2. I find it stated by the Registrar General in the correspondence forwarded in support of this proposition, that "the public records cannot be considered complete whilst those referred to are in other keeping"; and by a large body of the legal profession it is represented represented that the value of these Registers, "as affecting the inheritance and legal transmission of real estate in this Colony is incalculable"—the Registrar of the Diocese (Mr. Norton) bearing the strongest testimony to the same effect.

3. These representations, and the facts and arguments by which they are supported, leave no doubt on my mind that the public interests require that very early attention should be paid to the urgent appeals addressed to the Government, "to cause these Records to be placed under the control of a responsible officer."

4. At the same time, I feel bound to express my conviction of the great zeal and diligence of the Deputy Registrar, to whom the public has been indebted for the collection, preservation, systematic arrangement, and indexing of these valuable documents; and in reply, therefore, to your inquiry, I beg leave to say that I see no objection to the proposed measure, provided that, in accordance with the recommendation of the Honorable J. Norton, contained in his communication to the Registrar General, (pages 2 and 3 of the Parliamentary paper enclosed in your letter,) an equitable remuneration is awarded to the Deputy Registrar, in consideration of those services which are now recognized as of the highest public value.

I have, &c.,

F. SYDNEY.

THE HONORABLE

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

No. 8.

H. K. JAMES, ESQ., to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 3 September, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to forward herewith copies of two letters addressed to me, representing the serious injury sustained by the public consequent upon the repeal of the Acts 6 George IV, No. 21, and 3 Victoria, No. 23, without any provision having been made for the future disposal of the highly valuable records thereby legalized.

2. In the one case serious pecuniary interests, and in the other the "ends of justice," are alleged as motive for these appeals, and as applications of a similarly urgent nature are continually preferred, I beg leave respectfully to express my earnest hope that the Government will shortly be enabled to give effect to those measures which have so long been contemplated for relieving the public and myself from the embarrassing position in which the subject of this communication at present stands.

I have, &c.,

H. KERRISON JAMES.

THE HONORABLE

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 8.]

Sydney, 18 June, 1859.

Sir,

With reference to your letter of the 17th instant, in reply to mine of the 16th, requesting you to make searches and furnish me with certificates of the registration of certain marriages, &c., which are necessary to elucidate the title to the Minchinbury Estate, placed in my hands for sale by Mr. Justice Dickinson, and in which you inform me you have discontinued to perform such services, and refer me to an enclosed Parliamentary Return, I beg to state that the inability to produce these documents at the sale will be likely to depreciate the property to the extent of £1,000, as I have no means without them of proving the heirship of the parties interested.

I trust you will not continue to refuse these certificates, for which I am ready to pay the required remuneration, as by such refusal, if persisted in, and extended to other cases, an incalculable amount of injury will be done to public property and to the community at large.

I have, &c.,

W. W. BILLYARD.

H. K. James, Esq.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure 2 in No. 8.]

Sydney, 1 September, 1859.

Dear Sir,

On Thursday last we sent to the Bishop's Registry Office to make search for the date of a birth recorded there in accordance with the Act of Council, and were informed that the information could not be granted as you no longer afforded the public access to your Indices.

We do not know on what ground you feel entitled to refuse the information.

The records are public records, and we consider the public entitled to the information they afford upon payment of the fees legally chargeable.

It may be hard and unjust that no provision has been made by Government for compensating you for the labor and expense you have incurred in compiling and keeping up these records; but this is a matter in which individuals can do no more than sympathize with you. If the public have a right to make searches, the injustice done to you personally by the Government will not entitle you to defeat that right.

The information we require is indispensable, for the ends of justice, in a cause to be tried at Maitland within this month; and if you should still adhere to the determination expressed, we shall be compelled, on behalf of our client, to bring the matter under the notice of the Government; and in the meantime we give you notice that we shall hold you responsible for any loss or expense he may sustain or be put to in consequence of your refusal.

Yours truly,

NORTON, SON, &amp; BARKER.

H. K. James, Esq.

[Enclosure 3 in No. 8.]

Sydney, 2 September, 1859.

Gentlemen,

In reply to your letter of the 1st instant, I beg to remind you that the Act of Council to which I suppose you refer was repealed by the Act 19 Victoria, No. 30, and that there is no law securing to the public the rights you assume them to possess.

The Government having made no provision for compensating me for the services voluntarily performed for upwards of twenty (20) years, in carrying out the late enactment, the value of which services has been over and over again affirmed in and out of Parliament, it cannot be considered unreasonable that I should claim the right to exercise my own discretion in allowing or disallowing the public the benefit of what has been acquired by my individual exertions, and at my own expense. I regret, therefore, that I am compelled, in justice to myself, to refuse your application, not admitting that I am at all responsible for any consequences that may ensue.

I remain, &amp;c.,

H. KERRISON JAMES.

Messrs. Norton, Son, &amp; Barker.

GENTLEMEN,

With reference to your letter of the 29th of July last, on the subject of the Returns of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, registered by the Church of England, now in the possession of the Deputy Registrar, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you that, with a view to their being transferred, together with the Indices, to the office of the Registrar General of the Colony, by which they would be generally available for the public benefit, and make more complete the records of that department, the Government has placed a sum on the Supplementary Estimates for the present year, to be paid to the Deputy Registrar as compensation, on the proposed transfer being effected.

Sydney, 22 October, 1859.*

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 3rd ultimo, on the subject of the returns of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, registered by the Church of England, now in your possession, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to transmit, for your information, a copy of a communication which has been made on the subject to Messrs. Norton, Son, and Barker, by which you will observe that steps have been taken for placing the documents alluded to in the department of the Registrar General, where they will be available to the public generally; and for granting you compensation on the proposed transfer being carried into effect.

MEMO. :—

* The Registration Act came into operation on the 1st March, 1856. The Death Rate for that year is calculated upon the actual number of Deaths registered during the ten months, with the addition of an assumed mortality at the same rate for the two months of January and February, to complete the year.

2. The population of the years 1857, 1858, and 1859, is estimated upon the basis of the average annual increase of the five years preceding the last Census.

3. It appears that whilst the rate of mortality in 1858 exhibited a large increase upon that of the two preceding years, the rate for 1859 has fallen lower than it has been since the Registration system was commenced.

1.—The Returns for the year 1859, for the Hamlets, are not yet made up to enable me to furnish the rate of Mortality amongst children under 5 years for the last year.

2.—The excessive rate of Mortality amongst children in the Hamlets, in the years 1856-7, and 8, as compared with the City, is only to be accounted for upon the assumption that children under 5 years of age bear a larger proportion to the up-grown population in the Hamlets than they do in Sydney, an assumption which the results of the last Census tend to confirm.

NUMERICAL SYSTEM OF LAND REGISTRATION.

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command.

REGISTRAR, NEW ZEALAND, to GOVERNOR GENERAL.

Registry Office, Auckland,New Zealand, 23 December, 1859.

SIR,

I did myself the honor to forward to your Excellency, some time since, certain papers connected with the Numerical System of Registration, soliciting your perusal of them, and requesting that you would place them in the hands of the Members of your Government, for their consideration; and as the accompanying paper deals with the same subject, I have taken the liberty also to forward it, in the hope that it may clearly prove the efficiency and simplicity of this system of Registering Titles.

Your Excellency will, of course, perceive that the enclosed paper is immediately addressed to the Members of the Government of this Country, urging upon them the necessity of giving me the system in a complete form, and also of making it general for the whole Colony.

I have, &amp;c.,

ROBT. KELLY,

Registrar.

GOVERNOR SIR W. T. DENISON, K.C.B.,

&amp;c., &amp;c., &amp;c.

(Enclosure.)

THE Scheme of Registration set forth and explained in these papers I have called numerical, not that numbers can of themselves make titles good or bad, but because they secure those great essentials in registration without which we may labor in vain to effect a useful or valuable system, but with their aid other matters connected with this important subject may with greater facility be prepared, and are for the most part supplied in these sheets.

As many of my readers are unacquainted with the circumstances which led to the introduction of this scheme of registration into Auckland, a few words upon the subject may not prove uninteresting.

In 1853 I forwarded a paper to the Chief Justice of this Colony exhibiting the difficulties of map designation, which I was then, in accordance with the Land Registration Ordinance enacted by law for this Colony, in vain struggling to carry out for a portion only of a single County. In this document I recommended that the plan of simple numerical designation be substituted for it. I also published a pamphlet about the same time, exposing the defects of the system in use in New Zealand.

Having obtained the concurrence of the Chief Justice, I forthwith prepared a book of consecutive numbers, in which I entered the numerical designation of all registered properties, and simultaneously with this commencement of the numerical system, and correspondently with the book of numbers, I introduced a new column into our indexing books, in which these numbers are inserted opposite to the instruments which they represent. By this arrangement any registered property, whether subdivided or otherwise, may be arrived at in a moment, because the book of numbers points to the page where it is to be found.

As it is only by comparison that we can discover the superiority of simplicity over complexity, I will give examples of the two modes of designating properties, and then my readers can determine for themselves which is preferable.

The descriptions are real and frequent. The property I am about to describe was originally called allotments 7 and 8 of section 8. The grantee subsequently cut it up, and sold it in parts, and one of his parts is described by the conveyancer as follows:—"All that piece or parcel of land situated in the suburbs of Auckland, parish of Waitemata, and County of Eden, part of allotments numbers 7 and 8 of section number 8, and being lot No. 4 of section No. 2, upon a plan of the subdivision of allotments No. 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11 of said section No. 8."

Numerical designation would simply be part of 10,000 (or whatever the registered number of the estate might happen to be), and by means of this number in one minute he is brought to the particular portion of the property which he wants to see; whereas by the former description, he might almost as well attempt to search for a needle in a bundle of straw as to think of finding it out. In the one instance he can, with the aid of the book of numbers, make it out himself in one minute; whereas in the other instance, he is altogether dependent upon a clerk of great experience, combined with a good memory, to help him, and even then he may fail in the object of his search; but by numerical designation there can be no failure.

I have now shewn the superiority of simple numerical designation of land over every other; but of course it would be ridiculous to assume that either map or numerical designation would, independently of other sources, be sufficient to effect a sound and perfectly comprehensive system of the registration of deeds and titles. This obviously depends upon a great variety of contingencies, the essentials of which will, I believe, be found fully explained and described in these sheets, and in the clauses of the Act which I have prepared and appended to them.

It will, I presume, be admitted that, although the conveyancer may exercise the most scrupulous exactitude in his description of property, so as to secure, as he hopes, his client's interests against the possibility of mistake or error; yet of what avail (as far as the registry office is concerned) can this minute history of a property prove, if when a party wishing to make a search for it in the registry office is unable by means of such description to find it out. But, on the other hand, if the conveyancer's description of an estate be so simple that a sign or a number will on the instant bring him to the property in the registry office, then of course that number is all that can be required, and any further description of the estate is altogether superfluous; because the object of a description, whether of a man or of an estate, is to enable us to know him or it, and find either out.

Obviously once we are fairly in possession of a particular object, we need not have, or at least we ought not to have, any extraordinary difficulty in dealing with it after whatever form or shape we like, and, unquestionably, as far as land is concerned, the simpler the mode the better; because complexities, technicalities, and profuse verbiage, have hitherto for the most part proved the ruin of titles.

Keeping, therefore, continually in view the indisputable fact, that simplicity is the most direct road to perfection, and bearing in mind also the complete success which has attended the use of it in the sale and transfer of ship, stock, and funded property, I have framed the system which is explained and set forth in these sheets so that by means of the most simple forms and machinery all dealings relating to land may for the future be carried on with the most perfect ease and security.

It was only in the early part of 1856 that I was enabled to procure an Act establishing Numerical Registration for the Province of Auckland; the system, however, was granted to me in a mutilated, defective form. Numbers I only obtained by indorsation—a most wretched provision for what forms the vital portion of the scheme, because by the proper use of these solely depends its completeness and efficiency. The number, as the designation of the property, should of course be entered in the body of the deed. Many other essentials were altogether denied me. Having, however, obtained numbers in the form described, and the registration of grants before the issue of the same to the proprietors, which gave me a sound root to commence with, and plans on the title pages, to enable me to identify at once the various parcels of land as they were presented for registration, and a tolerably clear mode of dealing with subdivided properties. With these materials, which, after all, form but the skeleton of a scheme, I have been enabled to do the business of a whole province, including ten counties, with far greater despatch, accuracy, and facility, than I formerly performed the work of a portion only of a single county.

There is one great omission in our Provincial Act which I shall mention here, in order that those who may have hereafter to legislate upon the subject of Registration may see the necessity of making provision for—that is, a clause to enable the Registrar, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice, to make rules for regulating the business of his office, so that the machinery of the system may not be clogged and destroyed by the registration of instruments which, from the matter they contain, or from the particular form in which they are prepared, are calculated to occasion this damage.

The conveyancer, solicitous for the interests of his client, and far from partial to a scheme which presumes to control him in his plans or arrangements, demands the registration of a certain instrument as calculated to promote the interests of his client; the Registrar hesitates, because from the indefinite description given, or other cause, he cannot make out the registered property to which it belongs, and consequently he is apprehensive that if he does register it he may place it upon a title page to which it does not belong, and thereby occasion serious injury; or he may hesitate to register it because, from the nature of the instrument, he perceives at once that it was never designed that such instruments should should occupy a place upon the title page of an estate, for if registered they are calculated to clog and destroy the efficiency of the scheme.

I have heard of a Registrar having been browbeaten and forced to register a common receipt. Obviously, therefore, a clause should be inserted in every Registration Act, which would afford the Registrar the means of appeal to a competent and perfectly disinterested judge, who would be able satisfactorily to determine such questions when brought before him.

Having devoted some years of my life to the compilation of a system of registration designed to facilitate the transfer of land, and having, as I believe, fairly proved the efficiency of the scheme, by a test extending over several years, I naturally feel anxious for the result, and will now give the reasons why I think it ought to be accepted; and in thus openly doing so a fair opportunity is afforded to the adversaries of the scheme to shew that my arguments are false, or that the system described is defective.

In England it appears, by the Report of the Royal Commissioners, that upwards of twenty Registration Bills have been brought into Parliament, within the last twenty years, to alter the mode of dealing with land, and have failed in their object, or been rejected, obviously because they aimed at the almost superhuman task of attempting to alter, by coercive or restrictive measures, a mode of dealing with land which concerns, not the proprietors only, but a powerful and influential body, who, having an interest in the question, which, although not equal to the fee-simple, still is such that that fee-simple cannot be dealt with or applied to the purposes which the proprietor would wish, unless at very heavy charges, which charges as essentially belong to them as the proprietorship of the fee-simple does to the holder thereof. We know that it would be a matter of no great difficulty to convince the owners of land that it would be for their interest to alter the present mode of dealing with land, so as to simplify titles, and to make all transfers for the future cheap and expeditious; but, on the other hand, it would be as difficult as the other is easy, to hope to induce the members of the legal profession to assent to a measure which would deprive them not only of the fees which they have hitherto enjoyed as their peculiar perquisites, but also of the high rank and commanding position which is so closely associated with such, because most unquestionably the disputes which arise out of the present deplorable state of titles to land require a large staff of judges, and an almost innumerable host of highly-paid counsellors.

Having, therefore, to deal with a question which affects conflicting interests, we cannot possibly hope to give equal satisfaction to both parties; but this circumstance should not prevent us from proceeding with a measure which is loudly and universally called for, and which is designed to remedy an evil which inflicts more injury and more cost upon society than the combination (war alone excepted) of every other evil which, through the excessive selfishness of our nature, we inflict upon each other.

The most distinguished members of the legal profession are ready to admit that the laws relating to real property are defective, and that they ought to be altered. Sir Hugh Cairns, when Solicitor General of England, pronounced them to be a reproach upon the law! Why then are they not altered? Is it because the members of the legal profession will be losers by the change?

The evils complained of are, obscure titles, long and expensive deeds, and difficulties and delay in dealing with land; we want, therefore, a system of registration which will remove these, and which will not at the same time disturb the existing landed right of any man.

I will now exhibit the system which can effect these objects, and as I proceed with it step by step, I will shew the design of each, and the mode by which it secures the particular end aimed at.

It will then be for the adversaries of the system to prove that my gradations or premises are false, and that the result will be different from what they aim at; but if, on the other hand, its laws are self-evident, and cannot be controverted, then they should be accepted unless it can be shewn that other provisions can be substituted for them, which will in the issue prove equally clear and satisfactory, and make every dealing relating to land what it ought to be—clear, expeditious, and cheap; or, in other words, transferable as easily and cheaply as ship of funded property or stock of any description. One of the most important points connected with the numerical system of registration is that, while it confers the most extensive benefits upon landed proprietors, it cannot in the smallest degree impair the interest of any.

- 1st. The first object it aims at is, that as soon as a title deed has been registered it may ever after be arrived at in a moment; this is effected by calling it by a particular number, and never repeating that number again with any other deed; and by entering it in a book of numbers, which will direct you to the page in the books of the Registry Office where it has been entered. See clause 22.
- 2nd. The second is, to open a title page for every property thus registered, where it will be entered, and under it consecutively the various dealings which from time to time shall take place with the same property. Clause 25 and schedules B, D.
- 3rd. The third is, that whenever a registered property is again sold, the registrar, the conveyancer, or the proprietor will in the deed effecting the sale describe it by the number appropriated to it in the Registry Office. See title page, B, D, E.
- 4th. The fourth is, that every deed registered must have a plan on it which will minutely describe the boundary lines, &c., of the land represented in it, and its relative position to other properties. See clause 29.

5th.

- 5th. The fifth is, to enter that plan upon the title page appropriated to the property. See title page. B, D, E.
- 6th. The sixth is, that whenever a deed is presented for registration, the party bringing it shall in the presence of the Registrar or his chief clerk open by means of the book of numbers the title page appropriated to the property (provided of course that it is a registered property), and if it agrees with the particulars and description exhibited upon that title page to register it, but if not, to reject it. See clause 56.
- 7th. The seventh is, that the provisions and forms prepared and fully described in sheet headed No. 1 following this paper, and which are also to be found in the Act attached to this Bill, be granted.
- 8th. The eighth is, that the Registrar may, with the concurrence of a Board consisting of the Chief Justice, the Attorney General, or other qualified persons, make such laws for simplifying titles, and facilitating the transfer of land, as he may find necessary.

These are the provisions which I require, in order to secure good, cheap, and easily transferable titles to every man whose property is registered in accordance with them. If it can be shewn that by yielding them they can by possibility impose damage, let them of course be rejected, but not otherwise; but what man, however acute as a lawyer he may be, can satisfactorily prove that a provision in a Registration Act is either dangerous, objectionable, or unnecessary, which will enable a man in one minute to examine the title to a property which, without such provision, he might not be able to do in a week or even in a month; if so, No. 1 is necessary.

No. 2 is as safe and as necessary as No. 1, because surely no property can be damaged by having a title page appropriated to it to shew the owner of it and all the dealings relating to it.

No. 3 is also safe and necessary, because by means of it the Registrar is enabled to find out the title page of the property, and thereby ascertain if the party selling was the registered owner, &c., &c.

No. 5 is necessary, because the plan is to an estate what a photograph is to a man; when a man comes in, you know him by his photograph; and when a property is brought to the office for registration, you know it by the plan.

No. 6 is necessary, for without it there positively can be no security for good titles, because, as lawyers or conveyancers make quite as many mistakes as other people, a provision is absolutely necessary in order to prevent them; by means of No. 6, he is obliged, before he registers a deed, to open the title page assigned to it, in order to satisfy the Registrar that there is no link in the chain of title deeds wanting to complete the title, that he has faithfully described it, that the vendor was the registered owner of it, &c., &c., &c.

No. 7.—If you want to have cheap, clear, and easily transferable titles, the provisions and forms enumerated and fully described in sheet No. 1 are absolutely necessary.

No. 8 is of vast importance, because, undeniably, difficulties which no Legislative Assembly can foresee, and therefore cannot provide for, will from time to time present themselves before the Registrar, which can alone be settled by a Board constituted as the one here named. Difficulties of this sort are now before me, affecting the titles of individuals, which I could easily remedy and meet by arrangements which such a Board would immediately sanction, but which I cannot make without the necessary authority. The Registrar would not probably have occasion to consult with such a Board oftener than once in three months after the passing of the Act, and subsequently, as the system became more perfect, not oftener than once in six months, or even twelve months.

I ask for the provisions here enumerated, because the most scrupulous lawyer cannot prove that they can in the least degree injuriously affect the interests of any landed proprietors. I ask for them, because by means of them I can carry out the plans of the Royal Commissioners, Sir Hugh Cairns, or even Mr. Torrens. Other systems may fail, because they have not been tried, but a system which, under the most extraordinary difficulties, has stood a test of 7 years is not likely to fail.

The system of registration set forth in these papers is a registry of titles,—that is, as soon as a party purchases a property from the Crown it is registered, and his title to it is exhibited after the form described in sheet No. 1, and every time the same property is sold again the new purchaser's title is shewn in the same way.

It is a registry also of good titles,—because, once a property has been registered no one but the registered owner can sell it, and he can only sell it as a whole, in the form and size in which he purchased it himself, and as shewn upon the title page assigned to it.

It differs from an indefeasible title only in name,—because a good title cannot be set aside any more than an indefeasible title,—the former is secured by a process of self-evident laws, which by a chain of indisputable circumstances secures an issue which admits of no dispute: an indefeasible title, therefore, differs from the former only in name, because the titles in either case must be established by a similar code of laws or proofs. The word indefeasible is a legal term, a technical term, and if you will have it you must again hand over your estates to the law, and pay enormously for a mere form or a name,—that is, you must have expensive Boards of legal Commissioners, who will sign their names to titles after they have been proved to be good by the process laid down in these sheets.

A member of the legal profession may, I know, affirm that the numerical system of registration is not sufficient to meet every difficulty affecting titles which may be brought before it. The registrar will, of course, affirm to the contrary, and plainly intimate that a lawyer who never registered a deed in his life and knows nothing whatsoever about the machinery of the system can be no authority upon the subject. The lawyer, however, has a right right to name the difficulties which he thinks the numerical system cannot provide for, when the Registrar will explain the mode by which he will meet them. There is, I feel fully persuaded, no difficulty whatsoever connected with the dealings of land and the titles to land which registration cannot readily and with ease provide for; but these, of course, must be brought before it in a direct and in an intelligible shape, and not after a form which it would seem was in many instances intended purposely to disguise a title and not to elucidate it.

The numerical system of registration, of course, provides the forms by which titles to land may be exhibited in a form which will enable them to be registered with ease, clearness, and certainty.

Under the system of registration laid down in these papers the deeds now in use by the professional conveyancer are for the most part superseded by registrar's certificates, and sales are for the most part made by simple indorsation on these certificates.

Hitherto, the deed drawn out by the conveyancer endeavored, by the authority of the instrument itself, to establish a man's right to the property represented in it. Under the present system a single line written upon the title book of the property effects this object infinitely better, because as this is the last entry it extinguishes all the former.

All that a deed of sale, mortgage, or lease need now set forth is that A, the registered owner of 10,000 (or whatever the number may be), sells, mortgages, or leases his estate to B for so much, as it is delineated below, and whatsoever is delineated below will be found delineated upon the title page of the property.

It is quite right that a system of registration which has been found to be defective should be superseded by another, but surely it is not right that a system which can effect, after the cheapest, the safest, and the simplest form possible, every desirable end which registration can confer should be cast aside, and before a flaw has been discovered in it.

If a test is wanting to prove its efficiency, that test has been afforded by a seven years' trial; but, if that is not considered sufficient, let the following test be made, which is the fairest as well as the closest and severest that I know of. Let, for example, 200 titles to separate properties be investigated in my office, say from 10,000 to 10,200, 11,000 to 11,200, 12,000 to 12,200, and so on upwards, or in any other way. Let the parties appointed to make the investigation call at the Registry Office with a sheet prepared with the numbers for investigation inserted upon it, with columns for replies, &c., &c., &c. And let the following questions be put and answered:—Who is the registered owner of 11,001, 11,002, 11,003, and so on? What is the extent of his property? Is it encumbered or otherwise? Is there a defect in the title, and what is it? It will be found that the answers will be given in a shorter time than they can be written down. It will also shew where there is a defect in the title what that defect is, and also that it might have been prevented had the provisions which are exhibited and enumerated in these pages been in force; consequently, that all titles which for the future shall be registered under it in its amended form must be good.

No one can deny its sufficiency for the registration of instruments upon the most extensive scale, because by a reference to the books of my office it will be seen that I am able to register upwards of 150 deeds a day, and examine the titles to each. If I can do this with a very limited staff, of course I could quadruple the number with an establishment proportionably large.

Sheet No. 2 describes the mode by which old titles may be registered under the new system. I see no necessity for warranted titles, and I think a retrospective test is as good, if not better, than a prospective; but of course neither of these matters can in any degree affect the numerical system of registration, as it will work as well under warranted as under unwarranted titles, under prospective as retrospective tests, and whether with or without Commissioners. It is in fact the machinery for carrying out the purposes of any or all.

Sheet No. 3 I regard as by far the most important portion of the numerical system of Registration; it will not only put an end to a monster evil, but will give a degree of freedom to all dealings with land which cannot be secured without it. It must consequently greatly enhance the value of land, and Land Insurance Offices will become as common, and much more beneficial to the interests of society at large, than any other description of Insurance Office now in force.

I have furnished the materials for securing the benefits referred to in these papers; men of legal knowledge are alone qualified to frame the Act, and I sincerely believe that those who will do so will be entitled to be regarded as the best friends of Society.

ROBT. KELLY.

Registrar of Deeds,
Auckland, New Zealand.

REGISTRAR GENERAL to PRINCIPAL UNDER SECRETARY.

MEMO.

There is in Mr. Kelly's scheme of numerical registration a great deal worthy of consideration. It is remarkable for its simplicity, and the fact that it has worked admirably in the Province of Auckland speaks much in its favor.

It possesses some features well worthy of adoption; but, on the whole, it is not so complete nor so comprehensive in its provisions as is necessary to secure an adequate system of Registration for New South Wales.

It

It must be remembered that Auckland is a small province, where transactions in land have not hitherto been very numerous, and where complications in landed titles have not to any great extent arisen.

I would recommend that Mr. Kelly's paper be referred by the Government for the consideration of the Committee of the Legislative Council now sitting, with the object of preparing some comprehensive measure for simplifying the dealings in land. To this Committee the Solicitor General's Bills for accomplishing this purpose have already been referred, and it is very desirable that they should have all the light that can be thrown upon the subject.

The result of Mr. Kelly's own experience in the working of his numerical system cannot fail of commanding attention.

LOCAL COURT RULES—ARALUEN VALLEY.

1. That all creek claims in Araluen Valley be thirty yards frontage to the water-course in length, and seventy-five in depth, measured from the centre of the stream or water-course; no Company to hold more than eight such claims.
2. That all claims be occupied forty-eight hours after the boundaries are marked; and that such boundaries be strong posts, two feet out of, and one foot in, the ground, otherwise the ground may be considered vacant.
3. That all head and tail races shall be the bona fide property of the holders, and no one shall injure or cut into the same without the consent of such holder, unless in event of digging immediately under such head or tail race, and in such case, that the said head or tail race be made good to the satisfaction of such holder previous to the working of the said ground immediately under such race, or to the satisfaction of the Local Court, if appealed to.
4. Any party taking possession of a portion of a creek or running stream, and placing a wheel or any machinery thereon, or otherwise working it, shall have a priority of right to water, except one sluice head of twelve square inches, if required by any miner or party working on such creek or running stream; successive rights of water to follow in order of application to the Clerk of the Local Court.
5. All claims may be registered on unavoidable suspension of the work from illness, or any other reasonable cause.
6. That all claims on dry diggings above five feet deep be twenty yards square, and all surfacing under five feet deep shall be fifty yards square; no more than eight such claims to be granted in one block.
7. That all holders of Business Licenses be entitled to sixty-six feet by one hundred feet, application for the same to be made to the Clerk of the Court, and if the same shall appear unobjectionable they may be granted by the Local Court at its ensuing sitting.
8. That all claims on old worked ground be double in size to those granted on any new locality.
9. That an extent of ground not exceeding one acre may be held by any one following the occupation of a miner, or holding a Business License for the purpose of cultivation; and that compensation, if demanded, shall be settled by arbitration, on its being shewn that a lead of gold is likely to pass through the same before the land under such cultivation shall be trespassed on.
10. That any holder of a Miner's Right may cut a race through the claim or ground held by any other party, provided that it be shewn that such race or cutting do no injury to the said ground, or the interests of the holder thereof.

No. 1.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE to HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

Supreme Court,

19 August, 1856.

SIR,

I request, under the circumstances stated in this letter, that fifteen months leave of absence from my duties may be granted to me, from the 1st day of February next, with such allowance as the Assembly may, for that period, think fit to assign me. I only desire to obtain fifteen months, and I probably shall not exceed twelve.

It is impossible for me to state that my health is shattered, or that I am, even at present, under medical care, I have, however, clear indications that I require some repose, mental and bodily, for a time, either by partial relief from my present duties, or by a total suspension of them.

On two occasions during the past year I was advised by my medical attendant that absolute cessation of my labors was imperative; and I took twenty-five days holiday, in January, which I was enabled to obtain on the appointment of Mr. Justice Milford. But I have before me the fate of both my predecessors, who did not absent themselves till illness actually came, when the relief granted was too late. I have served seven years longer than Sir Francis Forbes, and (already) two years longer than Sir James Dowling,—having now sat on the Bench 17 years and 3 months, and during that long period I have not had (in the whole) above eleven weeks relaxation, nor ever been in fact away from active judicial duty, with that exception, above ten days.

On the other hand, I have taken my full share of duty, and occasionally much more, throughout that term. During the years 1843 and '44 I more than once went an additional Circuit, and sat in Court (when Sir James Dowling was ill or absent) for several weeks continuously. All the Acts to provide for the Administration of Justice in 1840 and 1841 were drawn by me. I have also, at the request of the Government, prepared others, for instance, some of the Jury Acts, the Foreign Attachment Act, and others. I have moreover at various times drawn laws, at the instance of Select Committees of the late Council, as, for example, the Amended Insolvent Act, the Land Titles Bill, and the Marriage Act, (all of which I drew,) the Intemperance Laws, the Desertion of Wives and Children, (the only Act respecting which is mine,) and others.

I have also, assisted by my learned colleagues, drawn Codes of Rules for simplifying and diminishing the expense of law proceedings; which, though vehemently opposed, and the subject of two Select Committees, have stood the test of time;—some having been actually followed in English enactments, adopted by our Law Procedure Act of 1853; and some will be found, in the Bill announced by the present Government, adopted from the English Act of 1854. The Acts and Rules respecting Intestate Estates, drawn by me, are such as will effectually (if any laws can) prevent fraud; and, with those affecting insolvent estates, and moneys in the hands of Assignees, they have already placed, and will continue to place, many thousand pounds in the Public Treasury.

These several circumstances, I trust, may be thought to give me a claim to consideration. Sir James Dowling was voted the full salary for his proposed term of absence, and I ask but fifteen months, whereas Sir James was (I believe) allowed eighteen. It may be objected, I am aware, that my "pension" is open to me; but I will not readily believe that there can be any disposition to force retirement permanently upon any public officer with claims like my own, who is willing and able to continue his services, although not quite with the same amount of labor, and without some temporary relief from the effects of past over exertion.

As in expectation of my retirement, whether absolute or temporary, at so early a period, my continued holding of the Presidency of the Council may be thought undesirable, I shall be prepared to resign that office into your Excellency's hands, whenever it may be expedient to appoint my successor.

If

CHIEF JUSTICE'S APPLICATION FOR LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

If your Excellency shall be advised not to grant me the leave of absence which I solicit, or not to submit this application to the Assembly, with whom the appropriation of the necessary funds lies, or if that House shall not vote a sufficient sum to enable me to avail myself of that leave, I shall be placed in a position requiring grave deliberation—which I hope to be spared. I only add, at present, that I have no wish to resign my office of President, except in the hope of retirement from that of Chief Justice; that it is exclusively this last mentioned office from which I wish to be relieved; and that if I could reasonably hope to obtain relief by any other means than the course proposed, I have no desire to put this Colony to the expense, either of my pension or even of the short term of absence named by me.

I have &amp;c.,

HIS EXCELLENCY
THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

I am of opinion that the Chief Justice's application should be granted, and recommend the same accordingly, and also that Mr. Plunkett be offered the post of Chief Justice during the absence of Sir Alfred Stephen.

In acknowledging the receipt of your Honor's letter of the 19th ultimo, applying to be allowed leave of absence for fifteen months, from the 1st February next, with such allowance as the Legislative Assembly may for that period think fit to assign you, I am directed to inform you that your application has been approved of by the Government.

2. I am further to state that the Parliament will be invited to make provision (as in the case of the late Sir James Dowling) for your full salary during your Honor's absence.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE to HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

*Hyde Park,
15 August, 1859.*

SIR,

With reference to my application of 19th August, 1856, addressed to your Excellency, I am now induced, by medical advice, and the impaired state of my health, to solicit that the amount which the Government is willing to recommend, in order to enable me to carry out the proposed step, may be placed upon the Estimates, and submitted during the present Session to the Legislature.

I ask, however, only for leave of absence for twelve months, being persuaded that that period, although short, will be sufficient to recruit my strength, and enable me, in all human probability, to resume my duties with every prospect of ability to discharge them for several years. If the means be afforded me, I shall be glad to leave the Colony in February next; and my temporary successor may be appointed on any day in that month which your Excellency may fix for that purpose.

I am, of course, as to this matter, so important to myself and my family, entirely in the hands of your Excellency's advisers and of the Legislative Assembly. But when assured that my strength is failing, from continuous and overtasked exertions for above twenty years (I took my seat on the Bench on the 7th of May, 1839), they will, I trust, not be disposed to extend less indulgence to me than was so generously proffered to Sir James Dowling, after a service less by five years than my own.

I am, &amp;c.,

HIS EXCELLENCY
THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

ALFRED STEPHEN.

MY DEAR SIR ALFRED,

I did not answer your letter to me on the subject of your leave of absence, as I considered that the best reply would be an extract from the Minutes of the Executive Council, before which I laid your application.

I now forward herewith a copy of the Minute, which I am afraid will not be satisfactory to you; for, though it acknowledges the value of your services during the lengthened period of your official connection with the Colony, it expresses the inability of the Council to advise me to accede to your request. I will not attempt to smooth over this refusal with any expressions of condolence; I can only hope that the state of your health will be such as to enable you long to retain your present position on the Bench.

Believe me, &amp;c.,

[Enclosure in No. 4.]

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 22nd August, 1859, with respect to Leave of Absence to Sir Alfred Stephen.

MINUTE No. 59-33. Confirmed 29 August, 1859.

HIS Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a letter dated 15th instant, from His Honor Sir Alfred Stephen, adverting to an application for leave of absence from the duties of his position of Chief Justice, submitted by him in the month of August, 1856, and stating that he is now induced, by medical advice and the impaired state of his health, to request that a sum equivalent to a year's full salary of his office may be placed on the Estimates, and submitted to the Legislature during the approaching Session, to enable him to avail himself of the relaxation which he needs, and which he purposes should be limited to twelve months leave of absence.

2. The Council enter upon the consideration of the subject with an earnest desire to consult to the utmost practicable extent, the wishes of His Honor Sir Alfred Stephen, and prepared to overrule any minor difficulties attending their concession, in consideration of the valuable services which, during a lengthened tenure of his high office, he has rendered to the public of this Colony. But having very maturely deliberated, the Council are unwillingly led to the conviction that constitutional principles are so far involved in the present case as to materially limit the discretion which the Government is at liberty to exercise.

3. The Council cannot but be impressed by the consideration that the complete independence of the Judges of any influences within the reach of the Government, has been a jealously regarded principle of the jurisprudence of the Mother Country, and that it has been the aim of legislation in this Colony to place the position of the Judges of the Supreme Court upon a corresponding high footing. In furtherance of this aim, the Constitution Act, 18 and 19 Victoria, chapter 54, has prescribed and secured the emoluments and advantages to be enjoyed by the Judges during tenure of office, and provided special allowances demandable by them on retirement therefrom, and the Act of the local Parliament, 20 Victoria, No. 5, for increasing the salaries of the Judges, appears to the Council to have been based upon the same principle.

4. It would, the Council conceive, be equally an interference with this principle were the Government to attempt to depreciate any of the advantages to which the Judges are by law entitled, or in however eminent an exception to increase them; and holding these opinions the Council feel compelled to avoid creating a precedent which would amount to the assumption of a power on the part of the Government to interfere with a principle forming one of the highest public safeguards for the due administration of justice.

5. The case of the late Sir James Dowling, alluded to by His Honor as forming a precedent for the application now under consideration, the Council are unable to regard in that light, inasmuch as at the time of leave of absence on full salary being granted to the late Chief Justice, a different system of Government prevailed, and the laws which govern the present position of the Judges of this Colony had not been passed.

6. The Council therefore feel unable to advise that the present request of His Honor the Chief Justice should be acceded to.

Clerk of the Council.

No. 5.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE to HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

Hyde Park,3 September, 1859.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge the honor of your Excellency's communication, transmitting a copy of the Minute of the Executive Council, declining compliance with the request submitted by me on the 15th ultimo; and I feel greatly gratified and obliged by the readiness with which my public services are recognised, and the courteous terms in which the refusal is couched, as well as by the frankness that favors me with the views and reasons on which it is founded. That refusal, however, such as I understand it to be, is one for which I was so entirely unprepared, and it affects so materially the interests of others similarly circumstanced (since the objections stated apply with equal force, apparently, to granting leave of absence to a Judge, under any circumstances, with or without salary), that I trust to be pardoned for placing on record an earnest, though most respectful, representation against it.

2. Your Excellency will remember that my original application in 1856 was acceded to, addressed to you while Mr. Donaldson's Ministry was in office—it was granted under the Administration of Mr. Cowper. The decision was adopted by the Government which succeeded; and the only question was, the amount which should be asked from the Legislature. The principle, real or supposed, on which my request is now rejected, did not occur to either of those Ministries; and, very recently, in the Colony of Victoria, a similar application (although I do not know on what terms as to salary) was granted, and the learned Judge has been, in fact, absent on leave in England for some months.

3. No one, I am persuaded, and least of all the individuals themselves, will undervalue that great measure which made the Judges irremovable except by Parliament, or the wise liberality which conferred pensions upon them on permanent incapacity for further duty, or after fifteen years of service. And that the two provisions, in connexion with the other enactments alluded to, were intended to promote the public interests and welfare, by securing the independence and personal dignity of these high functionaries, will readily be conceded. But with that object, the principle enunciated in the Minute, in the large terms in which it is there propounded, appears to me to be at variance. It amounts in effect to this,—that, lest the expectation of such favors should impair his independence, the Crown can bestow on a Judge, however eminent his services, however great his talents or learning, neither practical acknowledgment nor reward:—that no junior Judge ought to be advanced on the Bench, whatever his superiority to other candidates; and that, in England, no Judge could with propriety be made a Privy Councillor or a Peer.

4. From the same apprehension, the Colonial Legislature may not be appealed to, in case of a Judge's temporary incapacity, to extend to him the indulgence of relief from his duties, for any period however short. For, according to the argument, to sanction the Judge's absence, whatever the urgency, however unforeseen the occasion, would be to confer on him an advantage not provided for by law. And thus, although every practical consideration may favor the application, it must not be made. The continuance of the particular Judge in office may be an object of importance, and it may perhaps be secured for many years by the concession; while, on the other hand, the Treasury would be spared during that time the amount of his pension, to which he would otherwise be driven. You must nevertheless compel the Judge to retire on that pension, which probably he cannot afford to accept, or he must struggle on with impaired strength, which the law passed for his benefit forbids him to recruit, until death or an enforced resignation transfers his place to another.

5. Such a state of things, the inevitable result of the principle suggested, rigorously enforced, I submit with deference, shows its unsoundness. The case put by me is one in which alike the fair claims of the individual and the interests of the community, social and pecuniary, are sacrificed to an apprehension, which in point of fact nobody entertains, and which, if it existed in any quarter, a breath would be sufficient to dispel. But, if the conclusions which I have pointed out be harsh, in the case of a Judge who has served the prescribed term, and so may claim his pension, what shall we say of one who is overtaken by temporary illness, after a service of ten or twelve years only? I will assume that severe and continuous over exertion in his high duties, during a period of unusual pressure, is the cause of his prostration, and that a year's relaxation will restore him. According to the theory this meritorious person may nevertheless not seek that relief, however advantageous to the country; but must retire, all unpensioned as he is, and perhaps otherwise unprovided for, or continue his exertions on the Bench and die.

6. I am not here, your Excellency, arguing my own case, but seeking a reconsideration of the supposed principle, for the sake of others. It may be thought a sufficient apology for the application preferred for myself, that, were the Legislature to grant me two years pension now, I sincerely believed, as I still do, that the concession would save the public ten years of pension hereafter, yet had I not expended within this Colony, in maintaining my position and my family, a much larger sum than I have ever received from it, I should probably have confined myself to a request less open to opposition, or at least to unpleasant comment.

I am, &c.,

HIS EXCELLENCY
THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

ALFRED STEPHEN.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 13 October, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to acknowledge the receipt of your Honor's further letter of the 3rd ultimo, addressed to the Governor General, on the subject of your request that a sum may be placed on the Estimates, and submitted to the Legislature, to enable you to obtain leave of absence, and to state that His Excellency has laid your communication before the Executive Council.

2. Your Honor remarks that the decision of the Council, intimated to you in His Excellency's letter of the 1st of last month, is one for which you were so entirely unprepared, and the grounds of that decision such as to affect so materially the interests of others similarly circumstanced with yourself, that you desire to place on record your representation against it; and you thereupon proceed to submit various reasons, to show that the principle by which the Council had been guided not only must fail, if rigidly adhered to in practice, to lead to just results, but that in many cases which you suggest, it may be productive of inconvenience, and even injustice.

3. The Council having perused the representation of your Honor, and maturely deliberated thereupon, feel unable nevertheless to concur in the conclusion at which you have arrived; but they, on the contrary, upon a reconsideration of the whole matter, see no reason to differ from the opinion already expressed by them in their Minute, a copy of which accompanied His Excellency's letter already referred to.

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That in the month of October, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, your Petitioner obtained a verdict against the London and Liverpool Insurance Company for the sum of one thousand pounds.

That the cause was tried before His Honor Judge Dickinson and a Special Jury of Four; that, notwithstanding the verdict having been unanimous, an appeal has been entered for a new trial, and your Petitioner is informed that it may be above a year before even the new trial argument can be heard; and that as the Supreme Court is now constituted it will require several years and a large amount of money to enable your Petitioner to sustain his claim against the said Company.

That, under such circumstances, your Petitioner begs most respectfully to observe to your Honorable House, that the Supreme Court, as at present governed, does not afford justice to suitors of moderate means, or to suitors who cannot afford to waste large sums of money and valuable time in vexatious litigation; and that, in the case of your Petitioner against a powerful and wealthy Company, amounts to a positive denial of justice.

With every deference to your Honorable House, your Petitioner prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to adopt such measures as may enable their Honors to put a stop to frivolous appeals being made at the expense of suitors, and have the Supreme Court made available for the purposes for which it was originally intended.

That justice may be administered to your Petitioner within a reasonable time and at reasonable cost.

And your Petitioner will ever pray.

PROTRACTED LITIGATION IN SUPREME COURT.
(PETITION OF P. N. RUSSELL & CO.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 8 February, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled:—

The Petition of Peter Nicol Russell, John Russell, George Russell, and James Wilkie Dunlop, carrying on business under the firm of P. N. Russell and Company,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners were, early in one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, under the necessity of instituting proceedings in the Supreme Court of New South Wales, to recover payment of a debt from Mr. Thomas Alston, for goods supplied and work performed. That the cause was tried in the month of February, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, before His Honor Judge Milford and a Special Jury of Twelve, when your Petitioners obtained a verdict for the sum of six hundred and thirty-two pounds five shillings and seven-pence. That, shortly after the verdict, notice of appeal for a new trial was given by the Defendant, and though nearly twelve months have elapsed, your Petitioners are informed that it may exceed another year before the new trial argument can be heard, and that afterwards the Defendant will have it in his power by further appeals to avoid payment of the verdict for years, and thereby entail on your Petitioners enormous expenses in addition to those already incurred, which now exceed four hundred pounds. Your Petitioners are informed, and believe, that even after having expended above four hundred pounds, it may in all probability be more profitable to abandon the suit than to continue the prosecution thereof, unless measures are adopted to put a stop to the present system of frivolous appeals and new trial motions, which defeat the payment of the just verdicts at the costs of the suitors.

Your Petitioners, with all due deference to your Honorable House, and to their Honors the Judges of the Supreme Court, respectfully submit, that the Supreme Court does not afford to suitors that amount of assistance for the recovery of debts or settlement of disputes which every citizen has a right to expect; and your Petitioners therefore earnestly entreat, that your Honorable House will take steps to afford such relief and protection to your Petitioners and other suitors in the Supreme Court as your Honorable House may deem meet.

And your Petitioners will ever pray, &c.

MACFARLANE v. MURNIN.

(PETITION OF J. S. MACFARLANE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 2 February, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of John Sangster Macfarlane, Merchant, of Auckland, New Zealand,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That about April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, Petitioner being desirous of obtaining from Michael Egan Murnin, Esquire, of Sydney, Merchant, a settlement of certain accounts and payments of moneys due by that gentleman to Petitioner, made application to Mr. Murnin to that effect.

That, after repeated applications of such nature, Petitioner being unsuccessful in obtaining the required payments, felt it incumbent on him and indispensably necessary to his interests to place the business in the hands of his attorney, and therefore, about the month of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, gave instructions to Mr. John Williams, of Sydney, Solicitor, to institute proceedings against Mr. Murnin for the recovery of his just claims.

That an action was brought in the Supreme Court and tried before His Honor Mr. Justice Dickinson and Jury of Twelve, after due investigation of which case, a verdict (about the month of April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven) obtained in Petitioner's favor for a sum of three thousand four hundred and twenty pounds sterling.

That, subsequently, the attorney of Mr. Murnin made application to their Honors the Judges for a new trial, but being informed that such application would not be complied with, unless under certain conditions, these conditions were objected to on the part of Mr. Murnin, and their Honors were thereupon informed that an appeal would be made to England against their Honor's decision.

That your Petitioner is informed and believes, that up to this date (tenth January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty) the appeal has not been transmitted from the Colony; that your Petitioner is further informed and believes that until two thousand pounds is remitted to England by your Petitioner to pay the costs necessarily incurred in obtaining the dismissal of the appeal, the appeal which your Petitioner declined altogether to oppose, will not be dismissed, and that, as a consequence, your Petitioner does not see the prospect of having a termination put to expensive litigation for years, although four years have elapsed since the commencement of the suit.

That, in prosecuting his action against Mr. Murnin, Petitioner has been subjected to enormous expenses, exceeding one thousand four hundred pounds, having, independently of other incidental outlays, been necessitated to neglect his business in New Zealand, and make no less than twelve different voyages thence to this Colony; and the proceedings of Mr. Murnin having, in a manner and for an indefinite period, set aside the verdict of the Supreme Court, Petitioner finds himself now, after a lapse of four years, and notwithstanding a verdict of a jury of his countrymen in his favor, in almost ruined circumstances, without a prospect of obtaining from Mr. Murnin satisfaction of his just debts.

Prayer—

Prayer—Your Petitioner therefore, with all due deference to your Honorable House, and without for one moment entertaining a disrespectful thought of the Honorable Judges (whose powers it appears the proceedings of Mr. Murnin have, in a manner, set at nought) submits that the peculiar circumstances of his case approximate closely to a denial of justice, and he therefore earnestly intreats your Honorable House will afford him such relief upon the premises as may be deemed expedient, and may prevent the ends of justice from being entirely frustated in this and similar cases of the kind.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will every pray, &c.

J. S. MACFARLANE.

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Central Police Office,
Sydney, 19 September, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 12th instant, requesting information called for by the Legislative Assembly,

I have the honor to transmit, herewith, copies of two informations filed at the Central Police Office, by Timothie Cheval, against John Poehlman, under the 17 Vic., No. 31, section 9.

The reasons given by the Bench for declining to interfere appear on the face of the informations.

I beg also to transmit a copy of an information filed by Inspector Singleton against Ralph Tolano, under the 17th Vic., No. 31, which information was dismissed.

We respect to the reasons given by the Bench for so dismissing same, I have the honor to state, that I have consulted G. Hill, Esq., the Presiding Magistrate, and that gentleman informs me, that during the hearing of the case before a full Bench, a letter from the Secretary to the Treasury, of 9th April last, was produced and read, whereupon Mr. Singleton declined proceeding further, and the case was then dismissed.

I have, &amp;c.,

THE HONORABLE
THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

GEORGE SMITH,
Mayor.

JOHN LUCAS, J. P.

Sergeant John Taylor on oath states:—I knew the defendant; he is and was, on the 23rd day of March last, the holder of a Publican's General License for a house known as "Tolano's Hotel," situate in King-street, in this City and Colony; on the 23rd of that month there was a communication from the front of the house in King-street, through a part of the bar, and thence up steps into the Prince of Wales Theatre—into the pit; the Prince of Wales Theatre is not a place licensed for the sale of wines or spirits; there is a communication through the pit of the theatre into Castlereagh-street.

By Mr. Milford: The entrance from King-street is rather a wide entrance; it does not form a passage; it is part of the bar, I think; there is a pillar supporting the beam; I do not know that there are three pillars; there is a wall on the west side of the entrance; the bar is on the east side; if curtains were hung from the pillars, it would form a passage in a straight line from King-street to the pit of the theatre; I do not know the owner of the property; I do not know the extent of his bar.

By Mr. Singleton: There is some sort of carpenters' work like shutters; people can walk from the bar of the public house without coming out of the regular entrance in King-street, or going through any door, into the pit of the theatre.

By Mr. Milford: There is a door at the top of the steps, but I never saw it closed.

Sworn, Police Office,

Cross-examined:—Doherty said that De Lauret's stockman, Billy Day, had delivered him these two beasts on that morning; I have on one occasion branded cattle of Doherty's by mistake—I branded four head of his about two years ago; I know Mr. de Lauret's run; I never saw any cows with Doherty's brand on on Mr. de Lauret's run; on one occasion I saw a calf with Mr. de Lauret's brand on running with a cow of mine; I claimed this calf; I know Doherty's brand, it is JD on the rump, off side; I never heard that there was any ill feeling between Doherty and my father on account of the four calves that I branded of his; I afterwards bought these four calves from Doherty.

HENRY ALEXR. TURNER, J.P.

This deponent, Horace Cooper, being duly sworn, on his oath saith as follows:—I am the son of Mr. Francis Cooper, and reside at Lake George; I know the two accused before the Court, Doherty and Peckham, they both reside near Lake George; I recollect the 5th instant; on that day I accompanied my brother Volney, and a man named Butler, to near Doherty's house; I saw a number of cattle in the yard; we remained watching the yard a short time; and I saw some more cattle put into the yard by young Doherty and a boy in Doherty's employ; employ; I shortly afterwards followed some men that I saw riding away from Doherty's house, and returned in about an hour to the spot where we had been watching the yard; I then saw a beast partly skinned, and partly suspended from the gallows in the yard; I saw Doherty apparently skinning the beast; there were some other persons present; I kept on watching, and afterwards saw two quarters of the beast carried to a sort of store near the yard; I saw Peckham carry one quarter; they then went back to the yard, and another beast was roped, drawn up to the fence, and I saw Peckham strike it with something like an axe, and kill it; this beast was skinned by Peckham and Doherty; the hide of this beast was dragged to the store and put in the loft; I then waited for my brother who had gone for some constables, and when they arrived we went to Doherty's house, and one of the constables asked for Doherty; his wife said he was out but would be home soon, and pointed out the direction he had taken; the constable went for him, and soon afterwards returned with Doherty; I afterwards saw Doherty throw down a hide from the loft; we examined the hide; Doherty said that he had a good many more of that brand; I heard the constable say to Doherty "Where is the other?" he then went up and threw down the other hide; I examined this hide, and also the first one that was produced; one was a yellow brindie and the other a red; they were both branded LA on the ribs, and 58 on the thigh; I heard Doherty remark that he had some more of that brand; the brands of the hides were taken down by the constable, and we soon afterwards left.

Cross-examined:—Doherty said that these hides belonged to calves of his that had been branded by Mr. de Lauret; he said that Mr. de Lauret's stockman had delivered him those cattle; I forget whether the district constable asked Doherty to produce the hides of the beasts that he had killed that day,—or not; I have frequently been on Mr. de Lauret's run; I have more than once seen calves with the LA brand, running with cows of other brands; I saw two calves with Mr. de Lauret's brand, running with two of my father's cows; I think Doherty brands JD; I have never seen any of his cows on Mr. de Lauret's run; when I go on Mr. de Lauret's run it is to look after my father's cattle.

Examined by the Court:—I cannot say whether either of the beasts that were killed were any of the cattle that I saw driven into the yard.

This deponent, Michael Butler, being duly sworn, on his oath states as follows:—I am a stockman in the employ of Mr. Cooper, at Lake George; I know the prisoners Doherty and Peckham, before the Court; they reside near Lake George; I recollect the 5th instant; on that day I accompanied Messrs. Volney and Horace Cooper to near Doherty's place, at Lake George; I saw six or seven head of cattle in the yard; Doherty and Peckham were about the yard; Doherty's son and the servant boy went down into the paddock for some more cattle, and when they brought them up Peckham let down the rails of the yard and the cattle were put into the yard; I saw some men and a dray leave Doherty's house, and we went after it and returned to the yard in about half-an-hour, and I then saw a beast half-skinned; I saw some men standing about, but could not say who they were; I then left, and returned later in the evening with Mr. Conley Cooper, and we went up to Doherty's with the constables; I heard one of the constables say to Doherty,—“Where are these hides, Doherty?” Doherty went up into the loft and threw down a hide; he afterwards threw down another hide; Doherty said that these hides belonged to his beasts, and that William Day had delivered him those cattle; we went away in a few minutes afterwards.

By Mr. de Lauret:—From the size of the hides I should say that the beasts that were killed were from eighteen months to two years old.

Cross-examined:—I saw the dray return to the house; it was loaded with hay; since the 5th instant I have often spoken to Mr. Volney Cooper about this case; I told him what I saw, and he told me what he saw.

Cross-examined :—I believe the number, 58, that is used by Mr. de Lauret, to mean that these beasts were branded in the year 1858; these hides had this number on; I am not aware whether Mr. de Lauret brands his calves as soon as they are dropped.

This deponent, Alexander Watt, being duly sworn, on his oath saith as follows:—I am district constable at Collector; I recollect the 5th January instant; on that day, from information I received, I proceeded, in company with Mr. Volney Cooper, to Doherty's place at Lake George; on arriving at Doherty's I inquired for him, and was told by his wife that he was down in the paddock; I sent for him; when Doherty came I asked him if he had been killing any cattle on that day; he said he had; I asked him to produce the hides; he then produced one hide, and when I asked him if there were any more he produced another hide; on inspecting the hides I found that one was a red and the other a yellow, both branded LA on the near ribs, and 58 on the near thigh; Mr. Volney Cooper said that was Mr. de Lauret's brand; I then asked Doherty whose brands the LA and 58 were, and he replied that it was Mr. de Lauret's; I then asked Doherty how he came by them; he told me that they were the increase of his cattle that had been branded with De Lauret's brand, and that he had seven or eight more at De Lauret's station; I told him I should make inquiries of Mr. de Lauret about it, and that he had better put up the hides, in case they should be wanted; he said that the hides would be forthcoming whenever I called for them; I afterwards gave information to Mr. de Lauret; on the 8th instant, by virtue of two warrants, I apprehended Doherty and Peckham, on a charge of cattle stealing; neither of them made any statement further than Doherty said that the cattle he had killed were the increase of his own cattle, that had been branded with De Lauret's brand, and handed over to him (Doherty) by Day in Mr. de Lauret's employ; I brought the prisoners to Goulburn and left them in the lock-up.

Cross-examined :—I did not propose to take away the hides on the 4th instant; on the 8th they were in the same state as when I saw them previously, only dryer; I did not search for the heads either on the 5th or on the 8th.

This deponent, Charles Berrington Robinson, being duly sworn, on his oath states as follows:—I at present reside at Currandooly; I have seen the prisoner Doherty twice before; I do not think I ever saw the other prisoner before; I saw Doherty on the morning of the 5th of January instant at Currandooly, Mr. de Lauret's station; he did not tell me his business then; we had no conversation about stock.

C. B. ROBINSON.

This deponent, Charles Berrington Robinson, recalled, states on oath:—I have been present at the branding of a great many of Mr. de Lauret's cattle since April last; the number 58 indicates the year 1858, in which they were branded; since the first of this year I have branded some calves of Mr. de Lauret's 59, indicating this year; I have seen cattle of Mr. de Lauret's with the 57, 56, 55, 54, and other numbers on; Mr. de Lauret's other brand is LA; the number is put on the rump, and the LA on the ribs, on the near side.

Cross-examined :—I have on one occasion seen a cow branded JD on the rump; she was in Mr. de Lauret's yard; when cattle of different brands are brought into the yard, the calves are separated from the cows and are branded; what I mean by cattle of different brands is cattle with different numbers on but belonging to Mr. de Lauret; I have seen cows of other brands besides Mr. de Lauret's driven into the yard, and some of them cows with calves—these are cut out in the yard; strangers are cut out with their calves; on one or two occasions I have seen the calves of strangers left in the branding pen; these strangers' calves have never been branded since I have been with Mr. de Lauret; I have recently heard that a cow with the JD brand had a calf running with it, with the LA brand on it; I do not recollect the age of the calf; if this calf was so branded it was without my knowledge.

Examination—

Examination-in-chief, continued :—When strangers' calves are allowed to remain in the branding pen, it is on account of the very great difficulty there sometimes is in drafting them out; I occasionally know them to be strangers; there are a great number of strangers' cows on the run.

Cross-examined :—It was the same cow branded JD that I saw on the two occasions in the yard at Currandooly; I cannot say whether she had a calf with her or not; the cows and calves were together when I saw her; I saw her either in November or December last; I was present at all the branding in November and December last; while I was overseer at Currandooly I have branded strangers' calves by mistake; I think about five; Mr. Volney Cooper claimed two, Mr. Dwyer's overseer claimed one, and I gave it to him.

Cross-examined :—The JD cow used generally run at Taylor's Creek; when young Doherty pointed out the calf, it was the first time that I found out that it had been branded by mistake; I think it bears the 59 brand; I am not positive; I did not know the JD cow was on the run until I saw her in the yard; I saw Doherty at Currandooly on the 5th; I know a man named Hammond; I believe he had been employed looking after Mr. de Lauret's cattle before I came there; Doherty asked me on that morning to go and assist him to gather his cattle, but I would not; there are places on the Currandooly run called the "Springs," the "Sandy Falls," and the "Cow Flats"; I do not know if any of Doherty's cattle are at these places; I have not had time to know all the cattle on the Currandooly run; when Doherty's boy brought the calf with Mr. de Lauret's brand on, I advised Doherty to cut its ears off, to prevent mistakes in future; he said he would cut its throat; I saw Mr. Volney Cooper at Payne's public house on the 6th; he treated me to a glass of brandy; he wanted me to come into Goulburn with him; the calf that was claimed by Doherty was a little red calf, and its mother was a red cow with a white back.

There is also no evidence of ownership, except the brand, which is not enough.

GENTLEMEN,

In reference to your letter of the 17th instant, which has been handed to me by the Criminal Crown Solicitor, containing request on behalf of Alexander Berry, Esquire, the prosecutor in the case noted in the margin, to be allowed to proceed in the matter at his own expense, I am directed by the Attorney General to observe that he thinks, as a general rule, private prosecutions are undesirable, and in cases of libel particularly so. The prosecution must therefore be conducted by the Crown Law Officers.

MESSRS. NORTON, SON, AND BARKER to THE SECRETARY TO THE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SIR,

We have to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 20th instant, in which you inform us that the Attorney General thinks that, as a general rule, private prosecutions are undesirable, and in case of libel particularly so, and that the prosecutions against Dr. Lang and Mr. Fussell, for the publication of a false and scandalous libel upon Mr. Berry, must therefore be conducted by the Crown Law Officers.

We will not enter into a discussion with the Attorney General as to the propriety or desirableness of prosecutions for offences being conducted at the expense of private individuals, but we may be permitted to say, that if there are any prosecutions which should be left to the conduct of private counsel, they are those for libels on the character and reputation of individuals. We believe that in England prosecutions of this nature are left entirely to the individuals who feel themselves aggrieved, and if they are either unable or unwilling to incur the expense, the offender escapes punishment altogether, as the Attorney General seldom prosecutes except for offences affecting the Queen or her Government, or having a direct tendency to prejudice the public generally.

We presume the Attorney General has refused to accede to Mr. Berry's application only upon the general grounds mentioned in your letter, and without reference to the particular cases, and therefore we beg most respectfully to request his attention to the libellous publication complained of, in order that he may have an opportunity of considering whether these prosecutions are not such as should be intrusted to Mr. Berry himself. The Attorney General has, no doubt, observed from the public newspapers that an attempt is being made to make these political cases, and that subscriptions are invited towards the expense of the defence.

The

Regina v. John Dunmore Lang—Libel.

The defendants have the right, if they should think it safe or prudent to do so, to plead a special plea of justification, and in such case it would be altogether impossible for the Crown Law Officers to do justice to Mr. Berry; and a failure would be more injurious to him than the original libel.

We are informed the determination of the Attorney General in these cases is contrary to the practice that has hitherto been pursued in this Colony, if not altogether without precedent, as the parties complaining have been allowed, almost as of course, to prosecute at their own expense, where they have expressed a desire to do so.

The prosecutions by Mr. Icely and Mr. Stuart against Dr. Lang for libel were both conducted, with the consent of the Attorney General, by private counsel, retained by the prosecutors.

We believe the prosecution at the instance of Mate against Evans, for fraud or embezzlement, was also conducted by private counsel, and having inquired of several Members of the Bar, and Solicitors in extensive practice, we have not been able to ascertain that during all the time Mr. Plunkett was Attorney General a single case occurred in which the individual complaining was refused permission to conduct the prosecution.

Had Mr. Berry anticipated that the Crown Law Officers would in his cases depart from the usual practice, and deprive him of the opportunity of having the prosecutions conducted in such a manner as that justice might be done to his character, he would have applied to the Supreme Court for permission to file an information in the name of the Attorney General, and had such an application been made, we believe we may say, with confidence, that the reasons assigned by the Attorney General for his refusal would not have been considered by the Judges sufficient to warrant them in refusing to place Mr. Berry in the position which he thinks so objectionable.

If the Attorney General should adhere to the determination expressed in your letter, Mr. Berry may be advised on that ground to abandon the prosecutions so far as he has power to do so.

We have just been informed by Mr. Berry that on Saturday last one person informed his clerk that he had contributed five pounds towards the defence, but that the subscribers were certain the Attorney General would not prosecute Dr. Lang.

We take the liberty of enclosing, for the perusal of the Attorney General, a letter we have received from Messrs Johnson and Johnson, in answer to our inquiry as to the practice.

We are, &c.,

Sydney, 22 January, 1859.

The Queen at the instance of Stuart against Dr. Lang, for Libel.

The Queen at the instance of Icely against same, for Libel.

Dear Sirs,

In reply to your communication of yesterday, we beg to say that the above-named prosecutions were initiated before the Sydney Bench of Magistrates, upon the respective prosecutions of Mr. Stuart and Mr. Icely, and in each case the defendant was committed for trial by the Justices, in the ordinary way. The prosecution was afterwards conducted by ourselves, as attorneys, and by private counsel employed by us on behalf of the prosecutors, and at their expense, we having in each case previously obtained the consent and authority of the Attorney General to conduct those prosecutions, and to use his name therein as public prosecutor.

As far as our experience has gone, the practice has been thus:—

The Attorney General has invariably granted to persons who initiated prosecutions for libel at the Police Office, in cases where a committal had taken place, liberty to employ private counsel and attorneys to conduct the prosecution, reserving to himself the right (but we have never known him to exercise it) of interfering if he thought fit.

In cases where the private prosecutor has not been willing to take the duty and incur the expense of carrying on the prosecution, the Attorney General has always declined to carry it on at the public expense.

The result of our experience is shortly this:—That in no such case of private libel will the Attorney General carry on the prosecution at the public expense, but in all such cases cases he will allow the party aggrieved to carry on the prosecution at his own expense, and to use the Attorney General's name for that purpose.

If you desire it, we can refer you to several cases in which the Attorney General has carried out the above practice in both respects.

To Messrs. Norton, Son, and Barker.

In acknowledging the receipt of your communication of the 24th instant, with its enclosure, further urging, on behalf of Mr. Berry, to be allowed to conduct the cases named in the margin as private prosecutions, and mentioning incidents by way of precedent for such course, I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that the late Attorney General (Mr. Martin) and himself were of opinion that prosecutions of this nature should not be intrusted to private individuals since the establishment of Responsible Government.

Berry v. Lang. Same v. Fussell for Libel.

SIR,

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 29th ultimo, in which you inform us that the late Attorney General, Mr. Martin, and Mr. Lutwyche, were of opinion that prosecutions of this nature should not be intrusted to private individuals since the establishment of Responsible Government.

We were much surprised at this statement, as we had reason to believe that so far was the Attorney General from following the practice of his predecessor, he was pursuing a course the very opposite to that which Mr. Martin had pursued; and being desirous of shewing, as far as possible, that the procedure of the Attorney General in these cases was entirely without precedent, we forwarded your letters to Mr. Martin, with a note requesting that he would be so good as to inform us what had been his rule and practice in such cases. We now enclose, for the perusal of the Attorney General, Mr. Martin's reply. We are unable to understand why the introduction of Responsible Government should cause any change in the administration of justice in this particular, except indeed that it might be a strong ground for the very opposite course, that by leaving the case in the hands of the individual aggrieved the prosecution might be entirely free from political bias.

Mr. Berry has already, in a letter addressed to the Attorney General, declined to be further identified with the prosecution in the hands of the Crown Law Officers; and we have now only to request, on his behalf, that the Attorney General will not file informations against the defendant, but leave Mr. Berry to apply to the Supreme Court, in the next term, for leave to file criminal informations which may be prosecuted by his own counsel.

If the Attorney General should still adhere to his determination to take upon himself the responsibility of the prosecutions, we presume he will, in case of failure, indemnify Mr. Berry against the costs he may become liable to pay under the 12th section of the 11 Victoria, No. 13, which clearly contemplates that all such prosecutions shall be conducted at the expense of the private prosecutor.

We have, &c.,

THE LAW DEPARTMENT.

[Enclosure.]

Sydney, 1 February, 1859.

My Dear Sir,

Will you allow me to ask what was your practice, when Attorney General, with reference to allowing private counsel to have the conduct of prosecutions for libels reflecting only upon the character of private individuals.

I have been informed that the practice has always been for the Attorney General to leave the conduct of the prosecution to the party aggrieved whenever he was willing to incur the expense, but that if he did not choose to do so, it was conducted entirely by the Crown Law Officers without the assistance of private counsel.

You will observe, from the letters which I take the liberty of enclosing for your perusal, that the present Attorney General states that you and he were of opinion that prosecutions of this nature should not be entrusted to private individuals, since the establishment of Responsible Government.

If I am correctly informed, your practice was very different, and, indeed, so far from laying down any such rule, that in one case for a libel on Dr. Douglass you refused to prosecute at the public expense, but consented to allow the party complaining to do so by his own counsel.

The Honorable James Martin, Esq.

I am, &amp;c.,

WILLIAM BARKER.

Chambers, Elizabeth-street,

1 Feb., 1859.

My Dear Sir,

While I held the office of Attorney General I never filed an information for libel. During that period several committals for that offence took place, but in every case I declined to prosecute at the public expense, giving the prosecutor the option (if he thought fit) to conduct the prosecution at his own expense. In so acting I followed what I understood to have been the practice of Mr. Plunkett when he was Attorney General—not to prosecute at the public cost for any libel, except such as either by reason of the public character or position of the parties involved, or of some peculiarity in the libel itself, made it one of general interest to the community. Mr. Lutwyche is, therefore, in error in the statement which it seems he has made as to the views entertained by me in the matter referred to. He possibly may have been led into this error by the fact of my refusing permission to any private prosecutor to assist by his counsel or attorney in the management of any prosecution conducted by the Attorney or Solicitor General.

W. Barker, Esq.

Yours truly,

JAMES MARTIN.

ALEXANDER BERRY, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 1 February, 1859.

SIR,

My solicitors have forwarded to me the correspondence between them and yourself respecting the prosecutions I have initiated against Dr. Lang and Mr. Fussell, for the publication of a most scandalous and malicious libel upon my character, from which I learn that as Attorney General you have refused to permit the prosecutions to be carried on by counsel retained by myself for that purpose.

Before taking any steps in these cases I had fully considered the matter, and was perfectly certain that if justice was to be done to my character it would be necessary for me to retain private counsel; and I instructed my solicitors accordingly, and they, not imagining that you would take a course so extraordinary and unusual as to prevent my carrying on the prosecutions, immediately retained Mr. Isaacs and Mr. Wise.

I am not informed why I am to be prevented from prosecuting for injuries in the same manner as other individuals, and I am not entitled to express any opinion as to your motive, however well founded that opinion may be; but as I have no confidence that the prosecutions would be conducted by the Crown Law Officers in such a manner as to enable me to do justice to myself, I have to inform you that for that reason I decline to interfere further with the prosecutions, and entirely abandon them so far as I am concerned.

I consider the libellous publications for which the defendants have been committed to take their trials to be not only malicious and defamatory, but also highly calculated to endanger my life, and my alarm is certainly not diminished by a consideration of your determination, and the placards, newspaper advertisements, and reports of meetings having reference to these prosecutions, which are daily appearing.

I have, &amp;c.,

ALEXANDER BERRY.

THE HONORABLE
THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

THE

THE SECRETARY TO LAW DEPARTMENT to ALEXANDER BERRY, ESQ.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 1st instant, in reference to the correspondence which has taken place between your solicitors (Messrs. Norton, Son, & Barker,) and the Attorney General, respecting the matter of the prosecution of the individuals named in the margin. I have now the honor to state that you will be required to attend as a witness on the trials of Dr. Lang and Mr. Fussell, and should you not do so, I am directed to inform you that your recognizances will be estreated.

I have, &amp;c.,

The examination of Alexander Berry, of the North Shore, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire, a Member of the Legislative Council of the said Colony, taken on Wednesday, this twelfth day of January, A. D. 1859, at the Water Police Court, Sydney, in the Colony aforesaid, before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said Colony, in the presence and hearing of John Dunmore Lang, D.D., who is charged this day before me—For that he, the said John Dunmore Lang, on the 23rd day of December last, at Wollongong, in the said Colony, did cause to be published in the Illawarra Mercury a letter headed "The Shoalhaven Incubus," containing a false, scandalous, and defamatory libel of and concerning the said Alexander Berry.

The Information and complaint of the Honorable Alexander Berry, of the North Shore, near the City of Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire, a Member of the Legislative Council of the said Colony, taken this eighth day of January, A. D. 1859, before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the said City and Colony, who saith that John Dunmore Lang, of the City of Sydney, Doctor of Divinity, as he has been informed, and verily believes, wrote and caused to be published in the newspaper called the Illawarra Mercury, published at Wollongong, in the said Colony, on the twenty-third day of December last, a certain letter, headed "The Shoalhaven Incubus," and signed by the said John Dunmore Lang, in which, amongst other things, is contained the following false, scandalous, and defamatory libel of and concerning him, the said Alexander Berry, (that is to say)—"And is there no remedy for such a state of things on this earth, which God made to be inhabited, and not to remain a vast solitude like the Berry Domain at Shoalhaven? Yes, there are two remedies available in this case; the one in the hands of God, and the other in those of man. I have already stated that Mr. Berry is now considerably upwards of eighty years of age,—a circumstance which is evidently and strongly suggestive to all whom it concerns. It is sad indeed—very sad—to think that men's hopes of improvement and of a better order of things in this present world should, in any instance, have to depend on the fact that God, in His infinite wisdom, has been pleased to limit the duration of human life to three score years and ten, or at most to four score years; but so it is. Mr. Berry is the exact type of those antediluvian oppressors of their fellow-men, for whose enormous wickedness and oppression God was pleased not only to shorten the duration of human life, but to bring in a flood of waters to destroy the world of the ungodly. What, I ask, would become of this world if such heartless men, such oppressors of the poor, as Mr. Berry, were to live five or six hundred years, and to reduce whole generations of Shoalhaven serfs to miserable vassalage and degradation? In the ordinary course of nature Mr. Berry will, in all likelihood, choke some of these days with a large lump of Shoalhaven land in his throat. He will at length find that blessed morsel too hard to swallow, and still harder to digest; and when it is said, as it certainly will be at no distant period, 'The rich man died, and was buried,'—where, I ask, and in what circumstances will he lift up his eyes after such a life as he had led of heartless injustice and long-continued and determined oppression of his fellow-men? The God of Heaven, therefore, will apply His own sovereign and effectual remedy in the case of the District of Shoalhaven, in His own time and way, and that, perhaps, right early. But there is a remedy, also, for this gigantic political and social grievance in the hands of men, and a most effectual one it will prove, so far as it goes; but I must take another letter to describe that remedy, and to point out the method of its application."

THE QUEEN v. CLARKE.

THE POLICE MAGISTRATE, CARCOAR, to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Police Office, Carcoar,
15 February, 1860.*

SIR,

In reply to your letter, No. 59, of the 3rd instant, I have the honor to state that no person of the name of James Clarke was tried at this Police Office for petty larceny, in the month of November last. There was a person of that name tried for vagrancy in that month, and I herewith enclose a copy of the depositions; on that occasion I, the undersigned, was the only Magistrate present.

As the length and term of a sentence depends on the prisoner's character, I trust that the mem. attached to the depositions may be laid on the Table of the House with them. My attention was first called to James Clarke by the Chief Constable of Carcoar, who came in and told me that he was a pickpocket from Bathurst or Sydney; I then kept an eye upon him, and found he was turned out of two public-houses, by the publicans in Carcoar, he was so quarrelsome and rowdy; I then heard of his stealing a dog and some money; and sent and had him taken up. I found he had been in Bathurst Gaol nine times, and sentenced ten times, undergoing three years and six months imprisonment, during which time he has got the cells fourteen times for bad conduct in gaol. When I gave him the two years, I subsequently found out, the Visiting Justice of Bathurst had to get him removed to Darlinghurst, he was so bad. He was not in the lock-up at Carcoar before he had the slabs out, and a hole through the wall, and was on the point of escaping when detected; I only got him to remove from Carcoar by putting him on the chain, and telling him his next meal was on the road half-way to Bathurst; in short, he is the most complete scoundrel I have met with.

He was sentenced under the 29th and following lines of the 3rd section of the Vagrant Act, viz., for being a "suspected person," near a warehouse "with intent to commit a felony," which the depositions will, I trust, fully bear out.

I have, &c.,

OWEN C. BEARDMORE,

P. M.

THE HONORABLE

THE CHIEF SECRETARY, SYDNEY.

*Carcoar Police Office,
17 November, 1859.*

Before the Police Magistrate.

James Clarke, of Carcoar, laborer, appears in custody, charged with being a vagrant and disreputable character, under the 3rd section of 15 Vict., No. 4.

Charles P. Thompson, of Carcoar, shipwright, on oath, states: I have seen the prisoner about lately; he came to me yesterday with a bottle of rum, and I told him to be off; he then went and took a puppy of mine and went to Mr. Icely's; I did not like to come and lay a charge against him, and so followed him and found my dog hid in some straw and his eye nearly knocked out; he then told me he wanted to speak to me, and shewed me some money in notes and said he had taken it from a "gaffer" at the wash-pool, and wanted me to go with him; I refused to go, and told him to put the money back; I then went and told the sheep-shearers to look after their money, and one, called Fred., said it, the money, belonged, he thought, to his little mate at the wash-pool; I then ran away to the overseer on the roads; I was frightened of him; he has been challenging me before to fight; he said he had 4 or 5 notes.

Examined by Defendant: I did not give you the puppy; when I first went to you & Mr. Icely's, the shearers were at work; they came to dinner, and I had dinner, and before I came to dinner you shewed me the money; the puppy was loose when I found him.

CHARLES P. THOMPSON.

OWEN C. BEARDMORE, J.P.

John

John Micklegun, on oath, states: I am in the Carcoar Police Force; yesterday I went to Mr. Icely's shearing shed about some money reported to be stolen; I saw all the men at work, and told Mr. Icely, and inquired for the prisoner; after a long search we found him trying to make his escape; when first seen he lay down to hide himself; I took him prisoner, and searched him, and found two knives on him; a German came up from the wash-pen and said he thought he had lost some money; but when he came to examine he found the quantity of money was all right, but that it was not in the same position as when he left it; I left him in charge of Constable Quinn, who has since told me that he tried to escape, and I then put the handcuffs on him.

Examined by Defendant: You seemed to me to be trying to make your escape.

JOHN MICKLEGUN.

Sworn at Carcoar, this 17th }
November, 1859, before— }

OWEN C. BEARDMORE, J.P.

William M'Fadden, on oath, states: I have seen the prisoner before, on the Bathurst Racecourse; he was taken up there for gambling, and escorted to the lock-up, and the next morning discharged by the Bathurst Police Magistrate, with a caution not to appear in Bathurst for the next twelve months.

WILLIAM M'FADDEN.

Sworn before me, at Carcoar, this }
17th day of November, 1859. }

DECISION.

The common repute of the man about town being bad, he is found guilty and sentenced to Bathurst Gaol for two years to hard labor. (15 Vic., No. 4, Sec. 3.)

MEMORANDUM attached to the Depositions of James Clarke by the convicting Magistrate.

As the length and terms of a prisoner's sentence depends greatly on the character of the prisoner, I hereby attach my knowledge of Clarke's character, as known to me previously and subsequently to his conviction. I first knew him as coming to my office to look for a job; after he went out the Chief Constable walked in and said he knew him as a pickpocket, and that he had been taken up at Bathurst. I ordered him to be watched, and soon found that he had to be turned out of two public-houses, by the publicans, for quarrelsome and rowdy behaviour. I then heard he had stolen a dog and some money, and then had him taken up. I then found he had been sentenced to and undergone imprisonment nine different times, extending over a period of three years and six months, and sentenced a tenth time, but paid the fine. That during his imprisonment he had been confined in the cell fourteen times. He was not in my lock-up four hours before he had the slabs out and a hole through the wall, and would have escaped if the keeper had not heard the noise; I only got him to move from Carcoar lock-up by putting him on the chain, and telling him his next meal was half way to Bathurst; I subsequently found out that after giving him the two years to Bathurst, the Visiting Justice found him so unruly, that he had to request his removal to Darlinghurst; he was convicted under the 29th and following lines of the Vagrant Act, as a suspected person near a warehouse or street, with intent to commit a felony, which I believe the depositions will fully sustain.

OWEN C. BEARDMORE, P.M.

SIR,

No. 499 Memo.

With reference to your letter of the 23rd instant, directing us to forward to you a Return of all proceedings in or about the month of May, 1857, before this Bench, relative to certain charges made against Michael Finucane, then Chief Constable,—we now do ourselves the honor to forward (under separate cover) a copy of the depositions referred to.

Mrs. Rosanna Robinson states:—On Christmas Eve last Mr. Finucane, Chief Constable, brought me a temporary license to enable me to sell ginger-beer on the Racecourse at the ensuing races; he demanded ten shillings for it; I did not like to pay it; I said "I never paid anything for going on the Course before;" Mr. Finucane said, "It was not his fault, he was ordered to get it, and he would give me a receipt;" he gave me the receipt now produced, which I gave to Mr. Bligh, the Police Magistrate; Mr. Finucane told me to apply to the Bench.

Mr. M. R. Finucane, Chief Constable, states:—About the 24th December last I received from Mr. Wilson, Clerk of Petty Sessions, a temporary license, enabling Mrs. Rosanna Robinson, the holder of a confectioner's license, to sell ginger-beer at the Grafton Races; Mr. Wilson desired me to receive ten shillings from Mrs. Robinson, and not to give the license until I got it; I have heard Mrs. Robinson's statement just made, it is correct as to what passed between us at that time; I gave a receipt for the ten shillings, and I paid the amount over to Mr. Wilson a few days afterwards—not a week after; I cannot say precisely how many days; I was not aware that the charge was improper.

TEMPORARY LICENSE.

BE it remembered that Mrs. Rosanna Robinson, of Grafton, holding a confectioner's license for the shop now occupied by her in Victoria-street, North Grafton, having applied to us, R. Bligh, Esq., P.M., and E. M. Ryan, Esq., J.P., on 2nd December, 1856, for authority to exercise the privileges of the said license, at the public races to be holden at the Race-course, North Grafton, on the 26th day of December instant: Now we do hereby grant to the said Rosanna Robinson authority to exercise the said license at the said races, on the said 26th day of December instant, between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and seven o'clock in the evening: Provided always, she do keep the law in all respects.

Given under our hands on the day and year aforesaid.

Before RICHARD BLIGH and CHARLES JAMES WALKER, ESQs., J.P's.

Elizabeth, the wife of Philip Bale, of Grafton, splitter and fencer, being duly sworn, saith:—In the beginning of December last I applied for a temporary license to sell ginger-beer, at the Grafton Races, being already the holder of a confectioner's license; the Magistrates granted my application; the races were to take place on the 26th December; on the 24th December my husband went to the Chief Constable's for the temporary license; when he came back he told me that Mr. Finucane said the license was all ready but he must first receive ten shillings or I could not have the license; I then went myself, on next day—Christmas morning—to Mr. Finucane; I saw him; he said the license was ready, but I must give him ten shillings for it; I said I did not understand so from Mr. Bligh; Mr. Finucane said Mrs. Robinson had to pay it and I must do so; he asked if I thought he was going to pocket it; I said I did not know, but I must have his handwriting for it; he gave me a written receipt; he then gave me the license; on Wednesday last, the 22nd instant, about 12 o'clock or so, Constable Curry came to me; he said, "Did't you receive a handwriting from Mr. Finucane, the Chief Constable, Mrs. Bale?" I said, "Yes;" Curry said, "If you will give me the handwriting I can let you have the ten shillings—" I think that it is a mistake, some how or other—the Chief has sent me to receive the handwriting, and to give you the ten shillings again." I gave Curry the receipt, and he gave me the ten shillings; I did not at that time know that there had been some inquiry before the Bench about ten shillings improperly taken from Robinson on a similar ground; a man named "Frank," who stops at Carroll's, was in my house on Wednesday, and saw me give Curry the receipt; he heard what Curry said to me, and saw him pay me the ten shillings.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. FREDERICK DUNBAR.

(PETITION FROM, RESPECTING HIS DISMISSAL FROM OFFICE OF CLERK OF PETTY SESSIONS.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 15 September, 1859.

To the Honorable the Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly of
New South Wales.

Petition of Frederick Dunbar, late a Captain in Her Majesty's 39th Regiment of Foot,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That the Legislative Assembly, in the Session of 1856, so far granted the prayer of a Petition presented to that Honorable Body by Henry Parkes, Esquire, in ordering copies of the correspondence between the Bench of Magistrates at Wellingrove and the Government, respecting your Petitioner's dismissal from the office of Clerk of Petty Sessions for that district, to be printed.

That your Petitioner had tried every available means to obtain a copy of the said correspondence during a period of three years, before resorting to an appeal to the Assembly, without effect,—a fact which betrays a resolve to conceal the case from public scrutiny.

That owing to various causes beyond your Petitioner's control, he has had no opportunity of taking any further steps in the matter until the present time.

That your Petitioner respectfully prays your Honorable House to take the correspondence into consideration, and by a just and impartial verdict on the shewing of the case decide whether your Petitioner has been honorably, honestly, fairly, and constitutionally dealt with as a subject of the British Crown.

That your Petitioner deemed it right to make an official report to the Government, in 1853, of an act which he cannot, after years of reflection, consider in any other light than as a most indecent desecration and pollution of the Justice Hall, viz., that two Magistrates on the Bench, in open Court, should have so far forgotten the dignity of the tribunal of justice, and respect for the office they held, as to convert the Court House into a mart for the sale and drinking of brandy. Your Honorable House will learn with a sense of shame and regret, that, without inquiring into the merits of my report, and in the face of the admission of the fact of the brandy drinking by these Magistrates, in their letter of the 20th October, 1853—attempted to be softened, indeed, by mis-statements, "that it does not take place during the "business of the Court," which was only adding crime to crime, for even to this day living witnesses will testify that it was during the sitting of the Justices in open Court—Sir Charles Fitz Roy, by letter of the Colonial Secretary, ordered your Petitioner's immediate dismissal from office; the letter conveying His Excellency's decision stating in support thereof that which was totally untrue, viz., "that it was not the first or second time that your Petitioner had been removed from other Benches for insubordinate conduct"—a statement which, by reference to the records of the Colonial Secretary's Office, may be readily disproved. Let any record establishing the truth of Sir Charles Fitz Roy's dicta be produced, and your Petitioner will admit that he has only received that which was his due; but if no such record can be adduced, then your Petitioner submits for the gracious consideration of your Honorable Assembly that he has been unjustly punished for having followed that course which his conscience, and the conscience of every honest man, must approve, in struggling for a reform in the administration of justice, and prays that you will, by your judgment, mete to him such satisfaction for the vast injury he has thereby sustained for years past, as to your Honorable House may seem just.

And your Petitioner will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

FREDERICK DUNBAR.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 27 January, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The Petition of Frederick Dunbar, Freeholder, of Stonehenge, New England,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That Petitioner has been subjected for years past to a series of oppressions by certain individuals holding the Commission of the Peace, on account of his exposition of their ill practices, by which your Petitioner hoped to contribute towards a reformation in the administration of justice, as already partially exhibited to your Honorable House in a Petition presented during the present Session by the Honorable Member for Sydney, Henry Parkes, Esquire.

That your Petitioner begs to report to your Honorable House that the same spirit of interminable persecution still exists, and that, unless your Honorable House will interfere, there will, apparently, be no end to this injustice.

That Arthur Hannibal Macarthur, Esquire, one of the recently appointed Magistrates of this District, now entitled Glen Innes, did, on the 1st day of November, 1859, issue a certain written order under his hand as a Magistrate, directed to the Chief and other Constables of the said District, to take your Petitioner's wheels off his bullock dray, and to hand them over to one James Hanna,—the said Arthur H. Macarthur having acted thus upon the mere ex parte and one-sided statement of the said James Hanna, and without either issuing a summons for your Petitioner to appear before the Court of Petty Sessions, or in any way calling upon your Petitioner for any explanation of the case,—which unjust order was forthwith acted upon; and your Petitioner has thereby been subjected to severe pecuniary loss, to the value of about two hundred pounds, in that he has been thereby prevented from drawing in the fencing materials required for a farm he bought last year from Government, at Stonehenge, consisting of forty-one acres, eight acres of which were under cultivation—seven in wheat and the remainder in potatoes and other crops, and partially fenced—all of which have been totally destroyed by cattle, in consequence of this oppressive and unjust act, Petitioner having no other dray on his farm to enable him to get in his fencing materials; beside which, your Petitioner has been obliged to forfeit a contract for wheat with a gentleman of this district.

That your Petitioner submits for the consideration of your Honorable House that, exclusive of the pecuniary loss to him, the injury to his character—if an act so evidently opposed to all law or justice should be suffered to remain unatoned for—would be likely to be most prejudicial, for it may be considered tantamount to a charge of felony against your Petitioner. Your Honorable House will, Petitioner is assured, take into consideration the imminent danger to the interests of the community at large if Magistrates are permitted to do such things with impunity; and, after due inquiry, your Honorable House will direct that copies of the order in question, and the one-sided statement upon which it was issued, and which your Petitioner has applied for in vain, may be furnished to him, and afford your Petitioner such redress as to your Honorable House may appear to be just and right.

And your Petitioner will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

INFORMATION OF JAMES HANNA v. FREDERICK DUNBAR.

New South Wales, }
To wit.

BE IT REMEMBERED that on this 1st day of November, year of Our Lord 1859, James Hanna, of Stonehenge, came this day personally before me, Arthur H. Macarthur, Esquire, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, acting in the Police District of Wellingrove, in the Colony of New South Wales, and being duly sworn, maketh oath and saith as follows:—

"That I lent to Captain Dunbar, viz., Frederick Dunbar, now of Stonehenge, late of Wellingrove, a pair of dray wheels (bullock dray); that I asked him to return them to me, and he refused, saying that he 'would pay Robert McMaster for the wheels.'

"Since my application, Robert McMaster has sent me a bill for the same, amounting to £5, for the pair.

"As I am now the only responsible party to Robert McMaster, I pray that an order may be issued, so I may recover the said wheels from Frederick Dunbar of Stonehenge, or the amount claimed by Robert McMaster, viz., £5.

The Chief Constable of Glen Innes.

SIR,

I hereby order you or your assistants to proceed to the freehold of Frederick Dunbar, of Stonehenge, and take possession of a pair of bullock dray wheels, sworn by one James Hanna to be his property—that is to say, for the value of which, in the sum of five pounds sterling, the said James Hanna is responsible to one Robert McMaster—and to deliver the said wheels into the possession of the said James Hanna.

PROVIDED the said Frederick Dunbar is unable to produce the bonâ fide receipt of the said Robert McMaster or his agent, or shall at once pay into the hands of the said James Hanna the sum of five pounds; and this shall be your authority for so acting.

ARTHUR H. MACARTHUR, J.P.

The Chief Constable is directed to take Hanna with him, and to require Hanna to identify the wheels.

IDENTIFIED STOLEN HORSES.

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 10 February, 1860.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Members of the Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of Richard Brett and Richard Heather,—

MOST HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners, residing on the Adelong Gold Fields, having been much harassed and impoverished in seeking to obtain their lawful property, are compelled to appeal to your Honorable House as the last resting-place of the poor man's confidence.

Your Petitioners having lost two horses were summoned to Yass to identify said horses, as having been stolen by certain parties then in custody, and having recognised them, demanded said horses from the Magistrates and from the Chief Constable, but were refused. Your Petitioners were again summoned, on the 18th of October, 1859, to Yass, distant from Adelong about eighty miles, and having again demanded our horses, were again refused, although being at great expense in coming to said Court.

A third time your Petitioners, having appeared at the Yass District Court, on 30th ultimo (January), and the Crown Prosecutor having declined to consider the case of our horses, appealed to Judge Callaghan without success. Your afflicted Petitioners were quietly informed that their horses were sold to defray expenses; and hence we should appeal to the justice of the Government. Your Petitioners, being poor, cannot fee for lawyers to contend with Government; and hence most humbly request your Honorable House to consider that neither individuals nor Government can justly take from an innocent man what is justly his own.

Your Petitioners would furthermore urge, that if they lose for a time their horses through the dishonesty of a second party, it does not justify a third in stepping in and stealing, or depriving your Petitioners of said horses for ever.

Your Petitioners do therefore most humbly ask your consideration of this terrible grievance, and most respectfully solicit the interference of your Honorable House in behalf of your Petitioners, who will ever pray.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The following Petition of Edwin Tyler,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

Your Petitioner arrived here in the Colony in the month of December last, 1858, acting as Agent with power of an Attorney in the Estate of Jéssy Tyler, your Petitioner's uncle, who died about the month of August, 1855, intestate, in the Colony of New South Wales.

And your Petitioner having duly conformed to the rules and law now in force in this Colony, and passed Letters of Administration through the Curator of Intestate Estates.

Your Petitioner frequently and untiringly has applied to know the circumstances and distribution of his deceased uncle's property, and has met with no satisfaction or justice, and is now compelled to seek that protection from your Honorable House that is due to him.

Your Petitioner has been put to great inconvenience and expense and loss of time in consequence of the injustice done him, and, having left a large family in England, your Petitioner begs your Honorable House will afford him that justice which your Petitioner's case duly merits.

And your Petitioner, in duty bound, will ever pray.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 24 March, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

Drawing your attention to the Act of the 22 Vic., No. 18, styled the "District Courts Act of 1858," I am desired by the Colonial Secretary to inform you that His Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to direct that Jury Lists for such towns and places in, or for which District Courts have been ordered to be held within the Cumberland and Coast District Court District, shall be prepared and furnished to the Judge of such Courts in the manner prescribed by the 51st and 52nd sections of the said Act; and to request that you will therefore cause such List to be prepared accordingly for in conformity with the said clauses, so far as the same may be applicable.

2. I am directed to add, that although by the Act a period of three months is allowed for the performance of this duty, it is very desirable that the List should be prepared and forwarded to the Judge on the earliest day possible, in order that the Courts may be brought into operation without delay.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by "The District Courts Act of 1858," it was amongst other things enacted that the persons qualified and liable to act as Jurors for the trial of Issues Civil and Criminal, and for the Assessment of Damages under the provisions of the Act of Council, 11th Vict., No. 20, sections one, two, and three, should be the persons qualified and liable to act as Jurors in Courts holden under the said Act, and for the purposes of the establishment of Jurors' Districts, and the preparation of Jurors' Lists every District Court should be deemed to be a Court for the trial of Issues and the Assessment of Damages, within the meaning of the said Act of Council, 11 Vict., No. 20; and that Jury Lists should be prepared, published, and corrected, according to the provisions therein contained; and such Lists, when corrected, should be transmitted by the Clerks of the Benches to the Judge of such District Court, who should thereupon prepare a Jurors' Book for such Court, according to the said Act; and whereas by the said "District Courts Act of 1858," it was also enacted that that in case the Governor of New South Wales should, by any Proclamation or Proclamations issued and published, with the advice of the Executive Council, order a District Court or Courts, or any Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace to be holden at any town or place where provision should not have been theretofore made for the preparing and settling of the Jury Lists for such town or place, it should be lawful for the said Governor, with the advice aforesaid, to direct the Bench of Magistrates of the District wherein such town or place should be situate to cause Jury Lists for such town or place to be prepared; and thereupon the said Bench of Magistrates should, in pursuance of such direction, and they were thereby authorized and required to prepare and cause to be prepared, within three months after the receipt of any such direction, Lists of all Jurors within the Jurors' District for such town or place; and thereupon the Clerks of Petty Sessions, Chief Constables, and Justices, should do and perform within the said period of three months, all such acts, matters, and things, in and towards preparing, correcting, and allowing the Jury Lists, as are in the said last mentioned Act required to be ordinarily done in the months of August, September, and October, in each and every year; and all such Jury Lists when prepared, corrected, and allowed as aforesaid, should be transmitted by the Clerks of the Benches to the District Court Judge, with a proviso that in case any Jury List prepared under the direction of the Governor, pursuant to the said District Courts Act, should take effect at any time between the months of February and August in any year, the same should continue in force until the month of August in the year following, until which time no new list should in that case be prepared; and whereas by the "District Courts Act Amendment Act of 1859" it was enacted, that it should be lawful for the Governor with the advice of the Executive Council, from time to time to order by Proclamation in the Gazette, that the provisions of the Act of Council, eleventh Victoria, number twenty, should extend and apply to such several Districts as are herein mentioned as having been proclaimed as Districts under the provisions of the "District Courts Act of 1858," and that Jurors' Lists should be prepared, published, and corrected for the several towns and places in such districts respectively, at which District Courts have been ordered to be holden, and all the other provisions contained in the said Act of Council which were applicable to the districts already proclaimed, should extend and apply mutatis mutandis to such newly proclaimed districts, and the towns and places therein; and by the said "District Courts Act Amendment Act, of 1859," it was further enacted that notwithstanding any thing contained in the District Courts Act of 1858, it should be lawful for the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, from time to time, to define the limits within which each of the Courts appointed to be held should have jurisdiction, within the meaning of the fifth section of such Act: And whereas by a certain Proclamation bearing date the 9th of December, 1858, and published in the New South Wales Government Gazette of the same day, District Courts were directed to be holden at the several towns and places hereinafter named in the Schedules hereunto annexed, and intituled respectively, Schedules A, B, C, and D: Now, therefore, I, Sir William Thomas Denison, as such Governor aforesaid, do by this my Proclamation for that purpose issued, with the advice of the Executive Council, define the limits within which each of the said Courts so appointed to be held, shall have jurisdiction within the meaning of the 5th section of the "District Courts Act of 1858," such limits being respectively the limits of the several Police or other Districts, set forth opposite the names of such towns or places respectively in the four several Schedules A, B, C, and D hereunto annexed: And I do hereby, with the advice aforesaid, further order by this my Proclamation, that the provisions of the Act of Council, eleventh Victoria, number twenty, shall extend and apply to such several districts as are herein, and in the several Schedules hereto mentioned, and which have been proclaimed as districts, under the provisions of the "District Courts Act of 1858," and that Jurors' List shall be prepared, published, and corrected for the several towns and places in such districts respectively at which District Courts have been ordered to be holden, and all the other provisions contained in the said Act of Council, which are applicable to the districts already proclaimed, shall extend and apply, mutatis mutandis, to such newly proclaimed districts, and the towns and places therein: And lastly, I do hereby, with the advice aforesaid, direct the Benches of Magistrates, and all the Clerks of Petty Sessions, Chief Constables, and Justices of the several districts wherein such towns and places are severally situate, to cause Jury Lists for such towns and places, to be prepared as directed by the said Acts, and to do and perform all such acts, matters, and things,

SIR,

3 Wm. 4, No. 3.

Adverting to my letter of the 7th instant, No. 341, apprising you that the Government had arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions will be holden during the present year at Yass, Gundagai, and Albury, on certain days therein mentioned, I have now the honor to draw your attention to the enclosed copy Proclamation, published in the Government Gazette of yesterday, respecting further additional times and places for holding Courts of General Quarter Sessions during the current year; and I am desired to request that you will take such steps as may be necessary to place yourself in a position for summoning juries, to be in attendance at the times and places therein enumerated; you may have observed that the lock-ups at the several townships have been proclaimed gaols within the meaning of the Act, and the Benches of Magistrates, at the several localities in question, have been addressed on the subject of the committal of persons (when necessary) for trial, within their respective districts, in which Courts have been arranged to be holden.

I have, &amp;c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

THE SHERIFF to THE HONORABLE THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

*Sheriff's Office,
Sydney, 25 July, 1859.*

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you that in consequence of the gentleman being fully employed whose duty it is to copy the Jury Lists of the newly-created Quarter Sessions Districts into books, to be kept as records in my office, as required by the 9th section of the Jury Act, 11 Vict., No. 20, it will be impossible for me to comply with the requirements of this section of the Act unless I obtain an authority for the employment of extra clerical assistance for that purpose. I have, therefore, the honor to request that I may be furnished with the requisite authority to employ extra assistance, or that a sum (not to exceed £10) may be placed at my disposal to reimburse the gentlemen in my office for my employing them over-hours to complete this necessary work.

I may here remind the Honorable the Attorney General that there are 27 Jury Lists already to be copied, all of which will be required immediately.

THE HONORABLE
THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

I have, &c.,

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 16th of April last, explaining the cause of the apparent delay in furnishing the Return called for in the Legislative Assembly, of correspondence with District Court Judges, and information respecting the officers of the District Courts and Quarter Sessions, I have now the honor to forward herewith to you the information, so far as it has been possible to prepare the Return from the records of this office. I may be allowed to state that the Return purports to comprise the correspondence which had taken place to the date of the Address. Upon comparison with our letter books it has been discovered that in some instances a few original letters from officers resident in the country districts could not be traced; but, as further delay would seem to be undesirable, the correspondence is submitted in its present shape, although it may be deemed necessary to supply the remainder at a future date.

PROCLAMATION.

By HIS Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by an Act of the Parliament of New South Wales, passed in the twenty-second year of Her present Majesty Queen Victoria, intituled, "An Act for establishing District Courts, and for enabling the Judges thereof to act as Chairmen of Quarter Sessions," it was amongst other things enacted, that it should be lawful for the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, from time to time to order, by Proclamation in the Government Gazette, that Courts, to be called District Courts, should be holden at such towns and places as he should think fit, and to divide the Colony of New South Wales into Districts, for the purposes of the said Act: Now, therefore, I, SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, as such Governor aforesaid, do by this my Proclamation for that purpose issued, with the advice of the Executive Council, divide the said Colony, for the purposes of the said Act, into five Districts, in manner following, that is to say:—

I. THE SYDNEY DISTRICT, comprising the Sydney Police Districts (City and Metropolitan), as described in a notice from the Colonial Secretary's Office, bearing date the 23rd November, 1858, and published in the New South Wales Government Gazette.

CHAIRMAN OF QUARTER SESSIONS to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Chambers, Hyde Park,
13 December, 1858.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, received on my late circuit to Bathurst, informing me that you are directed by the Attorney General to offer me the appointment of Judge of the District Courts to be holden in and for the Southern District.

If it be the Attorney General's pleasure to offer me that district alone, I am obliged to say that I am not at present in a position to decline it; but if I may presume to ask the Attorney General's re-consideration of a district for my appointment, I would beg to be permitted to have, instead of the "Southern District," that which is now gazetted as the "Cumberland and Coast District."

In making this request, I trust the Attorney General will not think me insensible of his consideration in offering me this appointment of his own accord, and without any solicitation upon my part, and I hope that the grounds which I am about to state will be a sufficient apology, at all events, to justify my request, whatever be the Attorney General's decision upon it.

Upon two occasions of my intercourse with the late Attorney General while the District Courts Act was before Parliament, he was good enough to inform me that it was his intention to recommend the appointment of two Judges, under the Act, for a district which should comprise Sydney, together with such a circuit of country round it as might be practically available, and be called the Central District, and to give to each of these Judges such a jurisdiction as would enable them to divide the whole of the business of the district between them in such a way as to ensure its certain and speedy determination; and upon these occasions it was his assurance to me, that in the event of such a recommendation being carried out as he anticipated, he would feel it his duty to make the offer of these two appointments in the first place to the present Commissioner of the Court of Requests and to myself; and he was pleased to add that he should feel himself bound to make this offer on account of our past public services.

Since

DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

Since I have received your letter I have again communicated with the late Attorney General, and he has permitted me to say that he still thinks it in every way more desirable for the public interest, and for the successful working of the District Courts Act, to adopt this arrangement.

He says he is of opinion, that for the present the Act can only be made fully operative in and about the metropolitan and the adjoining districts, and that for this purpose two Judges will be immediately required. If the Attorney General has not, therefore, already given away that which is gazetted as the Cumberland and Coast District, and if he thinks it desirable for the present to include within that district the Goulburn country, upon which it so closely verges, I would respectfully submit for his consideration the propriety of uniting such a district with the Sydney District, so as to carry out the proposal of the late Attorney General. That proposal, I beg leave to say, is one which agrees with my own view of what may be at present within my power of accomplishment with some advantage to the public service; and, if the Attorney General approves of this proposal, I shall be happy, with his concurrence, to make any arrangement with the Judge of the present Sydney District that may more fairly and fully divide the business of the two districts between us.

The Attorney General will pardon me for thinking that the express words of the 29th section of the District Courts Act will preclude the possibility of any misunderstanding as to the amount of the remuneration to which a District Judge shall be entitled.

Sydney, 8 January, 1859.*

SIR,

Referring to the conversation which I had the honor of holding with you respecting the number of clerks, and other officers, and the office accommodation, which will be required for the District Court to be established for Sydney and the Metropolitan District, I have the honor to state that the staff of this department consists of the following officers—Registrar, three Clerks, Bailiff, three Assistant Bailiffs, Messenger, and Officekeeper.

2. To meet the increased business which must necessarily arise under the District Courts Act, I consider that, in addition to the number of officers mentioned, the appointment of an additional clerk will be sufficient, provided the Government will authorize me to employ temporary assistance, when found necessary.

3. I beg also to propose for your approval that, as one addition to the present office accommodation, the adjoining room recently occupied by the Chief Inspector of Distilleries, and those occupied by the late Chairman of Quarter Sessions, which form a portion of this range of buildings, may be allotted to my use, on the removal of the latter gentleman to Goulburn.

I have, &c.,
ALFRED CHEEKE,
Commissioner.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to E. BUTLER, ESQ.

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 21 January, 1859.*

SIR,

In transmitting to you herewith a Commission under the Great Seal of the Colony, appointing you to be Crown Prosecutor in the Courts of General and Quarter Sessions to be holden within this Colony, I am directed to inform you that a fee of five guineas is due to the public on the document, and to request that you will have the goodness to pay the above sum into the Treasury.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

THOMAS CALLAGHAN, ESQ., to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

*Chambers, Hyde Park,

Newcastle, 29 January, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor, by instructions of the Newcastle Improvement Committee to state that, in the arrangements for holding District Courts under the new Act, they do not observe that Newcastle is included in the towns at which a Court is to be established, and that, as the trade and population of this city and neighborhood give it the strongest claims to the accommodation, they conceive that the omission has arisen from inadvertence; more particularly as they find that East and West Maitland, which are only about two miles apart apart from each other, are both to have Courts, while this place would be about twenty miles removed from the nearest one. I am desired, therefore, to represent the oversight, and to request that Newcastle may be included in the list of towns at which Courts are to be held, for which purpose it possesses a good Court House, and every other necessary facility.

I have, &c.,
P. MACAULIFFE,
Secretary.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to J. F. HARGRAVE, Esq.

(No. 59-46.)

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 29 January, 1859.

SIR,

As it is presumed that you are still at Mudgee, and as it will be necessary that you should be in attendance as Chairman of Quarter Sessions at Maitland, on Monday, the 7th proximo, I am directed by the Attorney General to state that, in the event of your being unable to return to Sydney by Saturday, the 5th of next month, to proceed from thence to Maitland, you had better go across the country to Maitland, a distance of 100 miles, and Mr. Windeyer, who has been appointed Crown Prosecutor for the Northern District and the Western District, will have your Commission as Chairman of Quarter Sessions intrusted to his care for you, which may be delivered at Maitland in the event of your not arriving in Sydney in sufficient time.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to CLERK OF THE PEACE, MAITLAND.

(No. 59-47.)

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 31 January, 1859.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to draw your attention to a private communication which was lately addressed by him to you, in which you were offered the appointment of Registrar and Clerk of the Peace at Maitland, with salary at the rate of three hundred pounds per annum, for the performance of the duties of those offices; and I am desired to request that you will have the goodness to state by return of post, whether you are willing or not to accept the offer already mentioned.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that it is deemed advisable to communicate with you officially, and to place on record, the terms upon which you received from the Government your appointment as Crown Prosecutor for the Southern and Cumberland and Coast Districts, under the District Courts Act of 1858. I am directed to repeat in writing what the Attorney General has already intimated to you by a private note,—that the present arrangement which requires you to discharge the duties of Crown Prosecutor in two districts is to be considered temporary, but that the Government cannot recognise your claim to select a district, whenever it may become necessary to appoint a Crown Prosecutor for each of those districts.

I am also desired to add, in reference to a claim made by you for compensation in consequence of your having been deprived of your office of Joint Parliamentary Draftsman, that according to the Government regulations no public officer is entitled to compensation for loss of employment who is appointed to another office within three months from the loss of his former appointment. I am likewise desired to observe that the Attorney General is unable to perceive what pecuniary damage you can have sustained by the loss of an office worth £350 a year, and your appointment to another three weeks afterwards worth £500 a year.

SIR,

In order to prevent any future misunderstanding, I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you, that it is deemed advisable to communicate to you officially, and to place upon record the conditions under which you have received the appointment of Crown Prosecutor for the Northern District, under the provisions of the District Courts Act of 1858. I am now desired to repeat in writing what the Attorney General has already explained verbally to you,—that the present arrangement, whereby you are required to act as Crown Prosecutor for the Western as well as the Northern District, is to be considered temporary, and that you will be relieved from the duty of acting as Crown Prosecutor for the Western District whenever it may become necessary to nominate a separate Crown Prosecutor for that district.

Sydney, 18 February, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that for the future you will be relieved from the performance of the duties of Clerk of the Peace for the Southern District and the Western District, and you will no longer be required to attend at Goulburn or proceed to Bathurst, or otherwise to act as Clerk of the Peace for those districts. It is intended by the Government that the Chief Registrars appointed under the District Courts Act of 1858 for each of the above places shall likewise be required to act in the capacity of Clerks of the Peace for their respective districts. Your duties will now be confined to the County of Cumberland, the Chief Registrar at Parramatta having been appointed as such for the Cumberland and Coast District, and also to be Clerk of the Peace for that portion of the before-mentioned district which is not included in the County of Cumberland.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letters of the 24th ultimo and 15th instant, requesting authority for the payment of your salary as District Judge from the 21st to 31st December last, I am directed by the Attorney General to state that you appear to have overlooked a passage in the letter (dated 4th December, 1858) which conveyed to you on the part of the Attorney General the offer of an appointment as Judge of the District Courts to be holden in and for the Southern District. A reference to that letter will shew you that the offer of that appointment was made "with the express understanding that you should continue to perform the duties of your then office with the salary attached thereto, without other remuneration, during the current year." I am desired to add, that if you did not overlook the passage in question, you must be taken to have accepted the appointment, subject to the conditions by which the offer of it was accompanied; and the Attorney General cannot therefore authorize the payment of a salary for an office which you accepted upon the understanding that the salary attached thereto should not commence until the 1st of January, 1859. I am further desired to add, that although Mr. Cheeke and Mr. Dowling were appointed to their respective offices under the same conditions as you, neither of those gentlemen have preferred a similar application.

SIR,

In reference to your letter of the 8th ultimo, respecting the number of clerks and other officers, and the office accommodation which will be required for your department, I am directed by the Attorney General to remark, that Mr. Yarnton having been appointed to execute jointly with the Chief Registrar the office of Registrar for the Sydney District Courts, it is considered by the Government that this arrangement will be sufficient for the present.

2. In reference to your suggestion with regard to additional office accommodation, the Attorney General sees no objection to your having the adjoining room, recently occupied by the Chief Inspector of Distilleries, and also those occupied by the late Chairman of Quarter Sessions, being a portion of the same range of buildings, on the removal of Mr. Callaghan to Goulburn.

Application will be made to the Colonial Architect to carry out the necessary alterations.

I have the honor, by direction of the Attorney General, to forward herewith to you a copy of the Proceedings and Minute of the Executive Council, No. 59-6, with respect to rates of salary to be paid to certain officers of the District Courts.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

[Enclosure.]

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 7th February, 1859, with respect to rates of salary to be paid to certain officers of the District Courts.

Minute No. 59-6. Confirmed 14th February, 1859.

REFERRING to previous proceedings in relation to the establishment of District Courts, pursuant to the Act of the local Parliament, 22 Vic., No. 18, and to the appointment of Judges and other officers of such Courts respectively, His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a Schedule, shewing the proposed rates of salary and allowances to be paid to such Judges and other officers, and also exhibiting the places in each District Court District at which it is proposed that Registrars and Bailiffs should be appointed pursuant to the said Act, as well as the rates of salary to be paid to such subordinate officers.

14 DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

2. The Council having considered the various items comprised in the said Schedule, approve of the same, and advise that the necessary provision be made accordingly, as per Appendix hereto.

3. The Council further advise, that the several Clerks of Petty Sessions be appointed Registrars at the various places therein named, and with the rates of salary specified in connection with the respective offices.

Executive Council Office,
Sydney, 18 February, 1859.

ALFRED CHEEKE, Esq., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 1 March, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acquaint you, that on the coming into operation of the new system of District Courts, in December last, plaints were filed for trial under the Court of Requests Act, and would have been adjudicated on at the January Sittings of the Court, in the absence of instructions to the contrary from the Government.

2. As the fees of office chargeable in the cases referred to have been paid by the suitors, and duly accounted for by the Registrar to the Treasury, and as it will be necessary to initiate fresh proceedings in these cases under the District Courts Act, I now request your instructions as to the conditions on which suitors will be entitled to fresh processes, suggesting that the most convenient course to pursue will be to allow processes in all such cases to issue free of the fees payable to the Government.

I have, &amp;c.,

ALFRED CHEEKE,
Judge.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to AUDITOR GENERAL.

(No. 59-113.)

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 3 March, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor, by direction of the Attorney General, to furnish herewith to you a copy of the Proceedings and Minute of the Executive Council, No. 59-6, with respect to rates of salary to be paid to the officers of the several District Courts established under the provisions of the District Courts Act of 1858.

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 2nd ultimo, informing you of your appointment as Chairman of Quarter Sessions for the Western District, and enclosing your Commission to act as such, I have now the honor to enclose a fresh Commission, which supersedes the one to which I have referred above,—the present Commission is more definite, and the necessary Minute of the Executive appears to have been overlooked in the first instance, and, consequent thereon, your name has not been gazetted in the customary manner, which, however, will appear in the Government Gazette of to-morrow.

I have, &amp;c.,

GENTLEMEN,

Adverting to my letter of the 25th February last, No. 106, transmitting copy Proceedings and Minute of the Executive Council (59-6), I have now the honor, by direction of the Attorney General, to forward herewith to you a further copy Minute of the Council, No. 59-11, with respect to the designation of certain officers of the District Courts, and the respective rates of salary and allowances to be paid to such officers. I am desirous to suggest that the Registrars who are at present in Sydney might be instructed to prepare a copy of the enclosed Minute for the use of each of the Judges and themselves—the gentlemen in this office being very much pressed with other business.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

[Enclosure.]

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 14th March, 1859, with respect to designation of certain Officers of the District Courts, &c., &c.

Minute No. 59-11. Confirmed 21st March, 1859.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 7th ultimo, with respect to the appointment of Chief Registrars, Registrars, and other officers of District Courts, established in pursuance of the District Courts Act of 1858, and the respective rates of salary and allowances to be paid to such officers, His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a letter which has been addressed to the Honorable the Attorney General by Henry Cary, Esquire, Judge of the District Courts of the Cumberland and Coast District, in which, referring exclusively to his own district, he expresses doubts of the arrangements that have been made—more particularly with reference to the office of Chief Registrar—being in strict conformity with the terms of the local enactment.

2. Mr. Cary is of opinion that the 32nd section of the Act in question does not contemplate the appointment of a Chief and Deputy, or subordinate Registrars, but the appointment in populous places of two persons to execute jointly the office of Registrar. He proceeds to shew that the appointment of a Chief Registrar, having authority over the several Deputy Registrars in his district, would be unnecessary, and moreover attended with many practical inconveniences; and further recommends that the whole sum appropriated to the remuneration of Registrars in the Cumberland and Coast District should be apportioned according to the probable relative amount of business in each Court; for which purpose he submits an amended scale, exhibiting the manner in which he would propose the sum of £790, now allowed, to be distributed.

3. Mr. Cary also suggests a modification in the scale of fees to be received by the Bailiffs of the Court.

4. Mr. Cary's letter has been under the consideration of the Honorable the Attorney General and the Solicitor General, who, in a Minute appended to the correspondence now before the Council, have expressed generally their concurrence in Mr. Cary's views, save as respects the fees of Bailiffs, for the alteration of which they see at present no ground; observing, that if it should hereafter become necessary, a remedy can easily be effected under the 42nd section of the Act.

5. The Council having deliberated at some length upon the several questions arising out of the correspondence now before them, advise that in the Cumberland and Coast District the appointment of Mr. McKenzie, as Chief Registrar, be cancelled, and that the appointment of the several officers who in the other District Courts Districts have been appointed Chief Registrars be modified in so far as the designation of Chief Registrar is concerned. In the Sydney District the Council advise that the office of Registrar be executed jointly, pursuant to the 33rd clause of the Act, by Mr. Maxwell, whom it was proposed to appoint Chief Registrar, and Mr. Yarrnton, the Deputy Registrar; and in the remaining Districts, with the exception of Cumberland and the Coast, they recommend that the officers designated as Chief Registrars be appointed Registrars of the District Courts.

6. The Council approve of the revised scale of remuneration to Registrars in the Cumberland and Coast District, and advise that it be adopted accordingly, as set forth in the Schedule hereto appended, marked A.

7. Acting upon a further suggestion of the Crown Law Officers, the Council advise that the Registrars and Bailiffs of the several District Courts be required to provide securities to the amounts set forth in the annexed Schedule, marked B, for the due performance of their respective duties.

MR. COLIN MACKENZIE.

COLIN MACKENZIE, Esq., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

103, Elizabeth-street,
Sydney, 6 December, 1858.

SIR,

I herewith make an application for one of the situations about to be made in the District Courts, trusting it may be received under circumstances which I will state, and which perhaps may be considered.

I was compelled three years since to quit the Supreme Court Office, after having served fifteen years my health became much impaired, but now improved;—therefore wish for some employment.

I have, &c.,
COLIN MACKENZIE.

ALEXR. O. GRANT, Esq., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Court of Requests Office,
Parramatta, 15 January, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to make application for the situation of Registrar of the District Court in Parramatta; or in the event of Parramatta being selected for the station of Chief Registrar of the Cumberland and Coast District, to apply for that appointment.

I have for the last two years and a half held the situation of Registrar of the Court of Requests, and of Clerk of Petty Sessions, in Parramatta.

I have been thirteen years in the Government service, having entered in January, 1846; and for the five years previous to my appointment here, I filled the office of Inspector of Distilleries in Sydney, and before that was in the Long Room of the Customs.

2. I beg respectfully to make a few remarks with regard to the duty of Registrar of the District Courts.

I understand that the Chief Registrar will be required to perform the duties of District Registrar of the place in which he is stationed, and likewise to audit the accounts, and to exercise a general supervision over the Registrars of the whole Circuit.

Being District Registrar of the town in which he is placed, as well as Chief Registrar, it will be necessary for him to be stationary, for the convenience of the public of that place, as it is always impossible to know when he may be required. I beg to offer to do the duty of Chief Registrar of the Cumberland and Coast District, as well as that of District Registrar of Parramatta, for the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds (£150),—this is in addition to my salary (£225) as Clerk of Petty Sessions in Parramatta. By this means a considerable sum will be left, for the purpose of paying higher salaries than £50 a year to the Registrars of the larger towns in the Circuit.

3. A Chief Registrar at £300 or £400 per annum, with duties to perform such as I have supposed, would not have sufficient work to do; for the auditing of quarterly or monthly accounts (as the case may be) of a dozen other Registrars, in addition to his work as District Registrar, would not fully occupy his time, and this would soon be manifest; and I at the same time most respectfully beg to suggest that £50 a year is not sufficient remuneration remuneration for the labor and responsibilities of Registrar in the larger towns, and that the duty would not be efficiently performed for that sum.

4. In Parramatta, during the past year (1858), there have been tried in the Court of Requests, four hundred cases in the £10 Court, and one hundred in the £30 jurisdiction, making altogether five hundred. As far as I have been able to ascertain, at Penrith and Windsor (where the Registrars salaries are £30, while at Parramatta it is £50) the number of cases are from fifty to one hundred a year less, and, from what inquiries I have made, I believe that at Bathurst, Goulburn, East and West Maitland, Mudgee, Campbelltown, Yass, Berrima, Armidale, Tamworth, and some other places, the number of cases will not be much fewer; and in saying so I am judging from the number tried before the Magistrates in their £10 Courts, and from the probable number of actions entered from the different places in the Supreme Court.

5. In conclusion I would point out that Parramatta would be the most convenient place in this Circuit for the Chief Registrar to be stationed, for there is quick communication by railway with Liverpool, Campbelltown, and the towns further south, and will shortly be to Penrith, and so to Windsor; and also, for communicating with the coast towns it is the most eligible situation in the Circuit.

In the event of my not receiving the appointment of Chief or District Registrar I shall only have £225 per annum, as Clerk of Petty Sessions, after I have served thirteen years in the Government service.

Registrar of the Court of Requests, and Clerk of Petty Sessions, Parramatta.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ.

(No. 59-63.)

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 3 February, 1859.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to offer you the appointment of Chief Registrar at Parramatta for the Cumberland and Coast District, under the District Courts Act of 1858, and also Clerk of the Peace for that portion of the before-mentioned District which is not included in the County of Cumberland, with salary at the rate of £300 per annum, to commence from the 1st instant.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ., to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Sydney, 4 February, 1859.

SIR,

This moment I received your letter, and beg to say, in answer to the Attorney General's offer, I shall be happy to accept of the situation as Chief Registrar at Parramatta for the Cumberland and Coast District, and also Clerk of the Peace for that portion of the before-mentioned district, with the salary of £300 per annum, to commence from the 1st instant.

I have, &c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE.

ALEXR. O. GRANT, ESQ., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Police Office,
Parramatta, 10 February, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to call your attention to my letter of the 15th ultimo, and in the first paragraph of which I applied directly for the appointment of Chief Registrar of the District Courts for the Cumberland and Coast District.

I have been given to understand that it is in contemplation to appoint Mr. Colin Mackenzie, formerly a clerk in the Supreme Court, in Sydney, which appointment he voluntarily resigned, and I beg most respectfully to point out the great injustice that will be done to me by making such an appointment, in fact superseding me in my Registrarship, for in Cumberland the District Court is, in reality, an extension of, and a substitute for, the Court of Requests, and none of the staff of the Court of Requests in Sydney have been deprived of their situations.

After thirteen years' service, as I have stated in my previous letter, I shall be left with a salary of £225 per annum, and having, as any inhabitants of Parramatta will confirm, zealously performed my duties.

I have been authorized by the Honorable the Chief Secretary for the Government, as intimated to me by Mr. James Byrnes, to recal to your recollection a conversation which you

you had with Mr. Cowper, in which you stated that I had made no application for the office of Chief Registrar, I beg again to direct your attention to the first few lines of my previous letter, which must have escaped your memory at the time.

I have, &c.,

ALEXR. O. GRANT,
Late Registrar of the Court of Requests.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 7th February, 1859, with respect to the appointments of Chief Registrars of District Courts.

Minute No. 59-6. Confirmed 14 February, 1859.

Approved, W. D.,
7 Feb., '59.

HIS Excellency the Governor General having invited the attention of the Council to the following appointments in the Public Service, proposed to be made in pursuance of the District Courts Act of 1858, the Council accordingly advise as follows, viz. :—

Alexander Charles Maxwell, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar in Sydney, from the 1st February, 1859.

George Swinnerton Yarnton, Esquire, to be the person in Sydney to execute jointly with the Chief Registrar the office of Registrar, from the 1st February, 1859.

Colin Mackenzie, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar at Parramatta for the Cumberland and Coast District, and also Clerk of the Peace for that portion of the before-mentioned District which is not included in the County of Cumberland.

Temple Nathan, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar at Goulburn, and Clerk of the Peace for the Southern District, from 1st February, 1859.

Thomas Charles Gore, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar at Bathurst, and Clerk of the Peace for the Western District, from 1st February, 1859.

Clerk of the Council.

No. 59-105.*

HENRY CARY, ESQ., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 11 March, 1859.

SIR,

I beg to be allowed to trouble you with some remarks and suggestions in reference to a Minute of Proceedings of the Executive Council, dated 7th February, 1859, with respect of rates of salary to be paid to certain officers of the District Courts, which was forwarded by order of the late Attorney General to the Judge of the District Courts.

My remarks, though in some respects, perhaps, applicable to other Districts, I would address exclusively to that of Cumberland and the Coast, with which alone I am concerned.

The Minute informs me that a salary of £300 is awarded to a Chief Registrar for Parramatta, and a salary of £60 for a Registrar for Parramatta and Liverpool. Now it appears from the 32nd section of the District Courts Act that there is no provision for a Chief and a Deputy or Subordinate Registrar, but in populous places two persons may be appointed to execute the office jointly, and the duties and emoluments, in case they cannot agree between themselves, are to be apportioned by the Court,—that is, the Judge. This appears to me to imply an equality, or something much like it; but, in the appointments which have been made by the Government, I cannot but infer that it was intended to make the Chief Registrar not only Chief over the second Registrar at Parramatta, but also over those of the whole District,—otherwise it is difficult to account for the great disproportion in the salaries; but for such supervision by one Registrar over the others, I can find no pretence in the Act;—I apprehended, therefore, that both appointments cannot stand, but one must be cancelled.

The question then is, which of the two? To answer this it is necessary to look at the position of the other Registrars throughout the District. The same Minute informs the District Judges that the several Clerks of Petty Sessions are to be appointed Registrars at the various places. Now it is not my wish to make any invidious comparison between Mr. Colin Mackenzie, who is appointed Chief Registrar at Parramatta, and Mr. Grant, who according to the above Minute would be Registrar at the small salary, except that the former has had no experience in the duties he will have to perform, while the latter has for several years filled a similar office in the Court of Requests at Parramatta, to the entire satisfaction of all parties interested; but I think that the claims of the Registrars in other Districts should be considered. If the Districts are to any extent to answer the expectation of the public, the duties of all the Registrars will be much more arduous than they have heretofore been in the Court of Requests; but in some of them the salary has been diminished,—thus, to mention one only, the Registrar for Windsor is to have £40 instead of £50, which sum I believe he formerly had.

I mention therefore to suggest (inasmuch as no Registrar can, as such, have any heavier duty to perform, than may arise from the excess of causes in his own Court over those of others,) that the whole allowance to that class of officers should be apportioned according to the probable relative amount of business in each Court, and accordingly I beg to submit for the consideration of the Executive a scale of salaries, which (appropriating the exact exact sum, £790, allowed to the Registrars in my whole District,) will, to the best of my judgment, equalize the pay with the probable amount of work.

Parramatta .....	£120	I believe there is only one Clerk of Petty Sessions for these two places, who, until that Office is divided, will probably be Registrar at both places as already determined by the Minute. In the Minute, Liverpool is joined with Parramatta, but there is the same Clerk at both Campbelltown and Liverpool, who has heretofore acted also in the Court of Requests for the two Districts.
Windsor .....	80
Braidwood .....	70
Penrith .....	70
Wollongong .....	70
Berrima .....	60
Bombala .....	40
Camden .....	40
Picton .....	40
Campbelltown .....	40
Liverpool .....	40
Cooma .....	40
Eden .....	40
Kiama .....	40

£790

I must mention one other difficulty which will arise if the Clerk at Parramatta is not also Registrar. The accommodation at the Court House there is already insufficient, and if the Clerk's present room is not appropriated for keeping the records of the District Court, another building must be provided; this remark will also apply to Liverpool, if that town is detached from Campbelltown and joined with Parramatta.

Another subject on which I have to trouble you is that of the salaries of Bailiffs. Mr. Cowper, in a late interview with which he favored me, agreed to my request that I should have a separate Bailiff for each Court, as appears to me is anticipated by the 36th section of the Act, and that the amount appropriated for their salaries should be divided as follows:—£35 each for the Bailiffs of Braidwood, Parramatta, Penrith, Windsor, and Wollongong, and £30 each for the rest,—in all £445. As I presume that this new appointment, being acceded to by Mr. Cowper, requires only to be confirmed by His Excellency the Governor General, I will not trouble you at length with my reasons for this alteration in the plan of the Government.

But there is another point connected with the office of Bailiff to which I must beg leave to draw your attention. By section 39 and the Schedule of the Act, the sum of sixpence is charged "for service of every summons or subpoena if within two miles of the Court House," and therefore "for such service every mile beyond two miles," and these fees are to go to the Consolidated Revenue of the Colony; so that a Bailiff may, and doubtless in very many cases will, have to serve summonses and subpoenas at a distance of many miles without any remuneration beyond his small salary. This provision may operate with perhaps little severity on Bailiffs in Sydney, whose District is comparatively narrow, and who, moreover, have salaries of £150 and £104 respectively, with, of course, a much larger amount of fees from excess of business over other Districts; but in wide spread Country Districts I fear it will deter competent and trustworthy persons from accepting the office. I propose, therefore (if my remarks are considered of any weight), that the above fees should by an Order of Council be transferred from the first to the third paragraph of the Schedule, under the provisions of the 42nd section, which enables the Governor with the advice of the Executive to alter the scale of fees, such alteration to apply to the Country Districts; as to its applicability to Sydney, I do not pretend to offer any suggestion.

Should the allowance prove too large, the Executive may, under the latter part of the 39th section, bring it within its just limits.

I have, &c.,
HENRY CARY.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 14th March, 1859, with respect to the designation of certain Officers of the District Courts, &c., &c.

Minute No. 59-11. Confirmed 21 March, 1859.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 7th ultimo, with respect to the appointment of Chief Registrars, Registrars, and other officers of District Courts, established in pursuance of the District Courts Act of 1858, and the respective rates of salary and allowances to be paid to such officers, His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a letter which has been addressed to the Honorable the Attorney General by Henry Cary, Esquire, Judge of the District Courts of the Cumberland and Coast District, in which, referring exclusively to his own District, he expresses doubts of the arrangements that have been made, more particularly with reference to the office of Chief Registrar, being in strict conformity with the terms of the local enactment.

2. Mr. Cary is of opinion that the 32nd section of the Act in question does not contemplate the appointment of a Chief Registrar and Deputy or Subordinate Registrars, but but the appointment in populous places of two persons to execute jointly the Office of Registrar. He proceeds to shew that the appointment of a Chief Registrar, having authority over the several Deputy Registrars in his District, would be unnecessary, and moreover attended with many practical inconveniences, and further recommends that the whole sum appropriated to the remuneration of Registrars in the Cumberland and Coast District should be apportioned according to the probable relative amount of business in each Court, for which purpose he submits an amended scale exhibiting the manner in which he would propose the sum of £790 now allowed to be distributed; Mr. Cary also suggests a modification in the scale of fees to be received by the Bailiffs of the Court.

Approved, W. D.
21 March, 1859.

4. Mr. Cary's letter has been under the consideration of the Honorable the Attorney General and the Solicitor General, who, in a Minute appended to the correspondence now before the Council, have expressed generally their concurrence in Mr. Cary's views, save as respects the fees of Bailiffs, for the alteration of which they see at present no ground, observing that, if it should hereafter become necessary, a remedy can easily be effected under the 42nd section of the Act. The Council, having deliberated at some length upon the several questions arising out of the correspondence now before them, advise that in the Cumberland and Coast District the appointment of Mr. Colin Mackenzie as Chief Registrar be cancelled, and that the appointments of the several officers, who in the other Districts have been appointed Chief Registrars, be modified in so far as the designation of the Chief Registrar is concerned. In the Sydney District the Council advise that the office of Registrar be executed jointly, pursuant to the 33rd clause of the Act, by Mr. Maxwell, whom it was proposed to appoint Chief Registrar, and Mr. Yarnton, the Deputy Registrar; and in the remaining Districts, with the exception of Cumberland and the Coast, they recommend that the officers designated as Chief Registrars be appointed Registrars of the District Courts.

6. The Council approve of the revised scale of remuneration to Registrars in the Cumberland and Coast District, and advise that it be adopted accordingly, as set forth in the schedule hereto appended, marked A.

7. Acting upon a further suggestion of the Crown Law Officers, the Council advise that the Registrars and Bailiffs of the several District Courts be required to provide securities to the amount set forth in the annexed schedule, marked B, for the due performance of their respective duties.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 6 April, 1859.

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 3rd of February last, No. 59-63, I am now directed by the Attorney General to inform you that the Government, having deliberated upon several questions relative to the operation of the District Courts Act of 1858, have advised that in the Cumberland and Coast District your appointment as Chief Registrar, &c., should be cancelled.

The duty of Registrar, &c., &c., at Parramatta, will be performed by the Clerk of Petty Sessions at that place.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

COLIN

COLIN MACKENZIE, Esq., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 9 May, 1859.

SIR,

I write to say the amount which I have received from the Government is anything but what I might have expected for my expenses and loss of time.

The house at Parramatta I had to re-lease, also move from Bourke into Palmer street, from there out of town, having been much inconvenienced.

You are perfectly aware I gave up my house in Bourke-street, also a business which brought me about £150 per annum, having been appointed as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace for Parramatta, under the District Courts Act for 1858.

I now look to the Government for another situation, having a family to provide for, also being disappointed and put about up to the present time.

I have, &amp;c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE..

P.S.—Please direct to me, care the Honorable G. K. Holden.

COLIN MACKENZIE, Esq., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Petersham, 20 June, 1859.

SIR,

Having received a letter from the Colonial Secretary in answer to mine, he refers me to you; I therefore do so, and must explain my case. I beg to say, on the 1st of February last I was appointed as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace for the District of Parramatta, under the District Courts Act of 1858, with a salary of £300 per annum. Upon accepting the appointment, I gave up a business which brought me about £150 per annum, and am now without means from one or the other. The £44 which I received as compensation from the Government, only paid the expenses which I had been put at from their mistake. Five months will have elapsed, at the expiration of this, without my making one shilling. What I look at is this,—giving up my business, and then to be deprived of both.

I had given up my house at Woolloomooloo, and taken one at Parramatta, when the Colonial Secretary sent for me, and said, "Do not go to Parramatta," although all my furniture, &c., was packed, and every arrangement made to move; in two days I should have been there.

From this disappointment, I had to move out of my house and go into another, where I remained three weeks; from there to where I now reside, at Petersham, five miles distant from town.

I must give you to understand, in the year 1856 I was compelled to leave my situation as Second Clerk in the Supreme Court, from impaired health, but it having improved, and having a family, I thought I would apply for one of the situations about to be made in the District Courts, when the one named was offered.

I have to remark, that when leaving the Supreme Court, after fifteen years' service, a pension of £35 10s. was given per annum. From the 1st February to the 24th March the pension was deducted.

Since I commenced, I find the letter was from Mr. Elyard, for the Colonial Secretary. I complained in my letter to the Colonial Secretary, saying, I was very much dissatisfied with the amount given; also, that I looked to the Government for another situation.

I have, &amp;c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE.

COLIN MACKENZIE, Esq., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Petersham, 6 July, 1859.

SIR,

It is now past five months since I gave up my commission business; from that time I have been out of pocket the sum of £62 10s., a serious loss to me. This amount may appear but trifling to the Government, but my having a family this amount would be of great assistance to me.

I have, &amp;c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE.

COLIN MACKENZIE, Esq., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Castlereagh-street,Wednesday afternoon.

SIR,

Since writing this letter this morning I saw the Attorney General, when he stated he could do nothing for me, therefore I apply to you.

I cannot but say my case is a very hard one, to think I gave up my commission business, upon accepting the situation as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace for Parramatta. I consider the Government ought to make up the loss to me, if only for the last five months.

I am sorry being obliged to appeal to you again.

I have, &amp;c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE.

COLIN

COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 18 August, 1859.

SIR,

I herewith make application again for compensation from the Government, having been disappointed in not going to Parramatta as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace; also for loss of time, and a business which I gave up, thinking to better myself, and which brought me at that time at the rate of £150 per annum, and perhaps would have increased. Up to last Monday, the 15th, I was out of pocket £81 5s., which amount would be of assistance to me at this moment; without which I know not what may happen.

I have, &amp;c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE.

The Executive Council having considered the within application, and having in view the peculiar circumstances attending the cancellation of Mr. Mackenzie's appointment, are of opinion that his claim to compensation may with propriety be acceded to.

They therefore advise that Mr. Mackenzie be authorized to receive a gratuity equivalent to three months' salary of his late office, and that this expenditure be charged to the amount appropriated for the service of the District Courts.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by the "District Courts Act of 1858," it was amongst other things enacted, that it should be lawful for the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, to divide the Colony into Districts for the purposes of the said Act, and from time to time to alter such Districts as to the Governor, with the advice aforesaid, should seem fit: And whereas the said Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, by his Proclamation for that purpose issued on the ninth of day of December, 1858, and duly published in the Government Gazette, did divide the Colony, for the purposes of the said Act, into five Districts, viz.:—The Sydney District, The Cumberland and Coast District, The Southern District, The Northern District, and The Western District: And whereas it is expedient to alter the said Northern and Western Districts by the removal of the Police District of Wellington from the Police Districts constituting the said Northern District, and the addition of the said Police District of Wellington to the Police Districts constituting the said Western District as hereinafter more particularly mentioned: Now, therefore, I, SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, as such Governor aforesaid, by this my Proclamation, with the advice of the Executive Council, do alter the said Northern District in manner following, that is to say, that the said Northern District shall comprise the Police Districts of Armidale, Brisbane Water, Cassilis, Dungog, Grafton, Maitland, Macdonald River, Macleay River, Manning River, Murrumbidgee, Muswellbrook and Merton, Newcastle, Paterson, Patrick's Plains, Port Macquarie, Port Stephens, Raymond Terrace, Richmond River, Scone, Tamworth, Tenterfield, Warialda, Wee Waa, Wellingrove, and Wollombi, as more particularly described in a notice from the Colonial Secretary's Office, bearing date the 23rd November, 1858, and published in the New South Wales Government Gazette on the 25th day of November, 1858: And I, the said SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, do also hereby, with the advice aforesaid, alter the said Western District in manner following, that is to say,—that the said Western District shall comprise the Police Districts of Bathurst, Carcoar, Dubbo, Hartley, Molong, Mudgee, Orange, Rylstone, and Wellington, as more particularly described in the aforesaid notice.

Given under my Hand and the Seal of the Colony, at Government House, Sydney, this second day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, and in the twenty-second year of Her Majesty's Reign.

Dungog, 17 February, 1859.

SIR,

We, the Committee appointed to prepare the Memorial to His Excellency the Governor General, praying the establishment of a District Court in Dungog, beg to express our regret that it was not specially requested that such Court should have criminal as well as civil jurisdiction.

We would therefore respectfully urge upon the Government the necessity of giving to the Court (prayed for to be established at Dungog) power to adjudicate in criminal as well as civil cases; otherwise the removal of the inconvenience so earnestly solicited will not be effected.

Sydney, 22 February, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor herewith to enclose a letter received this morning from my constituents in the District of Dungog.

I can personally bear out their statement as to the necessity of giving to the District Court to be established there criminal as well as civil jurisdiction.

I can also state that there is a large excellent Court House, and also a large lock-up, recently erected, quite sufficient to answer the purpose of keeping the prisoners safely until removed to Maitland, a distance of 50 miles.

I trust, therefore, the Executive Government will grant the request prayed for.

I have, &c.,
SAML. D. GORDON.

[Enclosure.]

To His Excellency Sir William Thomas Denison, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

The Memorial of the Inhabitants of Dungog and the surrounding District,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH,—

That your Memorialists observe by the Proclamation in the Government Gazette of November last, that the Town of Dungog is not named as one of those places at which District Courts shall be holden, and that the nearest towns to this District for the holding of such Courts are the two, Maitland and Paterson.

That the distance to Maitland (East or West)—about thirty-five miles—is so great, as in a great measure to defeat the very laudable objects contemplated by the District Courts Act; and although the town of Paterson is some ten or twelve miles nearer in a direct line, it is even more inconveniently situated for the residents of this District; and there being no business intercourse between Dungog and Paterson, there is no practicable road direct; while to travel the only way by which a vehicle can be driven—that via Hinton—the distance to Paterson is greater than to Maitland.

That Dungog is situated in the centre of a well watered and highly fertile district, including both sides of the Williams River, to the extent of forty miles, supporting a comparatively large and rapidly increasing population; and we would respectfully submit that Dungog urgently requires, and is of itself entitled to, a District Court; and further, that from its proximity to the country lying northward towards the Manning River, Dungog is in every respect far more eligible as a place for holding a District Court for the inhabitants of that quarter than either Maitland or Paterson—the last-named town being particularly unsuited to any beyond the Paterson District.

And further, that the establishment of a District Court at Dungog would be attended with but little outlay in the way of building accommodation,—a spacious Court House being already erected, with upstairs apartments; one of which, now occupied as the Land Agents' Office, could be used as a Jury room. A new lock-up and yard have also lately been erected, at a cost to the Government of from £400 to £500.

That your Excellency will see the propriety of acceding to this application, by proclaiming the town of Dungog as a place where District Courts shall be held.

And your Memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

AUDITOR GENERAL to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

*Audit Office, Sydney,
 9 March, 1859.*

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3rd instant, No. 113, with its Enclosures, respecting the rates of salary to be paid to the officers of the several District Courts, and to suggest that the Chief Registrars be constituted accountants, to whom cash credits should be authorized, to enable them to defray expenses of the Courts of their Districts.

2. It is also suggested that the amount appropriated under the head of Contingencies should be distributed in the following manner, viz.:—

1. Travelling Expenses of Judges. To be divided into four parts; that is, one for each of the Country Judges.
2. Allowances to Witnesses and Jurors.
3. Incidental and unforeseen Expenses.

Each of these items to be divided into five parts, being one-fifth for each of the Courts, including Sydney.

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

(No. 59-22.)

*Macquarie-street,
Sydney, 16 March, 1859.*

SIR,

With reference to the "Order" of His Excellency the Governor, defining the intervals within which the Sittings of the several District Courts in the "Western District" are to be holden, and published in the Government Gazette of the 8th instant, I do myself the honor to point out a mistake therein, which, if not rectified, may lead to considerable inconvenience:—In the "Order" referred to, the Governor has thought fit to refer to "Wellington" as a place where a Court is to be holden; whereas, as yet, Wellington has not been so proclaimed.

I have, &amp;c.,

JAMES S. DOWLING,
District Judge.

MINUTE.

THE Executive Council advise that His Excellency the Governor General should, by a Proclamation in the Government Gazette, order and direct, pursuant to the 2nd clause of the Act 22nd Victoria, No. 18, that a District Court be holden at the town of Wellington, in the district of Wellington.

Approved,—

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

(No. 59-28.)

*Macquarie-street,
Sydney, 17 March, 1859.*

SIR,

With reference to our conversation this morning, relative to the appointment of Mr. Gore as the "Chief Registrar at Bathurst," at your request I beg leave to offer the following suggestions:—

It is quite evident the District Courts Act confers no authority upon the Executive to appoint any person as "the Chief Registrar," in any one district. By appointing Mr. Gore for Bathurst, under this title, I presume it was intended to give him control over all other Registrars in the Western District; I would suggest, however, to confer upon him such a control would be highly desirable and would be full of convenience, leading, as it would, to uniformity of practice throughout the Western District, so far as the working of the several Courts is concerned. Through him, also, all advances could be made, and by him the salaries to the several Registrars and other officers could be paid.

I concur in the suggestion that Mr. Gore be re-appointed as Registrar for the Bathurst District, and, as heretofore, "Clerk of the Peace" for the Western District.

With regard to his salary, I see no reason why it should be reduced. I know from experience it would be utterly impossible for the Clerk of Petty Sessions at Bathurst to carry out the duties of Registrar as well as those of the Clerk of the Peace. It would therefore be necessary to appoint some other person to perform these duties, and I feel persuaded no efficient person could be found who would be both willing and competent to act at a less salary than £300 per annum.

I may add, that at the last Bathurst Quarter Sessions Mr. Gore proved himself fully equal to the duties of the Clerk of the Peace.

Entertaining these views, I see no reason for the re-distribution of the salaries of the several Registrars for the Western District.

I have, &amp;c.,

JAMES S. DOWLING,
District Judge.

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

*Chambers, Hyde Park,
Sydney, 26 March, 1859.*

SIR,

In accordance with your request I beg to suggest the propriety of the Governor General ordering that District Courts be held in the Southern District at the following places, that is to say:—At Goulburn in intervals of not less than two, nor more than four months from the holding of each Court; and at Queanbeyan, Yass, Gundagai; Tumut, Wagga Wagga, and Albury, respectively, in intervals of not more than six, nor less than three months from the holding of each Court at each place.

I have, &amp;c.,

THOMAS CALLAGHAN.

HAVING considered the proposed arrangement, the Council approve of the same, and advise that, in accordance with the 45th clause of the Act of the local Parliament, 22nd Victoria, No. 18, His Excellency the Governor General should order that a Court be held once, at least, in the intervals within set forth, and at the places respectively enumerated.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 26 March, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to enclose you my proposed arrangement of Districts for each Court of the Northern District, and to submit the same for your consideration.

I have had the advantage of the assistance of Mr. McLean of the Surveyor General's Office in preparing the distribution.

I have lost no time in forwarding you the enclosed, as the great distance of many of the Police Districts will render it urgently necessary to apply for the Jury Lists without delay.

I have, &c.,
ROBT. OWEN.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-154.)

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 28 March, 1859.

SIR,

In reference to your conversation with the Attorney General in respect of Mr. J. B. Martin's appointment, under the provisions of the District Courts Act of 1858, to be Registrar at Camden and Picton, and to the desire expressed by you on behalf of that gentleman, that he might be relieved from acting in the above capacity at Picton, I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you, that having conferred with his colleagues upon the subject, he is of opinion that sufficient reason has not been given for departing from the decision already arrived at; therefore it will be necessary for Mr. Martin to act at both Camden and Picton.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST DISTRICT COURT to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Windsor, 22 March, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to submit for your approval the enclosed plan for the subdivision of the Cumberland and Coast District into minor districts.

I have not drawn the Proclamation itself, because that must follow the wording of the Act, which I have not got, and which, indeed, is not yet in existence.

Allow me to suggest that the Proclamation should be at once prepared, and passed by the Executive, at its very first meeting after the new Bill has become law; that, at the same meeting of the Executive, an order should be made under Section 52 of the Act of 1858, directing the Benches of Magistrates of the several Districts to cause the Jury Lists to be prepared; that letters containing such directions should be ready written beforehand to the Clerks of the several Benches, and forwarded at the first possible moment.

Some

Some few days must then elapse, in order that notice may be given to the Magistrates of each district to meet and prepare the Lists. I shall have provided that, when they do meet, the Lists (so far as is practicable, that is, in all places within the County of Cumberland) will be ready for their approval.

Thus, and thus only, there will be juries ready for the trial of causes at my first appointed sittings; otherwise a defendant, by demanding a jury when none can be had, will be able to defeat a plaintiff for a period of three months.

I have, &c.,
HENRY CARY.

(Circular.)

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 24 March, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

Drawing your attention to the Act of the 22 Vic., No. 18, styled the "District Courts Act of 1858," I am desired by the Colonial Secretary to inform you that His Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to direct that Jury Lists for such towns and places in or for which District Courts have been ordered to be held within the Cumberland and Coast District Court District, shall be prepared and furnished to the Judge of such Courts in the manner prescribed by the 51st and 52nd sections of the said Act; and to request that you will therefore cause such List to be prepared accordingly for in conformity with the said clauses, so far as the same may be applicable.

2. I am directed to add, that although by the Act a period of three months is allowed for the performance of this duty, it is very desirable that the List should be prepared and forwarded to the Judge on the earliest day possible, in order that the Courts may be brought into operation without delay.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by "The District Courts Act of 1858," it was amongst other things enacted, that the persons qualified and liable to act as Jurors for the trial of Issues Civil and Criminal, and for the Assessment of Damages under the provisions of the Act of Council, 11th Vict., No. 20, sections one, two, and three, should be the persons qualified and liable to act as Jurors in Courts holden under the said Act, and for the purposes of the establishment of Jurors' Districts, and the preparation of Jurors' Lists, every District Court should be deemed to be a Court for the trial of Issues and the Assessment of Damages, within the meaning of the said Act of Council, 11th Vict., No. 20; and that Jury Lists should be prepared, published, and corrected according to the provisions therein contained; and such Lists, when corrected, should be transmitted by the Clerks of the Benches to the Judge of such District Court, who should thereupon prepare a Jurors' Book for such Court, according to the said Act; and whereas by the said "District Courts Act of 1858," it was also enacted, that in case the Governor of New South Wales should, by any Proclamation or Proclamations tions issued and published, with the advice of the Executive Council, order a District Court or Courts, or any Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, to be holden at any town or place where provision should not have been theretofore made for the preparing and settling of the Jury Lists for such town or place, it should be lawful for the said Governor, with the advice aforesaid, to direct the Bench of Magistrates of the District wherein such town or place should be situate to cause Jury Lists for such town or place to be prepared; and thereupon the said Bench of Magistrates should, in pursuance of such direction, and they were thereby authorized and required to prepare and cause to be prepared, within three months after the receipt of any such direction, Lists of all Jurors within the Jurors' District for such town or place; and thereupon the Clerks of Petty Sessions, Chief Constables, and Justices should do and perform, within the said period of three months, all such acts, matters, and things, in and towards preparing, correcting, and allowing the Jury Lists, as are in the said last-mentioned Act required to be ordinarily done in the months of August, September, and October in each and every year; and all such Jury Lists, when prepared, corrected, and allowed as aforesaid, should be transmitted by the Clerks of the Benches to the District Court Judge, with a proviso that in case any Jury List, prepared under the direction of the Governor, pursuant to the said District Courts Act, should take effect at any time between the months of February and August in any year, the same should continue in force until the month of August in the year following, until which time no new list should in that case be prepared; and whereas by the "District Courts Act Amendment Act of 1859" it was enacted, that it should be lawful for the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, from time to time, to order by Proclamation in the Gazette, that the provisions of the Act of Council, 11th Victoria, No. 20, should extend and apply to such several Districts as are herein mentioned as having been proclaimed as Districts under the provisions of the "District Courts Act of 1858," and that Jurors' Lists should be prepared, published, and corrected for the several towns and places in such districts respectively, at which District Courts have been ordered to be holden, and all the other provisions contained in the said Act of Council which were applicable to the districts already proclaimed should extend and apply, mutatis mutandis, to such newly proclaimed districts, and the towns and places therein; and by the said "District Courts Act Amendment Act of 1859" it was further enacted, that, notwithstanding any thing contained in the "District Courts Act of 1858," it should be lawful for the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, from time to time, to define the limits within which each of the Courts appointed to be held should have jurisdiction, within the meaning of the 5th section of such Act: And whereas by a certain Proclamation bearing date the 9th of December, 1858, and published in the New South Wales Government Gazette of the same day, District Courts were directed to be holden at the several towns and places hereinafter named in the Schedules hereunto annexed, and intitled, respectively, Schedules A, B, C, and D: Now, therefore, I, Sir William Thomas Denison, as such Governor aforesaid, do by this my Proclamation for that purpose issued, with the advice of the Executive Council, define the limits within which each of the said Courts so appointed to be held shall have jurisdiction within the meaning of the 5th section of the "District Courts Act of 1858," such limits being respectively the limits of the several Police or other Districts set forth opposite the names of such towns or places respectively in the four several Schedules A, B, C, and D hereunto annexed: And I do hereby, with the advice aforesaid, further order by this my Proclamation, that the provisions of the Act of Council, 11th Victoria, No. 20, shall extend and apply to such several districts as are herein, and in the several Schedules hereto mentioned, and which have been proclaimed as districts, under the provisions of the "District Courts Act of 1858," and that Jurors' Lists shall be prepared, published, and corrected for the several towns and places in such districts respectively at which District Courts have been ordered to be holden, and all the other provisions contained in the said Act of Council which are applicable to the districts already proclaimed shall extend and apply, mutatis mutandis, to such newly proclaimed districts, and the towns and places therein: And lastly, I do hereby, with the advice aforesaid, direct the Benches of Magistrates, and all the Clerks of Petty Sessions, Chief Constables, and Justices of the several districts wherein such towns and places are severally situate, to cause Jury Lists for such towns and places, to be prepared as directed by the said Acts, and to do and perform all such acts, matters, and things, in and towards the preparing, correcting, and altering the said Jury Lists, as are authorized by the said Acts, or otherwise howsoever.

Given under my Hand and Seal, at Government House, Sydney, this eighteenth day of April, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, and in the twenty-second year of Her Majesty's Reign.

(L.S.)

W. DENISON.

By His Excellency's Command,

LYTTELTON HOLYOAKE BAYLEY,

Attorney General.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

(Circular.)

Colonial Secretary's Office,
 Sydney, 2 May, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to draw your attention to a Proclamation, dated 18th April, 1859, inserted in the Government Gazette of the 19th ultimo, relating to District Courts, and to the preparation of Lists of Jurors for such Courts; and to request that, if not already done, you will cause a List, so far as the same may be required from your District, to be prepared as therein ordered, and forwarded to the Judge of the District Court as early as possible.

2. In preparing this List, it is to be observed, that it will only be necessary to include in it the qualified Jurors residing within your Police District, or such part of your Police District, as may be within the limits of the District Court of

I have, &amp;c.,

W. ELYARD.

PROCLAMATION.

PROCLAMATION.

By their Excellencies JOHN MAXWELL PERCEVAL, Esquire, Companion of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Colonel in Her Majesty's 12th Regiment of Foot, the Officer next in seniority to the Officer commanding Her Majesty's Land Forces in all Her Colonies of Australia; SIR WILLIAM WESTBROOKE BURTON, Knight, President of the Legislative Council of the Colony of New South Wales; and CHARLES COWPER, Esquire, Colonial Secretary of the said Colony, Administrators of the Government thereof.

WHEREAS by a certain Act or Ordinance of the Governor and Legislative Council of New South Wales, passed in the third year of the Reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled, "An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws for the transportation and punishment of offenders in New South Wales, and for defining the respective powers and authorities of General Quarter Sessions, and of Petty Sessions, and for determining the places at which the same shall be holden and for better regulating the summary jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace, and for repealing certain Laws and Ordinances relating thereto," it was amongst other things enacted, that Courts of General Quarter Sessions for the Colony of New South Wales should be held at Sydney, Parramatta, Campbelltown, Windsor, Maitland, and Bathurst, and at such other places within the said Colony, and at such times as the Governor for the time being should, by any Proclamation duly issued for such purpose, appoint: Now, therefore, we, the Administrators of the Government, with the advice of the Executive Council, in pursuance of the power and authority so vested in us by the said recited Act, and otherwise, do by this our Proclamation hereby appoint and direct, that Courts of General Quarter Sessions for the Colony of New South Wales shall be holden at the following other places, severally, within the said Colony, viz.:—at Yass, Gundagai, and Albury; and that such several Courts of Quarter Sessions shall, during this present year, be respectively held at the several times following, that is to say,—at Yass, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Gundagai, on Tuesday, the 25th of October; and at Albury, on Tuesday, the 8th of November; of which all persons concerned are hereby required to take notice.

Given under our Hands and the Seal of the Colony, at Government House, Sydney, this fifth day of July, in the year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, and in the twenty-third year of Her Majesty's Reign.

(L.S.)

J. M. PERCEVAL, COLONEL.
W. W. BURTON.
CHARLES COWPER.

By Command of Their Excellencies,

LYTTELTON HOLYOAKE BAYLEY,

Attorney General.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to SHERIFF.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 7 July, 1859.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that the Government have arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions shall be holden during the present year at the several times and places following, in addition to those heretofore proclaimed: that is to say, at Yass, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Gundagai, on Tuesday, the 25th of October; and at Albury, on Tuesday, the 8th of November; I am therefore desired to request that you will at once have the goodness to take such steps as may be necessary to place yourself in a position for the summoning of juries to be in attendance at the places heretofore respectively named, on the above days. I may further mention that a Proclamation will shortly appear notifying the places for the detention of prisoners at each of the townships in question to be gaols within the meaning of the Act. The Benches of Magistrates have been communicated with on the subject of forwarding prisoners for trial at such Courts as the locality may indicate to be proper.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

Vide Proclamation in respect of Gaols in Government Gazette, p. 1545, days and places, p. 1546, and Gazette, No. 132, 6 July, 1859.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to SHERIFF.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 13 July, 1859.

SIR,

3 Wm. IV., No. 8.

Adverting to my letter of the 7th instant, No. 341, apprising you that the Government had arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions will be holden during the present year at Yass, Gundagai, and Albury, on certain days therein mentioned, I have now the honor to draw your attention to the enclosed copy Proclamation, published in the Government Gazette of yesterday, respecting further additional times and places for holding holding Courts of General Quarter Sessions during the current year; and I am desired to request that you will take such steps as may be necessary to place yourself in a position for summoning juries to be in attendance at the times and places therein enumerated; you may have observed that the lock-ups at the several townships have been proclaimed gaols within the meaning of the Act, and the Benches of Magistrates, at the several localities in question, have been addressed on the subject of the committal of persons (when necessary) for trial, within their respective districts, in which Courts have been arranged to be holden.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales, and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by a certain Act or Ordinance of the Governor and Legislative Council of New South Wales, passed in the third year of the Reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled, "An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws for the transportation and punishment of offenders in New South Wales, and for defining the respective powers and authorities of General Quarter Sessions, and of Petty Sessions, and for determining the places at which the same shall be holden, and for better regulating the summary jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace, and for repealing certain Laws and Ordinances relating thereto," it was amongst other things enacted, that Courts of General Quarter Sessions for the Colony of New South Wales should be held at Sydney, Parramatta, Campbelltown, Windsor, Maitland, and Bathurst, and at such other places within the said Colony, and at such times, as the Governor for the time being should, by any Proclamation duly issued for such purpose, appoint: Now, therefore, I, Sir William Thomas Denison, the Governor aforesaid, with the advice of the Executive Council, in pursuance of the power and authority so vested in me by the said recited Act, do by this my Proclamation hereby appoint and direct that Courts of General Quarter Sessions for the Colony of New South Wales shall be holden at the following other places, severally, within the said Colony, viz.:—At Paterson, on Monday, the 29th of August, and Monday, the 28th of November; at Singleton, on Friday, the 2nd of September, and Friday, the 2nd of December; at Muswellbrook, on Wednesday, the 7th of September, and Wednesday, the 7th of December; at Scone, on Monday, the 12th of September, and on Monday, the 12th of December; at Murrumbidgee, on Thursday, the 15th of September, and Thursday, the 15th of December; at Port Macquarie, on Monday, the 10th of October; at Grafton, on Monday, the 17th of October; at Tamworth, on Thursday, the 22nd of December; at Armidale, on Saturday, the 31st of December; at Carcoar, on Tuesday, the 23rd of August, and Wednesday, the 23rd of November; at Hartley, on Tuesday, the 27th of September, and Tuesday, the 20th of December; at Mudgee, on Tuesday, the 4th of October, and Wednesday, the 28th of December; at Dubbo, on Thursday, the 13th of October; at Molong, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Orange, on Monday, the 24th of October; at Eden, on Wednesday, the 31st of August; at Cooma, on Monday, the 12th of September; at Windsor, on Monday, the 3rd of October; at Penrith, on Monday, the 10th of October; at Campbelltown, on Monday, the 17th of October; at Camden, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Berrima, on Tuesday, the 25th of October; at Wollongong, on Tuesday, the 1st of November; and at Braidwood, on Monday, the 5th of December; of which all persons concerned are hereby required to take notice.

Given under my Hand and the Seal of the Colony, at Government House, Sydney, this eleventh day of July, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, and in the twenty-third year of Her Majesty's Reign.

(L.S.) W. DENISON.

By His Excellency's Command,

LYTTELTON HOLYOAKE BAYLEY,

Attorney General.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by an Act of the Governor and Council of New South Wales, passed in the fourth year of the Reign of Her present Majesty, intituled, "An Act for the Regulation of Gaols, Prisons, and Houses of Correction in the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and for other purposes relating thereto," it is enacted, that all buildings, erections, houses, and premises which should thereafter be erected, built, purchased, enlarged, or maintained maintained at the public expense, as and for Public Gaols, Prisons, or Houses of Correction within the said Colony and its Dependencies, and which should, by Proclamation, to be from time to time published in the New South Wales Government Gazette, by order of the Governor for the time being of the said Colony, be declared and notified as such Public Gaols, Prisons, or Houses of Correction, should, from after the publication of such notification, be severally deemed and taken to be the Public Gaol, Prison, or House of Correction of the place or District where the same was or should be situated within the said Colony or its Dependencies respectively, and should be subject to the several provisions thereafter made for the regulation, management, care, and discipline of the Public Gaols, Prisons, and Houses of Correction belonging to the said Colony and its Dependencies, and of the prisoners confined within the same: And whereas it is expedient that certain other buildings, erections, houses, and premises which shall hereafter be erected, built, purchased, enlarged, or maintained at the public expense, or any of which may have been heretofore used or known as Watchhouses or Lock-ups for the detention of prisoners, under charge of felony, misdemeanor, or other offences, at any of the places severally undermentioned, should be declared and notified as Public Gaols, Prisons, and Houses of Correction: Now, therefore, I, Sir William Thomas Denison, the Governor General and Governor-in-Chief aforesaid, by virtue of the said recited Act, and with the advice of the Executive Council, and in pursuance of the aforesaid powers and authority, and all and every other power and authority for that behalf in me vested, do hereby proclaim, declare, and notify the buildings heretofore described, situated and being at the places severally hereinafter named, to be Public Gaols, Prisons, and Houses of Correction, viz.:—

SHERIFF to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sheriff's Office,
Sydney, 25 July, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you, that in consequence of the gentleman being fully employed whose duty it is to copy the Jury Lists of the newly-created Quarter Sessions Districts into books, to be kept as records in my office, as required by the 9th section of the Jury Act, 11 Viet., No. 20, it will be impossible for me to comply with the requirements of this section of the Act, unless I obtain an authority for the employment of extra clerical assistance for that purpose. I have, therefore, the honor to request that I may be furnished with the requisite authority to employ extra assistance, or that a sum (not to exceed £10) may be placed at my disposal, to reimburse the gentlemen in my office for my employing them over-hours to complete this necessary work.

I may here remind the Honorable the Attorney General, that there are 27 Jury Lists already to be copied, all of which will be required immediately.

I have, &amp;c.,

JOHN O'NEILL BRENNAN,
Sheriff.

42 DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to SHERIFF.

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 26 July, 1859.*11 Vic., No. 20,
Sec. 2.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, requesting authority to employ extra clerical assistance, or that a sum of ten pounds may be placed at your disposal, to reimburse the gentlemen in your office for their services after hours in copying the Jury Lists for the newly-created Quarter Sessions Districts, I am directed to inform you that the Attorney General sees no objection to the employment of such extra labor as may be absolutely necessary for the purpose mentioned above, provided that the sum shall not exceed ten pounds sterling, which may form a charge against the amount provided under the head of Contingencies to meet unforeseen Expenses for the District Courts.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Macquarie-street,
Sydney, 30 March, 1859.*

SIR,

Bearing in mind that it is the intention of the Government to issue, so soon as the "Amending District Courts Bill" is passed into law, a Proclamation limiting and defining the jurisdiction of each District Court already proclaimed in the Western District, I do myself the honor to suggest that the jurisdiction of the said several District Courts should be limited to the Police Districts as follows:—

District Courts:—

- Bathurst*—The Police District of Bathurst.
- Carcoar*—The Police District of Carcoar.
- Dubbo*—The Police District of Dubbo.
- Hartley*—The Police District of Hartley.
- Molong*—The Police Districts of Molong and Wellington.
- Mudgee*—The Police Districts of Mudgee and Rylstone.
- Orange*—The Police District of Orange.

All which several Police Districts are more particularly described in a notice from the Colonial Secretary's Office, bearing date the 23rd of November, 1858, and published on the 25th of the same month in the New South Wales Government Gazette.

I have, &c.,
JAMES S. DOWLING,
District Judge.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to AUDITOR GENERAL.

(No. 59/157-1.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 31 March, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 9th ultimo, and with reference to my communication, No. 113, of the 3rd of same month, covering copy Proceedings and Minute of the Executive Council, No. 59-6, I have now the honor, by direction of the Attorney General, to forward herewith to you a further copy Minute of the Council, No. 59-11, with respect to the designation of certain officers of the District Courts, and the respective rates of salary and allowance to be paid to such officers. I am also desirous to inform you, that the Attorney General sees no objection to one—in the event of a second—Registrar, at any of the undermentioned places, viz.:—Sydney, Parramatta, Goulburn, Bathurst, and East Maitland, to be constituted Accountants, to whom cash credits may be authorized to enable them to defray expenses of the Courts within the particular division of the Colony to which they may be attached.

The Attorney General approves of your suggestion, that the amount appropriated under the head of Contingencies should be distributed in the following manner, viz.:—

1. Travelling expenses of judges, to be divided into four parts, that is, one for each of the country judges.
2. Allowances to witnesses and jurors.
3. Incidental and unforeseen expenses.

Each of these items to be divided into five parts, being one-fifth for each of the Courts, including Sydney.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-176.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 13 April, 1859.*

SIR,

Adverting to your letter of the 16th ultimo, in reference to the order of His Excellency the Governor General, defining the intervals within which the sittings of the several District Courts in the Western District are to be holden, as published in the Government Gazette of the 8th ultimo, I am directed to inform you that the subject having subsequently been brought under the notice of the Executive, and the Council having advised that a Proclamation should be inserted in the Government Gazette, pursuant to the 2nd clause of the Act, 22 Vict., No. 18, ordering that a District Court should be holden at the Town of Wellington, in the District of Wellington, I am now desired to request that you will have the goodness to state how far a Proclamation of the nature in question will be likely to affect the arrangements contemplated by you for holding Courts.

44 DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to REGISTRAR OF DISTRICT COURT, BATHURST.
(No. 59-177.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 14 April, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 29th ultimo, on the subject of the bond required to be given by you to the Government as Registrar at Bathurst, under the District Courts Act of 1858, I am desired by the Attorney General to inform you that he would prefer two sufficient sureties, jointly and severally, in the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

*Australian Club,
Sydney, 14 April, 1859.*

SIR,

I have the honor to suggest, with reference to the Schedules of Appointments of Registrars and Bailiffs for the Northern District of the District Courts, as follows:—

1st. That Mr. Carter be appointed Registrar for East Maitland and West Maitland. These places are immediately adjacent, and I conceive the duties of the two can be well performed by one gentleman.

2nd. That separate Bailiffs be appointed for Muswellbrook, Scone, and Murrumbidgee. The two first-named places are upwards of 30 miles apart, and the last upwards of 70 miles from Scone. As now joined in the Schedule no one will be able to perform the aggregate duties; and the trifling salary at present apportioned is altogether insufficient.

I have, &c.,
ROBT. OWEN,
District Court Judge, Northern District.

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-85.)

Bathurst, 18 April, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 13th instant, No. 59-176, wherein you apprise me that you have been requested to ascertain from me, in the event of the Executive Council proclaiming "Wellington" as a place for holding a District Court, how far my arrangements for holding my Courts throughout the Western District would be likely to be interfered with.

I have, by a notice published in the Gazette of the 25th of March last, appointed the days on which I purpose holding my Courts at the several places already proclaimed as places for holding District Courts; but, if "Wellington" should be at once proclaimed as a place for holding a Court, and the Governor at once comply with the requirements of the 45th section of the Act, there will yet be time to re-model that notice, so that I may be enabled to hold a Court there in July.

I may further observe, that holding a Court at Wellington will necessitate the appointing a Registrar and Bailiff for that Court, as well as the issuing to the Bench of Magistrates there a notice to prepare a jury list.

In conclusion I beg leave to add, that if the contemplated Proclamation should be issued, I must request to make an alteration in my scheme, furnished in my letter of the 30th ultimo, addressed to the Honorable the Principal Secretary, as a basis on which to found a Proclamation to be issued, defining the limits of the jurisdiction of each District Court, and which, I was led to believe, was approved of. In that scheme the Police District of "Wellington" was grouped with the Police District of Molong, as together forming the jurisdiction of the Molong Court; whereas the jurisdiction of the District Court of Molong would only embrace the Police District of Molong, and that of Wellington the Police District of Wellington.

I have, &c.,
JAMES S. DOWLING,
District Judge.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT.

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 21 April, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 18th instant, with reference to the arrangements made by you for holding District Courts throughout the Western District, I am desired by the Attorney General to state that, the Government having adopted the arrangements proposed by you, and in accordance therewith having issued a Proclamation defining the limits of the Court to be holden at Molong to be the Police Districts of Molong and Wellington, all things considered, he thinks it better to let matters stand as at present.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE

DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS. 45

JUDGE OF METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

District Court Office,
Sydney, 21 April, 1859.

SIR,

Referring to your letter of the 7th ultimo, containing your directions, that as the Government were not aware that any provision had been made to issue processes under the District Courts Act free of charge it would be necessary to commence de novo, and the fees named in the Schedule to the Act would have to be paid accordingly;—I beg to state that, in accordance with such communication, processes de novo, with the fees payable under the Act, have been demanded from and been paid by the suitors.

2. In consequence of such demand the suitors have expressed much dissatisfaction that the fees paid by them under the Court of Requests Act have not been allowed or returned. Indeed, to such an extent have the officers of this Department been annoyed by applications, and threats of legal proceedings, that I am induced respectfully to request some plan be immediately adopted by the Government to repay the suitors the moneys they have advanced.

3. It may not be deemed uncalled for on my part if I shortly state how the matter originated. After the Proclamation of the 9th December appeared in the Government Gazette, constituting District Courts, I personally waited on the then Attorney and Solicitor Generals, expressing doubts that the Courts of Requests Act had, by such Proclamation, been repealed, when, after due consideration on their part, the Attorney General requested me to proceed with the business of the Court, promising to suggest to the Government the necessity of an Act to remove any such doubts as to the proceedings under the Courts of Requests Act. In consequence of such intimation, the business of the Court proceeded; summonses to the number of 564 were issued for the January Sittings, and fees paid by the suitors to the amount of ninety-nine pounds eighteen shillings and sixpence. On the 7th <sup>£99 18s. 6d.</sup> of January I received the following written communication from the then Attorney General:—

"The clauses to remove doubts as to jurisdiction, and to give indemnity, were carried in Committee on the District Courts Act Amendment Bill last night, and the Government have determined that it will not be advisable to hold any more sittings of the Courts of Requests for the City of Sydney and County of Cumberland."

4. Thus the matter stands. The Government having expunged the clause respecting the doubts as to the jurisdiction, the Court is placed in the unpleasant position of refusing redress to suitors, unless the Supreme Court order it by Mandamus; and the officers continually charged with obtaining the suitors' money without corresponding return.

I have, &amp;c.,

ALFRED CHEEKE,
Judge.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to REGISTRAR OF DISTRICT COURT, MAITLAND.

(No. 59-194.)

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 23 April, 1859.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 19th instant, intimating the want of an office for the performance of your duties as Registrar, under the District Courts Act of 1858, I am desirous to request that you will see the Clerk of the Peace (Mr. Briggs) and ascertain from him whether or not it is necessary that he should retain the office heretofore allotted for his use in that capacity, and whether there is any objection to its being given over to you. It may be in your power to suggest some arrangement, as you are upon the spot, in respect of suitable offices, in which, with convenience to the public and yourself, you can transact the duties of your office at East as well as at West Maitland, which may very much facilitate in arranging the matter.

I have, &amp;c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Chambers, Hyde Park,
Sydney, 27 April, 1859.

SIR,

The courtesy of your manner towards me, and the assurance of the Chief Secretary, on the occasion of my late interview with you and him, at his office, that the Government would be willing to receive and entertain favorably, any suggestions I might think it well to offer in reference to the holding of the Courts in my district, induce me to submit, for your consideration, the following statement and suggestions upon this subject:—

2. As you will observe by the Gazette, I propose to hold my first District Court on the 1st June at Goulburn. I intend this by way of a special sitting for the purpose of introducing the Act into my District, in the only place where I have reason to know that a jury list is or can be legally prepared within that time. I then purpose to hold a District Court at Queanbeyan, Yass, and Goulburn in July and October. I am advised that it would be almost impracticable from July to October to hold a Court with any prospect of the arrangements for its session being complete or satisfactory, or with any well grounded expectation at that that season of the year of its being held at the appointed times at any of the places to the southward of Yass. Accordingly, when I shall have made my next Circuit to that place, in the month of October, I propose to go on to hold a District Court at the other places in my district to the southward, that is to say, at Gundagai, Wagga Wagga, Tumut, and Albury. For next year my sittings will be regulated according to what the experience of this year may suggest.

3. By July, too, I would anticipate the practicability of my holding a Court of Quarter Sessions at Yass, and by October at Albury, for the trial at all events of bail cases, and the hearing of appeals at these places; and if this can be accomplished, I trust that the satisfying of the wants and wishes of the country in the early institution of a Criminal Court—and of the Court of Appeal which belongs to the Quarter Sessions—where such a Court has never yet been held, where it is even more required than a Civil Court, and where there is at present no expectation of its being held for a remote period, will do something to some purpose towards allaying in my district, at least, the effects of some of the mistakes and omissions that have been made in bringing the District Courts Act into operation.

4. As you will observe I have said that the Courts can be held for the trial of bail cases and of appeals at Yass and Albury; and if this be done it will, I have reason to think, be a great boon to many persons, as well as some gain to the district generally. As it now is, all defendants on bail, and all witnesses in their cases, from the remotest ends of the district have to proceed to Goulburn, and yet these are cases in which every consideration ought to be given to the parties most affected by them. Those who make these charges and those who have to meet them ought to be saved the privations and annoyances that, from necessity and from the want of gaols, are imposed upon those who cannot obtain bail, and who, in most cases in this country, are only left in custody because they do not deserve bail, and thus those who are of good character, and of good general conduct, and who possibly are only charged with an offence barely amounting to what can be called a legal crime, as well as those who are the witnesses in their cases, are made to suffer heavily for the extreme criminality of those who can only be tried in the places where there is already a gaol to secure them. And in cases of appeals to the Quarter Sessions from such a distance as Gundagai or Albury to Goulburn, who would think of appealing?

5. If this view of mine, therefore, meets with your approval, I would suggest that the necessary steps be at once taken to carry it out. The steps that occur to me are these:—Under the 14th Sec. of the 3rd Will. IV, No. 3, Callaghan p. 697, Courts of Quarter Sessions can be appointed for Yass and Albury. Under 11th Sec. of 11th Vict., No. 20, Call. 1770, or under Sec. 52 of the District Courts Act, Jury Lists can be prepared. Under the 25th Section of the District Courts Act, the Chairman can be appointed, and so the Court can be constituted. If you approve of this plan, I can name the days upon which I can hold these Courts in this year so as to proclaim them. To secure the trial of bail cases only, a communication can be made to the benches at, below, and round Yass and Albury, requesting the Magistrates to commit all the non-capital cases, in which the prisoners can obtain bail, to the respective Courts nearest their benches, and only to commit for these Courts the custody cases that may arise within such an interval of the Quarter Sessions as may enable the prisoners to be properly detained in the places in these towns fitted for their detention.

6. At Yass I believe there is a good and tolerably capacious stone lock-up, and at Albury I dare say that, by your communicating with the Police Magistrate, and with the Colonial Architect, such a place may be provided out of the present or intended lock-up and gaol premises by October next as may be sufficient to hold a few prisoners; so that in both places possibly some custody cases also may be capable of being tried, and at all events some accommodation may be prepared for the custody ad interim of any persons who may be required to be kept in custody after conviction, and on transmission to the places appointed for the service of their sentences.

7. By your communicating with the Sheriff, and with the officer in command of the Mounted Patrol, and explaining to them the expediency of having an efficient and timely escort for the prisoners at Yass and Albury, I make no doubt that an adequate and suitable escort may be obtained; indeed, I cannot help thinking that by means of the Mounted Patrol a better mode of escort may be obtained than that now in use by the ordinary police.

8. The holding of these Courts of Quarter Sessions will not, as I apprehend, entail any additional expense upon the country; indeed, if only in the matter of the witnesses' expenses against the Crown, they will, in my opinion, be a considerable saving to the public.

9. I would wish to say, that in the fixing of my Circuits, and in the suggestions contained in this communication, I have had the advantage of consulting with Mr. Walsh, of Goulburn, and I am thus enabled to think that they will meet with his concurrence, and with that of other members of the profession throughout the Southern District.

I have, &c.,

THOMAS CALLAGHAN,
Judge of the Southern District Court.

MINUTE.

THE Executive Council, having considered the representations of Mr. Cheeke, express an opinion that the fees which appear to have been paid, to the amount of £99 18s. 6d., for summonses issued for the January Sittings of the late Court of Requests, which were not held, owing to the dissolution of the Court, should be repaid to the parties entitled to receive them, and they advise that the necessary authority be given accordingly.

With respect to the execution of processes of the late Court of Requests, and to the doubts that have been expressed as to the legality thereof, the Council do not perceive that the Government are at present called upon to take measures. They are of opinion that it will be sufficient time to apply to Parliament for an Act of Indemnity, or to take such other steps as may be advisable, when a specific case shall have arisen demonstrating such action to be necessary.

Sydney, 3 May, 1859.

SIR,

I beg leave to draw your attention to the omission of Newcastle, Dungog, and Raymond Terrace from the Proclamation lately issued by His Excellency the Governor General, appointing what days District Courts will be held in the Northern District. You will recollect that Mr. Jones and myself presented a Petition from the people of Dungog and Clarence Town, praying that Dungog might be a place where District Courts should be held; and in a subsequent Proclamation issued by His Excellency, the towns I have previously enumerated were included. It appears, however, from a conversation I have to-day had with Mr. Owen, District Judge, that neither he nor Mr. Plunkett, the Secretary to the Law Officers, has ever seen this last Proclamation, and that the whole of the arrangements for holding these Courts have been made upon a Proclamation that has virtually been abrogated by a subsequent one, including these towns. If these places are not included amongst the places where Courts are to be held, you will find it will give great disappointment and disaffection amongst the residents in these Districts; and, if possible, that should be avoided as much as possible at the present time.

SIR,

Drawing your attention to the notification in the Government Gazette of Friday, the 6th instant, of your appointment as Registrar of the District Court to be holden at Albury, under the provisions of the District Courts Act of 1858, I am directed to inform you that, by virtue of the above office, you will be entitled to be paid salary at the rate of £50 per annum, from the 1st of the present month. It will be required of you to give a bond to the Government with the least possible delay, and you will therefore have the goodness to submit for the Attorney General's consideration the names of two sufficient sureties, besides yourself, who shall be willing to execute, jointly and severally, a bond in the sum of £250, for the due and faithful discharge of the duties of your office.

To

48 DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

To His Excellency the Governor General and the Honorable the Executive Council of New South Wales, in Council assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned magistrates, gentry, landholders, storekeepers, traders, tradespeople, and other residents of the Police District of Shoalhaven,—

SHWETH:—

That your Petitioners have perceived, with considerable surprise and disappointment, that, in the appointment of places wherein "District Courts" are to be held, no provision whatever has been made for the administration of justice under that Act for the Police District of Shoalhaven.

That the part of Shoalhaven north of the river hitherto annexed, politically only, to Kiama, because lying within the then boundary of East Camden, has been separated from that District by the present Electoral Law, forming the whole of Shoalhaven into one Electorate.

That this Electorate extends from its north line, the Crooked River, to Durraswater, 81 miles—including Ulladulla, lying between, 40 miles from Nowra, the chief town of the District—and west to the Endrick River, 45 miles from the same centre, containing in the whole a population of nearly 5,000.

That the trade and commerce of Shoalhaven, exclusive of Ulladulla, as well as the minor money transactions daily occurring, amount to a very considerable sum, and the exports from Shoalhaven alone, in agricultural and dairy produce, in horses and cattle, exceed one hundred thousand pounds annually; while the trade, commerce, and exports of Ulladulla bear a fully relative proportion according to its extent and population.

That to leave so very extensive and populous a district, so largely engaged in business, without any local provision for the administration of justice under the District Courts Act will prove a most fruitful source of vexation, inconvenience, and pecuniary loss to all who may have occasion to seek redress under that Act.

For Kiama, the nearest place named for such Court, is 25 miles from the business parts of Shoalhaven, with the Shoalhaven and Crooked Rivers intervening, the former during strong westerly winds or southerly gales impassable to horses for days; and the latter, from shifting sands inconvenient to cross, and after as well as during floods not unattended with danger; is 65 miles distant from Ulladulla, 106 miles from Durraswater, and from the Sassafras 65 miles at least.

That Braidwood, the next place in which a Court is to be held—thus passing over Shoalhaven altogether—is 95 miles from Nowra, and has no connection with this district, save what occurs through the traffic from Braidwood; but irrespective of these just and reasonable objections to being connected with either district, your Petitioners respectfully suggest that the extent, population, agricultural and commercial importance of the Shoalhaven Electorate, entitle the community to every privilege and advantage which the Act referred to intends, and the Legislature intended, for the equal benefit and use of all, and which if withheld will defeat the wise purposes of the Act.

That, in the humble opinion of Petitioners, the coast line affords abundant reason to justify the hope that a separate Circuit may be formed for it, embracing Wollongong, Kiama, Shoalhaven, Broulee, Eden or Braidwood, the latter being but 35 miles from Broulee.

Your Petitioners, therefore, pray that your Excellency and Honorable Council will provide for a District Court being held in Shoalhaven, at Nowra.

And Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 21st ultimo, No. 59-32, I am directed to state, that the subject having been laid before His Excellency the Governor General and the Executive Council, and the Council, having fully considered the representations communicated by you, are of opinion that the fees which appear to have been paid, to the amount of £99 18s. 6d., for summonses issued for the January sittings of the late Court of Requests, which were not held, owing to the dissolution of the Court, should be repaid to the parties entitled to receive them; you will, therefore, have the goodness to cause the fees in question to be returned to the proper persons.

Newcastle, 10 May, 1859.

SIR,

By instructions of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce, I have the honor to point your notice to the circumstance that Newcastle has been omitted from the list of places at which District Courts are to be held under the recent Act, contrary to the public promise made by the late Attorney General on behalf of the Government.

As it has been admitted that the trade and importance of Newcastle call for the establishment of a District Court, and as such Courts are established at East and West Maitland, which are only three miles apart from each other—the distance from the former to Newcastle being about twenty miles—I am instructed to submit this apparent oversight to your attention, and to beg the favor of your causing the original intention of the Government to be carried out, by having a District Court held here.

SIR,

In reference to your letter of the 20th ultimo, requesting that some place in the Goulburn Court premises may be assigned for the offices of the Registrar of the District Court and Clerk of the Peace, I am desired to inform you, that immediately on the receipt of your letter of the above date, the Police Magistrate at Goulburn was written to, and by that officer's reply it appears that the room allotted for the use of the Attorney General, and the one heretofore used by the Criminal Crown Solicitor, can be more conveniently used by the Clerk of the Peace and Registrar, until they are required at the September Gaol Delivery (Monday, 26th September). Before that time, however, the Attorney General hopes that other accommodation will be provided, as the above arrangement can only be considered temporary. Directions may be given to the Court Keeper to hand over the key of the Criminal Crown Solicitor's office, at once, to the Registrar at Goulburn. Application for office furniture should more properly be made to the Colonial Architect, through whose department payment for same should issue.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 2nd instant, with reference, in the first place, to the subject of the allowance of travelling expenses to the Clerk of the Peace for the Southern District, to and from Goulburn to Sydney, on his late Circuit to that place,—I am now desired to state that the Attorney General sees no objection to the payment of the expenses in question to Mr. Nathan, under the circumstances stated by you. You will observe the names of the lately appointed Registrars in the Government Gazette of Friday, the 6th of the present month.

F. W. MEYMOTT, ESQ., LATE CROWN PROSECUTOR.—REMOVAL OF.

All Correspondence which has taken place between the Government and the Judge of the Cumberland and Coast District Court, and Frederick William Meymott, Esq., Barrister-at-law, late Crown Prosecutor, relative to certain charges of misconduct on the part of the latter gentleman, and which resulted in his dismissal from his office.

JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Burwood, 18 May, 1859.

SIR,

It is my duty (though an unpleasant one) to call your attention to the conduct of the Crown Prosecutor, Mr. Meymott, on two several occasions at the recent Quarter Sessions held at Parramatta. On both the occasions referred to Mr. Meymott had refused to file informations on the depositions submitted to him, but you had directed that the parties charged should be prosecuted. In opening each case Mr. Meymott told the Jury that he had declined to prosecute, but that the Attorney General had directed him to do so, with which direction he was bound to comply, though he still thought there was no case to go to a Jury. The cases were conducted by him accordingly, not only in a languid manner, but as if his object was to insure an acquittal, the most prominent features in the evidence against the prisoners being, not absolutely suppressed, but very slightly dwelt upon. In the case which was last tried—that against a mother and son, named Williamson, for stealing or receiving, &c., £48 in notes—he said that he would state the case to the Court and Jury, and if we thought (the Jury under my direction) that there was no case, he would consent to discharge the prisoners without offering any evidence. After his statement, I (having also read the depositions, from which it appeared that the lad who had found the money had almost immediately given it to his mother, in the presence of other boys who had seen him find it) directed the son's discharge, but expressed an opinion that there was a strong case against the mother. In the course of the trial the evidence against her appeared to me to be quite conclusive, but to elicit it I had in fact to conduct the prosecution. Mr. Gould, for the defence, made a long and energetic speech, and quoted and commented largely on the law of the case. Mr. Meymott declined saying anything in reply; I, consequently, thought it incumbent on me almost to take his place, and to remove from the minds of the Jury the erroneous impressions which Mr. Gould's arguments would naturally have engendered. However, a verdict of acquittal followed, which I am satisfied would not have happened had I had only to perform my proper function of holding the balance between two advocates opposing each other, instead of almost pressing a case against the will of the prosecutor.

If the course thus pursued by the Crown Prosecutor is legitimate, it is useless for the Attorney General to review his decision on cases of committal that have been submitted to and disallowed by him.

I wish my complaint could end here, but, connected with the above cases, I must state that this morning (the Williamsons' case occurred yesterday) I had occasion to interfere on behalf of an undefended prisoner, and prevent Mr. Meymott from putting a question which I deemed improper; considerable discussion followed; Mr. Meymott taking a note of my decision for future use, should occasion require. In directing the Jury on this case I remarked that they might think it strange that I should, in one case, which was very clear, protect a prisoner, whereas in a case that had occurred yesterday, and in which some of them, with other jurymen, had concurred in a verdict of acquittal, I had appeared to press hardly on the accused. I therefore informed them that where a prisoner was undefended, I should always so far act as counsel for the defence, as to take care that the case was not pressed beyond its proper limits; and that, on the other hand, where the Crown Prosecutor abandoned his duty, I should, on behalf of the Crown, see that the case was fully investigated—on which Mr. Meymott rose up and said in open Court that my statement that he had abandoned his duty was false. I immediately took down the words, as underlined, but made no comment on them, except that I intended to report the whole matter to the Attorney General. Mr. W. Byrnes, M.L.C., was sitting by me on the Bench, and called my attention to the word false.

Mr. Darvall, P.M., with, I believe, other Magistrates, was present when Mr. Meymott, as I express it, abandoned his case against the Williamsons.

I offer no conclusion to the above statement, except that I trust you will so deal with the whole matter as, in your judgment, it ought to be dealt with.

In transmitting the enclosed copy of a letter received from Henry Cary, Esquire, District Court Judge, representing your conduct as Crown Prosecutor on two several occasions, at the recent Quarter Sessions held at Parramatta, I am directed to request that you will have the goodness to offer such explanation thereon as you may think proper, for the information of the Attorney General, at your very earliest convenience.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from you. of the 20th instant enclosing a copy of a letter from Mr. Cary.

I shall have no difficulty in satisfactorily explaining my conduct; but as my reply will necessarily be a long one, and may involve charges against Mr. Cary of a more serious nature than those which he has thought fit to bring against me, I must request the delay of a day or two before sending my explanation.

I have, &c.,
F. W. MEYMOTT.

F. W. MEYMOTT, ESQ., to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Abbotsford, Picton,
24 May, 1859.

SIR,

I have now the honor to submit to you, for the consideration of the Honorable the Attorney General, the following explanation of the matters referred to in Mr. Cary's letter to him of the 18th instant.

I will answer the charges in the order in which they occur in that letter.

Mr. Cary begins by stating that on both the occasions alluded to—viz., Peckman's case and Williamson's case—I had refused to file informations. The course I adopted was the usual and proper one in all cases in which a doubt exists as to the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain conviction. I believe that Crown Prosecutors may, if they think fit, take upon themselves the responsibility of refusing to prosecute, without troubling the Attorney General; but whenever opportunity occurs, in cases of such doubt, my course is to make a note on the subject and refer the case to the Attorney General for his opinion. I did this on the two occasions referred to, and as soon as the Attorney General had expressed his opinion that the cases ought to go to the Jury, informations were filed. Both the Honorable the Attorney General and Mr. Rogers, Clerk of the Peace, know that that was so.

This disposes of Mr. Cary's first charge. Mr. Cary then says that in opening each case I told the Jury that I had declined to prosecute. I deny it. If I had I should have told them a wilful falsehood. I certainly did express my opinion that the cases did not appear to me strong against the prisoners, and on that ground I invited their more particular attention, as it was for them to decide, after having heard the evidence which it was my duty to lay before them under the Attorney General's direction.

The cases were accordingly proceeded with. Mr. Cary passes over the first with a general remark, applicable to both, that my manner was languid, and as if my object was to insure an acquittal.

The first of these cases was this:—A woman named Peckman was charged with stealing a tarpaulin. The prosecutor had placed a tarpaulin over a haystack; the next morning (Sunday) it was gone; he observed on the dew footmarks of two persons of different sizes passing by his place—not a word about their being near the haystack; a blind man and a boy lodged with the prisoner, whose house is two miles from the prosecutor's. Several days afterwards the police went to the prisoner's house, and asked her if she knew anything about a tarpaulin. She immediately produced one, and said she had bought it of a man for 7s. 6d. This man was in Court ready to prove this fact. After the prosecutor had given his evidence, the Judge himself suggested that there was no use in occupying any more of the public time. I perfectly concurred, and so did the Jury, and the woman was discharged. For my part in this transaction Mr. Cary charges me with having abandoned my duty. I believe I have sufficiently disposed of this charge.

In the other case, which Mr. Cary more particularly mentions, viz., against a mother and son named Williamson, for stealing bank notes, I did, as in the other case, tell the Court my opinion as to the weakness of the evidence against either of the prisoners, especially as to the boy. The Judge so far agreed with me as to discharge the boy without calling any witness; but, as he admits, he expressed an opinion that there was a strong case against the mother. (I leave the Honorable the Attorney General to form his own opinion as to the propriety of such an expression from a Judge to a Jury who were about to try the case.) I then proceeded with the case against the mother. Mr. Cary says I did so in a languid manner. Compared with the excessive zeal displayed by the Judge against the prisoner (a zeal which was freely commented upon out of Court) my manner might have seemed in one sense languid; but I deny that my mode of conducting this case was other than it usually is. I always do, and always shall endeavor to perform my duties temperately and calmly; and it was this very quality in prosecuting for the Crown at Bathurst Assizes two or three years ago, that I had the satisfaction of receiving a high encomium from Mr. Justice Dickinson, who tried the cases. Again, Mr. Cary says, that in order to elicit the evidence, which appeared to him quite conclusive, he had in fact to conduct the prosecution. This I also positively deny, and I challenge him to prove that any important part was omitted by me and elicited by him; although it is true that he, with much irregularity, and very greatly to my inconvenience, interposed many questions during my examination in chief.

As to the evidence being conclusive. I have the misfortune perhaps of differing entirely in opinion with Mr. Cary. It was a case in which some boys passing along the road observed observed a roll of notes on the ground; one of the boys, Williamson, picked it up, and in the presence of the others counted the notes, making the amount £51. This boy, accompanied by two of the others, took the roll home and gave it to his mother. For this the lad was committed to take his trial for felony, and for my stating these facts to the Court, and suggesting that there was no case against the boy, who thereupon was very properly discharged, I am charged with having again abandoned my duty.

Well, the case went on against the mother. The first witness deposed that on the day the boys found the notes, which happened near his place, he had received £500 in Parramatta, part in notes, part in gold; he could not say into how many rolls he made up the notes, nor how much any roll contained—nor would he be able to identify any of them. On reaching home, a few miles out of town, he emptied his pockets into a drawer, where in the morning he had placed £100 in notes. He did not then count his money, but when he did, which was some hours afterwards, he only found £552, viz., £48 minus; he could not say whether it was part of the £500 or of the £100 which was gone. Some days afterwards he went to the prisoner's house and asked her if she knew anything about some notes. She said that her boy had found a roll of notes, and that a day or two afterwards a man from Bathurst had called and claimed them, and that she had given them to him, adding that there was not so much as he, the witness, said. It was further proved (and this it will be seen would have been the strongest feature in the case against her, if clearly proved) that when her son brought home the notes, he took them in-doors to his mother, while the two other boys remained outside, and that a few minutes afterwards the mother came out and gave one of these boys two pounds. Whether these £2 were notes or coin, and if the former, they were part of the roll or not, was a most material point. As I knew that this boy could not possibly swear that they, if notes, were part of the roll (as he had only seen the other boy count them without separating them), I, of course, asked no more questions about it, leaving it as a fair inference that they were part of the roll, an inference which it was the business of the prisoner's advocate to weaken, not mine, by further examination. Mr. Gould, who defended the case, did not notice this point, nor did he cross-examine the boy upon it. But this, in addition to the total absence of proof of ownership, was what the Judge told the Jury was conclusive evidence, and added that he was sure the Jury could come to no other conclusion. However, as Mr. Cary says, a verdict of acquittal followed.

Then comes a singular admission for Mr. Cary to make in support of a charge against me. He says that this (the acquittal) would not have happened had he had only to perform his proper function of holding the balance between two opposing advocates instead of almost pressing the case against the will of the prosecutor. In other words, that, if he had only performed his duties as a Judge, instead of interfering with my province as Crown Prosecutor, and almost, as he says, taken my place (which he was not required to do), the prisoner would have been found guilty. In point of fact, that his "conducting the prosecution" was the means of getting the prisoner acquitted. It was incumbent on him, he adds, to take my place, and remove from the minds of the jury the erroneous impression which Mr. Gould's arguments would naturally have engendered. How he succeeded was shewn by the verdict.

By this statement, too, the Judge conveys a compliment to me which I most strongly but respectfully repudiate. It infers that, if I had chosen to do so, I could have induced the Jury to find a different verdict—i. e., to bring in a verdict of guilty against a woman, whom, if I did not actually believe to be innocent, I, at all events, most certainly did not think was proved to be guilty. If I had possessed this capability of inducing a Jury to believe that right was wrong, I should have been very culpable in using such power; but my humble abilities are not of that order, nor have I any desire to attain such skill.

A few more words about this case. Mr. Cary, on the occasion of my denial of having abandoned my duty (of which presently), said I had done so by not replying to Mr. Gould's speech for the defence. In this I submit Mr. Cary is utterly wrong again; it is no part of the duty of the Crown Prosecutor to reply in cases where no evidence is offered for the defence; it is his privilege to do so when he thinks fit, and it is a privilege which I have been taught should be sparingly exercised, and only when justice requires. In the present instance I did not think it at all necessary to reply. Mr. Gould's speech was not so much directed to the facts of the case as to the law on the subject, "quoting and commenting" largely thereon as Mr. Cary says; and as I quite coincided with Mr. Gould in his view of the law of the case, I had in fact no reply to make.

So much for Mr. Cary's charge against me of abandoning the Williamson's case; I hope I have sufficiently and satisfactorily answered it.

The paragraph about the legitimacy of my cause falls to the ground. There has been no revision by the Attorney General of any decision of mine; I never pronounced any, nor was any case disallowed by me; I have simply obtained the opinion of the Attorney General in the usual way, as to the propriety of sending to the Jury cases in which the evidence appeared to me, and afterwards turned out to be, insufficient to procure conviction.

Mr. Cary proceeds to inform the Attorney General that he had occasion to interfere on behalf of an undefended prisoner, and prevent me from putting a question which he thought improper. The Attorney General will probably be rather surprised when he reads what this improper question was, and at the novel reason for which the evidence was rejected. It was in Behn's case, for stealing a watch. The prosecutor was too ill to attend the Court, so his deposition was read. The policeman who produced the watch was being examined. I asked him whether, at the Police Office, in presence of the prisoner, the watch was identified by anyone? The Judge would not allow this question to be answered, on the ground that "There was nothing about it in the depositions, and he had no idea of cases "being bolstered up by fresh evidence!" Whether the question was an improper one, or whether the ground of its rejection was improper, the Attorney General will have no difficulty in determining.

Lastly, as to my public denial of having abandoned my duty. Mr. Cary does not state the case fairly. It was not on his saying that "Where the Crown Prosecutor abandoned his duty, he, the Judge, should see that the case was fully investigated," that I rose up and said anything. In Behn's case he laid down a principle exactly the reverse of this. He said it was no part of his duty to supply any defects or omissions on the part of the Crown Prosecutor, and I had to recall the Clerk of the Bench to ask him a question as a mere matter of form which I had omitted. I waited patiently till he had finished his address to the Jury, and then (naturally feeling hurt and irritated at a charge of neglect of duty being brought against me at such a time and place, and made by a Judge to a Jury who could have nothing to do with my yesterday's conduct) I rose, as I said, to protest firmly but respectfully against an expression which the Judge had used the day before, and repeated then in a different case and to a different Jury, viz., that I, in two previous cases, had abandoned my duty. I said I denied the charge, and that it was one which was not founded on fact, and I preceeded shortly to state what I had done. I do not believe I used the word "false"; it is a stronger term than I should have chosen if I had had time to choose. But if Mr. Byrnes, or any other respectable gentleman says I did use that word, and if the head and front of my offending consist in the use of that word, I am quite ready to apologize for it, retract it, and substitute any milder synonyme. I took no notice of the Judge's telling the Jury in Williamson's case that I had abandoned the case. It was a comment on, and made in, the case, which, I suppose, he thought himself justified in making, though I did not; but when he thought fit to tell a new Jury the next day, as he did, that on two previous occasions I had abandoned my duty, I could not allow such a charge to pass unnoticed.

I regret that I am taking up so much of the time and attention of the Honorable the Attorney General, but he will, I trust, allow that the case requires it; and it will be seen that in thus submitting to him my explanation of my conduct, I have been compelled to draw his attention to several errors on the part of Mr. Cary, viz.:—

1. In mistaking the circumstance of my referring the two cases in the usual manner to the Attorney General for a refusal on my part to prosecute.
2. Even if I had taken on myself to decline to prosecute; in charging that which would only have been the exercise of a discretion placed in me as a neglect of duty.
3. In making that a ground of complaint without inquiring into the truth of it.
4. In alleging that I told the Jury that I had declined to prosecute.
5. In Peckman's case; in charging me with abandoning the case, whereas he not only sanctioned but himself adopted the course I proposed.
6. In Williamson's case; in again charging me with abandoning the case, although he so far coincided with me as to discharge one of the prisoners without hearing evidence.
7. In the same case; in prejudging the case by telling the Jury who were about to try it, that there was a strong case against the female prisoner.
8. In the same case; in warmly acting as advocate against the prisoner, and thereby, as he says, losing a verdict.
9. In the same case; in taking a most material fact, viz., the disposing of part of the money found, to be conclusively proved, which was only a matter of inference.
10. In the same case; in telling the Jury that the evidence was conclusive, instead of leaving that point for their consideration.
11. In the same case; in omitting to refer the question of ownership of the notes to the Jury.
12. In charging my declining to reply in that case as a neglect of duty.
13. In attributing to me the power to have obtained a verdict of guilty (against my conscience) if I had chosen to exercise it.
14. In thinking that I ought to have exercised such power, and charging my omission to do so as a neglect of duty.
15. In Behn's case; in refusing to allow a question to be answered, on the ground that it was new evidence, not mentioned in the depositions.
16. In telling the Jury in the case last tried that I had, on two previous occasions abandoned my duty, a matter with which they had nothing to do, and which was calculated to prejudice their minds in the case before them.
17. In Behn's case and in Williamson's case, in laying down and acting upon directly contradictory principles, as to the duty of a Judge in supplying omissions in the examination of a witness by the Crown Prosecutor.

I have on my notes other instances of more glaring and less excusable errors committed by Mr. Cary during the last Quarter Sessions, but which it is unnecessary to go into upon the present occasion.

Again apologizing for the length of my communication,

I have, &c.,
F. W. MEYMOTT.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 30th May, 1859, with respect to a Complaint lodged against Mr. Meymott by Henry Cary, Esq., Judge of the Cumberland and Coast District Court.

Minute No. 59-21. Confirmed 6 June, 1859.

HIS Excellency the Governor General, at the instance of the Honorable the Attorney General, brings under the consideration of the Council a letter from Henry Cary, Esq., Judge of the Cumberland and Coast District Court, drawing attention to the course pursued on certain occasions, therein stated, by Mr. Meymott, the Crown Prosecutor of that District.

2. His Excellency at the same time places before the Council two letters from Mr. Meymott, in reply to a communication from the office of the Honorable the Attorney General, forwarding a copy of Mr. Cary's complaint to him for explanation.

3. The circumstances out of which the correspondence has arisen occurred during the trial of two cases at the recent Quarter Sessions held at Parramatta, and it is represented by Mr. Cary that Mr. Meymott (who had refused to file informations on the depositions submitted to him, but had been directed by the Attorney General to proceed with the prosecutions), in opening each case, told the Jury that he had declined to prosecute, but that he did so in compliance with the direction of the Attorney General, and although he still thought there was no case to go to the Jury. Mr. Cary adds, that the cases were conducted by Mr. Meymott accordingly, not only in a languid manner, but as if his object had been to insure an acquittal, the most prominent features in the evidence against the prisoners being, not absolutely suppressed, but very slightly dwelt upon.

4. Mr. Cary mentions the particulars of one of the cases referred to, and refers to circumstances which took place during the trial of it, in support of his complaint; and states that, in addition to the foregoing, and in reply to some comments which he had felt called upon to make with reference to a case occurring on the following day, Mr. Meymott rose up and said, in open Court, that the Judge's "statement that he had abandoned his duty was false."

5. In his letter of explanation Mr. Meymott states that he had not declined to prosecute the cases in question, but had submitted them for the opinion of the Attorney General, and filed informations on his expressing an opinion that they ought to go to a Jury; he denies having told the Jury that he had declined to prosecute, but states that he did express an opinion that the cases did not appear to him strong against either of the prisoners, and on that ground invited the more particular attention of the Jury to the evidence which he was directed to lay before them.

6. In justification of the course pursued by him, Mr. Meymott details at length the circumstances of the respective cases, and states that in that which was first tried, the Judge himself, after the prosecutor had given his evidence, suggested that there was no use in occupying any more of the public time, and that he himself concurring, and the Jury also, the prisoner was discharged.

In the other case, Mr. Meymott states that the Judge ordered the discharge of one of the prisoners without calling any witness, and defends his own mode of dealing with the prosecution of the other (who was ultimately acquitted), at the same time animadverting upon the course taken by the Judge and the zeal displayed by him against the prisoner.

7. Mr. Meymott further states that Mr. Cary has not fairly put the case, with respect to the manner of his public denial of having abandoned his duty, and after narrating and complaining of the circumstances which rendered such a denial necessary, and stating that he does not believe that he used the word "false," adds, that if he did use such an expression, "he is ready to apologize for it, retract it, and substitute any milder synonyme."

8. In concluding his explanations Mr. Meymott draws attention to numerous errors which he states to have been committed by Mr. Cary in the cases in question, and in the present correspondence.

9. The Council having carefully weighed the causes of complaint alleged by the Judge, and considered the circumstances stated by Mr. Meymott in reply thereto, and while impressed with a regret that it should have become necessary to proceed to a decision upon such a case, express their opinion that the course pursued by Mr. Meymott in the matters complained of, and followed up by him in his subsequent correspondence, has been altogether inconsistent with the proper line of his duty as Crown Prosecutor.

They are unable to perceive that his mode of conducting the prosecutions alluded to, as detailed by himself, was in any essential particular different from that adverted to, and complained of by the Judge, and they cannot avoid the expression of their entire disapproval of the manner of his reply to the comments of the Judge in Court, as well as subsequently in his answer to the Judge's complaint.

10. Under these circumstances it appears to the Council impossible that, with a proper regard to the due Administration of Justice, Mr. Meymott can be retained in his present position, and they therefore advise that it be intimated to that gentleman that it has become necessary that his services as Crown Prosecutor for the Cumberland and Coast Districts should be dispensed with.

Clerk of the Council.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to F. W. MEYMOTT, ESQ.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 3 June, 1859.

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 20th ultimo, containing copy communication from Henry Cary, Esq., District Court Judge, complaining of your conduct as Crown Prosecutor on two several occasions at the recent Quarter Sessions, Parramatta, and in reference to your explanation of the 24th of the same month, I am directed to state that the Attorney General having placed the letters in question before the Executive Council, and the Council having deliberated thereon, have expressed their opinion that your explanation is not satisfactory; and I am therefore desired to apprise you that the Government regret they have felt it their duty to determine to dispense with your services as Crown Prosecutor; and I am further desired to communicate that from this day there will be no longer need of your services.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

F. W. MEYMOTT, ESQ., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 6 June, 1859.

DEAR SIR,

Yesterday, at Picton, I received from your Secretary the announcement of my dismissal from office as Crown Prosecutor, on the ground that my explanation to you of the charges brought against me by Mr. Cary was unsatisfactory.

Before such a very severe sentence is carried into effect, I hope that, as a simple act of justice, you will be good enough to inform me in what respect my explanation is unsatisfactory. The charges are numerous and vaguely made, and my answer was necessarily long, and perhaps not sufficiently directed to any one part which, in the opinion of the Executive Council, required further explanation. I would also respectfully desire to be informed whether any evidence was laid before the Council besides Mr. Cary's charge and my answer.

It is of importance that I should request this information from you, because I intend humbly to memorialize the Governor and Council to allow me to be heard in person in defence of charges entailing such serious consequences to me as a sudden dismissal from an office which I am sure I have done nothing to disgrace, and for the more efficient discharge of the duties of which I have relinquished my private practice as a barrister.

I am, &c.,
F. W. MEYMOTT.

To His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, K. C. B., Governor
General of New South Wales, &c., &c., &c.

The Memorial of Frederic William Meymott, of Abbotsford House, Picton, Barrister-at-Law,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH, AS FOLLOWS:—

On the twentieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, your Excellency was graciously pleased to appoint your Memorialist to the office of Crown Prosecutor of New South Wales, and especially for the Southern and the Cumberland and Coast Districts. For the more efficient discharge of the duties of that office, your Memorialist relinquished his private practice as a Barrister in Sydney, and, at great expense, went to reside at Picton, as being nearly equi-distant from the two places where his principal duties had to be performed, namely, Goulburn and Parramatta.

During the last Quarter Sessions at Parramatta, a difference of opinion arose between your Memorialist and Henry Cary, Esquire, the District Judge, about the mode of performing the duties of Crown Prosecutor.

On the eighteenth day of May Mr. Cary wrote to the Attorney General a letter complaining of your Memorialist having abandoned his duty in two several cases, and of his having denied, in strong language, the charge which the Judge had made against him in open Court.

The letter of Mr. Cary was transmitted by the Attorney General to your Memorialist for his explanation.

On the twenty-fourth of May, your Memorialist wrote to the Attorney General a letter of explanation, which owing to the general nature of the charges was necessarily long, and perhaps in the opinion of the Council not sufficiently explicit on some points.

On the fifth of June (last Sunday) your Memorialist received from the Attorney General a letter, informing him that his explanation had been laid before the Executive Council, who had pronounced it unsatisfactory, and that the Government had felt it their duty to dispense with the services of your Memorialist as Crown Prosecutor.

Your Memorialist has since applied to the Attorney General to be informed in what respect the explanation was unsatisfactory; and the Attorney General's reply is, that it was generally unsatisfactory.

Your Memorialist takes the liberty of addressing your Excellency, not merely on his own account, vitally important as the matter is to himself, both as regards his pecuniary interests and his professional character, but also, because he deems it his duty on public grounds grounds to call your Excellency's attention to a question involving (as he conceives) the proper and efficient performance of the respective duties of a Judge and a Crown Prosecutor.

Your Memorialist, therefore, most respectfully requests your Excellency to permit him to be heard in person, in defence of the charges brought against him, before such tribunal, and at such time and place, as your Excellency may be pleased to appoint.

And your Memorialist will ever pray, &c.,

Dated this ninth day of June, A.D. 1859.

F. W. MEYMOTT.

MINUTE of the Executive Council upon the within Memorial.

THE Executive Council, upon a review of the circumstances attending Mr. Meymott's removal from office, and after mature deliberation, are unable to advise that his present request should be complied with. They observe that that gentleman has already had a full opportunity (of which he fully availed himself) to answer the charges preferred against him, and that the answers afforded by him upon the various points of question were before the Council, and were carefully weighed by them in detail before they arrived at the determination with respect to Mr. Meymott above alluded to.

SIR,

With reference to the communication addressed from this office to you on the 3rd ultimo, relative to your conduct as Crown Prosecutor at the late Quarter Sessions, at Parramatta, and with regard to your Memorial of the 9th of June last, I am directed to inform you that the Executive Council, upon a review of the circumstances attending your removal from office, and after mature deliberation, regret they are unable to advise that your present request should be complied with.

I am desired to remark that the Council have observed that you have already had a full opportunity (of which you fully availed yourself) to answer the charges preferred against you, and that the answer afforded by you upon the various points in question were before the Council, and were carefully weighed by them in detail before they arrived at the determination with respect to your removal.

Abbotsford House, Picton,
27 July, 1859.

SIR,

With reference to Mr Cary's letter to you of the 18th May last, and my letter to you in answer of the 24th May, and the subsequent correspondence on the same subject, I have now the honor to state as follows.

It was not until yesterday that I received an intimation that my dismissal from office as Crown Prosecutor was not in consequence of any abandonment of duty on my part, but was attributable to certain offensive expressions contained in my said letter of the 24th May.

You will do me the justice to recollect, that very shortly after my dismissal I applied to you for the precise grounds on which I have been discharged, and that your reply was, that my answer was generally unsatisfactory.

Ever since then I have labored under the impression that I was dismissed upon a charge of abandonment of duty.

Relying upon the correctness of the information I have just received, I now beg to be permitted to withdraw, altogether, my letter of the 24th May (so as, however, not to admit that I abandoned my public duty), and to retract and apologize for any offensive expressions contained in it, or in any other letter written by me. Whatever expressions of that nature may have been written or said by me, were so used under the influence of feelings deeply wounded by a charge of my having abandoned my public duties,—a point on which I have always been acutely sensitive.

I have, &c.,
F. W. MEYMOTT.

SIR,

Fourteen days ago I had the honor to write to you a letter on important business, and I have not yet been favored with a reply.

May I beg to be informed whether my letter was laid before the Executive Council, and whether anything was done thereupon.

I have, &c.,

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 11 August, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to acknowledge the receipt of your letters of the 27th ultimo and 10th instant, further in respect of your removal from the office of Crown Prosecutor; I am, at the same time, desired to communicate that the Attorney General regrets that your conduct left the Government no other course to follow but that which they have felt themselves constrained to adopt. The decision of the Executive Council upon your case was communicated to you by letter dated 3rd June last, and as that decision was not made until after you had had full opportunity to answer the charges brought against you by Mr. Cary, and was final, the Attorney General desires me to say he is not aware that any good can arise from further correspondence on the subject.

I have, &c.,

*Abbotsford House,
Picton, 15 August, 1859.*

SIR,

On the 27th July I wrote and sent a letter to the Attorney General; I have since applied to him to know whether that letter was laid before the Executive Council, for whom it was intended, and whether anything was done thereupon, but he declines to give me that information.

I beg therefore to enclose you a copy of that letter.

I have, &c.,

The case was fully considered by the Executive Council, and determined after mature deliberation.

SIR,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 5th instant, respecting your removal from the office of Crown Prosecutor, and to inform you in reply, that your case was fully considered by the Executive Council, and determined after mature deliberation, and that it has not been deemed necessary to re-open it.

I have, &c.,

THE UNDER SECRETARY to F. W. MEYMOTT, Esq.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 26 October, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, that your letter of the 30th August last, in which you prefer certain charges against the Judge of the District Courts for the Cumberland and the Coast Districts, has been laid before the Executive Council, together with a communication from Mr. Cary, containing his comments and explanations.

2. The Council having carefully considered the allegations made by you, and the remarks made thereon by the Judge, have no hesitation in expressing their opinion that these allegations have entirely failed to attach reproach to the conduct, official or personal, of Mr. Cary, whose explanations of the matter referred to are considered to be perfectly satisfactory.

3. I am desired to add, that the Council could not dismiss the subject without giving expression to their strong disapprobation of the course pursued by you in preferring these charges. Notwithstanding the disinclination by which you now profess yourself to have been actuated, to prefer counter-charges while your own conduct was in question, they perceive the present to be but a sequel to numerous trivial counter-charges which were advanced by you in answer to Mr. Cary's original complaint against yourself; and upon a review of the whole correspondence the Council could not arrive at any other conclusion than that motives other than a sense of public duty have actuated you in preferring these charges.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

F. W. MEYMOTT, Esq., to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Abbotsford House, Picton,
29 November, 1859.

DEAR ATTORNEY GENERAL,

I have hitherto refrained from addressing you on the subject of my dismissal of my office of Crown Prosecutor, knowing how fully your time must have been occupied on taking office as Attorney General; but as the matter is of such serious importance to me, I may be excused from further delaying to bring the case under your notice.

The correspondence on the subject has been printed on the motion of Mr. Plunkett; you have I imagine a copy of it. In addition to this, I enclose a copy of a letter I addressed to Mr. Cowper on the 29th June, which has not been printed, and also a copy letter addressed by me to the Governor General on 9th July.

I take leave to request you will be good enough to peruse these documents, and consider whether, in your opinion, my conduct has been deserving of the very severe punishment which under the circumstances of the case has been inflicted on me. If I have erred, would not a reprimand have satisfied? or, at all events, has not six months loss of salary been enough?

I may take occasion to add, that if the case had been heard on my appeal, I could have produced three or four witnesses to prove that I did not use the word "false" on the occasion alluded to; this must have been Mr. Byrnes' particular mode of conveying to Mr. Cary my contradiction of the latter's charge of my neglect of duty; for you will perceive that Mr. Cary's complaint in this particular is founded on hearsay evidence, and this point was noticed by Mr. Rogers, the Clerk of the Peace, at the time.

If on the whole you should be of opinion that I have been undeservedly dismissed, I pray that you will do me the justice as well as the favor of taking such steps as you may think fit towards my being restored to my office.

I remain, &c.,
F. W. MEYMOTT.

Abbotsford House, Picton,
29 June, 1859.

Dear Sir,

I am induced to take the liberty of addressing you on the subject of what has occurred between Mr. Cary and myself, in consequence of the correspondence I have had with Mr. Dalley and Mr. Greer. It is quite evident from what they tell me, that the facts of the case have been fearfully misrepresented to you. Pray, therefore, allow me to urge my request that the matter may be fairly, and may I add speedily, heard and tried; for I am sure you will not allow injustice to be done to one who has always striven to do his duty conscientiously and to the best of his ability, and who has made great sacrifices for that purpose. If it be found that I have erred I shall only be too anxious to make every atonement a gentleman should make, and endeavor to avoid censure in future.

The Honorable
Charles Cowper.

I have, &c.,

To His Excellency Sir W. T. Denison, K.C.B., Governor General, &c., &c.

May it please your Excellency,—

Having just heard of your Excellency's return to Sydney, I respectfully beg permission to complain of what I humbly conceive to be an act of injustice and denial of a constitutional right which I have suffered during your Excellency's absence, under the following circumstances:—

Mr. Cary was and is District Judge. I was Crown Prosecutor. Mr. Cary—who had previously told me that he intended to work hard to get his son appointed Crown Prosecutor—took the earliest opportunity of seeking a quarrel with me. This he effected by publicly insulting me at the last Parramatta Quarter Sessions.

In summing up a case to a jury he told them that I had, on a former day, abandoned my duty as Crown Prosecutor. I denied the charge, and said it was not supported by, or unfounded in, fact. This was, through the interference of Mr. Byrnes, J.P., magnified by Mr. Cary by his complaining to the Attorney General that I had said that what he had stated was false. This was further amplified, as it would seem, by the Honorable Mr. Cowper asserting, as I am informed, that I had called the Judge a liar in open Court.

Mr. Cary's complaint to the Attorney General preferred several charges against me; all of them I distinctly denied, and I explained to the Attorney General, in detail, the whole circumstances of the case. My letter was pronounced unsatisfactory, and I was dismissed summarily, without any inquiry into the truth of the charges so made by Mr. Cary and so traversed by me.

I then appealed to your Excellency for what I humbly conceived and was advised to be a right, viz.,—a hearing.

This appeal was laid before the Executive Council, and after a lapse of five weeks I received—two or three days before your Excellency's return—a letter from the Secretary to the Crown Law Officers informing me that my request could not be complied with. I therefore, again, with the most profound respect, humbly intreat your Excellency's interference in the matter.

I have, &c.,

F. W. MEYMOTT.

NOTE.—After my dismissal he applied, I am told, for the office for his son.

ATTORNEY GENERAL to F. W. MEYMOTT, Esq.

January 30, 1860.

DEAR MEYMOTT,

Your letter respecting your removal from the Office of Crown Prosecutor (with enclosures) has remained unanswered, because inquiries have been going on as to the letter addressed by you to Mr. Cowper, a copy of which you enclosed.

No trace of any such letter has been found, either in the Colonial Secretary's Office or in this Office.

It must, therefore, either have miscarried or have been destroyed.

With reference to the more immediate subject of your letter I can only say that it is not a matter which I can recommend to be re-opened.

Believe me, &c.,

EDWARD WISE.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-233.)

Crown Law Offices,

Sydney, 19 May, 1859.

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 21st December last, enclosing Commission under the Great Seal of the Colony, appointing you to be a Judge of District Courts for the places comprised within the Southern District or Division of the Colony, I am now directed by the Attorney General to inform you, that the Government consider that it is particularly desirable and necessary that you should proceed to your district. I am therefore instructed to request that you will be so good as to arrange to take up your abode therein at your very earliest convenience; and I am also desired to remark, that the Judges of the District Courts for the other divisions of the Colony have already made their arrangements in the above respect.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-236.)

Crown Law Offices,

Sydney, 20 May, 1859.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 14th instant, requesting authority to purchase such furniture as may be absolutely necessary for the offices of yourself and the Registrar at Bathurst, I am directed to state, that if you forward a requisition of the above nature to the Colonial Architect, that Officer will cause steps to be taken in compliance with your request.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to REGISTRAR OF DISTRICT COURT, BATHURST.

(No. 59-254.)

Crown Law Offices,

Sydney, 23 May, 1859.

SIR,

Drawing your attention to the notification in the Government Gazette of Friday, the 6th instant, of your appointment as Registrar of the District Court, to be holden at Bathurst, under the provisions of the District Courts Act of 1858, I am directed to inform you that, by virtue of the above office, you will be entitled to be paid salary at the rate of three hundred pounds per annum, from the day upon which you commenced to discharge the duties thereof. It will be required of you to give a Bond to the Government, with with the least possible delay; and you will therefore have the goodness to submit, for the Attorney General's consideration, the names, in full, of two sufficient sureties, besides yourself, stating profession, residence, and other information regarding the eligibility of the persons who shall be willing to execute, jointly and severally, a Bond in the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds, for the due and faithful discharge of the duties of your office, should you not have already attended to the above requirements.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

Precisely similar letter to foregoing, No. 59-254, addressed to the several Registrars. See Government Gazette of the 6th instant, circular letters from No. 59-254 to 59-286, and from 59-288 to 59-290.

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Sydney, 24 May, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th, which reached my address on the 20th instant.

Whatever may have been, or may be, my own inclination on the subject, I would beg to assure the Attorney General that it is my intention to comply, as soon as I possibly can in midwinter, with the desire of the Government as to my future abode. I cannot, indeed, but regret the peremptory terms of your communication in a matter which the letter that you cite, the words of my appointment, and the law itself, as I read it, have all left undetermined. I owe it, however, to my own character to say, that in accepting and in attempting to execute the duties of the office which I have assumed, however I may fail in that object, it is and has been my wish, in all things within my power, and according to the best of my judgment, to merit the approval of the Government.

In this very matter, too, I would remind the Attorney General that when I had the honor to meet him at the office of the Chief Secretary, upon the consideration, as I thought, of other subjects connected with my duties as District Judge, although the Chief Secretary undoubtedly expressed his opinion in favor of my residence within my district, he did not acquaint me that the Government had formed, or would form, any decided views upon this subject against those which I then took the liberty of mentioning; and since then, though I have been corresponding in Sydney with the Attorney General upon other matters connected with my office, I never was made aware of this question having been under consideration by the Government till your letter informed me of its determination in the terms in which you have addressed me.

If I had had an opportunity of explaining how I have not hitherto attempted to fix my residence in the Southern country, I could have said,—that as I had heard it was the first opinion of Mr. Attorney General Lutwyche that the Government would prefer the District Judges not to reside in their respective Districts, and that this preference was concurred in by many Members of Parliament, who took a friendly interest in the District Courts Bill; that as, upon inquiry at my last Circuit to Goulburn a few weeks since, I was informed there was no private house then vacant in the town in which my family could reside; and that where my district was of such extent, and was so likely to be divided at the close of the year, and was, at least beyond Goulburn, unknown to me, I thought I might be permitted for this year, at all events, to make my nominal residence where it had been for years, as long as I did not leave duties unperformed that I could otherwise have discharged.

I could have added, too, that in the intervals of my Circuits, which, as I have already explained to the Attorney General, I have been obliged to leave in August and September, I had hopes, by remaining in Sydney, to be better enabled to superintend the editing of the Statute Law of this Colony, if the Government would be pleased to entrust me with that duty; and that I might also thus be at hand to assist, if required, in working off the anticipated arrear of the Sydney District Court, at the end of the year.

Now, however, as I fear I would not be justified in requesting the Government to re-consider this matter in my favor, differing, as my position possibly differs in some respects from that of the other District Judges, I have only to submit these things as my explanation upon the subject upon which you have addressed me, in the very same way in which I submitted them to the Solicitor General, as I understood without any disapproval upon his part, a few days ago, and before I had the least expectation of receiving your letter.

I have, &c.,
THOMAS CALLAGHAN,
District Judge.

UNDER SECRETARY, TREASURY, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

P.O. 555, New South Wales.

*The Treasury, Sydney,
26 May, 1859.*

SIR,

Your letter of the 31st March last, No. 157, addressed to the Auditor General, was referred to the Treasurer. I am directed to state that Mr. Secretary Weekes proposed the following modification with respect to the charge of the Accounts and Disbursements in connection with the District Courts, viz. :—

"That cash credits should be opened in favor of the Judges of the several districts, who should accordingly have charge of the disbursements of these public moneys, and of accounting for the same to the Auditor General, under established regulations."

"That with reference to the 35th section of the Act, each Registrar should submit his accounts to be audited and settled by the Judge in the last day of each month."

This modification was submitted to His Excellency the Governor General and Executive Council, and they were pleased to approve of the same.

I am, therefore, to request that you will move the Honorable the Attorney General to cause the decision of His Excellency and Council in this respect to be communicated to the several Judges and others concerned.

I have, &amp;c.,

HENRY LANE,

Under Secretary.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Court House, Maitland East,
27 May, 1859.*

SIR,

I had the honor to request the Auditor General to furnish me with a list and schedule of the salaries fixed by the Executive Government for payment of the Courts over which I preside, and by communication from him I received such schedule.

Amongst the items there are the following:—

1 Registrar, Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone.....£50

1 Bailiff, Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone .....£50

Sec P.S.—(12.)

2. In compliance with my request made first through the Attorney General, and afterwards through the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, I was assured these would be corrected by giving to each of the above three places a Registrar and a Bailiff.

3. By the Gazette of the 6th of May instant, the Registrars were duly notified as appointed to each of those places, and therefore the schedule sent is erroneous in that particular.

4. Resting on the assurance of my request being complied with, I appointed, as was necessary for carrying on the business of the Courts, a Bailiff to each one of those places, and have had them notified in the Gazette.

5. May I ask, therefore, information on these matters, as well as to the payment of the Registrars of Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone, as also as to the allowance of one Bailiff to each of those places, and the payment to each of them.

6. The disallowance of a Bailiff to each place will simply be to shut up these Courts.

7. As I cannot proceed with the payment of the salaries affecting the above without instructions from the Government, an early reply to this will oblige.

8. I may mention that the circumstances connected with my applications as to the above will be in the recollection of Mr. Elyard, and of Mr. Plunkett, Secretary to the Crown Law Officers, and of my letter having been marked "Withdrawn" by some mistake.

9. I may mention that the Registrar of West Maitland is unprovided with an office, and is indebted to the kindness of a friend for a room at present. I shall be glad to be instructed whether the hiring of a room is within the contemplation of the Government as coming under the head of "Contingencies," and if I may be authorized to hire a room. The law is imperative that the Registrar's office must be in the place of holding the Courts. There is no space for such an office at the Court House.

10. The East Maitland Court Office is not yet fixed, but it is at present held temporarily in a room in the Court House.

11. The Bonds to the various officers have not yet been forwarded from the Crown Solicitor's Office.

I have, &amp;c.,

ROBT. OWEN,

District Court Judge, Northern District.

P. S.—(12.) I had overlooked the item in the Schedule of "1 Bailiff, East and West Maitland, £50." A Bailiff has been appointed, as was necessary, to each of these districts, and duly gazetted. This, therefore, will have to be corrected before I can pay each his salary.

SIR,

Adverting to your letter of the 14th ultimo, suggesting certain alterations in reference to the Schedules of Appointments of Registrars and Bailiffs for the Northern District under the District Courts Act, I am directed to inform you that your letter of the above date has been submitted for consideration by the Executive Council, and the Council having expressed an opinion that it will be proper to accede to your recommendation, and His Excellency the Governor General having approved of the same, I am now desired to apprise you that the sum of £50 each may be paid by way of salary to the Bailiffs at the following places, viz. :—Scone, Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, East Maitland, and West Maitland.

I may now, however, remark that no alteration appears to have been submitted in respect of the Registrars for Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone, with respect to salary, although I believe you were of opinion that the gentlemen whose names appear in the Gazette of the 6th instant, as such, should likewise be paid salary at least equal to the sum proposed for the Bailiffs. I have spoken to the Attorney General on the subject again, and I have no doubt the matter will be attended to by the Executive.

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 30 May, 1859.*

SIR,

In reference to the undermentioned times lately submitted to you for holding Courts of General Quarter Sessions within your District, at certain other places besides those already appointed for such purpose—that is to say, at the town of Yass, on Monday, the 19th day of July, and on Wednesday, the 19th day of October; and at the town of Albury, on Tuesday, the 8th day of November of the present year—I am desired by the Attorney General to state, that at a meeting of the Cabinet on Saturday, at which a full attendance of the Members were present, they considered that unless the Government do everything in their power towards the opening of a Court of Quarter Sessions as soon as possible at the town of Albury, they will lay themselves open to censure, and they have considered that it is desirable therefore to suggest the propriety of fixing an earlier date than you have proposed for the town of Albury—say sometime during the month of August—for holding Quarter Sessions at that place in the first instance, and within a reasonable time afterwards.
of

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Bathurst, 30 May, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to forward the enclosed papers from Mr. Barsden, the Bailiff of the Bathurst District Court, and from Mr. Harrison, the Bailiff of the Carcoar District Court, to you for the information of the Government, with the hope that some relief may be afforded the writers.

Mr. Barsden's salary is only £40 per annum, and Mr. Harrison's £30; and, considering that each has to serve gratuitously, not only all summonses upon defendants and jurymen, but also subpoenas upon witnesses, throughout their extensive districts—compelling them to keep horses, to incur travelling expenses, and very often to appoint deputies—it cannot be wondered that both complain of their inadequate remuneration, and of positive loss in performing the duties required of them. I am persuaded that all the Bailiffs throughout the Western District will have the same cause of complaint, and all must resign their offices immediately, thereby throwing the business of the several Courts into confusion, unless they are better remunerated. It is true that each Bailiff has the distant prospect of receiving a few fees, but they will be so small in amount after paying costs out of pocket in performing the work entitling them to receive the same, that they will not be worth mentioning.

The Bailiffs attached to the Metropolitan District Court receive larger salaries, independent of their chance of fees; their jurisdiction is very limited, and they are not compelled to incur travelling expenses to so great an amount as the Bailiffs in the Country Districts.

In conclusion, I would suggest, pursuant to the powers contained in the 42nd section of the District Courts Act, that the fees "for the service of every summons or subpoena, if "within two miles from the Court House, and for such service every mile beyond two miles," as set forth in the Schedule to the Act, under the head of "Court Fees," should be doubled, and should be (except in the Metropolitan District) the perquisite of the Bailiffs.

I have, &c.,

JAMES S. DOWLING,

District Judge.

[Enclosure 1 in preceding letter of 30 May, 1859.]

To His Honor James S. Dowling, Esq., Judge of the District Court for the Western District.

The Memorial of the undersigned, Joseph Henry Barsden, Bailiff of the said Court, at Bathurst,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

That your Memorialist receives for his services, as Bailiff, a salary of £40 per annum.

That for this salary your Memorialist has, without other fee or reward, not only to serve summonses and subpoenas issued out of your Honor's Court, but also to perform all other general duties incidental to his situation, excepting only those connected with the execution of warrants, and writs of execution.

That your Memorialist's district is a very large one, extending in three directions, to 40 miles from the town of Bathurst, over all which extent of country your Memorialist is obliged to serve processes of the Court, at a very great expense for the food and accommodation for himself and his horse.

That, whilst the Sheriff's bailiff receives a mileage of ninepence a mile for the service of Supreme Court summonses and subpoenas, your Memorialist is allowed literally nothing for the performance of similar duties, the fee of threepence per mile, made payable by the District Court Act, having been by the same Act enjoined to be taken as part of the General Revenue.

That the proceeds arising from the fees allowed for the writs of execution will not, as your Memorialist believes, ever amount to a sufficient sum, in addition to his very small salary, to remunerate him for the arduous duties which he has to perform without fee.

Your Memorialist, in conclusion, begs most respectfully to submit for your Honor's consideration, the accompanying statement of his expenses and receipts, as connected with the first sittings of your Honor's Court, and humbly prays that your Honor will endeavor to procure for him, either by the increase of salary, or otherwise, such an amount of remuneration as your Honor may deem him fairly entitled to in consideration of the duties allotted to his office.

And your Memorialist, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c.

J. H. BARSDEN.

DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS. 65

[Enclosure 2 in preceding letter of 30 May, 1859.]

Carcoar, 25 May, 1859.

Sir,

Finding that the salary allowed to me, as Bailiff of the District Court at Carcoar, is altogether insufficient to even cover the expenses which I have to incur in the serving of summonses, subpoenas, &c., I beg to intimate, that unless some adequate remuneration is allowed, that I shall be compelled to relinquish the office. I have travelled for the purpose of serving summonses and subpoenas during this month a distance of 182 miles, and have been thirteen days and nights absent from home; the names of the following places and distances will prove the truth of my assertions:—
 Tuena, 50; Long Swamp, 24; Cowra, 34; Clifton, 16; Halfway house, 16; Moley's, 14; and the Colo, 18; and I have now by me a summons, from the Court at Bathurst, to be served at a distance of 24 miles.

The Honorable
 Judge Dowling.

Sir,

In transmitting to you herewith a Commission under the Great Seal of the Colony, empowering you to act as Crown Prosecutor in the Courts of General and Quarter Sessions to be holden within the Colony, but more immediately for the Northern District and the Western District, I am directed to inform you that a fee of five guineas is due to the public on the document, and to request that you will have the goodness to pay the above sum into the Treasury.

Sir,

I am desired to mention that your letter of the 27th ultimo, addressed to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, was transmitted to this office under blank cover 31st of last month, as having reference to matters within the province of the Attorney General. I may remark that my letter of the 30th, written before the receipt of the above communication, seems to have touched upon the different subjects to which you found it necessary to refer, with the exception of the want of an office for the Registrar of West Maitland; and also that the East Maitland Court Office is not yet fixed. I have now the honor to forward herewith a copy letter addressed to Mr. Carter, to which no reply has reached this office, and until the receipt of your communication of the 27th it was presumed that the necessary wants in respect of office accommodation had been satisfactorily arranged. I am permitted to state that you will be justified in taking such steps for the purpose of securing suitable offices as you may deem to be imperatively necessary, and in the event of your finding it impossible to act otherwise, it will be open to you to hire a room until such time as other arrangements can be made; the rent thereof may be defrayed out of the sum provided for unforeseen expenses under the head of Contingencies.

I have, &c.,

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-304.)

Crown Law Offices,

Sir,

I am directed by the Attorney General to state, that at a recent meeting of the Cabinet, at which a full attendance of the Members were present, it was considered that the Government should do everything in their power towards the opening of Courts of Quarter Sessions at other places throughout the Colony, in addition to those already appointed for that purpose, and I have been accordingly desired to request that you will have the goodness to communicate to me, for the information of the Attorney General, the most convenient times and places for holding Courts of Quarter Sessions within your District, with a view to the same being proclaimed for such other times and places as may be fixed for that purpose, with as little delay as possible.

66 DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-31.)

*Court House, Goulburn,
4 June, 1859.*

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, which reached me here a day or two ago; I would beg of you to submit this reply for the consideration of the Attorney General.

When, in my letter of the 27th of April, I suggested to the Government the advantage of holding Courts of Quarter Sessions at Yass and at Albury in this year for the trial of bail and of very recent custody cases, I think I suggested what was in no way anticipated by anyone as a thing practicable even for a considerably remote period; and, in subsequently proposing the periods when, considering the extent of my district, I thought I could hold those Courts at each place, I endeavored to select the times in my opinion best adapted for the holding of each Court in each place.

As may be observed by my letter, I was under the impression that there was accommodation for holding a Court at Yass that was probably wanting at Albury, and that was one of my reasons for postponing the holding of a Court at the latter place. I am still of the opinion in this matter which I entertained when I made my proposal, and in arranging to have a Court of Quarter Sessions held at the times I had suggested, I should have thought that the Government would have been presumed to have done everything in their power towards opening the Court as soon as possible, so as to avoid all reasonable censure.

From your letter, however, I think I am to conclude that my view on this subject differs from that of the Government, and in such a case, in such a matter, I feel myself compelled at least to attempt to carry out the views of the Government.

I would beg of you therefore to inform the Attorney General, that if the Government still desire it, I shall be prepared to endeavor to hold a Court of Quarter Sessions at Albury, on Monday the 15th of August; but I would once again take the liberty of suggesting that some inquiry may be made before the Court is gazetted, as to the accommodation that can at that time be provided for such a purpose, both with reference to the custody and escort of the prisoners under sentence, and to the at all events necessary convenience of a Court Room. You will have the goodness to say, that the pressure of my engagements has for the last day or two deprived me of the opportunity of making you an earlier reply.

I have, &amp;c.,

THOMAS CALLAGHAN,
Judge of the Southern District Courts.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-308.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 6 June, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, containing papers from Mr. Barsden, the Bailiff of the Bathurst District Court, and from Mr. Harrison, the Bailiff of the Carcoar District Court, relative to the insufficiency of their salaries, I am directed by the Attorney General to remind you, that the proviso at the end of section 42 will prevent the scheme submitted from taking effect before one month after Parliament meets; nevertheless the Government are quite prepared to receive any reasonable proposal you may make, whereby the Bailiffs may be induced to continue in office, pending the decision of Parliament in the matter.

I have, &amp;c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

MEMORANDUM.

£50 ONLY has been provided by way of salary, for three gentlemen who have been gazetted as Registrars, under the provisions of the District Courts Act, at Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone, in the Northern District. A like sum was originally proposed for a person to act as Bailiff for the above places; but on the recommendation of Mr. Owen, the Executive authorized that £50 should be paid by way of salary to Bailiffs at each of the above places. No alteration was made in respect of the Registrars, and it may be desirable to ascertain whether the £50 must be divided among the three gentlemen appointed and subsequently gazetted as such, for Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone. Perhaps a similar rate of salary might be allowed to an officer at each of the places already mentioned—say £30. The notification of these appointments appeared in the Gazette of 6 May, 1859. They commenced duty but a week or so before that time, so that for (say) four months of the year, the money voted for this service has been saved.

W. E. PLUNKETT.

28 May, 1859.

I recommend the same course should be adopted as in the cases of the Bailiffs, viz.,—£30 for each Registrar at Scone, Murrurundi, and Muswellbrook.

L. H. BAYLEY,

1 June, 1859.

A. G.

JUDGE

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-126.)

Bathurst, 13 June, 1859.

Sir,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, No. 59-308, being an answer to mine forwarding papers from Messrs. Barsden and Harrison, Bailiffs respectively of the Bathurst and Carcoar District Courts, and intimating that the Government were prepared to receive any reasonable proposal from me as to remunerating the several Bailiffs throughout my district, as a temporary measure, until the Parliament should have decided my former scheme of their remuneration,—I do myself the honor to make—but merely as a temporary measure—the following suggestions:—That the salary of the Bailiff of the District Court of Bathurst should be increased, from £40 to £100 per annum; that the salary of the Bailiff of the District Court of Mudgee should be increased, from £30 to £100 per annum; that the salary of the Bailiff of the District Court of Molong should be increased, from £30 to £80 per annum; that the salary of the Bailiff of the Hartley Court should be increased, from £40 to £60 per annum; and that the salaries of the several Bailiffs of the Carcoar, Orange, and Dubbo Courts should be increased, respectively, from £30 to £60 per annum.

You will perceive that the salaries of the Bailiffs of the Courts of Bathurst, Mudgee, and Molong, have been increased in a greater ratio, for this reason—that they have a much larger tract of country to travel over than the other Bailiffs.

In making the above suggestions, I would wish it to be clearly understood that I would prefer the Bailiffs being paid partly by salary and partly by fees.

In the event of my suggestions being adopted, I would venture to point out that the increased remuneration should take effect from the 1st May last.

I have, &amp;c.,

JAMES S. DOWLING,
District Judge.

JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Kiama, 6 June, 1859.

MY DEAR ATTORNEY GENERAL,

I must beg permission to trouble you once more on the subject of the salaries of Bailiffs to the Courts in my District, with especial reference to the Court at Windsor.

The Bailiff originally appointed resigned his office at the end of April because his salary was inadequate. I have in vain sought for a successor. I also requested Mr. Gordon, the Registrar at Windsor, to find a Bailiff for that place. He writes me word that no one will accept the office, and asks for instructions. The Court at Windsor sits again on the 4th of July—the summonses should be in the Bailiff's hands not later than the 22nd of this month. What is to be done? Am I at liberty to offer an increased salary, or special pay for the occasion?

Secondly, Braidwood. In April last, on the recommendation of Mr. Justice Lutwyche, I appointed John Spencer Dobson, Bailiff there, and he was gazetted accordingly. Until recently I supposed him to be at his post; but, as I was leaving Sydney on Saturday last, I received a letter from his wife informing me that he declined the office. The Court for that place is fixed for the 17th instant, consequently the time at which summonses should be in his hands for service has already passed. Not having heard from the Registrar there, I am at a loss to conjecture what course he has pursued, but can only trust that he has employed some one else to serve the summonses.

I will wait on you for instructions on the above matters as soon as possible after my return to Sydney from this place.

I have, &amp;c.,

HENRY CARY.

P.S.—I enclose a copy of my letter to the Registrar at Braidwood—I trust it will meet with your sanction.—H. C.

[Enclosure in preceding letter of 6 June.]

Kiama, 6 June, 1859.

Sir,

On leaving Sydney for this place on Saturday last, I was vexed to find that the person gazetted as Bailiff for the District Court at Braidwood had never been there, and would not accept the office. I trust you have put the summonses for the 17th instant in the hands of some one for service, or that the plaintiffs themselves have performed that duty in their own cases; if not, pray employ as many persons as are necessary to serve the process without delay. I will pay their reasonable expenses and compensation.

John Thos. Gurney, Esq.,
Registrar, Braidwood.

I remain, &amp;c.,

HENRY CARY.

JUDGE

JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-304.)

Court House, Liverpool,
10 June, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, in which I am desired to communicate to you, for the information of the Attorney General, the most convenient times and places for holding Courts of Quarter Sessions within my district.

In my opinion such a Court should be held as early as practicable at Berrima and Wollongong; but, from the number of District Courts I have to hold, I cannot see what time can be fixed for holding a Session's Court at either place during the present year, unless some new arrangement be made.

During the first two months of the next quarter, from July 1st to August 31st, I have to hold eleven Courts, and believe that I shall not have two consecutive days in any one week unemployed. On the 1st of September I have appointed to hold a Court at Eden, and, having to proceed thence to Bombala and Cooma, have been forced to appropriate the whole of that month to those three places, because, as the steamboats from Twofold Bay ply only once a fortnight, I cannot possibly get over the whole ground in time to return before the end of the second fortnight. The following Quarter, from October 1st to the end of the year, is appropriated in a similar way, substituting Braidwood for the three Courts abovenamed. Braidwood takes nearly a fortnight to go to and fro, allowing three days for the Court. I had hoped to get a few days' respite at Christmas, by returning from Braidwood about the 17th or 18th of December.

If Bombala, Cooma, and Braidwood could by any means be detached from my district, I could hold a Court of Quarter Sessions at Wollongong and Berrima on the 3rd and 4th Mondays of September, and the 2nd and 3rd Mondays of December respectively.

As far as I am able to learn at present, there will be scarcely any business at Bombala or Cooma.

Eden being immediately on the Coast, should be retained in the Coast District. If Bombala, Cooma, and Braidwood could, as I venture to suggest, be detached from that district, a Court might be held at Shoalhaven, where one is much needed, and that, with the addition of a Court of Quarter Sessions at Wollongong and Berrima, would fully occupy my time.

Whatever plan the Government under the advice of the Attorney General shall resolve upon, I will endeavor to carry out to the best of my ability.

I remain, &c.,

HENRY CARY.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Muswellbrook, 10 June, 1859.

SIR,

Your letter of the 4th current, which you did me the honor to address me, respecting the establishment of additional Quarter Sessions, has been forwarded to me at this place.

2. The accuracy of my knowledge of the Northern District, as formed under the District Courts Act of 1858, will mainly depend on my present Circuit, only so far accomplished.

3. On its completion, I trust to be able to spare time to have personal conference with you, or some other Member of the Government, with such matured experience as my journey may afford.

4. The delay is of less importance, as the days fixed for the present Civil Courts in this District fully occupy the year until the end of December, and Quarter Sessions could not well be held this year without altering the whole of the present arrangements.

5. Imperfect as my present knowledge of this district is, I have no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that Quarter Sessions should be held at Tamworth, Armidale, Grafton, and possibly Port Macquarie.

6. It is likely that I may submit to the Government that Quarter Sessions should also be held at Dungog, and some place central between Tamworth and Maitland—say at Scone, or Muswellbrook—for which latter place there is an excellent Court House, and money granted for a more secure and enlarged place of confinement.

7. In reference to this last matter, I would respectfully suggest that the Government should not act upon certain tenders now going in for a new lock-up at Muswellbrook, until it be finally fixed whether Quarter Sessions be held there; as in the latter case, it might be deemed necessary or expedient to enlarge the plan. I am informed the tenders will be placed before the Colonial Architect in a few days.

8. From the preceding observations, the Government will probably not come to any final determination until I personally wait upon you, or communicate further with you.

9. I have this day addressed a letter to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary on the subject of additional Civil Courts in this District, in which the appointment of Quarter Sessions, as to times and places, is materially involved.

I have, &c.,

ROBT. OWEN,

District Court Judge.

JUDGE

DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

69

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Muswellbrook, 10 June, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to address you respecting the establishment of District Courts at Dungog, Raymond Terrace, and Newcastle, as requested verbally by the Government in the early part of last month.

2. I have delayed so long, as these new Courts cannot be brought conveniently into operation this year, from the circumstance of the days appointed for the present Courts running rapidly with short intervals, until the end of December next, and the delay is the less material as the District Courts Act requires a period of three months to elapse before any alteration can come into operation, and no great amount of public inconvenience can be sustained.

3. It appears to me that the following will be the boundaries of the three new Courts, viz. :—

Dungog—The Police District of Dungog.

Raymond Terrace—Police District of Raymond Terrace and Port Stephens.

Newcastle—Police District of Newcastle.

4. These will involve the following changes in the East Maitland and Paterson Courts :—

East Maitland—New boundary to be proclaimed for "Electoral Districts of "East Maitland and Morpeth."

Paterson—The like for Police District of Paterson.

5. These changes should take place from the 1st January, 1860.

6. The addition of these Courts (three) to the Northern District makes two separate Courts exclusive of Tamworth, Armidale, Grafton and Port Macquarie.

7. If it be necessary to hold, in each of these ten places, Courts four times in each year, and allowing for the probable amount of business in each Court one week, it follows the year will be occupied as under :—

Forty weeks for sittings, or .....	280 days
Quarter Sessions at Maitland, four weeks, or .....	28 "
Allowance for Sundays, stoppages, casualties, travelling, and a short pause for the Judge, eight weeks, or .....	56 "

the year thus being exhausted.

8. The establishment of additional Criminal Sessions in one or more of these ten places will absorb a considerable portion of the possible spare time in the last mentioned calculations.

9. It will be thus seen that the Judge in fulfilling the duties of the ten places before named will not be able to attend the Courts at the more distant places of Tamworth, Armidale, Grafton, and Port Macquarie, in which four last named places the Government, in all probability, will establish Criminal Sessions two or more times in the year.

10. As several of the above submitted arrangements will require further consideration before finally being adopted, I trust I shall have time in the latter part of July next personally to confer on them with some Member of the Government.

11. I have this day addressed the Honorable the Attorney General on the subject of additional Criminal Sessions, as requested by him, and I mention this as it affects the topics of this communication.

I have, &c.,

ROBT. OWEN,

District Court Judge.

Bathurst, 13 June, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant (59-305), calling upon me to report, for the information of the Attorney General, as to the most convenient times and places for holding additional Courts of Quarter Sessions in the Western District.

In reply thereto, I beg to inform you, that I am not in possession of sufficient data on which to make a reliable report, as I have not yet made the Circuit of my District. In the course of a few days I leave Bathurst to make that Circuit; and upon my return, which will be in or about six weeks hence, I shall hasten to report as required.

I have, &c.,

JAMES S. DOWLING,

SIR,

18 June, 1859.

I have the honor to forward herewith to you a copy communication addressed to the Auditor General, relative to the amount of salaries to be paid to the Registrars, and likewise to the Bailiffs, appointed to the undermentioned places, viz.,—Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone.

Sydney, 18 June, 1859.

I am directed to inform you that His Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to approve of the sum of £50 per annum by way of salary to each of the Bailiffs at the following places, viz.:—Muswellbrook, Murrurundi, and Scone; and His Excellency, with the advice of the Council, has subsequently been pleased to approve of the gentlemen who have been appointed to be Registrars at the places mentioned above, under the provisions of the District Courts Act of 1858, to be paid salary at the rate of £30 per annum, from the 1st of last month.

The Auditor General.

I have, &c.,

S. N. DARK, ESQ., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Clarence Town, 22 June, 1859.

HONORED SIR,

I am desirous of informing you that great dissatisfaction prevails throughout the whole of the Electorate of the Williams, in consequence of no place having been appointed where a District Court should be held under the District Courts Act. We consider ourselves justly entitled to one, for the following reasons:—

1st.—The Williams Electorate contains two shipping ports, viz., Clarence Town and Port Stephens, from which large quantities of grain, flour, wool, hides, timber, &c., are annually exported.

2nd.—The Police District of Dungog has little or no traffic with the Paterson, to which place it is united under the District Courts Act. The distance between the two localities and the mountainous nature of the country will be always a fatal hindrance. Clarence Town is, and always will be, the place of shipment for the whole of the productions of the Dungog District.

3rd.—The Police District of Port Stephens has little or no traffic with East Maitland, to which place it is united under the District Courts Act. The distance from Stroud to East Maitland being about 45 miles, while other parts of the District is nearly 90 miles.

4th.—Dungog contains a good Court House and lock-up—it is in the centre of the Williams Electorate, and is distant from Clarence Town 16 miles, from Stroud 15 miles—its position and centre of population justly entitles it to be the place where a District Court should be held.

A respectable and numerous signed petition was some time since forwarded to the Government, signed by the inhabitants of Dungog and Clarence Town, &c., &c., requesting that Dungog be proclaimed a place where District Courts should be held. I respectfully submit to the consideration of the Government the necessity of at once proclaiming Dungog as a place where a District Court should be held. As far as this important Country Electorate is concerned, the District Courts Act is at the present time a mere dead letter. I would suggest that the Districts of Dungog and Port Stephens be united in the Proclamation when issued.

I am, &c.,
STEPN. N. DARK.

JUDGE

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Sydney, 24 June, 1859.

SIR,

Referring to my letter of the 27th April, and of the 4th instant, to yours of the 30th May, and to my conversation on their subject with the Attorney General, I have the honor to request that the matter to which these different communications relate may be again brought under the consideration of the Government, with this further explanatory letter from me.

In my letter of the 27th of April I fully explained the circumstances under which—in pursuance of the Order of the Governor and Council, dated of the 21st, and gazetted of the 22nd of April—I had by my notice of the 25th, gazetted of the 26th April, fixed the holding of the District Courts in my district; and, at the same time, I ventured to suggest the propriety of having Courts of Quarter Sessions for the trial of bail cases, and of recent custody cases, held at Yass—the chief intermediate—and at Albury, the remotest—town of that district.

In that letter I suggested the possibility of holding these latter Courts at Yass by July, and at Albury by October, and I made this suggestion as I stated for holding these Courts, at these times, at each place, not only on account of its agreeing with the times I had appointed for the holding of the District Courts, but also on account of the accommodation for the Court, and for the prisoners that, in my opinion, was likely to be provided at either place within the time specified.

In that letter also I suggested the steps that appeared to me to be necessary to be at once taken to carry out these proposals, and as soon as I understood, from your personal communication with me, that these proposals were approved of by the Attorney General, I forwarded to you a draft of the proclamation which seemed to me to be the first step towards their execution.

And so this matter stood, till, at the close of last month when I was about to leave Sydney to hold the District Court at Goulburn on the 1st of this month, I had, at your suggestion, the honor of an interview with the Attorney General on the subject.

In that interview, I endeavored fully to explain the reasons which had guided me in fixing the holding of the different Courts in my District, and I particularly placed before the Attorney General a written communication I had had from Mr. Walsh, of Goulburn, upon the subject.

Although, after some discussion with the Attorney General, I still adhered to my own opinion on the subject, I did not hesitate at once to say that I should feel it my duty to consider, and if possible to carry out, the views of the Government, no matter how much they might differ from my own.

In accordance with that assurance of mine, as I presume, I received at Goulburn your letter of the 30th of May, urging upon me the propriety of holding a Court of Quarter Sessions at Albury sometime in August, and in deference to that communication, though still against my own judgment, by a letter of the 4th of this month, I proposed appointing the 15th of August as the day on which such a Court might be held.

As this matter is therefore still in abeyance, I would wish to submit to the Government the following views of mine upon it:—

In my opinion the time has now altogether gone by for holding a Court of Quarter Sessions like those which I have suggested, at Yass, till October, and at Albury, till the beginning of November.

To proclaim such a Court to be held at Yass, now for the first time, for the trial of bail and of recent custody cases within two or three weeks would be, in my opinion, a mockery, and to proclaim a similar Court for similar cases at Albury, to be held within any lesser period than three or four months, especially for the first time, would also in my opinion be illusory, and would possibly lead to this, that there might be no case to try, within such a period; so that I, the Crown Prosecutor, and the Clerk of the Peace, would be subjected to a harassing journey, and the country to our travelling expenses, for no substantial advantage whatever: moreover, from the time already appointed for the Parramatta Quarter Sessions in August, I do not know whether the holding of a Court at Albury in August would not involve the appointment of an additional Crown Prosecutor.

I beg also to add, that I understand that the accommodation for a Court and for prisoners at Albury, at present, is bad indeed for winter weather; and to confirm my anticipations and my information as to the possible nature of the season for travelling, and for holding a Court in that country, as yet unknown to me, I beg to annex a paragraph that I extracted from the Sydney Herald of the 21st instant, as copied from the Border Post, an Albury paper of a late date.

"THE WEATHER, THE RIVER, AND THE ROADS.

"The heavy rain which has fallen during the last few days is at length beginning to tell upon the state of the water in the Murray. The river is now running bank high, and the Police boat is the only means of intercourse between Albury and Wodonga. Not within the memory of the oldest inhabitant has the river risen to this height so early in the season; and, owing to the long period of drought we have experienced, a heavy flood is predicted on all hands. The roads are in some places impassable, and the coach from Beechworth was unable to reach Albury yesterday, although the letter mail was sent forward on horseback.

"The Sydney mails due on Saturday and Monday mornings did not arrive at the proper hours, but were both brought in on Monday night. We regret that Captain
"Martindale

"Martindale did not delay his visit to this part of the world for a month or so, as he would in that case have been able to appreciate the inconvenience to which we are exposed from the want of proper communication between the two colonies.—Border Post."

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that the Government have arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions shall be holden during the present year, at the several times and places following, in addition to those heretofore proclaimed, that is to say:—At Yass, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Gundagai, on Tuesday, the 25th of October; and at Albury, on Tuesday, the 8th of November. I am therefore desired to request that you will have the goodness to report to this office, at your very earliest convenience, what accommodation there is at present (if any) for the safe custody of prisoners; how many cells, &c., there are now; and what further accommodation will be required for the probable number of prisoners who, judging from past experience, may be expected to be in custody at Yass—that is so say, comprising the Police District of Yass and of Binalong—for trial at the Sessions fixed to be holden at your Township on the 19th of October next, in order that any additional accommodation which may be absolutely required may be at once provided by the Government.

I am further desired to request that you will be pleased to observe in future to commit persons charged with crimes, misdemeanors, &c., not punishable with death, to the Quarter Sessions, as the extended jurisdiction is given to such Courts by the 25th section of the District Courts Act of 1858 (22 Vict., No. 18), and to be careful to bind over the witnesses accordingly, for the time and place already mentioned.

I have, &c.,

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that the Government have arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions shall be holden, during the present year, at the several times and places following, in addition to those heretofore proclaimed, that is to say,—at Paterson, on Monday, the 29th of August, and Monday, the 28th of November; at Singleton, on Friday, the 2nd of September, and Friday, the 2nd of December; at Muswellbrook, on Wednesday, the 7th of September, and Wednesday, the 7th of December; at Scone, on Monday, the 12th of September, and on Monday, the 12th of December; at Murrumbidgee, on Thursday, the 15th of September, and Thursday, the 15th of December; at Port Macquarie, on Monday, the 10th of October; at Grafton, on Monday, the 17th of October; at Tamworth, on Thursday, the 22nd of December; at Armidale, on Saturday, the 31st of December; at Carcoar, on Tuesday, the 23rd of August, and Wednesday, the 23rd of November; at Hartley, on Tuesday, the 27th of September, and Tuesday, the 20th of December; at Mudgee, on Tuesday, the 4th of October, and Wednesday, the 28th of December; at Dubbo, on Thursday, the 13th of October; at Molong, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Orange, on Monday, the 24th of October; at Eden, on Wednesday, the 31st of August; at Cooma, on Monday, the 12th of September; at Windsor, on Monday, the 3rd of October; at Penrith, on Monday, the 10th of October; at Campbelltown, on Monday, the 17th of October; at Camden, on Wednesday, the 19th of October; at Berrima, on Tuesday, the 25th of October; at Wollongong, on Tuesday, the 1st of November; and at Braidwood, on Monday, the 5th of December.

I am therefore desired to request that you will have the goodness to observe to commit (when necessary) persons who may be charged before you with crimes, misdemeanors, &c., not punishable with death, until further instructed, to the Quarter Sessions which have been been arranged by the Government shall be holden at your township on the day heretofore mentioned in connection therewith, as the extended jurisdiction is given to such Courts by the 25th section of the District Courts Act of 1858 (22 Victoria, No. 18); and you will please to be careful to bind over the witnesses accordingly, for the time and place already mentioned for the holding of Quarter Sessions as above stated.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

GENTLEMEN,

Adverting to my letter of the 12th instant, communicating to you that the Government had arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions will be holden, during the present year, at the several times and places therein stated, I am now directed to request that you will have the goodness to report to this office, at your very earliest convenience, what accommodation there is at present (if any) for the safe custody of prisoners; how many cells, &c., there are now; and what further accommodation will be required for the probable number of prisoners who, judging from past experience, may be expected to be in custody at your township under the late arrangements in respect of Gaols and Quarter Sessions, as already proclaimed and published in the Government Gazette, No. 137, 12th July, 1859, in order that any additional accommodation which may be absolutely required may be at once provided by the Government.

18 July, 1859.

MY DEAR SIR,

The Attorney General will feel obliged if you will have the goodness to peruse the accompanying letters relative to the recently proclaimed gaols at Yass, Gundagai, and Albury; and if you can conveniently call over here to-morrow—say between 10 and 11 a.m.—he would be happy to see you on the subject.

Yours truly,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

*Police Office, Albury,
11 July, 1859.*

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, and, in reply, beg to state there is no accommodation suitable for the safe custody of prisoners waiting trial for Courts of General Quarter Sessions, and it will be necessary to erect a building for that purpose. There is a lock-up with two small ill-ventilated cells (male and female), barely adequate for the custody of prisoners who are dealt with under summary jurisdiction; it has no yard for the prisoners to take exercise, and the building is not capable of extension. I wrote on the subject of the erection of a gaol on the 12th of February last to the Inspector General of Police, and I herewith enclose you a copy of that letter, which contains my views on prison requirements in this locale; and I trust the Honorable the Attorney General will see the imperative necessity for the erection of a gaol here, as the escort of prisoners under sentences from Quarter Sessions to Goulburn, a distance of two hundred and sixty miles, and in cases of summary jurisdiction from Moulamein, &c., of more than double that distance, must be obviously injudicious.

Until proper arrangements are therefore made for the custody of prisoners, their committal for trial at Albury cannot safely be carried into effect, but in order to prevent embarrassment, and as I apprehend that a building large enough to contain twenty males and six females, with an exercise yard, would be sufficient to meet the wants of prisoners awaiting trial, I will, in the event of such building or a gaol being at once commenced, undertake to keep the prisoners in the lock-up until a fit and proper prison is completed.

I have, &c.,
HEYWARD ATKINS,
Police Magistrate.

W. E. Plunkett, Esq.,

Police Office, Albury,
12 February, 1859.

Sir,

I have the honor to state, in reply to the information called for in your letter of the 7th instant, that as the prisoners disposed of summarily and otherwise, by the Benches at Deniliquin, Moama, Moulamein, and Balranald, will have to be lodged in the Gaol here, accommodation for about forty prisoners will be required. I think, however, it is a subject worthy of consideration, whether it would not be economical and expedient that this gaol should be the receiving place for all prisoners disposed of in the Police Districts south of the Murrumbidgee; for as their boundaries for the most part join this district, Albury would form a convenient centre for all parties concerned, and thus save the erection of other gaols; and in such case, a building of the size and model of the Bathurst prison would be required. This locale affords peculiar facilities for building, with either stone or brick, large public and private buildings are in occupation, and good workmen of every description are abundant. As a site for a gaol has not yet been fixed upon, I would suggest that Mr. Surveyor Adams be instructed to select one; and as that gentleman is, I understand, shortly going away on leave, I would recommend that he be communicated with at once.

I have, &amp;c.,

HEYWARD ATKINS,
Police Magistrate.John McLerie, Esq.,
Inspector General of Police, Sydney.

[Enclosure 2 in No. 59-835.]

(No. 59-40.)

Police Office, Gundagai,
12 July, 1859.

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, apprising the Bench of Magistrates that a Court of General Quarter Sessions will be holden at this place on Tuesday, the 25th of October next, and requesting that you may be informed whether there is sufficient accommodation for the number of prisoners likely to be held in custody to await their trial on that occasion.

I beg to state that there is a watch-house both at North and South Gundagai; each of which consists of two cells, separately capable of containing five prisoners.

I would suggest that the former building be retained strictly as a lock-up, for the detention of minor offenders. The latter might be devoted to the incarceration of prisoners awaiting their trial at the Quarter Sessions. There would thus be accommodation for ten prisoners of this class, provided we might reckon upon each cell having as many inmates as it could conveniently hold; but this distribution cannot be safely relied on, since if only a single female were incarcerated, it would be necessary to appropriate to her an entire cell.

The aggregate number of prisoners committed for trial from the three Districts of Gundagai, Wagga Wagga, and Tumut will be probably about forty. Assuming that out of this number thirty will be detained in custody awaiting trial, and that there will be one female—judging from the experience of several years, this is likely to be the proportion of females—it will be necessary to provide additional prison accommodation for twenty-four persons.

I would beg to impress upon you, that, owing to the difficulty of procuring suitable labor in this district, it will be necessary to invite tenders for the execution of the work in question with the least possible delay.

I may add, that tenders for the erection of a new watch-house at this place, North Gundagai, have been called for; but at present, I believe, no eligible offer has been made for undertaking the work. The intended building is to contain two cells only, so that it will be utterly inadequate to the requirements of the case, now that the Government has determined to have Courts of General Quarter Sessions holden here.

I have, &amp;c.,

ALFRED C. S. ROSE, P.M.

The Honorable
The Attorney General.

Court House, Yass,
14 July, 1859.

Sir,

In reply to your letter of the 6th instant, respecting the establishment of Courts of General Quarter Sessions at Yass, and requesting us to report what accommodation there is (if any) for the safe custody of prisoners, in order that any additional accommodation which may be absolutely required may be at once provided by Government,—

2. We do ourselves the honor to inform you the Yass Lock-up contains only four cells, 10 ft. by 7 ft. each, and one cell for females; we are of opinion that for the present four additional cells would be required, and we recommend the whole should be surrounded by a substantial wall of sufficient height.

3. Accommodation for the Judge or Chairman, for the Crown Prosecutor, and a retiring room for the jury will also be required; a jury box must likewise be provided in the Court House.

76 DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

4. We would therefore suggest that a competent person be directed by the Colonial Architect to examine and report upon the present prison accommodation and lock-up keeper's quarters, as we think a saving would be effected by appropriating some of the rooms for offices, and building new cells instead.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 21st instant, No. 59, regarding further accommodation required for prisoners who may be committed for trial, &c., at the Quarter Sessions about to be established here; and in reply beg to inform you, that in the lock-up there are two rooms,—one for males, 18 × 8 feet, and one for females, 8 × 5½ feet.

Outside the lock-up there are six cells, 7½ × 5 feet, which were used for the purpose of solitary confinement, enclosed by a brick wall about 12 feet high, which could now be turned to account.

The only additional accommodation which I would recommend at present would be a yard for the prisoners to have air and exercise.

The expense of building a gaol yard I am not in a position to estimate.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, CAMPBELLTOWN, to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Police Office, Campbelltown,
26 July, 1859.

SIR,

We have the honor to inform you, in answer to your circular of the 21st instant, respecting the accommodation for prisoners at this place, that there are nine small cells and one day-room, besides an ante-room under the Court House; on the opposite part of the building there are five new cells. In respect to the cells under the Court House, we consider that the same will be very unwholesome should many prisoners be placed therein for any considerable time, in consequence of the want of drainage, which can be remedied at a trifling expense. The cells require in many places repairing before the same can be considered safe for the confinement of prisoners. A small cook-house will be required, which can also be used as a wash-house.

Court House, Muswellbrook,

SIR,

With reference to your circular of the 21st, in connection with one of the 12th instant, requesting to know what accommodation, how many cells, &c., there may be in this township for the safe custody of prisoners, we have the honor to state that the present lock-up (which, by the way, is a rented one) contains two compartments only, one for male, the other for female, prisoners. It is wholly unsuited to the purpose for which it is designed, as it cannot be considered secure. We may, however, premise that a tender for the erection of a watch-house has been by the Government accepted on the 18th of June last; but it is only on this day any steps have been taken by the contractor to proceed with the work. The plan of the accepted watch-house admits of only three cells, and we are strongly of opinion, and would submit, it ought to be enlarged, so as to contain five (5).

We are the more disposed to press this opinion, fortified as we are by the fact that the contract for the watch-house has been taken at £645, whereas the Government has appropriated the sum of £950, and the difference between the two amounts would be more than amply sufficient to cover the outlay caused by the enlarged accommodation. We trust you will be with effect able to draw the attention of the Crown Law Officers to this point, and by urging on the contract the building may, in the close of October or November, be completed; till then we shall manage as best we may.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MURRURUNDI, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Police Office, Murrurundi,
26 July, 1859.

SIR,

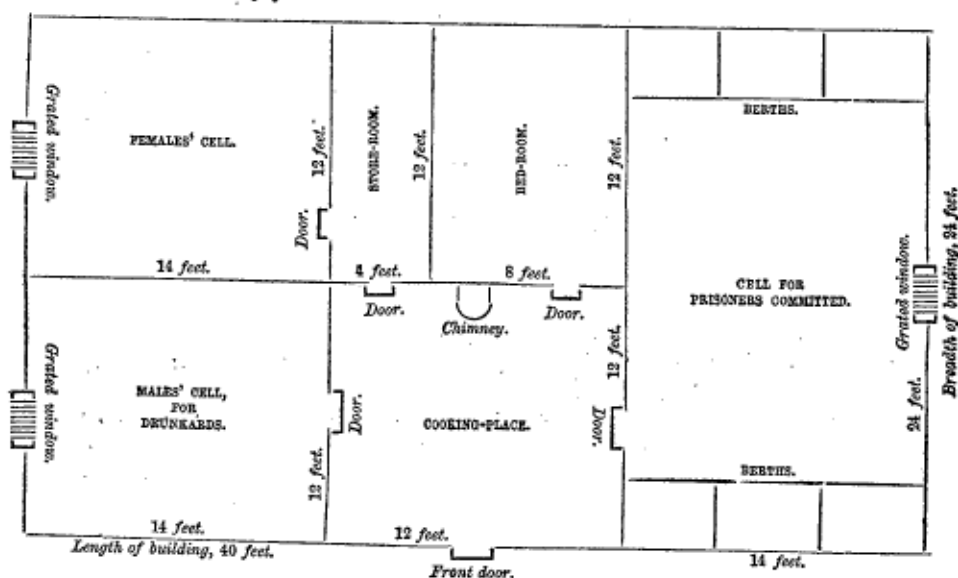

In reply to your letter, requesting us to report on the accommodation for the safe custody of prisoners, and number of cells, connected with the police buildings here, we have the honor to state—

1st. That the present slab erection, used as a lock-up, having been built about twenty years ago, on the establishment of a Police Court for this district, is in a thorough state of decay, the beams supporting the roof, and sleepers on which the building stands, being cracked and rotten in many places, and the slabs shrunken to a great extent, leaving interstices several inches wide in every portion of the building.

2nd. That the present lock-up contains only two small cells, which, although equal to the requirements of the district at the time of their erection, are now insufficient; more especially for the probable number of prisoners who will be in custody here, under the late arrangements, with respect to the establishment of Quarter Sessions.

3rd. That, in our opinion, owing to the extreme dilapidation and decay of the whole building, it is entirely inefficient for the safe custody of prisoners; and further, that any additions or repairs would be useless, and only incur unnecessary expense on the Government.

We, therefore, do ourselves the honor to recommend the erection of a new lock-up, and beg to enclose a ground-plan of one which, we consider, would meet the requirements of this district for many years:—

We would also draw your attention to the very contracted size of the Court Room, which only measures 20 feet long by 14 feet wide. Great inconvenience has been felt for some time back in transacting the ordinary Police business of the Court, owing to the limited space allowed to spectators being overcrowded. This evil under the new arrangements will be much increased, as on the trial of any cause requiring a jury of twelve persons, the exclusion of all other persons would, in a great measure, be necessary, the only space for the accommodation of a panel being that at present allotted to the public.

We, therefore, consider it our duty to recommend the further extension of the Court Room 20 feet, making, in all, an apartment of 40 feet in length by 14 feet in width. This would allow accommodation for a jury and witness box, which, under the present circumstances, is impossible.

In conclusion, we would respectfully urge on you the immediate necessity of making the alterations above-mentioned; and further, would beg to refer to Mr. Justice Owen, who inspected the Police buildings here, on his visit to the district, in June last.

SIR,

In reply to your printed letter of the 21st instant, No. 59, this day received, we have the honor to state that we have no accommodation for the safe custody of prisoners awaiting trial, for any period exceeding one or two weeks. There is no yard for them to take exercise in, and it would be unsafe to confine a prisoner in the present cell without such exercise.

There are two cells in good condition, but, from the awkward size of the guard-room one only is available, as a general rule.

We should require two additional cells and a sleeping room for the guard, before any prisoners are quartered on us, as well as a high row of slabs all round the premises, to allow the prisoners exercise.

The wall requires to be made higher, and mended in several places.

We therefore consider that accommodation for twenty prisoners would not be too large a lock-up for this township.

2. The airing yards and kitchen require some slight repair; also the windows of the gaoler's apartments.

3. The buildings or debtors' prisons inside the gaol wall, and the exterior gate, require considerable repair.

In reply to your letter of the 21st ultimo, we have the honor to state that it will be necessary to erect a gaol (with enclosing yard) suitable for the reception of twenty-five (25) persons at the least.

In

DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

79

In fixing this number as the minimum, we do not mean to assert that accommodation for prisoners to that extent will be required during the next twelve months at any one time; but, considering that persons awaiting trial, as well as others imprisoned under the Vagrant Act, and other Acts, giving Benches of Magistrates summary jurisdiction must be kept at Tamworth, as the central place of a considerable district, it is by no means impossible that a gaol, capable of holding the above number of persons, might be filled.

The present watch-house attached to the building used as a Court House (belonging to the Peel River Land and Mineral Company), containing three cells, (each) 9 feet by 4 feet 10 inches, one cell 9 feet by 4 feet 7 inches, and one cell 15 feet 10 inches by 11 feet 3 inches, and the new watch-house, in course of erection under a vote of the Legislature for £400, containing 2 cells, 9 feet by 12 feet each, are both unfitted for the detention of prisoners for any lengthened period of time. The former building is unhealthy in the summer time, owing to the water-closets being built in the range of cells, and opening out into the small yard or enclosure in which prisoners get exercise. In the latter building, the water-closet is distinct from the main building, and consequently prisoners would have constant opportunities of making their escape.

Believing then that a gaol is indispensable, we have the honor to recommend that such a building be erected.

In attention to your letter, dated the 12th instant, No. 59, we have the honor to submit, for the consideration of the Government, the utter insufficiency of accommodation at present existing in the Police Office buildings at Orange, for the proper performance of the duties connected with the "General Quarter Sessions," to be holden at this place on the 24th day of October next.

2. Some short time since, in reply to a letter from the Inspector General of Police, on the subject of buildings, we recommended that an entirely new set of buildings should be erected in a different site.

3. We beg further to inform you, that His Honor the District Judge was at Orange when your letter was received, and we are authorized to state that his opinion coincided with ours as to the inadequacy of the present existing buildings for holding "General Quarter Sessions."

SIR,

In reply to your letter dated 21st inst., No. 59 (Circular), we have the honor to report:—

- (1.) There are two (2) very small cells at present.
- (2.) There will be absolutely required immediately two (2) additional cells, to be built adjoining the present building, having a passage between the old and new cells. Plan enclosed.

2. In a communication made by us to the Inspector General of Police, respecting public buildings at Orange, we recommended that an entirely new set of buildings should be erected on a different site, which could be so constructed as to meet the requirements of the public service in carrying out the "District Courts Act" in its criminal and civil jurisdiction.

3. The cells we recommended to be built are only meant as a temporary accommodation; for, in making permanent arrangements, we quite concur with His Honor the District Judge that an airing yard is indispensable where prisoners are to be confined for any lengthened period.

Ground Plan of proposed new Cells at Orange.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, CAMDEN, to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Police Office, Camden,
30 July, 1859.

SIR,

Having carefully considered the letters, bearing date the 12th and 21st instant, addressed under your authority by the Secretary of the Crown Law Department to the Bench of Magistrates, Camden, on the subject of the holding of Courts of Quarter Sessions at Camden, we do ourselves the honor to state for your information, that the lock-up at this place was constructed several years since as a district watch-house, which should serve also for the temporary reception of prisoners under escort passing through the district. It is divided into four compartments (with a kitchen), two of which have hitherto been occupied by the lockup-keeper and his family (unless when absolutely required for prisoners), and two for the confinement of prisoners for short periods. In our opinion this building is incapable of being converted into a gaol, suitable for the safe custody and proper discipline and treatment of prisoners under sentence, or for any purpose beyond that of a place of confinement for the temporary reception of prisoners before and after trial.

The expense of conveying prisoners between this district and Parramatta, even were two or three journeys requisite (which would seldom happen) would not, we submit, be by any means so great as the expense hitherto occasioned to the public by the attendance of prosecutors and witnesses at Parramatta or Sydney, while all the advantages resulting from the trial of offences in the neighborhood where they were committed would be attained. The number of Quarter Sessions cases from the Camden and Picton Benches, judging from our past experience and the actual state of the district, is not likely, in our opinion, to exceed from eight to twelve a year, and of this number three-fourths, probably, would be bail cases, so that not more than two or three cases a year of committal to gaol before trial would be likely to occur.

It appears to us, therefore, that whether as regards the administration of justice, the attainment of the ends of punishment, the saving of public expenditure, or the personal convenience and saving, both of time and money, to prosecutors and witnesses, the objects of the trial of the less grave classes of criminal offences by the District Courts would, as regards this part of the country, be best accomplished by continuing the commitment of prisoners, as heretofore, to Parramatta Gaol.

The Camden lock-up would, under the course we suggest, afford sufficient accommodation for the temporary reception of prisoners for trial, or under recent sentence by the Quarter Sessions, provided a separate dwelling were attached to it for the lockup-keeper, an addition which, with some extension of the yard, &c., is found to be necessary even for the purposes to which the lock-up is applied under the jurisdiction of the Petty Sessions.

We are unwilling to extend this communication by entering into the various details essential to a proper system of prison discipline, details involving careful and systematic attention by competent parties, which, it appears to us, can only be effectually attained by the establishment of central prisons, on a sufficient scale, in places suitable for the purpose.

On the other hand, notwithstanding a different opinion generally prevalent, we cannot suppose it to be the intention of the Government, by the proclamation in the Gazette of the 12th

Police Office, Dubbo,
27 July, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your letter, No. 59, dated 21st instant, seeking information relative to the state of the Court House here, and the accommodation at present in existence for the safe custody of prisoners, we do ourselves the honor to state, that the present Court House is a poor slab building, containing a room where the Court is held, an office, a lockup-keeper's room, and two cells. The means of providing for the proper security of prisoners does not exist.

Since Dubbo has been established as a place for a District Court, and selected for a Criminal Sittings, it would be necessary that a substantial Court House should be erected, with secure accommodation in the way of a gaol, for from eight to ten prisoners.

With a Court of Quarter Sessions holden at Dubbo, we have every reason to believe that many more cases will be for trial than heretofore; crimes of a very serious character have often been overlooked or compromised from the serious expense and loss of time attending prosecutions at Bathurst.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 21st July, requesting our report on the present accommodation for safe custody of prisoners at this place, we have the honor to make the following statement.

2. The present building has been recently erected, and comprises a Court Room sufficiently large, a retiring room, three cells, and a room for the lockup-keeper.

3. We would suggest that an addition should be made, to consist of two cells, and a bed-room for the gaoler. It is absolutely necessary that a wall should be built round the back, so as to enclose the water-closets and the gratings of the cells, without which we do not think prisoners would be safe, as instruments might be very easily put in between the bars.

(No. 59-63.)

Police Office, Cooma,
4 August, 1859.

SIR,

We do ourselves the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 21st ultimo, requesting us to report what accommodation there is at present in this township for the safe custody of prisoners, and what further accommodation will be required for the probable number of prisoners who may be expected to be in custody here under the late arrangements in respect of Gaols and Quarter Sessions, as proclaimed in the Government Gazette of 12th July, 1859.

1. The building now in use consists of one small room, used as a Court House, with a lock-up adjoining, containing two small cells, in which as many as seven prisoners have been confined at one time. The building was erected in the year 1847, and cost about £90. It has undergone no repair since that time, consequently the roof is in a dilapidated state; the walls, which are of rubble stone, are much cracked, having been badly built, and the floor is giving away.

2. We would recommend that a new Court House and Gaol be erected, the former to contain the requisite number of apartments suitable for holding a Court of Quarter Sessions, on such a scale as the Government may approve of, and that the gaol contains at least ten cells for the safe custody of prisoners (which number we have every reason to believe will be required), with a gaoler's quarters, and a walled-in yard for exercise of prisoners, with such necessary conveniences as are requisite in such an establishment.

3. We would beg to suggest that the District Surveyor be instructed to fix upon an eligible site for the purpose.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, BRAIDWOOD, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.
(No. 59-50.) Police Office, Braidwood,
11 August, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your printed letter of the 21st ultimo, requesting our report as to the accommodation at present for prisoners at Braidwood, we do ourselves the honor to inform you that the lock-up, which is a wing of the Court House, contains—

	ft.	in.		ft.	in.
Lockup-keeper's room .....	15	8	×	11	8
Men's cell .....	17	2	„	7	11
Women's cell .....	11	7	„	6	1
Passage .....	6	6	„	4	3

These rooms, as well as those occupied by the Clerk of the Bench, we should recommend to be applied for the use of retiring rooms and offices—great inconvenience being felt for the want of such accommodation.

The outer cells are brick built, measuring 35 feet 6 inches × 25 feet from out to out; with two passages, each 32 feet 6 inches × 3 feet 6 inches; six cells, each 7 feet 10 inches × 4 feet 10 inches. This building requires new shingling, new flooring, ventilating, and lighting—being now dark. The walls are 18 inches thick, and 8 feet 3 inches high.

In the event of the present lock-up being taken for offices, a new one would be required.

We would strongly recommend that some competent person be sent up from the Colonial Architect's Department, to inspect and report on the present buildings.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, SCONE, to ATTORNEY GENERAL.
(No. 59-61.) Police Office, Scone,
4 August, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your circular of the 21st ultimo, on the subject of the accommodation for prisoners for trial at the Court of Quarter Sessions, I do myself the honor, by request of the Bench, to state, that the lock-up at Scone contains two cells adapted to hold male prisoners, which are considered secure; and one cell for female prisoners, which is not so safe.

2. The number of prisoners committed for trial by this Bench does not average more than two, quarterly; therefore the accommodation is ample, if no increase takes place; but the Bench would be unwilling to keep prisoners confined for any lengthened period, in consequence of the smallness of the cells, and having no convenience for air or exercise. If it is contemplated to carry out the sentences of the Courts, by imprisonment at this place, it will be absolutely necessary to make provision for airing and exercising the prisoners; and an officer of the Architect's department will be the most proper person to suggest the improvements for that purpose.

I have, &c.,

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, PENRITH, to ATTORNEY GENERAL.
(No. 133.) Court House, Penrith,
1 August, 1859.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 21st ultimo, No. 59, we do ourselves the honor to state, for your information, that the lock-up at this place, of which we forward you a rough sketch, is a wooden building—at least, the walls are large slabs, weatherboarded on the outside. The partitions between the various cells are of brick, varying in thickness from 15 to 18 inches.

Cell

Cell No. 1 is used only as a store-room, being perfectly unsafe, from the slabs having decayed at the bottom, and having dropped in consequence out of the top wall-plate; the mortise being only retained in an upright position by the weatherboarding on the outside. Cells Nos. 2, 3, and 4, are tolerably safe; but any confine can converse through the slabs with persons outside. Cells 2 and 3 we consider would hold four prisoners, and cell No. 4 would contain five prisoners.

2. We certainly would recommend that the Government instruct the Colonial Architect to visit Penrith, and report to you the best and least expensive mode of proceeding; for we certainly are at a loss to conceive how the present building could be transformed (so as to conveniently, and with due regard to the health of confines) into a place of safety for prisoners under committal for trial, and those undergoing sentences under the summary jurisdiction Acts.

3. Should the Government instruct the Colonial Architect, we shall be most happy to advise with him, on his arrival, and place him in possession of any information he may require.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, WOLLONGONG, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Court House, Wollongong,
15 August, 1859.

SIR,

In reference to your letter of the 21st July last, respecting accommodation for the safe custody of prisoners at this township, we have the honor to inform you that the present watch-house (recently proclaimed as a Gaol) is in a very dilapidated condition, and contains two watch-house cells; there are, however, three detached brick cells, for solitary confinement, in the same enclosure.

In the Gaol now in course of erection there are six cells, a gaoler's room, a sleeping room for the gaoler, and a room for stolen property.

We are of opinion that, in addition to the above, there should be in the new Gaol two rooms wherein to confine persons under committal for trial, or in default of bail, &c., one for males and one for females.

We have, &c.,

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, PATERSON, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Police Office, Paterson,
4 August, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 21st July last, No. 59, we have the honor to inform you that there are two cells in the Court House at this place, which are unsuitable for the purpose of receiving prisoners committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions to be held here.

It would be dangerous to the health of prisoners to keep them confined in those cells from one Sessions to another, as there is no yard in which to give them an airing, and the rooms rooms are very small; and the water-closet not being in an enclosed yard there would always be a risk of the prisoners escaping when brought out for necessary purposes.

We beg to recommend that a gaol or large lock-up be built, with a properly enclosed yard.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, GRAFTON, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-82.)

Court House, Grafton, 10 August, 1859.

SIR,

With reference to your circular letter of the 21st ultimo, calling upon us to report what accommodation (if any) there is for the safe custody of prisoners in this lock-up,—

2. We have to inform you that the lock-up at Grafton is in such a dilapidated condition that it is nearly useless, prisoners having escaped from it on more than one occasion. There are two small cells which will not be sufficient to meet the requirements of this township under the new arrangements in respect of Gaols and Quarter Sessions, as already proclaimed.

We have already applied to the Government for a sum to be placed upon the Estimates for the erection of a new Court House and lock-up at Grafton.

We are of opinion that both buildings are in so ruinous a condition that it would be a waste of expenditure to repair either.

POLICE MAGISTRATES, PORT MACQUARIE, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-80.)

*Police Office, Port Macquarie,
3 August, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 21st ultimo, adverting to your letter of the 12th of same month, relative to the holding of Courts of General Quarter Sessions at Port Macquarie, and requesting our report as to what accommodation there is at present (if any) for the safe custody of prisoners, we have the honor to enclose for your information a copy of a letter, addressed by the Police Magistrate to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary on the subject, prior to the receipt of your letter now under reply, recommending that the building used as a lock-up at this place be inspected by an officer from Sydney.

There are several compartments, all of brick, within the walls, viz. :—

One, 12 feet by 17 feet 10 inches, height 13 feet 6 inches, fire-place, plastered, plank ceiling.

One, 48 feet 6 inches by 17 feet 6 inches, height 13 feet 6 inches, lined with plank, ceiling plank.

Two, 30 feet by 11 feet at one end, and 5 feet at the other, with eight cells in each, five light and three dark, 7 feet 2 inches by 6 feet, height 13 feet, lined with plank, single doors; eight of these cells have been considered unfit for use, being too confined.

One, 19 feet 4 inches by 12 feet, height 13 feet, fire-place, plank lining and ceiling.

One, 21 feet by 11 feet, height 13 feet, fire-place, plank lining and ceiling, with four dark cells, foundations of which are decayed.

One, 19 feet 4 inches by 12 feet, height 13 feet, fire-place, plank lining and ceiling.

One range of dark cells, 7 feet by 3 feet 9 inches, eleven in number, lined with plank, foundation decayed.

One, 10 feet by 18 feet, height 13 feet 6 inches, fire-place, ceiling plastered.

One, 15 feet by 18 feet, height 18 feet 6 inches, fire-place, ceiling plastered.

One, 17 feet 10 inches by 10 feet 2 inches, height 13 feet 6 inches, ceiling plastered.

One (Quarters), containing four very small rooms, stands in the centre of the gaol (or lock-up).

Seven water-closets, all open, one in each of the seven small yards.

One well, from 90 to 100 feet in depth, with an abundant supply of excellent water.

The boundary of the building is formed by portions of the different compartments connected by walls, from 13 to 14 feet in height.

The yards are insecure, and also overlook the gate, so that a resolute prisoner could, with little difficulty, rush and force his way out. The gate is a folding one, of wood, and, being the only entrance to the building, has consequently to be opened for all purposes.

The building itself, although requiring repair, is an excellent one; but it is defective as a gaol and house of correction, for offenders under lengthened sentences, in so many respects, that it requires a competent judge of these matters to remedy the general want of security.

We

We therefore recommend that the building be inspected by a competent person from Sydney, without delay, in order that proper security may be provided by the Government, for as it now stands it affords but little for the safe custody of prisoners.

[Enclosure in No. 59-80.]

Police Office, Port Macquarie,
22 July, 1859.

Sir,

Referring to the circular from the Secretary to the Crown Law Officers, and the Proclamation in the Government Gazette, No. 137, both of 12th instant, that the lock-up at this place should be deemed and taken as a public gaol. I have the honor to inform you, that the present building, known as the lock-up, will require many alterations, not only as regards the safe custody, but also in respect to the health of such persons as may be confined therein. The building itself is a very excellent one, and appears to have been originally intended for a stockade gang, with places for temporary confinement for misconduct; and although there are several compartments, they are all so peculiarly placed, being greatly crowded together, and apparently insufficiently ventilated, that they are neither safe nor fit for the purposes of a gaol. The yards, also, are too confined in area to permit exercise, and, moreover, persons therein can see and communicate with each other, there being no impediment to their going from one yard to another, or even to the gate, which latter is completely overlooked from the yards. I would therefore respectfully suggest, that some competent person should without delay be instructed to inspect the building, with the view that, if it be intended to be used as a gaol and house of correction for offenders under lengthened sentences, such alterations for the security of confines should be made to the building, in order that the requirements under the Government Regulations of 27 September, 1841 (Gaols), may be efficiently and faithfully carried out. I may add, that there is considerable reserved ground around the building for the purpose of enlargement and alteration, should it be deemed necessary by the Government. A matron and turnkeys would also be indispensable for the above establishment.

The Honorable
The Colonial Secretary.

I have, &c.,

Police Magistrate.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MUDGE, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-123.)

Police Office, Mudgee,
4 August, 1859.

Sir,

In reply to your letter of the 21st ultimo, requesting us to report on the present accommodation at this place for the safe custody of prisoners, the number of cells, &c., we do ourselves the honor to inform you that there are only three cells, of the following dimensions, viz., 10 feet by 6 feet, 13 feet by 10 feet, and 9 feet by 4 feet.

These are so situated that it is impossible to prevent confines from communicating with each other; they are also too small, and not sufficiently well ventilated for the preservation of health, while there is no enclosed yard for exercise, with a due regard for safe custody.

2. The slab hut, in which the prisoners' rations are cooked, is quite unfit for use and incapable of being repaired.

3. The accommodation for purposes of decency is of the most ordinary description, and insufficient for the separation of the sexes.

4. As a number of prisoners may be expected to be forwarded here from the adjacent gold fields, previous to the sitting of the Quarter Sessions, we beg to press upon the attention of the Government the inadequacy of the present building for holding the Court and the reception of prisoners, while it is so old and dilapidated, that we fear it would be a mere waste of money to alter or enlarge it.

5. As a temporary measure, pending the erection of a suitable gaol and Court House, we would suggest that some building be rented as a Court House, and the present one be subdivided for the confinement of females and prisoners under charges of a trivial nature.

6. It would be necessary to enclose the whole with a palisade, in order to have a secure yard for exercise.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, ARMIDALE, to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-89.)

Court House, Armidale,
20 September, 1859.

Sir,

In reply to your letter of 21st July last, in which you request us to report what accommodation there is at present for the safe custody of prisoners at Armidale, how many cells, &c., there are now, and what further accommodation will be required for the probable number of prisoners who may be expected to be in custody in this township under arrangements published in the Government Gazette, No. 137, 12th July, 1859,—we do ourselves the honor to report that the lock-up here consists of four cells of the following dimensions, viz., two 10 feet 3 inches by 8 feet 3 inches, and two 11 feet by 8 feet 3 inches; there there are also two other rooms, 15 feet by 14 feet each, one of which is used as a store-room and office for the Chief Constable, and the other as quarters for the lockup-keeper; the former might be allotted for the use of prisoners, provided an additional room were erected for the use of the Chief Constable. An additional fire-place would be required for the use of the constable in charge of the lock-up. In addition to the rooms above specified, there is a receiving room, which is used as a place in which to cook prisoners' rations. The building should be surrounded by a wall or stockade, in order that the parties confined might have an opportunity of being allowed some exercise, and it is absolutely necessary that strong shutters should be furnished for the cell windows, to enforce the safe custody of prisoners, as it would now be easy at night time to hand in tools to facilitate their escape. Water-closets would require to be erected.

Judging from past experience, and from the average of the last three years, we should imagine that the probable number of prisoners who may be expected to be in custody, waiting to take their trials, provided they did not obtain bail, would be fifteen per annum; but it is probable parties will now be more anxious to prosecute than they have hitherto been, and thus the number may be materially increased. It must be borne in mind, however, that during the last three years, there have been confined in the lock-up for offences punishable under summary jurisdiction 700 persons, or rather more than 266 per annum.

In conclusion, it may be remarked that the lock-up is very ill ventilated, and is not adapted for prisoners sentenced to a lengthened period of incarceration.

We have, &c.,

CHA. THO. WEAVER, P.M.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF CUMBERLAND AND COAST
DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-364.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 21 July, 1859.*

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 27th of May last, No. 247, with respect to the charge of the accounts and disbursements in connection with the District Courts, and that the Registrars of the several Courts should be required to submit their accounts to be audited and settled, pursuant to the 35th clause of the District Courts Act of 1858, on the last day of each month, I am now directed to inform you that the subject having been recently again brought under the consideration of the Executive Council, and as it then appeared to the Council that in order to audit properly and effectually the accounts of the Registrars, it will be necessary that the Judge should have an inspection of their books and vouchers, that the auditing should take place at the time of holding a Court at each town or place, with the exception of the principal town in the district, where it might take place monthly; I am therefore directed to state, that the Council having deliberated upon the subject, have accordingly advised that instead of the Registrars in each District submitting their accounts to be audited and settled by the Judge on the last day of each month, such audit should take place at the times of the holding of Courts at the respective places, with the exception of the City of Sydney, and the Towns of Bathurst, Parramatta, Maitland, and Goulburn, at which the Registrars' accounts should be audited monthly as heretofore.

I am further desired to state that the Council have ordered that the several Registrars of District Courts should, in common with other Collectors of Revenue in the Country Districts, pay over their collections monthly to the Colonial Treasurer, and furnish the accounts thereof at the termination of each quarter.

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Bathurst, 23 July, 1859.

SIR,

On the 13th ultimo I did myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th of the same month, wherein you stated you were directed by the Attorney General to call upon me to report for his information as to the most convenient times and places for holding additional Courts of Quarter Sessions in the Western District; and as at that time I had not made the circuit of the Western District, I informed you I was not in possession of sufficient data upon which to make a reliable report. I deferred complying with the Attorney General's wish until I returned from my circuit, about then to be commenced; to have reported earlier would have been leading the Attorney General astray on a subject of great importance to the interests of the Western District. I have as yet received no reply in answer to mine of the 13th ultimo, condemnatory of my delay.

to

I find, however, by the Government Gazette of the 12th instant, that the Government have proclaimed that Courts of Quarter Sessions shall be holden at the following places and times, viz.,—At Carcoar, on the 23rd of August and 23rd of November; at Hartley, on the 27th September and 20th December; at Mudgee, on the 4th of October and 28th of December; at Dubbo, on the 13th of October; at Molong, on the 19th of October; and at Orange, on the 24th of October. Thus, in the ordinary course of things, there would be no necessity for me now to forward any report in answer to your letter; but, if I were not to do so, I should feel that I was neglecting my duty as the District Judge of the Western District, the more especially as the Proclamation, so far as the Carcoar district is concerned, cannot be carried out during my next visit there.

Whilst making my circuit I have constantly kept in view the desire the Government have that additional Courts of Quarter Sessions should be holden in my district; and in arriving at any conclusion I may have formed, I have duly considered not only the population of each town, its position, but the probability of procuring a jury, besides a variety of other circumstances that need not be detailed here.

I only returned yesterday afternoon, and hasten at once to put the Government in possession of my report.

I would recommend that additional Courts of Quarter Sessions should be holden in the following towns, viz.,—Mudgee, Wellington, and Orange four times a year. I leave out of my recommendation the following places, viz.,—Carcoar, Hartley, Dubbo, and Molong, because to hold Courts there would lead, for the present, to a useless expenditure of money in building Court Houses and watch-houses. At Hartley and Carcoar there are substantial Court Houses, which are capable of being properly fitted up as such; but in the other two towns (or villages) there are no such buildings. At Molong I was compelled to hold my Court in a public-house, very much to my own inconvenience and that of the suitors. At Carcoar and Hartley there are watch-houses which may be made use of as places of detention of prisoners for a day or two, but certainly not for weeks. At Dubbo and Molong the watch-houses are in character with the so-called Court House; they are made of slabs, not surrounded even by a fence, and prisoners within them may almost shake hands with their friends on the outside. To neither of the above four watch-houses are there any airing yards or any conveniences of any kind. Again, I do not recommend those places, because neither their population nor the jury lists would warrant it. The jury lists prepared for the District Courts holden at these several places were in numbers as follows:—Carcoar, 64; Hartley, 47; Dubbo, 40; and Molong, 46. And provided the jury lists for the Courts of Quarter Sessions proclaimed to be holden at those places should contain the same numbers, from them would have to be deducted the names of the Justices of the Peace resident in those several places and districts, leaving the numbers available exceedingly small; inasmuch that, at three out of the four places, the same persons would be summoned every time the Court sat, an event certainly to be avoided. They would be brought from their homes at great expenses to themselves, and perhaps to try sometimes one prisoner, and sometimes not even one. Much more might be advanced, but I trust I have said enough to shew that I ought not to recommend Courts to be holden there.

In suggesting that Courts should be holden at Mudgee, Wellington, and Orange, it would be desirable that a grouping of the Police Districts around each of these places should be made; for instance, the Court at Mudgee could try all cases committed within the Police Districts of Mudgee and Rylstone; the Court at Wellington could try all cases committed within the Police Districts of Wellington and Dubbo; and the Court at Orange could try all cases committed within the Police Districts of Orange, Molong, and Carcoar.

I beg leave to observe, however, that before additional Courts of Quarter Sessions can be holden with safety in the Western District, it will be necessary that secure and commodious watch-houses, with all convenient out-buildings, enclosed by a stone or brick wall, should be built.

The watch-houses at Mudgee and Orange are tolerably secure, but so small that they would not hold more than three or four prisoners; and to neither of them are attached airing yards or the ordinary conveniences; the watch-house at Wellington is far inferior to either of them. At Mudgee and Orange there are Court Houses, but neither of them capable of being fitted up as Court Houses for the trial of prisoners, and are not capable of holding more than fifty persons. At Wellington there is no Court House at all, except a small room used as such out of the township, which is rented by the Government, so that the holding additional Courts of Quarter Sessions, even at Mudgee, Orange, and Wellington, would necessitate the building of Court Houses at each of these places. But the Court Houses are not of such pressing importance as the watch-houses, because temporary rooms might be rented at each of these places for holding Courts.

Another circumstance that induces me to suggest a delay, at any rate for some time, arises from the fact that at the present no jury lists for the several places named in the Proclamation have been made and forwarded to the Sheriff pursuant to the Jury Act. It is true that jury lists are in existence for the purposes of the District Courts holden at those several places, but the jury lists for the Courts of Quarter Sessions would include residents in a larger circle. For the District Courts the jury lists only include the names of persons resident within the proclaimed jurisdiction of each Court, whereas the jury lists for the Courts of Quarter Sessions would be taken on a different principle, and might include persons living in three or more Police Districts. For example, the Court of Quarter Sessions to be holden at Orange would include persons living within the circle of 30 miles of that town, and that circle would include the names of some persons resident in the Police Districts of Orange, Carcoar, and Molong; yet the jury for the District Court holden at Orange come entirely from the Police District of Orange. This is the case at Bathurst, and would be the case at Wellington; this difficulty as to the existing jury list also affords an additional argument for the grouping certain of the Police Districts.

By the District Courts Act, each Registrar of each Court is empowered to summon the jury; but for the Courts of Quarter Sessions that duty devolves upon the Sheriff, and that he cannot do at the approaching Court to be holden at Carcoar on the 23rd of August.

At present at neither of the proclaimed towns are there Sheriff's officers to summons the requisite jury, nor indeed Clerks of the Peace, who will have to perform important duties in those Courts.

Whilst upon this portion of my report, I would beg to point out, for the information of the Attorney General, that it would be quite impracticable for Mr. Gore, styled the Clerk of the Peace of the Western Districts, to make the circuit of the District (to the neglect of his more constant duties as Registrar) four times a year.

If the Registrars, where the additional Courts are to be holden, are found competent, I would suggest that they be appointed Clerks of the Peace for their own Courts, some small additional salary being given them for the extra work. It will be found impossible for the bailiffs of the District Courts to serve the summonses upon the jurymen for the Courts of Quarter Sessions, as that duty would clash with their other duties at a time when they are fully occupied. It is possible, however, that the police might perform this duty, and thus save the country some expenditure. Believing it is necessary that the Attorney General should be made acquainted with my views, I have hurriedly written this letter, and I venture to hope, seeing that a Court of Quarter Sessions is proclaimed to be holden at Carcoar on the 23rd of the next month, that I may receive some directions how to act on that occasion.

I have, &c.,

(59-368.)

In transmitting the enclosed copy circular letter addressed to the Benches of Magistrates therein enumerated, and with reference to a subsequent communication requesting information on the subject of prison accommodation at the several places in question, I am directed to invite your immediate attention to the present state of the lock-ups and watch-houses in those towns wherein Quarter Sessions have been ordered to be holden at the several times stated in the enclosed circular. No answers having been received from the different Benches of Magistrates, the Attorney General wishes such additional cells to be built as may be absolutely necessary, in accordance with his recent conversation with you on the subject, and with the least possible delay.

I am desired to invite your attention particularly to the lock-up at Braidwood, which has been the subject of remark in the Sydney Morning Herald of to-day.

Gentlemen,

Adverting to my letter of the 12th instant, communicating to you that the Government had arranged that Courts of General Quarter Sessions shall be holden during the present year, at the several times and places therein stated, I am now directed to request that you will have the goodness to report to this office, at your very earliest convenience, what accommodation there is at present (if any) for the safe custody of prisoners, how many cells, &c., there are now, and what further accommodation will be required for the probable number of prisoners who, judging from past experience, may be expected to be in custody at your township under the late arrangements, in respect of gaols and Quarter Sessions (as already proclaimed and published in the Government Gazette, No. 137, 12th July, 1859), in order that any additional accommodation which may be absolutely required may be at once provided by the Government.

Sydney, 26 July, 1859.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 21st instant, I am directed by the Attorney General to remark, that, in accordance with your own choice, you have been appointed for the present to perform the duties of Crown Prosecutor in the Cumberland and Coast District, but you must, however, understand that the Government do not renounce their right to call upon you to perform similar duties in other districts if required.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY

DISTRICT COURTS AND COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS.

89

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to CLERK OF THE PEACE, BATHURST.

(No. 59-432.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 26 July, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that it has been arranged that you shall proceed or accompany the District Court Judge at the several places at which Quarter Sessions are to be holden within the Western District, and act as Clerk of the Peace. To provide for the duties of Registrar being performed during your absence from Bathurst, it will be necessary that you appoint a Deputy, with the approval of the Judge (under the 33rd section of the District Courts Act of 1858). It seems to the Attorney General that the Clerk of Petty Sessions should be the person to be appointed, as he is at present an officer of the Government, and the additional salary proposed to be given for such Deputy will be £50 (fifty pounds) a year, from the time that such an appointment shall have become necessary.

You will be entitled to be paid by way of travelling expenses, whilst on circuit, an allowance of 30s. per diem.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-439.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 30 July, 1859.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 23rd instant, communicating that you had made a circuit of the Western District, and reporting generally with respect to the means and requirements for carrying out the intentions contained in the recent proclamations in respect of holding Courts of Quarter Sessions at the places therein mentioned, I am directed by the Attorney General to state, that the Government have already arranged with respect to the several matters referred to in your communication of the above date, and intend that all the Courts of Quarter Sessions shall be held this year as proclaimed. It will, the Attorney General thinks, be time enough hereafter to consider what arrangements shall be made for next year.

All the proper measures have already been taken for the summoning of jurors and repairs of watch-houses or lock-ups.

The Attorney General does not apprehend the slightest difficulty will be experienced in holding those Courts, provided the various officers therein engaged co-operate willingly.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-448.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 5 August, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to request that you will have the goodness to procure and forward to this office a statement of all fees which shall have been collected for the purpose of being paid into the Treasury, from the several District Courts within your District, to the 31st of the present month inclusive, as soon after that time as practicable, with a view to enabling the Government to explain same to Parliament when the Estimates shall be under consideration, for the purpose of shewing the revenue derived as against the apparently large expenditure of the District Courts now being established throughout the Colony.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 29th ultimo, I am directed to inform you that the cases referred to by you must be tried in accordance with the places indicated in the recognizances.

2. It will be necessary that you attend at the several places within your District at the several times fixed for holding Courts of Quarter Sessions.

3. You will act in respect of advances for payment of jurors and witnesses as you have heretofore done. A separate credit for each Court of Quarter Sessions does not appear to be necessary.

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

Sydney, 16 August, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to request that you will bring under the consideration of the Attorney General this expression of my opinion upon the following matters:—

I am of opinion that the salaries and allowances of the bailiffs through my district are altogether inadequate for their remuneration, and that the amount of security required from them is unnecessarily high.

Through these causes I have had great difficulty in obtaining the services of competent persons in some places in my district; and, indeed, at one Court, I have been obliged to avail myself at the last moment of the services of a stranger—a man whom I would not have appointed if I could have procured a more eligible person, and who would not have accepted the appointment—as he had informed me—if he had not expected some immediate increase of pay.

As

As the bailiffs at Goulburn, Yass, and Queanbeyan have hitherto worked at [this inferior rate of pay, I would beg to recommend that if the salary or allowances be raised for them and the other bailiffs, the increase to them ought to be granted so as to relate back to the date of their appointment.

I enclose two original papers, which I would beg to have preserved for the Attorney General's perusal.

I have, &c.,
THOMAS CALLAGHAN,
Judge.

[Enclosure No. 1 in preceding letter of 16 August, 1859.]

Queanbeyan, 15 July, 1859.

Sir,

I beg most respectfully to bring under your notice the expenses I was, this sittings of the District Court, put to in endeavoring to discharge the duties of my office as bailiff. On the day after the last for filing plaints, six sets of summonses with three subpoenas were placed in my hands for service, the defendants nearly all residing in opposite directions. To serve all the summonses within the time allowed, myself, would be impossible, and I had to appoint two deputies to assist me, at an expense of £4 10s., independent of the use of a saddle horse furnished to one of the deputies by me. A distance of between 325 and 350 miles were travelled over in discharge of the duty of bailiff, and could not be done by less than three persons in the time. I give you, Sir, hereunder a list of the sums paid by me, and hope your Honor will take the matter into consideration.

Sir,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, representing the inadequacy of salary and allowances to the bailiffs of the District Courts in your district, I am directed to state that the question of additional remuneration to the District Courts' Bailiffs has been for some time under the consideration of the Government, and a measure is being framed to meet the defects pointed out. The question as to the rate of security will be duly considered.

H. CLARKE, Esq., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 22 August, 1859.

Sir,

By the request of several residents of the Police District of Eden, I beg to enclose a Memorial, requesting that the Township of Panbula may be proclaimed a place wherein District Courts may be held, on the grounds of being more central than Eden, where they are now held. Hoping you will accede to the wishes of Memorialists.

I am, &c.,
HENRY CLARKE.

[Enclosure in preceding letter of 22 August, 1859.]

Police District of Eden, County of Auckland,
16 July, 1859.

Sir,

We, the Inhabitants of the above district and county, containing the towns of Panbula, and Bega, and Eden, and Merimbula, and Wyndham, hereby respectfully solicit that you will cause that a sum of not less than £2,000 be placed on the Estimates, for the erection of buildings at Panbula, suitable to the holding District Courts therein, and that you will cause District Courts to be held at Panbula, in preference to said Court being holden at Eden.

We make this Petition on the following grounds:—

That there is at Panbula a Court Room and Lock-up rudely built of slabs, and quite insufficient for the requirements of the station, and unfitted for the holding District Courts thereat.

That Panbula is the most populous and central town in this district, and is consequently the most proper station for holding said Court.

That Panbula is the most central town in this district is to be proved by the fact that 14 miles to the south from Panbula lies Eden, and 24 miles to the north from Panbula is situated Bega, and east and west from Panbula are placed the shipping port and town of Merimbula, and the town of Wyndham, respectively distant 4 miles and 16 miles from said town of Panbula.

That Eden and surrounding locality is of less importance than that of Bega or Panbula, as regards the numerical resident population, may be gathered from statistical evidence at the recent closely contested election for a candidate to Legislative honors on 23rd June ultimo, on which occasion there were 150 electors polled at Bega, and 112 at Panbula, and only 71 at Eden.

That Panbula being the most central station in this district, it is the most accessible to the general community of said district, and is consequently the most proper station in the county of Auckland for the holding of District Courts.

We have, &c.,

SIR, In reply to your letter of the 17th instant, I am directed to state, with reference to your remarks in respect of the salary to be allowed you as Clerk of the Peace for the Police District of Berrima, that the sum mentioned in the communication to you of the 12th of the present month is the only rate the Government are prepared to offer. With respect to the preparation of indictments, and other matters devolving upon the Clerk of the Peace of the District, you will take your instructions from the Crown Prosecutor.

SIR, In reference to the Proclamation which appeared in the Government Gazette, No. 137, of 12th July last, declaring certain watch-houses or lock-ups to be gaols within the meaning of the Act, I am directed by the Attorney General to state that it is not the intention of the Government that the sentences which may be passed upon prisoners who may hereafter be convicted before you of any offence at any of the several places therein stated shall be carried out, as there is not suitable accommodation for that purpose, and those lock-ups or gaols are intended merely as places for temporary confinement. The Government desire, therefore, that the prisoners immediately after conviction may be forwarded to the nearest of the gaols formerly proclaimed, in order that the respective sentences may be carried into effect, or that they may be detained in safe custody until otherwise disposed of in due course of law.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT.

(No. 59-538.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 2 September, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th ultimo, wherein you request to be informed whether it is the intention of the Government to proclaim Wellington as a place within the Western District for holding Courts of Quarter Sessions and District Courts during the year 1860. I am desirous to state in reply thereto, that the Government desire that Courts of Quarter Sessions and District Courts may be held at Wellington during the ensuing year.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF WESTERN DISTRICT COURT to SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS.

(No. 59-176.)

*Bathurst,
9 September, 1859.*

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, under date the 2nd instant, intimating that the Government desire that Courts of Quarter Sessions and District Courts should be holden at Wellington. I would beg to remind the Attorney General that it will be necessary to proclaim Wellington as a place for holding Courts of Quarter Sessions and District Courts before those Courts can be holden there. It may be in the knowledge of the Attorney General that the civil cases arising in the Police District of Wellington are now heard at the District Court holden at Molong; and by the 3rd section of the District Courts Act no alteration in the boundary or limits of the District of that Court can take effect until after three months from the notification in the Government Gazette.

I will be passing through Wellington about the first or second week in January next, and if the necessary proclamations were made at once, I could hold those Courts at that place at that time. I would suggest that another proclamation should issue, defining the limits of the proposed Wellington District Court, which will include only the Police District of Wellington. The same proclamation that alters the now limits of the District Court of Molong could limit its future jurisdiction to the Police District of Molong.

The creating a new Court to be holden at Wellington will necessitate the appointment of a Registrar and Bailiff.

Presuming the necessary proclamation will be made at once, I shall, when preparing my Calendar for the year 1860, set apart days in the month of January for holding Courts at Wellington.

I have, &c.,
JAMES S. DOWLING,
District Judge.

(No. 59-53.)

*Sheriff's Office,

SIR,

With reference to the proclamation of His Excellency the Governor General dated 11th July ultimo, and published in the Government Gazette of Tuesday, 12th of July, notifying the watch-houses at certain places named therein to be public gaols, I have the honor to suggest that, in order to meet legal difficulties, it is necessary that the keepers of the said watch-houses should be appointed by me as acting gaolers under the Gaol Act, and published published as such in the Government Gazette, and that they should resign their situations as constables, but that they should receive pay as usual from the same fund as at present, until a vote is obtained from the Legislature to meet this expenditure. I beg further to suggest that this may be met by transferring on the Estimates the amount set down for payment of salaries of watchhouse-keepers to the vote for gaols.

I have, &c.,

Sheriff.

GENTLEMEN,

The watch-house at ——— having been proclaimed to be a gaol under the Gaol Act, I have the honor to request that you will inform me whether, in the event of the watchhouse-keeper being appointed gaoler (which will entail the necessity of his not being taken away to perform police duties), it would interfere with your police arrangements.

I also beg that you will favor me with your opinion of the fitness of the watchhouse-keeper to perform the duties of gaoler, and also his name and general character.

This latter you can make the subject of a private communication should you so wish.

Sheriff's Office,
Sydney, 14 September, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you that, in consequence of a conversation which I have had with the Honorable the Attorney General, I have written to the Bench of Magistrates at each of the twenty-seven places where the watch-houses have been proclaimed to be gaols, requesting to be informed whether the watchhouse-keepers at the places named in His Excellency's proclamation can be exempted from performing the duties of police constables, as it is essential that, as gaolers, they should be unencumbered by any extra duty; and I would beg to suggest that at such places as the police duties cannot be dispensed with, I should receive an authority to appoint gaolers, and that a sum be placed on the Estimates for the salaries of these officers.

2. I shall furnish you with a list of the places where it will be necessary to make new appointments as gaolers as soon as I receive replies from the various Benches of Magistrates to whom I have written.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th instant, and, in reply, beg to inform you that the lockup-keeper at Hartley is a person who I can recommend as a fit person to hold the situation of gaoler here, and I can manage to carry on the duties without sending him from the place.

His name is John Callaghan.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, YASS, to SHERIFF.

(No. 59-2.)

Police Office, Yass,
15 September, 1859.

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 9th instant, relative to the watch-house at Yass having been proclaimed to be a gaol under the Gaol Act, and requesting our opinion of the fitness of the watchhouse-keeper to perform the duties of gaoler, and also his name and general character,—

2. We do ourselves the honor to inform you the name of the watchhouse-keeper is Martin Doyle, that he is a very steady, well-behaved, and strictly temperate man; and, in our opinion, he is fit to discharge the duties of gaoler.

3. We further beg to say his appointment to the before-named office would not interfere with our police arrangements, except that the Yass police force must be increased by one man to fill the vacancy caused by his appointment.

We have, &c.,
(for the Bench.)
I. M. BLAKE, J.P.

POLICE MAGISTRATE, ALBURY, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Albury,
17 September, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th instant, and, in reply, beg to state that the office of watchhouse-keeper is performed by roster, on which each member of the force takes his turn of duty. I have no man on the establishment that I consider fit for the situation of gaoler. Moreover, I deem it inexpedient that a gaoler should be appointed until a suitable building is erected; for drunkards, offenders under summonses, convictions, and prisoners waiting trial on indictable offences are all confined in the same ward, and it now requires two men—night and day—to be in constant attendance on the gaol in order to prevent mishaps. I have represented to the Attorney General (copy enclosed) and the Inspector General of Police, in the strongest terms, the indispensable necessity that exists for the erection of a gaol at once, but beyond the selection of a site for one I am not aware that any other steps have been taken to carry out the object. I should be glad if you would move in the matter.

I have, &c.,
HEYWARD ATKINS,
Police Magistrate.

[Enclosure in preceding letter of 17 September, 1859.]

Police Office, Albury,
11 July, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, and, in reply, beg to state there is no accommodation suitable for the safe custody of prisoners waiting trial for Court of General Quarter Sessions, and it will be necessary to erect a building for that purpose.

There is a lock-up with two small cells (male and female), barely adequate for the custody of prisoners for disposal under summary jurisdiction; it has no yard for exercise, and is incapable of extension. I wrote on the subject of the erection of a gaol some time back to the Inspector General of Police, and I herewith enclose you a copy of my letter which contains my views on prison requirements at this place, and you will, I trust, see the imperative necessity for the erection of a gaol here, as the escort of prisoners under sentence to Goulburn, a distance of 270 miles, is obviously injudicious.

Until proper arrangements are therefore made for the custody of prisoners, their committal for trial at Albury cannot safely be carried into effect; but as I apprehend that a building large enough to contain twenty males and six females, with an exercise yard, would be sufficient to meet the wants of prisoners awaiting trial, I would, in the event of such building being at once commenced, undertake to keep the prisoners in the lock-up till the former were completed.

I have, &c.,
HEYWARD ATKINS,
Police Magistrate.

The Attorney General.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MURRURUNDI, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Murrurundi,
17 September, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 10th instant, No. 59-523, we do ourselves the honor to state, that, as the police force stationed here is hardly sufficient for the duties of the district, the appointment of the present watchhouse-keeper as gaoler, and the consequent cessation of his duties as a constable, would greatly interfere with the efficiency of the force; we would, however, beg leave to recommend the appointment of the present watchhouse-keeper, Charles Thorpe, to the office of gaoler, as he is highly eligible for the duties of the situation, being a person of good character and possessing a fair education.

We would also desire to point out the urgent necessity of filling up the vacancy in the constabulary here, in the event of Thorpe's appointment to the above-named office.

We have, &c.,

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, SCONE, to SHERIFF.

(No. 59-74.)

Police Office, Scone,
17 September, 1859.

SIR,

We do ourselves the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th instant, requesting to be informed if the constable in charge of the lock-up at Scone could, without inconvenience to the public service, be withdrawn from duty as an ordinary constable, and be permanently appointed gaoler under the Gaol Act.

In reply, we beg to state, that it is the opinion of the Bench such a course could not be adopted without rendering the police force stationed here inadequate at times to the duty devolving upon it. The force consists of a chief and three ordinary constables; the district is a large one, and their time, generally speaking, is fully occupied in escorting prisoners, serving writs, and in the performance of other duties attendant upon affording police protection to a rapidly increasing population.

We have, &c.,
(for the Bench,)
JAMES SMITH, P.M.

CLERK OF PETTY SESSIONS, MUSWELLBROOK, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Muswellbrook,
19 September, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor, by direction of the Bench of Magistrates, to state, in reply to your letter of the 10th instant, 59-523, that the name of the present lockup-keeper is Henry Parkinson, that his character is excellent, and indeed irreproachable, and they strongly and unanimously recommend him as a very fitting and most worthy person to be appointed as gaoler here.

I am, however, directed to observe, that in the event of Parkinson's appointment it will interfere very much with the police arrangements of the district, and will entail the necessity of another constable being appointed to supply his place.

I have, &c.,
JOHN O'MEARA, C.P.S.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MUDGEES, to SHERIFF.

(No. 59-145.)

Police Office, Mudgee,
19 September, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 12th instant, we do ourselves the honor to inform you, that in the event of the watchhouse-keeper at this place being appointed gaoler, it would not interfere with our police arrangements.

2. We beg to acquaint you that we are satisfied that Norman McBeath, the present watchhouse-keeper, who bears an excellent character, is qualified to perform the duties of gaoler.

3. We take this opportunity of drawing your attention to the circumstance of the watchhouse-keeper's wife having hitherto discharged the duties of female searcher, &c., without any remuneration, and of recommending her as deserving of any emolument that may accrue from the appointment of her husband as gaoler.

4. We need hardly observe that, should a gaol be built here (which is much required), it will be necessary to appoint one or more turnkeys.

We have, &c.,
(for the Bench,)
J. DIGBY MILLER,
Police Magistrate.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, PORT MACQUARIE, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Port Macquarie,
19 September, 1859.

SIR,

Referring to your letter of 12th instant, relative to the appointment of a gaoler at this place, we have the honor to inform you that on making known to the watchhouse-keeper here the probability of your appointing him to the situation of gaoler at Port Macquarie, he solicited us to inform him of the amount of salary attached to the office, and whether the new appointment would cancel his claim on the Police Superannuation Fund. This to him is a consideration of some importance, he having been 12 years in the service. We, therefore, in reference to the last paragraph of your letter now under reply, are induced to apply for this information, inasmuch as Mr. Taylor has a wife and three children dependent on him, and, moreover, is an officer deserving of every consideration; and we trust that our doing doing so will not in any way militate against his having the offer of the appointment, for we feel assured that a more intelligent and eligible person for the office in question could not be selected; and we may add that his appointment would be highly satisfactory to the public

We have, &c.,
J. H. CRUMMER, P.M.
W. H. FREEMAN, J.P.

P.S.—We have every reason to believe that the appointment in question would not in any way interfere with the police arrangements here.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, CAMPBELLTOWN, to SHERIFF.

(59.)

Police Office, Campbelltown,
20 September, 1859.

SIR,

We have the honor, in reply to your letter of the 13th instant (respecting the watch-house at Campbelltown having been proclaimed to be a gaol under the Gaol Act, and, also, in the event of the watchhouse-keeper being appointed gaoler, whether it would interfere with the police arrangements), to state, that should the present lockup-keeper be appointed gaoler, it would materially interfere with the police duties, thereby depriving the police force of the services of an ordinary constable, as the lockup-keeper has hitherto performed the duties of an ordinary constable, excepting where a prisoner has been confined under a warrant.

We further beg to state that the present lockup-keeper, James O'Keefe, was appointed, on the 17th of the present month, from the B division of the Metropolitan Police, and, as far as we are able to judge, appears to be a fit and proper person; he is a married man.

We have, &c.,
JOHN BRAY, J.P.
WILLIAM BELL, J.P.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MOLONG, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Molong,
20 September, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to your communication of the 12th instant, we have the honor to report that constable Edwards, at present in charge of the watch-house of this police office, is a very competent officer, who brought high certificates of character as a non-commissioned officer of the 85th regiment, and is very suitable for the position of gaoler, and has our strong recommendation as such.

When the services of the gaoler may be required for that duty exclusively, we would submit that the police force of this extensive district will not be able to sustain the loss of a constable entirely, as at present, in addition to his duty as watchhouse-keeper, Edwards is frequently employed on active duty in the bush under the chief constable.

We have, &c.,
ROBT. J. BARTON, J.P.
JOHN SMITH, J.P.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, ORANGE, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Orange,
20 September, 1859.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 13th instant, No. 59-523, we have the honor to inform you that we do not see any impediment to the arrangement proposed by you—at all events for a time.

2. We conceive that the present watchhouse-keeper, James Dixon, is a fit and proper person to be intrusted with the duties of gaoler at Orange.

3. This communication cannot leave us without calling your early and serious consideration to insecure and insufficient accommodation of the existing building to the purposes of a gaol where prisoners may be confined for a lengthened period awaiting trial, particularly as the warm season is now fast approaching.

4. For the sake of the confines' health we must press this matter on your attention.

SIR,

We do ourselves the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 13th instant, requesting our opinion relative to the necessity of appointing another constable in the place of the present watchhouse-keeper; also as to the fitness of the individual alluded to, in the event of his being appointed gaoler.

2. To the first interrogatory, we beg to state the absolute necessity of another constable being appointed to the Windsor police force; to the second, we beg to express our opinion of the fitness of the appointment of the present watchhouse-keeper, William Phillips, to the office of gaoler, he having been fourteen years in the Police Force, and has always conducted himself to the satisfaction of the Bench of Magistrates.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, DUBBO, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Dubbo,
21 September, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter (59-523), dated 12th instant, asking the opinion of the Bench as to the propriety of appointing the present lockup-keeper here as gaoler at Dubbo.

The lockup-keeper's name is James Samuels; he is a man of irreproachable character, and one whom I can recommend with safety as fit for the office in question.

I have, &amp;c.,

(on behalf of Bench,)

ALEXDR. CRUICKSHANK.

P.S.—Our police force at present is very small and imperfect; the Bench have requested of the Representative for this District to have the number increased.

CLERK OF PETTY SESSIONS, MUSWELLBROOK, to SHERIFF.

Police Office, Muswellbrook,
22 September, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to state the reply forwarded to you on the 19th instant, in answer to yours of the 10th (59-523), was intended to be signed by one of the magistrates, on the part of the Bench; but the particular magistrate referred to having left the Court before the reply was ready, I inadvertently sent it as though coming from myself. It is however to all intents and purposes the Benches reply, but deem it only fair to give this explanation of the matter.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, WOLLONGONG, to SHERIFF.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 13th instant (59-523), respecting the appointment of the watchhouse-keeper at this place as gaoler, we have the honor to inform you, that we can recommend the watchhouse-keeper, George Kennedy, as a fit person to perform the duties of gaoler.

In the event of his being appointed to that office, the Bench is of opinion that unless another constable is appointed by them in his place, the police of this district will be found insufficient.

SIR,

In reply to your letter, dated the 13th instant, No. 59-523, we have the honor to inform you that we are of opinion the appointing the watchhouse-keeper to be gaoler would be an interference with his duties as a policeman, which we could not sanction, though we have no objection to such appointment until you can select a gaoler.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, EDEN, to SHERIFF.

(No. 59-98.)

*Police Office, Eden,
23 September, 1859.*

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 9th instant, requesting us to inform you whether, in the event of the watchhouse-keeper at Eden being appointed gaoler, it would interfere with our police arrangements, we do ourselves the honor to inform you that we have at this station only one man, and though he generally has charge of the lock-up, we are frequently obliged to send him on ordinary police duty, so that he could not act as gaoler in conjunction with his present situation.

The Customs boat's crew are now employed by us on ordinary police duty, but when one of these men happens to be away from the township the lockup-keeper has to go into the boat when required by the Sub-Collector. If possible, we would not put the Government to the expense of an additional man, but under present circumstances we see no alternative. Mr. Murray applied to the Sub-Collector for his report as to whether he could perform his duty with three men instead of four, but he states that he will expect to have a full crew at his command when he requires such. This inquiry was made with a view of appointing one of the crew an ordinary constable, and advising you to give the situation of gaoler to the present lockup-keeper.

Should you appoint a gaoler, and not send one from Sydney, it may save time by our giving the name of a party whom we consider a very fit man for the office; we therefore note Robert Turbot his name on the margin.

We have, &c.,
P. J. MURRAY, P.M.
GEO. BARKLEY, J.P.

POLICE MAGISTRATE, GUNDAGAI, to SHERIFF.

(No. 59-57.)

*Police Office, Gundagai,
23 September, 1859.*

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th instant, in which you request to be informed whether the watchhouse-keeper at this place is a fit person to be appointed gaoler, and whether his appointment to that office, involving as it must his release from police duties, would interfere with the arrangements of this establishment.

With regard to the watchhouse-keeper's fitness for the situation in question, I beg to state that my short residence here will hardly allow me to offer a decided opinion on the subject, at least one based on my own observation, but to judge from what I have seen of him, I can safely say that he appears to possess all the qualifications requisite for the office, and I am assured by the chief constable that he is intelligent, steady, and active, and in every respect a very efficient officer.

His release from the duties of the constabulary would occasion much inconvenience, unless either an additional constable were placed on the establishment, or arrangements can be made for the mounted patrol stationed at this place and at Jugiong to escort prisoners; to the latter I cannot see the slightest objection, indeed I am surprised that the duty has not been already imposed on them.

If this suggestion can be carried out no addition need be made to our police force, in the event of the watchhouse-keeper being appointed gaoler, as a constable can then be spared from the escort station at Jugiong, 26 miles distant from this place, to supply the vacancy thus created.

The watchhouse-keeper's name is William Hodge.

I have, &c.,

POLICE MAGISTRATE, CARCOAR, to SHERIFF.

(No. 59-83.)

*Police Office, Carcoar,

SIR,

In reply to yours of the 12th instant, No. 59-523, I have the honor to state that if a good constable was appointed gaoler and watchhouse-keeper it would not interfere with my arrangements.

The present watchhouse-keeper, Henry Fox, I certainly cannot conscientiously recommend as a gaoler.

I have one constable, the lockup-keeper at Cowra, called James Cleghorn, in every respect fit to be gaoler; he was sent up to me lately by the Inspector General of Police to take charge of the Carcoar lock-up (the Inspector General must have acted under the idea that it was vacant instead of Cowra); he has been many years in the army, writes a good hand, has a wife fit to act as matron, has been in the police in Tasmania and Victoria, and some time turnkey at Parramatta, and I have every confidence in him, and he is the only man in my force that I can recommend.

I have, &c.,
OWEN C. BEARDMORE, P.M.

P.S. I expect to be in Sydney in a few days, and shall make it my business to call at your office.—O. C. B.

SIR,

I had the honor to receive your letter of the 5th August, requesting an account of all Fees received, collected for the purpose of being paid into the Treasury, but delayed writing until my return from holding my second Courts, as far up the country as Murrurundi.

2. I subjoin a statement of the number of cases tried in the several Courts specified, together with the amount of Fees received by the Registrars, which Fees are now, I believe, as directed by me, forwarded monthly to the Treasury.

3. It will be observed I have only up to this time been able to hold one Court at Tamworth and one at Armidale; and I have some reason to believe that next Sessions, at these respective places, will shew an increase of cases.

4. I hold District Courts next month, October, for the first time at Port Macquarie and Grafton.

5. Of the money placed to my credit by the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer for the purpose of the expenditure of the Courts in salaries and contingent expenses, I have reason to expect a considerable sum will remain undisposed of at the end of the year to the credit of the Treasury.

6. I cannot too strongly impress upon the Government the urgent necessity of a revision of the salaries and fees allowed to the bailiffs of the respective Courts. They are at present inadequate, and without increase I have no doubt will be obliged to resign; several of them at present only hold their appointments at my request until the decision of the Government can be known.

7. I propose to do myself the honor to attend at your office in the course of a few days, previous to my embarkation for Port Macquarie and Grafton, when I shall have the opportunity of offering some suggestions as to the places of holding Courts in the ensuing year, for until they are finally decided upon I cannot fix the days of holding the Courts for the year 1860.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

East Maitland,
22 September, 1859.

SIR,

I had the honor to receive this morning your letter of the 15th instant, asking as to what arrangements I proposed making for holding in my district Courts of Quarter Sessions for the ensuing year.

2. I may venture to presume that the late vote of the Legislative Assembly will so far modify the places of holding these Courts, until the Government have reconsidered the late arrangements. But besides that point, I shall require to know definitively at what places I may be required to hold District Courts in addition to those of the present year.

3. In the postscript of your letter you state provision is placed on the Estimates for Registrars, &c., at Dungog, Raymond Terrace, Newcastle, and Wingham. Until these are definitively fixed, it is obvious I cannot fix for next year the days of holding my several Courts.

4. I believe I shall be able to shew you that this proposal of four new Courts may be conveniently altered. By the rough diagram on the other half-sheet it will be seen that Clarence Town will be preferable to Dungog in the great point of economy of time, and in other respects.

5. I may here also repeat the remark I have made in previous communications, that one Judge cannot hold Courts quarterly in all the places named.

6. This, however, will be more advantageously discussed when I have the honor to wait upon you in a few days, and prior to my embarkation for Port Macquarie and Grafton.

I have, &amp;c.,

ROB. OWEN,

JUDGE

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ———.

Monday Evening,
26 September, 1859.

MY DEAR SIR,

I have been trying, a great part of this evening, to appoint days of holding my Courts, so as to embrace the whole proposed to be held; but having regard to the necessity of holding the most important Courts—Civil and Criminal—at Maitland four times in the year, I do not find it possible to meet all the engagements, and I write thus early that your Government may advise on what is best to be done. The Courts, as now proposed, are 14 in number, including the distant points of Tamworth, Armidale, Grafton, Port Macquarie, and Wingham—at nine there are to be held Criminal Sessions. The difficulty is, of ending the Circuits so as to bring me always to Maitland on the Quarter Sessions' days in February, May, August, and November.

I can make my appointments very well up to the 12th April, 1860, at Murrurundi; but from thence, returning to Newcastle and Maitland to hold the Quarter Sessions and Civil Courts in both places in May, I am quite unable to carry them further, so as to serve all the places required.

In making my unavailing calculations I have had due regard to holding Courts only twice in the year at Paterson, Clarence Town, Wingham, Singleton, Muswellbrook, Scone, Murrurundi, Tamworth, Armidale, Port Macquarie, and Grafton—in all 11 places.

Could Parliament be induced to divide the district, Courts might be held at all the places four times in the year, at very little expense more than the Judge's salary.

The money now applicable to my district would more than pay all the additional expenses, by a considerable sum.

I do not write this note as an official note, but more in the nature of private suggestions for your consideration.

I shall be in Wollongong till next Monday, and on Tuesday I can wait upon you and endeavor to give all further explanation.

Could another Judge be appointed, in dividing the district a Court might be advantageously appointed for Tenterfield, and, perhaps, some other leading point.

I am, &c.,
ROB. OWEN.

JUDGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

(Immediate.)

Sydney, 27 September, 1859.

SIR,

In the report of the proceedings of the Assembly in the Herald of the 16th instant, you are stated to have said in answer to questions of Mr. Hay on the subject, "that the Government did all they could after the days for the holding of Courts in certain places in the Southern District were fixed, as well as previously, for the purpose of having District Courts held in those places sooner than they were afterwards appointed to be held; but in consequence of intimations made by Mr. Callaghan, they thought fit to accede to his request."

If you have made such a statement to the Assembly, you will permit me to say that I protest against its accuracy or justice in throwing upon me the whole responsibility of delaying the holding of Courts in the remote places of my district; and in asserting "that the Government did all they could after the days for the holding of these Courts was fixed, as well as previously, for the purpose of having District Courts held there sooner than they were afterwards appointed to be held."

According to the District Courts Act, before I could fix the times for the holding of any Courts, the Government should have appointed the intervals within which such Courts were to be held.

It was on the 19th of March, that, in the Chief Secretary's Office, in your presence, I was invited by him to suggest to the Government the intervals for the holding of my Courts.

That was the first time in which I was ever consulted by any member of the Government about anything connected with the District Courts Act.

On that occasion, you informed me that nothing had been done up to that time by the Government towards preparing Jury Lists in my district.

Within a week after that date, I suggested in writing to your Secretary the intervals that I would recommend.

These intervals were gazetted by you on the 22nd of April, and on the 26th of that month I gazetted the times that I appointed in accordance with them; and on the 27th I wrote you a letter fully explaining the times I had fixed, and the reasons why I had so fixed them.

It was a letter that I thought would in every respect attract your attention.

It was more than a month after this letter was received, and as I presume perused by you, that, understanding you objected to some of the times I had fixed, I myself sought an opportunity of speaking with you on the subject.

I then discussed it with you, and explained everything about my views to you, and without hesitation I promised to consider, with every respect, whatever proposal the Government might make to me for altering these times according to their desire.

I

I waited for a time in suspense, but no such proposal was ever afterwards made to me by you or the Government, though another proposal about holding a Court of Quarter Sessions at Albury was made to me by you, by your letter of the 30th of May, as you said, at the desire of the whole Cabinet, and although I immediately expressed to you my willingness to carry out that proposal it was in about a month subsequently abandoned by you, after I had been left for that period in great suspense about it.

In the last session of the Assembly the Chief Secretary was reported to have stated to the Assembly—no doubt as he was then through some extraordinary inadvertence advised—in answer to a question upon notice, that the first District Court Judges did not remonstrate with the then Attorney General against the publication of the first set of rules for the District Courts, and yet, in fact, they did so remonstrate, and in writing under each of their hands, and that remonstrance was personally presented to the Attorney General by one of them; for reasons with which I need not now trouble you I have hitherto allowed that inaccurate statement to pass uncontradicted, but I feel that this matter bears so much upon me, personally, that I am called upon to request of you to put this explanation, on my behalf, at your earliest convenience, before the Government and the Assembly.

I have, &c.,
THOMAS CALLAGHAN,
Judge.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT COURT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Australian Club,
Sydney, 28 September, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to enclose, for your consideration, a plan of appointments for holding District Courts in my District for the year 1860.

It will be seen that there is an amount of labor, mainly on account of distance, which renders it doubtful whether one Judge can uninterruptedly perform the whole.

It is impossible that one person can hold many of the Courts, even in important places, quarterly, which I think ought to be done wherever Criminal Sessions are to be held.

Wingham, one of the places added by you, situate on the River Manning, is, I understand, very difficult of access; the road only being travelling by horse, not carriage.

According to present arrangements, many places can only have Courts twice in the year. To cover the ground, my travelling expenses for 1860 will necessarily exceed considerably those of the present year, particularly as I find travelling by the mails most objectionable.

Should the Government, with the consent of Parliament, be disposed to divide the district, I think the several Courts might be held quarterly, and one or two places possibly added.

You will see that I have appended some notes to the scheme as to the boundaries of the respective districts affected by the changes proposed; but, as my local knowledge of the country is not very perfect, it might be desirable to consult Mr. McLean of the Survey Office, who assisted me in the first instance.

The plan now laid before you can easily be adapted to any change which might take place in dividing the district between two Judges.

In suggesting such division, I am not actuated by any personal motives of ease, for I have a sincere desire to carry out the wishes of the Government; but a glance will shew any one that the extent of the country included in the Northern District, the number of Courts, and the casualties of travelling, rivers, &c., will render interruptions not unlikely.

I proceed to Port Macquarie on the 7th instant, Friday week, and will wait upon you a day or two before my departure, to consult with you on any point which may be requisite.

I have, &c.,
ROBT. OWEN.

SIR,

The Cowper Ministry, when in office, promised publicly in the Assembly that Dungog should be proclaimed a place where District Courts should be held; and that such Court should be brought into operation in January next ensuing.

A promise was likewise made that the Police District of Stroud should in the proclamation be annexed to that of Dungog, instead of East Maitland, for the purpose of all District Court business emanating from the former district being adjudicated at the latter.

I respectfully submit the necessity of at once taking steps to have Dungog proclaimed a place where District Courts should be held.

Great dissatisfaction at present prevails, in consequence of an Electorate comprising two shipping ports, seven mills, and nearly 1,000 electors, should be actually without a single District Court being held in it up to the present time.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

JUDGE OF NORTHERN DISTRICT to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

*East Maitland,
21 November, 1859.*

SIR,

In conformity with the wishes of the Government, communicated to me through Mr. Forster, Crown Prosecutor, I have prepared a Schedule of Appointments for Courts in the Northern District, including Port Macquarie.

2. The time of this last-mentioned Court is fixed upon the assumption that the steam packet arrangements continue the same as at present.

3. I have only been able to include Port Macquarie by leaving out Paterson; this, I fear, will be most unsatisfactory to the people of that neighborhood and Dungog, and will cause much clamor.

4. Paterson and Dungog being thrown into East Maitland will cause heavier pressure on the East Maitland Courts; and the sittings at the latter place having left old remanets and 66 new causes not touched, an arrear will be created difficult to subdue.

5. It will be obvious to your experience that the appointments as they stand on my schedule shew a dangerous proximity, which allows no time for casualties or interruptions of any kind being obviated or cured, no time for rest to the Judge, and an incorrect mingling of time for District and Quarter Sessions Courts, so as to disable suitors from obtaining professional assistance.

6. I would beg your observation in the large amount of time required for the Port Macquarie Courts.

I have, &c.,

At a Public Meeting of the Inhabitants of Dungog, held at the Court House, Dungog, this evening, Wednesday, 21st December, 1859, at 7 o'clock, the following Resolutions were unanimously carried, viz.:—

1. That this Meeting, while taking into account the multiplicity of subjects pressing upon the attention of the Government, and while making, moreover, all allowance for hindrances to action that the Executive have been subjected to, in consequence of Ministerial changes, cannot but express regret and surprise at the delay manifested in proclaiming Dungog as one of the places in which District Courts shall be held.

DISTRICT COURT JUDGE CARY.

(REMARKS IN REFERENCE TO HIS SON PRACTISING IN HIS FATHER'S COURT.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 4 May, 1860.

DISTRICT COURT JUDGE CARY to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Liverpool,

3 May, 1860.

SIR,

I have long borne with patience indirect attacks on my character as District Judge, to which expression has been freely given both in the Legislature and by the Public Press. I have hitherto thought it incumbent on me to leave such attacks unnoticed, and to allow my own conduct, as an Administrator of Justice, to vindicate my character. But now, seeing that a Bill is brought into the House of Assembly, which is obviously grounded on my supposed liability to undue influence, I think it right to trouble you with some remarks on the subject.

A Bill is brought forward to prevent a son practising in a District Court of which his father is Judge; this is not an attack on the son, but on the father, whose judgment must be supposed to be biased in his son's favor.

With regard to the general conclusion involved in such a supposition, I say that, on principle, the practice of a son acting as an Advocate in his father's Court is allowed in and common to both this and the Mother Country. In the Supreme Court we have one son of the Chief Justice practising as an Attorney, and another as Barrister, the latter commonly retained by the former. We have also one son of the Equity Judge practising as Solicitor, and another son as Barrister in the same Court, and commonly retained by his brother. When the same Judge was appointed, not as District Judge, but as Judge of a separate District—Moreton Bay—the Barrister accompanied him, and no remark was made. Again, a son of a District Judge (Mr. Owen) has recently removed from Wollongong, where he had a large established practice, and has settled at Singleton, within his father's District, and no objection is made, though he is intitled to practice in his father's Court as Barrister as well as Attorney, and is at liberty to follow his father round his Circuit. For English precedents, it may suffice to mention that of Vice-Chancellor Bradwell's son, who, when several Equity Courts were open to him, chose to practice in his father's Court, and that of the late Chief Justice Sir John Jervis, who, when his father was appointed Judge in the Welch Circuit, followed that Circuit. A similar practice has prevailed in Scotland.

I think I may conclude, therefore, that the fault is not in the principle, if usage is to determine the question, but in my own peculiar liability to corrupt influence.

Before I deal with this part of the question I think it well to state what the fact is. That a son derives some benefit from his father's position is undeniable in all social relations. But in order that you and others, if necessary, may know the extent of the influence in my son's instance, I have carefully analyzed my notes for one year, ending on the 31st March last, and trouble you with the result in every Court within my District. I subjoin the number of cases in the list of each Court, the number of Advocates, and the share my son has had in the fruits :—

Place.	Cases.	Briefs.	Mr. Cary employed.

Pictou ... ..	63	21	4
Windsor ... ..	457	71	0
Wollongong ... ..	47	34	10
	1,727	422	77

In support of this statement I am willing to place my notes in the hands of any person whom you may select; they were, of course, not made with a view to any such ordeal.

An examination of the above tabular statement will shew that near Sydney, e. g., Parramatta, Penrith, Windsor, where competition is to be expected, my son has had but little to do, and that he has only had a moderate average of business where such competition has been wanting.

And now as to the question of corrupt influence. I should not have noticed this, in the absence of a specific charge, had you not recently told me yourself, in the presence of the Attorney General, that Mr. Macarthur stated to you that at Camden suitors were so dissatisfied with my son's presence that they considered their cases as lost if he was retained against them.

In answer to that, and thereby I trust to the general charge of corruption, I trouble you with the result of the last Court at Camden. At that place my son's average of briefs was larger than usual. I take the last Court only, in which he had nine briefs, and Mr. Meymott nine. Mr. Forbes, I believe, was also present; no other member of the profession.

Of the nine briefs held by my son, five were for the same plaintiff,—

Brand v. Hargog.
 " v. Ward.
 " v. Wheeler.
 " v. Eglinton.
 " v. Breathes.

In the first three the plaintiff was not in Court when they were called on, and they were struck out; he afterwards appeared, and my son applied to have them restored to the list—which I refused; and his client will have to pay the defendant's costs of the day.

The fourth case was likewise struck out, on Mr. Meymott's motion, as libellous; the plaintiff having to pay costs.

In the fifth case the plaintiff obtained a verdict. The action was trover for a horse, which the plaintiff swore he had bred, reared, and lost; in defence, the defendant, who had no Counsel, produced Mr. Macarthur's receipt on the sale of the horse, which I rejected as inadmissible, and decided in the plaintiff's favor.

After the trial Mr. Macarthur came into Court with Mr. Meymott, and applied for a new trial, offering to swear that he had bred the horse, and sold it to the defendant or the person person from whom he purchased. The rule of the Superior Courts is not to grant a new trial where a party has failed to produce evidence which he ought to have produced, unless it is afterwards discovered. I, nevertheless, did grant it, against the interest of my son's client; because the defendant had not had professional advice, and could not be supposed to know the technicalities of evidence. Mr. Macarthur was doubtless annoyed at finding that his written receipt was not accepted as sworn testimony, especially in a case in which he must ultimately suffer, if the horse had never been his.

In the 6th case, Risley v. Anderson, the parties assented to a compromise at my suggestion, Mr. Meymott representing the defendant.

In the 7th case, Shealy v. Maclean, title to land was in question, and consequently I had no jurisdiction. No order was made.

In the 8th case the plaintiff, for whom my son appeared, claimed £24 for goods sold, and recovered £9.

The last case was adjourned. So that in fact out of the nine cases my son recovered two verdicts, and in one of these a new trial is granted.

I have only to add, that in the above and all other cases I invite inquiry, and trust that I shall have to meet specific not general charges. If any one case of corrupt or undue influence can be substantiated I am unfit for the office I hold. Nor would my son's absence benefit suitors, for a Judge who would yield to such influence would, I should imagine, take a bribe.

I have, &c.,
HENRY CARY.

REGINA v. JAMES WILLIAMSON AND ELIZABETH WILLIAMSON.

New South Wales, }
Parramatta, to wit. }

THE examination of George Ardill, constable, of Parramatta, in the Colony of New South Wales; John Hackett, farmer, of Parramatta District; Andrew Sprowls, youth, of Parramatta; Patrick Halloran, youth, of Parramatta, in the said Colony, taken on oath this 15th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, at Parramatta, in the Colony aforesaid, before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said Colony, in the presence and hearing of James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson, who are charged this day before me for that they, the said James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson, on the 6th day of April, 1859, at Parramatta District, in the said Colony, the said James Williamson did feloniously steal, take, and carry away, the sum of forty-eight pounds sterling, in bank notes, the property of one John Hackett, of Parramatta District, and that the said Elizabeth Williamson was accessory to the theft.

PRESENT :—

F. O. Darvall, Esq., P.M.,
J. Lackey, Esq., J.P.,
J. Byrnes, Esq., J.P.,

James Williamson and Mrs. Williamson :—Charge, stealing £48 in bank notes and being accessory to the theft.

George Ardill, Constable, states upon his oath :—At  $\frac{1}{4}$  past 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon I apprehended the prisoners at their residence in Villiers-street, under the authority of the warrants I now produce; I told James Williamson the charge; he said, "I found the money and gave it to my mother"; when I apprehended Mrs. Williamson I told her the charge; she said, "My boy found the money and gave it to me, and I gave it to the man that I thought was the right owner"; there was not so much money as that, she also said; I brought them to the watchhouse and confined them; I told them the amount stolen was £48; I searched them; James Williamson had 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. and Mrs. Williamson 6d.

John Hackett states, upon his oath :—The informations just read are true; I live on the Pennant Hills Road; on Wednesday, the 6th instant, I received £500 in Parramatta; I tied the notes into one bundle, separating them from the sovereigns; there was £48 in bank notes; there was some £5 notes and some £1 notes, but I cannot remember how many of each; I put the notes in the left-hand coat pocket; I went home with my daughter; we went home by the Pennant Hills Road; we went in the cart; when I tied all the notes up I believe I tied them up in four bundles; I was wrong to say that I tied them up in one bundle; there were two bundles I believe, at £100 each; I do not know what the other two bundles contained, and I put the sovereigns into my handkerchief; I had 130 sovereigns; when I counted the money the sovereigns were right, but I was short of £48 in the notes; I might have been home two or three hours before I counted it; when I first got home I put it in my drawer, and as I was going to bed I counted it; I locked it up in my drawer, and put the key in my pocket; I saw Mrs. Williamson the day before yesterday; I asked her about the money, and she said she paid £46 away to some person who she did not know; she said some person that came from Bathurst came there and claimed the money; she also said that she had been informed that she had done very wrong in paying this money away to the person she did.

Examined by Prisoner's Attorney : I received the money between three and four o'clock in the afternoon of the 6th instant; it might have been between four and five o'clock, and it might have been later when I went home; I received the money at Mr. Andrew Payten's; as soon as I got the money I tied it up; I put the sovereigns in my trousers pocket; I believe that was the only handkerchief I had about me at that time; I put some of the notes in each coat pocket, and there was nothing else in the pockets; I did not count the number of notes in each bundle; I walked as far as Ferris' shop, over the bridge, before I got into the cart; I called no place before I got to Ferris'; I then went direct home; when I put the money into my drawer I did not then think I had lost any; close to my gate going home I met three boys, and I believe that the prisoner is one of the boys; they were walking towards Parramatta; I could not identify the notes if I was to see them; when I went to count my money I believe I had three bundles of notes.

Andrew Sprowls states, upon his oath :—I live in Church-street, in Parramatta; I know the prisoner, James Williamson; on last Wednesday week we were out at Mr. Hackett's, on the Pennant Hills Road; there was myself and my brother, the prisoner, and Percy Halloran; it was about 3 o'clock when we were at Hackett's; as we were coming home to Parramatta, about 100 yards this side of Mrs. Ardour's, he picked up a roll of notes—by he I mean the prisoner; when he picked them up he said, "Oh! a roll of notes," and he put them into the breast under his shirt; we went into the paddock, on the same side as Mrs. Ardour's, to count the notes—we all counted the notes; I think there were 6 £5 notes, and 21 £1 notes; I believe that was the money, but we might have made a mistake; Percy Halloran said to the prisoner, "The best thing you can do is to take them to your father and see what he says about it, or else to keep them until he found an owner for them"; I and my brother went home with the prisoner to his house; the same evening Mrs. Williamson gave me two pounds; I took the two pounds, but I do not recollect Mrs. Williamson saying anything; Mrs. Williamson first offered one of the pounds to my brother, but he would not have it; I did not go into the house with James Williamson; on last Tuesday I and Percy Halloran went to Williamson's to see what they had done with the money; I went and saw the father, but not either of the two prisoners; on last Wednesday I saw Mrs. Williamson, and gave her the two pounds back; she asked me why I did not give a pound to my mother, and I asked what for; I did not know why she gave me the money, and that was the reason I took it back; I asked James Williamson since we found the money if he had heard anything about it; I saw Mr. Hackett on last Wednesday week, the day we found the money; he was driving in a cart on the Pennant Hills Road with his daughter; we saw him before we found the money; we saw Mr. Hackett near his own gate driving home; we found the money about a quarter of an hour after we saw Mr. Hackett, and it was about 5 o'clock when we found the money; when I took the two pounds back to Mrs. Williamson I did not hear her say she owed my mother any money; I will not swear that she did not say so, but I will swear that I did not hear her.

Parramatta, to wit. }

James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson stand charged before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, in and for the Colony aforesaid, this fifteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine; for that they, the said James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson, on the 6th day of April, 1859, at Parramatta District, in the said Colony, the said James Williamson did feloniously steal, take, and carry away the sum of £48 sterling in bank notes, the property of one John Hackett, of Parramatta District, and that the said Elizabeth Williamson was accessory to the theft; and the said charge being read to the said James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson, and the witnesses for the prosecution, George Ardill, constable, of Parramatta, John Hackett, farmer, of Parramatta District, Andrew Sprowls, youth, of Parramatta, and Patrick Halloran, youth, of Parramatta, being severally examined in my presence, the said James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson are now addressed by me as follows:—
“Having heard the evidence, do you wish to say anything in answer to the charge? you are not obliged to say anything unless you desire to do so, but whatever you say will be taken down in writing, and may be given in evidence against you upon your trial;” whereupon the said James Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson say as follows:—“That they decline to make any statement.”

and year first above mentioned. }

Not sufficient evidence against the mother, and none against the boy; he found some notes and took them home to his parents, for which he ought to be commended instead of punished. As to the mother, none of the lost notes (nor indeed any notes) have been found upon her; nor is there any proof of her having passed them away. Hackett does not seem to know how many bundles of notes he had, or what each contained, and could not identify any one of them even if produced. If it is true that he lost a bundle of notes amounting to £48, the bundle which the boys found was not his, for that contained £51. I think there is, therefore, no case for conviction.

F. W. MEYMOTT,
Crown Prosecutor.
April 21.

Copy Minute by Attorney General.

The case must go to a jury; the woman admits, when apprehended, having paid away the money; there is some evidence, and although an acquittal may possibly take place, I should hardly be justified in withholding the case from a jury.

REGINA v. CATHERINE PECKMAN.

New South Wales, }
Penrith, to wit. }

The examination of Charles Warran of Penrith, in the Colony of New South Wales, district constable, and Patrick Walsh, of Woodriff Estate, in the said Colony, farmer, taken on oath, this eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, at Penrith, in the Colony aforesaid, before the undersigned, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said Colony, in the presence and hearing of Catherine Peckman, who is charged this day before us, for that she the said Catherine Peckman, near Penrith, in the said Colony, did feloniously steal, take, and carry away, one tarpaulin, of the value of one pound to thirty shillings, the property of Patrick Walsh aforesaid, contrary to the Act in such case made and provided.

New South Wales, }
Penrith, to wit. }

Charles Warran, having been duly sworn, states:—I am district constable and serjeant in the Penrith Police; I know the defendant Catherine Peckman; I apprehended her this morning, the 11th March instant, at her residence, near Penrith, on suspicion of stealing a tarpaulin, the property of one Patrick Welsh, of Regentville, in the district of Penrith;

Penrith; I found the tarpaulin now produced in her house, underneath her bed; she pointed the tarpaulin out to me, and assisted me to take it from under the bed; when I first went to her house I asked her if she had a tarpaulin—she replied, “Well, she had”; she then immediately went and shewed it me; she said that she bought it from a man who she did not know, about a fortnight since, for seven shillings and sixpence; I consider it fully worth thirty shillings.

Cross-examined by Defendant: When I asked you for the tarpaulin you said, “Well, you had.”

By the Bench: Welsh told me he had lost a tarpaulin about two months since—this was on Tuesday last he told me; the tarpaulin is unbranded, but it has nail holes and slip.

CHARLES WARREN.

*Patrick Walsh, having been duly sworn, states:—*I am a farmer on the Woodriff Estate, near Penrith; I don't know the defendant now before the Court; about seven or eight weeks since I placed a tarpaulin over a haystack just before my door; I saw it one Saturday night, just before I went to bed, on the stack, and the first thing on Sunday morning I missed it, and, on going over to the stack, I found the footmarks of a large one and a small one, seemingly to me the footmarks of a man and a boy; I reported the loss to Samuel Crosby, a neighbour of mine; I now see the tarpaulin produced, which I positively swear to be my property, and the one I placed over my hay stack, and which was stolen therefrom; I know it from certain marks—some nail holes, and a torn corner with a hole cut in that corner; I value the tarpaulin at worth from one pound to thirty shillings; I think it was some time in January, about the middle, but I swear it was not in December; I never sold the tarpaulin now produced, or parted with my interest in it in any way; I don't know defendant at all, and I don't know where she lives.

*Cross-examined by Defendant:—*I know two boys they call Peckman, but I never saw you or any of your family (for I don't know them) about my premises.

PATRICK WALCH.

*Charles Warran, recalled, and being re-sworn, states:—*I am aware that there is a blind man named Joseph Barnes residing with the defendant Catherine Peckman, near Penrith; he is generally led about by a little boy; I believe the boy is one of Peckman's, but I don't know; I believe Barnes was at Peckman's about January, both before and since; I usually see him three or four times a week, and sometimes every day, and I have missed him.

(Defendant has no questions to ask.)

CHARLES WARREN.

The foregoing depositions of Charles Warran, Patrick Walch, and the re-sworn evidence of Charles Warran, taken and sworn to before us at Penrith, this 11th day of March, A.D. 1859.

Catherine Peckman stands charged before the undersigned, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the Colony aforesaid, this eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, for that she the said Catherine Peckman, near Penrith, in the said Colony, did feloniously steal, take, and carry away one tarpaulin, of over the value of one pound, the property of Patrick Walch, of the Woodriff Estate near Penrith, contrary to the Act in such case made and provided; and the said charge being read to the said Catherine Peckman, and the witnesses for the prosecution, Charles Warran and Patrick Walch, being severally examined in her presence, the said Catherine Peckman is now addressed by us as follows:—“Having heard the evidence, do you wish to say anything in answer to the charge? you are not obliged to say anything unless you desire to do so, but whatever you say will be taken down in writing, and may be given in evidence against you upon your trial;” whereupon the said Catherine Peckman saith as follows:—“I certainly might have done away with it if I had come by it wrong, but I purchased it and came by it honestly. The Chief Constable came to me at two o'clock the afternoon before Warran took the tarpaulin, and I certainly, if I had not have known I came by it honestly, would have made away with it; but I shewed it to Mr. M'Cook at once, and also gave it to Constable Warran.”

I see no evidence to justify a conviction. The woman did not conceal the property, and she gave a tolerably reasonable account of her obtaining it. The evidence about the footsteps would go very little way. I could not, without further and more conclusive evidence, seriously ask a jury to believe that a blind man would go about assisting a small boy to strip tarpaulins off hay stacks.

MR. JOSEPH CHAMBERS.

No. 1.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Supreme Court, 17 May, 1854.

Sir,

It is with great regret, but it is, under the circumstances, unavoidable, that I again bring under the Governor General's notice the neglect of duty evinced by Mr. Chambers, the Clerk of the Bench at Maitland, in the collection of Intestate Estates. I have had, on two previous occasions, to make a similar report. Mr. Chambers, it seems clear to me, has too much to do to attend to these duties.

2. I am also compelled to complain, very seriously, of another Clerk of Petty Sessions, Mr. Armstrong, guilty of neglect of the like kind.

3. The enclosed papers respecting these two cases will shew His Excellency that it is quite impossible for the Supreme Court Department to discharge efficiently its very troublesome duties in Intestacy matters, if negligence like this be not punished.

4. And I take the liberty of suggesting that a circular to the several Clerks of Benches touching their duties as Agents to the Curator of Intestate Estates might probably prevent some of the evils complained in future.

I am, &c.,

THE HONORABLE

ALFRED STEPHEN.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

P.S.—I do not forward the affidavit mentioned in Mr. McKechnie's letter, as it is required for other purposes. It is only necessary to say that it is defective in two particulars, bearing the marks of extreme haste.

The estate of Thomas Hannan, in Mr. Chambers' district, was, in April last, dwindling away, by neglect to serve a citation; which citation was sent to Mr. Chambers on the 9th March, and had not been served on the 5th May.

[Enclosure in No. 1.]

*Supreme Court House,
Sydney, 29 April, 1854.*

Sir,

On the 16th of November last I received from Mr. Joseph Chambers, the Agent for the Curator of Intestate Estates at Maitland, the sum of £50, as the amount of his collections in the estates of John Threadgold and Thomas Connor, deceased; but no account sales, or vouchers of any kind, accompanied the remittance.

I have since repeatedly written to Mr. Chambers, both privately and officially, requesting to be furnished with full particulars of these collections, in order that they might be entered in my books; but I am still without accounts in Connor's estate, and several receipts in Threadgold's.

On the 9th March last I forwarded to Mr. Chambers a citation to be served upon the next-of-kin of Thomas Hannan; but to this letter I have received no reply, though I have written to him subsequently on the subject.

I am loath to bring these matters under the notice of your Honor; but I can assure you a great portion of my time is occupied in reminding Agents that they have neglected to carry out the instructions forwarded from this Office. I do not think Mr. Chambers wilfully neglects his duty; but I have reason to believe private practice, and other official business, so occupy his time as to render it out of his power to attend to his duties as Agent for the Curator of Intestate Estates.

I enclose an affidavit, lately received, as a sample of the slovenly and irregular manner in which he executes his work; and beg that your Honor will take the necessary steps to insure more attention on the part of Mr. Chambers to the duties of his situation.

I have, &c.,

To His Honor

The Chief Justice.

EDMUND M'KECHNIE,

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY to THE BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MAITLAND.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 26 May, 1854.*

GENTLEMEN,

17 May, 1854.
To be returned.

In transmitting to you the accompanying letter from His Honor the Chief Justice, again bringing under notice the neglect of duty evinced by the Clerk of your Bench in the collection of Intestate Estates, I am directed by His Excellency the Governor General to request that you will be good enough to call upon Mr. Chambers to furnish such explanation as it may be in his power to offer on the subject.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

MINUTE OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

WRITE to Mr. Chambers, Clerk of the Maitland Bench, and remind him of the terms in which he was some time ago reprimanded for neglect in the performance of his duties, and inform him that, as his conduct has again been complained of by the Chief Justice, and great neglect has also been exhibited by him in making out the Returns of Actions in the Court of Petty Sessions, under the Act 10th Viet., No. 10, forwarded by the Police Magistrate in a letter, dated the 22nd instant, now before me, I shall feel it to be my duty to dismiss him from his office, unless he thinks proper to save himself this disgrace by resigning his office.

— Chambers, Esq.,
3 June, '54.

No. 4.

MR. CHAMBERS to THE PRIVATE SECRETARY.

Maitland, 7 June, 1854.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 3rd instant, I beg to state, that with regret I now place my resignation before His Excellency the Governor General.

The complaint of the Chief Justice, firstly referred to in your letter, I have been directed to report on, and my report, which may be considered satisfactory, was prepared the day before your letter was received. The complaint secondly referred to, was one of which I was entirely ignorant until after the receipt of your letter; but I have since been informed that the Police Magistrate was, on the 31st ulto., required to report whether or not blame could in that matter be attached to me, and I believe that report will be dispatched by this Mail.

I fully appreciate His Excellency's consideration; I respectfully ask the perusal of these reports before the final judgment of His Excellency be given.

It is not my desire to hold appointments in which I cannot do my duty, but having for the last 12 years incessantly labored in those duties, receiving the constant approval of those under whose immediate cognizance those duties have been discharged, and who have for upwards of six years urged on the Government the necessity of assistance, I am anxious that the reports before referred to should come under the notice of the Governor, believing that in them may be found some exculpation from the complaints set forth.

Observing that your letter is marked as a private communication, I presume it will be right in me not to ask assistance of the Magistrates or of others, but to leave the reports, as now sent in, to His Excellency's consideration.

Whatever may be the result of this my appeal to His Excellency, it is clearly my duty to place my resignation unconditionally before him, and this I therefore do.

I have, &amp;c.,

JOSEPH CHAMBERS.

G. FITZ ROY, Esq.,
&c., &c., &c.

Inform

Inform Mr. Chambers that I will not act upon this until the reports he refers to have been before the Executive Council; when you have done this, forward this letter to the Clerk of the Executive Council, to bring it forward for the perusal of the Board at the same time.

C. A. F.

J. C. Chambers, Esq.,
13 June, 1854.

Mr. Chambers should now be informed that I laid his explanations before the Executive Council, who agreed with me in thinking them by no means satisfactory, and advised that his resignation should be accepted. It will, therefore, be my duty to appoint his successor immediately.

C. A. F.

J. Chambers, Esq.,
1 July, 1854.

Extract from Minute No. 54-25. Confirmed, 26 June, 1854.

2. The Council cannot regard Mr. Chambers' explanation as at all satisfactory; and bearing in mind the caution which he received on a previous occasion of a somewhat similar nature, as shewn in the Minute of the 19th September last, they now advise that he be allowed an opportunity of resigning the several Offices which he holds under the Government.

No. 6.

THE POLICE MAGISTRATE, MAITLAND to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Maitland, 8 June, 1854.

SIR,

In reply to yours of the 26th ultimo, I have the honor to enclose you a full report in the matter as therein referred to, as sent in by Mr. Chambers.

By reason of the sitting of the Small Debts Court, I have been unable to place these papers before the Bench.

I have, &c.,

THE HONORABLE
THE COLONIAL SECRETARY,
Sydney.

J. H. CRUMMER,
Police Magistrate.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 6.]

Maitland, 5 June, 1854.

Gentlemen,

In reply to the accompanying letter of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, of the 26th May, 1854, bringing under your notice certain neglect of my duties in the Department of Agent of the Curator of Intestate Estates, I have the honor to state, that in remitting to the Curator the proceeds of the estates of Threadgold and Connor, without accounts of sales and vouchers, my reason was, that any delay which might arise in getting in affidavits, &c., and the completion of other forms, might not be construed into any desire to retain or misappropriate the moneys in my hands, as since the complaint of Cullum I have been under the painful impression that circumstances may strangely combine to give rise to such a construction.

I need hardly tell the Bench that I have the pleasure of being able to say, that since I received the appointments I have the honor to hold, I have never had the desire or felt the necessity of adopting such a course.

In collecting the cattle, horses, and other description of assets in these estates, I had to make many journeys to the neighbourhood of Hexham, and to be many days absent from my office. The estate of Threadgold I closed, as far as I was able, in March last; there are, I am informed, about eight head of cattle unsold; of these I have been able to secure two, but the remaining six are still at large.

I was, at the same time, in the act of closing the estate of Connor, but a difference arose between myself and the person employed to bury the deceased, as to the charges made, and I did not get this arranged until May; I have only now to obtain from the person an affidavit of the reduction of his claim.

With respect to Hannan's estate I beg to correct a statement in the postscript of the letter of the Chief Justice. It there appears that the estate of Hannan, in this district, was dwindling away by neglect to serve a citation.

I first became aware of there being such an estate by Mr. Solomon, of Maitland, consulting me as to administering to it as a creditor. Mr. Solomon informed me that one Thomas Hannan then lately died at the Turon, leaving property there, and I, believing it to be my duty to report the subject to the Curator, although the deceased neither resided or had property in this district, did so by forwarding an affidavit of Mr. Solomon, to which is annexed a statement that he intended to administer. Some time after I became aware that Hannan had relations at Maitland, and I again wrote to the Curator informing him thereof.

The Curator then directed citations to be served. Mr. Solomon arranged with the Hannan's to administer forthwith, but his sudden and unexpected death prevented the arrangements being carried out, and on the 13th ultimo, in consequence of a letter received from the Curator the citations were served and affidavits of service transmitted.

Mr. Green, one of the members of your Bench, is, I believe, aware of most of the above facts.

The remark made in the letter to His Honor the Chief Justice, to the effect that it seems clear to him there is too much to be done in my office, perhaps justifies my respectfully calling the attention of the Government to certain correspondence on that subject, in the year 1849, copies of which I place before you.

In the Estimates of that year a sum of £50 had been included by the Police Magistrate as payment for an assistant clerk, the Magistrates of the district having unanimously, by letter to the Government, pointed out the necessity for such an estimate.

I beg to state it was not asked as an addition to my salary, but as a sum for expenditure by the Police Magistrate.

In 1850 the police district was extended, and on the further grounds of such extension the sum was again entered on the Estimates for that year. The Governor General having stated that there was no funds at his disposal, available for such a purpose, I have not during the last five years sought a renewal of the inquiry, although I am now the only person in the Colony performing the duties of Clerk of the Peace and Clerk to the Magistrates.

I am also desirous to repeat that my present allusion to this subject is with no view to increase my own income, but with the hope that in the performance of duties such as that of collecting Intestate Estates, in which I have to leave my office to the neglect and confusion of current business, some assistance may be afforded me.

I have, &c.,

The Bench of Magistrates,
Maitland.

JOSEPH CHAMBERS,
Clerk of Petty Sessions.

[Enclosure 2 in No. 6.]

Police Office, Maitland,
1 May, 1854.

Gentlemen,

I beg to assure you that a necessity exists for increasing the strength of the Office of the Clerk of Petty Sessions at Maitland; I have now had the honor of acting as such Clerk for upwards of five years, during which period the duties of my office have gradually but greatly increased.

The Salary as such Clerk is	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	£150
But I receive as Clerk of the Peace	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	50
And as Registrar of the Small Debts Court an uncertain sum, amounting to about	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	50
								£250

To carry on the duties of those offices I am compelled to employ three assistants, whose salaries amount to £150, I am obliged to employ these persons chiefly on account of the business of the Police Office. I myself am generally engaged in such office in taking depositions and attending to the business coming before the Court, and yet such duty is a very small portion of that which has to be performed to carry on the business of the day. The persons in my office are employed in taking informations to be sworn before the Court, in preparing warrants, orders, and other processes, in making bail papers or copying depositions, besides the keeping of accounts, making returns and attending to the correspondence of the office, in addition to which they are occasionally engaged for several days together in making jury and electors' lists, or arranging the special business of the Court, such as granting publicans' and other licenses, &c., &c. I beg to represent to you, that as Clerk of Petty Sessions I receive the same salary as that paid to the Clerk of the Bench at Newcastle and other districts, very far inferior to the District of Maitland in respect to business and population; and as Clerk of the Peace I receive the same as the Clerk at Bathurst and Goulburn, notwithstanding the business at Maitland I believe to be at least double that in those districts. I do not refer to these matters with a view of complaining of the smallness of my income, but for the purpose of shewing that I may have some claim to

to the consideration of the Government. I am aware that the Police Magistrate has represented to the Government that an Assistant Clerk should be appointed, but I am anxious to know the position in which such Clerk would be placed. I have great confidence in Mr. Carter, my present head Clerk, all pecuniary affairs of my office have, since Mr. Nichols left me, been under his management, and they are most strictly and correctly attended to, and I have had such experience of the responsibilities of my duties, that I should be unwilling to make any alteration which would have the effect of interfering with Mr. Carter in his present department, or of admitting into my office a person over whom I or the Police Magistrate had not absolute control. I have the honor therefore to submit, if the Police Magistrate and the Bench see fit that it may be represented to the Governor that such a sum should be added to my present salary as would enable me to employ an additional Clerk, it being understood that the additional payment be made for that purpose only, and be not paid unless such additional Clerk should be so employed.

I beg to add that I am willing to leave the present nomination of such person to the Police Magistrate or to the Bench.

I have, &c.,

JOSEPH CHAMBERS,
Clerk of Petty Sessions.

The Worshipful
The Bench of Magistrates,
Maitland.

[Enclosure 3 in No. 6.]

(No. 49-18.)

2 July, 1849.

Sir,

We have the honor to enclose to you a letter addressed to us by Mr. Chambers, the Clerk of the Petty Sessions at Maitland, on the subject of the assistance required by him in the performance of the duties of his office.

We believe such assistance has now become necessary, and that the amount of business transacted will fully justify the addition suggested in the letter referred to.

The District of Maitland is, with the exception of the County of Cumberland, the most populous district in the Colony; and as the Town of Maitland is the outlet of the Upper Police and Country Districts, as well as the Assize Town, a great amount of police duty is performed there.

We beg to state that on the usual days for the sitting of the Bench in Petty Sessions, the Court would frequently be open until a late hour if it was not for the personal assistance rendered by the Police Magistrate in taking depositions, &c., &c.

We believe such assistance ought not to be necessary, though we do not believe the necessity arises from any other cause than a great pressure of business.

We beg therefore to recommend the request contained in Mr. Chambers' letter, namely, that such an amount be added to that gentleman's salary, as will enable him to employ an additional Clerk; such addition to be made for that purpose only, and to be discontinued unless such additional Clerk be so employed.

We have, &c.,

EMANL. HUNGERFORD, J.P.
C. F. H. SMITH, J.P.
GEORGE WYNDHAM, J.P.
C. M. DOYLE, J.P.
ANDREW LANG, J.P.
W. KNOX CHILD, J.P.
W. F. GORDON, J.P.

The Honorable
The Colonial Secretary.

[Enclosure 4 in No. 6.]

May, 1850.

Sir,

I beg to place before you certain correspondence respecting the employment of an assistant in the office of the Clerk of Petty Sessions at Maitland.

I believe Mr. Day, late Police Magistrate, in his estimate of the probable expenditure for the year 1850, forwarded in the early part of 1849 (or in some later correspondence), first called the attention of the Government to the matter.

On the 1st May, 1849, I addressed to the Bench my letter of that date, a copy of which is enclosed, and on that was founded the letter from the Bench to the Colonial Secretary, of the 2nd day of July, 1849, a copy of which is also annexed.

In reply to the latter communication, the Governor, by letter of the 13th July, 1849, regretted he had not funds at his disposal to appropriate as required by the Bench.

I beg to state that I believe it was not the desire of the Magistrates by their letter to urge the Government to make any immediate provision for the carrying out of their views, but that the intention of their letter was to impress on the Government the fact of assistance in the office of their Clerk being required, in order that, with the approval of the Government, some provision might in due course be made.

Since my former letter of the 1st May, 1849, the Police District has been increased by about twenty-six square miles of a very populous district; indeed, that which formed the most important portion of the Paterson District has now been added to the District of Maitland.

The

The duties of my office will, doubtless, be proportionally greater.

It has been found necessary to augment the police force; and I would submit that the department of the Clerk might justly (as a general rule) be made to bear proportion with the other departments of the establishment.

I beg to assure you that the expenses of my office (in which three Clerks are constantly engaged on public business) is so great, that I could not support myself in my appointments if I were not assisted by my practice as a Solicitor; it would be utterly impossible for one person, and I believe hardly possible for two persons efficiently to perform the duties of Clerk of Petty Sessions at Maitland.

I beg, particularly, to ask your consideration of the latter part of my letter of the 1st May, 1849, in which I propose that any amount which may be added to my salary shall be paid by the Bench to such person as the Police Magistrate may see fit to employ, and shall be withdrawn if at any time such assistance shall be found to be unnecessary.

The Police Magistrate,
Maitland.

I have, &c.,
JOSEPH CHAMBERS.

[Enclosure 5 in No. 6.]

Police Office, Maitland,
17 May, 1850.

Sir,

In my estimate of the probable expenses for the year 1851 I have included a sum of £50 for an assistant in the office of Clerk of Petty Sessions.

2. I find that the subject has for some time been under the consideration of the Bench, and was unanimously recommended by letter 49-18, dated 2nd July, 1849, a copy of which is herewith transmitted.

3. As that letter was signed by all the Magistrates of this district, I have not thought it necessary again to call them together, but as Mr. J. A. Smith has, by reason of the extension of the district, become a member of the Bench since the letter above referred to, I have submitted the papers for his consideration, and herewith enclose his reply.

"4. My short experience in the police affairs of the Maitland District enable me to state that the assistance required appears very necessary, and I believe if an estimate could be made of the extent and variety of the police business of this district, as compared with that of any other of the country districts, it would be found that the department of the Clerk of Petty Sessions, with the assistance now asked for, would not be out of proportion."

5. I beg to enclose, for the information of His Excellency the Governor, copies of the former letters referring to the subject.

I have, &c.,
J. H. CRUMMER, J.P., P.M.

[Enclosure 6 in No. 6.]

17 July, 1850.

Sir,

I regret to observe that it has not been deemed expedient to make provision in the Estimates of 1851 for an assistant in my office, and I also regret that I feel bound further to urge the subject of my application.

The Estimates provide a salary of equal amount with my own to Clerks in other districts in the Colony, notwithstanding the disposition of the police establishments in these districts as manifested by the Estimates themselves, and the known difference in respect to population and importance.

Thus, while this district is estimated to require a police force of 23 constables, the districts referred to have an average force of ten only; the following being the force in each district, namely:—

	Constables.		Constables.
Parramatta ...	16	Bathurst ...	16
Campbelltown ...	8	Newcastle ...	7
Goulburn ...	11	Maitland ...	23
Windsor ...	11	Port Macquarie ...	7
Penrith ...	7	Brisbane ...	9

In the communication from the Bench of Magistrates on this subject, you will see that my application was unanimously approved of, and that the Bench believe that the department of the Clerk of the Bench should bear some proportion to the rest of the police establishment, but as, in my case, no such proportion exists, I am induced to think that my claim is fair and reasonable.

I have, therefore, the honor to inquire whether my making a petition on the subject to the Legislative Council will be considered incompatible with my duties as a servant of the Government, and whether my so doing may be productive of any trouble or inconvenience.

The Honorable
The Colonial Secretary.

I have, &c.,
JOSEPH CHAMBERS.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th instant respecting the delay occasioned by Mr. Chambers, late Clerk of Petty Sessions at Maitland, in transmitting an account of his collections in that department, and beg to inform you that Mr. Chambers forwarded, through Mr. Minter, the present Clerk of Petty Sessions, on the 7th instant, the amount due on that head for which a receipt has been returned from the Colonial Treasurer.

My attention to your communication of the 10th of August and 20th September was duly attended to, in urging Mr. Chambers to transmit his collections on various occasions anterior to the 7th instant, the date on which they were forwarded; I trust, therefore, that His Excellency the Governor General may be pleased to acquit me of any charge of wilful neglect on the present occasion.

HENRY CARY, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Burwood,

18 May, 1859.

SIR,

It is my duty (though an unpleasant one) to call your attention to the conduct of the Crown Prosecutor, Mr. Meymott, on two several occasions at the recent Quarter Sessions held at Parramatta. On both the occasions referred to, Mr. Meymott had refused to file informations on the depositions submitted to him, but you had directed that the parties charged should be prosecuted. In opening each case, Mr. Meymott told the Jury that he had declined to prosecute, but that the Attorney General had directed him to do so, with which direction he was bound to comply, though he still thought there was no case to go to a Jury. The cases were conducted by him accordingly, not only in a languid manner, but as if his object was to insure an acquittal, the most prominent features in the evidence against the prisoners being, not absolutely suppressed, but very slightly dwelt upon. In the case which was last tried—that against a mother and son, named Williamson, for stealing or receiving, &c., £48 in notes—he said that he would state the case to the Court and Jury, and if we thought (the Jury under my direction) that there was no case, he would consent to discharge the prisoners without offering any evidence. After his statement, I (having also read the depositions, from which it appeared that the lad who had found the money had almost immediately given it to his mother, in the presence of other boys who had seen him find it) directed the son's discharge, but expressed an opinion that there was a strong case against the mother. In the course of the trial, the evidence against her appeared to me to be quite conclusive, but to elicit it I had in fact to conduct the prosecution; Mr. Gould, for the defence, made a long and energetic speech, and quoted and commented largely on the law of the case; Mr. Meymott declined saying anything in reply; I, consequently, thought it incumbent on me almost to take his place, and to remove from the minds of the Jury the erroneous impressions which Mr. Gould's arguments would naturally have engendered. However, a verdict of acquittal followed, which I am satisfied would not have happened had I had only to perform my proper function of holding the balance between two advocates opposing each other, instead of almost pressing a case against the will of the prosecutor.

If the course thus pursued by the Crown Prosecutor is legitimate, it is useless for the Attorney General to review his decision on cases of committal that have been submitted to, and disallowed by him.

I wish my complaint could end here, but, connected with the above cases, I must state that this morning (the Williamsons' case occurred yesterday) I had occasion to interfere on behalf of an undefended prisoner, and prevent Mr. Meymott from putting a question which I deemed improper; considerable discussion followed; Mr. Meymott taking a note of my decision for future use, should occasion require. In directing the Jury on this case, I remarked that they might think it strange that I should in one case, which was very clear, protect a prisoner, whereas in a case that had occurred yesterday, and in which some of them, with other jurymen, had concurred in a verdict of acquittal, I had appeared to press hardly on the accused. I therefore informed them, that where a prisoner was undefended, I should always so far act as counsel for the defence, as to take care that the case was not pressed beyond its proper limits; and that, on the other hand, where the Crown Prosecutor abandoned his duty, I should, on behalf of the Crown, see that the case was fully investigated—on which Mr. Meymott rose up, and said in open Court that my statement that he had abandoned his duty was false. I immediately took down the words, as underlined, lined, but made no comment on them, except that I intended to report the whole matter to the Attorney General. Mr. W. Byrnes, M.L.C., was sitting by me on the Bench, and called my attention to the word false.

Mr. Darvall, P.M., with, I believe, other Magistrates, was present when Mr. Meymott, as I express it, abandoned his case against the Williamsons.

I offer no conclusion to the above statement, except that I trust you will so deal with the whole matter, as in your judgment it ought to be dealt with.

I have, &c.,

THE HONORABLE

HENRY CARY.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from you of the 20th instant, enclosing a copy of a letter from Mr. Cary.

I shall have no difficulty in satisfactorily explaining my conduct; but as my reply will necessarily be a long one, and may involve charges against Mr. Cary of a more serious nature than those which he has thought fit to bring against me, I must request the delay of a day or two before sending my explanation.

Abbotsford, Picton,

24 May, 1859.

SIR,

I will answer the charges in the order in which they occur in that letter.

Mr. Cary begins by stating that on both the occasions alluded to, viz., Peckman's case and Williamsons' case,—I had refused to file informations. The course I adopted was the usual and proper one in all cases in which a doubt exists as to the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain conviction. I believe that Crown Prosecutors may, if they think fit, take upon themselves the responsibility of refusing to prosecute, without troubling the Attorney General; but whenever opportunity occurs, in cases of such doubt, my course is to make a note on the subject and refer the case to the Attorney General for his opinion. I did did this on the two occasions referred to, and as soon as the Attorney General had expressed his opinion that the cases ought to go to the Jury, informations were filed. Both the Honorable the Attorney General and Mr. Rogers, Clerk of the Peace, know that that was so.

This disposes of Mr. Cary's first charge. Mr. Cary then says that in opening each case I told the Jury that I had declined to prosecute. I deny it. If I had I should have told them a wilful falsehood. I certainly did express my opinion that the cases did not appear to me strong against the prisoners, and on that ground I invited their more particular attention, as it was for them to decide, after having heard the evidence, which it was my duty to lay before them under the Attorney General's direction.

The cases were accordingly proceeded with. Mr. Cary passes over the first with a general remark, applicable to both, that my manner was languid and as if my object were to insure an acquittal.

The first of these cases was this:—A woman named Peckman was charged with stealing a tarpaulin. The prosecutor had placed a tarpaulin over a haystack; the next morning (Sunday) it was gone; he observed on the dew footmarks of two persons of different sizes, passing by his place—not a word about their being near the haystack; a blind man and a boy lodged with the prisoner, whose house is two miles from the prosecutor's. Several days afterwards the police went to the prisoner's house, and asked her if she knew anything about a tarpaulin. She immediately produced one, and said she had bought it of a man for 7s. 6d. This man was in Court ready to prove this fact. After the prosecutor had given his evidence, the Judge himself suggested that there was no use in occupying any more of the public time. I perfectly concurred, and so did the Jury, and the woman was discharged. For my part in this transaction Mr. Cary charges me with having abandoned my duty. I believe I have sufficiently disposed of this charge.

In the other case, which Mr. Cary more particularly mentions, viz., against a mother and son named Williamson, for stealing bank notes, I did, as in the other case, tell the Court my opinion as to the weakness of the evidence against either of the prisoners, especially as to the boy. The Judge so far agreed with me as to discharge the boy without calling any witness; but, as he admits, he expressed an opinion that there was a strong case against the mother. (I leave the Honorable the Attorney General to form his own opinion as to the propriety of such an expression from a Judge to a Jury who were about to try the case.) I then proceeded with the case against the mother. Mr. Cary says I did so in a languid manner; compared with the excessive zeal displayed by the Judge against the prisoner (a zeal which was freely commented upon out of Court) my manner might have seemed in one sense languid; but I deny that my mode of conducting this case was other than it usually is. I always do, and always shall endeavour to perform, my duties temperately and calmly; and it was this very quality in prosecuting for the Crown at Bathurst Assizes two or three years ago, that I had the satisfaction of receiving a high encomium from Mr. Justice Dickinson, who tried the cases. Again, Mr. Cary says that in order to elicit the evidence, which appeared to him quite conclusive, he had in fact to conduct the prosecution. This I also positively deny, and I challenge him to prove that any important part was omitted by me and elicited by him—although it is true that he, with much irregularity, and very greatly to my inconvenience, interposed many questions during my examination in chief.

As to the evidence being conclusive, I have the misfortune perhaps of differing entirely in opinion with Mr. Cary. It was a case in which some boys passing along the road observed a roll of notes on the ground, one of the boys, Williamson, picked it up, and in the presence of the others counted the notes, making the amount £51. This boy, accompanied by two of the others, took the roll home and gave it to his mother. For this the lad was committed to take his trial for felony, and for my stating these facts to the Court, and suggesting that there was no case against the boy, who thereupon was very properly discharged, I am charged with having again abandoned my duty.

Well, the case went on against the mother. The first witness deposed that on the day the boys found the notes, which happened near his place, he had received £500 in Parramatta, part in notes, part in gold; he could not say into how many rolls he made up the notes, nor how much any roll contained—nor would he be able to identify any of them.

On

On reaching home, a few miles out of town, he emptied his pockets into a drawer, where in the morning he had placed £100 in notes. He did not then count his money, but when he did, which was some hours afterwards, he only found £552, viz., £48 minus; he could not say whether it was part of the £500 or of the £100 which was gone. Some days afterwards he went to the prisoner's house and asked her if she knew anything about some notes. She said that her boy had found a roll of notes, and that a day or two afterwards a man from Bathurst had called and claimed them, and that she had given them to him, adding that there was not so much as he, the witness, said. It was further proved (and this it will be seen would have been the strongest feature in the case against her, if clearly proved) that when her son brought home the notes, he took them indoors to his mother, while the two other boys remained outside, and that a few minutes afterwards the mother came out and gave one of these boys two pounds. Whether these £2 were notes or coin, and, if the former, they were part of the roll or not, was a most material point. As I knew that this boy could not possibly swear that they, if notes, were part of the roll (as he had only seen the other boy count them without separating them), I, of course, asked no more questions about it, leaving it as a fair inference that they were part of the roll, an inference which it was the business of the prisoner's advocate to weaken, not mine, by further examination. Mr. Gould, who defended the case, did not notice this point, nor did he cross-examine the boy upon it. But this, in addition to the total absence of proof of ownership, was what the Judge told the Jury was conclusive evidence, and added that he was sure the Jury could come to no other conclusion. However, as Mr. Cary says, a verdict of acquittal followed.

Then comes a singular admission for Mr. Cary to make in support of a charge against me. He says that this (the acquittal) would not have happened had he had only to perform his proper function of holding the balance between two opposing advocates instead of almost pressing the case against the will of the prosecutor. In other words, that, if he had only performed his duties as a Judge, instead of interfering with my province as Crown Prosecutor, and almost, as he says, taken my place (which he was not required to do), the prisoner would have been found guilty. In point of fact, that his "conducting the prosecution" was the means of getting the prisoner acquitted. It was incumbent on him, he adds, to take my place, and remove from the minds of the Jury the erroneous impression which Mr. Gould's arguments would naturally have engendered. How he succeeded was shewn by the verdict.

By this statement too the Judge conveys a compliment to me which I most strongly but respectfully repudiate. It infers that, if I had chosen to do so, I could have induced the Jury to find a different verdict—i. e., to bring in a verdict of guilty against a woman, whom, if I did not actually believe to be innocent, I, at all events, most certainly did not think was proved to be guilty. If I had possessed this capability of inducing a Jury to believe that right was wrong, I should have been very culpable in using such power; but my humble abilities are not of that order, nor have I any desire to attain such skill.

A few more words about this case;—Mr. Cary, on the occasion of my denial of having abandoned my duty (of which presently), said I had done so by not replying to Mr. Gould's speech for the defence. In this I submit Mr. Cary is utterly wrong again; it is no part of the duty of the Crown Prosecutor to reply in cases where no evidence is offered for the defence; it is his privilege to do so when he thinks fit, and it is a privilege which I have been taught should be sparingly exercised, and only when justice requires. In the present instance I did not think it at all necessary to reply. Mr. Gould's speech was not so much directed to the facts of the case as to the law on the subject, "quoting and commenting" largely thereon as Mr. Cary says; and as I quite coincided with Mr. Gould in his view of the law of the case, I had in fact no reply to make.

So much for Mr. Cary's charge against me of abandoning the Williamson's case; I hope I have sufficiently and satisfactorily answered it.

The paragraph about the legitimacy of my cause falls to the ground. There has been no revision by the Attorney General of any decision of mine; I never pronounced any nor was any case disallowed by me; I have simply obtained the opinion of the Attorney General in the usual way, as to the propriety of sending to the Jury cases in which the evidence appeared to me, and afterwards turned out to be, insufficient to procure conviction.

Mr.

Mr. Cary proceeds to inform the Attorney General that he had occasion to interfere on behalf of an undefended prisoner, and prevent me from putting a question which he thought improper. The Attorney General will probably be rather surprised when he reads what this improper question was, and at the novel reason for which the evidence was rejected. It was in Behn's case, for stealing a watch. The prosecutor was to ill to attend the Court, so his deposition was read. The policeman who produced the watch was being examined. I asked him whether, at the Police Office in presence of the prisoner, the watch was identified by anyone? The Judge would not allow this question to be answered, on the ground that "There was nothing about it in the depositions, and he had no idea of cases 'being bolstered up by fresh evidence!'" Whether the question was an improper one, or whether the ground of its rejection was improper, the Attorney General will have no difficulty in determining.

Lastly, as to my public denial of having abandoned my duty. Mr. Cary does not state the case fairly. It was not on his saying that "Where the Crown Prosecutor abandoned 'his duty, he, the Judge, should see that the case was fully investigated,'" that I rose up and said anything. In Behn's case he laid down a principle exactly the reverse of this. He said it was no part of his duty to supply any defects or omissions on the part of the Crown Prosecutor, and I had to recall the Clerk of the Bench to ask him a question as a mere matter of form which I had omitted. I waited patiently till he had finished his address to the Jury, and then (naturally feeling hurt and irritated at a charge of neglect of duty being brought against me at such a time and place, and made by a Judge to a Jury who could have nothing to do with my yesterday's conduct) I rose, as I said, to protest firmly but respectfully against an expression which the Judge had used the day before, and repeated then in a different case and to a different Jury, viz., that I, in two previous cases, had abandoned my duty. I said I denied the charge, and that it was one which was not founded on fact, and I proceeded shortly to state what I had done. I do not believe I used the word "false"; it is a stronger term than I should have chosen if I had had time to choose. But if Mr. Byrnes, or any other respectable gentleman says I did use that word, and if the head and front of my offending consist in the use of that word, I am quite ready to apologize for it, retract it, and substitute any milder synonyme. I took no notice of the Judge's telling the Jury in Williamson's case that I had abandoned the case. It was a comment on, and made in, the case, which, I suppose, he thought himself justified in making, though I did not; but when he thought fit to tell a new Jury the next day, as he did, that on two previous occasions I had abandoned my duty, I could not allow such a charge to pass unnoticed.

I regret that I am taking up so much of the time and attention of the Honorable the Attorney General, but he will, I trust, allow that the case requires it; and it will be seen that in thus submitting to him my explanation of my conduct, I have been compelled to draw his attention to several errors on the part of Mr. Cary, viz.:—

1. In mistaking the circumstance of my referring the two cases in the usual manner to the Attorney General for a refusal on my part to prosecute.
2. Even if I had taken on myself to decline to prosecute; in charging that which would only have been the exercise of a discretion placed in me as a neglect of duty.
3. In making that a ground of complaint without inquiring into the truth of it.
4. In alleging that I told the Jury that I had declined to prosecute.
5. In Peckman's case; in charging me with abandoning the case, whereas he not only sanctioned but himself adopted the course I proposed.
6. In Williamson's case; in again charging me with abandoning the case, although he so far coincided with me as to discharge one of the prisoners without hearing evidence.
7. In the same case; in prejudging the case by telling the Jury who were about to try it, that there was a strong case against the female prisoner.
8. In the same case; in warmly acting as advocate against the prisoner, and thereby, as he says, losing a verdict.
9. In the same case; in taking a most material fact, viz., the disposing of part of the money found, to be conclusively proved, which was only a matter of inference.
10. In the same case; in telling the Jury that the evidence was conclusive, instead of leaving that point for their consideration.

11. In the same case; in omitting to refer the question of ownership of the notes to the Jury.
12. In charging my declining to reply in that case as a neglect of duty.
13. In attributing to me the power to have obtained a verdict of guilty (against my conscience) if I had chosen to exercise it.
14. In thinking that I ought to have exercised such power, and charging my omission to do so as a neglect of duty.
15. In Behn's case; in refusing to allow a question to be answered, on the ground that it was new evidence, not mentioned in the depositions.
16. In telling the Jury in the case last tried that I had, on two previous occasions abandoned my duty, a matter with which they had nothing to do and which was calculated to prejudice their minds in the case before them.
17. In Behn's case and in Williamsons' case, in laying down and acting upon directly contradictory principles, as to the duty of a Judge in supplying omissions in the examination of a witness by the Crown Prosecutor.

I have on my notes other instances of more glaring and less excusable errors, committed by Mr. Cary during the last Quarter Sessions, but which it is unnecessary to go into upon the present occasion.

Again apologizing for the length of my communication,

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT, Esq.,

F. W. MEYMOTT.

Secretary to the Crown Law Officers.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 30th May, 1859, with respect to a Complaint lodged against Mr. Meymott, by Henry Cary, Esq., Judge of the Cumberland and Coast District Courts.

Minute No. 59-21. Confirmed 6 June, 1859.

HIS Excellency the Governor General, at the instance of the Honorable the Attorney General, brings under the consideration of the Council a letter from Henry Cary, Esq., Judge of the Cumberland and Coast District Court, drawing attention to the course pursued on certain occasions, therein stated, by Mr. Meymott, the Crown Prosecutor of that District.

2. His Excellency at the same time places before the Council two letters from Mr. Meymott, in reply to a communication from the office of the Honorable the Attorney General, forwarding a copy of Mr. Cary's complaint to him for explanation.

3. The circumstances out of which the correspondence has arisen, occurred during the trial of two cases at the recent Quarter Sessions held at Parramatta, and it is represented by Mr. Cary that Mr. Meymott (who had refused to file informations on the depositions submitted to him, but had been directed by the Attorney General to proceed with the prosecutions) in opening each case, told the Jury that he had declined to prosecute, but that he did so in compliance with the direction of the Attorney General, and although he still thought there was no case to go to the Jury. Mr. Cary adds, that the cases were conducted by Mr. Meymott accordingly, not only in a languid manner, but as if his object had been to insure an acquittal, the most prominent features in the evidence against the prisoners being not absolutely suppressed, but very slightly dwelt upon.

4. Mr. Cary mentions the particulars of one of the cases referred to, and refers to circumstances which took place during the trial of it, in support of his complaint; and states that, in addition to the foregoing, and in reply to some comments which he had felt called upon to make with reference to a case occurring on the following day, Mr. Meymott rose up and said, in open Court, that the Judge's "statement that he had abandoned his duty was false."

5. In his letter of explanation Mr. Meymott states that he had not declined to prosecute the cases in question, but had submitted them for the opinion of the Attorney General, and filed informations on his expressing an opinion that they ought to go to a Jury; he denies having told the Jury that he had declined to prosecute, but states that he did express express an opinion that the cases did not appear to him strong against either of the prisoners, and on that ground invited the more particular attention of the Jury to the evidence which he was directed to lay before them.

6. In justification of the course pursued by him, Mr. Meymott details at length the circumstances of the respective cases, and states that in that which was first tried, the Judge himself, after the prosecutor had given his evidence, suggested that there was no use in occupying any more of the public time, and that he himself concurring, and the Jury also, the prisoner was discharged.

In the other case, Mr. Meymott states that the Judge ordered the discharge of one of the prisoners without calling any witness, and defends his own mode of dealing with the prosecution of the other (who was ultimately acquitted), at the same time animadverting upon the course taken by the Judge and the zeal displayed by him against the prisoner.

7. Mr. Meymott further states that Mr. Cary has not fairly put the case, with respect to the manner of his public denial of having abandoned his duty, and after narrating and complaining of the circumstances which rendered such a denial necessary, and stating that he does not believe that he used the word "false," adds, that if he did use such an expression, "he is ready to apologize for it, retract it, and substitute any milder synonyme."

8. In concluding his explanations Mr. Meymott draws attention to numerous errors which he states to have been committed by Mr. Cary in the cases in question, and in the present correspondence.

9. The Council having carefully weighed the causes of complaint alleged by the Judge, and considered the circumstances stated by Mr. Meymott in reply thereto, and while impressed with a regret that it should have become necessary to proceed to a decision upon such a case, express their opinion that the course pursued by Mr. Meymott in the matters complained of, and followed up by him in his subsequent correspondence has been altogether inconsistent with the proper line of his duty as Crown Prosecutor.

They are unable to perceive that his mode of conducting the prosecutions alluded to, as detailed by himself, was in any essential particular different from that adverted to, and complained of by the Judge, and they cannot avoid the expression of their entire disapproval of the manner of his reply to the comments of the Judge in Court, as well as subsequently in his answer to the Judge's complaint.

10. Under these circumstances it appears to the Council impossible that, with a proper regard to the due Administration of Justice, Mr. Meymott can be retained in his present position, and they therefore advise that it be intimated to that gentleman that it has become necessary that his services as Crown Prosecutor for the Cumberland and Coast Districts should be dispensed with.

A. ORPEN MORIARTY,
Clerk of the Council.

F. W. MEYMOTT, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 6 June, 1859.

DEAR SIR,

Yesterday, at Picton, I received from your Secretary the announcement of my dismissal from office as Crown Prosecutor, on the ground that my explanation to you of the charges brought against me by Mr. Cary were unsatisfactory.

Before such a very severe sentence is carried into effect, I hope that, as a simple act of justice, you will be good enough to inform me in what respect my explanation is unsatisfactory. The charges are numerous and vaguely made, and my answer was necessarily long, and, perhaps, not sufficiently directed to any one part which, in the opinion of the Executive Council, required further explanation. I would also respectfully desire to be informed whether any evidence was laid before the Council besides Mr. Cary's charge and my answer.

It is of importance that I should request this information from you, because I intend humbly to memorialize the Governor and Council to allow me to be heard in person in defence of charges entailing such serious consequences to me as a sudden dismissal from an office which I am sure I have done nothing to disgrace, and for the more efficient discharge of the duties of which I have relinquished my private practice as a barrister.

I am, &c.,

F. W. MEYMOTT.

THE HONORABLE

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

To His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, K. C. B., Governor
General of New South Wales, &c., &c., &c.

The Memorial of Frederic William Meymott, of Abbotsford House, Picton, Barrister-at-Law,

HUMBLY SHEWETH, AS FOLLOWS:—

On the twentieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, your Excellency was graciously pleased to appoint your Memorialist to the office of Crown Prosecutor of New South Wales, and especially for the Southern and the Cumberland and Coast Districts. For the more efficient discharge of the duties of that office, your Memorialist relinquished his private practice as a Barrister in Sydney, and, at great expense, went to reside at Picton, as being nearly equi-distant from the two places where his principal duties had to be performed, namely, Goulburn and Parramatta.

During the last Quarter Sessions at Parramatta, a difference of opinion arose between your Memorialist and Henry Cary, Esquire, the District Judge, about the mode of performing the duties of Crown Prosecutor.

On the eighteenth day of May Mr. Cary wrote to the Attorney General a letter complaining of your Memorialist's having abandoned his duty in two several cases, and of his having denied, in strong language, the charge which the Judge had made against him in open Court.

The letter of Mr. Cary was transmitted by the Attorney General to your Memorialist for his explanation.

On the twenty-fourth of May your Memorialist wrote to the Attorney General a letter of explanation, which owing to the general nature of the charges was necessarily long, and perhaps in the opinion of the Council not sufficiently explicit on some points.

On the fifth of June (last Sunday) your Memorialist received from the Attorney General a letter, informing him that his explanation had been laid before the Executive Council, who had pronounced it unsatisfactory, and that the Government had felt it their duty to dispense with the services of your Memorialist as Crown Prosecutor.

Your Memorialist has since applied to the Attorney General to be informed in what respect the explanation was unsatisfactory; and the Attorney General's reply is, that it was generally unsatisfactory.

Your Memorialist takes the liberty of addressing your Excellency not merely on his own account, vitally important as the matter is to himself, both as regards his pecuniary interests and his professional character, but also because he deems it his duty on public grounds grounds to call your Excellency's attention to a question involving (as he conceives) the proper and efficient performance of the respective duties of a Judge and a Crown Prosecutor.

Your Memorialist, therefore, most respectfully requests your Excellency to permit him to be heard in person, in defence of the charges brought against him, before such tribunal, and at such time and place as your Excellency may be please to appoint.

And your Memorialist will ever pray, &c.

Dated this ninth day of June, A.D. 1859.

F. W. MEYMOTT.

SIR,

With reference to the communication addressed from this Office to you on the 3rd ultimo, relative to your conduct as Crown Prosecutor at the late Quarter Sessions, at Parramatta, and with regard to your Memorial of the 9th of June last, I am directed to inform you that the Executive Council, upon a review of the circumstances attending your removal from office, and after mature deliberation, regret they are unable to advise that your present request should be complied with.

I am desired to remark that the Council have observed that you have already had a full opportunity (of which you fully availed yourself) to answer the charges preferred against you, and that the answer afforded by you upon the various points in question were before the Council, and were carefully weighed by them, in detail, before they arrived at the determination with respect to your removal.

SIR,

With reference to Mr. Cary's letter to you of the 18th May last, and my letter to you in answer of the 24th May, and the subsequent correspondence on the same subject, I have now the honor to state as follows.

It was not until yesterday that I received an intimation that my dismissal from office as Crown Prosecutor was not in consequence of any abandonment of duty on my part, but was attributable to certain offensive expressions contained in my said letter of the 24th May.

You

You will do me the justice to recollect, that very shortly after my dismissal I applied to you for the precise grounds on which I had been discharged, and that your reply was, that my answer was generally unsatisfactory.

Ever since then I have labored under the impression that I was dismissed upon a charge of abandonment of duty.

Relying upon the correctness of the information I have just received, I now beg to be permitted to withdraw, altogether, my letter of the 24th May (so as, however, not to admit that I abandoned my public duty), and to retract and apologize for any offensive expressions contained in it, or in any other letter written by me. Whatever expressions of that nature may have been written or said by me, were so used under the influence of feelings deeply wounded by a charge of my having abandoned my public duties,—a point on which I have always been acutely sensitive.

No. 1.

COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

103, Elizabeth-street,
Sydney, 6 December, 1858.

SIR,

I herewith make an application for one of the situations about to be made in the District Courts, trusting it may be received under circumstances which I will state, and which perhaps may be considered.

I was compelled three years since to quit the Supreme Court Office, after having served fifteen years my health became much impaired, but now improved,—therefore wish for some employment.

I have, &c.,

THE HONORABLE
THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

COLIN MACKENZIE.

No. 2.

ALEX. O. GRANT, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Court of Requests Office,
Parramatta, 15 January, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to make application for the situation of Registrar of the District Court in Parramatta, or in the event of Parramatta being selected for the Station of Chief Registrar of the Cumberland and Coast District, to apply for that appointment.

I have for the last two years and a half held the situation of Registrar of the Court of Requests, and of Clerk of Petty Sessions, in Parramatta.

I have been thirteen years in the Government service, having entered in January, 1846, and for the five years previous to my appointment here I filled the office of Inspector of Distilleries in Sydney, and before that was in the Long Room of the Customs.

2. I beg respectfully to make a few remarks with regard to the duty of Registrar of the District Courts.

I understand that the Chief Registrar will be required to perform the duties of District Registrar of the place in which he is stationed, and likewise to audit the accounts, and to exercise a general supervision over the Registrars of the whole Circuit.

Being District Registrar of the town in which he is placed, as well as Chief Registrar, it will be necessary for him to be stationary for the convenience of the public of that place, as it is always impossible to know when he may be required; I beg to offer to do the duty of Chief Registrar of the Cumberland and Coast District, as well as that of District Registrar of Parramatta, for the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds (£150), this is in addition to my salary (£225) as Clerk of Petty Sessions in Parramatta. By this means a considerable sum will be left for the purpose of paying higher salaries than £50 a year to the Registrars of the larger towns in the Circuit.

3. A Chief Registrar at £300 or £400 per annum, with duties to perform such as I have supposed, would not have sufficient work to do; for the auditing of quarterly or monthly accounts (as the case may be) of a dozen other Registrars, in addition to his work as District Registrar, would not fully occupy his time, and this would soon be manifest; and I at the same time most respectfully beg to suggest that £50 a year is not sufficient remuneration for the labor and responsibilities of Registrar in the larger towns, and that the duty would not be efficiently performed for that sum.

4. In Parramatta, during the past year (1858), there have been tried in the Court of Requests, four hundred cases in the £10 Court, and one hundred in the £30 jurisdiction, making altogether five hundred. As far as I have been able to ascertain, at Penrith and Windsor (where the Registrars salaries are £30, while at Parramatta it is £50) the number of cases are from fifty to one hundred a year less, and, from what inquiries I have made, I believe that at Bathurst, Goulburn, East and West Maitland, Mudgee, Campbelltown, Yass, Berrima, Armidale, Tamworth, and some other places, the number of cases will not be much fewer, and in saying so I am judging from the number tried before the Magistrates in their £10 Courts, and from the probable number of actions entered from the different places in the Supreme Court.

5. In conclusion I would point out that Parramatta would be the most convenient place in this Circuit for the Chief Registrar to be stationed, for there is quick communication by railway with Liverpool, Campbelltown, and the towns further south, and will shortly be to Penrith, and so to Windsor; and also for communicating with the Coast towns, it is the most eligible situation in the Circuit.

In the event of my not receiving the appointment of Chief or District Registrar, I shall only have £225 per annum as Clerk of Petty Sessions, after I have served thirteen years in the Government Service.

I have, &c.,

ALEX. O. GRANT.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Clerk of Petty Sessions in Parramatta.

Sydney, 3 February, 1859.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to offer you the appointment of Chief Registrar at Parramatta, for the Cumberland and Coast District, under the District Courts Act of 1858, and also Clerk of the Peace for that portion of the before-mentioned District, which is not included in the County of Cumberland, with salary at the rate of £300 per annum, to commence from the 1st instant.

ALEXANDER O. GRANT to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Police Office,

Parramatta, 10 February, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to call your attention to my letter of the 15th ultimo, and in the first paragraph of which I applied directly for the appointment of Chief Registrar of the District Courts for the Cumberland and Coast District.

I have

I have been given to understand that it is in contemplation to appoint Mr. Colin Mackenzie, formerly a Clerk in the Supreme Court, in Sydney, which appointment he voluntarily resigned, and I beg most respectfully to point out the great injustice that will be done to me by making such an appointment, in fact superseding me in my Registrarship, for in Cumberland the District Court is in reality an extension of, and a substitute for, the Court of Requests, and none of the staff of the Court of Requests in Sydney have been deprived of their situations.

After thirteen years service, as I have stated in my previous letter, I shall be left with a salary of £225 per annum, and having, as any inhabitants of Parramatta will confirm, zealously performed my duties.

I have been authorised by the Honorable the Chief Secretary for the Government, as intimated to me by Mr. James Byrnes, to recall to your recollection a conversation which you had with Mr. Cowper, in which you stated that I had made no application for the office of Chief Registrar, I beg again to direct your attention to the first few lines of my previous letter, which must have escaped your memory at the time.

I have, &c.,

ALEXR. O. GRANT,

Late Registrar of the Court of Requests.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 7th February, 1859, with respect to the appointments of Chief Registrars of District Courts.

Minute No. 59-6. Confirmed 14 February, 1859.

Approved, W. D.,
17 Feb., '59.

HIS Excellency the Governor General having invited the attention of the Council to the following appointments in the Public Service, proposed to be made in pursuance of the District Courts Act of 1858, the Council accordingly advise as follows, viz. :—

Alexander Charles Maxwell, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar in Sydney, from the 1st February, 1859.

George Swinnerton Yarnton, Esquire, to be the person in Sydney to execute jointly with the Chief Registrar the office of Registrar, from the 1st February, 1859.

Colin Mackenzie, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar at Parramatta for the Cumberland and Coast District, and also Clerk of the Peace for that portion of the before-mentioned District which is not included in the County of Cumberland.

Temple Nathan, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar at Goulburn, and Clerk of the Peace for the Southern District, from 1st February, 1859.

Thomas Charles Gore, Esquire, to be Chief Registrar at Bathurst, and Clerk of the Peace for the Western District, from 1st February, 1859.

No. 7.

HENRY CARY, ESQUIRE, to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Sydney, 11 March, 1859.

SIR,

I beg to be allowed to trouble you with some remarks and suggestions in reference to a Minute of Proceedings of the Executive Council, dated 7th February, 1859, with respect of rates of salary to be paid to certain officers of the District Courts, which was forwarded by order of the late Attorney General to the Judge of the District Courts.

My

My remarks, though in some respects, perhaps, applicable to other Districts, I would address exclusively to that of Cumberland and the Coast, with which alone I am concerned.

The Minute informs me that a salary of £300 is awarded to a Chief Registrar for Parramatta, and a salary of £60 for a Registrar for Parramatta and Liverpool. Now it appears from the 32nd section of the District Courts Act that there is no provision for a Chief and a Deputy or Subordinate Registrar, but in populous places two persons may be appointed to execute the office jointly, and the duties and emoluments, in case they cannot agree between themselves, are to be apportioned by the Court,—that is, the Judge. This appears to me to imply an equality, or something much like it; but, in the appointments which have been made by the Government, I cannot but infer that it was intended to make the Chief Registrar, not only Chief over the second Registrar at Parramatta, but also over those of the whole District,—otherwise it is difficult to account for the great disproportion in the salaries; but for such supervision by one Registrar over the others, I can find no pretence in the Act;—I apprehended, therefore, that both appointments cannot stand, but one must be cancelled.

The question then is, which of the two? To answer this it is necessary to look at the position of the other Registrars throughout the District. The same Minute informs the District Judges that the several Clerks of Petty Sessions are to be appointed Registrars at the various places. Now it is not my wish to make any invidious comparison between Mr. Colin Mackenzie, who is appointed Chief Registrar at Parramatta, and Mr. Grant, who according to the above Minute would be Registrar at the small salary, except that the former has had no experience in the duties he will have to perform, while the latter has for several years filled a similar office in the Court of Requests at Parramatta, to the entire satisfaction of all parties interested; but I think that the claims of the Registrars in other Districts should be considered. If the Districts are to any extent to answer the expectation of the public, the duties of all the Registrars will be much more arduous than they have heretofore been in the Court of Requests, but in some of them the salary has been diminished, thus, to mention one only, the Registrar for Windsor is to have £40 instead of £50, which sum I believe he formerly had.

I mention therefore to suggest (inasmuch as no Registrar can, as such, have any heavier duty to perform, than may arise from the excess of causes in his own Court over those of others,) that the whole allowance to that class of Officers should be apportioned according to the probable relative amount of business in each Court, and accordingly I beg to submit for the consideration of the Executive a scale of salaries, which (appropriating the exact sum, £790, allowed to the Registrars in my whole District,) will, to the best of my judgment, equalize the pay with the probable amount of work.

Parramatta .....	£120
Windsor .....	80
Braidwood .....	70
Penrith .....	70
Wollongong.....	70
Berrima .....	60
Bombala .....	40
Camden .....	40	{ I believe there is only one Clerk of Petty Sessions for these two places, who, until that Office is divided, will probably be Registrar at both places as already determined by the Minute.
Pictou .....	40
Campbelltown .....	40	{ In the Minute, Liverpool is joined with Parramatta, but there is the same Clerk at both Campbelltown and Liverpool, who has heretofore acted also in the Court of Requests for the two Districts.
Liverpool .....	40
Cooma .....	40
Eden .....	40
Kiama .....	40
	£790

I must mention one other difficulty which will arise if the Clerk at Parramatta is not also Registrar. The accommodation at the Court House there is already insufficient, and and if the Clerk's present room is not appropriated for keeping the records of the District Court, another building must be provided; this remark will also apply to Liverpool, if that town is detached from Campbelltown and joined with Parramatta.

Another subject on which I have to trouble you, is that of the salaries of Bailiffs:—Mr. Cowper, in a late interview with which he favored me, agreed to my request that I should have a separate Bailiff for each Court, as appears to me is anticipated by the 36th section of the Act, and that the amount appropriated for their salaries should be divided as follows;—£35 each for the Bailiffs of Braidwood, Parramatta, Penrith, Windsor, and Wollongong, and £30 each for the rest,—in all £445. As I presume that this new appointment, being acceded to by Mr. Cowper, requires only to be confirmed by His Excellency the Governor General, I will not trouble you at length with my reasons for this alteration in the plan of the Government.

But there is another point connected with the office of Bailiff to which I must beg leave to draw your attention. By section 39 and the Schedule of the Act, the sum of sixpence is charged "for service of every summons or subpoena if within two miles of the Court House," and therefore "for such service every mile beyond two miles," and these fees are to go to the Consolidated Revenue of the Colony, so that a Bailiff may, and doubtless in very many cases will, have to serve summonses and subpoenas at a distance of many miles without any remuneration beyond his small salary. This provision may operate with perhaps little severity on Bailiffs in Sydney, whose District is comparatively narrow, and who, moreover, have salaries of £150 and £104 respectively, with, of course, a much larger amount of fees from excess of business over other Districts, but in wide spread Country Districts I fear it will deter competent and trustworthy persons from accepting the office. I propose, therefore (if my remarks are considered of any weight), that the above fees should by an Order of Council be transferred from the first to the third paragraph of the Schedule, under the provisions of the 42nd section, which enables the Governor with the advice of the Executive to alter the scale of fees, such alteration to apply to the Country Districts; as to its applicability to Sydney, I do not pretend to offer any suggestion.

Should the allowance prove too large, the Executive may, under the latter part of the 39th section, bring it within its just limits.

I have &c.,

HENRY CARY.

THE HONORABLE

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

No. 8.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 14th March, 1859, with respect to the designation of certain Officers of the District Courts, &c., &c.

Minute No. 59-11. Confirmed 21 March, 1859.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 7th ultimo, with respect to the appointment of Chief Registrars, Registrars, and other Officers of District Courts, established in pursuance of the District Courts Act of 1858, and the respective rates of salary and allowances to be paid to such Officers, His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a letter which has been addressed to the Honorable the Attorney General by Henry Cary, Esquire, Judge of the District Courts of the Cumberland and Coast District, in which, referring exclusively to his own District, he expresses doubts of the arrangements that have been made, more particularly with reference to the office of Chief Registrar, being in strict conformity with the terms of the local enactment.

2. Mr. Cary is of opinion that the 32nd section of the Act in question does not contemplate the appointment of a Chief Registrar and Deputy or Subordinate Registrars, but the appointment in populous places of two persons to execute jointly the Office of Registrar. He proceeds to shew that the appointment of a Chief Registrar, having authority over the several Deputy Registrars in his District, would be unnecessary and moreover attended with many practical inconveniences, and further recommends that the whole sum appropriated to the remuneration of Registrars in the Cumberland and Coast District should be apportioned according to the probable relative amount of business in each Court, for which purpose he submits an amended scale exhibiting the manner in which he would propose the sum of £790 now allowed to be distributed; Mr. Cary also suggests a modification in the scale of fees to be received by the Bailiffs of the Court.

4. Mr. Cary's letter has been under the consideration of the Honorable the Attorney General and the Solicitor General, who, in a Minute appended to the correspondence now before the Council, have expressed generally their concurrence in Mr. Cary's views, save as respects the fees of Bailiffs, for the alteration of which they see at present no ground, observing that, if it should hereafter become necessary, a remedy can easily be effected under the 42nd section of the Act. The Council having deliberated at some length, upon the several questions arising out of the correspondence now before them, advise that in the Cumberland and Coast District the appointment of Mr. Colin Mackenzie, as Chief Registrar be cancelled, and that the appointments of the several Officers, who in the other Districts have been appointed Chief Registrars, be modified in so far as the designation of the Chief Registrar is concerned. In the Sydney District, the Council advise that the Office of Registrar be executed jointly, pursuant to the 33rd clause of the Act, by Mr. Maxwell, whom it was proposed to appoint Chief Registrar, and Mr. Yarnton, the Deputy Registrar; and in the remaining Districts, with the exception of Cumberland and the Coast, they recommend that the Officers designated as Chief Registrars be appointed Registrars of the District Courts.

6. The Council approve of the revised scale of remuneration to Registrars in the Cumberland and Coast District, and advise that it be adopted accordingly, as set forth in the schedule hereto appended, marked A.

7. Acting upon a further suggestion of the Crown Law Officers, the Council advise that the Registrars and Bailiffs of the several District Courts be required to provide securities to the amount set forth in the annexed schedule marked B, for the due performance of their respective duties.

SIR,

Adverting to my letter of the 3rd of February last, No. 59-63, I am now directed by the Attorney General to inform you that the Government, having deliberated upon several questions relative to the operation of the District Courts Act of 1858, have advised that in the Cumberland and Coast District your appointment as Chief Registrar, &c., should be cancelled.

The duty of Registrar, &c., &c., at Parramatta, will be performed by the Clerk of Petty Sessions at that place.

No. 10.

COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ., to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 9 May, 1859.

SIR,

I write to say the amount which I have received from the Government is anything but what I might have expected for my expenses and loss of time.

The house at Parramatta I had to re-lease, also move from Bourke into Palmer-street, from there out of Town, having been much inconvenienced.

You are perfectly aware I gave up my house in Bourke-street, also a business which brought me about £150 per annum, having been appointed as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace for Parramatta, under the District Courts Act for 1858.

I now look to the Government for another situation, having a family to provide for, also being disappointed and put about up to the present time.

I have, &amp;c.,

COLIN MACKENZIE

P.S. Please direct to me, care the Honorable G. K. Holden.

THE HONORABLE

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

No. 11.

COLIN MACKENZIE, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Petersham, 20 June, 1859.

SIR,

Having received a letter from the Colonial Secretary in answer to mine, he refers me to you; I therefore do so, and must explain my case. I beg to say, on the 1st of February last I was appointed as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace for the District of Parramatta, under the District Courts Act of 1858, with a salary of £300 per annum. Upon accepting the appointment, I gave up a business which brought me about £150 per annum, and am now without means from one or the other. The £44 which I received as compensation from the Government, only paid the expenses which I had been put at from their mistake. Five months will have elapsed, at the expiration of this, without my making one shilling. What I look at is this,—giving up my business, and then to be deprived of both.

I had given up my house at Woolloomooloo, and taken one at Parramatta, when the Colonial Secretary sent for me, and said, "Do not go to Parramatta," although all my furniture, &c, was packed, and every arrangement made to move; in two days I should have been there.

From this disappointment, I had to move out of my house and go into another, where I remained three weeks; from there to where I now reside, at Petersham, five miles distant from town.

I must give you to understand, in the year 1856 I was compelled to leave my situation as Second Clerk in the Supreme Court, from impaired health, but it having improved, and having a family, I thought I would apply for one of the situations about to be made in the District Courts, when the one named was offered.

I have to remark, that when leaving the Supreme Court, after fifteen years' service, a pension of £35 10s. was given per annum. From the 1st February to the 24th March, the pension was deducted.

Since I commenced, I find the letter was from Mr. Elyard, for the Colonial Secretary. I complained in my letter to the Colonial Secretary, saying, I was very much dissatisfied with the amount given; also, that I looked to the Government for another situation.

SIR,

It is now past five months since I gave up my commission business; from that time I have been out of pocket the sum of £62 10s., a serious loss to me. This amount may appear but trifling to the Government, but my having a family this amount would be of great assistance to me.

SIR,

Since writing this letter this morning I saw the Attorney General, when he stated he could do nothing for me, therefore I apply to you.

I cannot but say my case is a very hard one, to think I gave up my Commission business, upon accepting the situation as Chief Registrar and Clerk of the Peace, for Parramatta. I consider the Government ought to make up the loss to me, if only for the last five months.

I am sorry being obliged to appeal to you again.

RICHARD FARRAN.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 18 May, 1860.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of Richard Farran, of Goulburn, in the Colony of New South Wales, late Bailiff of the Court of Petty Sessions,—

SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner for a period of nine years held the office of Bailiff of the Goulburn Court of Petty Sessions, and was discharged therefrom in consequence of the establishment of the District Court in the same place.

That your Petitioner faithfully and honorably fulfilled the duties of his office during the period he held it, a certificate to which effect was furnished in his favor to the Executive Council by the local Magistrates.

That your Petitioner is now suffering great hardship for want of means to support life, and that he is unable to obtain employment which his age (79 years) and infirmities consequent thereon would enable him to fulfil, and that he is quite destitute.

That your Petitioner applied to the Executive Council for a pension, and that after considerable delay he received for answer that it appeared to Executive Council that as his appointment was made by the Magistrates under an Act of Council, and his remuneration consisted of fees provided by such Act, his case did not seem to the Executive Council to be one coming within the class of those persons having claims for loss of office.

Your Petitioner humbly submits that it is a great hardship to be suddenly deprived of his only means of subsistence, and feels assured that the Legislature could never have intended by creating a new office to deprive the holders of office thus superseded of all claim to consideration. And your Petitioner humbly prays that your Honorable House will adopt such steps as your Honorable House shall deem meet to afford your Petitioner relief.

And your Petitioner will ever pray.

MR. JOHN MOORE DILLON.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 15 December, 1859.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of John Moore Dillon,—

SHEWETH :—

That Petitioner was, in the month of May, 1839, appointed to the office of Crown Solicitor for Criminal Business, at a salary of £500 a-year, which was, after the discovery of gold in the colony, increased temporarily by the sum of £175, and was subsequently fixed as a permanent salary at the sum of £650.

That on the 23rd of May, 1859, Petitioner received from the Secretary to the Crown Law Officers, the following letter :—

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 23 May, 1859.*

Sir,
I am directed by the Attorney General to inform you that, at a Meeting of the Executive Council to-day, it was determined that your appointment as Criminal Crown Solicitor shall cease on the 31st instant, and that after the above date your services will be no longer required. I am at the same time to state that the Attorney General will be prepared to receive any claim you may deem it necessary to make by way of compensation for your loss of office.

I have, &c.,

J. M. Dillon, Esq.,
Criminal Crown Solicitor.

W. E. PLUNKETT.

That Petitioner, on the 1st of June last, a week after the receipt of such letter, ceased to hold the office to which he was appointed as aforesaid in 1839, and had held continuously for upwards of 20 years.

That your Honorable House having voted to your Petitioner £126 7s. 9d., being at the rate of £216 13s. 4d. per annum, as the first instalment of a pension to that amount for the loss of his said office, your Petitioner has received such portion thereof as is yet due.

That your Petitioner is desirous of having his case reconsidered by your Honorable House.

And your Petitioner accordingly prays that your Honorable House will take his case into consideration, and act therein as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

No. 1.

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE CONVICT CLASSIFICATION BOARD to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY, forwarding a Petition from James Hibburd, a Convict under sentence at Cockatoo Island.

No. 58-28.

Convict Department,
Sydney, 21 April, 1858.

Sir,

James Hibburd,
per Regina.

I have the honor to transmit, for the information and command of His Excellency the Governor General, a Petition from the convict named in the margin, praying that he may be allowed to exile himself, under the provisions of the Act of the Legislative Council, 11 Vic., No. 34.

Hibburd was convicted at the Supreme Court, Sydney, on the 6th December, 1854, of assault and robbery, and sentenced, by His Honor the Chief Justice, to ten years on the roads, the first year in irons (the latter portion afterwards remitted.)

As the conduct of Hibburd has been very exemplary during the period of three years and upwards that he has served on Cockatoo Island, and as he will become eligible to receive a Ticket-of-Leave about the month of August next, the Board respectfully recommend the prayer of his Petition to favourable consideration, provided His Honor Sir Alfred Stephen offers no objection.

I have, &amp;c.,

JNO. McLERIE,

Chairman of the Convict Classification Board.

THE HONORABLE

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

[Enclosure in No. 1.]

To His Excellency Sir William Thomas Denison, Knight, Governor General of all Her Majesty's Australasian Colonies, &c., &c., &c.

The humble Petition of James Hibburd, at present a prisoner on Cockatoo Island,

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioner was tried and convicted at the Criminal Sittings of the Supreme Court holden in Sydney, December, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, before His Honor the Chief Justice, and sentenced to be worked on the roads or public works of the Colony, for ten years, the first year in irons.

That immediately on the passing of the above sentence, it was recommended by Honor the Chief Justice that the one year in irons be remitted, which recommendation was granted by the late Governor General, Sir Charles Augustus Fitz Roy.

That your Petitioner has now completed the probation for the sentence of nine years, and that during that time he has held the situation of Hospital Overseer for nearly three years; that his conduct has thus been prominently under the eyes of the authorities; that during the whole time of the imprisonment he has undergone there has been no charge even preferred against him by the authorities; that latterly he has suffered much from severe attacks of liver complaint, as may be seen by the certificate of the Visiting Surgeon, to whose department he has been assigned for nearly three years, and by the records of the office, attached to this petition.

That your Petitioner, by the assistance of his friends, would be enabled to leave the country should the indulgence to do so be granted to him.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays, that your Excellency would see fit to allow him to exile himself under the provisions of the 4 Victoria, No. 34, section 4, or grant him the indulgence of a Ticket-of-Leave, as to your Excellency may seem most fitting.

And your Petitioner will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

Cockatoo Island,
13 March, 1858.

Hospital,

Hospital, Cockatoo, March 23, 1858.

James Hibburd has been attached to the Hospital on this island for three years, as overseer. He has been most attentive to his duties, and I have always found him a useful, trustworthy person—one on whom I would place the fullest reliance. He has suffered occasionally from severe attacks of liver complaint during his confinement.

GEO. WEST,
Visiting Surgeon.

The Petitioner, James Hibburd, per Regia, was received here on the 11th December, 1854, under a sentence of ten years to the roads, the first year in irons, passed upon him at the Supreme Court at Sydney on the 6th of December, 1854, for assault and robbery, since which period his conduct has been very good.

Nothing Recorded.

The iron gang sentence was remitted, and not charged against him, as appears by a copy of the Supreme Court Calendar furnished to this office.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Supreme Court,
31 May, 1858.*

SIR,

In obedience to His Excellency's commands, I have the honor to report upon the case of James Hibburd, convicted in December, 1854, before me, of a felonious assault and robbery.

I lament exceedingly to be compelled to report unfavorably of this person's case, because he is connected very nearly with persons in prominent station in this Colony. If he had been a mere youth, seduced by evil company, I might think that the ends of justice demanded no rigorous adhesion to the sentence pronounced; supposing him to exhibit a real penitence, and his parents being willing to guarantee his immediate exile. But the prisoner Hibburd (which is not his real name) is an abandoned character, of 32 years of age or upwards; he is obviously well-born and well-educated, and the robbery was a planned and aggravated one. He was drinking in a public house near South Creek, when the prosecutor was foolishly exhibiting some money. It was night, and the prisoner lay in wait for the prosecutor on his way home, knocked him down with a fence-rail, held the prosecutor by the throat, throat, and robbed him of £40. He was apprehended in a theatre in Sydney a few days afterwards; when he was claimed as a prisoner by the name of Cook, under a warrant issued from Brisbane Water, on a charge arising there.

Dr. West reports that he finds Hibburd a "trustworthy person," on whom he "would place the fullest reliance." Such a certificate, applied to such a person, will pass for what those better acquainted with convicts than I am may think it is worth. For my part, I feel some scruples in sending such a person to infest another Colony. If the prisoner's health really requires removal, I have little to say against the measure, and if he be entitled to a ticket-of-leave he must of course obtain one; but, as far as I am concerned, I will be no party to a recommendation in this man's favor, until he shall have served at least one-half of his sentence.

I am, &c.,

ALFRED STEPHEN.

VOTES No. 15. FRIDAY, 23 SEPTEMBER, 1859.

15. Case of James Hibburd :—Mr. Jones moved, pursuant to notice, "That" an Address be presented to the Governor General, praying that His Excellency will be pleased to cause to be laid upon the Table of this House, Copies of all Petitions presented by James Hibburd, a convict sentenced to ten years hard labour on the roads or other public works, and said to have been prematurely released from Cockatoo Island in June, 1858, praying for remission of sentence; of all applications presented to the Convict Classification Board, or to the Government, on behalf of the said Hibburd; of all correspondence between the Convict Classification Board and the Government, and between the Colonial Secretary or any other Member of the Government, and His Honor the Chief Justice in reference to the case of Hibburd; of all Minutes of Proceedings (if any) of the Executive Council in reference to this case; and of the letter conveying the decision of the Executive Government in reference to the remission of Hibburd's sentence; together with a statement shewing how this decision was carried out.

Debate ensued.

Mr. Murray moved, That the Question be amended by the omission of all the words thereof, following the word "That" at the commencement, with a view to the insertion in their place of the words "the case of James Hibburd, a convict, sentenced to ten years hard labour on the roads or other public works, and said to have been prematurely released from Cockatoo Island in June, 1858, be referred to a Select Committee of this House, consisting of ten Members inclusive of the Mover, to be appointed by Ballot, with power to send for persons and papers."

Debate continued.

Question,—That the words proposed to be omitted stand part of the Question,—put and negatived.

Question,—That the words proposed to be inserted in place of the words omitted, be so inserted,—put and passed.

Question,—That the case of James Hibburd, a convict, sentenced to ten years hard labour on the roads or other public works, and said to have been prematurely released from Cockatoo Island in June, 1858, be referred to a Select Committee of this House, consisting of ten Members inclusive of the Mover, to be appointed by Ballot, with power to send for persons and papers,—put and passed;—

Whereupon the House proceeded to the Ballot, and the Speaker declared the following Members to be, with the Mover, the Committee duly appointed, viz. :—Mr. Jones, Mr. Hay, Mr. Black, Mr. Dalley, Mr. Douglas, Revd. Dr. Lang, Mr. Plunkett, Mr. Forster, and Mr. Parkes.

CASE OF JAMES HIBBURD.

REPORT.

---

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 23rd of September last, to whom was referred "the case of James Hibburd, a convict sentenced to ten years hard labour on the roads or other public works, and said to have been prematurely released from Cockatoo Island, in June, 1858,"—and to whom was also referred, on the 28th September last, certain correspondence in reference to the same case,—have agreed to the following Report:—

Your Committee have carefully considered the Papers referred to them, and have taken the Evidence hereunto appended on the subject; but they see no reason for supposing that any parliamentary or ministerial influences were brought to bear on the case of Hibburd.

The Chief Justice, to whom his petition for a mitigation of his sentence was referred, reported against it; but the Governor General, in the exercise of his discretion, decided in his favor.

T. A. MURRAY,
Chairman.

*Legislative Assembly Chamber,
Sydney, 22 December, 1859.*

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMITTEE.

WEDNESDAY, 28 SEPTEMBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

Mr. Jones,	Mr. Douglas,
Mr. Dalley,	Mr. Black,
Mr. Forster,	Mr. Parkes,
Mr. Murray,	Mr. Plunkett,
The Rev. Dr. Lang.

The Honorable T. A. Murray, Esq., was elected Chairman, and that gentleman being unavoidably absent in attendance on another Committee, Mr. Jones took the Chair.

Committee deliberated on the course of proceeding to be adopted in carrying on the inquiry referred to them.

1. Motion made and Question (Mr. Dalley)—That the Honorable C. Cowper be summoned to give evidence at the next meeting of the Committee—agreed to.

2. Mr. Murray at this stage of the proceedings entered the room and took his seat at the Table.

Motion made and Question (Mr. Forster)—That Mr. Murray do move this day in the House, that all papers in the case of James Hibburt laid upon the Table of the House be referred to this Committee—agreed to.

Committee adjourned till Thursday, 29th September, 1859.

THURSDAY, 29 SEPTEMBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

The Honorable T. A. Murray, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Douglas,	Mr. Plunkett,
Mr. Jones,	Mr. Dalley,
Rev. Dr. Lang,	Mr. Black,
Mr. Parkes,	Mr. Hay.

1. At the request of the Chairman, the Clerk procured for the use of the Committee, the M.S. Papers in reference to this case from the Colonial Secretary, to whom they were by permission of the Committee again returned.

The Honorable C. Cowper, Esquire, Colonial Secretary, called in and examined.
Committee then adjourned till Wednesday, 5th October, 1859.

No. 3.

WEDNESDAY, 5 OCTOBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

The Honorable T. A. Murray, Esq., in the Chair.

Mr. Douglas,	Mr. Hay,
Mr. Plunkett,	Mr. Parkes,
Mr. Forster,	Rev. Dr. Lang,
Mr. Jones.

J. M'Lerie, Esq., Inspector General, called in and examined.

G. West, Esq., M.D., called in and examined.

S. North, Esq., W.P.M., called in and examined.

The Chairman's attendance being required on another Committee, and that gentleman having vacated the Chair during the examination of the last witness, it was taken by Mr. Jones.

Committee adjourned till Wednesday, the 12th instant.

WEDNESDAY,

WEDNESDAY, 12 OCTOBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

The Honorable T. A. Murray, Esq., in the Chair.

Mr. Douglas,
Mr. Dalley,
Mr. Parkes,

Mr. Jones,
Mr. Plunkett,
Rev. Dr. Lang.

W. Elyard, Esquire, Principal Under Secretary, called in and examined.

1. The Witness produced a copy of a letter from the Colonial Secretary to the Chief Justice, covering a Petition from "James Hibbard," praying for a mitigation of his sentence, and was requested to apply to the Chief Justice for the Petition mentioned therein, for the use of the Committee.

2. The Chairman produced a letter from A. Denison, Esquire, Private Secretary, (in reply to a summons requiring his attendance before the Committee) requesting that he might be excused from attendance, on the ground that he has no personal knowledge of the matter under consideration. After deliberation, the Committee decided that under these circumstances, it was not necessary to require the attendance of that gentleman.

Committee deliberated and adjourned.

THURSDAY, 20 OCTOBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

The Honorable T. A. Murray, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Douglas,
Mr. Dalley,
Mr. Black,

Mr. Jones,
Mr. Plunkett,
Mr. Forster.

Sir Alfred Stephen, Knight, (Chief Justice), examined.

1. The Clerk having, during the examination of the Witness, informed the Committee that the House was adjourned till Tuesday next, and that, according to Parliamentary Practice, no Committee could, without special leave, sit during such adjournment.

The Committee thereupon adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, 21 DECEMBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

T. A. Murray, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Jones,
Mr. Parkes,

Mr. Plunkett,
Rev. Dr. Lang.

The Committee proceeded to consider the Evidence which had been taken during the course of the inquiry, and, after deliberation, it was agreed that the Chairman should prepare and submit for the consideration of the Committee a Draft Report upon the subject referred to them.

Committee adjourned till the 22nd instant.

THURSDAY, 22 DECEMBER, 1859.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

T. A. Murray, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Jones,

Rev. Dr. Lang.

Mr. Parkes,

The Chairman laid before the Committee a Draft Report which, having been read, was verbally amended, and Motion made and Question put, That this Report be adopted as the Report of the Committee. (Carried.)

Chairman requested to Report the same to the House.

Legislative Assembly.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE CASE OF

JAMES HIBBURD.

THURSDAY, 29 SEPTEMBER, 1859.

Present:—

MR. BLACK,
MR. DALLEY,
MR. DOUGLAS,
MR. HAY,

MR. JONES,
THE REV. DR. LANG,
MR. MURRAY,
MR. PARKES,

MR. PLUNKETT.

THE HON. TERENCE AUBREY MURRAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

The Honorable Charles Cowper, Esq., M.P., examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You are the Colonial Secretary? I am.
2. And Vice-President of the Executive Council? Yes.
3. Can you describe to the Committee the usual mode in which petitions for pardon, or commutation of sentences, are dealt with by the Executive Government? In all, except capital cases, they are dealt with by the Governor General, passing through the hands of the Colonial Secretary? In capital cases the Executive Council is consulted.
4. Is that the general course, or is there any deviation from it? It is the course invariably adopted. I do not remember a single deviation from it.
5. The Executive Council does not deliberate upon commutations of sentences except in capital cases? I do not remember an instance.
6. The Governor General acts of his own motion? He does. Except in one or two instances I do not remember to have made a remark upon a petition for commutation. I preferred leaving matters of that kind to the Governor General, for various reasons; but, perhaps, in one or two cases, certainly in not more than half-a-dozen, since I have been in office, I have made a remark on a case; but generally I have passed on the petitions, as in this case, to the Governor General, leaving His Excellency to the exercise of his discretion as regards the commutation as a prerogative of the Crown.
7. You occasionally have had conversations with the Governor General upon these petitions? I do not remember a single instance of ever having spoken to His Excellency upon any case, except one, when I requested His Excellency, as a personal favor, to pardon a man who had formerly been in my service, and he declined to do it, though it was afterwards granted.
8. Have you had any conversation with the Governor General with reference to this case of James Hibburd? The other day, when some letters appeared in the newspaper with reference to this subject, His Excellency, in a conversation I had with him —
9. By Mr. Jones: Prior to the matter being discussed? No; I had no conversation with the Governor General, nor with anybody, prior to that.
10. By Mr. Parkes: Your knowledge of the case is confined entirely to the papers here, in this return? Wholly, exclusively; and as I wish the whole matter to come out, I will state what occurred between Captain M'Leir and myself, yesterday, when he reminded me of what I had forgotten. When these papers were moved for there was a document which could not be produced in time—a Return of the Convictions in the Supreme Court—in which the Chief Justice made a recommendation that a portion of the sentence referring to the punishment in irons should be remitted, if the Governor so pleased. It was in the time of Sir Charles Fitz Roy's Government, and upon this document Sir Charles Fitz Roy marked "Approved" with his initials. Mr. Elyard had not this document in his possession the other day, when the answer to the Address of the Assembly was prepared; and as I desired to lay it upon the Table speedily—having made a promise to that effect to the House—it was omitted; but Captain M'Lerie came to me yesterday with this document, and handed it to me, that I might have it for the Committee in case they desired to see it. I had at that time some conversation with Capt. M'Lerie.

Esq., M.P.

11. By Mr. Jones: What is the nature of that document? A Return of the Convictions at the Supreme Court. The Session in which this man was tried was December, 1854. It is a document sent in after the gaol delivery; it is signed by the three Judges, and the three clerks of the Judges. I recollected having, after the correspondence appeared in the papers the other day, a conversation with Captain M'Lerie. That gentleman said—"You remember a remark that I made to you in your office, with regard to Hibburd's case, when you evidently were in total ignorance of every particular connected with it?" and I said—"Now you remind me I have some recollection of it—can you bring to my mind what took place?" "Why," he said, "the Governor General had ordered this man his conditional pardon, and you happened to mention to me the fact, and I said 'I suppose you know to whom it alludes; I am glad of it;' you replied, 'No, I have not the slightest idea.' I said, 'Are you not aware that it alludes to the brother of a Member of the House.' You said, 'I had no idea of the matter;' and I then replied, 'I fancied you might have heard something about it.'" I then recollected that after everything had been done in the matter, Captain M'Lerie had mentioned this to me. Yesterday, when he presented to me this document, I said, "I cannot bring to mind how I came to speak to you, or to mention to you anything connected with this case of pardoning." He said, "As far as I remember I came to your office by accident, on the morning when you were dealing with a number of letters before you, and while you were in conversation with me you read them through, and put your initials upon them as fast as you could deal with them." I may remark that I often do carry on conversations with people while I am casually running through papers. Captain M'Lerie then went on to state, that while running through these papers I said, "Oh! the Governor General, I see, has ordered this man a pardon, notwithstanding that the Chief Justice does not quite concur in it;" and as it alluded to the Classification Board, he turned round and said, "May I look what case it is?" He did so, and it happened to be this particular case. He then said, "To tell the truth I am glad he has done so, for there are reasons why this convict should not have his ticket-of-leave in this Colony." That was how the conversation arose between us, when he saw me putting my initials under those of the Governor General and pass the paper on; and from that hour until the appearance of the letter in the newspaper commenting upon the matter, I do not believe I mentioned the circumstance, or gave it a place in my recollection. So completely had I dismissed the subject from my mind, that I did not think of what Captain M'Lerie had said until Mr. Weekes came into my office the morning after the correspondence appeared in the Herald, and alluded to the supposed family connection of the party with a Member of the House. Mr. Elyard being anxious to clear the office from suspicion, or having given documents upon which the attack was founded, said he was quite relieved to find that the Judge's notes had not been got out of my office, as we had never had them. He seemed to think that the office was under suspicion of having given up these documents.

12. By the Chairman: Do you mean the Judge's letter of the 31st May? No, I mean the Judge's notes of the trial, which, I think, it is an extraordinary fact, should have found their way into an anonymous letter in a newspaper.

13. By Mr. Plunkett: Did they appear in a newspaper? Yes.

14. By the Chairman: Is it usual to send the Judge's notes into the Colonial Secretary's Office? No; in capital cases, not in others.

15. By Mr. Dalley: In such cases he makes a report to the Executive? Yes; he brings them with him, and takes them away again.

16. By the Chairman: Did the Judge's notes appear in the paper? Yes.

17. The notes of the trial? So I believe.

18. By Mr. Hay: Are you aware whether the Judge's notes are obtainable by members of the profession on application, as a matter of course? No.

19. By the Chairman: Did you hear at all that there was any other charge against Hibburd? I never knew anything about the man.

20. A warrant for his apprehension on another charge? No, I did not know it. I never heard anything about it.

21. By Mr. Parkes: Have you never heard anything of him since his exile? I have heard, since this matter has been discussed, some rumour that he has appeared in Melbourne.

22. Nothing officially? No; I have never heard the man's name.

23. By Mr. Dalley: Had you any conversation, respecting this man, with any Member of the Assembly at any period before the Governor granted a conditional pardon? I never had any conversation with anybody. I knew nothing whatever of the man until Captain M'Lerie saw me put my initials to the paper. I then happened to say—for that was the expression he made use of when he repeated the circumstances to me yesterday—"Dear me! I see the Governor General has given this man a pardon, notwithstanding the Chief Justice's letter;" and he said "I am not sorry for it, for I am glad this man is not to have a ticket-of-leave in the Colony," and he explained why.

24. By Mr. Jones: I understand that this conversation which you had with Captain M'Lerie took place after the Governor General had issued a conditional pardon? Yes, while I was actually putting my initials to it.

25. I understand you further to say that you never had any conversation with any Member of the Assembly, with reference to this man's case, before the Governor General dealt with it? No.

The Hon.
C. Cowper,
Esq., M.P.

26. Have you had any conversation with any Member of the Assembly, in reference to this case, subsequently? Not until this letter appeared in the paper the other day, which of course made it a matter of common conversation.

29 Sept., 1869.

27. Have you any reason to suppose that any Member of the Assembly, either directly or indirectly, had any communication with the Governor General? I am quite sure—as sure as I can be, without putting the question to him—that the Governor General knew nothing about it, except from the papers; for the other day he spoke of the case of Hubbard or Hibburd, which had been discussed in the papers, and asked who it alluded to.

28. You have reason to believe that no influence was used, either directly or indirectly, to obtain this conditional pardon from the Governor General? I have.

29. That there was no kind of representation made to him to induce him to grant a conditional pardon to this man? I have no reason to believe it; but I have every reason to believe that there was no such influence used.

30. Have you any reason to believe that the Governor, at the time he directed the issue of this conditional pardon, was aware of any relationship between this man Hibburd and any Member of the Legislature? I have no reason to suppose he was, for when the other day he asked what was this piece of work about Hibburd in the papers, he appeared to be totally in ignorance of it—it never seemed to have been in his recollection.

31. By Mr. Plunkett: Is it not unusual for the Governor General to grant pardons in opposition to the express opinion of the Judge? It is very difficult sometimes to know what the Judge's opinion is, especially the Chief Justice's.

32. Such a very decided objection as is stated here—is it not very unusual for the Governor to grant a pardon in such a case—do you know any other instance of the kind? I have paid very little attention to cases of the kind; but I know correspondence on cases of the kind are sometimes very embarrassing, on account of the uncertainty of the Chief Justice's recommendations. I have known him to recommend that a pardon should not be given, and afterwards to recommend the pardon should be given.

33. In these cases have pardons been given until he has acknowledged that they should be granted? Of course not, otherwise he would not have admitted that the cases were so. I have had a case of this kind:—The Governor General has inquired—"Does the Chief Justice mean to recommend this man for pardon, or not?" I have then put "Inquire," and then he has given a distinct expression of opinion. I think, judging from the Minute of His Excellency, that he considered, as the Legislature had settled the policy of allowing convicts to be exiled at the end of two years, the reasons given for not adopting the policy of exile in this case seemed hardly to have had sufficient weight; and having more regard for New South Wales than for the other Colonies, and this man having served one year and some months more than the term required, he determined not to give him a ticket-of-leave for the Colony. Captain M'Lerie, I may state, handed me in a memorandum to shew, as far as he could trace, that no particular consideration had been shewn to this man at any part of his career. From this it appears that he was received on Cockatoo Island on the 11th December, and, although the Judge recommended, simultaneously with the sentence, that the irons should be taken off—which seems to have been approved on the 6th January—the irons do not appear to have been removed until the 23rd February.

34. By Mr. Dalley: Was not that an extraordinary proceeding? I suppose it was caused by official delay. Captain M'Lerie states that there was no especial consideration shewn him; he was kept for six months at hard work before he had indulgence, for it was the 6th of August before he was appointed a wardsman. I see in his description he is stated to be a surgeon, and, I believe, it was mainly on account of having some knowledge of medicine that he was put as wardsman in the hospital.

35. By Mr. Jones: I suppose Dr. West and Mr. Ormsby would be able to speak as to the man's treatment while he was on the Island? Yes.

36. By the Chairman: It is a very bad system? The whole system is very bad indeed, and I was in correspondence with the Chief Justice at the very time this took place, and had been for some weeks previously in reference to the generally injurious operation of the system of remission of convict sentences. It had been for a long time—even before the period of my coming into office—a matter of anxiety with me, but I had found considerable difficulty in dealing with it, and it was not until after long and numerous conferences with Capt. Mayne, the former Inspector General of Police, Capt. M'Lerie, the present Inspector General of Police, the Chief Justice, and various conferences with the Governor General, whose opinion upon all matters connected with prison discipline is entitled to great respect, and, after much consideration, that the Government determined to abolish the whole of the regulations. But there are now on Cockatoo Island a hundred convicts sentenced on the new system, and the Government seemed bound to comply with the regulations in reference to the old convicts.

37. By Mr. Hay: I believe the Governor General has been always much opposed to the system of remission? Yes.

38. By Mr. Jones: This case does not depend upon the regulations framed under the authority of that law, but is exercised directly under the law itself? Except in this way—that as Capt. M'Lerie states, that the man will be entitled to a ticket-of-leave in the course of a month or so, and as the Chief Justice says, "if the man be entitled to a ticket-of-leave he must of course obtain one"—the Governor says "under all the circumstances we had better get rid of him from the country by giving him a conditional pardon."

39. Supposing there had been no such regulations in the law, the man would have been entitled

The Hon.
C. Cowper,
Esq., M.P.

29 Sept., 1852.

entitled to a ticket-of-leave, and the Governor General was entitled under that law to grant a conditional pardon on condition of exile? Yes, but I am not sure if the Governor General would have allowed him any remission but for the ticket-of-leave regulations.

40. By Mr. Plunkett: Are you certain that the Governor General is correct in the view that the man would be entitled to a ticket-of-leave? The Board states so in their letter—"As the conduct of Hibburd has been very exemplary during the period of three years and upwards that he has served on Cockatoo Island, and as he will become eligible to receive a ticket-of-leave about the month of August next, the Board respectfully recommend the prayer of his petition to favorable consideration." With regard to these regulations the Committee should perhaps understand how they operate. It is not long since that a man and his wife petitioned for a ticket-of-leave, and the man was recommended for it at the end of three years and one month. That man and his wife had been tried for the murder of their child and had been convicted of manslaughter, but it was so aggravated a case of manslaughter that the Judge sentenced them to fifteen years imprisonment; but the man, under the system of commutation and of marks, got a ticket-of-leave at the end of three years and one month. Upon this taking place the wife thought she was hardly dealt with that she had not a ticket-of-leave, and petitioned for one, but it was found that it could not be given, for there was no regulation for the issue of tickets-of-leave for females. The Governor General, however, as the man had been released more than a year, felt bound to release the woman also, and both man and woman are now at large, having been tried for the serious offence to which I have alluded.

41. By the Chairman: Will you cause a copy of these regulations to be furnished to the Committee? Yes, but they are printed upon the records of the House, upon my own motion, when I was a Member of the late Legislative Council.

42. By Mr. Plunkett: Has your attention been called at all to what Captain M'Leerie states here, that a man sentenced for ten years is entitled to a ticket-of-leave in three years? As I recollect the regulations—I speak from memory—it was four years; but I have mentioned the case of a man who was sentenced for fifteen years who received his ticket-of-leave in three years and one month. The term is reduced by the system of marks.

43. Is not that system of marks given up? I am not quite sure that it is not in operation now.

44. By Mr. Hay: Not under the new regulations? I am not sure.

45. By Mr. Plunkett: Did you ascertain from Captain M'Leerie in this conversation, or did he know that there was a warrant out for this man upon the charge which has been alluded to? No; he did not mention it at the time this ticket-of-leave was given. I was not aware of the fact, except from yourself, till this moment.

46. Captain M'Leerie did not say anything about it? No; he only made the casual remark I have already stated.

47. By Mr. Dalley: With regard to the questions you have been asked as to the practice of the Governor General in granting commutations of sentences in the face of communications like this of the Chief Justice, I would direct your attention to the third paragraph of the Chief Justice's letter, in which he says—"Dr. West reports that he finds Hibburd a 'trustworthy person,' on whom he 'would place the fullest reliance.' Such a certificate, applied to such a person, will pass for what those better acquainted with convicts than I am may 'think it is worth.'" Do you think upon such an observation as that of the Chief Justice the Governor General might conclude that he would be justified in deciding according to the Inspector General's Report, if he thought the Inspector General knew more about such persons than the Chief Justice? I think what guided the Governor General in his decision was the fact that the man must have a ticket-of-leave in August, and must then be turned loose upon the community, and that it was better he should be expatriated at once.

48. By Mr. Parkes: Of whom does the Classification Board consist? Of Captain M'Leerie, Mr. North, the Water Police Magistrate, and I think Mr. Browne, but I am not quite certain. I did not like the constitution of the Board, but as they were appointed I thought it better they should work off the regulations.

49. Is the Superintendent of the Island a member of the Board? Certainly not; Mr. North is one as Water Police Magistrate, and I think Mr. Browne; but the letter is signed by the Chairman.

50. By Mr. Jones: Who would have the appointment of the man Hibburd as wardman? I fancy the Superintendent and the Doctor.

51. The granting of indulgencies of this kind—the removal of convicts from hard labor to the office of wardman—would be under the direction of the Superintendent, and of the Surgeon? Yes; and, no doubt, in concurrence with the Visiting Magistrate, Mr. North.

52. By Mr. Hay: You have said that your practice all along has been to treat these matters of remission of sentence, except in capital cases, as a matter of discretion on the part of the Governor General altogether, and have, therefore, abstained from giving any advice or recommendation in reference to them? I have done so that I might not be supposed to be open to political influence. I have mentioned the case on which I spoke to His Excellency with reference to an old servant of my own in whose favor a numerous signed petition was sent in.

53. With regard to the law upon the subject, the 4th clause of the 11th Victoria, No. 4, enacts that the Governor shall have the power of making rules and regulations;—with regard to that part—has that power been exercised with the advice of the Executive Council? Yes, decidedly. The whole prison discipline of the Colony is in a very unsatisfactory state.

54. By Mr. Black: Are the Executive Council, in the case of the trial of a culprit coming before them, entitled to require the production of the notes of the Judge who may have presided over the trial? That is a question of law. I think the late Attorney General was rather of opinion that the Judges were not compelled to take notes.

55. At all events, it is not an usual thing to ask for them? I never knew them to be asked for, except in capital cases, and then the Judge either brings them himself or transmits them to the Executive.

The Hon.
C. Cowper,
Esq., M.P.

56. By Mr. Jones: As a matter of fact, do you know whether the Judge's notes in this trial have been furnished to this Government for any judicial purpose? They were not as far as I can learn; I made inquiry, and Mr. Elyard made an examination and found they had not been sent to my office.

29 Sept., 1859.

WEDNESDAY, 5 OCTOBER, 1859.

Present:—

MR. DOUGLAS,
MR. FORSTER,
MR. HAY,
MR. JONES,

DR. LANG,
MR. MURRAY,
MR. PARKES,
MR. PLUNKETT.

THE HON. TERENCE AUBREY MURRAY, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

John M'Lerie, Esq., called in and examined:—

57. By the Chairman: You hold the office of Inspector General of Police? I do.

John M'Lerie,
Esq.

58. How long have you held that office? Since October, 1856.

59. You are also Chairman of the Convict Classification Board? I am.

60. How long have you held that office? I hold that office as Inspector General of Police; I am Chairman ex officio. 5 Oct., 1859.

61. Will you inform the Committee what particular duties devolve upon you as Chairman of the Convict Classification Board? The duties of the Board are to meet monthly, to receive from prisoners serving penal sentences applications for mitigation, and, in submitting those applications to the Government, to see that the printed regulations of the 30th July, 1851, are strictly adhered to.

62. What is the paper to which you are referring? It is the Regulations to which I refer, a document that has been laid upon the Table of the late Legislative Council. It is headed "Punishment of Colonial Offenders," and is the "Return to an Address from the Legislative Council, dated 22nd October, 1851, requesting His Excellency the Governor General will cause to be laid upon the Table,—A copy of any correspondence between the Colonial Government and their Honors the Judges, or any Board appointed to report upon the subject, in reference to the carrying out the sentences pronounced by the Colonial Courts for criminal offences."

63. What do these regulations specify with regard to remission of sentences? I will read the paragraph bearing upon mitigations. These Regulations were approved by the Executive Council, the 30th July, 1851,—“The periods of probation to be served by prisoners to entitle them, in the first instance, to tickets-of-leave, and subsequently to conditional pardons, will be proportioned to their sentences, according to the following scale:—Length of sentence, fifteen years—on the Island, for a ticket-of-leave, eight years; with a ticket-of-leave, for a conditional pardon, four years.” That is to say that a man who has received a sentence for fifteen years is eligible, after serving eight years at Cockatoo, to receive a ticket-of-leave, and after holding that ticket-of-leave for four years, by good conduct he is eligible for a conditional pardon. I have said “is,” but should rather have said was, as these Regulations have since been cancelled.

The following are the terms of sentence, and probation to be served:—

John McLevie, Esq.
5 Oct., 1859.

64. That is merely a determination of the Governor in Council—is it in pursuance of any Act? Yes, there is an Act giving the Governor General power to make regulations for the government of convicts in the Colony; it is the 11th Victoria, No. 54, section 4:—"It shall be lawful for the said Governor to make such rules and regulations as he shall think fit for the mitigation or remission, conditional or otherwise, of any sentence or order for punishment under this Act, as an incentive to or reward for good conduct, whilst the offender shall be serving under such sentence or order, and to mitigate or remit the term of punishment accordingly."

65. Then it is under the authority of this Act that these regulations were framed? Yes.

66. There are no other regulations at this moment? At this moment no such regulations are in existence.

67. Up to June, 1858, there were no other regulations but these? No.

68. Is it not specified in the Act, that all regulations to take effect should be in accordance with what the Governor under this Act was authorized to promulgate? Yes.

69. Will you be good enough to state to what degrees of punishment these regulations apply, in this way, namely,—cases of ordinary imprisonment, cases of hard labor, cases of hard labor in irons? These regulations are applicable only to the class of persons who would, if transportation existed, have come under the operation of that sentence; they apply only to prisoners serving penal sentences.

70. That is, to cases of hard labor? To hard labor on the roads and public works; not to hard labor in gaol.

71. Hard labor at Cockatoo Island? That is hard labor on the public works.

72. It is to that class of prisoners these regulations apply? To those alone.

73. According to these regulations, a convict under sentence for ten years must serve a period of five years and a half probation before he can receive a ticket-of-leave? No, he could reduce that again by task-work.

74. By Mr. Plunkett: Up to what time could he do so? Up to June, 1858, when there was an order of the Governor, published in the Gazette, cancelling these regulations:—"2. No portion of time during which a prisoner may be worked in irons will be counted as part of his period of probation, but on his release from irons he will be required to serve the full period of probation affixed to his sentence by the foregoing rule." May I explain that rule:—If a prisoner was sentenced to ten years hard labor, the first two years in irons, the two years in irons would not reckon towards the reduction of the period of his sentence.

75. By the Chairman: That is, he must serve his two years in irons independently of the probationary period? Yes.

76. Will you state whether, as in the case of Hibburd, who was sentenced to ten years hard labor to be worked on the roads or public works—to be worked the first year in irons—whether the remission of the first year in irons would cause a reduction of the full period of his sentence to nine years? He would be a ten years prisoner without irons, because the sentence with reference to the irons was subsequently remitted. Hibburd would just come within the category of prisoners who received a sentence without irons.

77. By Mr. Jones: And would begin his probation at once? Yes.

78. By the Chairman: He would be still regarded as a prisoner under sentence for ten years, and would have to serve the probationary period for which a prisoner under sentence for ten years is liable? Less the amount of task-work performed by him during probation. "The period of probation to be served for a ticket-of-leave can be shortened by extra work under the task system, but not the period of the original sentence." "By extra work under the task system, a prisoner will be able to shorten the period of his servitude in irons, and also the period of his probation for a ticket-of-leave; but the term of a sentence passed on a prisoner cannot be shortened otherwise than by the pardon of the Governor General."

79. Would you be good enough to state whether, under these regulations, the Governor is obliged to grant a ticket-of-leave to parties under such circumstances—has the Governor a discretionary power? It was always looked upon, when these regulations were in existence, as the right of the prisoner. In some cases of revolting crimes, the Judge has made a remark upon the Court Calendar, "This man is to receive no indulgence whatever." In such cases the sentence has been fully carried out.

80. In such cases, and in such cases only? Yes.

81. As far as your experience has gone, every convict under sentence who has served the probationary period has received his ticket-of-leave? Yes; excepting in such cases as I have already alluded to, where the Judge has prohibited any indulgence.

82. Will you state under what circumstances any prisoner sentenced to hard labor on public works is otherwise employed at the places to which prisoners are so sent? Cockatoo Island is the only place to which prisoners are sent; there the prisoners are variously employed. In an establishment where there are three or four hundred convicts, there are many men necessarily employed as cooks, water carriers, hospital attendants, wardsmen, and servants, to the free officers under the regulations.

83. Are the convicts who are sentenced to hard labor at Cockatoo Island employed in various other capacities not involving hard labor? Yes.

84. Is not that a violation of the sentences imposed upon them? Every description of hard labor in such a place as Cockatoo Island is looked upon as hard labor.

85. It is taken for granted that it is hard labor? Yes. If that were not the case we should require a much larger staff of paid officers.

86. Under what authority is that, which is virtually a remission of the sentence, sanctioned? Under the regulations of the Island.

87. Where are those regulations? I have not them with me.

88. Who makes them? They are approved by the Executive Council.

89. Certain regulations then, which have been established by the Executive Council, give to the authorities, who have the management of the Island, the power of thus virtually remitting sentences which have been awarded by a Court of Justice? I will not say a remission of the sentence; it is an authority to employ such men, as may be best suited, in various ways on the Island.

John M'Levie,
Esq.
5 Oct., 1859.

90. If a person who has been sentenced to hard labor upon the public works of the Colony is taken from that hard labor and employed as an officer's servant, does not that virtually amount to a remission of his sentence? I should not look at it in that light; some of the labor, although not so hard, is more unpleasant than the ordinary labor. Many men, for instance, would rather do the hardest description of labor than be made hospital attendants to attend to sick men, and supply their wants.

91. By whose authority was Hibburd employed as an overseer in the hospital? Under the Island regulations, and by authority of the Island authorities. No man is employed without the authority of the Visiting Magistrate, and of the Surgeon; I have no doubt I approved of that man's appointment, as I was at that time Visiting Magistrate of the establishment.

92. Could you state what his duties were as hospital overseer? I may state the history of his residence on the Island. He was received on the Island the 11th December, 1854, and from that date till the 24th August, 1855, he was employed in the ordinary hard labor of the Island, when he was appointed wardsman of the Island.

93. That is a period of about nine months? Yes. The duties of a wardsman are, in fact, those of a sick-nurse.

94. During these eight or nine months he was serving his sentence according to the judgment of the Court? Yes; in the ordinary hard labor of the Island.

95. What was the inducement then to transfer him to the hospital? The selection of the men for these appointments is made by the Superintendent and the Surgeon, and the names are submitted to the Visiting Magistrate, who, if he approves them, initials the paper upon which the names are written.

96. During these eight months did he distinguish himself in any particular way, so as to cause this change in his favor to take place? The only way in which a man can distinguish himself on Cockatoo Island is by good conduct.

97. Did he in any way distinguish himself, or was he chosen for this office because he was peculiarly fit for this hospital employment? I presume he was selected in consequence of his previous pursuits in life.

98. Not from his particularly good conduct? No.

99. He received his sentence early in December, 1854, and appears to have been discharged about the 1st June, 1858, or in about three and a half years—according to the original sentence he would have had to serve five years and a half under probation? Yes.

100. Then any marks entitling him to remission in regard to that probationary period must have been won—if I may use that expression—by him while an overseer in the hospital? It is just possible, as he was a strong, active man, that he may have reduced the term during the period he was employed at hard labor.

101. I understood you to say that he had not distinguished himself so as to entitle him to any preferment? In no special way.

102. He got this appointment in the hospital because his previous career fitted him for it? I can only imagine so.

103. In this case there was a remission of two years in the probationary period,—will you mention the special circumstances which entitled him to that remission of two years? While employed at hard labor he may have been able—I do not know whether he was or not, but I could by reference to the records of my office ascertain—to reduce this sentence during the nine months by three days a week. If he performed task-work to entitle him to half a day's remission, while so employed he would of course reduce the term by three days a week.

104. Then what is supposed to be a day's hard labor is, upon Cockatoo Island, labor which a man may easily get through in half a day? No. If you will allow me I will read the regulations. When a prisoner is received on Cockatoo Island he is examined by the Medical Officer and the Superintendent, and by them is classed for labor according to his physical ability:—"I. Task-work is to be introduced among the convicts at Cockatoo Island; but to prevent the active, the intelligent, and the healthy, being placed in a better position than the weak, the ignorant, and the sickly, and to diminish, as far as possible, the inequalities produced by these and other causes, a careful system of classification must be adopted to proportion the task to the powers physical or mental of the class, so that each individual of the class will be subjected to the same amount of toil. II. It being of vital importance that this classification should be made with the utmost care, attention, and impartiality, the Visiting Magistrate, the Medical Officer, and the Superintendent, will personally inspect each convict on the Island, and, according to the principles herein defined, arrange the whole in three classes, viz.:—(1.) The first class to compose able-bodied men accustomed to the description of labor at which they are employed. (2.) The second class to comprise men able-bodied, but who have not been accustomed to the employment assigned to them, or such as may be acquainted with the labor, but not able-bodied. (3.) The third class to comprise men who may be unacquainted with the work at which they are employed, and likewise disabled from physical or mental causes." Then it goes on to say,—“Convicts employed on barrack duties”—and this man was employed on barrack duties—“are to be allowed the average credit received by the best behaved and most industrious men on the Island.” The last regulation applies, particularly, to the man whose case is now under consideration.

- John M<sup>r</sup> Lerie, Esq. 105. He was supposed, when engaged in the hospital, to be employed on barrack duties ?
 Yes.
- 5 Oct., 1859. 106. Then supposing that during the nine months which he actually served at hard labor upon the Island he did actually gain the remission of three days a-week, that would entitle him to four months remission, or thereabouts ? If it had struck me that such a question would have been proposed, I could have produced to the Committee the account of the labor of this man.
107. Will you add that as an Appendix to your evidence ? I will. (Vide Appendix A.)
108. You cannot state, I think you said, what he did when he was in the hospital ? I can give his duties. He was first employed as wardsmen, which was, in fact, the position of a sick-nurse ; he had to attend to the sick to keep them clean, and to keep the wards clean.
109. How many are there in the hospital ? It depends upon the number of the sick. There were two wards when I was there, each attended by a wardsmen—a prisoner—and there was also an overseer ; the overseer is responsible to the medical officer for everything in the hospital, for the conduct of the prisoners and for the cleanliness of the wards.
110. He is put then in a position of trust ? Yes.
111. Then there is a classification of prisoners, on their arrival, in regard to their physical capabilities ? Their physical and mental capabilities.
112. The able-bodied men are apportioned their work according to their apparent capability ? Yes.
113. The weaker in body have a reduced task, which is thought sufficient for them ? Yes.
114. You just now stated that it was possible that a man can do, in excess of the specified task, as much as will amount to a remission of three days a-week ? If industrious.
115. Then it follows from that, that the hard work at Cockatoo Island is only hard labor to such an extent that a man can do twice as much in a day as the sentence awards ? No, not twice as much, but one-half more than the allotted task.
116. Each prisoner, whatever class he may be in, can entitle himself, by extra work, to remission of sentence, at the rate of three days a week ? Yes.
117. That is half-a-day for every day in the week ? Yes.
118. Six half-days a week ? Yes.
119. Then, it follows from that, that in a half-day he can do his probationary day's task ? No, in two-thirds of the day ; he can perform the task allotted to him in two-thirds of the day.
120. What is the work they do—how is it measured to them when they are employed as overseers in the hospital ? It is not measured to them. The rule I have read referring to those employed in barrack duties then applies ; there is no measurement there required.
121. By Mr. Jones : A convict engaged in barrack duty—employed as wardsmen in the hospital, if properly conducted—will gain the maximum allowance to the best and most industrious of the prisoners ? Yes, more than that, as he is employed seven days a week he may gain an extra half-day.
122. By the Chairman : The overseer in the hospital holds a situation of trust ? He does.
123. In what respect ? The medicines are necessarily left in his charge for the whole day. He sees to the cooking of the sick men's rations—
124. Are the stores in the hospital in his charge ? Not the medical comforts.
125. In whose charge are they ? The dispenser's.
126. Is the dispenser a free man ? Yes. There are other duties which could be better explained to the Committee by the Visiting Surgeon.
127. Then this man was recommended to you by the Visiting Surgeon as a proper person to be employed as the hospital overseer ? The way in which these appointments are made is this :—The Superintendent and Surgeon recommend certain persons for employment, and these names are brought before the Visiting Magistrate for approval ; I have no doubt the name of this man was brought under my notice in this way, at the request of Dr. West, to be employed in his department.
128. This system, I think you state, has been altered ? Yes, the system of task-work for reduction of sentences.
129. Upon whose recommendation has that been done ? The present Chief Secretary was long opposed to the system, and I have had frequent conversations with him upon the subject. I saw objections to the former system myself, and did not fail to point them out to Mr. Cowper.
130. Do you know if any special influence was at all brought to bear upon the case of this man, Hibburd ? I am not aware of any.
131. Was any recommendation made to any person in authority on the Island in his favor ? No recommendations to the Island authorities will affect the proceedings of the Classification Board. In order to shew the proceedings of the Board in this case, I have brought the minute book of the proceedings of the Board :—
- (Extract.)
- “Thursday, 8 April, 1858.”
- “James Hibburd, per ‘Regia,’ for permission to exile himself under the provisions of the Act of Council 11 Vic., No. 34. As the conduct of the petitioner has been most exemplary during three years and upwards that he has served on Cockatoo Island, and as he will become eligible to receive a ticket-of-leave about the month of August next, the Board recommend his petition to favorable consideration, provided His Honor the Chief Justice, who passed the sentence, offers no objection.”
- That was sent in due course to the Government.
132. How would he become entitled ? Through the marks.
133. Will you be good enough to refer to your minutes, having reference to the appointment of Hibburd as overseer in the hospital ? I have only the data of his appointment.

134. There is no minute in the book you produce? No; this book is not connected with the Island, but merely with the Classification Board which is held at my office.
135. Have you any communication at all with the police at Victoria? Yes; weekly.
136. Have you seen any mention of this man's name at all in any police paper? I have.
137. Will you mention the circumstances under which his name is mentioned? I find in the Police Gazette of Victoria the notice which I hand in. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix B.) From the description, I have no doubt it alludes to the same person, but I beg to observe that it is the only notice I have received respecting him. I may explain that whenever an offender is reported in the Police Gazette, either in the Colony or in Victoria, his apprehension is also notified, or some further notice is taken of the first publication, but I have seen no second notice respecting this man.
138. By Mr. Parkes: You made no special communication to the police authorities of Victoria with reference to this person? That is another thing, no doubt they must have known the man came from this Colony, and it is an unusual thing that no further communication should have been made respecting him.
139. That is an unusual thing? Yes.
140. By the Chairman: Under all the circumstances of the case, do you think the system at Cockatoo Island works well generally? It will work well under the new system.
141. Have any regulations yet been framed under the new system? Under the new system every man must serve the period of his sentence, and no regulations are therefore necessary.
142. Has that a prospective effect only? When the regulation of June, 1858, was published, I submitted that it was not fair to make it retrospective, that it should be confined to those who were newly sentenced.
143. Then all who had been sentenced to Cockatoo Island previous to the alteration made in June, 1858, will have the benefit of the regulations which existed up to that period? Yes. I subsequently brought to the notice of the Government that men who had held tickets-of-leave under the old regulations, and whose tickets were cancelled, and returned to Government for misconduct, should be brought within the meaning of the new regulations, which has been done.
144. Do you think, in this case of the man Hibbard, the system of probation has worked well? I objected to the system generally, not taking any particular case.
145. You are of opinion, generally, that the system did not work well? Yes.
146. And yet you consider it advisable that it should be continued so far as relates to all cases that came under its operation up to June, 1858? I do, and I may assign my reason. From my experience of Courts of Justice I know that the Judges frequently in awarding sentences on conviction kept in view the fact that these sentences would be reduced by these regulations, and therefore gave longer sentences than they would otherwise have done, and it struck me as having an unfair bearing upon these men who had received sentences under the former system to place them under the new regulations.
147. You are of opinion that the Judges, in awarding sentences, gave sentences they did not mean to be carried out? At that time in awarding their sentences they were aware of the existence of these regulations, and knew that a reduction of their sentences would consequently follow.
148. Then it follows that the Judges, no doubt with the best intentions, have been up to the present period in the habit of awarding sentences which they knew would not be carried out? I can only judge of that. When at Cockatoo Island yesterday, and looking over the returns of the Island, I found that there were 145 of the old class still serving there, and 103 of the new class; but of the 145 of the old class I found that there were 50 prisoners who had received sentences of ten years and upwards, while out of the 103 of the new class there were only five who had received such sentences; therefore I am strengthened in my opinion.
149. What is the maximum sentence to which the men are subjected? Fifteen years.
150. That sentence then relates to the most serious offences? Yes.
151. To cases in which capital punishment has been commuted? Yes. In reference to what I have stated that under these regulations the remission was looked upon as a right by the prisoners, I may mention that a case was brought before the Board the other day—a man of the name of McSpadden who had been cast for death, and whose sentence was subsequently commuted to fifteen years transportation. That man under the old regulations became eligible a few weeks ago for a ticket-of-leave. His name was sent in with others, to the Government, but in consequence of the enormity of his offence the Government has withheld his ticket-of-leave.
152. Has an absolute refusal been given? An absolute refusal will be given.
153. He must serve the full period of his sentence? Yes, I think so; that is a case in which the Government took action of itself.
154. Do you remember the circumstances under which that man's sentence was originally commuted? I do not, it excited a good deal of surprise at the time.
155. Do you remember the murder of Kirwan? Yes.
156. By Mr. Forster: Do you consider that in the particular case we are now considering that this man was a fit person to receive any indulgence which others were not entitled to? Every prisoner at Cockatoo who applied would have had his case considered in the same way, no doubt.
157. Was there nothing extraordinary in this case? Nothing extraordinary.
158. Whatever the man's character was there was nothing to induce you to consider that he should be deprived of the indulgence to which others would have been entitled? Nothing at all.
159. I do not mention any names, but are you aware of his having any influential relations in Sydney or in the Colony? I have no doubt of it, from the resemblance, that he has a brother,

- John M'Levie, brother, who is a man of influence, a Member of the Legislative Assembly; but so far from that having any bearing upon the man's treatment, the Committee will allow me to observe that he was unjustly kept in irons when he ought to have been out of irons. At the termination of each sitting of the Criminal Court the prisoners are removed to Cockatoo Island, under what is called a Transit Warrant, which is signed by the Sheriff. This man was so removed, and the Transit Warrant was signed the 5th January, but was not received at the Island till the 23rd February, during which time he remained in irons; and I find a minute of my own in the Minute Book of Cockatoo Island—"James Hibburd's irons to be taken off; that part of the sentence to be remitted:—Vide Calendar."
160. You are not of opinion that the prisoner presumed in any way upon his having influential connections? No; as a prisoner he always conducted himself as if he were of the same class as the other prisoners.
161. Did he ever make known the circumstance to you? He never mentioned the circumstance to me. Circumstances, however, came to my knowledge which gave rise to the suspicion that he was connected with a family in the Colony, and I questioned some of the officers on Cockatoo Island, and they said they had reason to believe he was so connected, and told me who his brother was.
162. By Mr. Plunkett: To what does this portion of the letter of the Chief Justice refer—"He was apprehended in a theatre in Sydney, a few days afterwards; when he was claimed as a prisoner by the name of 'Cook,' under a warrant issued from Brisbane Water, on a charge arising there"—was that that he was mistaken for another person? I was surprised when I saw that in the papers. I do not know anything of it.
163. How did this come to the knowledge of the Chief Justice? I do not know.
164. Was there any other charge against him? I never heard of it.
165. Did you inquire of the Police if there were another warrant lying by? I have looked at the Warrant Book of my own Police, and find no such warrant existing. I did not know of the existence of such a warrant until I saw the letter of the Chief Justice.
166. By Dr. Lang: May that not have been a mistake on the part of the Chief Justice? That I cannot say; it is a fact of which I have no knowledge.
167. By Mr. Plunkett: The fact may have been that he may have been mistaken for a person of the name of Cook, and have been apprehended under a warrant that did not apply to him? I am not aware of the circumstance. The first I knew of it was from the letter of the Chief Justice, when it appeared in the papers.
168. Have you made inquiries since? I have, and can find no such name—no such warrant.
169. Did you take any steps after seeing this notice from Victoria to inform the Government that this person was in Victoria instead of Van Diemen's Land—did he not leave Sydney for Van Diemen's Land? He left Sydney for Melbourne en route for Adelaide.
170. What was the condition of the pardon? That he left this Colony.
171. To go anywhere else he liked? Yes, anywhere out of the Colony.
172. By Mr. Parkes: Are you aware how the Chief Justice became informed of the relationship of this person to some man of influence? I do not know.
173. As your evidence now stands, it would appear that you had no information respecting this man's connection—you merely suspected it from the resemblance of his features to his brother's? I referred to the resemblance of the features of the man to the gentleman said to be his brother.
174. By the Chairman: I think you said you had no doubt, from the resemblance of his features —? There is no doubt that there is a resemblance.
175. By Mr. Parkes: It does not appear that you were ever informed of this connection? He was said to be a brother of an influential person here. I asked the question, and concluded from the striking likeness that the report was true.
176. However, he never communicated the fact to you himself? Never.
177. By the Chairman: Is there not some considerable dissatisfaction felt at Cockatoo Island, in consequence of the withdrawal of the old regulations? Yes; there is no more than might have been anticipated.
178. Have the men refused to work? Some did, yesterday. I went over, by direction of the Government, with the Visiting Magistrate, and dealt with them.
179. I gather from your evidence that you are averse to the re-establishment of any such system as prevailed formerly? I am.
180. You think it much better, whatever sentences may be awarded, that the course of justice be carried out? Yes, and that remission be left to the prerogative of the Governor General.

APPENDIX B.

James Hibburd is charged, on warrant issued at Geelong, with stealing, on the 29th ultimo, near Buninyong, £864, the moneys of Alexander M'Gilvray, settler there. The offender is about 40 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches high, stout built, dark or sallow complexion, dark brown hair, small brown whiskers, small round face, scar on upper lip (not very visible), of superior education and good address, an Englishman, and may be dressed in black clothes and black hat.

George West, Esq., M.D., called in and examined :—

181. By the Chairman: You are the Visiting Surgeon at Cockatoo Island? I am.
 182. Are you a member of the Convict Classification Board? No, I am not; I have nothing to do with it.
 183. Who are the members? I think Mr. North, Captain M'Lerie, and Mr. Browne.
 184. As a medical man, do you not think it advisable that a professional man should be on that Board? I do not see what necessity there would be, for, as their servant, they have the opportunity of obtaining any information from me they may require.
 185. Are you consulted when they require information? I get letters from the Government, to which I give official answers.
 186. The object of the classification is to classify the men according to their capability in regard to labor? Yes. Every man when he comes to the Island comes to me, and with a printed form, and I classify him according to his physical capability.
 187. Do you make a careful examination of him? Always.
 188. How do you arrive at a conclusion with reference to his physical capability? These men, when they are sent to me, generally do not know for what purpose they are sent; I examine them as to the state of their health, and if they make any complaint I investigate it according to the best of my ability.
 189. Do you judge them merely by their physical development? I endeavour to ascertain if they have heart affection, or internal disease; I generally find them malingering.
 190. Are you of opinion, as a professional man, that from mere physical development a correct opinion can be formed as to the capability of a man for labor? I have found a very powerful looking man unable to go even into the medium class. The mere external appearance of a man is not sufficient to enable a medical man to judge.

- George West Esq., M.D.
5 Oct., 1859.
191. What other examination is a prisoner subjected to by you? I sound with the stethoscope if I suspect the existence of disease of the heart, &c.
192. Suppose a man is in such a physical state as to appear to be of strong muscular development and also of good health; suppose him to have good digestion, and all the vital functions to be in good order, would it necessarily follow that the man would be strong? I think so. I have lately had a case under my notice on the Island of a large powerful looking man—an American black—whom I have been obliged to reduce to the lowest class of work in consequence of his having disease of the heart.
193. Then there is organic disease in that case? There is organic disease; the man has well developed muscles.
194. You have no better test than you have mentioned? No.
195. Does not a great deal depend upon what might be called the idiosyncrasy of the individual—might not a person have well developed muscles and yet be destitute of strength? I never met a case of such individual's idiosyncrasy.
196. Would not a great deal depend upon the nervous temperament of the individual? If the nervous system were diseased I do not think you could have such muscular development.
197. Have you not found men of poor physical constitution perform a large amount of bodily labor? Yes; but I have generally found that those persons have had very powerful digestions.
198. All persons who are classified in this way upon the Island are brought to you for examination? When they are sent from the gaol to Cockatoo they are reserved for my visit. When I visit the Island I examine them and report upon them; if any of these men should fail or become unwell they are brought to me again and I re-class them. It often happens that from the change of diet and the confinement on the Island, prisoners fall off very much, and when this happens I re-class them.
199. I suppose you have nothing to do with the work they have to perform? No.
200. How many classes are there? Three, and the exempt, or what I call the invalid class.
201. What do the last class do? Nothing.
202. They have no employment? I believe if they are able to perform the duty they are selected as servants by the overseers.
203. What is the average number of men on the Island? Latterly it has been very small comparatively; there used to be about 380; there are now under 300.
204. What is the average number of men in the hospital? Since the removal of the exempt men, which amounted to 54 or 57, there have been about 4 in the hospital; before that the hospital was constantly full. Some of the prisoners belonging to this class were left behind—such as were capable of performing certain kinds of work.
205. What was the average number formerly in the hospital? From 12 to 16.
206. How many hospital attendants were there? There was a cook and two wardsmen, and an hospital overseer.
207. What are the duties of the overseer? The principal duty is the care of the medicines. Our hospital is very badly arranged; I have brought the matter under the notice of the Government, but nothing has been done to remedy it; to go to one of the wards it is necessary to pass through the surgery, and the medicines may be taken by anyone passing through; to prevent this it is placed under the charge of the hospital overseer when the dispenser is at his house. The overseer sleeps in the surgery.
208. What are his especial duties? To assist the dispenser generally in the grosser part of the compounding, and in seeing that the medicines are distributed regularly.
209. Is that all? He is very often employed in writing.
210. Your average attendance in the hospital has been twelve? The average number of patients has been from twelve to fifteen.
211. There were two wards? Yes.
212. You had an assistant to each ward, a cook, an overseer, and a dispenser? Yes; but there were always a great number of external patients.
213. I want to get at the particular duties which the overseer had to discharge? What I have told you, and also to dispense the medicines to the external patients.
214. Were his hands fully occupied? I do not think they could have been.
215. Did his duties involve what might, in any degree, be termed hard labor? Certainly not, but he was required to be always in attendance.
216. His time was not fully occupied, but he was always at hand? He was always on the spot, in case of accident.
217. Can you tell me how it was that Hibburd first obtained the situation of overseer? I cannot tell you; I was never consulted about it; he was at first in the kitchen; he was one of the wardsmen, and was appointed against my will; I had a very good man previous to him, and his time having expired he left, and Mr. Ormsby put this man as hospital overseer; I was opposed to it, but as I saw the old man wished it I gave way, and I was not sorry afterwards, for I found him a very useful man.
218. You have given a very strong recommendation to this man; you say—"James Hibburd has been attached to the hospital on this Island for three years, as overseer; he has been most attentive to his duties, and I have always found him a useful, trustworthy person—one on whom I could place the fullest reliance"—in what way have you found him trustworthy? One of the principal reasons that induced me to write that testimonial was this:—the man had full command over the paper, pens, and ink in the surgery; and every man who had held similar office before had been reduced for using these materials in writing letters on behalf of prisoners on the Island, to their friends, and these were sent to Sydney; but as long as Hibburd was there I never could find the slightest trespass upon the hospital paper; he also had the full command of all the medicines.

219. Medicines are things people would hardly be likely to steal? I beg pardon; they frequently try to pilfer them. Having such men as Beer upon the Island, the prisoners are put up to many things they would not otherwise think of; and if they could get some of the medicines, they would take them in order to simulate ill health.
220. You say this man was one in whom you could place the fullest reliance? I will tell you the reason. The man was a long while under my observation, and appeared to shew great contrition and sorrow for his offence; he often spoke to me without my knowing who he was, and said if he could only get away he hoped he should reform and lead a new life. He said it was the first time he had been in trouble, and that if he got to China (which was the place to which he desired to go) he would be able to lead a new life altogether. I thought the man was sincere—was really penitent, and feeling that any man might be led astray by accident, I pitied his case.
221. You had nothing whatever to do with his receiving his pardon? No, nothing whatever.
222. The only things that were entrusted to him were the medicines and this stationery? Wine and things of that kind were under his care.
223. Was the wine under his care? Not under his care regularly, but frequently they were accidentally under his care, and I never missed any; he was obliged to go to the chest where these things were kept.
224. Did he receive any pay? No.
225. He had nothing to do in the way of hard labor? No.
226. His time was not fully occupied? I do not think so; he had to make out the requisitions; these things were always done by the overseer, and he wrote a capital hand. I could not have got on at that time without him, as the dispenser I then had was not qualified. I did not at that time know he was a medical man, but I afterwards discovered it; and through him, I was enabled to carry out the business with great satisfaction to myself, never more so.
227. But still his time was not fully occupied, although he was at hand whenever he was required? Yes; he was not allowed to leave the camp, as it is called.
228. He had in point of fact an easy berth? He had a very easy berth, for he had a good deal of power; he could go to the hospital kitchen, and, if he choose, could take care of himself.
229. He was not then restricted to the ordinary food or rations of the prisoners? Yes, he just got the same as the rest.
230. But if he could avail himself of any chance the hospital kitchen afforded ———? If he did, he must steal.
231. You think he had an easy berth notwithstanding that he was under a sentence of ten years imprisonment with hard labor? I think the very best berth on the Island; I would rather have it than that of the clerk in the Superintendent's office.
232. Is an overseer of the hospital required? Yes.
233. Independently of the dispenser? The dispenser does not live there.
234. Not on the Island? Yes, on the Island, but a long way off, with the free overseers. In fact the present arrangement of the hospital is so bad, that if we had not an overseer any man in the camp might walk into the surgery when he pleased.
235. Is Dr. Beer still on the Island? Yes, and he is a very bad—a very dreadful character, he would make a most valuable person as an overseer if we could depend upon him, but now he is often found wanting.
236. By Mr. Douglas: Have you at any time been applied to by the Government as to the state of Hibburd's health, with a view to his release, or to the diminution of the period of his punishment? Never by any person but himself and the dispenser; the dispenser brought it first before my notice. He had been laboring under three or four attacks of an inflammatory nature of the liver; and when Hibburd spoke to me, he said he wished to get away to China, as he thought he could settle there, and become a reformed character.
237. In this certificate as to the general character of Hibburd, you merely refer incidentally to the state of his health? Quite incidentally, and I am satisfied that the character I gave him he was deserving of so long as he was under my notice, but I could not say what he had been before. I merely gave him the character as I would give any servant a discharge.

Esq., M.D.

Samuel North, Esq., J.P., called in and examined:—

238. By the Chairman: You are the Visiting Magistrate at Cockatoo Island? I am at present doing that duty.
239. How long have you been doing the duty? I succeeded Captain McLerie in November, 1856, and continued up to January of this year, when I was relieved by Mr. Forbes, and upon his receiving another appointment, I resumed the duty temporarily until the Government appoint another officer.
240. Are you a member of the Classification Board of the Island? Yes.
241. Will you state the names of the members of that Board? Captain McLerie, Captain Mann, Mr. Browne, and myself.
242. You meet once a month? Yes; generally the first week in the month.
243. What do you do on these occasions? We consider the applications of the prisoners for tickets-of-leave and other indulgencies.
244. Have you anything at all to do with the classification of prisoners, in regard to the degree of hard labor to which they shall be subjected? Nothing to do with that.
245. Did you know anything of a prisoner, lately on the Island, of the name of Hibburd? I did know him during the period that he was there. He was there when I became Visiting Magistrate, and I knew him up to the period of his leaving.

S. North,
Esq., J.P.

S. North,
Esq., J.P.

5 Oct., 1859.

246. How was he employed when you knew him? When I took charge he was overseer of the hospital; he was so employed when I took charge.
247. He was sentenced originally to ten years hard labor? Yes; I have the original warrant here. (The witness produced the same.)
248. Did he serve much in the way of hard labor when he was overseer in the hospital? No.
249. Was it an easy berth? It was.
250. It amounted, in fact, to a nullification of the sentence? We are obliged to have persons in all these situations; whether it is considered hard labor or not some prisoners must be employed.
251. Why must prisoners be so employed? We have no free people for such purposes.
252. I suppose free people could be got for such purposes? No doubt, if they were paid.
253. Were you favorable to the regulations which existed up to the 1st June, 1858, by which certain indulgencies and remissions were allowed to persons under sentence? Yes.
254. What advantages do you think that system has? I think it induces people to behave well—they have some hope, and look forward to the recompense of their good conduct by the shortening of their term of imprisonment.
255. It works well you think? I think so.
256. But does it not involve great uncertainty in regard to the sentences imposed? If we were to consider the punishment merely, I think it does; but if we are to consider the reformation of the prisoner as well, I think it holds out an inducement to him to behave well.
257. Do you think it conduces to the ends of reformation? I do.
258. Have you known instances in which men have been reformed under this system? I cannot immediately name any, but I have no doubt there are instances.
259. Have you known instances in which very bad characters have been let loose upon society earlier than they otherwise would have been owing to this system? I do not know any instances, but I think it very likely that men may behave very well for two or three years with the view of obtaining their liberty who may still be unreformed.
260. In the case of the man Hibburd, who is sentenced to imprisonment for ten years with hard labor, who gets an easy berth on Cockatoo Island, at the end of a little more than three years is liberated, and who is apparently but a short time liberated before he pursues the same career as before—do you think, in such a case as that, the system works well? It might have had that effect, or it might have had a contrary effect—of course a good deal would depend upon the disposition of the man, and how far he might be considered reformed—a man might behave very well for two or three years, and yet at bottom be a great villain.
261. By Mr. Jones: What was Hibburd's conduct as overseer of the hospital during the time he was under your notice? I always found him exceedingly well-conducted and respectful in his manner to those in authority.
262. During the time you have been officially connected with the Island has it come to your knowledge that any kind of influence has been used by any person on behalf of this man Hibburd? Not that I am aware of.
263. Neither verbally nor in writing? Neither verbally nor in writing.
264. Directly nor indirectly? Directly nor indirectly.
265. Have you any reason to believe that any kind of improper influence has been used to procure his pardon? No, I am not aware of any. I believe it has been done in the regular way—by the recommendations of the officers of the Island.
266. These recommendations have been based upon the certificate of the surgeon or the reports of the officers? Yes.
267. You believe he entitled himself to this remission by his conduct during the time he had been prisoner on the Island? Yes; he would have been entitled to a ticket-of-leave three months after the time at which he obtained his pardon, on condition of exile.
268. Have you any documents which you wish to lay before the Committee? I have a memorandum here from which it appears that he was received on the Island on the 6th of December, 1854, and remained there till the 25th of June, 1858, a period of three years six months and nineteen days—that was his actual service. Then his allowance for task-work made up one year eight months and thirteen days more, making a total of five years and three months. Five years and a half is the period required for a man under a ten years sentence to serve for a ticket-of-leave.
269. If he had conducted himself well during the remainder of the term he would have written off one month—that is supposing he had remained on the Island? Yes, and he would then have been entitled to a ticket-of-leave under the ordinary regulations.
270. You believe there is nothing peculiar in this case, so far as you know, that would lead you to suppose any improper influence had been used in this man's behalf? I do not think there is.
271. Have you any other documents? I have here the original warrant under which he was received at the Island under a sentence of ten years—the first year in irons. That was received with him in December, 1854.
272. According to this warrant it seems that James Hibburd was sentenced to ten years imprisonment—the first year in irons? That was sent with him; the calendar did not reach the Island till February.
273. Up to the receipt of the calendar had the man been worked in irons? Yes, the calendar was considered the authority for striking off the irons. The sentence is—"Hard labor on the roads or other public works of the Colony, ten years; the first year in irons." Underneath is written, "The punishment in irons to be remitted if the Governor so please—" Approved, C. A. F."
274. What is the date of the calendar—the date at which it would be transmissible to the Island? It is dated December, 1854.

275. If that had been transmitted immediately after the time at which it bears date on the back, the man's irons would have been struck off six weeks or two months before? Yes.

276. So that in consequence of not having been received this man was working in irons six or eight weeks longer than he would have otherwise done? Yes.

277. By whom is that recommendation in favor of the irons being struck off signed? It is, I think, written by the Judge, and approved "C. A. F.," which I presume means Sir Charles Augustus Fitz Roy.

278. The Judge who tried the case? Yes.

279. By Mr. Douglas: Can you inform us what governs your decision in the appointment of the officers on the Island—do you take into consideration the mental as well as the physical qualifications of the prisoners when they are classed? The prisoners are only sub-overseers. The overseers are free men, and under them are placed prisoners who are considered staid, quiet, well-conducted. With respect to the appointment of this hospital overseer, it was before my time, but I imagine he was appointed because he had been a surgeon, and knew something of medical practice.

280. Has it come under your notice that Hibburd was actually in irons a longer time than according to the regulations he should have been? No, I do not think he was, because he could not be released from irons till the Governor's approval reached the Island.

281. By Mr. Jones: There appears to have been some delay in the transmission of this document? Yes.

282. And, owing to that delay, the prisoner was kept in irons six weeks or two months longer than he would otherwise have been? Yes. The recommendation of the Judge was, that the part of the sentence which referred to the irons was to be remitted if the Governor approved, but until the Governor approved of that recommendation he would have to wear them.

283. By Mr. Douglas: I suppose only a small portion of the prisoners are actually in irons? I think not above five or six out of 248—the present number upon the Island. There were 383, but they have been greatly lessened; during the last month 45 invalids were sent to Parramatta.

284. Are you aware that the prisoner applied for remission of sentence on the ground of ill health—are you aware that that was brought under the notice of the Chief Justice? That was one of the grounds, that he was suffering from ill health.

285. You are not aware that his release was founded upon that fact? No, I am not.

MR. DALLEY,
MR. JONES,
DR. LANG,

MR. MURRAY,
MR. PARKES,
MR. PLUNKETT.

THE HON. TERENCE AUBREY MURRAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

William Elyard, Esquire, called in and examined:—

286. By the Chairman: You are the Under Secretary? Yes.

287. It has been intimated to me, as Chairman of this Committee, that there were some additional papers in your office in the case of James Hibburd, which have not been laid upon the Table of the House? It appears that a petition was received in 1856 from Hibburd for a mitigation of his sentence, which was referred to the Chief Justice on the 12th December, 1856, but I am not aware that anything further was done. No report was received from the Chief Justice.

288. Who has the petition now? I presume it is with the Chief Justice.

289. You have not it with you? No. This is a copy of the letter (producing the same) written to him, which is without an answer, and the matter has perhaps been overlooked. (The witness handed in the copy of letter. Vide Appendix.)

290. Have you communicated at all with the Chief Justice upon the subject? No; nothing more was done. The correspondence laid before the Assembly was not furnished in reply to an Address, but was prepared by the Government for the information of the House, and no reference is made in it to a former petition. At the time I was not aware that there was such a petition; but, had it been otherwise, I do not know, as being unconnected with the application, that it would have been considered necessary to include it.

291. By Mr. Jones: The petition to which this letter referred led to no steps having been taken in reference to Hibburd? No; the letter was not answered; perhaps the Chief Justice overlooked it.

292. By the Chairman: Will you be good enough to try and get it, and send it in to the Committee? I can apply to the Chief Justice for it; I have not as yet done so.*

293. No report was received. This petition was sent after he had been two years under sentence? No report was ever received. It will, of course, depend upon the petition being found, whether or not I can produce it; I think, as no report was received, and no further petition sent in by the prisoner, it is very likely the matter was overlooked.*

294.

W. Elyard,
Esq.

12 Oct., 1859.

* It has been ascertained, on inquiry, that the Chief Justice did make a report on the case, but that it was sent to the Attorney General, and not to the Colonial Secretary's Office.

W. Elyard,
Esq.

12 Oct., 1859.

294. This is the only paper you can produce, and, when the petition is furnished, the House of Assembly will be in possession of all the papers of every description relating to Hibburd's case? So far as I am aware.

295. All the applications for mitigation of his sentence? All the applications. I have caused reference to be made, and the document alluded to is mentioned to me as the only one in addition to the papers that are printed, excepting the Supreme Court Calendar, which I think has been produced, and contains an order for the remission of so much of the sentence as was to have been served in irons.

296. By Mr. Jones: Do you recollect a paper on this case coming through the Colonial Secretary's Office in May or June, 1858—the paper of which copies have been laid on the Table? The case has recently been brought forward again, which has recalled the circumstance to my mind.

297. Do you remember whether in that case the ordinary course was pursued with regard to this paper? I do not know that there was any deviation whatever.

298. Have you any knowledge of any application having been made, directly or indirectly, or any kind of endeavour having been used by anybody in favor of this man Hibburd? None beyond what appears from the papers. In the letter of the Chief Justice there is some reference to his being connected with persons in a prominent station, but I do not recollect noticing it at the time, and had no knowledge until afterwards who was alluded to.

299. So far as you know, there was no kind of application made on behalf of this man at all? I am not aware of any application to obtain any remission of sentence in this case, with the exception of what is disclosed in the papers. The usual course appears to have been followed throughout.

300. By Mr. Parkes: In a case of this kind, if a petition were never returned, would the matter be allowed to drop without any inquiry from your office? In most cases the parties interested would revive the matter by some inquiry or renewed application.

301. Supposing the party from modesty, diffidence, despair, or any other reason, did not renew his application, would the Colonial Secretary's Office allow the matter to drop? It would depend upon whether the matter were brought forward again. If there are papers in the office the usual practice is to bring them forward, from time to time, until disposed of; but in this instance the original petition was sent, and there was not any circumstance which brought the case under notice.

302. What strikes me as most singular is, that a petition, the prayer of which is so important as that of the pardon of a man who is under a heavy sentence, should be forwarded from the Colonial Secretary's Office to the Judge, and that no further attention should be given to the subject from 1856 to the present time, as would appear in this case. It would be very little use for anyone to petition if, when the petition were forwarded to the Chief Justice—whoever he might be—he was allowed to burn it, or to throw it on one side and pay no attention to it? The Judges have occasionally been reminded when reports have not been received, but it does not seem to have been done in this case.

303. By Mr. Jones: There appears to have been a slight oversight in the Colonial Secretary's Office, in not calling the attention of the Chief Justice to this petition? The oversight would seem to have rested with the Chief Justice, but he would have been reminded had the omission been noticed.

304. Then, supposing a petition to be sent in by a man for pardon or mitigation of sentence, that is sent to the Chief Justice, and if he should overlook the petition the man's request might go unattended to for years, unless the Judge's attention were again called by the Colonial Secretary's Office to the petition referred to him? There is through the Visiting Magistrates of the establishments the means of mentioning the circumstance if an answer is delayed, and in such cases inquiry is made, and, if necessary, the attention of the Judges or others called to the matter.

305. In other circumstances in all probability the Judge's attention would not be called to it? No; unless something occurred to bring the case under notice. Generally, however, I think this is done as the prisoner has the opportunity, through the Superintendent or the Visiting Magistrate, to mention it; and upon being communicated to the office every attention is paid to such representations.

306. In this case neither the prisoner nor any one on his behalf appears to have called the attention of the Colonial Secretary to the omission to attend to the petition which had been previously sent in? No; if this had been done, no doubt the Judge's attention would have been drawn to it in the usual way.

307. By Mr. Plunkett: I suppose when you wrote the letter of the 24th April to the Chief Justice, forwarding the petition, you forgot the circumstance of the former petition? There was nothing on the face of the letter from the Classification Board, or in the petition of Hibburd, alluding to any former application, and consequently no reference was made to it.

308. The Chief Justice in his letter makes no allusion to it? No. It had probably passed out of his mind.

309. By Mr. Jones: I see that in the margin of pages 6 and 7 this man is described as per "Regia"—have you any knowledge whether he came to this Colony as a convict or not? No; I can only speak from what is shewn in the papers.

310. Does this imply prima facie that he came to the Colony as a convict? It was usual to refer to prisoners in that way, but it does not follow that the expression would not apply to others.

311. You have no means of informing the Committee whether this man came to the Colony as a convict or not? No; but I think it is probable that he did not, from the date of his trial, and there being no reference to any former sentence.

THE HON. TERENCE AUBREY MURRAY, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Sir Alfred Stephen, Knight, called in and examined :—

312. By the Chairman : You are Chief Justice, I believe, Sir Alfred? Yes, I have been so many years. Sir Alfred Stephen, Knt.

313. Do you know anything of the case of a person named Hibburd, lately in confinement at Cockatoo Island? I tried James Hibburd on the 6th December, 1854, for a robbery, accompanied by great violence in beating the person with a fence rail. 20 Oct., 1859.

314. He was sentenced, I believe, at that time, to ten years imprisonment? He was sentenced by me to ten years hard labor on the roads.

315. The first year in irons? Yes, the first year in irons.

316. The year in irons, I think, you remitted? I do not remember that I did, but I have an impression that I did, in consequence of his previous position.

317. In society? Yes; and the far greater suffering, therefore, in comparison with men accustomed to open field labor, which such an infliction would entail on him.

318. Do you remember a petition in his favor being sent to you in a year or two after the passing of the sentence? There was such a petition sent to me, for remission or relaxation generally, in or about, I believe, December, 1856.

319. That is, two years after the time of his trial? A little more than two years after it.

320. That was in December, 1854? On the 6th of December, 1854. I perceive by a memorandum from the Colonial Secretary's Office, that the petition was sent to me on the 12th December. I have no memorandum of the receipt myself.

321. Was that petition signed by any persons known to yourself? I cannot state by whom it was signed; I have a distinct recollection of the circumstances, in substance, but not of any signatures or statements in the petition.

322. Was it recommended by any parties at all? I can hardly state whether it was recommended to me, in the strict sense. The subject was warmly introduced to me by a clergyman, who, I understood, had recently seen him and who knew his family.

323. Have you any objection to state the name of the clergyman? No; I do not object to give any information that the Committee think it desirable I should give.

324. I think it is desirable that we should have the name of the clergyman? It was the Rev. Percy Smith, of Illawarra.

325. Did Mr. Smith give a written or a merely verbal recommendation? I think that I got the petition through the Colonial Secretary's Office; but Mr. Smith saw me on the subject of the petition, and solicited compliance with it. He spoke of the prisoner's family, and their distress, and strongly urged that something should be done for him. But he did not mention to me (and it was unnecessary that he should do so) who the family was; nor did he disclose to me the person's real name. I knew the name, as many others did.

326. Did you receive any other recommendation in his favor? At that time I cannot recollect that I did.

327. Did you at any subsequent time? Privately, none—and, indeed, officially none—except what was on the last petition, or any recommendations which may have been on the first—which I have forgotten.

328. Where is that petition now? The first petition?

329. Yes? The first petition must have been sent back to the Colonial Secretary's Office; but I perceive no entry of that fact in my books.

330. You have no entry that it was sent back? No; but the course of business in my chambers is such, that it must have been sent back—unless the papers were lost by my clerk. I report frequently upon several petitions on one occasion. On the evening, for instance, of my reporting on Hibburd's, I reported upon four. I sometimes report upon as many as five or six on one evening. The course is invariably with me—after dictating a letter, or writing it in my own hand—to give all the papers connected with the subject to the clerk, who sits in my room; and he has general instructions to forward them to the places

Sir Alfred
Stephen, Knt.

places from whence they came. I generally say, specifically, send the papers with the letter. If they come from Cockatoo Island, they are sent back to Cockatoo Island; if from the Colonial Secretary's Office, they are sent back to that office; if from the Attorney General, they are sent back to the Attorney General. This is not the only instance, however, of papers having been lost, somehow or other, from (or after having been sent to) my office.

331. Have you any record in your books of the opinion you expressed? Yes.

332. Would you be good enough to refer to the entry and state what it is? I reported that I could not recommend any mitigation whatever in the case. I said that the prisoner had been for some time a bushranger, and that the wisest course for his family and friends was, to let him feel the effects of serious crime, by his serving the whole of his sentence. That report went, I have no doubt, to the Colonial Secretary; although it is possible it may have gone, by mistake, to Cockatoo Island. My impression is very strong that it went to the Colonial Secretary.

333. What was the date of it? The date of my reply was the 21st January, 1857. According to the memorandum in the Colonial Secretary's Office, the petition was sent to me thence on the 12th December. If the papers came from that office they would have gone back there. But I have so distinct a recollection of my interview with Mr. Smith, and his speaking of the petition, that, if I had not seen the memorandum just mentioned, my impression would have been, that he brought the petition to me from Cockatoo Island.

334. Had he anything to do with Cockatoo Island? I think that Mr. Smith had, at that time, been temporarily discharging there the duties of the Chaplain.

335. You expressed a strong opinion that the indulgence asked for should not be granted? I did. I thought that it was better for himself, his family, and his friends, that he should feel the effects of his crime; and, that my opinion might not be forgotten, I sent a copy of it to the Attorney General, requesting that he would lay it before the Governor General.

336. Besides giving the ordinary answer? Yes. I sent a copy of my letter to the Attorney General, requesting him to lay it before the Governor. Such is the record in my books; and I recollect the fact independently.

337. Was Mr. Smith the only person who made any recommendation in Hibburd's favor? I am pretty certain that he was the only person who ever made a representation to me upon the subject. I had thought that there was a second; but, on recollection, I am confident there was only that one.

338. Notwithstanding this opinion, which you communicated to the Government in January, 1857, you received a further communication in May, 1858? In April or May, 1858, I received another petition on behalf of Hibburd.

339. The letter enclosing it to you was written in April; you answered it in May; in the interval was any communication by any party addressed to you, in reference to this man's case? None that I remember, and I believe that there was in fact none.

340. You wrote very strongly on this subject, in May, 1858? On the 31st May, 1858, I wrote very strongly upon it, because I thought that there was an undue pressure in the case.

341. In his favor? In his favor; and I therefore reported the circumstances fully.

342. That is, a petition having been sent in so short a time previously in his favor, on which you had expressed a strong opinion, adversely to the application, and this being succeeded by the recommendations and petition of April, 1858,—you thought there was an undue pressure in his favor; and you therefore again wrote strongly on the subject? Just so; I thought that his friends were unreasonably exerting themselves again, to get him out of that punishment which I thought it for the interest of society, as well as his own ultimate good, that he should endure.

343. Did you ever observe, in any other case before you, a similar pressure in favor of any convict? Yes, I have.

344. You have known other cases of that kind? I have known other cases of renewed solicitations—what I have here called undue pressure—in favor of a prisoner.

345. Have you known many such cases? No, very few.

346. Have they generally been successful? I cannot tell; I do not know that they have been.

347. Have you ever been induced to depart from the opinion you have entertained on any particular case by pressure of that kind? I believe not. My rule has been, in cases of undue pressure, to take especial care to let it be known that solicitations have no effect; I have always reported more fully in such cases.

348. You have a copy of your letter of the 31st May, 1858? Yes, it is here:—the entry in my letter book.

349. The opinion you expressed is a strong one? It is. I can read it. I may here mention, in reference to a former answer, that the strongest pressure I have known exerted was in the case of Skerritt; upon whose case I think that I reported three or four times.

350. Skerritt?—That is the person at whose instance Miss Kelly was recently prosecuted for perjury? Yes:—and there is the case of a lad near Hartley, whose name I cannot now remember.

351. In Skerritt's case you were called upon for your report, opinion, or recommendation, three or four times? Yes, as often, I think, as four.

352. Did you in that case at all depart, at last, from the opinion you expressed in the first instance? I gave no recommendation in his favor, until after the man had obtained his ticket-of-leave, which, I believe, he got in the ordinary course. But I had previously reported, that a then recent trial before me had inspired me with much distrust of Miss Kelly. On Skerritt's release, he called upon me, and entreated, that as I had been the means of keeping him under punishment so long, I would hear his story, and receive some fresh statements from him. I thought it my duty, as an act of humanity, if not of justice, to do do so; and I accordingly saw him several times, as well as some witnesses to whom he referred. In short, I investigated his case again; and then I entertained so very much doubt, and distrust, in reference to the whole matter, (coupled with the circumstance of the civil trial alluded to, in which Miss Kelly was a witness, in the face of whose testimony the jury returned a verdict against her,) that I no longer thought Skerritt ought to remain under sentence at all. I desire to add, nevertheless, that I have as I believe never expressed an opinion upon the man's innocence; nor do I now. I have formed no opinion of the innocence, or guilt, of either party in that mysterious matter. I think it one of those cases which the Almighty alone can unravel. The verdict against Skerritt, on the evidence then adduced, I think was inevitable. With all the evidence now attained, I should acquit him;—and, if the decision had rested with me, I should on the same evidence equally acquit Miss Kelly. I recommended finally his pardon, on the ground of its having become a case of extreme doubt; so that I could not feel my mind at rest, without reporting against his continuing liable to punishment any longer.

Sir Alfred
Stephen, Knt.
20 Oct., 1859.

353. How then was pressure brought to bear upon his case? By recommendations or solicitations from his friends or influential persons. One was from Mr. Williamson, a Member of the Assembly; one from Mr. Barker, then a Member of the Assembly; another from or through Mr. John Campbell, a Member of the Assembly. Those were all instances, in effect, of pressure; and I think that there were others. I do not mean personal solicitations, but recommendations by strong letters addressed or sent to me, or to the Government.

354. Do you think that there was undue pressure in the case of Hibburd? I do. The renewed application, and the letter from Dr. West, (which I commented upon,) shew that his friends were doing all they could to obtain his release.

355. You had no communication with any person on his behalf except Mr. Smith? With nobody else, so far as I recollect, or believe; and with him only that once.

356. Is it usual on the part of the Government, when a petition sent in by a prisoner is refused in the first instance, to submit to you a subsequent one to the same effect within so short a period? Well, I do not think that it is usual; but such things have, I am sure, occurred. I have no distinct recollection of instances, but my impression is, that there are several, during my 20 years experience, of petitions being sent in a second and some even a third time.

357. There are instances? My impression is that there are several instances of petitions being sent in and refused, and similar ones sent again two or three years afterwards. I remember no instance, however, in which so decided a refusal has been followed so soon by a new petition.

358. Has it ever happened that answers given by you to these petitions have been lost, or your communication with the Colonial Secretary's Office has disappeared,—as appears to be the case in this instance? No; I never knew an instance of the kind. Until the other day, I never even heard of the miscarriage of an intended enclosure.

359. It appears, to the best of your recollection, that you returned the first petition to the Colonial Secretary's Office in due course, through the channel commonly used? If I got it from the Colonial Secretary's Office, as I now believe that I did, I certainly sent it back again, or directed it to be so sent. And if neither the petition nor any reply to it was returned, I do not understand why no "reminder" was sent me, calling my attention to the omission.

360. I see that in your letter of the 31st May you comment strongly upon Dr. West's recommendation. You say—"Dr. West reports that he finds Hibburd a 'trustworthy person' on whom he 'would place the fullest reliance.' Such a certificate, applied to such a person will pass for what those better acquainted with convicts than I am may think it is worth. For my part, I feel some scruples in sending such a person to infest another Colony?" I certainly thought it a very startling recommendation, from an officer connected with prison discipline. He says, that he thinks this highway robber a "trustworthy person, on whom he would place the fullest reliance." I thought that an extraordinary expression; and I think so still.

361. By Mr. Jones: Was not Dr. West speaking merely from his own experience of him? He says—"He has been most attentive to his duties, and I have always found him a useful trustworthy person—one on whom I would place the fullest reliance." I understood those words to mean that he was a person to be trusted; and therefore one whom it would be safe to release.

362. Does it not rather follow from the context that it was with reference to the discharge of his duties. Speaking of the way in which Hibburd discharged them, Dr. West says, "he is one on whom I would place the fullest reliance?" I did not place that construction upon the words, nor do I now. If so, the recommendation was meaningless, and practically idle. The object was not to keep Hibburd on the Island, or procure him better treatment there, but to get him released, and set at large elsewhere. The certificate, to have any application at all, therefore, must have meant that Hibburd was a man upon whom reliance might be placed when at large. So long as you keep a prisoner under restraint, the public are safe. So long as you keep a drunkard away from drink, you may place some reliance upon him. But you would not trust either out of your control for an hour. The object of the petition, however, which Dr. West's certificate meant to favor, was unquestionably to free the man from control. I thought, on the contrary, that he was not a person who could be so trusted; or upon whom dependence could be safely placed; and therefore I did not think it right that he should be let loose, to rob the inhabitants of Victoria, (as in the sequel, he has already done,) or of any other Colony.

363. By the Chairman: Are you aware of the fact, that, after having been on the Island some eight months under sentence, he was transferred to the office of hospital overseer—which is a very easy berth? I know nothing about his treatment at Cockatoo Island. But it was not at that time unusual to employ quick and clever men in situations of trust, and authority

Sir Alfred authority too—no matter what their offences. One of the worst murderers ever sent to Stephen, Knt. Cockatoo Island was made a deputy overseer, before he had been there, I believe, six months.

20 Oct., 1859. 364. And who made him so? That I do not know.

365. Some of the authorities on the island? I do not know.

366. We know as a matter of fact, Sir Alfred, that the petition which is missing was sent to you from the Colonial Secretary's office: we have in our proceedings a copy of the letter which transmitted it to you? No doubt. And in my letter book, here produced, I have an entry of my reply to the Colonial Secretary, and a memorandum of another letter which I addressed to the Attorney General of the day, sending a copy of that reply with a request that it might be laid before the Governor General.

367. By Mr. Plunkett: What entry is that? The entry of January, 1857, as to the first petition. It is in the handwriting of my then clerk, Mr. Elliott. He used to enter letters thus briefly, instead of at full length. I have occasion to look at this letter book frequently, and I am quite sure of the accuracy of those entries.

368. By the Chairman: Have you any entry in that book, Sir Alfred, in reference to the second petition sent to you for your report? On the 24th April, 1858, the Colonial Secretary wrote to you asking your opinion on the accompanying petition, for mitigation of Hibburd's sentence of ten years hard labor. Have you any entry at all as to what opinion you passed upon it? I have. I answered that letter on the 31st May, 1858.

369. And that is the answer which has just been referred to—of the 31st May, 1858? Yes; No. 4 in the printed papers is a copy of my letter. I have no entry, in this instance, any more than in the other (and I cannot find an entry in any instance), of the papers sent me having been returned. The entries are all alike as to that. I have no entry in any part of this book, I believe, except in one case, of the papers having been returned.

370. By Mr. Jones: You assume, in every case, that they are returned? Yes. Some letters I write, and some I dictate; the clerk never, until recently, writing any letter for me. Then, as he sits at an opposite table, I generally throw the papers over to him, and he sends them on enclosed.

371. By the Chairman: You think that there was an undue pressure in this particular case? I thought so. I mean only, however, a pressure of the same kind which has been exercised upon myself, and that I know is exercised upon others.

372. Were you surprised when you heard what was the result of this application in 1858? I was very much surprised. But I was equally filled with regret; for I have known repeated instances (I could name seven or eight, by looking at my notes), where prisoners who have been pardoned before the expiration of their time have committed crime again within a very short period afterwards. Every remission, I believe, not founded on change of character in the prisoner, does no good; but positively does harm. I have instances of it on record, about some of which I have in former years written to the Government.

373. By Mr. Jones: Have you any reason, Sir Alfred, for thinking that there was undue pressure used in this case? I have no other reasons for thinking so, than the facts already appearing; that influence was used with me, and that he had influential friends, who probably would renew their solicitations:—and then, the fact of his having been in a situation of ease on the island, under Dr. West, and that gentleman's support of his petition. All led me to think that the same kind of pressure was still in operation.

374. You have stated that the only person who ever spoke to you in reference to this case was the Revd. Mr. Smith? I believe so.

375. In reference to other cases, one case more especially, (Skerritt's), you mentioned that you received letters from Members of the Legislature, pressing the case: did you receive any such letters in this case from any one connected with the Legislature? None whatever. Nor did I mean that in Skerritt's case I received direct any such letters:—but merely that there were such letters, or recommendations in writing from those gentlemen, forwarded eventually to me on the case.

376. Did you receive any verbal applications? None whatever; none addressed to me.

377. Then, in concluding that there was undue pressure in Hibburd's case, you do not speak from your own personal knowledge? No.

378. It is on your part mere conjecture? It was rather more than mere conjecture. I thought it highly probable that his friends were still doing and would do their utmost to get him pardoned.

379. But those friends, excepting Mr. Smith, in 1856, never made any application to you in any way? No; and I do not know that they applied to anybody else. I think that my supposition was a probable one, notwithstanding.

380. You received no such application in the case of Hibburd? Not from anybody; and I repeat, that I do not know that any was made by anybody else.

381. By Mr. Plunkett: How did it happen that the Revd. Mr. Smith interfered in the matter? I have already explained, that he was a friend of the family. Such instances of interposition, however, are not uncommon. The course taken in reference to most petitions is this: The prisoner has generally some friend, more often it is the wife, who gets up these things. She influences somebody else; most usually some kind hearted clergyman. Then, one or two influential persons, Magistrates, or if possible Members of the Legislature, are induced to take up or favor the application; and letters are written by them, or recommendations in writing giving by them. In general, these all come to the Judge; and sometimes direct to him from the parties. But usually the application is to the Colonial Secretary, or direct to the Governor. Most of these, I think, amount to what I have called undue pressure.

382. Did you ascertain from Mr. Smith that there was any connection between him and the prisoner?

prisoner? I have, I believe, already answered this question. I knew that Mr. Smith was acquainted with the prisoner's family, and he must have been aware that I knew it.

383. Was there any reason for his interfering, independent of his clerical character; assuming it to be the duty of a clergyman, to give assistance in having the prerogative of mercy exercised—had he a greater interest in doing so than any other clergyman could have? I think that this question has been answered. Mr. Smith had been employed, unless I much mistake, in visiting the prisoners at Cockatoo; and he formerly knew and felt interested in this prisoner's family.

Sir Alfred
Stephen, Knt.
20 Oct., 1859.

384. I find that you stated in your letter of 31st May that the prisoner was apprehended in a theatre in Sydney, and that a few days afterwards he was claimed as a prisoner, by the name of Cook, under a warrant issued from Brisbane Water, on a charge arising there—how did you become aware of that fact—did it come before you in the course of the trial? I either knew it at the time of the trial, or immediately afterwards, from the usual inquiries which a Judge makes, as to a prisoner's character and habits, before pronouncing sentence on him.

385. By Mr. Dalley: That would be a fact likely to be stated by the apprehending constable, would it not? Probably it would. I almost invariably, however, make such inquiries, and, sometimes, put parties upon their oath as to the matters inquired into.

386. By Mr. Plunkett: Was his apprehension on the charge for which he was tried before you, or on another charge? He was tried on the charge for which he was apprehended. The warrant was, of course, on another charge.

387. And have you any reason to suppose that a warrant was in existence, independent of the charge that he was tried for before you? Certainly. I think that the circumstance was stated by Captain Battye. I am sure, indeed, that it was Captain Battye stated that there was then a warrant out from Brisbane Water against Hibburd, under another name, on which he had been claimed.

388. For another offence? For another offence.

389. For which he was never tried? For which, obviously, he was never tried.

390. What was the offence, do you recollect? A robbery; but the not prosecuting is not at all uncommon in such cases. I have known no Attorney General who has not occasionally abstained from prosecuting a prisoner on a second charge, where there is one clear case and conviction against him, especially if the latter be the more serious of them.

391. Well, sending a prisoner out of the Colony under this Act under which this prisoner was pardoned, was it not calculated to prevent the effect of that warrant? It would, of course, prevent his being again apprehended under that warrant. But I know no example of a man's being taken up a second time and tried, where the second charge was abandoned at or before the first trial.

392. For a different offence? Yes. If the warrant for the second offence was not enforced at the proper time. I never heard of a man after having undergone his punishment, or been sentenced for one offence, being taken up again on a previously existing second charge. If there are two or three cases against a prisoner, the more general course is to try him only once, if convicted; but to mention that there are other cases against him. The Judge then reads the depositions, besides making the other usual inquiries into the prisoner's character, and passes, probably, in consequence, the full term of sentence, instead of a mitigated one. But here there were no depositions to guide me, and with the warrant I had nothing to do.

393. Had you the second case before you? Not more than I have mentioned. I knew only the fact of a second warrant being out; but I may have taken that into consideration, possibly, on the question whether the punishment appropriate to his offence should be mitigated.

394. It appeared that there was a warrant? It did; and possibly the fact appeared on the depositions.

395. By Mr. Dalley: Is it not usual, if the prosecutor has more than one charge, to proceed with one, and to hand up the depositions in the second or third? Yes.

396. And to intimate his intention not to proceed with them? Just so. The course nevertheless may be questionable, but we are not now, I take it, investigating such points. The principle on which I believe the Judges at present act is this: the law limits a maximum and a minimum amount of punishment. Every man found guilty of a particular crime, in the absence of mitigating circumstances, then, is liable to the maximum amount of punishment; and that maximum he ought to receive, therefore, unless there are some reasons for reducing it. If it be his first offence, if the crime has been committed under circumstances of temptation, if his character or ordinary conduct be good, (and Courts assume it to be so, unless the contrary appear), or there be in the case or connected with it any other mitigating circumstances, the prisoner justly receives a milder sentence. If on the other hand he is a bad character, and especially if he appear to be prone to the same kind of crime, or punishment hitherto has had no effect upon him, the prisoner receives the maximum, or nearly the maximum amount of punishment. It is not that the prisoner receives more, because of any second case, but that, a certain amount of punishment being due to the crime, the Judge is induced by that second case not to award less.

397. By Mr. Plunkett: What is the practice of the Judges in passing a sentence which they think proportionate to a particular offence—is it to hold out any hope to the prisoner of the shortening of that sentence, or to lead him to believe that the sentence will be fully carried out? You ask as to the course pursued. As a general rule, do you mean?

398. Yes; as a general rule? The general rule is, I believe, that the Judge holds out no hope of mitigation; but, when he does hold out any such hope, he does so openly:—he states the probability of a mitigation, and gives his reasons for it. It was the practice, however, to allude to the well-known fact that there was a system in operation, under certain regulations

Sir Alfred Stephen, Knt. regulations in force until recently, by which all sentences were mitigated. I have often dwelt on the fact, when passing sentence, that under that system prisoners never served the full term of their sentences.

20 Oct., 1859. 399. But is it not the habit of the Judges in pronouncing sentences, whatever the term may be, to state at the time to the prisoners that if they are well conducted in the place of their confinement, they may expect a shortening of the sentence? It is sometimes done in particular cases, in which the Judge may think reformation probable, or that a less punishment may prove, eventually, to be sufficient. But my present course is, on the contrary, to lead the prisoner to expect no mitigation.

400. Do you not think that the practice I speak of renders the punishment uncertain, and that (according to the best authorities who have turned their attention to the subject of secondary punishments) punishment administered in that way does not tend to prevent crime? That is a very difficult question; because it involves considerations of much delicacy connected with punishment, and requires extensive acquaintance with the whole subject and science of prison discipline.

401. I will put the question in another way: Do you not think that the certainty of punishment is more calculated to prevent crime than the magnitude of the sentence actually pronounced? Well, I will answer you:—but I cannot do so very shortly. My opinion is, that, as a general rule, every sentence passed should be endured. I also think that, as a general rule, short but severe punishments (if not too short to have any force as a warning to others, or to afford time for instruction and for reform,) are better than long sentences without other suffering; and certainly that a short sentence, which it is known by everybody will be endured, is more efficacious than a much longer one, which may not improbably be abridged in point of fact. Nevertheless, I am not prepared to say that, in some cases, the holding out of hope of a mitigation may not be very beneficial. Nor should I like to say, that in no case whatever is the element of hope—in carrying out penal discipline—to be allowed to exist. I am clearly of opinion, however, that, if there is to be mitigation allowed in any case, it will generally come much better from the Judge than from any other person, and accompany the sentence rather than follow it. The Judge alone knows the facts of the case, and the actual or probable tendencies of the prisoner. If, therefore, hope is not to be denied to all prisoners, I think that the holding out of that hope should rather be the act of the Judge than of any subordinate functionary, knowing nothing of the particular circumstances of the crime, and perhaps nothing of the previous history of the criminal.

402. Do you not think, that hope—coming from the Judge as part of the sentence—causes this pressure upon the Executive afterwards, almost in every case in which the hope is held out? Assuredly I think not. If the Judge himself holds out the hope, it is a distinct thing to be specifically acted upon; and it discourages all other expectations. But, in cases where no hope is held out, the practice has become inveterate, as a matter of course, for the prisoner's family or friends to besiege the Government, before he has been in gaol perhaps one-third or even one-fourth of his sentence.

403. But has not this the effect of making the punishment uncertain? What has that effect?

404. The hope held out by the Judge of the shortening of the sentence, at the time of passing it? No. The sentence is simply to a stated term, in either case; to so many years, if not shortened by the prisoner's own reformation, but, in that event, to a stated period so much less. I think that the circumstance of punishments being mitigated indiscriminately, or to a large extent, on general rules embracing all criminals alike, is highly injurious; on the ground suggested. But, in particular instances, where the Judge himself recommends the mitigation, and prescribes its term, it becomes a portion of the sentence. It is announced beforehand. The public know it, and the grounds of it, as well as the prisoner; and no uncertainty exists, except only such as the criminal himself may reduce to certainty, by a reform which will restore him usefully to society.

405. Do you not think it would be better that the Judges here should pronounce the sentence absolutely which the particular crime warrants, (as I believe the Judges in England invariably do,) rather than interfere in the case after it has passed through their hands? References to the Judges, after sentence, occasion them a most painful amount of labor, and responsibility; of which the public knows nothing, and for which those overworked functionaries are little likely to receive due acknowledgment. But my opinion is, that no man should receive a mitigation of punishment, in any case, without a reference to the Judge to ascertain its particular features and circumstances. I think it impossible to apply, without injustice to the community, any universal or general rule to crimes, or criminals. Cases should be individualised. I know of some crimes so barbarous, and so abominable, or committed by such incorrigibly bad men, that it would be almost itself a crime to extend indulgence to the perpetrators. I have known other cases, in which, after a few years, mitigation might be extended with no injury to the public, and with advantage to the individual. The great difficulty of prison discipline lies, I conceive, in the attempt to generalise: whereas, in every instance, discrimination ought to be exercised. But that never can be done, without an amount of expense, which Governments do not like to encounter for such objects, however important; nor, in many cases, without a degree of minute investigation and labor, which Judges only are likely to undertake.

406. By the Chairman: Is it usual to act in these cases upon the recommendation of the Judge;—that is, when the Judges recommend that a pardon or mitigation of punishment should be granted, is it usual to grant it; or, if the judges recommend that it should not be granted, is it usual to act in opposition to their views? As a general rule, and I think with few exceptions, the Judge's recommendation is adopted.

407. Have you known instances to the contrary? I have known such instances.

408.

408. Have you known many? I cannot state that I have known many. There have certainly been some. Sir Alfred Stephen, Knt.

409. Were those instances in favor of the convicts, or opposed to them? Both. Some years ago I recommended three Chinese, in a case of manslaughter, about whose conviction I was more than doubtful, for pardon on condition of exile. My recommendation in their favor was overruled; and, if still alive, they have undergone their punishment. 20 Oct., 1859.

410. But in this particular case of Hibburd, you reported against the claims of the man for mitigation;—your report, on both occasions, was strongly in opposition to mitigation? Yes.

411. And nevertheless his punishment was remitted? It was.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS AT DUBBO.

(PETITION RELATIVE TO.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 6 December, 1859.

---

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of the Town and District of Dubbo,—

SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioners have seen with much satisfaction the amount placed upon the Estimates for the erection of a Court House and Gaol here.

That your Petitioners have derived many benefits from the Court of Quarter Sessions and District Courts being held here.

That Dubbo is the most westerly township of the colony, as well as the central town of one of the largest, if not the largest, districts in the colony.

That by the establishment of a permanent Court of Quarter Sessions many of your Petitioners and other inhabitants of this district will be saved much trouble and expense in prosecuting offenders, inasmuch as, even with such Court being held here, many witnesses and proprietors will have to travel at least two hundred miles, which distance must be materially increased should the Court be held elsewhere.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to take the above premises under your consideration.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

[Here follow 114 Signatures.]

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$ . It is shown that the system (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

2. In the second part of the paper the problem of the uniqueness of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a unique solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

3. In the third part of the paper the problem of the stability of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a stable solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

4. In the fourth part of the paper the problem of the asymptotic behavior of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has an asymptotically stable solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

5. In the fifth part of the paper the problem of the periodicity of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a periodic solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

6. In the sixth part of the paper the problem of the boundedness of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a bounded solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

7. In the seventh part of the paper the problem of the convergence of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a convergent solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

8. In the eighth part of the paper the problem of the divergence of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a divergent solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

9. In the ninth part of the paper the problem of the oscillation of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has an oscillatory solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

10. In the tenth part of the paper the problem of the non-oscillation of the solution of the system (1) is considered. It is shown that the system (1) has a non-oscillatory solution for arbitrary values of the parameters  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$  if and only if the condition  $\alpha + \beta = 1$  is satisfied.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS AT DUBBO.

(PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 18 May, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of the Town of Dubbo, of the Bogan, Macquarie, and Castlereagh Rivers, of the Marron, Duck, and Marthequi Creeks, of the Townships of Coonabarrabran, Mundooran, and other places in the extensive Bogan Electorate,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioners respectfully direct the attention of your Honorable House to a Petition, presented by the Honorable Member for the Bogan, expressing pleasure that a sum had been placed on the Estimates for the erection of a Gaol and Court House at Dubbo.

That your Petitioners have since learned with much regret that Courts of Quarter Sessions are no longer to be held in the Township of Dubbo.

That your Petitioners—having already experienced the benefits arising from the Courts of Quarter Sessions hitherto held in the Township of Dubbo, knowing also, from the late sudden withdrawal of such Criminal Court appointed to be holden in the month of January, 1860, the great loss and inconvenience sustained by prosecutors and witnesses, as well as the hardship upon prisoners awaiting their trial—most respectfully urge upon your Honorable House the reconsideration of the decision by which Dubbo has been excluded from the benefits of Courts of Quarter Sessions.

That your Petitioners again, with respect, draw your attention to the fact of Dubbo being the most Western Township in the Colony, and the principal township of one of the most extensive and wealthiest Pastoral Districts in the Colony.

That your Petitioners, knowing the establishment of Courts of Quarter Sessions to be for the prosecution and suppression of crime, believe that the removal of such Court from Dubbo to Wellington will, to a great extent, frustrate the result desired by the extension of such Criminal Courts, and that the holding of such Court of Quarter Sessions in Dubbo will materially facilitate the ends of justice.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to take the premises into your gracious consideration, and that Dubbo may be proclaimed a place where Quarter Sessions may be permanently held.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

QUARTER SESSIONS, MOLONG.

(PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 10 February, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The Petition of the undersigned Magistrates, Landowners, and Residents in the Township and District of Molong,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners have heard with surprise that Molong is no longer to be a place at which Quarter Sessions shall be holden;—that being wholly unacquainted with the cause of such alteration, your Petitioners respectfully press on the attention of your Honorable House the consideration of the following facts.

The Township of West Molong is situated on the main road from Bathurst to Wellington, and is distant from the former place about sixty miles, and forty from the latter, thus giving ample scope for the compilation of Jury Lists.

The District of Molong is very extensive, comprising a large proportion of the Bogan and Lachlan Rivers, with a numerous constituency, whereas that of Orange is circumscribed, and the Township of Orange is only thirty-six miles from Bathurst.

The radius for a Jury List being thirty miles, Molong would embrace Orange, Stony Creek, and the Iron Bark Diggings; and we fearlessly assert that no second-class inland Township can excel the Jury List we can produce, either for intelligence or independence;—in confirmation of which we respectfully intimate that at the last sitting of the District Court at Molong, there was not an individual summoned as a Juror that did not attend, among whom were four Magistrates.

Your Petitioners would further bring under the notice of your Honorable House, that the Court House and Gaol at Molong are far too small, and in too dilapidated a condition to answer the requirements of this large District.

The dimensions of the Court House are only twenty feet by twelve,—a slab building in a wretched condition,—so wanting in accommodation, that His Honor Judge Dowling is obliged to hold his Court at an Inn.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House will cause Quarter Sessions to be holden at Molong, and grant such relief as the premises require.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. FREDERICK WESTMACOTT.

(PETITION FROM DARLING DOWNS.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 9 December, 1859.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Council assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of the Police District of Condamine, Dalby, and Drayton,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

That Mr. Frederick Westmacott has been lately superseded from the post of Clerk of Petty Sessions which he held at Condamine.

That your Petitioners, sympathising with the unfortunate position in which his retirement places Mr. Westmacott, beg to suggest for the consideration of your Honorable House circumstances connected with the past career of that gentleman, which, in their opinion, peculiarly entitle him to the especial indulgence of your Honorable House, at his present very advanced stage of life.

That Mr. Westmacott entered the Commissariat Service of the Colony in 1831, and remained in that Department one year.

That in 1832 he was appointed Clerk of Petty Sessions at Liverpool, which post he retained until 1848, and then retired for four years from official duties.

That in 1853 Mr. Westmacott re-entered the public service in the same capacity of Clerk of Petty Sessions, and discharged the duties of that office for seven years without any further interruption up to the period to which the Memorial of your Petitioners refers, when he was superseded.

That Mr. Westmacott has thus passed twenty-five years of his life in the public service of the colony.

That Mr. Westmacott, at the time of his temporary retirement from official duties, was not aware that that retirement would be attended by consequences such as those which it appears the Regulations are construed as attaching to it.

That your Petitioners believe that, by the regulations applicable to similar contingencies, a period less than that which Mr. Westmacott has actually served would have entitled him to more than the usual allowance granted for short terms of service, had the continuity of such services on the part of Mr. Westmacott not been broken by his four years of retirement to which your Petitioners have already alluded.

That Mr. Westmacott has now arrived at that stage of life (his seventy-first year) at which the natural infirmities of age preclude the possibility of his supplementing by his own exertions the gratuity which he is entitled to receive from the Government for his short period of service.

That your Petitioners, therefore, thinking that the peculiar circumstances of the case are such as to justify a departure from the literal interpretation of the Regulations, trust that your Honorable House will take the case of Mr. Westmacott into their favorable consideration.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Legislative Assembly.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. N. L. KENTISH.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 11 May, 1860.

The Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of Nathaniel Lipscomb Kentish, Gentleman,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner arrived in Sydney upwards of thirty years ago, with the appointment of Assistant Surveyor; and that he has held office in the Government service, in this and in the neighboring Colonies, with unblemished honor, enjoying the confidence of all the officers under whom it has been his happiness to render good and faithful service, which has been rewarded by the meed of official commendation in no ordinary degree, as testified on his arrival in this Colony, by credentials from the Right Honorable Sir Edward Paget, Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, and Senior Professor, of the Royal Military College of England, in which noble seminary of learning and science your Petitioner first entered the civil service of the Crown, as professor of surveying, &c., in October, 1827; and on his return to Sydney, two years ago, by the unequivocal testimony to the esteem in which he was held by the Government of Victoria, of a gratuity of £1,000, voted him by the Parliament of that Colony, in which he had last held office.

That your Petitioner has recently filled the humble but responsible situation in this Colony of Clerk of Petty Sessions; first at Condoulin, and afterwards at Molong, until the 31st of October last, when he was summarily dismissed as a wrong-doer, and officially repudiated as unworthy of being retained in the public service, as alleged—"for having, on insufficient or unjustifiable grounds, attributed gross misconduct to a brother officer;" of which vile offence of calumny it has been, and seems still to be, your Petitioner's misfortune to be assumed by the Government to be guilty, despite the clearest and strongest possible evidence to the contrary; and therefore regarded and dealt with as if he really were a "malicious slanderer;" in consequence of a wilful misrepresentation to that effect having been imposed on the last two Honorable Premiers (with deliberate falsehood—which, happily, is inconceivable) by an official report, signed by a section only of a judicial Board of Inquiry, consisting of the Magistrates of the Molong Bench, appointed to inquire into and to report to the Government upon the truth or falsehood of certain imputations incidentally—but not without perfect truth and extreme provocation—cast by your Petitioner on the moral character of Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell; such "Report" (despite the indignant remonstrance of the President of the Board, dissentient) being made to assert, that "the whole of the charges brought by your Petitioner against Mr. Mitchell were distinctly and positively contradicted by all the witnesses;" whereas, in fact and in truth, instead of the imputations alluded to, namely, "blasphemy, brawling, and sottishness," being disproved or contradicted by all or even by any one of the witnesses, five in number, these are the very words of each, each, viz.:—Luke H. Sibthorpe, Esq., J.P.:—"Mr. Mitchell did insult me on the Bench in July last; but on my threat to report him to the Government he apologised to me; I made him give me an apology in writing." Andrew Ross, Esq., M.D.:—"I admit having received from Mr. Mitchell a letter, in his handwriting, wishing me eternal damnation." Mr. Henry Marsden Betts:—"In company with Mr. Kentish and myself, at Moon's Hotel, Mr. Mitchell proposed as a toast 'Eternal damnation to your souls.'" Mr. John Davis, Chie. Constable:—"Mr. Mitchell was driven out of my house with a fire-iron by a young woman residing with my family, with whom he attempted to take liberties." Affidavit of N. L. Kentish, C.P.S.:—"Mr. Mitchell informed me, in August last, in the parlor of Moon's Inn, in the hearing of several persons, as a matter of fact, and apparently of notoriety, that he had been suffering from delirium tremens; and, on a former occasion, in the company of L. H. Sibthorpe, Esq., and two or three more gentlemen, Mr. Mitchell stated, that on the previous day he had got very drunk indeed at a dinner party; and by way of boast mentioned that he had drunk twelve glasses of brandy and water before sitting down to dinner."

That your Petitioner has filed an information in the office of the Attorney General, on oath, charging these four Molong Justices, together with one of the most material witnesses, with having confederated to defeat the course of justice, for the purpose of screening from well-merited reprehension a great delinquent, influenced by partiality; and with having, in order to effect this object, corruptly made to the Honorable Colonial Secretary a premeditated and untruthful report, mendaciously acquitting a Government employé, convicted before them of three offences on the clearest possible evidence; and defaming the character of your Petitioner, never before aspersed during the long period that he has had the honor to be recognised as a trusty servant of the Crown, in a manner calculated to injure the circumstances and ruin the prospects of your Petitioner; in which purpose the plot has been permitted to succeed, procuring as it has done his dismissal and disgrace; for which flagrant injustice and cruel injury he now implores redress, based on strictly impartial justice only.

That a further inquiry into all the circumstances of this peculiar case was seen to be necessary, and was accordingly ordered, by the late Honorable Premier, William Forster, Esquire, and that Captain Battye, J.P., Superintendent of the Western Mounted Police, was instructed to investigate and report to the Government fully upon the eight specific charges, officially preferred, by your Petitioner, against Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell, on the 20th of October, 1859, and with respect to the report brought up by a majority of the Molong Magisterial Board of Inquiry, of the 11th of October, but dissented from as "untruthful, and in the teeth of the evidence of all the witnesses, and of notorious facts," by the President of the Board and Chairman of the Bench, who has denounced the proceedings as a "mockery of justice". That the 8th of February last, at the Police Office, Molong, was accordingly appointed by Captain Battye for holding such inquiry, at which time your Petitioner (who, after waiting one month without receiving any reply to his official application praying for such inquiry, had recently arrived in Sydney, from Molong, nearly 200 miles—having been dismissed without an hour's notice from his situation at that remote distance in the interior) was, by circumstances, disabled from undertaking another journey of 400 miles there and back; and, moreover, deeming that his presence was not essential,—all the evidence requisite to substantiate his case being at Molong, inclusive of that taken before the Board of Inquiry, of the 11th of October, and of replies to his interrogations, addressed to Captain Battye in writing, by the only two material witnesses unable to attend, viz.,—Mr. Petherbridge, from Sydney, and Mr. Snow, from Orange,—your Petitioner had no reason whatever to imagine that his absence could be held to be material; yet, solely on the ground of your Petitioner's inability to attend at Molong on the day named for the inquiry, have the proceedings been quashed—no inquiry whatever has taken place, and justice is at present violated in two important respects, viz., first,—by your Petitioner being dealt with as a "false accuser and slanderer"—each of whose complaints, openly and officially preferred, has been established on the clearest and strongest testimony; which evidence itself is before the Government, in the offices of the Honorable Colonial Secretary and Attorney General; and, secondly,—by the parties specifically accused of vile depravity and of magisterial corruption being regarded—without being put on their defence—as if they had been tried by a jury and acquitted of premeditated meditated wilful falsehood in their judicial capacity, venally concocted to pervert the course of justice and to deceive the Government, by imposing an untruthful report on the Honorable Colonial Secretary, wickedly condemning an innocent and honorable Government employé of thirty-three years acknowledged services, for the purpose of screening and vindicating a more favored individual convicted before them of heinous depravity, disgraceful to a gentleman and Government officer; and, out of partiality, acquitting him of all three offences which they were instructed to inquire into, each of which had been established before them, as the evidence now in the Colonial Secretary's Office affords proof indubitable: whereas those several Justices are as yet unconvicted of the serious charge of which they are openly and distinctly accused on the oath of your Petitioner, only because his information, and also the testimony and virtual protest of Robert Johnstone Barton, Esquire, the senior Magistrate of the Molong Bench and Chairman of the Board of Inquiry, are entirely ignored, and the investigation ordered by the late Honorable Premier in January last has not been carried into effect.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays that, in justice to five Magistrates formally and officially accused of corruption, as well as in justice to one of the oldest servants of the Crown in Australia, who has done more than merely assert that he is wrongfully convicted of being a slanderer, admonished and dismissed for conduct which, if truthfully and correctly represented, would be seen to be far more entitled to commendation than to punishment, your Honorable House will be pleased to refer this anomalous case to a Select Committee of the same (all material evidence being attainable in Sydney), or otherwise to recommend to the Executive Government to direct that a full and impartial inquiry be made into the whole of the extraordinary circumstances referred to by disinterested and unprejudiced Commissioners, strangers to the district of Molong,—so that, ultimately, and without much further delay being added to the six months that your Petitioner has already suffered both disgrace and punishment wrongfully, truth and right may be justified and guilt exposed and punished; that “innocence of calumny or malice” and becoming support of the character of a christian and a gentleman in an experienced Government officer—which led your Petitioner to rebuke atrocity in a junior in the same service with himself—instead of being condemned may be fully vindicated; and further, if found to be deserving of commendation, officially approved, substantial justice may be done, which, to include redress of the grievous wrongs your Petitioner is suffering, must, it is believed—and will, it is hoped and implored—cause the sentence of expulsion from the Government service, for rebuking a junior brother officer for horrid blasphemy (which sentence and dismissal are based on an unjust and utterly untenable conviction, of “having “accused a gentleman of disgraceful conduct on insufficient grounds”), to be as publicly rescinded with honorable mention as they were promulgated in the Gazette, to the anguish of your Petitioner, his family and friends—to the great triumph of immorality and venality in the Government service—and to the amazement of all the brother officers and acquaintances of your Petitioner in this Colony and in Victoria.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

MR. JOHN ROPER, J.P.

(CORRESPONDENCE RESPECTING A CHARGE PREFERRED AGAINST.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 26 April, 1860.

W. A. MACDONOUGH, Esq., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Albury, 13 February, 1860.

SIR,

Finding by the public prints that your Ministry are engaged in revising the Magisterial Roll, I beg to draw your particular attention to the necessity of extending the pruning knife to this quarter by removing from the list one who has been for years, and is now (in the centre of our town), living in a state of undisguised and shameless adultery.

Already has his clergyman (C. E.) from the pulpit found it necessary to apply the lash of rebuke in no measured terms; and within the last week a highly respectable committee of his townsmen have declared him unfit for admission to a tradesman's ball by unanimously blackballing him.

The public voice is loud in crying shame at such a person being permitted to disgrace a position which should be considered respectable.

The individual to whom I refer is Mr. John Roper, J.P.

I have, &c.,

W. A. MACDONOUGH.

UNDER SECRETARY to BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, ALBURY.

Colonial Secretary's Office,

Sydney, 23 February, 1860.

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to request the favor of your report on the accompanying communication from Mr. W. A. Macdonough, preferring a charge against Mr. John Roper, J.P., of Albury.

I have, &c.,

W. ELYARD.

UNDER SECRETARY to W. A. MACDONOUGH, Esq., ALBURY.

Colonial Secretary's Office,

Sydney, 23 February, 1860.

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 13th instant, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to request, that the charge which you bring against Mr. John Roper, J.P., may be more distinctly specified.

I have, &c.,

W. ELYARD.

POLICE MAGISTRATE, ALBURY, to UNDER SECRETARY.

*Police Office,
Albury, 2 March, 1860.*

SIR,

Enclosure returned.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter enclosing a communication from Mr. Macdonough, charging Mr. Roper, J.P., with adultery.

In reply, I beg to report that a general belief has existed here for several years that an improper intimacy exists between Mr. Roper and the woman who acts as his housekeeper. It does not appear to have affected his social position, for his name has appeared as a steward at race, bachelor, and agricultural balls and dinners; he is President of the Agricultural Society, and an Alderman of the Municipality; his assistance is always sought, and he takes a leading part in all public movements.

I do not meddle with the private affairs of individuals, and no complaint of immoral or improper conduct has been brought under my notice in relation to Mr. Roper. I presume Mr. Macdonough, if called upon, would show better ground than hearsay for the charge he makes. It would be unsafe for me to seek evidence in the matter, as I would subject myself to an action for libel, and the party making the charge ought to prove it.

I have, &c.,
HEYWARD ATKINS.

POLICE MAGISTRATE, ALBURY, to UNDER SECRETARY.

*Police Office,
Albury, 12 March, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor to call attention to my letter of the 2nd March instant, and I beg to observe that, having made more particular inquiries into the subject referred to in that communication, I find that the housekeeper with whom Mr. Roper was supposed to have had an improper intimacy has been discharged from his service, and, in justice to that gentleman, I now feel bound to say that no objection exists against his public or private character.

I have, &c.,
HEYWARD ATKINS,
Police Magistrate.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council, relative to the appointment of Mr. William Russell Riley to the Commission of the Peace, and his subsequent removal therefrom.

Extract from Minute No. 59-41. 10 October, 1859.

Present:—

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.
 THE HONORABLE THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE COUNCIL.
 THE HONORABLE THE COLONIAL TREASURER.
 THE HONORABLE THE SECRETARY FOR LANDS.
 THE HONORABLE THE SECRETARY FOR PUBLIC WORKS.
 THE HONORABLE THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.
 THE HONORABLE THE SOLICITOR GENERAL.

HIS Excellency the Governor General having invited the attention of the Council to the undermentioned appointments in the Public Service, the Council advise as follows, viz. :—
 The undermentioned gentlemen to be Magistrates of the Territory and its dependencies.
 Here follows 128 names, among which, appears that of "William Russell Riley, Goulburn."

A. ORPEN MORIARTY,
 Clerk of the Council.

No. 2.

MR. JAMES CHISHOLM to GOVERNOR GENERAL.

Kippilaw, Goulburn,
 15 October, 1859.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

SIR,

As one of the local Magistrates living in this district, and having formerly been a Member of the Legislative Council when your Excellency assumed the rein of Government in this Colony, I have deemed it my duty to bring under your Excellency's notice the appointment in the last Gazette of Mr. W. R. Riley to the Commission of the Peace for the District of Goulburn, and in doing so, I trust your Excellency will believe me when I say that I am actuated by no ill feeling towards Mr. Riley, and that my only motive is the wish to see the laws of the country administered in a proper manner and not brought into contempt, but which I very much fear will be the case should Mr. Riley receive his commission as a Magistrate.

I must inform your Excellency that Mr. Riley formerly held the appointment of Clerk in the Gaol at Goulburn, and was dismissed from that office for an attempt to bribe his superior officer. His father is now bailiff in the Court in which his son is appointed to act as Magistrate; and I can assure your Excellency that no appointment has been made in the Colony which has caused so much dissatisfaction to the inhabitants of Goulburn, and the Magistrates in particular, as this appointment of Mr. Riley; and I believe I am only expressing the sentiments of the other Magistrates when I say that they will not sit with Mr. Riley on the Bench, or associate with him in private life.

I must further inform your Excellency that it is only a short time since Mr. Riley held a publican's license on the Yass road, and consequently his house was under the surveillance of the police, several of whom are still living in the district. The Magistrates whom he is now appointed to sit with had to grant him a license, and I put it to your Excellency whether it is treating the Magistrates of the District, who have performed the duties gratuitously for a number of years to the satisfaction of the public, well or courteously, in appointing Mr. Riley to sit with them.

I sincerely hope I have said nothing in this letter to give your Excellency offence, for I firmly believe that the gentlemen who may have recommended Mr. Riley to your Excellency's notice can have known but little of him; and I trust I may be allowed to express a hope that your Excellency will delay the issue of a Commission of the Peace to Mr. Riley till your Excellency is satisfied that he is a fit and proper person to receive it.

I have, &amp;c.,

JAMES CHISHOLM.

MR. W. R. RILEY to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Goulburn,

20 October, 1859.

MY DEAR SIR,

I send herewith, addressed to you officially, my resignation, which, should you think it the best step to be taken, you will please receive.

I need scarcely add that all I have stated in it is strictly true, and that I scarcely envy Murray the good taste and charity that has made him rake up a fault well nigh forgotten, repented of, amply punished, and never repeated.

With my best thanks for the distinction you were pleased to confer on me,—

I remain, &amp;c.,

W. R. RILEY.

No. 5.

MR. W. R. RILEY to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Goulburn, 20 October, 1859.

SIR,

I beg to resign my appointment to the Commission of the Peace.

I will not deny that Mr. Murray's question has had a share in deciding me to do this.

The act to which Mr. Murray refers took place so far back as nine years ago, when I was a mere youth, and I was led into it by the advice of another. I was punished at the time by removal from the office I held. The result was just, and at the same time beneficial, leading me to form a firm resolution never again to depart from the path of rigid honesty.

This was the first dishonorable act of my life. I can fearlessly assert that it has been the last.

With reference to Mr. Murray's conduct in the matter, I will only observe that when he and I were both supporters of the present Ministry I was his honored guest and the associate of his family. Mr. Murray then probably thought that the one error of my youth had been retrieved by the subsequent conduct of my manhood; but now that, politically, we are opponents, nothing can be allowed to earn forgiveness of one's trespasses.

Should the matter again be referred to, perhaps you will have the goodness to make this explanation, and to do me the justice to state that I never applied for the appointment.

I have, &amp;c.,

W. R. RILEY.

From W. R. Riley, Goulburn, to Hon. C. Cowper, Sydney.

I have been advised not to retire from the Commission, and have met with so many kind expressions of sympathy even from persons that I scarcely thought my friends, and Murray's conduct is so much disapproved of, that I am inclined to withdraw my resignation and to fight the matter out; however, I leave it entirely to you. Please reply, as I am leaving town.

MR. JAMES R. STYLES AND OTHER MAGISTRATES to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Goulburn, 8 November, 1859.

SIR,

We, the undersigned Magistrates of the Territory, and members of the Goulburn Bench, have learned with regret that His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to confirm the appointment of Mr. William R. Riley, of Goulburn, to the Commission of the Peace, and believing as we do that his appointment was recommended by the constitutional advisers of the Crown for political services rendered to the late Ministry, and not for any merit or qualification which Mr. Riley can lay claim to,—

We deem it our duty to state, for the information of the Governor General, that, from the fact of Mr. Riley having been dismissed from the public service for offering a bribe, from his antecedents, and from his station in society, we cannot sit with him on the Bench; and we therefore tender our resignations as Magistrates of the Territory (which we should have done much sooner had it not been notified in the public papers that Mr. Riley had resigned his Commission), and request that you will be pleased to communicate the same to His Excellency the Governor General and the Honorable the Executive Council.

MR. J. R. STYLES to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Goulburn, 12 November, 1859.

SIR,

As Chairman of the Meeting of Magistrates, held at Goulburn, on Tuesday the 8th instant, I have the honor to enclose the accompanying letter embodying the unanimous sentiments of that meeting, with the names of the gentlemen composing it.

I am, &amp;c.,

J. R. STYLES.

No. 9.

T. A. MURRAY, ESQ., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Lake George, 14 November, 1859.

SIR,

Having appended my name to a letter, whereby several gentlemen residing in the County of Argyle, with whom I wish to act in concert, have resigned their Commissions as Magistrates of this Territory, I deem it but due to myself to state that, although I fully concur with them in the step they have taken, I do not quite agree with them in the reasons they have assigned for it.

MR. W. R. RILEY.

I have intimated this to one of the gentlemen in question, with whom I have been in correspondence on the subject, and informed him that I would write to you in explanation of my own views on this occasion.

The social status of Mr. W. R. Riley, be it high or low, or that of any person appointed to the Commission of the Peace, is to me a matter of no moment. I would not object to act as a Magistrate with any man, however humble his position in life might be, if he were properly qualified for the office by education, intelligence, and respectability of character.

But I can recognise only two objects for which, and for which alone, Magistrates should be appointed: these are the conservation of the peace, and the administration of justice.

And in my opinion the authorities who make those appointments have, in making them, only two questions to consider—the first is, whether they are necessary or advisable for the public service; the second, whether the persons proposed for them possess the requisite qualifications.

The office of Justice of the Peace is undoubtedly an honorable one; but I object in toto to its being conferred on any man merely by way of a personal distinction.

If we want an order of distinction in the Colony, let us petition the Queen as the fountain of honor to establish one. This, the legitimate course, would be far better than prostituting the course of justice by making the office of Justice of the Peace a mere matter of social distinction, in which light alone it appears to have been regarded in most of the appointments recently made.

The services of Mr. Riley as a Magistrate were not required in the town of Goulburn. A stipendiary Magistrate is stationed there; and there were already several unpaid Justices in the district to assist him. Nothing in Mr. Riley's position or character rendered it desirable for the benefit of the public service that he should be placed in the Commission of the Peace. His antecedents, on the contrary, rather raised a strong presumption against his fitness for the office.

But he is an editor of a paper, and in that capacity was a strong—some thought a slavish—supporter of the Administration which appointed him. He was placed in the Commission of the Peace certainly not because the public required his services; but, in my humble opinion, because the Government of the day wished to confer an honorary distinction upon him in return for the support which he gave them as a political partisan. There have been many similar cases throughout the Colony in which the political services of persons of very questionable fitness for the Magisterial Bench have been rewarded in the same manner.

But Mr. Riley's case comes before us in our own district; it is plainly unmistakeably clear to us that his political services to the Minister of the day, have alone placed him on the Bench.

It becomes our duty to protest against such abuses as these—abuses which are calculated to strike at the root of all usefulness in the fine old institution of Justices of the Peace. The office becomes degraded, if it is made a mere honorary distinction. And to render our protest more emphatic we resign our Commissions—at least with this view I resign mine, after having had the honor of holding it for some six or seven and twenty years.

SIR,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th instant, explaining the circumstances under which you have tendered your resignation as a Magistrate, and to state to you that Mr. Forster has received the information with much regret.

2. I am directed, at the same time, to add, with reference to the appointment of Mr. W. Riley to the Magistracy, that the subject had been decided on by the late Government, and that it cannot now be re-opened until the whole question of the reform of the Commission of the Peace shall be under consideration.

T. A. MURRAY, ESQ., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Lake George, 6 December, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th ultimo, in reply to that which I addressed to you on the 14th, resigning my Commission as a Magistrate of this Territory.

You state, with reference to the appointment of Mr. W. R. Riley, that "the subject" had been decided on by the late Government, and that it cannot now be re-opened until "the whole question of the reform of the Commission of the Peace shall be under consideration."

On this point I wish to observe that I by no means urged upon the Government any steps relative to Mr. Riley in particular, nor did I intimate that that gentleman's appointment was in itself the cause of my resignation.

His case derived whatever importance attached to it in my mind from the fact that it served as a clear, unmistakeable instance of the evil working of the system under which Justices are at present appointed.

But were he—were all other persons in the Commission whose fitness for the office of Justice of the Peace is so commonly questioned—removed from it, my determination would be in no way affected thereby. I shall not again act as a Magistrate until the system under which such appointments are made is altered.

In my opinion, since the inauguration of Responsible Government, political partisanship and subserviency have been the chief recommendations on which persons have been placed in the Commission of the Peace. But that a man may be a very useful electioneering agent and a very vile Justice of the Peace is a fact amply borne out by the recent experience of the country.

A Committee of the Legislative Assembly, of which I was Chairman, lately reported against the present system. The witnesses examined before that Committee, including Judges of the Supreme Court, were almost unanimous in condemnation of it. As a member of the Legislature I have long opposed it—as a citizen I now renounce all connexion with it.

During a late Administration from 350 to 400 new Magistrates were appointed. Where is all this to end if a stand is not at once made against it? Are we to suffer each succeeding Ministry to follow this example?

I have, &c.,

T. A. MURRAY.

No. 12.

(Extract from Minute, No. 59-54. 12 December, 1859.)

His Excellency the Governor General, at the instance of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, lays before the Council a letter from the undermentioned Magistrates of the Bench at Goulburn, resigning office as Magistrates of the Territory, for the reasons therein stated, viz. :—

Messrs. J. R. Styles,
James Chisholm,
John Cropper,
A. Guerry de Lauret,
John S. Futter,
T. A. Murray,

Messrs. Thomas Woore,
F. R. L. Rossi,
A. Gibson,
W. Conolly,
D. Thorn,
A. Ranken, and

Mr. George Martyr.

With

With this letter (a copy of which is hereto annexed), His Excellency also lays before the Council some further correspondence on the subject, and desires the advice of the Council, as to the course which it would be expedient for the Government to pursue in the matter.

In so far as the gentlemen in question are concerned themselves, the Council do not feel called upon to take cognizance of the reasons which they have assigned for their present course of action. It is sufficient for the Council that the step has been deliberately adopted; and under such circumstances, they can see no alternative open to them but to recommend that their resignations be accepted, and that His Excellency should direct the issue of the necessary writs of supersedeas.

The reason, however, assigned by these gentlemen for their conduct, affects the character and position of another member of the Bench—Mr. William Russell Riley, who has recently been appointed; and is of such a nature that the Council cannot, consistently with their duty, altogether abstain from taking cognizance of it. In the letter now under consideration, his brother Magistrates state that,—from his having been dismissed for offering a bribe, from his antecedents, and from his status in society,—they cannot sit with him, and therefore resign their offices.

Upon a perusal of the correspondence which His Excellency has laid before them in connection with this question, the Council are fully satisfied that Mr. Riley was dismissed from the public service, for offering a bribe to his superior officer; and therefore need little more to convince them that a grave error has been committed in appointing this gentleman to the Commission of the Peace. Entertaining this view, they think it desirable that prompt measures should be taken for remedying the mistake; and accordingly advise that His Excellency the Governor General should direct the issue of a writ of supersedeas in this case also.

EDWARD C. MEREWETHER,
Clerk of the Council.

[Annexure above referred to.]

Goulburn, 8 November, 1859.

Sir,

We, the undersigned Magistrates of the Territory, and members of the Goulburn Bench, have learned with regret that His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to confirm the appointment of Mr. William R. Riley, of Goulburn, to the Commission of the Peace; and believing as we do that his appointment was recommended by the constitutional advisers of the Crown for political services rendered to the late Ministry, and not for any merit or qualification which Mr. Riley can lay claim to, we deem it our duty to state, for the information of the Governor General, that, from the fact of Mr. Riley having been dismissed from the public service for offering a bribe, from his antecedents, and from his status in society, we cannot sit with him on the Bench; and we therefore tender our resignations as Magistrates of the Territory,—which we should have done much sooner, had it not been notified in the public papers that Mr. Riley had resigned his Commission,—and request that you will be pleased to communicate the same to His Excellency the Governor General and the Honorable the Executive Council.

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, that in a letter in which certain Magistrates of the Bench at Goulburn tendered the resignation of their Commissions, the attention of the Government was drawn, with reference to your appointment to the Commission of the Peace, to the circumstances under which you were deprived of a former appointment in the public service, and that the subject has been brought under the consideration of the Executive Council.

MR. W. R. RILEY to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Goulburn, 19 December, 1859.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, stating that a writ of supersedeas had been issued against me, I take the opportunity of making one or two remarks for the information of the Legislature before whom, I understand, all correspondence on the subject is likely to be laid.

The present Administration on taking office found me already a Magistrate. The Colonial Secretary's letter of 26th November, addressed to T. A. Murray, Esq., says, "that the subject has been decided by the late Government; and that it cannot now be re-opened until the whole question of the reform of the Commission of the Peace shall be under consideration." I protest, then, against the issue of the supersedeas, not because I have any craving for the distinction of being a Magistrate, but because, for the following reasons, I believe it to be, if not positively illegal, at the least arbitrary and unconstitutional.

First,—Because, once appointed I became just as much a Magistrate as the oldest member of the Bench, and because I conceive that it is unjust to dismiss any Magistrate save for some offence committed since his appointment.

Secondly,—Because if any charges have been made against me, or if the Government had considered that they could, with propriety, legally re-open a case closed by their predecessors, I ought to have been apprised of the fact, and have been afforded an opportunity of defending myself, which has not been allowed me.

Thirdly,—Because I believe my removal is owing solely to political considerations.

To admit that the Government have a right thus to supersede me is to admit that they have an equal power to dismiss every Magistrate on the roll, without affording an opportunity of replying to any charges, and even without such charges having been made. This appears so monstrous a proposition that I cannot believe it to be any more in accordance with law than it is with justice.

(LETTER RESPECTING HIS APPOINTMENT TO COMMISSION OF THE PEACE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 22 May, 1860.

Goulburn, 30 April, 1860.

SIR,

The publication of the papers relative to my appointment to the Commission of the Peace has brought under my notice a letter signed "James Chisholm," of the existence of which I was not previously aware, and respecting which a few remarks are necessary.

The writer alleges, as one cause of my unfitness for the appointment, that my father is an officer of the court in which I have been appointed to sit as a magistrate.

This is wholly incorrect. My father is not, and never was an officer of the Magistrate's Court, or in any way connected with it.

The writer goes on to allege that, "only a short time since Mr. Riley held a publican's license on the Yass road, and consequently his house was under the surveillance of the police, several of whom are still living in the district."

It is perhaps unnecessary that I should point out that this is really but the embodiment of the outcry that has been raised against the appointment to the Commission of the Peace of "men in business"; it is certainly so to argue that the following of any one particular calling—provided it be an honest one—does not disqualify one for any office in the country.

While I shall never be ashamed of any occupation, however humble, in which I have been engaged, it may yet be as well that I should state that Mr. Chisholm's "short time" is six years ago; that I was then unmarried; that I never intended to remain permanently in the business, my object, from the first, being to sell the "goodwill" of the house to advantage; that I left as soon as I found a purchaser at a satisfactory price; that I was in the business but five months; and that not one of the police then in the force remain.

May I request you will have the goodness to cause this letter also to be laid before the Legislative Assembly.

SIR,

I have the honor to invite your attention to my letters, addressed to the Honorable the Attorney-General, dated respectively the 3rd, 10th, 15th, and 24th December, and 7th January last, complaining of Mr. H. M. Oxley, a Justice of the Peace, and charging him with a misdemeanour.

As up to the present I have received no communication in reply, except an intimation that the matter had been referred to the Executive Council, I beg respectfully to inquire if the Government purpose instituting any inquiry into the conduct of Mr. Oxley as complained of.

No. 2.

H. M. OXLEY, ESQ., to THE POLICE MAGISTRATE, GOULBURN.

Berrima, 12 May, 1859.

SIR,

I have received a summons under your hand and seal commanding me to appear at the Police Office, Goulburn, on the 13th May instant, to answer a charge therein specified.

I cannot doubt that this summons was inadvertently signed by you, as it appears upon the face of the document that the offence complained of is alleged to have been committed at Berrima, where a Court of Petty Sessions is held, and near to which place I reside. I am advised that the present proceeding is unwarrantable and altogether without precedent, it being an universal principle that a defendant should be summoned to appear within the county or district in which the offence is alleged to have been committed.

I have therefore to inform you that I have no intention of obeying the summons, and if the Justices who may preside should venture to issue a warrant they will do so at their peril.

If it should be alleged that the complainant fears that the case would not be impartially heard by the Justices residing at Berrima, that is a reason why he should apply to the Supreme Court for leave to file a criminal information against me, which is the only proper course.

I believe no case will be produced before your Bench to shew that Justices in our District have, under any circumstances, assumed to themselves the power of summoning a Justice residing in another district to answer before them for his conduct in his magisterial capacity. If the Goulburn Magistrates have the power to summon me, they must have equal right to deal with the Sydney Justices in respect of the discharge of their duty in Sydney, and this appears to me so monstrous that I cannot for a moment imagine the existence of any such right.

THE BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, GOULBURN, to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

*Police Office, Goulburn,
14 May, 1859.*

SIR,

Copy herewith
enclosed, No. 1.

We have the honor to inform you that Mr. Chas. Hamilton Walsh, of Goulburn, attorney-at-law, having, on the 2nd instant, sworn an information before the Police Magistrate at this place, charging Mr. Henry Molesworth Oxley, J.P., of Wingecarribbee, near Berrima, with having maliciously impeded and prevented the administration of justice, a summons was issued for the appearance of the defendant before this Bench on the 13th instant.

The case was called on before us and Mr. Delauret, J.P., and the defendant not appearing, the prosecutor proved the personal service of the summons, and applied for a warrant to compel the appearance of the defendant.

We felt bound to grant a warrant, but in order to give the defendant an opportunity of attending without the actual execution of the warrant, and also to have an opportunity of submitting to you a letter from him to the Police Magistrate, we have deferred the issuing of the warrant until the 24th instant, and, more particularly, as Mr. Delauret agreed with the defendant, that Mr. Walsh's only remedy was to proceed by criminal information in the Supreme Court; we transmit herewith the defendant's letter to the Police Magistrate.

As our jurisdiction has been thus questioned, we have the honor to apply to you for advice on the point, and will feel obliged by your informing us if we have jurisdiction in the matter of the complaint as Magistrates of the Territory, and whether Mr. Walsh has a right to proceed in the way he proposes, or can we oblige him to go to the Supreme Court for a criminal information.

Mr. Walsh cited and relied on the Queen v. Marshall (4, Ellis and Blackburn, p. 475,) as an authority in his favour, and we beg to refer you to the case.

THE HONORABLE

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

No. 4.

C. H. WALSH, ESQ., to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Goulburn, 14 May, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you that, after waiting for five months without receiving any reply to my complaint against Mr. H. M. Oxley, and Mr. Oxley having resumed his seat on the Berrima Bench, stating he was justified in his conduct towards me, I have proceeded to put the law in motion, and prosecute him by indictment for maliciously obstructing the administration of justice.

On the 2nd instant, I made an information before the Police Magistrate here, and, having satisfied him on the facts that the case was one in which he ought to bring the defendant out of another District, he granted me a summons returnable on the 13th instant. This summons was served personally on Mr. Oxley, but on the case being called on, he failed to appear; he, however, addressed a letter to the Police Magistrate, in which he puts forward two objections to my proceeding:—First,—That my only remedy was by criminal information in the Supreme Court; secondly,—That he should not be summoned out of his District. The Magistrates have intimated their intention of asking your opinion on these objections before issuing a warrant to compel the appearance of the defendant, and I beg leave to address you in reference to them.

With respect to the first objection, I submit there is nothing in it; I have a clear right to proceed by either indictment or criminal information (1st Russell on Crimes, 135). I cannot now have a criminal information, having complained in the first instance to the Attorney General, besides more than two terms have gone by since the offence. Upon this latter latter point, as well as on the whole case, the Queen v. Marshall (4, Ellis and Blackburn, 463) is a conclusive authority.

With respect to the second objection, I have to submit that as the Commission of the Justices is for the entire Colony, they have clearly jurisdiction in this case, the offence being committed in the Colony, and whether that jurisdiction be exercised or not is only a question of propriety. Upon this point, I submit the circumstances of the case are such as render it exceptional to the common rule of confining cases to their peculiar Districts.

It would be a virtual denial of justice to send me to Berrima to prosecute my information before the Magistrates who generally preside there, and who have already taken such a part in this matter as to entirely identify them with the defendant; I had no desire to bring the matter before any Bench of Magistrates in particular. In my letter to the Attorney General of the 24th December last, I asked to have a Magistrate sent to Berrima, to hear my complaint, but to this no answer has ever been given, and I now submit that the Magistrates in Goulburn having received my information, and issued a summons to the parties, are bound to proceed in the matter.

I cannot abandon my right to proceed in the way in which I am now doing, and I cannot conclude without saying that I feel I was at least entitled to an acknowledgment of the receipt of my complaint against a Magistrate on a charge so seriously affecting the administration of justice in this Colony.

I have, &c.,

CHAS. H. WALSH.

THE HONORABLE

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

[Enclosure in No. 4.]

In the Colony of New South Wales, }
to wit.

The information of Charles Hamilton Walsh, of Goulburn, in the Colony of New South Wales, attorney-at-law, taken this second day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the said Colony, at Goulburn aforesaid, who saith as follows:—I am an attorney of the Supreme Court of New South Wales; on the 1st day of December last a Court of Petty Sessions for the recovery of small debts under the Act tenth of Vict. No. 10, was held at Berrima, Henry Molesworth Oxley and Charles L. Nicholson, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace were the sitting Justices at the said Court; a certain cause wherein James Campbell was plaintiff, and D. R. Eden defendant, was entered for trial at the said sitting of the said Court; the said defendant, D. R. Eden, employed me to appear for him and conduct his case; when the cause was called on for hearing the plaintiff appeared; I stated that I appeared for the defendant; whereupon the said Henry Molesworth Oxley said he would not allow me to appear until I had given some explanation of a letter which he said I had written to the Crown Law Officers, in which, as he alleged, I stated that justice could not be procured at that Bench while he sat on it; I refused to give any explanation, and insisted on my right to appear, but the said Henry Molesworth Oxley refused to permit me; the said Charles L. Nicholson stated his willingness to permit me to appear; I asked the said Henry Molesworth Oxley to state in writing his objection to my appearing as an attorney in the said cause, and he directed the Clerk of the Bench to take down in writing the following statement,—“I object to Mr. Walsh appearing in this or any other case until he gives some explanation of a letter to the Crown Law Officers, accusing me of partiality and injustice, and declaring that so long as I sat on the Bench his client could not obtain justice.”

I was not permitted to appear, and the cause was adjourned for a week by the said Henry Molesworth Oxley; the statement made by the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, and reduced to writing as aforesaid, is utterly untrue; I never in writing or otherwise made any such statement; I believe that in refusing my appearance for the said D. R. Eden the said Henry Molesworth Oxley was influenced by personal ill-feeling towards me, because I had advised a client of mine to complain to the Attorney General of the Clerk of the Bench at Berrima for neglect of duty, and because, for another client, I sued the said Henry Molesworth Oxley.

I charge the said Henry Molesworth Oxley with having, at Berrima aforesaid, on the 1st day of December aforesaid, unlawfully and maliciously prevented the due administration of justice, by preventing me from appearing for the said D. R. Eden in the cause aforesaid, and conducting his case, and preventing me from exercising my profession of an attorney of the Supreme Court according to law, and I pray that he may be summoned to answer this charge.

The said Charles L. Nicholson and John Evelyn Liardet can give material and necessary evidence relating to the said charge, and I pray that they may be summoned as witnesses, and that the said John Evelyn Liardet may be allowed to produce the plaint and other proceedings filed in the said cause of Campbell against Eden, and the cause list of the Court of of Petty Sessions at Berrima on the said first day of December last, and the memorandum in writing made by the said John Evelyn Liardet from the dictation of the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, stating his reasons for not hearing me.

(No. 59-131.)

Police Office,
Berrima, 19 May, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

Summons to be returned.

I have the honor to inform you, that on the 1st December last, I, as usual, presided in the Court at Berrima, when a case under the 10 Vict., No. 10, not within my jurisdiction as a Magistrate sitting singly, was called on, in which Mr. C. H. Walsh, an attorney of the Supreme Court was retained; before hearing that gentleman, I asked him a question, as a Magistrate, to which he gave me a most insulting reply; I then refused to hear him unless he apologised; Mr. Walsh said I should do so, i.e., refuse to hear him at my peril, and that I had no power to do so under any existing law. I then asked the opinion of the Honorable the Attorney General on the point of law, in the meantime declining to hear Mr. Walsh; a long correspondence ensued between the Bench at Berrima and the Attorney General, and finally the whole matter was brought under the notice of the Governor General and the Executive Council, at whose request the letter dated 2nd February, 1859, No. 3026, addressed to the Honorable the Chief Secretary, and published by order of the Legislative Assembly, on the motion of Mr. T. A. Murray, amongst the correspondence between the Government and the Bench of Magistrates at Berrima, relating to the refusal of that Bench to hear Mr. C. H. Walsh as an Attorney, was written containing an explanation of the whole case; to this letter no reply at all relating to the point at issue was received, and the matter apparently dropped. On the 8th May last, I received the enclosed summons from the Police Magistrate at Goulburn, ordering me to appear before him at that place, 52 miles from my residence, to answer a charge preferred against me by the same Mr. C. H. Walsh, for obstructing the course of justice by refusing to hear him on the 1st December last. I did not obey the order, but, as advised, wrote the following letter. (As per separate copy, dated Berrima, 11 May, 1859.) I am now given to understand, that it is the intention of the Magistrates at Goulburn to issue a warrant for my apprehension after the 24th instant, in the meantime taking the opinion of the Crown Law Officers. I therefore do myself the honor to request, that you will give me, as a Magistrate, such advise and assistance you may think proper to offer, and that you will consider it within your province to protect me in the discharge of my duty.

I have, &c.,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 19th instant, respecting summons issued by the Police Magistrate, Goulburn, for your appearance at that place, I am desired by the Attorney General to state, that he regrets that he feels himself bound to decline to answer the questions asked in your communication of the above date, on the ground that it would be contrary to his duty as Attorney General to advise a person (although he be a Magistrate) how he should act when charged with a criminal offence.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL to THE BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, GOULBURN.

(No. 59-251.)

*Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 27 May, 1859.*

GENTLEMEN,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 14th instant, I do myself the honor to state that I am aware my predecessors, on the ground that it was no part of their duty, have generally refused to give opinions to Magistrates on questions coming before them for decision, but in some special instances they have departed from that custom. As the points, however, on which you seek my advice, are novel, and the subject is one of great importance and apparent difficulty, I have no hesitation in affording you all the information in my power. I am of opinion that you have jurisdiction to entertain the charge preferred by Mr. Walsh against Mr. Oxley, and to issue your warrant in case the latter should persist in disobeying the summons.

It is a misdemeanour for a Judge or Magistrate maliciously to obstruct the course of justice, (per Lord Campbell, C.J., in Reg. v. Marshall, 4, Ellis and Blackburn, 480) and such offence may be punished, either by information in my name, in the ordinary way, or by a criminal information. By the 1st section of Jervis' Act, 11 and 12 Vict., c. 42, in all cases where a charge is made before a Justice of the Peace "that any person has committed" or is suspected to have committed any treason, felony, or indictable misdemeanour, or other "indictable offence whatsoever, within the limits of the jurisdiction of such Justice, it shall" be lawful for such Justice to issue his warrant to apprehend such person."

There is therefore, it is alleged, in the present case, an indictable misdemeanour, and there is consequently, power for the injured party, if he wishes to initiate criminal proceedings, to go before any Justice, provided the case should have happened within the limits of such Justice's jurisdiction. Had then Mr. Walsh power, in strict law, to go before a Goulburn Magistrate? I think the law allowed him so to do, as Magistrates here are appointed for the whole Colony, and by the 17 Vict., No. 39, sec. 12, "every Justice" described as a Justice of the Peace for New South Wales, shall be taken to be a Justice "for the Colony generally."

With respect, however, to the propriety of or necessity for instituting proceedings there instead of at Berrima, I differ entirely from the view entertained by Mr. Walsh, for I think Mr. Walsh had no right to assume that Mr. Oxley's brother Magistrates, at Berrima, would necessarily neglect their duty and deny him justice. In answer to the second question put to me by the Bench of Magistrates, I am clearly of opinion that Mr. Walsh had a right to proceed in the way he proposed, provided he had evidence to support his charge, with a view to ulterior proceedings at the Assizes, and that he could not be compelled to resort to the Supreme Court for a criminal information. In England he might pursue his remedy, either by indictment at the Assizes or by a criminal information in the Court of Queen's Bench. Here an information by the Attorney General would take the place of an indictment in England, and the other remedy by criminal information in the Supreme Court would be the same as in the Mother Country.

It is expressly laid down in Burns' Justice of the Peace, title "Justices," and it is clear law that a person may pursue one or other of such remedies at his election, and although a criminal information is generally resorted to, yet, in cases like the present, where the time for applying to the Supreme Court has gone by, an indictment is the proper, indeed the only, remedy against a Justice who acts from an improper and corrupt motive. I would also remind you, that nearly twenty years ago a Magistrate was tried and convicted at the Assizes in the West of England for illegally administering an oath, Reg. v. Nott, Cur v. Marshman, Q.S.S.

A case, however, like the one now under consideration has never, as I am informed, occurred here before; and I beg therefore to be permitted to conclude, by citing a passage from an elaborate and well considered judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench, delivered by Lord Tenterden, C.J., in the year 1820, in the case of Rex v. Burrow, 3 Barnwell and Alderson, 430, as it clearly and satisfactorily lays down the principles on which criminal proceedings against Justices for misconduct in their office is based. There the Court refused to grant a criminal information at the instance of Mr. Charles Pearson, the present Solicitor for the City of London, against the defendant, a Magistrate of the County of Lancaster, for refusing to take the examination of two persons, on a charge of feloniously cutting and wounding. Mr. Barrow was a Justice acting for the Warrington divisions of Manchester, wherein the offence was alleged to have been committed.

"The application is made (says Lord Tenterden, p. 433) against a gentleman who is "one of that class of persons to whom this country is under great obligations as this or "any other nation is or ever was to any members of its community. I speak of the gentle-
 "men residing in the different parts of England who act in the execution of His Majesty's "Commission of the Peace, and who gratuitously devote a great part of their time, and "bestow much valuable but often thankless labor in the administration of many branches of "the law. In this most valuable class (p. 434) many persons are found who possess a sound "knowledge of the law, united with the most useful and extensive practical information.
 "They are called upon in many cases of a difficult, and in many of a delicate nature, and "are in general addressed, by those who apply to them, with the respect that is due to their "station and character. They are indeed, like any other subject of this Kingdom, answer-
 "able to the law for the faithful and upright discharge of their trust and duties; but
 "whenever they have been challenged on this head, either by way of indictment or applica"tion to this Court for a criminal information, the question has always been, not whether "the act done might, upon full and mature investigation be found strictly right, but from "what motive it had proceeded—whether from a dishonest, oppressive, or corrupt motive
 "(under which description fear and favor may generally be included), or from mistake or "error. In the former case alone they have become the objects of punishment. To punish
 "as a criminal any person who, in the gratuitous exercise of a public trust, may have fallen "into error or mistake, belongs only to the despotic ruler of an enslaved people, and is "wholly abhorrent from the jurisprudence of the Kingdom. Upon these principles the "present application to this Court is to be decided by us."

No. 9.

C. H. WALSH, ESQ., to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Goulburn, 7 July, 1859.

SIR,

The Attorney General having never replied to any of my letters complaining of Mr. H. M. Oxley, a Justice of the Peace at Berrima, I do myself the honor to invite your attention to the matter, and its present position.

From correspondence already under your notice you are aware of the nature of my complaint; and, although, in deciding on a complaint made by Messrs. Oxley, Nicholson, and Cordeaux, against the late Attorney General, the Executive Council declared Mr. Oxley's conduct towards me "irregular and mistaken," no adjudication has, so far as I know, ever been made by the Government on my complaint against Mr. Oxley.

For

For some time Mr. Oxley discontinued his attendance at the Berrima Bench, recently, however, he resumed his seat, stating, as I am informed, that he did so because he was then satisfied he was fully justified in his conduct towards me.

No action having been taken by the Government on my complaint, I proceeded to put the law in motion. I made an information before the Bench at Goulburn, charging Mr. Oxley with having on the 1st December last maliciously obstructed justice; a summons was issued and served on him; he failed to appear. After a reference by the Goulburn Bench to the Attorney General, and his reply, a warrant was issued for the apprehension of Mr. Oxley; under it Mr. Oxley was arrested and taken before Mr. Cordeaux, one of the Berrima Magistrates, who admitted him to bail to appear at Berrima on the 6th July instant, to answer the charge preferred against him by me.

Without admitting for a moment the right of Mr. Cordeaux to depart from the usual course of sending a party arrested on a warrant to the Bench from which it issued, I determined to appear at Berrima on the day appointed, and for this reason—I had frequently stated it would be a denial of justice to compel me to prefer my charge against Mr. Oxley before the Berrima Bench, an opportunity now presented itself to test the correctness of that statement, I resolved to do so, and the result has proved how well grounded were my apprehensions.

A week previous to the 6th of July, I sent a party specially to Berrima to procure and serve subpoenas; he applied for them to Mr. Cordeaux who granted them, but stated, at the same time, the case would not be heard as none of the Magistrates would attend except those summoned as witnesses, and that of course they could not act.

One of the subpoenas was for the Clerk of the Bench, and on its being served on him he too stated the case would not be heard as none of the Magistrates would attend.

Nevertheless, I attended and found Messrs. Nicholson, Cordeaux, and Morrice, Magistrates, at the Police Office. They disposed of some petty debts cases, and then my case was called on.

I appeared, as did also Mr. Oxley; he applied to have all witnesses ordered out of Court; Mr. Nicholson, whom I had subpoenaed, left, Mr. Morrice remaining; he was reminded he had been subpoenaed by Mr. Oxley, and was called on to leave the Court.

This left Mr. Cordeaux the only Magistrate to hear the complaint; I informed him, that before going into the case I thought it right to call his attention to his position in the matter; I pointed out to him that the complaint against Mr. Oxley was for his conduct on the 1st December last, an occasion on which Mr. Cordeaux was not present, and that, although not present, he signed a letter addressed to you on the 2nd February last, in which it was alleged I had grossly and gratuitously insulted, not only Mr. Oxley, but the Bench, that he had, in fact, expressed a strong opinion on the transaction of the 1st December; I said I did not mention this by way of objection to his hearing the case, that I was prepared to go on if he thought he ought to do so after his attention had been called to the above circumstances.

Mr. Cordeaux said he felt he ought not to sit in the case, and declined to act.

No other Magistrate of the Berrima Bench being present the case lapsed.

I have not issued any other summons because only the same result would follow.

I again submit the matter to the consideration of the Government, and I beg to refer to the cases ex parte Ramshay, 18 Queen's Bench reports, and Reg. v. Marshall, 4 Ellis and Blackburn as precedents for adopting such a course.

I have, &c.,

*Goulburn,

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3rd instant, informing me that Edward Denny Day, Esquire, Police Magistrate, at Maitland, had been appointed to proceed to Berrima without delay, to inquire into any complaints against any members of that Bench.

I have also the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, informing me that Mr. Day will be in Berrima during the ensuing week for the purpose of inquiring

inquiring into the matter of the complaints which I wish to prefer against Mr. H. M. Oxley, one of the Justices resident in and usually acting for the Berrima District.

In letters addressed by me to the Honorable the Attorney General, dated respectively the 3rd and 24th December last, and 7th January last, I complained of Mr. Oxley's conduct as a Magistrate.

By letter, dated 13th January last, the Secretary of the Law Department informed the Magistrates of the Berrima Bench that he was desired to invite them to furnish such explanation as they might deem advisable with reference to my letters, and those of James Rodgers.

On the 2nd February last Messrs. Oxley, Nicholson, and Cordeaux addressed a letter, by way of explanation to you, in which the truth of the statements made by me was impugned.

Having frequently urged the Government for a decision on the complaints made by me, and the issue raised by the reply of the Bench of Magistrates, when I received your letter of the 3rd instant, stating Mr. Day had been appointed to inquire into any complaints against any members of the Berrima Bench, I understood from it that Mr. Day had been appointed to inquire into the complaints made by me against Mr. Oxley—replied to by the Bench, and set forth in the letters above referred to; but as your letter of the 3rd instant states that Mr. Day will be in Berrima for the purpose of inquiring into the matter of complaints which I wish to prefer against Mr. Oxley, I am in doubt as to the object of Mr. Day's appointment, and in what capacity he will enter upon the investigation—whether he will have ample powers as a Commissioner to investigate the whole matter, or whether he will act simply as a Magistrate on any new complaint which may be preferred before him against Mr. Oxley.

I beg, therefore, to ask for information as to the nature and extent of the authority under which Mr. Day will act, and also to inquire if he will enter upon an investigation as to the truth of the complaints made by me against Mr. Oxley, and the reply of the Bench of Magistrates thereto.

I purpose being in Berrima on Wednesday, the 10th instant, and will feel obliged by a reply to this letter addressed to me there.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council, with respect to certain complaints preferred by Mr. Charles H. Walsh against the Magistrates of the Bench at Berrima.

Extract from Minute No. 59-30. Dated 1st August, 1859.

PRESENT :—

His Excellency The Governor General.
The Honorable The Vice-President of the Council.
The Honorable The Secretary for Lands and Public Works.
The Honorable The Colonial Treasurer.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 10th January, and 7th February last, on the subject of certain complaints preferred by Mr. Charles H. Walsh, against the Magistrates of the Berrima Bench, and more particularly Mr. H. M. Oxley, J.P., His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a letter from Mr. Walsh, dated 7th ultimo, together with other correspondence which has passed through the office of the Honorable the Attorney General, bearing upon the same subject.

2. From this correspondence the Council learn that Mr. Walsh has followed up his charge against Mr. Oxley, by preferring an information before the Bench of Magistrates at Goulburn, charging that gentleman with having maliciously obstructed justice, and that a summons having been granted by that Bench, and, consequently on Mr. Oxley's failing to appear, a warrant for his apprehension, he was brought before Mr. Cordeaux, one of the Magistrates of the Berrima District, and admitted to bail, to appear before the Bench of Magistrates at Berrima to answer the charge. It further appears that on the case being called, the only Magistrates who, with the exception of Mr. Cordeaux, were present—Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Morrice—were unable to sit, having been subpoenaed as witnesses; and that Mr. Cordeaux having previously expressed an opinion upon the transactions unfavorable to the complainant, declined to act, and the case consequently lapsed.

3. Mr. Walsh adverts to these circumstances as supporting his allegation, that it would be a denial of justice to compel him to prefer his charge against Mr. Oxley before the Bench of Magistrates at Berrima; and adds, that he has not issued any other summons because he anticipates that the same result would follow as on the occasion adverted to.

4. The Council having deliberated upon the matter brought before them, and without expressing any opinion whatever upon the merits of the questions at issue, feel it to be incumbent upon the Government that proper facilities should under all circumstances be afforded for the due administration of justice; and as it appears to them that such facilities cannot be expected now to exist at Berrima in reference to the present matter, in which a charge is laid against one of the Magistrates, and the majority of the others are directly or indirectly concerned, they are of opinion that measures should be taken for securing the attendance at that place of a Magistrate, before whom Mr. Walsh may have the opportunity of proceeding with the charge against Mr. Oxley.

5. The Council therefore advise that instructions be forwarded to Edward Denny Day, Esquire, Police Magistrate of Maitland, to proceed to Berrima with the foregoing objects.

Clerk of the Council.

SIR,

Certain complaints have been preferred at different times by Mr. Charles H. Walsh against the Magistrates of the Berrima Bench, and more particularly Mr. H. M. Oxley; and by a letter dated the 7th ultimo from Mr. Walsh it appears that he has followed up his charge against Mr. Oxley by preferring an information before the Bench of Magistrates at Goulburn, charging that gentleman with having maliciously obstructed justice, and that a summons having been granted by that Bench, and subsequently, on Mr. Oxley's

Oxley's failing to appear, a warrant for his apprehension, he was brought before Mr. Cordeaux, one of the Magistrates of the Berrima District, and admitted to bail, to appear before the Bench of Magistrates at Berrima, to answer the charge. It further appears that, on the case being called, the only Magistrates present, with the exception of Mr. Cordeaux, were Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Morrice, who were unable to act, having been subpoenaed as witnesses; and that Mr. Cordeaux, having previously expressed an opinion upon the transactions unfavorable to the complainant, declined to act, and the case consequently lapsed.

2. Mr. Walsh has alleged that it would be a denial of justice to compel him to prefer his charge against Mr. Oxley before the Bench of Magistrates of Berrima; and states that he has not issued any other summons for him, because he anticipates that the same result would follow as on the occasion adverted to.

3. Without expressing any opinion upon the merits of the questions at issue, the Government feel it to be incumbent upon them to see that proper facilities are afforded for the due administration of justice; and as it appears to them that such facilities cannot be expected now to exist at Berrima, in reference to the present matter, in which a charge is laid against one of the Magistrates, and the majority of the others are directly or indirectly concerned, they are of opinion that measures should be taken for securing the attendance at that place of a Magistrate before whom Mr. Walsh may have the opportunity of proceeding with the charge against Mr. Oxley.

4. The Colonial Secretary therefore desires me to request that you will proceed to Berrima with as little delay as possible, to sit in the case, and to act as the law requires in the matter.

5. The papers on the subject are enclosed for your perusal and information, and I am to request that you will return them to this office with the report which you will make of the steps adopted by you in pursuance of these instructions.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you that, in obedience to the instructions of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, conveyed to me in your letter of the 10th of this month, I proceeded to Berrima to inquire into the charge preferred against Mr. H. M. Oxley, of Berrima, Justice of the Peace, by Mr. C. H. Walsh, Solicitor, of Goulburn.

After arriving at Berrima I heard the whole of the evidence produced, as well for the prosecution as for the defence, and being then of opinion that the evidence fully supported the charge laid, I found it my duty to commit the defendant for trial at the next Circuit Court to be holden at Goulburn, for unlawfully and maliciously obstructing the due administration of justice at Berrima on the first day of December, 1858.

I beg to add that I admitted Mr. Oxley to bail at his request to that effect.

[Enclosure in No 18.]

In the Colony of New South Wales.

The Information of Charles Hamilton Walsh, of Goulburn, in the Colony of New South Wales, Attorney-at-Law, taken this fifteenth day of August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the said Colony, at Berrima aforesaid, who saith as follows:—I am an Attorney of the Supreme Court of New South Wales. On the first day of December last, a Court of Petty Sessions for the recovery of small debts, under the Act tenth of Victoria, No. ten, was held at Berrima—Henry Molesworth Oxley, and Charles Lindsay Nicholson, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, were the sitting Justices at the said Court. A certain cause, wherein James Campbell was plaintiff, and David Robert Eden, defendant, was entered for trial at the said sitting of the said Court, the said defendant, David Robert Eden, employed me to appear for him, and conduct his case. When the cause was called on for hearing the plaintiff appeared; I stated I appeared for the defendant, whereupon the said Henry Molesworth Oxley said he would not allow me to appear until I had given some explanation of a letter which he said I had written to the Crown Law Officers, in which, as he alleged, I stated that justice could not be procured at that Bench while he sat on it. I refused to give any explanation, and insisted on my right to appear, but the said Henry Molesworth Oxley refused to permit me. The said Charles Lindsay Nicholson stated his willingness to permit me to appear. I asked the said Henry Molesworth Oxley to state in writing his objection to my appearing as an Attorney in the said cause, and he directed the Clerk of the Bench to take down in writing the following statement:—"I object to Mr. Walsh, in this or any other case, until he gives some explanation of a letter written to the Crown Law Officers, accusing me of partiality and injustice, and declaring that so long as I sat on the Bench his client could not obtain justice." I was not permitted to appear, and the cause was adjourned for a week by the said Henry Molesworth Oxley. The statement made by the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, and reduced to writing as aforesaid, is utterly untrue; I never in writing or otherwise made any such statement. I believe that in refusing my appearance for the said David Robert Eden the said Henry Molesworth Oxley was influenced by personal ill feeling towards me, because I had advised a client of mine to complain to the Attorney General of the Clerk of the Bench at Berrima for neglect of duty, and because for another client I sued the said Henry Molesworth Oxley.

I charge the said Henry Molesworth Oxley with having at Berrima aforesaid, on the first day of December aforesaid, unlawfully and maliciously prevented the due administration of justice, by preventing me from appearing and conducting his case for the said David Robert Eden in the cause aforesaid, and preventing me from exercising my profession of an Attorney of the Supreme Court according to law, and I pray that he may be summoned to answer this charge; the said Charles Lindsay Nicholson and John Evelyn Liardet can give material and necessary evidence relating to the said charge, and I pray that they may be summoned as witnesses, and that the said John Evelyn Liardet may be required to produce the plaint and other proceedings filed in the said cause of Campbell against Eden, and the cause

cause list of the Court of Petty Sessions at Berrima on the said first day of December last, and the memorandum in writing made by the said John Evelyn Liardet from the dictation of the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, stating his reason for not hearing me.

Prepare summons for Mr. Oxley to appear and answer this charge at 12 o'clock, noon, to-morrow.

Summons of a Witness.

To Charles Lindsay Nicholson, of Sutton Forest, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire.

WHEREAS Henry Molesworth Oxley, Justice of the Peace, stands charged before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the said Colony of New South Wales, for that he, on the first day of December last, at Berrima, in the Colony aforesaid, being a Justice of the Peace, did unlawfully and maliciously prevent the due administration of justice, by preventing Charles Hamilton Walsh, one of the Attorneys of the Supreme Court, from appearing for the defendant in a certain cause then to be tried, under the 10th Victoria, No. 10, in which James Campbell was plaintiff, and David Robert Eden defendant.

And it hath been made to appear to me, upon oath, that you are likely to give material evidence on behalf of the prosecution in this behalf:—These are therefore to require you to be and appear, on the sixteenth day of August instant, at twelve o'clock in the forenoon, at the Police Office, Berrima, in the said Colony, before such Justices of the Peace for the said Colony as may then be there, to testify what you shall know concerning the matter of the said charge.

Given under my hand and seal this fifteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, at Berrima, in the Colony aforesaid.

EDW. D. DAY, J.P. (L. S.)

Summons of a Witness.

To John Evelyn Liardet, of Berrima, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire.

WHEREAS Henry Molesworth Oxley, Justice of the Peace, stands charged before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the Colony of New South Wales, for that he, on the first day of December last, at Berrima, in the Colony aforesaid, being a Justice of the Peace, did unlawfully and maliciously prevent the due administration of justice, by preventing Charles Hamilton Walsh, one of the Attorneys of the Supreme Court, from appearing for the defendant in a certain cause then to be tried, under the 10th Victoria, No. 10, in which James Campbell was plaintiff, and David Robert Eden defendant:

And it hath been made to appear to me, upon oath, that you are likely to give material evidence on behalf of the prosecution in this behalf:—These are therefore to require you to be and appear, on the sixteenth day of August instant, at twelve o'clock in the forenoon, at the Police Office, Berrima, in the said Colony, before such Justices of the Peace for the said Colony as may then be there, to testify what you shall know concerning the matter of the said charge; and that you then and there produce the original plaint, and other proceedings, filed in the said cause of Campbell against Eden, and the original Cause List of the Court of Petty Sessions held at Berrima on the said first day of December, and the Memorandum in writing made by you from the dictation of the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, stating his reason for not hearing the said Charles Hamilton Walsh.

Given under my hand and seal this fifteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, at Berrima, in the Colony aforesaid.

EDW. D. DAY. (L. S.)

Summons to a person charged with an indictable offence.

To Henry Molesworth Oxley, of Wingecarribbee, in the Colony of New South Wales, Justice of the Peace.

WHEREAS you have this day been charged before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the said Colony of New South Wales, for that you on the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, did unlawfully and maliciously prevent the due administration of justice, by preventing one Charles Hamilton Walsh, an Attorney of the Supreme Court, from appearing and conducting a case for one David Robert Eden:

These are therefore to command you, in Her Majesty's name, to be and appear before me, on the sixteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, at twelve o'clock, noon, at the Police Office, Berrima, or before such other Justice or Justices of the Peace

Peace as may then be there, to answer to the said charge, and to be further dealt with according to law: Herein fail not.

Given under my hand and seal this fifteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, at Berrima, in the Colony aforesaid.

EDW. D. DAY, J.P. (L.S.)

Police Office, Berrima,
16 August, 1859.

BEFORE EDW. D. DAY, J.P.

Henry Molesworth Oxley appears on summons to answer a charge preferred against him by Charles Hamilton Walsh, for having at Berrima, in the Colony of New South Wales, on the first day of December, 1858, unlawfully and maliciously prevented the due administration of justice, by preventing him, the said Charles Hamilton Walsh, from appearing and conducting a case for David Robert Eden, then pending, and preventing him, the said Charles Hamilton Walsh, from exercising his profession as an Attorney of the Supreme Court according to law.

The information being read, Mr. Walsh addressed the Bench, and then called,— John Evelyn Liardet, being sworn, deposed:—I am Clerk of the Bench at Berrima, and also Registrar of the Small Debts Court, under 10 Victoria, No. 10; I produce the proceedings of the Small Debts Court at Berrima on the first of December last, I also produce the original plaint in the cause of Campbell against Eden; I produce the cause list for the first of December, 1858, it is in the record book; the paper now produced is a certified copy of that cause list; no adjudication appears in the column headed "Judgment" in the record book in that cause, but the words "carried forward" appears in my handwriting in that column; I remember that the cause James Campbell against Eden was called on for hearing on the first of December, 1858; I think I do recollect your stating you appeared for the defendant; I now recollect you did say so; there is no record or entry on the record book of your appearance on that occasion; I think the plaintiff, James Campbell, appeared in Court on that occasion; I firmly believe there was a fresh summons issued in that case in consequence of what you said on that occasion; the record does shew that Mr. Oxley was the Magistrate that day in the case just before Campbell against Eden; when the case Campbell against Eden was called on I believe Mr. Oxley was the Magistrate on the Bench; I know Mr. Nicholson was in the office that day, and I believe he sat on the Bench for a time; I do not think Mr. Nicholson was on the Bench when the cause Campbell against Eden was called on; I do not think there was any other Magistrate on the Bench that day while the cause of Campbell against Eden was on but Mr. Oxley; I believe Mr. Nicholson did take his seat on the Bench that day, but I think it was on police business; I will not be sure, I will not swear positively, but I firmly believe Mr. Nicholson did not take any part in the cause Campbell against Eden; I think the police business was taken first on that occasion; I produce the list of police causes before the Bench on that day; I should not like to say that any case in that list was heard on the first of December; it would appear from the list that Mr. Nicholson sat on the 8th of December, 1858, and adjourned cases until the 15th, the following Wednesday; I cannot shew you by the list any case in which Mr. Nicholson sat on the 1st December; I recollect Mr. Oxley objecting to hear you in some case, I won't be certain whether it was in Campbell against Eden or not; I do recollect during a discussion Mr. Nicholson saying he had no objection to hear you, but I won't be sure whether it was on that day or not; I cannot say that Mr. Nicholson left after saying that or not; I recollect that Mr. Nicholson left the office on the 1st of December saying he had some business, or words to that effect; I think Mr. Nicholson returned again into the office after saying the words I have spoken, but I cannot say it was immediately after leaving that he returned; it may have been after Mr. Nicholson returned that he said "I have no objection to hear you"—I am not sure; I don't think Mr. Nicholson took any part in the discussion more than I have already stated; in my answers I have considered that Mr. Walsh did not refer exclusively to what took place on the 1st of December; the discussion I spoke of as to your being heard took place on the 1st of December; I think Mr. Nicholson was present during the greater part of the discussion, or during some part of it; I cannot say whether Mr. Nicholson took any part in the discussion or not; I cannot say yes or no; I am not aware that my memory is defective; I have had my attention called to this controversy between you and Mr. Oxley a good deal since the 1st of December; Mr. Nicholson may have said more than I recollect in the discussion; I think I have now very nearly stated all that took place on the 1st of December; I said before, I believed you stated that you appeared for the defendant in the cause of Campbell against Eden; I think Mr. Oxley was then the Magistrate on the Bench; I think Mr. Oxley said he must adjourn the case; when you said you appeared for the defendant Eden, Mr. Oxley said something, and amongst it I think he said he must adjourn the case; I think he said "There is an end to the matter; I have nothing more to do with it"; he may have said more; I have up to the present time stated all that I recollect Mr. Oxley said in that particular case; I believe Mr. Nicholson was not present during the discussion; I cannot say he was not present or that he was, because he may have been; I cannot say whether it was at the opening of the Police Court or at the Court of Petty Debts you were objected to, but I believe it was at the Police Court; I remember during the discussion putting the Act 10 Vic., No. 10, into Mr. Oxley's hand; I called Mr. Oxley's attention to particular sections in that Act; I don't recollect the number of the section, but could readily refer to it; I see it is the 45th section; I believe it was after the first discussion on the subject ended that I handed handed the Act to Mr. Oxley; I do recollect you asking Mr. Oxley to have his objection to your appearing taken down in writing by me, but I don't recollect you giving any reason for asking that to be done; I don't recollect your saying that you asked this to prevent any mistake hereafter; I thought your object was to take up the time of the Court; I did make a memorandum; I think I read that memorandum after making it aloud in the Court, but I won't be sure; the memorandum I made was this—"I object to Mr. Walsh appearing in this or any other case, until he gives some explanation of a letter written to the Attorney General or Crown Law Officers accusing me of partiality, and that no justice can be obtained when I sit on the Bench"; witness adds—this was not a record of the Court; I will not be positive that these words were dictated to me or taken down by me while Mr. Nicholson was in the Court or not; I think they were; I think these words were not taken down during the discussion in the cause of Campbell against Eden; I firmly believe they were taken down in the case against John Gordon; I believe so because I have a recollection of taking them down in the early part of the day; this is not my only reason for that belief; I have a strong recollection of Campbell and Eden's case being settled about the last thing; I think Mr. Oxley's objection to hear you as an Attorney in the Court was not in Campbell and Eden's case; I firmly believe it was in Gordon's case; I will not swear positively; I believe Mr. Oxley refused to hear you in Gordon's case until you made some explanation respecting a letter you had written about the Bench; previous to the first of December I never heard Mr. Oxley say that he would not allow you to appear here; I believe I heard him say he would ask you for some explanation previous to admitting you here; I think I have heard him say this more than on one occasion; I won't be sure I heard him say so in the presence of others, but I think it very probable some of the Magistrates may have been present; I cannot say; I never heard him say it in the presence of persons who are not Magistrates; I think it was just before the first of December that I heard Mr. Oxley say what I have stated with respect to the explanation; it was when the Bench heard you were coming down; by the Bench I mean those Magistrates who were present at the time, and who were all agreed to the same thing I think; I apprehend the Magistrates who were then present never heard you were coming down on the first of December; I won't be positive whether the Magistrates who had this conversation were at the Police Office at the time or at luncheon; I think the conversation took place here and at luncheon too; it may have been on the Court day previous to the 1st of December; I won't be sure; I won't swear it was on the Court day previous; it was from that up to the first; I really cannot give the names of the Magistrates who were present; I may, by referring to these lists, say who the Magistrates were, but I would not swear it was on that Court day or not; I cannot tell you who the Magistrates present were; I think Mr. Nicholson was there, but I won't be sure; it was an understood thing by the Magistrates that you were to be asked for some explanation; I cannot say that on any occasion previous to the twenty-fifth of November I heard Mr. Oxley say he would not permit you to appear; he may have said so; on referring to the letter dated the twelfth of August from this Bench to the Attorney General—I think that letter was first directed to be written by Mr. Morrice—he said he should like to see the letter, and he thought the Bench should be supplied with it, or something to that effect; I am not sure Mr. Oxley was present on that occasion; Mr. Oxley signed the letter; I think the letter written for came to this office; I can produce it if it did come; on reference I find that that letter did arrive; I cannot say that I submitted that letter immediately after it came to the Magistrates; I have no doubt I laid it on the table in the usual course; having my attention called to that particular time, that is, when that letter arrived in August, 1858; I cannot swear Mr. Oxley then said he would not allow you to appear; between the arrival of that letter here in August and the twenty-fifth of November following, I cannot say I heard Mr. Oxley say he would not permit you to appear or hear you without explanation; it may have happened; I know Mr. Oxley's handwriting; I believe the paper produced is his handwriting, it looks very much like it (Paper put in and marked); I don't know that Mr. Oxley ever told me you had sued him for a person named Halls; I knew you had sued him; I never had any conversation with Mr. Oxley about you acting for Halls in that suit, of course I had conversation with him; I was one of the parties to the suit; I wish to explain with reference to my last answer,—that I understood when that question was asked Mr. Walsh meant some immediate and direct personal matter between him and Mr. Oxley; I had certainly some conversation with Mr. Oxley about you in reference to that action; we thought we were called upon unjustly to pay the money; we thought it very arbitrary on the part of the plaintiff to press the action; I certainly don't think Mr. Oxley was well pleased with the bringing of that action; I have heard Mr. Oxley express displeasure at the bringing of that action; it was an action for the salary of a schoolmaster very improperly brought; Mr. Oxley was a member of the School Board, so was I, and several others; myself and the other members of the Board were very much enraged at that action being brought; I do recollect being told by Mr. Oxley something about your threatening to put an execution in his house for the payment of the money; he told me that publicly as a party to the suit at the Board Office; I think others were present and some of the subscribers; I think the postmaster was one, but I will not be sure; I really don't know that Mr. Oxley was very much excited about it; I think he laughed at it; he thought it a very rude thing; I won't swear that I have seen the letter produced before, but I know I have heard Mr. Oxley speak about it; I really do not recollect that I was here present in the Police Office when the letter was written—I may have been; I know I recollect something about that letter; I certainly do not recollect that letter was read to me before it was posted; I know I approved of what he did at the time; I approved from what Mr. Oxley told me, but I cannot recollect what he did tell me; Mr. Oxley may have told me that he thought you impertinent in the matter; I thought you were so, from your threatening threatening to put an execution in the house as the money had been already paid; I believe the money had been paid to our attorneys to be paid to you.

NOTE:—Mr. Liardet's evidence having been read over, he wished to have a memorandum explanatory appended to his evidence which I have acceded to.

1st. With reference to the Police Cause Lists, my reason for not being able to swear to any of the cases therein, as before the Bench on the 1st of December last, is because no Magistrate's signature appears on the sheet as sitting in the cases on that day, but I believe one of the sheets was before the Bench.

2nd. With reference to Mr. Nicholson's part in the discussions relative to Mr. Walsh's appearance, I refer to my belief that Mr. Nicholson was not present when the case of Campbell against Eden was gone into, and that part of the discussion.

3rd. Mr. Oxley having said he should object to Mr. Walsh's appearance may have been said on several occasions, and before other persons than Magistrates, but I do not recollect it. It may also have taken place before the last week of the month previous to the 1st of December; I cannot swear to the exact time.

The Defendant: I believe that during the discussions you did say you believed you had a right as a Magistrate to object to hear Mr. Walsh; after your refusal to hear Mr. Walsh in the first instance, you did at some time offer to allow Mr. Walsh to proceed under protest; Mr. Walsh, in answer to that, said that he would not allow the business to proceed unless you made a most humble apology to him; Mr. Walsh did, I think, say that you were acting from impure motives—he had said you were acting from personal ill feeling towards himself; you disclaimed at that time having any personal ill feeling towards Mr. Walsh; I think Mr. Walsh said he did not believe you; this was on the 1st of December, 1858; Mr. Walsh offered on that occasion to refer it to your uncle, Mr. Norton; you consented, I think, to his proposal at one time; it was not settled so, because Mr. Walsh said afterwards he would not consent to it; I believe Mr. Walsh stamped the floor with his foot; Mr. Walsh, I think, used the very words that he would sit there in spite of you; Mr. Walsh did say he would sit there as long as you did; I really cannot now remember the exact date on which Halls' action against the School Board commenced. (The prosecutor here puts in the writ in this action referred to, marked G, shewing the action commenced on 22nd July, 1858.) Copy of John Gordon's letter—letter dated 6th March—was forwarded from the office of the Crown Law Officers in a letter of 8th of March, 1858; I believe you saw that letter at that time or within a week or two; I did ask your advice as to how I should answer that letter, in accordance with the advice you gave me on the thirteenth of March, 1858; a portion of my answer was to the effect that a portion of that letter was not to be considered by me at all because it contained a tissue of uncalled for charges against this Bench, and the whole police establishment of the district; while I was preparing that answer I believe you did say that you would ask Mr. Walsh for an explanation on the first opportunity; on reading that letter you did say you would require an explanation from Mr. Walsh before you would hear him again; I heard you say, referring to what took place on the first of December, that you expected nothing from Mr. Walsh but a civil evasive answer; on referring to the record book I find the debt sued for in Campbell against Eden was £8 5s, and the costs were 9s., making £8 14s.; Mr. Walsh said you could not adjourn that case, you had no jurisdiction in it, and a fresh summons must issue; the case lapsed, and a fresh summons issued.

Re-examined by Prosecutor: I believe the observation of Mr. Oxley to the effect that he would allow you to go on under protest was said in Gordon's case—at any rate before Campbell and Eden's; the prosecutor asked witness whether it was in Gordon's case he declined to let his appearance be recorded as under protest; to this question defendant objected on the ground that it had no reference to the case in which he is charged with having obstructed the course of justice; witness replies, I believe it was in Gordon's; Mr. Walsh said he refused to appear in this or any case under protest; he claimed his right to appear to say what he liked, and said he would bring the matter into the Supreme Court; Mr. Oxley was the creature of a statute, and so was he; he would sit here as long as Mr. Oxley upon his right to do so; without offering any explanation for anything he had written or said, or might write or say, he would file a criminal information against Mr. Oxley.

By Prosecutor: When I said, as you stated, in cross-examination, that I did not believe Mr. Oxley, did I not say I could not acquit him of personal feeling when he wrote such a letter as that? Witness answers—I believe the words you used were, you did not believe him, and you would prove it; I think there was some reference to correspondence; I cannot say; I think Mr. Nicholson was on the Bench; when referring the matter to Mr. Norton was spoken of, I think everything, the whole matter of the dispute and refusal to hear you, was to be referred to Mr. Norton; after matters had been agreed to be referred to the arbitration of Mr. Norton, Mr. Oxley's uncle, the business of the Court would have proceeded had not Mr. Walsh immediately afterwards refused to allow matters to be referred; I think there was something said by Mr. Nicholson, calling it an arbitration case, but I won't be clear about his saying anything about Mr. Walsh being admitted while it was under consideration; I think there was something said about a Magistrate, and I think Mr. Oxley agreed to have his conduct as a Magistrate referred to his uncle; I do think there there was something about your saying you would not refer your position as an advocate; I think Mr. Nicholson was present during some part of the conversation relative to the reference, because he called it an arbitration case.

Sworn before me, at Berrima, this }

EDW. D. DAY, J.P.

The further hearing of this case is postponed, at defendant's request, until 10 o'clock A. M., on Tuesday, the 23rd of August, 1859.

Police Office, Berrima,
Tuesday, 23 August, 1859.

Present:—EDW. D. DAY, J.P.

Charles Hamilton Walsh, sworn, deposes:—I reside at Goulburn, and am an Attorney of the Supreme Court, and have been so for the last ten years; on the 1st of December last I was in Berrima, it was on Wednesday, and being the first Wednesday in the month it was the day appointed for the sitting of the Petty Debts' Court; previous to the sitting of the Court on that day I was retained to appear for David Robert Eden, the defendant, in a case of James Campbell against the said Eden, in the Petty Debts' Court, under the 10 Vic., No. 10; I attended at the Police Office in Berrima at the opening of the Court; the Court opened about 11 o'clock in the forenoon; Mr. Oxley, the defendant, and Mr. Charles Lindsay Nicholson, were the only Magistrates upon the Bench; Mr. Oxley was in the Chair; the cases in the Small Debts' Court were first gone into, I am positive as to this; when the case of Campbell against Eden was called on the parties appeared; I said I appeared on behalf of the defendant; Mr. Oxley said the Bench would not hear me or allow me to appear until I gave some explanation of a letter which I had written to the Crown Law Officers, stating that justice could not be procured at that Bench while he sat on it; I said I have written no such letter; he (Mr. Oxley) said, "I had for one John Gordon to the Attorney General complaining of the Berrima Bench, and of him (Mr. Oxley) in particular;" I said that the letter to which he referred was written by me for my client upon his instructions—that I was responsible to him for the advice I had given him, but not to that Bench or to their Worships (I forget which now), and that I was willing to bear all the responsibility attaching to me on account of that, and that as that letter had nothing whatever to do with the proceedings then before the Court, or the party for whom I then appeared, he ought not to be prejudiced, but he had a right to my assistance and I urged my right to appear; Mr. Oxley said he would not permit me to appear unless I explained or retracted the statements in the letter; I said I would not make any statement about the letter in order to entitle me to appear; that I was there not by permission but by right; that the same statute which gave them the right to be on the Bench and try the case, gave my client the right to appear by his Attorney; I referred to the 10th Vic., No. 10, section 44; I argued that the Court was the mere creature of that statute, and that as an advocate I was equally the creature of that statute; I contended that the Court was not justified in stopping me, that they had no discretion in the matter, and I insisted on my right to appear; I asked Mr. Nicholson if I were to understand that the objection to my appearing proceeded from the Court or only from Mr. Oxley; Mr. Nicholson made no reply, but afterwards in the hearing of Mr. Oxley he said he did not object to hear me; I again urged my right to be heard, relying on the statute; Mr. Oxley asked for the statute, and Mr. Liardet handed to him the supplement to Callaghan's Acts containing tenth Victoria, No. 10, and pointed with his finger to sections 44 and 45, I think. When Mr. Liardet called Mr. Oxley's attention to the fact, that the power given by that section to interfere with an Attorney only applied when the Attorney had acted corruptly or contemptuously in some cause under that Act, and I pointed out that the matter complained of by Mr. Oxley was not a matter or proceeding under that Act, Mr. Oxley said that even if it did not apply, he had the power to prevent my appearing, and he would do so; he said that he could or would put me out of the Court; I said he had no right to do so, that it was an open Court, that I was there to appear for my client, and so long as I conducted myself properly he would not be justified in putting me out of the Court; I said that I had hitherto, up to that time, conducted myself properly, and I defied him to put his finger on an expression or act of mine that day that was improper, and that I would not, under similar circumstances, use to the Judges of the Supreme Court; the moment the word defy was out of my mouth, Mr. Oxley caught at it, and said "Oh! you defy us—you defy us;" I went on to insist on urging my right to appear; I used the word defy then, as it is commonly used in argument, when you challenge a person to produce an authority (in answer to a question by the defendant the witness says that explanation was not given at the time); Mr. Oxley continued to say he would not permit me to appear; I still insisted upon appearing as a matter of right; Mr. Oxley then said, the business of the Court must come to a dead lock, for I will not allow you to appear; I said, your refusal to allow me to appear cannot rest here, and in order to prevent any misunderstanding or contradiction hereafter as to the nature of your objection, and the grounds of it, I think it would be desirable that you should direct the clerk to take down in writing the particulars of it; Mr. Oxley then dictated to the clerk the following words, of which I took a note at the time—"I object to Mr. Walsh appearing in this or any other case until he gives some explanation of a letter written to the Crown Law Officers accusing me of partiality and injustice, and declaring that so long as I sat on this Bench his client could not obtain justice"; I then requested requested the clerk to make a note that I appeared for the defendant; that I insisted on my right to do so; and I refused to offer any explanation whatsoever about the letter referred to; after these statements had been taken down Mr. Nicholson said he thought the matter might be settled, that I had already denied having written such a letter as Mr. Oxley referred to, and that if I would repeat that he was sure Mr. Oxley would permit me to appear; I refused to do so, saying I would make no statement to procure permission to appear; that I must insist on my right to appear; that as the dispute was obviously a personal one between me and Mr. Oxley, the Court was not entitled to call upon me for an explanation, and that I must contend that Mr. Oxley had no right to prevent my appearing; I said I contemplated taking proceedings elsewhere; I do not recollect saying I intended to file a criminal information, but I may have said so, because that was the proceeding that was then present in my mind; I said I had no desire for such a proceeding, but as I believed Mr. Oxley was misled and mistaken, and influenced by personal feeling arising out of a misunderstanding between him and me, and that though I was sure I was right and he was wrong in the matter, I would consent to abide by what any two gentlemen would say we should do towards each other in reference to our dispute; when I made use of the words misled and mistaken on that occasion, I did so under the full conviction that Mr. Oxley had not himself read the letter of which he complained, but had received his version of it from Mr. Liardet; and it was only in the afternoon of that day, after the Court business had been over, that I learned that Mr. Oxley had seen the letter himself; Mr. Oxley said he had no personal feeling; I was in error in saying so; I replied I could not exonerate him from being influenced by personal feeling, after the correspondence which had passed between us in Halls' case; I looked upon his opposition to me as purely personal, and if necessary I would demonstrate it; that I judged him by his acts,—within them lay his profession, but as a matter affecting us, as gentlemen, I was willing to refer it; I was willing to abide by what Mr. Norton would say between us; Mr. Norton, to whom I referred, was Mr. Norton, the Attorney, of Sydney, and who was Solicitor for Mr. Oxley in the cause—Hall against Oxley; Mr. Oxley agreed to this, saying, as I had named Mr. Norton he would name another; the matter then, for a moment, appeared settled upon those terms, and the case was about being proceeded with when Mr. Nicholson made an observation as to my being allowed to appear in the case, subject to the terms of this arbitration, as he called it; Mr. Oxley said of course I would be allowed to appear, subject to the reference; I then said they had quite misconceived my proposition, that I never intended to and would not refer my right or my client's right to appear by me in the Court, that what I proposed to refer was what I conceived to be the personal misunderstanding between Mr. Oxley and myself; Mr. Oxley then called Mr. Nicholson, the Clerk of the Court, and the Chief Constable to remember that I proposed to refer the matter; that he had agreed to do so; and that I now backed out of my proposition; I asked of Mr. Oxley if, when he consented to refer the matter, he considered he was referring his conduct as a Magistrate; he said—certainly not; I replied—how then can you suppose I was referring my rights and conduct as an advocate; my offer to refer can only be understood as treating the case as a matter of dispute or misunderstanding between two gentlemen; Mr. Oxley said he wondered how I could talk of referring the matter as a dispute between two gentlemen, when I had, in a letter addressed to him, said he was not a gentleman; I said I hope you will recollect that I am not the party publishing the contents of our correspondence; what I proposed to refer was all the correspondence that had passed, of which you complained and out of which this controversy had arisen, but that I wished it distinctly to be understood that I would not refer my right to appear in the present or any any other case in which I was entitled to appear as an Attorney, and that so far as the case then before the Court was concerned, I still insisted on my right to appear; Mr. Nicholson then rose from the Bench stating that he was obliged to return home, on urgent business, and could not stay any longer, but he wished to say that he had no objection to my appearing, and that it was not because of anything that occurred he was leaving, but pressing business called him away; Mr. Nicholson then left the Court room returning by the door that led into the parade passage; within a minute after Mr. Nicholson passed through the door he returned into the Court room and he said—I wish to be distinctly understood: I have no objection to hear Mr. Walsh,—and again left the room; Mr. Oxley then said, I must adjourn all cases requiring two Magistrates; I objected to his adjourning the case of Campbell against Eden, because it was one in which two Magistrates only had jurisdiction, and that one Magistrate could only do so upon the appearance and consent of the parties, and that, as my appearance was not recorded, he had no jurisdiction to adjourn the case; he said he would do so, and if he were wrong it could be set right; Mr. Liardet then said a fresh summons could issue; the list of cases in the Small Debts' Court was gone through; none of them that I recollect, was tried; then the police summonses was called on, Mr. Oxley still presiding as a Magistrate; in such of them as but two Magistrates had jurisdiction upon the parties appearing they were informed their cases were adjourned for a week; an assault case, Broadhurst against Chapman, in which I was concerned for the defendant was disposed of in this way; there was a case of the Chief Constable, Jeremiah Frewin against John Gordon, for a breach of the Publicans' Act, in which I was concerned for the defendant; the Chief Constable said the defendant himself should appear—that it was a contempt of Court if he did not; I submitted that the defendant was entitled to appear by his Attorney; I referred to the 11 and 12 Victoria, ch. 43, sec. 12, and Mr. Oxley looked at the Act, and then said he adjourned the case; he also adjourned a second case between the same parties, in neither of these two last cases was the defendant in Court; I said I wished to know if my appearance had been recorded, and if it were on it he adjourned the cases; he, Mr. Oxley, said he had a right to adjourn the cases and would do so; I said, not in the absence of the parties; he said, you may appear under protest; I said, said, I would not appear conditionally, or under protest, that under such circumstances I must object to my appearance being recorded, and I requested the clerk to take a note of this; Mr. Oxley said to the clerk, "Don't mind him he is only saying that to annoy me"; fresh summonses were issued in both these cases; during the discussion in the case of Campbell against Eden Mr. Oxley did not say that he would allow me to appear reserving his right to inquire into the matter; I did not say—I swear I did not say—that I would not allow the business to proceed unless Mr. Oxley made a most humble apology to me; I have known Mr. Oxley some four or five years, and until the year 1858 I was upon terms with him; in May, 1858, I had instructions to bring an action against him, as a member of the Berrima School Board, from Mr. Jacob Halls, to recover the sum of seventy-one pounds four shillings the balance of salary due by the Board to Halls up to the 18th of May, 1856; I applied in the usual way to Mr. Oxley, and it was not until the 14th of July, 1858, that I issued a writ; the suit was contested, and set down for trial at the Goulburn Circuit Court, in September, 1858; the defendant then by his Attorney paid fifty pounds on account, and gave a consent for judgment; from September down to the 16th of November I had not received the balance of the debt and costs; I was advised by my agents, a day or two previous to the 16th November, that they had not received it; (The witness here asked the defendant to produce, in pursuance of written notice to that effect, his (witness') letter of the 16th of November, 1858, to him (the defendant.) Defendant stated that he could not produce it.) I wrote to defendant a letter on the 16th of November, 1858, informing him that my agents informed me that they had not yet received the balance of debt and costs in "Halls against Oxley," amounting to fifty-two pounds one shilling and one penny, and that, in order to prevent the issuing of an execution, I requested he would forward me the amount at his earliest convenience; in reply to that letter I received Mr. Oxley's letter of the 16th of November, 1858; I was afterwards advised—that is, after the 16th of November—of the payment of the money to my agents, after my application for it.

Defendant: In a conversation with Mr. Nicholson, after the Court, on the 1st of December, 1858, I said to Mr. Nicholson that I came to Berrima expecting some dispute with you; I said so because I had heard from more than one person that you had publicly declared your intention of not allowing me to appear as an Attorney in the Police Court at Berrima; I did come to Berrima prepared for some interference with me on your part; I had the correspondence between you and myself in Halls' matter with me in Berrima; I also brought the draft of the letter I wrote to the Attorney General for John Gordon with me at Berrima; I could hardly anticipate what use you would make of that letter; I heard you were dissatisfied with that letter, and I brought it with me; another reason why I brought it and the other papers was that in the event of any misunderstanding arising between you and myself, I had made up my mind to go on to Sydney for advice, and I wished to have the papers with me; I don't recollect your saying, during the discussion on the 1st of December, that you would consult the Attorney General as to whether you had the power to refuse to hear me; I will not swear you did not say so; I will swear that I did not say I would not allow the proceedings to go on unless you made me an humble apology; in reference to the reference to Mr. Norton, I did say I would refer the whole matter in dispute or none; I remember you saying frequently that the correspondence in Halls' case should not be dragged with that matter at all, that I had no right to refer to that matter as evidence of ill-feeling; I believe I was the first who charged you with personal feeling; you would not, in any stage of the proceedings, admit that your part in the matter was private; I don't recollect your using the exact words that you believed Magistrates had the power to protect themselves in Court from insult; there was no complaint of any insult in Court; you did say that Magistrates had the power to protect themselves from insult; I wrote a letter of complaint to the Attorney General about you in this matter; I did not prosecute you at first, because I adopted one of several remedies; I never had from the Attorney General a reply to my letter; I wrote several letters to the Attorney General; one letter was in reference to the transaction of the first of December; I must have written seven or eight letters in all to the Attorney General in reference to your conduct on the first of December, and on subsequent occasions; in Halls' case I wrote to you in the usual way, applying for payment; the demand was not a peremptory demand for payment, and it suggested, under the circumstances, some arrangement of the matter; I am not at all sure that I did not say it was a case in which I was not at all inclined to proceed (At Defendant's request, Prosecutor hands in the reply he received to the letter just referred to asking for payment in Halls' case; letter marked No. 1); I cannot charge my memory with what I did between the receipt of your letter and the issuing of the writ, but I believe I must have communicated with my client; I did not, before the issuing of the writ on the fourteenth of July, again communicate with you, because I thought my previous communication had not met with the reception it ought to have met with; I don't believe I said, before leaving Goulburn on the first of December, that I would get you removed; I am sure I did not say so; I have no doubt I did say on more than one occasion that Mr. Liardet ought to be removed from Berrima; I did not refer to his connection with you particularly in that; I have, on behalf of a client, complained to the Government against Mr. Liardet; I have never asked distinctly for Mr. Liardet's dismissal, but I have stated facts to the Government on which I think the Government ought to have removed him, but I did not complain until I had by a private conversation with Mr. Liardet endeavoured to settle the matter; I did not say on the first of December, in Mr. Nicholson's hearing, that I would spend my last shilling or five thousand pounds in trying to get you removed from the Commission of the Peace; I did say to Mr. Nicholson, on that day, that I could not submit to have my professional rights invaded in this way, and that if it was to cost me my last shilling I must support them; this conversation took place in my private room at the hotel, and after the rising of the Court; you did not during the controversy on the 1st of December offer to allow me to proceed, proceed, reserving to yourself the right of taking the opinion of the Attorney General; you did not, that I recollect, use the words "under protest," until "Gordon's case"; you did not on that day express your willingness to hear me under conditions, except when you said you were willing to hear me subject to the reference to Mr. Norton; Mr. Gordon's case you said you would allow me to appear under protest, but that was when I objected to your adjourning the case except upon the appearance of the parties; you did not at any other period on the first of December, except those I have now named, express a willingness to allow the business to go on; always excepting the first condition named, that I would retract or explain the letter; you did not express any unwillingness to sit in any other cases that day, except in cases in which I was retained.

Police Office, Berrima,
Wednesday, 24 August, 1859.

Present:—EDW. D. DAY, J.P.

Charles Hamilton Walsh, recalled and sworn, states: I never did write a letter to the Crown Law Officers or the Attorney General, accusing Mr. Oxley of partiality and injustice, and declaring, that so long as he sat on this Bench, my client could not obtain justice, or anything to that effect.

Examined by Defendant: I did not say that on the first of December, 1858; you did not say anything on that day that would lead me to suppose that you would be satisfied with such an explanation; Mr. Nicholson suggested that, if I would make such an explanation he believed you would be satisfied, and permit me to appear; Mr. Oxley said nothing, but I said I would make no explanation to entitle me to appear, as I considered that a matter of right; I did not say, before I came down from Goulburn, that I would get you dismissed, or Mr. Liardet removed; If you had not taken your seat again on the Bench I would not have commenced the present proceeding until the Government had decided on the matter of my complaint one way or the other; I would not have left the matter as it was if the Government had not decided at all; I think your conduct merited dismissal from the Commission of the Peace, and my object was to have you dismissed; I gave as a reason for commencing criminal proceedings against you in a letter to the Attorney General, that you had taken your seat on the Bench and stated that you was justified in what you had done, by referring to a decision of Judge Milford's, in the case of "Cory against Forbes," and also, because of the inaction of the Government with respect to my complaint against you.

Re-examined: I came down here on the first of December on a special retainer in Gordon's case.

James Campbell, being duly sworn, deposes: I reside at Sutton Forest; it is within the District of Berrima, I think; I am a farmer or settler; I know a person named David Robert Eden; previous to the 1st December last he resided at a place called Black Bob's Creek; that place is within the District of Berrima; I had him summoned on the 1st of December last to appear before the Court of Petty Debts, or what I call the Court of Requests here in Berrima; I was here at the Police Office on that day; I was here at the opening of the Court; the Magistrates on the Bench that day were Mr. Oxley and Mr. Nicholson; Some of the police business came on first on that day; I remember a police case against a man named Gordon; Gordon's case was on after mine; I was in the Court when the Court of Requests cases were called on; as near as I can recollect some small cases were called on before the Court of Request cases, one I think was a case of Mr. Oxley's own man; when the Court of Request cases were called on, my case against Eden was called on; I appeared when my case was called on; the defendant Eden was also here; after the case was called you said you were here for Eden; Mr. Oxley said he would not hear you, nor would he sit on the Bench while you would come there; I don't think Mr. Oxley gave any reason for not hearing you; he wanted you to give him a copy of a letter, or something of that sort; I could hardly repeat the words that took place between you in regard to some letter to the Attorney General; it was a grievous affair, and I could not repeat the words; I am sure that I cannot give the particular words that either you or Mr. Oxley used upon that particular occasion; you told Mr. Oxley to get the clerk and take something down; I do not particularly recollect what it was you asked Mr. Oxley to get the clerk to take down; I forget whether you asked Mr. Oxley to get the clerk to take down his objection to hear you; Mr. Nicholson said something, but it was a good while after Mr. Oxley had left the Court a while; Mr. Nicholson said he had no objection himself to hear the case; he would sooner hear it than the way it was going; I don't think I heard Mr. Nicholson say he had no objection to hear you; Mr. Oxley said he would not sit on the Bench while you would attend; I heard plenty more but I forget the words; as far as I can recollect Mr. Oxley said that you had no business here, and he would not listen; then, Mr. Walsh, you made your claim, and said you had as good a right to be here as Mr. Oxley had—you said you had as good a claim as an Attorney as Mr. Oxley had as a Justice of of the Peace; the same statute as furnished him with a Commission to sit on the Bench furnished you with a Commission to sit as an Attorney; when you spoke of the statute Mr. Liardet produced a book which Mr. Oxley looked at; Mr. Oxley, after you said something, threw the book down, and said he believed what you said; I remember nothing particular after that; I remained in Court for a little bit after that; my case was not heard; there was a fresh summons issued in my case for another day; I was afterwards in Court on the same first of December when Gordon's case was called on; I think Gordon's case was the next case called after mine; you said you were here for Gordon; Mr. Oxley said he would not hear you; I don't remember anything more of the matter.

Examined by Defendant:—You proposed an adjournment of whole Court for the day; Mr. Walsh objected very strongly to the adjournment of my case, and gave many reasons which I cannot repeat; I don't recollect them; I did not hear Mr. Walsh say you had no jurisdiction in the case; he said something about your having no power to adjourn the Court; you made a reply, but what the words were I cannot tell; the effect of them would not be very pleasing, even if I could recollect them; I had to take out fresh summonses; I had to begin my case afresh; I don't recollect anything of sort being said by Mr. Walsh, that fresh summonses must issue—nor that Mr. Liardet said so either.

Re-examined by Prosecutor: My case was the first case that came on that day in which you were employed.

Jeremiah Frewin, sworn: I am the Chief Constable at Berrima, and have been so since April, 1858; I served Mr. Oxley, the defendant, with a copy of the summons produced, on the 28th day of July, 1858; it appears to be a Supreme Court summons in the cause "Halls against Oxley"; I remember the first occasion when I saw you (Mr. Walsh) in this Court; I cannot say on what day of the month, or week, it was I saw you; I cannot say that it was a day set apart for the hearing of Court of Requests business, but it was a day for hearing Police business; I know the man, James Campbell, who was examined here yesterday; I know a person named Eden; I have no recollection that they (Campbell and Eden) were here in Court on the first day I saw you here; I do remember on the first day you were here your offering to appear for a defendant in a case; I do not remember what case it was, but as far as my memory serves me I think it was in Gordon's case; I have kept no notes of it; I am not willing to trust to my memory on the subject; Mr. Oxley and Mr. Nicholson were the Magistrates on the Bench on that day; when you said you appeared for the defendant, Mr. Oxley said before the business of the Court could go on you must give an explanation of some letter you had written to the Crown Law Officers, but what that letter was I do not know; I recollect that you refused to give any explanation; you said you must neither admit or deny the writing of it; you insisted on your right to be heard as an advocate in defence of your client; I remember your asking Mr. Oxley to tell the clerk to take down his objection to hear you; I do not remember your giving any reason for wishing that to be done; you said something to the effect that it was to be taken down to prevent any contradiction or misunderstanding hereafter; the clerk did take down something; I cannot recollect your reading from a book the statute under which you claimed the right to appear, but I remember Mr. Liardet handing a book to the Bench, Mr. Oxley, or Mr. Nicholson, or both; I do remember you saying that the same statute which gave their worships the right to hear the case, gave you the right to appear for the defendant; I recollect your saying that they were the creature of the statute, and that you was equally the creature of that statute; you addressed yourself to Mr. Oxley, not to the Bench; Mr. Nicholson was on the Bench at the time you said that, but your language appeared to be addressed to Mr. Oxley, who was in the Chair; I don't remember Mr. Oxley saying that he would or could put you out of Court; I remember you saying that you defied him to put his finger on any thing improper in your conduct since you came into Court; this was addressed to Mr. Oxley, but Mr. Nicholson was on the Bench at the time; I remember Mr. Oxley saying, "Oh! you defy us;" I did not hear any complaint of improper conduct on your part made then from the Bench, at least I don't recollect any; I did hear Mr. Nicholson say on that occasion that he was willing to hear you, that he had no objection to hear you; he said this after leaving the Court; he returned back and said so; I don't remember you saying you would not allow the case to go on unless Mr. Oxley made an humble apology to you; some mention was made of the word "apology," but by which party I don't remember.

Examined by Defendant: I recollect your proposing to adjourn the cases after Mr. Nicholson left the Court; I have no recollection of Mr. Walsh objecting to your adjourning Campbell and Eden's case; I don't recollect that case at all on that day; I recollect on the day that Campbell and Eden's case came before the Court, Mr. Walsh objected to your adjourning that case because you had no jurisdiction in it; you ordered fresh summonses in that case; I am not sure that Mr. Walsh did say fresh summonses must issue or not; I don't recollect your saying to Mr. Walsh on that day that you had no objection to his appearing on on reserving your right to apply to the Attorney General to know if you had the power you claimed. (Here defendant wishes to obtain the witness's opinion as to whether Mr. Walsh's demeanour was respectful on that occasion or not. Mr. Walsh objected to that opinion being admitted.)

William Chapman, sworn, deposes: I reside in Berrima; I am at present a road contractor; I was summoned to the Police Office here on the first of December last for an assault; a person named Broadhurst was the complainant against me; I retained you for my defence; I attended the Court on that occasion; it was a Court of Requests day, and there was also police business; I remember the Court of Requests business being gone into; the Magistrates sitting on that occasion were Mr. Oxley and Mr. Nicholson; I know a person of the name of James Campbell; I recollect his having a case in the Court of Requests that day against a man named Eden, a schoolmaster; I remember that case being called on; I heard you say that you appeared for the defendant; Mr. Oxley then objected to your appearing; you told him you had a right to appear under the same statute as he had; I remember you reading from a book; I recollect Mr. Liardet handed a book across to Mr. Oxley on that occasion; I remember your asking Mr. Oxley to get the clerk to take down his reasons for objecting to you; the clerk did take something of that kind down; you said you wished that to be done as a reference to refer to; I remember Mr. Nicholson said he had no objection to hear you, if so be that Mr. Oxley had none; Mr. Nicholson got up and went out, and turned back again and said he wished it to be distinctly understood that he had no objection to hear you; I am quite certain that all this occurred in the case of Campbell against Eden; after this the case against me was called on; it was adjourned till that day week; Mr. Oxley was the Magistrate on the Bench when it was adjourned; after my case was so disposed of, I remember a case against Gordon being called on; I am quite certain it was after my case Gordon's case was called on; I heard you say you appeared in that case; that case was adjourned.

Examined by Defendant: I am not in the habit of taking notes of the proceedings in the Police Office; I remember everything that took place so distinctly, because my memory is good; I have spoken of this matter to others since the first of December; what I have heard in conversation with others has not refreshed my memory; I recollect you said you would hear Mr. Walsh under protest; you did say that you would hear Mr. Walsh under protest, that you had a right to protect yourself; it was suggested before this that the matter should be referred; I heard you say the words that you were not actuated by ill feeling towards Mr. Walsh; Mr. Walsh said you were, and he would prove it; you did say on the 1st of December that you would not undertake to settle the matter yourself, that you would ask the opinion of the Attorney General; you did say you believed you had a right to do as you did; when you were about to adjourn Campbell and Eden's case, Mr. Walsh objected to your adjourning it; I cannot remember what reason he assigned for his objection; I did not, to my recollection, hear Mr. Walsh say any such thing as that fresh summonses must issue in Campbell and Eden's case at Campbell's expense; when you said you would allow the business to go on under protest, Mr. Walsh did not say he would not allow the business to go on unless you made an humble apology to him; I will swear that he did not use those words, or anything to that effect.

Re-examined: It was after the conversation about the reference that Mr. Oxley said he would hear you under protest; the conversation about the reference took place while the cause of Campbell against Eden was before the Court; it was in Gordon's case that Mr. Oxley said he would allow you to appear under protest.

John Morrice, sworn, deposes: I reside at Eling Forest, in the District of Berrima, and I am a Magistrate of the Territory; I usually take part in the proceedings of the Berrima Bench; I have looked at the letter now produced, dated 12th of August, 1858; letter marked No. 2; I see my signature to that letter, and also the signature of Mr. Oxley, the defendant (letter read); the circumstances under which that letter was written, were these,—myself, Mr. Oxley, and Mr. Nicholson were here on the Bench one day, it was about the date of the letter; the letter was either signed that day or a day or two after; Mr. Oxley said to me and Mr. Nicholson on that day, that this was a pretty thing that Mr. Walsh had been doing; that he had written to the Government complaining of the Bench for partiality and injustice, and that if Mr. Walsh ever appeared here he would turn him out of the Court; Mr. Nicholson said we should be awkwardly situated if he should do so, as we never saw the letter; I joined Mr. Nicholson in the same; I first asked for the letter, and Mr. Liardet said he had not it; we then agreed that the letter or a copy of it should be written for, and we directed Mr. Liardet then to write for a copy; and in consequence the letter produced was written; the letter now produced, dated 19th of August, 1858, is the reply to our letter just spoken of; that letter, No. 3, was I believe accompanied by a copy of the letter to which Mr. Oxley referred; I was present when that letter, No. 3, and the document referred referred to in it were considered by Mr. Oxley, Mr. Nicholson, and myself; that was very shortly after the receipt of that letter No. 3; on that occasion Mr. Liardet handed the letter to Mr. Oxley, who handed it to Mr. Nicholson, who read it, he, Mr. Nicholson, made no remark but merely handed the letter to me; I read it; after reading it, Mr. Nicholson asked me what was my opinion of it; I told him I did not see we had anything against Mr. Walsh in it whatsoever; Mr. Nicholson then said that was his opinion too; and we told Mr. Oxley that was our opinion; he said then that if ever Mr. Walsh came here he would put him out; he said he would put you (Mr. Walsh) out of the Court; that was all that happened then; after that, but not before, I did hear Mr. Oxley say something about putting you out of Court; I have heard him say it in the lunchroom, where we had our lunch at the table; that was at Breen's public-house in this town; there were present on the occasion persons who were not Magistrates; I was not here on the 1st of December; I was in Sydney at that time; I went to Sydney sometime in November; I cannot say I was here on the Court day before the 1st December, the 25th of November; I don't think I could have been here; I have had a conversation with Mr. Oxley, in reference to an action you had brought against him for Halls; I have had conversations with Mr. Oxley in reference to that action two or three different times in which your name was mentioned; I remember once going into the Post Office for a letter; I saw Mr. Oxley reading a letter at the Post Office door outside in the verandah, Mr. Liardet, I think, was standing with him outside in the road; I went up to him; he (Mr. Oxley) said he received a letter from Mr. Walsh, threatening an execution or something to that effect, that he wished he had him instead of the letter and he would kick him well; that is all I remember; I never was a party to any arrangement not to hear you at the Berrima Bench, previous to the first of December.

Examined by Defendant:—When the letter you complained of was received I did not say it contained nothing against the Bench, but it did against you; you made use of the very words, "Turn him out"; I can't say that I ever heard Mr. Walsh say he would get you dismissed, and I cannot swear that he did not say so; I never heard Mr. Walsh say he would get Mr. Liardet removed; I did subscribe towards liquidating the debt due to Halls in the case I speak of; I afterwards knew that Mr. Powell and others subscribed to that object; I understood from yourself that you were to be reimbursed by subscription for any expense you may be put to in that action; I never heard you say in this Court that you would not hear Mr. Walsh because he brought an action against you for Halls; I could not say that I heard you say you would not hear Mr. Walsh because he imputed improper motives to you as a Magistrate; I always understood you objected to him for the contents of that letter; I don't think I ever said that, in the event of Mr. Walsh bringing any action against this Bench, I would bear my share of it; I don't believe I ever said so; I believe I mentioned either to you or Mr. Liardet that Mr. Larkin had said so; I have had conversation with Mr. Walsh in reference to this prosecution since its commencement.

By the Bench:—By the letter I have mentioned, the contents of which I considered were the cause of defendant's objection to hear Mr. Walsh, I mean the letter a copy of which was sent to the Bench in the letter marked No. 3.

Statement of the Accused.

Colony of New South Wales, }
 Berrima, to wit. }

Henry Molesworth Oxley stands charged before the undersigned, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the Colony aforesaid, this sixteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, for that he, the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, on the first day of December, 1858, at Berrima, in the said Colony, did unlawfully and maliciously prevent the due administration of justice, by preventing Charles Hamilton Walsh, an Attorney of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, from appearing and conducting a case for one David Robert Eden, in the Court of Petty Debts, holden at Berrima, in the Colony aforesaid, and by preventing the said Charles Hamilton Walsh from exercising his profession as an Attorney of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, the said Henry Molesworth Oxley being at the time acting as a Magistrate of the Territory of New South Wales aforesaid, and the said charge being read to the said Henry Molesworth Oxley, and the witnesses for the prosecution, viz.: John Evelyn Liardet, Charles Hamilton Walsh, James Campbell, Jeremiah Frewin, William Chapman, John Morrice, and William John Cordeaux, being severally examined in his presence, the said Henry Molesworth Oxley is now addressed by me as follows:—"Having heard the evidence do you wish to say anything in answer to 'the charge? You are not obliged to say anything, unless you desire to do so, but whatever 'you say will be taken down in writing and may be given in evidence against you upon your 'trial.'—Whereupon the said Henry Molesworth Oxley saith as follows:—

In the first place I must submit, provided anything has been proved that Mr. Walsh has said he was prepared to prove in his information, admitting for the moment, for the sake of argument, that I did refuse to hear Mr. Walsh in the case—Campbell against Eden, still it has only been proved I omitted to do something; it is not attempted to be proved that I did anything; it has been said that I omitted, or neglected, or refused to do something which I ought to have done. Now, when a Magistrate refuses, or neglects, or omits to do an act, the laws most unquestionably provide a remedy, and where one remedy is distinctly laid down as the remedy to be applied to a case, it is to be presumed that that remedy, and that remedy only, is to be used by the party aggrieved; that remedy is by "mandamus;" Mr. Walsh could have compelled me to hear him if I had been in error.

I admit that a Magistrate is liable for indictment for committing any act maliciously. It has never been attempted to be sworn by any of the witnesses that I have ever done or committed any act, but if it had been proved that I had done anything it must be proved that I had done it maliciously, and that the proper party to whom Mr. Walsh should have applied would be a Judge of the Supreme Court, and not to your Worship.

In the whole course of the administration of justice in this Colony or anywhere else, no Magistrate has ever been brought before another Magistrate for an act done by him as a Magistrate, and this act on the part of Mr. Walsh is entirely unprecedented, or the course pursued by Mr. Walsh; but before Mr. Walsh could have obtained a criminal information against me from the Judges, he would have been bound to have shewn satisfactorily to their Honors that I had acted maliciously and corruptly. In support of that I will give the case of Rex v. Barron from "Burns' Justice," vol. 3, page 482, Chitty's edition. I now submit that Mr. Walsh knew very well that he could not prove this case to the satisfaction of the Judges, and that, therefore, he made a complaint against me to the Attorney General with a view to get me dismissed or superseded. On his own admission he applied to the Government with that intention.

Had Mr. Walsh's object been merely, as he says, to support his professional rights, his proper course would have been, neither to appeal to the Government nor to your Worship, for this simple reason, that neither of you had the right to decide the point of law, whether he had a right to be heard or not, and therefore, I contend that his object was not to support his professional rights but to gratify his own malicious ill feeling towards myself; I am prepared to prove, that on the 1st December, 1858, I offered to allow Mr. Walsh to appear for his client or clients, reserving to myself my right to appeal to the Attorney General on the point of law raised by him, that he had a right to appear under any circumstances, which, if I succeed in proving, will be satisfactory evidence, in my opinion, that I could not have been actuated by any personal feeling towards Mr. Walsh in declining to hear him; and I will now most distinctly deny that I ever had the slightest ill feeling towards Mr. Walsh, and that in doing as I did do, or am asserted to have done, I merely acted as I conceived I had a right to do; I conceived that my character as a Magistrate had been called in question by Mr. Walsh, and for the first time after I became aware of that fact, or received that impression, Mr. Walsh appeared before me on the 1st December, 1858, as advocate for his client in a case—I don't know what case—and I contend that no person claiming one particle of gentlemanly feeling could have sat, under the circumstances in which I was placed, without asking an explanation from Mr. Walsh.

I will not for one moment say I was right, nor will I admit that I was wrong, in asking for an explanation; I will only say, that no one with one spark of gentlemanly feeling could have sat silent under the imputation; and I now say, and I have proved, and will further prove, that I expected nothing from Mr. Walsh but a civil evasive answer to the effect that he was not responsible for what he wrote for a client, or something to that effect, any civil evasive answer, instead of which Mr. Walsh behaved in a most disrespectful and unbecoming manner, unbecoming a person claiming the position of a gentleman or an advocate; I am also prepared to prove that I offered to allow the proceedings to go on, and that Mr. Walsh said "I will not allow the proceedings to go on unless you make a most "humble

"humble apology to me;" and when I asked him for what I was to apologize, Mr. Walsh said, not only for what has passed to-day, but for the whole of the correspondence in the case "Halls versus Oxley."

Now I hope what I have said so far, if it has or can be proved, will satisfy your Worship of three things:—

- 1st. That I have committed no act at all.
- 2nd. If I did commit any act I committed an act for which the law provided a remedy, and as I did not commit that act malâ fide, but as I did, believing myself to be right in law, as I did not do it maliciously but in error; and—
- 3rd. I consider that I have shewn that not I but Mr. Walsh refused to allow the proceedings to go on, thereby obstructing the course of justice in refusing to allow the proceedings to go on unless I made an apology to him.

Now I contend that all or any one of these objections are quite sufficient to upset the case, but since you have been pleased to rule that I must make the whole of my defence now, I will, although I consider it entirely unnecessary, urge one or two more objections. In the first place, it has been proved from the records of the Court, produced by Mr. Liardet, that the case "Campbell versus Eden," in which it is alleged I obstructed the course of justice by refusing to hear Mr. Walsh as defendant's advocate, was one not within my jurisdiction as a Magistrate sitting singly; neither were either of the other cases relied upon by the prosecution, although I must object in limine to the whole proceedings, because more than once offence is charged in the information. I did make that objection on Thursday in arguing the case.

I must impress upon your Worship to take into consideration the disadvantage under which I labor, in being not only not allowed to be sworn to give my testimony on oath, but in being prevented from saying anything as an argument on a point of law, or otherwise, but what will or may be used against me on some other occasion, whereas Mr. Walsh has been allowed to make a statement, and then after the examination of witnesses to give another statement upon oath, and finally to reply upon the whole case without having any portion of his statement taken down, except what he considered necessary. This is a disadvantage under which all defendants labor when the prosecutor is his own advocate.

In support of my assertions I call upon Charles Lindsay Nicholson for my statements.

Present:—EDW. D. DAY, J.P.

Charles Lindsay Nicholson sworn, deposes: I don't remember the 1st day of December, 1858, particularly, but I know the case you allude to; I can tell by referring to the almanac; I remember being in Court on that day; I remember a discussion arising between you, defendant, and Mr. Walsh, respecting his right to appear here as an advocate; I was sitting on the Bench on that day, you were also sitting on the Bench; It was the case of Campbell versus Eden; the first case in which Mr. Walsh appeared; he said he appeared for the defendant; I think I can swear it was; I am almost confident of it; I think I can give the exact words you said when Mr. Walsh said he appeared for the defendant; they were—"Mr. Walsh, before you plead in this case, I wish to ask you for an explanation touching a certain letter written by you to the Attorney General," that is all I think you said at that moment, that was the first thing that was said to Mr. Walsh; you were not in the slightest excited when you made that remark; Mr. Walsh said, on the impulse of the moment, I never wrote such a letter, or never wrote any letter, and the instant he said it, he added, I deny your right to ask me for any explanation, and I'll make no explanation whatever in the matter; I insist upon my right to appear, and will appear; the same statute which placed you there places me here, or the same statute which gave you the right to sit there gave me the right to sit here; I am the creature of a statute as you are; Mr. Walsh did say I will sit here as long as you sit there, and I have a right to do; Mr. Walsh made use of the word private, as much as to say, you were actuated by private feelings in the matter; I don't remember Mr. Walsh making use of the words that he could foresee it to be a private quarrel; when Mr. Walsh said it was a private quarrel, you said that you had not the slightest personal feeling in the matter whatever; you used the words private feeling also; Mr. Walsh, after a great deal of altercation between both parties, said he was willing to refer the matter to any two gentlemen; he said he would name Mr. Norton, your uncle, I think, his friend in the matter; you assented after still further conversation, you said you were willing to refer the whole matter to these two gentlemen; Mr. Walsh again assented, and after a time appeared to withdraw, stating that how could he refer the matter of his position as an advocate, and you your position as a Magistrate; Mr. Oxley replied, that he had nothing else to refer to anyone but the matter of the letter that was in question, which first caused the misunderstanding; I allude to the letter written to the Attorney General, which you referred to when you asked Mr. Walsh for an explanation; It was a letter signed John Gordon, written by Mr. Walsh to the Attorney General; after you said you had nothing else to refer, Mr. Walsh, I think, replied that he alluded to the correspondence that had occurred in the case (Halls'); he said the matter he wished to refer was a private correspondence between two gentlemen, alluding to this case of Halls'; this you refused to do; I think you stated, as a reason, that it had not anything to do with the business of which you asked for an explanation; the next thing that occurred after that was still further talk on the matter, and you offered to allow Mr. Walsh to go on with the case or to plead; I think you made use of the word under protest, or until we received the opinion of the Attorney General on the subject; Mr. Walsh refused to be heard under protest at all, stating that he had a right to be there, and insisted upon his right to be heard; there was a great deal more altercation between both parties, and Mr. Walsh asked Mr. Oxley if Mr. Nicholson was of the same opinion or refused to hear him; I think Mr. Oxley said Mr. Nicholson is here to reply for himself, and I made no remark on the subject at that time; at one period something was mentioned about an apology; I think it came from myself first to you; I am not certain that Mr. Walsh did say he would not allow the proceedings to go on without an ample apology, but he used words to this effect—"I expect a most ample apology from you"; I took it at the time that he meant a most ample apology from you for the manner you and other matters; you made a remark "An apology for what!" I cannot bring to my mind the words Mr. Walsh then used, I believe you did say words to the effect that having done nothing wrong you had no apology to make; in the course of the proceedings Mr. Walsh said he came down prepared expecting this opposition from you or from the Bench, I cannot say which now; you did say you would hear Mr. Walsh, pending reference to the Attorney General; he declined to proceed under protest at all, that he had a right to be there, and insisted on his right to be heard; I believe you did say—I am sure you did say—that you would be satisfied with a simple explanation of the matter of complaint; the reason I remember this is because I suggested something of the sort to you; you then said to me you would be quite willing to hear Mr. Walsh on condition he would say simply he did not write the letter; this was the thing that led me to say to Mr. Walsh "if you will consent to repeat the words you said just now, I am quite sure Mr. Oxley will hear you"; Mr. Walsh still persisted in his right to be heard, and said he would make no explanation whatever in the matter.

I ask you if I ever said anything which would lead you to suppose that my not taking notice of Mr. Walsh's communication to the Attorney General, I should be neglecting my duty as a Magistrate, and further, did I even say that I could not see Mr. Walsh again without asking for an explanation? You said during the conversation between Mr. Walsh and yourself, on the 1st of December, "How could I possibly hear you after having written such charges against me to the Attorney General," or "brought such charges against me to the Attorney General," stating that no gentleman could possibly hear you after such charges being brought against a Magistrate without asking for some explanation on the point; you did say at some point of the proceedings that Mr. Walsh had raised a point of law which you would not attempt to decide; I don't remember at this moment anything else you said; you did say following that, that it must be decided by the Attorney General or some other authority, and that pending the reference to the Attorney General, Mr. Walsh might proceed; I think it is the same question I answered twice before; Mr. Oxley agreed to hear Mr. Walsh under protest pending the reference to the Attorney General; this may have occurred two or three times during the day; on one occasion Mr. Walsh mentioned to me that he would sacrifice his last shilling, or one thousand pounds, to see the end of it, or words to that effect; this was said to me when Mr. Walsh and I were walking together; I am a Magistrate of the Territory, and it was as a Magistrate I was sitting on the Bench with you on the first of December; Mr. Walsh certainly was excited; you were a little excited in the latter portion of the day on the first December; I don't say very much excited; Mr. Walsh was excited also; I believe a letter was written on that evening to the Attorney General on the matter then pending (letter produced marked No. 4, and read); the letter now read is the I speak of; I have no doubt that letter contains a true account of what occurred that day from my signature being to it, otherwise I would not have signed it; I left the Court before the close of the Court business; I won't be sure, but I think we heard one or two cases before Mr. Walsh appeared as advocate that day; the case Chief Constable against John Gordon was not one of them; I am sure it was not; after Mr. Walsh appeared I was not present at the hearing or postponement of any case.

Examined by Prosecutor: I think it was between 11 and 12 o'clock, or a little earlier, that the Court opened on the first of December; I should say I remained in Court that day fully three hours; between the hearing of the one or two police cases, and from the time you rose until I left the Court, the whole time was occupied in the discussion between Mr. Oxley and you; when Mr. Oxley asked you the last time for an explanation of the letter, I don't think he said it was a letter to the Attorney General, in which he said you stated, or it was stated, that while he sat on the Bench justice could not be obtained; I am not quite sure; immediately after you refused to give any explanation of the matter, I believe Mr. Oxley said that you wrote a letter to the Attorney General for John Gordon, accusing Mr. Oxley of injustice and partiality; I am not sure whether Mr. Oxley's words were "you wrote a letter," or "did you not write a letter;" you said, in reply to that, that you wrote the letter for your client, and were responsible to him for it, or words to that effect; you also said that that letter had no reference to the case then before the Court, and that your client ought not to be prejudiced by it; Mr. Oxley said he could not hear you unless you made an explanation on the matter; when you referred to the statute, I believe Mr. Oxley had the statute 3 Vic., No. 10, before him, then or immediately afterwards; when you insisted on your right to appear, I think Mr. Oxley's words were, that he supposed he should have to leave the chair according to your argument, or else have an explanation, on account of what you had said, that you insisted on your right and would sit there; Mr. Oxley said these words, or something something to the like effect—then the business of the Court must be put a stop to, for I cannot or will not allow you to appear without the explanation; you said to Mr. Oxley—you had better have your objection taken down in writing; I think you said—that there might be no contradiction in the case hereafter; I think it was agreed that statements on both sides should be taken, and I think they were taken down; I cannot say whether it was before or after the reference was agreed to that these statements were taken down—I think it was after the negotiation for the reference ceased; when the reference was arranged I said—Mr. Walsh will then appear here subject to this arbitration; Mr. Oxley I think then said—of course, or—yes, of course, or words to that effect; you then said—you must not appear under protest, or words to that effect; I left the Court some time after that; before I left the Court I did say I was willing to hear you; that I saw no probability of the matter between you and Mr. Oxley being settled; that I had business to attend to, and would listen no longer to the arguments; I said this before I said I had no objection to hear you; I am quite confident you did not say you would sacrifice your last shilling, in your room at the hotel; when you said that, we were conversing on the subject of Mr. Oxley not hearing you; I was a party to no arrangement, previous to the 1st December, not to hear you at the Berrima Bench; the arrangement (if we may call it an arrangement) was spoken of at the time we received Gordon's letter from the Attorney General; Mr. Oxley, Mr. Morrice, and myself, were together here, and Mr. Oxley handed me the letter from the Attorney General; I read it and handed it to Mr. Morrice; when Mr. Morrice had read it I said—what's your opinion about it? he said he did not see much in it (or words to that effect) that we could take notice of; I said I agreed with him, but that I thought that it was a very strong letter (addressing myself also to Mr. Oxley at the same time); Mr. Oxley then made a remark, and I replied to him, that I thought he could not very well hear Mr. Walsh without something being said on the matter—some explanation from Mr. Walsh (I forget the exact words), but I did not think it implicated the Bench in any way, but that he ought to have something said on the point before he again heard Mr. Walsh; my reason for saying this was, that Mr. Oxley said—that after such charges being brought against him he did not think it would be right in hearing you; that as a gentleman he could not do so, and I agreed with him altogether in this; that was the only arrangement I ever heard of at all; I cannot fix the date of this conversation; it must have been directly after we sent for the letter (letter 19th August, 1858, referred to); before the 1st of December I have not a doubt on my mind that I have heard Mr. Oxley say he would not hear you until you made an explanation, but I cannot say I heard him say so more than once; I don't think I heard that Mr. Oxley had been served with a writ at the suit of Halls, until after you had been refused to be heard.

Re-examined by Defendant: I don't think I ever heard you say that you would hear Mr. Walsh out of Court.

Sir,

I am in receipt of your communication making a demand upon me for £71, said to be due by me to one Jacob Halls. In reply I have to state I have never been asked, in any way, for any such sum, nor am I indebted in any way to the person named; but the old Diocesan Society of this District always intended to give Halls something (but not £71) to make up his salary to, I believe, £130 for one year, and Mr. Hassall, the clergyman, has been collecting subscriptions in aid, and is still doing so. You can inform Halls (as it seems to be so very much easier to communicate through you, residing only 50 miles from the spot, than directly with me, or any other person taking an interest in the matter) that, as far as I am aware, he will be paid whatever is due to him as soon as possible; this I say strictly without prejudice, nor can I allow this private communication to be made use of in any way in any ulterior proceedings Halls may please to take to the injury of the Diocesan Committee, or any other person.

Sydney, 31 August, 1859.

MESSRS. NORTON, SON, AND BARKER, to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Queen against Oxley.

SIR,

Mr. Henry Molesworth Oxley, of Berrima, who, under most extraordinary circumstances, has been committed for trial at the next Goulburn Circuit Court, has instructed us to take the necessary steps for his defence in case you should think there is any cause for proceeding against him.

We have therefore the honor to request that you will, as early as possible, inform us whether it is your intention to put him upon his trial, and that in the meanwhile you will direct that a copy of the depositions be forwarded to us.

Mr. Oxley applied to the Magistrate for a copy of the depositions, but that gentleman requested that the demand would not be pressed upon him, as it would occasion him to remain two or three days longer at Berrima, and intimated that a copy could be obtained from your office.

If you should determine to bring the case before a jury, we have to request that the venue may be changed from Goulburn to Sydney, on the ground that the prosecutor in this case, who has been for many years a practising Solicitor in Goulburn, and is at present Mayor of that town, has so much local influence, that Mr. Oxley, who is almost wholly unknown to the jurors of that place, cannot expect to have a fair and impartial trial.

If you should desire it, Mr. Oxley is quite prepared to make affidavit, that from the influence of the prosecutor, he does not believe he would obtain an impartial trial at Goulburn.

At the time of the committal, the presiding Magistrate, who it appears went to Berrima for the special purpose of hearing this matter, was requested either to commit the defendant for trial at Sydney or at such Court as the Attorney General might direct, but he refused to adopt either course.

We have, &c.,

GENTLEMEN,

In reference to the proceedings against the gentleman named in the margin, Regina v. Hy. M. Oxley, Esq., J.P., I am directed to inform you that the Attorney General has declined to prosecute, as it does not appear that a sufficient prima facie case is disclosed in the depositions; and I am therefore desired to request that you will have the goodness to cause the witnesses to be countermanded. for unlawfully and maliciously preventing the administration of justice.

I am, &c.,

Legislative Assembly.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

EDWARD FARBROTHER.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 16 February, 1860.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Edward Farbrother, of Macquarie-street South, Builder,—

SHEWETH:—

That he has been subjected to the most degrading treatment and ill-usage, as detailed in the following facts, which he begs most respectfully to place before your Honorable House, in the hope and belief you will accord to him some recompense or compensation for the same.

Your Petitioner is a builder, and has lately been engaged in building a house at Chowder Bay, about the payment of which there is some dispute, and he has not been able to procure payment for the work done.

Two persons named Brown and Burton were employed by him to do certain portions of the carpenters' work on the said building, to the former of whom he became indebted for such work in the sum of six pounds, and the latter three pounds fourteen shillings and sixpence. On the sixteenth March last those men filed separate informations at the Central Police Court against your Petitioner to recover such sums, and on the twenty-fourth of March your Petitioner attended, in pursuance of summonses against him, before the then Police Magistrate—Mr. Forbes—and a Mr. B. R. Wilson, before whom the cases were to be heard, when your Petitioner admitted the debts, and orders were made in each case against him for payment in seven days. The seven days having expired, and the moneys not being paid, distress warrants were issued, but no sufficient distress was found, whereupon warrants were issued for your Petitioner's apprehension and committal to Darlinghurst Gaol for fourteen days on the six pounds' debt, and seven days on the three pounds fourteen shillings and sixpence debt, unless the moneys and costs of Court were sooner paid. Under those warrants the officers went to your Petitioner's house several times, but your Petitioner was keeping out of the way until he could raise the money to pay those debts.

Subsequently, namely, on the twenty-seventh of April, your Petitioner's wife, by direction of a clerk at the Police Office, saw both Brown and Burton and paid their respective debts, and took from them receipts, of which the following are copies:—

“ Newton, April 27th, 1859.

“Received of Edward Farbrother, the sum of £6, the amount which clear the debt against him, and Edward Farbrother paying the expenses of Court.

“ PHILLIP BROWN.”

“ Newton, April 27th, 1859.

“Received from Edward Farbrother, the sum of £3 14s. 6d., being the full demand for wages, Edward Farbrother to pay the Court expenses.

“Received on Thomas Burton's account with Edward Farbrother, the sum of £3 14s. 6d.

“ SARAH BURTON.”

On

On the same day, namely, Wednesday, the twenty-seventh of April, your Petitioner's wife went to the Police Office with the two receipts and saw Mr. Davidson, a clerk in the Office, and told him she had come to pay the Court charges, as she had settled the debts with Brown and Burton as directed.

Mr. Davidson said he could not act on that unless she brought a letter from the parties, to say her statement was correct, as it was illegal; upon which your Petitioner's wife said she had got Brown and Burton's receipts for the money. He then replied, "That will do, hand them over," which your Petitioner's wife accordingly did. Mr. Davidson then looked at a book to see what were the expenses of the Court, and said it was twelve shillings, which if your Petitioner's wife paid him, he would settle the affair for her. Your Petitioner's wife thereupon paid the twelve shillings to him, and he then went into an inner office, and your Petitioner's wife heard him tell some person there that she had been and settled the debts with the parties, and that she had brought the receipts and paid the Court fees. Mr. Davidson subsequently came back into the office where your Petitioner's wife was, and pinned the receipts into a sort of book containing the informations. Mr. Davidson said, "Now I will take you to the Inspector's Office," which he did, and this was on the same building as the Police Office, and is the office of Inspector Higgins. At this office there was a clerk (called Lubey) whom Mr. Davidson addressed by saying, "I believe you have two warrants out to apprehend a man by name of Farbrother—he has bolted, and has left his wife to pay the debts, and she has done so, and likewise the Court expenses; give me your book, and I will point out what warrants I want cancelled." The clerk Lubey thereupon gave him his warrant book and he pointed out to the clerk the warrants therein, and told the clerk the warrants were to be withdrawn as the matter was settled. Upon this your Petitioner's wife asked Mr. Davidson for a receipt or some writing to satisfy the policemen, in case they came to her house again. When Mr. Davidson said, "There was not any occasion for that, she had nothing to fear so as she kept the old gentleman out of the house that night"; whereupon your Petitioner's wife thanked him and left. Thursday the twenty-eighth, Friday the twenty-ninth, and Saturday the thirtieth, passed over and nothing occurred; your Petitioner being at home as usual in his business. On Sunday the first of May, your Petitioner was walking in his yard at about twelve o'clock in the morning, when he was surprised by his large gate being broken in, and Sergeant Rush and another constable rushed in and took your Petitioner into custody, under the two warrants which had been issued. Upon this your Petitioner and his wife both told them the money and Court fees had been paid on the previous Wednesday, when Sergeant Rush said, "That be damned, you will have to go with me whether it be settled or not," and then the sergeant took your Petitioner by the back of the neck.

When your Petitioner had put on his boots and coat they took him to the Police Station at Brickfield Hill, he being marched there between two constables, to see if there was any entry in the books there of the withdrawal of the warrants. The clerks then searched the books, but there did not appear to be any such entry; whereupon the sergeant said, "I must take you to Darlinghurst," and took from his pocket a pair of handcuffs, upon which your Petitioner remonstrated, and assured him the money was all paid, and begged him not to handcuff him as he would go quietly and not make any resistance; but the sergeant insisted, and then put on the handcuffs, and marched your Petitioner from there to Darlinghurst Gaol, when large numbers of persons were coming from their different places of worship, some of whom were known to Farbrother. On arriving at Darlinghurst Gaol, your Petitioner was handed over to the officers of the Gaol, and only one warrant was lodged, namely, the one granted upon the information of Brown, for six pounds (a copy of which is as follows):—

(Copy.)

"No. 5. 11 & 12 Victoria, Cap. 43.

"Warrant of Commitment for want of distress.—To the Chief Inspector and a Constable of the Police Force of the City of Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, and to his assistants, and to the keeper of the Gaol at Darlinghurst, in the said City and Colony:—

"Whereas, on the sixteenth day of March last past, a complaint was made before George Warburton, Esquire, Clerk of Petty Sessions for the City of Sydney, for that one Edward Farbrother, “ Farbrother, of the said City, neglected and refused to pay to Philip Brown the sum of Six “ pounds sterling, due and owing to him for his hired services as a carpenter and joiner, and “ whereas afterwards, on the twenty-fourth day of March last, David Forbes and R. K. Wilson, “ Esquires, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said City and Colony, having “ considered the said complaint, it was adjudged that the said Edward Farbrother should “ for such his offence, forfeit and pay the sum of Six pounds sterling wages; and it was “ thereby ordered that if the said sum should not be paid on the thirty-first day of March,

 “ then instant, the same should be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the “ said Edward Farbrother; and it was thereby also adjudged, that in default of sufficient “ distress, the said Edward Farbrother should be imprisoned in the Gaol at Darlinghurst, in “ the said City and Colony, for the space of fourteen days, unless the said sum and all costs

It will be seen that this was a committal for fourteen days, unless money paid in less time. Your Petitioner at once told the officers at the Gaol, namely, Mr. Harrison and Mr.
 Lee, that the money and Court expenses had been paid on the Wednesday previous, but notwithstanding this your Petitioner was first searched and everything about his person taken from him; your Petitioner was then directed to sit on a stool, and the barber cut his hair close close and shaved off his beard—it should be mentioned that your Petitioner's beard was a very long one, about 5 inches long—and then your Petitioner was put into a yard with about sixty prisoners of the worst character; at half-past five your Petitioner was locked up in a cell with three other prisoners and was covered with lice and other vermin. On Monday morning your Petitioner was directed to pick oakum, which he peremptorily refused, and was then placed by Lee, the officer, in solitary confinement in a cell, where he remained until about three o'clock in the afternoon, when he was discharged by an order of the Police Magistrate, Mr. Forbes, copy of which order is as follows:—

“ To the Keeper of the Gaol at Darlinghurst:—

“ Whereas Edward Farbrother, of the said City, having paid the amount of debt and costs mentioned and set forth in a certain writ of capias, bearing date the                      day of April now last past: These are therefore to command you, in Her Majesty's name, that if the said Edward Farbrother do remain in your custody in the said Gaol, for the said cause and for no other, you shall forthwith suffer him to go at large.

“ J. H. BEVERLEY,

“ Principal Gaoler.”

It now becomes necessary to state the means by which such discharge was obtained. After your Petitioner was taken at his house on Sunday, his wife felt quite certain that on his getting to the station the mistake would be found out, and he would be discharged; but as he did not come home by seven o'clock in the evening, your Petitioner's wife went to the Central Police Office, and saw a policeman, who said he was not there, but he must be at the Brickfield Hill Station; that it was not any use her going there that evening, as nothing could be done till the morning, when your Petitioner would be brought to the Central Police Office at ten o'clock. Your Petitioner's wife being satisfied he would be discharged at ten o'clock the next morning, she looked most anxiously for his return, but as he did not come at eleven o'clock she went to the Central Police Court, and there saw the clerk (Mr. Smithers), and asked him concerning your Petitioner, who had been taken into custody on the day previous; when he replied, “yes, I am very sorry Mrs. Farbrother, I have just been speaking to Mr. Forbes, the Police Magistrate, about it, as he now lays in Gaol at Darlinghurst.” She then asked him what was to be done, as he was taken there as an innocent man, and falsely imprisoned, and that she wished him immediately released; that she had paid all expenses of the Court on the Wednesday previous, and that she wished to see the clerk Mr. Davidson, to whom Mr. Davidson paid it; but Mr. Smithers said Mr. Davidson was absent from illness. Mr. Smithers then went to the Inspector's Office with your Petitioner's wife, and saw the clerk Lubey, to whom Mr. Davidson had on the previous Wednesday given notice to withdraw the warrants, and then (in the presence of Mr. Higgins, the Inspector) inquired of him, the clerk, whether he did not recollect Mr. Davidson and your Petitioner's wife being there on the Wednesday previous, giving notice to withdraw the warrants. The clerk replied he did not remember your Petitioner's wife being there, but he remembered that Mr. Davidson came to him and said the debts were to be paid and the warrants cancelled, but he would not admit that Mr. Davidson had told him the debts and expenses were paid and warrants were to be withdrawn.

This, however, is beyond all doubt, and both Mr. Davidson and your Petitioner's wife can prove the fact. Mr. Smithers then asked Mr. Higgins, the Inspector, if he had heard anything of it on the Wednesday, and he said “No; if it had been reported to me I should have withdrawn the warrants the same evening.” Mr. Smithers then said he would immediately write out an order for your Petitioner's discharge, and get Mr. Forbes, the Police Magistrate, to sign it, and send off to the Gaol at Darlinghurst, and that her husband should be at home as soon as she was; this was about one o'clock, and at four your Petitioner was home, and his appearance was so altered that his wife scarcely knew him.

On Tuesday, the 3rd of May, your Petitioner placed all the facts before his solicitor, Mr. Husband, who went to the Police Office, found the two informations, with the receipt of Brown, of date 27th April, pinned to his information, and receipt of Burton pinned to his information, information, and also an entry in the police books under the same date of all fees on both cases having been that day paid. The clerks in the office considered they had done all they were bound to do when Mr. Davidson notified to Inspector Higgins's clerk, in the presence of your Petitioner's wife, that the matters were settled by payment of debts and Court expenses, and they all—that is, Mr. Warburton, the then chief clerk, and Mr. Smithers—said the whole blame was with Inspector Higgins's clerk.

Your Petitioner's solicitor, Mr. Husband, then went to Inspector Higgins's office, but the Inspector was not there, but the clerk Lubey was, and he still persisted that all Mr. Davidson had said was, that the debts were to be paid and the warrants cancelled. Mr. Husband then saw the Inspector General of Police, Mr. M'Lerie, who at once stated he knew all the circumstances, the same having been reported to him at half-past nine that morning, and that he had ordered the discharge of the clerk Lubey.

It would seem from Mr. M'Lerie's statement that Higgins, the Inspector, is under his control, and consequently, his clerk, but that all the other officers of the Central Police Court were under Mr. Forbes, the then Police Magistrate. The Police Court officers say the fault is with Inspector Higgins, who is answerable for his clerk. Mr. M'Lerie says the fault is at the Police Court; that they should have received the money and not allowed the parties to settle between themselves, and that they should have got from the Magistrate who granted the warrants an order to cancel or withdraw same.

Your Petitioner has been advised to bring actions against the Policeman, the clerk Lubey, and Mr. Beverly, but not having any means of his own, and being in pecuniary difficulties, he has been compelled to file his schedule in the Insolvent Court.

Your Petitioner, in laying before your Honorable House the facts hereinbefore set forth, begs respectfully to state that the same are in all respects true, and cannot in any one particular be denied, and he therefore most respectfully prays that you will be pleased to cause an investigation by your Honorable House into this case, and accord to your Petitioner such redress as under the circumstances you shall deem right, and your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

EDWARD FARBROTHER.

Legislative Assembly.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

RESIDENT JUDGE AT MORETON BAY.

(OPINIONS IN REFERENCE TO THE RIGHTS OF, AS A JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 8 December, 1859.

OPINION of THE HONORABLE THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, regarding MR. JUSTICE MILFORD'S position under the New Moreton Bay Court Act; and as regards jurisdiction elsewhere than in the District of Moreton Bay.

I am clearly of opinion, that under the new Moreton Bay Act, Mr. Justice Milford must, if he retains his office, be appointed the Resident Judge at Moreton Bay; and that he will, thereupon, become the Judge of the Supreme Court at Moreton Bay, under a Bill, "To provide for the better Administration of Justice in the District of Moreton Bay," and will cease to be a member of the Sydney Bench, and to have jurisdiction elsewhere than in the District of Moreton Bay.

2. His Honor was expressly appointed under the Act of 19 Vic., No. 31, which Act is recited in his Commission, and which alone authorized the appointment; and in such Commission he is appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, "subject to the provision in the said Act contained."

3. The provision referred to, is that contained in section 1 of the Act, and is in the following words,—“Provided that so soon as a separate Court shall have been established for the District of Moreton Bay, and it shall be deemed expedient that a Judge should be resident therein, it shall be lawful for the Governor to appoint the Judge hereby authorized to be appointed, to reside in the said district as the Resident Judge thereof.”

4. The liability to be made Judge of the separate Court was therefore inherent on the original appointment of this gentleman.

5. It will be observed that this Act is not framed in the same manner as that of 4 Vict., No. 22, under which the Resident Judge of Port Phillip was appointed. That Act, in one section, authorised the appointment of two additional Judges, (or one) of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, who were in no way distinguished from the other Judges; and then by another section, it empowered the Governor from time to time to appoint one of the Judges of the Supreme Court (i. e., any one of them indiscriminately), not being the Chief Justice, to reside in the District of Port Phillip. Whereas, the Act 19 Vic., No. 31, creates the new Judgeship expressly with the view to the ultimate appointment of the Judge as Judge for the District of Moreton Bay “exclusively,” or as Judge of “a separate Court for that District;” and such appointment is restricted to the individual Judge who shall have been appointed under that Act.

6. The new Act makes the matter, if possible, more clear, by marking distinctly the judicial separation of Moreton Bay from the rest of New South Wales, and making the Court of the District to be the Supreme Court for Moreton Bay, and independent of that of New South Wales, under the Bench at Sydney.

7. Mr. Milford therefore cannot claim an irrevocable jurisdiction over the whole of New South Wales as he insists, seeing that he was appointed expressly with a contrary intent.

8. It is further to be observed that the only salary and pension available are those provided by the Constitution Act "for Moreton Bay;" and that it is expressly enacted by 19 Vict., No. 31, that the Judge to be appointed under it is to be entitled to the salary and pension so provided for that part of the colony.

9. I apprehend that upon the separation of Moreton Bay this salary and pension would ipso facto be withdrawn from the New South Wales Civil List of which it now forms a part, but on the other hand it will be a charge upon the revenue of the separated district or colony, and will be payable to the Judge who shall have been duly appointed for the district under preceding law.

10. Upon such separation there would therefore be no salary available in New South Wales for the Judge appointed under 19 Vict., No. 31, nor would such Judge be in any sense a Judge of New South Wales. The separation would, so to speak, carry him with it to Moreton Bay, as a separate colony; whilst in Sydney, if he returned thither, he would be a supernumerary, both in respect of the number of Judges authorised for New South Wales, and in the number of salaries granted for such Judges.

11. Mr. Justice Milford need have no apprehension as to the recognition of his rights by the separated colony, for the terms of the Constitution Act, and of the Acts 19 Vict., and of the present session, distinctly annex his office, charge, and the burthen of his salary upon the district. In Victoria such was not the case, yet the Judge who was at the time resident in the district was as a matter of course recognised as the first Judge of the new colony, and was paid the same salary as under his original appointment.

12. I do not enter upon the question as to the operation of the Act lately passed for increasing the salaries of the Judges, further than to say that it does not in any degree affect Mr. Milford's claim to a seat on the Sydney Bench when separation takes place, and that if it will extend to him whilst holding office under the Acts of the last and present sessions as Judge of Moreton Bay, as a District of New South Wales, it will of course be recognized as applying to him as a Judge of the new colony when separated.

13. Mr. Milford cannot found a claim upon any misconception of his position when accepting office. As regards the expected political separation of Moreton Bay, he must be taken to have known that the several Constitution Acts of the colony reserved to the Queen the right of separation, and that the time of such separation was a matter which could not be foreknown by the local Government, and which therefore might happen at any time. And as regards his contemplated removal from the Sydney Bench, he not only had before him the Act under which he was appointed, and the guarded terms of his Commission, but he was most distinctly informed by letter from the Colonial Secretary, at the time of his appointment, that he was appointed for Moreton Bay, and was to hold himself in readiness to proceed to Brisbane as Resident Judge so soon as a separate Court should have been established for the district.

W. M. MANNING,

A. G.

January, 1857.

OPINION of THE HONORABLE THE SOLICITOR GENERAL in reference to MR. JUSTICE MILFORD'S position upon the separation of Moreton Bay, and as regards his claim for seat on Sydney Bench in event of another Judge being appointed.

It appears from the letter of His Honor Mr. Justice Milford, that he claims a right to be recalled to the Sydney Bench so soon as Moreton Bay shall be separated from New South Wales. It is clear, therefore, that if the office was given, and supposed to have been accepted on any different understanding, that supposition must be rejected, and the legal position only of His Honor must be considered in determining the question at issue.

2. It appears by the preamble of the 19 Vic., No. 31, that at the time of the passing of that Act it was "not expedient to authorize the appointment of a Resident Judge for "Moreton Bay exclusively," but additional Judicial assistance was needed to meet the requirements of the Supreme Court, and especially with reference to its jurisdiction over the District of Moreton Bay.

3. The first section gives power to appoint forthwith a Fourth Judge of the Supreme Court, who shall enjoy the salary and pension provided by the Constitution Act for an intended intended Judge, who shall be exclusively a Resident Judge for the District of Moreton Bay, and empowers the Governor General to appoint such Fourth Judge to be the Resident Judge of Moreton Bay so soon as a separate Court shall be established there, and it shall be expedient that there shall be a Resident Judge in that District which, by the 7th Section of the 13th and 14th Vic., cap. 59, and 46th section of the Constitution Act, could at any time be cut off from New South Wales and erected into a separate Colony, under a distinct Legislature.

4. It appears to me therefore that Mr. Justice Milford, having accepted his office upon the express condition that when expedient he should be appointed the resident exclusive Judge of Moreton Bay, with the contingency of separation, he has now a different tenure of office from that of the other Judges, and that if he shall be so appointed he will upon the separation of Moreton Bay cease to be a Judge of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, and will be bound by different laws, and subject to different authority; but in justice to that gentleman the tenure of his office must be,—first, that his guaranteed claim to salary and pension under the Constitution Act may not be prejudiced. The salary thus recognized is £1,500 a-year, and as on the separation of Moreton Bay he will cease to be a Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, his claim to the present increase of £500 as a matter of right will also cease.

5. It will be a matter of inter-colonial adjustment on the act of separation to define and assure the rights of the future Judge of Moreton Bay.

J. B. DARVALL,

OPINION.

We have perused Mr. Justice Lutwyche's letter of 1st November, 1859, the printed copy of the Commission to that learned Judge, dated 21st of February last, and the other papers laid before us, and are clearly of opinion that he has not now any jurisdiction to act as Judge in the Supreme Court at Sydney, nor will he have any such jurisdiction by force of the separation of the colony of Queensland. By his Commission he was appointed "to be a Judge of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, under and by virtue of, and subject to the provisions of the said Act of the Legislative Council of New South Wales, to reside in the district of Moreton Bay, as and to be the Resident Judge of the Supreme Court of Moreton Bay, established by the aforesaid Act of the Parliament of New South Wales, to have, hold, exercise, and enjoy the said office and place during good behaviour, together with all the rights, profits, privileges, and advantages thereto belonging or appertaining."

20 Vic., No. 25.

The Commission was issued under the Statutory powers given by 19 Vict., cap. 31, section 1, and 20 Vict., No 25, and could confer no jurisdiction except that specified by those Acts.

The area of jurisdiction is defined by the third section, and the powers in the fourth and subsequent sections of the latter Act.

Care is taken to exclude the Resident Judge so appointed from jurisdiction within the limits of the colony outside his own district (See Sections 5 and 10), and when by section 9 a concurrent jurisdiction is given, it is given to the Judges of the Supreme Court at Sydney and the Resident Judge respectively, shewing that the Resident Judge was not a Judge of the Supreme Court in the sense now contended for. No doubt under the 19th Vict., No. 31, Mr. Justice Milford, like the Judges appointed under the Port Philip Act 4 Vict., No. 22, sections 1 and 4, had jurisdiction beyond the district of Moreton Bay, with additional powers when within the district. Mr. Justice Lutwyche is the Resident Judge of a "separate Court" called the "Supreme Court at Moreton Bay," and while residing within the specified limits has the Jurisdiction before defined.

In the view that we have taken of the question before us it seems unnecessary to notice more particularly the authority referred to by Mr. Justice Lutwyche, or the Law as to conditions. Any question which may arise with reference to salary or pension will depend upon the mode in which Her Majesty has exercised Her powers to create the new colony, and the effect of the separation upon the law now in force in New South Wales.

Crown

Crown Law Offices,Sydney, 28 November, 1859.

SIR,

In reply to the question of His Excellency the Governor General with respect to Mr. Justice Lutwyche's Salary, referred to us by the Principal Secretary, we think it desirable to state the Sections of the Statute and Clauses of the Order in Council upon which it depends.

By the 20th Section of the Order in Council it is provided, "That all Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances, which at the time when this Order in Council shall come into operation shall be in force within the said Colony shall remain and continue to be of the same authority as if this Order in Council had not been made, except in so far as the same are repealed and varied hereby, and all the Courts of Civil and Criminal Jurisdiction within the said Colony, and all Charters, Legal Commissions, Powers and Authorities, and all Offices—Judicial, Administrative, or Ministerial—within the said Colony respectively, except so far as the same may be abolished, altered, or varied by, or may be inconsistent with the provisions of this Order, shall continue to subsist as if this Order had not been made, unless and until other provision shall be made as to any of the matters aforesaid by Act of the Legislature of Queensland."

This is substantially the same as Sections 41 and 42 of the Constitution Act (18 and 19 Vic. 54.)

The 16th Section of the Order in Council provides, "that such Salaries as are settled upon the Judges for the time being by law, and also such Salaries as shall or may be in future granted by Her Majesty, Her Heirs and Successors, or otherwise to any future Judge or Judges of the said Supreme Court, shall in all time coming be paid and payable to every such Judge and Judges for the time being, so long as the Patents or Commissions of them or any of them respectively shall continue or remain in force."

This is the same as the 40th Section of the Constitution Act.

Under the conjoint operation of these Clauses of the Order and Sections, we are of opinion that Mr. Justice Lutwyche is legally entitled to the continuance of the Salary of £2,000, under the 20 Vic., c. 3.

The only provision in the Order in Council that appears to bear against this view, is that part of the 21st clause, which provides "That the sum payable in every year to Her Majesty by way of Civil List shall not exceed in all six thousand four hundred pounds, and be applied towards defraying the expense;" and in the Schedule £1,200 is named.

We are of opinion that this does no more than limit the amount chargeable on the Civil List of Queensland, and cannot be extended by implication to take £800 per annum from the existing salary of Mr. Justice Lutwyche, to which he is entitled as a Judge under his Commission, which is continued in force notwithstanding the separation.

We have, &c.,

EDWARD WISE,

Attorney General.

MORETON BAY SUPREME COURT ACT.

---

THE RESIDENT JUDGE, MORETON BAY, to THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

*Judge's Chambers,
Brisbane, 12 July, 1859.*

SIR,

I do myself the honor to invite your attention to certain matters connected with the Administration of Justice in the District of Moreton Bay, for which a separate Jurisdiction was established by the Act 20 Vict., No. 25. I am induced to believe, from information collected during a residence of four months in the district, that some defects in that Act may be amended, and that its objects may be more effectually attained than at present, with very little difficulty and no greater expense than is incurred under existing arrangements.

2. You are well aware that the operation of the District Courts Act of 1858, is now limited to that portion of the Colony of New South Wales which is locally situate within the jurisdiction of the Judges of the Supreme Court, at Sydney. The southern division is provided with three Superior Judges, and five Judges of Inferior Courts. In the District of Moreton Bay, as defined by the 3rd section of the Act 20 Vict., No. 25, there is but one Judge, between whom and the Courts of Petty Sessions there is no intermediate authority. The powers with which the Resident Judge is invested seem, however, sufficient for the requirements of the population, if an opportunity were afforded for a more frequent exercise of those powers. He has within his District the same Jurisdiction which is exercised by the Judges of the Supreme Court at Sydney either collectively or individually, and further he tries, without a Jury, all Civil actions for matters not exceeding £20, and also for matters not exceeding £50, unless one of the parties require a Jury. But, at present, the Resident Judge can only hold Sittings at Brisbane, and thither accordingly are sent for trial all matters, both Criminal and Civil, which cannot be dealt with by a Justice of the Peace, or by Courts of Petty Sessions.

3. It is unnecessary to expatiate upon the inconvenience, and even hardship, to which this arrangement exposes individuals residing at a distance from Brisbane. The evils attendant upon it are succinctly and temperately stated in a letter (of which a copy is enclosed) addressed to me by the inhabitants of Wide Bay, under an evident misapprehension of the scope of my authority. With existing means of communication, and with one person to discharge the duties of the Judicial Office, some of these evils will, no doubt, continue to be felt in a greater or less degree; but it appears to me that their pressure may be much alleviated by the adoption of the following scheme, which I beg to submit to the favorable consideration of yourself and the Government.

4. In addition to the Sittings held in Brisbane, Civil and Criminal Sittings might, in my opinion, be held four times a-year at Ipswich, and half-yearly at Drayton, or Towoomba, in the south of the district, and at Maryborough, in the north, without unduly interfering with the business of the Supreme Court.

5. Ipswich is a town of nearly equal, if not of equal, importance to Brisbane itself, and, being within a circuit of thirty miles around Brisbane, comprises a portion of the juror's district for the last-mentioned town, pursuant to the provisions of the 4th section of the Act 11 Vict., No. 20. It is, therefore, now compelled to furnish its quota of jurors for the trial of Civil and Criminal Issues at Brisbane, and not an Assize passes without Ipswich causes and Ipswich criminals being tried by a jury partly consisting of Ipswich men at Brisbane. A considerable saving, therefore, to the public—probably one-half of the present amount of allowances to jurors, and of witnesses' expenses in criminal cases—would be made if criminals could be tried by the Resident Judge at Ipswich, as well as at Brisbane, while there would be a positive gain in time and convenience to all parties concerned in civil as well as in criminal matters. There is communication between the two towns both by land and water. The road may be fairly said to be at all times passable on horseback, and steamers, though liable to occasional detention, ply daily. A large and commodious Court House, one of the best, if not the very best, in the Colony, is now near completion, and will probably be ready for use in the course of the ensuing month; and, if any difficulty should arise with respect to the custody of prisoners before trial, in consequence of the want of sufficient prison accommodation at Ipswich, the difficulty might easily be overcome by forwarding them for safe custody to Brisbane, whence they could be brought up to Ipswich by the steamer for trial as they were wanted, and whither they might be sent back again so soon as each day's proceedings were concluded. Upon the whole, therefore, I feel great confidence in recommending that the Town of Ipswich be immediately appointed by Proclamation one of the places at which Sittings of the Court shall be holden, in accordance with the authority vested in the Governor by the 27th section of the Act 20 Vict., No. 25.

6. I venture also to recommend that Sittings should be held half-yearly, at Maryborough in the north, and at Drayton or Toowoomba in the south of this District. I have not yet been able to reach either of those places, and it is possible that some local difficulties may exist of which I am not at present informed; but as the proposed arrangement, if approved of by the Executive Government, cannot be carried into effect until the early part of next year, sufficient time it is hoped will be afforded for the removal of any difficulties of the kind referred to.

7. Maryborough is generally reached by steamer from Brisbane in two days; it is only seventy miles from Gayndah, a town which is the centre of important pastoral districts, and can be readily communicated with either from Gladstone or Rockhampton. According to a statement contained in the enclosed letter, there is a Court House at Maryborough, which, with a few alterations, would suit the purposes for which an Assize Court is held. Some provision would probably have to be made for the confinement of prisoners previous to trial, but it is conceived that arrangements for such an object might be made without involving either much loss of time or much expenditure of money.

8. In reference to holding sittings of the Court at Drayton or Toowoomba, there are, it must be confessed, several difficulties to be considered, but none which appear to me to be insuperable. The road from Ipswich to the top of the Range is a very bad one in bad weather, but is not described to be absolutely impassable at any time, and although there is no Court House at either Drayton or Toowoomba, which is at present fit for the contemplated object, a temporary wooden structure might be erected, which would answer until a more substantial building could take its place. There would undoubtedly be a difficulty, and no trifling one, in the transport of prisoners, after trial, to their appointed place of confinement, but I doubt not that means would be found by the Government to ensure their safe escort.

9. If the Government should approve of the views which I have the honor to lay before you, and should desire to carry into effect the foregoing recommendations, there will be no occasion for fresh legislation. The provisions of the Jury Act, 11 Vict., No. 20, and of the Moreton Bay Court Act, 20 Vict., No. 25, will, I apprehend, suffice. But it will be necessary to resort to the action of Parliament to remove two defects in the latter Act, which must have been caused by an oversight.

10. The Registration of Deeds and other Instruments in the Office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court, at Moreton Bay, is confined to such as affect land. (See sections 29, 30, and 31.) Liens on wool, and mortgages of sheep, cattle, and horses, continue, therefore, to be registered at Sydney. The practical evils which result from this to the inhabitants of a District whose interests are chiefly pastoral, need not be pointed out. And, as Bills of Sale of personal chattels generally are required by the Act 19 Vict., No. 2, to be filed within the office of the Supreme Court at Sydney, creditors in this District are entirely deprived of the protection which, as the preamble states, it was the object of that Act to afford.

I have, &c.,

ALFRED P. LUTWYCHE.

THE HONORABLE

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL,
Sydney.

[Enclosure.]

[Enclosure.]

Maryborough, 10 June, 1859.

We, the undersigned, inhabitants of Wide Bay, respectfully beg to call your attention to the urgent necessity we conceive to exist for establishing a Circuit Court at Maryborough.

We know by painful experience that a large number of Criminal Cases are overlooked or allowed to go unpunished, because a prosecution entails so much expense and loss of time; and the amount of losses in business submitted to from the want of a Tribunal to decide Civil Cases is of very serious extent.

We have seen in the public prints that it is your Honor's intention to establish Circuit Courts in various places, and without wishing that any other place should be overlooked or neglected we believe Maryborough has strong claims to such a benefit, and trust you will give these claims full consideration.

The town of Maryborough is the only port for the large extent of country between Brisbane and Gladstone, and with the immediate District of Wide Bay alone contains a population of upwards of a thousand inhabitants, to most of whom justice is practically denied in consequence of the expense and loss of time which an attendance at the Court of Brisbane necessarily involves.

The expense to Government in petty cases is very great, through having to forward all prisoners to Brisbane, of whom many escape conviction in consequence of the non-appearance of witnesses against them. The mileage paid those witnesses who do attend is for 280 miles, but this amount, though heavy on the revenue, is totally inadequate as a remuneration, and witnesses frequently brave the penalties of the law rather than undertake the journey.

Within the past year a very excellent Court House has been built in Maryborough, which, at a very trifling expense in fittings for Jury Box, &c., would afford ample accommodation for all purposes required.

Not only to the Wide Bay District but also to Gladstone and Port Curtis would a Court here be a great benefit, as the latter places would have only about half the distance to send their prisoners which they now have; and arrangements might, we believe, be easily made for a steamer to convey witnesses and suitors from those places—while arrangements for the passage of the Judge and Bar from Brisbane by steamer could be easily effected.

In conclusion, we have only to state our belief that nowhere could a Court be established which will place law and justice more easily accessible to such a numerous population, or to so large an extent of country, and trust that your Honor will take means to ascertain the truth of the assertions contained in this Memorial.

We are, &c.,

JOHN PURSER.

Legislative Assembly.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

ERECTION OF A GAOL AT ARMIDALE.

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 14 June, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Landholders, Householders, and others resident in the Town and District of Armidale,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That the establishment of District Courts has rendered necessary the erection of Gaols in such localities as are likely to become centres of large communities.

That this principle has been assented to by your Honorable House, as evinced by a vote passed some length of time since, for the purpose of providing funds for the erection of a Gaol at Armidale.

That tenders were at one time called for for this purpose, but nothing further done, on the ground, as your Petitioners believe, that the plans were found to require amendment.

That, some time since, a Petition was forwarded to the late Honorable the Principal Secretary, urging the speedy erection of the Gaol at Armidale, and pointing to the fact that at that time there were some five or six prisoners awaiting trial who, from the deficiency of space in the present lock-up, were of necessity kept in confinement in cells, thereby actually making the unfortunate men to endure a severer punishment before trial than they would have to undergo after conviction; because then they would have been removed to a gaol where airing yards and other conveniences are provided.

Your Petitioners need not invite attention to the injury and injustice this confinement would entail on any man who might on his trial be declared innocent of the charge preferred against him; and, as Courts of Quarter Sessions are only held twice a year, should it so happen that an innocent man, from any unforeseen combination of circumstances, was to be committed for trial immediately after the termination of one Court, he would then be compelled to endure this dreadful punishment—confinement in a cell—for the space of six months.

Your Petitioners believe that the present is a very favorable time to commence the erection of the Gaol. Materials for building purposes are cheaper now than they have been for years past; there are a number of tradesmen now engaged on the erection of the Court House, who will be ready to transfer their services to any other public work in a few weeks hence; and there are competent men in the town to undertake the performance of a public work of this character. Although it may not be considered as directly bearing on the subject of this Petition, yet your Petitioners cannot refrain from inviting attention to the fact, that from the successful nature of operations now proceeding with at the Rocky River Gold Fields (some thirteen miles from Armidale), there are the most sanguine expectations that a vast Gold Field will in a very short time be opened up between Armidale and the Rocky; and should this take place there will be an immense increase of population. This would create an increased amount of criminal business, and if the means at present provided for prison accommodation are found to be so utterly inadequate to the present requirements of the place, it is needless to point to the fearful and wretched state of affairs that would arise on the happening of such an event as above referred to.

Your Petitioners, therefore, respectfully urge your Honorable House to take the premises into your consideration, and, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

WORK DONE ON PRIVATE ACCOUNT IN DARLINGHURST &amp; PARRAMATTA GAOLS.

(CORRESPONDENCE AND RETURNS IN REFERENCE TO.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 21 December, 1859.

THE SHERIFF to THE PRINCIPAL UNDER SECRETARY.

Sheriff's Office,Sydney, 16 December, 1859.

SIR,

In accordance with the request contained in your letter, dated the 5th instant, I have the honor to forward herewith a Return of work done on private account by the prisoners in Darlinghurst and Parramatta Gaols, respectively, from 1st January last to date of Return.

Also, letters in explanation of these Returns.

I have, &amp;c.,

THE PRINCIPAL UNDER SECRETARY.

JOHN O'NEIL BRENNAN,
Sheriff.

THE PRINCIPAL GAOLER to THE SHERIFF.

H. M. Gaol, Darlinghurst,15 December, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor herewith to transmit a Return of the amount of Work done on Private Account by the Prisoners in this Gaol since the 1st January last, as called for by the Colonial Secretary's letter of the 5th instant; I have also added a Return of all Work done for the Officers of the Prison during the same period.

With reference to the second paragraph of the Colonial Secretary's letter, requesting a Return shewing the number of applications made to have work done during the same period, distinguishing the applications refused, &c., I beg to state that, with the exception of needlework, on no occasion has any description of work that it was possible to employ the prisoners at ever been refused; on the contrary, it has been my constant endeavor to keep the confines here employed, and it is even on my personal solicitation that a great deal of the work here accounted for has been sent to the Gaol.

The reason why I have been compelled sometimes to refuse needlework has been the want of female prisoners fit to be put to that description of work; this is frequently the case; even at the present time, though there are 105 female prisoners in the Gaol, there is only one able to make an ordinary article of clothing without assistance. To account for this, I may remark, it has been noticed that females, who on their first convictions were good needlewomen, have by their continued habits of drunkenness and dissipation become unable to do any work requiring more care or skill than picking hair or oakum. This class form a very great majority of the females confined in this Prison, and their short sentences do not always afford them time to recover sufficiently from the effects of their intemperance to enable them to be employed even at this work, therefore, the greater part of their sentences are passed in recovering from their dissipation, in many cases under medical treatment, and they are consequently unfit for any employment whatever.

I have, &amp;c.,

J. H. BEVERLEY,

Principal Gaoler.

FOR THE SHERIFF.

H. M. Gaol, Darlinghurst,
15 December, 1859.

J. H. BEVERLEY,
Principal Gaoler.

NOTE.—The difference between the "estimated value" and the sums "actually paid," in the foregoing account, will be paid at, or soon after, the expiration of the present month, except Mrs. Webster's, for which no charge has been made. When giving evidence before a Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly, of which Mr. Cowper was Chairman, I mentioned, that in consequence of Mrs. Webster's large family, and her late husband having filled the situation of Principal Gaoler, she had been allowed, partially, to continue the privilege, enjoyed during her husband's lifetime, of having work done by the prisoners, and this privilege has been confined to making articles of children's clothing.

JOHN O'NEIL BRENNAN,
Sheriff.

The prices here charged are less than paid by private parties. Previous to 1856, the Officers of the Establishment had this work done gratis; but it has since been deemed advisable to make some charge in order to keep a check on the quantity of work, and prevent any abuse of the privilege. The Principal Gaoler and Principal Turnkey are resident Officers, and have always been allowed the use of prison labor.

GAOLER, PARRAMATTA GAOL, to THE SHERIFF.

H. M. Gaol, Parramatta,
15 December, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit, by this day's post, the two Returns called for by your letter of the 7th instant, forwarding me a copy of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary's letter of the 5th December on the subject. In doing so, I think it right to inform you that the Officers of this Establishment had the privilege (granted them by the late Visiting Justice) of getting boots, as they required them for their own use, from those made for sale by auction, for which they were charged the prices realized at such sales by those of the same description as were selected by them. The boots got by them in that way do not appear in this Return.

I have, &amp;c.,

THOMAS ALLEN,
Gaoler.

THE SHERIFF.

A RETURN, shewing the amount of work done by the Prisoners confined in Parramatta Gaol, from the 1st January to the 30th November, 1859; specifying the Names of Persons for whom such work was done, and in each case the Quantity, Estimated Value, and Sums Actually Paid for the same.

* By permission given by the Sheriff on the 8th September, 1859, this work was allowed to be done for the Officers of the Establishment, or their families, and charged for at the rate of two-thirds of that for which they could be actually got or made for if ordered at the shops of persons in the various trades. Even at these rates, the boots made for them was not less than the average price obtained for them by auction.

POLICE AND HACKNEY CARRIAGE REGULATIONS.

No. 1.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF POLICE to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

*Office of Inspector General of Police,
Sydney, 31 January, 1860.*

SIR,

In compliance with the instructions contained in your letter of yesterday's date, I have the honor to enclose copies of the Regulations for the guidance of the Metropolitan Police and Mounted Patrols,—the only branches of the Police of the Colony subject to the control of this Department.

2. I am not aware of the existence of any Regulations, or Instructions, for the "abatement of the Dog nuisance in Sydney and the chief towns of the Colony," with the exception of the Act of Council 6th Wm. IV., No. 4.

I have, &c.,

JNO. M'LERIE,

Inspector General of Police.

THE PRINCIPAL

UNDER SECRETARY.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 1.]

*Office of the Inspector General of Police,
Sydney, 18 March, 1853.*

The following Rules, Regulations, &c., for the Metropolitan Police Force, having been approved by His Excellency the Governor General, are to be strictly observed.

W. C. MAYNE,

Inspector General of Police.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

THE following Instructions for the use of the Constabulary are published for the information and guidance of every member of the establishment.

2. It is impossible to give precise directions for the execution of every duty which the police may be required to perform, or to anticipate every difficulty which the members of the establishment may have to encounter, as, from the nature of the service, its duties must vary, and, consequently, the mode of execution must vary with them, and be directed by the circumstances of each particular case: each and every member of the force should therefore endeavor to become acquainted with the nature of every duty which he may be called on to execute, and by individual zeal, energy, discretion, and intelligence, make every effort to supply the unavoidable deficiency of general instructions.

3. The officers and men of the establishment will, however, be held strictly responsible for the execution and observance of all orders and regulations, from which they are not to deviate, except when the circumstances of the case may require, and thereby justify their so doing. And they will be held equally accountable for their own acts and orders in such cases as may not or cannot be provided for by these instructions.

4. In the performance of their duty they are distinctly to understand that their efforts should be principally directed to the prevention of crime, which will tend far more effectually towards the security of person and property than the punishment of those who have violated the laws:—and the very best evidence that can be given of the efficiency of the Police is the absence of crime.

5. The Inspector General is particularly desirous in the outset to impress on every member of the force, from the highest to the lowest, how very incumbent it is on them to act in the discharge of their various duties with the utmost forbearance, mildness, urbanity, and perfect civility towards all classes; and that upon no occasion or under any provocation should they so far forget themselves as to permit their feelings to get the better of their discretion, and conduct themselves rudely or harshly in the performance of their respective offices: for nothing will serve more to create a kindly feeling and cause the force to be looked up to and respected than a mild, conciliatory, moral, and decorous line of conduct, and and a general readiness on the part of all classes to render kindness or assistance to every member of the community;—whilst an opposite course and bearing can only engender an angry and hostile feeling towards the members of the force, and consequently bring the establishment into disrepute. A police force can only obtain complete success with the general support of the community. The efficiency of the action of any such force must depend upon the extent of its information, and it is deprived of the most extensive and valuable portion of the available information when it loses the confidence, forfeits the respect, or fails to engage the good feelings of the community in which it acts.

6. Both officers and men are studiously to observe a strict impartiality and neutrality in political matters, and in questions exciting partisanship.

7. The members of the force are placed in a totally different position from that which they occupied as private individuals. They become peace officers, and are in an entirely new situation: they are, by law, entrusted with certain powers which they must exercise with great caution and prudence, and it is most essential that they keep under complete control their private feelings. It is totally inconsistent with the situation in which the law and their office place them that they enter into altercations or squabbles of any kind;—if wantonly assaulted they have a legal power to arrest the assailant, or, if that be imprudent or impossible at the time, to take proceedings against him afterwards. Altercation or squabbling are altogether inadmissible in a peace officer—he can avoid them and must do so. There must be two parties in an altercation, and nothing can justify a constable in being one of them or joining one of them. On all occasions in which men of the force are placed under circumstances tending to create feelings of irritation, they should maintain the utmost self-possession, self-control, and calmness.

8. Every member of the establishment should bear constantly in mind how essential it is to cultivate a proper regard for the honor and respectability of the force, and should be governed by the principle, that the more they can raise those above or below them in public estimation, the more they elevate their own official position, and with it the general character of the establishment.

9. As none but zealous and efficient officers and men can be retained in the service, it will become the imperative duty of the Inspector General to remove from it any member of the force who may be guilty of any neglect or omission of duty, or disobedience of any order or regulation. On the other hand, it will afford him pleasure to promote and reward those who are in every respect active, attentive, and zealous in the performance of the respective duties of the service.

DISCIPLINE.

10. Discipline, which implies authority and its proper exercise on the one hand, and respect and obedience on the other, is essential to the practical direction, action, and efficiency of any force.

11. As authority necessarily becomes divided, gradations of rank must be established, the holders of each of which, while exercising command over subordinates, must pay respect to superiors; this principle holds throughout, until we reach that grade whose simple duty is proper respect to all in command, and prompt and unvarying obedience to their orders.

12. As responsibility for the full discharge of his own peculiar duties at all times attaches to every member of a disciplined force, it is necessary that each should know, as precisely as it is possible to define them, what those duties are, in order to ensure a correct and cheerful discharge of them; but further, as the responsibility attaching to a superior may at any time devolve on the next in rank, it is essential that the members of each grade shall be acquainted with the duties that circumstances may call on them to discharge, in order to guard against injury to the public service.

13. Every subordinate, whether officer or constable, is to receive the lawful commands of his superior with deference and respect, and to execute them to the best of his power; and every superior, in his turn, is to give his orders in the language of moderation and of regard to the feelings of the individuals under his command.

14. The obedience and respect which are here required must be observed throughout the force generally, and not be understood in any partial or confined sense; real discipline, as has been already observed, implies obedience and respect wherever it is due on one hand, and on the other a just but energetic use of command and responsibility.

15. Every officer and constable must understand that it is an invariable rule in discipline that, in the absence of a superior, the whole of the duty or charge which was entrusted to that superior devolves upon the next in rank, so that the chain of responsibility may continue unbroken.

METROPOLITAN POLICE DISTRICT.

16. The Metropolitan Police District is bounded on the north and north-west by Broken Bay and Cowan Creek; on the west by lines bearing south-westerly and south, dividing Hyndes' Grant to Lane Cove River, thence by the east side of that River and Cove to the Parramatta River, crossing that river, thence by the south side of that river upwards to the west boundary of the parish of Concord, thence by the western boundaries of that parish and the parish of St. George; on the south by George's River and the south shore of Botany Bay to Cape Solander, and thence by the waters of the ocean to the entrance of Broken Bay aforesaid; and including all islands in Port Jackson and the Parramatta River.

LOCAL DIVISIONS.

17. The police district is formed into police divisions; the divisions into beats. When practicable, the divisions will be formed into sub-divisions and sections.

POLICE AND HACKNEY CARRIAGE REGULATIONS.

18. The limits of the divisions and beats are clearly defined; each beat is numbered, and the number entered in a book kept for reference. Attention has been paid to local and other circumstances in determining the limits of each of these, which may vary in extent.

19. The harbor forms a separate division.

20. Each division has an appropriate local name, and is also designated by a letter of the alphabet, as A, or division; B, or division.

21. There is, in every division, one or more station-houses, placed as conveniently for the whole as may be, according to circumstances; the duty of the division is carried on from one of the stations.

METROPOLITAN POLICE FORCE.—ORGANIZATION AND NUMBERS.

22. The Police Force consists of—

- The Inspector General,
- 1 Superintendent,
- 1 Chief Inspector,
- Inspectors,
- Sergeants,
- Constables.

23. The numbers of each rank, and of the constables, are fixed by the Legislature. Constables also may be appointed by the Inspector General for particular duties, in various parts of the district, at the desire of parties by whom they are paid.

24. Each division has—Inspectors,—Sergeants, and—Police Constables, the Inspector having charge.

25. Each sergeant and constable has marked upon the collar of his coat the letter of his division, and a number, so that he can at all times be known to the public.

26. The first numbers in each division denote the sergeants, and those following the constables.

27. The men of the A division are attached to the Central Police Office; the Detective Force forms a branch of it.

28. The Water Police, performing the duty in the Harbor, consists of—

- 1 Chief Inspector,
- Inspectors,
- Constables;

these are divided into three boats' crews, an Inspector being in charge of each boat.

29. The Sydney Mounted Patrol forms a part of the Metropolitan Police Force, and consists of—

- 1 Sergeant,
- 1 Corporal,
- Troopers,
- Horses.

30. A van is provided for the conveyance of prisoners from and to the gaol; two constables are appointed to it for the safe custody of the prisoners and driving.

MEDICAL.

31. A medical officer is attached to the force.

CANDIDATES.

32. All applications for admission into the Police are to be made to the Inspector General or to the Metropolitan Superintendent.

QUALIFICATIONS.

33. The following qualifications are indispensable:—

- 1st. To be under 40 years of age.
- 2nd. To read and write.
- 3rd. To be free from any bodily complaint, of a strong constitution, and generally suitable and intelligent, according to the judgment of the medical officer by whom the candidate will be examined.

CONDITIONS.

34. The conditions upon which each constable is admitted into the police force are stated here, that no reason for complaint may exist upon their being enforced. It is to be understood at the same time that the power is reserved to the Inspector General, subject to the approbation of His Excellency the Governor General, to alter or annul any of these conditions, and, also, to make such new rules as may be found expedient:—

1. Each constable shall devote his whole time to the police service; he must not carry on any trade or calling; nor can his wife be allowed to keep a shop.
2. He shall serve and reside wherever he is ordered.
3. He is to appear in his police dress at all times, unless when leave is given him to wear plain clothes.
4. He shall promptly obey all lawful orders which he may receive from the persons placed in authority over him.

POLICE AND HACKNEY CARRIAGE REGULATIONS.

5. He shall conform himself to all the regulations which may be made, from time to time, for the good of the service.
6. Such debts, owing by him, as the Inspector General shall direct to be paid shall be paid by him forthwith.
7. He shall not, upon any occasion, or under any pretence whatsoever, take money or any gratuity from any person without the express permission of the Inspector General.
8. He shall receive his pay each Saturday for the week ending on that day.
9. A deduction of one shilling per diem will be made from his pay from the date in which he is certified, by the medical officer of the police, sick and unfit for duty (except in certain cases), until again certified by him fit for duty.
10. A deduction of two shillings a-week is to be made from his pay, if unmarried, when lodgings are found for him. This does not apply to the men of the mounted patrols who are necessarily quartered close to their horses.
11. If married, when lodgings are found, an agreement will be made in each particular case.
12. He shall not resign, withdraw, or absent himself from his duties unless allowed to do so, in writing, by the Inspector General, or unless he shall have given to the Inspector General three months previous notice.
13. If he resign, withdraw, or absent himself without such leave, or before the expiration of such notice, he is liable to payment of a penalty of ten pounds, or, in default, to imprisonment with hard labor for three months.
14. Each police constable is liable to immediate dismissal for unfitness, negligence, or misconduct, independently of any other punishment to which he may, by law, be subject.
15. A certificate of good conduct in the police service will not be given by the Inspector General under the following circumstances :—
  1. If the party shall have been dismissed the service.
  2. If he shall have been frequently guilty of misconduct or negligence, although of a light nature.
  3. If he shall have been guilty of any misconduct or neglect of a serious nature.
  4. If he shall have served less than twelve months in the police.
  5. If the certificate shall not be applied for within six months after the the party has left the police service.
16. If he be dismissed the Police Force, the whole of his pay then due, or unpaid, is forfeited.
17. Every constable dismissed from the Police Force, or who shall resign his situation, shall, before he quits the service, deliver up every article of dress and appointments which have been supplied to him : if any of such articles or appointments have been, in the opinion of the Inspector General, improperly used or damaged, a deduction from any pay due to the party shall be made, sufficient to make good the damage, or supply a new article.
18. A police constable guilty of any neglect or violation of duty is liable to a penalty of five pounds, besides such other punishment as the Inspector General may award.

CONSTABLES.—APPOINTMENT.

35. The constables are appointed by the Inspector General, and sworn in by him or by the Metropolitan Superintendent.

36. Upon the application of any person, shewing the necessity thereof, the Inspector General may appoint any additional number of constables to keep the peace at any place within the City of Sydney, and the Metropolitan District, at the charge of the person or persons by whom the application has been made, but subject to the orders of the Metropolitan Superintendent, and for such time as the Inspector General shall think fit; and such constables shall have all the powers, privileges, and duties of other constables belonging to the Metropolitan Police Force.

JURISDICTION AND POWERS.

37. The inspectors, sergeants, and constables belonging to the Metropolitan Police Force have all the powers and privileges of a constable in all parts of the Colony of New South Wales.

PROMOTION.

38. All vacancies in the ranks above the constable, including that of the Chief Inspector, will, as far as practicable, be filled up by promotion from the next inferior rank. The Metropolitan Superintendent will recommend to the Inspector General the individual whom he considers in all respects best qualified, and the promotion will be made by the Inspector General, if he shall think fit, upon such recommendation.

EXTRAORDINARY EXPENSES.

39. Extraordinary expenses necessarily incurred by the police in apprehending offenders and executing orders, will be paid, the accounts being first examined and approved by the Inspector General.

CLOTHING.

CLOTHING.

40. The following articles of uniform clothing, &c., are supplied to each inspector, sergeant, and constable:—

First Year.

- 1 great coat.
- 1 cape.
- 1 coat.
- 2 pairs trousers.
- 2 pairs boots.
- 1 hat.
- 1 stock.
- 1 armlet.
- 1 button stick and brush.

Second Year.

- 1 coat.
- 2 pairs trousers.
- 2 pairs boots.
- 1 hat.

41. Each police constable is supplied with a staff, and a book of instructions relative to his duty.

42. Each inspector and acting inspector is supplied with a staff and one pistol.

43. Handcuffs are supplied to each division, and deposited at the different police stations, to be issued to the constables when required.

44. Cutlasses will be supplied to constables on duty during the night, in unfrequented and dangerous places, when requisite for the protection of the constable, and to enable him to perform his duty efficiently.

SUPERANNUATION ALLOWANCE AND GRATUITIES ON LEAVING THE SERVICE.

45. The following are the conditions of superannuation, and the gratuities in certain cases, provided by the Act, 16 Victoria, No. 33, sections 19 and 20:—

"XIX. The conditions and proportions of such allowance, remuneration, or superannuation shall be as follows, that is to say: where any person applying for the same shall be under sixty years of age, it shall not be lawful to grant any such allowance, compensation, remuneration, or superannuation, unless as hereinafter provided, or upon certificate from some legally qualified Medical Practitioner, duly appointed in that behalf by the Governor, that such person is incapable, from infirmity of mind or body, to discharge the duties of his office, in which case, if he shall have served with diligence and fidelity for fifteen years, and less than twenty years, it shall be lawful to grant to him, by way of superannuation, an annual sum not exceeding one-half of the salary of his office; if above twenty years and less than twenty-five years, any sum not exceeding two-thirds of such salary; if above twenty-five years and less than thirty years, any such sum not exceeding three-fourths of such salary; and if above thirty years, any such sum not exceeding the whole of such salary; and if such person shall be above sixty years of age, and he shall have served fifteen years and less than twenty years, it shall be lawful, although there shall be no certificate of incapacity from infirmity or injury of body or mind, to grant him by way of superannuation, any annual sum not exceeding one-half of the salary of his office; if he shall have served twenty years and less than twenty-five years, any sum not exceeding two-thirds of such salary; if he shall have served twenty-five years, and less than thirty years, any sum not exceeding three-fourths of such salary; and if he shall have served thirty years or upwards, any sum not exceeding the whole of such salary; and if any member of the force shall be disabled by any wound or injury received in the actual execution of the duty of his office, it shall be lawful to grant him such yearly allowance or remuneration as may in the opinion of the Governor be proportioned to the nature of the injury received, without reference to the length of his service; provided that such allowance or remuneration shall in no case exceed the whole of such salary; and that in calculating the period for which any such person has served, the time he may have served in the police of this Colony previously to the passing of this Act shall be reckoned.

"XX. It shall be lawful for the Governor to order that a gratuity not exceeding one month's pay for each year's service, shall be paid to any officer or other member of the police force, who shall be duly certified to be unfit for service, and to have served with diligence and fidelity for any number of years not exceeding ten; and a further gratuity of two months' pay for each year he shall have served exceeding ten years, and not exceeding fifteen years."

46. The case of each member leaving the force and entitled to pension or gratuity, is submitted to a Board, who report on the particular merits, and, subject to the provisions of the Act, recommend to His Excellency the Governor General the amount to be awarded.

PAY.

47. The rates of pay of the several ranks are fixed by vote of the Legislature.

48. The inspectors, sergeants, and constables are paid weekly, each Saturday.

FOR SPECIAL DUTIES WITHIN POLICE DISTRICT.

49. When any of the police are wholly employed on special duties within the police district, for public bodies or others, their pay and expenses are defrayed by those who require their services.

50. In cases where special services are rendered by the police, and considered deserving of gratuity or reward from the parties at whose request or for whose benefit they are performed, the amount is to be paid into the hands of the Metropolitan Superintendent for distribution among the men engaged, or to the Inspector General for the Police Reward Fund.

51. A deduction of two per cent. is made from all pay for the Superannuation Fund, according to the provisions of the law.

OUTLINE OF GENERAL DUTY.

52. The general duty in Sydney is to be carried on under a system of reliefs, arranged by the Metropolitan Superintendent according to change of season, and circumstances of local or other nature.

53. The station-houses and divisions are to be visited by the chief inspector, as directed by the rules laid down for his guidance.

54. Each sergeant will have a particular part of the division, and each constable a beat appropriated to him.

55. A reserve, when practicable, will be kept at the station-house to supply occasional absences, and to be ready for such duties as may be required there, and the constables will, in turn, as far as is possible, be left at such reserve.

56. In case any constable shall be absent from sickness or any other cause, his place will be supplied from the reserve.

57. If from sickness of the constables, or any other cause, the reserve constables at the division station be required for duty, on the beats or elsewhere, their places must be supplied by the constables of the relief going off duty; when this becomes necessary, the reserve, composed of the constables going off duty, are to take their rest at the station, as far as circumstances will permit.

58. The chief inspector or senior inspector of the division is to name the constables who are to remain at the station from the off-going relief, when that is required.

59. The men who are off duty are to consider themselves liable to be called on at all times, and will always prepare themselves, when required, at the shortest notice.

60. A certain number, if so ordered, must sleep in their clothes, to be in complete readiness when called on.

61. The men of the relief for duty will individually assemble at the division station, before or precisely at the hour fixed for that purpose in the orders, and will form, in order, in their respective parties. Their names will be called, and an inspection made by the sergeants, to ascertain that they are all perfectly sober, and correctly dressed and appointed; each man will have a white striped badge on the arm above the left wrist. The object of this badge is to prevent the complaints that may be made by the public on seeing those of the police force who are not on duty walking or talking together; and to render it easy for the public to recognise the constables on dark nights when their assistance is required.

62. The names of the men will be entered in a book at the division station; and opposite the names will be the number of the respective beats.

63. The inspector or sergeant on duty at the station will then read and explain, if necessary, the orders of the day, if there be any; and the men will be marched off to their respective stations by the sergeant.

64. There will be an inspector, or other officer, on duty at the station-house at all times, receiving the reports of the visiting sergeants, so as frequently to hear from them the state of all parts of the division, to receive charges, complaints, and all applications for assistance, &c.

65. At the hour of relieving the men, no one shall leave his beat until the relief has actually arrived on the beat; the constable relieved will then go to the station or to a particular spot appointed in each division for that purpose. When all the relieved party are assembled, they are to be inspected in the same manner as when going on duty, to ascertain whether they are sober and correctly dressed, as when posted, previous to being dismissed.

66. The inspectors will each send in at o'clock in the morning to the office of the Metropolitan Superintendent, a report and return, according to prescribed forms, detailing the occurrences of the night within his division; and will also send all persons given in charge or apprehended in the night, under the care of police constables, to the Central Police Office.

67. A sufficient number of police constables is to be in attendance at the Central Police Office, and at every other Criminal Court holden within the district, for the purpose of executing such warrants and summonses as may be directed to them.

68. All warrants and summonses issued in any criminal proceeding within the Metropolitan Police District, or by any magistrate within the district, are to be served and executed by a constable of the Metropolitan Police Force, and by none other.

69. When any warrant is directed or delivered to any constable of the Metropolitan Police Force, unless it be necessary for the due execution thereof that such warrant be executed without delay, the constable is to deliver the warrant to the chief inspector, who shall appoint, by indorsement thereon, one or more constables to execute the same, and every constable whose name shall be so indorsed has the same powers, privileges, and protections in the execution of such warrant as if the same had been originally directed to him or them by name.

The object of this rule is that the chief inspector may, from his knowledge of the men, select those whose intelligence, capacity, local and personal knowledge, &c., best fit them for the particular service.

GENERAL

GENERAL DUTIES OF THE DIFFERENT RANKS.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL.

70. The Inspector General of the Police Department is appointed by warrant under the hand of His Excellency the Governor General. He is charged with the general superintendence of the police force within the Metropolitan District of the Colony, together with the control of the mounted patrol for roads, and of the gold escorts.

71. The Inspector General has to frame rules, orders, and regulations (subject to the approbation of His Excellency the Governor General), for the general government of the members of the police force within the Metropolitan District, and of the mounted patrol for roads, and gold escorts, as well with respect to the places of their residence, their classification, rank, and particular services, their distribution and inspection, as to the description of the arms, accoutrements, and other necessities to be furnished to them, and which of them shall be supplied with horses; and all such other rules, orders, and regulations as may be necessary for the purpose of preventing neglect or abuse, and for rendering the force efficient for the discharge of its several duties.

72. The Inspector General may at any time suspend or dismiss any man belonging to the police force who is remiss or negligent in the discharge of his duty, or otherwise unfit for the service.

73. His office is the channel for the whole police correspondence of the Colony, and the diffusion of information and communication generally as regards crime, and all matters of police. To him all reports of crime committed in any part of the Colony, and all information connected with offences and those concerned in them, are sent, and by him the communication to other parts of the Colony is made, with a view to the detection and capture of criminals.

74. The pay of the whole of the police, ordinary and gold, and of the mounted patrols, is issued by the Inspector General, the abstracts from the several districts being received and checked at his office, and all correspondence connected with them conducted there.

75. All pensions, gratuities, and rewards are paid by the Inspector General; and all claims for such are investigated by him previous to being, as regards the former, brought before the Board (of which he is a member), or being submitted for the decision of His Excellency the Governor General.

76. The requisitions for arms and ammunition for the police generally are made by the Inspector General, who informs the Colonial Storekeeper of the kind and quantity required for each district.

77. The correspondence and communication connected with any statistical or other information, called for by the Government, in the collection of which it is usual to require the aid of the constabulary, is conducted and carried out by the Inspector General.

THE METROPOLITAN SUPERINTENDENT.

78. Is appointed by Warrant under the hand of His Excellency the Governor General. He is subject to the general control of the Inspector General, and is in immediate communication with him on all points relating to his duties, and to the orders he receives; and is to report and keep him duly informed of all matters of moment or importance in the district.

79. He is charged with the immediate control and superintendence of the police in the metropolitan district, and with their direction and distribution for the protection of life and property, and the maintenance of peace and order.

80. He is to superintend the discipline of the whole force in the metropolitan district, and frequently to visit the several divisions in order to enforce activity, vigilance, and an energetic discharge of duty, by the several ranks. He is also frequently to visit and inspect the several station-houses, so as to ensure their being in proper order, and to see that the books at each are regularly and neatly kept, and all orders duly observed.

81. He is to receive all reports of, or connected with, crime or occurrences in the metropolitan district, and to take and direct the necessary steps, as well precautionary and preventive as detective.

82. He is to keep up constant communication with all parts of his district, and to use every exertion to establish confidential relations with persons capable of affording information as to the persons, habits, haunts, connections and movements of criminals, or suspected persons.

83. Communications may be made through him to parties at the distant places of the district, where personal communication, investigation into complaints, or other inquiries on the spot may be desirable.

84. He is to receive applications and to select candidates for the force.

85. Subject to the approval of the Inspector General, he is charged with the selection of the horses to be purchased for the patrol, and of those belonging to that branch to be brought forward to be cast as no longer fit for the service.

86. He has the charge and superintendence of the patrol horses and stables, the telling off the former to the men, and exchanging them when necessary or expedient.

87. He is to be on duty and present when His Excellency the Governor General opens or prorogues the Legislative Council;—at reviews, theatres, and other places where His Excellency is present in State, or on public occasions;—and at all levees at Government House.

88. In cases of disturbance, fire, or any extraordinary concourse of persons, he is to be present, or in the immediate neighborhood, to direct the movements and exertions of the police.

89. He is empowered to investigate and deal with complaints and offences not of a serious class, and to suspend members of the force;—grave complaints and offences he will bring before the Inspector General.

90. All applications from members of the force to the Inspector General are to be made through him, and to be accompanied by his observations or report.

91. When a vacancy occurs among the inspectors or sergeants he is to recommend to the Inspector General for promotion the man most competent and deserving in all respects.

92. He signs the pay abstracts, and is responsible for their correctness, for the regular weekly payment of the Metropolitan Police, and for the amount of all penalties or stoppages being duly deducted and paid over.

93. He is on the first of each month, or immediately after, to forward to the Inspector General the pay abstracts for the preceding month, in the prescribed form, duly filled up, signed and certified, together with his cheque for the amount of any balance of the advance made to him for the preceding month, in order to adjust it.

94. He is to satisfy himself that each member of the force fully understands the rules laid down for his guidance in the performance of his duty, and the orders, from time to time, issued.

THE CHIEF INSPECTOR.

95. Is to examine with the surgeon the candidates for the police, and is afterwards to post them, (subject to instructions from the Metropolitan Superintendent) to divisions, seeing that they are properly fitted with clothing.

96. He is to collect the morning reports from all the divisions.

97. To receive orders from the Metropolitan Superintendent, and take care that the same are communicated to the divisions.

98. To examine and sign daily the morning state book.

99. To examine the charge sheets daily, and see that they are correctly filled up.

100. To keep account of new books, charge sheets, printed returns, staves, arms, &c., issued to the divisions or received into store.

101. To visit the station houses by night, and report to the Metropolitan Superintendent.

102. It is desirable that the chief inspector should reside as near to the central station as circumstances permit, his duty requiring his frequent attendance there. Applications for assistance and instructions, made at the station in the absence of the Metropolitan Superintendent, will be made to him; and a more speedy communication of all orders may be effected through him if he is near the station. He will be responsible for the general conduct and good order of the sub-officers and men of the force under his charge; he should make himself well acquainted, by frequent personal intercourse, with the inspectors and sergeants, and, by personal observation as well as through them, with the character and conduct of every constable under his orders; he will be firm and just, at the same time kind and conciliating, in his behaviour towards them on all occasions.

103. He is to see that the book of rules, regulations, and instructions issued to each inspector, sergeant, and constable is carefully kept,—that each constable is well acquainted with the contents,—and that such parts as may be necessary, are read and explained to all, from time to time.

104. All orders as they are issued are to be carefully read and explained to the divisions, and great care taken that they are understood by each individual. He will take care that the instructions, general orders, and all orders given out from time to time, are promptly and strictly obeyed.

105. Much must be done by himself, and under his own immediate inspection, and, as he will be held responsible for the general performance of the police duties of the divisions he must give clear and precise instructions to the inspectors and sergeants, and report every instance of neglect to the Metropolitan Superintendent.

106. He will frequently inspect the several station-houses, and see that they are kept clean and in good order, and that the books are properly kept.

107. He will attend each morning at the Central Office, at the hour appointed by the Metropolitan Superintendent, and will lay before him (having carefully examined them) all reports and returns.

108. If a report be made to him against any of the force, he will immediately report the circumstances to the Metropolitan Superintendent; he may at once, if the offence be of such a nature as to call for the step, suspend the individual, or take such other precaution as may appear necessary.

109. He is expected to be able at all times to furnish exact information respecting the state of any part of any division.

110. He will, according to his discretion, grant immediate assistance from the constables on duty at the central station, when necessary, if there is not time to refer for instructions.

111. In watching the conduct of loose and disorderly persons, and of all persons whose behaviour is such as to excite just suspicion, he will keep in mind that the prevention of crime, the great object of all exertions of police, will generally be best attained by making it evident to the parties that they are known, and strictly watched; and that certain detection will follow any attempt to commit a crime.

112. Upon any alarm of fire (or riot), the chief inspector will at once send notice to the Metropolitan Superintendent, himself repairing immediately to the spot, and, pending his officer's arrival, taking the control of the police force that may be assembled, and sending, if necessary, for those who are off duty; he will, in the case of fire, cause immediate notice to be given at the offices of the several Insurance Companies, to the firemen, engine-keepers, and turncocks of the water mains; he will, of course, render such assistance as may be in his power, bearing in mind that the police will, perhaps, be most useful in procuring a free scope for the firemen's exertions, and the parties more immediately interested; with this view, he will clear the street or ground, in the immediate vicinity of the fire, of all persons not actively and usefully employed, taking care that all the adjoining streets, as far as may be practicable, are kept clear of obstructions by crowds or carriages, wagons, carts, &c., that the engines may not be delayed on their road.

113. Every assistance possible must be given for the removal of property, conformably with the wishes and suggestions of the proprietors; and, if desired, such property may be conveyed to the nearest police station, to be there placed under the protection of the police.

114. A special attention must be directed at such times to the thieves and pickpockets who are usually in the crowd.

115. Whenever the constables may be called away from their beats by fire or any sudden necessity, every exertion is to be made to supply their place from the reserve party, and to prevent the commission of any offence during the temporary absence of the constables.

116. The chief inspector should make it his duty to collect, upon the spot, all the information he can obtain relative to the cause of the fire, which, together with the circumstances attending it,—the conduct of the police under his orders, and the time they were employed, he will report fully, as soon as may be, through the Metropolitan Superintendent to the Inspector General.

INSPECTOR.

117. The inspector will reside within the division at the place appointed for him.

118. He is to receive his orders and instructions from, and make his reports to, the Metropolitan Superintendent or Chief Inspector.

119. He will at all times obtain such information as the Metropolitan Superintendent desires upon matters relating to police.

120. He must strictly and promptly obey all lawful directions for the execution of his duty, as he will expect the same submission from the sergeants and constables placed under his command.

121. Each inspector will have under him — sergeants and — constables, and he will be responsible for their general conduct and good order.

122. It is expected that by constant personal intercourse with them, he shall make himself well acquainted with the talents and general character of each individual.

123. He should immediately report to the Metropolitan Superintendent, through the Chief Inspector, any circumstances which he observes in the conduct of the constables requiring notice.

124. He will pay particular attention to any complaints made to him against any of the police. He should make an entry in writing of the circumstances, and request the complainant to sign it. He will as soon as possible communicate the whole matter to the Metropolitan Superintendent, in the meantime suspending the individual from duty, if the case requires it; any neglect of duty must be immediately reported.

125. He will take care that the regulations, general orders, and all orders given out from time to time, are promptly and strictly obeyed by those under him.

126. It is expected that he shall be able and ready to give instructions to the sergeants and constables on all points relative to their duty. He will pay great attention when constables are newly appointed to the division, that these men are properly instructed in their duty before they are placed upon their beats; for this purpose it is desirable that they shall, for the first three or four days, be put on duty as supernumeraries, with steady and experienced constables.

127. In case application is made to him for immediate assistance of the police, he will, according to the best of his judgment, render all in his power, either from the reserve party, or by calling up those off duty, but this last is only to be done in cases of necessity, notice of which should immediately be sent to the Metropolitan Superintendent. Before he grants assistance he should be satisfied with the grounds upon which it is demanded, and that the party has a right to demand it. An immediate entry is to be made by him in the book of occurrences, and included in the following morning's report to the Metropolitan Superintendent.

128. The inspectors for duty will be at the division stations punctually at the hour appointed in orders;—each will inspect the several parties going on duty, and make all the necessary preparations in silence and good order, receive from the sergeants the reports of the state of their respective parties, and give them, in writing, the hours and the point at which he will receive reports from them of the state of the division; he will then give orders to the sergeants to march off their parties to their several stations.

129. When circumstances admit of it, two inspectors will always be on duty in each division at the same time, one remaining in the division station for the purposes stated hereafter, the other doing the general duty of patrolling the division;—these two may arrange mutually the times for relieving each other, or these shall be fixed by the Metropolitan Superintendent.

130. The inspector on the patrol duty will see as much of the division as possible, and it is desirable that, when practicable, he should see every part of it once at least during his turn of duty. He will make a note of the reports of the sergeants, at the appointed times and places, and if any sergeant does not appear to make his report, inquiry should be immediately made to ascertain the cause.

131. In the event of any felony or riot taking place, or upon any sudden emergency, he will send for such assistance as may be required, either to the division station or to the residences of the men off duty, but to the latter only in cases of necessity. If he judges it expedient, he will also send immediately to the Metropolitan Superintendent.

132. The inspector (or sergeant) on duty at the division station will keep good order there; he will be held responsible for the constant readiness of the reserve party; he will not allow drinking, either by them or other persons; and will take care that no cause of complaint be given to the inhabitants of the neighborhood, by noise or any irregularity at the station.

133. He will take care that the prisoners in the cells are visited once every hour, (the cells being entered and a particular observation of each individual made,) and that immediate attention is given to any case requiring assistance or medical aid. He will see that proper care is taken with respect to persons insensibly drunk, or in such a state of intoxication as to be helpless; whatever is about the neck being removed, the shirt collar unfastened, and something placed under the head to raise it. In every case where a person is brought to the station in a state of insensibility, whether apparently from drunkenness or not, he will send for medical advice as soon as possible.

134. He will call the particular attention of the constables to the door of every cell where prisoners are confined being carefully double locked after every occasion of visiting the prisoners.
