Memorandum by the Surveyor General.

ON the 16th August, Mr. B. M. Mortimer made, under the 22nd clause of the Occupation Act, an unobjectionable selection of 200 acres at Hartley, tinted pink on the accompanying* tracing, and on the 18th of that month, Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel selected, under the same clause of the Act, 120 acres, 70 acres of which, as shown by a brown edging on the tracing, were embraced within Mortimer's selection. Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel, without being required to do so, made, on the 21st ultimo, an amended selection, shown by red edging, which includes 60 acres of the land selected by Mortimer, and on the 24th ultimo they were required to amend their selection, which up to this time they have not done. * Not with papers

In the meantime (on the 28th ultimo) Mortimer has made another selection of 200 acres, (shown by blue edging), to the east of his former selection, and embracing the half of the selection made by Isaacs, Want, and Samuel, on the 21st ultimo, not included in Mortimer's prior selection. In submitting for the decision of the Honorable the Secretary for Lands the question as to who has the right to lease the portion of Isaacs, Want, and Samuel's selection of 120 acres, not included in Mortimer's first selection of 200 acres, I take leave to express the opinion that as the selection made by Want, Samuel, and Isaacs is objectionable, and has not been amended, Mortimer is entitled to hold the 200 acres selected on the 28th August.

B.C., 6th September, 1865.

W. R. DAVIDSON.

Minute on above.

Mortimer gets his first 200 acres; pink.

Want applies 2nd, this comprises two-thirds or thereabouts of the first-mentioned piece. Want could not be permitted to have it.

Want, 21st August, makes a second application, one-half the quantity being still Mortimer's. Want being informed of this, claims to take such of the land as unobjectionable, which of course he may have.

Mortimer on the 28th makes another selection, 200 acres, shown by blue, 60 acres of which or thereabouts being the portion last-mentioned as being detained by Want. Mortimer of course cannot have this piece, but may have the remainder of his selection in two portions if he chooses, or he may take one, or he may select elsewhere.—JOHN R.

My dear Sir,

Saturday morning, 20 minutes to 12 o'clock.

Mr. Wilson has appointed half-past 10 o'clock on Monday morning to receive a deputation from the Western Kerosene Oil Company with reference to the 60 acres of land applied for by Mr. Mortimer, and as this Company allege, improperly included in an application for a larger quantity made by Messrs. Want, Isaacs, and Samuel, on behalf of the Hartley Paraffine Company. I called for the purpose of requesting you to be good enough to have the papers relating to the matter ready for the occasion.

Mr. B. M. Mortimer to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

No. 307, George-street, Sydney, 11 October, 1865.

I respectfully beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter dated* 2nd October, 1865, stating that my selection on 28th of August, of 200 acres, cannot be entertained, for reasons explained. In reply, and also in compliance with your permission, I hereby beg leave to select the remaining 140 acres of my selection of August 28th, as described in my application of that date, which said 140 acres is the balance of the 200 acres after deducting the 60 acres selected by Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel.

2. I herewith append a description of the 60 acres permitted in your letter of October 2nd, 1865, in lieu of the 60 acres of my 200 acres, cancelled by selection of Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel, viz. :—Bounded partly on the north by the southern boundary of my selection of 200 acres, and partly by the southern boundary of my selection of 140 acres; on the west by R. J. Want's 50 acres; on the south by Want & Co.'s 320 acres; thence by lines to include the area.

I have, &c.,

B. M. MORTIMER.

Minutes on No. 16.

In reply to Surveyor General's letter, dated 2nd October, 1865, and in accordance with the Minister for Lands' decision, Mr. Mortimer herein states that he will retain the remaining 140 acres of his 200 acres selection of 28th August, 1865.

2. Mr. Mortimer, at the same time, appends the description of 60 acres selected in lieu of that 60 acres cancelled of his selection of the 28th August (the remainder of which he retains, see above). The land now selected adjoins the south boundary of the latter and the south boundary of his selection of 200 acres of the 16th August, and therefore partly interferes with mineral lease 172 of 320 acres (to an extent of about 48 acres) as surveyed, but according to the selection of mineral lease 172 as described, the north boundary thereof should be 14 chains further south than at present (see Mr. Mann's *tracing and description).

It is presumed that the 140 acres herein retained should now be surveyed; and as regards the selection now made, the question is submitted for consideration, whether such selection is in accordance with the Minister for Lands' decision; and should such be the case, ought this selection be received although it clashes with mineral lease 172, under the circumstances already alluded to.—Submitted, 1st November, 1865.

The remainder of Mr. Mortimer's mineral lease No. 190, viz., 140 acres, should now go on for survey.

With reference to Mr. Mortimer's selection of 60 acres in lieu of the 60 acres of mineral lease 190, cancelled, he should be informed that his selection cannot be entertained, as the 60 acres are within the Hartley Company's mineral lease No. 172 of 320 acres, as surveyed, and as confirmed by the Acting Minister for Lands.—R.F.C., 29 November, 1865.

Sir,

Surveyor General's Office, Sydney, 13 December, 1865.

I beg to inform you that your selection of 60 acres, near Hartley, notified by your letter of the 11th October, cannot be entertained, as the land forms part of 320 acres surveyed on the application of the Hartley Kerosene Company by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Mann, whose survey has been approved by the Honorable the Minister for Lands.

2. I may add that instructions will be issued for the survey of the 140, being the residue of the 200 acres selected by you on the 28th August, after deducting the 60 acres selected by the Company.

Sir,

Neutral Bay, 18 January, 1866.

I have the honor to transmit the plan of a portion of land containing 320 acres, situated in the Vale of Clwyd, parish of Hartley, county of Cook, in accordance with the terms of your letter of the 4th August last, applied for as a mineral lease by Mr. William Jolly. Enclosed.

2. This is a barren and scrubby tract of country, water good and permanent. All necessary roads have been reserved through this portion, indicated by blue chain-lines; the yellow lines denote some of the existing tracks. *Cannot be obtained.

3. Nearly all traces of the old measurements are obliterated; the corners, with the exception of one or two on the north side of the river Lett, have long since been destroyed, thus rendering the verification of the old boundaries a matter of extreme difficulty.

4. This portion includes parts of two parishes. The parish boundary may at this point make a deviation so as to include the portion on the north side of the river, in accordance with the description furnished.

Sydney, 13 July, 1866.

I have the honor to enclose a plan showing the position of 140 acres of land situated at "Kangaroo Corner," near Hartley, county of Cook, being a mineral lease selected by B. M. Mortimer, under the 22nd section of the "Crown Lands Occupation Act 1861."

2. The application was for 200 acres, made on the 28th August, 1865, but in consequence of a previous application by Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel, this selection could not be entertained.

3. The selection by Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel of 60 acres divides the 200 acres into two parts. The remainder, 140 acres, is therefore, according to sketch enclosed in letter of instructions of the 19th December, surveyed in two portions.

4. With the exception of a small part of the northern portion, the whole of these measurements comprise the most broken and rugged country of sandstone formation, and covered with dense scrub; it is heavily timbered. All necessary roads have been reserved. Survey completed 30th May, 1866.

Licensed Surveyor.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Mann to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Little Hartley, 29 August, 1866.

I have the honor to enclose a plan showing the position of mineral lease No. 204, containing 320 acres, situated at the Darling Causeway, parish of Hartley, county of Cook, being the land applied for by Mr. B. M. Mortimer, under the 22nd section of "Crown Lands Occupation Act 1861," on the 6th October.

2. This portion of land is of the most barren description, being intersected by deep ravines and gullies, and covered with scrub. It is supposed to contain mineral coal kerosene.

Survey completed 27th August, 1866.

I have, &c.,

JOHN F. MANN,

Licensed Surveyor.

No. 25.

Memorandum by the Surveyor General.

Mr. B. M. Mortimer is desirous of paying the rent for the ensuing year of a portion of land near Hartley, leased by him for mineral purposes under the following circumstances:—

On the 28th August, 1865, Mr. Mortimer paid £50 for authority to select (and as the first year's rent for) 200 acres, and on the 29th September he paid the further sum of £17 2s. 6d., being the rent for the portion of the current year from the 28th August to 31st December. On the day on which he paid for authority he made a selection of 200 acres, 140 acres only of which were available, the remainder having been previously taken up by Messrs. Isaacs, Want, and Samuel; and as he has retained the area available in preference to selecting the full quantity elsewhere, he forfeits the balance of the deposit; but, on the other hand, as the lease will issue for 140 acres only, the sum of £5 2s. 9d., paid in excess for the broken portion of the current year, should be taken as part of the rent to be paid for the year 1867.

The time within which the rent may be paid expires on the 30th instant, and it is therefore desirable that the Treasury should be at once authorized to receive the rent for the smaller area, and to give Mr. Mortimer credit for the sum of £5 2s. 9d. above referred to.

As the money paid on this transaction is in Suspense Account, it is unnecessary perhaps to obtain authority from the Executive Council.—W. R. DAVIDSON, Surveyor General, B.C., 28th September, 1866.

Minutes on above.

Approved.—J.B.W., 27th Sept., 1866.

The Surveyor General.—M.F., B.C., 29th Sept., 1866.

No. 26.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Mann to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Little Hartley, 10 October, 1866.

I have the honor to enclose a plan showing the position of a line of road from "Kangaroo Corner" to the main Camp on the Western Railway, Darling Causeway, county Cook.

2. This length of road, which has long been used as a bridle-track, is a continuation of the road already reserved and surveyed through many of the mineral leases—Hartley. This survey was made subsequent to the transmission of my plans of the 13th July and of the 29th August last, of portions Nos. 100 and 126, not only on account of the necessity of its being kept open for public use, but also to serve as a tie or check line to my previous surveys, the surrounding country being so extremely broken and precipitous.

I have, &c.,

JOHN F. MANN,

Licensed Surveyor.

Minutes on above.

Mr. Fitzgerald,—Is there any occasion to proclaim the road herein referred to, or is it reserved through the portions?—T.H.L., 19 Oct., 1866. There is no occasion; the road has been reserved.—R.D.F., 31 Oct., 1866. (The above minute written in pencil.)

Description of 320 acres selected by B. M. Mortimer.

Mineral Lease 204—B. M. Mortimer.

DESCRIPTION.

320 acres, county of Cook, parish unnamed, mineral lease 204, portion 126: Commencing on the western side of the railway fence of the Great Western Railway, at the north-eastern corner of mineral lease 210, portion 107 of 260 acres (part of 320 acres); and bounded thence on the south by the northern boundary-line of that portion bearing west 49 chains; on the west by part of the eastern boundary of portion 100a to the eastern boundary of portion 125 and part of the eastern boundary of portion 100, mineral leases 190, 177, and 190 respectively, being a line north about 59 chains and 50 links; on the north by part of the southern boundary-line of mineral lease 189, portion 104, bearing east 30 chains and 69 links; on the east by the western boundary-line of portion 127 of 40 acres bearing south 10 chains; again on the north by the southern boundary-line of last-mentioned portion bearing east 42 chains and 20 links to the aforesaid fence of Great Western Railway; and again on the east by that fence southerly to the south-east corner of portion 87 of 40 acres; again on the west by the eastern boundary of that portion bearing north 14 chains; again on the south by the northern boundary-line of that portion bearing west 20 chains; again on the east by the western boundary-line of that portion bearing south 25 chains and 30 links; again on the north by the southern boundary-line of that portion bearing east 4 chains and 60 links to the railway fence aforesaid; on the south-east by that fence south-westerly to the point of commencement. Exclusively of the existing road, 1 chain wide, passing through this land, partly along the railway fence, in a south-westerly direction, and of the road, 1 chain wide, from that road, passing through this land in a north-westerly direction, the areas of which have been deducted from the total area.

Examined.—H. W. G., 6/3/67.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 18 April, 1867.

I am directed again to invite your attention to my letter of the 19th February last, No. 28, See No. 27. requesting you to furnish a return showing the moneys received as rent for 1867 of lands held under the 22nd section of the Crown Lands Occupation Act, and to request that you will be good enough to supply the information with as little further delay as practicable.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 16 May, 1867.

I am directed to invite your attention to my letter of the 18th ultimo, and previous communications, requesting you to furnish a return of mineral leases renewed for 1867; and I am to add, that in the absence of this return, it is impossible to conduct satisfactorily the business in connection with mineral leases. See No. 29.

I have, &c.,

No. 31.

The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

The Treasury, New South Wales, 20 June, 1867.

As requested by your letter of the 16th ultimo, I do myself the honor to enclose herewith, See No. 30. Enclosed. returns as under, viz. :—

No. 1. Return of further payments made on mineral lease deposits since 14th August, 1866, the date of last return. In suspense.

No. 2. Return of mineral leases renewed for the year 1867. Carried to revenue.

No. 3. Return of mineral lease deposits made in the year 1866, showing also subsequent payments made thereon. In suspense.

I have to point out that the payments shown in returns Nos. 1 and 3 have been placed in "Suspense Account," waiting report of approval of selections; and to add that very great inconvenience is experienced in this department in dealing with such intended mineral leases for the want of the usual notification as to the decision arrived at in regard to the various applications, for it will be observed that the return dates back to May, 1864.

I have, &c.,

HENRY LANE.

Minutes on above.

The deposit paid for authority to select is regarded as the first year's rent, and as by the regulations no rent can in any case be refunded, I am not aware of any reason why the money should be kept in suspense after the selection has been notified, the term of lease commencing from the date of selection. I some time since personally offered to furnish periodically lists of the selections made. These lists would enable the Treasury to compute the rents, and credit the money.—22nd June, 1867. Inform generally, 24 June, 1867.

No. 32.

The Under Secretary for Lands to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 9 July, 1867.

In reference to the last paragraph of your letter of the 20th ultimo, transmitting returns in connection with mineral leases, I am directed to inform you that the deposit paid for authority to select is regarded as the first year's rent, and that as by the regulations no rent can in any case be refunded, there is apparently no reason why the money should be kept in suspense after the selection has been notified, the term of lease commencing from the date of selection. See No. 31.

2. To enable you to compute the rents, the dates of the selections will be furnished periodically.

I have, &c.,

M. FITZPATRICK.

No. 33.

Minute-paper for the Executive Council.

Department of Lands, Sydney, 29 July, 1867.

It is recommended to His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council that the mineral leases particularized in the enclosed * list be cancelled for non-compliance by the lessees with the conditions of section 22 of the Crown Lands Occupation Act (clause 2), as to payment of rent. * For list see No. 34.

J. BOWIE WILSON.

Minutes

Minutes on foregoing.

Clerk of the Council.—M.F., B.C., 30 July, 1867.

Upon the recommendation of the Honorable the Secretary for Lands, the Executive Council advise that the several mineral leases set forth in the accompanying schedule be cancelled, the terms of the 22nd section (clause 2) of the "Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861" not having been complied with.—ALEX. C. BUDGE, Clerk of the Council.

Min. 67/33, 1 Aug., 1867. Confirmed, 8 Aug., 1867. Approved.—J.Y., 9 Aug., 1867. Prepare copy of list for notification, 12 August, 1867. Notified, 23 August, 1867.

No. 39.

The Secretary, Western Kerosene Oil Company, to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

307, George-street, Sydney, 26 August, 1867.

No 34.

By instructions of the Western Kerosene Oil Company (Limited), I have the honor to state that in the Government Gazette, under date of 20th instant, appears a notice from the Honorable the Minister for Lands that certain portions of land selected for mining purposes have now become cancelled for non-compliance by the lessees with the conditions of section 22 of the "Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861." Amongst the portions of which notice is thus given appear several held by this Company.

On inquiry at the Land Office the Directors were informed that the cause of this cancelment was the non-payment of the rent for the current year; but on further reference it was found that the rent in question had been paid to the Treasury on the 29th September last, and that the cancelment of the "leases" to which that payment applied had been made in error.

Under these circumstances, I am desired to beg the favour of your causing the leases in question to be discharged from the notice referred to, and of their being reinstated as before.

As this matter is of serious importance to this Company, I am desired to beg the further favour of an early reply.

I am, &c.,

P. MACAULIFFE,

Secretary.

Minutes on above,

This letter refers to mineral leases Nos. 176, 190, and 204, held by Mr. B. M. Mortimer, and 168 and 189, held by Mr. William Jolly, and which were cancelled for non-payment of rent for the current year. The rents, however, were paid on the 29th September last, as explained in the letter from the Treasury, and the Land Agent has accordingly been directed to withhold the land from conditional purchase.—28th Aug., 1867.

The Hartley Kerosene Oil and Paraffine Company (Limited).

Sir,

Offices, Spring-street, Sydney, 27 September, 1867.

I have the honor to inform you that the Hartley Kerosene Oil and Paraffine Company have selected, under the Crown Lands Alienation Act, the following lots now held by that Company under the Crown Lands Occupation Act under mineral leases. The leases were issued in my name, and vested in the Company by virtue of the Act of Incorporation.

The Company have paid to the Lands Agent the sum required by the Act, viz., ten shillings (10s.) per acre on the two lots of 320 acres each.

The first lot of 320 acres contains the several portions, viz., lots 94, 86, 81, 82, 83, and portion of lot 85.

The second lot contains 320 acres, being portions of lots 84 and 85. Full descriptions of these were handed in by the Company to the Land Agent at Hartley with the application.

No. 56.

Minute by Mr. Stephen.

Hartley Kerosene Company's applications for Mining Conditional Purchases.

THE above Company have applied for two separate mining conditional purchases of the maximum area of 320 acres each.

By section 19 of the Alienation Act it is provided that conditional purchases may be made for mining purposes under the same provisions as section 13, with certain exceptions, in which exceptions, however, no reference is made to the restrictions as regards area, or the maximum quantity that can be taken up at any one time. Reading therefore the two clauses in conjunction with each other, it certainly would appear to me that the Company can only take up one 320-acre portion at a time, but they can, under the the exception specified in section 19, pay the balance and make the required declaration as soon as they like, and then take up 320 acres more, and so on.

The papers connected with Messrs. Morehead and Young's mining conditional purchases (referred to the other day by the Under Secretary) are now enclosed; although they appear to have been allowed to take two 320-acre portions at once, it will be seen that there is no record of the authority upon which they were made. In fact the whole proceedings with respect to them seem to have been rather irregular. No paper applications were ever lodged by them, but they were allowed to leave the descriptions of the land in the office, and the declarations were sent on for deeds without having been dealt with as usual in charting room, nor are they yet.

W.W.S.,
22nd October, 1867.

Minutes on No. 56.

The purchase of Morehead and Young is sanctioned on 62-5,524. If the Kerosene Company were about to select land not under lease to them, I think they would be restricted to one portion of 320 acres; but the fact is the purchase in Morehead and Young's case, and later in the case of the Fitzroy Company, is based on the peculiar wording of the early portion of clause 13 of Alienation, under which it was held that they could during the currency of the lease purchase the whole area, but in portions not exceeding 320 acres.—M.F.

Approved.—J.B.W., 29 Oct., 1867. Now to Mr. F., to note applications to surveyor.—W.W.S., 1/11/67.

Particular description forwarded to Land Agent, Hartley, with my letter dated 21 October, 1867.

Minutes on above.

Mr. Stephen,—This application must be cancelled, as the two portions applied for are separated by a measured portion of 60 acres. Applicant cannot select under the Alienation Act of 1861 any portions separated (in any way) from each other.—R.W.F., 13 Jan., 1868. The letters for cancellation are annexed for signature; but it has been held that any number of mining conditional purchases can be taken up by the same person or Company. It should, I think, be explained that they can take the portions up by two separate applications. I conclude, according to the terms of the Act, that the application must be cancelled in its present shape.—W.W.S., 10th February, 1868. Yes, 12 Feb., 1868 (written by the Minister).

No. 60.

The Under Secretary for Lands to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 13 February, 1868.

I am directed again to invite your attention to my letter of the 15th October last, asking for a return of the mineral leases renewed for the year 1868, and to request that the required return may be furnished with as little further delay as practicable.

I have, &c.,

Mr. B. M. Mortimer to The Land Agent, Hartley.

Application for the conditional purchase for mining purposes of unimproved land, without competition, by B. M. Mortimer, of Sydney.

Received with deposit, this 27th day of February, 1868, at 10 o'clock, by Thomas Brown, Land Agent for the Hartley District.

Sir,

27 February, 1868.

I desire to purchase, without competition, for mining purposes other than gold-mining, under the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," the undermentioned portion of unimproved Crown land, and I tender herewith a deposit at the rate of ten shillings per acre on the area for which I apply.

I am, &c.,

The Crown Land Agent, Hartley.

B. M. MORTIMER.

B. M. Mortimer, part of mineral lease No. 190.

DESCRIPTION.

County of Cook, parish of Hartley, 84 acres, at Kangaroo Corner, mineral lease 190, portion 100a: Commencing at the south-eastern corner of mineral lease 177, portion 125; and bounded thence on the east by a line bearing south 42 chains; on the south by part of the northern boundary-line of mineral lease 172, portion 97, bearing west 20 chains; on the west by part of the eastern boundary of mineral lease 176, portion 101, bearing north 42 chains; and on the north by the southern boundary-line of portion 125 aforesaid bearing east 20 chains, to the point of commencement.

No. 62.

The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

The Treasury, New South Wales, 31 March, 1868.

As requested by your letter of the 13th ultimo, I do myself the honor to enclose returns as under, viz. :—

1. Return of further payments made on mineral lease deposits since 20th June, 1867, the date of last return. In suspense.
2. Return of mineral leases renewed for the year 1868. Carried to revenue.
3. Return of mineral lease deposits made in the year 1867, showing also subsequent payments made thereon. In suspense. 2.

2. I beg to observe that the delay which has occurred in the preparation of these returns has in a great measure been caused by the non-receipt of the periodical reports promised by your letter of the 9th s e No. 32. July last.

I have, &c.,

Minutes on above.

Clerk of the Council, B.C., 23 April, 1868.—M.F. The Executive Council advise that for the reasons shown the several mineral leases particularized in the schedule herein referred to be forthwith cancelled.—VERE HUNT, Acting Clerk of the Council. Minute 68/21, 8th May, 1868. Confirmed, 14 May, 1868. Approved.—B., 19/5/68. Prepare copy for Treasury and notice for Gazette, 23/5/68. Now write to Registrar General informing him of the cancellation of the leases marked ✓ in the list, 29/5/68. The mineral leases mentioned in the enclosed schedule have been cancelled, and the parties informed 15th June, /68.

The accompanying papers relate to mineral leases which have been cancelled for non-payment of rent within the time limited by the Act.

In those cases in which surveys have been made, the portions other than church and school land which have not again been selected should perhaps be brought to auction. In those in which surveys have not been made, the instructions to the surveyors should be withdrawn.—3 June, /68. Yes, 5 June, 1868.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Wyndham to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Little Hartley, 3 December, 1868. Enclosed.

I have the honor to transmit to you herewith the plan of 320 acres of land in the parish of Hartley, county of Cook, applied for as a conditional purchase for mining purposes, under the 19th clause of the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," by the Hartley Kerosene Oil and Paraffine Company (Limited), the lessees of the land in question.

The length of some of the lines differs somewhat from the original measurement, but the precipitous character of the ground renders it impossible to attain to any great degree of accuracy.

I have, &c.,
EDWARD S. WYNDHAM.

Minute on above.

Mr. Wyndham, in his survey, shows the length of lines different from those given by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Mann in the adjoining portions, and states that it is in consequence of the precipitous nature of the ground. Mr. Wyndham has made an error of 4 acres in his calculation of the survey now sent in. It contains only 316 acres, not 320 acres. There is no space of vacant Crown land left to admit of the extra 4 acres being added. The discrepancies are as follows:—

- Mr. Wyndham 22, 13 south boundary.
- " 16, 38 west
- Mr. Mann 22,60, difference 47 links.
- " 16,54, " 16

Also the bearings of corner trees shown by Mr. Wyndham do not agree with those on Mr. Mann's plans. In one case Mr. Mann gives at corner D inaccessible; Mr. Wyndham gives S 6° E. 31 links, peppermint 134-99.—T.H.L., 2nd March, 1869.

No. 72.

The Secretary, Western Kerosene Oil Company, to The Surveyor General.

Western Kerosene Oil Company's (Limited) Offices, 251, George-street, Sydney, 29 July, 1870.

Sir,

I have the honor to inform you that two surveys made of the boundary of this Company's land at Hartley Vale, where it joins that of the Hartley Company, are at variance; and I am directed to request you will have the goodness to instruct the local surveyor to re-mark the same.

I have, &c.,

JOHN M'DONALD, JUN.,
Secretary.

If it is declared by the District Surveyor that the boundary-line between Hartley Kerosene Company and Western Kerosene Company does run close to the engine-house of the Western Kerosene Company, and has not been altered from Mr. Mann's original line, we will pay the expense of the survey of the line.

JAMES LAIDLAY,

Director, Western Kerosene Company.

Minute on above.

There is nothing to show that Mr. Mann's original lines were altered by Mr. Wyndham's measurements. In fact, Mr. Mann's original plan of the adjoining land still stands without amendment, so that if any alteration has been made Mr. Wyndham appears to be responsible. Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Finley is requested to report and correct, if necessary. Tracings will be forwarded by to-morrow's post.—J.S.A. (for Surveyor General), 1st Aug., 1870.

No. 73.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Finley to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Bowenfels, 12 August, 1870.

I have the honor to transmit you a *plan and report of survey showing the discrepancy existing between Licensed Surveyor Mann and Surveyor Wyndham in the survey of land for the Hartley Kerosene Company, parish of Hartley, county of Cook. * Cannot be obtained.

Referring to the plan, it will be seen that Mr. Wyndham has marked the eastern boundary of the 40 acres (now part of 320 acres) 37 links to the east of what I prove to be Mr. Mann's line. The former is marked very distinctly, and runs due north, whilst the latter is very indistinct, and seems to vary in every possible direction. To settle the complaint of the Western Company it would almost require the south-west corner, as marked by Licensed Surveyor Mann. I found (see reference) a stringy-bark stump cut off short, and which appears to have been the corner, as it is immediately at the intersection of the southern and eastern boundary of the 40 acres by Mr. Mann's marking. There is, however, a strong objection to this, as it would only leave the south boundary 9 chains 70 links, instead of 10 chains. By my chaining Mr. Wyndham has made the southern boundary 10 chains 17 links, but has also made the western boundary 10 links farther west. To save much time, trouble, and dispute I would suggest that the District Surveyor's report and decision be taken on the matter.

I have, &c.,

F. G. FINLEY,

Licensed Surveyor.

Minute on No. 73.

The application of the Hartley Company is for the portions as originally numbered, and it is considered that the boundaries of these portions as originally marked by Mr. Mann should be adhered to.

Mr. Finley will therefore be good enough to re-measure the 320 acres in question, adhering to Mr. Mann's marking, and making up any deficiency at the northern extremity.—J.S.A. (for the Surveyor General), 29th August, 1870.

Declaration.

I, William Henry Deloitte, of No. 3, Spring-street, Sydney, Secretary to the Hartley Kerosene Oil and Paraffine Company (Limited), do solemnly and sincerely declare that the Company are the lawful owners by conditional purchase of the land hereunder described, and that an expenditure equal to £2 per acre for the area of the land has been made in mining operations other than gold-mining on the land, and since the selections on 26th September, 1867; and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of the Act 9 Victoria No. 9.

No. 75.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Finley to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Hartley, 14 November, 1870.

Enclosed.

I have the honor to transmit a plan and report of 320 acres of land in the parish of Hartley, county of Cook, applied for by the Hartley Kerosene Oil and Paraffine Company (Limited), as a mineral conditional purchase, under the 19th clause of the Land Act of 1861. This plan shows an amended survey of this land, and is in lieu of that transmitted by Mr. Surveyor Wyndham on the 28th December, 1868. Mr. Wyndham, in making his survey, has deviated in nearly every case from the original marks by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor J. F. Mann, and in making my survey I have destroyed Mr. Wyndham's marks where necessary, and re-marked Mr. Mann's where they could be found.

There are many cases where Mr. Mann has run his lines that show a considerable variation from the cardinal points (such as C to D on plan), but in obedience to my instructions I have adhered to and re-marked them in the position found. In running the boundary between this land and portion No. 101, 200 acres, I found the marked trees (by Licensed Surveyor Mann) in the position shown by my lines. It was impossible to get one straight line that would intersect them from end to end, so that I deemed it necessary, to prevent dispute, to make a slight bend in it.

The lines throughout are now in the position originally laid down by Mr. Mann, that is, so far as any trace of them could be found.

I have, &c.,

F. G. FINLEY,
Licensed Surveyor.Minutes on No. 75.

Dealt with in Charting Branch, subject to the approval of the Chief Draftsman, but the alterations in the amended survey are shown to disagree with former surveys by Mann, especially in bearings.

Who should pay for the cost of re-survey? See letter from the Western Kerosene Oil Company's Secretary relative to survey and cost.

Should tracings be sent to each of the two Companies?—T. H. L., 12/1/71.

As Wyndham's survey was in error, the department pays the surveyor. It is too late to send tracings, as the Companies are long since aware of the facts. Do Finley's corners on the southern boundary agree with Mann's? If not, should he not explain?—19/1/71. In such a rough country, quite near enough; bearings are reversed.—T.H.L., 27/1/71.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Finley reports:—"Mr. Wyndham, in making his survey, has deviated in nearly every case from the original marks by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Mann, and in making my survey I have destroyed Mr. Wyndham's marks where necessary, and re-marked Mr. Mann's where they could be found. There are many cases where Mr. Mann has run his lines that show a considerable variation from the cardinal points (such as C to D on plan), but in obedience to my instructions, I have adhered to and re-marked them in the position found. The lines throughout are now in the position originally laid down by Mr. Mann, that is, so far as any trace of them could be found."

Judging from the extraordinary disagreement of Mr. Mann's measurements to corner trees from those of the other two surveyors, I am led to believe that they have not adopted the corner trees originally marked by Mr. Mann.

It is evident that Messrs. Finley and Wyndham, or one of them, do not state the bearing from the tree to the corner-peg, but from the corner-peg to the tree. This is not an uncommon mistake, and is one which which frequently leads to serious errors. A memorandum should be sent to each of the surveyors concerned, drawing attention to this and the difficulty of dealing with plans where there is so much conflicting detail.—E. T., for Surveyor General, 20/2/71.

No. 77.

Memorandum by the Surveyor General.

Charting Branch, 24 February, 1871.

MEMORANDUM of subjects requiring explanation or completion in connection with the survey and plan of 320 acres mineral conditional purchase No. 134, parish of Hartley, county of Cook, transmitted by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Wyndham, letter 28 February, 1870, and on which Mr. Wyndham's report in explanation is requested.

Subject.

By comparing the lines and corners on the north boundary of portion No. 134 as given by you with the lines and corners as given by Messrs. L. S. Finley and Mann (J. F.) great differences appear to exist.

The bearings of the corners as given by you are the reverse of those given by Mr. L. S. Finley, showing that one of you takes the bearing from the corner peg to the tree, instead of from the tree to the corner peg; this is a mistake which frequently leads to serious errors.

Judging from the extraordinary disagreement between your measurement to corner trees and Mr. Mann's, it would appear that you have not adopted the corner trees originally marked by Mr. Mann.

Your attention is requested to the difficulty of dealing with plans where there is so much conflicting detail.

E. TWYNAM,
For Surveyor General.

Report.

Not anticipating any further reference to this survey, I have unfortunately kept no copy either of my original or amended plan, and have nothing but the field notes to refer to. The bearings to corners are in the field-book from peg to tree, but whether they are the same on plan I do not remember.

In making this survey I had no other guide than a rough plan of Mr. Mann's work, adjoining in many cases, wanting the reference to corners, which plan Mr. Finley handed to me with the instructions.

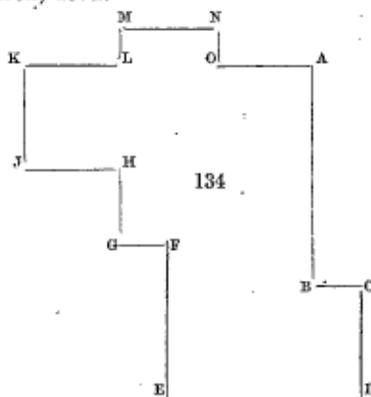

Mr. Finley had no further information in his possession, and had I applied to the office for tracings I could not have received them in time to be of use.

In several places where the ground was steep and difficult of measurement I could find no corners or marked trees whatever, and I cannot think (as the surveys are all recent) that any lines or corners were ever marked in these places by Mr. Mann. In such cases I placed the corner according to the measurements given on the adjoining portions and marked a tree of my own. That there should be some disagreement as to chaining is scarcely to be wondered at, as most of the land is so steep that it is hardly possible to stand on it, and some of the lines run over cliffs over 30 feet in height.

EDW. S. WYNDHAM,
28 February, 1871. Licensed Surveyor.

No. 84.

Secretary, Shale and Oil Co., to The Secretary for Lands.

New South Wales Shale and Oil Company (Limited),

Offices, 3 Hunter-street, Sydney, 21 August, 1877.

Sir,

I have the honor to inform you that the two mining conditional purchases, the property of this Company, for 320 and 200 acres respectively, selected by B. M. Mortimer on 19th December, 1867, would appear to have been offered for sale by auction on the 14th October, 1868, for what reason I am quite at a loss to ascertain; and that at the present time these portions are still among lands open for selection to the public in the records of the department.

As all the conditions of purchase have been complied with, and the interest on the balance been regularly paid from year to year, any selection of these lots now could not possibly interfere with our right to them, though some unnecessary trouble might arise. I have therefore the honor to request you will have the goodness to cause such instructions to be issued as will withdraw the lands referred to from the lists of lands open for selection, in which they were originally included in error.

I have the honor also to draw your attention to the fact that the transfer of these portions from B. M. Mortimer to this Company, lodged by me in your office about five years ago, does not appear to have been yet recorded, though I have inquired about the matter on several occasions.

I have, &c.,

JOHN M'DONALD, JUN.,

The transfer alluded to has not been received in the office.—23/8/77. Referred to Charting Branch to ascertain whether the two portions of land herein mentioned were offered for sale by auction as alleged.—C.N., 23/8/77.

Yes, on the 14th October, 1868, as lot EE, and same date as lot CC, at Hartley, respectively. Reference should be made at once as to the circumstance of the mineral conditional purchases, which may have been sent to the Mining Department, then to Mr. Edwards as to the selections under the 25th section of Act of 1861.—F.W.R., 29 Aug., /77.

Mr. Edwards.—The auction selection should be declared void, as the conditional purchases have not been declared void, lapsed, or forfeited.—C.N., 29/8/77.

Mr. A. Armstrong to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Land Agency Office, 26 Bridge-street, Sydney, 4 September, 1877.

Referring to the auction selections noted in the margin, I have the honor to draw your attention to the position of the land included in those selections. The land was originally leased for mining purposes by B. M. Mortimer, which lease was forfeited for non-compliance with the 22nd clause of the Occupation Act, and the land offered at auction without notice of the fact of reversal of forfeiture, and which forfeiture was reversed after inquiry. Previous to its being so offered it was selected under the 19th clause of the Alienation Act of 1861 by B. M. Mortimer, on behalf of the Western Kerosene Company, who were not the lessees of the land, and to whom selection was thus barred. No identification of the land selected by the said Western Kerosene Company with that leased and forfeited had ever been effected in the Survey Department, and up to the date of the auction selection the land was not withdrawn from sale under the 25th clause.

Precis of the Case.

In 1867 Mr. P. Macauliffe, Secretary of the Western Kerosene Oil Company, applied for permission to convert the following mineral leases (among others) into mineral conditional purchases:—

- No. 204 of 320 acres.
- 176 of 200 "
- 190 of 140 "

and was informed, by direction of Mr. Secretary Wilson, that the selection must be made at the local Land Office.

On the 19th December, 1867, B. M. Mortimer applied for these three portions as M.C.P's. The mineral leases were thereupon surrendered and cancelled, and the cancelled leases were in error submitted for sale at Hartley, on 14th October, 1868.

The M.C.P's. for 320 and 200 acres respectively (the applications for which are missing) still stand correct in the name of B. M. Mortimer.

M.C.P. 67/2,958 has been declared void. The * application herewith shows that it was taken up by Mortimer on behalf of the Western Kerosene Oil Company, but the C.P. Register and Land Agent's extract only recognize them as the applications of Mortimer in his individual capacity. * See No. 68.

The transfers referred to by the present Secretary of the Company refer to five other M.C.P's., as noted on the papers.

While investigating the cases of Mortimer's M.C.P's. a further case of irregularity has been brought to light.

On 19th December, 1867, William Jolly applied under the 19th clause for 50 acres (since reduced to 46 acres). On the 18th March, 1871, Mr. John M'Donald, jun., made a declaration on behalf of the Western Kerosene Company that this purchase was the property of the Company, and under this declaration the C.P. Register was noted that Mr. Jolly made the application on behalf of the Company, apparently without any authority, and a subsequent transfer from the Western Kerosene Company to the trustees of the N.S.W. Shale Co. has been passed; but no transfer from Jolly to the Company has been received or recorded in this department. W.B., 11/9/77.

Minute on No. 97.

It is very unfortunate that the application for the two portions which are now in question are not to be found; but presuming them to be of the same character as that herewith, i.e., that of B. M. Mortimer for 140 acres taken up on the some date, it may very reasonably be concluded that they were taken up by him on behalf of the Western Kerosene Oil Company, though such is not stated under his signature, as is usually the case when an agent acts for others in making such applications. In the records of both the local and the head office, however, the applications are treated as those of B. M. Mortimer alone. Under these circumstances I think the present occupants of the land, i.e., the Shale and Oil Company, should be called upon to prove the transfer from Mortimer to the Western Kerosene Company of the lands in question, and also the transfer to them of the interest of the Western Kerosene Company in the said lands.

Of course, under any circumstances, as the lands had been contracted to be granted to either Mortimer or the Western Kerosene Company before they were offered for sale by auction in October, 1868, they were not vacant Crown lands at the time. Even if they had been then sold at auction the sale would have been invalid, therefore the selection of them by Withers and Armstrong is invalid also, and the money paid by them must be refunded.—T.G., 12/9/77.

No. 99.

Further precis of the case.

On August 20, 1867, the following mineral leases,—
No. 204 of 320 acres—B. M. Mortimer.
No. 176 of 200 " " "
No. 190 of 140 " " "

were, amongst others, gazetted as forfeited for non-payment of rent, and on the 11th of October in that year the forfeiture was reversed.

On September 30, Mr. P. Macauliffe, Secretary of the Western Kerosene Company, applied for permission to convert these leases into mineral conditional purchases, and was informed, by direction of Mr. Secretary Wilson, that the application must be made at the local Land Office.

On the 19th December, 1867, B. M. Mortimer applied for these three portions, under the 19th clause, as conditional purchases. The

The mineral leases were thereupon surrendered and cancelled, and the cancelled leases were again gazetted as forfeited on the 5th June, 1868, and without any regard being paid to the fact that the land was held from the Crown under a different tenure, the portions were submitted for sale at Hartley, on the 14th October, 1868.

The conditional purchases for 320 and 200 acres respectively (the application for the first of which is missing) still stand correct in the name of B. M. Mortimer.

The application for 200 acres shows that though the heading specifies that the application is made by Mortimer, on behalf of the Western Kerosene Company, the signature is by him in his individual capacity. The Conditional Purchase Register and Land Agent's extract also recognize the conditional purchases as being the applications of Mortimer only.

The declarations have been made by Mr. M'Donald, jun., the Secretary of the Company, and state that the Company are the owners of the land.

The application of Mortimer for 140 acres, made in the same form, and similarly recognized by the Land Agent and the department, was declared void, because it contained two portions which did not adjoin; but Mr. Mortimer was informed that he could re-apply for the land by two separate applications. This he accordingly did by conditional purchase, on Feb. 27th, 1868, for 84 acres and 56 acres respectively; but there is this peculiarity about these applications, that no mention is made at all of the Western Kerosene Company, and yet, without any apparent authority, some officer of this department has, under the declarations of the Secretary of the Company, noted the Conditional Purchase Register that these conditional purchases are made by B. M. Mortimer, for the "Western Kerosene Oil Company" (vide declaration), in whose name it still stands. After a thorough search, no transfers have been received or recorded from Mortimer to the Western Kerosene Oil Company.

Attention is directed to the surveyor's report and tracings, showing that the Survey Office recognized these conditional purchases as belonging to the Company.—W.B., 17/9/77.

Sir,

At the request of Mr. Blackman, of your department, I have the honor to inform you that I this day waited upon and exhibited to that gentleman a deed, dated 12th February, 1866, in which B. M. Mortimer transferred 320 acres and 200 acres, referred to in my letter of 21st ultimo (erroneously written "October"), then held by him as mineral leases, to the Western Kerosene Oil Company (Limited).

I have the honor further to state that my Directors will be happy to produce the deed above-mentioned when called upon to do so.

I have, &c.

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to The Secretary, Shale and Oil Company.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 19 September, 1877.

Referring to your *letter of the 21st ultimo, respecting the conditional purchases noted in the margin, which were applied for under the 25th clause of the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," by Messrs. Withers and Armstrong, on the 24th ultimo, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to request that you will be good enough to prove the transfer from Mortimer to the Western Kerosene Company, and from that Company to the trustees of your Company, of the lands in question.

I am to add that as the lands had been contracted to be granted to Mortimer or the Western Kerosene Company before they were offered for sale by auction in October, 1868, the Minister for Lands has decided that they were not vacant Crown lands, and that the selection of them by Withers and Armstrong is invalid, and the money paid by them must be refunded.

I have the honor to request that permission may be granted to me to see the papers connected with B. M. Mortimer's mineral leases and conditional purchases taken up by him in December, 1867, and 1865, at Hartley.

I have, &c.,

HENRY WITHERS.

No. 109.

Messrs. A. Armstrong and H. J. Withers to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Land Agency Office, 26, Bridge-street, Sydney, 4 October, 1877.

We have the honor to draw your early attention to previous correspondence respecting the auction selections noted in the margin, and to hand herewith attached a copy of the opinion of counsel, on the question whether a mineral lease holder could legally select his lease after having improved the same.

We also beg to draw your attention to the fact that the selection of the land was made by B. M. Mortimer after he had transferred by deed all his interest in mineral leases to the Western Kerosene Company, so that he in fact attempts to select mineral lands improved while under lease to him after he had transferred such lease, and that in accordance with the 13th clause of the Land Act of 1861 the land could only be selected by the lease holder. After the selection of the land by B. M. Mortimer the lessees allowed the rent of such lease to lapse, and it was duly forfeited, and the land offered for sale by auction. We beg therefore to point out distinctly that the application of B. M. Mortimer is illegal, being (1st.) for improved lands, and (2nd.) at the time under lease to the Western Kerosene Company, and to request that you will without delay uphold the auction selections referred to, and direct the early issue of deeds of grant to us.

We have, &c.,

A. ARMSTRONG.

HENRY J. WITHERS.

[CASE.]

A.B. held a mineral lease of about 200 acres of land under section 22 of the "Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861," upon which over £200 was expended in the way of improvements.

Whilst so holding such lands, and after spending such moneys, the lessees conditionally selected such land under the 19th section of the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," as a mineral purchase.

Counsel will observe, by the 13th clause of the Alienation Act, lands containing improvements are exempt from selection.

Counsel is also referred to the 43rd and 44th Regulations for conditional purchases for mining purposes under Alienation Act.

The question for Counsel's opinion.

Whether a conditional purchase of mineral land under lease for mineral purposes can be legally made by the lessee after such land has been improved?

Copy

Lots CC, DD,
and EE, of sale at Hartley, of 14th October,

Copy of Mr. Darley's opinion.

I am of opinion inasmuch as land containing improvements (no matter by whom improved) are not open to conditional purchase under the 13th section, that the lessee of mineral land, no more than the lessee of pastoral land, cannot conditionally purchase such land. I think the 19th section must be read as if it were a proviso to the 13th, and that land not open to selection under the one is not open to selection under the other.

I need scarcely point out that the lessee of improved mineral lands may purchase such lands under the 39th Vic. No. 13, section 1.

FRED. R. M. DARLEY,
130 Elizabeth-street, 22 Sept., 1877.

Minutes on No. 109.

Let me have a copy of the late Attorney General's opinion upon the point involved in this case.— Enclosed T.G., 6/10/77. Copy herewith, 8th Oct., 77.—W.B.

Notwithstanding Mr. Darley's opinion, I do not feel warranted in taking any steps that would lead to the impression that I doubted the legality of mineral lessees conditionally purchasing lands that they may have improved, a practice which has always hitherto been permitted in this department, and is approved of by the legal opinion of the late Attorney General.

The only point I had any doubt upon, i.e., whether B. Mortimer conditionally purchased the portions in question on his own account, or as agent for the Co., is to my mind, set at rest by the fact that the Company had applied for the land in Sydney, and were directed to apply at Hartley, which direction they complied with, in my opinion, by despatching Mr. Mortimer there for that purpose. Of course the Company will have to perfect the transfer to them, as already directed.—T.G., 10/10/77.

[Enclosures to No. 109.]

OPINION of Mr. Attorney-General Windeyer.

I am of opinion that the improvements by the lessees or their tenants do not operate as a bar to the right of such lessees to purchase the land under the 13th and 19th sections of the Lands Alienation Act of 1861.

The improvements in the 13th section must be construed to mean improvements other than those made by the lessees or those claiming under them.

I am of opinion therefore that the practice of the office is correct, and should be adhered to.

Referring to your letter of the 4th October last, covering a copy of the opinion of Mr. Darley, barrister-at-law, on the question whether a mineral lease holder can legally select his lease after having improved the same, as bearing upon the right of the New South Wales Shale and Oil Company to certain land at Hartley, I am directed to inform you that Mr. Secretary Garrett decided that, notwithstanding Mr. Darley's opinion, he did not feel warranted in taking any steps that would lead to the impression that he doubted the legality of mineral lessees conditionally purchasing any lands that they may have improved, a practice which has always hitherto been permitted in this department, and is approved of by the legal opinion of the late Attorney General.

I am to add that the only point Mr. Garrett has any doubt upon, i.e., whether Mortimer selected the portions in question on his own account or as agent for the Company, is, in his view, set at rest by the fact that the Company had applied for the land in Sydney, and were directed to apply at Hartley, which direction they complied with, in his opinion, by despatching Mr. Mortimer there for that purpose.

Sir,

Crown Solicitor's Office, Sydney, 26 April, 1878.

At the request of John M'Donald, jun., Esquire, Secretary of the N. S. Wales Shale and Oil Company, I have the honor to state that I find that by indenture bearing date 12th February, 1866, Thomas Wilton Stanford, Benjamin Miller Mortimer, William Jolly, and John Vinson Barnard conveyed and assigned unto Thomas Sutcliffe Mort and Samuel Bennett all their interest of and in the three parcels of land containing respectively 200 acres, 320 acres, and 40 acres, set out and described as Nos. 1, 2, and 3 in the schedule of land on the other side hereof, in trust for the Western Kerosene Oil Company (Limited), and that by the Western Kerosene Oil Company's Incorporation Act of 1867, section 11, all lands held by trustees on behalf of the Company become vested in the incorporated Company. I find also that by indenture, bearing date 1st November, 1871, and registered as No. 181, book 128, John M'Donald, the younger, the Western Kerosene Oil Company and others conveyed and assured all their interest in the three parcels of land before-described, and also in two parcels of land containing respectively fifty-six acres and eighty-four acres, set out and described as Nos. 4 and 5 in the said schedule of lands, unto Thomas Ware Smart and Frederick *William Dangar, in trust for the N. S. Wales Shale and Oil Company, and that by the New South Wales Shale and Oil Company's Act of 1873 the said Company were incorporated, and by the 13th section of the Act all lands vested in trustees or any person on behalf of the Company are declared to be vested in the incorporated Company.

Holkham.

I have, &c.,

Mr. Haylock (if first conditional purchase is satisfactory) to measure, if unobjectionable.—W.A.T. (for Surveyor General), 16 April, 1873. Transferred to Licensed-Surveyor Balmain.—C. HAYLOCK, 28 July, 1873.

No. 4.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Balmain to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Cooma, 26 November, 1873.

In obedience to instructions* 73/161 and 73/121, I have the honor to forward a †plan of two portions of land in the parish of Palmerston, county of Beresford, applied for under sections 13 and 21 of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 by Henry Malcolm Wallace. I have considered instructions 73/121 objectionable, and have consequently measured the land on the west of the 200 acres instead of on the north. The applicant is willing to take it as measured; he is resident on No. 73; improvements, £50.

I have, &c.,

JOHN HOPE BALMAIN,

Licensed Surveyor.

Minutes on No. 4.

Surveyor General.—Conditional purchase *73/2,309 has not been measured as applied for under 21st clause, being to the west instead of the north of H. M. Wallace's 200 acres. As however it could not be granted in that form, and the applicant is satisfied to take it as measured (vide Surveyor's report) the conditional purchase may be allowed to stand.—A.J., 11 June, 1875.

May be received.—R.D.F.G., 30 June, 1875.

No. 5.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Balmain to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Cooma, 26 November, 1873.

In obedience to instructions *No. 162, of June 27th, 1872, I now forward a †plan of 200 acres of land, situated in the parish of Palmerston, county of Beresford, applied for as a conditional purchase under 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 by Hugh Wallace.

There are improvements on the land in the shape of a small hut, value £10, in which applicant resides.

MEMORANDUM of subjects requiring explanation or completion in connection with the survey and plan of two portions, Nos. 73 and 74, conditional purchases, parish of Dangelong, county of Beresford, transmitted by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Balmain's letter No. 73/113 of 26 November, 1873, and on which Mr. Balmain's report in explanation is requested.

The areas of both the above portions are deficient, that of portion No. 73 being several acres less than it is stated to be on plan.—ROBT. D. FITZGERALD, (For Surveyor General.)

I have examined the areas of these measurements, and make No. 74 very slightly in excess of the quantity, viz., 120 acres; that of No. 73 is, however, deficient by about 4 acres. The eastern boundary is now removed 80 links easterly, making the southern boundary 36.48 instead of 35.68 as originally; eastern boundary 50' exactly.—JOHN HOPE BALMAIN, Licensed Surveyor, 30/1/75.

Final Declarations of 1875.

By direction of Mr. Secretary Garrett all the final declarations received upon conditional purchases, and falling due between January and August, 1875, were included amongst those that were referred for verification to the Inspectors after the passing of the Act 39 Victoria, No. 13, and very many of them are still in the hands of the Inspectors, not yet reported upon.

I

*This is the Land Agent's number.

*This is the Land Agent's number.

I now submit, that as the parties have in these cases ostensibly complied with the requirements of the law, and have made declaration that they have actually and substantially fulfilled the conditions of their several purchases, it is hardly to be justified that the recognition of these claims should in the absence of particular grounds of objections be longer deferred.

It is needless to point out that the delay is well calculated to embarrass their transactions, or that the lapse of time has gone far to render it impracticable to distinguish between the cases in which the law has been carried out and those in which it has been evaded.

It is probable that some moral effect has been produced by the reference of such cases; but by their being longer kept open (as it appears to me) that effect is likely to be rather diminished than increased.

I therefore respectfully submit the propriety of withdrawing from the hands of the Inspectors all the declarations still outstanding received prior to August, 1875, to the date of passing of the Act referred to, except where those officers have found evidence of default on the part of the claimants, and by such declarations being passed after such examinations as had been considered sufficient, prior to the adoption of the present system of verification.

I do not wish to conceal my impression that this measure may have the effect in some cases of condoning breaches of the law, and of admitting claims that could not pass under closer scrutiny. But the practical injustice of delaying further the recognition of titles that are not liable to question appears to me an event of greater magnitude.

The Chief Commissioner to The Inspectors of Conditional Purchases.

(Circular.)

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, 7 August, 1877.

Referring to the instructions that have been sent you to inspect and report on certain conditional purchases, on which the declarations prescribed by the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 to be made at the end of three years have been received, I am now directed to inform you that the Minister for Lands has decided to withdraw from your hands all the declarations still outstanding on selections made prior to the 10th August, 1872, except where you have found evidence of default on the part of the claimant; and I am to request that you will be good enough to return at your earliest convenience all such cases, with a view to these declarations being dealt with.

Sir,

131, Pitt-street, Sydney, 23 January, 1878.

I have the honor to draw attention to selection No. 73, 200 acres, parish Palmerston, county Beresford, taken up by Henry Malcolm Wallace (a minor) on the 16th May, 1872, under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, for which the declaration was made by his father, Henry Wallace, on the 22nd July, 1875.

The improvements on the selection consisted of—

Hut, 9 feet x 3 feet, one brick thick, and a water-closet.

Open slab-shed and small yard, enclosed with two rails.

Paddock, about 12 acres, enclosed by a two-railed sapling fence; and were valued in October, 1873, by Mr. Surveyor Balmain at £50, their full value.

The hut and water-closet were removed in June, 1877.

Mr. R. J. King to The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales.

Sir,

131, Pitt-street, Sydney, 23 January, 1878.

I have the honor to draw attention to selections Nos. 67 and 106, 200 and 320 acres respectively, situated in the parish of Palmerston, county of Beresford, and standing in the name of Hugh Wallace, a minor.

The first portion was selected on the 16th May, 1872, under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, for which declaration was made by the father, Henry Wallace, on the 22nd July, 1875. The latter was selected by Henry Wallace on the 9th July, 1874, under the same Act, and transferred by him to his son Hugh.

I have several times visited these selections, and seen only the following improvements:—
No. 67—There is a paddock of about 15 acres, enclosed with a six-wire fence; a hut 12 x 9 feet, one brick thick, shingled, half of which is built on the adjoining selection, No. 106. On the last-mentioned selection there is an open slab shed, brick water-closet (one brick), and a small portion of the paddock already referred to. The total value of improvements on both selections would not exceed (£60) sixty pounds.

I have, &c.,

ROBERT J. KING.

Minutes on No. 19.

The inquiry is as to the fulfilment of the conditions upon a selection declared to in 1875. The inquiry results from a complaint with deposit. The case is not one that would have been referred otherwise—the declaration having been made prior to the passing of the Act of 1875. The question is as to the value of the improvements, and the evidence is conflicting. That brought forward by the complainant alleges that the value did not exceed from £80 to £108 upon the 200 acres. For the defence the witnesses estimate the value at £200. The ownership of the selection has been disputed between the parties. The latter evidence is deficient in precision; and were the valuations applicable to present improvements, I should be inclined to concur in the Commissioner's conclusions; but the forfeiture of property in a case where the only condition that is disputed is that of the improvements as to their value nearly four years ago, would only, I think, be justified by the clearest evidence of default. I do not think that a case in which the evidence against the claimant admits the value of his improvements to have been nearly or above 10s. per acre, can be so considered, and I am unable to concur in the recommendation as to forfeiture.—A.O.M., 18th March, 1879.

Henry M. Wallace's 200 acres, 16 May, 1872; Henry M. Wallace's 120 acres, 13 March, 1873; conditional purchases 72-2,562, 73-2,309.

Robert Clark sworn, states: I am a labourer and live at Dangelong Station; I have been there for twelve years; I know H. M. Wallace's selection of 200 acres; I do not know the exact date of taking up the selection; it is situated on the right bank of the creek, about a mile from Dangelong Station; I have worked on the selection between 1872 and 1875; there was a paddock of about 12 acres enclosed by a two-rail fence, worth 7s. 6d. per rod; the former contained 184 rods, which at 7s. 6d. a rod amounts to £69; there was a hut built of a single brick and double corners 15 x 10, roofed with shingles, not floored; it was worth about £22 or £23, a brick closet worth about £2; there was a slab shed, open in front, roofed with galvanized iron, 20 x 12, worth £12 10s.; also a horse yard worth £1 10s.; there were no other improvements; there was originally a small humpy on the ground.

Cross-examined: I am in the employment of the informant; I never measured the huts; I was working with the man who put up the sheds; I rode round the fence this morning and made a rough calculation as to the number of posts.

E. W. Mawson sworn, states: I am a carpenter and builder; I estimate the value of a brick cottage, 15 x 10, and shingled, at £28 10s., if the bricks were carted from Cooma; if made at Dangelong I estimate the value at £22.

Daniel Omara sworn, states: I reside and am employed at Dangelong Station; I have lived there over 14 years; I know H. M. Wallace's selection of 200 acres, situated about a mile from the station, on the right bank of the creek; the improvements consisted of a brick cottage, built of single brick and double corners, roofed with shingles; I cannot give the dimensions of the cottage; it was worth £20, more or less; there was a brick closet, worth between £3 or £4; a paddock surrounded with a fence, containing 380 posts at £2 10s. per 100, £9 10s.; drawing the same, say £4; putting up 190 rods, at 1s. 6d. per rod, £14 5s.; 800 rails, getting and drawing, £8; total £35 15s.; there was a shed built of slabs, open in front, roofed with iron; there were three stalls in it, worth about £12, a horse yard—I cannot say the value, but I do not think it was worth £5.

Cross-examined: Within the last few days Mr. King has spoken to me about the improvements; I cannot say whether the selection was fully improved or not; the matter never entered my head; the paddock contains between 12 and 13 acres; my evidence is from myself and not from others, or instigated by others.

Sworn before me, this 9th December, 1878,—
JOHNSON GEO. KING.

DANIEL O'MARA.

James P. Benzeville sworn, states: I know H. M. Wallace's selection of 200 acres; I have known it since March, 1877; at that time the improvements consisted of a brick hut, about 12 x 10, worth about £20, a brick closet worth about £2 10s., a slab shed, with iron roof, worth about £12, a small yard in front of it, worth £2, about 185 rods, fencing around a paddock, made of posts and round rails; I valued it at £32 7s. 6d.; Mr. Surveyor Heylock valued a similar brick hut, for an improvement price, at £20; I have had a similar kind of fencing done, and have taken the prices from the station books.

Cross-examined: I paid 25s. per 100 for drawing posts a distance of 2 miles; the rails were mostly round (some split) round the paddock; since I went to Dangelong I have had some two-rail fences put up; I paid 1s. 6d. per rod for erecting; £2 10s. per 100 for the posts; drawing cost about 10s. per 100; £1 was the proper price paid for drawing the posts, but I could not get teams at the time so had to pay more; cutting rails, 10s. per 100; drawing the rails, 5s. per 100; a strong team is worth 15s. per day; as superintendent of the Dangelong Station, now in the possession of the informant, I made a demand to be put in possession of the selection in question; Mr. Henry Wallace refused to give me possession.

J. P. BENZEVILLE.

Matthew Stokes sworn, states: I am a selector on Dangelong Run; I know H. M. Wallace's selection on Dangelong Flat; I knew it three years ago; the improvements consisted of a paddock of about 20 acres, surrounded by a two-rail fence, worth 7s. 6d. or 8s. per rod; I do not know the quantity of fencing; a brick cottage, a closet, a stable, and yard; I cannot say what these improvements were worth; I consider the selection was fully improved to £1 per acre.

Cross-examined: I never valued the improvements in my own mind separately.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

Ferdinand Keon sworn, states: I know H. M. Wallace's selection of 200 acres; during the year 1875 the improvements consisted of a paddock about 20 acres, surrounded by a two-rail fence, worth about 6s. or 7s. per rod; it was a good substantial fence; there was a brick hut shingled, and a stone foundation; I have had nothing to do with brickwork, but I should say the hut was worth about £30; there was a shed with a small yard; I do not remember the size; there was a brick closet worth about £10 or £12; I never valued the improvements in my own mind, therefore I cannot say whether there were £200 worth of improvements or not.

Cross-examined: I have not seen the selection for the last two years; I cannot say what number of rods the fence consisted of, I cannot say whether the selection was fully improved.

Sworn before me, this 9th December, 1878,—

Alexander M'Rae sworn, states: I am a mason by trade; I know H. M. Wallace's selection on Dangelong Flat; I put up the brickwork of a hut on the selection; when completed it was worth between £60 and £70; there was a brick closet attached, which I include in my estimate; there was a paddock with a fence round it; I do not know the value of the fencing; there was also a three-stall stable put up with rough timber.

Cross-examined: I was engaged by the day in putting up the brick hut; a man and myself worked at it for a month; the angles were of two bricks 9 inches, the rest one brick—4½ inches; I think the hut was 20 feet long, but am not sure; am certain it was 10 feet wide, no partition, roofed with sawn timber and shingles, not floored; I assisted the carpenter in roofing the hut.

Sworn before me, this 9th December, 1878,—

ALEXANDER M'RAE.

Samuel Alfred Pratt sworn, states: I am managing (?) Myra Station, I have had considerable experience in improving selections; I know H. M. Wallace's selection on the Dangelong Flat; I saw it about July, 1878; considered that the selection was fully improved, that is to say that there were £200 worth of improvements, that they were of a substantial character.

Cross-examined: There was a brick hut; I do not know the dimensions, neither can I tell the value of it; I cannot tell how much fencing there was, I never measured it; I believe the fencing was on the selection; there was a shed or sort of stable built of slabs.

Sworn before me, this 9th day of December, 1878,—

JOHNSON GEO. KING.

James Agnew sworn, states: I am a selector on Dangelong Run; I know H. M. Wallace's selection on Dangelong Flat; I saw it before and since July, 1875; there was a paddock of about 22 or 23 acres surrounded by a two-rail fence, worth 7s. per rod; there was a small brick cottage, brick closet, and shed with a small yard in front of it; I think that the selection was improved to the value of £200.

Cross-examined: I cannot value the improvements separately; I always understood that the paddock was on the selection.

REPORT of an inquiry held at Cooma on the 9th December, 1878, by Johnson Geo. King, Commissioner for the Southern Division, respecting the conditional purchase of Henry M. Wallace, made at Cooma, on the 16th May, 1873, 13th March, 1873.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of the Hon. the Minister for Lands, minutes of evidence taken at an inquiry under the Lands Acts Amendment of 1875, held by me in pursuance of the reference notified in the Gazette of the *11th October, 1878, in the matter of the above-described conditional purchase. Enclosed. *See No. 19.

The claimant having been duly served with notice of the time and place of holding the inquiry was present thereat.

The following facts bearing upon the fulfilment by the selector of the conditions of purchase were elicited in evidence, viz. :—

The evidence clearly shows that the selection of 200 acres was not improved to the extent required by the Act.

The £10 to be returned to the informant.

I have therefore to report that I find such conditions not to have been fulfilled, and to recommend that these conditional purchases be forfeited.

Report by Mr. Commissioner King.

REPORT of an inquiry held at Cooma on the 9th December, 1878, by Johnson Geo. King, Commissioner for the Southern Division, respecting the conditional purchase of Hugh Wallace, made at Cooma, on the 16th May, 1872.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands, minutes of evidence taken at an inquiry under the Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875, held by me in pursuance of the reference notified in the Gazette of the 11th October, 1878, in the matter of the above-described conditional purchase.

The claimant having been duly served with notice of the time and place of holding the inquiry was present thereat.

The following facts bearing upon the fulfilment by the selector of the conditions of purchase were elicited in evidence, viz. :—

The informant made out his case that this land had not been improved to the extent required by the Act.

The £10 to be returned to the informant.

I have therefore to report that I find such conditions not to have been fulfilled, and to recommend that this conditional purchase be forfeited.

I have, &c.,

JOHNSON GEO. KING,
Commissioner.

Minute on No. 23.

The case is very similar to that of the selection of Henry M. Wallace herewith, and arises from a complaint—the ownership of the selection having been disputed between the parties.

It is one which, having regard to the date of the declaration, would have been withdrawn from the Inspector, and passed under the Land Agent's certificate appended to the declaration but for the present complaint. In a case of this date, were the complaint lodged by the Inspector I should on the fact appearing on the evidence hesitate to recommend forfeiture on the ground only of deficient improvements, and I am constrained to take this same view in the present instance.—A.O.M., 18 March, 1879.

[Enclosure.]

Evidence referred to.—Court of Inquiry, Cooma, 9th December, 1878.

Conditional Purchase 72-2,563. Hugh Wallace, 200 acres, May 16th, 1872.

Robert Clark sworn, states: I know Hugh Wallace's selection of 200 acres, situated on Jack White's Flat; between 1872 and 1875 the improvements consisted of a two-rail fence enclosing about eight (8) acres of ground; this fence was removed, and a wire fence put up in place of it; this fence was made of posts and six wires; there was about a mile of this fencing, worth about sixty (£60) pounds; there was a brick hut about 15 x 10; one-half was on the selection in question, the other half was on another selection belonging to one of Mr. Wallace's children; I valued the hut at twenty-four (£24) pounds; the portion on this selection would be worth £12; these are all the improvements; the foundation of the hut was of stone; the walls were one brick thick, and double bricks at the corners and chimney, one door and one window, roofed with shingles and sawn rafters.

Cross-examined: There was heavy as well as light wire in the fence; some of the posts were very heavy; this line of the selection runs through the hut; I give a rough idea of the value of the hut; I cannot tell the cost of bricks.

Emmet W. Mawson sworn, states: I am a builder, and reside in Cooma; I have had some experience in building small houses on selections for the last four years; I estimate the value of a brick hut built of single brick, double at the corners, stone foundation, roofed with shingles and sawn rafters, one window, one door and chimney, dimensions 15 x 10, at £28 10s.; at Cooma prices for material and labour I should consider that £60 or £70 would be more than double the value of such a building; it would take 2,500 bricks; 8,000 bricks would build three such houses 4½ inches thick; the price of bricks has increased since 1875; the bricks in the hut are now worth £4 per 1,000; in 1875 they would have been worth £3 5s.; if the bricks were made on the ground the hut would cost £2 10s. cheaper.

Cross-examined: The walls of a building half brick thick could not be carried higher than 8 or 9 feet.

Sworn before me, this 10th December, 1878,—

JOHNSON GEO. KING.

E. W. MAWSON.

James P. Benzeville, sworn, states: I reside at Dangelong; I am manager for George King and Co.; I know Hugh Wallace's selection of 200 acres, on Jack White's Flat; I have known it since March, 1877; at that time the improvements consisted of a brick hut, part of which was on this selection in question, the other part was on another selection taken up by Henry Wallace and transferred to Hugh Wallace; Mr. Wallace pointed out to me the boundary-line between the two selections running through the hut; there was a paddock of about 16 acres enclosed by a six-wire fence, less than ½ of a mile altogether, which I value at £46; of this fencing of the value of £6 was on the adjoining selection, leaving the total value of the fencing on the selection in question at £40; I value the hut at £22—half the value (£11) credited to the selection in question; it is a good country for making bricks; I have sold bricks to Mr. Wallace at 25s. per 1,000, which I considered to be a fair price; I have had a similar six-wire fence put up on the run; it cost £61 per mile; these were the only improvements that I saw in 1877.

Cross-examined: I do not know anything about bricks and mortar except setting the bricks; the informant made a demand to be put in possession of this selection now under inquiry; there was no question of improvements previous to making the demand; Mr. Wallace told me that 25s. per 1,000 would be a fair price at the kiln.

Sworn before me, this 10th December, 1878,—

JOHNSON GEO. KING.

J. B. BENZEVILLE.

Daniel O'Mara sworn, states: I live at Dangelong; I have lived there about fourteen years; I know a selection belonging to Hugh Wallace, 200 acres, situated on Jack White's Flat; about three or four years ago there was on the selection a brick hut, the same one that is there now; there was a two-rail fence; it was removed, and a post and wire fence put up in place of it; the hut was worth about £24; I do not think that the paddock was a mile round; I have heard that the wire fencing was worth £60 per mile; the two-rail fence was not there when the wire fence was erected; it was put upon the same ground outside of the two-rail.

Cross-examined: I do not know when the two-rail fence was removed.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

James Agnew, sworn, states: I am a selector at Dangelong; I know Hugh Wallace's 200 acres on Jack White's Flat; I knew it in July, 1875; the improvements consisted of a brick cottage about 18 x 10; the boundary-line went through the cottage; there was a two-rail fence enclosing a paddock of not quite $\frac{1}{2}$ of a mile; afterwards a post and six-wire fence was put up; a portion of the two-rail fence was removed, and a portion remained, and removed afterwards; there was a shed inside the paddock, and also one near the brick hut; there was about 54 chains of wire fencing worth 30s. per chain, equal to £82; I consider the hut worth £75; sixteen months ago bricks were delivered $\frac{1}{2}$ of a mile from this selection at £5 per 1,000; it is $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the selection to the kiln; in July, 1875, there was a portion of the two-rail fence still on the ground when the wire fence was erected; I consider that the selection was fully improved to the value of £200.

Cross-examined: I value the fence at £120 per mile; I have not built any brick huts.

Sworn before me, this 10th December, 1878,—

Samuel Alfred Pratt, sworn, states: I know Hugh Wallace's 200 acres on Jack White's Flat; I knew it in July, 1875; at that time I saw some fencing—post and rail and wire—brick cottage, shed, and a brick closet; I am not sure about the post and rail; I believe the wire fence was there in 1875; I value the fence at between £90 and £100 per mile—that is to say, if the fence is what I believe it to be, consisting of heavy posts and heavy wire; I should think the selection was fully improved to the value of £200, but I did not examine the improvements in detail; I cannot say whether all the improvements are on this selection; I do not know the length of the wire fence nor the dimensions of the buildings.

Ferdinand Keon, sworn, states: I know Hugh Wallace's selection of 200 acres on Jack White's Flat; I saw it about July, 1875; the improvements consisted of a paddock of about 25 acres, surrounded by a wire fence, sheep proof—heavy wire and good posts; there was a brick cottage; I do not know the dimensions; it was of one room and a shed; I consider that the selection was fully improved to the value of £200.

Cross-examined: There were six wires in the fence; such a fence would be worth from £90 to £100 per mile in that locality; I cannot value the improvements in detail; I do not know the cost of putting up wire fencing; I have seen wire fencing that I was told cost from £80 to £100 per mile.

Alexander M' Rae sworn, states: I am a mason by trade; I know Hugh Wallace's selection of 200 acres; I put up a brick cottage on the ground worth £60 or £70, built with a stone foundation, average 2 feet all round, about 20 x 10, built of single brick $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches thick, the angles of double brick 9 inches thick, a good chimney, roofed with shingles and sawn timber, floored; I have no idea what number of bricks a good roof of that size would take; the walls would be 7 feet high at least; the chimney is perhaps about 18 inches above the roof; I cannot state the value of the door or window; I do not know the number of 2-feet shingles it would take to roof it; I do not know the number of rafters.

Mr. G. King to The Secretary for Lands.

Dear Sir,

131, Pitt-street, Sydney, 13 March, 1879.

Mr. Commissioner King heard on the 9th December the information laid against the selectors hereafter named, for not having improved their selections according to the Act, and I believe has reported upon them.

I will feel very much obliged by your informing me when these two cases will be adjudicated upon:—

Henry Malcolm Wallace (minor), conditional purchase No. 72/2,562, 200 acres; date of selection, 16 May, 1872.

Hugh Wallace (minor), conditional purchase No. 72/2,563, 200 acres; date of selection, 16 May, 1872.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE KING.

Minutes on above.

Urgent.—Chief Commissioner of Conditional Purchases: In what position do these matters stand? Please let me have the papers.—J.H., 13/3/79. Papers herewith.—E.K., 18/3/79.

No. 25.

Minute by The Secretary for Lands.

I FIND on perusing the papers in the case of the conditional purchase of Henry Malcolm Wallace, of 200 acres, made at Cooma on May the 16th, 1872, and in the case of the conditional purchase of Hugh Wallace, made at Cooma also on May the 16th, 1872, that the usual statutory declarations as to the fulfilment of residence and conditions were made by their parent (Henry Wallace) on behalf of the said Henry Malcolm Wallace and Hugh Wallace, they being minors at the time, the said declarations having been made on July 22nd, 1875, and that the declaration made on behalf of Henry Wallace was noted by the Department as having been examined and found correct in form on March 17th, 1876, and the declaration made on behalf of Henry Malcolm Wallace was also noted as having been examined and found correct in form on May 4th, 1876. I have also ascertained that such declarations were not sent for verification by any Inspector as to the fulfilment of conditions in pursuance of the terms of a general *minute of instructions upon the subject, approved by one of my predecessors, Mr. Driver, dated 16th June, 1877. * See No. 9.

Now the language of that minute, which in my view is applicable to these cases, is to the following effect, and written by Mr. Moriarty on June the 6th, 1877, viz.:—"I therefore respectfully submit the propriety of withdrawing from the hands of the Inspector all the declarations still outstanding received prior to August, 1875, or the date of passing of the Act referred to, except where those officers have found evidence of default on the part of claimants, and of such declarations being passed after such examination as has been considered sufficient prior to the adoption of the present system of inspection."

The Act to which reference is made in the foregoing paragraph is the Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875. In pursuance of the terms of the said minute the declarations made in respect to the aforesaid conditional conditional purchases were accepted, and I have a right to assume that the responsible officials of the Department of Lands at that time did not consider there were any special reasons, through default of conditions, to warrant or justify their reference to an inspector or surveyor for verification.

I am now asked—upwards of three years after such declarations were made—to decide whether the aforesaid conditional purchases should not be forfeited upon evidence given at a Court of Inquiry, held before a Commissioner, upon an allegation that the improvements effected on the aforesaid conditional purchases were not of sufficient value previous to the aforesaid declarations, and afterwards accepted by the department.

I have carefully perused the evidence given at the inquiry, which was of a very conflicting character, and taking into consideration the long interval of time which has elapsed since the said improvements were effected, as well as the fact of the declarations having been accepted in each case, and that if a complaint had not been made the cases would not have been sent to a Commissioner for inquiry, and after having given the subject my best consideration, I have arrived at the conclusion that I should not, under the circumstances set forth in my minute, be justified in approving of the forfeiture of the conditional purchase of Henry Malcolm Wallace or Hugh Wallace; the fees paid by complainant to be returned.

The Chief Commissioner to H. M. Wallace.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Division, Sydney, 30 April, 1879.
The Colonial Treasurer having forwarded to this Department the declaration made by Henry Wallace at Cooma, on the 22nd July, 1875, with reference to the conditional purchase described at foot hereof, and having reported that the interest on the balance of purchase money has been received at the Treasury, I am now directed by the Minister for Lands to notify to you that he is satisfied, after due inquiry, that the conditions as to residence and improvement prescribed by the 18th clause of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 have been completed in respect of the said conditional purchase.

The deed of grant may be obtained at any time hereafter by payment of the balance of the purchase money, with the interest, if any, then due; but should such payment be deferred, interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum must be paid between the 1st of January and 31st March in each year, until the balance, inclusive of interest as prescribed by law, shall have been duly paid, otherwise the selection will be forfeited.

CROWN LANDS.

No. 1.

Volunteer Order Selection.

Application by Robert Beit, of Kinderadeen, Collector, for a grant of 50 acres of land, under clauses 44 and 45 of the Volunteer Regulation Act of 1867.

RECEIVED with certificate, this 19th day of February, 1879, at 3-55 o'clock, by

O. WILLANS,
Land Agent for Queanbeyan District.

Sir,
In virtue of the enclosed certificate in favour of John O'Brien, I hereby apply for a grant of 50 acres of unimproved Crown land hereunder described.

19th February, 1879.

I am, &c.,

The Crown Land Agent, Queanbeyan.

ROBERT BEIT,
Collector.

DESCRIPTION :

County of Murray, parish of Gundaroo: Bounded on the north by T. A. Murray's 640 acres; on the east by Nos. 12 and 13; and on the south and west by lines—

Minutes on No. 1.

The Charting Branch.—W.C.E., 26 February, 1879. Mr. Licensed-surveyor Potter, to measure, if unobjectionable.—C. H. DALE (for Surveyor General), 21 March, 1879. Reported on by my letter of 30 June, 1879.—ADELBERG SCHLEICHER, Surveyor.

No. 2.

Mr. Surveyor Schleicher to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Goulburn, 30 June, 1879.

Referring to your instructions* of 21 March, 1879, to Mr. Licensed-surveyor Potter, and by him lately transferred to me, I do myself the honor to state that a few days since I visited the locality, and have to report that the land applied for by Robert Beit, in virtue of Volunteer Land Order 79-25, was, at time of application, and is still reserved from sale as reserve No. 71, from sale for railway, notified 5th November, 1878, as shown in local sketch on margin, and that this application is therefore objectionable, having been made for reserved lands.

2. In Government Gazette of 2nd June last, the revocation of this reserve, after expiration of thirty days from this date, was notified. Probably therefore the strictly legal course would be to inform Mr. Beit that his present application is objectionable (having been made when the land was reserved), but that if he choose, on the cancellation of the reserve, he can tender his application afresh.

I have, &c.,

ADELBERG SCHLEICHER,
Surveyor.

Minutes on No. 2.

Has reserve 71 been revoked wholly, or partly, and when? Has any other reserve been proclaimed including the same land wholly or partly?—F.W.R., 15 July, 1879. Reserve 71 wholly revoked.—2 June, 1879.—C.J.S. (for G. LEWIS), 15 July, 1879. It is recommended that the Volunteer Land Order in question be declared void, as at date of application the area described had not been withdrawn from reserve 71, which was not revoked until 2 June, 1879, and such revocation to take effect thirty clear days from that date; also that the additional conditional purchase taken up by Thomas* Ranger, at Goulburn, for the same land, be declared void, as the area in question is situated within the Queanbeyan District.—R. D. FITZGERALD (for Surveyor General), 15 July, 1879. The Under Secretary for Lands. Return with reapplication when made. Survey Minute of other side submitted for approval.—J.G.B., Under Secretary, 19 July, 1879.—W.W.S. When the B.C. of 15 July last was written, only a copy from the Conditional Sales Branch was obtained from the extract, which was placed with these papers. It did not contain the information which is on the authorised copy of conditional purchase application, which was not received in this office until the 17 July, and after these papers had been sent to Lands. The authorised copy was then put with these papers, and the other copy taken out by Mr. Owen of this branch. It is an extenuation, but does not alter the fact of the conditional purchase having been tendered at the wrong office.—F.W.R., 22 July, 1879. The Volunteer Land Order may be returned.—W.W.S. Approved. Let holder of Volunteer Order certificate and conditional purchaser be simultaneously informed that their applications are void.—J.H., 29 July, 1879. As to reapplication in each case, by the former applicants.—F.W.R., 6 August, 1879. End August, 1879.—J.G.B., 11 August, 1879.

(G.)

(Goulburn C.P. No. 168 of 1879.)

Application by Sampson Ranger for the conditional purchase, without competition, of 60 acres, unimproved Crown land, under section 21 of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861.

RECEIVED by me, with a deposit of £15, this 3rd day of July, 1879, at 10:40 o'clock.

C. S. ALEXANDER,
Agent for the Sale of Crown lands at Goulburn.

Sir,

3 July, 1879.

I am desirous of purchasing, without competition, under the 21st section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the portion of unimproved Crown land hereunder described containing 60 acres, which adjoins my conditional purchase of 200 acres, upon which I am now residing, and I herewith tender the sum of £15, being a deposit at the rate of five shillings (5s.) per acre on the area for which I apply.

This is the first selection made by me in virtue of my conditional purchase of 200 acres.

I am, &c.,

SAMPSON RANGER,

Collector.

To the Agent for the Sale of Crown lands at Goulburn.

Land Agent's number, 372-168; dates of previous conditional purchases, Oct., 1878-July, 1879; area of each conditional purchase, 200 acres—60 acres.

DESCRIPTION :

County of Murray, parish of Gundaroo, 60 acres: Commencing at a point about 5 chains west of the south-east corner of my 200 acres; and bounded on the north by that land and T. A. Murray's 640 acres; and on the east by G. E. Murray's 50 acres.

This application was made at Queanbeyan, but refused by the Land Agent as he had no record of the 200 acres.

No. 4.

The Chief Commissioner to The Land Agent at Queanbeyan.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Division, Sydney, 23 July, 1879.

Referring you to the note appended to the description of the selection, of which a copy is enclosed herewith, which it is stated was tendered to you but refused, I have to request that you will, at your early convenience, report as to the alleged tender of the application, and explain the cause of such refusal.

I have, &c.,

A. O. MORIARTY,

Chief Commissioner.

No. 5.

The Land Agent at Queanbeyan to The Chief Commissioner.

Sir,

Queanbeyan, 24 July, 1879.

Referring to your *letter of 23rd instant, I have the honor to state that I could not see my way to take an additional conditional purchase when the original was not taken up in my district. I could not know where it was, nor could I give the usual information what the additional was taken by virtue of. I always endeavour by careful examination of the maps not to travel out of my district. I observe now, by Mr. S. Ranger's application, where these 200 acres are, they are altogether in my district, and wrongly accepted by the Goulburn Land Agent, who has no right to travel into my district and take selections which are altogether in my district. I believe I have taken a Volunteer application on top of these 200 acres not knowing their position. I also notice that where this 60 acres is applied for an application for a Volunteer Order, was made so long ago as the 19th February, and I have no notice that this application has not been granted.

I now beg to remark that no part of the counties of Argyle or King or of the parish of Collector is in my district, and regret to say that all around me the Land Agents of Yass, Cooma, and now Goulburn, are overstepping their boundaries, which will lead to great confusion by-and-by.

I have, &c.,

O. WILLANS, C.L.A.

Telegram from Land Agent, Queanbeyan, to Chief Commissioner.

Sydney, 28 July, 1879.

I HAVE an indistinct recollection of Mr. Sampson Ranger making an application for an additional conditional purchase to a purchase of two hundred (200) acres taken in the Goulburn District, and believe I referred him there. I think his application was a verbal one. I cannot say when it was made. Think it likely to be the Thursday before he made it in Goulburn.

The Under Secretary for Lands to The Land Agent, Queanbeyan.

(V.L.O., 79-25.)

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 29 July, 1879.

I am directed to inform you that the * application of Robert Beit, on the 19th February, 1879, for 50 acres of land in virtue of Volunteer Land Order granted to Gunner John O'Brien, has been declared void for the following reason, viz. :—That at the date of application the land formed part of reserve 71, which was not revoked till thirty clear days from the 2nd June last.

I have, &c.,

J. G. BLAXLAND,
(For the Under Secretary).

The Under Secretary for Lands to R. Beit, Esq.

(V.L.O., 79-25.)

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 29 July, 1879.

In reference to your application tendered on the 19th February, 1879, to the Crown Lands Agent at Queanbeyan, to select 50 acres of Crown land in the parish of Gundaroo, county of Murray, in virtue of Volunteer Land Order certificate issued to John O'Brien, I am directed to inform you that it has been declared void, as at the time it was made the land referred to formed part of reserve 71, which was only revoked thirty clear days from 2nd June last.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN.

Memorandum by Mr. Canning to The Chief Commissioner.

Sir,

Conditional Sales Records, 29 July, 1879.

With reference to my answer of yesterday to your question, whether there was a letter in the office from the Crown Lands Agent at Queanbeyan, to which I erroneously replied that there was no such letter in the office. I beg to offer the following explanation :—

Neither Mr. Harpur, senior, who opens the letters, nor Mr. M'Guanne, who registers them, were in the room at the time you asked the question, and in consequence of not being able to obtain information from them, I was referred to Mr. Harpur, junior, whose duty it is to index the letters, who replied to my question, "Is there a letter in the office from the Land Agent at Queanbeyan?"—"No." Whereupon I informed you there was no such letter in the office.

You then sent me down to look through the day's papers; among which, of course, I did not succeed in finding the aforesaid letter. My inaccurate answer arose through Saturday's letters not having been indexed when received in the office.

I am, &c.,

A. E. F. CANNING.

Minute on No. 10.

Seen.—Mr. Canning should have made me aware of the responsible officer not being present at the moment.—A.O.M., 29 July, 1879.

No. 11.

The Chief Commissioner to Mr. S. Ranger.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Division, Sydney, 29 July, 1879.

Adverting to your selection noted in the margin, I have to inform you that this purchase has been declared void on account of your application not having been made at Queanbeyan, where you may lodge a fresh application accompanied with the enclosed refund order which the Queanbeyan Land Agent will accept in lieu of cash deposit for a like area, and secure the desired land, if still available, by amending your description wherein you have misquoted the county and parish, which should be county Murray, parish Gundaroo.

I have, &c.,

A. O. MORIARTY,
Chief Commissioner.

N.B.—There appears to be a conflicting application for the land, by a Volunteer Land Order, which has also this day been declared void.

Mr. S. Ranger to The Secretary for Lands.

Honorable Sir, Collector, 8 August, 1879.

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated 29th July, wherein my selection of 60 acres of land, made at Goulburn on the 3rd of July, has been declared void, through it not having been taken up at Queanbeyan. I therefore beg to say that the fact of the case is as follows :—I went to Queanbeyan about the end of October, 1878, to select the above, but was told by the Land Agent there that I could not take the land up there, as there was no record of my 200 acres conditional purchase, and, in consequence, I should go to Goulburn to get it; and before I could get to Goulburn the reservation for railway purposes was made, but as soon as the revocation took place I took the land up in Goulburn; therefore, you see that I have been misguided by the Land Agent. As Mr. Willans told me that it made no difference to county, as it was in the police district of Goulburn. I have yesterday been to Queanbeyan, and taken up the said land again with your order, but I find that Mr. Beit has again put in his Volunteer Land Order. This land is not surveyed, and I am informed that it cannot be so taken. In reference to this misquotation of the county and parish mentioned in your letter, I beg to say that my application specified that the land was in the county Murray, parish of Gundaroo. I may also state that it was impossible from the receipt of your letter for me to get to Queanbeyan sooner than the 7th August, having received yours at 9 o'clock on the 31st July. It was out of my power to ride near 50 miles and be at the Land Office on that day; and, as a land order can be taken any day, Mr. Beit took the advantage of me. Hoping you will take this into your consideration, and let me have what I consider as my rights.

I am, &c.,
SAMPSON RANGER.

Referring to your letter of the 8th ultimo, and previous correspondence relative to your selection noted in the margin, which was cancelled on account of you having applied for it at the Goulburn Land Office instead of that at Queanbeyan, I have to inform you that I do not see that any further action, beyond that which has already taken place, can be taken in your favour with respect to such purchase.

No. 16.

Mr. J. B. Thompson to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Parramatta, 15 September, 1879.

Herewith.

With reference to the application of Mr. Sampson Ranger for a conditional purchase of 60 acres, at Lake George, in the county of Murray, which has been recently declared void on account of his application not having been made at Queanbeyan. I have the honor to send you herewith a statutory declaration, made by Mr. Ranger, in which he asserts that he actually did make his application at Queanbeyan in the first instance, but was refused for reasons set forth in that declaration.

I submit that Mr. Ranger's assertion that he made an application for the land at Queanbeyan in October last, is not only borne out by his sworn declaration, but by several circumstances which can neither lie, nor err, nor distort facts. As I desire to be brief, I shall only ask your attention to the undisputed fact that Mr. Ranger was in the Land Office, Queanbeyan, on the occasion referred to, about 40 miles from his residence, for the sole purpose of taking up this conditional purchase, and I would most respectfully inquire whether it is not contrary to reason and common sense, to suppose that Mr. Ranger, who is a shrewd, intelligent man, would have retired from the Land Office, leaving the only and simple object of his long journey unfulfilled. It has been suggested to me that Mr. Ranger may not have made a formal tender of the amount of deposit by laying it upon the table of the Land Office. I have no means of ascertaining from Mr. Ranger whether this was so or not, without further loss of time, but in any case, this seems to be a technicality of such a trivial character as to be utterly unworthy of your consideration, and I only mention it, as it appears to me to be the only conceivable ground upon which the validity of Mr. Ranger's first application at Queanbeyan can fail to receive recognition. With regard to the mode of application, as shown by Mr. Ranger in his declaration, I can state that no other mode has been practised at the Queanbeyan Land Office for many years.

As the error of the local Land Agent in this matter has unquestionably given rise to the whole complication I deem it only fair to that officer to say that from my connection with the Lands Department as a licensed surveyor, in the Queanbeyan District, during the whole of that gentleman's tenure of office, I am in a position to state, that Mr. Willans' transaction of the business, has throughout been wonderfully correct, and that, despite the incorrect and incomplete maps with which he has been furnished; and, although taking exception to his action in this instance, I am glad to express my belief that the error is solely attributable to the badly defined nature of the county boundary near Mr. Ranger's, which is with considerable difficulty ascertained, even by a surveyor in the field.

I now beg you will have the goodness to reconsider the matter, with the additional light thrown upon it by Mr. Ranger's declaration.

I have, &c.,

J. B. THOMPSON.

P.S.—Mr. Ranger, as one of my constituents, has requested me to act for him in this matter, and placed me in possession of all his papers connected therewith, I therefore beg you will communicate to me your decision.—J.B.T.

Minutes on No. 16.

The Under Secretary, as required, per Mr. Blaxland.—F.W.R., 29 September, 1879. Seen by the Under Secretary.—J.G.B., 4 October, 1879. Mr. Wilton,—7 October, 1879. Submitted, 10 October, 1879.—F.H.W. Land Agent will be good enough to report further with reference to the endorsed statement, and more particularly as to whether at the time of the first application by Sampson Ranger, a definite application was made by him for the land in question.—A.O.M., B.C., 18 October, 1879.

[Enclosure.]

In consequence of a disputed claim of land applied for by me at Queanbeyan, in October last, 1878, I beg to make the following declaration:—

I will now state, what transpired at the Land Office, Queanbeyan. When I entered the Land Office I told the agent that I wanted to make an additional conditional selection. "The agent asked me when I selected last." I told him that I selected 200 acres on the 3rd of October instant, at Goulburn, part of which was in the county "Argyle and part in county Murray." The agent then told me that I could not take the land up in Queanbeyan as he had no record of the conditional purchase of the 200 acres made at Goulburn, and that I must go to Goulburn to take the land up. I then told him the land I applied for was in the county Murray. He said in reply, that the county made no difference, as it was in the police district of Goulburn.

I may here add, that Mr. Rutledge, who was in the office at the time, backed the agent up in his assertion.

I will now state what occurred at the Land Office, Goulburn.—Mr. Martyn, who filled up the application, asked me if the land was not in the county Murray; I said it was. He said he thought I could not take the land up there. I then said I could, as I had applied for the land at Queanbeyan, but was told by the agent that I must go to Goulburn and take it up, as he had no record of my conditional purchase of 200 acres at Queanbeyan. Mr. Alexander said he would take it, and told Mr. Martyn to enter a foot-note at the bottom of the application, stating this land has been applied for at Queanbeyan, and refused on account of no record, which was done.

When I took up the above land at Queanbeyan, on the 7th ultimo, I told the agent I came to select the land I applied for on October last "Oh! you are Mr. Ranger?" "I am." "Mr. Beit took up the land a week ago." "I will take it up to-day," which I did.

I, Sampson Ranger, do solemnly and sincerely declare that the above several matters and statements are true, and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, in virtue of the provisions of an Act made and passed in the ninth year of Her present Majesty intituled "An Act for the more effectual abolition of Oaths and Affirmations taken and made in various departments of the Government of New South Wales, and to substitute declarations in lieu thereof, and for the suppression of voluntary and extrajudicial Oaths and Affidavits."

No. 17.

Memorandum by Mr. Blaxland to The Under Secretary.

R. Beit's Volunteer Land Order and S. Ranger's additional conditional purchase.

THE case, as far as the Volunteer Land Order selection is concerned, is this: R. Beit took up certain land under Volunteer Land Order on 19th February, 1879, at Queanbeyan. S. Ranger took up the same land (as an additional conditional purchase) at Goulburn, on 3rd July, 1879.

Both these applications were voided—the Volunteer Land Order selection, because the land at date of application was not withdrawn from reserve; and the additional conditional purchase, because it was tendered at wrong Land Office. By the Minister's direction the letters, informing the parties of action taken, were posted on the same day, viz., Tuesday, 29th July, 1879.

Mr. Beit used his returned Volunteer Land Order certificate the next day (Wednesday, 30th July, 1879), for the same land, and thus had an advantage over the conditional purchaser.

This fresh Volunteer Land [Order] application was duly forwarded to Licensed-surveyor Potter, 28th August, 1879, and is now in his hands.

This refers to certificate 79-25.

The only question now to be decided is respecting the taking up of the conditional purchase at the wrong Land Office, if the Minister has not already decided upon it.

J.G.B., 30 Sept., 1879.

Certificate No. 79-38; application made by R. Beit, 19 July, 1879, and sent to Licensed-surveyor Potter, 28 August, 1879.—154. I informed Mr. Brooks of the state of these two cases by note, 30 September, 1879.—J. G. BLAXLAND.

No. 18.

The Land Agent, Queanbeyan, to The Chief Commissioner.

Sir,

Queanbeyan, 28 October, 1879.

I have the honor to report that I have no recollection of the date Mr. Sampson Ranger first applied for this 60 acres. There was no written application tendered, or money offered; had this been the case, I should have sent his application on and asked for instructions. He applied verbally, and appeared satisfied with what I said to him, as to my difficulty in taking an additional purchase to an original taken up in another district. At the time I did not remember his old purchases on Lake George, or he might have taken the 60 acres as an addition to them, if he really was here in October, 1878. I would here call attention to the description of his conditional purchase, 189, of 1879; there was nothing to prevent his getting such in October, 1878. I have, however, in reference to this conditional purchase of 7th August last, to state that Mr. Beit was before him with a Volunteer Order on the 30th July.

In conclusion, I beg to say that, if Mr. Ranger's 200 acres runs along the whole west boundary of T. A. Murray's 640 acres, which he assured me it did, it must be 80 chains long; and I can't see how the 60 acres applied for in Goulburn could be added on to the south.

I have, &c.,

O. WILLANS,

Crown Lands Agent.

P.S.—I observe to-day that the boundary of this district as set out on my map in this particular part differs from the map of the county of Argyle.—O.W.

Submitted.—These further statements do not appear to me to alter the complexion of the case, which has been decided between the respective applicants on the priority of their applications, in so far as they were made conformably to the law.—A.O.M., 4 November, 1879. Approved. I wish to have a full copy of the letter of the Land Agent sent to Mr. Ranger.—J.H., 19 November, 1879. Mr. J. B. Thompson, M.P., informed with copy of Land Agent's letter sent accordingly.—11 December, 1879.

The Chief Commissioner to J. B. Thompson, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Department of Lands Conditional Sales Division, Sydney, 11 December, 1879.

Adverting to your letter of 15th September last, on behalf of Mr. Sampson Ranger, enclosing No. 16. statutory declaration made by Mr. Ranger, in which he asserts that he made his application for the conditional purchase noted in the margin at Queanbeyan in the first instance, but was refused for reasons set forth in the declaration, and requesting that the matter may receive further consideration; I am directed by the Minister for Lands to apprise you that neither the statement of Mr. Ranger, as embodied in his declaration, nor the statement of the Land Agent (a copy of which is enclosed herewith), alters the complexion of the case, which has been decided between the respective applicants on the priority of their applications in so far as they were made conformably to the law.

CROWN LANDS.

No. 1.

Application by Mr. C. Smith.

(62-3,372.)

Application for conditional purchase of unimproved land, without competition, by Claudius Smith, of Gamboola, Molong.

Received with deposit, this 31st day of July, 1862, at 2 o'clock p.m., by—

JOHN J. DAVIES,

Land Agent for Molong District.

Sir,

Molong, 31 July, 1862.

I desire to purchase, under the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, without competition, the portion of unimproved Crown Land hereunder described; and I tender herewith a deposit at the rate of five (5) shillings per acre on the area for which I apply.

I am, &c.,

(FOR CLAUDIUS SMITH)

F. S. SMITH.

The Crown Lands Agent.

Description.

County of Wellington, parish unnamed, one hundred and sixty (160) acres, about 4 miles from Molong, between John Betts's 944 acres and the Bell River. Commencing at a stake at Mr. John Smith's old sheep station, on the north side of the "Shades," and bounded on the north by a line east 40 chains, on the east by a line south 40 chains, on the south by a line west 40 chains, and on the west by a line north 40 chains.

No. 2.

Mr. C. Smith to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Molong, 5 September, 1863.

I do myself the honor to state that on the 31st of July, 1862, I became the conditional purchaser of 160 acres of land in the county of Wellington, near Molong, described thus: "Commencing at a stake at Mr. Smith's old sheep station, on the north side of the 'Shades,' and bounded on the north by a line east 40 chains, on the east by a line south 40 chains, on the south by a line west 40 chains, and on the west by a line north 40 chains."

After having expended £21 in securing water, and nearly as much in clearing a portion of the ground of timber, I was informed by the late Mr. Surveyor Wilson, of this place, that in his opinion the land selected was within the boundaries of the Molong reserve—that he had received instructions to measure it, and would do so as soon as he was able, when he would determine the boundaries of the reserve.

I therefore discontinued my improvements.

Mr. Wilson, however, continued to grow worse, and died about a month since, and the land has not been measured.

I therefore beg to request that this selection may be surveyed, and if found to be within the reserve that my deposit may be returned to me, or that I may be allowed to make a selection elsewhere.

I have, &c.,

CLAUDIUS SMITH.

The Acting Surveyor General to Mr. C. Smith.

Sir,

Surveyor General's Office, Sydney, 25 September, 1863.

I beg to inform you that Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Simpson holds instructions for the measurement of the land near Molong conditionally purchased by you, and that your *letter of the 5th instant has been forwarded to Mr. Simpson, with instructions to report on the statement made in your letter, that the land is in the Molong Reserve.

Acting Surveyor General.

No. 4.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Simpson to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Wellington, 12 April, 1864.

In compliance with instructions received in your *letter of 5th November, 1863, I have now the honor to transmit a plan showing part of the Molong population boundary, and have marked the portion of it between Martha Marsden's 1,280 acres and the north-east corner of J. Betts's 944 acres.

In making this measurement it was my intention to measure several conditional purchases in the vicinity, but on finding they encroached on the population reserve, herewith return them for further information, having shown on plan now transmitted the position of the improvements.

It appears to me that conditional purchase by Claudius Smith, of 160 acres, is principally within the reserve, and the whole of his improvements are included within it.

Conditional purchase by George Neville, 60 acres, as occupied by him, would be wholly included in the reserve; also part of the land occupied by James Wykes's conditional purchase of 40 acres, and conditional purchase by J. J. Morris, of 80 acres, would be included within the reserve as now measured.

It

* Letter-book, containing this letter missing.

It appears that this mistake has arisen by the applicants being under the impression that the northern boundary of the reserve would be a continuation of the northern boundary of Elizabeth Mary Marsden's 1,280 acres.

I have taken some considerable trouble to ascertain the true position of the southern boundary of Thomas Marsden's 1,087 acres, but could not do so very accurately without some great deal of measurement.

Mr. Surveyor Wilson has also tried to ascertain the boundary, but did not succeed in so doing satisfactorily.

I have now the honor to await further instructions as to how to proceed with this survey.

Memo. by Mr. Draftsman Ellis.

A TRACING of the environs of Molong, with a portion of the Wellington county map, for the Clerk of Bench at Molong, to sketch the limits within which the population of 263 individuals in East Molong town, recorded in the Census return published 1861, locate.—J. E., 1 December, 1864.

A memo. required by yourself for this purpose.—J.E.

Minute on No. 5.

263 is stated in the Census of 1861 to be the population of Molong. On reference to page 572 of the Census Return it appears that the village referred to is in "the west part of the county of Wellington, on Molong Creek." Now, this can only apply to East Molong, West Molong being within the county of Ashburnham.

The Clerk of the Bench would perhaps be good enough to say whether such is the case, and if so, whether there are 100 inhabitants in West Molong, as if so, by separating the villages the population boundary will be affected, and its position in some respects altered, so as possibly not to interfere with certain conditional purchases made within its present limits.

No. 6.

The Surveyor General to The Clerk of Petty Sessions, Molong.

Sir,

Surveyor General's Office, Sydney, 20 December, 1864.

I have the honor to enclose a *tracing showing the environs of Molong and a *portion of the Wellington county map, on which I request that you will be good enough to sketch the limits within which reside the 263 individuals in East Molong town recorded in the Census Return of 1861. * Not with papers.

2. The population of Molong is stated in the Census for 1861 to be 263. On reference however to page 572 of that document it appears that the village referred to is in the west part of the county of Wellington, on Molong Creek. This can only apply to East Molong, West Molong being within the county of Ashburnham.

3. I have therefore to request that you will be good enough to state whether such is the case, and if so, whether there are 100 inhabitants in West Molong, as by separating the villages the population boundary will be effected, and its position in some respects altered, so as possibly not to interfere with certain conditional purchases made within its present limits.

Surveyor General.

No. 7.

The Land Agent, Molong, to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Land Office, Molong, 26 December, 1864.

With reference to your *letter of the 20th instant, enclosing a tracing of the environs of Molong, and a portion of the Wellington county map, and requiring me to sketch the limits within which reside the 263 individuals in East Molong recorded in the Census Return of 1861— * See No. 6.

1. I have the honor to state the population of East Molong, in the county of Wellington, is only about sixteen souls, and at the time the Census was taken, in 1861, there were not more than thirty inhabitants in that township.

2. The collector of the Census for 1861 in the return has, I am of opinion, from information given to me, inserted not only the inhabitants of East Molong but also those in that portion of the police district of Molong situated between the Molong Creek and the Bell River, hence the number for East Molong appears as 263.

3. The population of West Molong, in the county of Ashburnham, is now about 260; and at the time the Census was taken, in 1861, contained nearly as many as at the present time.

Will you have the goodness to inform me if you wish the tracing to be returned.

Application for the conditional purchase of unimproved land, without competition, by John Robards, of Molong.

JNO. J. DAVIES,

Land Agent for Molong.

Sir,

I desire to purchase, under the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, without competition, the portion of unimproved Crown Land hereunder described; and I tender herewith a deposit at the rate of five (5) shillings per acre on the area for which I apply.

I am, &c.,

JOHN ROBARDS.

The Crown Lands Agent, Molong.

Description.

County of Ashburnham, parish unnamed, fifty (50) acres: Commencing at a marked tree on the left bank of the Shades Creek; and bounded on the east by a line south; on the south by a line west; and on the west by a line north to the Shades Creek; and by that creek upwards, to the point of commencement.

No. 9.

Memo. by Mr. Draftsman Ellis.

Population boundaries of Molong.

SINCE the portion of the population boundaries of Molong was marked by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Simpson, in April, 1864 (transmitted by *letter No. 64/62), the Surveyor General has decided that the above reserve boundaries, instead of being marked from Owen-street, East Molong, and Jason-street, West Molong, shall be marked from the outer limits of the town of West Molong, as shown by the red edging on the accompanying *lithograph.

Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher is now, as early as possible, to have the boundaries of the reserve, so far as have been marked by Mr. Simpson, drawn on enclosed *tracing obliterated, and to have the east, north, west, and south boundaries, so far as passing through unalienated Crown Land, marked from the limits of the town of West Molong, as shown on the lithograph above mentioned.

No. 10.

[The Surveyor General to Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher.

Sir,

Surveyor General's Office, Sydney, 1 July, 1865.

With reference to your blank cover *memo. of the 26th May, 1864, transmitting Mr. Licensed-Surveyor W. B. Simpson's plan of portion of the Molong population boundary, I have the honor to inform you that it is considered desirable that the boundaries should be marked from the outer limits of the town of West Molong, as shown by the red edging on the accompanying *lithograph, instead of from Owen-street, East Molong, and Jason-street, West Molong; and I have therefore to request that you will, as early as possible, have Mr. Simpson's marking obliterated, and cause the boundaries of the reserve, so far as they pass through unalienated Crown Land, to be marked from the limits of the town of West Molong, as shown on the lithograph.

I have, &c.,

W. R. DAVIDSON,
Surveyor General.Minute on No. 10.

Transmitted to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor W. B. Simpson, who will re-measure this portion of the Molong population boundary, obliterating his old marked line. This alteration will admit of Mr. Simpson's measuring the conditional selections which were supposed to be within the boundaries first marked by him.—E. FISHER, Deputy Surveyor, B.C., 31st July, 1865.

No. 11.

Application by Mr. John Robards.

(65-1,109)

Application for the conditional purchase of unimproved land, without competition, by John Robards, of Molong.

Received with deposit, this 6th day of July, 1865, at 12 o'clock, by

JNO. J. DAVIES,

Land Agent for District.

Sir,

Molong, 6 July, 1865.

I desire to purchase, under the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, without competition, the portion of unimproved Crown Land hereunder described; and I tender herewith a deposit at the rate of five (5) shillings per acre on the area for which I apply.

I am, &c.,

JOHN ROBARDS.

The Crown Lands Agent.

Description.

County of Wellington, parish unnamed, 40 acres; bounded on the east by my previous selection of 50 acres; on the south by a line west; and on the west by a line north to the Shades Creek; and by that Creek upwards, to the point of commencement.

No. 12.

No. 12.

Mr. J. Robards to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Molong, 18 July, 1865.

On the 1st day of June last I made a selection of 50 acres of land on the left bank of the Shades Creek, about 3½ miles from West Molong. I resided on the same before the expiration of the month allowed by the Land Act. I have built a good house, and otherwise improved the said land.

I have since received a notice from Claude Smith to quit, a copy of which notice I enclose for your information. I would respectfully draw your attention to the fact that Claude Smith's land cannot be near my selection, there being no sheep station of John Smith's within at least a mile of my land, or has he any improvements there whatever, except a small waterhole of very little value. Enclosed.

Hoping that you will, at your earliest convenience, inform me whether I am to hold the land or quit according to the notice, I have, &c.,

JOHN ROBARDS.

[Enclosure to No 12.]

Mr. John Robards,

Molong, 8 July, 1865.

Take notice that the land you have selected at the Shades is included in the portion selected by me on 31st July, 1862, on which I paid a deposit of £40, and on which I made considerable improvements, and only discontinued my improvements when Mr. Surveyor Simpson notified to me that the land was within the Molong Reserve.

Should the land be open to selection I shall exercise my claim, the deposit not having been returned to me.

No. 13.

Mr. C. Smith to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Molong, 26 August, 1865.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your *circular No. 65, dated 2nd August, referring to my conditional purchase. I beg leave to refer you to my letter addressed to the Honorable the Minister for Lands, stating that Mr. Surveyor Simpson had intimated to me that my selection was within the Molong Reserve, and that I had in consequence discontinued my improvements, and applying to have my deposit returned to me. * Cannot obtain copy of this circular, as it is now obsolete.

No. 14.

Mr. J. Robards to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Molong, 14 November, 1865.

On the 1st of June and 6th of July, 1865, I selected 50 acres and 40 acres, under the Crown Lands Acts Alienation Act, at the Shades, in the county of Wellington, district of Molong; and on the 8th of July, same year, I received a notice from Mr. C. Smith, a copy of which I sent you on the *16th (?) of same month, and requested you to inform me if my selection was right, and to which letter I have not yet been favoured with a reply. * See No. 12.

I now respectfully request you will be pleased to give me an answer, as my improving operations are stopped, much to my loss and inconvenience. I have, &c.,

JOHN ROBARDS.

Minutes on No. 14.

Urgent.—Referred to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor W. B. Simpson, who will have the goodness, with reference to the instructions which he holds for the measurement of the land applied for by Mr. Robards to report to me speedily whether the land is identical with that applied for by Claude Smith, *description of which is enclosed.—P. F. ADAMS, Surveyor General's Office, 8 Dec., 1865. * Not with original papers.

No. 15.

Mr. C. Smith to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Molong, 30 November, 1865.

I do myself the honor to again solicit your attention to the way in which I have been treated in my conditional purchase.

On the 31st of July I paid the Land Agent at Molong £40, as a deposit on 160 acres of land near this place. I cleared a portion of it and made a waterhole, at an expense of about £40, but when the surveyor (Mr. Simpson) marked the Molong population reserve I found my selection was within that line. I then discontinued my improvements, and applied for the return of my deposit.

Some time after this John Robards took possession of the waterhole which I had made and fenced in, and selected 40 acres within my 160, which he got measured by Mr. Ardell.

Thus the case stood till within the last few days, when Mr. Surveyor Simpson marked a new reserve line within his first, which leaves my selection outside, and consequently open to conditional purchase.

Now, sir, I trust you will reinstate me in this portion of land, as I was dispossessed through the marking of the Molong reserve by the Government surveyor. I of course cannot make the declaration of residence, but you will perceive this is not my fault. If you will allow me I will now pay the balance in full (£120); and if you will not allow me to do that, I trust you will cause my deposit of £40 to be returned to me, and the land to be put up to auction.

Mr. Surveyor Simpson can certify as to my improvements. I beg to enclose a copy of the notice sent Robards after he had taken possession of my waterhole, and trusting I shall receive justice at your hands, I have, &c., Enclosed.

Take notice that the land you have selected at the Shades is included in the portion selected by me on 31st July, 1862, on which I paid a deposit of £40, and on which I made considerable improvements, and only discontinued my improvements when Mr. Surveyor Simpson notified to me that the land was within the Molong Reserve.

Should this land be open to selection I shall exercise my claim, the deposit money not having been returned to me.

No. 16.

Mr. J. Robards to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Molong, 5 December, 1865.

I have written no less than three letters to you respecting two pieces of land which I purchased under the Crown Lands Alienation Act, their respective dates being the 1st day June and 6th day of July, 1865; and which, in my *letter of the 14th November, I informed you that I had received notice from one "Claude Smith" that the same selections had been previously taken up by him, and likewise that he, at that particular time, had paid a deposit of (£40) forty pounds, the date of his receipt for that amount being 31st July, 1862. I enclosed you a copy of Claude Smith's notice at the same time, but no answer has as yet been forthcoming. I believe that all servants in the Government Service are compelled to acknowledge the receipt and attend promptly to all communications sent them by persons who may have business with them, providing that the language contained in their correspondence is couched in a respectful manner.

I having paid the usual deposit to the Clerk of Petty Sessions on the days above mentioned, and hold receipts for the same, I must request an immediate and satisfactory reply to this and all former letters, otherwise I shall deem it my duty to bring the matter before the notice of the Government.

I have, &c.,

JOHN ROBARDS.

No. 17.

Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Survey Office, Bathurst, 22 December, 1865.

I have the honor to inform you, when in Molong, Mr. C. Smith sent me the enclosed *letter relative to a conditional selection made by him in July, 1862, and would respectfully report: The facts of the case appear to be, that, after making this selection, either Mr. C. Smith or his father commenced improving the land selected by having a water-tank dug out of the ground and fenced in, also some of the land cleared and stumped preparatory to having a cultivation paddock fenced in. Mr. Smith states these improvements cost him over £50, and that he discontinued making any further improvements on Mr. Simpson's informing him the land was within the population boundary of Molong township.

2. In the latter part of last year a party named John Robards selected 40 acres at this place, he having been informed by Mr. Ardell that Mr. Simpson's marking of the Molong population boundary was erroneous, and that this land was in reality outside such boundary; also that Mr. Smith had forfeited the land through non-residence, although the selection has not been declared forfeited in the Gazette. Robards thereupon took possession of Mr. Smith's improvements, and not only prevented him from making any further improvements on the land, after Mr. Simpson had amended his survey of Molong population boundary, according to your instructions, leaving Smith's 160 acres outside such boundary, but he has also prevented Mr. Smith's cattle from watering at the tank, which has retained water to the present time, thus occasioning a loss which he estimates at £100.

I would therefore respectfully recommend John Robards should be informed he cannot select within the limits of the prior selection of C. Smith's, and that this latter party should be placed in possession of his original selection when he is willing to continue his improvements; and if it is decided that he cannot complete the purchase as a conditional selection, in consequence of not having resided on the land continuously since the date of selection, he is still willing to purchase the same at public auction.

I have informed Robards he cannot select land containing improvements to the value of £40, neither can he select within the boundaries of a prior selection.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD FISHER,

District Surveyor.

No. 18.

Mr. J. Robards to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Molong, 29 December, 1865.

I enclose a copy of a letter received from Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher, relative to the selection I made some six months since.

It is extremely annoying that I should lose so much time, being a poor man, before a proper decision can be arrived at. Since I received the notice from Mr. Smith, I have been unable to do anything, and having made all necessary arrangements for the erection of a dwelling upon the land in question, the stuff being on the ground. I think the manner in which I have been treated ought to be brought before the notice of the Government. Mr. Smith, I presume, on account of his wealth, has far more influence with the district officials than I have, and if such be the case it is quite impossible to have justice done me. I am a poor man, and have not the means of waiting longer. If the Government think I am wrong let them say so at once, and forward my money back, as I require it to provide a livelihood for my wife and family.

Your immediate reply is requested.

I have, &c.,

JOHN ROBARDS.

[Enclosure]

[Enclosure to No. 18.]

Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher to Mr. J. Robards.

Sir, District Survey Office, Bathurst, 20 December, 1866.
When passing through to Molong last week, Mr. Smith asked me to inspect a selection made in July, 1862, stating that you had taken possession of his improvements, which is clearly against the provisions of the Land Act of 1861, as, in the first place, Mr. Smith's selection does not appear to have been declared forfeited, and therefore it cannot be re-selected by you.

Secondly, the water-tank and clearing have cost Mr. Smith more than £40, and in your application you have selected unimproved Crown Lands. You cannot therefore include Mr. Smith's improvements, even supposing his selection was forfeited.

I have the honor to warn you not to erect any improvements on Mr. Smith's 160 acres' selection, otherwise it will be at your own risk, as Mr. Smith states he has already informed you that you had selected on his land.

I have, &c.,
EDWARD FISHER,
District Surveyor.

No. 19.

Mr. J. Robards to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Molong, 24 January, 1866.

I have been waiting your reply to my last letter respecting the two selections I made, and which have been claimed by Mr. John Smith, on behalf of his son, Claude Smith, of Gamboola. He states his was a previous purchase. I do not intend to go further into particulars, but I wish to state that since my last letter to you, the two blocks of land in question have been occupied by the Smiths, and they have taken possession of the said land, together with improvements of my own making, cooking utensils, &c., and they refused to give up possession of either the land or chattels.

It is impossible for me to remain longer in this fix. If the Government believe me to be right in my selection let them say so, and give me the authority to recover possession immediately; otherwise, if they think that my selections are not legal, let my money which I have paid be immediately refunded, as by the delay I have suffered considerable loss. In the event of my not receiving proper satisfaction at once, and without delay, I shall take steps to obtain proper compensation and satisfaction for the injury I have sustained.

I remain, &c.,
JOHN ROBARDS.

Sir,

Molong, 20 February, 1866.

I have been in correspondence for months past with the Surveyor General respecting two selections made by me on the Shades Creek, near Molong, and which appears have been since claimed by one Claude Smith, but have received nothing satisfactorily to enable me to continue my labours in conformity of the Act. I have been placed to considerable inconvenience and loss of money by the delay; and I feel it my duty to bring this matter before the notice of the Government, in order that they may be acquainted with the gross negligence of the Surveyor General's Department, in not properly and promptly attending to their duties.

You will be good enough to inquire into my case at once from that department, as any further delay cannot but bring contempt upon the Government.

I HAVE been waiting some time for a reply to my letter, in which I enclosed an order for you to place the amount of £22 10s. (being the amount I paid as a deposit on two selections of land situated at the Shades Creek, near Molong, and which land has been decided as being identical to the purchase made by one Mr. Claudius Smith, previous to my selecting the same land), to the credit of Messrs. E. W. Moore & Co., of Molong, in the Commercial Bank, Sydney, but no reply has been yet received by me. I told you on a previous occasion that this long delay in settling matters has caused me much loss of time and annoyance, together with great expense, and requested you to return my money at once. I must now again call your attention to the matter, and request that you will be good enough to refund the money without further delay, and place it in the Bank, as I have requested.

Sir,

In compliance with instructions received in your *letters of the 25th August, 1865, No. 65/1,285, and 30th September, 65/1,448, I have now the honor to transmit a plan of two portions in the county of Wellington, parish of Copper Hill, conditional purchases by John Robards.

The applicant did not reside upon his conditional purchase at time of measurement; had occupied it some time back, but in consequence of a dispute with Claudius Smith, relative to the ownership of the land, he did not carry on his improvements, and had abandoned it for some time back. The only improvement made by Robards is the frame of a hut, value about £5.

Wellington, 26 May, 1866.

Sir,

In compliance with instructions received in your *letter of the 30th April, 1866, No. 66/495, I have now the honor to transmit a plan of 160 acres, in the county of Wellington, parish of Copper Hill, being a conditional purchase by Claudius Smith.

The applicant does not reside upon his conditional purchase. The improvements consist of a dug waterhole, 15 yards square and 4 to 5 feet deep, fenced in with two-railed fence, and a clearing of 2 acres.

There have been no improvements made since the first marking of the Molong population boundary, on finding the land was included in it. Part of the land applied for has been occupied by James Robards, who conditionally purchased it under the impression that it was forfeited by Smith, and taken by Robards previous to the marking of the amended boundary of the Molong population boundary, which excludes the land applied for by either parties.

No. 26.

Mr. J. Robards to The Surveyor General.

Molong, 31 May, 1866.

I AM sorry again to have to trouble you with another letter relative to my unfortunate conditional purchase at the Shades. A few days ago Mr. Simpson measured the land, or, in other words, measured 90 acres of land, but not the land that I had purchased. My description said I was to have been bounded on the east by a line south, and Mr. Simpson ran a line west, which threw me into a ridge of rocks, not worth anything for cultivation—in fact could not be cultivated at all. I appeal to your sympathy as a gentleman, and ask you to consider the harshness of my case, which I hope is without parallel.

It is just twelve months to-morrow since I selected, and could have had a crop off last year if I only knew I was right; and I now fear I will have the same story to tell next year, as it is almost too late now to put in a crop for this year, even if I had the land I selected. Mr. Smith's line runs south, and I cannot see why I should not also be allowed to take my line south, as temporarily marked by me, and which I pointed out to Mr. Simpson on the ground. In conclusion, I beg to state that the land as measured is of no use whatever to me, nor do I intend to accept of it.

Regretting that I have so much to trouble you, and hoping you will give it your earliest and just attention, so that I may be able to do some good for those dependent on my exertion, as every day is a loss to a person in my position, and now I can do nothing until the matter is settled.

Mr. J. Smith to S. Samuel, Esq., M.P.

My dear Sir,

Bathurst, 8 January, 1869.

Permit me to address you as Member for the Electorate of Wellington, on behalf of my son, Claudius Smith.

The case is not altogether unknown to you. You will perhaps remember putting certain questions to

* The parties mentioned were informed in usual way by printed forms, and which cannot be supplied in this Return, as they are now obsolete.—W.M., Examiner.
393—B

to the Minister for Lands about three years since, at the instance of one John Robards, of Molong, touching a conditional purchase near Molong, when Dr. Wilson said my son was to be reinstated in his selection.

This, however, was not carried out; the selection was immediately after declared forfeited (why, I could never understand); and he now wants the return of his deposit (£40), to which I think you will admit he is justly entitled when you hear the case, which is briefly this:—

On the 31st July, 1862, my son selected 160 acres at the Shades, in the district of Molong, and paid the deposit thereon, £40.

After having made considerable improvements on the land, Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Simpson marked the population reserve, when it was discovered that this selection was within the reserve, and could not be held. This having been notified to my son, he applied for the refund of his deposit. Subsequently John Robards took possession of the improvements. Mr. Simpson marked a second reserve (cancelling the first), which left this land open to selection. Robards was dispossessed in favour of my son, who had no sooner re-entered than the selection was gazetted as forfeited.

Enclosed.

I enclose a copy of my son's last letter to the Minister, to which he received no reply, and to which I now beg to solicit your attention.

This letter was written I think about the time you brought Robards's case before the House.

On the 20th of February following (that is 1866) the selection was gazetted forfeited, and on the 27th of July last, the portion was sold by auction, at the Land Office, Molong.

Thus you will perceive my son was dispossessed by the surveyor sent by Government to mark the population reserve, his improvements sold by auction, and he only asks the return of his deposit.

The cancelling of the conditional purchase must have been an oversight, inasmuch as it appeared in the Gazette immediately after Dr. Wilson stated, in reply to your question, that Claudius Smith was to be reinstated.

I determined when the land was sold in July last to bring the matter under your notice on the meeting of Parliament, as Member for the district, and do so now, irrespective of the position you hold in the Government, in the fullest confidence that you will see justice done your constituents.

You will perceive the enclosed letter is dated 30th November, 1865, and the notice of forfeiture is dated 20th of February, 1866, published in the Government Gazette.

With apologies for thus troubling you at this time,

I am, &c.

JNO. SMITH.

P.S.—My address for the next two or three weeks will be Gamboola, Molong.

[Enclosure to No. 31.]

Mr. C. Smith to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Molong, 30 November, 1865.

I do myself the honor to again solicit your attention to the way in which I have been treated in my conditional purchase.

On the 31st July I paid the Land Agent at Molong £40, as a deposit on 160 acres of land near this place. I cleared a portion of it and made a waterhole at an expense of about £40; but when the surveyor, Mr. Simpson, marked the Molong population reserve I found my selection was within that line; I then discontinued my improvements, and applied for the return of my deposit.

Some time after this John Robards took possession of the waterhole which I had made and fenced in, and selected 40 acres within my 160, which he got measured by Mr. Ardell.

Thus the case stood till within the last few days, when Mr. Surveyor Simpson marked a new reserve line within his first, which leaves my selection outside, and consequently open to conditional purchase. Now, sir, I trust you will reinstate me in this portion of land, as I was dispossessed through the marking of the Molong Reserve by the Government Surveyor. I of course cannot make the declaration of residence, but you will perceive this is not my fault. If you will allow me, I will now pay the balance in full, £120; and if you will not allow me to do this, I trust you will cause my deposit of £40 to be returned to me, and the land to be put up to auction. Mr. Surveyor Simpson can certify as to the improvements.

See enclosure to No. 15.

I beg to enclose a copy of the notice I sent Robards after he had taken possession of my waterhole, and trusting I shall receive justice at your hands,

I have, &c.,

CLAUDIUS SMITH.

Minutes on No. 31.

Claudius Smith conditionally purchased 160 acres at Molong on the 31st July, 1862, and had commenced improving the land, by sinking a well and otherwise, at an alleged cost of £40, when he was informed by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Simpson that it was within the population boundary of Molong, whereupon he discontinued making further improvements, and ceased to reside, and applied for the refund of his deposit, but no reply it seems was given to his communication. Subsequently, Mr. Surveyor Ardell having intimated to Mr. John Robards that Mr. Simpson's marking of the population boundary was erroneous, and that the land was after all outside such boundary, and which he alleged was forfeited for non-residence by Mr. Smith, although not so notified in the Gazette, Robards selected 40 acres of the land in July, 1865, as well as taking possession of Mr. Smith's improvements, and not only prevented the latter from making further improvements, after Mr. Simpson had amended his survey of the population boundary, according to the instructions of the Surveyor General, leaving the 160 acres outside of it, but put Mr. Smith to an alleged estimated loss of £100, in consequence of his cattle not being allowed to water at the well, which he had sunk immediately after selecting the land. Mr. Robards's purchase was, however, afterwards cancelled, as interfering with Mr. Smith's previous one. On the 30th November, 1865, Mr. Smith pointed out that as he was dispossessed of the land, owing to the erroneous marking of the Molong population boundary, and the consequent doubtful situation of his selection, he would be unable to make a declaration as to continuous residence, and requested therefore permission to pay up the balance of purchase money, or to have his deposit refunded to him, and the land put up to auction. He does not appear to have received a reply to this communication, and the land was subsequently declared forfeited in the Gazette because of the non-receipt of the declaration, and was offered for sale on the 27th July last, and sold to John Smith. There is no doubt that the present difficulty has arisen in consequence of no replies having been given to Mr. Smith's communications, and that he was caused great anxiety and inconvenience, both by the doubtful position of the boundary-line of the Molong Reserve, and the selection of Robards, and the taking possession by him of the improvements; but perhaps the question chiefly for consideration will be whether Mr. Smith was warranted in vacating his selection at any time, as he never received official notification that it was disallowed.—22 January, 1869.

I think Claudius Smith is entitled to have his deposit back.—M.F., 23rd January, 1869.
 Certainly, and the surveyor who gave the erroneous information, if the allegation be correct, should be called upon to explain.—W.F., 29 January, 1869. The surveyor in question (Mr. Ardell) has long since ceased to be employed by this department.—J.S.A. (for Surveyor General), 11 Mar., 1869. Under Secretary for Lands. Claudius Smith, with refund form, and Land Agent informed accordingly. Usual forms sent, but cannot be supplied, as they are now obsolete.—W.M., Examiner.

No. 32.

Mr. C. Blakefield to H. L. Nelson, Esq., M.P.

Dear Sir,

Molong, 11 January, 1874.

The poor man has become a bye-word and a sneer by those who have been monopolizing their public rights for this last forty years, and I believe is likely to exist much longer, unless the Parliament is very differently constituted than it is at present. The poor man is not a myth, and really exists in the person of John Robards, a poor free-selector, who has been very much injured by the mal-administration of the existing land laws. John S. Smith, Esq., presented a petition on behalf of Robards, with a view of getting compensation, and from my knowledge and experience of you I feel confident that you will do your best in assisting Smith to have justice done to Robards. I enclose a sketch of the survey of Smith's land, and you will perceive that the surveyor must have been squared (as we say in the classics) to have surveyed it in that shape. It was very near three years after Claude Smith's selection that the land was surveyed, and from that description it was not the land selected by Robards. Everybody knows what the surveyor can do. I have had some experience of what they have done, and can assure you that the squatter can get them to cripple every free-selector when there is the least chance.

I suppose there will be a fresh election as soon as the Electoral Bill is passed; and as a liberal land law is of the most paramount importance to the welfare of the country, the people must be stirred up. I know Parkes's idea of land law is of the best I have heard in the Australian Colonies; I will do my best to strengthen his hands. At present the squatter and free lands are too strong for the advancement of the country.

Hoping you have enjoyed your holidays, and got in good buckle to battle for your country,
 I remain, &c.,

CHARLES BLAKEFIELD.

Application by Hugh Corrigan for the conditional purchase, without competition, of *166 acres unimproved Crown Land, under section No. 13.

No. 526 of 1878.

Now 66 acres

Received by me, with a deposit of 41 10s., this 5th day of December, 1878, at 12 o'clock,—

M. M. CAMPBELL,
Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Casino.

Sir,

I am desirous of purchasing, without competition, under the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the portion of unimproved Crown Land hereunder described, containing *166 acres; and I herewith tender the sum of £41 10s., being a deposit at the rate of 5s. per acre on the area for which I apply.

Qy 66 acres.

I am, &c.,

HUGH CORRIGAN.

To the Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Casino.

Description.

Description.

* Now 66 acres.

County of Richmond, parish of Wooroowoolgan, *166 acres, measured portions Nos. 46 and 47; last offered, as lots AA and BB, on 1st November, 1878.

[Memorandum by the Land Agent at Casino on No. 4.]

It was explained to applicant that part of these portions was selected with Volunteer Land Orders prior to survey, and the portions withdrawn from sale in consequence; also that Volunteer Land Order application of the 27th November covered a part; also the Volunteer Land Order applications by W. and F. Fanning. M. M. CAMPBELL.

Minutes on No. 4.

Recommended that this application be declared void, as it embraces land taken up by Volunteer Land Orders 78-149 and 169, of 16th June, 1878, by Wm. and Frederick Fanning, unless applicant is willing to accept that part of portions 46 and 47, containing about 66 acres, remaining after the Volunteer Land Orders have been excised, as shown on tracing, which may be forwarded to applicant.—R. D. FITZGERALD (for the Surveyor General), 27th February, 1879. Write as suggested.—A.O.M., 12/3/79.

No. 5.

J. McElhone, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Sydney, 8 February, 1879.

* Qr. December.

I have the honor to inform you that Mr. Hugh Corrigan, on the 5th *March, 1878, took up at Casino a conditional purchase of 166 acres, being measured portions 46 and 47, and that Fanning, Griffith took up part of the same land with Volunteer Land Orders, and that they did not pay the subdivision fee, which it was necessary they should do; and that such selection by Volunteer Land Orders without payment of subdivision fee is illegal. I have the honor to request that you will give an immediate decision in this case, and that the result of such decision may be communicated to Mr. Hugh Corrigan, at Casino, without delay.

I have, &c.,

J. McELHONE.

Minutes on above.

Chief Commissioner of Conditional Purchases,—How does the matter stand?—J.H., 12 February, 1879.

Application in Charting Branch—cannot be found. Copy herewith.—E.K., 21 February, 1879.

Charting Branch can perhaps say with reference to the enclosed copy of selection whether the land is interfered with by a Volunteer Order.—A.O.M., 3 April, 1879.

Urgent. The endorsement on application 78-526 shows the action taken. The plans of the portions to be subdivided had not been accepted at date of Volunteer Land Order application, no subdivision fee was therefore necessary. Plan accepted 11th September, 1878.—T.S., 18 April, 1879. The Chief Commissioner.

No. 6.

Mr. H. Corrigan to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Casino, 19 February, 1879.

I wish to bring under your honorable consideration my case, of which I selected two measured portions, Nos. 46 and 47, containing in the aggregate 166 acres, situated in the parish of Wooroowoolgan, on the Wooroowoolgan Run. By inquiry at the Lands Department in Sydney, I come to understand that there were two Volunteer Land Orders taken on them by the station proprietors, but the cost of the subdivision did not accompany them, and that it is awaiting your honorable consideration.

I selected the aforesaid lots on the 5th December last myself, and my helpless little family of five young children are camped under a dray after travelling 400 miles. I am frightened to put a house on it or improve it, as I am sure they would try to ruin me for trespass. The three months will be up on the 5th next month. I would be anxious to have an answer from your honor by that time, and whether if the two Volunteer Land Orders are good, whether I am to get the remaining 66.

I remain, &c.,

HUGH CORRIGAN.

Minutes on No. 6.

78-169 and 78-149 are the Volunteer Land Orders referred to, and have been sent on for measurement. The conditional purchaser was asked if he would accept the remainder of the two portions, viz., 66 acres.—H.E.W., 8th March, 1879. Conditional Sales Branch.

Inform Mr. McElhone, M.P., and conditional purchaser, that as the plans of the original survey of these portions were not accepted until September 11th, 1878, and the application for the Volunteer Order selections was made on June 19th, 1878, the latter must stand good, and the conditional purchase must be declared void.—J.H., 23rd April, 1879.

Mr. McElhone, M.P., and Mr. Corrigan informed 13th May, 1879, in accordance with *Chief Commissioner's minute—of course to the extent of interference by Volunteer Land Orders.—A.O.M.

No further action for Charting Branch until applicant replies, accepting either a total refund or the 66 acres available for conditional purchase offered him

Selector accepts the 66 acres. See letter from Mr. Corrigan of 3rd April, 1879.—F.H.W., 23rd May, 1879. Mr. Stephens, Charting Branch.

Mr. T. Lewis.—A plan of conditional purchase of 66 acres may be prepared in the office when plans of Volunteer Land Orders are received. Do you consider it necessary that a plan be furnished by surveyor?—T.S., 29th May, 1879.

The surveyor should send in a plan.—T.H.L., 4th June, 1879.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Richard Barling is requested to forward a plan of and report on conditional purchase 78-526, as applicant accepts the land available.—T.S. (for Surveyor General), 6th June, 1879. Answered by my report of 18th July, herewith.—RICHARD BARLING.

Sir,

Sydney, 10 March, 1879.

Some time since I wrote you in reference to a conditional purchase taken up by Hugh Corrigan, at Casino, on 5th December, 1879, such conditional purchase being on Woorooloolgan Run, parish of Woorooloolgan, Richmond River, and consisted of measured portions 46 and 47, containing together an area of 166 acres.

It appears that Griffith, Fanning took up portions of above lots by Volunteer Orders, and did not pay the subdivision fee which is required by law, and the failure to do this makes their selection illegal by the Volunteer Land Orders.

I have the honor to request that you will give an early decision on this matter, and that the result of such decision may be conveyed to Mr. Hugh Corrigan, addressed to Casino.

I have, &c.,
J. McELHONE.

[Enclosure to No. 7.]

Mr. H. Corrigan to J. McElhone, Esq., M.P.

Dear Sir,

Casino, 19 February, 1879.

You would much oblige and do me a charitable turn, as I am a poor man with a helpless family to support. I went to you in Sydney on the 27th last month, as I am well aware you are the only advocate a poor man has, and kindly you told me you would call on the Minister for Lands, and that I may expect to hear from yourself or the Minister for Lands. You took down the items of my case in your pocket-book, at the General Post Office. They were two measured portions I took up, Nos. 46 and 47, containing in the aggregate 166 acres. I selected them on the 5th December last, at the Land Office, Casino. When I was in Sydney I went to the Lands Department and ascertained there that there were two V.L.O. on the two lots, but the cost of the subdivision did not accompany them, and that it was waiting the Minister's decision. Now, I would be for ever bound to pray for you if you would see the Minister for Lands, and see if he would decide on it, or, if the two V.L.O. stand good, whether I am to get the remaining 66 acres.

I forgot to name the parish, which is Woorooloolgan, on the Woorooloolgan Run, Richmond River. They say these two V.L.O. were taken up in June last, and it is provoking to a poor man when he wants to take up a piece of land, there is a V.L.O. whether it is or not. I think the surveyor ought to be compelled to measure them as soon as possible.

I will be anxiously awaiting your communication, as I have to turn out and earn bread for my family.

Your most obliged,
HUGH CORRIGAN.

Minutes on No. 7.

Very Urgent. Chief Commissioner of Conditional Purchases,—I should like to see the papers in this case.—J.H., 12/3/79. The Volunteer Land Orders questioned were forwarded to Mr. Surveyor Barling on the 26th ultimo, and without the papers I cannot say if subdivision fees were paid.—C.O., 19 March, 1879. For information of the Minister, I understand that the subdivision fees were not paid. Further particulars can perhaps be obtained from the Survey Office, or the Chief Commissioner.—W.W.S., 20/3/79. Inquire.—J.H., 20 March, 1879. The Chief Commissioner, with a view to it being stated if any action has been taken on this conditional purchase.—C.O. (for U.S.), 21 March, 1879. The deposit on 100 acres was refunded to the conditional purchaser (Corrigan) on the 21st instant, so as to admit of the Volunteer Land Order selections. It appears that the cost of subdivision has not been paid; but it was pointed out (verbally) by the attorney of the selectors under the Volunteer Land Order that this should not be considered a bar, the plans of the portions not having been accepted at date of application (viz., the 19th June, 1878), and consequently should be considered as unmeasured. The case should be referred to the Charting Branch as to the actual date of the survey of the Volunteer Land Order selection.—C.O., 26 March, 1879.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Division, 21 March, 1879.

Referring to your conditional purchase, noted in the margin, I am directed to inform you that the same is void to the extent of 100 acres, being the area embraced by Volunteer Land Order selections 78-149 and 169, of 19th June, 1878, by Messrs. William and Frederick Fanning, and refund voucher is now forwarded to you on this area.

2. I am to add that if it be not agreeable to you to retain the remaining area (66 acres), you may have refund of deposit on the whole selection.

Mr. H. Corrigan to The Secretary for Lands.

Honorable Sir,

Casino, 3 April, 1879.

With reference to my conditional purchase 78/526, taken up at Casino, 5th December, 1878, being two measured portions, Nos. 46 and 47, containing 166 acres, I have got a communication from the Chief Commissioner that there are two Volunteer Land Orders on it, and to know if I intend keeping the remaining 66 acres. I certainly intend keeping the 66 acres, and I firmly protest that the Volunteer Land Orders are illegal, as the subdivision fee did not accompany them. Therefore, honorable sir, I hope you will take it into your kind consideration, and I await your favourable reply.

No. 20.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Barling to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Casino, 10 July, 1879.

I have the honor to report on the application of Hugh Corrigan for 166 acres of land, in the parish of Woorooloolgan, county of Richmond, applied for under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861.

See No. 18.

This application describes the same land as taken by Messrs. W. and F. Fanning under Volunteer Land Orders 78/149, 78/169, and 78/220, which I have measured, under instructions dated 8th January, 1879, and 14th February, 1879. Plans sent with my letter of 29th May, 79/33.

This leaves only 16 acres, which is unavailable as a conditional purchase. Plan for same sent with my letter of 29th May.

I have, &c.,
RICHD. BARLING*Minutes on No. 20.*

It will be seen by this report that Volunteer Land Order 78/220, of 27th November, 1878, absorbs 50 acres of the 66 acres stated to be available for conditional purchase by H. Corrigan, under application 5th December, 1878. Submitted as to whether the conditional purchase application should not now be declared void.—ROBERT D. FITZGERALD (for Surveyor General), B.C., 1st September, 1879.

See No. 15.

The Chief Commissioner,—It appears to me that all the papers which would be required to enable me to give a decision in this case are not forthcoming. First it is stated that the selector accepts "66 acres, see. 79/15,020 herewith," yet I cannot find such evidence of acceptance. Secondly, I cannot understand the minute of the Deputy Surveyor General in this particular, viz., that the Volunteer Land Order application 78/220 absorbs 50 acres out of the 66 acres said to be available for the conditional purchase, leaving only 16 acres; and Mr. Fitzgerald further submits whether the conditional purchase should not now be declared void. Now, a perusal of the papers shows that the application for the Volunteer Land Order was made on 27th November, 1878; that the land applied for formed part of measured portions 46 and 47, the plans for which were accepted in September, 1878, and the subdivision fee for those portions was not paid until April 1st, 1879, while the application for the conditional purchase was made on December 5th, 1878, or between the date of the Volunteer Order application and the payment of the subdivision fees by the applicant. I shall be glad if the Deputy Surveyor General will please give his attention to the points I have raised, especially to where I have pointed out that while the application by Volunteer Order was made after the plans of the portions were accepted, in September, 1878, nevertheless, whether the payment of the subdivision fee being after the plans were accepted, does invalidate the Volunteer Order application 78/220.—J.H., 20th September, 1879.

The action taken shows that only two Volunteer Land Orders have been accepted, not three as measured by Mr. Barling.—J. R. DONALDSON, 14th November, 1879.

Referring to the objections raised by Hugh Corrigan to the allowance of the purchases in respect of the Volunteer Land Orders noted in the margin, I have the honor to point out, in reply, that at the date on which the applications were made by my clients no survey had been completed of the portions of which the land they included forms part, the fact being, as I am informed on inquiry at the Lands Department, that the plans of survey were not accepted until 11th September, 1878, some three months subsequently to the applications, therefore no fees for subdivision were payable.

In view of these facts, I most respectfully urge that the issue of the grants of the land purchased by my clients may be no longer delayed.

Sir,

179, Pitt-street, Sydney, 25 August, 1879.

Referring to objections raised by Mr. Corrigan with respect to Messrs. Fannings' application to purchase land at the Richmond River, by virtue of Volunteer Land Order 78-220, I am desired to point out that such application is dated, and was received by the local agent, previously to Mr. Corrigan's application to select the same land, and that my client's application should be dealt with accordingly.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM COPE.

Minutes on No 23.

In reply to the Minister's minute of the 20th September, 1879, I may state that the grounds upon which the recommendation of the 1st September was based should have been more fully explained. They are as follows:—Messrs. Fanning took up Volunteer Land Order applications prior to the date of H. Corrigan's conditional purchase, which is for the same land. These Volunteer Land Order applications were found to be comprised in measured portions 46 and 47, but not so identified until the surveys had been accepted. In dealing with the conditional purchase application 78-526, by memorandum thereon, dated 27th February, 1879, it was not observed that Messrs. Fanning had also, by Volunteer Land Order 78-220, of 27th November, 1878, applied for other 50 acres, comprised in the parts of portions 46 and 47, not included in Volunteer Land Orders 78-169 and 149, consequently Corrigan was incorrectly advised that he might retain the 66 acres.

As Volunteer Land Orders 78-149 and 169 were made before acceptance of survey, no subdivision fee was chargeable, and as those selections cancelled the survey of portions 46 and 47, the selection of the balance of those portions under Volunteer Land Order 78-220 did not require payment of subdivision fee; and as that Volunteer Land Order selection was prior to the conditional purchase 78-526, the latter should, it is submitted, be declared void, and subdivision fees on Volunteer Land Orders, by letter 79-15,020, conditional sales applicant (Corrigan) states his intention of retaining the 66 acres. All the papers appear to be herewith. Attention is invited to the Land Agent's memorandum endorsed in the margin of conditional purchase application 78-526.—R. D. FITZGERALD, 23rd September, 1879.

It is very much to be regretted that the conditional purchaser (Corrigan) was incorrectly apprised by this department that he could retain 66 acres of the land he had conditionally purchased; nevertheless, for the reasons stated in the minute of the Deputy Surveyor General, of September 23rd, 1879, to the effect that the application in virtue of the Volunteer Order 78-220 was made on a date prior to the application for the conditional purchase, and that there was no occasion for paying the subdivision fee with such application, seeing that the previous survey of portions 46 and 47 had been cancelled, leaves no other course open than to declare the conditional purchase void.—J.H., 26 September, 1879.

Mr. De Low,—Refund subdivision fee paid on Volunteer Land Order, and apprise applicant.—J.G.B., 15th October, 1879.

(1.) Refund subdivision fees on Volunteer Land Orders 78-149 and 169. (See 79-2,395 and 96.) Plan not accepted at date of application, 19th June, 1878.

(2.) Refund subdivision fee on Volunteer Land Order 78-220. (See 79-2,397 Alienation.) No subdivision fee necessary, the land being the residue of portions 46 and 47.—R.H.D., 16th October, 1879. Messrs. Fanning and Treasury informed by circular, 17th Oct., 1879.

With reference to the disputed case of Messrs. Fannings' Volunteer Land Order selections and your conditional purchase for the same land, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that as the Volunteer Land Order application No. 78,220 was made on a date prior to that of your selection, and as there was no necessity for the payment of the subdivision fee with such application, seeing that the previous survey of portions 46 and 47 had been cancelled, no other course is left open than to declare your conditional purchase void, which has now accordingly been done, and refund voucher is enclosed, which will enable you to obtain a return of the deposit money paid.

No. 31.

Mr. H. Corrigan to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Casino, 27 October, 1879.

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of 15th instant, enclosing a refund voucher for £16 10s. (sixteen pounds ten shillings), re my conditional purchase 78-526 of 166 acres, since reduced to 66 acres. No. 24.

I have your communication dated May 13, 1879, relative to my application for the 166 acres having been reduced to 66 acres by the Volunteer Orders of Messrs. Fanning and Griffiths, and that I had accepted the same under protest, a tracing of the land being therewith forwarded to me, showing the situation of the 66 acres allowed to me, and a refund voucher also forwarded for the land taken from the area applied for by me. See No. 17.

I am at a loss to understand upon what grounds the 66 acres have also been taken from me, and have the honor to request that you will advise me upon the matter.

I have never at any time been informed that there was any objection to my obtaining the 66 acres; nor do I wish to lose that, and have herewith returned the refund voucher, as I still claim the portion, and have since my taking it up fulfilled the improvements requisite by law, and am not aware that I have by any act or omission forfeited my claim to it. Soliciting the favour of an early reply, See Enclosure to No. 24.

I am, &c.,

HUGH CORRIGAN.

Sir,

147, Pitt-street, Sydney, 16 December, 1879.

No. 24.

In reply to your letter to Hugh Corrigan, of 15th October, informing him that his conditional purchase (C.P. 78-526, Richmond River, 5th December, 1878, 166 acres, since 66) was declared void, by priority of Volunteer Land Order application No. 78-220, I have the honor to state that the balance (16 acres) is gazetted for sale at the Police Office, Casino, on 31st instant, and as such sale, if held on that date, will be very prejudicial to Mr. Corrigan, who has spent about £200 in improvements, and has not yet had his case investigated, I respectfully solicit that you will be good enough to cause the sale of the said 16 acres to be postponed, as also that I may have an opportunity of bringing the matter more particularly under your notice, with a view to obtaining such relief as the Government may extend to my client.

I have, &c.,

JAMES HOSKINS.

No. 40.

Mr. W. T. Muston to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

113, Pitt-street, Sydney, 8 January, 1880.

I have the honor, on behalf of Hugh Corrigan, to bring the following case under your notice, with a view to obtaining from the Government compensation for the great loss of time and money sustained by him.

1. On the 5th December, 1878, he selected at Casino 166 acres. Conditional Purchase 78-526.

See No. 8.

2. On 21st March, 1879, he received a letter (without conditional sale No.) informing him that his conditional purchase was void to extent of 100 acres, for reasons stated, and enclosing refund for 100 acres, and also tracing showing 66 acres open to conditional purchase in portions 46 and 47.

See No. 17.

3. On 13th May, 1879, letter to J. McElhone, M.P., conditional sales, 79-15,020, upholding decision as stated in letter to Corrigan of 21st March.

See No. 15.

4. On 3rd April, 1879, Corrigan wrote accepting reduced area under protest.

5. On 13th May, conditional sales 79-15,020 was written, stating that protest could not be entertained, and that Corrigan's selection reduced to 66 acres must stand good.

See No. 24.

6. On the 15th October, alienation 79-6,488, declares his conditional purchase of 66 acres void, for reasons stated, and encloses refund voucher.

In the meantime Corrigan had expended some £200 in improvements, which are now of course valueless to him.

I respectfully request that you will call for the papers in this case with as little delay as possible, as Corrigan has expended his means in making improvements, and the matter is of serious import to himself and his family.

A

A balance of 16 acres was gazetted for sale at Casino on 21st December, 1879, but at my instance withdrawn; and as I understand that some of the improvements are on this 16 acres, I would ask that Corrigan be generously dealt with, and that time should be given him before this land is again gazetted.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM T. MUSTON,
Agent for Hugh Corrigan.

Minutes on No. 40.

Submitted as to claim for compensation, and last paragraph.—C.N., 22 January, 1880.

The case has already been before the Minister, and the circumstances are set forth in memoranda upon the enclosed papers (alienation 79-6,488), upon which his minute of 26th September, 1879, is written.

It cannot be denied that the applicant has suffered some loss, and that he has been misled by the action of the department. But this applies to the 66 acres only, of which 16 acres are not yet disposed of, embracing, it is stated, his principal improvements. I should recommend his being allowed to remove his improvements from this area at his option, or allowed to purchase it, under the special Bill.

I think he is entitled to some compensation for the loss of the remaining 50 acres.—A.O.M., 23/1/80.

I concur with the Chief Commissioner that Corrigan's case is entitled to consideration, and as he states that his principal improvements are on the 16 acres his right to purchase that area may be included in the Validating Bill; and further, that the sum of £50 should be placed on the Additional or Supplementary Estimates for 1880, to compensate him for the loss he has sustained through the action of the Government in this case.—J.H., 28th January, 1880.

See minute on No. 23.

No. 41.

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to Mr. W. T. Muston.

Sir, Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Division, Sydney, 9 March, 1880.

With reference to your letter of the 8th January last, applying on behalf of Mr. Hugh Corrigan, for compensation in consequence of loss alleged to have been sustained by him through the action taken by this department in connection with his conditional purchase noted in the margin, I am directed to inform you that the Minister for Lands having taken all the circumstances of this case into consideration has decided that the 16 acres, alleged to contain the bulk of Mr. Corrigan's improvements, shall be included in the schedule of a Bill for legalizing the sale of Crown Lands in this and similar cases, shortly to be laid before Parliament, and that the sum of £50 shall be placed on the Additional or Supplementary Estimates for 1880, as compensation to Mr. Corrigan for any loss he may have sustained through the action of the Government in the matter. I may add that in the meantime his continued occupation of the land (16 acres) referred to will not be interfered with. I have further to re-enclose a refund voucher for the amount of deposit money paid on the 66 acres in question.

I have, &c.,

WM. BLACKMAN
(pro Chief Commissioner).

No. 9.Messrs. Wilson & Ranken to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

227, George-street, Sydney, 24 June, 1875.

We beg to draw your attention to the fact that William Constable, who selected 100 acres at Forbes on 19th August, 1869, is still located on water reserve No. 298, which was gazetted on 6th July, 1867. On behalf of Messrs. Thomas Edols & Co., the lessees of Grudgery Run, Wellington District, on which the above reserve is situated, we have respectfully to request that immediate steps may be taken for his removal. Query 12th. Query 5th.

We have, &c.,
WILSON & RANKEN.Minutes on No. 9.

Forwarded to Charting Branch to ascertain whether the land is within a reserve as stated.—13/8/75. The land referred to is within reserve 298, notified 5th July, 1867—nearly two years prior to the date of the conditional purchase in question. As, however, that purchase has, in consequence of there being no county map in use at that time, hitherto been regarded as correct, and the applicant in uninterrupted possession up to the present time, it is submitted that the usual action of declaring void that purchase be taken, but that this case be included in the "special Bill" for establishing it.—ROBT. No. 11.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Messrs. Wilson & Ranken.

Gentlemen,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 20 March, 1876.

See No. 9.

In reference to your letter of the 24th June last, urging the removal of William Constable, the conditional purchaser of the area noted in the margin, from water reserve No. 298, I am directed to inform you that in consequence of there being no county map in use at the time of selection, showing the position of the reserve, the purchase has been regarded as correct, and the applicant has been allowed to remain in undisturbed possession of the land up to the present time.

100 acres, 12 August, 1869, Forbes.

2. In view, therefore, of these facts, the Secretary for Lands has approved of special legislation being procured to make good the sale of the land to Constable.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN.

No. 12.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. W. Constable.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 20 March, 1876.

10 acres, 12 August, 1869, Forbes.

Referring to your selection mentioned in the margin, I am directed to inform you that it appears this land is embraced by water reserve No. 298, notified 5th July, 1867; the selection is therefore invalid, and has been declared void accordingly.

Voucher enclosed.

A voucher is enclosed, which will enable you to obtain a refund of the deposit money.

In view, however, of the fact of there being no county map in use at the time of selection, showing the position of said reserve, and the purchase having been regarded hitherto as correct, the Minister for Lands has approved of the case being included in schedule to a special Bill about to be laid before Parliament, with a view to legalize the sale of such land.

In the meantime, I am to add that you will not be disturbed in your occupation of the land.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN.

MR. BLACKMAN,—The original conditional purchase in the case of this selection of Constable's has been included in "Special Bill," and Wilson and Ranken, who were opposing it on account of Crown lessees, informed.

Should *this additional conditional purchase be placed in the Bill also ?

There is a further selection of Constable's conditional purchase 75/175 of 100 acres, †6th March, 1875, the application for which is with the surveyor. This selection is most probably embraced by the reserve (298). * See No. 6.

No. 25.

Mr. W. Constable to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Budgerabong, near Forbes, 27 January, 1877.

In reference to *letter of 29th December, 1876, received, informing me I should have the right to purchase 100 acres, I beg most respectfully to say, having a wife and eight children to keep, that I should not be doing them justice if I did not ask the reason I am not granted the privilege of purchasing the whole of my selection the same as William Jones, my next neighbour. 50 acres of my selection was taken up the same day (the 19th November, 1874); also I bought and paid for according to the Land Act to your accredited agent in Forbes, another additional selection on 13th May, 1875, of 100 acres, and held the same, and paid £6 to surveyor to measure the same, and which he did seventeen months after I had possession, so that I had made on the whole of my selections £350 worth of improvements before I received the slightest intimation that my selections were cancelled, not from any law broken by me. I therefore beg you will cause this gross act of injustice to be remedied by causing reserve No. 298, of 1 mile to be cancelled, as reserve 385 is on part of 298, and answers for all public purposes. Or that you will take such other measures as will legalize my selections of 19th November, 1874, and 13th May, 1875, as I have a few sheep, which with the cultivation of my land gives food for my family, and will be ruin to me and mine. My reason for begging reserve 298 be cancelled is that if legalized by Act of Parliament, and appraised, were am I to find the 15s. per acre cash? I will not run in debt, and would wish gradually to buy up to 640 acres, and which I am afraid it will be as much as I can do in two or three years.

Now having had possession from the 12th August, 1869, my first granted application 19th November, 1874, my second granted application, 13th May, 1875, my third granted application, without objection till seventeen months after last additional selection, and within one month of (7) seven years of my first application.

Trusting to your well-known high sense of justice,

I remain, &c.,

WILLIAM CONSTABLE.

Mr. W. Constable to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Budgerabong, 3 June, 1877.

About the 27th January, 1877, I addressed a *letter to the Honorable the Minister for Lands, but having received no answer, I venture to repeat my humble petition.

On 12th August, 1869, I selected 100 acres; on 19th November, 1874, I selected additional 50 acres; again on 13th May, 1875, I selected an additional 100 acres; at Forbes Land Office 17 months after I paid Mr. Rotton, Government Surveyor (£6) six pounds for the measuring of the 1875 additional selection.

I improved the whole of the above selections fully to the value of £350. I received *a letter from your office nine days after said measurement, informing me to my utter astonishment that the whole of my selections were on water reserve 298, and water reserve 385, both reserves taking in same land, and the late Government having only legalized by Legislative enactment my 100 acres of 1869. I beg most respectfully to ask that reserve 298 be immediately cancelled, as the water reserve No. 385, and the ½ mile reserve for travelling stock is fully sufficient for all public use. I then can re-select on same ground, ground, being a bond fide selector, and cultivating the said land, and running about 300 sheep on said land for the support of my wife and family of nine children. I beg you will cause my petition to be immediately inquired into, and such measures to be taken as will secure me the said land without further let or hindrance.

I beg to call your attention to my *petition, presented about 5th June by E. Combes, Esq., M.P., and trust I will receive an answer, as I have no protection amongst my neighbouring selectors, John King and Michael Brown, who are continually trespassing on my selections. 100 acres taken up on 12th August, 1869; 50 acres taken up on 19th November, 1874; 100 acres taken up on 13th May, 1875, and fully improved to the full extent as the law directs. I believe if the reserve was cancelled on which Mr. W. Jones' and my selections are, it would meet all the requirements of both selectors and squatters. I beg to say if my petitions are not heeded, then I shall be compelled to apply for permission to sue the Government.

Copy of appointment herewith.

In reference to your application to purchase under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the portion of land specified in the margin, which has been found to be within water reserve No. 298, notified 5 July, 1867, I am directed to inform you that the Honorable the Secretary for Lands having authorized me in that respect, I have appointed Mr. Joseph Rebello, of Wellington, appraiser on behalf of the Government. If you are satisfied that the land in question shall be valued by him alone you will please sign the form sent herewith marked "A"; if, however, you wish to appoint an appraiser to act on your behalf, you will sign the form "B," annexed. In this case you will be required to pay the costs of such appraiser, and of the umpire who will then have to be appointed, and upon forwarding the same to Mr. Joseph Rebello he will proceed herein, to act on behalf of the Government. You will of course understand, that unless an appointment, in either form A or B, be forwarded to him within sixty days from this date, he will proceed with the appraisement, in accordance with 3rd clause of the 28th section of the Alienation Act.

2. In appointing an appraiser you will be so good as to sign your name in full.

No. 30.

Mr. W. Constable to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Forbes, 6 October, 1877.

I most respectfully beg to lay the following facts before you:—

I conditionally purchased under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, at the Court-house, Forbes, the following portions of land:—On the 12th August, 1869, 100 acres; 19th November, 1874, 50 acres; 13th May, 1875, 100 acres. Said land is situated at Budgerabong, county of Cunningham. By instructions from Government it was measured for me by a Government Surveyor; seven (7) years after I had taken up the first 100 acres (in 1869), I received notice that I was on water reserve No. 298. By that time I had expended over £300 in improvements on the two first-mentioned purchases. You then caused a Bill to be passed, the object of which was to legalize my selections, as well as others. I now find that I am in danger of having to pay to make my selection a valuable property, as it appears to me that I have to find the money at once, instead of being allowed the three-fourth purchase price to remain at interest as a conditional purchase. Your appraiser, Mr. Rebello, came to appraise my property above described just eight and a half years after the conditional purchases were made by me; I most respectfully beg to state that my being ignorant of the nature of the Bill passed, you will please cause the water reserve No. 298 to be cancelled, thereby giving me and others power to again select the same land. I also request you to cancel Mr. Rebello's power to appraise, as I cannot, in justice to my wife and nine children, consent to any such an appraisal. Trusting that you will give the above facts your most earnest consideration,

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM CONSTABLE.

Appraisement by Mr. J. Rebello.

Appraisement, wherein the intending purchaser has not complied with the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861.

To all to whom these presents shall come,—

I, Joseph Rebello, of Wellington, in the Colony of New South Wales, send greeting:—

Whereas on the day of in the year of our Lord 18, William Constable, of Forbes, in the Colony aforesaid, applied to purchase 100 acres of land situate on the Lachlan, in the said Colony: And whereas on the 20th day of September, 1877, I was duly appointed, by the authority of the Minister for Lands, to be appraiser on behalf of the Crown, to fix and determine the price or value to be paid by the said William Constable for the purchase of the said land: And whereas on the last-mentioned date, notice of such appointment was given to the said William Constable: And whereas the said William Constable having allowed the period limited by the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 to elapse without having concurred in my appointment as sole appraiser, or having appointed an appraiser to act on his own behalf, I have entered upon the consideration of the value of the said land, and have heard and considered the evidence produced before me: Now I, the said Joseph Rebello, do hereby declare the sum of £1 3s. per acre to be the value of the said land, and do appraise and fix that sum as the amount to be paid by the said William Constable for the purchase thereof: And I assess and fix the costs of this appraisement, payable to me, at the sum of 10s. 6d., which said sum I direct shall be paid by the Minister for Lands.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, this 20th day of December, A.D. 1877.

Memorandum by The Deputy Surveyor General.

See No. 26.

IF, as would appear from Constable's statement, applicant has placed considerable improvements on his additional conditional purchases, and as the alienation of the land comprised in one of them would not affect the utility of the reserve, the sale of that conditional purchase (74-13,119) might be legalized by special enactment. But as Constable states he would not be able to pay the appraised value when called upon to do so, the alternative suggested by him might be adopted. He would not, however, be in a position to apply for the land as an additional purchase until he had completed the purchase of the portion taken under the 13th section and contracted to be sold to him under the last validating Bill.

Under all the circumstances of the case it is suggested that the matter be referred to the District Surveyor as to the necessity of retaining any or the whole of reserve 298, and that part of the travelling stock reserve covered by Constable's additional conditional purchases, when, if there is no objection to the revocation of the reserves, or to a modification thereof, applicant will be enabled, after the revocation takes place, to apply for the land he requires. In carrying out this suggestion care should be taken not to revoke the reserve until Constable has completed the purchase of the 100 acres under the Validating Bill, and thus placed himself in a position to apply for the additional land under section 22.

Survey.—Should not Constable be informed of the position he is in, and the action proposed to be taken?—C.E.F., 25 Feb., /78. Mr. Constable informed accordingly, 19 March, 1878.

Referred to Mr. D.-S. Fisher for report, in view of minute hereon, dated 11 Feb., 1878.—CHAS. E. FINCH (for Sur. Gl.), B.C., 6 June, /78. Referred to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Lisle for report.

The stock route should be reserved 3 chains wide at least across these portions. I consider water reserve 298 has excessive area; half a mile frontage to the Lachlan River, and the same frontage to Goobang Creek, would be ample. This reserve might therefore be amended, viz., bounded on the west by the eastern boundaries of portions Nos. 9, 10, 11, on tracing, and then north to Goobang Creek, with a width of half a mile.—E. FISHER, Dis. Surveyor, B.C., 13 June, 1878.

Mr. W. Constable to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Budgerabong, 12 March, 1878.

Seeing you have several times lately revoked portions of reserves I would beg most respectfully to ask you to revoke from reserve 298 the several portions of my selection, taken up by me in August, 1869, 100 acres; also, 50 acres taken up in November, 1874; also, 100 acres in May, 1875, the whole of which I have improved above the requirements of the Act, and have resided on the same by residence of self, wife, and nine children. As I am not in a position to purchase if not allowed to re-select the same land I beg to say having occupied over seven (7) years I am afraid a great act of injustice will be done me if I am placed in opposition with the rich squatter.

Trusting you will take the above into your consideration,—

I remain, &c.,

Mr. W. Jones to Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher.

Dear Sir,

Forbes, 26 March, 1878.

Having agreed to purchase Mr. Lee's selection of 70 acres, at and adjoining my 100 acres, legalized by Act of Parliament, also adjoining Mr. Constable's selected land at Budgerabong, and having been in communication with the three last Governments, asking them to revoke reserve 298, or any portion thereof thereof (*copy of letter from present Government referring the matter to you, which I enclose), I and Mr. Constable having equal interest, and running our few sheep together, would feel grateful if you can support our prayer, as we feel confident your advising 298 reserve being revoked would be only doing an act of justice—Mr. Constable having held his selections over nine years, and I, through Mr. James Regan, eight years and eleven months. I shall feel grateful if you will excuse my saying, I believe if the reserve is revoked so far as to enable Mr. Constable and myself making our selections up to 640 acres each, in an easterly direction, which will not interfere with any squatter or other interest in any way. I shall be glad to see you, and will drive you down if you at any time call.

Yours, &c.,
W. JONES.

Minutes on No. 35.

Forwarded to the Surveyor General, as I have been unable to trace any instructions referring to the revocation of Reserve No. 298 as having been forwarded to me, although in your letter of 19th March last (copy enclosed from Conditional Sales Branch to either Mr. Jones or Mr. Constable) it is stated the matter had been referred to me.—E. FISHER, Dist. Surveyor. B.C., 3 May, 1878. See enclosure.

The position of this reserve, No. 298, is not shown on any plan in this office. Required former papers.—G.L., 6 May, '78.

Memorandum by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Lisle.

I CONSIDER a reserve $\frac{1}{2}$ mile wide, being bounded on the west by portions Nos. 9, 10, and 11, and having a frontage to the Lachlan River and Goobang Creek, as proposed by Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher, would meet the requirements of the case. When measuring portions 9, 10, and 11, I had not received any instruction as to the width of road to be left, so that I made it 150 links wide, being the same as through the adjoining portions measured by Mr. L.-S. Tarves. This only being a short distance, and the land being above flood mark and sound, would not 150 links be sufficient?

No. 37.

Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher to The Surveyor General.

Sir, District Survey Office, Orange, 13 July, 1878.
In connection with your *instructions of 6th June last, which with other papers I have the honor to return herewith, and would respectfully inform you I consider that portion of water reserve 298, in the county of Cunningham, west of the eastern boundaries of portions Nos. 9, 10, & 11, may be cancelled and this reserve re-proclaimed as follows, viz. :—Bounded on the west by the eastern boundaries of portions Nos. 9, 10, and 11 and their prolongation north, being a line northerly 3 miles; on the north by a line east thirty (30) chains; on the east by a line south to the Lachlan River, and by that river downwards to portion No. 9.

* See Minute on No. 32.

2. As portions Nos. 2-ix and 3-ix were measured prior to proclamation of travelling stock reserve No. 618, the survey of same cannot now be amended, but I consider that the roads between portions Nos. 9 and 10 should be 5 chains wide and that such portions should be re-surveyed, unless it is found that improvements have been erected adjacent to the road as formerly surveyed, in which case it would be advisable to leave a road 5 chains wide at the back of portions Nos. 3-ix and 11 to admit of travelling stock passing from water reserve 385 at the back of these portions, and into the present route on proposed reserve No. 298.

If this arrangement is carried out I consider the sale of portions Nos. 9, 10, and 11 may be legalised.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD FISHER,
District Surveyor.

Minutes on No. 37.

Mr. Finch,—Has Constable completed his purchase of the 100 acres?—G. LEWIS, 19 July, /78.

Notified in Gazette of 19 Nov., /78, calling upon applicant to pay purchase-money; payment not yet reported. Perhaps the revocation may go on as suggested by Mr. D.-S. Fisher, as before the land is open to conditional purchase, the purchase-money for the 100 acres will no doubt have been paid. The sale of portion 10 has been legalised in the same validating Bill; consequently the suggestion made by Mr. Fisher to widen the road between 9 and 10 cannot be effected so far as the latter portion is concerned, but possibly the extra width may be obtained from portion 9, which has been noted in view of the report.

The road at the back of 3-ix and 11 should be kept open in future surveys.—C.E.F., 24th Dec., /78.

No. 38.

Mr. W. Jones to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Forbes, 20 July, 1878.

Having learnt that Mr. Fisher has reported on my land, leaving me and my neighbour in a worse position than before, I have on reference to the Forbes Land Office map come to the conclusion that as Mr. Constable's selection, C.P. 75-175, of 100 acres, 13 May, 1875, measured by Mr. Rotton and paid for by Mr. Constable, not being on the map, has been the cause of Mr. Constable's and my petitions not being granted, this move of 298 reserve being cancelled, I therefore beg most respectfully to call your special attention that reserve 385-21, M. 13, would answer all the purposes of and for the public use, and if not, that if $\frac{1}{2}$ mile easterly from reserve 388 and northerly to the outside or northern and eastern parts of our selections, including C.P. 75-175, 100 acres, 13 May, 1875, was cancelled, this would include all our selections now so many years taken up, and could be re-selected by us if permitted, leaving all the northern part of 298 to be joined on reserve 385, and as there is a Public School at Budgerabong, would be doing justice to us and our children. I therefore respectfully beg you will authorize our case to be reconsidered.

I have, &c.,

W. JONES,

(For Mr. Constable).

Minutes on No. 38.

Forwarded to the Surveyor General by request of Mr. Jones in reference to my letter of the 13th instant. I am not aware of the position of Constable's 100 acres C.P. 75-175, and if further report is required tracings showing all the measurements in the vicinity should be forwarded to me. W.R. 298, as proposed to be modified in my *letter, is required for the use of stock on Grudgery Run for access to the water in the Lachlan River. It is probable that Mr. Rotton's plan of Constable's 100 acres conditional purchase was never forwarded, as the survey was a private one and should not have been made, as reserves Nos. 298 and 385 were proclaimed prior to the date of such selection.—E. No. 41.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. W. Constable.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 19 November, 1878.

I am directed to call your attention to the notice in the Government Gazette of this date, from which you will perceive that you will be allowed to purchase under the Act 40 Victoria, No. 14, 100 acres of land, in the county of Cunningham, and I am to request that you will have the goodness to pay into the Colonial Treasury the sum noted in the margin, being the price at which the land has been appraised, inclusive of the deed fee.

2. Under the 4th clause of the regulations the amount stated must be paid in the manner pointed out within three months from the notice in the Government Gazette, under a penalty of an addition of 10 per cent. to the price; and should the price, together with such penalty, not be paid with a further period of three months, the claim to purchase will lapse, and the land be brought to auction.

I have, &c.,

L. G. THOMPSON,

(For the Under Secretary).

No. 42.

The Secretary for Lands to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 19 November, 1878.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, having approved of the application to purchase portion of land under the Act, 40 Victoria No. 14, set forth in the accompanying printed schedule, I am directed by the Secretary for Lands to request that you will have the goodness to move the Finance Minister to cause the purchase-money to be received when tendered.

2. I am further to request that I may be apprised of any payments that may be received at the Treasury for the lands in question.

William Constable, 100 acres, county of Cunningham, £116.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN.

No. 43.

J. McElhone, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Sydney, 1 January, 1879.

Enclosed I have the honor to forward you a letter from Mr. William Constable, of Budgerabong, via Forbes, in reference to certain conditional purchases taken up by him, and which after he had selected years, and long after survey, were found to be on a reserve. You will notice that Constable states his first conditional purchase, 100 acres, was taken up on the 12th August, 1869, and measured in two months after by Surveyor Tarves. His second conditional purchase of 50 acres on the 19th November, 1874, and measured in one month after by Mr. Surveyor Lisle. His third conditional purchase of 100 acres he had measured by Government-Surveyor Rotton. In March, 1876, he got notice his conditional purchases were on a reserve, or 7 years after he selected and made improvements to the value of £400. Now if these Government surveyors could not tell the conditional purchases were on a reserve (and Constable states there are three reserves overlapping), how is it possible Constable could know? A gross wrong has been done him, and I do not hesitate to say that if he does not get the whole of his selections a gross robbery will have been perpetrated on him by the sanction of the Government. Constable states that his first conditional purchase of 100 acres has been appraised at £116, and he has not the means of paying it. I have therefore the honor to request that you will at once take this conditional purchase out of the legalizing Bill, and that so much of the reserve 298 as includes his three conditional purchases may be at once cancelled, so as to enable him to re-select it, and that he may be advised of its cancellation when it takes place, as this man appears to be a bona fide selector, and a gross wrong has been done to him under the law.

I have the honor to request that his case will receive immediate attention.

I have, &c.,

J. McELHONE.

[Enclosure.]

Mr. W. Constable to J. McElhone, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Budgerabong, via Forbes, 24 December, 1878.

I selected 100 acres, 12th August, 1869; I took an additional 50 acres, 19th November, 1874; also I took an additional 100 acres, 13th May, 1875. The 100 acres of 1869 was measured by Mr. Tarves within two months; the 50 acres of 1874 was measured by Mr. Lisle within one month; the 100 acres, 1875, I paid Mr. Rotton £6 for measuring. Each of the above, Mr. Tarves, Mr. Lisle, and Mr. Rotton, the two first Government sent, I got the last to measure. They are all Government surveyors, but gave me no intimation that I was on a reserve.

In March, 1876, within a few months of seven years after my first selection, and after I had made improvements to value of over £400 on my selections, I received notice I was on a reserve 298.

I wrote to Government asking them to cancel reserve 298, as it would injure no one, so that I could re-select. The Government then, amongst others, passed a Bill to legalize 100 acres, thus taking from me 50 acres, and 100 acres, on which I fed 200 or 300 sheep. I wrote again on or about 5th June, 1877; again I wrote on the 18th August, 1877, asking for a reply, specially calling the attention of the Minister to the gross injustice done to me and my wife, and nine children, telling the Minister I had not the means to pay the appraised value. I now observe by the Gazette I am appraised £116 for the 100 acres, on which are most of my cultivations, improvements, to the value of over £400. I therefore venture to ask you, trusting you will excuse me, and feeling assured that your high sense of justice, you will ask in your place in Parliament that such inquiries shall be made, and that all papers and letters shall be produced, in which you will see plainly three reserves, one lapping over the other for the poor squatter, who has only a small block of runs adjoining each other, 40 miles long on the Lachlan, and 15 to 20 miles back, securing for his sheep land that would have fed thousands of poor families.

If Government will pass an Act as before to legalize my 50 acres and 100 acres—if they will not cancel a useless reserve—or if they will cancel, I shall be for ever grateful to you for bringing it about.

Trusting I am not intruding too much on your time,

I remain, &c.,

WILLIAM CONSTABLE,

Of Budgerabong.

Minutes on No. 43.

The sale of the land included in the first conditional purchase has already been authorized under a special Act of Parliament, and the purchase money fixed by appraisal, and demanded; this part of the matter cannot therefore be re-opened. It is proposed to partially cancel the reserve, so as to allow of the additional selections being again taken up on completion of the first purchase.—A.O.M., 6/1/79.

As the special Act does not prescribe that land can be sold by any other mode than appraisal, the first portion in this case must be disposed of in that way; and as it is proposed to cancel the reserve, the other portions can afterwards be conditionally purchased.—J.H., 7/1/79.

No. 44.

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to Mr. W. Constable.

Sir, Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Division, Sydney, 20 January, 1879.

With reference to your request, as regards your three conditional purchases on reserve 298, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to point out that, as the special Bill prescribes no other mode of selling land than by appraisal, you cannot legally obtain your first 100 acres except by payment of the appraised value.

2. It is proposed to cancel the reserve, so as to allow of your re-selecting the other two portions.

I have, &c.,

A. O. MORIARTY,
Chief Commissioner,

No. 45.

J. McElhone, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Sydney, 25 January, 1879.

In reference to a letter I wrote you a few days ago, as to a conditional purchase of Wm. Constable, of Budgerabong, vid Forbes, of 100 acres, which was put on a legalizing Bill, and valued at £116,—A gross wrong has been done to him; his conditional purchase was measured, and he resided on it near seven years before he was advised it was on a reserve.

I have the honor to suggest to you that a short Bill to repeal the Validating Bill, so far as his conditional purchase is concerned, might be brought in and passed in a short time. Constable advises me he has not the means to pay appraised value, £116, and if it is enforced he will be ruined, and lose his home and over £400 worth of improvements.

As regards his additional conditional purchases on the reserve, he held one of them, and it was surveyed several years before it was found to be in a reserve.

I have the honor to request that you will be pleased to cancel so much of the reserve as is occupied by his additional conditional purchases, to enable him to re-select them, and that he may be advised of it.

No one will be injured by it. The lessees, Edols & Co., occupy nearly 1,000,000 acres; great part of the runs are secured by the reserves; and no one knows better than yourself the injury that has been done to the public interest, and the robbery of the same, by making many of these reserves.

Trusting that this will receive immediate attention,—

I have, &c.,

J. McELHONE.

Minutes on No. 45.

Chief Commissioner of Conditional Purchases,—What is the position of this case?—J.H., 28/1/79.

Inform Mr. McElhone of my previous decision in this case.—J.H., 30/1/79.

Papers returned to Mr. Rich as requested. They should afterwards be forwarded to Miscellaneous Branch in respect to the sale under the Validating Act of 1876, and to C.S. Branch as to whether the land comprised by the additional conditional purchases has been re-selected; then to Charting Branch (Mr. Finch).—CHAS. E. FINCH, 20/2/80.

From papers enclosed it appears that the purchase money has been paid and deed has issued of the portion (No. III-IX of 100 acres) legalized by Validating Act of 1876, therefore further reference to Mis. Br., as suggested above, is unnecessary. As regards the void additional C.P.'s 74-13,119, portion 11, of 50 acres, and 75-175 of 100 acres, it is suggested in view of the decisions of the 31st August, 1876, on 76-19,399, aln. cover, and 79-288, that the cases should not be dealt with under the proposed Validating Bill, as the land comprised in portion 11 (void C.P. 74-13,119) is now available for conditional purchase, and applicant is, it is presumed, in a position to apply for it under section 22 of Act 1861, and the land comprised in void C.P. 75-175 is still required as a reserve, and it is not desirable to alienate it under special Bill or otherwise.—R. D. FITZGERALD (for Surveyor General), B.C., 16 March, 1880.

The Chief Commissioner,—I concur.—A.O.M., 14/4/80. Approved.—J.H., 16/4/80. Mr. Finch has struck the cases out of schedule to new Bill. May be put away.

With reference to your letter of the 25th January and previous correspondence relative to the selections of Mr. Wm. CLAIM OF ANNE JANE COX FOR LOSS OF HER CONDITIONAL PURCHASE.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly appointed on the 18th May, 1880,—“with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire into and report upon the claim of Anne Jane Cox for loss of her Conditional Purchase,”—have agreed to the following Report:—

1. Your Committee having examined the witnesses named in the List,* whose *See List, page 6. evidence will be found appended hereto, find as follows:—

- (1.) That on the 15th October, 1874, Anne Jane Cox (per George Francis Cox, her agent) selected 320 acres of land on Marthaguy Creek, in the county of Euenmar, and subsequently built a house and made substantial improvements thereon.
- (2.) That on the 10th November, 1875, on the report of Licensed-Surveyor Macfarlane, her selection was declared void, as being within Travelling Stock Reserve No. 44.
- (3.) That reserve No. 44 was proclaimed in 1865, when the locality was so little known that the course of Marthaguy Creek was believed to be east and west instead of north and south, which inaccuracy gave to the reserve, as described, a frontage to the creek of about six miles instead of one mile as was intended.
- (4.) That in November, 1875, reserve No. 44 was cancelled in consequence of such faulty description, and to allow certain conditional purchasers affected thereby to validate their forfeited holdings, and a new and smaller reserve was afterwards substituted, which included a portion of the selection of Anne Jane Cox.
- (5.) That on the 16th December, 1875, a letter was forwarded from the Department of Lands apprising Anne Jane Cox of the action about to be taken, and pointing out that she might re-select that portion of her forfeited conditional purchase which was not within the new reserve.
- (6.) That Anne Jane Cox did not re-select the land referred to, and on the 8th November, 1876, it was bought at auction, at the upset price, by Mr. Richmond, the lessee of the run.
- (7.) That Anne Jane Cox remained in possession of the land until 1879, when an action of ejectment was brought against her by the purchaser, and she was compelled to leave the land.
- (8.) That the father of Anne Jane Cox lost thereby his daughter's selection with the improvements thereon, and incurred heavy law expenses, which ultimately compelled him to seek relief in the Insolvent Court.

2. Your Committee recommend the claim of Anne Jane Cox for the consideration of the Government.

MR. TERRY,
MR. THOMPSON.

WALTER THOMAS COONAN, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. George Francis Cox, examined:—

1. Chairman.] You are the father of Anne Jane Cox? Yes.
2. I believe she is a minor? Yes.
3. Do you remember some few years back taking up any quantity of land in her name? I took 320 acres of land on Marthaguy Creek, on the 15th October, 1874.
4. Do you produce the receipt? I do. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix A 1.)
5. Is that the land for which Anne Jane Cox now claims compensation? Yes, that is the land for the purchase money of which I produce the receipt.
6. You took it up at the Land Office at Dubbo? Yes.
7. At the time you took up that land were you shown a map of the country around Marthaguy Creek on which your selection was? Yes.
8. By the Land Agent at the office—the office map at Dubbo? Yes.
9. At the time of your taking up the land was any reserve or anything of that kind shown on the office map? No.
10. How long after taking up that land did you or your daughter commence to build or to make improvements upon it? I commenced the improvements directly.
11. On the 320 acres? On the 320 acres.
12. Almost immediately after? Yes.
13. What were the first improvements you commenced? I built a house.
14. What sort of house? Of sawn timber.
15. Of what size was the house? Four rooms.
16. Was it roofed with shingles or bark? Shingles.
17. What did it cost you to put it up? The house was valued by Mr. Macfarlane, the surveyor, when it was half done, at £170.
18. Was he the Government surveyor. Yes.
19. Did you put up fencing? I fenced the 320 acres at the back—I did not put up the side lines.
20. What sort of fence? For wire.
21. How many wires? Five.
22. Had you all the posts in? Yes.
23. Mr. Day.] How long was it before it was measured after you had taken it up? Not for two years.

Mr. G. F. Cox.

27 May, 1880.

- Mr. G. F. Cox. 24. Chairman.] What length of line was the back line? I can point it out on the plan. (The witness referred to a plan before the Committee.) There was only about $1\frac{1}{4}$ mile of fencing.
- 27 May, 1880. 25. What did that cost you? The improvements I valued at about £300, garden and all the fittings up.
26. Did you clear any of the land? Yes.
27. To what extent? I suppose about five or six acres for the garden and around the house.
28. Had you a well there? No, I had a tank.
29. How long were you in occupation of it before anything took place? Some six or seven months.
30. What took place then? The surveyor came, in company with the lessee's overseer, and asked me would I show him my boundaries.
31. What surveyor? Mr. Macfarlane. He asked me if I would show him the country I had, and said he would come over on a certain day to survey it.
32. You told him? Yes.
33. What did he say then? He said—"I will come in a few days to survey it."
34. Did he come? No.
35. What was the next you heard? I met him about a month after at Mr. Todhunter's, about three miles above my selection, and he told me that my daughter's selection was on the reserve.
36. What next took place? Of course we entered into a conversation, and he told me he did not know how I could make such a mistake, having known the land so many years and having been overseer to Mr. Christie on the station. I said I thought he was labouring under a mistake, as the starting point of the reserve was above Mr. Todhunter's selection.
37. How far was that from yours? Rather more than three miles.
38. That (referring to the map) is Mr. Todhunter's? Yes.
39. Can you tell us from memory what the extent of the reserve was? It took five miles south, one mile west, and by a north line about five miles from the Marthaguy Creek upwards. He said of course he could do nothing until he had heard from the Lands Department.
40. Had you up to this time any notice whatever from the Lands Department? None.
41. Did you continue to carry on your improvements? I did.
42. When was anything definite communicated to you for the first time? I kept writing to the Government and to Mr. Garrett, who was Minister for Lands at the time, and received no reply excepting one letter which stated that a surveyor was to be appointed to look at the place.
43. Up to that time had you any notice to desist from carrying on your improvements? No.
44. What are all these (referring to the map) marked here? 590 acres, which I took up afterwards.
45. Has that been cancelled? Yes, latterly.
46. Are there any other selections between you and Mr. Todhunter? None.
47. Can you, as far as your memory goes, tell us what the letter was about that came from the department? That Mr. ———, the surveyor, was to come up and look at the place and report upon it.
48. Up to this time you received nothing warning you that this was a reserve, and that you should desist from carrying on your improvements? No.
49. How soon after that did you get anything definite? I came to Sydney in June or July, 1875, and saw Mr. Fitzgerald, the Deputy Surveyor General. After a great deal of trouble the papers were found, and the letters I had sent in to the department. He looked over them, advised me to go home, to continue the improvements, and to write a letter to the Government; and that if there were any reserve interfering with me, it was not a legal reserve and would be cancelled.
50. You went home? I went home and continued my improvements. I wrote a letter to the Government, and got Mr. Todhunter to sign it with me, as he was also on this supposed reserve.
51. How long had Mr. Todhunter been on it? He had been on the reserve—they say I was on since 1870—four years before I took up this land, and had made his declaration. He has since taken up another selection, and both his selections were made by the resident district surveyors—Mr. Campbell and Mr. Dagleish. Mr. Campbell surveyed Mr. Todhunter's selection in 1870, and this Mr. Macfarlane, in 1877, stated was on the reserve.
52. Mr. Campbell was the district surveyor stationed at Dubbo? Yes.
53. It cost you some money to come down from Marthaguy Creek to Sydney and to go back again? Yes.
54. After the conversation with Mr. Fitzgerald, the Deputy Surveyor General, you returned and went on with your improvements? Yes.
55. Up to that time had you any formal notice from the Government that you were on a reserve? Not any.
56. When did you next hear anything about it? I think the next thing was that I saw this selection and that I held in my own name were to be put up at auction.
57. You are quite sure that up to this time you had had no communication from the Lands Department that you were on a reserve? I cannot say whether I had the voucher to get a refund and to re-select, up to that time.
58. Of course I am confining myself to the selection made in the name of Anne Jane Cox. Did you receive any notice that that was cancelled? Not a word, to the best of my memory.
59. When did you see that this selection was to be put up at auction? I think I have the Gazette with the date of the sale upon it. (The witness produced the same. Vide Appendix A 2.) I find it is the 8th of November, 1876.
60. You speak of getting a voucher: has that reference to your own selection or to your daughter's? I know I have the voucher for my daughter's also.
61. Did you make use of them? No.
62. How did you become acquainted with the fact of the intended sale? Through Mr. M'Queen, the Land Agent, who sent that from Dubbo.
63. Did he send any letter with it? No, only what you see written upon it—"Does this concern you?"
64. You found out that it did concern you? Yes. I immediately telegraphed to Mr. Brown, and also wrote to Mr. Garrett, Minister for Lands, respecting it.
65. Had you all this time been continuing your improvements? Yes.
66. Were you residing on it? Yes.
67. Was the land sold at the time you have stated? It was.
68. Who became possessed of it? The lessee of the run, Mr. Richmond.
69. You still, I believe, continued to reside there—you and your daughter? I still held possession of that.

70. What took place after that? While I held possession, I received a telegram from Mr. Brown, my ^{Mr. G. F. Cox.} agent, that the land was withdrawn from sale until further investigation.
71. You still kept possession? Yes. (The witness handed in a letter dated 30th April, 1875. Vide ^{27 May, 1880.} Appendix A 3.)
72. Can you tell us what the letter of the 18th of April referred to? I think it must have referred to this reserve.
73. You say that the land was sold and that you still remained in possession: how long did you remain in possession? Until last year, when an action of ejectment was commenced against me by Mr. Richmond, the purchaser.
74. You were ousted, were you not? Yes.
75. Were you allowed to take away your improvements? No.
76. At the time you were ousted by Mr. Richmond, the lessee of the run, under an action of ejectment, what was the amount of improvements you had on the land? About £300.
77. You also received a letter dated 16th December, 1876? Yes. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix A 4.)
78. What was the number of the reserve on which the selection of Anne Jane Cox was supposed to be? 44.
79. You also received another letter? Yes, the one I now produce. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix A 5.)
80. You say that at the time you were ejected your improvements amounted to £300—I believe you had some stock? Yes; they ran all their stock on me and I had to shift my stock.
81. Who ran their stock? The lessee who had purchased my land.
82. What did you lose by reason of that? I lost from fifty to seventy head of cattle, and ten head of horses.
83. What would they be worth at that time? I suppose cattle would be about £3 10s., and horses about £8 up there.
84. Do you know when the land was sold? On the 8th November, 1876.
85. What was the upset price? £1 an acre.
86. Do you know what it fetched? Only the upset price.
87. And your improvements were on it? My daughter's were—I was ejected last year from the house and land.
88. Has the lessee had the use of the house since? Yes.
89. The house has not been pulled down—it is there still? Yes.
90. And the other improvements too? And the other improvements too.
91. Mr. Barbour.] What was the reserve that was said to interfere with Anne Jane Cox's selection? No. 44.
92. Is that a travelling stock reserve? Part of it—it crosses the creek at Mr. Todhunter's selection.
93. Can you point out the reserve that interfered with your daughter's selection? This is the one (pointing it out on the map). The original starting point is above Mr. Todhunter's 80-acre selection—selected in 1870—9 miles frontage, running 5 miles south from Mr. Todhunter's selection, 1 mile west, and by a north line about 5 miles.
94. When was that reserve made? On the 22nd December, 1865.
95. Where did Mr. Macfarlane say it was? He said it ran away through several other people's selections to Mr. Flood's, at Quambong.
96. Mr. Jacob.] Was not that reserve on the map in the Land Agent's Office when you selected the land? No, Mr. Todhunter had made his selection four years before.
97. Mr. Terry.] Has Mr. Todhunter's selection been accepted by the Crown? Yes, he has made his declaration.
98. Mr. Day.] Mr. Todhunter is in possession now? Yes.
99. Mr. Terry.] He is on this reserve? Yes.
100. Mr. Jacob.] Is that your tracing (referring to the map before the Committee)? Yes, it was got from the Survey Department, I believe, and was produced by my counsel in the action.
101. Mr. Thompson.] Have the boundaries of that reserve ever been defined? Yes, it started above Mr. Todhunter's selection.
102. Going down to your selection? No, it was never thought to go down.
103. Was that reserve ever marked on the ground? I believe it was, in 1870—a tree is marked for the starting point, but I cannot say whether it was for that or when surveying the runs of Colleyburl or Inglega.
104. You do not know whether it was ever marked on the ground? I cannot say of my own knowledge.
105. Chairman.] At the time you selected for your daughter, were there any marks showing the reserve coming down past Mr. Todhunter's towards you? No.
106. You have been in that part of the country a long time? Yes, I have been there ever since I came to the country, five and twenty years ago, and I was overseer on Mr. Christie's station, so that I know the locality well.
107. And there was a reserve known to be as you say above Todhunter's? Yes, above Todhunter's.
108. You said at the commencement of your evidence that Anne Jane Cox is a minor—she is a girl going to school at the present time? Yes.
109. And knows nothing about the matter? No, only that she was living there with me.
110. Mr. Barbour.] How long before the sale by auction did you apply to the Lands Department to stop the sale? I cannot exactly say the time myself—Mr. Brown can tell you nearer than I.
111. Was it several days? Yes, several days.
112. Were your improvements all upon the 181 acres that were sold by auction? They were not.
113. What is the actual loss you think you have sustained? £800 would not fully compensate me.
114. Chairman.] What law expenses were you put to in the matter? £300 or £400.
115. You lost so much that you were ultimately obliged to go into the Insolvent Court? Yes, they brought the expenses up to £1,600.
116. Mr. Day.] You say that the first time the surveyor came to you with the overseer of the lessee and asked you to point out your boundaries? Yes.
117. The next time he saw you he told you you were on the reserve? Yes, somewhere about a month after.
118. You say that in answer to that you said—"You must be mistaken, because I have a description of the reserve and know it well"? Yes.

- Mr. G. F. Cox. 119. Will you take the map and put your finger on the starting point of the reserve according to the Gazette; is that on Marthaguy Creek? Yes.
- 27 May, 1880. 120. At the junction of the two runs? Yes, Colleyburl and Inglega.
121. What direction does it take then? It runs five miles south.
122. What direction does it take then? One mile west.
123. Then? North line about five miles.
124. If it stopped at the end of that five miles it would be directly opposite the starting point? Yes.
125. If that were the case it would not embrace Mr. Todhunter's selection, your daughter's, or your own? No.
126. Instead of that, what is the distance to the point at which it really does stop? It would be about six miles and a half beyond the five.
127. So that virtually the northern line is about eleven miles and a half instead of five miles? Yes, on to Mr. Perry's Toongba Run.
128. In consequence of your believing that that northern line was only five miles, you thought you were a long distance away from the reserve? Yes, and knowing that Mr. Todhunter had been living there for years, and had made his declaration.
129. You had no reason to suppose that that line was eleven miles and a half long instead of five? No.
130. On that account you selected this land? Yes.
131. Any one reading the description in the Gazette of the 23rd December, 1865, would come to the conclusion you did—that you were a long way outside of the reserve? Yes, miles.
132. Did you explain to the Deputy Surveyor General the reason you selected,—that you were outside the reserve? Yes, and he said when I explained to him that he did not believe it was a legal reserve, and told me to write to him.
133. Did the Deputy Surveyor tell you why he believed it was not a legal reserve? No.
134. Mr. Jacob.] Did you write as he advised you? Yes.
135. Mr. Day.] You are quite certain that when you had an interview with the Deputy Surveyor General, that he told you it was all right and that you could go on with your improvements? Yes. I was in Sydney about three weeks before he could get the papers, and he told me after reading them that I could go on with the improvements.
136. Then upon the strength of your belief in what the Deputy Surveyor General told you, you resisted the claim of Mr. Richmond who had bought the land at auction? Yes.
137. Even until the Supreme Court dispossessed you? Yes.
138. Mr. Thompson.] You spoke of the western boundary, and said according to the description shown it ran north five miles? Yes.
139. Is that the nature of the description; does it not say to be prolonged northerly to Marthaguy Creek? No.
140. Does it not say to Marthaguy Creek? Yes.
141. How could you suppose it stopped at a point opposite the starting point, when that states that it stopped at Marthaguy Creek? I knew it had never been measured, and I was not to know the exact point of the compass. I might think I went from here to here (pointing to the map).

FRIDAY, 28 MAY, 1880.

Present:—

MR. JACOB,
MR. MURPHY,

MR. TERRY,
MR. THOMPSON.

WALTER THOMAS COONAN, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Robert D. Fitzgerald, Esq., Deputy Surveyor General, called in and examined:—

- R. D. Fitzgerald, Esq.
28 May, 1880.
142. Chairman.] Do you produce any papers relative to the selection of a person named Anne Jane Cox? Yes. (Papers produced.)
143. We are informed that this selection of 320 acres was taken up on the 15th October, 1874? Yes.
144. What was the action of the department, so far as you can learn from the papers? The purchase was declared void for being within a reserve.
145. How long after it was taken up? That was on the 10th November, 1875.
146. Was there any notification to that effect sent to the selector? Yes. I do not see the date of it, but it is on the papers somewhere. Notice is always sent.
147. Do the papers show on what reserve the selection was? Yes, within reserve No. 44, notified on 23rd December, 1865.
148. Whose report is it that shows that? My report.
149. From information first obtained from what surveyor? Mr. Edward Macfarlane.
150. We have had it stated here, that although that reserve was as old as 1865, it was not charted on the map supplied to the Land Agent when the applicant was taking up that selection. Is that of frequent occurrence? It is not of frequent occurrence. It may have been so in this instance—I do not know. I only got the summons to attend here to-day about noon, and I have not had time to look into the papers, nor did I know on what points the case turned.
151. If it was charted on the plan in the office, would the Land Agent be authorized or have any right to allow a selection to be taken up upon it? A Land Agent must take an application if tendered.
152. Would he not have to make a memo. on forwarding the papers? Yes, if he knew it was on a reserve.
153. Is there any such memo.? No; it was not known even at the office that the selection was on a reserve until Mr. Macfarlane's report came in. It could not be known either by the Land Agent or the department until a survey was made, with such a description as this. The description starts from a marked tree, and the Land Agent could not know that that marked tree was on a reserve, even if it had been charted.

154. Will you read the description of the reserve in the Gazette? (The witness read as follows):—"No. 44. On Marthaguy Creek, Inglega Run, containing 5 square miles. The Crown Lands within the following boundaries: Commencing on Marthaguy Creek, at the boundary of the Inglega and Collyburl Runs; and bounded thence on the east by a line bearing south 5 miles; on the south by a line bearing west 1 mile; on the west by a line bearing north about 5 miles to Marthaguy Creek; and on the north by that creek upwards, to the point of commencement."

R. D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.
28 May, 1880.

155. Just look at this plan (handing a tracing to witness). We are informed that that shows the junction of the Inglega and Collyburl Runs. Will you show the Committee where that reserve would be, according to that description? If the creek runs as shown on this map of course the reserve would be an absurdity. The trend of the creek could not have been known. Very likely on the maps they had at the time the trend of the creek was not shown. I can get you plans that will show how the reserve was understood in the office; but I did not understand before I came here that it was a question as to the position of the reserve that was before the Committee, or I would have been prepared. There is nothing in the papers about questioning the position of the reserve. The conditional purchase was cancelled on account of being on a reserve, on the report of Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Macfarlane.

156. Mr. Jacob.] Do you recollect having an interview with Mr. Cox on this subject? I do not.

157. Then if he has stated that he had an interview with you, and you told him this reserve was illegal, and that he could go on with his improvements and make application for the revocation of the reserve, that is not correct? Very probably I may have had an interview with him, but I have so many interviews with people that I can scarcely be expected to recollect this particular one; but if any one came to me about such a matter as this, I might have said that if the creek ran as shown on that plan the description of the reserve as read would not apply.

158. Is it likely you would tell a person under such circumstances to go on with his improvements? No, I would not.

159. Chairman.] Would you tell him the reserve would be illegal? I would tell him the reserve was not bounded by such a description, if the creek runs as shown on this plan. By-the-bye I have a plan here which shows a portion of the creek. (Plan produced.) There is the position of the reserve probably. (Plan examined.) I do not know where that boundary comes in upon this. The descriptions of these old reserves were made upon very imperfect knowledge of how the creeks and rivers ran.

160. Mr. Terry.] The dispute now is that this selection is not within the reserve No. 44 as shown on the plan? I think it would be well that I should have the papers in connection with the reserve. I have brought no papers in connection with the reserve, because I did not know that there was any question raised about it.

161. Mr. Murphy.] And you require your own chart to verify this? Yes; this is not sufficiently complete.

162. Chairman.] What is this plan that you have produced? A survey by Mr. Macfarlane of the portions that were intended to be re-selected.

163. This is dated 4th February, 1876—how is it that in transmitting this these portions were not shown as being within the reserve? That plan is too small to show the reserve, and the reserve was then cancelled.

164. In 1876? Yes; it was revoked in November, 1875.

165. The whole of it? Yes; with a view to re-selection by the conditional purchasers.

166. Do you know from the papers that a telegram was ordered to be sent to stop the sale of this land by auction, which was never sent? I know Mr. Garrett ordered the sale to be stopped, on 31st October. The sale took place on 8th November, and the order did not get there in time to stop it. The case was submitted for inquiry at once, and in passing from one branch of the office to another, the interval between the date of that order and the day of sale was over-passed, and the land was not withdrawn.

167. It was sold? Yes.

168. It was sold as an unimproved portion, was it not? I do not think it was the practice of that time to mention the improvements; it is now.

169. The report of Mr. Macfarlane is that this man had made substantial improvements there? Yes; £211 is reported to be the value of the improvements upon the two portions.

170. And these two portions were sold to Mr. Richmond at £1 an acre? I do not know what they realized. This is a copy of a letter to Mr. Brown, who acted as agent for Mr. Cox. (Read.)

171. How in the face of this was this land brought to auction? The Coxes never made the fresh conditional purchases; they should have re-selected the same land after the revocation of the reserve. There was a report of mine stating the case, and recommending that the reserve should be undone to allow them to re-select. The Minister's minute upon that is—"Approved. The parties should be apprised of the intended action, and it should be pointed out to them how to proceed to protect themselves." And they were written to accordingly, on the 16th December, 1875. In this report to the Minister it was recommended that this reserve, as against the conditional purchasers, should be undone, but that part of it should be retained, and that so far as that new reserve was not concerned they should be allowed to re-select. That was approved of. The new reserve interferes with Anne Jane Cox's selection to a certain extent, and it was only to the extent it did not interfere that the Minister allowed her to re-select.

172. If the creek runs as shown on this tracing, you say by no possibility could these selections be within the reserve? What I did say was, I think, that the reserve would not be complete in itself if the creek so ran.

173. If that map is correct, would it be possible for these selections to be within reserve 44? They may be within the space intended to be covered by the reserve, but the reserve itself would be a nullity.

174. If this map is correct, would not a surveyor sent down to survey the country make a very great mistake if he placed these selections within that reserve? I think the reserve would be shown in a certain way on the map, and he would consider this portion came within it if he did not read the description.

175. Surely a surveyor would not say a selection was within a reserve without reading the description? Upon Mr. Macfarlane's report we considered it was within the reserve, and I am not prepared to say now upon what grounds.

176. Presuming, for argument's sake, that this map is a map as drawn by Mr. Macfarlane himself; is it possible that, if you were sent down to look at that country and survey it again, and you had that Gazette notice before you and that map, you would then bring these selections within that reserve? I think I would say these portions were within the area intended to be reserved, but that the reserve amounted to nothing.

177. That would be your report? Yes.

R. D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.
28 May, 1880.

178. This is your report of the 27th September, 1876 (reaa). You take it for granted that it was within the reserve? Yes; that was upon the report of the district surveyor.
179. There was a Mr. Bolton in your department as a district surveyor? Yes.
180. Is he in it at the present time? Yes.
181. Do you know whether he was in that district at one time? Yes, I think he was.
182. Do you know whether he did, as a matter of fact, survey some selections there in 1872 and 1873? I do not.
183. Mr. Murphy.] By reading the description in the Gazette would you recognize that reserve on that tracing? No doubt there is a discrepancy. The line of the western boundary would be more like 10 miles than 5, if the creek runs as shown on this tracing. I think it is necessary, before giving any satisfactory evidence about this reserve, to see how the reserve is shown upon our maps. I might qualify the evidence I gave as to whether I would give certain information to the applicant. What I mean is this, is that if the creek ran north and south, then such a description as that, inasmuch as it would never touch the creek again, would be an absurdity; but if the creek trended to the west sufficiently to meet the line, then it would not be an absurdity. If it did not run to any great extent over the said line I would consider it a good description. In many of these cases at that time we only had a general idea how the watercourses ran as a whole.
184. Mr. Terry.] If the creek ran so as to require a line of 10 miles instead of 5, it would be an absurdity? That would be a very extreme case; still it would not be an absurdity—it would not be as if the creek ran so as never to meet the line again.
185. Chairman.] Taking that state of facts, is it not most likely that the reserve would not be marked upon the map? In all probability it would be shown upon it. It may not have been correct.

Robert John Campbell, Esq., called in and examined:—

R. J.
Campbell,
Esq.
28 May, 1880.

186. Chairman.] You are a licensed surveyor? Yes.
187. You were for some time in the Bligh district, were you not? Yes.
188. Do you know the country round about Inglega and Collyburl Runs? Yes.
189. Just look at that tracing—Do you know whose plan that is? No, I do not. It is a tracing from the office I should think.
190. You know Todhunter's selections on the Marthaguy? I know one I surveyed myself.
191. When? In May, 1870.
192. Do you recognize it on that sketch? Yes, 80 acres.
193. Was that on a reserve? No, not by my survey.
194. Will you look at the description of reserve 44 in the Gazette? I know the reserve you are alluding to; it is one I recommended myself. I presume the Gazette description is my own description. (Read.) Yes, that is the reserve. But I would like to explain that, when that reserve was described by me, we were under the impression that the Marthaguy Creek at that point ran easterly and westerly instead of north and south. There was no surveyed description till I made the survey in 1870, and many of the descriptions of 1865 were obliged to be altered, simply because they were impossible, on account of our own ignorance and the ignorance of the squatters as to the direction of the watercourses. Afterwards, when the survey was made, I am under the impression, but I am not sure, that they cancelled this reserve; but it was intended it should run at right angles, east and west, to the creek, and have a frontage of a mile.
195. Mr. Thompson.] You say you recommended this reserve—In what year? 1865.
196. Mr. Terry.] Is that creek, as shown in that plan, in its correct position? Yes, I should say that was the correct position; in fact I fancy this was taken from my own survey. They have a plan of the Marthaguy Creek from head to foot made by me, or at any rate below Inglega.
197. Mr. Jacob.] Does the description in the Gazette tally with the map? Yes, decidedly.
198. Is the western boundary only 5 miles? It is more than 5 miles.
199. How many miles is the western boundary, as described in the Gazette, longer than the eastern? About $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles longer than the eastern boundary.
200. Would that be covered by the expression "about 5 miles"? I should say not; but that is matter of opinion.
201. Would you, in describing a boundary of that kind, use the expression "about"? Certainly not.
202. Chairman.] Do you see the position of Anne Jane Cox's selection there? Yes.
203. Would that be within the reserve? It would be within this reserve marked here.
204. Would it be within the reserve as described—not as marked there, but by the description would you say that land was within the reserve? Yes.
205. And Todhunter's would be within it too? Yes, the whole of these.
206. How was it you did not find that out in 1870, when you made the survey of Todhunter's selection? That I could hardly explain, because, to tell the truth, the reserves made in 1865 were not very precisely described. The description says "about 5 miles"; if you stop at 5 miles you do not come to the creek.
207. How many more miles would it be to the creek? About $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles more; nearly double the distance stated in the description.
208. What would you report in a case like that? I would recommend the cancellation of the reserve as described, and issue a new description, describing it as running east and west instead of north and south. I believe it was the intention of the Government, when they allowed my reserve in 1865, that it should have a mile frontage to the creek and extend 5 miles back; but if the western boundary be extended to the creek, as stated in the Gazette description, it would have considerably more than a mile frontage, on account of the bend of the creek.
209. What is the length of the frontage? Following the creek, about 4 miles. I know, in that particular district, a very large number of the reserves had to be cancelled and altered in consequence of the fact that we had no knowledge, at the time they were made, of the position of the watercourses.
210. In surveying Todhunter's selection in 1870, you did not take that reserve into account? I did not recognize the reserve at all.
211. Why? I think the reason why I did not was because I thought Todhunter's was just above the reserve—that the reserve commenced at his lower boundary.

212. If that was so, and if you had had to survey Cox's selections at that time, they would not in any way have been within the reserve? No; Cox's is 3 miles lower down. I should only have given the reserve 1 mile frontage, commencing at the lower boundary of Todhunter's.

213. Mr. Jacob.] If you had been called upon to report upon Anne Jane Cox's selection, would you have reported it as being within the reserve as described in the Gazette? Yes, I should have been compelled to do so, because the reserve would not be complete without coming to the creek, no matter if it went 20 miles; but I should have recommended the cancellation of the reserve as gazetted, and the proclamation of a new one allowing only 1 mile frontage.

214. Mr. Thompson.] Were all these reserves surveyed prior to the description being given? No, the descriptions were merely an approximation, and they were done in a very great hurry just at the moment. I know I had in my office at Dubbo about eighteen squatters at one time all rushing for reserves, and amongst them Mr. Christie, who had this run at that time. The Acting Surveyor General at that time, Mr. Adams, stated to me that they would be gazetted subject to future consideration. I should look upon this reserve as one that from its very appearance on the plan shows it was an absurd one.

215. You are quite certain the direction of the creek, as shown there, is correct? I do not know what map this is, but I think so.

216. You say Mr. Adams said the intention was to gazette these reserves in the first instance with a view to future modification—in the meantime would they hold good? I should think so; but I think the surveyor of the district would have sufficient power to alter a reserve, if he found it was excessive or absurd. I know I have done so myself on my own responsibility; I have frequently altered reserves, and the department have always upheld my action.

217. You are quite clear that Anne Jane Cox's selection was within the boundary of that reserve as described? Yes, as described, certainly.

Present:—

MR. BARBOUR,
MR. JACOB,

MR. MURPHY,
MR. TERRY.

WALTER THOMAS COONAN, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Robert David Fitzgerald, Esq., Deputy Surveyor General, further examined:—

218. Chairman.] When you were last before the Committee, your further examination was deferred for the purpose of enabling you to produce a certain plan; do you now produce that plan? Yes. (The witness produced the same.)

219. What plan is that you produce? This is the district map the Land Agent held when the conditional purchase was made.

220. Can you tell me whether, when the conditional purchase was made, that map was in the same condition as it is now? Yes.

221. That is as to the marks of the reserves? Yes.

222. Does that plan show a reserve as existing where Anne Jane Cox's selection is supposed to be? Yes. I exhibit the district map that the Land Agent had at the time it was selected, and hand in this tracing of part of the map exhibited. (Vide Appendix C 1.)

223. This being the map, if a person went to select by this map could the Land Agent point out to him whether the selection he was about to make was on a reserve or not? No, he could not. What he could do would be to tell him from that note (pointing to the map) that there was a doubt of his selection being on a reserve or the fact that a reserve existed in that neighbourhood, and that would be a far better guide to the conditional selector than it would be either for the Land Agent or for the office, because the description in the Gazette states that it commences from the intersection of a fence with the Marthaguy Creek. That would be discoverable on the ground, and then the description could be better followed by the selector than it could be in the Land Agent's office or in the Survey Office, where no knowledge of the exact position of the fence exists.

224. Do you remember at any time having seen Mr. Cox, who is now present, in reference to this matter? I do not remember having any interview with him, though I do remember his face.

225. I think when you were last before the Committee you were asked to produce the papers in reference to Mr. Todhunter's selection? Yes; the plan.

226. Taking that plan now lying before you, which was the Government plan at the time, how do you reconcile that fact with Mr. Todhunter's being allowed to retain his selection for five years on the reserve, without interruption or objection? Mr. Todhunter's selections on the reserve were made good by special Act of Parliament.

227. How long was he there before it was found out that he was on a reserve? I do not know—I have not Mr. Todhunter's papers.

228. In what position does Mr. Todhunter's selection stand in reference to the reserve—either in the middle, or to the south or north end? It is at the starting point at the southern extremity of the frontage.

229. You say that plan (referring to Mr. Cox's exhibit) is quite correct? It appears to be.

230. That plan shows Mr. Todhunter's selection to be in the heart of the reserve? Yes.

231. How do you mean to qualify your former statement that it is at the south end? I said the south end of the frontage.

232. You have already told us that that plan is correct? Yes.

233. Having stated from what you have looked up that that plan is correct, will you read the description in the Gazette? I have read it.

234. Will you now tell us whether it is possible for the reserve, as shown on the plan, to be within the reserve as described here? It is rather difficult to answer that question. The reserve is, in my opinion, a badly described reserve, but it contains an area, and whether a reserve under such a description would be good is a matter that should be decided by law—I cannot say.

R. D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.

3 June, 1880.

R. D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.
8 June, 1880.

235. Then, as a practical man, and a man knowing a good deal about these matters, if you were stationed in that part of the country with that district under your charge, and the application of Anne Jane Cox had been sent to you to survey that selection, and you had this description with you, would you say that that selection was within the reserve as described in the Gazette? Yes, I would; I think it is within the area that is covered by the description.

236. What area do you say this description covers? The area within the boundaries qualified by the defect in the description—

237. I want you to confine yourself entirely to the description. What area do you say this description covers? The description commences upon the creek, it goes south five miles, then west one mile, then north about five miles, whereas in reality the line would go about eight and a half miles to meet the creek, but it does meet the creek. If it did not meet the creek, as I said the other day, the description would be an absurdity. As it is, it includes an area, and though it is a bad description it may possibly be a good reserve.

238. But you say the length of the western line is about eight and a half miles? It is about eight and a half miles, as shown upon this map.

239. Do I understand you then to say from that that it would be at all likely that a selector would with any degree of certainty take up a selection there without being within the reserve? He would be within the reserve—he is within this area.

240. It would not be possible for him, being an unprofessional man, to know that? I think he could.

241. How? Because I think if he had this starting point he could see the faultiness in this description as well as any one else. If he went a mile west from the starting point he would then see that the five-mile line must run through that point (referring to the plan) until it met the creek again.

242. Supposing that line would extend 50 miles before it met the creek, would you think an unprofessional man could then know? That would amount to the absurdity of its not meeting practically at all.

243. Then it is just a question of the length of the line as to the absurdity of the thing? I think so.

244. How do you reconcile this fact,—that Mr. Todhunter's selection, which we are informed was taken up in 1870, was surveyed, and the reserve was not then discovered? I think one reason that it was not discovered was that it was surveyed by the surveyor who recommended the reserve.

245. He was the Government surveyor at the time? Yes.

246. Would not that be a very great reason why he should know where the reserve was? He ought to have known. He is not now in the Government Service.

247. He ought then to have known? Yes.

248. Notwithstanding his recommendation of the reserve and knowing where it was, he did not say anything about Mr. Todhunter being on the reserve? I have not the papers with me; I did not bring the papers connected with Mr. Todhunter's selection—I did not know that you wanted them. I know only that Mr. Todhunter's selection was made good by special Act, on account of being on the reserve. I hand in Mr. Campbell's survey of the selection by Mr. Todhunter of 80 acres. (Vide Appendix C 2.)

249. The plan showing Mr. Todhunter's selection does not disclose any reserve thereabout? No.

250. Although that plan was made by a licensed surveyor five years after the reserve was gazetted? Yes; he was a salaried surveyor.

251. He was in the employ of the Government, and Government accepted his work? Yes.

252. Mr. Campbell was on the staff? Yes.

253. Was Mr. Bolton down there at that time too? I do not know. I do not think Mr. Bolton had anything to do with the matter—he did not make any of these surveys.

254. Do you know anything about this 320 acres being cut up and 181 acres being allowed? I do not know what you refer to. A portion of the selection of Anne Cox was allowed, and a portion was not.

255. How was that done? It was reported by Mr. Macfarlane that a reserve was required here, and to the extent that Anne Jane Cox's selection interfered with that proposed reserve it was not allowed.

256. How much of Anne Jane Cox's selection was allowed? 181 acres were allowed.

257. That would leave a balance of 139 acres—that was the proposed new reserve? It was a reserve proposed to stand in lieu of the then existing reserve.

258. How many acres was that reserve to contain? It is much smaller than the previous reserve.

259. Then if it were much smaller it would be only located in and around Anne Jane Cox's selection? No, it took a portion of the frontage that Anne Jane Cox's selection would have had.

260. That was in this particular part of the country, here (pointing it out on the map), and would not come near Mr. Todhunter's selection at all? No, it was as much of the reserve as the surveyor thought ought to be retained. No. 596 is the reserve substituted for the original one.

261. Do you remember when you were here on the last occasion, upon looking at this map, you stated that if the map were correct, and that is the direction of the creek, and reading the description in the Gazette, the reserve comprised within this description would be an absurdity? From my not knowing the scale of this map, I was not certain where this line would strike the creek; it appeared to me that it would strike the creek even further than I now see it does, or not at all.

262. How do you account for Mr. Campbell, who is a salaried surveyor, in 1870 surveying that selection of Mr. Todhunter, which you say is in the middle of a reserve, if there were information in the department that the reserve there existed? I may account for it in the way he himself accounts for recommending several other reserves. He says he recommended them partly from personal knowledge of the localities, and partly from the descriptions he received from the run-holders—and I think it is probable this is the run-holder's description. In most of the descriptions he furnished us with tracings; as to the reserves on this creek he does not.

263. That leads you to the belief that in part they are furnished by the lessees? Yes.

264. Can you tell me whether the department was sufficiently well informed at the time that Anne Jane Cox selected, to enable them to place upon any map a proper description of this reserve—what I mean by a proper description is one that no one could be misled by? No, we could not have put it upon the map.

265. Then I understand you to say that the Lands Department had gazetted a reserve in 1865 which in 1874 they had not the means of tracing, so as to show intending selectors where they were? Yes. In making a great number of reserves where the course of a creek is utterly unknown to us, we can only take certain points upon it. The course might be known in the neighbourhood but not known to us. The crossing of a fence in such a case would be a very good starting point.

R. D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.
3 June, 1880.

266. As a matter of fact, in 1874, when this selection was taken up, there was no evidence before the Land Agent from which he could intimate to the intending purchaser the exact position of the reserve? The description was a far better description to the applicant himself than to any one in the department.
267. Although you say that the department now hold that the description which says five miles should be extended to eight and a half miles, to bring the selection within the reserve? Yes, it must be extended eight and a half miles to come to the creek.
268. Mr. Murphy.] Under the circumstances, it is not unreasonable to suppose that a person might go there, take up this land, and settle, thinking he was outside the reserve—a man who was not a professional man might go on that land and take it up, reading that description, and have no idea he was on the reserve? I think that might be the case with almost any of our reserves.
269. You think it is a good description? No, I think it is a bad description; but I think even with a good description a man may go on a reserve; but if he took a certain line from a known point, and were clever enough to do so, he could ascertain whether he was or not.
270. According to this description, is it unreasonable to suppose that a person going to take the land would settle there and say, "I am well clear of the reserve"? I think a man is more likely to do so than with a better description; because the natural inference was that it took about a mile frontage, whereas this takes in nine or ten miles of frontage.
271. Mr. Terry.] Do you think it possible for a professional man free selecting to make that mistake? No, I do not think it is—not if he had that description of that reserve.
272. He would not make the mistake? No, he would know that he was within the area that the description covered, if the five-mile line could be produced to eight and a half miles, without invalidating such a description.
273. Mr. Jacob.] But if a selection is made, as it has been made in this case, it is void? I think that is a legal question.
274. Then in fact you do not know whether cases of that kind have been settled in the department—cases of persons selecting land afterwards found to be on a reserve? Yes, Mr. Todhunter's case is an example.
275. Then these selections have been made good? They have, by Act of Parliament.
276. Mr. Terry.] Do you mark all the reserves on the ground? No.
277. Mr. Jacob.] This selection cannot be validated by Act of Parliament? No, not now that the land has been sold. It was intended that the conditional purchaser should validate it himself by re-selection. Any advice I may at any time have given him was, no doubt, with the idea that he would take the steps indicated to him of re-selecting. He did not re-select, and the land went to auction.
278. Had he plenty of time to re-select? Yes—it was known to him, and it must have been known to me, for it was in my own minute that it was fully intended to re-establish his original purchase; and any remarks I may have made to him with reference to the improvements must have been in view of the fact that it was intended by the Minister that he should re-establish his original purchase, and should do so by re-selecting as soon as the reserve was undone.
279. Chairman.] Do you produce any papers which show at whose suggestion this selection of Anne Jane Cox was included in the land advertised for sale? I do not think there was any application from any one to send this on. I think it went to sale in due course, as that course would be after a conditional purchase was declared void. When a conditional purchase is declared void, the routine is that the land goes to auction.
280. No matter how much it is improved? Yes.
281. You have it in a report made by Mr. Macfarlane at the time he visited this land that it was improved to the amount of £217? I am not sure of the amount.
282. How do you account for this fact,—that, notwithstanding you say the selector had plenty of time to re-select, a minute was made by the Minister after the land was advertised for sale to postpone the sale? I suppose the attention of the Minister was drawn to it just prior to the sale.
283. Mr. Barbour.] From what you have said, I presume you are of opinion that this reserve was not surveyed by Mr. Campbell at the time? Certainly not.
284. Do you think, looking at the fact that it starts from a point, goes 5 miles, then 1 mile, then back about 5 miles, the intention was to stop about opposite to the starting point? I cannot say what the intention of the person who prepared the description was, but it would read in the office as taking about a mile frontage from the creek; for from our ignorance in the office that the creek ran north and south, we would suppose from that description that it ran east and west.
285. Taking the subsequent action of the same surveyor in surveying Mr. Todhunter's portion, would it not seem that he was of opinion that the reserve terminated opposite the commencing point? No; I think he forgot about the reserve he had made.
286. That he had no recollection of the reserve having been made? Yes.
287. That he surveyed Mr. Todhunter's selection without even looking? I think so, especially as Todhunter's starts from the very starting point of the reserve itself. I do not think the reserve was intended by Mr. Campbell for the benefit of Inglegah Run, but the description was so worded as to give a very undue benefit to that run, inasmuch as it covered the whole of the frontage by running along the creek instead of at right angles to it.
288. What do you think was Mr. Campbell's intention in running in a direction opposite to the run he wanted to benefit? I think he took the description from the run-holder, and the advantage to him by making it run in the direction of the creek is obvious, as it would cover the whole frontage of the run.
289. Then starting from a point here (referring to the map), going in a southerly direction was an accidental or an intentional thing? I think probably intentional—I speak of the intention of the lessee, who, I think, furnished the description.
290. It was to hoodwink the department that description was sent in? Very probably. The office would think they were securing, for the benefit of Inglegah Run, about 1 mile frontage, whereas in reality they were covering nearly 10 miles of frontage; and there are several others, I find, of the same run-holder's which are described on this creek in the same direction; from which I would infer there was no mistake on the part of the run-holder—that is to say, he described in the way that would do him the greatest benefit without being obvious to the department.
291. The surveyor, in handing in this description to the department, misled the department? The description is bad and misleading.
292. How do you come to the conclusion that an unprofessional person would not be misled by it?
When

R. D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.
3 June, 1880.

When a person is on the ground, and knows the width of the reserve in a westerly direction from the starting point on the creek, he can find where the western boundary line running north meets the creek.

293. Do you not think that, seeing the great discrepancy in the length of the line, the error in the description was more accidental than intentional? It is only a matter of opinion; I do not think it was an accident, one reason being that there are several other descriptions of a similar character.

294. Do you say you think the surveyor, Mr. Campbell, if he personally knew that this was to secure the whole frontage would have recommended it? No, I do not think any surveyor would have done it.

295. And your opinion is that this western line, being described as about five miles, and when traced to the stated boundary of the creek, it became eight miles and a half, it is a question in law whether that is a legal definition or not? Yes, whether the reserve is binding.

296. Mr. Jacob.] It says about five miles, but should be continued on to the creek? It is decidedly an erroneous description, but whether the discrepancy is so great as to invalidate the reserve is a legal point.

297. Mr. Barbour.] Then to clear up the matter a little more at the time, it was suggested that that reserve should be substituted for the other reserve it was intended to cancel—the reserve made in 1865? Yes.*

298. When was it cancelled? 23rd November, 1875. It was intended to revoke the reserve No. 44, and give as much of it as was consistent with the public interest to the re-selector, should he re-select, and this reserve 596 was made.

299. But that really gives him no advantage? It would have given him an advantage if he had occupied that land and had improved. No other person could select.

300. Chairman.] You say at the time Mr. Campbell surveyed Mr. Todhunter's selection, he must have forgotten the reserve? Yes.

301. If Anne Jane-Cox's selection had been made at the time, that would have been surveyed without any reference to the reserve at all by Mr. Campbell? Yes, if he forgot the reserve it would not check his doing anything.

302. Would not an unprofessional man, seeing the position of Mr. Todhunter's selection, and knowing the description of the reserve, suppose that this selection was much further away from the reserve than Mr. Todhunter's? I cannot say how far the measurement, which was only made good by special Act of Parliament, could be said to influence another selector with reference to another selection.

* NOTE (on revision) :—The "yes" is intended to refer only to the latter part of the question.

CLAIM OF ANNE JANE COX FOR LOSS OF HER CONDITIONAL PURCHASE.

APPENDIX.

[To the Evidence of Mr. George Francis Cox, Thursday, 27 May, 1880.]

Police District of Dubbo, 15 October, 1874, at 1 o'clock p.m.

RECEIVED from Anne Jane Cox (per George F. Cox, agent), of Marthaguy, the sum of eighty pounds, being a deposit of five shillings per acre on 320 acres of unimproved land situated at left bank of the Marthaguy Creek, adjoining G. F. Cox's conditional purchase on the Inglega Run, in the county of Ewenmar, and which has been selected by a written application as a purchase, under the 13th section of the Land Alienation Regulations, dated 1st November, 1861.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. George F. Cox.

Sir,

In reference to your letter of the 18th instant respecting a conditional purchase taken up by you on Marthaguy Creek, I am directed to inform you that the information given is not sufficiently definite to identify the selection with any degree of certainty; but I am to state that, if the selection mentioned in the margin is the one alluded to, the application was referred to Mr. Acting District Surveyor Bolton, on the 27th January last.

2. I am to add that, on receipt of the surveyor's report, a further communication will be made to you.

A 5.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Anne Jane Cox.

Madam,

I am directed to inform you that the application made by you at Dubbo, on the 15th October, 1874, for the conditional purchase of 320 acres of land, is void, being within reserve No. 44.

2. Enclosed is a form which, on being filled up and forwarded to the Auditor General, signed by you, together with your deposit receipt, will enable you at once to obtain the refund of the deposit paid on account of the above.

I have, &c.,
WM. BLACKMAN,
(For the Under Secretary.)

P.S.—The Minister for Lands has approved of the subdivision and revocation of the reserve (instructions with reference thereto being now in the hands of the surveyor), after which the land you require will be (in part) open to selection.

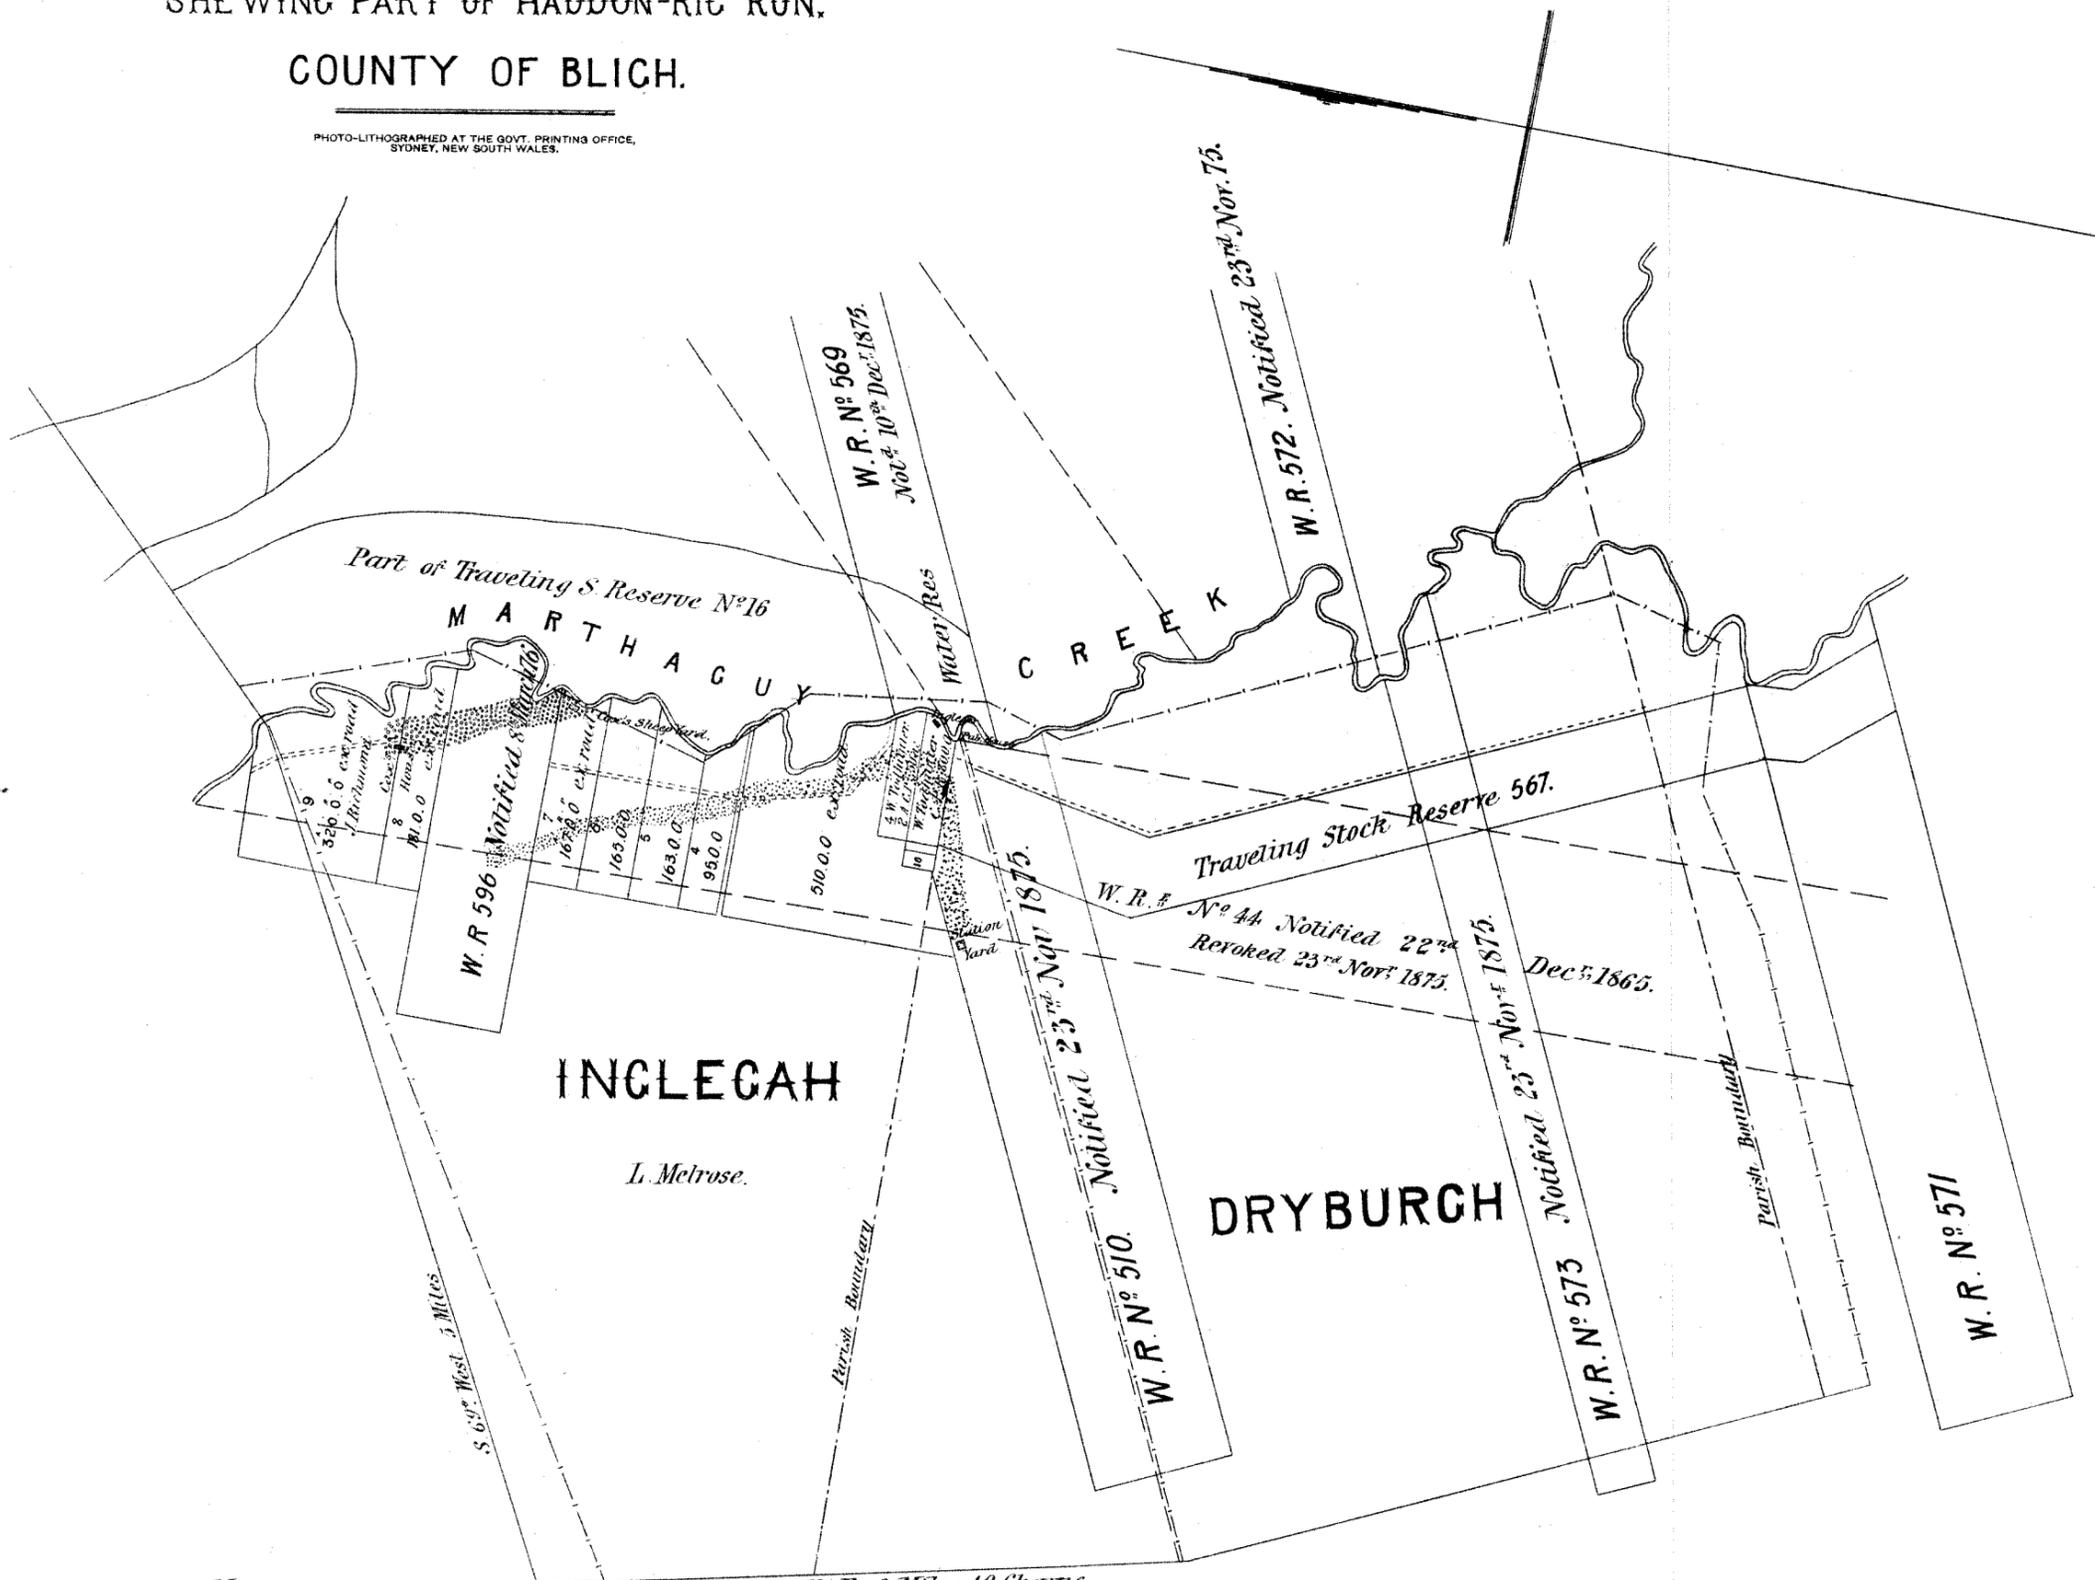

The Land Agent is requested to forward this document, with voucher attached, to applicant's proper address.—W.B., for the Under Secretary. B.C. 25 May, 1876.—The Land Agent, Dubbo. 25.

ARMIDALE LAND DISTRICT—LAND OFFICE AT URALLA.

Part I.

Correspondence respecting subdivision of Armidale Land District.

No. 1.

A. Black, Esq., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Moree, 18 November, 1876.

I have the honor, by direction of a public meeting held here on the 31st ultimo, "to memorialize the Honorable the Minister for Lands to open a land office in Moree," to transmit herewith the memorial on that subject.

I have further to state that this movement is all but universally popular, and that the opening of a land office here is considered by all to be most reasonable and expedient.

A report of the proceedings of the meeting, which appeared in the Narrabri Herald of the 8th instant is forwarded to you. I have, &c.,

ALEXANDER BLACK.

[Enclosure A to No. 1.]

The humble Memorial of the inhabitants of the town and district of Moree, freeholders, landholders, squatters, selectors, bankers, storekeepers, tradesmen, labourers, &c.,—

Showeth:—

That the district of Moree is extensive, and embraces throughout its limits rich pastoral and agricultural lands, in the settlement of which your memorialists are interested.

That during the last three years a large quantity of land has been alienated in this district, estimated at from eighty to one hundred thousand acres, that the demand increases, and that the supply is yet unlimited, but to the present time a land office has not been opened in the district.

That your memorialists are, at great inconvenience and cost, obliged to make a journey of fifty or a hundred miles to Warialda to acquire land. That this journey is not only inconvenient and expensive, but sometimes impossible, from floods, and so your memorialists sustain marked disadvantage and loss.

That the town of Moree is situated in the centre of the district, and is convenient of access to the inhabitants of the district.

Your memorialists therefore pray that you will take these premises into favourable consideration, and direct that a land office be opened in the town of Moree, and also that in future all land sales be held there.

And as in duty bound your memorialists will ever pray.

[Enclosure B to No. 1.]

[Extract from the Narrabri Herald of 8th November, 1876.]

PUBLIC MEETING AT MOREE.

(From a Correspondent.)

AN influential public meeting, to adopt a petition to the Minister for Lands to open a land office in Moree, was held at Dobbie's Public Room on the 31st ult. The meeting was well attended, and would have been overflowing had it been held at an earlier hour, as the object in view is universally supported, but many of the country people had to leave town before it commenced.

On the motion of Mr. J. Munro, seconded by Mr. M'Dougall, of the Bank of New South Wales, Mr. Alexander Black, of Carrol, was called the Chair.

The advertisement in the Narrabri Herald convening the meeting was read. The Chairman thanked the meeting for the honor conferred of presiding at a large, intelligent, and influential public meeting—influential in that which truly constituted influence, a good cause, strong in right and justice. The object sought is for the benefit of all and the injury of none. It is seldom that any public movement is made without awakening party opposition. In the present case all but all were one party in favour of a land office in Moree. This meeting is a public one, there is no hole and corner work, and no opposition had been heard of. Reasonable, however, as our object is, expedient and necessary as it may be, further effort might be required by the people to secure it. The inhabitants of Barraba had lately applied to the Minister for a land office there, and had received as an answer that their land must be sold at Tamworth, termed the head office of the district. Thus the public interests must be sacrificed to some fanciful or favoured departmental arrangement, a principle which all must heartily condemn. The correspondence in the Barraba case was read, and the generous action taken therein by Mr. Forster, M.L.A., warmly approved by the meeting. From the way in which the Minister had disposed of this case our own success is doubtful. We had a large district of valuable land; large portions of it had been and still were being alienated, but we had no land office in the district of Moree. A long, and at times an impossible, journey, had to be made to an obscure place, to a district in which not a tithe of the land sold in our own district is alienated, yet we must go to Warialda to acquire land, to maintain some inexplicable, unreasonably arrangement of the Lands Department, and we may be told that Warialda is our head office, but the public think otherwise and must have it so. Perhaps it will be said that this is a Moree movement—a mere town wish. He would not say that Moree had not an interest in having a land office. Business people had a clear interest in its establishment. Our Banks here would prefer having our transactions in land, say £40,000 a-year, negotiated in Moree rather than in another place, and so also would storekeepers, innkeepers, and others, but he maintained that the town interests were not in any degree the basis of this movement. Our case would have the same merits if there were neither bank, store, nor inn in town. The journey to a distant place is a bar to alienation, and a great disadvantage and loss to us in this district. The great feature and the great boast of our land policy is that it provides facilities for settlement, but a most important facility, a land office, has not yet been provided. He would not further occupy the time of the meeting, but would read the memorial.

The Memorial was read as follows:—

"The Honorable the Minister for Lands,

"Thomas Garrett, Esq., M.L.A.,

"Sydney.

"The humble Memorial of the inhabitants of the town and district of Moree, freeholders, landholders, squatters, selectors, bankers, storekeepers, tradesmen, labourers, &c., &c.

"Showeth:—

"That the district of Moree is extensive, and embraces throughout its limits rich pastoral and agricultural lands, in the settlement of which your memorialists are interested. "That

"That during the last three years a large quantity of land has been alienated in this district, estimated at from eighty to one hundred thousand acres, that the demand increases, and that the supply is yet unlimited, but up to the present time a land office has not been opened in the district.

"That your memorialists are, at great inconvenience and cost, obliged to make a journey of fifty or a hundred miles to Warialda to acquire land; that this journey is not only inconvenient and expensive, but sometimes impossible from floods, and so your memorialists sustain marked disadvantage and loss.

"That the town of Moree is situated in the centre of the district, and is convenient of access to the inhabitants of the district.

"Your memorialists therefore pray that you will take these premises into favourable consideration, and direct that a land office be opened in the town of Moree, and also that in future all land sales be held there.

"And as in duty bound your memorialists will ever pray."

Mr. Callinan moved, "That the memorial now read be adopted by this meeting." He said that all knew and felt that the district suffered much inconvenience and loss from the want of a land office, and he believed the Government would grant one.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Kendall, and carried unanimously.

Moved by Mr. M'Dougall, "That the following gentlemen be appointed to obtain signatures:—Messrs. D. M'Kenzie, Reuben and Jones, Callinan, Dobbie, M'Cube, and Sweatman." Mr. M'Dougall said that the weight of the memorial would depend much on the number of signatures attached; he hoped that all would interest themselves in obtaining names to the memorial.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Jones, and carried unanimously.

Mr. M'Cube moved, "That a copy of the memorial be forwarded to the Member for the district, Mr. Dangar, M.L.A., with a request that he would support the prayer of the memorial to the Minister."

The motion was seconded by Mr. Kirkby, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Dobbie, at considerable length, showed the hardship and loss he had personally experienced in buying land at Warialda, from floods and other causes, and that many others had suffered in the same manner.

Moved by Mr. M'Dougall, "That a vote of thanks be passed to the Chairman for his conduct in the Chair and the interest he has taken in the matter."

Carried by acclamation.

At the close of the meeting most of those present affixed their names to the memorial.

[Enclosure C to No. 1.]

Dear Sir,

Moree, 18 November, 1876.

Pursuant to resolution passed at a public meeting held here on the 31st ultimo—"That a copy of this memorial be sent to the Honorable the Member for the district, Thomas Gordon Dangar, Esq., M.L.A., with a request that he would support its prayer,"—I have the honor to transmit herewith copy *memorial for your favourable consideration, and to say that memorialists hope that with your support their object will be secured without delay. The memorial to the Honorable the Minister is dispatched by the mail carrying this. The time elapsed since the date of the meeting has been granted for receiving signatures.

*See Enclosure A.

All who could conveniently sign the memorial have done so.

The movement is all but universally popular, as far as I know; and many could they have but willed their names to the memorial without the trouble of writing them would have had their signatures affixed. A *report of the proceedings at the meeting appeared in the Narrabri Herald, the 8th instant, to which I beg to refer you.

*See Enclosure B.

No. 2.

R. Forster, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

203, York-street, Sydney, 27 November, 1876.

I have been requested by the inhabitants of Moree to invite your attention to their petition praying for an establishment of a land office at Moree, on account of the great inconvenience and loss of time and money which they sustain by being compelled to go to Warialda, a distance in some instances of from 50 to 100 miles, to get any land they want. The petition is very full in its statement of facts, and I submit makes out a very strong case. I therefore respectfully urge its prayer on your favourable consideration.

I have, &c.,
ROBERT FORSTER.

Questions and Answers in the Legislative Assembly.

Legislative Assembly, Tuesday, 20 February, 1877.

Questions:—

Land Office for Moree:—Mr. T. G. Dangar asked the Secretary for Lands, pursuant to Notice,—

(1.) Was a memorial received from the inhabitants of Moree, praying for the establishment of a land office at that place?

(2.) If so, what decision has been come to in the matter?

(3.) Do the Government intend to appoint a Clerk of Petty Sessions and Land Agent for Moree?

Answers:—

Answers:—

Mr. Robertson answered,—

- (1.) A memorial has been received from Moree of the kind the Honorable Member describes.
- (2.) The matter having been referred to the District Surveyor for his report upon it, and that report not having been received to the 12th instant, has not been dealt with.
- (3.) Of course the appointment of a Land Agent will depend upon the report of the District Surveyor.

Petition from Residents of Moree to The Secretary for Lands.

Received, 7 June, 1877.

We the undersigned residents and graziers in the district of Moree having heard that a petition has been presented to you praying that a Land Office might be opened in Moree, desire to protest against such a step being taken, on the following grounds:—

1. That the general body of the residents do not desire a land office to be opened at Moree.
2. That the neighbouring graziers and squatters prefer to transact their business at Warialda as hitherto.
3. That owing to the limited population in the district, it would be a mere waste of public money to open a land office at Moree.

Your Petitioners believe that all the general body of residents desire is that the Land Agent at Warialda be instructed to hold an occasional sale of town and suburban allotments at Moree.

[Here follow 14 signatures.]

Minutes on No. 4.

Has such a petition been received?—O.R., 8. Moree is in the Land District of Warialda, which has lately been subdivided into Warialda and Bingera.—O.R., 8.

The petitioners may perhaps be informed that there is no intention of establishing a land office at Moree, and that their request to have town and suburban lots sold at Moree will be taken into consideration when the next sale of lots in that township is about to be advertised.—W.W.S., 26th July. Approved.—H.P., 29th July, 1877.

For Auction Branch, for information as regards the latter part of the Under Secretary's minute.—O.R., 21. Mr. Stevens,—Town and suburban lots situated at Moree are for the future to be sold at that place instead of Warialda.—W.C.E., 27th September, 1877. Seen.—T.S., 29th September, 1877.

No. 5.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Residents of Moree.

Gentlemen,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 17 August, 1877.

With reference to your communication protesting against the opening of a Land Office at Moree, as petitioned for by certain inhabitants of that district, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that there is no intention of establishing a land office at that place.

2. I am at the same time to state that your request to have town and suburban lots sold at Moree will be taken into consideration when the next sale of lots in that township is about to be advertised.

Petition of Inhabitants of Moree to His Excellency the Governor.

To His Excellency Sir HERCULES GEORGE ROBERT ROBINSON, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same.

The humble Petition of the undersigned inhabitants of the district of Moree, in the Colony of New South Wales, sheweth unto your Excellency:—

1. That the present district of Moree is a place of great commercial and pastoral importance, and the town of Moree is rapidly increasing in size and in population.

2. That the district of Moree at the present time contains between two and three thousand inhabitants.

3. That the said district is at the present time without an office or Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands, and that persons consequently who have to deal with Crown Lands are obliged to travel to the office of the Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Warialda, entailing upon many of them a very long and expensive journey.

4. That the distance which has to be travelled to obtain information concerning Crown Lands in the district of Moree prevents many persons from obtaining such information or dealing with the said lands.

5. That the Police Magistrate at Warialda is supposed to attend the Court of Petty Sessions at Moree once a fortnight, and in case of floods he is unable to do so, and thus at times the administration of justice is delayed, and may be frustrated.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Excellency will be pleased, with the advice of the Executive Council to establish Moree into a Land District, and to have an Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands appointed to the same, and also that your Excellency would be pleased with the said advice to appoint a Police Magistrate and Clerk of Petty Sessions at Moree township.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

separate Land District.

I have, &c.,

T. G. DANGAR.

Minutes on No. 8.

It will be seen by previous papers enclosed that the application for establishment of a regular land office at Moree was refused both by Sir Henry Parkes and Mr. Farnell. Unless absolutely required in the public interest the multiplication of land offices is undesirable, whether as regards the additional expenditure entailed or the departmental labour increased in the creation of new land districts.—

THE distance from Moree to the nearest land office (Warialda) is 50 miles.

No. 10.

Minute by Secretary for Lands.

I AM quite convinced from my knowledge of the locality that there ought to be a land office at Moree, as it is the centre for the trade and business, especially for the sale, &c., of stock, for a large district, and I also know from experience that there is now, and has been for some years, a much larger demand for land, whether for auction or conditional purchase, which should properly belong to the district of which Moree is the centre, than for the district around Bingera, which I have been surprised to find from inquiries I have made is a land office district.

I am of opinion that the application for a land office at Moree (which I regard as a very proper and reasonable application), having regard to the large area of country of which Moree is the centre, would be best met by a revision or re-arrangement of the boundaries of the adjacent land office districts.
I omitted to state that the trade and consequent demand for Crown Land for settlement must of necessity be greatly increased when the North-western Railway has been extended to Narrabri, and beyond in a north-western direction, and Moree would be the nearest important township for any intending settlers in

in this locality. I therefore think that with the least possible delay the necessary steps should be taken to establish a land office at Moree, and to revise the boundaries, and apportion the district of which Bingera is now the land office amongst the adjacent districts—Warialda, Inverell, and Moree, the latter being a township in which a land office is to be established in future, and the existing land office at Bingera abolished.—J.H. Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 9 May, 1879.

With reference to your letter of the 10th ultimo, respecting the desirability of converting Moree into a separate land office, I am directed to inform you that the Minister for Lands is of opinion that with the least possible delay the necessary steps should be taken to accomplish that object, and to revise the boundaries, and apportion the district of which Bingera is now the land office amongst the adjacent districts, viz., Warialda, Inverell, and Moree, the latter being a township in which a land office is to be established in future, and the existing land office at Bingera abolished.

I have, &c.,

No. 12.

Report of Inspector of Land Offices.

Revision of the boundaries of certain Land Districts.

THE within papers refer to the land districts of Armidale, Inverell, Bingera, and Warialda, and the proposed new district of Moree, and as they are intimately connected should be kept together, and dealt with as a whole.

The Minister for Lands has decided, instead of proclaiming a district for Bundarra, to include the greater portion of the country proposed to be set apart as a district under that name in Inverell, with which place it is commercially connected, and at no great distance. The Bingera District is to be abolished, and divided between Inverell, Warialda, and Moree.

That portion of the Bingera District embraced in the county of Courallie to be included in Moree, and that part of it adjacent to and commercially connected with Inverell to be incorporated in the district of that name, which latter is also to be enlarged by the addition of part of the Warialda District, so as to place settlers within a shorter distance of a land office than at present.

The new district of Moree to embrace the county of Courallie, and portions of Benarba and Staphylton. This latter proposition was originally made by Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves.

I beg to suggest that the Survey Office be asked to define the districts accordingly; and as no doubt the matter will be referred to the District-Surveyor, he might be asked to report as to the desirability of including in Moree that portion of the county of Benarba at present within the land district of Walgett.—C.O., 19th May, 1879.

Sir,

Bullerawa, Wee Waa, 26 May, 1879.

I do myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 9th instant, informing me that it is intended to convert Moree into a separate land district office for the taking up of conditional purchases, sale of land by auction, and other necessary land purposes.

While thanking you for this promised boon, in reply I do myself the honor to state that the cure will be as bad as the disease, as I infer from your letter that, while granting this convenience to Moree, you purpose abolishing the present land office district at Bingera, which has been in existence some years, and given every satisfaction to the public. To do so would be doing a very great injustice to Bingera, which is an influential agricultural and mining district, and the centre of a large free-selecting people. I do not think there is any necessity to do this; it will only need a little clerical labour to divide and regulate these districts, giving Warialda, Bingera, Inverell, and Moree separate land offices, constituting Moree into a new one, and retaining Bingera as one also; such an arrangement will please all.

Trusting you will approve of this proposition, and not cancel Bingera,—

It has been represented to me that it is your intention, that a notification has been made to the Lands Agent, Bingera, of your intention to discontinue the land office at that place, pending other arrangements being made.

I

I do myself the honor, on behalf of the residents of Bingera and its surrounding neighbourhood, and at their request, to protest respectfully against the determination on your part to abolish Bingera Land Office.

What we require in the country districts is more land offices, not the abolishing of any existing ones. It is wrong that the people who want land should be dragged miles away from home to procure it, and put to all inconveniences, and have to ride long distances to attend to land business, when the creation of a few extra land offices and districts would obviate all these annoyances; and the only labour entailed in doing so is some clerical, in the Survey Department, to prepare such districts, and the extra cost in the way of additional Land Agents is fully compensated.

Bingera is the centre of a mining and agricultural bona fide population, daily increasing in importance; a great injustice will be done the district and the people if this office is abolished, and the progress of the district much retarded.

It is asserted the reason for this step is the formation of a land office at Moree. By all means let Moree have a separate land office, which it is justly entitled to, but do not abolish Bingera or any existing ones, thus merely making the cure as bad as the disease—consenting to the wishes of one, and doing an injury to another. What is wanting is, that the existing land districts be retained, and Moree made a separate one by itself, without interfering with Bingera or Warialda; this seems simple enough. By the abolition of this office an injustice will be done to Cobbodah and the people between the Horton and Gwydir Rivers. There is no land office on the south side of Bingera nearer than Tamworth, 100 miles. No great inconvenience can arise by allowing things to remain as they are, and making Moree in addition a separate land office, while to interfere with existing arrangements will lead to confusion and annoyance.

I trust you will therefore be pleased to reconsider the matter, and constitute Moree into a separate land district, without interfering with any of the existing arrangements.

I have, &c.,
THOS. G. DANGAR.

Minutes on No. 14.

This is a protest from Mr. Dangar against the abolition of the Bingera District, and should be placed with other papers.—C.O., 12th July, 1879. The necessary steps should be taken to make Moree the centre of a Land Office District, and in the meantime the question of the alteration of the boundaries of the Armidale, Inverell, Bingera, and Warialda Districts, except in so far as is consistent with making Moree a land office, should stand over for the present.—J.H., 2nd August, 1879.

Memorandum by Deputy Surveyor General.

Land Districts.

ON the decision of the Minister to cancel the land district of Bingera and provide a district for Moree, the matter of the arrangement and modification of boundaries of existing districts has been referred for the consideration of Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves, whose *report, Ministerial 3,844-79, with map showing boundaries, is now submitted for consideration of the Minister. The arrangements of boundaries are good, and are well adapted for the public interest. The proposal being to give the western portion of Warialda District, with that portion of the Bingera District included in the county of Courallie (thereby including the whole of that county in Moree) to Moree, allcting the middle portion of the existing districts of Warialda and Bingera to Warialda, and the eastern portions of the Warialda and Bingera Districts, with northern portion of the Armidale District to include the town of Bundarra, Cope's Creek, New Valley Creek, and Clarke's Creek, making George's Creek the proposed boundary to Inverell, and at the same time proposes a modification of the Glen Innes District, so as to include in the Armidale District the south-eastern portion of the county of Clarke, which properly belongs to Armidale, being more easy of access to Armidale than Glen Innes. In submitting Mr. Greaves' recommendation for approval of the Minister, Mr. Dangar, M.L.A., having forwarded the enclosed protest against cancelling the Bingera District, the decision of the Minister on that protest will be necessary. The measure of the importance of the Bingera District may be stated in the fact that in 1878, 130 conditional purchases, including a total area of 16,792 acres 3 roods 7 perches, was taken up, and in 1879, to the 17th July, only twenty-five conditional purchases, including 2,481 acres, only about one-fourth of the area taken up in 1878. In making the above recommendations, I must however state that in my opinion no public advantage is gained by the frequent changes of boundaries at all adequate to the confusion, delay, and expense created.

ROBT. D. FITZGERALD,
(For Surveyor General).
26th July, 1879.

Minutes on No. 15.

If approved by the Minister for Lands, the necessary preliminary steps should be taken for proclamation of new districts, preparation conditional purchase registers, &c. With respect to the concluding part of the Deputy Surveyor General's memorandum, it is in accordance with the views I have expressed myself on more than one occasion in reference to the creation of new land districts.—W.W.S., 29th. See decision on 79-3,850 Ml. Chief Commissioner, for the purpose of the Warialda extracts being sent to the Survey Office.—W.W.S., 11th August.

Memorandum.

1st. Proposed by Mr. Doyle and seconded by Mr. Carlyon, that Mr. D. J. Allen take the Chair.
2nd. That in the opinion of this meeting, immediate steps should be taken to prevent the rumoured removal of the land office from Bingera. Proposed by Mr. Hartwell, seconded by Mr. E. Turner.

3rd.

3rd. That a Petition be now drawn up, praying the Minister for Lands not to remove the land office from this town, and that the petition when signed be forwarded to our Member, Mr. T. G. Dangar, for presentation to the Minister for Lands. Proposed by Mr. John Plimlett, seconded by Mr. William Lee.

The petition was then handed round and signed by about 100 persons present.
The above forwarded by T. G. Dangar, M.P., 28 July, /79.

May await petition mentioned.—C.O., 7/8/79. For Chief Commissioner. See memo. within.

No. 17.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Bullerawa, Wee Waa, 25 October, 1879.

By this post under separate cover, registered, I have done myself the honor to transmit you a *petition, signed by †375 residents of Bingera and its locality, asking you not to interfere with, or to abolish, as it is said you contemplate, the existing land office at Bingera. I would have presented the petition personally, but was afraid delay might prove injurious to the interests of the petitioners, and that you might before I reached Sydney be taking action in the matter. I can testify to the respectability of those parties who have testified to the signatures to the petition being genuine. I earnestly trust the prayer of the petition will receive favour and compliance.

It will be a great injustice to deprive Bingera of this land office, and its abolition prove very injurious and inconvenient to the town and district, which is rapidly growing into importance.

It must be admitted every facility should be afforded to take up and purchase land; and instead of lessening these land districts, public convenience requires they should be increased.

I would respectfully suggest that Bingera and Warialda land districts be left as they are, which give satisfaction, and that another and separate one, without interfering with them, be made at Moree; ‡ it needs only some clerical labour in the office to constitute such, and the appointment at trifling cost of a Land Agent at Moree, who could be made Clerk of Petty Sessions at that place.

I have, &c.,

T. G. DANGAR.

P.S.—I shall feel thankful by an acknowledgment of the receipt of the petition.

Minutes on No. 17.

Petition herewith.—W.W.S., 7 November. Previous papers also herewith.—7th November. In reference to the reply given by the Minister to Mr. Dillon's question in the Assembly yesterday, on this subject, it is now submitted whether steps shall be taken to proclaim the land district of Moree (as in fact already decided), and to extend the boundaries of Inverell, so as to comply as far as possible with the petition from the residents of that district and the vicinity, leaving Bingera and Warialda districts to stand, as modified by the alterations above alluded to.—W.W.S., 20 November.

The necessary arrangements should be made to have a land office established at Moree, and the alteration of the boundaries of the land district of Inverell should be made with the least possible delay, so that the inconvenience which is at present caused to persons residing within seven miles of Inverell, having to travel to the land offices at Bingera, Warialda, or Armidale may be obviated.—J.H., 28 November, 1879.

Write to Mr. Dangar, M.P., and also to Mr. Dillon, M.P.; then refer to Chief Commissioner for conditional purchase extracts, to be sent to Survey Office.—W.W.S., 29th November. Now for Conditional Sales Branch.—T.P.B. Mr. Long, extracts now ready.—F.H.W., 8th December, 1879. The Warialda extracts and schedules of the new district of Moree were sent to the Inspector of Land Offices this day.—G.L., 2nd February, 1880.

No. 18.

Petition from Residents of Bingera to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

The petition of the undersigned inhabitants of the town and district of Bingera, in the Gwydir district, Colony of New South Wales,—

Humbly Showeth:—

That it has been reported upon good authority you intend to do away with the land office at Bingera. That by such a step great injustice would be done to a large population. That Bingera is the centre of a large though scattered agricultural district, including a great part of the valley of the Gwydir River and the whole of the valley of the Horton River.

That the town of Bingera has of late made rapid progress, and has considerably increased in size, population, and importance, notwithstanding the late droughts, which have perhaps been more severely felt in this immediate district than almost any other.

That if it is found necessary to alter the land districts in the north-western portion of the Colony, your petitioners would respectfully suggest that the Bingera land district be increased and the boundaries altered as may be deemed necessary, but that the land office be still retained in Bingera, as it is the most convenient centre within a considerable radius for all persons interested.

That although the number of acres conditionally purchased in this district appears small, yet the land is about equally divided among a large number of bonâ fide selectors.

That at a land sale held at Bingera lately town allotments situated in Bingera but away from the main thoroughfares realized as much as £17 and £20 per acre.

That many people who have been induced to enter into extensive business arrangements in the town of Bingera, owing to the increased importance and commercial transactions of the district since the foundation of a land office, would suffer materially by the removal from the town of an office where selectors and others can transact business connected with the Lands Department.

That

* See No. 18.
† 371.

‡ This of course is impossible, as the whole of the country between Warialda and Moree, and beyond the latter place to within a short distance of the Barwon River is embraced in the Warialda District, and of course portion of it must be taken to form a District for Moree.

That there are at present many valuable sites for selections in the vicinity of Bingera which could be taken up by farmers.

That the foregoing reasons against doing away with the land office at Bingera are sufficient, and that they may meet with your approval is the earnest desire of your petitioners, who will as in duty bound ever pray, &c.

The Under Secretary for Lands to T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 26 November, 1879.

In reference to your letter of the 25th ultimo, transmitting a petition signed by certain residents at Bingera and its locality, respecting the contemplated abolition of the land office at that place, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that the matter is now under consideration.

2. Mr. Secretary Hoskins desires me to state that he regrets that the postscript of your letter, desiring an acknowledgment of the receipt of the petition above referred to, was overlooked at the time.

The Under Secretary for Lands to T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 5 December, 1879.

Referring to my letter of the 26th ultimo, in reply to yours of the 25th October last, transmitting a petition from residents within the Bingera land district against the abolition of that district, I am directed to inform you that it is deemed expedient that the Bingera district, as also that of Warialda, should be curtailed, to permit of the formation of the land district of Moree and the proper adjustment of the boundaries of the Inverell district, but for the present the land office at Bingera will not be discontinued.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

My dear Sir,

Parliament, N. S. Wales, Sydney, 9 February, 1880.

You very kindly promised if I dropped you a note you would inform me what is proposed to be done with the present Land Agent at Bingera when the districts are settled and Moree Land District formed.

Yours faithfully,

THOS. G. DANGAR.

Minutes on No. 22.

The Under Secretary,—Can you furnish Mr. Dangar, M.P., with the information required,—J.H., 10th February, 1880. The land office, Bingera, according to decision already communicated to Mr. Dangar, is not to be abolished, but will remain, the boundaries being slightly modified, a separate land district as at present: consequently the Land Agent will continue in his present position.—W.W.S., 12 February, 1880. Mr. Dangar, M.P., had better be informed in terms of the minute of the Under Secretary, omitting the portion I have marked off.—J.H., 12th February, 1880.

The Under Secretary of Justice, &c., to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Department of Justice and Public Instruction, Sydney, 1 February, 1878.

I am directed by the Minister for Justice and Public Instruction to forward for the information of the Secretary for Lands the accompanying extract from a communication from the Bench of Magistrates, Bundarra, respecting the establishment of land office at that place, and to state that a sum of £100 has been placed upon the Estimates recently submitted to Parliament as a salary for a Clerk of Petty Sessions at Bundarra.

Extract from letter from Bench of Magistrates, Bundarra, respecting establishment of Land Office.

19 November, 1877.

In view of the extension of business in connection with the lands of the district, the transaction of which necessitates parties interested travelling a distance of 120 miles to and from Armidale, thereby entailing a loss of time and money which they can ill afford, we respectfully request that a land office be established, also to be conducted by the Clerk of Petty Sessions so appointed.

No. 2.

S. H. Terry, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Dear Sir,

Union Club, Sydney, 8 February, 1878.

I have received several letters lately from my constituents residing at Bundarra about the necessity of a Land Agent being appointed for that place; they consider it a great injustice that Bundarra should be left without a resident Clerk of Petty Sessions. I am informed that one person could hold the two offices. Bundarra is a long way from Armidale, say nearly 60 miles, and I therefore think some little consideration should be paid to their wants. I enclose a *letter received by me from Mr. Thomas Lamb, complaining that certain pre-leases ought to have been gazetted to one William Wright, in virtue of his selections, which are situated at Gostwyck, on Mr. A. Dangar's run, and now said to belong to Mr. D.

Will you please inform me why Mr. Wright is deprived of his pre-lease, and oblige yours truly,—

SAMUEL HENRY TERRY.

Bundarra

Bundarra is within the Armidale District. Probably the Inspector of Land Offices can state the extent of auction sales in the years 1873-4-5-6 and 7, county of Hardinge, and the number and areas of conditional purchases taken up within the county of Hardinge in the above district.—J. W. ELLIS (for Surveyor-General), 5th May, 1878.

Perhaps the Chief Commissioner would direct that the information as to conditional purchases be supplied.—C.O., 5th May, 1878. The information may be prepared.—A.O.M., 27/6/78. The schedule is herewith enclosed, papers for the Chief Draftsman.—C.N., 5th July, 1878. Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves will have the goodness to report on the desirability of entertaining this application. A *map showing boundaries of the district of Armidale and others is enclosed.—J. * See Appendices.
See No. 5.

The fees arising from conditional purchasers' declarations alone in each of the land districts proposed by my letter will not be less than £50 per annum (of 2s. 6d. each declaration), so that the office of Land Agent combined with that of Acting Clerk of Petty Sessions, Registrar of Births, would make up or supplement an officer's salary at either Uralla or Bundarra.—W. A. B. GREAVES, 19th July, 1878.

[Enclosure to No. 2.]

Return showing number and area of Conditional Purchases taken up in the County of Hardinge, land district of Armidale, during the years 1873, 1874, 1875, 1876, and 1877 :—

Year.	Number of Conditional Purchases.	Area.
1873.....	69	4,140 0 0

1875.....	73	10,902 3 0
1876.....	49	5,516 0 0
1877.....	79	11,520 0 0
Total	332	38,997 3 0

The land taken up this year will be ten times that of last year, if not more.—W.A.B.G., 18th July, 1878.

No. 3.

Mr. G. Allingham to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Armidale, 21 February, 1878.

I have the honor to bring under your notice the fact that a very large number of my constituents who wish to select in the county of Clarke are driven from this office by Mr. Bray, the Land Agent here, who will accept no application in that portion of Clarke which appertains to the district of Glen Innes, unless they are so close to the boundary line that it is impossible for the applicant to decide which district he is in.

I would draw your attention to the great hardship that many of my constituents labour under who being both commercially and politically connected with Armidale are compelled to go 65 miles to Glen Innes to purchase land lying within little over 25 miles of Armidale, and would most respectfully suggest that that portion of the county Clarke which is excluded from this district merely through some eccentric twist of the range be thrown into Armidale district, that selectors may be enabled to take it here, instead of going 120 or 130 miles at great expense. I do not wish to make a complaint against Mr. Bray, who appears always desirous to do his duty in the interest of the public, but wish to draw your attention to the fact that his refusing applications for land in county Clarke beyond this district puts many of my constituents to great inconvenience, and tends materially to retard the progress of settlement in that quarter. In the interest of the public I would be glad if you would see fit either to include the whole of county Clarke in the Armidale district, or instruct Mr. Bray to receive all applications for the purchase of land at his office in said county.

I have, &c.,

GEO. ALLINGHAM,

Land Agent, Armidale.

With reference to your letter of the 21st February last, relative to the inconvenience experienced by certain of your constituents in not being allowed to select land at the land office, Armidale, I am directed to inform you that the Land Agent, Mr. Bray, is perfectly right in refusing applications for land not in his district.

2. I may, however, add that the question of the desirability of amending the boundaries of the Armidale district as regards the county of Clarke will be referred to the Survey Office, with a view to obtaining a report from the District Surveyor.

No. 5.

Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

District Surveyor's Office, Armidale, 19 July, 1878.

I have the honor to return the papers B.C. of the 9th of July, requesting my report on the desirability of establishing a land office at Bundarra, and to report as follows:—

2nd. The Armidale Land District comprises the important towns of Uralla and Bundarra, and is nearly 100 miles long, by as many wide, and the distance that persons desirous of purchasing lands have to travel to the land office is more than reasonable.

The only remedy I can suggest is to divide the district and make three offices—one at Armidale, one at Uralla, and another at Bundarra; each of these towns being sufficiently far apart for that purpose. The extent of this district has for a long time been complained of; it is 60 miles to the Bundarra boundary of the district, and 50 miles to the Uralla boundary, and within those distances there is plenty of room for new offices.

Conditional purchases have almost ceased within 15 miles of Armidale, hence the importance of these new offices in the heart of the available country.

There has been a good deal said through the Press of late about the inconveniences attending at Armidale, now that land is so far distant from it, and a clamour for a local office is not new at Uralla. I have, therefore, in view of the requirements of the district, to suggest that at as early a date as possible new land offices be established at Uralla and Bundarra, and I enclose sketches* showing the boundaries of the districts proposed to be created.

I have, &c.,

W. A. B. GREAVES,

District Surveyor.

P.S.—I may add that within the proposed new land districts there is considerable alienation going on and it is likely to increase.—W.A.B.G.

BEFORE dealing with Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves' report, enclosed, subject of the Armidale District, Mr. Greaves will have the goodness to consider this application, and report. The boundaries of the Glen Innes District are shown on the portion of the Colony map herewith.

J. W. ELLIS,

(For Surveyor General).

1 August, 1878.

I do not recommend any further encroachment on the district of Glen Innes, for the reason that the people residing outside the boundary proposed as the Armidale District boundary are commercially and politically connected with Glen Innes; also, its gold and tin fields have always belonged to Glen Innes.—W. Extract from Memorial from Residents of Uralla and District.

Received, 7 August, 1878.

To the Honorable the Minister for Lands, the Honorable the Minister for Works, and the Honorable the Minister for Justice, New South Wales.

The Memorial of the undersigned Residents of Uralla and District,—

SHOWETH:—

That, at a public meeting held at Uralla on the 15th July instant, the following resolutions were put, and unanimously carried:—

3rd. That, considering the long delay in the appointment of a resident Clerk of Petty Sessions for Uralla, the meeting again urges the necessity for the same, and also that all local auction Crown Lands sales should be made at Uralla.

4th. That copies of the resolutions passed at this meeting be forwarded to Messrs. Terry and Copeland, M.P.'s, with a request to them to take immediate action.

And showeth that your memorialists, being fully impressed with the importance of the proposition that the auction sales of Crown Lands should be held at the local police office, but that further a full Government land office should be there established, and a separate district formed for Uralla; the immense extent of land already taken up upon balances of purchase money of which interest has to be paid, and also that the extent still open for purchase or selection fully warranting this and the interest, and convenience of the public absolutely demanding it.

We respectfully, &c.,

W. CLÉGHORN, J.P.

G. WESTON, J.P.

And 176 other signatures.

How does this matter stand?—J.S.F., 13 September, 1878.

It was decided that auction sales should take place in the police district in which the lands are situated, and the petitioners were so informed; but when a letter is received on various subjects requiring to be acted upon in different branches, as in the present case, extracts are made, and there was nothing to show on the extracts, on which the petitioners were written to, that the petition was presented by Mr. Copeland, M.P. He was not written to.—O.R., 19.

Petition from Residents of Bannockburn, &c., to the Legislative Assembly.

To the Honorable Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned residents of Bannockburn, Reedy Creek, Gum Flat, Little Plain, Tingha, Bundarra Creek, and Inverell,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That your Petitioners, by reason of the present division of the lands districts of Inverell, Warialda, Bingera, and Armidale, suffer great loss and inconvenience by having to travel so far to transact land business; and as Inverell is their market town they also wish it to be their town to transact land business. As an instance of the injustice towards Inverell, the present boundary of the Warialda Land District approaches Inverell within 7 miles, while that of Bingera comes within 5 miles of Inverell on the west, and that of Armidale within 10 miles of Inverell on the south. These divisions cut off a large portion of our settlers from the full benefits that a land office ought to confer.

Your Petitioners believe, to remedy the evil, the districts named should be divided, as near as possible, at equal distances between the towns named; and that the new Inverell Land District would thus embrace the whole of Grammin, Bannockburn, and Reedy Creek Runs, and the following parishes in the county Murchison, viz.: Little Plain, Gum Flat, Turra Warra, Stag, and Dingo; thence running up the Gwydir River on the right bank to the boundary of county Darling; thence, bearing east, embrace the following parishes in the county Hardinge, viz.: Drummond, Darbysleigh, Loura, Buchanan, Tenbadon, Ollera, and Morden, until it joins the present boundary-line between Inverell and the lands district of Glen Innes.

And your Petitioners humbly pray that your Honorable House will take this matter into your favourable consideration, and grant your Petitioners such relief as your Honorable House may in their wisdom deem sufficient; and your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Chief Draftsman. Mr. Callachor,—How will this affect Bingera and Warialda districts?—J.W.E., 30th September.

This petition is referred for the report of Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves. The boundary at present dividing the Inverell and Warialda districts is shown on the enclosed map* of Arrawatta and *See Appendices the whole of the county of Murchison is included in the Bingera district; and if it is desirable to amend the boundaries of Inverell Mr. Greaves will have the goodness to show amendment.—J. Memo. by Deputy Surveyor General.

The town of Armidale, as will be seen by the enclosed map,* is not far from being central for *See Appendices the district of Armidale, the northern boundary of the district from Armidale being about 38 miles only, and the western boundary about the same distance from that town, the nearest distance of the southern boundary from that town being only about 25 miles, and of the western boundary about 40 miles. The town of Uralla, proposed by Mr. Greaves as the most suitable site for a land office, in the event of a subdivision of the district, is only about 15 miles from Armidale, with no land available for selection between those towns, and the town of Bundarra is about 50 miles from Armidale, Bundarra being proposed by Mr. Greaves for the land office for the north-western subdivision of the district. The sites of the towns of Uralla, Bundarra, and Bendemeer, each within the Armidale district, are so situate, as will be seen by the enclosed map, as not to form convenient sites for land offices, and I am of opinion that it would be undesirable to subdivide the existing district of Armidale; but the Inspector of Land Offices should probably be asked for his report.

Report by the Inspector of Land Offices.

Proposed new land district of Uralla and Bundarra.

I CONCUR in the report of the Deputy Surveyor General, and having recently been in the Armidale district I feel convinced that there is no real necessity for its subdivision.

There are two important points always to be considered in connection with the formation of new land districts, and they are, that the land office should be in a central position, and be established in the interests of settlers, and not upon the agitation of the business people of any particular town.

The 3rd paragraph of the district surveyor's report is as follows:—"Conditional purchases have almost ceased within 15 miles of Armidale, hence the importance of these new offices in the heart of the available land."

Uralla is only 15 miles from Armidale, and is connected with it by an excellent road, and so must, by the District Surveyor's own showing, be on the extremity of the district, instead of being in the heart of the available land. The distance between Armidale and Uralla, over a good road, should not be considered as pointing to the necessity for the new office, but rather the reverse.

Uralla is a rising township, and that is probably the secret of the "clamour," which has not, so far as I am aware, reached the department, except by the mention of it in the District Surveyor's report for a land office there. The business people of every township in the Colony, of any size, would like to have a land office, because it adds to the importance of the town, although it may not be of the slightest benefit to intending settlers. The same may be said of Bundarra, although not exactly on the extremity of the district. Rather than establish an office there it would be far better to include part of the proposed district in Inverell, with which it is commercially connected.

Too great care cannot be exercised in the proclamation of new land districts; and I would respectfully suggest that the boundaries of the Armidale district be not interfered with until some very much stronger grounds for doing so than at present urged are advanced.

CHARLES OLIVER, Inspector.

S. H. Terry, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Dear Sir,

Assembly, 23 January, 1879.

Referring to our conversation yesterday, as to the necessity for a land office at Bundarra, I beg to bring the subject under your notice, and trust you will deem it expedient to create one forthwith, for the following reasons, irrespective of the objections of the Surveyor General, viz.:—That Bundarra is about 60 miles from Armidale, and 50 from Uralla, and it is not fair to expect the people of Bundarra to proceed to the nearest land office in the district (60 miles away), when they have business to transact.

I remain, &c.,

SAMUEL HENRY TERRY.

Minutes on No. 17.

The Under Secretary—I wish to have a report from Mr. Stephen, upon this application; such report to state the nearest land offices, and the land taken, whether by auction or conditional purchase at those offices which would otherwise have been taken up at Bundarra, if a land office had been established at the latter place.—J.H., 23rd January, 1879.

THE District Surveyor, New England, respectfully submits to the Surveyor General that, by letter of the *7th July last, he was asked to propose boundaries for a new land office at Bundarra, and did submit the boundaries for approval; that after he had reported, Mr. Oliver, an Inspector of Land Offices, reported against Mr. Greaves' recommendation, and such recommendation embraces a portion of the district which it is sought now to be included in that of Inverell, and was adopted.

Minutes on No. 18.

For sketch illustrating this case.—P.F.A., 24 April.

In accordance with the Surveyor General's minute on margin, the enclosed *map, showing existing boundaries of land districts, has been prepared, under the enclosed petition, to extend the boundaries of Inverell district westerly. The matter was referred for the consideration of Mr. Greaves and for report, who returns the papers under this cover; and I cannot see, because the Department of Lands refuses for the present to subdivide a district that the District Surveyor should decline to give the report asked for. The petitioners for extension of Inverell district desire to have the whole of the Grammin, Bannockburn, and Reedy Creek Runs, and certain portions of the Bingera district, included in the Inverell district, somewhere about as shown in pencil on the enclosed map, and Mr. Greaves was asked to show the boundary if he considered it desirable for the Surveyor General to recommend compliance with the petition. However, since Mr. Greaves was asked to report, the Minister under Ministerial 2,909-79 approves of a district for Moree, and to revise the boundaries and apportion the district of which Bingera is now the land office among the adjacent districts of Warialda, Inverell, and Moree—Bingera to be abolished; and under Ministerial 2,959-79 to include a part of the Armidale district at Bundarra in the Inverell district. I think that the whole of the papers should be forwarded to Mr. District-Surveyor Greaves for proposal of boundaries, in order to carry out the Ministerial decision. Submitted for consideration.—J. I cannot support Mr. Greaves in the action he has taken in not reporting at the time and in writing a memorandum at which umbrage may be taken by an officer of another department. Mr. Greaves' action is now to recommend geographical boundaries to meet the whole question as set forth in the papers. (See Minister's decision and Mr. Ellis' recommendation thereon).—P. F. As pointed out in my memorandum of the 3rd of October last, Bundarra is commercially connected with Inverell, and only distant therefrom in a direct line 28 miles, and therefore I consider that, instead of multiplying the number of land offices, a revision of boundaries would meet the case, and that this matter should be finally disposed of when the proposed amendment of the boundaries of the Inverell District takes place recently directed by the Minister, by incorporating in that district nearly the whole of that portion (county of Hardinge) of the Armidale District which it is now sought to have proclaimed as a separate district to be called Bundarra. The resubmission of this case has been delayed owing to the pressure of other more urgent matters.—C.O., 7th May, 1879.

Referring to your letter of the 23rd January last, relative to the necessity for a land office at Bundarra, I am directed to inform you that it is not considered desirable to establish an office at that place, but in order to facilitate business in the locality in question, it is proposed to revise the boundaries of the district of Inverell and Armidale in such a way as to include that portion of the latter around Bundarra in the former.

It is considered that this arrangement, while fully meeting all public requirements, will prevent an unnecessary multiplication of land offices.

In returning the papers in the matter of the proposed new boundaries of land districts, I have to remark that I have given to each district such portions of country as lie most convenient, and are claimed in a commercial sense, as for instance, the north-eastern portion of the Armidale district belongs to Glen Innes, while the southern portion of the Glen Innes district belongs to Armidale, and so it is with portions of the other districts I have dealt with. I have shown on the several plans forwarded to me the approximate boundaries following in each case, natural features, and parish and county boundaries.

I have not confined myself to proposing boundaries of the Inverell and Warialda districts, but I have suggested amendments wherever I think they are required, as in dealing with the case the whole question might as well be considered, and so avoid its cropping up again.

My dear Ellis,

The portion of country shown in blue belongs fairly to Moree, and should be included in that district.

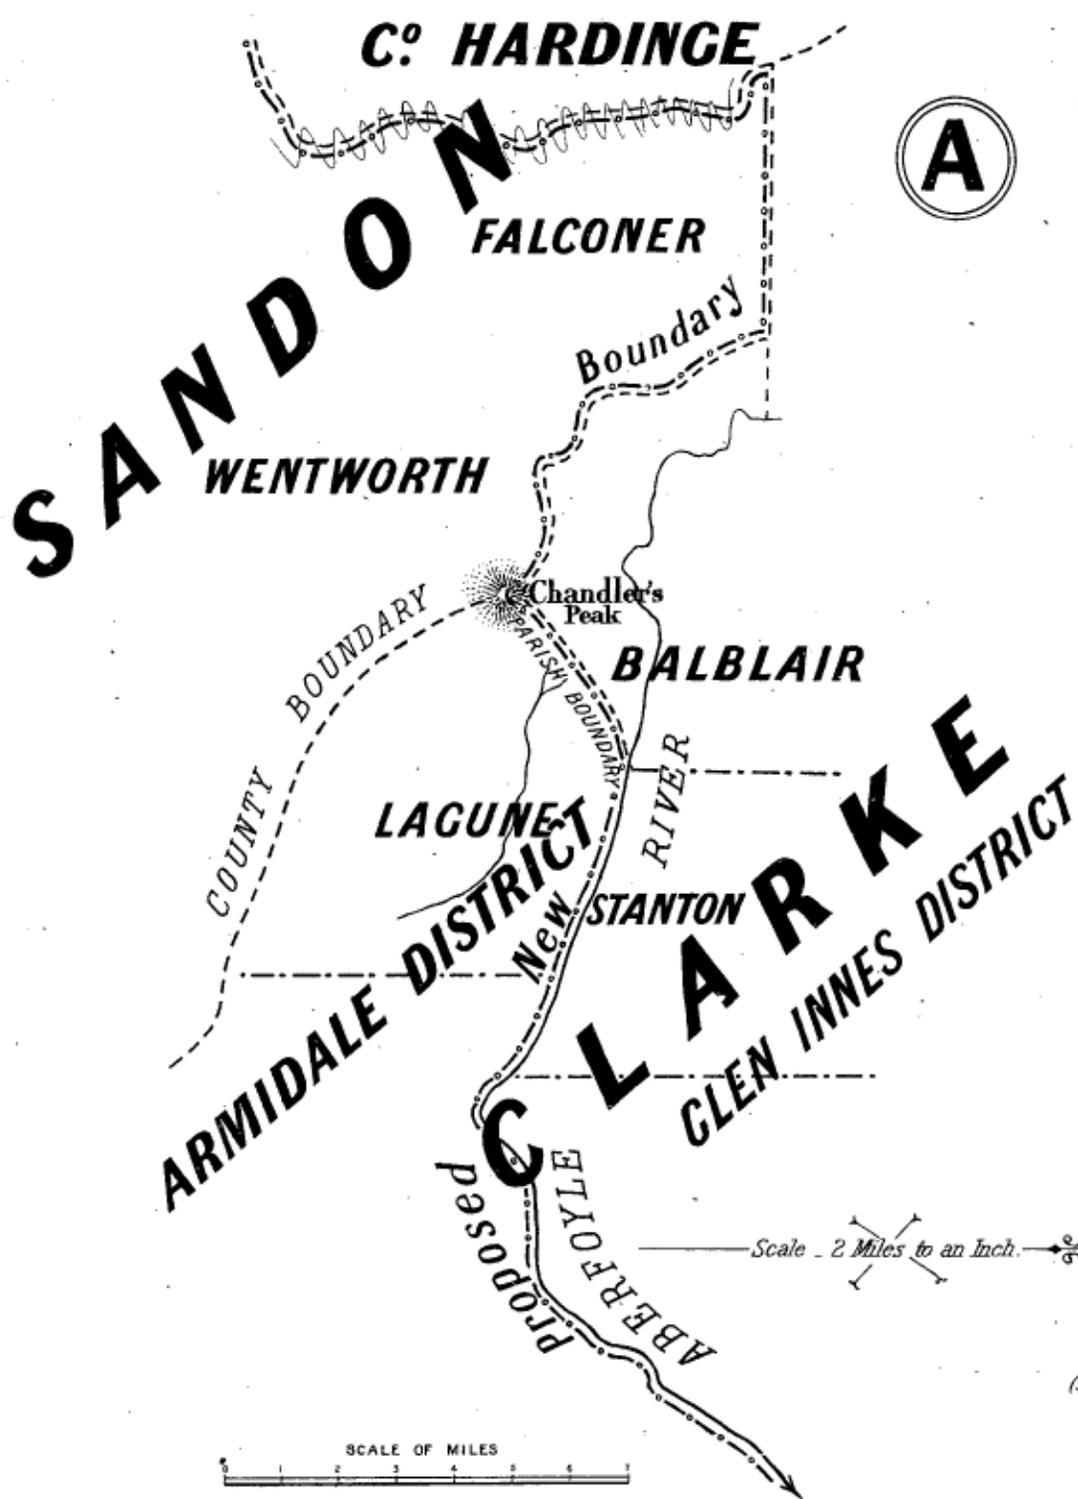

The Barwon and Gwydir are two large rivers, and often in flood, so that Moree would always be more accessible, and the Barwon River a better boundary than the run, or police district boundary of Warialda—(hard at all times to be found).

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

LAND LAW.

(PETITION FROM CONDITIONAL PURCHASERS OF URANA.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 26th May, 1880.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned bonâ fide Selectors of the County of Urana, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That in the opinion of your Petitioners the present system of compelling selectors to pay interest on the balance of money due to the Crown for conditional purchases, although legally contracted for by your Petitioners to be paid, has proved by experience to be oppressive, debarring many conditional purchasers from reasonable prospect of becoming the actual owners of the land thus conditionally purchased.

That to all those men of moderate capital who look to making their occupation of the land remunerative the yearly payment of this sum is nearly ruinous, preventing the full improvement of the land to the extent to which it might be otherwise carried, and acting as a material bar to the progress and welfare of the purchaser.

That in reality the conditional purchaser, under the present regulations, although weaker in a monetary sense than the pastoral tenant, is actually paying more for the use of the soil than the wealthy Crown lessee, and that many such cannot under the existing Act hope to see themselves clear of difficulties, or with a reasonable prospect of becoming by industry and frugality owners of ground upon which they may have worked for years, and upon which they may have spent all and more than they have obtained from it.

That seeing the object of the Land laws is to settle population on the Crown Lands of the Colony, the removal of this restriction, viz., payment of interest will induce a greater number of people to conditionally purchase land, at the same time relieving those who have already conditionally purchased of a burthen which no other class in the community has to bear.

That under these circumstances, which investigation will show to be correct, your Petitioners humbly pray your Honorable House to grant them redress, by passing an Act rescinding the annual payment of interest upon the money due, and allowing the one shilling per acre per annum now paid by selectors under the Act of 1875 to go towards the purchase of the land, as in view of the depressed state of agricultural produce and the great uncertainty as regards drought, any other course would not be holding out sufficient facilities to bonâ fide settlers upon the soil.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House will take the above premises into your consideration, and in your wisdom so amend the Land Act as to give your Petitioners such relief as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c., &c.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

JOHN CURRIE.

(PETITION OF.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 14 January, 1880.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of John Currie, of Lismore, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH :—

That on the twenty-seventh day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, one John Daly conditionally purchased, under the thirteenth section of the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," fifty acres of land in the parish of North Lismore and county of Rous.

That on the thirteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, the said selection of fifty acres was transferred by the said John Daly to one Edward Howell, and on the fifteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, the said Edward Howell transferred the said selection to Messrs. Duncan Currie and John M'Kenzie.

That on the eighteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, the said Duncan Currie and John M'Kenzie made a solemn declaration, whereby they declared that they were the lawful owners of the said selection, and that improvements to the value of fifty pounds had been made on the said selection ; and further, that the said selection had been the bona fide residence of John Daly, Edward Howell, and them, the said Duncan Currie and John M'Kenzie, from the time of selection and first occupation to the date of the said declaration ; and that no alienation of the said selection had been made by any of the said holders until after the residence thereon of such holder for a period of one whole year, each alienation having been notified to the Land Agent of the district within one month of its having been made.

That on the thirteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, the sum of two pounds one shilling and sixpence, interest on the balance due on the said conditional purchase, was credited at the Treasury.

That on the twenty-eighth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, Mr. Inspector Trollope furnished a report to the Chief Commissioner respecting the said selection of fifty acres, in which he estimated the value of the improvements on the said selection at thirty-five pounds, irrespective of certain drawing roads on the said selection, which the said Inspector estimated the value of at ten pounds, and of a hut (previously burnt down), which he had been informed was of the value of five pounds.

The said Inspector further reported that from the appearance of the land, &c., he would say that the residence conditions had been complied with. On this report the following minute was written at the Lands Office :—" Residence satisfactory, but the improvements are estimated by the Inspector at fifteen pounds less than the required value."

That on first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, your Petitioner, being about to purchase Duncan Currie's interest in the said selection, wrote to the Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Casino, inquiring if the said selection was unencumbered and all right, and how Duncan Currie's interest was to be transferred to him. The Crown Lands Agent replied, by letter, as follows :—

Dear Currie,

Casino, 4 December, 1877.

I reply to your letter of the 1st instant, asking as to the way in which a selection held by two persons can be transferred, and if the selection of Currie and M'Kenzie is all right. I have to say that both holders must sign, and I send you form herewith. There is nothing recorded in the register here against Currie and M'Kenzie's selection, and as the declaration on the original was made 18th December, 1876, I think that they are all right, as it is usual to notify to me anything to the contrary, so that the alienee may be informed.

Yours faithfully,

M. M. CAMPBELL.

That your Petitioner, acting on the information thus given to him by the Crown Lands Agent, and being aware of the before-mentioned declaration of Duncan Currie and John M'Kenzie, became the purchaser of Duncan Currie's interest in the said selection, for the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds ; and on the twenty-sixth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, Duncan Currie and John M'Kenzie transferred the said selection to your Petitioner and the said John M'Kenzie.

That

That by the New South Wales Government Gazette of fifteenth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, it was notified that information having been received to the effect that the conditions as to residence or improvements had not been fulfilled in respect of (amongst others) the said selection of fifty acres, the claims of the holders had been referred to the Commissioner for inquiry, pursuant to the "Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875."

That your Petitioner subsequently received a notice, dated twentieth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, from the Chief Commissioner, referring your Petitioner to the above-mentioned Gazette notice.

That on the sixteenth and seventeenth days of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, Commissioner Bolding held an inquiry at Lismore respecting the said selection. Mr. Inspector Trollope gave evidence at the said inquiry, valuing the improvements at thirty-five pounds, excluding a hut which he had been informed had been burnt, and was valued at five pounds (he saw the site, but could not value the hut from appearances), and excluding the drawing roads, as they were questionable improvements, but considered they were worth ten pounds. Arthur William Short and John M'Kenzie also gave evidence. Short valued the improvements at fifty-five pounds, and M'Kenzie at least fifty pounds.

That Commissioner Bolding subsequently furnished his report to the Chief Commissioner, recommending the said selection be forfeited on the grounds that the residence and improvements conditions had not been complied with, and on sixteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, the Honorable the Secretary for Lands indorsed a minute on the said report, approving of the said recommendation; and by notice bearing date the sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, in the New South Wales Government Gazette, the said selection was declared forfeited.

Your Petitioner, for more minute information, refers your Honorable House to the Return to an Order made by the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, dated the sixth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, with reference to the said selection, originally selected by John Daly.

Your Petitioner respectfully submits that the evidence taken before Commissioner Bolding clearly shows that the improvements on the said selection are of the value of at least fifty pounds. Mr. Inspector Trollope's valuation being,—improvements, thirty-five pounds; drawing roads, ten pounds (which he considered doubtful improvements); and a hut (then burnt, but which he has been informed was worth), five pounds; making in all fifty pounds,—Arthur William Short's valuation being fifty-five pounds, and John M'Kenzie's valuation being fifty pounds.

Your Petitioner further submits that the residence conditions have been sufficiently complied with.

And further, that your Petitioner is entitled to some consideration as to the residence conditions, he being the purchaser, for valuable consideration, after careful inquiries about the said selection, and being aware of Inspector Trollope's report of twenty-eighth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, in which the said Inspector states, "I would say that the residence conditions have been properly complied with," and the minute thereon, "residence satisfactory"; and also being aware of the joint declaration of Duncan Currie and John M'Kenzie, made on the eighteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and having received the before-mentioned letter of fourth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, from the Crown Lands Agent at Casino, and considering the length of time which had elapsed since the requirements of the law should have been completed.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that your Honorable House will, in consideration of the premises, appoint a Select Committee to inquire into all matters in connection with the said selection of fifty acres made by John Daly, on the twenty-seventh day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and which by divers transfers became vested in John Currie and John M'Kenzie.

And that your Petitioner may have such further or other relief on the premises as to your Honorable House shall seem just.

Dated this twenty-ninth day of December, A.D. 1879.

JOHN CURRIE.

(PETITION OF)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 21 April, 1880.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament.

The humble Petition of Samuel Wilson, of Derringullen Creek, near Yass, farmer,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

That your Petitioner selected ninety-eight acres of land on the 23rd of September, 1875, in the county of King, parish of Yass, as conditional purchase No. 75,306, under 21st section of the Crown Lands Act.

That, in compliance with a notification from Lands Department, Conditional Sales Division, dated 21st June, 1878, your Petitioner made his declaration and paid instalment, having been in possession of the land three years and three months.

That your Petitioner selected the land in accordance with advice from the Department of Lands by letter of the 21st September, 1875.

That your Petitioner during his possession improved the land by fencing and otherwise.

That the land was first selected by Harriott, who is alleged to have sold to Boswell, but as the latter could not prove alienation the selection was forfeited.

That after holding the land for three years and three months the selection of your Petitioner was forfeited, as it was alleged that it contained improvements to the value of one pound per acre. Boswell had made a declaration that the improvements were his, and in consequence a subsequent selection of the portion by him was allowed to stand. Your Petitioner humbly submits that this was a false declaration.

That upwards of twenty years since, and while Crown Lands, a man named Alfred Hilder placed about half a mile of two-railed fencing on the land, valued at the time at four shillings and sixpence per rod. In the year 1868 your Petitioner applied for this land as a grass right, which was granted, and he held it until Harriott selected. Harriott put part of a hut on the land, and felled timber to the extent of about four acres.

That your Petitioner can prove that Boswell has not at any time held legal claim to any of the improvements or to the portion of land, but that your Petitioner is the only person who has ever held legal possession of the land by virtue of his grass right, on which part of the fence since claimed by Boswell was standing, the same fence being the property of your Petitioner and not Boswell's.

That Mr. Boswell asked for an appraisement, which was granted, but that the amount put upon the improvements by the appraiser was in the case of the old fence at least three times its value, and in case of the remainder of improvements at least twice their value; also that improvements were set down in the valuation and accounted to be on the land which were not so; the improvements are on the land now as at time of appraisement.

That at the time of inquiry your Petitioner had not provided witnesses as to original constructor and possessor of improvements, having been told by the appraiser that there was no necessity.

That your Petitioner humbly prays that a fresh inquiry into the whole matter may be instituted, being firmly of the opinion that, if a fair and impartial arbitration and examination into the facts of the case be made, it will further the ends of Justice and establish your Petitioner in the possession of the land, to which he considers himself justly entitled.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MRS. MARY ANN ORR.

(PETITION OF.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 25 May, 1880.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of Mary Ann Orr, of Browsi, Deniliquin, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH :—

That your Petitioner, wishing to conditionally purchase land, attended for that purpose at the Land Office at Deniliquin, on the twenty-eighth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and certain land being pointed out by the local Land Agent as available, tendered an application therefor.

That in pointing out such land, the local Land Agent distinctly informed your Petitioner that such land formed part of a reserve, which reserve (No. 221) he further stated had been revoked, and was then open for conditional purchase.

That in the month of February following your Petitioner was informed, by official letter from the Department of Lands, that the selection formed part of the said reserve (No. 221), and that the selection was void and of no effect.

That your Petitioner, knowing that reserve No. 221 had no existence at the date of her selecting, returned the vouchers forwarded with the letter declaring your Petitioner's selection void to the Honorable the Secretary for Lands, stating the fact of it being impossible that your Petitioner's selection could interfere with the reserve named.

That, on further inquiry, your Petitioner discovered that upon the date of the revocation of the Reserve (No. 221) the land revoked from that reserve had been so notified as reserve No. 1608, charts showing the existence of which had not, upon the date of your Petitioner's inquiries in March, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, been forwarded to the Land Agent at Deniliquin.

That your Petitioner, previous to receiving any intimation that her selection was invalid, had expended the sum of six hundred pounds in building upon and fencing the land, and the whole of this money of which your Petitioner was possessed is so expended, and the loss of this sum will leave your Petitioner without the means of gaining a livelihood.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays that you will be pleased to take the circumstances of her case into consideration, and direct the insertion in the Schedule to the Conditional and other purchase Bill, now before your Honorable House, or take such other measures to secure your Petitioner from irretrievable loss as may seem to your Honorable House, upon the wisdom of which your Petitioner has reliance, fit.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

MRS. MARY ANNE SMITH.

(PETITION OF.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 25 May, 1880.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled,—

The Petition of Mary Anne Smith, widow of Thomas Smith, late of Hay, in the Colony of New South Wales, deceased,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That during the lifetime of your Petitioner's husband he lodged applications for the conditional purchase of one hundred and twenty acres, on the tenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six; two hundred acres on the twenty-ninth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven; and one hundred and forty-three acres three roods on the tenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, at the Land Office at Hay, and that he resided thereon until the date of his decease.

That, on the seventeenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, your Petitioner's husband received official intimation that a part of the land applied for encroached on the Hay Temporary Common, consequent upon which encroachment the applications were declared void.

That previous to receiving such intimation your Petitioner's husband had erected buildings and fencing upon the said land to the value of six hundred pounds.

That your Petitioner and a large family are left with no other home than that described, and if deprived of this will be left without means of earning a livelihood.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that you will be pleased to take the circumstances of her case into consideration, and direct the insertion in the Schedule to the Conditional and other Purchase Bill now before your Honorable House, or take such other measures to secure your Petitioner from irretrievable loss as may seem to your Honorable House, upon the wisdom of which your Petitioner has reliance, fit.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. GEORGE DAY, THE YOUNGER.

(PETITION OF.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 16 June, 1880.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of George Day, the younger, of the parish of Hovell, on the Yanko Creek, in the County of Urana, selector,—

SHOWETH:—

That on the 19th day of October, 1876, your Petitioner conditionally purchased from the Crown two hundred and fifty-nine acres of land, under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, being measured portion 146 in the parish of Hovell, in the county of Urana, and duly complied with the provisions of the said Act and the Regulations thereunder in respect of the said purchase.

That without any previous notice to your Petitioner, on the 8th day of September, 1877, an action of trespass was commenced in the Supreme Court of the Colony of New South Wales against your Petitioner by Angus Robertson, Duncan Robertson, and David Sheriff Robertson, the lessees of Yarrabee Run, in respect of occupying the said conditional purchase, and to this action your Petitioner pleaded that as to the land trespassed on he was entitled to such lands by virtue of such conditional purchase; and on the 14th day of February, 1878, a verdict by consent was found for the plaintiffs with forty shillings damages, subject to the opinion of the Supreme Court sitting in Banco upon a special case to be settled between your Petitioner and the plaintiffs.

That on the 18th day of February, 1878, a special case was accordingly filed in the said Supreme Court, whereby it appeared that the plaintiffs were lessees of the Yarrabee Run, on which your Petitioner had made the said conditional purchase, that the said run consisted of forty-two thousand two hundred and forty acres of land, of which twenty-eight thousand eight hundred and ninety-four acres were Crown Lands held under lease by said plaintiffs, and that the plaintiffs being such lessees, on the 17th day of October, 1876, delivered to the Land Agent at Urana an application to purchase six hundred and forty acres of land on the said run, under the 31st clause of the Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875, at the same time tendering the sum of six hundred and forty pounds, which application was refused by the said Land Agent, who indorsed on the same the following memorandum:—"Refused, not being within a block of five miles square of leasehold—Applicant advised—Tendered with deposit, six hundred and forty pounds"; and that the said run did contain several areas equal to an area of five square miles, but each of such areas contained some portion of purchased land, and no area of five miles square could be found on the said run which did not include some portion of purchased land, and it was contended by the plaintiffs that the land selected by your Petitioner was land lawfully contracted to be granted in fee simple to the plaintiffs, and therefore not open to conditional purchase; and your Petitioner contended that the land was not so contracted to be sold by reason of the land applied for by the plaintiffs not coming within the provisions of the 31st clause of the Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875, and the question for the opinion of the Supreme Court was whether the land so applied for by the plaintiffs could be purchased by them under the provisions of the 31st clause, and if the Court should be of opinion that the above question should be answered in the affirmative, the verdict for the plaintiffs should stand; if not, the verdict for the plaintiffs to be set aside, and a verdict entered for your Petitioner.

That on the 22nd day of March, 1878, the Supreme Court delivered its judgment, by which it was ordered that the verdict found for the plaintiffs be set aside and the verdict entered for your Petitioner.

That on the 26th day of March, 1878, the Supreme Court granted the plaintiffs leave to appeal to Her Majesty's Privy Council from the said judgment.

That on the 29th day of November, 1879, Her Majesty's Privy Council ordered that the said judgment in favour of your Petitioner be reversed with costs, and on the 23rd day of March last the said Order was made a Rule of the Supreme Court of New South Wales.

That your Petitioner has resided on the said selection from the said 19th day of October 1877 to the present time, and has expended the sum of two hundred and eighty pounds in making improvements thereon.

That your Petitioner incurred two hundred and forty pounds eight shillings and seven-pence for his own solicitor's costs of defending the said action.

That in addition to the plaintiffs' costs of appealing to the Privy Council, which were allowed at two hundred and eighty pounds nine shillings and two-pence, your Petitioner is also liable to the plaintiffs for the costs of the action and of the special case before the Supreme Court, which are not yet taxed, but which are estimated at about three hundred pounds.

That your Petitioner estimates his loss in connection with the said selection as follows :—

Law costs to his own solicitor	240	8	7
Cost of your Petitioner attending trial at Sydney	25	0	0
Plaintiffs' costs of appeal to Privy Council	280	9	2
Plaintiffs' costs of trial and special case before Supreme Court	300	0	0
Expended on improvements on said selection	280	0	0
Loss of time—from the time of taking up selection until recently	400	0	0
Paid as deposit of purchase money	65	0	0
Interest paid Government, three years after selection	13	0	0

Making a total of £1,603 17 9

That your Petitioner selected the said land on the faith of the opinion of the Attorney General, the Honorable William Bede Dalley, given to the Minister for Lands, the Honorable Thomas Garrett, on the 10th day of October, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and acted on by Minister for Lands and the Lands Department and your Honorable House.

That your Petitioner, in consequence of the judgment of Her Majesty's Privy Council, is obliged to give up possession of the said selection to the lessees of the said run, and by reason of the matters aforesaid is wholly ruined.

That your Petitioner, under the circumstances before set out, humbly submits that this is a case which your Honorable House should take into its most favourable consideration.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to take such steps in reference to your Petitioner's said case as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

GEORGE DAY, the younger.

Dated at Yanko Creek, this eighth day of June, 1880.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. HENRY ARTHUR HOUGH.

(PETITION OF.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 2 July, 1880.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

Petition of the undersigned, Henry Arthur Hough, of Tarramiah, near Corowa, in the Colony of New South Wales, who selected two unimproved blocks of Crown Lands of 320 acres each, for himself and his son, at Albury, on the 20th day of May, 1875, in the parish of Tarramiah, county of Denison, and who improved the said land by fencing, ringing the timber, clearing, building, and providing water by wells and tanks, and in every way fulfilling the law by making them his home ever since, with the full and determined intention of providing for the future welfare of his children, but who, through an error of the department in surveying them wrongly (one having been surveyed before selection) caused the said selections to encroach on two reserves, numbered respectively 296 and 98, by which means the legality of the same was imperilled, and your Petitioner was driven to the necessity of defending an action in the Supreme Court of this Colony, at the instance of the Crown lessees of the said Tarramiah Run, viz., John Charles Whitty and Henry Tarleton Whitty, who claimed £2,000 damages for the said encroachments on the reserves mentioned, amounting altogether to only 152½ acres (one hundred and fifty-two and a half acres) notwithstanding your Petitioner had been officially informed by the then Minister of Lands, Mr. Garrett, that the errors would be rectified by the Schedule of a special Bill to be introduced into Parliament whereby these and similar errors were to be legalized; and moreover the said reserves have long since been withdrawn from lease of the run as an initiatory step. In the face of this promise, well known to the lessees, your Petitioner was put to the great trouble, annoyance, and heavy expense of defending said action, which could have been brought for no other motive than for harassing and attempting to drive your Petitioner off the land by ruining him with heavy law costs, as the result has clearly shown; for after your Petitioner obtaining the best legal advice and assistance from Mr. Darley, Q.C., and following that advice by paying small damages into Court, which your Petitioner was assured no Jury would exceed, and thus plaintiff would have to pay all costs on both sides; notwithstanding this, and the expense and trouble of preparing for trial on October 7th, 1879, and conveying witnesses to Albury, plaintiffs did not appear, but at the last moment accepted the paltry sum of £10 paid into Court, and thereby threw all costs and expenses on both sides to the amount of over £500 on your Petitioner, which he was compelled to procure by borrowing at high interest and selling stock when prices were ruinously low; otherwise there would have been immediate execution levied; and your Petitioner would further urge that the mental worry, annoyance, and heavy expenses he had to incur very seriously affected his health and prospects, and caused his business to be seriously injured and neglected. Moreover, plaintiffs could have sustained no actual damage whatever, simply because an ample space existed at the time of selection to allow your Petitioner his full quantity of land, as evidenced by the map in the Albury Lands Office being utterly unreliable, and actually permitting plaintiff, Henry Tarleton Whitty, and a station employé named Reginald Warner, to select 640 acres more land on Thursday following, viz., 27th May, 1875, in the identical space pointed out by Mr. District-Surveyor Woods, as only containing 640 acres; whereby your Petitioner was put to a great amount of trouble and loss besides that specified in this Petition, viz., losing two years grass off an additional C.P. of 320 acres, which was surveyed quite wrongly, and had to be re-surveyed after an interval of a year, and proved to be 25 chains in error; and your Petitioner had great trouble and loss through it. Furthermore, your Petitioner would respectfully point out that a second action for £2,000 damages has been laid against him by same plaintiffs on the plea that said encroachments not yet being validated, your Petitioner is still a trespasser, and charging him with encroaching still more (as shown by a coloured map) by a C.P. of his daughter's.

In conclusion, your Petitioner would humbly entreat your Honorable House to take into your merciful and serious consideration the very harsh treatment he has undergone through these errors in survey before named, in addition to the heavy money losses sustained in defending one action, viz., £500, besides a similar or perhaps greater amount likely to be incurred in the present action, or second one; and all this apart from the serious injury to his health, and great personal annoyance, vexation, and persecution to which he has been subjected, through no fault of his, for he came to your Colony expecting a welcome for himself, family, and capital, and behold the disastrous consequences!

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that your Honorable House may take the foregoing facts into your most serious and merciful consideration.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

HENRY ARTHUR HOUGH.

No. 1.

Mr. J. H. Neale to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, 409, Crown-street, Sydney, 7 September, 1876.

I have the honor to apply that the land undermentioned may be surveyed and offered for sale at auction.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Pitt is now surveying some adjoining lots for me, and I should feel obliged if instructions were forwarded to him to survey this lot also.

I have, &c.,

JAMES H. NEALE.

County of Cook, parish . . . That portion of land at Katoomba or "The Crushers," on the Great Western Railway line, known as the Old Quarry, and bounded by north side of railway-fence, and by the south side of the Old Bathurst Road. Estimated area, 2 acres.

Minutes on No. 1.

Treasury Receipt.

The sum of one shilling (1s.) has been credited this day to Trust Fund account.—W. NEWCOMBE. The Treasury, 8 September, 1876.

Forwarded to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Pitt for survey if unobjectionable, according to regulations.—T.S. (for Surveyor General), 11 September, 1876.

The land applied for herein, about 5 acres, I have shown on my supplementary plan G., the green edging, dated 11th October, 1876.

Before this is measured for auction sale I would respectfully suggest that I think it would be wise to obtain a report from the Engineer for Railways.

This is a railway quarry and may be required for stone for altering or replacing the permanent way.—G. M. PITT, Licensed Surveyor, 12 October, 1876.

It is recommended that reference be made to the Department of Works as to the desirability of alienating the land herein referred to, and shown on tracing herewith.—J. W. ELLIS (for Surveyor General), B.C., 6 November, 1876. The Under Secretary for Works.—W. C. EDWARDS (for the Under Secretary), B.C., 16 April, 1877. The Engineer for Existing Lines.—C.A.G., B.C., 24/4/77. I recommend this land be reserved for railway purposes.—W.M., 25 April, 1877. Inform.—J.H., 30/4/77. Under Secretary for Lands, B.C., 1 May, 1877.

No. 2.

Memo. from The Surveyor General to The Under Secretary for Lands.

It is recommended that applicant be informed that the land he desires (which is the site of a quarry) is required for railway purposes by the Department of Works.

B.C., 31 May, 1877.

Inform.—W.W.S., 7 June.

ROBT. D. FITZGERALD,
(For Surveyor General.)

No. 3.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. J. H. Neale.

Sir, Department of Lands, Sydney, 23 June, 1877.

Referring to your letter No. 1 of the 7th September last, requesting that a portion of land containing about 2 acres, and known as the old quarry, at Katoomba, on the Great Western Railway Line, might be surveyed and offered at auction, I am directed to inform you that under a report received from the Works Department to the effect that the land in question is required for railway purposes, your request cannot be complied with.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN.

P.S.—The Treasury has been authorized to refund to you the sum of 1s. paid by you as a guarantee deposit upon the application before-mentioned.

REVENUE REFUNDED.

Sir,

Lands Department, Sydney, 23 June, 1877.

I am directed to request that you will be good enough to refund to Mr. James H. Neale, or his order, of 409, Crown-street, Surry Hills, the sum of 1s., credited at the Treasury on the September, 1876, being the guarantee deposit paid by Mr. Neale upon an application to have a portion of land at Katoomba surveyed and submitted at auction.

I have, &c.,

LINDSAY G. THOMPSON,
(For Under Secretary.)

The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

No. 5.

J. Hurley, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Sydney, 2 July, 1877.

On behalf of a number of persons who have purchased land on the line from Blue Mountains to Katoomba, I beg to make application for a reserve pointed out in sketch* herewith, and would ask you to grant it in trust for the use of the residents or landholders in the vicinity, or others interested. * Appendix A.

The land is at the intersection of the Great Western Railway and Old Bathurst Road, and contains about 2 acres.

By proclaiming it a reserve for public recreation, and in the name of the following gentlemen, viz,—

Honorable W. R. Piddington, M.P.,
J. Hurley, M.P. (Hartley),
J. H. Neale, Esq.,
A. Backhouse, Esq.,

You will oblige

Yours, &c.,
J. HURLEY.

No. 1.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Eskbank, 13 August, 1877.

Appendix B.

I have the honor to transmit herewith the plan* of two portions of land containing 80 acres, numbered 135 and 136, in the parish of Lett, county of Cook, applied for by Edward Strachan, under the 13th and 21st sections of the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," and surveyed in anticipation of instructions. Copy of Land Agent's entry herewith. Applicant is non-resident, having by mistake erected his hut a few chains off the land.

See enclosures
A and B.

When measuring these portions I ran out the connection given from portions 75 to 74, but could not find the line of northern boundary of portion 74. I then went on with my work, intending to make the portions adjoin according to the connection given.

After running the boundaries of portion 136 I discovered the north-east corner of portion 74 to be 87 links to the south of my line. I therefore left this space of 87 links as a road.

I have, &c.,
A. LIDDELL.

Mr. E. Strachan to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Clarence Tunnel, 24 August, 1877.

The surveyor that surveyed my land that I selected has not given me the land I described, and has cut off my improvements, so I have not got the land I selected, to which I call your attention, as I do not know how to act in the matter. Hoping you will give this your due consideration,

I am, &c.,

EDWD. STRACHAN.

Please address Clarence Tunnel, care of Mr. V. H. Brown.

Minutes on No. 2.

It is recommended that applicant be offered the option either of having his first conditional purchase measured in strict accordance with his application, in which case his additional conditional purchase must be declared void, as being impossible to be measured in accordance with regulations, or to accept the land surveyed by Mr. Surveyed Liddell under clause 14 of the amended Lands Act.—R. D. FITZGERALD (for the Surveyor General), 19 Aug., /78. The Chief Commissioner, Conditional Sales.

Approved.—J.S.F., 10/9/78. The applicant should be reminded.—C.N., 19/12/78. The subsequent papers should be placed herewith; then as to again reminding Strachan, 28/6/79.

No. 3.

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to Mr. E. Strachan.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 17 October, 1877.

It having been reported to this department by surveyor Liddell that at the time of his visit you were not resident on your conditional purchases of 40 acres each, made at Hartley on the 11th day of January and 13th February, 1877, respectively, I am directed to apprise you that should the surveyor's report be borne out by such further proceedings as the Secretary for Lands may consider it necessary to institute to ascertain whether the land has been from the date of occupation and within the meaning of the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861" your bonâ fide continuous residence, your original application, together with any additional selections made in virtue thereof, will be forthwith referred for inquiry as to your alleged non-residence to the Commissioner, pursuant to the "Lands Act Amendment Act of 1875," and immediately declared forfeited in the Government Gazette should the evidence elicited at such inquiry warrant that course. I am further to apprise you that any notification of transfers made by you of the land in question will be dealt with at the risk of your alienee, and special instructions have been given to the land agent to warn him that should the condition of residence not have been fulfilled by you he will not be recognized as having any claim on the land or any additional purchases he may have made in virtue thereof.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM BLACKMAN,
(For the Chief Commissioner.)

No. 4.

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to The Crown Lands Agent, Hartley.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 17 October, 1877.

The conditional purchaser specified in the accompanying schedule having been reported non-resident, I am directed to forward for your information a copy of the circular addressed to Mr. Edward Strachan on the subject.

You will be good enough to note the action taken in this department in the registers of your office, and should any transfer of the purchase referred to be forwarded to you, or lodged in your hands, after receipt of this communication, you are to take special care to inform the alienee of the position in which he will stand, in terms of the last paragraph of the circular in question, viz:—"That the land will be dealt with at his risk, and that should the condition of residence not have been fulfilled by the alienor, he (the alienee) will not be recognized as having any claim on the land, or any additional purchases made in virtue thereof."

I am to add that when the proposed further inquiry has been concluded you will be duly apprised of any decision which the Minister for Lands may give in the matter.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM BLACKMAN,
(For the Chief Commissioner.)

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to Mr. E. Strachan.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 26 October, 1878.

In reply to your letter of 24th August last, in which you state that the surveyor has not measured your land according to your description, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that you have the option of having your first conditional purchase measured in strict accordance with your application in which case your additional conditional purchase must be declared void as being impossible to be measured in accordance with the regulations or to accept the land surveyed by Mr. Surveyor Liddle under clause 14 of the amended Land Act.

No. 6.

Mr. E. Strachan to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Clarence Tunnel, 16 November, 1877.

I received a letter from the Lands Department reporting me non-resident. At the time Mr. Liddell was surveying my ground or selections I was working in the bush, and if I had known that Mr. Liddell was going to run the lines the day that he did, I would have shown him the tree marked x over s, but he told me on the day before that if it was raining he would not bring out his instrument, and it was raining the next day and I did not expect he would do anything, and I was unable to get there to show him the marked tree or starting point. I did not see Mr. Liddell on that day until he had partly run one of the lines and he then told me my place was off the ground, and he also said that if I had been with him a little sooner he could have measured any improvements on the selection.

I have not got the ground I applied for, and if Mr. Liddell had run the lines according to my application my improvements would have been on the land that I selected.

Hoping you will consider this matter,

I have, &c.,

EDWARD STRACHAN.

No. 7.

Mr. Inspector Evans to The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales.

Report by Edwin Evans, Inspector of Conditional Purchases, respecting the selection of Edward Strachan, made at Hartley, on 11 January, 1877.

Sir,

Bathurst, 3 December, 1877.

I have the honor to report that I visited and inspected the above described conditional purchase on the 28th November, 1877, and that I found the selector then resident upon selection.

The land, which consists of sandstone ridges and comprises 120 acres, is occupied and used by selector as his bonâ fide home, and the selector, who follows the avocation of woodcutter, had at the time of my visit made the improvements hereunder particularly described, the value of which I estimate at the sums respectively stated, viz.:—Hut, value about £10.

From the appearance of the land and the circumstances stated in the following remarks I am of opinion that the selector has been continuously resident upon the selection.

I have the honor to report having inspected this conditional purchase, and from the appearance of the place believe the selector to have been continuously resident.

I have, &c.,

EDWIN EVANS,

Inspector of Conditional Purchases.

Report by Mr. Surveyor Liddell.

CHARTING BRANCH.

MEMORANDUM of subjects requiring explanation or completion, in connection with the survey and plan of portions 135 and 136, parish of Lett, county of Cook, transmitted by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell's letter of 13 August, 1877, and on which Mr. Liddell's report in explanation is requested.

Subject.

According to description, portion 136 should have been in about the position shown by dotted lines on accompanying tracing.

The only reason which would justify the measurements being made in another position is that the land so measured would be the land intended to be conditionally purchased.

In this case applicant says that the land measured is not that he wanted to take up, his improvements having been excluded—was the starting point mentioned found.

Description.

County of Cook, parish of Lett, near the Clarence Tunnel, and on the south side of the railway: Commencing at a tree marked E over S, which is the north-west corner of the land applied for, which is about ¾ of a mile south-easterly from the south-east corner of portion 16, parish of Marangaroo, and to be bounded by lines running from the north-west corner to contain the area 40 acres applied for.—P.F.A., 4 June, 1878.

Report.

I did not find the marked tree referred to in the description. Applicant, who was with me during the whole of the survey, told me that he took up the land with the view of making it adjoin portion 75, as I have measured it. The only improvement on the land at the time of survey was a small hut (in the position shown on plan). It was worth about £3.

The applicant did not object, and has since selected 40 acres adjoining the eastern boundary of portion 135, and the northern boundary of portion 136.

Had portion 136 been measured in the position shown by dotted lines on accompanying tracing, the hut would have been still further off the portion.—A. LIDDELL, 23 June, 1878.

Captain Robbins to Major Holborow.

Sir, Penrith, 3 September, 1874.
 I most humbly beg to apply, through the Commandant, for a piece of Government ground on Emu Plains, at the bottom of Lapstone Hill, for the purpose of a rifle range for the use of the Penrith corps, as I have had notice to remove the targets from their present position, the range being private property. The piece of ground now asked for is situated at the bottom of Lapstone Mountain, and is on the north side of the railway-line, commencing at the viaduct on Emu Plains, and running into the mountain about 1,500 yards to the west, and is bounded on the north by W. Bowman's, Esq., land, and on the south by the Great Western Road, but in straight line therewith; and there is no danger, as the line of fire will be 1,000 yards from that road, and on the east it is bounded by public road; this will be the firing-point, facing west, on the mountain (Lapstone Hill). I also beg to say that I have shown the piece of land I now most respectfully ask for to Captain Compton.

Trusting I may be allowed this piece for this purpose, I have, &c.,
P. ROBBINS,
 Captain, P.V.R.

Minutes on above.

Captain Compton will be good enough to furnish a report as to the suitability of the ground referred to. By Command.—W.B., B.C., Major of Brigade, 5/9/74. Report herewith.—J.C., 12/9/74.

[Enclosure B to No. 1.]

Captain Compton to The Major of Brigade.

Sir, Richmond, 12 September, 1874.
 Referring to the application from Captain Robbins, commanding the Penrith company, for the grant of a piece of Government ground at the foot of Lapstone Hill for a rifle range, I have the honor to report that I have inspected the locality, and think that with a little expenditure of labour in clearing timber where the targets would stand, it could be made into a very good range, and perfectly safe in every respect.

Mr. G. M. Pitt, Jun., to The Surveyor General.

Sir, North Richmond, November 13, 1875.
 In reference to your instructions, dated 17th October, 1874, to District-Surveyor Evans, I have the honor to state that I have enclosed a tracing showing the position of the proposed rifle range at Emu Plains and adjoining properties. The lines edged green embrace the land applied for; the dotted pink line is about the position of the firing range, as near as I could ascertain. See No. 1.
*Not with papers.

I do not apprehend that any danger would result by shooting in the direction from A to C, although it is in a line with the Bathurst Road, inasmuch as the high sandstone mountain intervenes; but should the ground from B to the sandstone mountain admit of sufficient range, no possible objection could be made, as the line of fire would be parallel with the two roads. I have enclosed the correspondence.

Captain Thomas to Major Holborow.

Sir,

St. Mary's, South Creek, 5 February, 1877.

I have the honor to report that I am in possession of no written authority for the new rifle range at Emu Plains being officially dedicated, but on enquiry at the Lands Office I was told that everything necessary had been done in the matter, and that it was not usual to vest rifle ranges in trustees. I have ascertained that the Parramatta Rifle Range is so vested, and that Doctor Brown is the trustee. I think it quite necessary that one or more trustees should be appointed, otherwise no person will have the authority to deal with persons trespassing or doing damage to the butts, mounds, or targets.

Rifle ranges.

No land has ever been dedicated for the purpose of a rifle range.

Crown land has in several cases been reserved (and so notified on the office maps) for the purpose of a rifle range, and it has been considered inadvisable to do more than this for two reasons:—

Firstly,—because the land does not pass from the possession of the Crown; and secondly,—to facilitate the dealing with the land should the use of it as a rifle range pass away from the disbanding of the local Corps using it, change for more convenient site, or other reasons.

In matter of custodians the applications have been rather varied; it would be advisable in this respect to ensure uniformity of action to place all rifle ranges under the control of the Commandant (for the time being) of the Military Forces, and to allow him to depute the custody of the various ranges to the officers (for the time being) of the local corps, still maintaining proper jurisdiction over them; this course would maintain direct responsibility and would be most conducive to military discipline.

The opinion of the Commandant might be obtained, and whether he concurs in these views.—J.G.H., 12/5/77.

Minutes on above.

Two urgent cases at the least are awaiting the disposal of this matter.—L.G.T., 12/5/77.

Urgent—submitted, 18/5/77.

Not required.

Enclosed are the two cases of the *Mudgee and Emu Plains rifle ranges, the sites of which are sought to be dedicated and vested in trustees.

As herein stated, it has never been the practice of the Government to formally dedicate land for this purpose, as if ever afterwards it was found to be necessary or required for some other public purpose it could only be resumed by Act of Parliament. It is desirable perhaps that the cases now pending should be disposed of, and it would be as well to refer the suggestion contained in this minute for the opinion of the Commandant.—W.W.S., 23 July.

Approved.—H.P., 27/7/77.

Application by Francis Gardiner for conditional purchase.

(D.) [Alienation Act, section 13.]

Application for the conditional purchase, without competition, of unimproved Crown lands.

(Land Agent's No. 1 of 1874.)

Application by Francis Gardiner, for the conditional purchase, without competition, of 40 acres unimproved Crown land.

Received by me, with a deposit of £10, this 26th day of November, 1874, at 10 o'clock.

J. K. CLEEVE, JUN.,
Agent for the sale of Crown Lands at Penrith.

Sir, Penrith, 26 November, 1874.

I am desirous of purchasing, without competition, under the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," the portion of unimproved Crown land hereunder described, containing 40 acres; and I herewith tender the sum of £10, being a deposit at the rate of 5s. per acre on the area for which I apply, and on which it is my intention to reside.

I have, &c.,

FRANCIS GARDINER,

Leary's Bush, St. Mary's.

To the Agent for the sale of Crown Lands at Penrith.

DESCRIPTION.

County of Cook, parish of Strathdon, containing 40 acres, at or near the Euroka Creek, at its junction with the Nepean River: Commencing at a tree marked K, about three-quarters of a mile from Wagstaff's paddock (formerly Judge Forbes' property) east, containing 40 chains, towards the Nepean River, and near Euroka Creek, to a tree marked F, bearing easterly; thence about 10 chains northerly to a tree marked G and 40 chains westerly to a tree marked M.

The Land Agent, Penrith, to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Lands Office, Penrith, 14 December, 1874.

I have the honor to state, in answer to your letter* of the 4th instant, that on the 26th last month I posted to your department the conditional purchase application of Francis Gardiner of that date, and on referring to my postage memorandum book, find that on that date a letter was forwarded to your department which on recollection I well remember to be the one referring to this conditional purchase.

I have, however, sent word to Gardiner to come in and sign another application, which shall be immediately forwarded.

I have, &c.,

J. K. CLEEVE, JUNR., C.L.A.

Should the other (duplicate) be found, care should be taken that double action should not take place.—F.W.R., 27/2/75.

No. 3.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Pitt to The Surveyor General.

Sir, North Richmond, 13 November, 1875.

In reference to your instruction, dated 27th February, '75, I have the honor to state that I have been unable to ascertain the position of the 40 acres conditionally purchased by Francis Gardiner, near the Nepean River, county of Cook, parish of Strathdon.

I

* No such letter apparently sent to land agent.

See No. 1

I have been credibly informed that Gardiner had a contract to supply timber for fencing, and had two or three men working under him. He conditionally purchased these 40 acres for the timber only, and paid the deposit, which suited him better than taking out timber licenses for his men. After getting all the available timber he left the locality.

I have enclosed the application.

I have, &c.,
GEO. M. PITT,
Licensed Surveyor.

No. 4.

Mr. Inspector G. Smith to The Secretary for Lands.

(B.)

Sir,

Lands Office, Sydney, 12 August, 1876.

In accordance with instructions from this office I inspected the selection of one Francis Gardiner, on the 11th instant, and have the honor to report,—

That having been somewhat successful in my inquiries at Penrith, I proceeded in a boat up the Nepean for about 7 miles, to its junction with Euroka Creek. On landing I saw the skeletons of two huts, and having found the N.E. corner I scrambled up a timber shoot for 150 yards, when I found a ladder, enabling me to reach the next shoot, which I also climbed up for about another 150 yards, arriving at last on the table-land at the summit.

Seeing a well-used cart track I followed it in the direction of Wagstaff's for half-a-mile; then crossing the selection I ran the creek back to the landing place. No timber has been cut, save sufficient to form the "shoot" and make the frames of the huts, also a few sheets of bark have been stripped; in fact there is nothing worth the name of timber. The trees are all short in the trunks, and of crooked growth.

This selection was taken up by Mr. Gould, wood-cutter, in the name of the notorious Frank Gardiner, consequently our free-selector (and fortunately too) is a myth. Gould was cutting wood around Wagstaff's and on Harris's estate, some 12 miles distant, and this is the only gap in the high precipitous bank, where it could be got to the river, to save cartage over deep creeks, round by the Zig-Zag; hence the selecting. There are no improvements; the underwood has grown up in and around the decayed huts, and the general appearance give unmistakable signs of a long abandonment.

I have, &c.,
GEORGE SMITH,
Inspector of Conditional Purchases,
County of Cumberland.

No. 5.

The Chief Commissioner of Crown Lands to Mr. F. Gardiner.

NOTICE to conditional purchaser to appear at Court of Inquiry, under sections 44-47 of Regulation under 39 Victoria, No. 13.

To Francis Gardiner, Leary's Bush, St. Mary's.

I HEREBY notify to you that a Court of Inquiry, under the provisions of the "Lands Act Amendment Act of 1875," will be held on the 31st day of August, 1876, at the Court-house at Penrith, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, when the matter or question as stated at foot hereof will be inquired into.

On proof of the service of this notice within the terms of the 45th section of the said Regulations, the inquiry will proceed whether you appear at the Court or not.

Given under my hand at Sydney, this the 21st day of August, 1876.

A. O. MORIARTY,
Commissioner.

The fulfilment of the conditions of residence upon your conditional purchase, made at Penrith on the 26th November, 1874.

Conditional purchase, No. 1, of 1874. (Land Agent's No.)

Minutes on above.

This is the paper marked A, referred to in the evidence of George Smith, taken this 31st August, 1876.—A. O. MORIARTY, Commissioner.

I served a true copy of this notice upon the within-named defendant on the 22nd August, 1876, by nailing the same to the door-post of the hut on the selection.—GEORGE SMITH, Inspector of Conditional Purchases.

No. 6.

Inspector G. Smith to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Lands Office, 24 August, 1876.

I do myself the honor to bring under your notice the 40 acres selection taken up in the name of Francis Gardiner, situated on the Nepean, at its junction with Euroka Creek.

It appears to me (from my inspection) that this conditional purchase is likely to be forfeited by Mr. Commissioner Moriarty at the Court of Inquiry to be held at Penrith on the 31st instant.

I therefore would respectfully call your attention to the peculiar situation of this land, being the only gap in the high ranges on the western bank of the river, acting as a key to some fine back country.

As you may in your good judgment deem it advisable to reserve this small block, as likely to be of great public benefit, and to future selectors as well, I trust you will accept such as an apology for this intrusion.

I have, &c.,

GEORGE SMITH,
Inspector of Conditional Purchases.

No. 7.

Report by Mr. Commissioner Moriarty to The Under Secretary for Lands.

REPORT of an Inquiry held at Penrith on the 31st August, 1876, by A. O. Moriarty, Commissioner for the Metropolitan Division, respecting the conditional purchase of Francis Gardiner, made at Penrith on the 26th November, 1874.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit, for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands, minutes of evidence taken at an inquiry under the "Lands Act Amendment Act, 1875," held by me in pursuance of the reference notified in the Gazette of the in the matter of the above described conditional purchase.

The claimant having been duly served with notice of the time and place of holding the inquiry was not present thereat.

The following facts bearing upon the fulfilment by the selector of the conditions of purchase were elicited in evidence, viz. :—The selection appears to have been taken up by a man passing under the name of Francis Gardiner, in the employ of a person named Guild, and for the purpose of securing access to the timbered land at the back, otherwise difficult of approach.

Shoots had been constructed on the selection, by means of which the timber was discharged to the banks of the Nepean River. The selection has been for some time abandoned.

It is desirable that the selection when declared forfeited should forthwith be reserved for public purposes, being the only gap in the precipitous bank of the river affording access to the bush land.

I have therefore to report that I find such conditions not to have been fulfilled, and to recommend that the conditional purchase be forfeited, and then reserved from sale.

I have, &c.,

A. O. MORIARTY,
Commissioner.

John K. Cleeve, junior, being duly sworn, states : I am land agent at Penrith ; I received a conditional purchase application on the 26th November, 1874, from a man who gave his name as Francis Gardiner ; he was accompanied by a person named Guild ; I know the man Gardiner, who had been for some time in Guild's employ ; he was hoeing at the time this selection was made at St. Mary's, and I saw him there at different times afterwards ; I saw him last about Christmas last ; I had warned him at the time of his selection that he would have to reside upon the land and make certain improvements, and at which he laughed.

RESERVES NEAR WESTERN RAILWAY.

No. 1.

Application by Mr. T. Lawlor.

District of Hartley, No. 37 of 1876.

Application by Thomas Lawlor for the conditional purchase without competition of 40 acres unimproved Crown land, section 13.

RECEIVED by me, with a deposit of £10, this 23rd day of March, 1876, at 12 o'clock.

THOMAS H. NEALE,
Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Hartley.

Sir,

23 March, 1876.

I am desirous of purchasing, without competition, under the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the portion of unimproved Crown land hereunder described, containing 40 acres; and I herewith tender the sum of £10, being a deposit at the rate of 5s. per acre on the area for which I apply.

To the Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at HartleyI am, &c.,
THOMAS LAWLOR,
Lithgow.

DESCRIPTION:

County of Cook, parish unnamed, (40) forty acres, at a place called Happy Valley, on road from Bell's line of road to Wallerawang: Commencing at a tree marked TL, at the north-west corner of the land applied for and about 2 miles south-easterly from B. F. Brown's conditional purchase of 40 acres, to be bounded by lines starting from the north-west corner as above described, to contain area applied for.

Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher to measure, if unobjectionable.—T.B. (for Surveyor General), B.C., 14 June, 1876. Transferred to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell, in accordance with Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher's instructions.—E. C. BANNISTER, Licensed Surveyor, 28 May, 1877.

No. 2.

Notification of Alienation by T. Lawlor.

(K.)

Notification of alienation of conditional purchase by Thomas Lawlor in the District of Hartley.

I HEREBY notify to you, as the Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands for the District of Hartley, that I have (after a residence thereon of at least twelve months), by Thomas Lawlor, now an insolvent, whose estate is in my hands, this day alienated to Michael Fitzgerald, of Lithgow Valley, the 40 acres of land situated in the county of Cook, parish unnamed, at Happy Valley, on the road from Bell's Line of Road to Wallerawang, which was selected at Hartley by Thomas Lawlor as a conditional purchase, under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, on the 23rd March, 1876.

To the Agent of Crown Lands at Hartley. SAMUEL LYONS,
Official Assignee of the Estate of Thomas Lawlor, of Sydney.

Dated at Sydney, this 23rd June, 1877.

Estate of Thomas Lawlor, Sydney.

I HAVE duly registered the above notification of alienation in the records of this office.—THOS. H. NEALE, Agent for the sale of Crown Lands, District of Hartley. Land Office, Hartley, 28 June, 1877.

No. 3.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Eskbank, 13 August, 1877.

I have the honor to transmit herewith the plan of one portion of land, containing 40 acres, numbered 139, in the parish of Lett, county of Cook, applied for by Thomas Lawlor under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, and surveyed in accordance with instructions, dated 14th June, 1876, No. 281, issued to Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher.

Applicant became insolvent, and this land was, I believe, sold by the Commissioner of Insolvent Estates to M. Fitzgerald, who is resident. The improvements consist of an hotel and small out-building, value £75.

I have, &c.,
ANDREW LIDDELL,
Licensed Surveyor.Minutes on No. 3.

Mr. Barnett, for description. Description prepared, 4th January, 1878. Cannot identify portions 48 and 49, parish of Marangaroo, county of Cook, within portions shown on enclosed plan for any necessary action on.—10th January, 1878. Con. No. 4.

No. 4.

Mr. Inspector Evans to The Chief Commissioner, Department of Lands.

Report by Edwin Evans, Inspector of Conditional Purchases, respecting the selection of Thomas Lawlor, made at Hartley on 23rd March, 1876.

Sir,

Bathurst, December 3, 1877.

I have the honor to report that I visited and inspected the above-described conditional purchase on the 29th November, 1877, and that I found the selector then resident upon his selection.

The land, which consists of poor soil, and comprises 40 acres, is occupied and used by Michael Fitzgerald as his home, and the selector, who follows the avocation of publican, had, at the time of my visit, made the improvements hereunder particularly described, the value of which I estimate at the sums respectively stated, viz.:—House, £120; kitchen, £15; hut, £10; stable, £10; small paddock, £12 10s.; total, £167 10s.

From the appearance of the land, and the circumstances stated in the following remarks, I am of opinion that the selector has been continuously resident upon the selection.

I have, &c.,

EDWIN EVANS,

Inspector of Conditional Purchases.

No. 5.

Mr. M. Fitzgerald to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Happy Valley, by Lithgow, 3 January, 1878.

A circular letter of date 17th October, 1877 (conditional sales, 77-28,878; conditional purchase, 76-37), from your office to Thomas Lawlor having been forwarded to me,—

I have in reply to the report made to the Department by Mr. Surveyor Liddell, as to Mr. Thomas Lawlor's non-residence on the conditional purchase made by him at Hartley on the 23rd March, 1876, at the time of Mr. Surveyor Liddell's visit, to state that this conditional purchase was not visited or surveyed by Mr. Surveyor Liddell before the latter part of the month of July, 1877; that the said conditional purchase had been alienated to me, Michael Fitzgerald, on the 23rd June, 1877, by Samuel Lyons, the official assignee in the estate of Thomas Lawlor; and that the said Thomas Lawlor had been in continuous occupation of the land from the time of his purchase till the alienation of it to me through his official assignee; that I was a resident on the land at the time of the surveyor's visit; that I had stated to him that I was Thomas Lawlor's alienee, and that should I be so required I am able to prove these facts by abundance of evidence.

I have therefore to request that you will have this matter inquired into at once, there being valuable improvements on the land at the time of my purchase from the official assignee, to which I am now making additions.

I have, &c.,

MICHAEL FITZGERALD.

Sir,

Sydney, 12 December, 1878.

Mr. G. Cook, of Clarence Tunnel, took up a conditional purchase of 40 acres; it was measured some time since, and a reserve road left in one part 1 chain, and in another part 2 chains, as per rough sketch attached; in my opinion the one chain is sufficient, and I would therefore recommend that the road throughout be 1 chain.

RESERVES NEAR WESTERN RAILWAY.

No. 1.

Mr. J. Martin to The Surveyor General.

Sir, 129, Elizabeth-street, Sydney, 18 June, 1875.

I have the honor to request that the piece or parcel of land lying between Robert Martin's portion No. 449 and John Davies's portion No. 450, in the county of Cook, at Springwood, be measured north from the Bathurst Road, so as to include 40 acres (more or less), and then advertised for sale by auction.

I have, &c.,
JOHN MARTIN.

Mr. C. Moore to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir, 167, Pitt-street, 5 August, 1875.

I beg to request that the land at Springwood, on the Bathurst Road, as shown on the *tracing * Appendix A. herewith, be reserved as a site for public buildings, and that it be dedicated as such in the usual way, by being included in the abstract laid before Parliament.

I have, &c.,
CHAS. MOORE.

Minutes on above.

The land referred to contains about 3 acres. It may be required for public purposes; it should therefore perhaps be temporarily reserved.—J.S.A. (for Surveyor General), 30 August, 1875.

Approved.—T.G., 7/9/75. The necessary description is enclosed, defining the 3 acres approved to be reserved from sale under minute above.—J.W.E., 29 Sept.

[Alienation Act, Section 13.]

District of Penrith. No. 5 of 1875.

Application by Madoline Boland, spinster, for the conditional purchase, without competition, of 41 acres unimproved Crown land.

RECEIVED by me, with a deposit of £10 5s., this 11th day of November, 1875, at 11 o'clock.

J. K. CLEEVE, JUN.,

Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Penrith.

Sir,

Penrith, 11 November, 1875.

I am desirous of purchasing, without competition, under the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," the portion of unimproved Crown land hereunder described, containing 41 acres; and I herewith tender the sum of £10 5s., being a deposit at the rate of 5s. per acre on the area for which I apply.

I am, &c.,

M. BOLAND,

105, William-street, Sydney.

To the Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands at Penrith.

DESCRIPTION.

County of Cook, parish unnamed, containing 41 acres, situated at Springwood, on the Bathurst Road; bounded on the east by John Davies's grant of 38½ acres; on the west by Robert Martin's grant of 20 acres; on the south by the Great Western Road; and on the north by Crown lands leading to Fitzgerald's Valley.

Minutes on No. 5.

The Land Agent at Penrith will be good enough to ascertain which one of the three sections the application is tendered under. It is not intended that a conditional purchase can be taken up under the three at once.—W.B. (for the Under Secretary), B.C., 22 Nov., 1875. To be returned.

This application is tendered under the 13th section.—J. K. CLEEVE, JUN., Crown Lands Agent, Penrith, 25/11/75.

Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt to measure, if unobjectionable.—J.J.W., per Surveyor General. Excluding reserve 27 of 3 acres, notified 5 Nov., 1875.

No. 6.

Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

North Richmond, 2 December, 1875.

In compliance with your instructions dated July 1st, I have the honor to state that I have surveyed and marked out a portion of land situate on the Bathurst Road, at Springwood, applied for to purchase by Mr. John Martin, and herewith forward plan.*

I have been recently informed that the portion has since the date of my survey been conditionally purchased by Miss Boland, and a deposit paid on 41 acres.

I have enclosed the application.

I have, &c.,

GEO. M. PITT, JUN.

No. 7.

Mr. C. Moore to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

167, Pitt-street, Sydney, 14 February, 1876.

I beg to draw your attention to the fact that Madoline Boland, who took up a conditional purchase at Penrith on the 11th November last, under the 13th clause, has not complied with the terms of the "Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875," under which her application was made, by not having resided upon it within the space of three months, as required by law.

Further, that she has built a temporary hut on ground which is included in her description, but which land had previously been notified as a reserve (5th November, 1875), prior to her application, which is also a reason for cancellation of that application, as the area of the conditional purchase is under 40 acres.

I therefore submit that if that last-mentioned is not deemed a sufficient cause for cancellation that the case may be referred at once to the Metropolitan Inspector for report, which, when received, I request may be quickly acted upon.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES MOORE.

Minutes on No. 7.

Mr. Neale.—In the first place a copy of application should be made and sent to Charting Branch, to ascertain if the land referred to is in a reserve.—19/2/76. In reference to the application for the cancellation of the conditional purchase, see decision upon letter from Messrs. Eagar, Fesq, and others, that the conditional purchase was to be sustained. As to the application for reference of the case to the Inspector, it seems to me premature, as there has been no report from the surveyor yet as to residence, although he has returned the application for further instructions on account of its taking in the reserve referred to. Shall the decision be now acted upon?—W.W.S., 20 March. Certainly.—T.G., 21/3/76.

No. 8.

Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

North Richmond, 18 February, 1876.

I am in receipt of your instructions to measure, if unobjectionable, 41 acres of land conditionally purchased by Miss Madoline Boland, under section 13 of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, and situated on the Bathurst Road, at Springwood.

I beg to refer you to my letter of date 2nd December, 1875.

You will perceive that Miss Boland has conditionally purchased 41 acres, being the 43 acres I measured for auction sale on the application of Mr. John Martin. Miss Boland's application includes the reserve No. 27 of 3 acres. See No. 6.

The description in her application has been written by the Land Agent of Penrith, and he must have known that it included this reserve, if the same had been chartered on his maps.

I have since heard that the 41 acres has been selected more particularly to secure the 3 acres reserve, the same being a nice site for building allotments.

I have enclosed the application.

I have, &c.,

G. M. PITT, JUN.

I hardly see how the reserve could have been chartered on the Land Agent's maps, seeing it was only notified five days before the application was made.—W.W.S., 20th Mar.

No. 9.

Miss M. Boland to The Secretary for Lands.

To the Honorable Thomas Garrett, Minister for Lands.

The petition of Madoline Boland, of Springwood, Bathurst Road,—

Respectfully sheweth:

That your petitioner is a daughter of Mr. Thomas Boland, at present in charge of the railway gate-house at Springwood, formerly innkeeper on the Bathurst Road, and in that capacity well-known to Sir James Martin, Sir Alfred Stephen, the Honorable Mr. Dalley, and other gentlemen of consideration.

That on or about the 11th November last your petitioner free-selected 41 acres of land at Springwood, and paid the deposit thereon of £10 5s. to the Land Agent at Penrith.

That your petitioner has erected on a portion of the said land a wooden building of the value of £55, as a commencement towards the establishment of a boarding-house for visitors from Sydney to the Blue Mountains.

That your petitioner has lately heard that 3 acres of her free selection had been declared a temporary reserve for public purposes, by Gazette notice of 5th November, 1875. (Gazette No. 298, page 3580.)

That your petitioner prior to making her selection was not aware of that circumstance.

That your petitioner's house is erected upon the said 3 acres so temporarily reserved, which is the only part of the 41 acres having a frontage to the Bathurst Road (see sketch), and is the only site suitable for a boarding-house. See Appendix B 2.

That the Government is already the possessor of an acre of land suitable for public purposes (about 200 yards from Springwood), which had been purchased long ago from petitioner's father, for the erection of a toll-bar, now no longer existing.

That, in view of these facts, your petitioner earnestly hopes that her position as a bonâ fide free selector may not be set aside by reason of the temporary reserve before alluded to, more particularly as the Government have the acre of land bought from her father, which may be found sufficient for all necessary public purposes in that locality.

Your petitioner therefore prays for such relief in the premises as may be considered suitable to the merits of the case.

Dated at Springwood, Bathurst Road, 25th February, 1876.

MADOLINE BOLAND.

No. 10.

Petition from proprietors of land at Springwood.

We, the undersigned, proprietors of land at and near Springwood, desire to record our opinion that the 3 acres of land referred to in the petition of Miss Madoline Boland, dated 25th February, 1876 (addressed to the Honorable the Minister for Lands), would be more beneficially used as the site of a respectable boarding-house for visitors from Sydney in search of health than as a reserve for some undefined public purpose, more particularly as it appears that the Government are already the possessors of an acre of unused land in the neighbourhood.

G. Eagar,

Sydney, 26 February, 1876.

Minutes on No. 10.

Under the circumstances stated in this communication and in the enclosed petition, I think that Boland's conditional purchase ought to be sustained intact. The small reserve embraced by the conditional purchase was only made five days before the conditional purchase application. See No. 9.

It

It does not appear for what purpose it was recommended, and it has only been temporarily reserved for some possible public purpose not defined. The Government is already also, as stated, in possession of 1 acre in the same locality, which would no doubt be suitable for any public requirements, without any necessity for depriving the conditional purchaser of the 3 acres on which she has erected her house.—W.W.S., 13 March.

Approved.—T.G., 14/3/76.

No. 11.

Miss M. Boland to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Springwood, Great Western Road, 20 March, 1876.

I understand that it has been stated to you that I have not resided upon the 3 acres of land referred to in my petition to the Honorable the Minister for Lands, dated 25th ultimo, and that I have consequently failed to fulfil the conditions under which I claim to hold my free selection of 11th November last.

Herewith.

I have the honor to inform you that the statement referred to is entirely without foundation, and I enclose in support of the fact of my residence within the term prescribed by law a statutory declaration made by me before a Justice of the Peace.

I may add that my cottage was agreed with the contractor to be erected by the 10th February, but being on that date not quite completed I slept on the land under a tent on the nights of the 10th and 11th February, with a view to protect my interests, and that on the 12th February I took possession of the cottage, and have since resided there continuously.

Any one stating to the contrary should be called upon to prove his assertion.

I have, &c.,

MADOLINE BOLAND.

Minutes on No. 11.

Submitted in reference to Mr. Moore's letter and other papers enclosed.—W.W.S., 21 March.

I can see no reason for disturbing my decision already given on these papers.—T.G., 21/3/76.

The conditional purchase application may now, I conclude, be returned, in the first instance, to the surveyor for report as to residence before taking any further steps in the matter. The case might, I submit, be referred to Mr. Surveyor Deering, if there be no objection, as he is about to proceed to the locality, and Mr. Pitt is, I believe, absent. The matter can then be definitely dealt with.—W.W.S., 22 March.

Approved.—T.G., 23/3/76.

Mr. Deering for report on residence.—P.F.A., 23 March.

Reported on report, 76/14, 3 April, 1876, No. 76/25.—JOHN W. DEERING.

[Enclosure to No. 11.]

STATUTORY DECLARATION.

I, Madoline Boland, spinster, of Springwood, Great Western Road, do solemnly and sincerely declare that on the 12th day of February last I took possession of a weatherboard cottage, erected to my order by Corbin and Nicolle, carpenters and builders, of Castlereagh-street, Sydney, upon a portion of 3 acres of land fronting the Bathurst Road, being part of my conditional purchase of 41 acres at Springwood, described in my petition to the Honorable the Minister for Lands, of date 25 February last; and I further declare that I occupied the said land, under a tent, and slept there on the nights of the 10th and 11th February, and that from the 12th February I commenced to reside in the said cottage, and there continued to reside. And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of an Act made and passed in the ninth year of the reign of her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the effectual abolition of Oaths and Affirmations taken and made in various departments of the Government of New South Wales and to substitute declarations in lieu thereof and for the suppression of voluntary and extra-judicial Oaths and Affidavits."

Made and signed before me, at Sydney, this }

Madam,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 22 March, 1876.

With reference to the correspondence which has taken place on the subject of your conditional purchase, mentioned in the margin, which embraces a small reserve of 3 acres, notified five days only before the date of selection, I am directed to apprise you that, under the special circumstances of the case, and notwithstanding the existence of the reserve, the Secretary for Lands has approved of your purchase being sustained intact.

I may state that the gentlemen signing the petition submitted to this office in your favour have been communicated with to this effect, as also Mr. Charles Moore, of Sydney, who represented that you had not complied with the condition of residence.

The latter is, however, a matter which will be inquired into at the proper time.

I have, &c.,

No. 14.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. C. Moore.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 22 March, 1876. No 7.

In reference to your letter of the 14th ultimo, representing that Madoline Boland, the conditional purchaser of the area noted in the margin, has not complied with the condition of residence, and that the selection embraces a reserve of 3 acres, I am directed to inform you that the small reserve of 3 acres was only made five days before the conditional purchase application, and it has only been temporarily reserved for some possible public purpose not defined.

41 acres, section
13, 11 Nov., 1875,
Penrith.

The Government is already also in possession of 1 acre in the same locality, which would no doubt be suitable for any public requirements without any necessity for depriving the conditional purchaser of the 3 acres, on which she has erected her house.

Under these circumstances, therefore, the Secretary for Lands has approved of the purchase being sustained intact.

With regard to your request that the matter may be referred to the Inspector for report, I am to state that such a course would be premature, as no report has yet been received from the surveyor as to residence.

I may add that if you are desirous of proving your allegation of non-residence before the Metropolitan Commissioner it is necessary that you should furnish a statutory declaration in support of your statements, through the local Crown Lands Agent, and, at the same time, lodge the sum of £10 as deposit and security for any costs which may be awarded against you by the Commissioner in the event of the charges made by you proving unfounded. I may finally state that a statutory declaration has been submitted by Miss Boland, certifying to bona fide residence on the land.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN.

No. 15.

Messrs. Wilson & Ranken to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

227, George-street, Sydney, 22 March, 1876.

On the 5th November, 1875, a small portion of land near Springwood Railway Station was reserved from sale for public purposes, being No. 27, county of Cook, but a person named Madoline Boland has erected a hut thereon and taken possession of the land, to the great inconvenience of the public, this being the only spot that can be used by excursionists travelling by the Western Railway.

We have therefore, on behalf of Mr. Charles Moore, respectfully to request that steps may be immediately taken to eject the said Madoline Boland from the reserve.

We have, &c.,

WILSON & RANKEN.

No. 16.

Messrs. Wilson & Ranken to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

227, George-street, Sydney, 23 March, 1876.

We have the honor, on behalf of Mr. Charles Moore, in answer to the letter of the Under Secretary for Lands, relative to the selection of Madoline Boland, in which it is stated "that the small reserve of 3 acres was only made five days before the conditional purchase application, and has only been temporarily reserved for some possible public purpose not defined," and that "under the circumstances the Secretary for Lands has approved of the purchase being sustained intact," to state, with all due respect, that it is impossible for the Secretary for Lands to approve of the selection of a reserve under any circumstances, whether the object of proclaiming the reserve has been defined or not, as reserved land is excluded by law from conditional purchase.

Mr. Moore is also informed that should he wish to have his allegation of non-residence proved before the Metropolitan Commissioner he must not only make a statutory declaration but also lodge £10 as deposit and security for costs should the charges made by him prove unfounded; but we would respectfully suggest that this appears unnecessary, as in the letter of the Under Secretary it is admitted that the conditional purchaser has erected her house on the reserve in question.

We would also beg to state that the reason for the proclamation of the reserve is very evident, as this is the only piece of land available for the use of parties from the city and suburbs using the excursion train, and that the piece of ground alluded to in the second paragraph of the letter referred to is at too great a distance from the station to be available for the convenience of the public.

Under these circumstances we beg respectfully to request that you will be pleased to reconsider the decision given, and issue instructions to remove the selector, Madoline Boland, from the reserve.

We have, &c.,

WILSON & RANKEN.

Minutes on No. 16.

Submitted with reference to decision on previous papers, which have been forwarded to the surveyor for report.—W.W.S., 24 March.

In every case in which the reserve has preceded the purchase of land by only a few days, so that the Land Agent of the district nor intending purchasers could possibly be aware of the reservation, and the reserve of course is not charted, I have always ordered that the purchase should be upheld, and I do not see any reason to deviate from that course in this case. The conditional purchase should, I think, be included in the schedule of the Validating Bill, if the surveyor's report is satisfactory as to residence, and is received in time.—T.G., 25/3/76.

See No. 11.

In compliance with the Surveyor General's instructions to me of 23rd March last, I have the honor to report that on two separate occasions I visited unexpectedly the locality referred to, and upon both occasions I found Miss Boland residing upon the land.

See former correspondence.

This residence is a substantial weather-board cottage, of the value of about £60. It is situated upon the reserve referred to in the accompanying papers. The reserve contains an area of about $1\frac{1}{2}$ acre, and not 3 acres as stated, and this land is the only portion of the selection having frontage to the Main Western Road.

It is a fact that there is a piece of vacant Government land (upon which I was requested to report), containing 1 acre, close to the Springwood Railway Platform. It was purchased by Government for the erection of a toll-house, but which was not erected.

With reference to your letter of the 23rd ultimo, objecting, on behalf of Mr. Charles Moore, to Miss Madoline Boland being allowed to hold her conditional purchase noted in the margin, the same embracing a reserve of 3 acres, I am directed to inform you that in every case in which a reserve has preceded the conditional purchase of land by only a few days, as in the present case, so that the local Land Agent and intending purchasers could not possibly be aware of the reservation, and the reserve of course not being charted, the Minister for Lands has always ordered that the purchase should be upheld.

2. I am to add that Mr. Secretary Garrett does not see any reason to deviate from that course in this instance.

EXTRACT from Votes and Proceedings of Legislative Assembly, dated 11 April, 1876.

Conditional Purchase made by Madoline Boland.

MR. MACINTOSH moved, pursuant to Notice (as amended by consent), That there be laid upon the Table of this House, copies of all applications, correspondence, reports, proclamations, plans, or other documents, having reference to the conditional purchase at Penrith, by Madoline Boland, on the 11th November, 1875, of 41 acres of land, situate at Springwood, in the county of Cook.

MEMORANDUM of subject requiring explanation or completion in connection with the survey and plan of portion 1, parish unnamed, county of Cook, transmitted by Mr. L.-S. Pitt's letter, No. 75-16, of 2nd December, 1875, and in which Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt's report in explanation is requested.

Subject.

Subject.

The traverse of this portion appears to cross a fence. It is impossible to tell what is included in the area from the drawing, as the portion is not edged, vide paragraph 138 of the surveyor's instructions, January, 1875. If the portion crossed by traverse line 3, and fenced, is not included in the area, Mr. Pitt had better traverse round the fencing. An amended plan is required. Your attention is also called to paragraph 126 of the Licensed Surveyor's instructions, January, 1875, which says, "All bearings not read from 0° to 360° shall be shown N. 89° E., and in no case E. 1° N."—P.F.A., 20 April, 1876.

It is contrary to Office Regulations to return any original plan. Mr. L.-S. Pitt will please forward an amended plan without delay.—J.B.H., 11th May, 1876.

Report.

One traverse only, No. 3, crosses the railway fence for a short distance only. I thought I edged or coloured the portion correctly. If an amended plan is really necessary, I would feel obliged if the plan I forwarded be returned to me, so that I might see more particularly what is required.

I plotted this portion specially to a large scale, in order that I might show the position of the railway fence more correctly. The area is computed to the fence.

Will attend to this in future.

No. 21.

Mr. C. Moore to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Springwood, 4 May, 1876.

I have the honor to draw your attention to the necessity for the dedication, under the provisions of the Land Act of 1861, of 40 acres of land as a village site, northward of the Bathurst Road and reserve No. 27, and between R. Martin's 20 acres and John Davies's 38½ acres.

This includes land already applied for as a conditional purchase by Madoline Boland, who is now endeavouring to secure not only the land now sought to be dedicated but also land reserved, as No. 27, for public purposes, prior to the date of her application, which should therefore be cancelled.

This is the only available land open to the free use of the public, who have recently, during the time of cheap excursion trains, used it, and also the small reserve under restriction from the conditional purchaser named.

I hereby agree to spend £50 in the improvement of the land sought to be dedicated as a village site.

I have, &c.,

CHAS MOORE.

Minutes on above.

Put with other papers, and submit the case on Monday morning next.—T.G., 5th May, 1876.
Mr. B., 5th. Papers now herewith.

The request to dedicate the land in question as a site for a village cannot at present be entertained, as it joins part of a conditional purchase made by Madoline Boland.—T.G., 15th May, 1876.

No. 22.

The Secretary for Lands to The Deputy Surveyor General.

1. If the reserve in question only contains 1½ acre, does not the conditional purchase of M. Boland fall short of the required 40 acres? Also

2. As the Great Western Railway divides the conditional purchase, should it not be declared void, in accordance with the usual practice that makes such a road a frontage? T.G., 15/6/76.

1. No. The application is for (40 acres) forty acres unmeasured Crown lands, of which there is more than sufficient available without encroaching on the small reserve. The measurement made of 40 acres for auction sale (see sketch) would agree with the description of the conditional purchase, and does not cross the railway, nor embrace the reserve. It might be adopted as the survey of the conditional purchase.

2. The conditional purchase is described as fronting the Great Western Road. This it can do without crossing the railway, and without embracing the reserve, which was notified prior to date of conditional purchase.

R. D. FITZGERALD,

For Surveyor General.

15 June.

Approved.—T.G., 29/8/76. Mr. Lewis,—For charting of plan, which may stand as survey of the conditional purchase, to front the north side of the Great Western Road and Railway, and subject to the reservation of a road easterly along the north side of the railway, as proposed by Mr. District-surveyor Fisher.—C.E.F., 1 Sept., 1876. Received, 12 March, 1877.—A.O.M., 12/3/77. Survey Branch.—12/3/77. Inform.—12/3/77.

Mr. Houston,—The charting of the portion measured by Mr. Pitt for auction sale should now be completed, the portion to stand as M. Boland's conditional purchase. Attention is drawn to Mr. District-surveyor Fisher's recommendation as to roads, which should be carried out.—C.E.F., 23 March.

No. 23.

Mr. District-surveyor Fisher to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

District Survey Office, Orange, 7 July, 1876.

Referring to your instructions of 30th ultimo, and my letter of this date, I have the honor to inform you it is my opinion a road should have been surveyed when the railway was formed along the northern side of same from the gate in Lawson's 100 acres westerly to the gate at Springwood Station; and and had this road been resumed it would have done away with all necessity for any private gates, and would not have been any injury to the different properties through which it would have passed.

2. In the survey of Miss Boland's 41 acres 1 rood, conditional purchase, I would recommend this road should be reserved from western boundary of Mr. Davies's 38 acres 2 roods to the old Bathurst Road; and it is my opinion Messrs. Lawson, Evans, and Davies will eventually leave the road to which I refer for their mutual convenience when subdividing their lands.

I have, &c.,
EDWARD FISHER,
District Surveyor.

If this 41 acres 1 rood has been surveyed, I was not furnished with any tracing of such survey.—

Mr. C. Moore to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

167, Pitt-street, Sydney, 7 July, 1876.

I beg to draw your attention to the necessity which exists for maintaining access from the Bathurst Road, at Springwood, to the ridges on each side of that road.

I observe that this has not been had regard to in the measurement of 41 acres in that locality lately measured, on the application of Mr. John Martin, by Mr. Licensed-surveyor G. M. Pitt, junr.

I have, &c.,
CHAS. MOORE.

Minutes on above.

This matter should be looked to.—T.G., 7th July, 1876. This should be referred to Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt. I can only agree with the writer, that proper access should be left to the gullies and back lands.—T.H.L., 26th August, 1876. Mr. Licensed-surveyor G. M. Pitt is requested to report on the statement contained in this letter.—R. D. FITZGERALD (for Surveyor General), 26th August, 1876. Mr. Moore can have little or no knowledge of the country surrounding Miss Boland's conditional purchase. There are no ridges requiring access through that land; a glance at the map will show this; a deep ravine runs down the centre of the 41 acres, bounded on each side by perpendicular walls of rocks. A road is reserved between Evans's 30 acres and Davies's 38 acres 3 roods, and a road is also reserved on the north of lot 66.—G. M. PITT, junr., 1st September, 1876.

I cannot accept the plan without a further report from Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt, as Mr. District-surveyor Fisher states that a road should be left, as shown on the enclosed* sketch, and which Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt has not reserved in his survey of prior date. The reservation would interfere with a fence and cleared land.—T.H.L., 13th February, 1877.

It is recommended that a road 50 links wide be reserved, as recommended, along the railway and the east boundary of Martin's 20 acres, under 15th clause of Act of 1875.—ROBT. D. FITZGERALD (for Surveyor General), 13th Feb., 1877. Approved.—JOHN R.

Road now reserved, which makes the area 41 acres, that is the quantity that applicant applied for. Shall the surveyor be instructed to mark the road on the ground, and shall a tracing be sent to applicant of the plan now accepted?—T.H.L., 18th April, 1877.

Road need not be marked, as the railway fence is sufficient mark, but tracing should be sent.—

Sir,

167, Pitt-street, Sydney, 26 May, 1877.

11 Nov., 1876.

On the 11th instant, a fortnight ago, Mr. Garrett informed me that he had heard you were about re-opening the case. He then also told me that he would have met Madoline Boland's wishes, but could not possibly do so, as will appear by his later decision, that the land required by her must be measured north of the Great Western Railway Line and the Bathurst Road, thus excluding the reserve.

Of this she was informed in March last, notwithstanding his previous decision; and now both the county map for public use and the surveyor's plan show the land in conformity with the last decision, which the Deputy Surveyor General accepted as being that which should be adopted.

This reserve (No. 27) was notified for public purposes prior to the date of Madoline Boland's conditional purchase.

Of this she was well aware, her father himself having previously suggested to me to make the application for the dedication.

Prior to your accession to office she was informed that this reserve could not be included in her conditional purchase, the department at the same time recommending the site for a Public School, now so much needed in that locality.

As all the preliminaries for this purpose have been arranged by the Council of Education, I trust you will expedite this matter, which has now been so long in abeyance.

I have, &c.,
CHARLES MOORE.

Miss M. Boland to The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales.

Sir,

Springwood, 31 March, 1877.

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, in which you inform me (referring to previous correspondence) "that the Minister for Lands has decided that the measurement made of 40 acres for auction sale, which agrees with the description given by you, and does not cross the railway, nor embrace the reserve, but has frontage to the Great Western Road, be adopted as the survey of your conditional purchase." No. 25.

In reply, I beg to say that as the description under which I obtained and hold my conditional purchase of 41 acres at Springwood shows that said purchase both crossed the railway and embraced the temporary reserve, having besides frontage to the Great Western Road, I cannot admit that the description which you give in your letter agrees with the description contained in my application, nor can I accept it in lieu thereof. I have next to state that I am unable to accept a decision which would deprive me of that part of my selection on which my improvements are made.

I have finally to request your attention to the enclosed copy of a letter which I received from the Department of Lands, on the 22nd March, 1876, and which I accept and stand by as the decision of the Minister in my case. See No. 13.

Memorandum by Mr. T. H. Lewis.

Madoline Boland's case.—Memorandum for Deputy Surveyor General.

18 April, 1877.

MADOLINE Boland's conditional purchase, 75-5, dated 11th November, 1875, is rather complicated, on account of the recommendations and approvals made at different stages of proceedings.

The description is for land bounded on the south by the Great Western Road, &c., which would include reserve 27 of (3) three acres (probably only 1½ acre), notified 5th November, 1875.

The Under Secretary for Lands, on the 13th March, 1876, recommended that the reserve be included in applicant's conditional purchase, which was approved of by ex-Minister on 14th March, 1876.

The ex-Minister again states, on 21st March, 1876, "I can see no necessity for disturbing my decision, &c." He further states, on 25th March, 1876, in answer to a petition against the alienation of reserve, "That the conditional purchase should be included in the schedule of the Validating Bill, &c., if the surveyor's report is satisfactory." The surveyor's report is satisfactory: that applicant is resident, and erected a substantial weatherboard cottage of £60 on the reserve.

The ex-Minister, on the 28th August, 1876, on your recommendation, approved of Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt's survey, which includes the reserve; and Mr. Secretary Robertson approves of a road being carried along the railway line and through that survey.

I suppose the last decision, of 28th August, should be considered final, notwithstanding previous decisions; but applicant should reside on the area now measured.

A site for a Public School has been applied for within that reserve, and the papers are now with the Under Secretary for Lands.

No. 30.

Mr. C. Moore to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 16th March last (through my agents, Messrs. Wilson & Ranken), in which I am informed that Miss Boland's conditional purchase, 75-5, Penrith, does not cross the railway, and consequently does not include the reserve.

Under this view, adopted as the survey of this conditional purchase, I beg to demand investigation, with the view to forfeiture, as the applicant ever since she has entered upon residence has occupied the reserve with the full knowledge that it did not form part of her conditional purchase.

In support of this statement I would refer you to the letter addressed to your predecessor, in which request is made, in consideration of the names attached to the letter, that the reserve may be considered as forming part of the conditional purchase, and to Mr. Surveyor Deering's report.

Enclosed is my cheque for £10, required by the regulations where demanding an inquiry, of the result of which I am of course entitled to be informed.

Should forfeiture take place, I beg to request that contemporary with such notice one may appear in the Gazette notifying this land as reserved for public purposes, as there is no land of any extent reserved in this locality for miles.

I am, &c.,

CHAS. MOORE.

Minutes on above.

I do not consider that the case is one calling for reference to a Commissioner. The fact was well known to the Government that the selector's residence was upon the portion of the selection embraced by the reserve, and if the selector resides for the remainder of the term upon the land to which the selection has been restricted there will be no just ground for forfeiture.—A.O.M., 8th May, 1877. Sir, Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 29 May, 1877.

With reference to your letter, without date, requesting that the conditional purchase noted in the margin, made by Miss Madoline Boland, may be forfeited, as you stated that she has not resided upon her selection, but on a reserve adjoining, I am directed to apprise you that the fact was well known to the Government that the selector's residence was upon the portion of the selection embraced by the reserve, and the Minister for Lands has decided that if the selector resides for the remainder of the term upon the land to which the selection has been restricted there will be no just ground for interference.

2. I am therefore to return to you the receipt for the sum of £10, paid on your behalf by Messrs. Wilson & Ranken, as fee in case of inquiry being instituted before a Commissioner, which will be refunded to you on application being made to the Treasury.

And, in behalf of Mr. Moore, we have again respectfully to request that the inquiry into the case be held before the Commissioner, so that all the facts of the case may be substantiated on oath.

- (2.) Whether it is imperative to forfeit a selection when the selector has resided for part of the term on part of the selected land, which, being a reserve, is not open to selection, and not on the land available for selection.—A.O.M., 12 June, 1877.

[Enclosure to No. 33.]

Copy of Opinion.

1. In every case where there is a dispute or question raised as to the fact whether the conditions of conditional purchases have been fulfilled there must be a reference to a Commissioner, subject of course to the conditions of the proviso in cases coming under it.

2. With respect to the second question in Mr. Moriarty's minute of 13th June, 1877, I am inclined to think that residence on a reserve ought not in strictness to be held as residence on the selection, and certainly no person so residing can demand a grant of the portion of the reserve so resided upon.

Whether the strict letter of the law should be acted upon in every case is a matter to be determined by the Minister in deciding whether such residence is to avail for the purpose of entitling the conditional purchaser to a grant of the land outside the reserve.

Gazette Notice.

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 10 July, 1877.

It is hereby notified, for the information of all parties interested, that information having been received to the effect that the conditions as to residence or improvements have not been, or are not being, fulfilled in respect to the undermentioned conditional purchases, the claims of the holders of such purchases have been severally referred to Commissioners for Inquiry, pursuant to the "Lands Acts Amendment Act 1875."

Due notice will be given by the respective Commissioners of the times and places appointed by them for holding such inquiries.

The Chief Commissioner of Conditional Sales to Miss M. Boland.

Madam,

Conditional Sales Division, Department of Lands, Sydney, 13 July, 1877.

I am directed to invite your attention to the notice in the Government Gazette of the 10th instant, by which you will perceive that your claim to the conditional purchase made by you at Penrith on the 11th November, 1875, has been referred by the Minister for Lands to Commissioner Johnson for inquiry, in accordance with the 25th clause of the "Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875," and the regulations relating thereto; as to the fulfilment by you of the conditions thereof.

2. I am to inform you that due notice of the time and place appointed for the purpose will be given you by the Commissioner referred to.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM BLACKMAN.

Mr. Inspector Smith to The Under Secretary for Lands.

REPORT by George Smith, Inspector of Conditional Purchases, respecting the selection of Madoline Boland (spinster), made at Penrith, on 11th November, 1875.

Parish of Coomassie, 13th section, portion 60.

Sir,

I have the honor to report that I visited and inspected the above-described conditional purchase on the 7th September, 1877, and that I found the selector then resident upon her selection.

The land, which consists of mostly rocks and scrub, and comprises (41) forty-one acres, is occupied and used by selector as her residence; and the selector, who follows the avocation of (nil), had at the time of my visit made the improvements hereunder particularly described, the value of which I estimate at the sums respectively stated, viz. :—

Nearly 1 acre cleared	2	0	0
North of railway—30 rods of split substantial fencing, four and three (3) rails, at 5s.—along railway line, selector claims this	7	10	0
18 rods substantial split 3-rail fencing, at 5s., dividing Martin's, now Moore's	4	10	0
South of railway, on the reserve, 1½ acre, weatherboard hut, one room, floored, verandah, galvanized roof, substantial—cost	55	0	0
Slab and bark kitchen at the rear	7	0	0

From the appearance of the land and the circumstances stated in the following remarks, I am of opinion that the selector has been continuously resident upon the selection.

This selector has been continuously residing on the reserve marked 27, containing 1½ acre. Selector holds a document from this office deciding that she shall hold this conditional purchase intact. Subsequently she received another letter stating that the Government propose to limit her purchase to the 40 acres north of the railway. To this selector has strongly protested, and still objects. Some promise appears to have been made of this land for school purposes, and tenders have been accepted for such a building.

If the area is reduced by the reserve, it is clear the selector has never resided on the 40 acres north of the railway.

Selector states that it is owing to the repeated harassing that she has not erected a large boarding establishment and made other improvements, and established by this time a good means of support.

I have, &c.,

GEORGE SMITH,
Inspector of Conditional Purchases.

No. 38.

Mr. C. Moore to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

167, Pitt-street, Sydney, 1 October, 1877.

On the 14th October and 4th May, 1876, and 26th March and 29th May, 1877, applications were made, under the 25th clause, to investigate Madoline Boland's conditional purchase of 43 acres on the 11th November, 1875, at Springwood.

I have now to request that a second conditional purchase of 47 acres 1 rood 16 perches, made on the 19th April, 1877, may be heard before the Commissioner at the same time, and in the event of forfeiture being declared, that you will be pleased to have both reserved from sale, and gazette 87 acres as common and recreation ground, and 3 acres 1 rood 16 perches, at the corner of Martin's 20 acres with the Bathurst Road, as a site for Church of England and Parsonage.

The only reserve in this locality has been 1 acre 2 roods and 9 perches, now taken by the Council of Education for school purposes. The above reserve of 87 acres will be a great boon to the neighbourhood, as well as to all the visitors from Sydney.

I therefore humbly request you to place the sum of £200 on the Estimates for the improvement of the reserved ground.

A portion of the first conditional purchase is now required for railway purposes at Springwood.

Report of Inquiry by Mr. Commissioner Johnson.

REPORT of an inquiry held at Springwood, on the 8th October, 1877, by the Commissioner for the Metropolitan Division, respecting the conditional purchase of Madoline Boland, made at Penrith, on the 11th November, 1875.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands, minutes of evidence taken at an inquiry under the "Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875," held by me in pursuance of the reference notified in the Gazette of the 10th July, 1877, in the matter of the above-described conditional purchase.

The

The claimant having been duly served with notice of the time and place of holding the inquiry was present thereat.

The following facts bearing upon the fulfilment by the selector of the conditions of purchase were elicited in evidence, viz. :—

In addition to the Inspector's report, information was laid by Mr. Charles Moore, of Sydney, in this case, under the provisions of the "Lands Acts Amendment Act 1875," but as he failed to make at the same time the necessary statutory declaration of the grounds of his complaint, I felt bound, on the objection being raised by the attorney for the claimant, to sustain it, and to refuse to have Mr. Moore as party to the suit, although I expressed my willingness to receive his evidence as a witness for the Crown, and that of any others he might tender on that behalf—a permission which he did not avail himself of—and the inquiry proceeded on the report of Mr. Inspector Smith. The circumstances of the case are clearly shown in the evidence of Mr. Inspector Smith and the claimant, Madoline Boland, as well as by the correspondence and reports with the accompanying papers. The selection is severed by the Great Western Railway, and that portion of it to the south of the line was gazetted as a reserve on the 5th November, 1875, the land being selected on the 11th of the same month. Sec. No. 4.

The description of the area in Madoline Boland's application—"on the south by the Great Western Road"—would certainly include the reserve, and it was so measured by Mr. Licensed-surveyor Pitt. The difference in the area of the land when selected from that measured for auction sale, between 41 acres and 43 acres, would appear to be caused by the reservation of a road along the northern boundary of the railway line, not excluded in the first measurement. There is no reason to suppose that the claimant was aware of the existence of the reserve at the time the selection was taken up, and her residence upon that portion of the land is not disputed. She also appears to me to have been quite justified in continuing her residence on the reserve after having been made aware of its existence, under the implied sanction of the Honorable the Minister for Lands, as conveyed in the letter of the Under Secretary, on the 22nd March, 1876, and which was not revoked until the 16th March last. I am therefore of opinion that Madoline Boland's residence upon the reserve should, under the circumstances, be considered as residence upon her selection; even if it is found impossible to conform her title to that portion of the area. I base this recommendation on the general principle that conditional purchasers should not suffer through any departmental complications or misconception as to the exact position of their land, which may lead them, as in this instance, to reside upon an area not subsequently included in their selections.

I have therefore to report that I find such conditions to have been fulfilled, and to recommend that this conditional purchase be sustained.

I have, &c.,
WHITTINGDALE JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

[Evidence alluded to.]

Before Whittingdale Johnson, Esq., Commissioner.

Springwood, 5 October, 1877.

INQUIRY under the provisions of the "Lands Acts Amendment Act 1875," into the matter of the alleged failure of Madoline Boland to fulfil the condition of residence on her conditional purchase of 41 acres, situated in the county of Cook, parish of Coomassie, selected at Penrith on the 11th November, 1875. Adjourned until the 8th instant, at the request of complainant, Mr. Charles Moore. Referred,
10 July, 1877.

Mr. Carroll, solicitor, appeared for the claimant, and objected to Mr. Charles Moore, who had laid an information under the "Lands Acts Amendment Act 1875," being allowed to appear as a party in the cause, on the ground of his having failed to make the necessary statutory declarations of the substance of his complaint, as required by the said Act, which objection I felt bound to sustain, and the inquiry proceeded on the report of Mr. Inspector Smith. Mr. Moore declined to be examined as a witness for the Crown, or to tender the evidence of his witnesses, unless permitted to cross-examine, which, under the circumstances already detailed, I could not permit.

WHITTINGDALE JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

George Smith, Inspector of Conditional Purchases, on oath, states: On the 7th September last I inspected the selection in question; I found the selector residing in a weatherboard house on that portion of the land situated on the south side of the Great Western Railway Line, which severs the land, as shown on the accompanying tracing; the area on the north and south sides respectively is not shown on the tracing; the total area is 41 acres; the land on the south side, and on which the cottage is built, was notified as a reserve on the 5th November, 1875, and the selection was made on the 11th November, 1875; it is included in the description of the selection attached to the plan from the Survey Office.

Taken and sworn before me, at Springwood, this } 8th October, 1877,—

GEORGE SMITH,
Inspector Conditional Purchases.

WHITTINGDALE JOHNSON, Commissioner.

Madoline Boland, on oath, states: I am the claimant in this case; I selected the land in question at Penrith on the 11th November, 1875; it was described as bounded on the south side by the Bathurst or Great Western Road; I had no personal knowledge of the fact of the land on the south side of the railway line being gazetted as a reserve; I was not aware that it was a reserve until my house was built, about the end of February, 1876; on the 22nd March, 1876, I received a letter from the Department of Lands, of which the annexed paper is a copy (marked A), stating that I could hold the selection intact, under the circumstances; on the strength of that communication I continued to reside on the land stated to be a reserve; on the 16th March last I received a letter, of which the annexed paper is a copy (marked B), stating that the land included in my description did not cross the railway line; I only resided for two nights on the northern side of the line, in a tent, while the house was building. See No. 13.

No. 40.

Mr. C. Moore to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

327, George-street, Sydney, 9 October, 1877.

On a complaint made by Mr. C. Moore as to the non-fulfilment of the conditions required by law by Madoline Boland on her conditional purchase, and the payment by Mr. Moore of £10 (ten pounds), an investigation was ordered to be held before Mr. Commissioner Johnson, at Springwood, on the 8th instant, but owing to Mr. Moore having neglected to make a statutory declaration the Commissioner refused to examine either Mr. Moore or any of his witnesses, but confined the investigation entirely to Madoline Boland and Mr. Inspector Smith. But

But as the evidence given by these parties does not in any way disclose the true facts of the case, we, on behalf of Mr. Moore, respectfully request that you will be pleased to order another investigation to take place, based on Mr. Moore's complaint; and also that you will be pleased to allow us, on Mr. Moore's behalf, to obtain a copy of the evidence given by Madoline Boland and Mr. Inspector Smith, and also a copy of the tracing produced by Mr. Smith.

We have, &c.,
WILSON & RANKEN.

Minutes on above.

See Commissioner's report (36,645). The Commissioner sustained an objection raised on behalf of the selector, to the effect that the complaint could not be entertained, not having been verified by a statutory declaration, as required by the regulations. He, however, proceeded with the inquiry, as a Ministerial one, on the reference and Inspector's report, giving the complainant an opportunity of being examined, or of producing evidence by his witnesses, through the Inspector.

The course taken by the Commissioner seems to have been justified, though I think it would have been better if on rejecting the information, as one between the parties, he had dropped the inquiry at that stage.

I submit that the matter should not be re-opened, unless on the complainant's agreeing to pay the costs of the former inquiry, as they may be fixed by the Commissioner.—A.O.M., 10 October, 1877.

I am of opinion that the applicant should have the land she applied for outside, leaving out the area of the reserve. There appears to me no necessity for proceeding with the inquiry any further.—T.G., 12 October, 1877.

Inform the parties of the Minister's decision. Madoline Boland should be further required forthwith to vacate the reserved land, and informed that unless the condition of residence be carried out in respect of the remainder of the land applied for, and which has been allowed as the conditional purchase, it will become forfeited.—A.O.M., 12 October, 1877.

Miss M. Boland to Sir John Robertson.

Sir,

Springwood, 5 December, 1877.

You were kind enough when you last granted me an interview to promise me that as soon as you had a Minister for Lands you would give my case your attention.

I will give you a short history of my case, as amid the many calls you have on your attention you may have forgotten the particulars.

In November, 1877, I selected 41 acres at Springwood, at the Land Office, Penrith, built and resided thereon within the three months allowed by the Act. After residing there for some time I heard accidentally that that part of the land on which I had built had been made a temporary reserve five days before I had selected it. I then wrote the particulars of my selection to the Minister for Lands, sending at the same time a petition signed by the Honorable G. Eagar and all the principal landowners up here, and received a reply from the Minister for Lands, stating that he would hold my original selection intact, notwithstanding the temporary reserve made five days before I selected. A Government surveyor also came up to report on the matter, and his report was in my favour. From that time until about two months ago I looked upon the matter as settled, and continued to fulfil the requirements of the Act. About two months ago the Council of Education commenced building a school-house and teacher's residence, notwithstanding my solicitor's notice to them that they were committing a trespass, and that if they did build it would be at their own risk.

I trust I have stated my case sufficiently clear, and trust to receive justice from you, for which I will indeed feel truly grateful, as I have suffered greatly from the interference of Mr. Charles Moore, and to him alone I owe all the trouble I have had in this matter, as he wanted the land himself, and when he found I had anticipated him in selecting it he offered to toss me for it, and this fact will be fully proved, if the matter has to be publicly investigated; but I trust, Sir John, you will be able to do it for me without further trouble. Trusting you will pardon me for troubling you with this long letter, but as I am wholly dependent on my own exertions, I hope you will not think me too persevering in asking you to give me an answer now that your Minister for Lands has been some time appointed.

I beg, &c.,

We have been instructed by Miss Madoline Boland to apply to have deed of grant for conditional purchase noted in the margin granted without delay.

The reason for this application is on account of all conditions being fulfilled and balance of purchase money, &c., paid into the Treasury.

The papers are marked to Mr. Rich since the 24th June, 1879, and nothing appears to have been done in the matter, and we therefore beg to apply that you will at once see into the matter and have deed prepared.

We have, &c.,

RESERVES NEAR WESTERN RAILWAY.

No. 1.

H. C. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Grantham, Potts's Point, 30 July, 1875.

I desire to draw your attention to the very great, and as it appears to me, unnecessarily large extent of the reserve at Blackheath, which was proclaimed in or about April, 1870, for the purpose of protecting Govett's Leap for public recreation.

This reserve contains 4 square miles, and it is evident that for the purpose intended one-sixth of that area would be sufficient, as all that is really required for the public convenience is about a square $\frac{1}{2}$ mile of country.

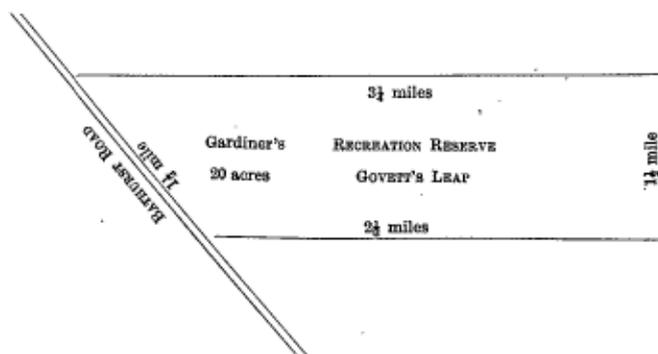

The country between Blackheath and Govett's Leap is rough, but affords some sites favourable for building, and as many besides myself are desirous of purchasing sites for summer retreats (for which few available spots can be found between Wascoe's and Mount Victoria), I beg to ask if a portion at any rate of the reserve alluded to cannot be revoked, and the land submitted for sale.

I have, &c.,

HENRY C. DANGAR.

Minutes on No. 1.

The reserve at Govett's Leap was recommended by the Surveyor General; it includes an area of 4 square miles as per sketch below.

Submitted, 2nd August. Referred to Mr. Surveyor Deering for report as to the necessity for reducing the reserve.—P.F.A., 5 August. Reported on 9th September, 1875.—JOHN W. DEERING.

No. 2.

Memo. by Mr. Surveyor Deering.

Reserve around Govett's Leap, Co. Cook.

9 September, 1875.

* Qy. 5th.
See minute on
No. 1.

In compliance with the Surveyor General's B.C. instructions to me of *6th August last, I have the honor to report having visited Govett's Leap, with respect to the existing reserve.

2. I am clearly of opinion that the existing reserve notified 25th January, 1870, should be abandoned, and for the following reasons:—

(1.) That it is altogether excessive in area, and unnecessary.

(2.) That it does not preserve to the public that which ought to be preserved.

Not with papers.
Also a description of same.
See enclosure
A.

3. Accompanying this report, I transmit a sketch showing both the existing reserve and the proposed reserve; and in recommending the latter for approval it is evident that the public interest will be better protected.

JOHN W. DEERING.

Minutes on No. 2.

Mr. Ellis, for the preparation of description of reserve in substitution of the existing reserve at Govett's Leap,—P.F.A., 13 Oct. Urgent. Submitted for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands, that reserve No. 12, county of Cook be cancelled, and the defined area, containing 2,240 acres, county of Cook, be reserved from sale under the provisions of the Crown Lands Act, for public purposes.—P. F. ADAMS. The Under Secretary for Lands, B.C., 15 October, 1875.

NOTE.—The north point on sketch is in a reversed and unusual position, and hence I have said "west," when it should have been "north," &c.—JOHN W. DEERING, 20 Nov., 1875. Reserve No. 12 revoked on county map, 4 January, 1876.—R.S. Reserve No. 29, notified 7 December, 1875. Charted, &c., 5 January, 1876.—R.S.

[Enclosure A to No. 2.]

Description of amended reserve around Govett's Leap, in the county of Cook.

COMMENCING at a point on the eastern fence of the Great Western Railway, 5 chains northerly of the northern end of the Blackheath Passenger Platform, and

- (1.) Bounded on the west by a line running north 64 chains.
- (2.) Thence on the south by a line running west 114 chains.
- (3.) Thence again on the west by a line running north 160 chains.
- (4.) Thence on the north by a line running east 126 chains.
- (5.) Thence on the east by a line running south 142 chains.
- (6.) Thence again on the north by a line running east 24 chains.
- (7.) Thence again on the east by a line running south 71 chains to the aforesaid railway fence.
- (8.) Thence by the said eastern fence of the Great Western Railway, to the point of commencement.

Exclusive of all or any part of a grant of 20 acres to A. Gardiner, and of all and every public road within the said reserve.

Minute Paper for the Executive Council.

Recommending revocation of reserves and reservation of other Crown Lands.

Department of Lands, Sydney, 18 October, 1875.

It is recommended to His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council, that the temporary reservation of the portions of land within described and particularized in a Schedule annexed be now revoked, under the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the revocation to take effect at the expiration of thirty clear days from the date of notification in the Government Gazette.

It is further recommended that the portions of land, also within described and particularized in a Schedule annexed, be reserved from sale, under the 4th section of the Act quoted.

THOMAS GARRETT.

The Executive Council advise that the temporary reserve herein specified be revoked, in terms of the 6th clause of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, to take effect from the date specified; also that the portion of land specified in Schedule be reserved from sale, in terms of the 4th clause of the said Act.—ALEX. C. BUDGE, Clerk of the Council.

Minute 75-51, 18/10/75.—Confirmed, 25/10/75. Approved.—H.R., 18/10/75.

No. 4.

Mr. Surveyor Deering to The Surveyor General.

20 November, 1875.

In my report of 9th September last I had the honor to propose to the Surveyor General an amended reserve at Govett's Leap. See No. 2.

Since that date, however, it has been my duty to become better acquainted with the surrounding country; and when a still further amendment of the reserve was considered feasible, I remembered the large waterhole and engine for the supply of the tank at the Blackheath Railway Platform, and it appeared to me desirable to inquire of the proper railway authorities the area it was desired to have reserved around this engine and pond.

I now learn for the first time, from the office of the Engineer-in-Chief for Railways, that the original reserve of 25 January, 1870, as shown on accompanying sketch, was made for the preservation of water supply for railway purposes. The Engineer-in-Chief for Railways states that the reserve is an absolute necessity as a catchment basin, and instead of reducing the area of the reserve it is proposed to increase it. Instructions have been already issued for the examination of the country to that end.

I beg to invite the Surveyor General's attention to the fact that upon the map of county Cook, which is the only plan showing this reserve, there is nothing to indicate that the reserve was made for water supply for railway purposes. A note to that effect upon the plan would have saved much trouble and loss of time. The absence of such a note upon the plan has been the means of nearly leading me into a serious error, in addition to every other officer through whose hands the application of Mr. H. C. Dangar passed.

I am now of opinion that, in addition to the existing reserve for railway purposes, a further reserve of a quarter of a mile on each side of the chasm will fully protect the public interest, and the reserve thus proposed is represented upon the accompanying sketch by the letters A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, in pencil.

JOHN W. DEERING.

Minutes on No. 4.

A tracing is enclosed showing the position of reserve No. 29, county of Cook, notified the 7th of December, 1875, for the information of the Land Agent at Hartley.—J. W. ELLIS. Under Secretary for Lands, B.C., 29 Feb., /76. Mr. Thomas Lewis,—The action relative to the reserve having been completed, should not instructions be issued for the subdivision, if the measurement has not been made? See last paragraph of Mr. Dangar's letter.—G.L., 12 April, /76. Mr. Gall,—Submit Dangar's application to purchase to Surveyor General or Deputy Surveyor General.—T.H.L., 13 April, /76.

Auction Branch, as to sale of allotments at Blackheath.—What is the cause of delay, and when will the sale be held? I believe a better price would be realized in Sydney. I should like to know the upset price proposed also.—P.F.A.

The Surveyor General,—The papers in this case were sent from Mr. Watts's branch to the Reserve Branch on 14 August, /78, for notification of town and suburban boundaries, and for the revocation of certain reserves. This has been completed, and the papers will probably be sent to Auction Branch shortly. The place of sale is Hartley, but I think a better price would be realized in Sydney. The upset price has not yet been fixed, and that will cause another delay, which would have been obviated if the surveyor had recommended an upset price at time of survey.—A. GALL, 8/10/78.

Gazette Notice.

Department of Lands, Sydney, 7 December, 1875.

Revocation of temporary reserve.

It is hereby notified for general information that His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to revoke, under the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the temporary reservation from sale of the portion of land hereinafter described, the revocation to take effect at the expiration of one month from this date.

THOMAS GARRETT.

No. 12. County of Cook, on the Bathurst Road, at Blackheath, about 4 square miles. The Crown Lands within the following boundaries: Commencing on the Bathurst Road, at a point $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile southerly from the south-western corner of A. Gardiner's 20 acres; and bounded on the south by a line bearing east $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles; on the east by a line bearing north $1\frac{1}{2}$ mile; on the north by a line bearing west about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles to the Bathurst Road aforesaid; and on the west by that road southerly, to the point of commencement.

Notified the 25th January, 1870.

Department of Lands, Sydney, 7 December, 1875.

Reserve from sale for water supply.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, directs it to be notified that in pursuance of the provisions of the 4th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the land specified in the Schedule appended hereto shall be reserved from sale for the preservation of water supply.

THOMAS GARRETT.

No. 29. County of Cook, at Blackheath and Govett's Leap, about 2,100 acres. The Crown Lands within the following boundaries: Commencing on the Bathurst Road at a point $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile southerly from the south-western corner of A. Gardiner's 20 acres; and bounded on part of the south by a line bearing east 100 chains; on part of the east by a line bearing north $4\frac{1}{2}$ chains; on the remainder of the south by a line bearing east 45 chains; on the east by a line bearing northerly 85 chains to the edge of the precipice; on part of the north by a line bearing west 73 chains; on part of the west by a line bearing south 9 chains; on the remainder of the north by a line bearing west 158 chains to the road from Bathurst to Sydney; on the west by that road southerly, to the point of commencement.

Exclusively of A. Gardiner's 20 acres.

No. 7.

The Under Secretary for Lands to The Land Agent, Hartley.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 16 March, 1876.

I am directed to transmit herewith for your information a *description, with a tracing, showing a portion of land at Blackheath and Govett's Leap, county of Cook, which by notice in the Government Gazette of 7th December last has been reserved from sale, under the 4th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, for the preservation of water supply.

I have, &c.,

Memo. by Mr. Draftsman Stevens.

This further report by Mr. Surveyor Deering in connection with Mr. Dangar's application to purchase land at Govett's Leap is submitted. The amended reserve No. 29, as proclaimed on 7th December, 1875, includes the country between Blackheath and Govett's Leap referred to in Mr. Dangar's application, and a much larger area than that recommended by Mr. Deering is already protected from alienation by the reserve for water supply to Sydney (the watershed of the Grose River).

Unless the question is further raised, the proclamation of 7th December, '75, may remain in force, the public being protected by the larger reserve.—P.F.A., 4 May. Mr. Edwards,—For information of Mr. Dangar, if necessary, in accordance with above.—T.S., 4 May, '76. To what effect is Mr. Dangar to be informed in reference to his letter of the 30 July, 1875, or is the matter to await a further communication from him?—C.O., 15/5/76. Better await the question being again raised. See Surveyor General's minute. Put away.—18/5/76.

If the words in the letter herewith, "as per plan and description hereto annexed," are to be considered stipulations that the land shall be so measured, I do not think instructions should issue to surveyor, as the design appears objectionable in giving excessive frontage to road and railway.

If the land is measured according to regulations, applicant might not purchase and yet object to the forfeiture of his deposit, on the ground that he attached conditions to his request.

The department of Public Works should be asked if the area between the Railway and Bathurst Road should be reserved for any public purpose, it including only about 10 acres.—J.W.E. The Surveyor General.

Mr. Surveyor Deering to The Surveyor General.

Sir, Sydney, 3 January, 1877.
In compliance with your *instructions to me of 23rd November, '76, I have the honor to report on the application therein alluded to. * See minute on No. 9.

2. Accompanying I transmit a sketch by way of illustration.
3. The circumstances may be thus briefly stated:—

- (1) Reserve No. 29, containing 2,100 acres, was notified in the Government Gazette of 7th December, 1875, as "for the preservation of water supply."
- (2) Reserve No. 30, embracing the entire watershed of the sources of the river Grose, was also notified on 7th December, 1875, for "future water supply to Sydney and suburbs."

4. Reserve No. 30 includes No. 29. The former only requires therefore to be considered and taken as a whole.

5. The proclaimed road from Blackheath towards Mt. King George effectually severs the watershed in the locality coloured red upon the accompanying sketch, and renders the reservation of no value or effect for the purposes of a supposed water supply; neither is there any water within the area.

6. I am clearly of opinion that the area coloured red on the accompanying sketch may be revoked as a temporary reserve with much advantage to the Crown and the public. The description of the proposed revocation may be taken thus:—"Commencing on the western side of the proclaimed road from Blackheath towards Mt. King George at a point opposite a gum-tree marked 3 with π over π ; and bounded on the north by a line bearing west about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles to the eastern fence of the Great Western Railway; thence on the south-west by the said fence south-easterly to the south-western corner of the aforesaid proclaimed road; thence on the south-east by the western boundary of the said road to the point of commencement," containing about $2\frac{1}{2}$ square miles.

7. I beg to recommend that this area be revoked, as before stated.

8. The reserve for water supply for railway purposes is in no way affected by this proposed revocation.

9. I desire further to bring under your notice that, owing to the numerous reserves recently made along the Western Railway, reserve No. 29 at Blackheath may now be reduced in area to public advantage.

I have, &c.,

JOHN W. DEERING.

Minutes on No. 13.

I do not advise the withdrawal of the reservation—the land would be conditionally purchased by some speculator, and I think, probably at no very remote period, a village might be laid out at Blackheath with advantage. There will soon be no vacant land suitable for building remaining along the railway.—P.F.A. For decision, 13/3/77.

I have already had a conversation with the Surveyor General on the subject of this land, and he has undertaken to lay out a township at the north-eastern corner thereof, or nearly so. The matter should be watched carefully; and when the town or village is proclaimed, suitable and liberal reservation for recreation, &c., should be made, and the remainder of the land declared suburban.—JOHN R.

Sir,

District Survey Office, Orange, 15 May, 1877.

In reference to your *instructions of 3rd instant, which I have the honor to return herewith, I would respectfully inquire whether there is a railway crossing at this place or on the adjoining portions, as access to such crossing if it exists should be reserved to give access to other Crown Lands.

2. I consider a right of way at least 50 links wide should be reserved along the fence on western side of railway, if the same is passable, and that the portions on this side should be measured with frontage to same, and extending 20 chains back; also, that a road should be left westerly from the railway in the best position for access to adjacent Crown Lands.

3. The land east of railway should be divided into smaller portions—say, with a frontage of 4 chains each to the main road, and a reserve retained extending 8 chains southerly from J. Gilbert's 40 acres, between the main road and the railway.

I have, &c.

Memo. by Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher.

District Survey Office, Orange, 18 May, 1877.

* See minute on No. 10. In reference to the Surveyor General's *instructions of 3rd May, 1877, as Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell is now camped at Mount Victoria, if these instructions which were returned with my letter of 15th inst. were forwarded to him at once, also information as to the last number used in the parish, the survey could be effected immediately, otherwise there will not be another surveyor in the neighbourhood for some time.

Mr. Liddell has completed all instructions in his hands.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Eskbank, 3 July, 1877.

I have the honor to transmit herewith the plan of four portions of land, containing 6 acres 2 roods 38 perches, numbered 41 to 44, in the parish of Kanimbla, county of Cook, measured for sale, and surveyed in accordance with instructions dated 26th May, 1877, issued to Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher. The weather at Blackheath at the time of measurement of above portions was too boisterous and inclement to admit of my taking an observation for meridian.

I have, &c.,
AND. T. LIDDELL,
Licensed Surveyor.

Minutes on No. 17.

Forwarded to the Surveyor General for approval. The vacant land north of portion No. 44, between the main road and railway, should be retained as a reserve.—E. FISHER, D. S., B.C., 14 July, 1877.

The memorandum on 77/871 does not appear to have been acted on. There is a recommendation from the Works Department on 76/41,249 that a road be reserved for a certain distance along the east side of the railway. Mr. D.-S. Fisher's question as to railway crossing has not been answered. He also recommends a reserve between the road and railway extending about 8 chains southerly from Gilbert's portion. Should the papers, with accompanying tracing, be now submitted to the Works Department, with the view of ascertaining whether any objection as regards railway interests exists to the alienation of the land as surveyed by Mr. Liddell?—F.W.W., 17 August, 1877.

It is recommended that reference be made to the Works Department as suggested.—R. D. FITZGERALD (for Sur. General), 20 August, 1877. Referred to Under Secretary for Public Works, for required information as to proposed alienation interfering with railway interests.—W.W.S., 18 October. Engineer for Existing Lines, B.C., 21/11/77.—CH. A. G. See my minute 29/12/76. I still adhere to that recommendation.—W.M., 22/11/77. Under Secretary for Lands, B.C., 26/11/77.—J.R.

The Colonial Secretary to The Surveyor General.

My dear Mr. Adams,

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 15 August, 1877.

I enclose a letter from Sir James Martin recommending that certain lands in the neighbourhood of Blackheath be measured for sale. Perhaps at your convenience you will give your attention to the subject. Herewith.

I think Sir James's suggestions are well worthy of consideration.

Yours, &c.,
HENRY PARKES.

Referred to Mr. Surveyor Deering, who has the general direction of the surveys at Blackheath.—P.F.A., 19/8/77. Returned with my memo. 78/20, of 30th August, 1878.—JOHN W. DEERING.

The plan and proclamation herein referred to have not been received by me. The paper was handed to me by Mr. Finch, but I believe he knows nothing of the plan.—T.S., 18 Sept., /77.

[Enclosure to No. 18.]

My dear Parkes,

Chambers, 30 July, 1877.

I send you herewith a plan of a road made some time since by the Government, from a point nearly opposite the Tank at Blackheath to a precipice overlooking the Grose Valley. The land to the north-west of that road is one of the finest positions for mountain residences in New South Wales. The road runs along the centre of a ridge dividing the Govett's Leap Valley from a valley to the north of it; all the land on the Govett's Leap side of the road, throughout its entire length, should be reserved in all time coming from alienation, but the land to N.-W. for three miles out, but no further, ought to be sold in 50-acre lots. It cannot now be sold because of the existence of two reserves which I enclose, marked (*). In the time of your predecessors an application was made to revoke these reserves, and Deering sent in a report on the subject recommending the revocation as far as 3 miles out, but it was determined by Mr. Robertson, after conferring with Mr. Adams, to establish a village reserve near Blackheath, and declare these lands to the north-west of the road in question suburban, which would prevent their being free-selected or taken up by Volunteer land orders. Since then nothing has been done. I now write to you to suggest that a village reserve be proclaimed where I have marked it, and that all the rest of the land included in Deering's report as fit to be withdrawn from the reserve be declared suburban, and surveyed in 50-acre blocks as marked on the accompanying plan. The upset price would be £2 per acre, and some of it would bring more than this. To do this the proclamation referred to might be rescinded in part as recommended. This land really ought to be thrown open to the public, and it could be done in less than a month if you gave directions to have the matter promptly attended to. If you can spare a day I would recommend you to go along the road as far as Hat Hill; you have some views thence into the Grose Valley that will surprise you. I shall want my plan and proclamation back again when you have done with them.

Yours truly,
JAMES MARTIN.

Sir,

Blackheath, 9 October, 1877.

I have the honor to inform you that portions numbered 44, 43, 42, and 41, parish of Blackheath, county of Cook (measured by Mr. L.-S. Liddell, and transmitted with his letter 3rd July), are likely to interfere with the design for township at Blackheath; I would therefore respectfully submit that they be not alienated until I can furnish design for your inspection.

Sir, Blackheath, 5 November, 1877.
I have the honor to transmit herewith a design* for town and suburban allotments at Blackheath, county of Cook.

The proposed boundary of reserve for township extension has been seen and approved of by Mr. Surveyor Deering, who considers the reserve is sufficiently large to meet any future requirements. The nature of the country will not admit of another section of allotments east of those fronting the Bathurst Road, and south of Gardiner's 20-acre portion. There is no ground west of the railway available for township allotments; the only level ground on that side is likely to be required for railway purposes.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Mylne to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Camp, Weatherboard, 29 April, 1878.

I have the honor to transmit herewith a plan showing sixty village allotments and fifty-eight suburban allotments at Blackheath, in the parish of Blackheath, in the county of Cook, measured in accordance with verbal instructions received from you.

I have measured and marked a reserve of twenty acres situated on the road towards Mount King George, at a place known as the "Hat Hill" or "the Old Man's Hat"; also another reserve of twenty acres at the "Rock Hill," situated at about half-a-mile from the aforementioned reserve. I have also run the boundaries of a reserve to include Govett's Leap, in accordance with your verbal instructions.

About fifteen chains east of Gardiner's twenty-acre portion there is a dam from which water is pumped to supply the railway. This is part of the reserve for extension of township, and would have to be secured in the event of any portion of the reserve for extension of township being alienated.

The land is heavily timbered with gum, blackbutt, stringybark, and messmate and with mountain-ash in the gullies.

On the ridges the soil is poor, but towards the gullies on many portions are rich black swamps that could be drained and cultivated.

The portions have all been well and permanently marked.

Submitted for approval.—P.F.R., 5/12/78. Approved.—J.H., 27/12/78. Submitted as to whether this land shall be offered at Hartley or Sydney. There would probably be more competition in Sydney.—A. GALL, 3/1/79. The Surveyor General.

Recommended that the sale of these allotments should take place in Sydney instead of Hartley. The class of buyers who are likely to attend the sale are persons in business in Sydney, who desire mountain residences, for which there is a demand.—P. F. ADAMS, 23/1/79. The Under Secretary for Lands.

The sale of the lands at Sydney would be illegal, as clause 23 of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 requires that land for auction must be sold at a place within the Police District in which the land is situated.—W.W.S., 30/1/79. No. 1.

Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Rydal, 11 September, 1877.

Herewith I have the honor to transmit a sketch showing proposed reserve for travelling stock in the parish of Lett, county of Cook, containing 640 acres, in accordance with instructions dated 3rd May, issued to Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher.

This reserve is situated at the junction of Maddock's line with Bell's old line.

2. The reserve at Happy Valley, mentioned in the same instructions, was shown on plan of portion 139, with my letter of 13th August, 1877.

3. I am not in a position to report at present upon the reserve proposed at Kangaroo Creek.

4. The reserve proposed at "The Slide" is situated one mile on the Richmond side of the Mount Wilson Platform on the Great Western Railway. I was not aware of this when measuring in that vicinity, or I should have reported thereon.

I believe that Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Cooper is now in that locality, and would suggest that this matter be referred to him for report.

5. The reserves proposed at Kennedy's reserve, Connor's Swamp, and Timmins's Swamp, are near Richmond, and are, I believe, in Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Pitt's District.

I have, &c.,
ANDW. T. LIDDELL,
Licensed Surveyor.

Minute on No. 1.

Forwarded to the Surveyor General. The original letter appears to have miscarried with the instructions and report No. 77-2,829. Messrs. Licensed-Surveyors Pitt and Cooper might be asked to report on the proposed reserves at the Slide, Kennedy's reserve, Connor's Swamp, and Timmins's Swamp.—E. FISHER, District Surveyor, B.C., 24 November, 1877.

No. 2.

Memo. by Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher.

District Survey Office, Orange, 15 September, 1877.
As Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell states he has been measuring land in the vicinity of the Slide, he might be in a position to send a small sketch to the Surveyor General, showing position of a reserve for access to water at his early convenience.

A. T. Liddell, Esq., Licensed Surveyor, Rydal.

J. R. SHEPPARD,
Pro E. FISHER,
District Surveyor.

Minutes on No. 2.

I am not sufficiently acquainted with the country near the Slide to send a sketch of reserve. The reserve being for access to water should be accurately located.—A. T. LIDDELL, 17/9/77. Returned to the Surveyor General with copy of Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell's *letter of 11th September.—E. FISHER, D. S., 24/11/77.

Minutes on No. 3.

Returned to Mr. District-Surveyor Fisher, as the letter referred to cannot be traced in this office. Plan has been received.—Surveyor General's Office, 10 November, 1877. J.F.L. (for Surveyor General.)

Forwarded to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Liddell, who will oblige by stating the numbers of the letters included in his roll sent to me on 11th September. My assistant forwarded such roll to the Surveyor General, without taking any note of same, as the instructions were not originally issued through my office, and should not therefore have been returned to me.—E. FISHER, D. S., B.C., 15 Nov., 1877.

Could Mr. Liddell forward a copy of his letter 77/37, as I find it must have miscarried, and return this with same.—E. FISHER, D. S.

Copy of *letter 77/37 herewith. Only this one letter was forwarded to the District Office by me on the 11th September, 1877.—ANDREW T. LIDDELL, 18 November, 1877.

Memo. by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Pitt.

I AM now engaged surveying two portions of land for William Dean at Wascoe's Platform. Mr. Henry Dean has taken up 40 acres adjoining, under mineral lease.

The lease in question, according to description, embraces land on both sides of the railway line. In my opinion, the portion tinted pink on the tracing should be reserved for public requirements.

The land is nearly cleared, in close proximity to the platform, and would be a great acquisition to the public if reserved. Enclosed.

Should the Surveyor General concur with me in having the land reserved, can I measure the 40 acres on the north side of the line only? Please reply by return of post to "Wascoe's Platform."

25 September, 1876.

G. M. PITT, JUN.

P.S.—Wascoe's Platform being a favourite resort for picnics, and as there is no other available ground, it is highly necessary that some reserve should be made in the immediate locality.—G.M.P.

No. 1.

Mr. District-Surveyor Deering to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Sydney, 6 April, 1877.

During a late official visit to Mount Victoria, I learned with regret that a portion of Mount York had been selected. It may or may not be correct, as I am not acquainted with the selector's name. The Department will decide this.

2. But I consider it to be my duty to again bring under your notice the great desirableness of reserving the whole of Mount York, from summit to the bases upon each side.

3. Mount York possesses special attractions and advantages to tourists and to those in search of health at Mount Victoria.

674—C

4. Mount York has the advantage of being an extended, level-topped mountain spur, along which for two miles there is a gently undulating road, admitting of either driving or riding. Extensive views are upon either side. Excepting Govett's Leap, it is the best ride or drive from Mount Victoria. If Mount Victoria is really a sanatorium, as the travelling public say it is, then every point of interest and attraction around the central point should be conserved to the public interest and pleasure.

5. I think that no special visit is necessary. I have no plan here in my Burwood office, or I would transmit a sketch of proposed reserve; but there will be no difficulty in preparing a sketch and description from the plans in the Survey Office, I apprehend.

6. Under the foregoing circumstances, I have the honor to propose that Mount York be dedicated as a reserve for public recreation.

F. Cape, but now cancelled. The land is already surveyed and is delineated on plan, catalogue No. C. 249-1507.

I think it is desirable that this land should be reserved.

To the Surveyor General, Sydney.

JOHN W. DEERING,
Surveyor.

Addendum.—After this reserve has been made, I think that the remainder of the spur should be surveyed and offered at public auction.—JOHN W. DEERING.

No. 1.

Memo. by Surveyor General.

THE *reserve from sale on the Bathurst Road, between the "Blue Mountain Inn" and One-tree Hill, notified 26th November, 1867, being unnecessarily large for the purposes intended, and contemplating submitting for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands the revocation of that reserve, excepting such portions as may be necessary to retain for the purposes of the railway, or for any other public works, and for recreation, probably the Under Secretary for Lands will intimate the above to the Honorable the Minister for Works, with the view of obtaining from that department what portions of the reserve alluded to it will be desirable to retain for the effectual working of the railway, or for any public works in that locality in progress, or in future contemplation.

* For correspondence respecting the notification, &c., of this reserve, see Part 2 of Return laid upon the Table of the House on 14th May, 1879.—W.M., Examiner.

A †tracing showing the reserve referred to, the railway, and two small reserves, one at the Weatherboard and the other at Blackheath, is enclosed.

† Not with original papers, cannot therefore be furnished.

No. 2.

Memo. of Instructions.

Surveyor General's Office, 2 September, 1869.

To Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Finley.

It is proposed to revoke the reserve on the Bathurst Road, between the "Blue Mountain Inn" and the One-tree Hill, notified 26th November, 1867, a *description of which is attached; you will therefore have the goodness to report on the boundaries you would propose to retain as reserves from conditional purchase for public recreation, &c. At Govett's Gap a reserve should be made extending from the railway, to embrace that feature; the same may be done at the Weatherboard Falls; descriptions should accompany your report, defining the proposed reserves, for Gazette notice.

* See marginal note on No. 1.

P. F. ADAMS.

Reply to No. 2.

IN reply to this I have the honor to transmit the accompanying *sketch and descriptions showing the proposed reserves from conditional purchase at Blackheath and Weatherboard Waterfalls, county of Cook.

* Not with original papers, cannot therefore be furnished.

I have proposed 3 square miles at the Weatherboard Falls and four at Blackheath, the latter one being larger, for the reason of it being further from the railway line, and a more extensive feature.—F. G. FINLEY, Licensed Surveyor, Bowenfels, 21 October, 1869.

No. 3.

Minute by Mr. Draftsman Ellis.

Surveyor General's Office, 5 November, 1869.

SUBMITTED for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands that the reserve from sale on the Bathurst Road, between "Blue Mountain Inn" and One-tree Hill, containing about 44 square miles, notified 26th November, 1867, be now revoked under the provisions of the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act. It is also submitted that in lieu of the above reserve the two defined portions of land situate at the Waterfall, Jamieson's Valley Creek, near the Weatherboard, and at Blackheath, respectively, as recommended by Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Finley, be reserved from sale, under the provisions of the 4th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, for public recreation. (Written by Mr. Ellis.)

Minute Paper for the Executive Council.

Department of Lands, Sydney, 19 November, 1869.

It is recommended to His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council, for the reasons given in the enclosed *report of the Surveyor General, that the temporary reservation of the portions within described and particularized in the annexed Schedule be now revoked, under the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the revocation to take effect at the expiration of one month from the date of notification in the Government Gazette, and that in lieu thereof the portions of land within described and also particularized in the Schedule be reserved from sale for the purposes therein stated, under the 4th section of the Act quoted.

Revocation of temporary reserve.

It is hereby notified, for general information, that His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to revoke, under the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the temporary reservation from sale of the portion of land hereinafter described,—the revocation to take effect at the expiration of one month from this date.

WILLIAM FORSTER.

County of Cook, on the Bathurst Road, from One-tree Hill to the "Blue Mountain Inn," at 24-mile Hollow, containing 44 square miles. The Crown Lands within the following boundaries: Bounded on part of the west from the Bathurst Road by the east boundary of J. Finn's 40 acres conditional purchase, parish of Hartley, at One-tree Hill, and its northerly prolongation bearing north in all 2 miles; on the north-east by a line south-easterly generally parallel with the Bathurst Road, and distant 2 miles from that road, to within 1 mile northerly from that road, near David Jones's 30 acres; thence on the north by a line easterly and generally parallel to the Bathurst Road aforesaid, and distant 1 mile from it to its intersection with a line forming the northerly prolongation of the west boundary of H. Wilson's 100 acres at "Blue Mountain Inn," 24-mile Hollow; thence on the east by that line and the west boundary of that 100 acres, bearing south in all about 3¼ miles, crossing the Bathurst Road aforesaid; thence on the south by a line westerly, generally parallel to the Bathurst Road aforesaid, and distant 2 miles therefrom to Pulpit Hill; thence on the south-west by a line north-westerly generally parallel with the road aforesaid, and distant 1 mile from it to its intersection with the southerly prolongation of the east boundary of 40 acres, portion 90, on the Bathurst Road aforesaid, adjoining 320 acres mineral conditional purchase by L. E. Threkeld; and on the remainder of the west by a line bearing north to the south-east corner of that 40 acres, by the east boundary of that land bearing north to the road aforesaid, and thence crossing that road northerly to the point of commencement.

NOTE.—The above portion of land was reserved from sale until surveyed, for public recreation, &c., by notice, 26th November, 1867.

RECREATION GROUND AT COOMA.

No. 1.

The Secretary, Progress Committee, Cooma, to The Secretary for Public Works.

Sir,

Cooma, 25 November, 1878.

On behalf of the Cooma Progress Committee, appointed at influential and largely attended public meetings, held in Cooma Court-house on the 12th and 18th instant, I am deputed to solicit you to place the sum of £200 on the Estimates for improving the recreation reserve known as the Market Square, the only reserve in Cooma. We hope, sir, you will accede to this request.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE W. SPRING,

Hon. Secretary, Cooma Progress Committee.

Minutes on No. 1.

Forward to Lands and inform.—J.S., 28/11/78. The Under Secretary for Lands.—J.R., B.C., 30 November, 1878. For consideration.—J.P.C., 5 December. Approved.—J.H., 14/3/79. Noted for Estimates. £200 voted in Additional Estimates for 1879, for improving recreation reserve at Cooma. Mr. Spring, for Trustees, informed, 14 August, 1879.

No. 8.

The Rev. T. DrUITT to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Sydney, 22 September, 1879.
 At the request of several residents of the township of Cooma, I take the liberty of suggesting that the Police Magistrate of Cooma be requested to report as to the fitness, or otherwise, of the parties nominated as Trustees for the expenditure of the £200 granted for the improvement of the Market-square in Cooma.
 Messrs. Cohen, Solomon, and O'Rourke would be suitable persons to act as Trustees.
 I am, &c.,
 THOMAS DRUITT,
 Clergyman of the Church of England, Cooma.

Minutes on No. 8.

As it appears from the * newspaper enclosed that the trust selected at a public meeting of the inhabitants of Cooma does not give general satisfaction, the request made in this letter, that a report be obtained from the Police Magistrate, be complied with. In the meantime, instructions to withhold the payment of the money may be issued to the Treasury.—L.G.T., 22 September, 1879. Approved.—J.H., 22/9/79. * Unnecessary.

No. 9.

The Under Secretary for Lands to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir, Department of Lands, Sydney, 22 September, 1879.
 With reference to my letter of the 12th instant, authorizing issue of two hundred pounds (£200) No. 5 to certain gentlemen for expenditure, for the improvement of the recreation reserve, Cooma, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that certain objections having been raised against the trust appointed, he intends obtaining a report into the matter. In the meantime I am to request that you will be good enough to withhold payment of the money referred to to the gentlemen mentioned in the said letter.
 I have, &c.,

No. 12.

Mr. R. Dawson, P.M., to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Cooma, 1 October, 1879.
 I do myself the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th ultimo, enclosing No. 11 papers for my perusal in the case of a grant of £200 for the improvements of the recreation reserve at Cooma, and requesting me to report as to the fitness of the persons nominated as Trustees for the expenditure of the same.

I

I quite agree with the opinion expressed in the Rev. Mr. Druitt's letter that Messrs. Charles Solomon, George Cohen, and David O'Rourke, would manage the business alluded to in a much more able manner than the persons elected as Trustees. The latter from their position as labourers, without local standing, or any necessary qualification, although honest decent men, will never give satisfaction to the public generally, from their known incapacity and want of experience in such matters.

I have, &c.,

ROBERT DAWSON, P.M.

See Treasury letter herewith.

See No. 9.

Mr. Thompson,—This is the matter where the Rev. Thomas Druitt represented that the Trustees, entrusted with the expenditure of the £200 granted for improvement of recreation ground at Cooma, are incapable and unfitted for the office, and requested that the Police Magistrate might be instructed to report on the matter. In obedience to the Minister's directions the Police Magistrate was referred to, and he has advised in his letter (vide 79-12,132) herewith, that the Trustees would not give satisfaction to the general public, at the same time nominating three others. The Treasury although authorized to issue the money has not done so, and has intimated that it will not until further advised.—J. G. NEALE. The Editor of The Express, Cooma, to The Colonial Secretary.

Express Office, Cooma, 15 December, 1879.

See No. 14.

As journalist in Cooma I have been asked through our columns whether the three persons mentioned in the Government Gazette of Friday last, viz., Messrs. Solomon, O'Rourke, and Cohen, are appointed for the reserve known as the "Market Square," Cooma. The three men to whom the grant of £200 has been paid to their credit were elected by a meeting (such as it was), and upon whom we, as journalists, commented with some severity, are up to the present not gazetted as Trustees. I wish to know for public information what is the reason for their names being not gazetted, and are they likely to be gazetted, or have the three gentlemen whose names are in Friday's Gazette been substituted for them.

An immediate reply to said questions will greatly oblige,

Yours, &c.,

GUSTAVE T. CARLISLE MILLER,

Extract made and recorded separately, 19 December, 1879. The Under Secretary for Lands.—C.W., B.C., 19 December, 1879. Inform. Mr. Miller informed, 19 December, 1879. The gentlemen mentioned within were appointed Trustees for the expenditure of the money voted for improving the recreation reserve (Market Square), Cooma. Certain Trustees had already been nominated at a public meeting at Cooma, but the Rev. J. Druitt took exception to them, and proposed three others, which, on the Police Magistrate's report as to their fitness, were appointed.—J.P.C., 6 January, 1880. The writer of this letter should be informed to the above effect.—W.W.S., 20 January, 1880.

The Editor of The Express, Cooma, to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

"Express" Office, Cooma, 17 January, 1880.

The question is being continually put to me, as editor of the Express, "What is the meaning of the gazettement of Messrs. Cohen, Solomon, and O'Rourke as Trustees for the Cooma Reserve?" What reserve it is no one can find out. The three gentlemen inform me that they are to this day ignorant of the fact that they are duly appointed, any more than seeing the extract in our paper to that effect. They were never consulted as to whether they would be willing to act as Trustees. I have asked the question of you before through the Colonial Secretary: What reserve is alluded to in the Gazette; is it the Market Square, or not?

It seems an extraordinary affair altogether that one cannot get any information on the subject. People here are entirely in the dark re the matter, and if possible I wish to get an explanation to lay before them. Another question I would fain have solved: "How is it that Messrs. Matthews, Neblock, and Hurley have never been gazetted as Trustees for the Market Square?" There seems to me to be a cloak of mystery enveloping the whole affair which the sooner is cast off the better. Hoping you will give the matter your earliest attention, and kindly inform me how matters stand.

I am, &c.,

GUSTAVE T. MILLER.

QUAT QUATTA RESERVE.

No. 1.

Memorial of Selectors and others.

To the Honorable the Minister for Lands of the Colony of New South Wales.

The Memorial of the Selectors, Farmers, and others, residents of Quat Quatta, on the river Murray, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

1st. That in consequence of nearly the whole of the Quat Quatta Run being now selected, and the principal reserve leading from the river Murray to the Oil-tree Lake *having recently been sublet by Mr. Gibb, the lessee of the run, to John A. Wallace, a freeholder of 9,000 acres, for grazing purposes, at a rental of £20 per annum (the Crown rental paid for the whole run being £26 per annum), your memorialists are subjected to serious loss and annoyance by the sub-lessee rigorously enforcing the Impounding Act over the reserve. * Reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta, about 3,000 acres.

2nd. Your memorialists are generally small holders, and have no grazing rights. They have always been permitted to use the reserve for a "turn-out" for stock and water privileges, and they now feel it to be a great hardship that any one person should be permitted to use a harsh and exclusive right over this land, which in the interests of the public should be set apart for the general good of all.

3rd. Your memorialists therefore humbly pray that you will be pleased to cause the whole of the reserve on Quat Quatta, leading from the river Murray north to the Oil-tree Lake, to be vested in trustees for the purposes of a public common for the use of the small farmers and cultivators of Quat Quatta.

4th. That in support of this prayer your memorialists submit that in a district such as the Murray, subject to long summer droughts, it becomes a public necessity that provision should be made to secure public reserves and water rights before the land is all taken up.

We therefore pray that you will be pleased to take into your favourable consideration the foregoing premises, and cause the reserve in question to be set apart as a public common.

And your memorialists will ever pray, &c., &c.

[Here follow 25 signatures.]

Obtain report without delay. Mr. Pretious's attention is drawn to the statement as to the lessees sub-letting.—T.G., 29/11/75. Commissioner Crommelin.—A.O.P., B.C., 4/12/75.

No. 2.

Commissioner Crommelin to The Officer-in-charge, Occupation of Lands.

Sir,

Crown Lands Office, Albury, 15 April, 1876.

I do myself the honor to draw your attention to the following facts having reference to the memorial dated 29th November, 1875, *forwarded for my report. The lease of Quat Quatta was sold by auction on the 23rd January, 1871, at the yearly rental of £27, and at a premium of £25, to Messrs. Gazer and Cross, for the term of five years from 1st of January, 1871. *See No. 1. Tracing herein enclosed, C.

The remainder of area being then estimated at 17,000 acres, "with access to frontage secured by the parts of the Reserve from Sale for Water Supply (Nos. 41 and 42, notified 24th December, 1861, and 22nd December, 1865), remaining uncanceled." See enclosures A and B.

The purchasers, Messrs. Gazer and Cross, transferred to the late Henry Gibbs, 7th February, 1872, and he again to the Bank of New South Wales, 22nd June, 1874.

It was re-appraised last year at a remanet of area of 3,200 acres, rental £10. Gibbs recently died. I believe his widow resides on the leased land still. Reserve 42 now contains about 2,400 acres.

Under the circumstances, I respectfully recommend that the prayer of the petition should be refused; not only would the proclamation of such reserves as commons lead to endless litigation and complications, but establish a precedent obviously objectionable.

I may add that I deemed it best to confer with Mr. District-surveyor Wood on the matter, who expressed his dissent from the prayer of the petition, and we both agreed that the reserve, if interfered with at all, should be cut up and sold. At the same time, due weight should be attached to the fact that the lease sold by public auction does not expire until the close of the current year.

I have, &c.,
THOMAS LAKE CROMMELIN, C.C.L.

Minutes on No. 2.

It would, in my opinion, form a bad precedent to comply with the prayer of the petition. No commonage has ever, so far as I am aware, been allotted except in the neighbourhood of Ironbarks. If it is thought proper to cancel the lease at the expiration of the present term, the land cannot be subdivided and sold.—A.O.P., 7 June, 1876.

Under

Under the peculiar circumstances of the case, I direct that the prayer of the petition to make a common of the reserve be not complied with; that the reserve should be thrown open to sale at the end of the year. Inform petitioners.—T.G., 14/6/76.

Re-submitted with reference to Mr. Crommelin's suggestion as to the reserve being cut up and sold (see concluding paragraph).—E.O'D., 21/6/76.

Is it intended that the land should be measured for sale at auction, or only that the reserve from sale should be revoked?—A.O.P., 22 June, 1876.

I intend that the reserve should be simply revoked; to take effect from 1st January next.—T.G., 24/6/76.

No. 3.

Mr. D. Brown to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, River Murray, 8 September, 1876.

I have the honor, on behalf of petitioners, to enclose reply received to memorial in reference to No. 42 reserve, parish of Quat Quatta.

I am urged to ask that the reserve in question may, without delay, be thrown open for selection if it cannot be reserved for public purposes.

As explained in the memorial, the whole of the run is selected, and the reserve is sub-let by the Crown lessees.

The selectors in the neighbourhood have occasion to use the reserve in sending their stock to water, and the sub-lessees impound; and at the present time a lawsuit is pending to test the right of a selector to travel his sheep to water regularly; it being urged that the reserve is for station purposes only, and travelling stock from the back country.

I may state that the reserve is far out of the route for travelling stock crossing the river Murray.

Trusting that this subject will receive your early consideration,—

I have, &c.,

(on behalf of Petitioners),
DONALD BROWN.

Revocation of Temporary Reserve.

It is hereby notified for general information, that His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to revoke, under the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the temporary reservation from sale of the portion of land hereinafter described, the revocation to take effect at the expiration of thirty clear days from this date.

THOMAS GARRETT.

Murrumbidgee District.

County of Hume, parishes of Kentucky and Quat Quatta, about 1,750 acres. That part of water reserve No. 42, notified 24th December, 1861, its north extension notified 23rd December, 1865, and its north extension notified 28th February, 1873, within the following boundaries: Commencing at the south-west corner of portion 13, parish of Quat Quatta, and bounded thence on the east by a line bearing north to the north-west corner of portion 67, parish of Kentucky; thence on the north-west by part of a line drawn from the north-west corner of portion 67 to the north-east corner of portion 22, bearing south-westerly till it is intersected by a line parallel to and distant 5 chains east from the east boundary of portion 22 aforesaid; thence on the west by that line bearing south to the main road from Albury to Corowa; thence on the south by that road easterly, to the point of commencement.

No. 6.

J. A. Wallace, Esq., to The Secretary for Lands.

Dear Sir,

Quat Quatta, Corowa, 3 September, 1877.

I regret exceedingly to observe that a portion of reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta Run, parish of Kentucky, is revoked, and that it is the intention to throw it open for selection thirty days after the 22nd of August.

It is, I assure you, a very unfortunate thing for me, as I only purchased the station and stock in June last, and of which run the reserve forms an important part.

When I made the purchase I had not the most remote idea the reserve would be interfered with; besides, since I made the purchase, almost every acre of land on the run is selected, with the exception of the reserve mentioned, and if the revocation of this reserve be carried out and it is thrown open on the date date published, it will place me in a very critical position to find feed or what to do with my stock; besides, the season has been so exceptionally bad that I do not know where to turn to get grass for them, and the stock being in a miserably low condition, that they cannot be made to travel any distance. I have gone to considerable outlay fencing in a part of the reserve, sinking and making contracts for the construction of tanks on the reserve, as there is not a drop of water on the reserve.

I have been compelled to do all this sinking and fencing and constructing a number of small tanks to save the grass on the reserve, as there is no other ground left to run the stock upon.

I would not have troubled you on the present occasion if I did not feel that, in simple justice to myself, it was my duty to lay the facts and the peculiar and exceptional circumstances of the case before you; and I do trust you will be pleased to take the matter into your favourable consideration, and countermand the revocation for the present, say for another season or two, to enable me in some way to extricate myself from the position I am now placed in.

I never selected a piece of land in my life, and it is the first station I ever bought, and to judge of the cramp that has taken place, it will be the last, so I will not be a perpetual trouble to you.

I am, &c.,

JOHN A. WALLACE.

Minutes on No. 6.

Urgent,—Mr. Geo. Lewis. Inform writer of action taken.—T.G., 8/9/77.

No. 7.

Mr. J. W. H. Wyse to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Free Press Office, Corowa, 4 September, 1877.

Reserve 42 in the parish of Quat Quatta is revoked by a notification in the Gazette, dated 22nd August, 1877. There are numbers of intending applicants for the area to be thrown open, and some doubt exists as to the day on which the thirty clear days required by law expires. Would you oblige by telling the exact date.

Your obedient servant,

J. W. H. WYSE.

Minutes on No. 7.

Mr. Thompson,—The thirty days expired on the 21st September. Inform.—25/9/77. Too late to be of any use now. Put away.

No. 8.

J. McElhone, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Sydney, 17 September, 1877.

Enclosed I have the honor to forward you petition from Mr. G. Day, M.L.A., to hand to you, and which I unfortunately did not receive until 6 p.m. from the Assembly by one of the messengers.

Mr. Day states that if the time is stated as p.m., date of publication of revocation, that the thirty days expire on the 20th, on which date it should be open to select. The petition states the same, but states also that the Land Agent will not take the money from selectors until the 27th—that the reserve will fall into the squatters' hands, as he has within the last three days let contracts to sink tanks all over it, to secure it from selection. I have the honor to request that you will at once telegraph Mr. Day and the Land Agent that the reserve is open to selection on Thursday, the 20th, and thus prevent this gross spoliation of the public estate.

It is a monstrous thing to allow any lessee to defraud the public of the picked lands of the Colony, as is being done every day by the lessees in the case of revoked reserves. This 2nd clause is infinitely worse than the 31st, and should be done away with at once, to protect the public interest.

I have, &c.

J. McELHONE.

Minutes on No. 8.

Mr. Thompson, Records,—Both these letters reached me too late for action in favour of the party concerned. They ought not to have been sent to Mr. Lewis at all.—L.G.T., 3/12/77. Sent in accordance with pencil memo. on Mr. McElhone's letter.—J.G.B., 4/12/77.

Mr. Lewis,—Is not the pencil memo. in your handwriting? Too late for action in this Branch. If no further action in your Br. the papers may be put away at Records.—E.B., 14/12/77.

[Enclosure to No. 8.]

Mr. D. Brown to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, River Murray, 11 September, 1877.

Referring to the revocation of Reserve No. 42, parish of Quat Quatta, county Hume, I have the honor to state, on behalf of a large number of intending selectors, that the Land Office day, viz., taking up selections, falls on Thursday, the 20th instant. If the day on which the publication of the revocation is counted, the thirty days on which the land can be selected would be on Thursday, the 20th, but the Land Officer at Corowa distinctly states he will not take selectors' money on the 20th, and as the day for conditional purchases is only once a week he will not permit the selection until Thursday, the 27th instant.

In the meantime the lessee of the run has, within the last three days, let contracts for sinking tanks on every block of the reserve, and intends to assert a right to purchase by virtue of improvements before the Land Office day for conditional purchase arrives.

If the law permits this, the revocation, so far as intending selectors are concerned, is of no value.

With the exception of this reserve it will be observed, on reference to the map, that the run is nearly all selected, and the present lessee only purchased the right of lease from Mrs. Gibbs a few months ago, with the object, it is thought, of obtaining a monopoly of prevention over the reserve. He is the owner of 10,000 acres of the frontages to the river Murray, extending along a river frontage of 9 miles.

In the interest of the public I am desired to urge that fair play may be given to all parties, by permitting selection to take place on the 20th, or, if not possible to do so in accordance with the Act, on the morning of the 21st.

On

On a former occasion of selection on the Brockelsey Run, near Corowa, the run lessee was permitted, under Part 2 of the Land Act, to secure a pre-emption over the pick of the country by simply breaking the surface of the ground. The tanks were not sunk for twelve months after.

It is trusted you can in the interest of selectors see your way to prevent so glaring a monopoly as is now being attempted.

I have, &c.,
DONALD BROWN,
For Selectors.

Re reserve No. 42, county of Hume.

Sir,

Corowa, 28 September, 1877.

I would respectfully beg leave to bring under your notice the following facts in connection with the above, which can be substantiated:—

1. That no improvements whatever were commenced to be put upon the land till seventeen days after the reserve was revoked.

2. That they are not of the necessary permanent character required.

3. That the sole object or use of them being placed there is to secure the land to Mr. Wallace and to keep off conditional purchasers, which object attained, the bulk of them will be removed as being of no further use. A large part of them being represented by engines, renders this easy to do.

It is also generally believed here that at the time the reserve was revoked, Mr. Wallace was not the actual lessee.

The land being worth considerably more than £1 per acre, I would humbly suggest that Mr. Wallace's improvements are not of that character contemplated by the Act, taken together with the character and object of them.

Sir,

Corowa, 29 September, 1877.

I am directed by Mr. Alexander Gallagher, who selected on the 27th instant at the Corowa Land Office 200 acres of land forming part of Reserve 42 (recently revoked) county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, to forward to you a copy of a notice given by him to the Honorable John A. Wallace, the holder of the Quat Quatta Run, with reference to such selection.

I also send, at Mr. Gallagher's request, a copy of a valuation made by Mr. Donald Brown of the improvements upon the land on the day of selection.

It appears that Mr. Wallace has recently made improvements upon the reserve mentioned, and has applied in consideration thereof to purchase the whole area of such reserve. Mr. Gallagher submits that upon the valuation furnished, Mr. Wallace's application should not be entertained, and asks that a full inquiry may be made by your department before concluding that the land selected is barred from conditional purchase.

[Enclosure A to No. 18.]

To the Honorable John A. Wallace, Quat Quatta.

I hereby give you notice that I have this day selected at Corowa, as a conditional purchase, under the 21st section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, two hundred acres of land situated in the county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, and described as follows:—Commencing at the north-west corner of James Irving's portion 52 of 175 acres, parish of Quat Quatta aforesaid; and bounded thence on the north by a line bearing westerly 35 chains; and thence on the west, south, and east by lines bearing southerly, easterly, and northerly respectively, to the point of commencement, to comprise the area; and that by such purchase the pastoral tenure of such land has been cancelled. You are therefore cautioned not to make any improvements upon or adjoining the said land, nor to add to or continue such improvements (if any) as may now be upon or adjoin the same, nor to enter on the said land save within the period and for the purpose mentioned in the 40th section of the Lands Acts Amendment Act, 1875.

Dated this 27th day of September, 1877.

ALEXANDER GALLAGHER.

[Enclosure B to No. 18.]

Mr. D. Brown to Mr. A. Gallagher.

Sir,

I inspected and valued, on the 27th instant, the improvements on the selection made by you on No. 42 reserve, Quat Quatta, yesterday, and submit the following as the result:—One hole tank in a natural swamp, dry about six months of the year; four days' work for two men, @ 7/6 per man per diem, £3; horse and cart, two days, £1 5s. Total, £4 5s.

I consider this no improvement, but estimate the cost expended on a work now abandoned.

Yours, &c.,

DONALD BROWN,

Sworn Valuer to the Shire of Rutherglen.

No. 19.

Mr. E. J. Glascodine to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 29 September, 1877.

I am desired by Mr. Archibald Brown, jun., who selected at Corowa, on the 27th September instant, 280 acres of land, forming part of reserve 42 (recently revoked), county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, to forward to you a copy of a notice given by him to the Honorable John A. Wallace, the holder of the Quat Quatta Run, with reference to such selection. Enclosure A.

I also send at his request, a copy of a valuation made by Mr. Donald Brown, of the improvements upon such land on the day of selection. Enclosure B.

It appears that Mr. Wallace has recently made certain improvements upon the reserve mentioned, and has applied to purchase the whole area thereof in respect of such improvements.

Mr. Archibald Brown, jun., submits that Mr. Wallace's application should not be entertained without full inquiry by your department, as he apprehends that the existing improvements are insufficient to support Mr. Wallace's claim to purchase, and to bar the portion selected by him from conditional purchase.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD J. GLASCODINE.

Minutes on No. 19.

The writer had better be informed that the matter is under reference to the District Surveyor, and that as soon as his report shall have been received all necessary action shall be taken. Then remit to Mr. Rutter, who will, perhaps, forward these papers on to Mr. Wood in connection with those sent him on the 13th December last.—H.A.F., 21st February, 1878. Mr. Glascodine informed, 26/2/78.

Mr. Rutter. Forwarded to Mr. District Surveyor Wood for his observation and return with report, when this matter can be dealt with.—F. W. RUTTER, pro Surveyor General, 14th April, 1878. I have inspected the improvements, and will report in the course of a few days.—J. H. WOOD, D.S., 24/4/78. The Surveyor General. C.S. Branch,—Inform parties interested of above report and return.—F.W.R., 3 May, 1878.

[Enclosure A to No. 19.]

To the Honorable John A. Wallace, Quat Quatta.

I hereby give you notice, that I have this day selected at Corowa, as a conditional purchase, under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, two hundred and eighty acres of land, situated in the county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, and described as below, and that by such purchase the pastoral tenure of such land has been cancelled. You are therefore cautioned not to make any improvements upon or adjoining the said land, nor to add to or continue such improvements (if any) as may now be upon or adjoin the same, nor to enter on the said land, save within the period and for the purpose mentioned in the 40th section of the Lands Acts Amendment Act 1875.

Description:

Being the intersected portion of revoked reserve 42, Quat Quatta; bounded on the north by Beeby's selection made this day; thence south, thence west, thence north, thence east by south boundary of Beeby's selection, to the point of commencement. Dated this 27th day of September, 1877.

ARCHIBALD BROWN, JUN.

[Enclosure B to No. 19.]

Mr. D. Brown to Mr. A. Brown, jun.

Sir,

Wahgunyah, 28 September, 1877.

In accordance with instructions I, yesterday, at 5 o'clock p.m., visited and valued the works now in course of construction by John A. Wallace on the block of land selected by you at Corowa, on the 27th instant, being portion of 42 reserve revoked, parish of Quat Quatta, and the following is my valuation:—

One wooden pine board tongued and grooved shed, 26 ft. x 26 ft., no doors or windows, roofed with iron, not finished	£60 0 0
One well now in course of sinking, mounted with windlass, 20 feet deep, at 5s. per foot, slabbed.....	5 0 0
One hole tank containing 560 yards cube, at 1s. 3d.....	35 0 0
	£100 0 0

Mr. Wallace is, I understand, paying 1s. 3d. for sinking the hole on plain, but the fair value is 1s. 1d.—this is what I have paid, and would reduce the above valuation £4 13s. 4d., leaving balance £95 7s. 4d. as the fair value. I find an old engine on the ground, not fixed or in work. The boiler is damaged. I also find some logs placed on the ground, but the latter engine and logs are no improvement in accordance with the Act. I therefore do not attach any value to them—they are movable and incomplete.

I am, &c.,

DONALD BROWN,

Sworn Valuer to the Shire of Rutherglen.

P.S.—I would state, from a selector's point of view the improvements are of no value—the hole or tank is sunk on a rise, and cannot be naturally used as a reservoir for storing water; moreover, it is within a few hundred yards of the well in course of sinking. The whole appears to be an attempt to bar selection.—DONALD BROWN.

No. 20A.

Mr. E. J. Glascodine to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 29 September, 1877.

I am desired by Mr. Camille Réan, who selected on the 27th instant, at the Corowa Land Office, 370 acres of land forming part of Reserve No. 42 (recently revoked), county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, to forward to you a copy of a notice given by him to the Honorable John A. Wallace, the holder of the Quat Quatta Run, with reference to such selection.

I also send, at Mr. Réan's request, a copy of a valuation made by Mr. Donald Brown of the improvements upon the land on the day of selection.

It appears that Mr. Wallace has recently made improvements upon the reserve mentioned, and has applied to purchase in consideration thereof the whole area of such reserve. Mr. Réan submits that, upon the valuation furnished, Mr. Wallace's application should not be entertained, and asks that a full inquiry may be made by your Department before concluding that the land selected is barred from conditional purchase.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD J. GLASCODINE.

[Enclosure A to No. 20A.]

To the Honorable John A. Wallace, Quat Quatta.

I hereby give you notice that I have this day selected at Corowa, as a conditional purchase under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, three hundred and seventy acres of land, situated in the county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, and described as follows :—Being portion of reserve No. 42, starting from a point about 92 chains north of the Albury Road on the eastern side of reserve; thence running west 35 chains; thence north about 105 chains; thence east 35 chains to the boundary of of reserve, thence south to point of commencement; and that by such purchase the pastoral tenure of such land has been cancelled. You are therefore cautioned not to make any improvements upon or adjoining the said land, nor to add to or continue such improvements (if any) as may now be upon or adjoin the same, nor to enter on the said land, save within the period and for the purpose mentioned in the 40th section of the Lands Acts Amendment Act, 1875.

Dated this 27th day of September, 1877.

CAMILLE RÉAN.

[Enclosure B to No. 20A.]

Mr. D. Brown to Mr. C. Réan.

Sir,

Wahgunyah, 28 September, 1877.

In accordance with your instructions I visited and valued the improvements on the land selected by you in the parish of Quat Quatta, being portion of revoked reserve No. 42.

Mr. M'Naughton accompanied me. I find there are two tanks in course of being excavated, and having carefully measured the contents, I submit the following as the measurements.

No. 1 tank, the approach only is excavated—contains 200 cube yards of excavation at 1s. 3d. per yard cube, £12 10s.; No. 2 tank, approach and about 10 feet cut, 686 cube yards at 1s. 3d., £42 17s. 6d.; total, £55 7s. 6d.

I believe Mr. Wallace is paying 1s. 3d. per yard, but what I have paid for similar work is 1s. 1d., and this is a fair price. This would make a difference of £7 7s. 8d., which deducted from the above amount, would leave £55 7s. 6d.—£7 7s. 8d.—£47 19s. 9d.

I am, &c.,

DONALD BROWN,

Sworn Valuer for the Shire of Rutherglen.

No. 20B.

Mr. G. Beeby to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 2 October, 1877.

I beg most respectfully to draw your attention to a selection made by me, in the county of Hume, parish of Kentucky, on the 27th ultimo, my reason for so doing is that the land had already been applied for, by virtue of improvements, by the Honorable J. Wallace, upon whose run the land is situated.

Upon the land I selected a tank is commenced, and at the outside not more than 400 yards of earth is excavated, of a money value (say) twenty-five pounds (£25).

The improvements about one-third of a mile south of my land is another uncompleted tank, and about 1 mile south from me is a large shed, a well about 80 feet deep, an old mining engine and pumping gear; and I respectfully submit that old portable engines and mining machinery that have not been used for years are not the sort of improvements contemplated by the Act.

Trusting this will have your earnest consideration,—

I am, &c.,

GEO. BEEBY.

Minutes on No. 20B.

Mr. Rutter.—J.W., 11/10/77.

Referred to Mr. Licensed Surveyor Armstrong, for report, and sketch to be transmitted per District Surveyor, of the position of the land conditionally purchased, and character, value and position of improvements thereon erected by the lessee of the run at date of conditional purchase, if possible.

Memorandum by Mr. J. G. Hay.

[Urgent.] Reserve 42, county of Hume, Quat Quatta Run. Mr. Wallace.

THE accompanying matter is the one so frequently alluded to lately in the Legislative Assembly by Mr. McElhone; and in view of the Gazette notices and circulars issued respecting improving reserves, it will be as well perhaps to refuse the whole of the applications that are or may be made in virtue of improvements for any portion of this land; the recent making of which being evidently to defeat taking up the land under the 13th section of the Alienation Act.

If approved of, all parties to be informed.

J. G. HAY,
5 Oct., 1877.Minutes on No. 21.

Submitted, 25/10/77. Mr. T.—This matter having remained so long in abeyance, and the reserve having most probably, since its revocation, been for the most part conditionally purchased, &c., I think any further action is unnecessary unless Mr. Wallace moves again in the case. The general question alluded to in this minute has been considered.—W.W.S., 15th April, 1877.

No. 22.

Mr. E. Clayton to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 16 November, 1877.

Having lately conditionally purchased a portion of the revoked reserve, No. 45,* county of Hume, parish of Corowa, before erecting a residence thereon I would like to know if the selection will be allowed. Will you kindly inform me at your early convenience and much oblige,—

Yours, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON,
Corowa.Minutes on No. 22.

There are two conditional purchases of 320 acres each taken up on 27 September, 1877, one by E. Clayton, jun., and the other by E. Clayton, sen.; the one above referred to cannot be identified. The writer may be informed that the above-mentioned cases are in the hands of Mr. Licensed Surveyor Armstrong for report, and that on the representations of Mr. Day, M.P., Mr. District Surveyor Wood has also had the cases brought under his notice by B.C. instructions of 13 December, 1877. Mr. Day, M.P., may also be advised of the reference to the District Surveyor of all the cases mentioned.—C.E.F., 12 Dec., 1877. The Chief Commissioner. Inform, 18/12/77 (written by A. O. Moriarty).

[Immediate.]
Sir, Corowa, 23 November, 1877.
I am instructed by Mr. Archibald Brown, junior, to draw your attention to the fact that the letter written to you on his behalf by Mr. Edward J. Glascodine, on the 29th September last, with reference to Mr. Brown's conditional purchase made at Corowa, on the 27th of the same month, of 280 acres of land, forming part of revoked reserve 42, county of Hume, parish of Quat Quatta, is still unanswered.

As the time is approaching when Mr. Brown will have to enter into possession of the land for the purpose of fulfilling the condition of residence, in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and as such entry will probably be forcibly opposed by the lessee under his claim of right to the land by virtue of his application to purchase in respect of improvements, I beg leave to draw your attention to the necessity for immediate action on the part of your department in order that Mr. Brown's position may be protected.

No. 36.

Messrs. Wilson & Ranken to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

227, George-street, Sydney, 10 December, 1877.

Understanding that it is the intention of the Government to withdraw from lease that portion of reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta Run, county of Hume, situated between the Albury Road and the Murray River, we, on behalf of the Honorable John A. Wallace, the lessee, beg to state the following facts, with the view of inducing you to retain a portion of that reserve adjoining the Murray River as a reserve from sale only.

With the exception of the river frontage, Quat Quatta Run is destitute of natural water and has to be watered by artificial means; and before the cancellation of any part of reserve No. 42, the lessee had at great expense laid down a boiler, bricks, and pulsometer pump, for the purpose of supplying the back country with water, but if the whole of this land is reserved from lease, he will be placed in a very awkward position.

We have, therefore, on his behalf respectfully to request that a portion of this land fronting the river may not be reserved from lease, but left simply as a reserve from sale for the erection of the necessary improvements for the use of the station, as all public requirements can be equally well met by the reserve from lease of a portion of reserve No. 41.

Mr. E. Clayton to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 13 December, 1877.

I am in receipt of yours notifying that the matter re reserve 42 will be dealt with and disposed of as soon as possible. In reply, I would most respectfully submit the justice of serving both parties with notice of when and where such inquiry will be held, in order to have the question decided justly and not on any ex parte statement. For it is well known and can be authenticated that Mr. Wallace did not commence any improvements till two weeks after the revocation of the reserve was gazetted; that the whole of the actual improvements on the whole of the reserves are not more than £250, and "that he, Mr. Wallace, continued his men at work on the 27th, 28th, 29th September, and 1st and 2nd of October, if not longer, thus working five days at least after the selection by myself and others;" "that the so-called improvements are mainly represented by portable engines, which, as soon as their purpose is effected, will be doubtless removed, as there is no need of them on the ground, and if there was they could not do the work, as there is one at least unfit and dangerous to use.

Referring to my own block, there are not a dozen buckets of water taken out or at present in the well to pump. Moreover, there are several cases of galvanized iron roofing placed unopened upon the ground, which I presume are also included in or as "improvements," and it is only reasonable to assume will be removed again.

I have brought these matters under your notice in order to show the necessity of having the matter properly sifted before being decided upon, and you will oblige,—

Yours, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Corowa, 24 January, 1878.

I am in receipt of yours notifying me that the "requirements of the law cannot be dispensed with" re residence; you also say that if the land was improved when selected, it was not available for selection. See No. 40.

With all due deference, sir, I maintain that Mr. Wallace, not being the Crown lessee when the reserve was revoked, had no right whatever to "improve," and his taking out a license, after the reserve was revoked, and then improving, proves incontestably that his object in doing so was only to get the land. It would also seem to me that the thirty days provided for by the Gazette would be utterly futile for the purpose for which they were meant, if any neighbouring landholder were allowed to take out a license, improve the land, and then claim it by virtue of the improvements. If this is allowable it is only a farce revoking the reserves at all, for in every case the Crown lessee (and if there are none, as in this instance, some one will take out the license and become so), will set up a claim for as much as he can secure, and only what he declines will be available for selection at the end of the thirty days. To my simple mind it would occur that the objects of Act referring to improvements were made to protect those Crown tenants whose necessities compelled an outlay upon Crown Lands, and not framed for the purpose of enabling them to become the possessors of Crown Lands which actually did not require any outlay upon them.

Hoping you will excuse my speaking plainly, for I feel keenly,—

I am, &c.,
EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN.,

See No. 38.

2. With the exception of perhaps a few hundred acres, Quat Quatta Run has now ceased to exist as a run, the land being either alienated, preleased, or reserved from lease.

3. The Hon. J. Wallace is nominally the holder of all the alienated land on the Murray River frontage adjoining the reserve, and as it was to irrigate this land the pump was purchased, it might just as well, for all practical purposes, have been placed on his own land as on the reserve, only he thought that, by erecting it on the reserve, he might perhaps be allowed to purchase it under the 2nd section of the Crown Lands Amendment Act; and it is merely to enable him to carry out his improvements that he wishes the revocation of the reserve from lease.

4. I beg to inform you that the portion reserved from lease is no larger than is necessary for the probable future requirements of the public.

Petition.

To the Honorable the Minister for Lands, Sydney.

The humble prayer of your Petitioners, beg that the following facts may most respectfully be brought under your notice, and that an investigation may be held with regard to them:—

The facts your Petitioners would most pray an investigation into are as follows:—

That on the 22nd day of August, 1877, reserve No. 42, situate in the parishes of Quat Quatta and Kentucky, in the county of Hume, was gazetted as being thrown open to selection.

That thirty clear days from Gazette notice, the said reserve would be available to the public for free selection.

That the thirtieth day happening on Friday, no selection could be effected until the thirty-sixth day after Gazette notice, which was 27th of September, 1877.

That on that day more than forty applicants appeared at the Crown Lands Office, Corowa, to effect selections.

That the whole of the reserve, viz., 1,750 acres, was taken up by free selectors, under the 13th and 21st clauses of the Crown Lands Alienation Act.

That since the date of selection, until the present date, no settlement of the dispute between the Honorable John A. Wallace and the selectors on the said reserve has been arrived at, Mr. Wallace claiming the land in virtue of improvements.

That the said improvements were not commenced until two weeks after revocation of reserve, and were continued ten (10) days after date of selection.

That the said improvements in the eyes of the public are not and could not be considered as improvements under the Act, the principal items being two (2) portable steam-engines.

The improvements were valued, on the day of selection, by competent local valuers, and the bona fide improvements on the whole of the reserve were valued at three hundred and thirty pounds (£330).

That until the matter is settled, the present selectors can only comply with the residence clause, as they have been advised by the Sydney Government to the effect that they should not improve the land until the matter was settled.

That your Petitioners therefore humbly suggest that you will be pleased to order an investigation, and an arbitrator, and that your Petitioners be advised of your intention, so that their arbitrator, which they are entitled to, under clause 28 of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, could be appointed to confer with the arbitrator appointed by the Crown; and also that the statement now advanced by your Petitioners may be substantiated by witnesses to be called on their behalf.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

Mr. E. Clayton to George Day, Esq., M.P.

Dear Sir,

Corowa, 11 April, 1878.

Yours, on receiving petition for presentation to the Minister for Lands in re Quat Quatta reserve I have seen, wherein you stated you would present it to him on the 1st instant.

No results are yet apparent, nor has any reply thereto from the Minister reached us. Under these circumstances, would it not be advisable to ask the Minister, from your place in the House, as to what reply he purposes giving to the petition, or would you deem it advisable for us to petition the House to decide the matter? Being debarred from improving, the consequences of the delay are most disastrous to us, as there is a splendid ploughing season and we cannot take advantage of it, and this season will probably be lost, most certainly so if not at once decided. Awaiting reply,—

I am, &c.,
EDWARD CLAYTON.

Mr. District-Surveyor Wood to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

District Survey Office, Albury, 8 May, 1878.

Referring to your B.C. instructions of the 13th December last, I have the honor to inform you that I have inspected the improvements effected by the Honorable J. A. C. Wallace on reserve No. 46,* lately revoked, and beg to report that I failed to find any of the parties who had selected portions of the reserve, and had to obtain my information from the lessee and his manager.

The area of the revoked portion of the reserve is about 1,700 acres, the whole of which was applied for to purchase under the 2nd section of the Alienation Act by the Honorable J. A. Wallace, prior to the land being selected.

The improvements are as stated by the applicant in his applications—they are bona fide and useful for the purpose intended; the engines are firmly fixed to large beams of wood in the usual way, the sheds over them are substantial and permanent, and the wells are slabbed from top to bottom.

I consider that the land is improved to a value of considerably over £1 per acre.

It is the intention of Mr. Wallace, if allowed, to purchase this land, to go in for irrigation, he having obtained a plentiful supply of water.

The improvements were made, so I was informed, before the land was selected, but as none of the selectors were present I had no opportunity of verifying my informant's statement, but I have no reason whatever to doubt it.

I have, &c.,
JAMES H. WOOD,
District Surveyor.

No. 58.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Corowa, 24 May, 1878.
 Would you please inform me if anything has been done in re reserve No. 42. It is now eight months since these selections were made, and beyond warning us not to improve and promising an inquiry, nothing ostensibly has been done by your department therein.

This is a grievous wrong to those who selected, as not only are they unaware whether their selections will be allowed or no, but they have their means locked up; and even if that were of no moment to them, they are precluded till this matter is decided from trying to avail themselves of other opportunities of providing themselves with lands elsewhere.

Some time ago a petition was forwarded to you largely indorsed by those identified with lands, praying for an investigation of all the circumstances, and we consider we are entitled to this under the Lands Act, yet no reply thereto has been received—not even to acknowledge its receipt—although a report has currency here in circles thought to be worthy of credence, that a decision has been arrived at. If such is the fact, as an old colonist who resided in them prior to the gold advent, I am firmly of opinion that such a line of action is simply sowing the seeds of revolution, and years hence the manner in which this identical reserve passed from the Crown will be cited as a precedent and justification of measures and actions that we now may have no conception of. All that we desire is justice, and the Act provides for an investigation; and if such were granted and an open inquiry held, a large amount of evidence pertinent to the subject would be adduced, which is not likely to ever reach you otherwise. And I can unhesitatingly say that here in the district there is only one opinion about the justice of the case, and that is in our favour; but the doubt is expressed if we can stand against the £ s. d. of our opponent. Glorifying in being a subject of the British Empire, I would almost as soon lose the land as to be forced to the conclusion that in such a late year of Victoria's reign that a poor man's right was of no avail against another's wealth; and I do hope, sir, that you will grant an open inquiry or commission to be held in the district, so as to be within the compass of our means, and thus give us a chance of vindicating our right, and if it does not prevail, there cannot then be a possibility of any reflections being made unfavourable to yourself or administration afterwards by either party.

You must admit, sir, that nearly a year being kept in suspense, not knowing whether we are to make our home upon the land or not, is a very long time; and I can say for myself that the delay and indecision in consequence is almost ruinous.

Therefore, hoping your expeditious and favourable reply,—

I am, &c.,
 EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN.

No. 59.

Mr. E. Clayton, senr., and others to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Corowa, 17 June, 1878.
 We, the undersigned conditional purchasers of reserve 42, beg most respectfully but emphatically to record our protest against the valuation and report sent in by Mr. Woods in this matter, on the following grounds:—

1. When Mr. Woods went over the ground he was accompanied by Mr. J. A. Wallace only, and consequently only what information that was favourable to that gentleman's interest would be made known to him.
2. Mr. Woods would see the various work, &c., in their finished state, and doubtless his report comprises them as they at present are, when, on the day the land was selected, there was not two-thirds of it done, fully one-third of it being completed after the land was selected by us.
3. Under the Lands Act we are entitled to an inquiry, where the evidence we can adduce can be taken, and so set before you, and this we most respectfully but firmly demand as a right due to us; for when the evidence of one side only is taken, it would be unlikely that a just decision would be arrived at.

We have no desire to cast any imputation on any person, but you must allow that it is strong presumption that we are not being fairly dealt with, when Mr. Wallace, who passes 96 per cent. of his time in Melbourne, had intimation of, and could accompany Mr. Woods on his tour of inspection.
 Neither Mr. Woods or the Government, after cautioning us not to improve, could surely ever expect us to pass all our time upon the land in enforced idleness.

We would therefore most earnestly beg of you not to decide this matter till you have granted us the opportunity of showing that what has been so often advanced by us is true, and that if Mr. Woods founded his report on the present state of the land in question it must be incorrect.

Now, sir, the 6th section Crown Lands Alienation Act says the land shall not be sold or otherwise disposed of until such reservation shall have been revoked, and the Gazette Notice of 22nd
 August,

August, 1877, says the revocation is to take effect thirty days from date. We consider that the day Mr. Wallace puts on any improvement, with an object to claim the land for it, he in reality disposes of or alienates the land, in contravention of the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, which towards the end of it says "any alienation except," &c., shall be void.

Had these so-called improvements been delayed till the thirty days had expired might have given the case another aspect, but the day he commenced to improve he disposed or alienated the land in contravention of the Act.

Under these circumstances we hope and trust you will grant us the inquiry we ask, and to be held in the locality, so as not, by the expense of producing the witnesses we desire to produce, place it beyond our means, which will be the effect if not held locally.

We are, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN.

VALUATION of reserve 42, made on the afternoon of 27th September, 1877, by Donald Brown, valuator to the Rutherglenshire Council, and H. St. J. McNaughton, Auctioneer, &c., of Corowa. Starting from the Albury and Corowa Road, northwards.

35 chains fencing, £30; 1 well, 30 ft. deep, windlass, rope, and bucket, £30; 1 shed, £60; 1 tank, 200 yds., at 1s. 3d., £12 10s.; fence, in process of erection, part of the post and rail up (not wired), £12 10s.; 1 tank, about 800 yards, £42 7s. 6d.; tank, very small, £5; shed, £60; tank, £35; well, 15 to 20 feet deep, £5; tank, about 200 yds., £12 10s.; shed erecting, £25; There were also eight cases of galvanized iron roofing laying unopened on the ground in addition to the above.

On the day reserve 42 was opened for selection we went over, viewed, measured, valued the work done upon the land in question, and certify that the above is extreme value for the work done. We are also aware that a large quantity of men were kept at work upon the land for several days after the 27th September.

Mr. A. Brown, jun., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, County Hume, 26 June, 1878.

I respectfully call your attention to my letters of 29th September, 1877, and 23rd November, 1877, forwarded by my solicitors to your department, relative to my selection under section 13 of the Land Act 25 Victoria No. 1, on revoked reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta, not yet acknowledged.

I have respectfully to ask that you will be pleased to deal with this matter without further delay.

I respectfully submit that any improvements effected by the presumed lessee of the run after the 27th September, the day on which the reserve was legally open for selection, cannot be legally recognized.

May I inquire whether the licenses of the Quat Quatta and Kentucky Runs were properly transferred in the books of your department to John A. Wallace, on the 27th September, 1878.

No. 61.

Mr. A. Brown to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 29 June, 1878.

Adverting to documents and correspondence forwarded by my solicitors and myself to your department relative to the selection made by me on revoked reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta, county Hume, I feel it a grievous injustice that a settlement has not yet been made as to the disputed claim of John A. Wallace, the lessee of the run, who claims a pre-emption of purchase by virtue of improvements, which I dispute (vide correspondence and declaration of valuations sent by me to your department). I selected this land on 27th September, 1877, and took possession within the time prescribed by the Act. Since then I commenced to plough the land, and was prevented by the overseer of Mr. Wallace. I now learn that Mr. Woods, the District Surveyor, has, in company with Mr. Wallace and his solicitor, visited this reserve for the purpose of reporting to your department on the disputed improvements. Neither I nor any other selectors had any notice of this visit, and Mr. Wallace, the lessee of the run, apparently had notice. This is an injustice to me. I ask respectfully for a fair and impartial investigation under the clause of the Land Act which provides for such cases as this. Why should Mr. Wallace's ex parte statement be taken and I not have an opportunity of substantiating my right?

I maintain Mr. Wallace had not the improvements on the land—when I selected—required by law, to entitle him to any preferential claim, and am prepared to substantiate my claim before any impartial Board.

I am in receipt of your printed circular of the 5th March, 1878, cautioning me against improving, as my application will be cancelled should it be found, after inquiry, that the improvements alluded to are of sufficient value to bar selection. In reply thereto, I have every confidence that the improvements were not, when I selected, of sufficient value to bar selection, and any improvements, made subsequent to the revocation and my selection I ignore. I had a professional valuation of the improvements made, the very day I selected, which valuation is in your office.

I am out of my money now nearly twelve months, and in consequence of being prevented by the lessee and by your letter, I have lost last season's ploughing and cropping. I now give you notice that I again put on my teams to-morrow to fallow plough my selection, and am prepared to assert my rights thereto.

Re reserve No. 42.

Corowa, 8 July, 1878.

Sir,

In order to give you some further insight into the real facts of the case, I forward you two letters which appeared in the local papers last week. The delay in deciding this case has been a very great hardship on those who selected upon it; for not only have they lost a very favourable season for work, but they have had ten months uncertainty whether they will ultimately get their land or no; and if the latter should result, see the disadvantage they would now be in to again select after the available lands in the district have had ten months culling out by those who have since taken up land during that time, independent of the loss of the use of their money and all their trouble.

Enclosed.

Trusting you will take these matters into consideration,— I am, &c., EDWARD CLAYTON.

[Enclosure A to No. 62.]

EXTRACT from Corowa Free Press.—5 July, 1878.

To the Editor. Sir,

Blackwood v. Dobbin.

In your last issue, in your article on the above, you stated that it and the Quat Quatta affair were almost identical. Permit me to say I consider there is a very wide difference. In the first place, there does not seem to be any doubt about Blackwood being the lessee; in our case there is, for on making application to the Crown Lands Occupation Branch, I received a reply that Mr. Wallace became the lessee on the 6th of September, 1877. The reserve was notified to be withdrawn on the 22nd August preceding, and to take effect thirty days afterwards.

Blackwood appears to have commenced his improvements before the notification of the reserve being withdrawn appeared in the Gazette, whereas in our case no improvement was started till fourteen or sixteen days after.

Blackwood could say, and it would be very hard to disprove it, that it was for the necessities of the station that he had to improve.

In ours, if Mr. Wallace was put upon his oath, could he say truly that he had any other object in view than to become possessed of the land in commencing improvements fourteen days after he had, as it were, "notice to quit," or if he did say otherwise, how many would be found to believe him?

Well, sir, admitting such to have been his object—and it would be difficult indeed, at least for him, to prove he had any other—how would this accord with the Act, which says any disposal or alienation before the reserve is revoked shall be void; for did he not dispose of the land when he began improvements that he deemed would preclude any person but himself from buying it; and did he not alienate the land when he founded a claim upon it that he deemed the Government were bound to acknowledge?

A high legal luminary once said that common law was common sense embodied in words; and the evident intention of the framers of the Land Act was to indemnify any run-holder whose necessities compelled him to improve reserved land, and it would be a gross libel upon them to say it was made to enable lessees to become proprietors to the exclusion of every one else. Such, I think, is a common sense view, and will be found, I believe, to be law also, if we have a fair hearing upon it.

Yours, &c., E. CLAYTON.

[Enclosure B to No. 62.]

EXTRACT from Albury Banner.—July 6th, 1878.

To the Editor of the Albury Banner. Sir,

Correspondence.—Blackwood v. Dobbin.

I must take exception to your article on this matter when you say it is similar to the Quat Quatta question; there is some similarity, but a wide difference.

In the above case the pastoral tenant (whose title to that term is not disputed, and in ours it is) began his improvements before there was any notice in the Gazette of the revocation being about to take place, where as in our case no improvement whatever was commenced till fourteen days after the Gazette notified that thirty days afterwards the "revocation would take effect."

Now, the 6th section of the Act says that land reserved shall not be alienated or disposed of for any purpose excepting that for which it was reserved, and definitely states that any alienation or disposal before being revoked shall be void; and the revocation was not completed till the expiry of thirty clear days from the notice dated 22nd August, 1877. Now, sir, if a pastoral tenant bona fide improved Crown Lands before there was any notification of the reservation being about to be removed, there might be a doubt about his object in so doing, and it would be difficult to prove against him that his only object was to get the land; but when, as in our case, there was not one shilling's worth of improvements effected till fourteen days after the Gazette notice appeared of its being about to be withdrawn from reserve, there is not, or cannot be, any possibility of doubt that the whole object of them was just to set up a claim to the land in consequence of them. Is not this "disposing of" or "alienating" it in contravention of the Act, for every action must have a dating point, and many things harmless of themselves, but done with an ostensible object, become illegal?

Thus, in the case of a man lighting a match to set fire to his house, his crime will commence with the striking of the match; and in the same manner, when Mr. Wallace put in a spade or an improvement whereby to set up a title for or to the land, he then and there violated the 6th section of the Act, for he did what that section says shall not be done, i.e. "disposed" of it; and he, knowing the land was being withdrawn from reserve, plainly shows that that was his object. Had the improvements been necessary for other purposes, why were they not commenced before the notice, as I gather from your article they were in Blackwood v. Dobbin—and there is the difference in the two cases? But it cannot be denied that the so-called improvements were only to claim the land, and such was openly avowed by all employed at them; and were Mr. Wallace's claim allowed, it would be doing what the Act says shall not be done. For did he not, in commencing them before the expiry of the thirty days, "dispose or alienate" the land to all intents and purposes, for it would be a pretty safe "disposal" when no one but himself could buy it, and very much like an "alienation" setting up a claim if the Crown were bound to acknowledge his claim when set up? But, sir, I am firmly of opinion that the fact of no improvements having been commenced till after the notice was given of revocation confines him to the one object he had in view in putting them there; and if his acts had the effect he desired and meant them to have, they would be illegal according to the Act, and such, I hope, will be found to be the case when it comes to be decided.

With thanks for space,— I am, &c., "QUAT QUATTA SELECTOR."

No. 63.

Mr. E. Clayton to J. McElhone, Esq., M.P.

Corowa, 5 August, 1878.

Dear Sir,

Received 15 October, 1878.

I have not the pleasure of being acquainted with you, but your fame as the friend of justice and enemy of oppressors has reached here long since, and I am induced to apply to you under the following circumstances. In

In this county (Hume) reserve 42 was notified in Gazette, 22nd August, 1877, would be revoked thirty clear days afterwards, which would make the date of the revocation 22nd September, 1877.

On the first selection day after 27th September about forty applied for portions; lots were drawn by the Lands Officer, and six were successful—myself and son being of the number. In the meantime the adjoining squatter, Mr. Wallace, employed all the hands he could get, and put them to work fencing, tank-sinking, got three sheds from Melbourne, and in two of them put a worn-out portable engine each, and commenced two wells to supply them (I suppose), and then claims the whole by virtue of improvements, when up to 6th September there was not 20s. worth upon it. We believe that at this time he had neither lease or pre-lease, as there being no Crown Lands except reserves and roads it had been allowed to lapse; for, on applying to the "Occupation Branch," I received the information that the lease was issued to him on the 6th of September, 1877, and this was when he started his improvement, fourteen days after the Gazette notice. After we selected, we each gave him notice to desist working upon the land, but notwithstanding, he continued working upon them for about a fortnight afterwards.

On making application to the Government if "our purchase would be allowed," we were "cautioned not to improve," and an inquiry promised us; but although now over a year this has never been held, but, about a month ago, I received a letter from the Chief Commissioner that "the surveyor had reported sufficient improvement to bar selection; but should we object to the surveyor's valuation, upon payment into the Treasury of 21s. each, we could have the value of the improvements determined by appraisal." We sent the money, but requested the Minister to grant us an inquiry into the whole circumstances, and at the same time setting forth all the facts of the case. The receipt of the money has been acknowledged, and there it stands; evidently it is intended to wear us out; indeed we would have been ruined by the delay ere this had we been relying upon this matter only, and as it has turned out it is fortunate for myself that I did not succeed in disposing of my present business when I tried to, after drawing the selection; even as it is, it has been a very serious matter, fulfilling the residential clause so long, and at the same time being precluded from the use of the land and the use of our money into the bargain.

Now, sir, the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 says, "that after any land shall have been temporarily revoked,* the same shall not be sold or otherwise disposed of until such reservation shall have been revoked," which was not effected till the 22nd September; and we are of opinion that every particle of the improvements by which Mr. Wallace claims have been placed there illegally, irrespective of the value of them; for having only commenced them fourteen days after the date of the notice of revocation, it plainly proves, nor can he deny, that the whole object in putting them there was to get the land through them; and the latter part of the 6th section before quoted says, that even a conveyance from Her Majesty would be void before the reserve was revoked; therefore Mr. Wallace's trying to dispose of the land to himself by placing improvements upon it must be illegal, besides which we are in a position to prove—for we had them valued at the time—that there was not a single piece of work done when we selected of the value of £40, apart from the engines and sheds; nor can it be "needful or beneficial" to erect steam-pumping machinery for watering purpose, with the Murray only 1½ mile away, or erect steam saw-mill when there is no sawing timber for miles; nor can portable engines be termed improvements of "a fixed character," which the Act says they must be, to be as well as "needful and beneficial," before they can rank as such improvements that give the lessee the right to purchase, even if legally placed there, which, as their openly avowed object was to get the land, and was thereby "disposing" of it in contravention of the law, the whole proceeding is illegal.

Will you, sir, try and help us; we feel we are in the right, but we are being humbugged most awfully, and is causing us serious loss. Mr. George Day has tried to expedite matters, but, having been able to do so little for all the trouble it has caused him, we cannot wonder if he were sick of it; I would be so if in his place; and though grateful to him for all he has done and tried to do for us, we think perhaps you might be willing to help us, and might see how to do it.

If you can help us, or assist Mr. Day in his efforts, we would ever remember you gratefully; more we cannot say, for those who usually do good do so for itself alone; but we would requite the good turn if it ever lay in our power. Hoping, sir, every success you deserve,—

I am, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON.

Messrs. E. Clayton, sen. and jun., to The Secretary for Lands.

Re reserve 42.

Sir,

Corowa, 6 August, 1878.

Nearly eleven months have transpired since myself and son selected our land. A short time afterwards we received "caution" not to improve, referring, I presume, that in the event of our selections not being allowed us, the Crown would not be called upon to reimburse us for our money or labour expended, should we choose to do so.

Relying upon the justice of our position, we are quite prepared to risk this and go on with our improvements, if we could feel reasonably assured that an action for trespass could not be maintained against us; and the fear of this, and being involved in a lawsuit, only deters us from doing so, the time for which being completed in is now shortened by nearly a year.

Will you please advise us, or, in other words, having conditionally purchased and fulfilled our part of the bargain, do you deem or acknowledge us as the ostensible occupiers of the land in question, and you will oblige,—

Yours respectfully,

EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN. & JUN.

No. 67.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., and others to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir, Corowa, 9 September, 1878.

Yours to hand in re reserve 42, not 46 (now revoked). In reply, we most emphatically protest against this matter being decided upon any surveyor's report, for the following reasons:—

1st. That at the time the notice appeared in the Gazette, that the reserve would be revoked upon the 22nd of September, 1877, Mr. Wallace was not the Crown lessee, nor did he have a promise of lease for the Quat Quatta portion, nor did he become so till fifteen days afterwards, viz., on 6th of September.

2nd. That the value of the improvements is only a secondary matter, for we maintain he had no right to put them there at all, that they are neither "necessary nor beneficial," as required by the Act; and the fact of his only commencing them on the 7th September, 1877, sixteen days after the notice of revocation appeared, and knowing that there were no Crown Lands available for lease except reserves and roads; knowing also that any right of occupation he acquired by taking out the lease or license would be at an end in two weeks in regard to reserve 42 (nearly all, or at least the major part of all the land for which the license could apply), precludes him from the plea that the so-called improvements were "necessary or beneficial," and shows that his motive was only to secure the land; this at the time was never denied or disguised. This is in direct contravention of the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, which says:—"after any land shall have been temporarily reserved, the same shall not be sold or otherwise disposed of until such reservation shall have been revoked, &c.," and the Gazette notice, 22nd August, says:—"the revocation to take effect thirty clear days from this notice," which would make the date of revocation 22nd September.

3rd. The improvements by which he claims the land are not such as would entitle him to it, or such as described by the 3rd and 4th section of the Crown Lands Amendment Act of 1875; for if they were necessary or beneficial as therein stated they must be, why were they not put on before, and what circumstances other than the land being available for selection by others made it necessary to rush them on in a fortnight?

4th. That even supposing Mr. Wallace to have been the bonâ fide lessee (which we do not admit) when the notification of revocation appeared, and had not at least commenced his improvements prior to that notice, his then rushing them on afterwards plainly proves his object in doing so, viz., to secure the purchase of the land; and we maintain that any act done with that object is illegal according to the 6th section of the Act before quoted; for any action of his that prevents every one but himself from buying it certainly "disposes" of it, and the moment he starts any work for the purpose of founding a claim to the land that he deems the Crown is bound to acknowledge, he virtually "alienates" it; and the latter part of the 6th section before quoted says that even a conveyance from Her Majesty would be void before the reserve was revoked, which was not completed till 22nd September. We have petitioned you, and so have the public to grant an investigation by a commission or commissioner appointed by you to be held locally, for we are in a position to prove that fully one-half of the so-called improvements were placed upon the land after it was selected by us; for although, doubtless, it may appear a small matter to you, yet the principle involved is of far greater moment than it appears at first sight, and amounts to this,—that if such a flagrant perversion of the Act is allowed, that the Crown lessees can have any or all the lands they choose, and the only lands available for settlement are those they deem worthless, or have not the means to take up; and in this instance, if the lessee once succeeds in getting the fee simple of the land, all that will remain of the £2,000 improvements will be a few all but useless tanks, when if right prevailed, half a dozen families would be earning their living off it. And setting aside the two engines and sheds, there is not an improvement of the value of £40, nor do we think, sir, the framers of the Act would deem it "needful or beneficial" to erect steam pumping machinery within a mile and a quarter from the river, or a steam saw-mill, and sink a well for supply of same, when there is no sawing timber within five or six miles. This is what they are supposed to represent, but being old and worn out it would be dangerous to use them for it; all this could be proved were a commission appointed or an arbitration; but we think, sir, it lays with you to decide whether such shall be deemed improvements or not, and whether a license for pastoral pursuits pursuits in his pocket enables a person to obtain as much land as he desires to the exclusion of all others. If such is the case, all we can say is, that the lands do not belong either to the Crown or public, but to those fortunate persons the Crown lessees, and the only question that remains in abeyance over yet unsold Crown Lands is the individual amount that shall belong to each of them.

Before proceeding further in the matter, we would respectfully desire you to well consider the reasons stated, and grant our petition for a commission, for you could endow that with any power you chose, even to finally settle the matter; whereas, as we understand the province of appraisers, they would only be able to determine the value of the works, irrespective of their right to be there, or as to their being of the class required by the Act, viz., "necessary and beneficial, and of a fixed character." Portable engines cannot belong to the latter class, and the sheds having been made and fitted in Melbourne prior to being set up where they are, engine sheds and all in connection could be removed off the ground without deterioration of the value of £10, and we protest against their being taken as improvements, and hope in the event of your not acceding to our prayer for a commission, you will so instruct the arbitrators or appraisers; for the fee required for which, please find enclosed £1 1s. each for myself and son.

Sir,

Corowa, County Hume, 9 September, 1878.

Mr. Clayton has shown me a letter from your department, dated 4th instant, relative to the selections on reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta, stating the surveyor has reported improvements of sufficient value to bar selection.

I beg to say, I am surprised no reply has been received to my correspondence, I having selected on the same day as Mr. Clayton.

I deny there were sufficient improvements on the land to bar selection on the 27th of September, 1877, in accordance with the Act, and demand an appraisalment.

I refer you to my valuation, forwarded to your department on the 29th of September, two days after selection, and now enclose Post Office order for one guinea to be paid into the Treasury.

No. 70.

Précis of the case by Mr. J. G. Hay.

Quat Quatta reserve 42, county Hume.

A WATER reserve, No. 42, in the county of Hume and on the Quat Quatta Run, was notified 24th December, 1861, subsequent extensions were made thereto in 1865 and 1873, until it extended from the Oil-tree Lagoon to the river Murray; the area of this reserve, about 2,400 acres, eventually became almost the last of the run, and was finally purchased by the Honorable J. A. Wallace of Victoria.

In November, 1875, a petition was received from selectors, &c., of Quat Quatta, stating they had no grazing rights, and that the lessee, Mr. Gibb, had sub-let this reserve to the Honorable J. A. Wallace, a freeholder of 9,000 acres, for grazing purposes, at a rental of £20 per annum, and that he was rigorously enforcing the Impounding Act over the said reserve; they further prayed that this reserve might be converted into a public common.

Mr. Secretary Garrett directed a report to be obtained without delay, and also drew Mr. Pretious' attention to the statement as to the lessee sub-letting.

Upon

Upon report of Mr. T. L. Crommelin, Crown Lands Commissioner, with whom Mr. District Surveyor Wood agreed, it was deemed inadvisable to make the commonage, but it was directed by Mr. Garrett, 14th June, 1876, that the reserve should be revoked at the end of the year; the petitioners were informed to this effect, and on their behalf Mr. Donald Brown wrote in again urging the immediate cancellation of the reserve.

This letter was at once referred to the Survey Office, from which, however, it was not despatched to Mr. District Surveyor Wood until the 14th June, 1877. This officer recommended portions of the reserve for travelling stock, camping, &c. and on the 22nd August, 1877, the balance, amounting to 1,750 acres, was notified in the Government Gazette as to be revoked at the expiration of thirty clear days from that date.

Immediately upon observing this, the Honorable J. A. Wallace wrote in, stating his case as one of peculiar hardship, and begging a postponement of the revocation for another season or two; no reply was sent to this letter and the reserve was duly revoked, but the first day after the thirty clear days happened to fall on a Friday, so that free selection was not available until the following Thursday, 27th September, 1877; on that day six selectors were drawn for by ballot out of about forty.

The Honorable J. A. Wallace's applications (I.P., 77, 3,007-9) to purchase in virtue of improvements, are dated the day before, that is, the 26th September, 1877, and are for the whole area, 1,750 acres.

Quat Quatta Run, on date of notification, 22nd August, 1877, was held by the executors of the late Henry Gibbs, and only transferred to the Honorable J. A. Wallace on the 6th September, 1877.

In a numerously signed petition, presented by George Day, Esq., M.P., 3rd April, 1878, among other matters, it was stated that the improvements were not commenced until two weeks after revocation (?) of reserve and were continued ten days after date of selection; also it was stated, "The improvements were valued on the day of selection by competent local valuers, and the bona fide improvements on the whole of the reserve were valued at £330."

The conditional purchase applications were referred to Mr. District-Surveyor Wood for his report as to Wallace's improvements; his report, a copy of which is appended, is slightly at variance with a previous one on 30th January, 1878, in which he states:—"The Honorable J. A. Wallace is nominally the holder of all the alienated land on the Murray River frontage adjoining the reserve, and as it was to irrigate this land the pump was purchased, it might just as well, for all practical purposes, have been placed on his own land as on the reserve, only he thought, by erecting it on the reserve he might perhaps be allowed to purchase it under the 2nd section of the Crown Lands Amendment Act, and it is merely to enable him to carry out his improvements that he wishes the revocation of the reserve from lease."

Upon District-Surveyor Wood's report of 8th of May, 1878, the C.P. applications were recommended to be declared void. The applicants, however, were informed, 4th September, 1878, that they had the option of having the value of the improvements existing at the date of their respective purchases determined by appraisal in the usual way; the fees have been since paid, but no instructions to appraise have been yet prepared.

J. G. HAY,

[Enclosures to No. 70.]

Mr. District-Surveyor Wood's report on the improvements of reserve 42, Quat Quatta, county Hume. :
Albury, 8 May, 1878.

Sir,
Referring to your B.C. instructions of the 13th December last, I have the honor to inform you that I have inspected the improvements effected by the Honorable J. A. Wallace on reserve 42, lately revoked, and beg to report that I failed to find any of the parties who had selected portions of the reserve, and had to obtain my information from the lessee and his manager.

The area of the revoked portion of the reserve is about 1,700 acres, the whole of which was applied for to purchase under the 2nd section of the Act, by the Honorable J. A. Wallace prior to the land being selected.

The improvements are as stated by the applicant in his applications—they are bona fide and useful for the purpose intended; the engines are firmly fixed to large beams of wood in the usual way, the sheds over them are substantial and permanent, and the wells are slabbed from top to bottom.

I consider that the land is improved to a value of considerably over £1 per acre.

It is the intention of Mr. Wallace, if allowed to purchase the land, to go in for irrigation, he having obtained a plentiful supply of water.

The improvements were made, so I am informed, before the land was selected, but as none of the selectors were present, I had no opportunity of verifying my informant's statement, but I have no reason whatever to doubt it.

I have, &c.,

The Surveyor-General, Sydney.

JAMES H. WOOD.

Protest of the selectors to the foregoing report.

The Honorable Minister for Lands.

Corowa, 17 June, 1878.

We, the undersigned conditional purchasers of reserve 42, beg most respectfully but emphatically to record our protest against the valuation and report sent in by Mr. Wood in this matter, on the following grounds:—

1. When Mr. Wood went over the ground, he was accompanied by Mr. J. A. Wallace only, and consequently only what information that was favourable to that gentleman's interest would be made known to him.
2. Mr. Wood would see the various works, &c., in their finished state, and doubtless his report comprises them as they at present are, when on the day the land was selected there was not two-thirds of it done, fully one-third of it being completed after the land was selected by us.
3. Under the Lands Act we are entitled to an inquiry, where the evidence we can adduce can be taken and so set before you; and this we most respectfully but firmly demand as a right due to us, for when the evidence of one side only is taken it would be unlikely that a just decision would be arrived at.

We have no desire to cast any imputation on any person, but you must allow that it is strong presumption that we are not being fairly dealt with when Mr. Wallace, who passes ninety-six per cent. of his time in Melbourne, had intimation of and could accompany Mr. Wood on his tour of inspection.

Neither Mr. Wood or the Government, after cautioning us not to improve, could surely ever expect us to pass all our time upon the land in enforced idleness.

We

We would, therefore, most earnestly beg of you not to decide this matter till you have granted us the opportunity of showing that what has been so often advanced by us is true, and that if Mr. Wood founded his report on the present state of the land in question it must be incorrect.

Now sir, the 6th section Crown Lands Alienation Act says, the land "shall not be sold or otherwise disposed of until such reservation shall have been revoked," and the Gazette notice of 22nd August, 1877, says the revocation is to take effect thirty days from date. We consider that the day Mr. Wallace puts on any improvement with an object to claim the land for it, he in reality disposes of or alienates the land, in contravention of the 6th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act, which towards the end of it says, "any alienation &c. shall be void." Had these so-called improvements been delayed till the thirty days had expired might have given the case another aspect, but the day he commenced to improve, he disposed or alienated the land in contravention of the Act.

Under these circumstances, we hope and trust you will grant us the inquiry we ask, and to be held in the locality, so as not by the expense of producing the witnesses we desire to produce place it beyond our means, which will be the effect if not held locally.

This précis of the Quat Quatta reserve case is submitted for the information and decision of the Minister for Lands.—W.W.S., 25th October.

The statements relative to the value and nature of the improvements is very conflicting. The fairest way between all parties concerned will be to have an inquiry into the matter. Mr. Rose should be requested to inquire into the whole matter, as to the value and character of the improvements, and when they were effected, &c. Of course it is to be understood that Mr. Rose, in this case, will not act in the capacity of a commissioner of a conditional purchase Court, but simply as a gentleman specially selected to investigate the matter. All parties concerned should be notified of the day of inquiry.—J.S.F., 28/10/78.

No. 71.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. Commissioner Rose.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 6 November, 1878.

I am directed by the Minister for Lands to request that you will be good enough, at your earliest opportunity, to make a full investigation into the value, the character, and the date of erection of the improvements upon the revoked portion of water reserve No. 42, in the county of Hume, parishes of Kentucky and Quat Quatta, which has been applied for by and is in dispute between six conditional purchasers and the Hon. J. A. Wallace; and further to request that before proceeding with the inquiry, you will notify to each person interested the day upon which you purpose holding it.

I

Papers herewith.
To be returned.

I am to state, for your information, that on the 27th August, 1877, it was notified in the Government Gazette that the portion of the reserve in question, comprising 1,750 acres, would thirty days after that date be revoked. This period expired on a Friday. On the following Wednesday, 26 September, 1877, the Hon. J. A. Wallace applied for the land in virtue of improvements, and on Thursday, the 27th September, it was conditionally purchased by Edward Clayton, sen., Camille Réan, Alexander Gallagher, Geo. Beeby, Archd. Brown, and Edward Clayton, jun., respectively. Various representations have been made regarding the improvements. It has been alleged that their erection was not commenced until a fortnight after revocation, and was continued ten days after selection. It has been stated that they were valued at date of selection by competent local valuers, and on the whole of the reserve were estimated at £330.

A report favourable to the Hon. J. A. Wallace has been furnished by Mr. District Surveyor Wood, which, on several grounds, has been strongly protested against by the conditional purchasers.

In consideration of such conflicting representations the Minister for Lands has decided to submit the case to you for report, and in doing so wishes you to understand that in entering upon your inquiry you are not to act in the capacity of a commissioner of a conditional purchase Court, but merely as a gentleman specially selected to investigate the matter.

No. 74.

Mr. E. Clayton to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, 20 January, 1879.

It is now considerably over a year since I wrote to your department to know if the selections made by myself and son on what was reserve 42, county of Hume, on the 27th September, 1877, would be acknowledged by you.

The length of time it has taken to answer this question has had a most disastrous effect upon all who then selected land; for not only have they been debarred from getting other land, but they have been debarred from the use of this land, and their money also, in fact to men of small means it is quite within the mark to say it is or almost ruinous to them, the matter being so long in uncertainty, for till decided it precludes them from anything else.

It is now full eight months since the public prints reported that surveyors had received instructions to survey the land for us, but it has not been done, although land selected six months afterwards has been long since surveyed.

The

The inquiry promised over a year ago has been terminated over a month now ; and if, as it appears, there is no use appealing to the justice of our case, do, sir, in mercy give a decision in the case, for even supposing we have been so presumptuous as to select land that a squatter desired for himself and tried to obtain, it would be more merciful to hang every one of us who did so than keep us another year in the suspense we have been in since 27th September, 1877.

Yours, &c.,
EDWARD CLAYTON.

P.S.—I have used the term "squatter" as applying to Mr. J. A. Wallace, but beyond having land adjoining, and having advanced money to Mrs. H. Gibbs, he had no more claim to that title before the 6th September, 1877, than I have at present, and his so-called improvements had to be delayed till he became such.—E.C.

No. 75.

The Deputy Surveyor General to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Armstrong.

(Circular.)

Sir,

Surveyor General's Office, Sydney, 22 January, 1879.

In directing your immediate attention to the instruction, noted at foot hereof, I have to request that you will be good enough to furnish me, within a week after receipt of this communication, with a report, stating cause of delay, and when I am to expect action will be taken thereon.

Should it appear that unnecessary delay has taken place I shall act as the case may deserve, having now twenty surveyors whose services are available in reduction of the arrears of the department.

I am, &c.,

ROBT. D. FITZGERALD,
(For Surveyor General).

"I am of opinion that the surveyors to whom the instructions in the fresh list were issued should be called upon to explain why they have not acted in compliance with their instructions ere this, indeed it appears that if the Surveyor General were to take such steps as would lead to the removal from the Service of such surveyors as are generally in the habit of omitting to proceed with reasonable expedition with their work, that such a course of action would tend to infuse something like a more active sense of responsibility in the minds of surveyors employed on field duty."

Minute on No. 75.

Herewith I return the C. P. *application 77/121, the land therein referred to being situated on reserve No. 42, parish of Quat Quatta, and forming part of the land in dispute between the selectors and the Hon. J. A. Wallace, the case in connection with which has been referred to Mr. Commissioner Rose. I presume that no action can be taken in the matter of this C.P. until the report of the Commissioner has been dealt with by the Minister for Lands.—J. ARMSTRONG, L.-S., 29 January, 1879.

No. 77.

Mr. Commissioner Rose to The Under Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Albury, 3 February, 1879.

In accordance with your instructions of the 6th November last, I have made an investigation See No. 71. into the matter of the Honorable John Alston Wallace's applications for the purchase of certain lands within the revoked reserve at Quat Quatta, and I now do myself the honor to submit my report for the consideration of the Honorable the Minister for Lands.

The following witnesses were examined by me:—

For Mr. Wallace—

John Alston Wallace.
J. H. Wood, District Surveyor, Albury.
C. H. Roope, solicitor, Corowa.
John Lang, proprietor of saw-mill, Stanley.
James M'Lean, farmer, Quat Quatta.
John Gushett, selector, do.
John M'Ewan, farmer, do.
Wm. M'Kay, late overseer, Quat Quatta Station.
James Strachan, tank-sinker.
John Martin, builder, Corowa.

For conditional purchasers—

Henry St. John M'Naughton, commission agent, Corowa.
Donald Brown, valuator to Shire, Council of Rutherglen, Victoria.
Alexander Gallagher, selector, Quat Quatta.
Charles Butcher, machinist.
Edward Clayton, selector, Quat Quatta.

Application for the purchase of these lands was made by Mr. Wallace, lessee of the Quat Quatta Run, on the 26th September, 1877, under the 2nd section of the Crown Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875.

My investigation was directed to the following questions:—

1. Were the improvements, in virtue of which Mr. Wallace claimed to purchase these lands, on the lands at the time the applications were made by him?
2. What was the value of the improvements?
3. Were the improvements of such a character as to give Mr. Wallace a claim to purchase under the section of the Act referred to?

1. As to the time the improvements were placed on the lands applied for by Mr. Wallace, Mr. Wallace asserts that the operations connected with them were carried on simultaneously, and that they were completed with the exception of a few trifling matters, by the 26th September, 1877, the date of his applications to purchase. Mr. M'Kay corroborates this general statement, and the other witnesses produced by Mr. Wallace also confirm it as regards the works which came under their special attention.

The evidence of Messrs. M'Naughton, Brown, Gallagher and Clayton, does not contradict this evidence materially.

I see no reason to doubt that the improvements mentioned in Mr. Wallace's applications were, with a few trifling exceptions, completed by the 26th September 1877.

2. As to the value of these improvements.—The evidence on this point is extremely discordant. For ease of reference and for purposes of comparison, I have set down in a tabular form in the papers appended to this report, the estimate of value put upon the works by the various witnesses. Mr. M'Naughton's evidence I dismiss altogether from consideration, because he displays utter ignorance of the matters which he was put forward to speak of as an expert.

The weight of Mr. Donald Brown's testimony is very much reduced by his statements about the well, which, taken together with his admission of a pecuniary interest in trying to defeat Mr. Wallace's claim to the purchase of this land, produced in my mind a suspicion that he was somewhat strongly biased by feeling in giving his evidence. Further, immediately after admitting that he knows nothing whatever of the value of engines, he presumes to put a value on one of Mr. Wallace's engines.

The evidence of the witnesses Butcher, Gallagher, and Clayton, is strongly opposed to that of the men who took part in effecting the improvements, one as a builder, one as an engineer, others as tank-sinkers, &c.

I prefer the evidence of these men to that of those three persons, for they speak of matters with which they were necessarily acquainted, and their testimony is given clearly and intelligently. For example, Mr. Martin is a builder of considerable experience, and, in my opinion, is more likely to know the cost of the buildings which he speaks about than either Mr. Gallagher or Mr. Clayton. For a like reason, I prefer very much the evidence of Mr. Lang to that of Mr. Butcher. On the whole, it appears to me probable that the value put by Mr. Wallace on the fences, wells, tanks, engines, &c., specified in his applications for the land, is not very much in excess of what these things are worth or cost.

3. As to the character of the improvements.—Were they of a kind to give Mr. Wallace a claim to the purchase of the lands upon which they were placed under the provisions of the second section of the Crown Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875? There can be no question as to the fixed character of the tanks, wells, and fences. I think that the buildings fall within the same category. The evidence as to the manner in which which the engines are fixed is very contradictory, but the witnesses most likely to have a correct knowledge of this matter state that they were bedded on logs sunk into the soil and fastened to the logs by bolts or rods, which passed through the logs and penetrated into the soil.

The question arises,—Does this mode of attachment to the soil constitute these engines cateris paribus improvements of a fixed character, within the meaning of section 2 of the Crown Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1861? On this subject perhaps I may refer to "Broom's Legal Maxims," p. 373, 3rd edition. He says,—“In regard to the question whether certain machines were to be deemed parcel of the freehold or not, it has been observed that it was really one of fact, depending on the particular circumstances of the case, and principally on two considerations: 1st. The mode and extent of annexation to the soil or fabric of the house, whether the machines could easily be removed integre, salve et commode, or not, without injury thereto or to the fabric of the building; 2ndly. On the object and purpose of the annexation, whether it was for the permanent and substantial improvement of the dwelling—in the language of the Civil Law, perpetui usus causa, or in that of the Year-Book, pour un profit de l'inheritance, or merely for a temporary purpose, or the more complete enjoyment and use of it as a chattel.”

It appears to me, as regards the engines under consideration, that they could be moved wholly, safely, and conveniently, without injury thereto or to the fabric of the building (i.e., in this case the sub-structure on which they rest). So far, in strict law, they probably are not of a fixed character. As to the second point—that is, whether this machinery is intended for the permanent and substantial improvement of the property on which it is placed, we have the assertion of Mr. Wallace that it was, to use the words of the 3rd section of the Act 39 Vic. “13, calculated to render more beneficial the occupation and use of the land.” That the engines were intended to be used seems probable, or wells would, I should think, not have been sunk near them at a considerable cost. The wells appear to have been failures, and the engines, owing to this, or to some other cause, do not appear to have been worked.

I have, &c.,

EVIDENCE taken before Commissioner Rose.

John Alston Wallace saith as follows:—I have been the lessee of the Quat Quatta Run for the last year and a half at least; when I became lessee of this run, there was on it a reserve of 1,750 acres for station purposes—for water; this reserve was not for the use of the public; it was revoked by a notice in the Government Gazette of 22nd August, 1877; the notice set forth that thirty days after that date the revocation would take effect; the thirty days expired on Friday, the 21st September, 1877; on the 26th September, Wednesday, following, I applied in three applications for the purchase, as improved lands, under the provisions of the 2nd section of the Crown Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875, of 1,750 acres; my first application is for 640 acres, the second for 640 acres, and the third for 470 acres; the improvements specified in the three applications were all carried on simultaneously; as regards my first application for 640 acres, I had, by the 26th September, 1877, improvements on this land exceeding in value more than £1,000; as regards the second application for 640 acres, there were on this land, by the 26th September, 1877, or before the 27th of that month, improvements exceeding in value £1,000; as regards the third application, for 470 acres, I am not so certain what the improvements on this land were; I advanced money with which to have improvements on this land carried out, but I have not received any accounts of the expenditure as regards the tanks, nor do I know whether or not those tanks were completed before this third application was made; I know that the woolshed mentioned in this application was finished before the 27th September, 1877; I value this woolshed at £200; it is built of American pine, and is roofed with iron; I do not know the dimensions; this is the only improvement of which I can speak positively on the 470 acres; as to the value of the improvements on the land applied for for in application No. 1, I can speak from my own knowledge with more certainty; there were on this land, at the time I made this application, about 2 miles of posts and top-rail, with five-wire fencing which I value at £200; the engine and pump and fixing I value at £375; this work was done by contract; the value of the tanks I cannot speak of; the shed of American pine, roofed with iron, I value at £200; there is also a water shaft 62 feet deep lined with 2-inch timber; I value this at £150; there are other improvements on this land, but I cannot specify or describe them; as to the value of improvements on the land described in application number 2, the engine and saw-mill on this land, including erection, cost £650; the engine-house is of American pine, and is roofed with iron, and is worth £200; as to the other improvements on this land I cannot speak with certainty; I know that the tanks mentioned in the application are there, but I cannot give particulars of their cost; I omitted to state when giving evidence as to the improvements on the land mentioned in application No. 1, that there are 35 chains of fencing constructed of red-gum posts and one rail; the posts are not less than 10 inches by 3 inches, 6 feet 3 inches long, and the rails are not less than 9 inches wide by 2 inches thick; the cost of erection was 14d. per rod; the posts costs me £3 10s. per 100 delivered, the rails £2 12s. 6d. delivered; This fence I value at from £25 to £30.

By Mr. Bradley: The improvements are all fixed to the soil—permanent improvements; all the engines are fixed in the usual way—with bolts; the engine on No. 1 land was constructed for pumping water for the cattle in dry seasons; for two years there was no natural supply of water at the back of the run; this engine on No. 1 land was in working order when I made my application for this land; I pay 15d. per yard for tank-sinking; this I have paid in several instances; the steam-engine and saw-mill on land No. 2 was erected for the same purpose as the engine on No. 1, and, in addition to cut timber, for fencing material; this machinery was in working order, and did work, on the 26th September, 1877; on this block was sunk a shaft 72 feet deep, lined with 2-inch timber; before the 26th September, 1877, water was touched in this shaft, but since that date I have had its depth increased by 3 feet; I value this well at £200, exclusive of the cost of increasing the depth; I sum up the improvements on the three blocks as follows:—On No. 1: Fence, £200; engine pump and fixing, £375; shed roofed with iron, £200; water shaft 62 feet deep, £150; post and rail fence, £30; tanks . . . On No. 2: Engine and saw-mill, £650; engine-house, £200; well, 72 feet deep, £200. On No. 3: Woolshed, £200. The value of the tanks on this block, as I have already said, I do not know; the woolshed is for storing wool, not for a shearing shed.

By Mr. Jhonson: The engines were on the land before the 21st September, 1877; I was the proprietor of the Quat Quatta Run, if not the lessee, long before that; the roofs were on all the sheds by the 26th September, 1877; I did not call for tenders for the machinery; the engine on the first block you could not buy under £350; it was all but new; it was used for pumping before I bought it; last night these engines were still in their original positions—I saw them.

By Mr. Clayton, a selector: My solicitor told me that I had the license for these lands before I applied for the purchase of them; the work I did on this land was for the benefit of the run, and I should have done it if the revocation of the reserve had not taken place.

By Mr. Beeby, a selector: I can pump the water from where I have the engine, because it is on the highest ground; the engine on No. 2 was erected by me more for sawing than watering purposes; this engine is about a mile and a half or 2 miles from that on No. 1; it would not have answered my purpose to attach a sawing apparatus to the engine on No. 1 land, because there is swampy ground between the two engines, through which it would have been difficult to drag the timber.

JOHN A. WALLACE.

A. C. S. ROSE.

James Holbrook Wood saith:—I am District Surveyor for part of the Southern District of New South Wales, including the District of Corowa; the run known as Quat Quatta is in the Land District of Corowa; I know reserve No. 42, it was a temporary reserve for access to water and to Crown Lands, and was made partly for the benefit of the lessee of the run, and partly for the protection of Crown Lands adjoining it; it was not a public reserve, it was never withdrawn from lease; a strip of about 5 chains wide along the west boundary, a portion at the north, and a portion at the south, still continue reserved; the reserve extended originally from the river Murray to the Oil-tree Lagoon; the largest part of this reserve about 1,700 acres, was revoked by proclamation in the Government Gazette of the 22nd August, 1877, with the exception of those lands which I have mentioned; these reserved lands still continue in the possession of the lessee of the run; I believe that the Honorable John Wallace is the lessee and occupier of the run; the revocation was not to take effect until the expiration of thirty clear days from date of notification; I received instructions from the Surveyor General, dated 29th December, 1877, that I was to report on the Quat Quatta reserve, and on the improvements thereon; at the latter end of January, 1878, I proceeded, in pursuance of these instructions, to the Quat Quatta Reserve; I found on this reserve improvements of various kinds—fences, sheds, wells, tanks, engines and other things; I did not make any measurements; I made a general inspection, and I saw at once that the value of the improvements on the area of the reserve which had been revoked, about 1,700 acres, so clearly exceeded £1 per acre of the whole area, that I thought it unnecessary to make any measurements; they were of a fixed character, and of a nature for the more beneficial working of the station.

By Mr. Jhonson: I have a knowledge of engines, I served my time in an engine factory; the engine on the land applied for in application No. 1, I should say was worth over £300; the engine on land in application No. 2 was worth about £600; when I was there they were affixed to the soil, but I think that there were axles to them; I consider that these engines are improvements of a fixed character; they were fixed to large beams sunk into the ground by rods of iron which passed through the beams into the earth; I do not remember how the axles were fixed to the beams, or whether they were fixed at all; these engines could have been replaced on wheels.

By Mr. Bradley for Mr. Wallace: The engines were just as useful when fixed as when on wheels.

By Mr. Beeby: Very likely these engines were originally intended to be moved about on their own wheels, but they are none the less fixed now; at the time of the revocation of the reserve there were only a few small blocks on Quat Quatta Run not reserved from sale.

Charles Hunt Roope saith:—I am a solicitor of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, and practise at Corowa; I received from the Lands Office in Sydney a notice, dated in June or July, 1877, to the effect that the Quat Quatta Run had been transferred to the Honorable John Wallace; on Thursday the 27th September, 1877, I saw posted at the Crown Land Sales Office, at Corowa; a notice, that as Mr. Wallace had purchased the lands contained within the Quat Quatta reserve, intending conditional purchasers would have to buy subject to Mr. Wallace's applications; I heard Mr. Croft, the Land Agent, tell the people in his office that Thursday morning, that Mr. Wallace had bought this land, or had applied to purchase it; I beg to correct my evidence as to Mr. Croft's notice; it was, I now find, simply this:—“Take notice that the revoked reserve has been applied for by Mr. J. A. Wallace by virtue of improvements.”—HERBERT CROFT, Land Agent.

CHARLES H. ROOPE.

John Lang saith: I am a saw-mill proprietor, and reside at Stanley, in Victoria; I know portions of land within the Quat Quatta reserve, No. 42; over twelve months ago the Honorable John Alston Wallace bought three blocks of land there, two of 640 acres each, one of 470 acres; on the first 640 acre-block, I fixed a 10-horse engine and pumping gear; I got £375 for that; it was placed as a fixed engine by taking the fore carriage away, for it had been originally an engine on wheels—and attaching it to logs thoroughly bedded into the ground; the logs were bedded a foot deep in the earth; it was more of a fixture than I should usually put up in cases of saw-mills; the bell-bob and the sky-rod were all connected with the engine; there is a shed over the engine, which was completed before the pumping gear was arranged; I value this shed at £200; there is a well on this land, but I do not know its value; this pump was at work prior to my leaving on the 27th September last year; on the other 640 acres there were an engine, a saw-mill, and an engine-shed; I received £650 for the engine, and fixing it and getting it into working order; the shed I value at £200; the engine on this land was fixed the same as that on the first 640-acre block; I left the engine in working order; I know of no other improvements on this block; there is a well 4 feet by 2 feet, but I do not know the depth; it is lined with 2-inch timber; I know nothing of any improvements on the 470-acre block.

By Mr. Jhonson: The engines were brought on to the land on their own wheels; the engine on the first block is worth £300, that on the second block is worth £500; the second engine is fourteen years old, but had been worked for three years only; it was kept in good order; I saw the pump yesterday, and it was in good permanent working order; the engine on the second 640 acres was devised for pumping and for sawing timber; neither of these engines had ever been condemned as useless.

By Mr. Bradley, for Hon. J. A. Wallace: David Munroe & Co., of Melbourne, offered me £300 for the second engine, and I refused it; they are makers and sellers of engines; Johnson Stephens, the contractor of the Rocky Mountain Tunnel at Beechworth, offered me £300 for this engine, and I refused it; I value it at £500 as landed at Quat Quatta and erected.

By Mr. Beeby: This engine is of 12-horse power; I could saw timber with it as now fixed; there is timber there to saw; the engine-sheds rested on blocks to which the plates were spiked; the blocks were sunk into the ground eighteen inches.

JOHN LANG.

James Maclean saith:—I am a farmer, and live at Quat Quatta; I know the land which was a reserve at Quat Quatta—I have known it for four or five years; I sunk a tank on one spot there, where Mr. Camille Réan has selected; the Honorable John Wallace employed me to sink this tank; on the 27th September, last year, some selectors applied for the land on which this tank was sunk; at that time 1,090 yards of earth had been taken out; this work came to £68 2s.; my mate, John Guskett, and I deepened by 3 feet, a well on this land, already 75 feet deep; we deepened the well in November; it had been sunk some time previous; the shaft was lined with sawn timber; there was a little water at the bottom of the shaft when we began to deepen it.

By Mr. Jhonson: I am quite certain that not more than 100 yards of the tank remained to be taken out on the 27th September, 1877.

JAMES MACLEAN.

John Guskett saith:—I am a selector, and reside at Quat Quatta; my mate, James Maclean, and I sunk a tank at Quat Quatta on land applied for by Camille Réan; we measured nearly every day; before we began, the station hands had been doing some work at this tank; we did about 760 yards, but I cannot say exactly; this was done before the 27th September, 1877; after that we did the back slope; eight men and two horses were employed on the tank; Maclean received the payment; after the 27th September, I believe that 150 yards were taken out; I kept none of the accounts; there is a shaft on the same block, which my mate and I deepened; it was, I think, 75 feet deep when we went to work; we deepened it 3 feet; before I went there water had been got; the shaft was lined with sawn stuff; I timbered the 3 feet I sank with 2-inch timber; it was two or three weeks after selection by Camille Réan that I began this work; I remember the 27th September, 1877, because Gallagher and Donald Brown came out and looked at the tank.

By Mr. Beeby: I would sink a well like that on No. 2 block, and timber it too, for 10s. a foot; I would not have sunk that well for 10s. a foot; I would sink a well beside that for £60.

JOHN GUSKETT.

John M'Ewan saith :—I live at Quat Quatta, and am a farmer ; I know the reserve at Quat Quatta ; I have done work there by direction of John Gibbs ; I did this work some time before Clayton and Camille Réan selected there ; I sank a tank ; I was paid £74 for it, that is at the rate of 14d. or 15d. per yard ; I had the loan of a dray from John Gibbs, who, I believe, was doing business for Mr. Wallace.

By Mr. Jhonson, for selectors : I sank the tank in September, 1877 ; I began on the 5th of that month, and worked at it for six or seven weeks ; there was a good deal of it done after the 27th September.

By Mr. Bradley : About three parts, I mean three quarters, of it were done before the 27th of that month.

A. C. S. ROSE.

William M'Kay saith :—I reside at Corowa ; during the months of August and September, 1877, I was overseer at Quat Quatta station for Mr. Wallace ; in September, 1877, I think it was, the Quat Quatta reserve was thrown open ; on certain land within this reserve Mr. Wallace effected certain improvements ; on the 26th September, 1877, two miles of fencing were on that land ; the fence was made of split posts, split top-rail, and five wires braced ; I value this fence at £100 a mile ; there were 35 chains of a fence made of split posts, and split-top-rail ; the posts were partly bored for wires ; there was a shed of pine, roofed with iron, 26 feet square ; there is on this land also an engine with pumping gear ; I do not know the value of these things ; there are two tanks, one 1,090 yards, the other 768 yards ; 1s. 3d. per yard was paid for these tanks ; these tanks were completed, all but squaring off and clearing up to measure, before the 26th September ; it took about two days and a half to do this work ; I was present at the measuring up ; on the second block of 640 acres applied for by Mr. Wallace there are two tanks measuring 30 yards and 1,000 yards ; now the last-named tank is 1,300 yards ; on the third block were three tanks ; one was 800 yards, the other two 1,000 yards each ; those are the measurements on the 26th September, 1877 ; I do not state this from having measured these tanks, but from having observed them ; there is a shed on this land of the same size and description as the other shed ; there is a fence and a gate, worth together £15.

By Mr. Jhonson : The two miles of fencing on the first block of 640 acres had been there for some time previous to 27th September, 1877 ; a mile and a quarter of it had been there two years previous to September, 1877 ; the remaining three-quarters of a mile were begun before August, 1877 ; I measured both the tanks on this block, and I am quite sure that the measurement was as I have stated before ; they were measured more than once ; they were measured after the 26th September, 1877, but they were finished before that date, except the trimming off ; I got a written notice from Mr. Clayton to desist working at those tanks after the 27th September, 1877 ; I do not know the value of the engines, or of the woolshed ; the engines came to the ground before the 26th September, and were fixed before that date ; they came to the ground before the 22nd of September.

By Mr. Bradley : I judged of the quantity of earth taken out by comparing the size of the tanks.

By Mr. Jhonson : On block 2 the well was 72 feet deep by the 27th September ; I measured it ; I also measured the well on block 1 ; it was 66 feet deep by the 26th September, 1877.

James Strachan saith as follows :—Before the 27th September, 1877, I sank a tank on certain land at Quat Quatta, afterwards selected by Edward Clayton, jun. ; the tank was 1,064 yards ; 1,000 yards were out by the 26th September, 1877 ; there were two other tanks on this block—one was 1,200 yards, the other 1,150 yards ; I measured the tank made by myself, and the one measuring 1,200 yards ; I have had experience in measuring tanks ; I finished the one of 1,064 yards two days after the 26th September.

By Mr. Beeby : On the 26th of that month there were 800 yards taken out of the 1,200 yards tank.

John Martin saith as follows :—I am a carpenter and builder, and reside at Corowa ; I know that part of the Quat Quatta Reserve recently revoked, and for the purchase of which I believe Mr. Wallace has applied ; about the 10th of September, 1877, I was employed by Mr. Wallace to erect three buildings on this land ; they were finished about 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the 26th of that month ; each building is 26 feet square by 14 feet high ; they are constructed of American pine, and are roofed with corrugated iron ; they were erected on blocks sunk into the ground, to which the superstructure was fixed by nails ; I value these buildings at £190 to £200 each.

By Mr. Jhonson : Mr. Wallace had the timber sent up from Melbourne ; these houses were finished by the 26th September, 1877 ; a portable house would be screwed—not nailed ; the iron in this case was nailed.

By Mr. Beeby : The floor was not boarded ; I left the last shed by 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the 26th September ; the roof must have been then on the building ; it would take myself and two men a week to put up such a building by working fourteen hours a day.

By Mr. Jhonson : Such timber as is in those buildings would cost me £2 10s. per hundred.

By Mr. Bradley : The roof is constructed just as I should construct the roof of an ordinary building.

For Memorialists.

Henry St. John M'Naughton saith as follows :—I am a land and commission agent at Corowa ; I know the selections of Camille Réan, Edward Clayton, sen., Edward Clayton, jun., Archibald Brown, and Alexander Gallagher, within what was the Quat Quatta Reserve ; on the 27th September, 1877, I went, at at the request of Camille Réau, to inspect and value certain improvements on those selections; I came first to a fence of five wires and posts and rails; I value this at £30; I saw an engine-shed, built of Colonial pine, and roofed with iron; it measured 26 feet by 26 feet, and 14 feet in height; there were about 1,456 of boarding; I calculate studs, rafters, and purlines at about 400 feet; I reckon the roof to contain half a ton of iron, all but 6 feet; I did not look at the brand; the boards were 1-inch; I allow £20 for the iron, £20 for the timber, £20 for the cost and labour in building; I had about eleven years experience in America in valuing buildings; I have valued several buildings here within the last three years—wooden, brick, and iron buildings; I value the Colonial pine used in this shed at 18s. per hundred; I value the iron as landed at Quat Quatta at £35 per ton; iron varies from £28 to £45 per ton; I know Mr. Martin, carpenter and joiner, at Corowa; if he said that he put up that shed I should believe him; if he said that the pine used in this building is American, I should say that he was mistaken; I know Mr. Wallace, of Quat Quatta; I am sure that he is honest and intelligent; if Mr. Wallace says that that pine is American, and bought it and paid for it as American, I should say that he was taken in; I am still of opinion that it is Colonial pine; the pine was unpainted and looked new; any person at all competent to judge of timber ought to know at a glance the difference between American and Colonial pine; if of American pine, those boards in the shed would be worth 10s. a hundred more than if of Colonial pine; inside this shed was a steam-engine; I am not a judge of engines; I cannot value that; there was a well about 30 feet deep, with some surface water at the bottom; Mr. Donald Brown put down the tape; I saw the tape go to the bottom; the point at which the tape ceased to run showed 30 feet; the well was lined with sawn slabs; I allow £30 for well, windlass, bucket, and everything.

By Mr. Bradley: I have never drawn up contracts for fencing like that in the fence I have valued at £30; Mr. Brown did most of the measuring work at the building; the iron was screwed on, as far as I know; I judged the iron to be 9-foot; the gables are, as far as I remember, of iron.

A. C. S. ROSE.

Donald Brown saith as follows:—I am valuator to the Shire Council of Rutherglen, in Victoria; I have held this position for sixteen years; I have been accustomed, in this capacity, to value the improvements on selections in my shire; I have been also, in the absence of the Engineer for two years, acting engineer; I know the selections of Gallagher and Archibald Brown at Quat Quatta; I know the 640 acres within which these selections are situated; that area I am aware has been applied for by Mr. John Alston Wallace as an improvement purchase; on the 27th September, 1877, I visited this land; I found on it a portable engine based on surface logs, also a shed of pine timber—I believe of American pine; this shed measured 26 feet by 26 feet; the height was 11 feet; the boards were tongued and grooved; the roof was of corrugated iron; there was an opening at each end; the ground plates were bedded upon twenty-six round-timber blocks sunk into the ground; the ground plates were fastened to the blocks by wire nails driven in diagonally, not vertically; there was a well in course of being sunk; the shaft was then 20 feet deep; it was logged up at the top, and timbered only four feet down; there was no water in this well; I measured the shaft with a tape; I found a circular saw near the well, but it was not fixed; there was no saw-table; the saw seemed in process of being fixed; it was not connected with the engine by any means; I looked at the engine; the logs upon which this engine was fixed were of pine; the fore carriage had been removed, and the engine rested upon these surface logs; these logs were banked up—not sunk in the ground; this fore part was not fixed in any other way than I have described; there were straps of iron over the axles to bind the engine to the logs; the axles were fitted into scarfs made in the logs; three men could easily move this engine from the ground-plates; one man might do it; I have no technical knowledge of engines; the tubes of the boiler were burnt—this was plain to be seen; if new, this engine would be worth £300; the engine and saw-mill had not the appearance of ever having been worked in that place, and they have never been worked there to this day; I saw a tank on this land, in course of excavation; at that time 560 yards of earth had been taken out; I value this at 13d. per yard, at least that is what I have paid, but the men who were working at it told me that they were receiving 15d. per yard; I value the engine-shed at £60; the doors and windows were not in; a man was working at it when I was there; the well, as I found it, I value at £5; if I were called upon to value the engine, I should set it down at £250; the extreme value of the improvements on this land is £350.

Cross-examined by Mr. Roope, for claimant: I am not a certificated engineer; Mr. McNaughton was present when I measured the engine-shed and well; the shed is 11 feet, not 14 feet, high; whoever says it was 14 feet high is wrong; the bed-logs on which the engine rested were of pine; I saw no box logs; the longitudinal logs were not 2 feet through; I measured them, and put them down at 9 inches through; I could not see any bolt, or the head of a bolt, through the timber; there was a small tank in course of formation, which I value at £3 15s.; there were no other improvements on those blocks of Gallagher's and Brown's when I visited them on the 27th September, 1877; I may have told somebody during this present month that the engine-shed was of Colonial pine; I did not believe that it was of Colonial pine at one time, but now I know that it is not; the selectors, Archibald Brown, jun., and Alexander Gallagher, upon whose selections these improvements are, are connected with me—the former is my nephew, the latter my brother-in-law; I assisted my nephew to find the money to take up the selection, and I want my money back; I am responsible till the case is settled, that is why I am here a witness to-day.

By E. Clayton: The engine-sheds on the other improvement purchases of Mr. Wallace are the same in size, I believe; the sheds could not be put up in a more portable manner than they have been; Murray pine cannot be taken down very well, when once put up; American pine can more easily be taken down; these sheds could be taken down and moved 2 miles and re-erected, at a cost of £15; to replace those engines on their wheels and move them 2 miles, would not cost more than £2 10s. each engine; I cannot get a well sunk at Quat Quatta 60 feet, and have it timbered with adzed slabs, for £20; 7s. or 8s. a foot, and everything found, is a fair price for well-sinking—that is, the contractor would sink the shaft, provide the timber, dress it, and fit it; on the 27th September, 1877, the well on No. 1 improvement purchase applied for by Mr. Wallace, was 30 feet deep; I measured it; the slabs were sawn; I valued it at £30, but now I value it at £12; there was no pump in this well at that date; the pipes were on the surface; 15 cwt. of No. 8 wire is amply sufficient for a mile of 5-wire fencing; there were 35 chains of fencing completed, and 27 chains of fencing not completed; a tank was being formed at the south end of the block; about 200 yards had been taken out; I value this at £22 10s.

Re-examined

Re-examined by Mr. Roope: I have reduced my valuation of the well, because I have, since my first valuation, gone more thoroughly into details; I left the land about 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the 27th of September, 1877.

By Mr. Jhonson: From 20 to 30 feet might be sunk between 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 12 o'clock at night, by putting on shifts (as miners call relays) of men; when I said in my cross examination that I wanted my money back, I spoke wrongly; I meant that I wanted the land for my nephew, and that he could then find me the money; I know nothing whatever of the value of engines; I value the engine at Mr. Wallace's—the saw-mill engine—at £200, not £250, as I previously stated in my evidence.

Alexander Gallagher saith as follows:—On the 27th September, 1877, I selected 200 acres within the revoked Quat Quatta Reserve; the Honorable John Alston Wallace had applied for an improvement purchase of 640 acres, within which my selection is situated; on the 27th of that month I visited this land between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon; I found an engine-shed, 26 feet by 26 feet, and 11 feet high; I measured it with a rule; it was built of pine—of what pine I cannot say, but of imported pine; the building rested on blocks, and on those were placed the ground-plates, which were fastened to the blocks by five screw-nails; there were thirty-seven studs, fourteen rafters; the roof was of iron; there were in the building the following materials:—Rafters, 224 feet of some kind of imported pine; I do not know the value; American pine is worth £2 per 100 feet; battens, 130 feet of same pine as the rafters; bracing, 45 feet of same pine; plates, 208 feet of same pine; boarding, 1,144 feet of same pine; ridging, 26 feet of same pine; bracing at gable ends, 72 feet of same pine; iron in roof 69 sheets, equal to about half a ton; this I value, landed at Quat Quatta, at £28 per ton; the shed as it stood I value at £60; the labour I value at £10 to £11; there was an engine which rested on three logs—two of pine, one of box; the engine was not fixed to these blocks in any way at that time; now there is a rod of iron passing over the boiler behind the funnel, and into the ground; the hind part rested on two logs; the axles are fastened to the logs by two staples driven into them; since then another log has been fitted over the axles; the logs are laid on the earth, and the earth is banked up to the level of them; there are no blocks to which the logs are fixed; on the 27th of September, 1877, the engine was not fixed to the logs in any way; I have had some experience in engines of that sort; this engine leaks behind the fire-box; the tubes of the boiler are burnt, so are the boiler-plates; she is not worth sending to Melbourne for repairs—she would not pay carriage down; there are bits of putty and pegs of wood, where holes have been made by the action of fire; the cylinder has a bolt of wood where a bolt of iron ought to be; it is painted over; the casing of the boiler is rotten through exposure to the weather; there was a saw outside close to the well; this saw was not attached to the engine in any way, nor was there any bench or running table; no wood has ever been sawn at this saw whilst at Quat Quatta; the well was, on the 27th of September, 1877, 20 feet; it was this depth between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon; there was then no water in it; there is no timber within 3 miles fit for sawing; there was also a tank; there was then 560 yards of earth taken out; this I value at £30.

By Mr. Roope, for claimant: The memorandum I have read from was made four or five days ago; I was prepared with it at the last hearing of this case; I have been accustomed to measure timber for my own use; the iron staples were fastened to the logs on the 27th September, 1877; I did examine the tubes; I looked in at the fire-box; I did not look in at the man-hole; there are two cylinders; there was only one building on this land on 27th September, 1877; I have inspected and measured these things lately—since the last hearing of the case in the Court-house; the memorandum which I have been reading from was made after this inspection; I never saw the engine I have been speaking of working.

By Mr. Clayton: The improvements were begun sixteen or seventeen days after notification of revocation of the Quat Quatta Reserve; none of the improvements were begun in August; you cannot draw the nails out of Murray pine easily, the timber breaks, but American pine does not; the engine shed in this case could be easily taken down; the two engines and three sheds could be moved and loaded for carriage for £20; the improvements have been continued on the reserve up to the present time.

A. C. S. ROSE.

Charles Butcher saith as follows:—I am a machinist; for about twenty-two years I have off and on been occupied in driving steam-engines, and in erecting and repairing them; I was not apprenticed to the business; I have not constructed engines, but I have repaired them, as for instance, I have patched boilers, and have repaired engines; three or four days previous to the first hearing of this case I was requested by Mr. Clayton to examine an engine on the Quat Quatta Reserve, on land starting from the Albury Road; I did examine this engine; she is a very nice little engine of ten to twelve horse-power, and is in very good condition; the value of that engine is, in my opinion, £250, provided her travelling wheels were there; she is not burnt; she has been re-tubed; I was occupied about an hour in examining her; it would take four or five hours to make a thorough and complete examination of her; the engine is a portable one; it has a log on either side to rest upon; the logs are shaped, I believe, to receive the axle, and there is a cap-piece of timber over each end, spiked to the logs; the fore carriage is removed; the bed-logs rest on the surface; I did not examine whether these logs are placed on piles; the engine is fixed sufficiently for a fortnight's pumping or a month's sawing; I have seen engines fixed in this manner for such work as that; I know nothing of the buildings; I would undertake to move those engines from their present position and put them on their wheels for £1 each.

Cross-examined by Mr. Roope: The wheels, if of iron, would cost £40; the pipes and pumping gear I did not inspect; there are four logs under the engines, which are bolted together; I cannot say positively whether these logs simply rest on the ground; I did not search under the logs for the purpose of ascertaining if these logs had other logs or piles under them; it may have a stone foundation for ought I know, or may rest on piles.

By

By Mr. Jhonson (as to 2nd engine): The engine on block 2 is about 12-horse power; this engine new would cost £500, but, in my opinion, it is now worked out; it is almost eighteen years old, and is fairly corroded and rusted; the boiler is one of the worst possible; the crown-plate of the fire-box is burnt, and the tube-plate has been patched; the tubes are worn out, and I noticed that at the smoke-box end the boiler is rusted, so that I could pick away large pieces; the crank-shaft has been broken, and mended; the extreme value of her as she stands is not more than £50; no man would work that engine who valued his life at all; there was some leakage, but that was next to nothing; there are no signs of this engine ever having been used since she has been in her present position; if I were called upon to move this engine I should elevate it by means of a screw jack; when sufficiently raised I would slip the wheels on; the four logs are connected together at both ends; there are heads of spikes visible at both ends; I cannot say whether or not the logs are based on piles; the tubes are liable to be burnt off at the ends; the boiler had water in it; the cylinders are the original ones, I swear; the mended crank-shaft is not to be relied on; the boiler is worn out; I would not cart the engine away—she is not worth it.

CHAS. BUTCHER.

Edward Clayton, sen., saith as follows:—On the 27th September, 1877, I selected 320 acres of land within the limits of the Quat Quatta Reserve; the revocation was notified in the Gazette of the 22nd August, and took effect on the 22nd September following; I took possession of my selection, and I have resided on it since that, off and on; my business is that of a baker and storekeeper; I carry it on at Corowa; for the first few months I went to my selection every other night; after that I gradually fell off; I now go sometimes twice a week, and, on rare occasions less, but never less than three times in a fortnight; I have never been disturbed in my possession of this land; when I applied for the selection I saw posted up in the lobby of the Crown Lands Office at Corowa, a notice, which ran in this way:—“Take notice that the whole of the lands in the Quat Quatta reserve have been applied for by the Honorable John A. Wallace, in virtue of improvements.” From information received, I did not think that this was a lawful obstacle to my selecting, and I selected; the last week in August there were no improvements on this land; the next time I was on the land was the 30th of September, 1877—three days after I selected; I saw then that the front (that is the boundary along the Albury Road) had been fenced in; a fence was in course of erection along the northern boundary; there was an engine, designed to pump by steam, and an engine-house; there was a well with some pipes in it; this shaft was then not less than 38 feet, and not more than 42 feet; that was on Sunday, the 30th September; there was a dam out of which 300 to 400 yards of earth had been taken; I value these improvements as follows:—The 35 chains of fencing, at £1 per chain; the other fence at from £15 to £18; the tank I value at £21 13s. 4d.; the engine-house at £65; the engine at £200 to £250; the well I value at £20; the engine had been on wheels; the wheels were taken off, and the engine was bedded on logs—four logs—two at the ends, two at the sides; I cannot say whether these logs were fastened together; the two end logs were bedded in the soil; a chock was cut out of each of the side logs for the ends of the axle to rest in; I do not know if these ends were fastened down to the logs in any way; the pumping gear I do not place any value upon—it is valueless; about two months after I selected I received a letter from the Department of Lands, in which I am cautioned against improving my selection, on the ground that it contained improvements sufficient to bar selection; the letter did not state who claimed these improvements; they were on the Quat Quatta Run; at that time Mr. Wallace was not the lessee of the Quat Quatta Run; I produce a copy of a letter addressed to me on this subject, in which it is stated by the officer-in-charge of the Occupation Branch of the Lands Department, that Mr. Wallace became lessee of the Quat Quatta Run on the 6th September, 1877—three weeks before I selected; Mr. Wallace did not begin his improvements until about the 6th September, 1877; I put a slab over the well, and I cautioned the men to desist from working; I built on my selection a hut of wood about 8 feet square, built principally of old doors; I have been out there superintending work being carried on by my boys—such as grubbing.

Mr. Jhonson: The improvements on block No. 2 are now—an engine, an engine-shed, a shaft, two large tanks and a small one—what were there on the 27th September, 1877, I do not know; the engine-shed is worth not more than £65; the building is a portable one, morticed and fitted in Melbourne; the engine is eighteen years old, and has had very rough usage; she would not bear a pressure of 50 lbs. of steam; she is worth from £40 to £50 for the old iron and gear.

No. 78.

Mr. D. Brown to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, New South Wales.

In reference to No. 42 reserve, Quat Quatta, I have the honor to ask that you will be pleased to advise when a decision will be given. Mr. Commissioner Rose held an inquiry at Corowa on the 18th December last, and promised the decision would be made known in a month. It is now nearly two months since then, and we are still in suspense.

The Bank is pressing the selectors for overdrafts, and it is an extremely hard case for those who have had to await, since the 27th September, 1877, the decision of the department, their capital being all this time locked up, and they are warned by your department not to improve, pending your decision. Your reply by return of post will oblige.

Your obedient servant,

ARCHIBALD BROWN,
(Pro DONALD BROWN),

A selector.

No. 79.

Messrs. E. Clayton to His Excellency the Governor.

SIR HERCULES ROBINSON, Governor of the Colony of New South Wales,—

THE respectful Petition of Edward Clayton, of Corowa, humbly sheweth, that justice being the birth-right of every Briton, and you being the representative of our Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, I am induced to apply to you for it, having tried all the means of redress before known to me. Our representative in Parliament has used his endeavours, and the present is the third Minister for Lands who has had the matter brought before him and failed to determine it. Briefly as I can, the circumstances are as follows:—

The Government Gazette, 22nd August, 1877, notified that a certain portion of reserve 42, county Hume, the reserve would be revoked at the expiry of thirty days, and consequently open for selection on the first selection day afterwards—27th September. There were about forty applicants. Our money was received by the Lands officer, and lots were drawn, and myself and son and four others were successful in drawing portions; but during the thirty days, viz., about the 6th of September, Mr. John A. Wallace, a money-lender, who owns a considerable freehold adjoining, by some means got a license issued to him, or having lent money to Mrs. H. Gibbs, got hers transferred to himself, and during the interim between the 6th and 27th of September, rushed all the work he could get put upon the land, and then claims it by virtue of improvements, when they are neither needful or sufficiently beneficial to have the land given to him for them, indeed fully one-half of them are represented by two portable engines and two wells, which is only too evident were only put there to bring up the value to the required amount, and not for the purposes defined by the Act.

Thus for the land there are two claimants—we, who claim by right of purchase, and Mr. Wallace, who claims the right to purchase by virtue of his so-called improvements.

Now, if we have justice on our side, why should we be kept out of the use of our land so long as we have been, for after the "caution sent us not to improve" we cannot do so except at the risk of losing all we do to it. If, on the other hand, we are not entitled to it, is it just to keep our money so long, and by doing so not only defraud us out of the use and interest of it, but virtually to place us eighteen months at least behindhand in the choice of land to make ourselves homes elsewhere; besides which, being kept in suspense so long is most disastrous to us, for between our present avocations and those we desire to follow we are, as it were, between two stools, and are likely to come to grief between them, and our means and energies are being frittered away in the enforced inaction; indeed, it is a current report "that we are to be ruined by it," and it would appear that the means are being successfully used to exhaust our means and patience by delaying deciding the matter as long as possible; were it not so, surely the Minister for Lands and the Crown Law Officers could have long ago decided it, especially since the inquiry promised sixteen months ago has now been held and near two months, although the evidence given was none of it under oath, renders it an almost farcical affair, and not at all bringing out the real position of matters, for the Commissioner could not grant us summonses for witnesses, and those possessed of information detrimental to the big man would not give it unless compelled to do so.

Hoping, sir, our prayer to you will not be made in vain, but that you will cause justice to be done with despatch, and we will remain your grateful subjects.

EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN. AND JUN.

Minutes on No. 79.

Minister for Lands.—H.R., 13/2/79.

[Urgent.] Mr. Lewis,—Was reserve No. 42, county Hume, notified 24th Dec., 1861, with north extension, notified 23rd Dec., 1865, and its north extension, notified 28th February, 1873, withdrawn from lease.—H.A.G.C.

The surveyor, in his evidence, states that it was "a temporary reserve for access to water and to Crown Lands, and partly for the benefit of the lessee of the run and partly for the protection of Crown Lands adjoining it. It was not a public reserve; it was never withdrawn from lease." (Written by Mr. Curry.)

Reserve 42 was reserved from sale.—G.L., 8th March, 1879.

No. 80.

Mr. E. Clayton to G. Day, Esq., M.P.

Dear sir,

Corowa, 23 February, 1879.

Yours of the 21st to hand and fills me with surprise, for according to my notions the question is one that lays peculiarly in the province of the Minister for Lands, and resolves itself into a simple question that he alone is best qualified to determine, and that is in my humble opinion.

For what purpose was the thirty days required to elapse before the revocation took effect, and why did it not take effect instantly? I opine it was so given that no one person should have an undue advantage over another, and that all desiring the land should have an equal chance for it, if there were more than one.

But if, on the other hand, the delay was framed to enable the lessee to set up a claim to it (or if there were no lessee, as in this case, to enable some one to become so, and then claim it), it is indeed "stopping at the spigot, and letting it run at the bung-hole," and it would be more to the interest of the community not to revoke the reserves at all, for doing so would only surely throw them into the hands of the capitalist; this latter solution seems so absurd as to be hardly tenable for a moment.

This question the Minister only can decide, as I presume it was his department that caused it to be so gazetted; until this question is settled, were I myself the Minister, I cannot see how a solution can be arrived at, and the value of the improvements is only secondary, and only required in the event of the first question being decided in favour of the lessee. Taking it in this light, the Minister would only require the local report until he had decided that the thirty days were given as an advantage to the lessee over all others.

Where

*Re reserve 42,
Quat Quatta
Run, county
Hume.*

Where the lessee of Crown Lands during his lease has to go to improvements to make it meet his requirements or increase its capabilities, no reasonable person could object, that when called upon to give it up, that his outlay should be considered, and that he should reap some benefit for it, but that is a very different case from the present one; for not a shilling was expended upon the land till the notification appeared that it would be open for selection, and even if Mr. Wallace had been the lessee, and had not improved before the revocation of the reserve, he should not be considered and given credit for what he did afterwards, and his then rushing the improvements on shows that his only object in expending money upon the land was but to prevent those from getting it that the revoking the reserve was meant to benefit. And when it is borne in mind that the works were continued for a considerable time after the land was selected, when the report from the surveyor comes in to make it represent the state of the improvements at the date of selection, it would require one-third taken off it, for fully one-third time was worked by the men engaged after as was worked before selection, and the department taking so long to decide this matter has done us a great injustice, for whatever opportunities have presented themselves since the 27th September last, we have been prevented from trying to get land to suit our requirements elsewhere. Had the question been decided against us at once, the evil would not have been so great as to do so now.

Remaining, &c.,
EDWARD CLAYTON.

From what Mr. Day now informs me, a report of this case in the matter of improvements should be obtained as early as possible.—J.S.F. Report received and now submitted.—The Under Secretary for Lands,—B.C., 26 April, 1878.—R. D. FITZGERALD, for Surveyor General.

No. 81.

Mr. D. Brown to J. McElhone, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Corowa, 10 March, 1879.

I am pleased to observe that you are bringing the Quat Quatta Reserve swindle before the House, by moving that all papers in connection therewith be laid on the Table.

This case and investigation before Mr. Commissioner Rose, cannot be too publicly exposed; our money deposited has been retained; our improvements stopped by order of a letter from the Department pending a settlement of the dispute.

A considerable portion of the reserve has been fallowed, but not cropped in the face of the delay of Government in deciding a dispute between the selectors, and a glaring infringement of the Act by Mr. Wallace in putting on dummy improvements to bar selection, to wit, old worn out steam engines shells of sheds, and a tank at every $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile or thereabouts; some on top of a hill, and no watershed leading thereto.

The Banks on the other hand are forcing the selectors to give orders on the Treasury, for a refund of their money. There is a collusion; the loss to the district is more than can be estimated. The object of Mr. John A. Wallace is to force into his hands improved farms at £1 5s. per acre, his standing price.

DONALD BROWN,
(For the selectors.)

P.S.—Enclosed Minister of Lands letter left open for your information, which will speak for itself. Please forward it after perusal, to the Department, and if possible get maps forwarded to me, Corowa. I will send fee when known.

D. BROWN.

No. 82.

Précis by Mr. Curry.

Quat Quatta reserve case.

THE reserve in question No. 42, county of Hume, on Quat Quatta Run, was notified in 1861, and the extensions to it in 1865 and 1867 respectively.

A number of interested residents complaining of the action of the Honorable J. A. Wallace in impounding their cattle upon the reserve, petitioned that it might be set apart as a Common.

This request was not acceded to, but the Government were prompted to revoke a portion of it containing 1,750 acres.

On the 22nd August, 1877, a notice appeared in the Gazette, that at the expiration of thirty days from that date the revocation would take place.

This period expired on Friday the 21st September, 1877.

On the 26th of that month the Honorable J. A. Wallace applied for the land under the 2nd clause.

640 acres.—Two tanks, well, with fixed steam-engine and pump for irrigation and watering stock, shed of American pine, iron roof over engine and pump; fencing five wires, post and top rail.

640 acres.—Two tanks, fixed steam-engine, saw-mill and plant for purpose of sawing, fencing and timber for other improvements to Quat Quatta Station. American pine shed, iron roof over engine and plant, well.

470 acres.—Two tanks, woolshed of American pine, with iron roof.

On the day following, the first Land Office day after the revocation, it was taken up by six conditional purchasers.

The correspondence on the part of the selectors sets forth that Wallace took advantage of the notice of intended revocation within the thirty days, and the time between the expiration of that term, and the date of selection, by rapidly placing improvements upon the land, in order to bar selection.

In the enclosed petition it is alleged that they were not commenced until two weeks after the revocation of reserve, and were continued ten days after selection, that they were valued at date of selection at £330, and that they are not such as are required by law.

The words two weeks after revocation evidently mean two weeks after date of notification.

District

District Surveyor Wood in his report of 30th January, 1878, represents that the pumps were obtained for the purpose of general irrigation, and that they were placed on the reserve, not because they were practically necessary in that situation, but with the further view of conferring a right of purchase over the land. See No. 42.

In his later report of the 8th May, 1878, he states that the improvements are as stated by the Honorable J. A. Wallace—"They are bonâ fide and useful for the purpose intended, the engines are firmly fixed to large beams of wood in the usual way; the sheds over them are substantial and permanent, and the wells are slabbed from top to bottom.

"I consider that the land is improved to a value of considerably over £1 per acre.

"It is the intention of Mr. Wallace, if allowed to purchase the land, to go in for irrigation, he having obtained a plentiful supply of water.

"The improvements were made, so far as I am informed, before the land was selected but as none of the selectors were present, I had no opportunity of verifying my informant's statement, but I have no reason whatever to doubt it."

This report was protested against by the conditional purchasers on the ground that the surveyor was accompanied over the ground by the lessee alone, who would endeavour to prevent an adverse representation, and that a valuation made of the improvements at the date of the surveyor's inspection could not convey a proper idea of their value at date of selection, when it is alleged they were only partially completed.

It will be seen that the opinion of Mr. Rose is favourable rather than the reverse to the lessee. He states that he sees no reason to doubt that the improvements mentioned in Mr. Wallace's application were, with a few trifling exceptions, completed by the 26th September, 1877, and that it appears to him probable that the value put by Mr. Wallace on the fences, wells, tanks, engines, &c., specified in his application for the land, is not very much in excess of what these things are worth or cost. He states that there can be no question as to the fixed character of the tanks, wells, and fences, and considers that the building may be regarded in the same light.

With respect to the character of the engines, the Commissioner cites certain legal authorities, and concludes that, strictly, they are not of a fixed character, and speaking of the question whether they are of a beneficial nature, he says that it seems probable they were intended to be used, or wells would not have been made near them at a considerable cost.

It is a significant circumstance, however, that in the last paragraph of his report, he states that the wells appear to have been failures, and that the engines, owing to this or to some other cause, do not appear to have been worked.

The Commissioner, as he himself states, sought to ascertain whether the improvements were upon the land at the date of selection.

It would have been desirable had he obtained complete evidence as to the date of their erection; for should it be clearly understood that they had been effected during the currency of the reserve, which was not legally cancelled until the expiration of thirty days from date of notification, they would not, under a decision of the Secretary for Lands, entitle the owner to purchase.

The statement of the selectors, and the evidence of some of the witnesses, for the most part point to this conclusion.

Wallace, in his statement, says that the engines were upon the land before the 21st September, 1877.

M'Ewan states that he began a tank on the 5th September, 1877, and that on the 27th only three-quarters of it were finished.

M'Kay, overseer, represents that of the 2 miles of fencing on the first block of 640 acres, 1½ mile had been erected two years previously to September, 1877, and that the remainder had been begun prior to August, 1877.

Martin, according to his own statement, was employed on the 10th September, 1877, to erect three buildings, which were finished on the 26th of that month.

The evidence, however, respecting the date of erection of the improvements is perhaps not sufficiently great and conclusive, but it appears that they were, for the most part, upon the land at date of selection.

Their value may be finally determined by appraisement, for which £6 6s. as fees have already been paid.

The question as to their character is one for the consideration of the Secretary for Lands.

No. 83.

Minute by the Secretary for Lands.

I FIND, from perusing the papers in this case, that my predecessor (Mr. Farnell) directed, by a minute bearing date 28/10/78, that Mr. Commissioner Rose should inquire into the nature of the contention between Mr. Wallace, the lessee of the Quat Quatta Run, and certain other persons (six) who had applied to conditionally purchase the land previously embraced in a reserve from sale No. 42, which reserve was revoked on Friday, 21st September, 1877, or rather the revocation took effect on that date.

On 26th September, 1877, Mr. Wallace applied to purchase, in virtue of certain improvements, the land previously embraced in the aforesaid reserve. The conditional purchasers represent that in the interval between the date when the notification appeared in the Gazette of the intention to revoke the said reserve; and up to ten days after the land was applied for by them, the lessee (Mr. Wallace) placed certain improvements on the land to prevent its being obtained by conditional purchase, and applied to purchase the land previously embraced in the said reserve in virtue thereof, although the said conditional purchasers state that they only valued the improvements on this land at date of selection at £330.

The question then arises—was Mr. Wallace entitled to apply to purchase this land in virtue of any improvements he may have placed thereon? I find that a former Minister (Mr. Garrett), in a circular dated 20/7/76, notified that any improvements made by a lessee of Crown Lands on land at the time within the area of a reserve from sale, will "not be held to confer any claim to purchase," and I find on inquiry that this rule has been acted upon in the Department of Lands since this circular was distributed.

It is quite clear to my mind, from the terms of this circular, that Mr. Wallace has no claim to be allowed to purchase any land previously embraced in reserve No. 42, in virtue of any improvements he may have erected thereon.

I am of opinion that there must be a reference of this case to appraisement, with the view of determining the nature and value of the improvements on this land at the date when applications were made to conditionally purchase the same, and whether improvements representing a value of £1 per acre can be embraced in an area measured in accordance with the Regulations, and great care must be taken in choosing an efficient person to represent the interests of the Crown as an appraiser, and to insure that the person selected is impartial and not having any local proclivities. I advise that the Government appraiser should be sent to the locality to perform this onerous and responsible duty, from Sydney, or some district remote from Corowa; and further, that he should have a good knowledge of the value of such improvements as are generally used on stations; also, that he be fully instructed as to the nature of his duties, and the correct mode of procedure in conducting Appraisement Courts under the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861; also, that both appraisers and the umpire in each case are to make the usual declarations, as required by the terms of the said Act in respect to appraisements, and that the umpire must be present when the Appraisement Courts are held; and that each person interested in the case must have fourteen days' notice, in writing, of the date when such Appraisement Court is to be held.

In respect to the nature of the improvements erected by Mr. Wallace, the appraiser appointed by the Government is instructed not to take into consideration, in his estimate of the value of the improvements erected by the lessee, either or both of the steam-engines, or the saw-mill and plant, or the sheds over that machinery, as I do not consider that they are such improvements as would entitle a lessee to purchase Crown Land in virtue thereof.

A list of the Commissioners and Inspectors of Conditional Purchases is appended—perhaps one of them could be selected to carry out this appraisement.—L.G.T., 12/3/79.

I wish Mr. O'Malley Clarke to undertake the duties of appraiser for the Government in this case, and I particularly wish that gentleman to be furnished with the papers.—J.H., 14/3/79.

No. 84.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Mr. Commissioner G. O'M. Clarke.

Sir,

Department of Lands, 20 March, 1879.

I am directed to forward herewith, for perusal, the papers relating to revoked reserve No. 42, in the parishes of Quat Quatta and Kentucky, and your appointment as appraiser on behalf of the Government in the case.

It will be seen that the land in question was applied for, in virtue of improvements, on the 26th September, 1877, by the Hon. J. A. Wallace, and on the day following by Messrs. E. Clayton, jun., E. Clayton, sen., G. Beeby, A. Brown, A. Gallagher, and C. Réan, as conditional purchasers.

The Secretary for Lands has now decided that the nature and value of the improvements, at the date of conditional purchase, shall be determined by appraisement, and I am particularly to mention that in forming an estimate of their value you will exclude the steam-engines, saw-mill and plant, and the sheds covering that machinery.

The appraisement must be held strictly in accordance with the provisions of the 28th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861; and the several conditional purchasers who will form the second party to it, have been informed that they must concur in your appointment as single appraiser, or appoint an appraiser on their own behalf within sixty days from this date.

Should they fail to take either of these courses within the prescribed term, you will consider yourself to be appointed, and will proceed to act on behalf of both parties.

In the event of their appointing an appraiser on their own behalf, I am to point out that before the investigation is entered upon an umpire should be appointed; and in the selection of a gentleman for this position, it is needless for me to state the necessity of his being of respectable character and repute, and possessing no direct or indirect personal interest in the matter.

Should you and your co-appraiser fail to agree within sixty (and an extension of thirty) days from the date of your co-appraiser's appointment, the question will be in the sole determination of the umpire, who is allowed a corresponding term within which to make his award.

With regard to the time specified for the appointment of an umpire, attention is invited to the 7th sub-section of the clause before alluded to, which provides that should one not be appointed within thirty days after a request is made to the appraisers, the responsibility of making the appointment devolves upon the Secretary for Lands.

I am to point out that the declaration prescribed by the Act must be made by every person conducting the appraisement; that the umpire should be present during the investigation; and that fourteen days' notice, in writing, of the time appointed for the inquiry must be given to all parties interested in the case.

In making the award (for which the necessary forms enclosed may be selected as circumstances require), full information upon all points should be submitted for the information of the Minister for Lands; and it should be stated whether the improvements are so situated as to be capable of being included in an area commensurate to their value, and measured in accordance with the Regulations.

The Under Secretary for Lands to Selectors.

Gentlemen,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 9 April, 1879.

With reference to your letter on the subject of Mr. O'Malley Clarke to appraise the value of the improvements on your respective conditional purchases, I am directed to inform you that Mr. Clarke has been instructed, when making his award, not to take into consideration the steam-engine, saw-mill and plant, and the sheds covering that machinery, as they are not considered by the Secretary for Lands to be improvements within the meaning of the Act.

I am, further directed to inform you, with regard to the other question, that the claim of the lessee has been discarded; but the fact of his having improved the land necessitates a reference to appraisal, for although the improvements made by him were effected illegally, no improved land can according to law be conditionally purchased, and the improvements in question may be of sufficient value to bar conditional purchase.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., to The Secretary for Lands.

Re appraisalment, reserve 42.

Corowa, 7 June, 1879.

THE report in this matter will doubtless reach you in due course. In reference thereto, I strongly protest to the mode of procedure adopted in the holding of it, for as I understand, it was constituted on behalf of the Crown and the selectors to determine whether there were sufficient improvements upon the 27th September, 1877, to bar selection; the onus of proof being on the part of the Crown to prove there was, ours to disprove it, and had the Crown or ourselves chosen to be represented by professional gentlemen, either could have done so, but neither did so, but Mr. Wallace, who was brought forward as a witness only on behalf of the Crown, was so represented by Mr. Bradley, to whom was accorded all the rights and privileges as if he (Mr. Wallace), was a party in the suit, which, sir, I strongly maintain he was not, his claim to the land having been previously determined by you; and the only question before the Court being to prove or disprove the "representations" made in your letter of 23rd November, 1877. This I pointed out to Mr. O'Malley Clarke, but he overruled me. I recorded my protest, and now, sir, I appeal to you to know if the course he adopted was correct, namely, to allow a person brought forward as a witness only to be represented by a solicitor, and all the privileges accorded to him as if he were a party in the suit before the Court. Mr. Wallace's claim to purchase having been "discarded," it is now his interest to have the selections debarred, in which case it is assumed the land will be put to auction, when he will be able to purchase at the upset price, as there will be few, if any, likely to bid against him. Hoping your favourable consideration of the circumstances under which the evidence was taken,—

I am, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON, SENR.

No. 108.

Messrs. E. Clayton, sen. and jun., to The Secretary for Lands.

Re appraisalment, revoked reserve 42.

Corowa, 9 June, 1879.

Sir,

I have been shown a copy of the appraisers' valuation sent to you in this matter. In reference thereto, permit me to state that the side fence (92 chains), was put up four years ago by Mr. Wallace, to enclose his land adjoining the reserve on its eastern boundary; this was long before he had any right as a Crown lessee, and as a dividing fence the most Mr. Wallace could claim from any who would have to pay for it would be half the cost of it; this even would be more than just or equitable, seeing the fence has been in existence four years.

On this basis it would be impossible to survey the land according to the general subdivision of the land (as required by Regulations 2 and 3, Crown Lands Amendment Act 1875) upon my selection so as to include £40 in any 40 acres of it; while the price allowed (1s. 3d. per yard) for the tanks upon my son's selection is over the price the person who sank one of them stated in his evidence that he received, viz., 14d., and that was at a time it was difficult to get men. Now the same could be done for 11d., or even 10d. per yard, and the shed upon it is identical with those that cover the machinery and excluded by you.

At the former inquiry the person who sank the tank upon Brown's selection, when produced on behalf of Mr. Wallace, admitted he worked at it a couple of weeks or more after selected, and the same was done at one of the tanks on my son's selection, but at this distance of time (one year and three-quarters) it is a very difficult and expensive matter to get evidence, especially when Mr. Wallace has secured to his interest all the most available. One resident, now in Victoria, he had omitted, whom it took me two days to visit and get a summary of his evidence in writing, and had to pay 20s. a day and his expenses to attend the Court; but when it began to appear that his evidence would be very material to us, while I was engaged before the Court he was induced to clear off, and the person who induced him afterwards openly admitted to me having done so.

In conclusion, sir, we are confident there are not the quantities in the tanks the appraisers approximate, if they were properly measured and calculated. The fence I could close an offer to-day with a responsible person to erect one a mile or ten, at £67 per mile complete and exactly as that up. And we sincerely hope and trust, in coming to a determination upon this matter, you will take into consideration the difficulties we have had to contend with in opposing a person whose influence is so great as Mr. Wallace's, and has used it to the utmost; and the very long time we have had to carry on the struggle for what we deemed our rights, independent of our money being locked up and what it has cost us otherwise.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON, SENR.;
(and for Jun.)Minutes on No. 108.

The appraisalment being by law final and conclusive is not open to dispute, therefore the pleas set out in this letter cannot be considered.—L.G.T., 19/6/79. Approved.—J.H., 21/6/79:

No. 109.

Mr. G. Beeby to The Secretary for Lands.

Corowa, 10 June, 1879.

Sir,

I respectfully draw your attention to the charges made by the umpire for the appraisalment of the Quat Quatta Reserve No. 42.

Mr. Clarke, the Government appraiser, requested us to lodge £20 in the hands of the Police Magistrate to defray the cost of an umpire. Mr. S. A. Meyer was named to act in that capacity. The arbitrators agreed without his assistance.

The case occupied two days—one to view the improvements, and one to hear evidences. The umpire charges 10 guineas, which we consider too much, and request that you will fix the charge.

Had

Had Mr. Meyer been a professional gentleman we would have consented to the payment, but being, as it were, one of us, that is, a farmer and vigneron, with an income of say less than £350 a year, it certainly seems extortionate to charge 5 guineas a day for only a few hours' work; and we contend that until his services were required, which they were not, he had no right there at all until the arbitrators found they could not agree without him.

We have no wish to occupy that gentleman's time for nothing, but we do think that 2 guineas per day would be ample, considering that two out of the four selectors are only struggling selectors, one of them now working for 20s. per week.

If you will kindly give this affair your favourable consideration you will greatly oblige,—

Land Commissioner's Office, Young, 12 June, 1879.

No. 84.

I have the honor to inform you that upon the receipt of your letter of instructions of the 20th of March last, I forthwith took the necessary steps for the appraisalment of the improvements effected on the revoked portion of the Quat Quatta reserve by the Hon. John Wallace.

In due course Messrs. Edward Clayton, sen., A. Gallagher, A. Brown, G. Beeby, and E. Clayton, jun., who were applicants for conditional purchases on the land in question, and who formed the second party to the appraisalment, appointed Mr. Prosper Sandral, J.P., of Corowa, appraiser on their behalf.

The sixth applicant, Mr. Camille Réan, made no appointment. Mr. Sandral and I then selected Mr. Strother Meyer, J.P., of Corowa, to act as umpire, and that gentleman accepted the position.

It was then arranged that the Court of Appraisalment should be held at Corowa, on Friday, the 6th June instant, and that an inspection of the land in question and of all the improvements thereon should be made on the previous day, and all the parties interested in the case received due notice of the intended proceedings. Accordingly, on the 5th instant, the appraisers and umpire proceeded to the revoked reserve, and in the presence of the Hon. John Wallace, Mr. Bradley, solicitor, and Mr. E. Clayton, sen., made a minute inspection of the land and of all the improvements upon it, descriptions of which were taken as they came under notice, and measurements made where deemed necessary. I may here mention that as no survey had been effected, either of the portions applied for by Mr. Wallace or by the conditional purchasers, the appraisers and umpire were compelled to rely on the parties interested for the identification of the several portions.

On the following day, the 6th instant, the Court of Appraisalment was opened, the appraisers and umpire having previously made the declaration prescribed by the Act. The Hon. John Wallace appeared in person, and was assisted by Mr. Bradley, solicitor. The conditional purchasers present were, Messrs. E. Clayton, sen., A. Gallagher, A. Brown, and G. Beeby.

In support of Mr. Wallace's claim the following witnesses were examined, namely—Messrs. John Wallace, John Lang, William Mackay, James Strahan, John Martin, and James Maclean; and on behalf of the conditional purchasers, the following, namely—Messrs. Donald Brown, Alexander Gallagher, George Beeby, A. Brown, and Edward Clayton, sen.

The evidence as to the nature and value of the improvements at the date the land was applied for under conditional purchase was, as might be expected, of a somewhat conflicting character; but the previous inspection made by the appraisers very materially assisted them in arriving at a satisfactory conclusion on the subject, and, after all the evidence tendered had been taken, they lost no time in proceeding with the appraisalment, which they completed without calling into requisition the services of the umpire.

The value of the improvements on each conditional purchase at the date of application was appraised as follows, viz. :—

	ac.	£	s.	d.
E. Clayton, sen.	320	172	0	0
Camille Réan	370	72	15	0
A. Gallagher	200	25	0	0
A. Brown	280	43	12	6
G. Beeby	260	37	10	0
E. Clayton, jun.	320	206	5	0

It will be seen that the improvements on four of these portions were such as to bar from conditional purchase areas commensurate to their value, and they are so situated that those areas can be measured in accordance with the regulations.

I deem it my duty here to point out that the two engine-sheds spoken of by the witnesses, and which the Minister directed should be excluded from appraisalment, are fac similes of the building which is situated on the selection of E. Clayton, jun., and the value of which has been appraised at £100.

I have now the honor to enclose,—

- 1st. An epitome of the case as presented to the appraisers, together with a statement of their awards.
- 2nd. The awards of the appraisers, with schedules showing particulars of the same, and the appointments and declarations in each case.
- 3rd. The minutes of the evidence taken on oath at this Court of Appraisalment.
- 4th. The papers relating to the previous history of this case, transmitted to me with your letter of 20th March last.

In conclusion, I have to acknowledge the valuable assistance I received in conducting this appraisalment from Messrs. Sandral and Meyer, and the uniform courtesy shown to me by all the parties interested.

I have, &c.,

GEORGE O'MALLEY CLARKE,
Commissioner.

Quat Quatta Reserve.—Epitome of Case.

NOTICE of intended revocation of 1,750 acres appeared in Gazette of 22nd Augst, 1877, and the thirty days expired on the 21st September, 1877. On 26th September, 1877, the Honorable John Wallace applied for the whole area of the revoked reserve, under the 2nd clause, in two portions of 640 acres each, and one of 470 acres.

On 27th September, 1877, the same area was applied for under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, as follows:—E. Clayton, senr., 320 acres; Camille Réan, 370 acres; Alexander Gallagher, 200 acres; Archibald Brown, 280 acres; George Beeby, 260 acres; and E. Clayton, junr., 320 acres.

On 20th March, 1879, the Minister for Lands directed that the nature and value of the improvements on the revoked reserve at the date of the conditional purchases should be determined by appraisal.

The Court of Appraisal was held at Corowa on the 6th June, 1879, by George O'Malley Clarke, appraiser for the Government; Prosper Sandral, appraiser for the conditional purchasers; and Strother Meyer, umpire, selected by the appraisers.

The improvements on the several conditional purchases were found to be and appraised as follows:—

Minutes of Evidence alluded to.

Corowa, 6 June, 1879.

Court of Appraisal held to inquire into the nature and to appraise the value of certain improvements effected by the Honorable John Wallace on the Quat Quatta Reserve at the date it became open for conditional purchase.

Present:—Mr. George O'Malley Clarke, appraiser for the Government; Prosper Sandral, appraiser for the conditional purchasers; Strother Meyer appointed by the appraisers.

John Alston Wallace sworn, states:—I am the lessee of the Quat Quatta Run, of which the Quat Quatta reserve forms part; prior to the final revocation of the reserve I effected certain improvements upon it; I know the portion taken up by Edward Clayton, junior, of 320 acres; on that portion I erected a shed and constructed two tanks; I paid £200 for the erection of the shed, the tanks cost £150 each; on Archibald Brown's conditional purchase of 280 acres a tank of 1,060 yards was constructed for me, valued at £150; on Alexander Gallagher's conditional purchase was an engine-house, an engine, and saw-mill and well; the engine-house cost £200, the engine and saw-mill, £650; the well is 75 feet deep, timbered from top to bottom with 2-inch pine; it was valued at £200; on Camille Réan's selection of 320 acres was one tank of 960 cubic yards, and a smaller one of 150 cubic yards; the larger tank I value at £100; 35 chains of fencing of red gum posts, 3 inches thick and 10 inches wide, top rail 9 inches wide by 2 thick, bored for five wires—this fence is worth £25; on Clayton senior's selection of 320 acres is 35 chains of fencing of posts and one rail and five wires braced, worth £96 per mile; on the eastern boundary is 92 chains of the same description of fence, of the same value per mile; there is a shaft sunk to a depth of 62 feet, timbered with sawn pine boards 2 inches thick; the shaft I value at £150; there is an engine and pumping gear worth £375; an engine-house I value at £200; there is also a tank of 786 cubic yards, worth £60; the last engine and plant was erected for the purpose of watering stock and for irrigation; the saw-mill I erected for the purpose of cutting and preparing fencing; I cannot state positively whether all the improvements I have detailed were completed on the date the conditional purchases were made; I was the owner of the Quat Quatta Run before the revocation of the reserve.

By Clayton: The fence was erected under an arrangement I made with Gibbs; it was not put up to enclose my freehold property; I am not sure when the first fence was erected; I do not know what improvements are on Beeby's selection; the valuations I have placed upon the improvements do not represent my actual outlay, with the exception of the machinery.

Taken and sworn before me, this 6th June, 1879,—

JOHN A. WALLACE.

G. O'MALLEY CLARKE.

John Lang sworn, states:—I am a saw-mill proprietor residing at Stanley in Victoria; I know the revoked portion of the Quat Quatta Reserve; I erected an engine and pumping gear on one selection (Clayton's); it was worth £375, and was erected prior to the revocation of the reserve; there was a shaft 66 feet deep; there are 62 feet of piping on the shaft for pumping; the pumping gear I saw at work; the shaft is timbered with 1½ and 2 inch pine; I also erected an engine and saw-mill on another portion of the reserve; their value was £650; there was also a shaft there.

Taken and sworn on this 6th June, 1879,—

JOHN LANG.

S. A. MEYER.

William

William McKay sworn, states:—I was on the Quat Quatta Run, and know the revoked portion of the Quat Quatta Reserve; on the selection taken up by Mr. Clayton, senior, and at the date of selection was 35 chains of fencing of posts, top rail, and five wires, and on the side boundary was 100 chains of a similar fence; the fence was worth £100 per mile; on the north side was 35 chains of fencing of posts and top rail, bored for wire; this is on Camille Réau's selection; on Clayton's selection also is a tank of 786 cubic yards, worth 1s. 3d. per yard; a well, 67 feet deep, slatted with sawn timber; the shaft is, I think, 4½ by 2½ feet; on Camille Réau's is the 35 chains of fencing already described; a tank of 960 yards, a smaller one of 260 yards; on Gallagher's selection is a well, 75 feet deep, constructed in a similar manner to that already described; on Brown's selection is a tank which at the time the selection was made had 800 yards excavated, a hut, £25; part of the hut is there now; on Beeby's selection was a tank of 800 yards; on Clayton junior's selection was a tank of 1,000 yards; another of 1,000 yards, a woolshed, 26 feet square, walls, 11 feet 6 inches high, constructed of American pine, covered with corrugated iron; all these improvements were completed at the date of these selections; I saw the tanks measured before the selections were made; the shafts were sunk and timbered to a depth of 60 feet.

By Clayton: I received a notice from you after the conditional purchases were made; the measurements were made after that; the tank on Clayton senior's selection was completed on the day of selection, with the exception of the squaring off; I paid for 786 yards; the 100 chains of fence on the eastern boundary was put up about twelve months before; it was erected to enclose a paddock; the first fence was erected some time before 26th September, 1877.

By Beeby: The tank on your selection was not measured on the day of selection or the day before; I guessed the dimensions of the tanks on Clayton junior's selection on the 26th September; one completed a day afterwards, and the other two or three days afterwards; the woolshed and engines, levels are similar in dimensions and material; there were 800 yards taken out of the tank on Brown's selection on the day of selection.

WILLIAM MCKAY.

James Strachan sworn, states:—I am a tank-sinker, and sank a tank on the Quat Quatta Reserve for Mr. Wallace; it was on the land that was Clayton junr.'s selection; the present measurement is 1,064 yards, but contained 1,000 yards on the day of selection; I finished it in a day afterwards; I know another tank on the same selection; it also contained 1,000 yards on the day of selection, and was finished three days afterwards, and then contained 1,150 yards; I measured a third tank, which was on Beeby's selection; on the day of the selection I should say there were 800 yards taken out; I measured it about three weeks after selection; tank-sinking is worth 14d. per yard—that was what I was paid; I have had a large experience in tank-sinking.

Examined: I was three weeks making the tank I sank. The tank on Mr. Beeby's selection was commenced three weeks before the date of selection, and the men were at work upon it for about three weeks afterwards; there are now 1,200 yards in it.

For the Conditional Purchasers.

Donald Brown sworn, states:—I am a valuator and accountant; on 27th September, 1877, I went on the Quat Quatta Reserve, and on Clayton's selection I found a well in course of sinking, an engine and shed, a tank in course of excavation, and two lines of fencing in course of construction; I measured the tank—there were 200 yards out of it; the first fence was of posts and one rail, and five wires traced, and is worth £60 per mile; the work done in the well was worth £30; it was about 40 feet deep; on Réau's selection was a fence of posts and one rail, bored for five wires; there were 27 chains of that fence; it was worth £12 10s.; on the same selection was 800 yards of a tank; on Gallagher's selection was the commencement of a tank, the work of which was £5; on Brown's selection was a tank of 560 yards; a saw-mill was in course of construction, an engine and shed, and a well 20 feet deep, worth 5s. per foot; the sheds I saw were worth £60 each. Well-sinking such as I saw is worth 9s. 6d. per foot; tank-sinking is worth about 1s. 3d. per yard; I saw a bark hut on Brown's selection worth £3 10s.

Examined: In the roof of the sheds was ½ inch of iron worth £26 per ton; the timber can be obtained here at £2 per 100 feet; there were 2,500 feet of timber in each shed; two men could put up one of these sheds in a week, whose wages would be 10s. per diem; I am not interested in this selection; I assisted to find the money to take up my nephew's selection; Sampson wire is worth £30 per ton; 16 cwt. would do a mile of five-wire fence; posts, £2 per 100; rails, 30s. per 100.

DONALD BROWN.

Alexander Gallagher sworn, states:—I am one of the conditional purchasers on the revoked portion of the Quat Quatta Reserve; I took up 200 acres; the only improvements on that portion was a tank which had been sunk, and which could be done by a couple of men in two days; on Clayton senr.'s selection was an engine and shed, pumping gear, and a shaft; fencing along the east boundary of posts, rail, and five wires traced, and a similar fence on the south boundary; on Réau's selection a tank had been partially formed; a fence of posts and top rail; on Brown's selection was a tank of about 560 yards, a well of about 25 feet, engine and shed; I had a well sunk 63 feet, all timbered for £20.

Edward Clayton, senior, sworn, states:—I am one of the conditional purchasers on the Quat Quatta Reserve; I took up 320 acres on the 30th September, 1877; there was a front fence of posts and rails and five wire braced; on the east boundary was a fence of the same kind; that fence was worth about £66 per mile; a tank of about 400 yards, engine, and shed, and a well between 38 and 45 feet deep; on the north side, on what I supposed was my selection, was a fence unfinished of about 28 chains; the well-sinking is worth at the most 10s. per foot; on my son's selection were two tanks; I have since measured one of them and find it contains 627 yards; in the three sheds on the reserve is 9,577 feet of timber; they are worth £65 each; the fence on the eastern boundary of my selection is on the boundary of the reserve, and encloses land belonging to Mr. Wallace; I gave Mr. Wallace's manager notice to desist work on the 1st October, 1877.

No. 111.

Memorandum by Mr. Curry.

Quat Quatta Reserve case.

THE question in this case is now one as to the validity of the conditional purchases.
The improvements have been appraised as follows:—

			£	s.	d.
A. Gallagher	...	200 acres	25	0	0
G. Beeby	...	260 "	37	10	0
E. Clayton, sen.	...	320 "	172	0	0
E. Clayton, jun.	...	320 "	206	0	0
A. Brown	...	280 "	43	12	6
C. Réan	...	370 "	72	15	0

The improvements upon two of the portions, it will be seen, are insufficient to bar selection; and as £100 worth of those upon E. Clayton junior's purchase consist of a shed similar to the sheds rejected by the Minister, it is presumed the selection will be affected by the remainder only, viz., £106 5s.

A protest has been lodged by A. Brown against the report of the appraisers, as to the dimensions of the tank upon his selection, which the selector represents to contain only 560 yards.

A clerical error has been made by Mr. Clarke; for according to his letter and valuation it contains 650 yards, while from his memorandum attached to the award it contains only 640.

The larger valuation appears to be correct, and it is scarcely probable that the error in measurement described by the selector has been committed.

The selector may now, it is presumed, hold the areas reduced by the withdrawal of the improved portions, which should, perhaps, be offered at auction with the value of the improvements added to the upset price; and Mr. Wallace should, in terms of the Minister's decision, be informed that his claim to the land has been discarded.

The objection by the conditional purchaser against the charge of the umpire (who was not called upon to act) does not appear to be matter in which the department can interfere; and if the amount were determined by the appraisers, which is not quite clear, it is to them that the selector should appeal.

H.A.G.C.,

16/6/79.

The complaint of E. Clayton, sen., on behalf of his son, can scarcely be recognized, for having appointed an appraiser on his own behalf, he has relieved the Government of the responsibility.—H.A.G.C.

Minutes on No. 111.

I submit this memo. and the report of Mr. Appraiser G. O'M. Clarke, which together fully set out the circumstances of the case.—L.G.T., 19/6/79.

The shed must be excluded from the improvements on Clayton juns'. C.P., to bar selection, seeing that it is precisely similar to the sheds which I excluded from appraisal.

Gallagher & Beeby's C.Ps'. to stand good as applied for, the improvements being of insufficient value to bar selection.

See protest by Clayton, junior, the selector. Shall the point be referred again to Mr. Appraiser Clarke?—L.G.T., 19/6/79.

No; because the appraised value of improvement represents 650 cubic yards.—J.H., 21/6/79.

Approved; and steps should be taken with the least possible delay to have the areas measured off for the conditional purchasers.

As

As it is quite evident that the improvements were effected by the lessee when this land was a reserve, he therefore has no title to purchase the same in virtue thereof; therefore, I direct that the land which has been improved, and not embraced in the C.P.'s, be sent on for sale by auction, with the value of the improvements added to the upset price; but that the sheds, steam-engines, and saw-mills are not to be included in such improvements.

The conditional purchasers to have a refund made to them of the differences in the amount they paid as a deposit, and the deposit to be paid on the area they have been allowed to keep.—J.H., 21/6/79.

No. 112.

Mr. D. Brown to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, New South Wales.

I respectfully call your attention to the report of the arbitrators in appraising improvements on reserve No. 42, Quat Quatta, before you finally decide the question at issue between the selectors and John A. Wallace.

From a copy of the report which I have seen since Mr. O'Malley Clarke has left Corowa, it appears the tank on my selection is put down at 650 cubic yards, and the gross value of the improvements is put at £42 10s.

This is contrary to the sworn evidence of an expert valuer. The measurement of the tank on the 27th September, 1877, the day of selection, was 560 yards, and not 650 as shown in Mr. O'Malley Clarke's appraisalment. This makes a material difference against me, and is contrary to facts. 560 yards at 1s. 3d. would amount to £35 10s. I have just reason to complain of this unfair statement, and I can only believe that a grave error has been committed by the appraisers.

I submit that a serious injustice has been done to me. I have now been kept out of my money for nearly two years, pending a settlement of this vexed dispute, and no consideration appears to have been given to the fact of my having ploughed nearly 40 acres, which I have not been able to crop until this dispute is settled.

I further submit for your consideration the fact that no improvements to the extent of £40 is on any square mile of the reserve, which I believe has been ruled by the Courts is necessary to bar selection. The reserve is little more than half-a-mile wide, and the improvements effected by Mr. Wallace I maintain are, I submit, contrary to the spirit of the Land Act, and if allowed to bar my selection will entail almost ruin upon me.

I sincerely trust you will not admit Mr. Wallace's improvements to bar my selection.

I have, &c.,

ARCHIBALD BROWN,
(pro DONALD BROWN.)

P.S.—Coercion has been brought to bear on witnesses at the late inquiry, and material witnesses for the selectors were bought off.—A.B.

Minute on No. 112.

As Mr. Brown concurred in the appointment of Mr. Prosper Sandral, with the other conditional purchasers, to act as appraiser on their and on his behalf, the award must, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of 1861, be binding, final, and conclusive.—J.H., 21/6/79.

In reply to your letter of the 9th instant, on behalf of E. Clayton, jun., and yourself, protesting against Messrs. I may add, however, that as the shed upon E. Clayton jun.'s purchase is similar to the sheds rejected by the Minister as not being such improvements as confer a right of purchase, his selection will be affected by the remainder of the improvements only.

Department of Lands, Sydney, 30 June, 1879.

In reply to your letter of the 10th instant, protesting against the largeness of the amount charged for the attendance of Mr. S. Meyer as umpire in the Quat Quatta reserve case, I am directed to point out that the 10th section of the 28th clause of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861 provides that the costs of an appraisement shall be determined by the appraisers, and I am therefore to inform you that the matter is not one in which the Government can interfere, and your only appeal is to the appraisers who conducted the case.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN,

Under Secretary for Lands.

No. 116.

The Under Secretary for Lands to the Hon. J. A. Wallace.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Sydney, 30 June, 1879.

With reference to your applications of the 26th September, 1877, to purchase, in virtue of improvements, the land embraced by revoked reserve No. 42, situated in the parish of Quat Quatta, county of Hume, on Quat Quatta Run, I am directed to inform you that the Secretary for Lands, in view of the fact that the improvements were effected during the currency of the reserve, has decided that your claim cannot be accepted.

The question whether the improvements, with the exception of the steam-engines, saw-mill and plant, and the shed covering that machinery, which, in the opinion of the Secretary for Lands, are not such as confer a right to purchase, were at date of conditional purchase of sufficient value to bar the selections of Messrs. Gallagher, Beeby, Brown, Réan, Clayton sen., and Clayton jun., has been referred to appraisement, the result of which has shown that the improvements in question were of the following value:—

A. Gallagher	200 acres, £25 0 0
G. Beeby	260 " 37 10 0
E. Clayton, sen.	320 " 172 0 0
E. Clayton, jun.	320 " 365 5 0
A. Brown	280 " 43 12 6
C. Réan	370 " 72 15 0

In these circumstances, the Minister for Lands has directed that the whole of Messrs. Gallagher and Beeby's purchases and the land upon which improvements do not exist shall be retained by the selectors, and the improved portions offered at auction with the value of the improvements, other than the engines, saw-mill and plant, and the sheds, added to the upset price.

I am to add that, as one hundred pounds worth of improvements upon E. Clayton jun.'s purchase consists of a shed similar to the structures rejected by the Minister, the selection will be affected by the remainder only.

I have, &c.,

W. W. STEPHEN,

Under Secretary.

No. 117.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., to G. Day, Esq., M.P.

Dear Sir,

Corowa, 1 July, 1879.

Will you, sir, add another item to the large amount of our indebtedness to you, by presenting to and advocating the prayer of the enclosed with the Minister for Lands, as beforetime he promised to you that he would not delay.

I know you must be heartily sick of the subject, yet I trust that this will be the last time we will have to trouble you about it. See No. 18

I am, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN.

No. 118.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., to The Secretary for Lands.

Re revoked reserve 42.

Sir,

Corowa, 1 July, 1879.

Mr. Clarke's report on this matter has I presume reached you by this, and as you had previously determined that the improvements were "effected illegally," our selection should stand good, just as would apply to a person who built upon land to which he had no title; his building upon it would not affect the ownership of the land, and when he loses that he loses his building also; and as what Mr. Wallace did to the land was illegal, his illegal act should not affect our claim to it in any way, for even supposing they were (if legal) of sufficient extent to bar selection, if they were "effected illegally," the land is not improved at all, legally speaking.

Were you to decide that these "illegally effected" improvements barred our selection, it is placing them on exactly the same footing, as far as we are concerned, as if they were perfectly legal ones, and also to Mr. Wallace, with the exception that in one case he secures the land without competition, while in the other, nominally he has competition, but in reality has none, and would get the land at the upset price. I would respectfully ask, sir, if his action was not sufficiently legal for him to get a title, why should it be legal enough to bar ours? Were it to do so it would be a most monstrous injustice to us. In any case we have been very hardly dealt with by its being so long undecided, for even supposing it at once now decided in our favour, independent of what it has cost us otherwise, we have lost two seasons, and within eighteen months we will be called upon to pay two moieties of interest off our first season, thus debarring us of the interim devised by the Act to enable us to get settled upon the land.

We do hope and trust, sir, that you will be pleased to take an early opportunity of reviewing and deciding this matter, for its being so long in uncertainty is almost moral death to us, directly and indirectly.

I am satisfied I am fully £500 out of pocket for having selected the land, and I also believe it has been in a great measure the cause of ruin to two others. Getting located upon land under ordinary circumstances is an arduous and dispiriting matter but when accompanied with the difficulties we have had, we are robbed of nearly all nerve and energy before the real start.

Hoping your early and favourable consideration,—

I am, &c.,

EDWARD CLAYTON, SEN.

No. 119.

Messrs. Wilson and Ranken to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

227 George-street, Sydney, 3 July, 1879.

See No. 16.

We are in receipt of the letter of the Under Secretary, of date 30th ultimo, relative to the applications of the Honorable J. A. Wallace, lessee of the Quat Quatta Run, Murrumbidgee District, to purchase under the provisions of the 2nd clause, land embraced by revoked reserve No. 42, situated in the parish of Quat Quatta, in which it is stated that the Secretary for Lands has decided that Mr. Wallace's claim cannot be accepted.

In the same letter it is also stated, that "the question whether the improvements, with the exception of the steam-engines, saw-mill and plant, and the sheds covering that machine, which in the opinion of the Secretary for Lands are not such as to confer a right to purchase, were at date of conditional purchase of sufficient value to bar the selections of Messrs. Gallagher, Beeby, Brown, Réan, Clayton sen., and Clayton jun., has been referred to appraisalment, the result of which has shown that the improvements in question were of the following value," &c., &c.

Now, sir, on behalf of Mr. Wallace, we respectfully protest against this so-called appraisalment, as it has not been conducted in accordance with law.

The 1st section of the 28th clause of the Alienation Act of 1861 provides that the Minister shall appoint one appraiser, and that the claimant shall appoint another, to whom the matter in dispute shall be referred.

Mr. Wallace is the claimant in this case, and the other party to the dispute is the Minister acting for the selectors. Consequently, there could be no legal appraisalment unless Mr. Wallace, the claimant, either appointed an appraiser when called on by the Minister so to do, or declined so to appoint an appraiser; in which latter case the appraiser appointed by the Minister could act alone.

Mr. Wallace, the claimant in this case, not having been called on to appoint an appraiser, but both appraisers having been appointed by one party to the dispute only, the so-called arbitration must be void.

There is still another objection to the legality of this appraisalment, namely, the fact of the Honorable the Minister instructing the appraiser only to appraise certain improvements on the land, and not to appraise the most valuable improvements on the land; which we respectfully submit was contrary to law, and therefore, if there were no other grounds, would invalidate the appraisalment.

The question in this case is not whether the improvements are such as to induce the Minister to sell the land in virtue of them, but do they bar selection? And of this we submit there cannot be a doubt; the law in no way indicating the nature of the improvements that bar selection, but only their value.

Under these circumstances, we, on behalf of Mr. Wallace, respectfully request that all action taken under this so-called appraisalment be cancelled, and a fresh appraisalment ordered, and Mr. Wallace called on to appoint an appraiser in accordance with law.

We have, &c.,

WILSON & RANKEN.

No. 120.

Mr. E. Clayton, sen., to The Secretary for Lands.

Sir,

Corowa, July 7, 1879.

See No. 107.

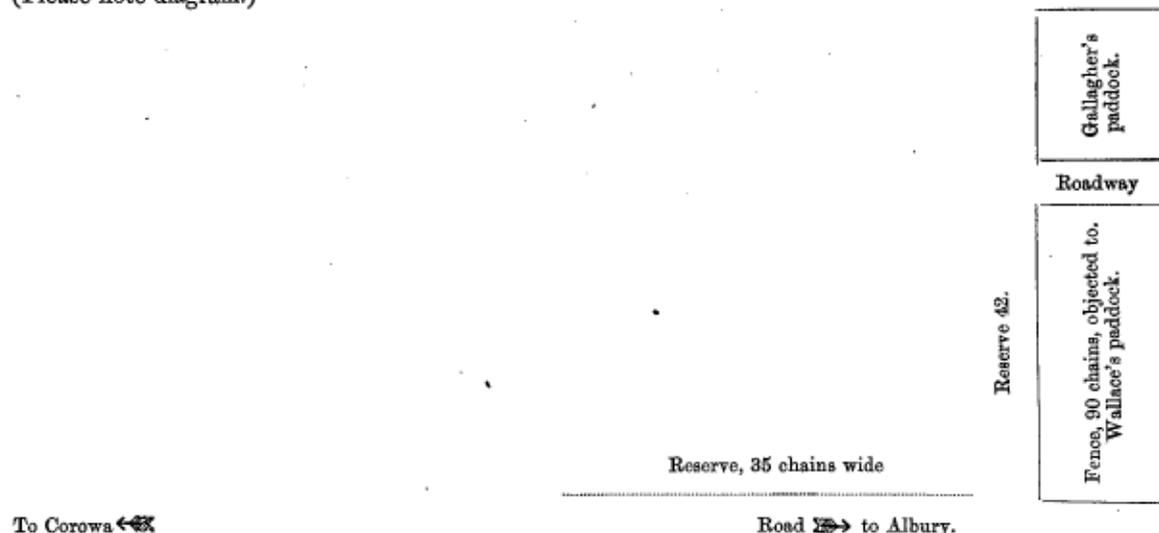

I am in receipt of yours, but you ignore mine of the 7th June, wherein I demonstrated the illegality of the mode in which the Court of Appraisalment was conducted in allowing Mr. Wallace to be represented by his solicitor, who examined and cross-examined every witness, and protected his own from the opposing side, and in every respect conducted the case as if Mr. Wallace were a principal instead of a witness only on behalf of the Crown—the matter to be determined being between the Crown and selectors only, to support or refute the matter contained in yours of 23rd November, 1877. Thus the Court being conducted illegally, the finding is illegal also.

But whether it is so or not does not affect us; for if the statement you make in your letter of 9th April, 1879, is true "the improvements made by him (Mr. Wallace) were effected illegally"—what does it signify what is the extent or value of these illegally effected improvements, for their illegality prevents their legal acknowledgment as improvements, and their illegality cannot affect the legal action of those who, on the 27th September, 1877, conditionally purchased the land, else what difference would there be between legal improvements and those effected illegally?

It

It can safely be averred that this Quat Quatta business has been the greatest piece of jobbery that ever transpired in the Colony; as an instance, I send you our local paper; a letter therein will give you one illustration of many we have had to contend with, and had we not been well advised enough to keep clear of going to law we should have been all ruined long ago. The shed on my son's conditional purchase having been discarded, on that conditional purchase there only remain the two "illegally effected" tanks, containing now only 727 yards each; and had our witness not been bought off, I could have shown that the measuring referred to by McKay in his evidence took place fourteen days after the selection, and the men continued work till that time; so the guess made as to what was done at 27th September was a very wide one.

On my own conditional purchase the side fence, 90 odd chains, was erected fully four years ago, not by those whom Mr. Wallace succeeds as lessee, but by himself, for other purposes than as an improvement to reserve 42, and at a time that circumstances did not seem to indicate he ever would be lessee; even now he is only so through a mortgage; the actual lessee, young Gibbs, being in a Victoria gaol, for horse-stealing. This side fence should therefore not be ranked an improvement beyond $\frac{1}{3}$ of the value of it; for if it is erected exactly where it ought to be, half only is on the reserve, and the other half on Mr. Wallace's land adjoining, and it is not now as good as new. Confident in the justice of our cause, from the 27th of September, 1877, till now, we have legally and constitutionally done our best to have this vexatious matter brought to a close before expending our resources upon it, and as yet no result; but since you have discarded some of the work, and state the rest were "illegally effected," I fail to see any tenable ground the Government have to bar our selection of the land; and, if not decided by the end of the present month, I shall proceed with the erection of my permanent residence, and it will be an evil day in colonial history when it is required to dispossess me. At present it is a disgrace to an English community that justice is so long withheld, and to me the wonder is that there are even so many upon the land as there are.

The objections of the writer to the appraisalment and the decision thereon appear to me void of any weight; but the papers, with an accompanying representation from Messrs. Wilson and Ranken on the same subject, are now returned to the Under Secretary.—A. O'M., 16/7/79.

Sir,

Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 17 July, 1879.

In reply to your letter of the 1st instant, with reference to the appraisalment of the lessee's improvements on Quat Quatta revoked reserve, and your selection of part thereof, I am directed to inform you that the appraisers' award shows the improvements on the land selected by you to be of the value of £172. The Minister for Lands has therefore decided that your selection must be reduced in area accordingly; and I am to enclose you a refund voucher on 172 acres, which, on being filled up and forwarded to the Treasury, with the authority signed by you, will enable that Department at once to refund the amount. Usual form sent.

I am to add that steps will be taken, with the least possible delay, to have the area measured that you are entitled to.

Gentlemen, Department of Lands, Conditional Sales Branch, Sydney, 23 July, 1879.

With reference to the recent appraisalment of the improvements effected by the Honorable J. A. Wallace on the Quat Quatta revoked reserve, and to the selections of portions thereof by the parties named in the margin, I am now directed to inform you that the improvements have been appraised as follows:—

A. Gallagher,
G. Beeby,
E. Clayton, sen.
E. Clayton, jun.
A. Brown,
C. Réan.

Land applied for by	A. Gallagher	...	200 acres	...	£25	0	0

Do.	A. Brown	...	280 "	...	43	12	6
Do.	C. Réan	...	370 "	...	72	15	0

The improvements on two of the selections, Gallagher's and Beeby's, it will be seen are insufficient to bar selection; and as £100 worth of those upon E. Clayton jun.'s purchase consists of a shed similar to the shed which has been held by the Minister not to be an improvement within the meaning of the Act, the selection will only be affected by the remainder, viz., £106 5s.

The conditional purchases, therefore, now stand as below:—

TANKS AND RESERVES.

No. 1.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Minister for Lands.

Sir,

Legislative Assembly Chambers, Sydney, 9 August, 1875.

I do myself the honor to bring under your notice the desirability of placing a sum of money upon 1876 Estimates for the purpose of providing tanks or reservoirs for the conservation of water for the public use, and of stock between the Barwon and Narran rivers, on the tracks from Humumbah, Collarindabri, and Mogil Mogil.

This has been done to very great advantage between Bourke and the Warrego, through a similar dry country, and it seems to me the residents in these localities and others forced to travel over it are entitled to the same indulgence. This expenditure would be the means of saving much loss of human life, and the perishing of much valuable stock in very bad seasons, the distance being some 70 miles without water over dry plains, in addition to which the Crown lands of the Colony in that portion of the territory would become more valuable, enabling them to be taken up and occupied, bringing in rental to the benefit of the State.

I trust you will call for the necessary reports in the matter, and adopt what steps you consider beneficial for the public interest.

I have, &c.,

THOS. G. DANGAR.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Minister for Lands.

Sir,

Bullerawa, Wee Waa, 12 October, 1875.

There is no permanent water in the Baradine Creek, I may say from the Namoi to the Castle-reagh, a distance of 90 miles nearly. All the stock travel this route to market, and this road is travelled by carriers and others to a very great extent.

At Baradine a tank or dam could be well constructed to conserve water for the public use, I therefore do myself the honor to solicit that a grant of money may be appropriated for this purpose.

Mr. District-Surveyor Dewhurst to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Tamworth, 11 November, 1875.

In compliance with your instructions, I have the honor to report that a supply of water for the public is required at Baradine. I may, however, state at once that the Baradine or Bungle Gully Creek is not suitable for a dam, and that a well would perhaps answer the purpose better than a tank; a well could be sunk here for about £60, and troughing could easily be procured at a cost of 1s. 6d. per foot, say 100 feet.

Never-failing water can be got by sinking.

Mr. District-Surveyor Dewhurst to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Tamworth, 3 December, 1875.

In compliance with your instructions,* dated 2nd September, 1875, No. 364, I have the honor to report that the erection or construction of tanks, reservoirs, or dams (according to the nature of the country), along the routes referred to by Mr. Dangar, viz., from Walgett, via Collarindabri and Gumble-alley, to the Narran, and via Werribilla to the Narran, also, from Mogil Mogil,† via Gundablioni, and along Bagot's track to the Narran, would be of the greatest advantage to the travelling public and to the lessees of runs in this part of the Colony. It would also tend, in my opinion, to settlement along the various routes. Prior, however, to any expenditure of public money in the way proposed, I have the honor to suggest that it would be most desirable to reserve a stock route $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile wide along each of the tracks mentioned.

The improvements that I can recommend would be a large tank at Gumblealley sand ridge, about 15 miles from the Barwon. A tank at Dungle sand ridge, about 36 miles from the Barwon. A dam on a watercourse about midway between Gundablioni and the Narran. These

* See minute on No. 1. Two letters appended.—A.D. † Map Mogul.

These constructions would, I think, answer the public requirements for the present along the roads referred to, and should the necessary funds be granted, trustees should be appointed to select exact sites, and supervise the works during execution.

I have, &c.,
A. DEWHURST.

Mr. R. Walker to T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

My dear Sir,

Mogil Mogil, 5 October, 1875.

Your favour of the 30th September* came duly to hand, requiring information respecting the construction of tanks on the Werribilla track to the Narran, or a dam on Bagot's track. *Not with the papers.

- 1st. The distance from Werribilla to the Narran is about 60 miles, and comes on the Narran at a station of Hill's.
- 2nd. The tracks from Collarindabri and Werribilla join each other about 12 miles from the Barwon, before coming to Gumblealley.
- 3rd. I cannot name any place where a tank could be made to advantage on that track.
- 4th. Bagot's track has natural facilities for the construction of a dam on it, about half-way across it. The distance from the Moonie to the Narran is about 40 miles.
- 5th. Do not know of any reserves for the use of travelling stock. One on Bagot's track would be of great service, as it is the only one stock generally travel.

I am, &c.,
ROBT. WALKER.

[Enclosure B to No. 4.]

Mr. H. Newcomen to Mr. District-Surveyor Dewhurst.

Dear Dewhurst,

Belmont, November, 1874.

Mr. Manchee tells me you want information relative to the best positions for tanks between the Narran and Barwon, and the Narran to Moonie.

Between the Narran and Barwon the best place for one tank is at the Dungle sand ridge, about 14 miles from the Narran. I cannot point out the other particularly, but I think it should be some 3 or 4 miles west of Gumblealley, that is, about 16 miles from the Barwon.

It will be necessary to exercise due care in selecting, and I would advise, if the money is procured, that a trust be appointed. I cannot give you any information relative to the Moonie Road; but if you apply to Mr. Hammond, Currawillinghi, Waigett, he will get you the necessary information.

I was in communication with Mr. Dangar on this subject, and I am glad to see it started.

I remain, &c.,

No. 7.

Mr. District-Surveyor Dewhurst to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Tamworth, 27 January, 1876.

In reply to your *memorandum, 14th January, I have the honor to point out that the most suitable place for a well or tank would be within the reserve I have proposed for a camping ground for teams, &c. *See Minute on No. 3.

If

If it is decided to construct a tank, it should be at the nearest point within that reserve and the town of Baradine, and at about 10 chains back from the creek, to obtain the best holding ground.

If it is decided to sink a well, and supply troughing, say 100 feet, it should be within a distance of 5 chains of the creek, within that reserve.

I respectfully suggest, however, that the services of Mr. T. Dangar, M.P., and some other gentleman he should be asked to name, should be solicited to expend judiciously either in a tank or well any funds that can be made available for the purpose.

I have, &c.

A. DEWHURST,
District Surveyor.

Mr. Ellis,—The Minister directs that this case be dealt with at once.—9 February, 1876. The reserve for camping was recommended under* 76-534 Mis., 14th Feb., 1876.—G.L., 14 Feb., 1876. Report and sketch forwarded to the Under Secretary for Lands. If Mr. Dangar and another trustee would undertake the supervision of the work, I think they ought to be asked to carry it out.—P.F.A., 24 March, 1876. Approved.—T.G., 7/4/76.

Memorandum by T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

SOME time since Mr. T. G. Dangar, M.P., applied for tanks for public use (and reserves to be gazetted) on the track or road from Barwon Bridge, Walgett, to Gumblegobbin, Humumbah, and Narran, and from Warrabilla and Mogil Mogil to Narran. These were all favourably reported on by the surveyor to whom referred. Will Mr. Garrett please inform what provision on Estimates or otherwise will be made for the construction of these tanks so recommended.—18/4/76.

Minutes on above.

Let me know how this matter stands.—T.G., 18/4/76.

A reserve, No. 242, including the Crown lands within 20 chains on each side of the track or road from Walgett to Gumblegobbin, was notified on the *22nd March, 1876, also reserves 236 to 240, notified on the *8th February, 1876. Probably Mr. Dangar should be informed.—G. LEWIS, 29 April, 1876. See Nos. 8 and 9

Mr. Dangar, M.P., is aware of the action taken.—12/5/76.

No. 11.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Minister for Lands.

Sir,

Legislative Assembly Chambers, Sydney, 8 May, 1876.

Referring to my former letters, as to the desirability of constructing tanks for the public convenience, and for the preservation of life and stock while travelling between the Barwon and Narran Rivers, on the track from Walgett Bridge to Gumblegobbin, Humumbah to ditto, and from Collarendabri and Mogil Mogil, &c. (see my application), and the reports received being favourable thereto, I do myself the honor to request that you will be pleased to consider the advisability of placing the necessary sums upon the Estimates for the construction of these tanks.

I have, &c.,

Minutes on No. 11.

Is this to be placed on Additional Estimates; and if so, what amount?—O.R., 26/5/76. Surveyor General.—27/5/76. I have no means of ascertaining; the surveyors know nothing of the construction of public works of this character, and I do not advise that they be taken off their regular duties to be employed in the construction of tanks. Submitted for further instructions.—P.F.A., 30 May, /76. The Under Secretary for Lands. Might be sent to the District Surveyor for his report before preparation of Estimates for 1878.—T.G., 2/8/76. Is Mr. Dewhurst in a position to make an estimate of the cost of tank?—P.F.A. To await Mr. Dewhurst's arrival in Sydney. Mr. Dewhurst promised me a report when in Sydney; has it been received?—P.F.A. Mr. H. W. Hammond to T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

My dear Sir,

Currawillinghi, 28 October, 1876.

I have received* yours with its enclosed telegram. I am not in a position to furnish the information required. I must consult those more interested than myself in getting the road opened and the tanks made. Before a site is fixed for a tank or tanks the road from the Barwon to the Narran should be surveyed and proclaimed. If tanks are put down without that precaution it would be throwing money away. There should, in my opinion, be not less than three tanks. The most direct route can be little under 60 miles. What would be the duties of trustees? They would require to be almost local men; the only ones that can be called such are the managers of Bangate, Llanillo, and Gingie. I can't say if they would undertake the duties. I rather think not, because the road will pass through their several runs, and they will hardly care to facilitate its opening. I only returned yesterday from an Appraisalment Court at Brewarrina. The appraisements were in most cases satisfactory to the lessees. There was a pastoral meeting, and a show determined on for next July. River there rising well, and the navigation likely to remain open for some weeks. A slight fresh in our creeks here. Weather remains too dry. Hope you got all your lost cattle.

Yours, &c.,

HENRY W. HAMMOND.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to Mr. District-Surveyor Dewhurst.

My dear Sir,

Bullerawa, Wee Waa, 10 November, 1876.

I hope to see you at Narrabri show this month; let all matters stand over until then. I have several nuts to crack with you. I have tried to get you information, with full description, size, and content of tanks and reserve needed between Narran and Barwon, but cannot; we can talk it over when we meet. I wrote Mr. Hammond, an influential gentleman out there, upon the subject. I enclose his *reply; please read and return. I think your best plan would be to direct Mr. M'Master to take a ride out along the line and report; it would only take him a few days. He would be agreeable if you instructed him. I can give him all the particulars I know for his guidance.

Hoping you are well, and with best wishes,

Yours, &c.,

THOS. G. DANGAR.

P.S.—I think the Barwon and Narran road should be surveyed first before putting tanks. Coonamble to Walgett want doing first, to open up Western District.

No. 16.

Mr. Surveyor M'Master to The Surveyor General.

Sir,

Camp, Bungle Gully, 29 November, 1876.

In connection with the enclosed papers* I have the honor to report:—

With regard to the estimated cost of the tanks on the road between the Barwon and Narran Rivers I am not in a position to make a very accurate report, because I have never seen the country; but from the information I have gathered, I consider that suitable tanks in the positions mentioned by Mr. District-Surveyor Dewhurst, in his letter,† No. 75-108, of December 3rd, 1875, could not be completed for less than £1,000 each, and the dam on the watercourse between Gundabloni and the Narran would cost about £400.

Except in a very favourable winter water would have to be carted from a considerable distance at a very great expense, to enable the works to be carried on. This, added to the present scarcity of labour in this district, I consider justifies me in putting down such large sums as the above.

In connection with the above tanks, many influential people in that district are of opinion that nothing definite should be done in this matter till the positions of the roads are fixed. The tracks at present in use between the Barwon and the Narran are not direct, nor do they in all cases follow the country most suitable for roads, because they are obliged to make the nearest water.

Now that there is a prospect of having artificial water on these tracks, and as the sites for the tanks are not yet fixed, I have the honor respectfully to mention that many miles might be saved in the distances between the various places, and other great advantages derived, if an officer were sent out to fix the positions of the above tanks, with due regard to the probable change in the position and direction of these roads hereafter.

Relative to trustees, and how the tanks are to be kept in repair, &c., I have to inform you that none of the people in the position to become trustees and living in the neighbourhood are willing to occupy the situation, as they say there will no doubt be a considerable amount of local jealousy displayed. I do not think that it would be wise to make the squatter a trustee for a tank on his own run, for obvious reasons; and a squatter would not care to interfere with the water on his neighbour's run.

As to keeping the tanks in repair when they are finished, I don't think a better plan could be adopted than to place them under the supervision of the Works Department, and have a sum of money placed at their disposal for that purpose.

I have, &c.,

COLIN JAS. M'MASTER.

Minutes on above.

Recommended that no further action be taken until the best position for the road has been determined. I am not favourably disposed towards the construction of tanks until the Government is prepared to appoint a person in charge of each of them; and it is necessary that the person in charge should be a working man, who could effect ordinary repairs.—P. F. ADAMS, 27 Jan., 1877.

The Under Secretary for Lands. Resubmit with any other papers on the subject.—W.W.S., 4/2/78.

No. 17.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Minister for Lands.

Sir,

Bullerawa, Wee Waa, 4 December, 1877.

I do myself the honor, on behalf of the travelling public and others, to request you will be pleased to make provision by a grant of money to construct a public tank for the use of people and stock between Narrabri and Moree.

The whole of the country consists of dry plains, and in bad seasons—particularly as at present existing—there is no water to be obtained by travellers, except that existing on private property.

I have, &c.,

THOS. G. DANGAR.

Minutes on above.

No amount is suggested by Mr. Dangar as sufficient for the purpose required. If the Minister is favourable to the application, inquiry might be made before submission of Additional Estimates.—W.W.S., 5 February, 1878. Inquiry to be made.—J.S.F., 16/2/78.

Legislative Assembly, 19 February, 1878.

Question:—Reserves and Tanks:—Mr. Dangar asked the Secretary for Lands, pursuant to notice,—The nature of the reports received, and what decision has been arrived at with regard to applications made for reserves and tanks between the Barwon and Narran Rivers; also at Bulgan, on the Namoi River, and Baradine?

Answer:—

*See previous papers.

†See No. 4.

2 tanks, £1,000 each.
1 dam, £400.

Answer:—Mr. Farnell answered,—The information required by the Honorable Member in the different cases specified by him can hardly be given in the shape of a reply to the question, but he will be officially informed by letter of what has been done in a day or two; or, if moved for, a return giving the required particulars can be laid upon the Table.

W. W. STEPHEN

No. 20.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Minister for Lands.

[Urgent.]

Sir,

Sydney, 28 February, 1878.

Public tanks between the Narran and Barwon Rivers, at Bulgan and Baradine, for the preservation of life and property.

Referring to my questions a few days ago to you in the House, and the fact of my not having received the promised information, I now do myself the honor to request that you will be pleased to cause to be placed upon the Supplementary or next Estimates, say—

£500 for public tank, Bulgan, Cross Roads from Walgett to Castlereagh.

£1,000 for do., Baradine, on road Namoi to Mudgee.

£1,000 for do., between Yowindah, Barwon River, and Narran River.

£1,000 for do., between Walgett Bridge and Gumblegobbin, on the Narran.

£1,000 for do., on the 60-mile track from Werribilla, Barwon River, and Narran River.

These tanks are absolutely necessary for the conservation of water, to provide for the wants in dry seasons, when not a sup of water exists, for man or beast, and during the late drought several lives were sacrificed, and stock driven immense distances with much loss and risk to the drivers. The country is all dry plains, and the heat in summer months oppressive. Money could not be better invested for the public good. Such tanks are already in existence between Bourke and Warrego, and have proved of great service. A vote of £3,000 has already appeared on present Estimates for similar tanks in the Liverpool Plains District, and it would only be an act of justice to grant them to the outlying districts, who contribute largely to the revenue, and get little in return.

The only difficulty that presents itself is as to how these tanks are to be looked after to prevent abuse of them. I think they might be given to a careful person free to look after, allowing him to charge a small fee approved of by the Government, which no one would object to pay, but willingly do so.

I have, &c.,

THOS. G. DANGAR.

P.S.—Bulgan is reserved as a village reserve, and this tank would likewise prove a benefit to the town hereafter, there being no permanent water. Baradine is a similar case.

The construction of these tanks would enhance value of intermediate dry Crown lands.—T.G.D.

No. 21.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Minister for Lands.

Sir,

Sydney, 1 March, 1878.

In reply to your *letter of 26th ultimo, I do myself the honor to state that I think it would * See No. 19 require at least £1,000 to construct a public tank for the use of the people and stock between Narrabri and Moree, and I trust you will be pleased to cause that sum to be placed upon the Supplementary Estimates for such purpose, as is done on present Estimates for similar tanks in Liverpool Plains District.

The tank would necessarily have to be 12 feet deep and fenced in. Of course the Commissioner for Roads and Engineer for Bridges or District Surveyor might better calculate the cost, but I feel sure this sum at least would be needed, and the late drought has clearly proved the necessity for such tank.

I have, &c.,

Memorandum by Mr. L. G. Thompson.

Tanks:—Barwon and Narran Rivers.

Surveyors Dewhurst and M'Master recommended the construction of two tanks, each to cost £1,000, and one dam to cost £400.

The Surveyor General thinks that the Government should take the charge of the tanks in preference to placing them under trustees, as has been suggested.

He further recommends that no action be taken until the position of the road has been determined.

This was in January, 1877. Has the position of the road since been determined? Ascertain.

In 1876 Surveyor Dewhurst estimated the cost of a well and troughing at £67 10s.

As it is some time since this estimate was made, it may be well perhaps to provide £100 in Additional Estimates for 1878. L.G.T., 7/3/78.

Question:—Public Tanks:—Mr. Dangar asked The Secretary for Lands, pursuant to notice,—Is it the intention of the Government to make provision on the next or Supplementary Estimates for Public Tanks between Narrabri and Moree, at Baradine, Bulgan, and on the roads from Yowindah, Barwon River, to Narran, via Grawin, from Walgett Bridge to Gumblegobbin, Narran River, and on the Sixty-mile track from Werribilla, Barwon River, to Narran?

Answer:—Mr. Farnell answered,—It is not the intention of the Government to make provision on the next Supplementary Estimates. A report will be obtained in each case, with a view of making provision on the next Estimates-in-Chief.

No. 25.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Under Secretary for Lands.

My dear Sir,

Sydney, Tuesday night, 12/3/78.

If you could get Mr. Farnell to place on the Additional Estimates, not yet placed before Parliament, the tank votes I ask for, I should feel it a favour.

I presume it would not be much trouble for Government Printer to make fresh copies with additions or corrections.

Yours,

THOS. DANGAR.

P.S.—It would save so much time waiting to have the sums placed on 1879 Estimates-in-Chief.

No. 3.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Public Works.

Sir,

Sydney, 21 January, 1879.

Presuming the Estimates for 1879 are in course of preparation and will shortly be submitted to Parliament, I do myself the honor to draw your attention to the promise made by previous Government to place on the Estimates sums for the construction and maintenance of public tanks in the Gwydir District the same as has been granted to several other districts. I would direct your notice to the correspondence that has taken place upon the subject and dates and proceedings of the Assembly.

The roads that are required are on Bagot's track, from Momee to Upper Narran.

One tank, Wirribilla to Narran River, Barwon River.

One Humumbah, Barwon River, to Narran River.

One Yeranbah, via Barwon, via Weelwally, Cumborah, and Grawin, to Narran. Tank needed, Weelwally.

One between Narrabri and Noree, dry country summer months.

One at Barandin; cost has been submitted in former letters. The Lands Department has been applied to; they state the matter has been referred to yours, to which it properly belongs.

Trusting you will be pleased to cause the necessary provision to be made on the Estimates for these tanks and thus confer a great boon on the public, saving of life and stock in dry seasons, and improve the value of the intermediate land,

I have, &c.,

Question—Legislative Assembly.

No. 62.—Votes and Proceedings of the Legislative Assembly, Thursday, 30 January, 1879.

5. MR. DANGAR asked the SECRETARY FOR PUBLIC WORKS,—Is it intended to place sums of money on the Estimates, as promised, for the construction and maintenance of Public Tanks on the several tracks between the Barwon and Narran Rivers between Narrabri and Moree and at Baradine?

MR. LACKEY answered,—There has been already a sum voted towards a water supply in the district of Liverpool Plains, and when this money has been expended further provision will be made for the purpose required.

Would Mr. Lackey oblige by having all the correspondence in this matter placed before him and questions asked in House and replies given thereto. He will see sums of money have been promised to be placed on the Estimates for the tanks. Those sums already voted are for the Lachlan and Liverpool Plains District (not the Gwydir), totally distinct from these. These tanks are necessary in summer months to get stock in between the two rivers and for the preservation of human life.

They have such tanks established between Wango and Bourke and they answer well and such give increased value to the adjoining and intermediate land.

Mr. Dangar trusts Mr. Lackey will consider the matter with a view to placing the necessary sums on the Estimates.

My dear Sir,

Sydney, 28 February, 1879.

Let me know if the corrections I have made in the enclosed are correct. You have spelt these names so queerly that no one really knows where these grants are for. Is Tanello meant for Lanello, between Humumbah, on the Barwon and Narran Rivers; if so, it is correct. Is Gwawya road meant for Grawin?

Yours faithfully,
THOS. G. DANGAR.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands, Warrego District, to The Chief Officer, Sydney.

Sir,

Crown Lands Occupation Office, Bourke, 30 March, 1880.

With reference to your B.C. of the 19th instant, on 80-1,772, herewith enclosed, requesting to be furnished with a report upon Mr. R. S. Brandon's letter on behalf of the residents of the district, forwarded through T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.L.A., for construction of tanks on the Sixty-mile track between the Barwon and Narran Rivers, I have the honor to refer you to my letter of the 31st March last, a copy of which I herewith enclose, pointing out that it will be necessary to make two large tanks on the road in question. I have the honor to add that £2,000 will be sufficient for making tanks on this road in question, which is shown on the map of New South Wales as Kennedy's return route, 1847, and should be called Kennedy's Road and not Sixty-mile track, as it is only 53 miles from the Barwon River to the Narran River.

LANELLO TANK.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands, Warrego District, to The Chief Officer, Sydney.

Sir,

Sydney, 31 March, 1879.

With reference to the personal inquiry of the Commissioner for Roads as to the best sites for making tanks on the road leading from the Barwon River, at Humumbah, to Bangate (Gumble Gobbin), on the Narran River, I have the honor to inform you that it will be necessary to make two large tanks on the road in question at the following places, viz. :—1st, at the Boro Waterhole, on reserve No. 318, about 19 miles from the Barwon River; and (2nd) at the Saltbush Plain, near the boundary dividing Birben and Barungeel Runs, about 15 miles from the Narran River.

Both the above places are good catches, and appear to be good holding ground, but it will be necessary before the sites for the proposed tanks are decided upon to have trial shafts put down to ascertain whether the ground below the surface will hold water. There are several places on this road where fresh water can be obtained by sinking.

I beg respectfully to add that when the tanks are completed and fenced in, it will be necessary to fix a scale of charges for stock watering, and offer the leases of the tanks by tender under special conditions, otherwise if no person is left in charge of the tanks travellers leave the fences down, and then the wild horses and run cattle drink and pollute the water, and thereby render the tanks almost useless.

TANKS—ROAD BARWON TO NARRAN.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands, Warrego District, to The Chief Officer, Sydney.

Sir,

Sydney, 31 March, 1879.

With reference to the personal inquiry of the Commissioner for Roads as to the best sites for making tanks on the road known as the Sixty-mile track, leading from Wirribilla and Collarindabri, on the Barwon River, to Yeranbah, on the Narran River, I have the honor to inform you that it will be necessary to make two large tanks on this road in question at the following places, viz. :—(1st) On Gumansaldi Run, about 18 miles from the Barwon River, at Wirribilla; (2nd) At the Big Warnambool (watercourse), on reserve No. 65, situated about 36 miles from the Barwon River, and 17 miles from the Narran River. If a large tank were excavated in the bed of the Warnambool, at the lower end of the reserve, and the earth taken out of the excavation formed into a dam across the Warnambool, a large body of water could be conserved, as I have ridden through the Warnambool when the flood-waters were up to the saddle-flaps; but, however, it will be advisable before the sites for the proposed tanks are decided upon to have shafts put down to ascertain if the ground will hold water. When the tanks are completed and fenced in, it will be necessary to fix a scale of charges for stock watering, and offer the leases of tanks by tender under special conditions, otherwise if no person is left in charge of the tanks, travellers leave the fences down and the wild horses and run cattle drink and pollute the water, and thereby render the tanks almost useless for the travelling public. I have the honor to add that the road in question is one of the most important roads in my district, as the whole of the traffic, such as wool-teams, &c., from the northern portion of my district, and from the southern and south-western portion of Queensland, travel along this road, when there is water on it, to our north-western Railway at Breeza, as it is the most direct line to the shipping ports, and the teamsters on their return trips from the railway take back merchandize which supplies a great portion of Queensland. But there is one great drawback to this road, caused by the want of the bridge across the Barwon River, at Wirribilla or Collarindabri, as the teams with the bales of wool, which have been carefully loaded before leaving the wool-sheds, have on their arrival at the river to throw off the bales and roll them down the river bank into a boat, and then roll them up the opposite bank, swim their horses over the river, and pull their waggons through the water by means of long ropes, and re-load the wool which is many cases damaged by the rolling on the ground; and the teamsters on the return trip with merchandize have to unload and boat over everything except when the river is very low, and then they are enabled to drive through it; I therefore beg to recommend that a bridge be erected across the Barwon River, either at Wirribilla or at Collarindabri, on a site to be chosen by one of the surveyors from the Bridge Department.

GRAWIN

GRAWIN OR COMBARO SPRINGS.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands, Warrego District, to The Chief Officer, Sydney.

Sir,

Sydney, 31 March, 1879.

With reference to the personal inquiry of the Commissioner for Roads as to the best sites for making tanks on the road leading from the Barwon River at Cumbadery Point, via Cumborah Springs and the Grawin to Wilby Wilby, on the Narran River, I have the honor to inform you that it will be necessary to make one large tank on this road in question at or near Cumborah Springs, on Reserve No. 33, which is situated 21½ miles from the Barwon River. If the spring were opened out there would be sufficient water to fill a large tank, but from what I can remember of the soil it appeared very porous, and doubtful if it would hold water, but it is almost impossible to form a correct opinion until a shaft is put down.

In the event of the ground round the spring not being suitable for a tank, there is a good place at the Bunghill Waterhole, on Reserve No. , about 19 miles from the Barwon River, for excavating a large tank, as the ground is good holding, and being situated at the foot of a hard ridge is very lucky in being filled by thunder-storms, and is situated about midway between the Barwon River and the Grawin Waterhole.

I beg most respectfully to point out that when the tank is made and fenced in it will be necessary to fix a scale of charges for stock watering, and offer the lease of the tank by tender under special conditions; otherwise, if no person is left in charge of the tanks, travellers leave the fences down, and then the wild horses and the run cattle drink and pollute the water, and thereby render the tanks almost useless for the travelling public.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Public Works.

Sir,

Sydney, 4 April, 1879.

The sum of £3,000 is on 1879 Estimates for tanks between the Barwon and Narran Rivers, in Gwydir Electorate, as per margin.

I forward *sketch of this road, and would do myself the honor to suggest that one tank and waterhole be constructed at Boro, and £1,500 of the vote expended thereon, and another tank at the boundary hole marked on sketch, where the residue of the vote £1,500 might be expended.

In this case also I would recommend the tanks and dams be fenced in and let, and the party allowed to make charges for travelling stock, such fees to be approved of by the Government. The public will gladly pay such to have the tanks kept in order. It is the only way to do so, and prevent abuse and destruction of them.

Sir,

Sydney, 4 April, 1879.

The sum of £3,000 is on 1879 Estimates for tanks, as per margin, between the Barwon and Narran Rivers, in the Gwydir Electorate. I do myself the honor to enclose a *sketch of this route, and to suggest that should this vote pass that the £3,000 be spent in opening up Cumborah Springs, marked on the track for a public natural watering-place for stock, but in case the ground there should prove to be too porous and not hold water, I should then recommend that a tank should be erected at Bunghill Waterhole, a splendid natural waterhole. I would further recommend that this watering-place be fenced in and leased to some one who will take care of such, and be permitted to make charges for the watering stock according to rates to be fixed by the Government. This is the only way of preserving such. Otherwise they will become a nuisance, abused, and neglected.

T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P., to The Secretary for Public Works.

Sir,

Sydney, 5 April, 1879.

I do myself the honor to represent to you that public tanks, dams, or watering-places are very much needed on 60-miles track between the Upper Barwon River and the Narran, from Wirribilla, on the Barwon River, where there should be a bridge as indicated in *sketch appended. Two tanks are needed on this road, and £2,000 needed—£1,000 for each. This is necessary for the preservation of life in dry seasons as well as for travelling stock, teamsters, &c., and tends to enhance the value of the intermediate country to the State. Similar works are also needed on Bagot's Road to the Mooni River and the places as upon *sketch enclosed, and a grant of £2,000.

I trust you will kindly give these matters your favourable consideration, with a view to causing the necessary reports to be called for, and sums placed upon 1879 Supplementary Estimates, or if too late for such upon 1880 General Estimates.

I have, &c.,

T. G. DANGAR.

P.S.—This is the more necessary to divert Queensland traffic into New South Wales.

TRACK from Curambar, Mr. Hill's Station, on the Narran, to Gumtiblury, Mr. Bagot's Station, on the Mooni, distance (35) thirty-five miles; first judicious place to make a track is 15 miles from the Mooni, at a place called Boarser, near Medicott's Well; the other place, at the foot of the Ridges, about 12 miles from the Narran River.

Extract of Letter from Mr. A. Copeman.

11 March, 1880.

I AM glad to see something is about to be done to provide water on the plains between Narrabri and Moree; this is a boon that will be hailed with delight by all classes of travellers. I am of opinion that the Government are wrong in putting tanks in those places instead of wells, tanks are unsuitable, and during drought or middling dry season, the very time they are most required, they are dry or in such a state that nothing can get at them. Again you have to rely upon rain to keep up a fair supply in the several creeks on those plains. At the outside a tank will barely last three years, and it will cost as much to clean it out as it did in the first instance to make it, and further then, if approaches are not well logged they will prove to be great bog-traps for stock, as many tanks on those plains have already shown. Wells, with ample troughing, and worked by a windmill, windmill, would be far more economical a saving of labour, time, money, and constant supply of pure wholesome water; many contend that water is not to be found on those plains, but it has been authentically tested that the Diamond Drill would soon put an end to that question. If it is determined to make tanks it would be well to place them under the supervision of a thoroughly practical man. is very good, but cannot compete with practical knowledge in a case of this kind.

Mr. R. J. Brandon to T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

Dear Sir,

I notice the £6,000 voted for Reserves between the Barwon and the Narran is to be expended on the Cumborah Springs and Llanello Tracks. I beg to draw your attention to the want of a reservoir on the 10-mile track from Collarendabri on the Upper Barwon to Hill's, Yarrambool, on the Narran. This track is a direct route for teams and stock to and from Narrabri (via Mille) and Bokuk, Boree, and all the back creeks, but cannot now be used for the want of water; there are two reserves on this track for storage of water, one at Moogulla Waterhole, on Wallah block, and the other at Dingle, a large reserve for public purposes. On behalf of the residents in that part I know you will be able to get money for reserves on the 60-mile track.

Mr. G. C. Tompson to T. G. Dangar, Esq., M.P.

My dear Sir,

Yours of the 23rd ultimo, to hand, I understood you were going to call for copies of my reports on the proposed sites for the tanks between the Barwon and Narran Rivers, which I forwarded to the Commissioner for Roads on the 13th of March last, and therefore I thought you had seen them. I will first deal with the road from Combaderry Point, on the Barwon River via Cumborah Springs, and the Grawin to Wilby Wilby on the Narran; on this road it will be only necessary to put down one large tank, either at Cumborah Springs, which is 21½ miles from the Barwon River, or at Bunghill Waterhole, which is 19 miles from that river. If Cumborah Springs were opened out there would be sufficient water to fill a large tank, but from what I can remember of the soil it appeared very porous, and doubtful if it would hold water, but it will be better to put a shaft down about 20 feet to ascertain if it is good holding ground, and if so excavate a tank of 20,000 yards, the tank not to be less than 20 feet deep with a good batter and enclosed by a substantial 7-wire fence. In the event of the ground around the spring not being suitable for a tank there is a good place at the Bunghill Waterhole on Reserve No. , situated about 19 miles from the Barwon River, for making a large tank, as the ground is good holding, and being situated at the foot of a hard ridge it is very lucky in being filled by thunderstorms. A tank at the Bungills could be made 25,000 yards and not less than 20 feet deep with a good batter and enclosed by a 7-wire fence, but a trial shaft must be put down in the first instance to ascertain if the ground below the surface is good holding, and also to see that salt water is not struck, for I have seen many places where trial shafts have been put down and salt water struck at 12 feet and those places are no good for tanks. The distance from the Barwon River to the Bunghill Waterhole is 19 miles, from Bunghill to the Grawin Waterhole, which is as permanent as any excavated tank, is about 15 miles, and from the Grawin to the Narran, at Wilby Wilby, is about 13 miles. Cumborah Spring and the Bunghill Waterhole are shown on the enclosed tracing on the road from Humumbah on the Barwon River to Bangate on the Narran River; it will be necessary to make two large tanks, viz., one at the Boro Waterhole on reserve No. 318, about 19 miles from the Barwon River, and the other at the boundary-line dividing Birben and Barungeel Runs, about 15 miles from the Narran River. The tanks should be about 18,000 yards each, and 20 feet deep, and enclosed by a substantial 7-wire fence. I think two tanks of 18,000 yards each and the fences can be done for the £3,000 voted. Perhaps it would be advisable to take into consideration whether it would not be better to put down a tank of 25,000 yards at the boundary-line dividing Birben and Barungeel lines, and to put a well down near the Boro, where there are several good places for obtaining water by sinking. I am more in favour of wells than tanks, because they cannot be abused to the same extent as tanks by lessees. When the tanks have been completed and fenced in it will be necessary to fix a scale of charges for stock watering, say 10s. per thousand for sheep, 10s. or 15s. per hundred for cattle or horses, horses or bullocks drawing, 2s. 6d. per team, a single horse, 6d.; and offer by tender the lease of tolls authorized to be collected for watering stock. The tanks should be leased subject to the special condition that lessee shall keep the tank or well, as the case may be, which may be leased to him with the respective appurtenances of all kinds whatever in thorough good order and repair. The lessee shall also be bound to afford every facility and assistance at all times for travelling stock to water. Every tender will be required to find security to the amount of three times the annual rent offered for the due fulfilment of the conditions. It will not be advisable to lease any of these tanks to any lessee of a run upon which the tank is situated. My reason for suggesting wire fencing is because the travellers burn the split-rail fences, but it will be necessary to have some person in charge of the tanks, otherwise travellers leave the fences down, and then the wild horses and the run cattle drink and pollute the water, and thereby render the tanks almost useless to the travelling public. I have been all out through the country between the Darling and the Warrego Rivers exploring, and succeeded in finding a splendid site for a tank between those rivers, but we only have £1,500 voted, so that it will not be more than 18,000 yards, and when I returned to Bourke my appraisal instructions were here, so I shall start out again on Monday, and shall be away about six weeks, and will then go up Walgett way, thence to Mogil Mogil; therefore I will delay furnishing you with my views on the railway until after I have been up there, as I often gather most valuable information from persons when travelling, which, no doubt, will be very useful to you when Parliament meets again. The distance from the Cumborah Springs Road to the Llanello Road is in a straight line about 20 miles.

Yours truly,

G. C. TOMPSON.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

PASTORAL RESERVES.

(PETITION FROM RESIDENTS OF DENILIKUIN.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 18 March, 1880.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned,—

SHOWETH :—

That your Petitioners are loyal subjects of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, and desire to approach your Honorable House with feelings of the utmost respect, and to bring under your notice a matter of great national importance.

That your Petitioners are for the most part old residents of the town and district of Deniliquin, and are all deeply interested in its prosperity.

That your Petitioners view with serious apprehension the injury to the general welfare of the Colony, and to this district in particular, that must result from the accumulated large private estates which are devoted exclusively to pastoral purposes.

That your Petitioners have on various occasions, in common with others, experienced the severe depression to which the several towns and districts of Southern Riverina have been periodically subjected in consequence of the whole inhabitants being so entirely dependent upon the pastoral interest, the advantages in connection with which have always been spasmodic, are now reduced to a minimum, and the paucity of population in comparison to the area of country occupied is becoming alarming.

That your Petitioners believe there is a demand for the lands of Southern Riverina, near to centres of population, by bonâ fide settlers, who would combine agricultural with grazing pursuits, and that the presence of such a class amongst us would greatly add to the lasting prosperity of the town and district, as likewise to the whole of the Colony. To meet this demand, and to counteract as far as possible the injurious effects of the alienation of the lands in estates of such magnitude (varying from 50,000 acres upwards, of such areas as your Petitioners believe are not to be found in any other of the Australian Colonies), your Petitioners humbly pray your Honorable House to cause such clauses to be embodied in any amending Act, or by separate enactment, as will deal specially with such pastoral reserves, with a view to their occupation by those desirous of settling permanently upon the land.

That your Petitioners believe there is no portion of Southern Riverina that is likely to suffer so much in consequence of the accumulation of large pastoral estates as that in which your Petitioners reside, or that at this juncture so urgently needs the wise interposition of your Honorable House.

That your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that in dealing with the pastoral reserves referred to your Honorable House will give due consideration to the following suggestions, which, in the humble judgment of your Petitioners, is the direction that legislation should take to meet the exigencies of the case :—

1. That no portion of any pastoral reserve be disposed of by public auction, or by virtue of improvements.

2. That it shall be obligatory on the Honorable the Minister for Lands for the time being to receive declarations from any number of persons, not less than five, of the age of sixteen years and upwards, setting forth their desire to make conditional purchases upon any pastoral reserve, and that if the said Minister shall be satisfied of the bonâ fides of the declarationists, and likewise that the land applied for is not wanted as a reserve for public purposes, he shall cause to be surveyed so much land in blocks contiguous to each other as shall satisfy the requirements of the requisitionists, apportioning to each the area applied for, care being taken that adequate road accommodation be provided, and that all land subsequently applied for on the same reserve shall (if fit for occupation) be surveyed in block adjoining, and so on until the whole of the land available on such reserve shall be taken up.

3. Where the area of any reserve does not reach the maximum acreage the law allows five persons to conditionally purchase, viz., 3,200 acres, the Minister shall receive declarations as aforesaid from any less number of persons than five, provided the acreage jointly applied for is sufficient to absorb the whole area of the reserve.

4. After the lapse of three months from the date of the acceptance by the Minister of any declarationist as a conditional purchaser, if the declarationist fail to complete the purchase, as provided for in the Act, he shall forfeit all right to such conditional purchase, and it shall be open for selection by any other person who shall make the prescribed declaration and receive the sanction of the Minister as aforesaid.

5. Should the land applied for include, in the opinion of the Minister, any substantial and useful improvement that has been effected by the Crown lessee of the run whereon the reserve is situated, the same shall be valued in the usual way, and be paid for by the conditional purchaser to the lessee, failing which the Crown lessee shall have the power to recover in a Court of law. Provided always that the total valuation of any such improvements do not exceed the value of ten shillings per acre.

6. That your Petitioners conceive that as such immense areas of land have been alienated by auction sales and other questionable methods under the existing and former Land Acts, of which the district of Deniliquin furnishes a special example, opportunity should now be offered to residents of towns, and others heretofore debarred from selection by the provisions of the residential clause, to acquire conditional purchases without personal residence, the value of improvements for such concession to be double that of the resident selector, but in every other respect the conditions to be the same as for ordinary selection.

Your Petitioners are of opinion that a measure of the character herein set forth would be instrumental in increasing largely the occupation of medium areas by tradesmen and others not in a position to purchase at auction or conform to enforced residence; the savings from professions and trades would thus be suitably employed locally, instead of seeking investment elsewhere, and it would give a healthy stimulant to the object aimed at by all Land Acts, viz., the permanent settlement and attachment of the people to the soil.

That your Petitioners believe such an enactment as the foregoing portrays is especially adapted to the wants of the Colony, and to this district in particular, which, from various causes, has for years past formed the principal arena for the slaughter of public lands at auction, until there is outside of the pastoral reserves literally nothing left for farming settlement within forty miles of the town.

That your Petitioners humbly but earnestly protest against the throwing open of pastoral reserves to conditional purchasers as a whole on a given day, for general scramble, as a system calculated to perpetuate the demoralizing practice of dummying and all its attendant evils.

That your Petitioners are in a position to know that the few families who had the courage and determination to face the many difficulties that heretofore have beset the would-be bonâ fide settler in Southern Riverina are perfectly satisfied with their position and prospects, and have by a well-earned experience solved the problem of selection, and proved beyond doubt the suitability of the soil and climate for the combined pursuits of tillage and grazing.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House will take the premises into your most serious consideration, and deal with the matter as in your wisdom may seem to be best to prevent monopoly in the possession of the land, and to encourage the occupation of what now remains of Crown Lands by a numerous settlement of industrious people.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c., &c.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

ADELONG COMMONS.

(PETITION FROM JOHN CANSON.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 10 February, 1880.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

That on May 9th, 1878, one Matthew Lee, of Adelong, applied to select forty acres of land situate on the Adelong Temporary Commons. One Samuel Crompton also applied for a selection on the temporary commons, both within the population boundary of the town of Adelong. These two persons having fenced in their respective portions of land, the trustees of the Adelong Commons, by virtue of an authority given to one of them to summon trespassers under section 44 of the Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875, were about to commence proceedings against them, when on the 11th December, 1879, they received the following telegram from the Minister for Lands:—"Crompton's conditional purchase will be legalized by a special Bill; it will not be advisable to interfere with his improvements or occupation." And on the 20th January, 1879, they received a letter from the Department of Lands, of which the following is an extract:—"With reference to the conditional purchase of Matthew Lee, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to apprise you that he has decided to include this selection in the Schedule of a Bill for legalizing the sale of Crown Lands in this and similar cases, and that Mr. Lee's occupation of such land cannot therefore be interfered with."

That your Petitioners, from the above correspondence, suppose that a Bill is to be brought before Parliament (amongst other provisions) to legalize the before-mentioned selections.

That your Petitioners are of opinion and humbly submit—That the alienation of such large portions of land from the Adelong Commons is altogether contrary to the spirit of the Commons Acts, and not just or equitable to the other commoners, and that alienations of such large portions of land from the Adelong Commons will greatly injure the commoners and the inhabitants of Adelong. And if these selections are allowed it will be a precedent for others to apply for large areas, so that very shortly the whole of the commons, or at any rate all the best land on the commons, will be applied for and alienated, to the very great prejudice of the inhabitants of Adelong.

That the Adelong Commons now are barely sufficient to depasture the required number of the commoners' stock.

That the Honorable the Minister for Lands has repeatedly refused to grant persons two acres for bonâ fide residence on the Adelong Common, which would have been beneficial to the community, and yet it appears that now he is going to bring in a Bill to legalize the alienation of these large portions of land, which will be injurious.

That your Petitioners earnestly pray your attention to this matter.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

JOHN CANSON,
Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL LANDS DEDICATION BILL.

(PETITION FROM MEMBERS OF THE UNITED CHURCH OF ENGLAND AND IRELAND.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 3 February, 1880.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Members of the United Church of England and Ireland in the Colony of New South Wales,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH :—

That your Petitioners have heard with deep concern that a Bill has been introduced into your Honorable House which, after reciting that the income arising from the lands granted to the late Church and School Corporation had, since the dissolution thereof, been applied, in pursuance of instructions received from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, in the proportion of five-sevenths of such income, to the payment of stipends of Ministers of the Church of England, of the Roman Catholic Church, of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, and of the Wesleyan Methodists, and the proportion of two-sevenths for the purpose of Public Instruction, goes on to provide that the whole of the income derivable from the unsold residue of the said Church and School Lands and Orphan School Estates, and from any investments or proceeds of sale of such lands made before the passing of the said Bill, shall after the thirty-first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, be applied in support of the State system of public instruction, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

That your Petitioners are deeply interested in the continuance of the application of a portion of the said income towards the maintenance and promotion of religion, by the payment of ministers' stipends, and the repairing of churches and parsonages and schools belonging to their Church, for which objects the said Church and School Lands were originally granted by the Crown to the Corporation called "The Trustees of the Church and School Lands in the Colony of New South Wales."

That, by the terms of the Charter of Incorporation, all lands granted to the said Corporation upon the dissolution of the Corporation continued to be held upon the trusts upon which those lands were granted, which trusts were conclusively established by the written unanimous judgment of our Supreme Court, in one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, whereby after able argument on both sides it was held and decided as follows, namely :—

That the grants of those lands in one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine and subsequently were binding—that there was nothing inchoate about the transaction—that the lands were granted on specific trusts—that it was complete and accomplished—that the lands could not afterwards by grant or other instrument executed by the Crown be turned aside from those trusts—that they never became waste lands of the Crown after being granted for the aforesaid purposes—that they were not affected by the Constitution Act or by any other subsequent legislation respecting Crown Lands, as they were already alienated—that upon the dissolution of the Church and School Corporation, the lands became vested in the Crown upon the trusts for which they were originally granted, and that the Crown is a trustee of the lands for those purposes; a trust, the execution of which in the case of a private individual could be enforced against him.

That to dispose of such lands in a manner repugnant to those trusts would be a breach of trust, would inflict serious wrong upon the Church of England, and would tend to impair confidence in grants from the Crown.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that, having regard to the legal and just claims of the Church of England in this Colony, your Honorable House will be pleased to reject those clauses in the Bill which would divert the whole of the income derivable from the lands at present vested in the Crown in trust for the maintenance and promotion of religion from that trust, and apply the same exclusively to the support of the State system of public instruction.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH :—

That your Petitioners have heard with deep concern that a Bill has been introduced into your Honorable House which, after reciting that the income arising from the lands granted to the late Church and School Corporation had, since the dissolution thereof, been applied, in pursuance of instructions received from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, in the proportion of five-sevenths of such income, to the payment of stipends of Ministers of the Church of England, of the Roman Catholic Church, of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, and of the Wesleyan Methodists, and the proportion of two-sevenths for the purposes of public instruction, goes on to provide that the whole of the income derivable from the unsold residue of the said Church and School Lands and Orphan School Estates, and from any investments of proceeds of sale of such lands made before the passing of the said Bill, shall, after the thirty-first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, be applied in support of the State system of public instruction, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

That your Petitioners are deeply interested in the continuance of the application of a portion of the said income towards the maintenance and promotion of religion, by the payment of ministers' stipends, and the repairing of churches and parsonages and schools belonging to their Church, for which objects the said Church and School Lands were originally granted by the Crown to the Corporation called "The Trustees of the Church and School Lands in the Colony of New South Wales."

That, by the terms of the charter of incorporation, all lands granted to the said Corporation upon the dissolution of the Corporation continued to be held upon the trusts upon which those lands were granted, which trusts were conclusively established by the written unanimous judgment of our Supreme Court in one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, whereby after able argument on both sides it was held and decided as follows, namely :—

That the grants of those lands in one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine and subsequently were binding—that there was nothing inchoate about the transaction—that the lands were granted on specific trusts—that it was complete and accomplished—that the lands could not afterwards by grant or other instrument executed by the Crown be turned aside from those trusts—that they never became waste lands of the Crown after being granted for the aforesaid purposes—that they were not affected by the Constitution Act or by any other subsequent legislation respecting Crown Lands, as they were already alienated—that upon the dissolution of the Church and School Corporation the lands became vested in the Crown upon the trusts for which they were originally granted, and that the Crown is a trustee of the lands for those purposes,—a trust, the execution of which in the case of a private individual could be enforced against him.

That to dispose of such lands in a manner repugnant to those trusts would be a breach of trust, would inflict serious wrong upon the Church of England, and would tend to impair confidence in grants from the Crown.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that, having regard to the legal and just claims of the Church of England in this Colony, your Honorable House will be pleased to reject those clauses in the Bill which would divert the whole of the income derivable from the lands at present vested in the Crown in trust for the maintenance and promotion of religion from that trust, and apply the same exclusively to the support of the State system of public instruction.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL LANDS DEDICATION BILL.

(PETITION FROM S. E. MARSDEN, D.D., BISHOP OF BATHURST.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 20 February, 1880.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL LANDS DEDICATION BILL.

(PETITION FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE SYNOD OF THE DIOCESE OF SYDNEY.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 10 March, 1880.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned the President of the Synod of the Diocese of Sydney, being a Synod of the United Church of England and Ireland, within the Colony of New South Wales,—

SHOWETH AS FOLLOWS:—

1. Your Petitioner is the President of the Synod of the Diocese of Sydney, being a Synod of the Members of the United Church of England and Ireland within the Colony of New South Wales, constituted in conformity with and acting under a certain Act of the Legislature of New South Wales made and passed in the thirtieth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, enabling the Members of the said Church to manage the property of the said Church.

2. A Bill has been introduced into your Honorable House entitled "A Bill to declare that the entire management and control of the lands commonly known as the 'Church and School Lands' and the appropriation of the income derived therefrom are vested in the Legislature of this Colony and that from and after the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one all such lands and income shall be respectively held and applied for the purposes of Public Instruction only."

3. It is by the said Bill proposed to be provided, that the whole of the income derivable from the unsold residue of the said Clergy and School Lands and from the Orphan School Estates therein referred to and from the investment of the proceeds of the sale of such lands made before the passing of the said Bill shall after the thirty-first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, be vested in the Legislature of this Colony and applied in support of the State system of Public Instruction and for no other purpose whatsoever.

4. The said Church and School Lands were originally vested in a Corporation called the Trustees of the Clergy and School Lands created by the Crown by Charter dated the ninth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six, and were held by the said Corporation upon trust for the maintenance of religion and the education of youth in the Colony. And the said Charter contained a clause enabling the Crown to dissolve the said Corporation and directing that in that event all lands granted to the said Corporation should revert to and be vested in the Crown to be held, applied, and disposed of in such manner as should appear to the Crown most conducive to the maintenance and promotion of religion and the education of youth in the Colony.

5. In the month of February, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three, the Crown exercised its power and dissolved the said Corporation; and thereupon all the lands which had been granted to or had otherwise become vested in the said Corporation, including certain lands known as the Orphan School Estates, reverted to and became vested in the Crown under the said clause in the Charter hereinbefore mentioned.

6. Since the dissolution of the said Corporation the income of the land granted to or vested in the said Corporation at the time of its said dissolution has been specifically appropriated by the Crown in payment according to the proportion of five-sevenths of such income to Ministers of the several religious denominations of the Church of England, the Roman Catholic Church, the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, and the Wesleyan Methodists, and in the proportion of two-sevenths to the purposes of education, in which the said denominations have also shared in proportion to their numbers.

7. Such apportionment has been made by the Crown, in pursuance and performance of the trust in that behalf attaching to such lands in the hands of the Crown, and the said trust is still in force and unrevoked.

8. Your Petitioner is advised and respectfully submits that, under the circumstances hereinbefore mentioned, the Crown did not become on the dissolution of the said Corporation and has never become the owner of the said lands which so reverted to and became vested in the Crown as aforesaid, and did not become and has never become entitled to dispose of the said lands or of the income arising therefrom otherwise than in conformity with the trust specified in the said clause in the said Charter, the said trust being a specific trust binding on the Crown, and the execution of which in the case of a private individual would be enforced against that individual.

9. In or about the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four a question having arisen with respect to the ownership of the said lands and the several premises, a special case was stated for the opinion of the Honorable the Supreme Court of this Colony, which was duly argued before the said Court, whereupon it was unanimously decided by the Judges of the said Court amongst other things that the grants of land made to the said Corporation were valid and binding grants upon a specific trust, and that such trust was definitely declared and attached to such lands, and that the same lands could not afterwards by grant or other instrument executed by the Crown be turned aside from the said trust. The said Court was also of opinion and decided that the said lands were not after being so granted waste lands of the Crown, and were not affected by the Constitution Act or any subsequent legislation respecting waste lands of the Crown. The said Court also decided that upon the dissolution of the said Corporation the said lands became vested in the Crown upon the trusts for which they were originally granted, and that the Crown was a Trustee in respect of such lands for these purposes upon a trust the execution of which in the case of a private individual could have been enforced against him.

10. Your Petitioner, relying upon the facts and circumstances hereinbefore mentioned, and especially on the judicial decision of the Supreme Court lastly hereinbefore set forth, submits that the honor and dignity of the Crown are pledged to carry out the aforesaid specific trust, and the passing of the said Bill in its present form will interfere with the privileges of the Crown and will also be in excess of the powers and authorities vested in the Legislature of this Colony.

11. The religious bodies or denominations who have hitherto shared in the apportionment of the income of the said lands as hereinbefore mentioned are public bodies recognized by the Legislature of this Colony and capable of holding and being interested in property for their own several and respective purposes, and are as much entitled to insist on a performance by the Crown of the said specific trust as if they were dealing with a private individual holding property as a trustee for them.

12. Your Petitioner respectfully submits that there is no precedent in legislation, either in this Colony or in the Imperial Parliament, for dealing with property subject to a specific trust in the manner proposed by the said Bill, without at the same time making due provision for the payment of compensation in respect of the property the trust affecting which is so dealt with.

13. Your Petitioner respectfully submits that, before passing the said Bill, such means as to your Honorable House may seem fit should be taken to ascertain and determine whether under the circumstances hereinbefore mentioned, and especially having regard to the said decision of the Supreme Court of this Colony, the Legislature will not be exceeding the powers vested in it by dealing with the said lands and funds in the manner proposed by the said Bill.

14. Your Petitioner also respectfully submits that at all events provision should be made in the said Bill for giving compensation in such manner as to your Honorable House shall seem meet for the loss which the Church of England will sustain by the manner in which the Bill deals with the said lands and funds so held in trust by the Crown as hereinbefore mentioned.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to take into consideration the matters referred to in this petition, and having regard to the legal position of the said lands and funds and to your Petitioner's interest therein as representing the members of the said Church of England in the said Diocese of Sydney, that your Honorable House will be pleased either not to pass the said Bill, or not to pass the said Bill without making provision for compensation in such manner as to your Honorable House shall seem meet in respect of so much of the income derivable from the lands at present vested in the Crown upon specific trusts as hereinbefore mentioned as the said Church of England may, or but for the passing of the said Bill would be entitled to receive.

Your Petitioner further prays that your Petitioner may be at liberty to appear by Counsel at the Bar of your Honorable House and to be heard in opposition to the said Bill.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

GOLD LEASES.

(APPLIED FOR IN THE COPELAND DIVISION OF THE HUNTER AND MACLEAY MINING DISTRICT.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 6 July, 1880.

RETURN showing number of Gold Leases applied for in the Copeland Division of the Hunter and Macleay Mining District during the years 1877, 1878, 1879, and first quarter of 1880 respectively, and the number not yet granted.

2. The number of men to be employed on each of such leases.
3. The number of such leases cancelled during the said period, and cause of cancellation.
4. What means are taken to enforce the labour conditions after such leases are granted.
5. The supposed area of auriferous country comprised in the above district, and the approximate population.
6. The number of Miners' Rights issued, and the amount of lease rent and survey fees received during each of the above periods.

(Mr. Copeland, M.P.)

GOLD LEASES.

(1.)

RETURN of the number of Applications for Gold-mining Leases lodged in the Copeland Division of the Hunter and Macleay Mining District during the period specified below, and the state of the same.

(4.)

Upon the complaint of any person that the labour conditions of a lease are not observed the lessees are at once called upon to show cause why the lease should not be cancelled. If they fail to do so the lease is cancelled, and the complainant is informed beforehand when the land will be available to lease or to occupy under miners' rights. If the lessees show cause the Warden holds an inquiry and takes evidence in support of and against the complaint, and according to such evidence the lease is cancelled or the complaint dismissed. If the lease is cancelled the complainant is (unless the evidence and report disclose mala fides on his part) informed beforehand that the lease will be cancelled on a certain date.

DISCOVERY OF THE BARRINGTON GOLD FIELD.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 11th November, 1879,—“with power to send for persons and papers to inquire into and report upon the claims for a reward for the discovery of the Barrington Gold Field,” and to whom was referred, on the 10th December, 1879, “the Return to Order, laid upon the Table of this House on 25th April, 1879, in reference to the Discovery of the Barrington Gold Field,”—have agreed to the following Report;—

1. Your Committee having examined the witnesses named in the List,* whose evidence is hereto appended, are of opinion that the following facts have been proved:—

- (1.) That on the 14th of July, 1875, the Government, by notice in the Gazette, offered certain rewards for the discovery of new gold fields, which covered twelve months in advance of that date; and on the 1st of August, 1876, a similar offer of rewards was gazetted, extending to 1st of August, 1877. (See Appendices A1 and A2.)
- (2.) That Messrs. Saxby Bros. commenced prospecting on what is now known as the Barrington or Copeland Gold Field on or about the 1st of March, 1876, and continued their explorations until after the 8th of August following, on which date they reported to the Minister for Mines the discovery of a payable gold field, at which time there were no gold-workings nearer than Nowendoc, about 50 miles distant, other than those caused by the discovery of Messrs. Saxby Bros.
- (3.) That Messrs. Saxby Bros. are the only parties entitled to any consideration from the Government.
- (4.) That the Gazette notices above referred to do not fix any time for reporting such discoveries other than “within twelve months.”
- (5.) That the evidence does not disclose any attempt on the part of Messrs. Saxby Bros. to prevent their discovery being made known to the public.

2. Your Committee, therefore, beg to recommend their claim to the favourable consideration of the Government.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

DISCOVERY OF BARRINGTON GOLD-FIELD.

TUESDAY, 9 DECEMBER, 1879.

Present:—

MR. BURNS,

MR. FARNELL,

MR. JACOB.

HENRY COPELAND, ESQUIRE, IN THE CHAIR,

Harrie Wood, Esq., Under Secretary for Mines, called in and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You know the nature of the advertisement, dated 14th July, 1875, offering rewards for the discovery of new gold-fields? Yes.
2. Have you a copy with you? No.
3. Is this a printed copy? Yes. (Handed in. See Appendix A. 1.)
4. Do you know what newspapers that notice was published in? No; I could not tell you now; I know it was published very generally in the newspapers.
5. Was that the first of these advertisements—the first time the reward was offered? Yes, the first time a notice of that kind was published.
6. Have similar rewards been offered every year since? Yes.
7. In the same form as that advertisement? I do not know that I could say they have been in exactly the same words, but they have been in effect much the same.
8. Were there any regulations in connection with these advertisements other than those contained in the advertisements themselves? No.
9. Have the Government paid any sums of money as rewards, under similar advertisements to that, for the discovery of gold-fields? No.
10. You will notice that the first paragraph of this advertisement states that "Notice is hereby given, that the sums undermentioned will be paid to the persons who shall, within twelve months from the date hereof, discover and make known to the Minister for Mines the discovery of a new gold-field." Do you consider that by the tenor of that paragraph there is any time fixed for reporting a discovery other than within twelve months? No.
11. Then according to this advertisement any person making a discovery of a new gold-field, and reporting it within twelve months, would be entitled to the reward, other conditions being fulfilled? If you will allow, I would like to qualify my answer, because I am under the impression that I made a recommendation to the Minister on this subject which would perhaps involve me in contradiction if I were to answer that question Yes or No. The explanation is this: That though the terms of the notice are such that no doubt it would be as you say, that if the discovery were made and notified within twelve months the person making the discovery and notifying it would be entitled to the reward, yet I felt it my duty in the case of Saxby and party to recommend that they should not receive the reward, because, although possibly the notification may have reached the department within the twelve months—I do not think it did—but even if it did, they did not notify it until so long after the discovery that we had learnt the discovery long before, and had published it ourselves.

H. Wood,
Esq.

9 Dec., 1879.

H. Wood,
Esq.
9 Dec., 1879.

12. If the report of the discovery did not reach the department within twelve months of the 14th July, 1875, I suppose it reached it within twelve months of the date of the next advertisement to the same effect? Yes; I think the fact would be that the discovery was made during one period of twelve months and the notification during the next twelve months. Within one period of twelve months they did not both make the discovery and make the report.
13. Would you consider that any reason why they should be deprived of the reward? The reason, I may state, that led me to make the recommendation I think I made on this subject was that the persons who claimed to have made the discovery appeared to me to have kept the information for their own use for a certain length of time, and then, finding it had been made public by the department, they notified the discovery in order to claim the reward. Of course I may be wrong, but that was the impression I had at the time.
14. Under the wording of this advertisement would you consider that there was any time fixed for reporting the discovery? No, except that, as I said before, it should be notified within the twelve months.
15. Mr. Burns.] You hold that under that advertisement the discovery should have been reported within twelve months from the 14th July, 1875? Yes, it should have been certainly; but I do not think it necessarily follows that because it was reported within the twelve months the discoverer should have been entitled to the reward unless he had used reasonable expedition in making the report.
16. Chairman.] You do not find anything in this notice setting forth that? No, there is no time fixed within which he must report after the discovery.
17. Mr. Jacob.] As long as he reports within the twelve months? Yes.
18. Chairman.] In case the discovery was not made known within the first twelve months, I suppose it would come within the following twelve months, during which a similar reward was offered? Yes; the discovery, as a matter of fact, was made within that twelve months, but the notification was not made until the next twelve months. You will find, I think, that the first notification was made by Saxby and party on the 8th August, 1876.
19. Do you not consider these advertisements conterminous—does not the advertisement of 1876 take up the ground where the other one for 1875 left off? I think we generally made them fit one into the other.
20. I suppose you consider the Minister's signature to this advertisement binding upon the Government? Yes, if the conditions are satisfied.
21. Mr. Jacob.] By that advertisement you think the discovery and making known must be within twelve months from its date? I think that if the discovery and making known be within the twelve months covered by the advertisement it satisfies the verbal conditions of the notice, but still it would rest with the Minister—supposing the discovery had been made on the first day of the twelve months and not reported until the last day of the twelve months, and had been reported from other sources previously—it would rest with the Minister to say whether he would consider the person making the discovery and report would be entitled to the reward.
22. Chairman.] Supposing the discovery made (say) in the tenth month of 1875, and not reported until the first month of 1876, would you consider that a bar to the discoverer receiving the reward? I should think it would be a bar to his receiving the reward if in the meantime the discovery had been made known to the department from other sources, and the department had published the fact in the newspapers. It seems to me that the reward was offered, not alone for making the discovery, but for making the discovery known, in order that the public might benefit by it.
23. You have recently had a report of the discovery of a new gold-field on the Merool? Yes.
24. Did the prospector report that discovery? No; it was reported in the newspapers.
25. Not officially reported? Not in the way of claiming the reward; it was reported to us officially, but not by the discoverers.
26. Have you had any other discoveries reported officially? Not by the discoverers.
27. Notwithstanding that these rewards have been offered for four years you have never had any prospectors report the discovery of a payable gold-field other than the Barrington Gold-field? We have had reports of discoveries made in one or two cases, I think, but those cases were not very recent ones. There were one or two reports, I think sometime during last year, but the discoveries did not prove to be of sufficient consequence to entitle the parties making them to reward.
28. And yet the prospectors reported these discoveries officially? Yes; for instance, a discovery at Coolongolook was reported, but although it turned out to be a good gold-field, the number of people upon it did not come up to the number entitling the discoverer to a reward.
29. Do you consider it very injurious for false rushes to take place? Yes, no doubt.
30. Do you not think it very much against the interests of the miners for a rush to be reported that may turn out a duffer? Yes, certainly.
31. Do you not think it more in the interests of the miners generally that a report should not be made of the discovery of a gold-field until such time as it has been proved to have something like stability about it? It is better in one sense, no doubt, but, on the other hand, unless the discovery gets known in some way or other, the probability is that it will never be proved whether it has any stability or not, because it would be hardly possible for one party of men to prove a gold-field; they may prove the existence of gold in a little patch of ground, but their operations could not be sufficiently extensive to prove a gold-field without the assistance of others, and that they would only get by their discovery being made known.
32. If that view be adopted, would it not be to the interest of all prospectors to report immediately the discovery of a new gold-field, if only a few specks were obtained, with the object of causing a rush, so as to induce other people to prospect the ground? Yes.
33. It would be to the interest of the prospectors to do that, because if other parties discovered payable gold, even though the prospectors had not, they would be entitled to the reward? Yes, the men that discovered the gold-field.
34. Does not this advertisement imply that they must discover a payable gold-field? No, their discovery must be one that would lead to the opening up of a payable gold-field. As I said before, I do not think one individual party could very well prove a gold-field.
35. And you think that in such a case—where the prospector discovers a few specks and reports to the department, thereby causing a rush before he has discovered payable gold, but in consequence of the rush setting in payable gold is afterwards discovered—in such a case you think the prospector who reported the discovery, though it only consisted of a few specks, would be entitled to the reward? Yes, he was the first discoverer of gold there.

H. Wood,
Esq.

9 Dec., 1879.

36. Do you not think, on the other hand, that very great harm might accrue to the miners, supposing the gold-field not to turn out payable? Yes; but on the other hand, if it were not for the rush, no gold-field would be opened up, although it might be a very rich gold-field.

37. Have you not heard that almost as a rule the prospectors have the worst claims? Yes; and that is why there is so much advantage in making known their discovery, though it is comparatively poor, because it so frequently results in the opening up of richer ground.

38. Then you think it would have been to the advantage of the discoverers of this gold-field if they had made the discovery known at first? Yes,

39. When you made your recommendation to the Minister for Mines at the time, in reference to Saxby's application, were you not of opinion that a time was fixed for reporting the discovery? No. I think it possible I might have had an impression on my mind that the applicant should be not only the first to discover but the first to report, and I think that was the intention of the notice, though it is not expressed.

40. If you had noticed the wording of this advertisement at that time, would you have made the same recommendation? Yes, though I should have called the Minister's attention to the fact that in making the recommendation I was not altogether supported by the notice.

41. Will you consider it advisable to alter the advertisement in future from this form? Yes; I think it would be an improvement to make it say distinctly that it should be the person who first makes known as well as first discovers a new gold-field that should be entitled to the reward.

42. Supposing a party of prospectors have gone out and made a valuable discovery, which has been reported by some person who has shepherded them during their operations, would you consider the prospectors were not entitled to the reward? No, I could not say that, because there would be an amount of fraud about the action of the person who made the discovery known that should not in the opinion of anybody deprive the bonâ fide prospectors of their reward, unless they had not made it known within a reasonable time.

43. Then in any case you would fall back on what was considered a reasonable time for reporting the discovery? Yes, the Minister would be bound to consider that, I think.

44. Do you now consider that under that form of advertisement the prospectors of this particular field are legally debarred from being entitled to reward—Do you consider that under the form of advertisement now before us the prospectors of the Barrington Gold-field are not legally entitled to reward? Yes, I think they are not legally entitled to the reward offered under that notice—that they are not legally entitled to enforce their claim to the reward; I do not think they have satisfied the conditions of the notice.

45. Mr. Jacob.] In what way? In that they did not make known their discovery till a long time after it was made—till a long time after it was known to the department and had been published in the press.

46. Chairman.] Do you not consider that it would be advisable in all cases for prospectors to thoroughly test a new discovery—to reasonably test a new discovery before making it known, and thereby causing a rush which may be a failure? Yes.

47. Is the department in possession of any information that would lead you to believe that Saxby Brothers were not the real discoverers of this field? I do not think we are in possession of any written evidence about it; I am not quite clear about that, but I know we are in possession of some information.

48. That Saxby Brothers were not the first discoverers? I could not say that; but that a number of cedar-cutters in the locality had been working there off and on for gold for a very long time—long before Saxby says he made the discovery; but of that we have no official information.

49. Were they working at the same place where Saxby Brothers were working? Just about there.

50. Can you give the Committee any information as to the extent of the gold-field now? It is an extensive gold-field now; as well as I recollect, there are close upon 500 leases applied for, and there must be a large number of men employed there; I suppose you might take at least three men as an average to each lease, but of course the same men might apply for two or more leases, so that that will not give very correct information as to the number of persons on the field; but I should think, from information, that there must be seven or eight hundred people there at the very least.

51. Were any leases applied for prior to the time that the Saxbys mention having gone out to prospect this ground? No; they say they went out to prospect in March, 1876; we did not know of the discovery until June, 1876, and there could not have been an application for a lease before that time, or we should have known of it.

52. You had had no official intimation at that time of the discovery of gold in that neighbourhood? Not in March.

53. What was the nearest gold-field at the time? Nowendoc.

54. What distance? I should think thirty or forty miles.

55. Have you any knowledge as to the amount of revenue the Government have derived from this gold-field? Rent of leases, £1,793; miners' rights, £739; business licenses, £80 10s.; total, £2,612 10s.

56. Have you any knowledge of the amount of revenue derived from it this year? Rent of leases, £1,003; miners' rights, £443 5s.; business licenses, £42; total, £1,488 5s.

57. Have you any knowledge of the amount derived from miners' rights and business licenses?

	Miners' rights.			Business licenses.
1876	20,	value	£5 0 0	...	Nil.
1877	190	"	63 5 0	...	7, value	£4 0 0
1878	653	"	227 10 0	...	58 "	34 10 0
1879	932	"	443 5 0	...	65 "	42 0 0
			£739 0 0			£80 10 0

58. Have you any knowledge of how much gold has been obtained from this gold-field? No, not up to the present time. The amount up to the end of last year is 11,604 ounces.

59. Mr. Burns.] The application of Saxby Brothers for this reward was first made on 8th August, 1876? Yes.

60. And I think the department had knowledge of the discovery of gold at this locality as far previously as 7th June, 1876? Yes.

61. The information was known to them, not only officially, but from another source, in June and July? Yes; Government officers about the district had communicated with us on the subject, and reports had come in from them.

H. Wood,
Esq.
9 Dec., 1879.

62. One of the objects, I presume, that you have in view in your department in making it a condition before giving a reward that the discoverers shall make known their discovery within a given time is in order to enable all and sundry who think fit to go and test the gold-field to do so? Yes.
63. Did Saxby Brothers comply with the second condition mentioned in the advertisement.—“For the discovery of a new gold-field, distant not less than 4 miles from the nearest gold workings, and upon which not fewer than 300 miners shall be employed during the first three months after the discovery is made known, the sum of (£500) five hundred pounds”? It is difficult to answer that question, for this reason, that in all probability, owing to their delay in making known their discovery, the numbers required to entitle them to the reward had assembled on the ground before they made it known. Saxby and party made the discovery in March, and I think it would be quite safe to say that within three months from March 300 miners had not assembled, but they did not make their discovery known till August, and before then the numbers required had assembled there. The three months does not commence to run until they have made it known.
64. Was their discovery of the gold-field reported to the Government within the term provided for in the official notice? No, it was not made known within the twelve months in which the discovery was made.
65. Is there any connection so far as discoveries are concerned between the first year's notice and the notice of the following year? There is no reference made from one to the other, but one follows upon the other; it is assumed that as soon as one twelve months expires another notice is issued.
66. There is no necessary connection between the two? No.
67. The claim of Saxby and party was brought under the notice of Mr. Lucas, the then Minister for Mines, in the month of August, 1876? Yes.
68. Will you read Mr. Lucas's minute upon the application? The first minute is:—“Inform the writer that they did not fulfil the condition of making the discovery known to the Minister for Mines.”
69. That was written on the 11th August, 1876? Yes.
70. On the 24th August, did Mr. Lucas again come to a decision upon the application? Yes.
71. Read that, please? “The reward is for making known as well as discovering, and the mode of making known is prescribed. Unless these terms be strictly adhered to discoverers may keep secret their discoveries as long as they can for their own benefit, and when the discovery comes to be known, perhaps against their inclinations, they may put in a claim for reward.”
72. Did the succeeding Minister for Mines, Mr. Baker, also deal with the application of Saxby and party? Yes.
73. What was the opinion of Mr. Baker? The first minute of Mr. Baker upon any communication of Saxby's is this:—“I see no reason to reverse the decision arrived at by my predecessor.”
74. What date is that? 10 March, 1879.
75. Mr. Jacob.] How many claimants have there been for the reward for this discovery? Two claimants. There were three notifications of the discovery, but only two out of the three claimed the reward.
76. Could you mention them? William Williams and three others—their notification is dated 30th June, 1876; William Johnston, dated 8th July, 1876, but I do not think Mr. Johnston intended to claim any reward; and Henry Saxby and party, dated 8th August, 1876.
77. The Chairman seems to be making inquiry into Saxby's claim. The department consider that Saxby has no claim, because he has not conformed to the conditions? I think we may safely say he has not; he did not make the discovery known till a long time after it had been published.
78. And not till after the twelve months from the date of the official advertisement had expired? No.
79. Then you think they are debarred legally from receiving the reward? Yes. It is only fair for me to say, as I stated to Mr. Copeland, that I was influenced in my recommendation to the Minister by the fact that Saxby had not reported the discovery within a reasonable time—in fact, not till after it was published.
80. Does the notice specify the time? What I mean is that the discovery of the new gold-field was matter of common notoriety long before Saxby and party reported it; therefore their report served no purpose. Even if their report of the discovery had been made within the twelve months, I think it was still within the discretion of the Minister to refuse the reward if he thought the persons applying had kept back the discovery for their own purposes until it was made known from other sources. I do not think the mere fact of the report not being made within the twelve months would necessarily preclude the Minister from granting the reward; for instance, if the discovery were made on the last day of one period of twelve months and its notification did not reach the Minister until the first day of the next twelve months.
81. Was the reward only claimable if a certain number of persons settled on the gold-field in consequence of the discovery being made known by the claimants? That was the intention of the notice clearly, and that is why it was considered that Saxby, even apart from the twelve months having expired, had not satisfied the conditions; because if a discoverer can keep back his notice for a certain length of time he can ensure that there will be the required number of people there, and make sure of the reward; whereas if he gives notice at once, and the required number of people do not come within three months, he loses the reward.
82. Chairman.] Do you consider that a disadvantage to the State? No; but it is a disadvantage to the State if he keeps the information to himself till his notification of it is no good.
83. Mr. Jacob.] The object of the State is not accomplished? No.
84. Mr. Farnell.] In reference to this notice, does not the use of the words “discover and make known” show that no reward is to be given unless the discovery is made known? Yes.
85. That is the object? Yes.
86. In this case it appears that Saxby made the discovery in March? Yes, so he says.
87. And, so far as he was concerned, he did not make it known till 8th August? No.
88. Chairman.] He went out prospecting in March—he does not say he made the discovery in March? In the month of March he says he commenced to work, and in the beginning of April he brought into the Bank at Dungog about 11 ounces of gold.
89. Mr. Farnell.] According to this notice, did he report the discovery within a reasonable time? We do not consider he did.
90. What would you consider a reasonable time? I should consider they might have been fairly expected to have reported it by the beginning of April, because Saxby says that by that time he had lodged 11 ounces of gold in the bank, which is pretty good evidence that there was gold there sufficient to justify the notification.

91. Before Saxby made known his discovery to the Mining Department, in terms of this proclamation, other parties had made it known? Yes, Williams and party did before that; but we knew of it before Williams and party sent in their letter.

92. I suppose what has resulted from this gold-field since has in fact arisen out of the discovery of Saxby and party? Yes.

93. And although they have not complied strictly with the conditions, in reality they were the discoverers of the gold-field, and whatever beneficial results have come from it have arisen from their discovery? Yes.

94. Do you think, looking to the equities of the case, these men are entitled to the reward? I think that the Saxbys are entitled to some consideration; but in my opinion they are not entitled to claim the reward under that notice.

95. Are there any other claimants for making known the discovery? Yes: Williams and party reported it on 30th June, 1876; but they reported it to the Warden, and not to the Minister.

96. Chairman.] Is not their report simply that they have taken up a quartz claim, not that they have discovered a new gold-field? Yes, that they had taken up "a prospecting area on a new quartz-reef, on the head of Back Creek new diggings, Barrington."

97. Mr. Farnell.] If one person makes a discovery, and another makes it known, neither of the parties is entitled to any consideration under the Government notice? No.

98. Mr. Burns.] It would be an act of grace on the part of the Minister to give any reward to Saxby and party for the discovery of this gold-field, having regard to the fact that they have not complied with the conditions? Yes.

99. As far as you know from the applications that have come in, it is your opinion that Saxby and party were really the discoverers? Yes.

100. And therefore they are entitled to some consideration? Yes.

101. Is the evidence as to who were the first discoverers at all conflicting? No, not conflicting, except as a matter of rumour. No claim is set up by anybody else.

102. As far as you have ascertained, they were the first discoverers? They are the only people who claim to be the first discoverers, and who claim the reward. Williams and party notified that they had marked out a prospecting area, no doubt intending to report the discovery if they made one. Probably they did not know that Saxby had discovered gold at that time; they may have known, but their possession was not till June, and we knew of the discovery of gold there before they took up their claim.

103. All the information you have in the department goes to show that Saxby and party were really the first discoverers of gold in this locality? Yes, as far as we have any evidence.

104. Chairman.] Can you tell me on what date the second of these advertisements appeared? I could not tell you exactly now, but I can get it for you.

105. You have no doubt but that it was published so as to take up the time where this notice dropped it? Yes, no doubt it was published in July, 1876.

106. Has there been any time, since this advertisement appeared on 14th July, 1875, up to now, that similar advertisements to this have not been current? No, I think not.

107. It was not the intention of the department that it should be so? No.

108. Then as this time expires on the 14th July, 1876, supposing a party of prospectors made a discovery (say) in June, 1876, or the commencement of July, 1876, a few days before the twelve months expired under this notice, and they did not report until August, 1876, you would not consider that a bar to their receiving a reward? No, not if they made their report early in August, 1876, because that would only give them bare time to prove the ground, and for notice to reach the department in course of post.

109. Saxby's first letter was addressed to you on the 8th August, 1876. Have you any reason to doubt that up to that time there was a similar advertisement in force? No; I feel sure there was.

110. Was there a notice similar to this published in the Gazette prior to 8th August, 1876? I have no doubt there was.

111. Will you append a copy of that notice to your evidence? Yes. (See Appendix A 2.)

112. Did Williams and party apply for a reward for the discovery of a new gold-field? Williams does not in so many words claim the reward, but he makes known the discovery by himself of gold.

113. If you refer to their first letter you will find that they simply state that they have taken possession of and marked out a prospecting claim on the new quartz reef "at the head of Back Creek new diggings, Barrington"; the use of the term "new diggings" evidently implying that there were new diggings there at that time? Yes.

114. You do not think W. Johnston has applied for the reward? I think the impression at first was that Mr. Johnston's application might be followed up as a notification of the discovery with a view to the reward, but I believe it was afterwards stated that it was not so, that it was merely sent for information.

115. Is not the principal object of these rewards to induce people to go into the bush and open up new gold-fields? Yes, to open up and make known new gold-fields.

116. To discover new gold-fields? Yes.

117. Would any additional advantage have accrued to the State if Saxby Brothers had reported this sooner than they did report it—would it have caused any additional number of people to find employment than what did find employment? No, because we got the information without them.

118. Did not the miners themselves get the information and flock to the field even before the Saxbys reported it? Yes, before they reported it, but not before we published the fact of gold having been discovered there. It was our publication of the discovery that led to people going there; and, as I said before, the Saxbys themselves say the required number were on the ground when they reported. Of course the number was not there in consequence of their report, though it was there probably in consequence of their discovery.

119. Do you think more miners would have been on the field, and more gold have been obtained, had the Saxbys reported (say) a couple of months earlier? No, no more gold than has been obtained.

120. You think the real object of discovering a new gold-field has been obtained equally as well as it would have been if they had reported two months earlier? Yes.

121. The State has suffered no loss by their neglecting to report two months earlier? No, because we got the information earlier.

122. You will notice that the third paragraph of this advertisement states that "if, during the first six months after such discovery shall be made known, 600 miners shall find apparently permanent employment upon such gold-field, a further sum of (£500) five hundred pounds will be paid." Are you aware whether

H. Wood,
Esq.
9 Dec., 1879.

H. Wood, Esq.
9 Dec., 1879. whether six months after the time of making known this discovery 600 miners did find employment on the field? I think I could find that out for you very nearly, from the fact that I have a return made at the end of each year of the number of miners on each field, and as they did not make their discovery known till the middle of August, the end of the year would be very little more than three months afterwards, and would be within the six months.

123. If during the six months 600 people found employment they would be entitled to an additional £500? Yes, if they had satisfied the conditions of the notice. Under that notice there is a strong temptation for discoverers to keep back the notification of a discovery to give time for the requisite number of people to come upon the field within the time named.

124. Supposing the twelve months had been current at the time they lodged their information, would you have considered they were not legally entitled to the reward? I should have recommended the Minister not to grant any reward, because they had kept back the information until it was made public, and they only came forward when there was no merit in making it known.

125. But the fact of the twelve months having expired prior to their report coming in was purely accidental, depending upon the date of your publishing this advertisement? Yes; I do not suppose that influenced them at all.

Mr. Henry Saxby called in and examined:—

- Mr. H. Saxby.
9 Dec., 1879.
126. Chairman.] Where do you reside? At Copeland South.
127. What was your occupation prior to commencing prospecting? Sawing and drawing timber.
128. When did you commence to prospect for gold? I think it was about the 1st of March, 1876.
129. Were there any others with you? There were four of us—my two brothers, my brother-in-law, and myself: Henry Saxby, John Saxby, Edward Saxby, and George Robert Bartlett.
130. Can you tell the Committee what was the nearest gold workings at the time you made the discovery? Nowendoc.
131. What was the distance? About 50 miles.
132. What was the nature of your discovery—alluvial gold or quartz? Alluvial.
133. Were there any other miners at work? Not till about six weeks after.
134. Then you were at work on this gold-field alone, I understand, for about six weeks before any other miners came there? Yes, four of us—five of us some part of the time, but there were only four in the first party; there was another brother, Robert Saxby, who was with us occasionally.
135. Had you previous to the time of making the discovery read the Government advertisement offering a reward for making known new gold-fields? No.
136. You did not know the conditions that the rewards were dependent upon? No.
137. You were not aware that the Government expected you to furnish a report to them immediately after making the discovery? No, we were not aware of that; none of us had ever been on a mining field before, and we knew nothing about the mining laws.
138. How long did it take you, working on this gold-field, before you were satisfied that it was going to develop into a gold-field—that it was not a mere patch? Till the time when we reported it we had not got payable gold.
139. Were there any other parties on claims better than yours? Yes, there was one at the time I reported better than mine, William Tremaine and Patrick Killeen.
140. The date of your report to the department is 8th August, 1876? Yes.
141. Can you tell the Committee how much gold your party had obtained from the time you commenced prospecting up to the date of this report? Seventeen ounces.
142. And during that time there were always four men at work, and sometimes five? Yes.
143. You did not consider yourself justified in reporting the discovery of a payable gold-field prior to the 8th August? No, we did not.
144. Had you any object in keeping back the information of the discovery you had made? No, we had no object; there were parties there that we had told, before we sent the report in, that there was gold there; they were old diggers, and we wanted them to come and try the ground.
145. Did you go to any trouble to keep this a secret? No.
146. I suppose it was generally known in the neighbourhood that you were working there? Yes; in the Barrington neighbourhood it was. The first two came in about the beginning of June, but they would not stop to work.
147. Do you know a man named Williams who had a party there? Yes.
148. Can you say how long you had been at work when they came on the field? Five weeks.
149. You had been at work five weeks when Williams and party came on the ground? Yes; we were going in on a Monday morning, and we met him coming out again; he went in on the Sunday or on Monday morning very early; we showed him the gold we got the week before.
150. You did not attempt to keep the secret from him? No.
151. You did not have one of the richest claims there? No, we did not.
152. Mr. Burns.] Had you heard of any other party discovering gold in that locality when you first went prospecting? No, not within 6 miles of it. I heard there had been a few little pieces got about 6 miles off, on the Bowman River.
153. But as far as you were aware no one had discovered gold at the Barrington when you went there to prospect? No. I was sawing on the creek for about twelve months before.
154. What led you to think you would find gold at the Barrington? By the quartz there; there was a deal of quartz in the bed of the creek.
155. As far as you are aware no one else has sent in a claim for the discovery of gold there? No.
156. Mr. Jacob.] How did you become aware that there was a reward claimable? By the Gazette. The Gazette I saw was dated 1st August, 1876, and I applied on the 8th.
157. That was the first you knew about being able to claim a reward for having discovered a gold-field? Yes; I was in the office at Dungog, and the clerk showed me the Gazette there.
158. And upon that you made the claim? Yes.
159. Chairman.] On the same day? Yes, it was on the same day.
160. Mr. Jacob.] You were working in this neighbourhood for twelve months before? Yes, timber cutting, for between twelve months and two years.
161. Nobody else could have discovered gold there without your knowledge? No.

TUESDAY, 16 DECEMBER, 1879.

Present:—

MR. COPELAND,

MR. JACOB,

MR. TERRY.

HENRY COPELAND, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

William Johnston, Esq., M.P., examined:—

W. Johnston,
Esq., M.P.
16 Dec., 1879.

162. Chairman.] You are the Member for The Williams? Yes.
163. Were you a Member of Parliament on the 27th of June, 1876? No.
164. On that date you saw the Honorable J. F. Burns, then Postmaster General, and the Honorable J. Docker, who was also a Minister, and told them of the discovery of a new gold-field at the Barrington River? Yes; and also Sir John Robertson. It was at the Colonial Secretary's Office, where they were just about holding a Cabinet meeting.
165. You did not tell them that you personally had discovered the new gold-field? No, I did not.
166. Were you occupied in mining at that time? No.
167. On what date did you first go on to this new gold-field? In May, 1876.
168. At that time how many miners do you think were on the new gold-field? There were very few then; I should think there would not be more than fifty, but they increased so rapidly that in the course of a week or two there were five or six hundred. I may tell you that it was my bringing down some gold from the field and showing it in Brush and McDonnell's window, with a placard on it stating where it was found, that caused the rush. It got into the Evening News in consequence.
169. Did you know at that time who were considered to be the original discoverers of this gold-field? Yes; I understood it to be the Saxbys.
170. Did you hear any other persons spoken of as the original discoverers? No; not at that time.
171. On the 8th July, 1876, you addressed a letter to the Minister for Mines, reporting in a formal manner the discovery of the new gold-field? Yes.
172. Have you any objection to state to the Committee what object you had in addressing that letter to the Minister? It was to obtain police protection, as well as to bring under notice the new gold-field.
173. You did not intend it to be understood that you were the discoverer of the gold-field? No.
174. Or that you claimed a reward? I have a sort of faint shadow in my mind that I might be entitled to reward as the first to let the Government know about the field.
175. You thought that being the first to report it you would be entitled to the reward? Yes.
176. Do you now claim any reward? I should be very glad to get anything that was going about; it would do me no harm; I do not think any of us would refuse 500 sovereigns at any time.
177. Mr. Jacob.] Are you a bonâ fide claimant? I think I should leave that to the Committee.
178. Mr. Terry.] Do you think you are entitled to any reward? I do.
179. Chairman.] On account of having reported this discovery? Yes, on account of having reported it to the Government. It was my action that made the field what it is.
180. You still believe that the Saxbys were the real discoverers? Yes, I do believe that, but they ought not to have kept the discovery to themselves so long; they would have kept it for ever, if that were possible.
181. Do you consider they are entitled to a reward as the discoverers? That I could not say, but think they are.
182. This gold-field is part of your electorate? Yes.
183. Have you any idea what population there is on this gold-field now? I should imagine from twelve to fifteen hundred people, all told.
184. At Back Creek? At the Barrington Diggings, including the Rainbow and all about, but not including the Bowman. All these other diggings have been discovered in consequence of the first discovery at Back Creek.
185. I suppose you are aware that the Government were made acquainted from other sources than yourself with the fact of gold having been discovered there? I was not aware of it till I saw it in the printed papers. I certainly thought at the time that I was the first to make the Government aware of it.
186. Do you think the other parties who reported the discovery to the Department of Mines are equally entitled to the reward for so reporting? I think they are. I think it should rest with the Government, on the recommendation of this Committee, when you have the evidence before you.
187. How long were you on the gold-field at that time? I went on it in May, 1876, and made arrangements for opening a branch store there; I made arrangements for building a store.
188. How much gold did you buy? Forty-seven ounces.
189. At the time you went there, did you take any stores with you? No, not the first time; I made arrangements then for taking up stores afterwards; I had a few rations with me, and as the diggers were short of rations, I gave the rations I had to them.
190. Was it after your first trip, and after you had made up your mind to build a store on the new diggings, that you reported the discovery to Sir John Robertson, Mr. Docker, and Mr. Burns? Yes; I think that would be about the 27th June, 1876.
191. Your letter of the 8th July to the Minister for Mines—No. 10 in the printed papers—states that it was on the 27th June? Yes, that must have been the date.
192. At all events it was after you made up your mind to build a store on Back Creek that you reported the discovery to the Ministers? Yes.
193. Had you seen the Gazette notice at that time by which the Government offer a reward for the discovery of new gold-fields? No, not at that time. I did not see it till Mr. De Courcy Browne came up there with the gold-mining regulation book; that was the first time I saw it; perhaps a month or so afterwards.
194. Mr. Jacob.] Do I understand you that you believe you are entitled to a reward? I do.
195. Equitably or legally? Legally.
196. Why legally? Because I think Saxby Brothers discovered the field, and they ought to have reported it long before they did; they had held the field for something like twelve months.

- W. Johnston, Esq., M.P. 197. The letter that has been referred to by the Chairman, dated 8th July, 1876, must be considered as making a claim on your part? It was not written with the intention of making a claim at the time.
198. Have you made a claim since? No.
- 16 Dec., 1879. 199. When you wrote that letter you were not aware of the regulations offering rewards? No.
200. Have you read them since? Yes; I read them on the field.
201. You are aware that the regulations entitle only the discoverer to the reward, on his giving notice within a certain time. Can you conform to that condition; have you been the discoverer? No.
202. Do you understand that the person making the claim must be the discoverer, and must make known his claim within a given time? I have known that since.
203. You were not the discoverer? No.
204. Then you cannot conform to that condition? No.
205. Are you aware that there are other claimants? Only since these papers have been printed. I see a Mr. Williams makes a claim.
206. You have put in no formal claim? No.
207. Mr. Terry.] Do you think that if you had not given the Government the information the Government would have ever heard from Saxby Brothers? No, I do not think they would. It was my action that made the field what it is. I had no idea then that rewards were given to discoverers of gold-fields; I saw it afterwards in this book of Mr. De Courcy Browne's. I had never given my attention to gold-mining.
208. Mr. Jacob.] Did you intend your letter of the 8th July, before referred to, as a claim to the reward? Well, it would amount to a claim, I suppose.
209. Were you then aware of the regulation entitling the discoverer of a gold-field to a reward? Yes, I was quite aware of it then, and that letter was written with it in my mind, although I will not say distinctly that the reward for discovering the gold-field was in my mind at the time.
210. One of the conditions was that the person making the claim must be the discoverer;—that being so, do you still think you have a claim? Yes, because I made the field what it is; in fact, I ran the risk of my life; the diggers said they would shoot me for making it what they called a storekeepers' rush. Immediately I heard of it I got on my horse and galloped down with my revolver about my person, without showing it, and asked them what they had to say to me, and when I explained matters to them it was all right.
211. Chairman.] You say that the field would not have been what it is had it not been for the action you took in the matter? Yes.
212. But you stated in the previous part of your evidence that there were fifty men there at the time you arrived there? I did not see fifty; I was told there were fifty; I could only see ten or a dozen; there was only one tent that I saw.
213. Mr. Terry.] Is this gold-field likely to be a permanent gold-field? Yes, I believe it will be one of the best and most permanent gold-fields in the Colony; the whole country for miles around is one network of gold-bearing reefs. Many other diggings besides those at Back Creek have arisen in consequence of that discovery.
214. Chairman.] Do you not think that after these first fifty men were on the gold-field the fact of them digging gold would not have been sufficient to make it known far and wide through the country, by one miner communicating with another, without reference to the action you took in the matter? No doubt it would in course of time; I merely think my action hastened the development of the field.
215. Do you think now that whether you wrote that letter to the department or not made any difference? Yes, I think my action has, especially the part I took in displaying the gold publicly; it gave publicity to the field at once, in fact it called the attention of the Evening News to it, and they put in a paragraph about it, which went the round of the Colonies. I would like to amend that part of my evidence where I stated there were fifty men there when I went there; when I come to think of it now there were not more than a dozen; now I come to think of it, all the men who were there at the time were together in one camp; there was only one camp, and only ten or a dozen men there at that time.
216. Mr. Jacob.] Do you recollect that the Government notice offering the reward states that it must be the discoverer, who makes the discovery known within twelve months from the date of the notice, who is entitled to the reward? I thought it was earlier than that; there is some time named, I know, but I cannot recollect what it is.
217. The reward is only claimable by the discoverer, who is himself to make the discovery known to the Minister for Mines—do you think you have a legal claim under that notice? Yes, I think I have. I am under the impression that I was the first to let the Government know of the discovery.
218. I mean under the notice; the notice states that it must be the discoverer who makes the discovery known within a given time—do you claim under that condition? No, not under that condition; I was not the discoverer.
219. Mr. Terry.] Have you any idea at what time these parties discovered this gold-field? I have an idea that it was twelve months at least before I heard of it, perhaps longer than that; I do not know but what they knew it for two years before; they had been bringing in gold to Dungog for a considerable time before that.
220. From this very gold-field? From this very place.
221. Chairman.] Have you read the printed correspondence? I think I read it when it first came out.
222. Are you aware that Saxby and party wrote to the Minister on the 8th August, 1876, and made this statement:—"In the month of March, 1876, I and my party—consisting of my three brothers—commenced to work on this field in hope of finding payable gold. By the beginning of April we brought into Dungog, and lodged in the Commercial Bank, about 11 ounces, the product of the said field,"—so that by this letter you will see that Saxby Brothers only went out in March, 1876? Well, they are wrong; I know it is generally thought up our way that they had known it for more than a year; in fact, they had been at this place for years before sawing and getting cedar. They are cedar-getters, and that was how they came to discover the gold.
223. Mr. Terry.] You have never quarrelled with these people? No, never—they are very decent fellows.
224. Chairman.] Have you any personal knowledge as to the time these men commenced to work on this gold-field? No.
225. You are not speaking on that point from actual knowledge? No, only from common repute. They had been getting cedar in the bush for a good while before that.

ON THE DISCOVERY OF BARRINGTON GOLD-FIELD

226. Have you any knowledge that they were getting gold before March, 1876. No, only from report. W. Johnston,
227. You see by these papers that Mr. William Williams and party also reported that this gold-field had Esq., M.P. been discovered? I only know it from the papers.
223. Do you know these parties? No.
229. Do you know whether they are living in the district now? No, I do not. I question myself whether the man was ever on the field.

DISCOVERY OF BARRINGTON GOLD-FIELD.

APPENDIX.

[To the Evidence of Harrie Wood, Esq., 9 December, 1879.]

A 1.

Department of Mines, Sydney, 14th July, 1875.

Reward for the Discovery of New Goldfields, &c.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the sums undermentioned will be paid to the persons who shall, within twelve months from the date hereof, discover and make known to the Minister for Mines the discovery of a new gold-field, as hereunder specified:—

For the discovery of a new gold-field, distant not less than 4 miles from the nearest gold workings, and upon which not fewer than three hundred miners shall be employed during the first three months after the discovery is made known, the sum of five hundred pounds (£500).

And if, during the first six months after such discovery shall be made known, six hundred miners shall find apparently permanent employment upon such gold-field, a further sum of five hundred pounds (£500) will be paid.

In the event of any dispute arising as to the person entitled to claim any such reward as aforesaid, the Minister for Mines shall decide to which of the claimants such reward shall be awarded.

JOHN LUCAS,
Minister for Mines.

(Handed in by the Chairman, and ordered to be appended, 16 December, 1879.)

Mr. R. W. Evans to H. Copeland, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Your communication of the 14th to hand, and I have taken steps with all speed to seek for the information you require re the prospectors of this field. I will first commence by telling you that I have sought out all the old hands on the field, men who were here from the very first, and who can be implicitly relied upon. I also got together as many of the progress (6) committee as I could upon so short a notice as your letter gave me, therefore you can rely upon the following information and treat it as facts.

First, I will commence with our respected Member, Mr. W. Johnston, of Clarence Town. The greatest surprise was manifested by all whom I inquired from respecting this gentleman's claim to the reward as discoverer of this field; why, my dear sir, it seems to me that his claim is equally as absurd as unjust. Mr. Johnston did not put in an appearance here until two to three months after the real discoverers, the Saxby Brothers. The only claim I can hear of that he could bring forward is that he bought a nugget, weighing seven ounces, from one Nuggetty Bill, and a month or so after this he erected a store and sold tucker and tools to the diggers; this information is all I can give you about Mr. Johnston, and I am sure you will agree with me in saying that our respected Member has about as much right to the reward as you or I have. As for Mr. W. Williams, his claim is about on a par with Mr. Johnston's, for he was on the Nowendoc Gold-field at the time of the discovery; a man here named W. Wallace, with whom I have been well-acquainted for the past eight years, is willing to swear that W. Williams said to him (when they were both on the Nowendoc), "Let us go to a place called Back Creek, as payable gold has been got there by some men called Saxby"; and it is a positive fact that he made his first appearance on the Back Creek stage eight weeks after gold was found. As I wish to do Mr. W. Williams justice, I may state for your information that the above-mentioned gentleman found the first reef here, which is called the Town and Country, applied for a prospecting area, sank a shaft about 25 feet, and then abandoned it. Since that time he has not favoured Back Creek with his presence.

Last, but not least, the Saxby Brothers. They found the gold accidentally while following their avocations as sawyers. When they came to the creek the only residents here consisted of paddy-melons and "coachmen" or whip birds; and that they are the true prospectors there is not the slightest doubt; this is not only my opinion, but that of all the old residents here; and in fact the idea of others applying for the reward has struck all with whom I have spoken to with the greatest surprise. As to how the Saxby Brothers discovered the field, and why they did not apply for reward in the proper manner, you already know. All the light I can throw on the matter is that they were intensely ignorant of all laws relating to gold-mining, never having been on a field before, and it would be a positive injustice should Messrs. Johnston and Williams reap the reward they have so justly and hardly earned.

Yours, &c.,

R. W. EVANS,
Secretary Progress Committee.

B 2.

Mr. Robert Saxby to H. Copeland, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

As the Barrington Gold-field still continues to hold its own, and each successive week further proves its solidity and permanence, we trust that you will excuse us again bringing forward the matter of reward. We are confident that no one will question our being the original prospectors and discoverers of this field, and it was merely through our ignorance of the laws relating to gold discoveries that we were not the first to make it known; but we, in common with all on this field, think that the Government are acting in a very small mean way in working on this quibble to shuffle out of paying the reward to any one, for certainly if we are not entitled to it somebody else must; and we are quite willing to leave our claim to it to the decision of the residents of the district who are acquainted with the facts. Although, as the discoverers of this rich and extensive gold-field, we have been the means of putting thousands of pounds into other people's pockets, giving employment to hundreds of men, and augmenting the public revenue to a considerable extent, we ourselves have been losers, and we think the Government ought to take this into consideration and vote us a special, if they think we are not entitled to the public reward. We have been advised to get up a petition, and have been promised the signatures of all the influential people in the district. If you think this will do any good, we will go into it at once.

We are, &c.,

(For self and party,
ROBERT SAXBY.

 PETITION OF MR. E. W. RUDDER.

 REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly appointed on the 22nd June, 1880,—“with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire into and report upon the Petition of Mr. E. W. Rudder for his services in connection with the Gold Discovery, 1851,” and to whom was referred on the same date “the Progress Report brought up on 24th July, 1879,”—have agreed to the following Report:—

Your Committee have carefully considered the Evidence referred to them by your Honorable House, which shows:—

1. That Mr. Rudder was very active in the years 1850 and 1851 and thereafter in proving the auriferous character of different parts of this Colony, and assisted in devising methods for the working of its Gold-fields, in which his previous experience in San Francisco was of great value.
2. That Mr. Rudder has never received any recompense from the public, though testimony has been borne by eminent scientific authorities to his ability as a mineralogist, and the valuable services he in various ways rendered the Colony in connection with its Gold-mining interests.

2. Your Committee therefore recommend the claim of Mr. Rudder for the favourable consideration of the Government.

CLAIMS TO LEASES AT HILL END.

No. 1.

Messrs. A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Gold Mining Lease Regulations.—Schedule 6.

Notice of Application and Deposit.

Sir,

Hill End, 14th January.

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day deposited with the Warden's clerk at Hill End, the sum of £14, being the first year's rent in advance of 14 acres of land at Hawkins Hill for the purpose of gold mining, and the sum of £3, being the fees for survey of the said land. The number of my application is 1,292.

We have, &c.,

ALFRED FAIRFAX,
BOULTON MOLINEAUX.

By their Agent—

WILLIAM GEO. COLLINGS.

Application No. 1,292, Hill End, by A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux, for 14 acres at Hill End, 14th January, 1878. There is nothing in notice to show what portions are applied for, but the area is the same as that of the leases surrendered by Fairfax and others, on 8th instant, including Johnstone's. The application has not yet been received.—P.A., 2/2/78.

Send telegram asking Warden to say why application has not been transmitted.—H.W., 2/2/78.

No. 2.

Telegram from Mr. Warden Sharpe to Under Secretary for Mines.

Hill End, February 4, 1878.

REFERRING to your telegram of the 2nd instant, want of survey is the cause of delay in transmitting application No. 1,292, against which objections have been lodged.

Will the chief Mining Surveyor be pleased to ask the surveyor to measure this parcel of land as speedily as possible.—H.W., 4/2/78.

Forwarded to Mr. Licensed-Surveyor Dawson, who is requested to measure as speedily as possible.—R. FITZGERALD, chief Min. Sur., B.C., 7/2/78.

No. 3.

Mr. J. Ackerman to The Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

Hill End, September 4, 1878.

I would respectfully ask you to inquire the reason why the objection has not been heard which we (John Ackerman and Thomas Helsby) laid against a lease applied for by Mr. Fairfax, being surrendered leases Nos. 19, 26, 92, and 103.

We, John Ackerman and Thomas Helsby, have applied for part of the above-mentioned surrendered leases and objected to the granting of Mr. Fairfax's application, because the said gentleman has not marked the ground out at all. This land in question has been lying idle over four years.

I would also press on your mind that Mr. Fairfax has been an original lessee of a certain portion of the above-mentioned ground, and did not fulfil the labour conditions.

I have been to Mr. Warden Sharpe and asked when did he think the objection would be dealt with, and he told me that the surveyors had not sent in the plans of the ground.

Hoping that you will make inquiries where the delays are and remedy them,

I remain, &c.,

JOHN ACKERMAN.

Forward to Mr. Warden Sharpe and request that the matter be dealt with as speedily as possible.—G.E.H. (for U.S.), B.C. 4 Sept., 1878.

The inquiry has been delayed for want of the mining surveyor's plan and report. Mr. Dawson is at present at Ilford, but I have written to him requesting that the plan and report on above application (No. 1,292, Hill End) may be supplied without delay.—ERNEST A. L. SHARPE, Warden. The Under Secretary for Mines, B.C., Sept. 11, 1878.

No. 10.

Mr. J. Ackerman to H. L. Beyers, Esq., M.P.

My dear Beyers, Hill End, 27 September, 1878.
Our inquiry in the case of Alfred Fairfax, Boulton Molineaux v. John Ackerman, came off to-day; Mr. Fairfax did not put in an appearance, nor did he have any agent. Now what we want of you is that you will see justice done us; to post you up in the case we will give you the account of the inquiry, viz.:—Our side distinctly prove that they had no right, inasmuch as they did not mark the ground out—or if they did they did not mark it out according to the Mining Act; our principal witness was W. J. Horn, who stated that he saw no other marking at that time but mine. Now the Act distinctly states that an accurate description of the ground must be given. You saw yourself in company with Michael Ackerman, my father, that the notice paper did not state the situation of the lease, in fact it was not in accordance with the Act. Surely, if we lost it before by not complying with one small point in the Act, we are entitled to that privilege now, for there is a gross neglect of the stipulations imposed by the Mining Act by Messrs. Fairfax & Co.

You will be kind enough to keep your eyes open, as we are of an opinion that Mr. Fairfax is working the Mining Department again, so we send you this to put you up in the affair, knowing that the department will receive Sharpe's report by the same mail.

I am, &c.,
JOHN ACKERMAN.

Inform Mr. Beyers, M.P., as to what has been done in this case.—W.S., 18/10/78. Applications 1,292 and 1,293 at Hill End—both applications have been refused. See papers herewith, 78/7,107. Notification will appear in Gazette of 22nd inst.—P.A., 18/10/78. Inform Mr. Beyers.—G.E.H. (for U.S.), 18. Informed, 21/10/78.

No. 11.

No. 11.

(78-6,601) Mr. Warden Sharpe to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

Warden's Office, Hill End, 28 September, 1878.

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration and decision of the Honorable the Secretary for Mines, the gold-mining lease (applications noted in the margin), the surveyor's plan and report, the evidence taken by me concerning the said applications and objections thereto, and to report as follows:—

Hill End, No.
1,292.
Hill End, No.
1,293.

2. The usual notices required by the Gold-mining Lease Regulations were sent to the applicants and to the objectors, but there was no appearance on the part of the former, although ample time was given for such appearance.

3. From the evidence produced by the objectors it would appear that the ground applied for by lease application No. 1,292 was not marked as required by the Gold-mining Lease Regulations; the other objections I do not attach much importance to. I would therefore recommend that the said application be refused.

I may add, that it appears that the cancelled leases included in this application were formerly held by the applicants for a long period without employing the necessary labour, and that the said leases were surrendered to avoid the cancellation likely to ensue for the non-performance of the labour conditions.

4. No objections have been lodged against lease application No. 1,293, which is for a portion of the land included in application No. 1,292.

I have, &c.,

ERNEST A. L. SHARPE,

Warden.

Application 1,292 may be refused in terms of the Warden's report, and application 1,293 may be refused as the land applied for was at date of such application the subject of the prior application No. 1,292.—W.S., 4/10/78. Warden and applicants informed.—19 Oct., '78.

Depositions respecting gold lease No. 1,292, and objections thereto.

Court-house, Hill End, 27 September, 1878.

Before E. A. L. Sharpe, Esq., Warden.

John Ackerman, on oath, states: I am a licensed victualler, and live in Hill End; I produce a receipt for my objector's deposit (produced and marked A); I hold a miner's right, dated 7th January, 1878, and also produce Thomas Helsby's miner's right, also under same date; the objections lodged by me are dated 28th January, 1878, and on same date I served copies of the objections on lease applicants; my first objection is, that the lease was not taken up legally; no pegs were put in at the corners; there were trenches some 3 feet long, others less; my next objection is, that the notice of intention to apply for a gold-mining lease, which was posted at the Court-house, shows distinctly the ground they intended to apply for; neither did their application posted at the Court-house show what ground they had applied for; by this objection they did not show whether the ground applied for was north, south, east, or west of Hawkins Hill; my third objection is, that we have a prior right to part of the said land which they applied for, as it was through the complaints we made against the former lessees for not fulfilling the labour conditions that those leases have been surrendered; I have applied for leases Nos. 19, 26, and 92, surrendered leases; my application is No. 1,293, and dated the 21st January, 1878; we applied for lease No. 26 before, but the application was refused on account of the application being lodged before the three days had expired.

Taken and sworn at Hill End, this 27th day of } September, 1878, before me,—

ERNEST A. L. SHARPE, Warden.

JOHN ACKERMAN.

William John Horn, on oath, states: I am a miner and reside at Hill End; I know the ground in question; notice was given to me that Mr. John Ackerman had marked out some ground, including lease No. 92, and I went up and saw Mr. Ackerman's notice and saw he had pegged the ground out, but saw no other pegging.

By Mr. Ackerman: I could see no other marks than yours; I saw also that you had marked the ground out in accordance with the regulations.

By the Warden: I know the land comprised in surrendered leases Nos. 14, 66, 92, 19, 26, and 103, and the land comprised within those surrendered leases was not marked out by anyone as a gold-mining lease on or about the 17th January last.

Taken and sworn at Hill End, this 27th day of } September, 1878, before me,—

ERNEST A. L. SHARPE, Warden.

WM. JOHN HORN.

Michael Ackerman, on oath, states: I am a miner residing at Hill End; I was on the surrendered leases Nos. 14, 66, 92, 26, and 103, applied for by Mr. Fairfax; they were not marked out; they were marked out in November, 1876; they were not re-marked in 1878 until John Ackerman and Thomas Helsby marked some of them; it was not stated on the notice of intention to apply what ground they intended to apply for; the date of their notice was 8th January, 1878, I believe.

By the Warden: I know where the surrendered leases applied for by Fairfax and Molineaux are, and have been on the ground; I was there on the 14th January last, and the old marks were there, but no fresh ones.

Taken and sworn at Hill End, this 27th day of }

Gold-mining Lease Regulations.—Schedule 2.

To the Honorable the Secretary for Mines, Sydney,—

Sir,

Hill End, 14 January, 1878.

We hereby make application for a gold-mining lease of that piece or parcel of land situated on Hawkins Hill, including leases Nos. 1,466, 92, 19, 26, and 103, surrendered for purpose of amalgamation, containing about 14 acres, of which we took possession on the 9th day of January, at the hour of 12h. 1s. o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of mining thereon and therein for gold for a period of fifteen years, by erecting posts in L trenches at each angle thereof. The datum post is the N.E. peg of lease No. 26.

Notice of our intention to make this application has been given in accordance with the regulations in that behalf, and we hand herewith the sum of £14 being the first year's rent in advance of the said land, and £3 to cover the cost of survey. And we hereby request that survey may forthwith be made of the said piece or parcel of land.

We hereby acknowledge that this application is made upon the distinct understanding and condition that if we shall abandon or proceed with it, or if it is refused, the Secretary of Mines for the time being may deduct from the sum of £14 deposited as aforesaid any cost to which in his opinion the Crown may have been put in or about or in respect of this application; and this application shall thereupon become and be void, and the possession aforesaid shall cease and determine. And if the lease shall be granted we shall and will commence mining operations upon or in connection with the demised land within one month from and after the granting thereof, and shall and will employ upon such land not less than four men during the first three of the term thereby created, and not less than seven men during the remainder of such term. And shall and will at any time when called upon in terms of the Regulations relating to gold-mining leases, to do so, execute, and take delivery of such lease, or failing therein for a period of fourteen days after being so called upon we shall and will forfeit the said sum of £14, and all right, title, or interest in and to the said land and the possession thereof, and the said lease shall be forthwith cancelled.

The Under Secretary for Mines to H. L. Beyers, Esq., M.P.

Sir,

Department of Mines, Sydney, 21 October, 1878.

Referring to the letter presented by you on behalf of Mr. John Ackerman, in connection with gold-lease applications Nos. 1,292 and 1,293, at Hill End, I am directed by the Secretary for Mines to inform you that both these applications have been refused, the former because the land embraced by it was not marked out in accordance with the regulations, the latter because at the date of such application the land sought to be leased thereunder was the subject of another application which had not then been disposed of.

I have, &c.,

GERARD E. HERRING,

(For the Under Secretary for Mines).

P.S.—Both of the abovenamed applications will be gazetted forthwith as refused.

Telegram from Mr. Warden Sharpe to Under Secretary for Mines.

Hill End, 30 October, 1878.

CAN I be informed why gold-lease application, number twelve hundred and ninety-three (1,293) was refused? Was it on account of prior possession by applicants for number twelve hundred and ninety-two?

1,293 was refused because the land was in possession of Fairfax & Co., applicants for 1,292, at date of application. (Vide 78-7,107).—P.A., 31. G.E.H. (for U.S.) Telegram, 31/10/78.

Mr. G. Hardie to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

177, Pitt-street, Sydney, 15 November, 1878.

On behalf of and at the request of Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux, I beg respectfully to apply for a copy of the Warden's report upon which their application No. 1,292, Hill End, 14 acres, January 14, 1878, has been refused.

I have, &c.,

No. 19.

Messrs. A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux to The Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

Sydney, 19 November, 1878.

1. We learnt recently, with much astonishment, that our application No. 1,292, for a 14 acres gold-mining lease at Hawkins Hill, made on the 14th day of January last, has been refused.

2. This application was virtually made for leases which were already our own, or to speak more exactly, the property of those for whom we acted as trustees. The circumstances are these :—

3. On the 4th December, 1877, we surrendered five leases in order that they might be simultaneously gazetted as surrendered, and that we might then take up the whole of the land as one lease in a single block. This method was adopted because the Mining Act contains no provisions for the amalgamation of leases. Everything was done in order. The five leases were gazetted on the 8th January, 1878, and at the earliest moment on the following morning the block of land was marked out by our agent, Mr. W. G. Collings, and our application followed in due course on the 14th idem.

4. Shortly after this another application was made for a portion of this same land by Messrs. Ackerman and Helsby, who filed certain objections to our application; but those objections were obviously absurd, and could have been easily answered, besides they had no vested interest in the land as we had.

5. On inquiry at the department we find that our application was refused in accordance with the recommendation of the Warden, who held an inquiry, some time in September apparently (the exact date is unknown to us), at which evidence was given on the part of the objectors that our agent had not marked out the land applied for. We were not represented at this inquiry, and the above evidence, which we could easily have disproved, passed unchallenged. The Warden made his report accordingly, and our application was refused. Instead therefore of effecting, as intended, an amalgamation of our leases, we appear to have been deprived of them altogether.

6. We submit that under the circumstances this would have been hard measure, even if all things had been done in proper order by the Warden, but as a matter of fact we received no notification as to when he would hold his court of inquiry. We had therefore no opportunity afforded us of rebutting the evidence of Messrs. Ackerman and Helsby respecting the pegging out of the land, which evidence was entirely false.

7. We enclose herewith the affidavit of one of us (Mr. Molineaux), setting forth that no notice of the intended holding of any such Warden's Court was received by him. The other of us (Mr. Fairfax) also received no notice, but he admits that the Warden informed him unofficially that a court would be held. Also Mr. Collings, our agent, who made the application in our names, received no notice, as is sworn to in his affidavit, enclosed herewith.

8. We can bring abundant evidence to prove that the land was properly pegged out. For the present we content ourselves with enclosing Mr. Collings' affidavit on this point, and the evidence of his assistant on the occasion can be easily obtained.

9. We respectfully submit, therefore, that the refusal of our application, while it was obviously inequitable was not even in order, and we think we are within our rights when we ask that such refusal may be annulled, and that we may be reinstated in the position we occupied prior to the holding of the Warden's Court. We shall be happy to attend any Court of which due notice may be given to us for the purpose of replying to the objections filed against our application by Messrs. Ackerman and Helsby.

10. We may add that from the time of our application we have been in actual possession of the ground. We have done some work there already, and are prepared to put on the full complement of labour whenever a lease is issued.

11. We venture to express the hope that in dealing with this matter you will take into consideration not merely the legal and technical points in our favour (which however seem strong enough), but also our equitable rights as the actual owners of five leases, which were surrendered for a specific purpose.

12. We may add that our application was not made for ourselves only—or chiefly that we are in this matter trustees for several bodies of shareholders, whose capital had been sunk in working these leases, and who had agreed to amalgamate their interests. It is not correct (as stated by the Warden in his report dated 28th September) that the five surrendered leases had been long held by us, and that we surrendered them in order to avoid cancellation. Only two of the leases had been held by us for any time, and the surrenders were made because the various proprietors of the five leases had agreed to amalgamate, and had formed a company for the purpose of working the consolidated ground with adequate capital provided for the purpose.

We are, &c.,

ALFRED FAIRFAX.
B. MOLINEAUX.

Please address us care of Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, Pitt-street.

298—B

Mr.

Mr. Warden Sharpe will please state what steps he took to notify the applicants herein of the date and place of holding the inquiry into their application and the objections thereto, and what evidence (if any) he has that the notices were duly served.—H.W., B.C., 21-23/11/78.

The applicants were duly notified in accordance with the regulations relative to gold-mining leases. Mr. Collings, the applicants' agent at the date of the application, had left the district, and Mr. R. J. Rawsthorne had been appointed agent in his stead. The necessary notice (copy herewith) was sent to Mr. Rawsthorne, enclosed in an envelope, addressed to Mr. Fairfax, and the former was requested to forward it to Mr. Fairfax. Mr. Rawsthorne states that he forwarded the said notice by post to Mr. Fairfax the same evening that he received it from this office. Ample notice was given to the applicants, so that if they thought fit they might produce Mr. Collings as a witness.—ERNEST A. L. SHARPE, Warden. The Under Secretary for Mines, B.C., 28/11/78. No. 20.

Minute of The Secretary for Mines.

In this case it appears that certain leaseholders, represented by Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux, surrendered their leases for the purpose of releasing the same land. An application was made for such release, objections were lodged against such application, and the Warden heard the case in the absence of the applicants, and recommended that the application for lease should not be granted. It appears that notice was not sent to Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux by the Warden, but was sent by him to a Mr. Rawsthorne as their agent. It is denied that Mr. Rawsthorne was such agent, and there appears to be no proof that the applicants received any notice of the time of holding the inquiry into the objections. The application to lease was upon the recommendation of the Warden refused. It appears to me that under these circumstances justice will be met by ordering the Warden to rehear the case. It is a well known maxim of law that the other side should be heard, or should have an opportunity of attending the hearing; no such opportunity seems to have been afforded. The Warden has been much to blame in not assuring himself that the means taken by him to inform the applicants of the hearing of this case would be effectual.

effectual. The Act provides that two clear days' notice of the time appointed to hold the court for hearing objections shall be given to the applicant; no such notice was given. It is the duty of the Warden, seeing the failure caused by his act, to rehear this case. W.S., 5/12/78.

Sir,

Sydney, 31 December, 1878.

I have received a letter from a party of miners at Hill End, stating that the refusal of the application for a gold-mining lease of 14 acres, No. 1,292, has been revoked. I humbly pray you on behalf of the miners to refuse the granting of the above lease. The case has been before the Wardens Court a short time ago, and dismissed in favour of Ackerman and party under miner's right. As the party now in possession have held the land for upwards of two years without working the land under the conditions of the Act, I hope you will give it your consideration for the sake of the working-class of miners.

Petition of Mr. Ackerman and others.

To the Honorable the Minister for Mines, Sydney,—

Hill End, 3 January, 1879.

Sir,

We, the undersigned miners, residents of Hill End, beg to lay before you the operations connected with the undermentioned gold-mining leased areas in the Turon and Tambaroora districts.

That leases No. 92, 103, 1,466, were surrendered by A. Fairfax and another, Thos. Payten and others, and J. McElhone and others respectively, on 8th January, 1878. On the 14th January, 1878, application was made for the land comprised within the beforementioned areas by A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux. On the 21st January, 1878, application was also made by J. Ackerman and Thos. Helsby to lease a portion of the said land. Objections having been lodged by them on the same date to granting lease of said land to A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux, these objections were heard at Warden's Court at Hill End on the 27th September, 1878, and by notice in Government Gazette of 22 October, 1878, both applications were refused. By reason of this refusal, and by virtue of our miners' rights, on the 23rd October, 1878 (the following day), we, the undersigned pegged out two ordinary quartz claims containing respectively six and two men's ground, and have continuously worked and held undisturbed possession of said ground to present date. The claims were also registered by us when taken up in accordance with the Mining Regulations of New South Wales.

2. In Government Gazette of 27th December, 1878, appears a notice from Department of Mines revoking refusal of application of A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux of 14th January, 1878, for lease 1,292, which comprises the before-mentioned surrendered leases Nos. 92, 103, and 1,466, which of course embrace the ground held and worked by us.

We view with alarm the action taken by the Department of Mines with regard to this application, after having notified in Government Gazette the refusal of both applications, the ground then becoming available for occupation, to revoke the refusal of the application of A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux of 14th January, 1878, on 27th December, 1878, being nearly twelve months from date of application and upwards of two months from date of refusal, during which time the ground has been occupied and worked by us.

We therefore beg most respectfully to request that you will cause such inquiries to be made as will enable you to ascertain the truth of these statements and confirm us in the possession of our respective claims.

And your memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

No. 29.

Mr. Warden Sharpe to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

Warden's Office, Hill End, 6 January, 1879.

Referring to gold-mining lease application No. 1,292, and papers connected therewith 78/8,502, and the minute of the Honorable the Minister for Mines censuring me for not assuring myself that the means taken by me to inform the applicants of the date of the hearing of the objections against the said application were sufficient, I have the honor most respectfully to transmit for the information of the Honorable the Minister for Mines a solemn declaration from a gentleman, who is a magistrate of the Colony and mayor of this place, that he was the duly accredited agent of the said applicants—Messrs. Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux at the date when the notice of inquiry was received by him, and that he forwarded it to the address of Mr. Alfred Fairfax, his principal; so that unless the letter containing the said notice miscarried, which is not probable, Mr. Fairfax must have received it in due course. I have a very strong impression, but I cannot be positive, that I asked Mr. Fairfax to whom he wished the notice sent, and that he requested me to send it to Mr. Rawsthorne, who would send it on to him. Mr. Fairfax also, but whether before or after the notice was sent I am unable to state, told me that he did not think it necessary to bring Mr. Collings up, as Mr. Rawsthorne could give the necessary evidence. I told him that Mr. Collings was a necessary witness, as he marked the lease. On one occasion he also asked me to give him ample notice when the inquiry would be held, as he might want to bring Mr. Collings up; this I did. The inquiry was held on the 27th of September, and the notice was sent through Mr. Rawsthorne to the applicants on the 14th of that month. I would also draw attention to the fact that, although Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux in their letter of the 19th November last produce solemn declarations from Messrs. Molineaux and Collings that they never received notice of the said inquiry, and Mr. Fairfax denies that he received it, yet there is no solemn declaration from him that he did not receive the notice, which as has been already stated was sent to Mr. Fairfax, addressed to him and his co-applicant; it was not sent to Mr. Collings, as he had long ceased to be the applicants' agent, and another had been appointed in his stead. The only address given on the said application was Mr. Collings', then of Hill End, and I did not know at that time, nor do I now know the address of Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux, such address was never supplied to me. I may also state that on the 26th November last Mr. Alfred Fairfax was in my office, and admitted to me that he was not certain whether he received the notice of inquiry or not. I can state this most positively, as I made a note of it at the time. I would also most respectfully observe that I cannot among the papers referring to this matter find any statement from Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux that Mr. Rawsthorne was not their agent, and if he was their agent I would submit that the giving the notice to him was equivalent to giving it to them. I would also draw attention to the fact that lease application No. 1,292 was refused on or about the 19th of October last, and yet the applicants therefor do not complain that they have not been duly notified until the 19th of the following month, and until seven days after Messrs. Ackerman and party had been summoned for trespass by Mr. Moustaka, for although lease application 1,301, which is for the same land as that applied for by No. 1,292, was in the name of the Star of Peace Company's manager, Mr. Moustaka, yet there is no doubt that such application was for the benefit of Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux, as showing this Mr. Rawsthorne, their agent, as soon as application No. 1,292 was refused, remarked the lease was the principal witness in the trespass case, and he and Mr. Fairfax were present when application No. 1,301 was lodged, and they filled in the form of application with my assistance, Mr. Fairfax having requested me to show him how the said form should be filled up. I may add that when application No. 1,292 was refused the following tenements were taken possession of:—The 14 acres was re-marked and applied for by application No. 1,301 about the same time, viz., a few minutes after the midnight of the 22nd October last Messrs. Ackerman and party took up a portion of the said 14 acres, and on the same date another portion—two men's ground—was taken up by Messrs. Weir and M'Pherson. The applicant for the lease summoned Messrs. Ackerman and party for trespass, but the summons was dismissed; so far as I know no steps have been taken against Messrs. Weir and M'Pherson, who are working their claim, and have made application for survey.

Trusting that what I have stated may throw new light upon this somewhat complicated case, and that the censure passed on me may be removed,

I have, &c.,

ERNEST A. L. SHARPE,

Warden.

[Enclosure.]

I ROBERT James Rawsthorne, of Hill End, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire, Justice of the Peace, and Mayor of the Town of Hill End, do solemnly and sincerely declare,—

1st. That on the 14th day of September last, and for a considerable period previously, I was the duly accredited agent of Messrs. Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux for the transaction of all mining business in connection with their mining leases and lease applications at Hill End.

2nd. As such agent on the 14th September last I received from the Warden of the Tambaroora and Turon Mining District the notice annexed marked A, addressed to Messrs. Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux, and on the same date I forwarded it to the address to which I was instructed by the said Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux to forward letters received by me as such agent.

3rd. I am not aware that any letter sent by me to the said address has miscarried.

4th. On and before the said 14th of September last, and after that date, I acted as agent for the said Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux, appearing as their representative in the Warden's Court at Hill End, and transacting other business in connection with their leases and lease applications.

5th. I was aware that a Warden's Court would be held at Hill End on the 27th of September last respecting lease application No. 1,292 and the objections thereto, but I did not appear as Messrs. Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux's agent because I had received no instructions from my principals to do so.

6th.

Herewith copy of notice marked
A annexed.

6th. I have had various conversations, before the said 14th of September last, with the said Alfred Fairfax, when he informed me that he thought that it was not necessary to bring Mr. W. G. Collings from Sydney as a witness at the said inquiry concerning lease application No. 1,292, but that I could give all the evidence necessary.

And I make this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of an Act made and passed in the ninth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled, "An Act for the effectual abolition of oaths and affirmations taken and made in various Departments of the Government of New South Wales, and to substitute declarations in lieu thereof, and for the suppression of voluntary and extra judicial oaths and affidavits."

Made and signed before me, at Hill End, this 2nd day of January, 1879,—

ROBT. F. RAWSTHORNE.

J. W. FLOOD, J.P.

[Sub-enclosure.]

Mr. Warden Sharpe to Messrs. Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux.

Warden's Office, Hill End, September 14, 1878.

I HEREBY notify you that I will hold an inquiry concerning gold-mining lease application No. 1,292, and the objections thereto, at the Court-house, Hill End, on Friday, the 27th instant, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

I have, &c.,

ERNEST A. L. SHARPE,

Warden.

Paper marked A, referred to in annexed affidavit.—J. W. FLOOD, J.P.

In this case the Minister (Mr. Suttor) decided that as the service of the notice of intention to hold the inquiry could not be proved (and this statement shows that whatever suspicions may be entertained there is no legal evidence that the notice ever reached either of the applicants), the refusal must be revoked, and the applicants placed in the position they were in before the holding of the inquiry. The censure complained of consists, so far as I can recollect, in an opinion expressed by Mr. Suttor that Mr. Warden Sharpe had not taken sufficient care in regard to the service of the notices upon the applicants.

Submitted.—H.W., 10/1/79. Approved.—E.A.B., 11/1/79.

I understand the approval to mean that the request, viz., that the censure be removed cannot be granted?—H.W., 14/1/79. Yes.—E.A.B. Mr. Warden Sharpe, 17 Jan., /79.

No. 30.

The Under Secretary for Mines to Mr. Warden Sharpe.

Sir,

Department of Mines, Sydney, 17 January, 1879.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, wherein you refer to a censure passed on you by the late Secretary for Mines for not assuring yourself that the means taken by you to inform the applicants under application No. 1,292 of the date fixed for hearing the objections thereto were sufficient, and ask that the censure may be removed.

I may point out that the view taken by Mr. Suttor was, that there is no legal evidence that the notice of intention to hold the inquiry ever reached either of the applicants, and that sufficient care did not appear to have been taken by you in regard to the service of such notice, and as there is still no evidence of service, I am to state that under the circumstances, but without admitting that the action taken by Mr. Suttor amounts to a censure, Mr. Baker is unable to accede to your request.

I have, &c.,

HARRIE WOOD,

Under Secretary for Mines.

Memo. by The Under Secretary for Mines.

THE Warden at Hill End may be asked to return the papers in re application to lease No. 1,292, and the Crown Law officers may be asked to advise whether assuming that notice was not served in terms of section 44 of the Mining Act, the inquiry therein provided could be legally held.

2. Whether if such inquiry was held (the applicants for the lease not being in attendance), and the application was refused by the Governor upon a recommendation made in ignorance of the fact that notice as aforesaid had not been served, such refusal would determine the possession of the applicants for the lease. (Vide regulations 28 and 29.)

3. Whether the refusal made as aforesaid, having been revoked by the Governor because of the error in the recommendation aforesaid, the inquiry can now be held in terms of section 44 of the Mining Act into the application No. 1,292, and the objections thereto, notwithstanding that holders of miners' rights have since the refusal of application No. 1,292 was Gazetted, taken possession of portions of the land therein referred to as mining claims.

Hill End, 8 February, 1879.

PLEASE transmit papers in the matter of gold lease application No. 1,292 (twelve hundred and ninety-two.)

No. 33.

The Warden's Clerk to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

Warden's Office, Hill End, 8 February, 1879.

In the absence of the Warden, who has left for Ironbarks on official duty, I have the honor to acknowledge your telegram of this date, requesting the papers in the matter of gold-mining lease application No. 1,292 to be forwarded to the department.

The papers required are herewith forwarded under separate cover.

No. 34.

Messrs. A. Fairfax and B. Molineaux to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Sir, Sydney, 11 February, 1879.
Your communication of the 21st December last, conveying the information that the refusal of our application for gold-mining lease, Hill End, No. 1,292, Hawkins Hill, had been revoked, duly reached us.

We have accordingly since been in daily expectation of receiving notice that a date had been fixed for resumption of inquiry by the Warden (or that our application had been granted), but although several weeks have elapsed no such notification is yet to hand.

As we are reliably informed that miners have for some time past been at work on a portion of the ground included under said application, greatly to the prejudice of the constituents we represent, we beg respectfully to request that early steps may be taken by the department to decide upon our application, which we feel assured cannot but on its merits receive the favourable consideration of the Hon. the Secretary for Mines.

We have, &c.,

ALFRED FAIRFAX.
B. MOLINEAUX.

Inform that the matter has been referred to the Crown Law officers for opinion, and that the inquiry cannot proceed till the opinion has been obtained.—H.W., 11/2/79. Informed, 14 Feb., 1879.

No. 35.

The Under Secretary for Mines to The Crown Solicitor.

Sir, Department of Mines, Sydney, 11 February, 1879.
I have the honor to forward herewith a case which the Secretary for Mines desires to have submitted to the Law Officers of the Crown for an opinion, and I am to request that you will be so good as to apprise me of the result at your earliest convenience. I am, &c.,

In re application No. 1,292 at Hill End for a gold-mining lease.

HARRIE WOOD,
Under Secretary for Mines.

[Enclosure to No. 35.]

Department of Mines, Sydney, 11 February, 1879.
The Secretary for Mines requests that the Law Officers of the Crown will be pleased to advise him on the following matter:—

Section 44 of the Mining Act, 1874, provides that two clear days' notice in writing of the appointment by the Warden of the time and place for hearing objections to an application to lease shall be given to all parties concerned.

Assuming that notice was not served upon the applicants in terms of that section could the inquiry therein provided for be legally held?

2. If such inquiry was held (the applicants for the lease not having been served and not being in attendance) and the application was refused by His Excellency the Governor, upon a recommendation by the Secretary for Mines, in ignorance of the fact that notice as aforesaid had not been served and that the applicants had not been present, would such refusal determine the possession of the applicants for the lease? (Vide Regulations 28 and 29 relating to gold-mining leases.)

3. The refusal made as aforesaid having been revoked by the Governor because of the error in the recommendation aforesaid, can the inquiry now be held (notwithstanding the fact that holders of miners' rights have, since the refusal of the said application No. 1,292, taken possession as mining claims of portions of the land therein referred to) in terms of section 44 of the Mining Act into application No. 1,292 and the objections thereto.

Vide papers herewith.

Sir, Pitt-street, Sydney, 15 February, 1879.
We have just received your letter of the 14th instant, and learn with much surprise that you have submitted a case to the Crown Law Officers respecting our lease application No. 1,292. Since receipt of your letter of 21st December, informing us that the rejection of that application had been revoked (for good and sufficient reasons), we have been expecting to hear of a proper Court of Inquiry being held or of our application being granted. We should like to be informed what point or points have subsequently arisen on which the advice of the Crown Law Officers is required.

No. 40.

Mr. Warden Flood to The Under Secretary for Mines.

Sir,

Warden's Court, Hill End, 19 May, 1879.

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration and decision of the Honorable the Secretary for Mines, the evidence taken by me at a court of inquiry into the application for a gold-mining lease noted in the margin, and the objections thereto, together with the papers in connection with the application, and to report as follows:—

2. The requisite notices were sent to the applicants and to the objectors, and the receipt of the same acknowledged by them; but the objectors declined to attend at the hearing for the reasons set out in the document attached and marked E.

3. The evidence brought forward by the applicants goes to show that the ground applied for by them was marked out in accordance with the regulations relating to gold-mining leases, and expressly denies the truth of the statements in the notice of objections.

I have, &c.,

J. W. FLOOD,

Warden.

The Warden states that both applicants and objectors were duly notified of the holding of the inquiry. The applicants attended, but the objectors did not; they however admit having received notice. The evidence on behalf of the applicants completely contradicts the evidence of the objectors and answers the several objections made, and therefore it is recommended that the application No. 1,292 be granted.—H. W., 2/6/79. Submitted. Approved.—E.A.B., 4/6/79.

[Enclosure E.]

Mr. E. Clarke to Mr. Warden Flood.

Sir,

Mudgee, 26 April, 1879.

My clients John Ackerman and party have consulted me with reference to your letter of the 19th instant. On their behalf I have the honor to inform you that they have no intention of attending as requested, the proceedings being ultra vires.

As you have only lately been appointed Warden of Hill End District I feel it my duty more fully than otherwise I should do, to state the facts in connection with this matter, considering the present proceedings the most unjustifiable act in connection with the administration of mining law that ever came under my notice.

Messrs. Fairfax and party applied for the lease in question, and my clients applied for the same ground. Objections were respectively lodged and heard, reported upon, and both applications were refused and Gazetted as such.

By the Mining Act and Regulations then in force (and the same as now exist), the land with respect to which any such applications to lease are made, objected to, objections heard, reported on, refused and Gazetted, is deemed to be abandoned (reg. 33.)

Such being the case, my clients took possession of the land as a quartz claim, and Messrs. Fairfax and party, through one Moustaka, applied for a lease. Moustaka summoned my clients before the late Warden for trespass, and after a patient inquiry, lasting from 10 until 4, the Warden dismissed the case, as Moustaka failed to show he had complied with the regulations in taking up the ground.

It may be said this was not the proceeding of Messrs. Fairfax and party, but it was a strange circumstance that Mr. Fairfax (who resides in Sydney) was present in Court during the inquiry, and was in conference with the attorney for the complainant directly afterwards.

My clients, from the time of taking up their claim, have been in possession and working their claim.

Upwards of a month after the hearing of the case referred to a notice appeared in the Gazette revoking the refusal of Messrs. Fairfax's application.

Now, I contend this is, apart from being a most unjust, uncalled for, and unheard of, proceeding, utterly illegal.

Power is given to grant or refuse a lease, but once either act is performed it is final, and there is no power authorising the revocation of such refusal.

Upon

Upon the refusal of an application to lease the land is to be deemed abandoned, open to the whole world, and it would be monstrous to say that months afterwards vested interests are to be liable to be interfered with by a proceeding like this.

I am aware you are, as your letter states, proceeding by direction of the Honorable the Minister for Mines, but in that spirit of justice which is, as I have always found, the characteristic of your decisions, I would ask you, having the facts now before you, to consider, although requested by the Minister to do an illegal act, whether you are justified in doing that which I respectfully submit to you is illegal and unjust, and against which, on behalf of my clients, I protest.

I have, &c.,
EDWD. CLARKE.

[Enclosure F.]

AN inquiry, held at the Court-house, Hill End, on the 2nd day of May, 1879, by J. W. Flood, Warden of the Tambaroora and Turon Mining District, concerning an application for a gold-mining lease No. 1,292, and the objections thereto.

William George Collings being duly sworn, on oath, states: I am a contractor, and reside in Sydney; at the time of the pegging out of lease No. 1,292 I was a mining manager, residing at Hill End; I produce my miner's right for the year 1878; it is numbered 132; I also produce my authority to act as agent for Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux; it is registered in the office of the Mining Registrar at Hill End; the ground in question comprised leases Nos. 1,466, 92, 19, 26, 103; these leases were cancelled at the desire of the lessees in order that they might be amalgamated into one immediately after the expiry of the day on which the cancellation appeared in the Government Gazette, that is, on the 9th of January, 1878; I pegged out one lease, including the whole of the five leases just mentioned; that lease is numbered 1,292; that is the number of my application; I placed pegs of the regulation size and height at eleven angles of the lease, and dug trenches of the regulation length and depth; I produce a plan (marked A) showing the number and position of the pegs; I erected the necessary notices of intention to apply at the Court-house and Post Office, a torn copy of which I produce (marked B); I erected a datum post, and placed a board upon it as required by the Mining Regulations; on the 14th January I paid the necessary fees for rent and survey, and generally I complied with the Mining Regulations in every respect; I produce a copy (marked C) of the objections made to the granting of application to lease No. 1,292 by Messrs. Ackerman and Helsby; on the day on which I pegged out lease No. 1,292 I placed a man in possession; he remained in possession until the 23rd of February, 1878; on that day he handed over possession to Mr. Moustaka, pointing out to him all the pegs that I had erected; I know that Messrs. Fairfax and Molineaux were, at the time I pegged out the lease, the holders of miners' rights; they were taken out at Sydney, on the 3rd of January, 1878, and are numbered 6 and 7 respectively; in answer to the first objection of Messrs. Ackerman and Helsby I state that I did take legal possession, and left a man in possession of the ground, maintaining him there for some considerable period; my answer to objection two is that my description is sufficient, and I produce their copy (marked D) of intended application, in which a portion of the land is described in precisely the same manner; in answer to the third objection I state that the objectors never had possession of the land.

WILLIAM GEORGE COLLINGS.

Taken and sworn at Hill End, this 2nd day of May, before me,—
J. W. FLOOD, Warden.

Demetrius Mustaka, being duly sworn on oath, states: I am a mining manager, residing at Hill End; I took possession of the lease No. 1,292 on the 23rd of February, 1878, from George Maynard, who was then in possession; the pegs and trenches were pointed out to me by George Maynard; I saw the pegs, they were eleven in number; the pegs and trenches were of regulation size and depth; the eleven pegs are in the same position as when I took possession from Maynard, and the trenches are there still; after taking possession I put men on to work for about three months on and off.

D. MUSTAKA.

Taken and sworn at Hill End, this 2nd day of May, 1879, before me,—
J. W. FLOOD, Warden.

Notice of intention to apply for a Gold-mining Lease.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undermentioned persons intend applying for a gold-mining lease of about 14 acres of land, situated on Hawkins Hill, including leases Nos. 1,466, 92, 19, 26, and 103, cancelled for purpose of amalgamation.

Possession of the said land was taken by erecting posts in L trenches at each angle thereof, on the 9th day of January, 1878, at the hour of 12 o'clock in the forenoon, and the datum peg is the north-east peg of lease No. 26.

Application for the said lease will be lodged with the Warden at Hill End on the 14th day of January, 1878.

Warden's Court Summons.

Mining Act, 1874—Sixth Schedule.

To Thomas Golding and Richard Everett, of Hill End, miners.

You are hereby summoned to appear before me or some other Warden at the Court-house, Hill End, on the 1st day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the same day precisely, to answer the complaint of Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux, by which complaint they seek to be put in possession of certain leased land situate at Hawkins Hill, which you unlawfully occupy by mining for gold.

If you desire the said complaint to be heard before assessors you are entitled to have it so heard.

You may have a summons to compel the attendance of any witness, or for the production of any books or documents, on applying at my office.

Bring this summons with you when you come to my office.

Given under my hand this 26th day of September, 1879,—

J. W. FLOOD, P.M.

Warden's Court.—Fairfax and another v. Golding and another, to recover possession of certain leased land on Hawkins Hill.

James Wiseman Marshall, being duly sworn, on oath states: I am a miner residing at Hill End; I am the holder of a miner's right for the current year; I produce it; I am the registered agent for the complainants; I have summoned the defendants for being in unlawful possession of the complainants' leased land, and I ask to be put in possession of the land; I produce a lease of the land in dispute; I claim the land by virtue of the lease; the lease was signed, sealed, and delivered on the 26th day of August, 1879, and the term commenced on the 8th day of July, 1879; on the 25th September last I attempted to comply with the labor conditions of the lease; when I went on the ground I found the defendants there; I told them my purpose in coming down, and they would not leave the ground; I told them that a lease had been issued, and that the labour had to be put on on the 26th, and that I had come down to put it on; I had three men with me with tools; when those in possession of the ground refused to leave I told them that I would see the Warden; the three men who went on to the ground with me remained, and in the afternoon I sent another on to the ground to make up the four required by the lease.

For the Defence.

Alfred B. Burne, being duly sworn, on oath states: I am the Warden's Clerk and Mining Registrar at Hill End; the application No. 1,292, for 14 acres of land on Hawkins Hill, was lodged on the 14th January, 1878; the application was refused on the 22nd October, 1878; I look at Government Gazette dated 22 October, 1878; I see that such refusal was duly gazetted in that Gazette; on the 28th October, 1878, one Moustaka lodged an application, No. 1,301, for an area of 14 acres situate at Hawkins Hill; Moustaka's application referred to the same land, I believe, as that of Fairfax's, which had been refused; Moustaka's application was refused; I look at Government Gazette of 30 July, 1879, and I see that application 1,301 was refused, and gazetted as such; I look at the Gazette of the 27th December, 1878; I find there that the refusal of the lease 1,292, to Molineaux and Fairfax, was revoked; a claim of two men's ground was taken up by Weir and M'Pherson on the 23rd of October, 1878; that claim was surveyed; it was a quartz claim, and is described as being portion of cancelled lease No. 1,466, known as the Rose of England gold-mining lease.

Taken and sworn at Hill End, this 1st day }

J. W. FLOOD, Warden.

Richard Everett, being duly sworn, on oath states: I am a miner, residing at Hill End; I am the holder of a miner's right for the current year; it is dated 21st May, 1879, and numbered 435; also that of Thomas Golding, dated 30th April, 1879, and numbered 420; on the 21st day of May Golding and I took up an ordinary quartz claim of two men's ground; we laid a temporary base-line; we took 60 feet each on the base-line by 400 in width; we erected four posts at the corners of the claim and two base-line pegs; all six pegs were 3 inches in diameter and 3 feet above the ground; we cut L trenches 3 feet long by 6 inches deep; on the same day I went to the Mining Registrar to conditionally register the claim; he told me that he could not register until fourteen days had elapsed; at the end of the fourteen days I obtained a certificate of registration and posted it on the claim, where I believe it is at the present time; the ground taken up by us is, I believe, the same as that formerly held by Weir and M'Pherson, and is a portion of the gold-mining lease Rose of England; both of us commenced to work the claim as soon as we took it up, and we have worked upon it continually since.

Warden's Court Summons.

Mining Act, 1874—Sixth Schedule.

To Michael Ackerman, John Ackerman, senr., John Ackerman, junr., Jacob Ackerman, Thomas Helsby, and William John Horn, of Hill End, miners.

You are hereby summoned to appear before me or some other Warden, at the Court-house, Hill End, on the 1st day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the same day precisely, to answer the complaint of Alfred Fairfax and Boulton Molineaux, by which complaint they seek to be put in possession of certain leased land situate at Hawkins Hill, which you unlawfully occupy by mining for gold.

If you desire the said complaint to be heard before assessors you are entitled to have it so heard.

You may have a summons to compel the attendance of any witness, or for the production of any books or documents, on applying at my office.

Bring this summons with you when you come to my office.

Given under my hand this 26th day of September, 1879,—

J. W. FLOOD,
Warden.

This summons is returnable on Wednesday, the 1st day of October next.—J.W.F.

Affidavit of Service.

In the Warden's Court of the Tambaroora and Turon Mining District, at Hill End.

I, THOMAS LLOYD SMITH, Warden's Bailiff, of Hill End, make oath, and say that on the 27th day of September, 1879, I served the defendants, Michael Ackerman and others with the summons in this suit, a true copy of which is at the opposite side hereof, by delivering it to him personally at his house of business in Clarke-street, Hill End.

Sworn by the abovenamed deponent, at Hill End, this } 29th day of September, 1879, before me,— }

THOMAS LLOYD SMITH,
Warden's Bailiff.

Warden's Court.—Fairfax and Molineaux v. Ackerman and party.

Claim to the possession of land by virtue of a lease.

James Wiseman Marshall, being duly sworn, on oath states: I am a miner, residing at Hill End; I am the holder of a miner's right for the current year—I produce it; I am the registered agent of the complainants; I have summoned the defendants for being in unlawful possession of the complainants' leased land, and I seek to be put in possession of the land; I produce a lease of the land in dispute, and I claim the land by virtue of the lease; the lease was signed, sealed, and delivered on the 26th August, 1879, and the term commenced on the 8th July, 1879; on the 25th September last I attempted to comply with the labor conditions of the lease; when I went on to the ground I found Ackerman and party at work; I told my purpose in coming down, and they said that they were in possession, and would not leave the ground; I told them that a lease had been issued, and that the labour had to be put on on the 26th, and that I had come down to put it on; I had three men with me with tools; when those in possession of the ground refused to leave I told them that I would see the Warden; the three men who went on to the ground with me remained, and in the afternoon I sent another on to the ground to make up the four required by the lease.

Cross-examined by Mr. Clarke: I do not know when the application for the lease was filed; I do not know the number of the application; I am personally acquainted with Mr. Fairfax, and know Mr. Molineaux by sight; I do not know whether Mr. Molineaux has assigned his estate for the benefit of his creditors since the 14th January, 1878; I know Mr. Moustaka; I think that he applied for a lease of this ground since the 14th of January, 1878; I do not know whether Mr. Moustaka applied for the land as the agent of Mr. Fairfax; I was not in the Court at the hearing of a trespass case of Moustaka against Ackerman; I saw Mr. Fairfax on Hill End a few months ago; I remember Moustaka's case; I will not swear that Mr. Fairfax did not say to me that he intended to obtain possession of the land through Moustaka; I am in the employment of the Star of Peace Gold-mining Company; Mr. Moustaka is also in the employment of the same company; my instructions in reference to the case came from the manager of the Victoria Company—he is also the manager of the Star of Peace Company; the land in dispute is called the Victoria; it has been called by that name to my knowledge about ten days; Mr. Molineaux has written to me on this matter; the last time Mr. Fairfax was here I saw him and Mr. Moustaka together; I do not recollect hearing any conversation on Ackerman's claim between them; I will not swear that I did not hear any conversation between them; I do not know Mr. Hellyer.

J. W. FLOOD, Warden.

For the Defence.

Alfred B. Burne, being duly sworn, on oath states: I am Warden's Clerk and Mining Registrar at Hill End; the application No. 1,292 for a gold-mining lease of 14 acres of land on Hawkins Hill was lodged on the 14th of January, 1878; the application was refused on the 22nd of October, 1878; and such refusal was officially notified to the then Warden's Clerk; I look at the Government Gazette dated the 22nd of October, 1878; I see that such refusal was duly gazetted in that Gazette; on the 28th October, 1878, one Moustaka lodged an application No. 1,301 for a gold lease of an area of 14 acres of land on Hawkins Hill; Moustaka's application referred to the same land, I believe, as that of Fairfax's, which had been refused; Moustaka's application was refused; I look at Government Gazette of 30th of July, 1879, and I see that application No. 1,301 was refused and gazetted as such; I remember Moustaka, in the month of November, 1878, bringing an action for trespass against Ackerman and party upon the ground the subject of application No. 1,301; I know Mr. Fairfax, one of the present complainants; I saw Mr. Fairfax to the best of my recollection in Court at the hearing of the trespass case; Mr. Hellyer appeared for Moustaka; Ackerman and party, on the 17th of December last, applied to me to have their claim on Hawkins Hill surveyed, and lodged fees for that purpose; I look at the Government Gazette of the 27th of December, 1878, and find there that the refusal of gold lease No. 1,292 to Fairfax and Molineaux was revoked.
the

William John Horn, being duly sworn, on oath states: I am a miner residing at Hill End; I produce my miner's rights for last year and this; one is dated 8/1/78, No. 131, and the other 2/1/79, No. 7; I also produce the following miners' rights: Michael Ackerman, 7/1/78, No. 110; 2/1/79, No. 12; Thomas Helsby, 2/1/78, No. 41; 2/1/79, No. 18; John Ackerman, jun., 7/1/78, No. 113; 2/1/79, No. 15; Jacob Ackerman, 7/1/78, No. 112; 2/1/79, No. 14; John Ackerman, sen., 7/1/78, No. 111; 2/1/79, No. 16; on the 23rd October, 1878, I took up an ordinary quartz claim, assisted by miners, on behalf of myself and the other five defendants; I took it up as an ordinary quartz claim—six men's ground; I laid a temporary base-line; I put a post at each end of the base-line; I put a post at each corner of the claim, being other than the base-line posts—making six posts in all; I went round after the pegs had been placed in the ground by others, and fixed in the pegs; each of the pegs was 3 inches in diameter, and 3 feet above the ground; I took 60 feet per man on the base-line; the width of the claim is 400 feet, making the claim 360 by 400 feet, 1 trenches 3 feet long by 6 inches deep were cut; there was only one place where it was impossible to mark both sides of the trench and we marked the impracticable side with stones; I commenced to work on the claim on the following day—the 24th of October, 1878; from that time until the present I have kept not less than three men at work on the claim; the claim has not been payable within the meaning of regulation 59; I caused an application to be made for survey within three months of application; on the same day that we took up the claim (23rd October) we applied to the Mining Registrar to be conditionally registered for the ground; he refused to register it on the ground that fourteen days must elapse before registration could take place to enable any objections to be lodged; on the 24th October I received notice of objections, signed Moustaka, who had applied for a lease of the ground; I, with my party, was summoned to the Warden's Court to hear those objections; Mr. Clarke who appeared for Ackerman and party, pointed out that there could be no objections to an application for an ordinary quartz claim, and that objections could only be lodged to extended and sluicing claims; the complaint was then amended and made into a trespass case; the complaint for trespass was dismissed; immediately after such dismissal the Mining Registrar registered my claim conditionally; at the end of fourteen days after taking possession I applied to the Mining Registrar to be registered, but he refused to comply, as objections had been laid against my being registered; on the day that I received the certificate of registration I posted such certificate on the claim, and have kept it posted until now; the boundaries of my claim are entirely within the boundaries of the application No. 1,292 of Fairfax and another, dated 14th January, 1878, and also within the boundaries of the lease produced to-day in support of the complainant's case.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

GOLD-MINING LEASE AT HILL END.

(PETITION FOR INQUIRY INTO—MINERS AND RESIDENTS.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 6 November, 1879.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly in the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

We, the Petitioners, Miners and Residents of Hill End and Tambaroora Districts, respectfully beg to lay before you the following facts:—

That leases No. 1,466, 92, 103, in Hill End and Tambaroora Districts, were surrendered on the 8th January, 1878, and published in Government Gazette of that date.

On the 14th January, 1878, application for the aforesaid leases was made by A. Fairfax and B. Molyneux. On the 21st January, 1878, application was also made for portion of said leases by J. Ackerman and Thos. Helsby, who at the same time lodged objections against granting lease application No. 1,292 to A. Fairfax and B. Molyneux; objections heard at Warden's Court, Hill End, on 27th September, 1878. On the 22nd October, 1878, application of both parties refused (vide Government Gazette). On the 23rd October, 1878 (the following day), Messrs. Ackerman and party pegged out an ordinary quartz claim, comprising six men's ground, by virtue of their miners' rights, and have continuously worked the said ground to the present time, in accordance with Gold Mining Regulations of 1874. On 27th December, 1878, a notice appears in Government Gazette revoking refusal of application of A. Fairfax and B. Molyneux, No. of application, 1,292.

We beg you to notice that the six men's ground of Ackerman and party is embraced within the leases No. 1,466, 92, 103, before-mentioned (surrendered on 8th January, 1878, refused on 22nd October, 1878), and was taken up by them on 23rd October, 1878, the day after refusal was gazetted.

We view with alarm the action taken by the Department of Mines in revoking refusal of application after the ground was taken up and worked for two months on the faith of said refusal.

This, we submit, is contrary to the spirit and letter of the Mining Laws and Regulations passed by your Honorable House as the miner's rule and guide, takes away the privileges which the miner's right confers on him, and renders it utterly valueless.

We therefore most respectfully pray that your Honorable House will cause inquiry to be made, and take such steps as you may deem expedient to redress the wrong inflicted on Ackerman and party, which, if allowed to be established as a precedent, would inflict serious injury on the gold-miners of New South Wales.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

[Here follow 372 signatures.]

MINERAL SELECTION AT MITCHELL'S CREEK.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 2nd December, 1879,—“with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire into and report upon the injury sustained by Thomas Cox, as alleged in his Petition to this House, relating to the cancellation of a Mining Lease at Mitchell's Creek,”—and to whom were referred, on the 9th December, 1879,—“the Return to Order laid upon the Table of this House on 22nd August, 1876; the Correspondence laid upon the Table of this House on 20th February, 1877; the Petition of Thomas Cox, presented to this House on 31st January, 1878; and the Progress Report from the Select Committee, brought up on the 8th May, 1878, in reference to a Mineral Selection at Mitchell's Creek,”—have agreed to the following Report:—

1. Your Committee having considered the papers referred to them, and examined the witnesses named in the List,* find as follows:—

* See List, page 6.

- (1.) That Mr. Thomas Cox obtained authority to select four lots of Crown Land of 20 acres each, under the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861, and on the 11th June, 1872, reported to the Minister for Lands that he had selected 20 acres for the purpose of mining for minerals other than gold, and on the 21st June, 1872, he reported that he had selected three lots of 20 acres each, and they were numbered respectively, Nos. 5,197, 5,907, 5,908, and 5,909.
- (2.) That Mr. Cox paid the rent in full for lease No. 5,907 to the 31st December, 1875, in accordance with the provisions of the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861 and the Regulations thereunder.
- (3.) That His Excellency the Governor granted and executed a lease to Mr. Cox on the 23rd February, 1875, under the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861; the commencing words of which lease are as follows:—“Whereas Thomas Cox, in the Colony of New South Wales, hereafter called the lessee, became, under and by virtue of the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861, and the Regulations made thereunder, entitled, on the twenty-first day of June, 1872, to a lease of the lands hereinafter described,” &c., &c., &c.
- (4.) That under the provisions of the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861 and the Regulations made thereunder, there is no provision for the cancellation of a mineral lease for the non-execution of a lease and the taking of delivery of the same within thirty days, but under a Gazette notice of the 29th April, 1875, Mr. Cox was required to execute and take delivery of his lease within thirty days, on pain of cancellation. There is no evidence to show that Cox received notice, or that he saw the Gazette or newspaper containing such notice.
- (5.) That Cox's lease was executed under the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861, at a time when the Mining Act of 1874 was in full force, consequently the lease did not come within the latter Act or the Regulations thereunder.

- (6.) That on the 7th of June, 1875, the Minister for Mines recommended the cancellation of Cox's lease (with others), because he failed to execute and take delivery of the same; and, on the 8th of June, 1875, the Governor approved of the cancellation, and on the 17th June, the lease, with others, was Gazetted as finally cancelled. The notice in the Gazette was to the following effect:—"Notice is hereby given that the undermentioned Mineral Leases have been finally cancelled, the lessees having failed to execute and take delivery thereof when called upon to do so."
- (7.) That your Committee find that, under clause 73 (a) of the Regulations made under the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861, it is provided that lessees of Crown Lands for mineral purposes other than gold, whenever payable gold is found to exist in such leased lands, can retain the said gold by paying a royalty of £5 per centum upon the value of the gold obtained.
- (8.) That it has been shown by the evidence of several witnesses, that an expenditure of £5 per acre was effected by the lessee on lot No. 5,907 of 20 acres, within a period of three years from the 21st June, 1875.
- (9.) That the witnesses named in the margin have given evidence as to the value of the cancelled mineral lease of Mr. Cox, No. 5,907; and they estimate the value of the cancelled lease to be from £5,000 to £10,000 for the minerals other than gold; the lessee being entitled under the lease to all mineral other than gold.
- (10.) That after the cancellation of Mr. Cox's lease he applied to the full Court for a Rule Nisi to be directed to the Secretary for Mines, calling upon him to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not issue to order him to hand over to him (Cox) a mineral lease which had been executed by the Governor. The Court decided that a writ of mandamus could not issue against a Minister of the Crown under the circumstances, consequently the merits of the case were not entered into.

2. Your Committee, after carefully considering the evidence taken, and the documents referred to them, beg to recommend Mr. Thomas Cox's case to the favourable consideration of the Government.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

MINERAL SELECTION AT MITCHELL'S CREEK.

WEDNESDAY, 10 DECEMBER, 1879.

Present:—

MR. FARNELL,

MR. JACOB.

MR. MACINTOSH,

JOHN MACINTOSH, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Thomas Cox, Esq., was called in and examined:—

1. Chairman.] The mineral selection, No. 5,907, which is the subject of inquiry by this Committee, consists of about 20 acres, I think? Yes. T. Cox, Esq.
2. Are you still prepared to state that £100, or at the rate of £5 per acre, was expended in improvements upon that land? I am. 10 Dec., 1879.
3. Prior to the 17th of June, 1875? Yes.
4. That expenditure was incurred for what? Sinking a shaft and other work that was done on the ground.
5. In search of what mineral? Copper.
6. Was it your intention to have prosecuted that search further? It was.
7. I think you said, in your former evidence, that you gave up your furniture business in Sydney in order that you might devote your time and attention in mining upon this selection at Mitchell's Creek? I did.
8. Mr. Farnell.] Do you know whether this land contains any other mineral besides copper? Yes, it also contains silver. I have a witness in attendance who can pretty well prove that—a Mr. Constable.
9. Did your lease, or your application for a lease, under the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861, embrace all minerals except gold? Yes, except gold and coal.
10. It included all other minerals except gold and coal? Yes.
11. Can you yourself give us any idea of the value of the silver lode on this land? I cannot, but I have a witness who will be able to state the value.
12. Mr. Jacob.] Was the cost of sinking a shaft equal to an expenditure of £5 per acre? We sunk more than one shaft, and we had men at work there for some months.
13. Chairman.] When you were asked what improvements were effected on the land, you said a shaft had been sunk and several improvements were made—were those done at the one time? Yes, you have it all in evidence.
14. You have already given evidence to that effect? Yes.
15. Mr. Farnell.] You originally took up three lots of land? I took up four lots.
16. Then you abandoned three? I paid the rent only on one out of the four—that was the selection 5,907—I paid the rent of that because that was the only one on which I had expended money.
17. That was the only one you thought would probably repay you for working it? Yes.
18. It was usual, when taking up land under the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861, for people to take up large areas of land, not knowing exactly where the lode was at the time? It was frequently done.
- 19.

- T. Cox, Esq.
10 Dec., 1879.
19. Then after the parties had prospected, and found out where the land was likely to turn out payable, they retained so much of it as they considered necessary? Yes.
20. The land which you applied for, which you intended to take up, was actually measured for you? Yes, I was there when they were measuring it.
21. Chairman.] Independently of any working for gold by miners under their miners' rights, there was £100 expended upon this land in search for copper? Yes, there was.
22. Was it on account of gold being discovered in payable quantities that you made application for a lease of the land after returning to Sydney? No; it was for the copper and silver that I wanted the land.
23. Mr. Farnell.] Your application was only for working copper? Under the lease I was allowed to work for any mineral except gold and coal. That is stated distinctly on the form I got from the office when I first paid my money.
24. Mr. Jacob.] Were other people working for gold on this land at the time? No, not on this land, but on land some distance from it.
25. Not on the land you are claiming? No.
26. Then this other land you are referring to was the land respecting which you had a share of the gold; as Mr. Wood states, "About October, 1874, some people came upon the land and found gold there again, which gold Cox admits that he shared"? No, that was on this same land.
27. The land you are now claiming? Yes; there were four men working there under miners' rights.
28. How came you to get a share of the gold? One of them left, and I paid a man to go in with the other three under my own miner's right. It was just the same Government land, and had nothing to do with my lease.
29. Mr. Farnell.] Do you know whether that land is auriferous now? I do not, but I have a witness outside who can tell you; he was up there at the time Winters and Morgan were working the land.

Mr. Marmaduke Constable called in and examined:—

- Mr. M.
Constable.
10 Dec., 1879.
30. Chairman.] Have you resided at Mitchell's Creek? I lived at Bowenfels—it was very close; I was constantly at Mitchell's Creek, for six or eight months.
31. Are you acquainted with the selection taken up by Thomas Cox, numbered 5,907? Yes.
32. Are you acquainted with its mineral value? I was copper-smelting at Lithgow at the time; and it was with the object of getting ore that I visited Mitchell's Creek.
33. Are you aware if there was any quantity of copper raised there? There could have been a very large quantity. I made a contract myself with Morgan and Winters to supply me with a thousand tons of copper.
34. And what quantity did you obtain? 200 tons, or 250 tons.
35. What was its value? It was not very good. The copper as they first struck it was splendid, but the lode went under their gold workings, and they would not allow any work to be done that interfered with their gold workings. They took out the copper on the wrong side of the drive; I protested against its quality, and refused to take any more.
36. What was its worth? Unless it had been worth £8 a ton I should have lost money; it was worth therefore, I think, more than £8.
37. Then you received about 200 or 250 tons, worth £8 per ton? That was the real value of it.
38. Was there any other mineral in it? There was plenty of silver in it.
39. Do you know what work Mr. Cox had done upon the land prior to Morgan and Winters going upon it? I did not know that Mr. Cox was working there, except what I heard from Winters.
40. From what you have learnt, do you think £100 was expended upon the land? I do not think the work was done for that sum. £100 goes a very short way in touching ground.
41. You think that £100 had been expended in prospecting for copper? Yes, I should think so.
42. Prior to Morgan's going on it? I should think so, from what I heard and saw.
43. You have seen the workings? I have seen the remains of the old workings, and I have no doubt that £100 was expended.
44. What do you consider is the value of the property—as a property containing other minerals than gold and coal? It is impossible to say. It is a very valuable property. There is a large copper lode on it now.
45. Do you think it is worth £100? If it had been mine, and I was working it, I would not have taken less than £10,000 or £15,000 for it.
46. You believe it is worth £10,000 or £15,000? I would not have taken that for it. I was passing Mitchell's Creek, and as I had heard a great deal about the gold mine, I went on to the land. I found the top and bottom of the drive and the sides composed of nothing but black oxide of copper. Winters was then keeping a public-house, and on my way to the Turon I asked him what he was doing with the stuff he was getting out of the drive. He said they were ballasting with it. I told him it was black oxide of copper, and should be glad to deal with him for it. As he was going to Sydney, I advised him to take some of the stuff with him and have it analyzed, and he would then know as much about its value as I did, and we should then be prepared to deal with each other. Winters went to Sydney. In the meantime Morgan went to Lloyd, who was a copper-smelter, and brought him over. Lloyd thought the stuff would go about 30 per cent. of copper; he thought so much of it that he offered to make an arrangement with Winters to work the mine on tribute. However, the result was that I made a contract with Winters to supply a thousand tons.
47. Mr. Farnell.] How much per ton? He was to raise the ore for me; I was to dress it, take it to the smelting-works, smelt it, and give him one-half the proceeds. Unless it had been worth £8 per ton it would have been worthless to me; but it was worth at the time £15 per ton. They would not allow me to mine for it, nor would they give it me on contract, because they were afraid it would interfere with their gold workings. The copper lode struck under the gold. I had lead ore equal to 60 or 70 per cent. from there, and containing a large quantity of silver; but I did not want lead ore—it is the worst thing you can get with copper. I put up a furnace specially to treat this lead and silver ore of Winters's.
48. Chairman.] So that practically the land has never been mined for copper? Never properly mined for copper; but there is a splendid copper lode in the ground to this day.
49. Was the lead valuable? It went 60 or 70 per cent.; it was galena. You can go into the tunnel now and get a silver lode that will give as high as 100 ounces to the ton. They had one pyrites lode; it was

10 per cent. copper; it had gold in it, and went as high as 150 ounces silver to the ton. They kept that because, as they said, they had coal land at Wallerawang, and intended to erect smelting-works for themselves.

50. Do you feel certain that all these minerals you have spoken of were upon this land? I have no doubt of it. To show you my faith in it, I may tell you that I took up every available inch of land around the selection. Unfortunately I lost the ground that was next to theirs. The very next piece of ground Morgan and I valued at £30,000 or £40,000, because their copper lode ran through it. Unfortunately I had a partner who refused to sign the lease when it was ready; he thought he could get it all to himself, and the consequence was the lease was cancelled. He had early intimation of the cancellation, and took up the land, and is working it himself.

51. Mr. Farnell.] You had an intimation too? I am not objecting to the action of the Mining Department. They had the law to follow, and they followed it. The Mining Department gave me ample notice, and acted fairly towards me.

52. Chairman.] Do you know anything of the mining regulations? Yes.

53. Are you aware of any lease being cancelled, so long as the rent was paid? No; I should think that as long as I paid my rent the land was mine, provided of course that I kept within the four corners of the lease and fulfilled its provisions.

54. You think if £100 had been spent upon this land, and the rent paid up to December, it was not in accordance with usage to cancel the selection in June? I do not think it was. I should have felt very much aggrieved if I had been the unfortunate lessee.

55. Suppose you did not take up the lease when called upon? If I could show a good and valid reason for not doing so, I should think the department would treat me fairly. I have never had any difficulty with the department at all.

56. Have you ever known any lease to be cancelled on the ground of its not being taken up when ready for delivery? I have often heard of leases being cancelled because they were not signed. In my own case the lease was not signed, and I lost the selection.

57. Mr. Farnell.] That was under the Mining Act of 1874? Yes.

58. That did not apply to the law of 1861? No, I believe under that Act there is no such clause; in fact, I believe there is no labour clause in the Crown Lands Occupation Act. I have always looked upon this selection at Mitchell's Creek as being purely copper ground. After the gold is worked out it will be a splendid copper field. I have had a good deal of experience in copper-mining. I have been the owner and manager of mines, and I have also worked land under tribute, both in this Colony and New Zealand; and I consider this selection at Mitchell's Creek a very valuable piece of ground. No doubt they got a large quantity of gold out of it, but it was of very low quality. It is more auriferous silver than anything else.

59. Chairman.] Have you any personal acquaintance with Mr. Cox? I have not seen him more than twice in my life; I never saw him until about six months ago.

60. You are not aware whether or not it was his original intention to have worked this land for copper? I never heard it doubted.

61. Was he a person of sufficient means to enable him to do so? I have always heard that he had ample means. As regards his intention to work the ground I have never heard the question raised. It was a lucky thing for Winters and Morgan getting hold of the ground. I have heard a good deal about the manner in which they got it.

62. Mr. Farnell.] It was generally known that Mr. Cox had taken up the land to work for copper? Yes. Winters was always under the impression that there would be a day of reckoning, and he endeavoured to get the gold out as quick as he could.

63. Has the gold been worked out of this particular piece of land? Oh no; it is very patchy. Sometimes you come upon stuff that will give 30 or 40 ounces to the ton, then perhaps you come upon a patch that will not yield more than half an ounce to the ton.

64. Are the present lessees working the ground for gold? I do not think they are. They have had some pyrites sent down to Sydney for assay; and I do not think they will open it so much as a gold reef as a pyrites reef, which contains gold, copper, silver, and other metals.

65. They have taken out a gold lease? Yes, because a gold lease covers everything. If you pay 20s. per acre you are allowed to work all metals.

66. Can you tell us in which direction the copper lode runs? It runs north by west and south by east. It would come out at the south-east corner of the selection. During the time Winters was there they worked for gold, and they worked within the twenty acres. They did not go outside.

67. Mr. Farnell.] They were mining for gold? Yes, and it was all within the 20 acres.

68. Does the adjacent land contain a copper lode? Yes, I took up 40 acres to sink for it.

69. As a copper mine what would be the value of the 20 acres to any person? I have seen very much worse ground sold for £20,000 or £30,000, and perhaps it would be very difficult to get £5,000 for it now. The demand for such land of course varies very much.

70. Chairman.] As a practical man acquainted with mining and smelting, what would you be inclined to give for the land? I should value the mine as a copper mine, and copper mines are very low just now.

71. Assuming copper to be worth £70 per ton, what would you as a practical man be inclined to give for the undertaking, with all the usual responsibilities in the matter, and as a capitalist and speculator? I think the mine as a copper mine is worth £10,000, irrespective of the gold—that is, copper, silver, and lead.

72. And you as a practical man would have no objection to give £10,000 for it? I should have no objection to make myself responsible for that amount to-morrow; or if I were to work the mine on tribute, I should have no objection to taking that amount as a basis. I know there is a very large copper lode on the ground at the present time. I suppose it is a good 8-foot lode; the country is one mass of gossan.

73. Might it not be simply a blow? I think the land has tumbled over; but the whole country thereabouts is copper country. Any one looking for copper would put in there at once, without ever thinking of gold; there is a very fine lead lode, and also a very fine silver lode; and there is a pyrites lode; if you shipped the pyrites to England you could get £8 or £10 per ton for any quantity of it.

74. Have you any further information to give to the Committee? No, except my thorough conviction that if the ground was open to-morrow for selection it would be taken up as copper ground.

- Mr. M. Constable.
10 Dec., 1879.
75. You do not know anything of the differences between Mr. Cox and the Mining Department? Only from what I have heard and read in the papers. I never heard of any other instance of ground being forfeited when the rent was paid up.
76. You made some allusion to the manner in which Morgan got hold of the property: have you any objection to explain the matter to the Committee? I think it would be scarcely fair. I always knew they were on ticklish ground; they rushed the gold out as quick as they could, because they felt there would be a day of reckoning with them.
77. Was it some person in Sydney who helped them to get the ground? They could scarcely have arranged it themselves. I cannot conscientiously say more about it. It is a very unfair thing to make a remark about a person unless you can prove it. But they rushed the gold out as quick as they could, and neglected the instructions from the Mining Department. Mr. Lucas sent up instructions for them to stop, but they did not stop; they rushed it as quick as they could, because they were in terror of having the whole thing called in question. That was one reason they did not make any definite arrangements with me, extending over any definite period, because they did not know whether they would be able to keep the ground or not.
78. Mr. Farnell.] With regard to the silver ore sent to the Mint for assay, how much per cent. do you say it yielded? I was told by Mr. Hurley that it went over 50 ounces.
79. Chairman.] And the lead 60 per cent.? I have had it assayed over 70 per cent., and 150 ounces silver and 10 per cent. of copper, all in the same. I have seen copper come out of it over 35 per cent.
80. But copper mixed with lead you do not consider very valuable? Because we cannot work it. There are no appliances in the Colony for working it; it could be worked at Swansea very well.
81. Could you tell the Committee what would be the value of the ore, as lead and silver ore? If the lead and silver were shipped to England and sold in Swansea, it would give you £12 or £14 on the mine.
82. £12 or £14 clear? Clear, after paying expenses. Freight is cheap, the railway charges are not much, and the ore is easily taken out. I have no doubt it would pay handsomely to ship home, even the worst of it.

Present:—

MR. CAMERON,

MR. FARNELL,

JOHN MACINTOSH, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Matthew Bloomfield called in and examined:—

- Mr. M. Bloomfield.
20 Jan., 1880.
83. Chairman.] Are you a miner? I am a mining engineer.
84. What experience have you had as a mining engineer? About twenty-three years.
85. Do you know a mineral lease, No. 5,907, at Mitchell's Creek? I did not know it when it was a mineral lease—I knew it when it was a gold lease held by Winters and Morgan.
86. You know the particular plot of land in question? Yes.
87. Is it not identical with Cox's mineral lease, 5,907? Yes, it is the same land.
88. How long is it since you were upon it? I was there in 1876—three years ago.
89. You have not been on it since? No.
90. Are you aware whether there was much gold taken out of it? There was an immense amount of gold taken out of it by Winters and Morgan.
91. Is there any other mineral there? Yes; copper, lead, and silver.
92. What prospecting had been done when you were there, for other minerals besides gold? Very little.
93. Was there any shaft? There were no shafts, but there were two or three tunnels and an open cutting in the face of the hill.
94. Do you think there was £100 worth of work done? Yes, more than that.
95. In 1876? Yes.
96. Was there £200 worth? Yes, fully that; there might have been more, but there was not less than £200 worth.
97. Prospecting the ground for copper? Yes.
98. Can you form any opinion as to the value of that section for other minerals besides gold—leaving gold out of the calculation? That would be rather a difficult question to answer.
99. Was it worth a hundred pounds? Yes, a thousand or more than a thousand—leaving the gold out of the question.
100. How many thousands do you think it was worth—not putting too much value upon it, but simply valuing it as a mine? Nine months back myself and others offered £3,000 cash for it.
101. On what basis did you calculate that? On the copper, silver, and lead or galena, and the tailings. We did not take into calculation the gold at all, because the gold was supposed to be worked out.
102. What was the price that the holders of it put upon it? They would not ask us any direct price for it. First of all we offered £1,500 cash for it; then we offered £2,000—£1,500 cash and a bill for £500; then we offered £2,000 cash and a bill for £1,000 secured upon the property; but they would not accept our offer.
103. You are now speaking of the 20 acres that was formerly held by Mr. Cox? Yes.
104. That £200 or £300 worth of work that was done prior to 1876 was done by Mr. Cox, was it not? I could not say that, but it must have been done by Cox, because it was not done by Winters and Morgan, who only worked for gold.
105. Was there any person at work upon it when you made this offer? No.
106. Mr. Farnell.] Winters and Morgan were not in possession in 1876? Yes; it must have been the latter end of 1876 when I was there.
107. Chairman.] How long were you resident in the locality? I was there for about five months in 1876.
108. Do you know the county it is in? No, I forget.
109. Or the parish? No.
110. In mining matters more importance is placed upon the actual pegging out of the land than on correctly describing or naming the parish or county? Yes.

111. It is usual, when taking up mineral leases, to take up several selections, when you are not certain upon which the best lodes exist? Yes.
112. And then, after prospecting them, to drop off those that do not contain minerals? Yes.
113. Paying in the first instance rent upon the whole until the mineral is discovered? Yes; you forfeit the ones that are no good.
114. You see by the map in your hand (Appendix to Minutes of Evidence ordered to be printed, 8 May, 1878) that Cox had four selections there? Yes, I saw some of Cox's old pegs.
115. You see four selections marked upon that map? Yes.
116. Cox took up four selections and eventually dropped them all except 5,907, which contained minerals; there is nothing unusual in such a course as that? No, not at all; I have done the same several times.
117. You have held a miner's right? Yes.
118. When holding a miner's right would you be legally authorized to dig for gold upon that selection, 5,907, being the leaseholder of it? Yes, I should, on as much of the ground as I would be allowed under the miner's right; I could not dig for gold upon the whole of the lease.
119. On the area belonging to the miner's right you could? Yes.
120. Did you observe that on any part of the lease Cox had been digging for gold? No, I did not. All the gold workings that I saw there were what was done by Winters and Morgan; there was no old gold working that I knew to be Cox's—not to my knowledge.
121. You were under the impression that all the prospecting done by Cox was for copper? Yes; there was no gold where the prospecting was done on the pyrites lode, on the north side of the spur.
122. How long is it since you offered £3,000 for this property? In March last year.
123. From what has come to your knowledge since do you think it would have been a dear or a cheap bargain? I think it is worth the money now.
124. Mr. Farnell.] Was that for copper-mining? For copper, silver, and lead—galena. We supposed the gold was worked out.
125. Had you carefully examined it as a copper mine? I had; I have had over twenty assays from it from different parts.
126. Is there not a considerable lode of copper there? Yes.
127. Underlying the gold? Yes, there is a lode between 6 and 7 feet thick, and the lowest assay I had from it was 12 per cent. copper, which is very good when you consider that it would cost only 18s. a ton to get it to a railway station. 12 per cent. ore would be worth about £5 10s. a ton. It would cost about £2 10s. to work it, so that the profit would be about 100 per cent. I had assays from other parts of it showing 14 per cent. copper, 65 ounces of silver, and 18 per cent. lead to the ton.
128. Did this lode of copper run through the corner of the property or right across it? I could not say where Cox's boundaries were, but about half Winters and Morgan's lease was of no value, all the minerals being at the south end of it. I do not know whether Cox had precisely the same boundary as they had, but I know Cox's lease included that portion of the ground where the copper, lead, and silver are.
129. The galena overlies the copper? Yes.
130. What is the value of the galena independent of the other ores? By assay the value of the galena would be about £19 a ton, £13 the silver, £3 10s. the copper, and £7 the lead.
131. In working this mine, getting out the ore, you would get both the galena and the copper ore at the same time? Yes.
132. You could not work one very well without the other? Not in this lode. The lode I am now referring to is not the one I mentioned before. In one there is nothing of any value except copper.
133. That is the under-lying lode? Yes.
134. The top lode contains copper, galena, and gold? Yes.
135. And above that again is gold? Yes.
136. Is this lode a clearly-defined lode—not a mere blow? Both are well-defined lodes. The galena lode is about as well-defined a lode as ever I saw in my life; I cannot say I ever saw exactly the same thing. It runs flat.
137. Chairman.] The country is generally horizontal there? Yes, there it is; down at Mitchell's Creek it is the same.
138. Have you ever made any estimate of the contents of the galena lode? I did at the time we were about purchasing it, but I have not got the papers here now; I only knew last night that I was to come here to-day, and I have not had time to look for the papers.
139. On the basis of the calculation you then made you concluded to purchase for £3,000 if you could? Yes.
140. I presume you thought you would have been making a good bargain? Yes; if they would have taken £5,000 we would have given it.
141. Taking the mine as a whole—working it for everything? Yes.
142. To whom did you make the offer? To the trustees of Morgan's estate.
143. Messrs. Winters, Shaw, and Lonergan?* Yes.
144. Is it still in their hands? I could not say how it is now—I do not know who it belongs to; the lease was cancelled or something afterwards, and I believe it is now in the hands of Shaw, Lonergan, and Hurley.
145. They are the present proprietors? I believe they are.
146. When you offered £3,000 for it and would have given £5,000, the then proprietors declined to name a price? Yes.
147. Mr. Cameron.] You thought you would have had a good bargain, and would have given £5,000 rather than lose it? Yes; one of the gentlemen—a Melbourne gentleman—who was going into the speculation, stayed in Sydney for eight weeks solely for that.
148. Chairman.] Have you seen any produce that has come from this mine latterly? Not lately.
149. Has there been much copper taken from it? I do not think it has been worked at all for copper—not to my knowledge.
150. It is not worked at the present time? Not to my knowledge; I have been told to-day it is not being worked for anything at all now.

151.

* NOTE (on revision):—I presume that the question refers to Shaw and Lonergan, as trustees to Morgan's estate. In that case my answer would be the same as given.

- Mr. M. Bloomfield. 151. Mr. Cameron.] Are there not certain labour conditions with which the proprietors are supposed to comply? Yes, there are.
- 20 Jan., 1880. 152. Chairman.] How long did it take you to survey this property and examine it prior to making this offer? I examined it in 1876. The gold I did not pay any attention to, because it was understood that the gold was worked out. I made plans of all the country when I was there, for two miles round, and ran the course of the lodes down. I got a specimen of copper there which is now in Mr. Beit's office in Margaret-street—grey copper; there has never been any lode of that kind opened out on the mine at all. This was a block of about 50 lbs. weight picked up on the side of the hill, and the assay went 75½ per cent.
153. Being a surface specimen it may not have come off the lode? From its position it must have come from off the hill; the hill rises very steep, and this lease goes right over the top of the hill.
154. Cox's lease? Yes.

John Hurley, Esq., M.P. (Hartley), examined:—

- J. Hurley, Esq., M.P. (Hartley). 155. Chairman.] Are you acquainted with Mr. Cox? Yes.
- 20 Jan., 1880. 156. Do you know the particular piece of land, consisting of 20 acres, held at one time by Mr. Cox, No. 5,907? Yes.
157. Are you aware what minerals it contains? Yes, it contains gold, silver, copper, and lead.
158. Could you form any idea as to the value of that piece of land as a mineral lease, independent of the gold? The day after we became possessed of the property, now about eight months since, I had £500 offered for our title; but we had no inclination to sell at that price, because a short time previous Mr. Watkins, of the Temperance Hall, had offered £3,000 for it. Messrs. Shaw and Lonergan, of Wallerawang had had the power to sell, and they were asking £4,000 for it.
159. Have you any intimate knowledge of the value of the land? Yes, I have had men working there ever since we have had possession.
160. Supposing you were willing to sell, what do you think would be its fair value to the purchaser? I would not be inclined to sell under £5,000.
161. We have been informed that an offer of £3,000, equivalent to cash, was made for it? So I have understood.
162. You do not think that was an extravagant price? No, I do not.
163. The same individual has stated that if he had been offered the property for £5,000 he would have taken it? I do not know anything about that, but I should not feel inclined to sell my interest in it at a less rate than that.
164. Is there much copper in the property? That I do not know; I know there is silver and lead. Shortly after we became possessed of it we put on eight men to work, and we got a silver lode from which we brought a quantity to the Mint, and it went 48 ozs. 16 dwts. and some odd grains to the ton.
165. What is the extent of that lode? It is a 3-foot lode.
166. Is it vertical or horizontal? It has a dip of 1 in '30 perhaps. We tried some of what is called the pyrites or sulphur lode, and it only went some few pennyweights to the ton.
167. Of copper? No, gold. From the assay of the silver lode we got 3½ dwts. of gold to the ton, besides the silver.
168. Did you send any quantity? Yes; we got a large quantity by putting in a drive. We are sending in a drive into the side of the hill to try and get under the veins previously worked.
169. We have been informed that there is a lode that gives 12 per cent. of copper? I should think it would go more than 12 per cent. The copper lode is a vertical lode; the pyrites lode is running horizontal.
170. We have also been informed that a specimen has been obtained on the property, giving 85½ per cent. of copper? That is an indication that there must be a good lode about when you find specimens like that. We have some specimens giving 60 per cent.
171. You are now speaking of the 20 acres once held by Mr. Cox? Yes.
172. And you believe its value is at least £4,000? I believe it is worth £5,000. There has been a very large amount of gold taken from the property. I got a return from the Bank of New South Wales at the time Winters and Morgan had it; the gold they deposited in the Bank was over £24,000 in value.
173. Mr. Cameron.] How long did they have it? They had been working it about eighteen months.
174. Chairman.] £24,000? Yes, sent in to the Bank alone; but I believe they got more than that.
175. Independent of the gold, you believe it is worth £5,000? Yes, I believe it is worth that now, because it has been indifferently worked—worked merely on the surface; when they came to the dip they did not follow it. Our object in putting a drive in now is to get below the old workings that they had worked previously on the top.
176. Sometimes fabulous values are placed upon these properties,—do you think £5,000 is not a very large amount? No, I do not; from the silver lode alone we anticipate we will be able to make a very good return with the aid of proper appliances.
177. You do not think there would be any particular risk in a purchaser giving that amount for it? I do not consider there would. Even the tailings that have gone through the battery are reported upon by several persons as being very rich. Newton Brothers, of Pitt-street, offered me £200 for the tailings alone, and I refused to take it because we found from assays that they are very valuable. I have here an extract from a report of Mr. M'Masters to the Department of Mines for 1877, page 13, wherein he states:—

The samples from this wonderful mine are very interesting. This claim has four distinct lodes of different characters. The first is the most important to Mr. Morgan at present. He is working this lode for gold as a gold mine, and it pays well as such, but in reality it is a very rich auriferous silver lode and ought to be worked as such, because in working this class of silver ore (chloro-bromide of silver) for silver he would get as much or even more gold than he saves at present, besides from 80 to 90 per cent. of the silver which is now run into the tailings heap. It is a splendid ore for pan working, requiring no roasting. What was supposed to be a poor sample of tailings gave by assay—

J. Hurley,
Esq., M.P.
(Hartley).

20 Jan., 1880.

No. 15. Copper lode, on same mine, Mitchell's Creek.—This lode is a very fine one as regards size, but the copper ore is so mixed up with lead ore that it makes it difficult to work over in the furnace, and on this account very little mining has been done on this vein.

178. Have you seen the lodes alluded to in this report? Yes.

179. And from your personal knowledge you believe this is a fair report? Yes; Mr. M'Masters was employed by the Government to go through the various mining districts to report upon them. I have also a report from the Department of Mines upon another lode from the same property:—

Department of Mines,
7th November, 1879.

J. Hurley, Esq., M.P.

Dear Sir,

Your sample of pyrites was found to contain on assay—

Gold, 0 ozs. 9 dwts. 5 grs.
Silver, 12 ozs. 15 dwts. 14 grs.
Lead, a trace only.

Yours faithfully,
C. S. WILKINSON.

180. Practically you could not mine on this property for one mineral alone? Not well; it is one mass of various ores. We have had a small crushing, and from it we obtained 50 odd ounces of gold and 20 ounces of silver to the ton.

181. Have you mined for copper? I have not seen any lode of copper that would pay for mining upon alone. As I have stated, I have seen odd specimens that have been picked up about the property that would pay remarkably well if we could find the lode of the same quality as the specimens.

182. Mr. Farnell.] The copper lode proper underlies the others, does it not? Yes.

183. And that has not been developed at all? No; the galena lode is under the reef or lode where they took the gold from.

184. I understand you to say the mine is worth £5,000 independent of any gold? Yes, as a silver and lead mine alone. Besides the gold deposited in the Bank of New South Wales, Winters and Morgan took several parcels to Bathurst and sold them there.

185. Chairman.] You are now working the mine? Yes; we have been working ever since we took possession.

186. You are working the galena lode? No; we are putting a drive into the mountain to get under the lode that they had been driving on horizontally; when we get upon the other side we anticipate that if we cut this lode it ought to be very good.

187. Your mining operations are principally confined to searching for gold? Yes; but I believe there are minerals there other than gold that would pay.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MARINE BOARD.

(NUMBER OF INQUIRIES, &c.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 17 June, 1880.

RETURN to an Order made by the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, dated 24th February, 1880, That there be laid upon the Table of this House,—

“(1.) The number of inquiries held by the Marine Board since its establishment in cases of wrecks, collisions, or other casualty, and in cases of misconduct of officers of ships, specifying in each case name and description of vessel concerned, name of owner or owners and master, and result of inquiry.

“(2.) Number, nature, and result of prosecutions instituted by the Marine Board for violation of the provisions of the Navigation Act, or of the regulations made thereunder during the like period.

“(3.) How many certificates in each class and grade, authorized by the Navigation Act have been issued by the Board during the like period.

“(4.) A copy of all regulations made by the Marine Board during the same period.”

(Mr. Webb.)

(1.)

THE number of inquiries held by the Marine Board since its establishment in cases of wrecks, collisions, or other casualty, and in cases of misconduct of officers of ships, specifying in each case name and description of vessel concerned, name of owner or owners and master, and result of inquiry.

Two hundred and thirty (230) inquiries have been held by the Marine Board of New South Wales since its establishment on the 2nd day of April, 1872, to the 1st day of March, 1880.

Particulars relating to these inquiries are tabulated, as follows:—

By His Excellency Sir Alfred Stephen, Knight, a Companion of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Chief Justice of the Colony of New South Wales, Administering the Government thereof.

WHEREAS by an Act of the Parliament of New South Wales, passed in the thirty-fifth year of Her present Majesty's reign, intituled "The Navigation Act of 1871," it was among other things enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Governor, from time to time, on the recommendation of the Marine Board of New South Wales, by Proclamation in the Gazette, to make regulations concerning the lights or signals to be carried by vessels navigating the waters of any harbour, river, or other inland navigation within the jurisdiction or concerning the steps to be taken by such vessels for avoiding collision: Now therefore I, Sir Alfred Stephen, administering the Government, with the advice of the Executive Council, in pursuance of the power and authority given to me by the Act aforesaid, do make the Regulations comprised in the Schedule hereunto annexed, to be observed by vessels navigating the waters of any harbour, river, or other inland navigation within the jurisdiction, to commence and to have legal operation and effect from the expiry of one calendar month from the date of publication of the same in the Gazette.

Given under my Hand and Seal, at Government House, Sydney, this sixth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and in the thirty-fifth year of Her Majesty's Reign.

(L.S.) ALFRED STEPHEN.

By His Excellency's Command,
GEO. W. LORD.

God save the Queen!

REGULATIONS

REGULATIONS FOR PREVENTING COLLISIONS.

Preliminary.

Art. 1. In the following rules every steamship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing-ship and every steam-ship which is under steam whether under sail or not is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Lights. Art. 2. The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3 4 5 6 7 8 and 9 and no others shall be carried in all weathers from sunset to sunrise:—

Lights for steam-ships. Art. 3. All steam-ships when under weigh shall carry:

(a) At the foremast head a bright white light so fixed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of twenty points of the compass so fixed as to throw the light ten points on each side of the ship viz. from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least three feet forward from the light so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Lights for steam-tugs. Art. 4. Steam-ships when towing other ships shall carry two bright white mast-head lights vertically in addition to their side-lights so as to distinguish them from other steam-ships. Each of these mast-head lights shall be of the same construction and character as the mast-head lights which other steam-ships are required to carry.

Lights for sailing ships. Art. 5. Sailing-ships under weigh or being towed shall carry the same lights as steam-ships under weigh with the exception of the white mast-head lights which they shall never carry.

Exceptional lights for small sailing vessels. Art. 6. Whenever as in the case of small vessels during bad weather the green and red lights cannot be fixed these lights shall be kept on deck on their respective sides of the vessel ready for instant exhibition and shall on the approach of or to other vessels be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision in such manner as to make them most visible and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain and shall be provided with suitable screens.

Lights for ships at anchor. Art. 7. Ships whether steam-ships or sailing-ships when at anchor in roadsteads or fairways shall exhibit where it can best be seen but at a height not exceeding twenty feet above the hull a white light in a globular lantern of eight inches in diameter and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon and at a distance of at least one mile.

Lights for pilot vessels. Art. 8. Sailing pilot vessels shall not carry the lights required for other sailing vessels but shall carry a white light at the mast-head visible all round the horizon and shall also exhibit a flare-up light every fifteen minutes.

Lights for fishing vessels and boats. Art. 9. Open fishing-boats and other open boats shall not be required to carry the side-lights required for other vessels but shall if they do not carry such lights carry a lantern having a green slide on the one side and a red slide on the other side and on the approach of or to other vessels such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

Fishing vessels and open boats when at anchor or attached to their nets and stationary shall exhibit a bright white light.

Fishing vessels and open boats shall however not be prevented from using a flare-up in addition if considered expedient.

Rules concerning Fog Signals.

Fog signals. Art. 10. Whenever there is a fog whether by day or night the fog signals described below shall be carried and used and shall be sounded at least every five minutes viz.:—

(a.) Steam-ships under weigh shall use a steam whistle placed before the funnel not less than eight feet from the deck

(b.) Sailing ships under weigh shall use a fog-horn.

(c.) Steam-ships and sailing ships when not under weigh shall use a bell.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Two sailing-ships meeting. Art. 11. If two sailing-ships are meeting end on or nearly end on so as to involve risk of collision the helms of both shall be put to port so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

Two sailing-ships crossing. Art. 12. When two sailing-ships are crossing so as to involve risk of collision then if they have the wind on different sides the ship with the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the ship with the wind on the starboard side except in the case in which the ship with the wind on the port side is close hauled and the other ship free in which case the latter ship shall keep out of the way but if they have the wind on the same side or if one of them has the wind aft the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

Two ships under steam meeting. Art. 13. If two ships under steam are meeting end on or nearly end on so as to involve risk of collision the helms of both shall be put to port so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

Two ships under steam crossing. Art. 14. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Sailing-ship and ship under steam. Art. 15. If two ships one of which is a sailing-ship and the other a steam-ship are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision the steam-ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing-ship.

Art.

Art. 16. Every steam-ship when approaching another ship so as to involve risk of collision shall slacken her speed or if necessary stop and reverse and every steam-ship shall when in a fog go at a moderate speed. Ships under steam to slacken speed.

Art. 17. Every vessel overtaking any other vessel shall keep out of the way of the said last-mentioned vessel. Vessels overtaking other vessels.

Art. 18. Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way the other shall keep her course subject to the qualifications contained in the following Article. Construction of Articles 12 14 16 and 17.

Art. 19. In obeying and construing these rules due regard must be had to all dangers of navigation and due regard must also be had to any special circumstances which may exist in any particular case rendering a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger. Proviso to save special cases.

Art. 20. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship or the owner or master or crew thereof from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen or by the special circumstances of the case. No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

NOTE.—The two articles numbered 11 and 13 respectively only apply to cases where ships are meeting end on or nearly end on in such a manner as to involve risk of collision. They consequently do not apply to two ships which must if both keep on their respective courses pass clear of each other.

The only cases in which the said two articles apply are when each of the two ships is end on or nearly end on to the other in other words to cases in which by day each ship sees the masts of the other in a line or nearly in a line with her own and by night to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

The said two articles do not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other or where a red light without a green light or a green light without a red light is seen ahead or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 4th October, 1872.

HIS Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to approve of the following Regulations, made by the Marine Board of New South Wales, under the powers conferred on them by the 105th section of the Navigation Act of 1871, 35 Victoria No. 7.

SAUL SAMUEL.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

IN pursuance and by virtue of the 105th section of the Navigation Act of 1871, we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make regulations for the swinging of ships for the purpose of ascertaining and adjusting any deviation in their compasses.

1. Competent persons will be licensed to swing ships and furnish deviation cards, and no deviation card will be recognized unless it bears the signature of one of the persons so licensed.

2. All iron ships about to carry passengers must be swung, and provided with a deviation card before leaving port; and all such ships, trading out of any port within the jurisdiction, must be swung once in six months, and also before going to sea after material alterations or repairs, or more frequently if the Marine Board should so direct.

Provided that, on application to the Marine Board, and on showing satisfactory reason therefor, a departure from any of the foregoing regulations may be sanctioned.

Applications must be made at the office of the Marine Board for the services of the Licensed Officers, who are hereby authorized to charge fees on the following scale:—

	£	s.	d.
For vessels under 500 tons register	2	0	0
For vessels over 500 and under 750 tons register	2	10	0
For vessels over 750 tons register	3	0	0

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed, this third day of September, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency SIR ALFRED STEPHEN, Knight, a Companion of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Chief Justice of the Colony of New South Wales, administering the Government thereof.

WHEREAS, by an Act of the Parliament of New South Wales, passed in the thirty-fifth year of Her present Majesty's Reign, intituled the "Navigation Act of 1871," it was among other things enacted, that the master of any steamship or harbour and river steamer, whilst navigating such steamship or steamer in any harbour, port, or channel within the jurisdiction which by Proclamation of the Governor published in the Gazette shall be declared to be a harbour, port, or channel where such steamships and steamers shall proceed at a reduced speed to be defined in such Proclamation, shall proceed at such reduced speed, under a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds: Now therefore, I, SIR ALFRED STEPHEN, administering the Government, with the advice of the Executive Council, in pursuance of the power and authority given to me by the Act aforesaid, do declare that Port Jackson and the Port of Newcastle shall, from the date hereof, be ports in which any steamship or steamer shall proceed at a reduced speed, and that such reduced speed shall be at a rate not exceeding six knots an hour, and be observed westward of a north and south line passing through Fort Denison in Port Jackson, and south of a line produced from "Stony Point," through the extremity of the Northern Breakwater, to "Bullock Island," in the Port of Newcastle.

Given under my hand and seal, at Government House, Sydney, this twenty-eighth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and in the thirty-fifth year of Her Majesty's Reign.

(L.S.) ALFRED STEPHEN.

By His Excellency's Command,

W. R. PIDDINGTON.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

55. Under and by virtue of the powers conferred upon us by the Navigation Act of 1871, we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make the following regulation for the preservation of ports, harbours, havens, and navigable creeks and rivers within the jurisdiction, that is to say:—We hereby order and direct that no lading, as defined by the one hundred and seventh section of the said Act, shall be unladen, thrown, deposited, or allowed to fall into any port, harbour, haven, or navigable creek or river within the jurisdiction, under a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed this fifth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, in the presence of us,—

Whereas

Whereas by a Proclamation under the hand and seal of Sir Alfred Stephen, dated the 28th day of May last, it was declared, "that Port Jackson and the port of Newcastle shall from the date hereof be ports in which any steamship or steamer shall proceed at a reduced speed, and that such reduced speed shall be at a rate not exceeding six knots an hour, and be observed westward of a north and south line passing through Fort Denison in Port Jackson, and south of a line produced from Stony Point through the extremity of the Northern Breakwater to Bullock Island in the Port of Newcastle": And whereas it is considered expedient to exclude the class of vessels known as harbour and river steamers from the operation of the said recited Proclamation: Now, therefore, I Sir Hercules George Robert Robinson, the Governor aforesaid, with the advice of the Executive Council, do hereby declare that the hereinbefore mentioned Proclamation shall not apply to harbour and river steamers, but shall apply to tugs and sea-going steamships.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 15th May, 1874.

HIS Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to approve of the following regulations, made by the Marine Board of New South Wales, under and in virtue of the powers conferred upon them by the "Navigation Act of 1871," and by the "Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873."

GEO. A. LLOYD.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit, }

UNDER and by virtue of the powers conferred upon us by the "Navigation Act of 1871," and by the "Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873," we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make the following Harbour Regulations, that is to say:—

1. From and after the date hereof any person conveying gunpowder or other explosive material over or upon the navigable waters within the jurisdiction in any harbour or river steamer, or steam lighter, or in any vessel in tow of a harbour or river steamer, or steam lighter, shall incur a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.
2. From and after the date hereof the master of every ship claiming exemption from pilotage, shall, from the time of her approaching within three leagues of any port or place within the jurisdiction up to the time of her anchorage, keep flying from the main the numerical flags of the Port Jackson Code of Signals, denoting the place from whence she last sailed, under a penalty in default not exceeding ten pounds.

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed this fourteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, in the presence of us,

The Treasury, New South Wales, 8th June, 1875.

THE following Regulations and Schedule of Watermen's Fares are published for general information.

WILLIAM FORSTER.

REGULATIONS FOR WATERMEN, &c.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

WE, the Marine Board of New South Wales, incorporated by the Navigation Act of 1871, do, by virtue of the authority vested in us by the said Act and by the Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873, hereby make and establish the following regulations for the licensing and regulation of watermen, boatmen, watermen's boats, and boats plying for hire; and for determining the rates to be charged by such watermen and boatmen over and upon any navigable waters within our jurisdiction; and we direct that the said regulations and the schedule of fares and rates annexed shall come into force on and from the date hereof.

That is to say,—

1. In the construction of these regulations, unless the context shall otherwise indicate, the following terms in inverted commas shall bear the meanings and include the things hereinafter severally assigned or set against them:—

"Board"—The Marine Board of New South Wales.

"Passenger"—Every person, not being the waterman, conveyed in a boat.

"Waterman"—The boatman or waterman being the person licensed by the Board.

"Boat"—Waterman's boat, boat plying for hire, or the registered boat of any waterman.

"License"—The waterman's license issued by the Board.

"Inspector"—Any Inspector to the Board duly appointed.

"Stairs"—The place mentioned in the license from which a waterman is to ply.

"Baggage"—Any parcels, luggage, baskets, or effects.

And in the construction of the said regulations, any word importing the singular number shall be understood to include several persons or things, as well as one person or thing, and any word importing the plural number shall be applied to one person or thing.

2. No person shall ply for hire, or convey passengers without holding a waterman's license from the Board.

3. Every application for a license must be made on the form provided by the Board, and be accompanied by testimonials of sobriety, good conduct, and efficiency.

4. Upon the application being lodged at the office of the Board, the boat belonging to the applicant will be surveyed and reported upon by one of the Inspectors, and, upon the Board being satisfied with the testimonials and report, a license will be issued.

5. A fee of 10s. will be charged for a license ; and every license shall bear the register number of the waterman's boat, contain his name and address, the number of passengers he is authorized to carry, the designation of the stairs or locality from which he is to ply, and have indorsed the table of fares.

6. Before any license is issued to a waterman, he must cause his boat to be registered in a book to be kept for the purpose at the Board office, and such registration shall contain the particulars set forth above, and the waterman shall sign the book as evidence of his knowledge of the particulars so registered. Any waterman changing his place of residence, shall report, in writing, his proper address to the Board forthwith.

7. Every waterman shall have his name in full, the name of the stairs, the number of his boat, and of the passengers authorized to be carried in her, painted, corresponding with the register or license, in conspicuous Roman letters not less than one inch long, on his boat ; and no waterman shall ply in any boat other than one that is registered.

8. No waterman shall carry a greater number of passengers in his boat than the registered number, and no boat shall be laden so as to render her unsafe.

9. Every waterman shall ply from the stairs or locality allotted to him ; and no waterman shall ply from any stairs other than those so allotted, except in cases where no other watermen are available : Provided also, that no waterman shall ply from any place other than the stairs particularized in the schedule hereto attached.

10. No boat shall be laid on shore within twenty feet of any part of any stairs ; or remain at or lie off any stairs in such a manner as to obstruct free access thereto.

11. Any Inspector may overhaul any waterman's boat, or gear, or appointments thereof, at any time at which he may think fit ; and no waterman shall impede any Inspector in so doing.

12. The Board may, on report of their Inspector, condemn any boat, or the gear, or appointments thereof ; and no waterman shall ply in any condemned boat, or use any condemned gear or appointments.

13. Watermen shall deliver up their licenses to the Board, or to any person acting under their authority, on demand.

14. The fares and baggage rates mentioned and particularised in the schedule hereto attached, and no other, shall be payable to a waterman for services rendered ; and no waterman shall demand a higher fare or rate than is prescribed by the said schedule.

15. Every waterman shall carry his license with him, or have it at all times immediately available on demand, and also a copy of these regulations, and shall produce them or either of them when demanded by a passenger or Inspector.

16. No waterman shall refuse or fail to take a passenger on demand to any place within the harbour of Port Jackson south of a straight line between Middle Head and Inner South Head, or, if having taken a passenger and put off from the stairs, shall return for another passenger.

17. No passenger shall refuse to pay a legal fare, and if he fail to pay such legal fare he will be liable to pay any such reasonable amount as the Court hearing the case may think fit to order, for loss of time incurred by a waterman in recovering his fare ; and any waterman who shall demand more than his legal fare will be liable to pay such sum to the person overcharged as the said Court may think fit to direct.

18. Watermen are to be in attendance day and night at their respective stairs, and any neglect of this regulation will render each waterman respectively at the stairs liable to have his license cancelled.

19. Any waterman guilty of drunkenness, or other offence against public morals, or in any way jeopardizing the safety of passengers, or using abusive, insulting, or obscene language, will be liable to be deprived of his license.

20. Watermen are required to keep their boats and the equipments clean and servicable, also the stairs from which they ply, and they will not be allowed to convey in their boats, when carrying a passenger, gunpowder or explosive material.

21. For the violation or infringement of any of these regulations, or for the neglect of any duty or obligation imposed thereby, a penalty not exceeding £10 will be incurred, and the offender will be liable further to be deprived of his license by the Board,

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed, this seventh day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, in the presence of us,—

REGULATIONS FOR STEAM AND OTHER FERRY BOATS, HARBOUR AND RIVER STEAMERS.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

WE, the Marine Board of New South Wales, incorporated by the Navigation Act of 1871, do, by virtue of the authority vested in us by the said Act and by the Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873, hereby make and establish the following regulations for "steam and other ferry-boats, harbour and river steamers"; and we direct that the said regulations shall come into force on and from the date hereof.
That is to say,—

1. In the construction of the said regulations, any word importing the singular number shall be understood to include several persons or things, as well as one person or thing, and any word importing the plural number shall be applied to one person or thing; and the word steamer or steam ferry-boat shall be construed to mean any steam or other ferry-boat, or harbour and river steamer plying within any inland water, in so far as the context may be applicable thereto.

2. Any person being the owner of any steamer, and wishing to establish, or having already established, a steam-ferry within the jurisdiction, shall notify the same in writing to the Secretary to the Board, giving full particulars as to the steamer he intends placing or has placed on the said ferry, the places of call, the times of arrival thereat and departure therefrom, and the rate of fares to be charged.

3. On the Board being satisfied with the particulars furnished, the applicant will be so informed, and a notice of such particulars will be inserted in the Government Gazette.

4. No owner, or master, or other person, shall demand or take a higher fare than is prescribed by the said notice in the Government Gazette.

5. The master, engineer, or any other person employed on board any steamer, shall not neglect his duties, or delegate them to any other person not duly certificated.

6. The master or owner of any steamer shall not take her off any ferry, or fail to keep the times of arrival and departure as notified in the Government Gazette as aforesaid.

7. The owner of every steam ferry-boat shall cause a legible time-table, corresponding in terms with the Gazette notice aforesaid, to be painted on a board in letters not less than 2 inches long; and shall cause it to be exhibited in a conspicuous place at the wharfs to which the said time-table is applicable.

8. The proprietor of any steam ferry-boat may withdraw his steamer, and discontinue plying on any ferry, at the expiration of fourteen days after notice given in writing to the Secretary to the Board to that effect; but not otherwise, under a penalty for every day on which the steamer may be withdrawn.

9. Steam-ferry boats and all the equipment thereto attached must be kept clean; and, in addition to the requirements of the Navigation Act of 1871, the said steam ferry-boats must, to the satisfaction of the Board or any Inspector thereof, be provided with accommodation for the convenience and safety of, and with suitable stages for embarking and landing passengers.

10. If the proprietor of any steam ferry-boat shall transfer his interest or ownership therein, he shall give notice in writing to the said Board.

11. For the violation or infringement of any of these regulations, or for the neglect of any duty or obligation imposed thereby, a penalty not exceeding £10 will be incurred.

STEAM PILOT SERVICE OF PORT JACKSON.

It having been determined that the present system of performing the Sea Pilot Service of Port Jackson, in whaleboats, shall be discontinued on the last day of the present month, and that a Steam Pilot Service shall be substituted therefor, which shall be commenced on the first proximo,—His Excellency the Governor with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to approve of the following Regulations for the conduct of the said Steam Pilot Service,—which Regulations have been made by the Marine Board of New South Wales, under the provisions of the Navigation Act of 1871.

JOHN ROBERTSON.

Office of the Marine Board of New South Wales,
Sydney, 11th October, 1875.

REGULATIONS FOR THE STEAM PILOT SERVICE OF PORT JACKSON.

General.

On and after the 1st December next the present system of performing the Sea Pilot Service of Port Jackson in whaleboats will be discontinued, and a Steam Pilot Service introduced.

Under this arrangement the pilots will become salaried officers, and they will be required to perform their duties in conducting ships in and out of the port, &c., in rotation, or as they may be specially appointed.

Pilots.

Two pilots will be stationed on board the steamer for outside service, and the remainder will be retained in Watson's Bay for the up-harbour work, the look-out at South Head, and the relief of pilots shipped from the steamer.

When a pilot is shipped, the pilot on turn at Watson's Bay is to take his station on board the steamer with all reasonable despatch.

A pilot having taken charge of a vessel must not leave until she is safely anchored, or given a proper offing, as the case may be, without the written permission of the master, or the usual pilot's certificate.

All vessels must, as heretofore (except those having powder, which are to be taken to Neutral Bay), be brought up as near to Sydney as practicable; and they will not be considered out of the sea pilot's waters until anchored above a line between "Careening Point" and "Garden Island."

Pilots are bound to the strictest observance of, and will be responsible for carrying out, the Quarantine and other existing laws and regulations.

Pilot Steamer.

The steam pilot vessel will be under the entire control of the master, who will use his utmost endeavours to intercept all vessels requiring pilots at a reasonable distance from the Heads; he will also be a licensed pilot, in order that he may act in that capacity if necessary.

In thick weather, when signals cannot be seen from the look-out station, the steamer is to take up a position, outside the Heads, best adapted in the opinion of the master for intercepting ships that may require pilots.

In clear weather, when signals can be seen, the steamer is to be kept at her buoy near the South Reef, with fires banked, ready to proceed on signal from the look-out station.

The responsibility of the steamer's movements will rest with the master, who will be expected to use his judgment for the efficiency of the service, and always take care to lower the boat in a convenient position for shipping pilots.

In the event of the weather being too bad to lower a boat outside, the pilot steamer is to lead the vessel inside, and ship the pilot when practicable.

In addition to shipping, the steamer and her crew will have to perform the duty of landing pilots from outward bound vessels, and also of bringing reliefs off.

A constant look-out is to be kept on board the steamer; any laxity in this respect will render the person charged with the duty liable to instant dismissal.

After having shipped a pilot the steamer will proceed in for a relief, unless there should be still another ship requiring to be served in the offing, when she will provide the second pilot before coming in for the relief.

In the event of one pilot only being shipped during the night, the relief can be taken on board the steamer on the following morning. If the second pilot is shipped the relief is to be made as soon as circumstances will admit.

A log containing full particulars of the movements of the vessel, the state of the weather, the hour and minute at which pilots are shipped, and that at which reliefs come on board, is to be kept by the mate, under the direction of the master, who will forward a copy weekly to this office.

The steamer is not to come above the line of George's Head and the Bottle and Glass without permission from the office, unless she should be towing.

Special regulations for towing will be issued for the guidance of the master of the steamer.

In the case of a vessel requiring a pilot coming in without being intercepted, or any other important event occurring, the master of the steamer is to send a written report of the circumstances to this office.

Look-out Station, South Head.

A constant look-out is to be kept at the Signal Station. From sunrise to sunset the establishment will be under the charge of the signal-master, and from sunset to sunrise under that of the pilot on watch. These officers will be held responsible for the proper performance of the duties of the station.

A complete log of all important occurrences is to be kept, noting the times when signals from ships are first seen, the times at which the signals to proceed are made, and the times and bearings and estimated distances at which pilots are shipped. The times at which the steamer leaves and returns to her buoy are also to be recorded, and the movements of the up-harbour steam-launch or boat are to be noted.

The usual telegram is still to be forwarded, showing the position in which pilots are shipped; any unusual movement on the part of the steamer is also to be reported.

When a pilot is shipped, notification is immediately to be sent to his relief, in order that he may be ready to take his station on board the steamer. Notification by signal or otherwise is also to be made to the coxswain of the up-harbour boat or steam-launch.

Up-harbour boat or steam-launch.

The coxswain of the up-harbour boat or steam launch will be held responsible for the efficient performance of this duty. He will take care to ascertain by signal or otherwise when his services are required. Whilst engaged conveying a pilot to or from a ship he will be under his direction. When the pilot has left the boat it will be the duty of the coxswain, unless he should still be required for up-harbour service, to return with all despatch to his station at Watson's Bay.

In the event of the pilot steamer being unable to perform her duty from absence or otherwise, the up-harbour boat or steam-launch will temporarily perform the duty of the outside service.

No. Sea Pilot's Certificate.

Any complaint against the pilot is required to be lodged in writing at the Office of the Marine Board, within seven days of the occurrence.

I certify that Mr. _____ piloted the _____ the Harbour of Port Jackson, and performed his duty to my satisfaction.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, is pleased to abstain from the exercise of his power of disallowance, under the 17th clause of the Navigation Act of 1871, in respect of the following Harbour Regulation for the Port of Newcastle, which is now published for general information.

JOHN ROBERTSON.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

Under and by virtue of the powers conferred upon us by the "Navigation Act of 1871," and by the "Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873," we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make the following Regulation for the Harbour of Newcastle.

That is to say,—

We hereby order and direct that all ships arriving in Newcastle for the purpose of loading coals at the Government cranes, staiths, or wharf, shall be subjected to the Regulations of the Commissioner for Railways annexed hereto, dated the 2nd of November, 1874; and no person shall procure the clearance of any ship until he has paid or otherwise satisfied the Customs authorities in respect of all moneys due to the said Commissioner for Railways, imposed by the said regulations for the cranes, staiths, and wharf, under a penalty not exceeding £10.

HENRY T. FOX, }

The following are the Regulations above referred to:—

Department of Public Works, Sydney, 2 November, 1874.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has approved of the following Regulations, made by the Commissioner for Railways, for the cranes, staiths, and wharf, at the Port of Newcastle, New South Wales, to come into operation on and after the ninth of November, 1874.

JOHN SUTHERLAND.

Regulations for the Cranes, Staiths, and Wharf, at the Port of Newcastle, N. S. Wales.

EVERY person or company using the cranes, staiths, drops, or wharfs, will do so subject to the following regulations and conditions:—

1. The berths at Newcastle, under the cranes or staiths, shall be reserved for vessels requiring the use of these appliances either to load or unload cargoes; vessels loading coal or coke to have priority. The master of every vessel occupying a crane or staith berth for the purpose of loading or unloading must observe these regulations, or in default thereof pay any and all sums of money, as by reason of such default he may become liable to pay to the Commissioner for Railways, as hereinafter provided.

2. Vessels requiring berths at cranes or staiths, for the purpose of loading or unloading, shall obtain same in the order of their arrival in port, such arrival to be entered by the master of the said vessel in a book kept at the Wharfinger's office, specifying name of vessel, tonnage, length of vessel, draught of water, when loaded, and cargo. The entries so made will be held to be the order in which the vessel shall be berthed, unless the order of arrival is disputed, in which case an appeal may be made to the Harbour Master, whose decision shall be final. This regulation is not to apply to any of Her Majesty's ships or to ships requiring coal for any of Her Majesty's ships at the Australian Station, which may load at any time without waiting their turn; nor to steamers (hereafter provided for).

3. Should any vessel not be in readiness to move to the berth when her turn arrives, then the vessel next on the list shall take the turn, and the vessel so losing her turn shall take the next succeeding turn on the list if ready. Vessels of not more than 14 feet load draft will be required to move into a berth at the staiths should such berth first become vacant.

4. Vessels occupying the crane or staiths berths to load with coals will be required to receive the coal at the following average rates, namely:—At cranes 1, 2, and 3, or at staiths, 300 tons per day, that is between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. At No. 4 crane 400 tons per day, and at the other cranes 500 tons per day, and a proportionate quantity in each and every case for half or quarter days, the loading to be continued during the night if required by the wharfinger, and coal is available, at the rate of 30 tons per hour. The time of loading to reckon as commencing one hour after the ship is berthed. Any delay in carrying out this Regulation shall involve a charge to the master of the ship of twenty shillings per hour for each and every hour such crane or staith berth is delayed: Provided however that no charge shall be made as against the master for any delay caused by breaking down or damage of crane or staith, or the neglect of the contractor either to ship or trim the coal, or the delay caused by the coal not being supplied. The contractor for shipping and trimming shall work at night if required by the wharfinger; and any delay caused by such contractor, or by the master of any ship refusing to take coal at night, or to allow at all times while at the crane berth free access to his ship of the men employed by the contractor to trim the coal, shall be charged for; and the contractor, if the fault be his, or the master of the vessel in like case, shall pay to the Commissioner for Railways a charge at the rate of twenty shillings per hour for any such delay. The Commissioner reserves to himself the right—in lieu of making charges for delay—to direct the removal of any ship from any crane or staith berth should she not from whatever cause arising be receiving her coal in the stipulated quantities, and the Harbour Master shall remove such ship accordingly, to give place to the next vessel in turn, the vessel so removed to have the next succeeding turn if ready.

5. Any colliery proprietor, company, or person supplying coal for any vessel occupying a crane or staith berth, and which such colliery proprietor, company, or person has agreed with the captain, owner, or charterer of such vessel to load, shall pay to the Commissioner for Railways a penalty of twenty shillings per hour for each and every hour such vessel is delayed at any crane or staith berth, if such delay be caused by the neglect or inability of the colliery proprietor, company, or person agreeing to load or

or supply coal, to furnish the same at the rate which such vessel under clause 4 of these Regulations is required to receive her coal: Provided however that the colliery proprietor, company, or person supplying or agreeing to supply as aforesaid, shall not be held liable should the delay be caused by the neglect or inability of the Commissioner to haul the coal when ready along the railway line from the colliery to the crane or staith berth.

6. All trimming of coals on board of vessels berthed at the cranes shall on and after the 1st January, 1875, be performed by the person or persons having a contract with the Commissioner for Railways for that purpose, the said contract price to be paid by the master of the vessel before the vessel is removed from the berth, together with any charges that may have been incurred. The trimming of coal on board of vessels berthed at the staiths shall be performed by the ship, and the master shall be liable for the charges provided in clause 4, if the trimming be not performed within the specified time.

7. Every vessel occupying a berth at crane or staith shall be removed as soon as her loading is completed, or as soon thereafter as the height of water in the harbour will permit, but should any vessel remain on the berth after having completed her loading from any other cause except stress of weather or because of no proper anchorage or moorings being available, the master of such vessel shall forfeit and pay to the Commissioner for Railways the following sums, namely:—If the vessel occupies a berth at either Nos. 1, 2, 3, or 4 cranes or at a staith the sum of £8 per day, and if at any other crane the sum of £12 per day, for each and every day the vessel may so remain in occupation, and proportionate amounts for any part of a day.

8. No goods or ballast discharged from any vessel shall be placed on the wharf nearer than five feet from the edge next the harbour, under a penalty of £5, to be paid by the master of such vessel to the Commissioner for Railways; and all goods placed upon the wharfs at Newcastle shall be removed therefrom within forty-eight hours by the owner, agent, or consignee; and should such goods not be removed by that time, then the wharfinger shall have power to cause the same to be removed at the cost of such owner, agent, or consignee, or to charge wharfage rates thereon of 2d. per packet, or 1s. per ton per day, at the option of the wharfinger.

9. Any vessels requiring the use of the cranes or staiths for the purpose of loading or unloading cargoes other than coal, or occupying a berth at cranes or staiths, will be charged at the rate of £8 per day if occupying the berths opposite cranes 1, 2, 3, and 4, or staiths; and £12 per day if occupying berths opposite any of the other cranes. Vessels occupying berths at the wharf for discharging cargo shall do so at the rate of not less than 60 tons, and if ballast, not less than 80 tons per day; or in default may be removed by the Harbour Master.

10. Should any vessel require a night turn at the cranes or staiths, application may be made to the wharfinger before 4 p.m., who shall grant same after satisfying himself that there is a reasonable probability of her loading being completed in proper time. Vessels failing to complete loading through the night will be removed before 6 a.m. on the following day, weather permitting.

11. Any vessel requiring wharfage accommodation other than at crane or staith for loading or unloading cargoes of timber shall be allowed to occupy such berth as may be allotted for such purpose— if the vessel is 100 tons burden or under, for 4 days; if 200 tons, 6 days; if 300 tons, 8 days; and if 400 tons, 10 days; and 1 day for every additional 100 tons—on payment of one shilling and sixpence per load of 40 cubic feet of squared timber, and 50 cubic feet of round timber. And for each and every day the vessel shall occupy the berth beyond the time stated shall forfeit and pay to the Commissioner for Railways the sum of three pounds for the first-mentioned class of vessels, four pounds for the second class, five pounds for the third class, and six pounds for vessels of 400 tons and upwards.

PROVISIONS—REGULATIONS FOR STEAM VESSELS.

12. The wharfinger shall set apart one crane for the use of steam vessels, which shall be berthed thereat in the order of their arrival in port. Provided that there is sufficient space to berth said steam vessels without detriment to the loading at the adjoining crane of a vessel entitled to go thereunder. Steamers having mails and passengers calling for coal for their own consumption only to take precedence, and in the event of their being unable to berth at the steamers' crane to be allowed to take such coal at any crane or staith berth which at the time of their arrival may be actually vacant, and should the crane berth allotted to steamers be occupied by a steam collier, the Harbour Master will be allowed to remove, if possible, such collier, and berth the passenger steamer—the steam collier so removed taking the next turn.

13. In the event of the berth set apart for steam vessels not being required for immediate use, any sailing vessel may be placed in such berth, but such sailing vessel shall not occupy such berth for a longer period than twelve working hours if the same shall be required for a steam vessel.

14. Any sailing vessel which may have been placed at the berth set apart as aforesaid, and which, in the opinion of the wharfinger, can complete her loading within twelve hours, will be allowed to do so. Provided the wharfinger is satisfied with the steps taken for loading and removal from such berth within twelve working hours from the time such sailing vessel shall have been placed in such berth.

Commissioner for Railways.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 22 June, 1877.

THE following Harbour Regulations, to be observed at regattas, boat races, and on other public occasions, and at processions, made by the Marine Board of New South Wales, are published for general information.

W. R. PIDDINGTON.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

Under and by virtue of the powers conferred upon us by the "Navigation Act of 1871," and by the "Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873," we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make the following Harbour Regulations, to be observed at regattas, boat races, and on other public occasions, and at processions—the said regulations being additional to those now in force, that is to say:—

1. No steamer or other description of vessel whatsoever will be allowed to follow a race or take part in a procession unless the master or owner shall duly notify his intention of wishing to do so, in reply to an advertisement that may be inserted in the daily papers some time previous to the event.

2. Every such steamer or other description of vessel must take the position allotted to her, and be numbered in conspicuous figures on both bows. And all masters or persons in charge of steamers or other vessels or boats must obey any order they may receive from the officers of the Marine Board or from any member of the Water Police.

3. No steamer or other description of vessel or boat will be permitted to occupy any position on or near the course other than that allotted, unless she is anchored or stationary and altogether out of the fairway.

4. A programme will be issued notifying the number of the vessel and the order in which each is to take up her position for following in the procession.

5. No vessel will be permitted to occupy a berth unless she is authorized to do so in the said programme.

6. Competitors in any race are not to be preceded, followed, or approached in any description of vessel or boat whatsoever within a distance of 300 feet. Offenders committing a breach of this regulation will be deemed guilty of improper conduct, which will render them liable to have their certificates dealt with, in addition to the fine hereinafter imposed.

7. Whilst embarking or landing passengers or otherwise occupying a Circular Quay or other public berth, the master or owner of every steamer is to obey any order he may receive from the Harbour Master or other officer of the Marine Board. And on no account is a greater number of passengers than her certificate authorizes to be embarked on board any steamer.

8. Any person committing a breach of any of these regulations will be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed this eighteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, in the presence of us,—

The Treasury, New South Wales, 23 November, 1877.

The following Regulations for the Harbour of Newcastle, made by the Marine Board of New South Wales, are published for general information.

W. A. LONG.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

Under and by virtue of the powers conferred upon us by the "Navigation Act of 1871," and by the "Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873," we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make the following Regulations for the Harbour of Newcastle—that is to say, we hereby order and direct that,—

No ship or other description of vessel will be allowed to occupy a berth at any wharf, staith, or jetty, whilst she is undergoing repairs that would impede loading or unloading or necessitate her remaining alongside the said berth after her loading or unloading is completed.

No boat shall be allowed to remain at any landing-place after having discharged her cargo or passengers, nor lie off in such a manner as to obstruct the passage to or from such landing-place.

No lighter or other description of vessel will be permitted to remain at anchor in any part of the Harbour of Newcastle at a less distance than 100 fathoms from any wharf, staith, or jetty.

No vessel of whatsoever description will be permitted to make fast or moor to any of the Government moorings without the permission of the Harbour Master.

All vessels employed lightering in the Harbour of Newcastle shall only be allowed to remain at anchor in such places as may be permitted by the Harbour Master, and no lighter or other description of vessel shall remain alongside any ship, wharf, or jetty, or be temporary at anchor at any place other than that authorized as aforesaid without having at least one person on board.

For the violation or infringement of any of these Regulations, or for the neglect of any duty or obligation imposed thereby, a penalty not exceeding £10 will be incurred.

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed, this nineteenth day of November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, in the presence of us,—

FRANCIS HIXSON, President.
HUGH FAIRCLOUGH,
JOHN BROOMFIELD,
ARCHIBALD M'LEAN,
HENRY T. FOX, } Wardens.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 20 May, 1879.

The following additional Harbour Regulations, to be observed at boat races, made by the Marine Board of New South Wales, are published for general information.

JAMES WATSON.

New South Wales, }
Sydney, to wit. }

Under and by virtue of the powers conferred upon us by the "Navigation Act of 1871," and by the "Navigation Act Amendment Act of 1873," we, the Marine Board of New South Wales, hereby make the following Regulations in addition to those now in force, to be observed at all boat races rowed on any of the navigable waters within the jurisdiction—that is to say, we hereby order and direct that,—

1. A clear mid-channel track of not less than 300 feet wide is to be preserved along the entire length of the course.

2. Only two steamers will be permitted to follow any race, viz., one authorized by the Marine Board to convey the members of the Press, the other to carry the Umpire.

3. Masters of steamers who commit a breach of these Regulations will be deemed guilty of misconduct, and, in addition to the fine hereinafter imposed, be liable to have their certificates cancelled or suspended. Any person committing a breach of any of these regulations will be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

The common seal of the Marine Board of New South Wales was hereto affixed, this twelfth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, in the presence of us,—

MARINE BOARD OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR CERTIFICATES OF COMPETENCY, &c.—JULY, 1878.

* * Applicants for certificates must lodge their papers and fill in the official form at the Marine Board Office, and no application will be forwarded to the Examiner unless satisfactory evidence is produced of the sobriety, experience, and good conduct of the candidate.

Qualifications for certificates of competency for a Foreign-going ship.

A Second Mate must be at least seventeen years of age, and must have been four years at sea, during three of which out of the last preceding five years he must have been domiciled in the colonies.

In Navigation.—He must write a legible hand, be able to keep the ship's log, and understand the first four rules of arithmetic and the use of logarithms.

He must be able to correct the courses steered for variation and leeway, and find the difference of latitude and longitude therefrom; be able to correct the sun's declination for longitude, and find his latitude by meridian altitude of the sun; and work such other easy problems of a like nature as may be put to him. He must understand the use of the sextant, and be able to observe with it and read it off.

In Seamanship.—He must give satisfactory answers as to the rigging and unrigging of ships, stowing of holds, &c.; must understand the measurement of the log-line, glass, and lead-line; be conversant with the rule of the road, as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, and the lights and fog signals carried by them, and thoroughly understand the International and Port Jackson Codes of Signals.

A First Mate must be at least nineteen years of age, must have been domiciled three years out of the last preceding five years in the colonies, and have served altogether five years at sea, of which one year must have been as second mate.

In Navigation.—In addition to the qualification required for a second mate, he must be able to observe azimuths and amplitudes, and compute the variation; to compare chronometers and keep their rates, and find the longitude by them from an observation of the sun; to work the latitude by single altitude of the sun off the meridian, and be able to use and adjust the sextant by the sun, and lay down the ship's course on a chart by cross-bearing, and latitude and longitude, and compute the time of high water by the full and change of the moon.

Candidates for examination for the grades of first mate and master will also be examined in Sumner's Method by Projection.

Particulars of examination.—Candidates will be required to ascertain their longitude by chronometer worked with two assumed latitudes, one greater and one less than the latitude by dead reckoning.

They are to mark off the two positions so ascertained on the chart, and are then to connect them with a straight line, which will show the bearing of any land it may intersect, and draw a line at right angles to this, in the direction of the sun, showing the sun's true bearing.

With reference to a second observation, the candidates will not be for the present obliged to perform the calculations. The longitudes corresponding to the two latitudes are to be furnished to them by the examiner, together with the course and distance made good by the ship between the two observations. The candidates will then be required to correct the first line of equal altitude for the ship's change of station, in the interval between the two observations, to project the line of equal altitude corresponding to the second observation on the chart, showing by its intersection with the first line of equal altitude, as corrected for change of station, the position of the ship at the time of the second observation. Outline charts extending from 46° to 49° and from 49° to 52° of latitude respectively, will be furnished by the Board of Trade to the different examiners for this purpose.

In Seamanship.—In addition to the qualification required for second mate, a more extensive knowledge of seamanship will be required, as to shifting large spars and sails, managing a ship in stormy weather, taking in and making sail, shifting yards and masts, constructing rafts, mooring and unmooring ship, &c., and getting cargo in and out, and especially heavy spars and weights, anchors, &c.; casting ship on a lee shore, and securing the mast in the event of accident to the bowsprit.

A Master must be at least twenty-one years of age, must have been domiciled three years out of the last preceding five years in the colonies, and have been six years at sea, of which one year must have been as first mate, and one year as second mate, or two years as first mate. In addition to the qualification for a first mate, he must be able to find the latitude by a star, &c. He will be asked questions on compass deviation, as to the nature of the attraction of the ship's iron upon the compass, and as to the method of determining its extent. He will also be examined as to his competency to construct from the resources at command jury rudders and rafts. He must possess a sufficient knowledge of what he is required to do by law as to entry and discharge, and the management of his crew, as to penalties, and entries to be made in the official log, and a knowledge of the measures for preventing and checking the outbreak of scurvy on board ship. He will be questioned as to his knowledge of bills of lading, charter party, Lloyd's Agent, and as to the nature of bottomry, and the dunnage required to stow a ship. He must be acquainted with the lights on the coast he has been accustomed to navigate, or which he is going to navigate. He will also be examined in so much of the laws of the tides as is necessary to enable him to shape a course, and to compare his soundings with the depth marked in the charts. He must also understand the law of storms, and be conversant of what is required of him under the New South Wales Navigation Act.

An extra Master's Examination is intended for such persons as wish to prove their superior qualifications.

In Navigation.—The candidate will be required to work a lunar observation by both sun and star, to determine the latitude by the moon and star, by polar star off the meridian, and also by double altitude of the sun, and to verify the result by Sumner's method. He must be able to calculate the altitudes of the sun or star when they cannot be observed, for the purpose of lunars, to find the error of a watch by the method of equal altitudes, and to correct the altitudes observed with an artificial horizon. He must understand how to observe and apply the deviation of the compass, and to deduce the set and rate of the current from the D. R. and observation. He will be required to explain the nature of great circle sailing, and know how to apply practically that knowledge, but he will not be required to go into calculations. He must be acquainted with the law of storms, so far as to know how he may best escape hurricanes, typhoons, or cyclones.
of

In Seamanship.—The extra examination will consist of an inquiry into the competency of the party to heave a ship down in case of accident befalling her abroad; to get lower masts and other heavy weights in and out; and as to his resources for the preservation of the ship's crew in the event of a wreck, and in such operations of a like nature as the examiner may consider necessary.

Qualification for Certificates of Competency, Coast-trade Ships.

A Mate employed in trading between any port in this and any port in an adjacent Colony.—He must write a legible hand, and understand the first four rules of arithmetic. He must know and understand the rule of the road, and describe and show that he understands the regulations as to lights. He must be able to take a bearing by compass, and prick off the ship's course on a chart. He must know the marks in the lead line, and be able to work and heave the log, observe and calculate the amplitude of the sun, and deduce the variation therefrom, take and work a meridian altitude, and understand the Port Jackson Code of Signals, and the character of the lights and dangers on the coast of New South Wales.

A Master employed in trading between any port in this and any port in an adjacent Colony must have served one year as a mate, and have a knowledge of what is required of him under the New South Wales Navigation Act. In addition to the qualifications required for a mate, he must show that he is capable of navigating a ship along any coast, for which purpose he will be required to draw upon a chart, produced by the examiner, the courses and distances he would run along shore from headland to headland, and give in writing the courses and distances corrected for variation, and the bearings of the headlands and lights, and to show when the courses should be altered, either to clear any dangers, or to adapt it to the coast, and calculate the latitude from an observation of the sun near the meridian. He must understand how to take soundings, and also the use of Manby's apparatus for saving life in cases of stranding of vessels.

Qualification for a Certificate of Competency for a Mate, trading between any ports or places within the jurisdiction.

He must produce satisfactory evidence as to his character and competency; must know the lights and dangers of the coast within the limits in which he has to navigate; must be thoroughly acquainted with the rule of the road, and have a knowledge of the Port Jackson Code of Signals.

For a Master employed in the same trade.—In addition to the knowledge necessary for a mate, he must be competent to take cross-bearings, and fix the position of his vessel on a chart, and he must know what is required of him, as master, under the Navigation Act.

Harbour and River Steamers.

The Master of a harbour and river steamer must understand the management of that particular class of vessel; bear a good character, and be thoroughly conversant with the rule of the road.

Qualification required of an applicant for a Certificate of Pilotage.

He will be examined as to his capacity to pilot the ship of which he is master, or of which he is about to procure the command, into or out of certain ports of New South Wales; and for this purpose he will be required to have a knowledge of the lights, dangers, tides, channels, depth of water, and other peculiarities of the ports for which he is examined.

Qualification for Certificates of Competency.

Second-class Engineer.—A candidate for a second-class engineer's certificate must be at least twenty-one years of age, and have been domiciled in the colonies three years out of the last preceding five years. Engineers for coast-trade steamships will be permitted to pass after being domiciled in the Colony one year.

He must have served an apprenticeship to an engineer, and prove that during the period of his apprenticeship he has been employed on the making and repairing of engines, or, if he has not served an apprenticeship, he must prove that for not less than three years he has been employed in some factory or workshop on the making or repairing of engines. In either case he must also have served one year at sea in the engine-room, or he must have served at least four years at sea in the engine-room; must be able to give a description of boilers and the methods of staying them, together with the use and management of the different valves, cocks, pipes, and connections; must understand how to correct defects from accident, decay, &c., and the means of repairing such defects; must understand the use of the barometer, thermometer, hydrometer, and salinometer; must state the causes, effects, and usual remedies for incrustation and corrosion; must be able to state how a temporary or permanent repair could be effected in case of derangement of a part of the machinery, or total break-down; must write a legible hand, and understand the first five rules of arithmetic and decimals; and be able to pass a creditable examination as to the various constructions of paddle and screw engines in general use; as to the details of the different working parts, external and internal, with the use of each part.

First-class Engineer.—A candidate for a first-class engineer's certificate must be, in addition to the qualification required by a second-class engineer, at least twenty-two years of age.

He must either possess or be entitled to a first-class engineer's certificate of service, or in the event of his not being so possessed or entitled, he must have served for one year with a second-class engineer's certificate of competency.

By this it is intended that the same rule shall be observed in the examination of engineers who are not in possession of a first-class engineer's certificate of service as is observed in the examination of masters and mates, viz., that before a certificate of a higher grade is granted, certain service in the lower grade must be performed. The examiner should therefore be satisfied that applicants for the first-class engineer's certificate have not only been in possession of a second-class certificate for twelve months, but that they have actually served for a period of not less than twelve months in the engine-room, with a second-class certificate, in the capacity of a second engineer, and that their names have been entered in the articles of agreement accordingly.

He must be able to make rough working drawings of the different parts of the engines and boilers; to take off and calculate indicator and diagrams; to calculate safety-valve pressures, and the strength of the boiler; to state the general proportions borne by the principal parts of the machinery to each other; to explain the method of testing and altering the setting of the slide-valves, and of testing the fairness of the paddle and screw shafts, and of adjusting them; be conversant with surface condensation, super-heating, and the working of steam expansively. His knowledge of arithmetic must include the mensuration of superficies and solids, and the extraction of the square root.

Examination for Extra First-class Engineer's Certificates.

It has been decided that the following regulations shall come into force with regard to extra first-class engineer's certificates:—

The extra examination may take place either at the time the candidate goes up for, or after he has passed for, a first-class engineer's certificate.

The extra certificate will not, however, be issued, unless or until the candidate has served at sea at least two years as a first engineer with a first-class engineer's certificate.

The Marine Board have decided that service as a third engineer in steamers, where more than three engineers are carried, their names being entered on the Articles in their respective ratings on board, shall be accepted as equivalent to service as second engineer for qualifying a candidate for examination for a first-class engineer's certificate, provided the candidate has been in possession of a second-class engineer's certificate during the performance of such service, and his name has been entered on the Articles as third engineer.

The Board have also decided that service in the engine-room of vessels in the coasting trade shall not be accepted as equivalent to service in the foreign trade.

The service required by the Regulations to qualify a candidate for examination is to be considered applicable as to service in the foreign trade only. Service in the coasting trade must amount to half as much again as that required by the Regulations, e.g., for every twelve months service under the Regulations eighteen months service in coasting vessels will be required.

Qualification for a Third-class Certificate.

Third-class Engineer—A candidate for a third-class engineer's certificate must have at least one year's experience in the working of engines and boilers.

He must be able to explain the use of the principal parts of high-pressure engines and boiler connections.

He must bear a good character and understand the rule of the road.

GENERAL RULES AS TO EXAMINATION.

1. The examinations will be visa voce, or by formal printed papers, or by both these methods, in accordance with the nature of the certificate applied for.

2. A reasonable time will be allowed candidates to solve questions, and to perform the work given them by the examiners, but they will not be allowed to bring into the examination room books or papers of any kind whatever, or to copy from the work of other candidates, or assist, or give information to one another, or in any way communicate during the time of examination. Any irregularity in respect of the above will be reported to the Marine Board.

3. The problems are to be worked in ink on paper furnished by the examiner, and no candidate will be permitted to leave the room until he has given up the paper on which he is engaged.

4. Should the applicant fail in the examination of the grade for which he applies, but pass in a lower grade, he may receive a certificate to that effect.

5. If an applicant fail to pass his examination he will be subjected to the Board of Trade Regulations in that respect, and will not be allowed to go before the examiners again without the consent of the Marine Board.

On an examiner being satisfied that a candidate has passed the necessary examination to entitle him to a certificate, an intimation to that effect is to be forwarded to the Marine Board, and a certificate will be granted on payment of the undermentioned fees, namely:—

						Pilotage Certificate.

No. 1.

Mr. A. B. Portus to The Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers.

My dear Mr. Moriarty,

Dredge "Newcastle," 19 April, 1880.

When you spoke to me last Monday about the depth of water at present on the Newcastle bar I felt that I ought to have been in a position to furnish a reliable answer to your query, and determined when opportunity offered to post myself up on the subject. Talking over the matter with Captain Allan, we arranged to take a set of soundings, pitched 2 fathoms apart, from the inner to the outer edge of the bar, and at each sounding to pierce the bottom with a chisel-steel-pointed iron rod attached to the end of a second sounding pole, to test the nature of the obstruction. This morning we went out and sounded outward for a distance of 82 fathoms from the inner edge of the shoal, with the result given on the other side. You will I am sure be gratified to learn that two most important improvements for the better have been revealed by the soundings taken, viz., an increased depth of 4 feet, as compared with soundings of 1871, and a removal of the bar seaward of between two and three hundred feet, due to the extension of the breakwaters. There is now on the shoalest part 21 feet (low water springs), and as the iron rod penetrated 3 feet below this before reaching hard bottom, we may reasonably infer that the improvement now going on will continue until there is 23 feet at least at low water, as the result of the scour now going on. Owing to the line from anchor to anchor fouling Captain Allan had to abandon the sounding after 82 of the 120 fathoms had been gone over, but the worst of the bar was tested by this time, casts by the lead showing over the remaining 38 fathoms a gradual deepening from 23 to 27 feet. However, in the course of a few days I hope to be able to send you the double soundings to complete the testing right across.

You will observe that we could not get the iron rod down more than 3 feet, although both Captain Allan and I tried with the two men to force it deeper. There was 8 feet of $\frac{7}{8}$ iron on the end of the pole, and after coming back to the harbour we applied the same pressure and worked the rod 7 feet into the sand near where the dredge is working.

I am, &c.,

A. B. PORTUS.

I beg to transmit for the information of Mr. Secretary Lackey this report, which is very satisfactory, as to the changes which have taken place in consequence of our operations at the entrance to the port of Newcastle.—E. O. MORIARTY, 21/4/80. B.C., Under Secretary, Public Works. Seen.—J.L., 22/4/80. Harbours and Rivers.—W.F. (for U.S.), B.C., 22/4/80.

I would suggest that the Minister allow this to be published in the papers; it is very important and interesting information.—E.O.M., 26/4/80. B.C., Under Secretary, Public Works.—P.W.O., 28/4/80. The substance I think would form interesting information for the public.—J.R. Mr. Moriarty, B.C., 4/5/80.

Lay on Table of the House.—J.L., 4/6/80.

No. 2.

Captain D. T. Allan to The President of the Marine Board.

Sir,

Harbour Office, Newcastle, 30 April, 1880.

I have the honor to forward by same post for your information a copy of soundings taken in the fairway over the bar in July, 1871; also a copy of soundings carefully taken this month on the same line of bearings, leading light towers in line, from which it will be seen that there is an increase in the depth of water of 3 feet 6 inches. The former soundings were taken in the usual way, with a sounding pole, but in this case a second pole with an iron probe 9 feet long attached was used, for the purpose of ascertaining the nature of the bottom on the bar (see margin of soundings); the blue line shows the depth to which the iron probe penetrated after hard driving.

I also enclose copy of soundings taken 26th instant in the north channel, where in 1860 there was an obstruction or bar of considerable length, with not more than 13 feet 6 inches water over it at low water, whereas by these soundings you will observe there is not less than 20 feet at low water. As neither of these channels has been dredged, I can only attribute this great improvement in the depth of water to the construction of the northern and southern breakwaters, together with the large amount of dredging that has been done in the harbour, thereby admitting a much larger volume of water, and causing a greater scouring influence in the several channels. There still remains a considerable portion of the Horseshoe Bank in the middle of the harbour, which is the cause of strong eddies and irregular sets of tide. When this is removed (which I believe is contemplated) this port will be one of the most safe and commodious in all the Australasian Colonies.

Loaded vessels having to cross the bar must of course be guided by the ocean-swell, which very materially alters the depth.

I have, &c.,

D. T. ALLAN,
Harbour Master.

The

The Marine Board is of opinion that this satisfactory report, together with the copy of the soundings, should be forwarded to the Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers.—G.S.L., 11/5/80. The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade. The Secretary for Public Works.—J.W., 14/5/80. The Under Secretary for Public Works—G.E., 14/5/80. B.C., with copy of soundings on the bar at Newcastle Harbours and Rivers.—J.R., B.C., 15/5/80.

No. 3.

Mr. C. W. Darley to The Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers.

MEMO. from Assistant Engineer to the Engineer-in-Chief, Harbours and Rivers, re increased depth of water at entrance to Newcastle Harbour.

Harbours and Rivers Office, Newcastle, 31 May, 1880.

I TRANSMIT herewith a tracing showing two sets of soundings taken over the bar in the fairway at entrance to Newcastle Harbour. The first set was taken 29th March, 1871, and the second set on the 19th April last. The comparison of the two sets shows clearly the scour that has taken place during that period.

On the first date the least depth was 17 feet at low water, spring tides, now the least depth is 21 feet low water, spring tides, an increase of 4 feet.

In 1875, when Captain Sidney, R.N., took the soundings, the least depth on the bar was 18 feet; at that time the breakwater was just being commenced; the increase of 3 feet 6 inches which has since taken place may, I think, be reasonably attributed to the action of the breakwater. Judging from the result of the borings or probings taken by Captain Allan and Mr. Portus, a much greater scour cannot be looked for, as there appears to be only 2 feet 6 inches of sand over the rock at the bar.

C. W. DARLEY,
Assistant Engineer.

Transmitted for the information of Mr. Secretary Lackey.—E.O.M., 2/6/80. Mr. Moriarty,—See Minister's minute within.—J.R., 5/6/80.

No. 1.

Dr. Bowker, M.P., to The Secretary for Lands.

My dear Mr. Farnell,

19, Church Hill, 4 May, 1878.

When Mr. Combes was about starting for Europe, I asked him to look into the matter of the cubic space and ventilation of schools, and he asked me to get you to write to him to request him to do so. It would indeed be a great matter to do so, as Mr. Combes, from his professional avocation (engineer, I believe), and from his general intelligence, would be well qualified for the task. I am quite sure that no one is thoroughly up to the question, and quite sure that it is one of very vital importance, and that here we are all wrong in our buildings, although no one at home has settled the matter for a semi-tropical country such as ours, yet valuable notions and advice might be obtained by Mr. Combes. The matter to be inquired into would be the amount of cubic space for each; the general style of building; the size and number of outlets and inlets, as windows and other openings; the mode of ventilation—whether one or two stories advisable; the kind of roof and openings in roof; if the school should be built on the ground floor or on arches, or other raised foundation; the size of school, and the number of pupils in each generally thought most advantageous; the size of the school reserve most advisable (in planning new townships). We should let him know that generally we have plenty of space, and therefore might have such cubic space as might enable us to do with natural means of ventilation, without being obliged from want of space to resort to artificial plans of ventilation, they being expensive and more uncertain. He should know also our summer and winter temperature, and, if we could give him the information, the temperature outside the schools, and that inside schools; perhaps some of our teachers might know this, and Mr. Wilkinson might obtain the information.

Yours, &c.,

R. R. S. BOWKER.

I am perfectly sure that we shall sometime find that we have wasted thousands from want of this information.

Minute by the Colonial Secretary.

Write to Mr. Combes, and request that he will avail himself of every opportunity that may offer of acquiring the information suggested by Dr. Bowker as to schools in France, or in any other European State respecting which the desired information may be within his reach.—M.F., 10/5.

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 14 May, 1878.

4th May, 1878.

In transmitting to you the enclosed copy of a letter from Dr. Bowker, M.P., asking that you might be invited to make inquiries regarding space, ventilation, &c., in schools, I have the honor to request that you will be so good as to avail yourself of every opportunity that may offer itself of acquiring information on the matters suggested by Dr. Bowker, as exhibited in schools in France or in any other European State as to which the desired information may be within your reach.

Sir,

1, Rue Desaix, Paris, 2 August, 1878.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th May, 78/4,116-286, instructing me to avail myself of every opportunity, in France or any other European State, in acquiring information on the construction and ventilation of school buildings, together with other matters relating thereto, as suggested by Dr. Bowker, M.P., in a letter addressed to the Honorable the Secretary for Lands, a copy of which you enclose for my guidance.

I beg respectfully to state that I will carry out your instructions to the best of my ability, and fully report thereon.

I have, &c.,

No. 6.

The Executive Commissioner, Paris Exhibition, to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir,

1 Rue Desaix, Paris, 13 February, 1879.

I have the honor to inform you that, in accordance with the instructions I received from your office, dated May 14th, 1878, No. 78/4,116-286, I at once took steps to acquire the information required by the Government on the subject suggested by Dr. Bowker, M.P. In the first place I placed myself in communication with Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, and through him obtained from the Secretary for Foreign Affairs such assistance as could be afforded by the authorities of European States in which I might desire to collect information.

The matters upon which I was instructed to report were of so important a nature (comprising subjects which up to the present moment are the objects of study in every country), that I felt it necessary to make such a comprehensive inquiry as would enable me to report upon and advise your Government fully.

With this object I have visited schools, hospitals, museums, and barracks, in Belgium, Germany, Austria, Paris, and London, and am at present engaged in collecting such information as will enable me faithfully to carry out your views.

I beg also to respectfully inform you that it is my intention to return by way of America, in order to enable me to ascertain the practice of the Government, and otherwise prosecute my inquiry in the United States.

I have, &c.,
EDWARD COMBES,
Executive Commissioner, Paris Exhibition.

The Executive Commissioner, Paris Exhibition, to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir,

1, Rue Desaix, Paris, 13 February, 1879.

In accordance with the telegraphic communication I received through the Agent General, requesting me to further the interests of the Sydney International Exhibition, I have the honor to inform you that I have performed these duties to the best of my ability, in advocating the claims of New South Wales in France, Belgium, Germany, and Austria.

In all these countries I was well received, and found the authorities anxious to co-operate and further the views of intending exhibitors. From each of these countries applications have been made for large quantities of space, and I would respectively call the attention of the Government to the fact that the quantity of space I telegraphed (some three months since) would be required, viz., six (6) acres, will be barely sufficient. You will, however, have received particulars as to these matters from the British Commission.

I have, &c.,

Sir,

Bedford, 14 March, 1879.

I have received from the Agent General of New South Wales a telegram as follows—"Combes' seat declared vacant, inform"—sent by you on the 19th of February last. This being an unconstitutional act, I cannot but think that there must be some mistake. Will you send me the source from whence you received such information, as a report of this nature, if allowed to pass uncontradicted, would reflect in no creditable manner on the procedure of the House of Assembly, and might be productive of some injury to myself.

Sir,

Glanmire, 19 July, 1879.

I have the honor to inform you that I have carried out the instructions given me by the Government of New South Wales in my capacity of Executive Commissioner to the Paris Exhibition, and in making an inquiry as to the constitution of school buildings in order to ascertain their latest sanitary improvements, together with an inquiry into the best means of organizing a Technological Museum.

I have collected a mass of materials upon which to frame reports, but as these reports must of necessity be written during such time as I may be able to spare from my business, it will be some time before they are ready.

At the Paris Exhibition I devoted all my spare time to the investigation of such subjects, and such machinery as I considered calculated to benefit the Colony. These subjects comprised the various processes for the production of heat and cold, meat-preserving apparatus, and the machinery for economically making the cases and packages, machinery for wood-working, brick and tile making, and other matters connected with mechanical and constructive art. I also collected considerable information with reference to new metallurgic processes, sugar and starch making and agricultural appliances; also upon wool and its manufacture. These and many other subjects I intend to fully report upon.

With reference to the School Building Inquiry, I made application to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and was placed in communication with the English Board of Education, and accredited to Her Majesty's Ambassadors in France, Belgium, Germany, and Austria. I visited the most modern examples of school architecture in these countries, making such notes and sketches as will enable me to report upon and advise the Government in this matter.

There having been no money voted by Parliament for the purchase of models and other things necessary for the purposes of a Technological Museum, I could only collect such papers and information as I thought would prove valuable in the formation and organization of such a museum.

Upon your indicating to me the subject you would first prefer me to report upon I will immediately commence, but I would respectfully suggest that I be permitted first to deal with the Paris Exhibition.

It is distinctly understood by me that I receive no remuneration for writing these reports.

I have, &c.,

Victoria Lodge, Miller's Point, Sydney, 30 July, 1879.

With reference to your letter of the 23rd instant, No. 645, 79/5,601, I have the honor to inform you that the amount due to me by the Government is £973 17s. sterling.

I left for France on the 10th March, 1878, and arrived in Sydney on the 9th July instant making a total of four hundred and eighty-seven (487) days.

The arrangement made between the late Colonial Secretary (Mr. Fitzpatrick) and myself is doubtless recorded in your office. It was based upon the understanding that I was to be allowed the full cost of my mission. I may, however, be permitted to add that Mr. Fitzpatrick intimated a hope that these expenses would not exceed five guineas per diem.

With regard to the reports which I shall submit to you, I have already informed you that they are in course of preparation; but as I understood the allowance would be only up to my return to the Colony, of course the Government will be put to no further charges on this account.

I have, &c.,

I think the letter might at once be acknowledged, and an intimation made in accordance with Sir Henry Parkes's minute. It could then be added that the whole matter would be attended to speedily, but that in any case Mr. Combes is to be good enough to understand that whatever may be done with regard to the past, no further expense would be incurred on the part of the Government for Mr. Combes.

Sir,

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 8 August, 1879.

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, informing the Government that you consider that the sum of (£973 17s.) nine hundred and seventy-three pounds and seventeen shillings is due to you on account of your late journey to Europe as Executive Commissioner at the Paris Exhibition of last year.

2. The Colonial Secretary observes that the total amount of your expenses is stated to cover the number of (487) four hundred and eighty-seven days, and that you add that the late Colonial Secretary (Mr. Fitzpatrick) intimated a hope that these expenses would not exceed (£5 5s.) five guineas per diem.

3. The records of this office do not disclose in precise terms the particulars of your appointment, and the whole matter as presented by your letter now under notice will be submitted for the consideration of the Cabinet on an early day, after which a further communication will be made to you.

4. Sir Henry Parkes understands from your last letter that you consider that you have yet to furnish reports of your services, but that your claims upon the Government terminated with your arrival in Sydney on the 9th ultimo, and he will submit the matter for consideration on this understanding of what are your views of the case.

I have the honor, by direction of the Colonial Secretary, to submit to you the accompanying copies of letters, relating to the appointment of Mr. Edward Combes as Executive Commissioner at the Paris Exhibition of last year.

2. You will observe that Mr. Combes claims payment by the Government of the sum of nine hundred and seventy-three pounds seventeen shillings (£973 17s.), being for the balance of time from March 10th, 1878, to July 9th, 1879, when Mr. Combes returned to Sydney, eight months after the closing of the Exhibition in Paris. The Colonial Secretary cannot discover any document to guide him as to what were the intentions of the Government in this matter, or any information more definite than is contained in the letters, copies of which are herewith enclosed. He will feel much obliged if you will be good enough to say whether the payments to Mr. Combes were intended to continue until that gentleman's return to the Colony, without any limit of time after the closing of the Paris Exhibition, on the 10th December, 1878, or whether they were intended to extend over any time occupied by the extra duties which Mr. Combes was requested to undertake by your letter of the 14th May, 1878.

In answer to your letter of the 4th ultimo, addressed to me, while I was in Queensland, I beg to say that the arrangement made by me (as Colonial Secretary) with Mr. Edward Combes, when he was appointed Executive Commissioner to the Paris Exhibition, was that his actual expenses out of pocket should be repaid, and that these expenses must on no account exceed the rate of £5 per diem. This allowance would have covered the period from the day of his departure to the day of his return after the closing of the Exhibition.

When I directed Mr. Combes, by my letter of 14 May, 1878, to undertake other duties, it was clearly in my mind that any additional expense thereby incurred by him would be defrayed by the public, but it did not occur to me that his absence from the Colony would be thereby greatly prolonged. How far that prolonged absence is justified by the results is a question which Sir Henry Parkes is in a better position to judge than I am.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION, 1878.

(REPORT OF NEW SOUTH WALES COMMISSIONERS FOR.)

Presented to Parliament by Command.

THE Commissioners appointed to make arrangements for the representation of New South Wales at the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878, have the honor to submit to your Excellency this their Report:—

Governor Sir Hercules Robinson and His Excellency's advisers were informed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, the Consul for France in Sydney, and the Agent General for New South Wales in London, during the year 1877, that in terms of the decrees issued by the Marshal President of the French Republic, on the motion of the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, and of the Minister of Public Instruction and the Fine Arts, an Universal and International Exhibition would be opened at Paris on the 1st of May, 1878, and continue until the 31st of October following. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, President of the Commission, appointed by Her Majesty to act for the United Kingdom, caused to be officially announced to your Excellency's predecessor the part to be taken by Great Britain at the then approaching Exhibition, and expressed the pleasure he should feel in learning that the various Governments of Her Majesty's dependencies had determined to take a prominent part in making a suitable representation of their productions, and M. Simon, in transmitting to His Excellency copies of the official regulations, begged that his communication might be regarded in the light of a cordial appeal to the industry of New South Wales.

Parliament having appropriated the sum of £5,000 to defray the expenses of making provision for the representation of the Colony at the Paris Exhibition, the Honorable the Colonial Secretary by an announcement in the Government Gazette of the 6th of November, 1877, intimated that His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, had been pleased to appoint the Commissioners to devise and carry out the details necessary for the collection and transmission to Paris of all articles the produce or manufacture of New South Wales intended for exposition there, but the Letters Patent could not be issued until sometime afterwards, owing to the absence of His Excellency the Governor from Sydney.

The tenth article of the special Regulations governing the reception of goods at the Exhibition made it imperative that products of every kind should be set up and their arrangement partially completed by the 15th of April, 1878, a limitation which, it was stated, the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce would strictly observe. Commissions appointed to make arrangements for the representation of the neighbouring Colonies had already nearly completed their work; and in view of the probable delay contingent upon the transshipment of goods at Southampton or London and their transport to Paris, it appeared to the President that unless some of the articles to be exhibited could be sent from Sydney within a period of a very few weeks, any space which might have been reserved for the Colony would revert to the Imperial Commission, and be re-allotted by reason of its not having been occupied. Under these circumstances of exceptional urgency, the President judged it expedient not to wait for the formal issue of the Commission but to accept the official notification in the Gazette as a sufficient authority upon which to act. He therefore caused the first meeting of the Commissioners to be summoned for the 13th of November. Meanwhile he concluded such preliminary measures as were needful to facilitate the transaction of business; and by the prompt co-operation of the Government in the plans proposed by him the Commissioners found that the services of the Railway Department for the carriage of goods, and of the Printing and Electric Telegraph Departments for the dissemination of intelligence, had been placed at their disposal, that other details of organisation had been anticipated, and that the Commissioners were in a position to at once consider and determine upon the regulations which should govern the reception and transmission of goods, and to apportion the general work of the Commission as seemed calculated to best secure the most speedy and effective accomplishment of the objects for which they had been appointed.

The regulations of the French Commission provided that in every section set apart for the exhibitors of one and the same nation the articles exhibited should be distributed into the nine groups following:—

- 1st group.—Works of art.
- 2nd group.—Education, teaching—Appliances and processes of the liberal arts.
- 3rd group.—Furniture and accessories.
- 4th group.—Textile fabrics—Clothing and accessories.
- 5th group.—Extractive industries—Raw and wrought products.
- 6th group.—Tools and processes used in the mechanical arts.
- 7th group.—Alimentary products.
- 8th group.—Agriculture and pisciculture.
- 9th group.—Horticulture.

Each of these groups was subdivided, according to a scheme of general classification.

The Commissioners at once recognised the necessity of adhering to the classification which had been promulgated; but they perceived that to obtain the representation of Colonial art and industry in all the subdivisions of the catalogue would be impracticable in the time and with the money at their command, even were so ambitious a project in itself a thing to be desired. They therefore determined to make it their chief endeavour to obtain as good a collection as possible of what may be called the natural products of the country, such as wool, minerals, wine, and cereals; and to send these in such quantities as should give observers an impression not only of the variety of the Colony's resources but also of their abundance. At the same time invitations to participate in the Exhibition were issued to persons engaged in every branch of skilled industry which has obtained any considerable development or respectable proficiency among us; and arrangements were made for the carriage and insurance of all goods which might be offered free of cost to the exhibitors.

One of the questions considered by the Commissioners at their first meeting was that of the area of the space to be applied for, and they then learnt that the requirements of the Colony in this particular had been anticipated by the action of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary. Early in December following the Commissioners received plans of the space which had been allotted to New South Wales in the main Exhibition Building at Paris, and of the space which His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales proposed to allot in the entrance tower, should the Colony be prepared to occupy with a suitable trophy that position which was one of exceptional prominence and advantage. The Commissioners at once accepted the position offered in the tower, but they saw that the space allotted was not adequate to the extent of their preparations.

Correspondence was entered into with the neighbouring colonies with a view to the joint construction and occupation of an Australian house upon the Exhibition Grounds, but the Commissioners did not succeed in enlisting the co-operation of the other colonies in this proposal. New Zealand, however, liberally offered to relinquish her space to New South Wales on the condition that the Commissioners took charge of any exhibits which might be sent from that Colony, and Tasmania also consented to assign her space to New South Wales. Although the Secretary of State to the Colonies and the Agent General were promptly communicated with by telegram, it was found that the Commissioners could not allot to us more than seven-tenths of the New Zealand space; and that the space originally set apart for Tasmania had, upon receipt of an intimation from that Colony that Tasmania would not participate in the Exhibition, been redistributed.

In the first group of the classification, that devoted to works of art, the Commissioners were not able to do much more than to send photographs of the principal buildings and views in and around Sydney, and these were obtained chiefly from the Government Printing Office. The Colonial Architect also supplied coloured perspective drawings of three of the principal public buildings of the city, which had great artistic merit, and which were well suited to create a favourable impression of the taste and opulence of the Colony, as shown in the erection of these edifices. The large album of Roads and Bridges in New South Wales, obtained from the Engineer at the head of the Roads Department, also possessed an interest wider than that of the professional observer; but the attempts which the Commissioners made in other directions to bring prominently before visitors to the Exhibition some of the principal railway and other works which have been constructed to facilitate settlement in different parts of the Colony were not successful.

With regard to the second group, "Education," the Commissioners had to content themselves by simply forwarding large views of the University and affiliated Colleges, for the Council of Education was not in a position to contribute suitable pictures or models of any of the principal public schools which the Commissioners desired to obtain to illustrate in some measure the provision which Parliament has made for primary education. With respect to educational appliances, the Commissioners did not discover any objects of sufficient novelty or merit to warrant them in making any exhibition in that direction. Special maps were prepared at the instance of the Commissioners by the Surveyor General, to show by distinctive colours the general distribution of the mineral deposits of the Colony, and the areas suitable for the growth of the vine, tobacco, sugar, and for the cultivation of cereals. The Department of Mines supplied Mr. Wilkinson's geological maps of the

Bowenfells

Bowenfells Coal Field, and of some of the principal gold fields, together with diagrams specially prepared by the Examiner of Coal Fields to show the character, thickness, and portions mined out of the seams of coal worked at the different collieries in New South Wales.

In the third group, furniture and accessories, the Colony made no exhibition; and in the fourth, textile fabrics, there was but one exhibit consisting of tweeds and shawls, which were made at the cost of the Commissioners by one of the local manufacturers.

In the fifth group, which related to raw and manufactured products, the Commissioners were enabled by the ready co-operation of the Department of Mines, and of numerous individual exhibitors, to make a very comprehensive display of the mineral wealth of the Colony. The collections comprised a large series of fossils, rocks, and minerals, arranged by Mr. C. S. Wilkinson, F.G.S. That from the Department of Mines included the chief characteristic fossils illustrative of the principal Sedimentary Formations of New South Wales, the formations being taken in the order of their super position, commencing with the oldest, the Silurian, which occupies about one-fourth of the area of the Colony. No rocks older than the Upper Silurian have yet been identified in New South Wales, but it is thought that certain of the sedimentary rocks flanking the conical mass of granite which forms Mount Kosciusco may possibly be of Lower Silurian or Cambrian age. The Favosites, Tentaculites, Trilobites, and Receptaculites are some of the characteristic Upper Silurian fossils. Next in order are the Devonian and Carboniferous formations. It has been found somewhat difficult here, as in Europe, to define the limits of these formations; for though each has its own distinguishing fossils, yet these are commingled with fossils belonging to the other formations. Thus the Upper Silurian and Lower Devonian beds contain fossils common to both; and the Upper Devonian and Lower Carboniferous beds are similarly related. The principal gold-bearing quartz reefs in New South Wales occur in these three formations, and in the diorites and hornblende granites which penetrate them as intrusive masses or dykes. The copper and tin lodes also occur in the Palæozoic rocks of the same ages. The rich gold-bearing reefs of the Copeland Gold Field are in beds containing the Lepidodendron, Sigillaria, &c. The lowest workable coal seam in New South Wales occurs in the upper beds of the Carboniferous formation. This is the Anvil Creek or Greta seam; it is associated with plant beds containing Glossopteris and Phyllothea, and interstratified with marine beds containing Productus and numerous shells determined by Professor M'Coy, Professor de Koninck, and other Palæontologists, as of true Carboniferous age. It is therefore a most significant fact, as was first pointed out by the late Rev. W. B. Clarke, that the Glossopteris and Phyllothea, which are the most abundant plants in the Upper Coal Measures, or Permian formation of New South Wales, first appear in the Carboniferous period. Specimen No. 96 in the catalogue exhibiting these two fossil plants was collected by Mr. C. S. Wilkinson from the fire-clay shales immediately underlying the Anvil Creek coal seam, and below beds more than 400 feet in thickness, containing the above-mentioned marine Carboniferous fauna, and called in the catalogue, and in the late Rev. W. B. Clarke's work "Upper Marine Beds." The next series, or the "Upper Coal Measures," are classed as of Permian age; the only fossils they contain are plants with some fossil fish. In these strata occur the vast deposits of coal worked on the Newcastle, Bowenfells, and Illawarra Coal Fields of New South Wales. Actual sections taken from these seams of coal were exhibited from the principal collieries. Above the Upper Coal Measures are the Hawkesbury Sandstones,
and

and above these again the Winamatta Shales, which have been classed as Lower Mesozoic; they contain a few thin seams of coal with Phyllothea and Palæoniscus, but the Glossopteris has hitherto not been found in them. Next in the series of formations in New South Wales come the Tertiaries, the Miocene, Pliocene, and Pleistocene. The Miocene is characterized by certain fresh-water beds containing plants, some of which are believed to be identical with species described by Professor Heer from the Lower Miocene strata of Europe. The Pliocene fossils consist chiefly of fossil fruits, leaves, and fragments of wood, found usually beneath a great thickness of basalt, and in clays and gravels which have been deposited in ancient valleys, the drainage channels of the land during the Pliocene period. These ancient drainage channels are the so-called "deep leads" of the gold miners, which have yielded such vast quantities of gold. Thus from the deep leads on the Gulgong Gold Field more than 16 tons of gold were obtained during seven years, within an area of about 60 square miles. In the stanniferous country rich tin-bearing deposits occur in the deep leads. The Pleistocene fossils are chiefly bones of the extinct gigantic marsupials, Diprotodon, &c.; with these are found the remains of recent marsupials. The Pleistocene and Recent alluvia, where they have been derived from auriferous Palæozoic rocks, have afforded very rich deposits of gold and tin ore.

The collection of precious stones exhibited by the Commissioners, although not very large, contained some good specimens of the more precious gems. Diamonds have been found in considerable numbers in various parts of New South Wales, more particularly at Bingera and Mudgee, and there is every reason to expect that the search for them will afford remunerative employment. The Honorable Saul Samuel, C.M.G., exhibited a block of vesicular basalt, the cavities of which contained precious opal. This opal basalt occurs in immense masses at the Rocky Ridge Creek, near Abercrombie. Professor Liversidge also contributed a collection of rough gems and gem sands with accompanying minerals from several districts of the Colony.

The Commissioners considered that much importance attached to the stanniferous deposits of the Colony which, it is estimated, extend over an area of 8,500 square miles, and which, since 1872, when the working of the tin fields began, has yielded ore to the value of £2,771,772. The extent and richness of the Colony's resources in this mineral have operated as a present discouragement to the industry, the largeness of the Australian production having greatly reduced the value of the metal in European markets. The collections of lode tin, stream tin, cassiterite and other stanniferous rocks, which the Commissioners forwarded to Paris, demonstrated that New South Wales possesses large and but partly explored tin deposits which may be expected to become more valuable and to give permanent and profitable employment for capital and labour. The Commissioners obtained from Messrs. A. & R. Amos the loan of upwards of twenty-five tons of metallic tin in ingots and other forms, which, with a like quantity of copper purchased from the Eskbank Smelting Works, formed the basis of the New South Wales mineral trophy in the entrance tower of the Exhibition. The specimens of tin ores from the Mining Department were supplemented by important collections from the Australian Museum and the Geological Museum of the Sydney University, from Mr. J. H. Butchart and Mr. S. L. Bensusan.

Nearly one hundred samples of copper ores were included in the Mining Department's collection; and massive blocks of ore were obtained from the Cow Flat, the Cadia, the Frogmore, and the Snowball Mines. The approximate area of cupriferous country in New South Wales is 6,713 square miles, but the value of the copper produced for the last twenty years, as shown by the official returns, has not exceeded £350,000.

Although

Although some of the best known iron deposits in the Colony are intersected by the Southern and Western lines of railway, and the ore could have been carried from the mine without charge to exhibitors, yet the applications made by the Commissioners met with no response, and disappointment was felt that the iron ores of the Colony could not be shown by massive blocks as were the copper. The Commissioners obtained upwards of forty specimens of iron ores from the Department of Mines, and they purchased 10 tons of manufactured iron from the Lithgow Valley Co. Antimony, lead, and silver ores were similarly represented by cabinet specimens, and the purchase of a small quantity of ingots of antimony.

The production of gold in the Colony to the close of 1877, namely, 8,844,785 ounces, was represented by a gilded pyramid, calculated to accurately exhibit the dimensions of the gold produced, presuming it to have been cast into that form. Very handsome specimens of gold in slate and quartz, to the value of upwards of £550, were obtained from the Star of Peace Co.'s Mine, Hill End; and, through the agency of the Master of the Mint, thirty-three samples of gold were collected from the Northern, Southern, and Western districts. Other smaller purchases were made; and about seventy specimens of auriferous quartz were lent by the Department of Mines.

The Commissioners are indebted to the Government Examiner of Coal Fields (Mr. John Mackenzie, F.G.S.) for the most complete exhibition of the coal seams of New South Wales which has yet been made, and to the New South Wales Shale and Oil Company for a section of their petroleum oil cannel coal. In addition to numerous typical cabinet specimens, the carboniferous resources of the Colony were set forth by the following full-size sections of seams:—

Bituminous coal from the Northern district, county of Northumberland.

Seam worked at the Australian Agricultural Company's Colliery, Newcastle.

Seam worked at the Co-operative Colliery, Platsburg, near Newcastle.

Seam worked at the New Lambton Colliery, near Newcastle.

Seam worked at the Newcastle Wallsend Colliery, near Newcastle.

Seam worked at the Newcastle Coal Company's Colliery, The Glebe, Newcastle.

Semi-bituminous coal from the Southern district, county of Camden.

Seam worked at the Bulli Colliery, Bulli, near Wollongong.

Seam worked at the Osborne Wallsend Colliery, Mount Keira, near Wollongong.

Seam worked at the Illawarra Coal Company's Colliery at Mount Pleasant, near Wollongong.

Semi-bituminous coal from the Southern district, county of Cumberland.

Coal seam worked at the Coal Cliff Coal-mining Company's Colliery at Coal Cliff, 15 miles from Port Hacking, and 35 miles from Port Jackson by sea.

Splint coal from the Western district, county of Cook.

Seam worked at the Vale of Clwydd Colliery at Lithgow Valley, alongside the Great Western Railway, and 95 miles from the harbour of Port Jackson.

Kerosene shale, petroleum oil cannel coal. The New South Wales Shale and Oil Company.

The

The interest and value attaching to these exhibits was enhanced by accurate descriptions and statistics; and the printed diagrams, showing in natural size the thickness of the principal seams worked in the coal fields of New South Wales, were much sought after by the conductors of the various mineralogical and scientific museums of Europe.

The building stones sent to the Exhibition included eighteen specimens of marble and two of granite, while the advantage which Sydney possess in this regard was indicated by a sandstone cube, hewn from the Pymont quarries.

The Commissioners would here record their obligations to Professor Liversidge, F.G.S., in preparing for the Exhibition in Sydney, and more especially for the careful arrangement of the mineral and other collections in Paris. The case containing the labels and detailed information requisite for the proper classification of the minerals was lost for some time on the French railway. In the absence of this information, a scientific and intelligible arrangement became a matter requiring patient care, and the work could not have been done, except by a mineralogist.

When it became known to the Commissioners that Professor Liversidge intended to visit Paris for the purpose of being present at the Geological Congress, the Commissioners perceived that that was an exceptionally favourable opportunity of distributing information respecting the geology and mineralogy of New South Wales. The Rev. W. B. Clarke, although then in very infirm health, very kindly undertook the labour of revising his pamphlet on the Sedimentary Formations of New South Wales, and supplementing it by the results of recent discoveries, and authority was obtained from the Government for the publication of 300 copies. That was the last important work which our fellow Commissioner, who held so distinguished a place in the ranks of scientific men, completed; and the Commissioners feel that by the death of the Rev. W. B. Clarke, which occurred soon afterwards, the Colony has lost a citizen most eminent and useful.

The International Congress of Geologists was held at the Palace of the Trocadero in August and September, 1878, under the Presidency of M. Bardoux, the Minister for Public Instruction of France, and there were from 350 to 400 members present, including amongst their number many of the most illustrious geologists from all parts of Europe and America. From a paper, read by Professor Liversidge before the Royal Society, the Commissioners have observed that the specimens of fossil plants from the New South Wales coal-beds, arranged by Mr. Wilkinson, and sent by the Department of Mines to the Exhibition, obtained special observation and remark; and, it is stated: "The geological collections and publications sent from Sydney to the Paris Exhibition attracted considerable attention; the copies of the 'Remarks on the Sedimentary Formations of New South Wales,' by the late Rev. W. B. Clarke, F.R.S., the 'Mineral Map,' and 'Essay on the Progress and Resources of New South Wales,' which at one of the first meetings were distributed to the members of the Congress, were received with great pleasure, and obtained from the President, on behalf of the Congress, a vote of thanks in acknowledgment of the liberality of the New South Wales Government." As that Congress was largely attended by University Professors, and other teachers of geology, the Commissioners conclude that the Colony will hereafter reap benefit from that expenditure by attention being drawn to its mineral resources in the class rooms of the Universities and Technological Colleges of Europe and America; but, whether this anticipation be realized or not, they regard it as a subject for satisfaction that the Government has enabled them in any degree to assist in the increase of knowledge.

Professor

Professor Liversidge has placed the Department of Mines and the Australian Museum in communication with many of the principal scientific institutions in Europe, and a great desire has been expressed on behalf of the latter for the interchange of specimens of mineralogy and natural history. The Commissioners will be glad if a correspondence likely to be of so much mutual advantage to the Museums of New South Wales and those of Europe shall continue, and it appears to them that suitable collections of Australian minerals and fossils exposed to public inspection in such institutions, would form a permanent advertisement of the Colony's resources. The professional staff of the Mining and Survey Departments might perhaps be requested to undertake the duty of forwarding to Sydney such typical specimens as come under their observation; and the collections which it is believed would be sent from Europe in exchange for them would be extremely interesting and valuable to that large portion of the community whose studies or pecuniary interests are concerned in the exploration of our mineral deposits.

With regard to the products of the forest, the few weeks at the disposal of the Commissioners for preparation made it quite useless to attempt to collect specimens of the indigenous woods. The valuable collection presented to the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew in 1862 could not be obtained, for when these woods were borrowed for the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1876 (having been lent for a similar purpose on two former occasions), Dr. Hooker, the Director, expressed a strong objection to such frequent removal of the specimens, as leading to great inconvenience; and even intimated that, while fully sensible of the liberality of the Colony in depositing so valuable a collection in the Kew Museum, he should have to consider, in the event of a further request of that kind, whether he should be justified in retaining the custody of the collection on such conditions. The Commissioners sent four magnificent specimens of tree ferns for the purpose of decorating the court, and at the same time showing the richness of our vegetation. Mr. Thomas Page, of Grafton, also sent several specimens of woods from the Clarence River.

By the co-operation of the Trustees of the Australian Museum, the Commissioners were able to send to the Exhibition a representative collection of casts of Australian fossil remains, a very numerous collection of birds, and specimens of the principal marsupials, &c.

While it was the primary duty of the Commissioners to make arrangements for the exhibition of the products and industry of New South Wales, yet, having regard to the intimate commercial relations which exist between this Colony and Fiji, and to the fact that the latter dependency of Great Britain would have no special representation at the Exhibition, they consented to take charge of such exhibits from Fiji as might be offered to them. Two samples of cotton were therefore exhibited in the New South Wales Court, and a gold medal was awarded to each.

Applications were made to all persons who were known to have taken any interest in sericulture, and three very interesting exhibits of silk and silk cocoons were received. A proposal was made that the grain of the silkworm should be sent to Paris, under certain special conditions designed to exemplify an improved method of controlling and retarding, where necessary, the development of the grain. The Commissioners were very sensible of the importance of making known the adaptability of the climate of Australia for the production of silk; but a careful consideration of the project convinced them that it was so beset with technical difficulties that it could only be carried out by the employment of an expert, and for that they had no funds.

Messrs.

Messrs. A. W. Sutton & Co., at the solicitation of the Commissioners, made an extremely attractive exhibit of manufactured tobaccos; and some cigars, made from Clarence River leaf, were sent from Grafton.

By reason of the long absence of rain throughout the Colony the Commissioners feared that it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to make a really good exhibit of the great staple product of the Colony—wool. They, however, made very persistent and earnest endeavours to accomplish this object. They had great gratification in finding that their appeals were worthily responded to by pastoralists in all the wool producing districts, and that the quality of the samples sent in was much superior to anything which they had anticipated. The Commissioners are advised that the wool sent from New South Wales was examined with great interest by the numerous classes of persons who, as sheep breeders or as manufacturers of textile fabrics, are concerned in the production of wool. In all, 101 lots were shown, nearly one half of them being in the grease. Twelve fleeces were lent by the Agricultural Society, and at the close of the Exhibition were, upon the request of the Japanese Ambassador, presented to that country. As the result of the adoption of European civilization by the people of Japan there is reason to expect that a demand for the wool of this Colony will arise, and that a commercial intercourse may be established between Sydney and Yokohama, which is destined to grow into large dimensions. Messrs. R. Goldsborough & Co. held an intercolonial wool exhibition at Melbourne early in the year 1878; and the Commissioners were fortunately able to supplement their Sydney exhibits by fifteen bales, many of which were from the best clips of Riverina, and which though grown in New South Wales are known in the London market as Port Phillip wool. The Grand Prize of the Exhibition was awarded to the Honorable Edward King Cox for New South Wales wool produced in the district of Mudgee.

Messrs. Alderson and Sons and Messrs. Davenport and Alcock sent to the Exhibition very excellent collections of leathers of different descriptions which formed a fitting representation of the advance which has been made in the important department of manufacturing industry in which those firms are engaged. We regret however to say that their goods suffered considerable injury from excessive heat in the hold of the vessel in which they were carried from Sydney.

The rest of the articles exhibited were almost wholly such as came under the seventh group of the classification, namely, alimentary products. Those who have had experience of exhibitions in the Colony are aware that it is a matter of the greatest difficulty to induce agriculturists to exhibit grain, and in some instances there has been an almost entire absence of cereals grown in the Colony. The applications of the Commissioners to the farming population met with the most meagre response; and had not the Commissioners been able to enlist the co-operation of the principal mill owners in the different districts of the Colony they would have met with little or no success. Several of the millers were at considerable pains to purchase the best samples of wheat grown in their neighbourhoods, but owing to the perfect indifference of the cultivators it was not possible in some instances to get the then season's crop to market, and wheat twelve months' old had to be substituted. About twenty very good samples were obtained and carefully packed in accordance with the directions of the dealers. The weevil however was developed during the voyage and most of the wheat and maize had to be cast aside as unfit for exhibition when it arrived in Paris. Prime samples of maize, forwarded by the Honorable Sir Wm. Macarthur, arrived at the Exhibition too late to be examined by the judges. They were varieties which had been carefully improved by Sir Wm. during a series of years, and were exceptionally heavy and rich in gluten; but unfortunately it was quite impossible to forward them in a sufficiently seasoned state from Camden Park before the beginning of May.

The severe illness which incapacitated the Director of the Botanic Gardens from duty prevented the completion of preparations which were entrusted to him in regard to the collection of oranges and other fruits. The varieties of the orange which are now in successful cultivation in New South Wales are more numerous than those which were growing in France or Spain on the occasion of Mr. Moore's visit to those countries a few years ago, and the Commissioners would have been glad, therefore, to have had it in their power to send a comprehensive collection. It would have been possible to have sent the fruits which are commonly grown in the Colony upon ice by the mail steamships; but, considering the necessarily short duration of such an exhibition, the Commissioners would have hesitated to incur the large expense which the adoption of that plan would involve, even had their financial position at the time enabled them to enter upon such an expenditure. Occasion was taken, however, of a visit of the Revd. Dr. Bleasdale, to Sydney, to make a small consignment of grapes which that gentleman selected in the vineyards of the Camden District and packed in dry sawdust. Dr. Bleasdale had had considerable experience in the packing of fruit in Portugal for the English market; but in this case the experiment was not successful.

There were twenty-three exhibitors of wine, and the number of their samples exceeded one hundred. The Commissioners were extremely desirous that this branch of Colonial industry should be adequately represented in the capital of France, and they have been much gratified by the compliance on the part of so many exhibitors with their applications. The wine exhibits were more numerous than at any previous International Exhibition. The Commissioners desired that the special attention of the jurors might be directed to the samples of wine sent from this Colony, and they look forward with much interest to the publication of their reports.

Among other alimentary products of New South Wales which were well represented at the Paris Exhibition were arrowroot, flour, sugar, preserved milk, and preserved meats, the article last-named having, it is reported, more particularly engaged the attention of military authorities concerned in the provisioning of troops.

It appeared to the Commissioners that an adequate representation of New South Wales required that the fullest information should be given respecting the capability of the Colony to support a larger population, and the inducements which its great natural wealth afford for the investment of capital. The resources of the Government Printing Office were at the time strained by the pressure of urgent work, but a special effort was made to comply with the request of the Commissioners, and they are indebted to that department of the Government Service for the following publications, which were forwarded month by month for distribution in the New South Wales Court:—

Special numbers of the Sydney Morning Herald and the Sydney Illustrated News, printed in English and French, were also published; and 10,000 copies of each were purchased and forwarded to Paris for distribution. Numerous letters received from the Representative Commissioners state that the printed information was eagerly sought for by visitors to the Exhibition, whose interest in New South Wales had been excited by an examination of its wide range of products.

In a letter, dated a few days after the close of the Exhibition, addressed to the President, the Secretary to the Representative Commissioners in Paris (Mr. Jules Joubert), wrote: "The statistical returns are not yet officially published, but I may mention that the number of visitors has exceeded 16,000,000, the average being 82,000 a day, and that throughout the whole period of the Exhibition. In spite of the immense concourse of people mentioned, there has never been the slightest complaint or accident to mar the success of the gigantic undertaking. The arrangements throughout have been perfect. The Australian Colonies have made a most favourable impression. The pamphlets, papers, and books sent by you have been circulated throughout Europe; the natural productions of New South Wales have been greatly admired; and it is due to those who have had the preparing of the representation of the Colony on your side if France and continental Europe now take such a lively interest in the International Exhibitions which are being prepared in Australia."

It is not for the Commissioners to express any opinion upon the permanent benefit which may accrue to New South Wales as the result of its participation in the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878; but, from the fact that no less than ninety-four awards were made in favour of the 146 competitors in the New South Wales Court, they think they are entitled to infer that the productions of the Colony possess a high degree of excellence, and they hope that the success which has been attained will stimulate manufacturers and producers to further effort. It will also be gratifying to all who are interested in the fair fame of New South Wales, and are concerned to maintain her position as an integral portion of the British Empire, to be assured by the Royal President of the Imperial Commission of his appreciation of the value of her co-operation with the Mother country in the great industrial gathering of the nations which has recently taken place.

The Commissioners append—I. A Balance Sheet showing the moneys received and expended by them; II. The Report of Edward Combes, Esq., C.M.G., M.P., Executive Commissioner at Paris; III. Schedule of official awards; IV. A comparative statement of the awards in the Australian Courts; and V. A list of the Commissioners.

APPENDIX II.

To the Chairman of the Royal Commission for the Paris Exhibition 1878, Sydney, New South Wales.

Sir,

I, Rue Desaix, Paris, le 13th February, 1879.

By decree of the French Government, the final closing of the Exhibition was postponed from the 1st to the 10th November; this delay necessarily entailed upon the Commission in Paris many new and unforeseen duties, which however were entered upon with the same spirit which I am happy to report has throughout animated all those who have co-operated so zealously with me in carrying out to a satisfactory conclusion the representation of the Colony of New South Wales at the Paris Exhibition.

All accounts in connection with the New South Wales Commission have now been closed. Such exhibits as were to be returned to the Colony have been carefully packed and shipped, having been duly insured against all risks. Accounts, vouchers, policies, and bills of lading, will be handed over to the Royal Commission in Sydney by the Secretary, who returns by the out-going mail.

Our labours in Paris having now been concluded, I have the honor to lay before you, in as concise a form as it is possible to make it, a report of the work which has been entrusted to me. It must however be understood that the official report which I shall make to the Government upon the Paris Exhibition of 1878, and for which I have collected all the necessary material, will require considerable time in its preparation, and will not be completed until after my return to New South Wales.

Upon the arrival of the Secretary in Paris on the 17th March, 1878, a small portion only of the shipments of exhibits per "Hankow" had arrived; this consisted of some packages containing tin and copper ingots and a few cases of wool, wine, and sundries. From advices at hand however, the Commission were informed that other shipments had been made, and a fortnight after my arrival in Paris the bulk of the goods per "Stadt-Amsterdam" reached the Champs de Mars. From the first day it became evident that the space allotted to the Colony of New South Wales would be inadequate to the requirements of the Commission; applications were made to the proper authorities, and I am happy to state that the granting of an extra space at the southern end of the court, as well as the closing of the transverse thoroughfares, enabled the Commission to adopt a plan of double show cases, which had the two-fold advantage first, of materially increasing the frontage at our disposal, and secondly, of giving to the court a much larger appearance than it really possessed.

In order to carry out this plan the Commission decided to enter into a contract with a firm for the hire only of as many glass show-cases as would completely enclose the space allotted to the Colony, and besides these a large octagonal stand also under plate glass for the proper display and safe keeping of the wine exhibits. These, together with the cases lent by the Agent-General, and those ordered to be made in Paris for the Department of Mines, and also the wool cases sent from Sydney which were raised on polished mahogany stands, filled up the court. Of the general effect you will have been enabled to judge from the photographic views which were taken at the time and forwarded to you.

The lateness of the arrival of the exhibits, and the miscarriage of the detailed information relating thereto, caused much anxiety to the Commission in Paris, and to a certain extent unavoidable expense.

At the time of my arrival in Paris the Commissioners had made no provision for defraying current expenses, or meeting the payment of the contracts they had entered into; arrangements had to be made with the Manager of the Bank of New South Wales in London, and through him we had a credit opened at the Caisse Generale of Paris, where the account of the Commission was kept until the close of the Exhibition.

As soon as all the exhibits had been arranged, classified, and labelled, samples from each were set aside in accordance with the official documents furnished to us by the "Comité des Jurys." For upwards of fourteen weeks the Court was daily visited by individual jurors who took it in turn to examine the exhibits in each class, preparatory to the final and official inspection by the full jury. Nearly all the products shown in the New South Wales Court had been so carefully selected on your side, that they attracted the attention of the Judges from the first, and as the day for the final decision approached we were gratified to notice that the Australian exhibits and ours more particularly were still at the head of the lists; and at every visit from the jurors we heard flattering remarks as to the excellence of our products.

It was not only from the gentlemen so carefully selected by the authorities to act as Judges, that we heard such praises bestowed upon the exhibits under our charge. The millions of visitors who day after day spent hours in carefully examining the contents of our Court, incessantly sought information relating to the Australian Colonies, evincing throughout the most lively interest in the replies they received from the staff in charge, our constant care being to furnish detailed information in the readiest and most cordial manner possible; the great desideratum being to make New South Wales known to the whole world. The inquiry and demand for pamphlets, journals, statistics, and illustrated papers increased as the exhibition advanced. Up to the very last day this interest never abated, and on holidays several intelligent employés were required to attend solely to this part of our work.

When deputations of the working classes from the departments of France, England, Germany, and Belgium came to the Champs de Mars it was gratifying to find that the persons in charge of these public bodies came direct to our Secretary for the purpose of obtaining for the men whom they had to guide through the Exhibition, copies of the works I have already alluded to. This gave an evident proof that the few copies which had been sent to the various parts of Europe, where it was thought they might be of use, had been read and appreciated.

Among the many visitors who thronged our Court and were more particularly attracted by the goods exhibited, I may mention the leading woollen manufacturers from France, Germany, Austria, and Belgium. The sheep breeders of Spain, Hungary, and France made numerous and protracted calls. The fineness of our merino wools, the length and quality of the fibre, the weight of the fleeces, were subjects of constant admiration, but above all the statistics showing the extent of our wool industry riveted their attention on the growing importance of the Australian Colonies.

The

The impression made by the marvellous beauty of our staple and the extent of our pastoral wealth has been commented upon in many leading scientific publications; discussions at the Agricultural Congress, held in the great hall of the Trocadero during the Exhibition, and a paper read there by the Secretary on the subject of the "Agricultural and Pastoral resources of New South Wales," will all tend to popularize the Colony and lead to the most useful species of emigration, viz., that of capital and intelligence combined.

As might be naturally expected in a great wine-producing country like France, more especially when the vine throughout the country is threatened with utter destruction by a hitherto unknown and practically irremediable disease, the wines exhibited in our court, selected as they were from the choicest vineyards of New South Wales, well got up, carefully attended to on their arrival, maintained at an even temperature for several months prior to being tested, soon became the subject of particular and careful study.

Of all the wines exhibited and with the exception of those from the Rhine provinces those of New South Wales, containing a lesser quantity of alcoholic spirits, at once gained favour with the juries. The vigneron from both Burgundy and the Bordelais come in numbers to taste the wines in that section. The gradual but marked increase of the wine industry was freely discussed by them, and in many instances an opinion expressed that New South Wales would prove the most dangerous rival to France.

It was to be regretted that the cereals were so damaged by weevil that it was almost impossible to show them in a proper manner; with very few exceptions these insects had completely destroyed the grain. The flour also had in many instances been injured by insects. By very careful manipulation and picking we managed to obtain sufficient sound wheat, maize, &c., to fill up small glass jars for the inspection of the judges; but the public had no chance whatever to satisfy the often expressed desire to secure samples of seeds. Whatever could be spared of the latter were carefully divided among the Agricultural Model Farms and Schools of France, Germany, and Italy. Had the whole of the grain sent from Sydney arrived in good condition it would not have sufficed to supply the demand.

The leather exhibits, as well as the tweeds and plaids, were highly esteemed; unfortunately the higher class of manufactured articles in the former, both from Messrs. Alderson and Davenport & Alcock, had suffered from heat on board the steam-ship, some of the skins being utterly destroyed and others much damaged.

Among the most attractive and prominent portion of the New South Wales exhibits was the admirable collection of minerals so ably arranged under the personal supervision of Professor Liversidge. Scientific men and students were always to be found crowding round the show cases to examine the specimens of gold, tin, copper, iron, and other minerals which were laid out for inspection in such perfect and instructive order. Here again the immense value of the statistical pamphlets and maps was proved. The coal sections and plans showing the coal beds of the Colony formed a centre of attraction in the great hall at the north end of the Exhibition building. Here also the gold trophy, with its substantial pedestal of tin and copper ingots, backed up with wool and cotton bales, and crowned by the noble specimens of the tree ferns, led the public to inquire for the New South Wales court.

The book which was kept at the entrance of the court, filled with names of some of the principal visitors who desired to notify their appreciation of the courtesy shown to them, will tend to prove that the labours of the Commission have not been without results. You have been already made acquainted with the flattering words of praise which fell from the lips of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, H. E. the President of the French Republic, H. J. H. the Arch Duke Charles Louis of Austria, and the many high functionaries who paid long and oft-repeated visits to the Australian section of the Paris Exhibition. The personal thanks sent by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales through me to each individual member of the Commission, accompanied by the portrait of His Royal Highness, proves undeniably that the Royal President of the British Commission is fully satisfied with the manner in which the representation of the Colony has been carried out.

During the whole period of the Exhibition each nation and colony represented vied with the other in endeavours to attract public notice. It will be gratifying to you to hear that New South Wales was the first in the field with its printed and illustrated notices, which were distributed largely but with discrimination. It was not until the last two or three months that other countries adopted the same course, and even then in a much less extensive way than ourselves.

The official list of awards has been duly telegraphed, and since then posted to Sydney. The Commissioners and exhibitors in the Colony will doubtless have taken into consideration the value of the statement which was sent at the time, where it is shown that, with a lesser number of exhibitors, the Colony of New South Wales took away comparatively a much larger number of awards and prizes of a higher rank than any of the other colonies. In the Grand Prix and Gold Medal Awards it held its ground even with some of the older countries of the world.

The Exhibition of 1878 is now a matter of history. It has conclusively shown by its unparalleled success what can be achieved in the way of peaceful progress by an industrious nation. Great Britain held the most important position in this great gathering of all nations. Her colonies as repeatedly expressed by the Royal President of the British Commission, not only materially assisted but chiefly contributed to the success achieved, and it is generally admitted that amongst the latter New South Wales held the position which was due to her as the oldest and most prosperous of England's possessions in the Southern hemisphere.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD COMBES,
Executive Commissioner, Paris Exhibition, 1878.

VICTORIA, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, and so forth,—

To our trusty and well-beloved—

EDWARD COMBES, of Glanmire, in our Colony of New South Wales, Esquire, M.P.,—

Greeting :

WHEREAS by certain Instruments under the Great Seal of our Colony of New South Wales, we have appointed Representative Commissioners for our said Colony at Paris, in France, in connection with the Universal Exhibition to be held in that City, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, to which Exhibition divers of our subjects in our said Colony have transmitted or are about to transmit various articles the produce or manufacture thereof: And whereas it hath appeared to us to be expedient to appoint an Executive Commissioner to act on behalf of our said Colony in all things connected with the said Exhibition, in conjunction with the Representative Commissioners referred to or such others as may be hereafter appointed: Now therefore know ye, that we, of our especial grace, have thought fit to appoint, and do hereby appoint, you to be our Executive Commissioner for our said Colony of New South Wales, in Paris, in connection with the aforesaid Exhibition: And we do hereby give unto you, in conjunction with any three or more of such Representative Commissioners when present, and then deciding by a majority, or they being, after due notice by post or otherwise, absent, then to yourself alone full power to superintend the unpacking and reception at the aforesaid Exhibition of all articles that the New South Wales Commissioners appointed by us shall transmit from that Colony for exposition at Paris, and generally to act on behalf of such Colony, but more particularly of contributors of articles therefrom to the said Exhibition, in all matters connected with the arrangement and display therein of all such articles and their subsequent disposal in France, or their re-transmission to New South Wales, as circumstances may require.

In testimony whereof, we have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of our said Colony of New South Wales to be hereunto affixed.

Witness, our trusty and well-beloved SIR HERCULES GEORGE ROBERT ROBINSON,
Knight Grand Cross of our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, our Governor and Commander-in-Chief of our Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies, this twenty-seventh day of February, in the forty-first year of our reign, and in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

(L.S.) HERCULES ROBINSON.

By His Excellency's Command,
MICHAEL FITZPATRICK.

Entered on record by me, in Register of Patents, No. 10, pages 494-5, this twenty-eighth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

M. R. ALLAN,
(For the Colonial Secretary and Registrar of Records.)

EXECUTIVE COMMISSIONER'S REPORT,

PARIS EXHIBITION, 1878.

To His Excellency The Right Honorable Lord AUGUSTUS WILLIAM FREDERICK SPENCER LOFTUS, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, a Member of Her Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

I have the honor as the Executive Commissioner appointed by your Excellency's predecessor, Sir Hercules Robinson, G.C.M.G., &c., &c., to conduct the New South Wales portion of the International Exhibition held at Paris in 1878, to lay before Your Excellency a report on its arrangement and organization, together with the proceedings especially concerning our own particular section. This report is brought up to the 12th of April, 1880, when the bronze medals and diplomas were distributed. The diplomas of the honorable mentions have not yet been received, but the business may now be considered virtually settled.

On the 4th and 13th of April, 1876, it was decreed by the French Government to authorize the construction of the Paris Exhibition of 1878, and at the same time all foreign Governments were officially notified and formally invited to co-operate.

On the 29th of July following the Chambers passed an Act authorizing the expenditure, arranging, however, that the City of Paris should contribute £240,000, and providing that the State should have the entire direction of the undertaking.

On the 5th of August M. J. B. Krantz was appointed Commissioner General, and instructed to immediately organize the executive departments. This he carried out by dividing them into eleven sections, consisting of (1) General Offices, (2) Finance Office, (3) Office of Archives, (4) Office for the Direction of Works, (5) Office of Foreign Sections, (6) Office of French Section, (7) Fine Arts Office, (8) Office of the Agricultural, Horticultural, and Piscicultural Sections, (9) Office of Local Transport, (10) Office of Historical Exhibits and Ancient Art, and (11) the Committee for Exhibiting Machinery. In addition to these there were two committees which sat every day to decide upon matters relating to contracts and works.

The General Commission decided to divide all objects exhibited into nine groups, and these were again divided into ninety classes.

In the Fine Art section all the works of French and foreign artists since the 1st May, 1867, were eligible for exhibition, while all the products of agriculture and industry were admissible, except explosives or other dangerous compounds. Exhibitors paid no rent for space, and a good floor was provided; water, gas, and steam for the use of the machinery halls were also supplied gratuitously.

Each foreign Commission had to provide for the special guardianship of its section. These officials wore the uniform, and were under the control of the Commissioner General, who took every precaution to protect exhibits against injury. The Government however was not responsible for accidents, whether from fire or any other cause.

Special instructions were issued on the 13th September, 1876, with reference to the reception and return of goods, and by the commencement of October M. Krantz had completely organized the whole of the departments.

During the month of May, 1877, His Excellency Sir Hercules Robinson and the members of the New South Wales Government were informed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies and the French Consul that in terms of the decrees issued by the President of the French Republic, an International Exhibition would be opened at Paris on the 1st of May, 1878.

Her Majesty having been most graciously pleased to appoint a Royal Commission on the 23rd January, 1877, to advise Her Majesty upon the best mode by which the products of Industry and the Fine Arts of the United Kingdom, its Colonies and Dependencies, might be procured and sent to Paris, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, as President of the Commission, caused to be officially notified to your Excellency's predecessor the part proposed to be taken by Great Britain at the Paris Exhibition of 1878. His Royal Highness also expressed the pleasure he should feel in learning that the various Colonial Governments had determined to take a prominent part in making a suitable representation of their productions. This correspondence is appended. (See Appendices A and B.)

In response to this appeal Parliament appropriated the sum of £5,000 to defray the expenses of making provision for the representation of the Colony at the Paris Exhibition, and the Colonial Secretary by an announcement in the Government Gazette of the 6th of November 1877, intimated that His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, had been pleased to appoint Commissioners to devise and carry out the necessary operations for the collection and transmission to Paris of all articles the produce or manufacture of New South Wales. (See Appendix C.)

The Executive Commissioner was appointed on the 27th February, 1878, left Sydney on the 18th March, and arrived at Paris on the 4th of May following. Details of work and statement of receipts and expenditure will be found in Appendix D.

The Exhibition buildings were situated in the Champ de Mars, and on the hill of the Trocadéro. The grounds were laid out in gardens, &c., on both sides of the Seine, and were connected by the Pont d'Iena. The total area was about 680,000 square yards, or over 140 acres.

The building in the Champ de Mars enclosed a space of 2,315 feet long, and 1,145 feet wide. The ends of this space formed lofty and wide vestibules, running from end to end, and were flanked with high rectangular pavilions, with a fine central dome, under which the principal entrance was situated. This building contained the Fine Art Galleries, and the Industrial and Machinery Halls.

The Palace of the Trocadéro was designed by Messieurs Davioud and Bourdais. It is composed of a grand central hall, and two curved galleries, of which the extremities form two pavilions. The ground on which the palace is built was originally originally a rough piece of ground, broken up by quarries, and undermined by catacombs. It was resumed by the municipal authorities under the Empire, and laid out into gardens. The summit of the hill is now crowned with the palace overlooking the whole of the grounds of the Exhibition, the City, and the river. The architecture is of an Eastern type, and the effect is exceedingly fine.

The length of the Palace extends along the whole width of the Trocadéro, nearly 1,300 feet. The Central Hall contains a large theatre of a horseshoe form, measuring 164 feet in one direction by 230 feet in the other. It will accommodate 5,000 persons, and is fitted up with private boxes, and the various tiers of seats necessary for public accommodation. The entrance consists of a large vestibule extending on both sides into spacious antechambers, enclosing the hall as far as the stage. These lead into the two wings which terminate in towers standing forward 285 feet, having the effect of throwing the hall back and somewhat subduing its vast proportions. The wings contain covered galleries of 42 feet wide, and an open portico of 18 feet, the roof of which is supported by carved stone columns. It was in these galleries the Paris Anthropological Society exhibited the grand collections relative to the science of man and pre-historic archæology.

The arrangements were simple, but included many new features. France occupied more space than all other countries combined. England, including her Colonies, came next. She also shared the Grand Vestibule equally with France, where H.R.H. the Prince of Wales' and other Indian collections were exhibited, and in the right corner pavilion the Colonies constructed their trophies. Canada occupied the centre, while New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, and Queensland grouped themselves around her. The whole formed a most magnificent collection of natural products, interesting alike to the scientific inquirer and intending emigrant. Plans and Elevations of the Champ de Mars and Trocadéro Palaces are appended.

It was at the Exhibition of Paris in 1855 that the great principle of exhibiting machinery in motion was fully realized, and since that time at all international exhibitions large temporary buildings have been erected for this purpose. The Commission for the 1878 exhibition allotted the finest portion of the Champs de Mars building for the exhibition of machinery in motion, besides an Annexe the whole length of the main structure.

The water supply was made by the Municipality of the City of Paris, and arranged so as to supply a minimum of 4,412,000 gallons per day of thirteen hours, which quantity could be increased up to 6,618,000 gallons if required. The service was divided into two parts, one of which came from the lower reservoir at Passy. This was used for watering the grounds and as a provision against fire, also for the principal fountains, and the immense jets d'eau in the lower basin of the grand cascade. This constituted the high pressure service. The other supply was from a reservoir in the Place du Trocadéro, the water being pumped from the river by the exhibition pumping engines. These engines raised about 2,206,000 gallons daily, and the water was used for the waterfall of the lower basin. As this basin is a considerable height above the level of the Champs de Mars, it served as another reservoir and the water was used a second time. The pumping engines supplied the reservoirs of Passy and the Trocadéro through mains of $23\frac{1}{2}$ inches diameter from the river Seine, and were erected on the right bank.

The

The Fine Art galleries extended the entire length of the Exhibition building, and were separated from it by roadways. It was originally the intention of the General Commission to adorn each of the façades with examples illustrative of the architecture of the different countries assisting at the Exhibition. This was, however, only carried out in the avenue adjoining the Foreign Section, which was called the Rue des Nations.

The total length of the English space fronting the central avenue being upwards of 540 feet, it was deemed advisable to subdivide the façade into five portions, and to separate each of these from one another by gardens. By this means it was possible to give to each of the five houses a distinctive character, and to relieve the monotony of a long unbroken frontage.

The first house on entering the central avenue from the grand vestibule was erected by Mr. W. H. Lascelles, of 121, Bunhill Row, from the design of Mr. R. Norman Shaw, R.A. It is in the "Queen Anne" style of architecture, and is constructed of a patented imitation of red brickwork, the invention of the exhibitor. Mr. Lascelles faces thin slabs of Portland cement concrete with smaller slabs of red concrete, the size of bricks, and these slabs are screwed on to a timber framework. The furniture and decorations of this house were supplied by Messrs. Jackson & Graham, of 37, Oxford-street, the wall papers by Messrs. Jeffrey & Co., Essex Road, Islington, and the whole was offered by these firms to His Royal Highness the President for the use of the Commission.

The second house, the pavilion of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, was erected by the Royal Commissioners from the designs of their architect, Mr. Gilbert R. Redgrave, for the President of the Royal Commission. This house is in the Elizabethan style, and has been constructed of rubble stonework, faced with coloured plaster, in imitation of red brickwork, with Bath stone dressings. The entrance gates of this pavilion and the garden gates and railing on either side of it were supplied by Messrs. Barnard, Bishop, & Barnard, of Norwich. The interior fittings and decorations, together with the furniture, were supplied by Messrs. Gillow & Co., with whom are associated some English exhibitors, whose offers to contribute as part of their exhibition were accepted. The whole of the designs for the interior of the house were prepared by Messrs. Gillow & Co., 176, Oxford-street, from drawings by their artists, Messrs. Henry & Hay.

The third house, being a façade of red brick and terra-cotta manufactured by Messrs. Doulton & Co., of Lambeth, and exhibited by them, is the design of Messrs. Tarring & Wilkinson. The furniture and decorations were executed by Messrs. Shoolbred & Co., of Tottenham Court Road, and placed by them at the disposal of His Royal Highness the President.

The fourth house of the series, erected by Messrs. Wm. Cubitt & Co., of 258 Gray's Inn Road, from the designs of Mr. Gilbert Redgrave, the architect of the Royal Commission, and offered by them to the Prince of Wales for the use of the Commission, was placed at the disposal of the Dominion of Canada. The house is built of pitch-pine frame-work, enriched with carving, and filled in with plaster panels, a style of construction known as half-timbered work, and which was very much employed in England from the fifteenth to the seventeenth century. The entrance gates, in wrought ironwork, which enclose the garden between this house and the end one, were made by Messrs. Wm. Cubitt & Co., for Lord Crewe's park, from

from the design of Mr. E. M. Barry, R.A. The furniture of this house was provided by Canadian manufacturers; the carpets were supplied, as part of their exhibition, by Messrs. John Brinton, of Kidderminster, and the wall papers by Messrs. Jeffrey & Co., Essex Road, Islington.

The fifth house, erected by Messrs. Collinson & Lock, of Fleet-street, was designed by Mr. T. E. Collcutt. It is in the style of an English country house of the reign of King William III. The framework is of timber. The furniture and internal decorations of this house were manufactured and exhibited by Messrs. Collinson & Lock.

Two cottages were also erected in the grounds by Mr. W. H. Lascelles, of Bunhill Row, London, from the designs of Mr. R. Norman Shaw, R.A.; the one of them a two-roomed labourer's cottage, and the other a more roomy house, suitable for a gardener, a gamekeeper, or entrance to a park. The furniture and appointments of these cottages were carefully selected by Messrs. Williamson & Son, of Guildford, from old Surrey cottages in that neighbourhood, and are shown as correct types of old English cottage furniture. The gardens were laid out by Mr. John Wills, of Onslow Crescent, South Kensington, London.

As before stated all the exhibits were arranged in nine groups, and these were again divided into ninety classes. I shall therefore proceed to lay before your Excellency a short account of each class. The details and statistics have been collected and arranged from the various French official documents.

GROUP 1.—The Works of Art were exhibited in picture galleries, which occupied a central space between the principal buildings of the Champ de Mars. They were 128 feet wide, leaving an open space between the side walls and the adjacent buildings of 42 feet. The walls were of stone, 24 feet high to the springing of the roof. These galleries were in two separate buildings, divided by a central structure, devoted to the exhibition of "La Ville de Paris," and the central garden which surrounded it. Each of these two buildings was divided into four sections, and each section was similarly subdivided into a principal gallery 82 feet wide, with two rooms on each side, 23 feet wide and 50 feet long. They were covered with a roof similar to those of the Industrial Galleries, were well lighted, and altogether excellently arranged. The main entrance was through the centre of the grand vestibule under the dome of the façade fronting the Trocadero. The entrance at the other end was similarly situated on the side of the Ecole Militaire.

A Universal Exhibition which brings together the master-pieces of artists of all nations must be a study of comparative art as between those nations, and cannot fail to excite that spirit of emulation which above all things gives the most powerful impulse to progress.

Class 1 comprised all paintings in oil. As the regulation had been made that no works, the authors of which had been dead for more than ten years should be admitted, none of the productions of the great historical painters, Eugene Delacroix, Ary Scheffer, and Ingres were exhibited; but in the works of Messonier, Bonnat, Bouguereau, Corot, Laurens, Lefebvre, Gerome, Carolus Duran, Doré, Cabanel, Lambert, Landelle, Philippoteaux, Vibert, Leloir, and many others, the French school was well represented. During the last years many of the distinguished artists who had taken part with Delacroix, Scheffer, and others in the great progressive movement of art since 1830, have followed those artists to the tomb.

But

But although the French school has lost such men as Picot, Rouget, Auguste Hesse, Schnetz, Couder, Louis Boulanger, Picard, Célestin Nanteuil, and other eminent figure painters, as well as Rousseau, Huet, and Corot, as landscape painters, who had together with Millet, Diaz, and D'Aubigny, really formed the school, all have died in full possession of their powers, and while their loss is in many instances irreparable, the originality, activity, and extraordinary power of drawing exhibited by French painters of the present day make the blank unnoticeable. The number and quality of the paintings exhibited in the Champs de Mars prove indisputably the great progress of the French school during the present century. This progress has been accomplished in the production of works—especially in historical paintings—of a very high order of merit, tending to place the French school at the present day ahead of all the others in historical painting. In pictures of the genre type, of which the public are now as fond as ever, the French school is strong, but not equal to the English; while in portraiture M. Bonnat's "Thiers," and "Madame Pasca," left nothing to be desired. The French Governments, whether Imperial, Monarchical, or Republican, have always encouraged the advancement of historical art by giving commissions to their artists. As instances we cannot but notice the fresco paintings in the new Opera House, the Palais de la Légion d'Honneur, le Palais de Justice, the churches of St. Geneviève, and the Trinité, besides in the provinces, the museums at Marseilles, and Amiens, the Hotel de Ville of Poitiers, the theatres of Bordeaux and Reims, and many others, which, though only represented at the Exhibition by sketches, nevertheless show to what an elevation French art has attained, and how necessary for artists to closely study the drawing of the human figure, in order to be able to compete for the execution of such grand historical or allegorical compositions as have been painted at the institutions above mentioned.

Besides these decorative paintings, ordered by the Government or by the municipal authorities, there are numbers of historical pictures of sacred subjects painted for the churches every year. It is impossible to give even a complete list of works of this class in which so many painters are constantly engaged. But the number of pictures exhibited at the salon has increased from 58,102 in 1867 to 333,892 in 1876.

The English artists who exhibited in Class 1 were also very strong: Leighton, Alma Tadema, Armitage, Cope, Poynter, Millais, Landseer, Leslie, Oules, Orchardson, Redgrave, Val. Princep, Briton Rivière, Watts, Frith, Fildes, and many others showed the visitors to the International Exhibition the beauties and peculiarities of the English school. These artists were represented by many noble and world-known works, which proved conclusively the enormous progress made by the English school. We may especially notice the beautiful animal paintings of Landseer, and the golden landscapes of Vicat Cole, as peculiarly and emphatically specimens of British art.

In the Austro-Hungarian Court, Hans Makart, in his picture of the "Entry of Charles V into Antwerp," has shown marvellous powers as a historical painter.

Italy, Spain, Germany, Denmark, and Russia, as well as Sweden and the United States, were all well represented in this class, and as a collection of contemporary International Art, it was doubtless the most complete and extensive ever brought together.

In Class 2, which included water-colours, a great many of the artists we have already enumerated as painters in oil, exhibited drawings both in water-colour, crayon, and monochrome. The manner of working, whether with the brush or with chalk, only differs in the method of expressing the sentiments of the artist. Many of the eminent French and Italian painters have practised water-colour drawing, on account of the great success of the English artists since the Exhibition of 1855. The English school of water-colour painting is undoubtedly at the head of this class of art, and it is by following the example of the English artists that such painters as Bonnington, De Camps, Paul Huet, Lenoir, and others have been able to secure public favour in France. Of late years modern water-colour drawings have realised fabulous prices, such as were never even dreamt of, for masterpieces of ancient art. This gave a powerful impulse to artists, and in France during the last two years there have been special exhibitions consecrated to water-colour drawings, after the example of the "Society of Painters in Water-colours" and the "Institute of Painters in Water-colours" in England. In this class also were exhibited paintings in enamel, miniatures paintings on porcelain, and designs of all kinds whether in chalk, ink, or crayon, and thanks to the impetus that has been given in professional and technical schools in teaching drawing as applied to decorative purposes, we had here the most instructive and useful Exhibition. The English water-colours exhibited were by some of the best English artists, among them Birket Foster, Carl Haag, Hine, Herkomer, Pinwell, Willis, Absolon, Duncan, Mole, Naftel, Bough, Topham, and Brierly.

Class 3 comprised sculpture, modelling, and die-sinking. France had 388 exhibitors, among whom we may mention Mercié, Chapu, Paul Dubois, Chaplain, and Oudiné, whose work stood in the first rank. England was represented by Leighton, Foley, Stephens, Böhm, Fuller, and others. Italy had also some fine works in sculpture and groups of statuary, among them as pre-eminently beautiful we may mention "Le Bandeau d'Amour," by Villa.

Class 4 consisted of architectural drawings and models. The works exhibited were of two sorts, designs and models made for the construction of new buildings, and drawings made with a view to the restoration of ancient edifices—the works in this last category embracing monuments of classic antiquity and architectural work during the middle ages. These works occupied a very considerable space in the section. Young architects complete their special studies in making projects for the restoration of mediæval castles and other ancient monuments, such as public municipal buildings, castles, and churches. The work of restoring these buildings of the middle ages, both civil and religious, has always been a most attractive study for young architects.

In new architectural works we have again a style of original construction, and we may state that among the great works built during the last ten years there are indications of less exclusive theories than in any preceding period. The general character of architecture ought always to accept such elements as may be imported into it by the requirements of the progress of civilisation, especially with regard to sanitary improvements. At Paris the Palais de Justice and the reconstruction of portions of the Louvre, the Grand Opera, the Churches of the Trinité, St. Ambrose, and others need only be cited to show contemporary architecture carried out in a scientific manner. French architecture has always attained an elevated rank in every International Exhibition in which it has taken part, and among the many exhibits in this class there were many beautiful designs both for street architecture and for public buildings.

.. England

England was represented by George Atchison, Charles Barry, Brookes, Clark, Cockerell, Jones, Pearson, Shaw, and Wyatt, and others who exhibited many beautiful designs both in stone and brick.

Class 5 comprised engravings and lithographs, of which an enormous number were exhibited.

During a comparatively recent period, the number of different processes of reproduction derived from the application of photography to engraving in all its forms, seems to bid fairly to do away with the art of engraving. Many different processes are in actual operation, and made use of, nearly to the exclusion of ordinary wood engraving in many illustrated papers.

Since the Exhibition of 1866, however, considerable efforts have been made to bring about a renaissance of line engraving. Orders given by the municipal body of Paris to execute each year plates on different subjects, have no doubt done good service in bringing about a serious return towards such a necessary art, and one which the modern scientific processes of reproduction can never replace.

Etchers and engravers upon wood have formed themselves into a society in France for the purpose of reproducing objects of art of every kind—original compositions, picturesque views, and architectural studies. In France alone there are 1,200 engravers on steel, copper, wood, and stone. There are annually exhibited some 400 works of engraving and lithography at the Salon.

GROUP 2, which comprised eleven classes, relates to education and instruction, with the various processes and apparatus belonging to the liberal arts.

Class 6 treated of the education of the child, primary instruction, and also the instruction of adults. In the physical, as well as the intellectual and moral development of the child, the work of education commences from the cradle, and continues from the cradle to the University. Professor Huxley says he considers no system of education complete which does not resemble a ladder reaching from the gutter to the University.

In the first place the French have institutions called nurseries (crèches) and asylums (salles d'asile). These latter are invaluable where the mother of the family has to leave her home to earn a living in a shop or a factory. Here her small children are carefully taken care of during the day, either gratuitously or for a very trifling fee.

The institution of the crèche was founded in 1844 by M. Firman Marbeau. There are now 140 establishments where 3,000 children are looked after with the most attentive care. The salle d'asile has existed during the last fifty years, and was founded by M. Cochin.

These establishments are either national or private, that is they are either conducted by the Government or by charitable societies. They receive all children, male and female, from two to seven years of age. A normal school was founded in 1848 at Paris to educate mistresses for this particular work, that they may be specially initiated into the best methods of amusing as well as teaching children. Instruction is not so much the object as the inculcation of good manners, obedience, and a love of order. The Kindergarten system of managing these schools is rapidly taking the place of all others.

In

In 1872 there were 3,774 salles d'asile in France with 462,667 children, of whom 86,753 were cared for at establishments that had been founded by religious and charitable societies.

On leaving the infant school or the salle d'asile the child goes to the primary school. This is the second rung of the ladder in the series of the educational institutions alluded to above. The primary schools are also of two classes, viz., those exclusively belonging to the State, les ecoles publiques, and those of a denominational or private character, carried on without assistance from the Government, and which are called free schools, les ecoles libre. The name is not bestowed upon this latter class, as one would imagine, to indicate that instruction is gratuitously given, as this is not the case, but because they are free of State aid.

There were 53,957 primary Public schools in 1866, and in 1872, 56,313. In 1866 the number of écoles libres were 16,127, which had decreased in 1872 to 13,866 on account of new Public schools having been established in the meantime. Therefore there were in France in 1872, 70,179 primary schools, of which 24,519 were boys' schools, 28,459 girls' schools, and 17,201 mixed and special schools, common to both sexes.

The growth of the school population has been very regular. The number of pupils in the primary schools in 1832 was 1,935,824; in 1840, 2,881,679; and 4,336,368 in 1863. In 1872, through the cession of Alsace and Lorraine to Germany 180,000 pupils were lost to France, the school population amounted to 4,717,654 pupils, of whom 2,444,216 were boys and 2,273,438 girls. The number of pupils who paid school fees amounted to 2,398,317, and those who were instructed gratuitously to 2,324,437.

The inspectors and masters' reports state that these schools were divided into two sections, which we may term lay and denominational, of which the lay numbered 51,633 and the denominational 18,546. The same programme of instruction is followed in both the denominational and lay schools. It consists of moral and religious instruction, reading, writing, and arithmetic, the French language, the elements of history and geography. In the higher classes the elements of geometry, the elements of physical science, natural history, agriculture, surveying, mechanical and ornamental drawing, and living languages. Book-keeping, singing, and gymnastics are also included in the course of instruction. It has been found that the practice of giving certificates of proficiency at the end of the school term has exercised a most beneficial influence in the cause of primary instruction.

To lessen the danger, when the child leaves the school, that it will soon forget a great part of the knowledge it has acquired, its connection is kept up with the school in another way. For this purpose pupils' libraries have been opened, and courses of study established for adults in connection with the schools. In 1867 there were only 11,417 of these libraries, containing 721,853 volumes, while in 1876 they had increased to 18,404 libraries with 1,827,409 volumes, without counting books loaned to the schools, which amounted to 1,196,332 volumes.

The first normal school was established at Strasbourg in 1808. In 1830 there were only seven of these establishments; three years later however there were forty-seven, and they have now increased to ninety-five, of which seventy-nine are for masters and sixteen for mistresses. Besides these there exist fifty-four normal courses for female teachers and two for male teachers, and to those may be added eleven other special courses for teachers exclusively Protestant. A decree of the Government, dated 2nd July, 1866, reorganised the system of instruction in normal schools.

As soon as the primary education of the child is finished it is necessary for the parents to determine to what sort of work he shall be put, or what trade or profession he shall learn. Many children never leave their family but assist their parents in their agricultural labours, while the others have to learn some industrial profession. To this end special institutions under the name of apprentices' workshops (écoles d'apprentissage) or professional schools (écoles professionnelles) have been established where the pupils not only continue their primary education but learn to gain a living by the exercise of a trade. In order to prevent any danger which may result from the indifference of parents with regard to their children at the time they leave school, the Legislature have ordered that half-time schools should be established, and decreed that any child who before the age of twelve years has to work in any shop or factory, must join the classes at a school of this kind.

Besides these professional schools and apprentices' workshops, there are in France superior primary schools (écoles premières supérieures), the principal one of which is at Paris. Here pupils are brought up especially to commercial work, and on leaving the school they are able at once to fulfil the duties of clerks in banks or merchants' offices and receive certificates to that effect. There are in France about a hundred of these schools, and in Paris alone there are over 2,000 pupils.

The education of girls has progressed more slowly, nevertheless numbers of professional schools have already been established.

There is also in Paris a national institution for blind pupils, and an institution for the deaf and dumb.

Class 7 comprised the organisation and appliances for secondary education, viz., the preparatory studies to the superior education which is given in the universities and polytechnic schools. This instruction is also given by the State in schools called lycées and colléges, similar institutions to our grammar schools; and also in private establishments, both lay and ecclesiastical. There are in France eighty-one lycées and two hundred and fifty-two communal colleges, besides eight hundred and three lay and ecclesiastical establishments, and twenty-seven institutions directed by the Jesuits. Besides these there are a number of similar schools constituted under the authority of the bishops, and giving secondary instruction in all its degrees. From 1865 to 1876 there has been an increase of 11,645 pupils in the lycées, 5,139 in the colléges, and 159 in private establishments.

The number of pupils at the present time in secondary schools is 40,995, in the lycées, 38,236 in the communal colleges, and 78,065 in all other establishments. Just now the State is making arrangements for the establishment of six grand new grammar schools, and in each year the communal departments are voting funds for the establishment of new colléges.

Special instruction is given in almost all the public establishments except in a few metropolitan grammar schools. A number of professional schools established in the great industrial and commercial centre, whether by private enterprise or under the patronage of the Government give the technical education to the manufacturing population. We are indebted however to institutions which have been established established by private enterprise, for the new and progressive methods of instruction which have lately been developed with the greatest success. The "Model School" of Brussels is perhaps the most brilliant example of this kind.

I may also mention that since July, 1874, the knowledge of one living language besides the mother tongue of the student, is necessary in order to obtain the degree of Bachelor of Letters. Consequently chairs of living languages have been established in all the lycées and colléges.

Great improvements have been made in the appliances for conveying instruction. There are now numberless types of plans, plain, coloured, and in relief, with terrestrial globes made in the same manner, giving facilities for a deeper and more serious knowledge of geography.

Besides the usual games and recreations in the open air, excursions have been established to geological sections and industrial works as a class of object lessons, by which the physical as well as the intellectual education of the child is much benefited.

Industrial and commercial schools belong more particularly to the department of agriculture and commerce. Those for commercial and technical instruction are presided over by a permanently established council, or a commission which advises upon all questions bearing upon this order of instruction.

The instruction given in the Conservatoire des Arts et métiers has for its exclusive object science applied to industrial pursuits. The course of lectures are public and gratuitous, and are open to every person of whatever nation. The lectures draw together each year some 160,000 students, and constitute free instruction analogous to that of the Sorbonne, the Collège de France, and the museum of natural history.

The art and trade schools have been established for the purpose of instructing pupils to become intelligent workmen and foremen of works, for constructive industries in wood, metal, and machinery. The complete course of study at these schools generally takes three years. The theoretical instruction comprises arithmetic, geometry, elementary algebra, and rectilinear trigonometry, physical and descriptive geography, mechanics, natural philosophy, physics, chemistry, drawing, grammar, and book-keeping. The practical instruction is given in the workshop, where different trades, such as operative engineering, pattern-making, smith's work, and founding are carried on. Diplomas, certifying the efficiency attained, are given to the pupils on leaving the school, and with a good certificate young men have little difficulty in finding employment.

There are also superior commercial schools at Paris, Lyons, Marseilles, Lille, Bordeaux, Rouen, and Havre. The one at Paris is directed by the Chamber of Commerce, while the others are subsidised and patronised by associations composed of commercial and manufacturing firms in the different localities where they have been founded. Diplomas certifying the capacity of the pupil are invariably given on leaving school.

Most of the manufacturing and industrial centres have founded institutions for technical instruction in the particular industries of the locality. These institutions are a sort of connecting link between the primary schools and the work-shop, and have a tendency to raise the practical intelligence of the working classes, by facilitating the attainment of mechanical and scientific knowledge. Detailed information on this subject will be found in my Report on "School Buildings, &c."
and

Class 8 comprised the organization, methods, and appliances for superior schools. In France superior instruction is given by two classes of institutions—the Faculties and the State, to which may be added the great scientific establishments such as the Collège de France, the Musée, L'Ecole Polytechnique, L'Ecole des Ponts et Chaussées, L'Ecole Normale, L'Ecole des hautes études, &c., &c.

State instruction was constituted by a decree of the 17th March, 1808, and included the general organization of the schools of law and medicine.

There are five faculties, viz.:—Theology, Law, Medicine, Sciences, and Letters. These faculties confer the grades of Bachelor, Licentiate and Doctor, to students who have followed the regular courses of study. Instruction is given by professors who are appointed by the Chief of the State.

For more detailed information on this subject see my report on School Buildings, &c.

Class 9 treated of Printing and Books.

Printing is subdivided into several branches, such as printing in type, by engraving or etching, and by lithography.

The most characteristic improvement this industry presents, is the progress which has been made in the mechanical arrangement of the presses, which are now almost exclusively employed instead of the old hand-press.

On the continent and in England as well, women are being employed in considerable numbers as compositors. They appear to be particularly adapted for this class of work, and by its practice can easily earn a respectable living. Miss Faithful, has created a printing establishment in London worked exclusively by women, at which many works have been brought out, printed in a most creditable manner.

Lithography continues to be a powerful auxiliary to the reproduction of manuscripts and sketches, whether in industry or art, especially when comparatively only a few copies are required. Again, in this industry mechanical presses have made quite a revolution, more-especially in coloured lithographs, or what is commonly known as chromo-lithography, where each drawing requires a large number of different stones.

It would be difficult even approximately to value the books which are brought out annually at the present day. The improvements which have been effected in machinery for printing and book-binding have permitted standard works to be brought out at prices which a few years since would have been thought impossible. The various exhibitions of books and printing by the different countries were extremely fine, whether considered as examples of typography, or in the economy of their production.

Class 10 related to stationery, book-binding, and painting and drawing materials. The papers exhibited were of all kinds, from the coarsest wrapping paper to the finest special hand-made papers manufactured expressly for bank note drawing and lithographic purposes, varying in price from £20 to £200 per ton.

Specimens

Specimens of paper made from rags, wood-pulp, straw, esparto, hop-vine, and many other materials, were exhibited in great variety. Those of wood-pulp from the United States, and Norway and Sweden, were very cheap, and of every degree of quality as to the colour and character of material.

Stationery, comprising pens, inks, pencils, ink-stands, and other articles of this class were in endless variety, from the plainest to the finest articles de luxe, and would have made an exhibition in itself. Great Britain, however, seems to have the monopoly of making pens for all the rest of the world, and is in reality without competition.

In all materials required by the artist, namely, prepared colours both for oil and water colour painting, with all apparatus and accessories for art purposes, the great London makers seem to exhibit the best and most complete collections. Great progress has been made of late years in the production of colours. Chemistry has largely assisted in not only discovering new colours, but in devising methods for their preparation so as to render them permanent.

Class 11 related to the general application of the arts of drawing and modelling, and comprehended composition models, and types of artistic work destined to be reproduced by mechanical methods. Thus we have the works of architects, decorators of interiors, theatrical decorators and designers of theatrical costumes, designers of jewellery and goldsmiths' work, bronzes, and furniture, designers of patterns for printing on stuffs, embroideries, room-papers, carpets, &c. The work of engravers, lithographers, and painters on fans, together with heraldic painting and manuscripts, ornamental sculpture and moulded objects. All these were well represented, and showed in the most graphic manner how much reproductive processes had done to provide art objects of a high class at a price within the reach of all.

Class 12 comprised photographic proofs and apparatus, including all the various methods employed to obtain the durable image of an object by the action of light. Recent progress in photography has brought out many processes and given birth to industries for the reproduction of objects in art and nature, by transferring the picture to blocks from which impressions can be taken. Thus chemistry has brought about a cheap method of illustration, which can be applied to any of the purposes for which heretofore wood engraving was exclusively employed.

Photo-engraving, photo-lithography, and photo-typography, are scientific applications of this art, which have caused almost a revolution in bringing out illustrations for journals and other works. The construction of machinery and material adapted to these new industries, as well as the fabrication of a considerable number of new chemical products, gives employment to thousands of workmen at present, and is increasing its applications to existing industries every day.

Photographic operations are usually divided into two phases entirely separate,—first, the preparation of the image by means of a dark chamber and a chemically prepared plate,—and second, the reproduction of this image in any number of proofs, whether by photographic printing or by the various methods of engraving, or lithography, or by peculiar inks which render them permanent. These last methods of printing from photographic drawings have acquired a great importance, and in France alone there are over 2,000 photographic workshops doing a business of over 30,000,000 francs, or £1,200,000 yearly.

Industrial

Industrial reproductions and the reproduction of works of art have developed to an enormous extent. This has been entirely owing to the various processes of photo-engraving and photo-lithography. Photography is therefore a powerful auxiliary to science and art, whether considered alone or in connection with typography, engraving, and lithography in all their various applications.

Class 13 related to musical instruments. These were divided into seven distinct categories,—organs, harmoniums, and reed instruments, pianos, other stringed instruments, wind instruments in wood and copper, instruments of percussion, and other musical instruments of all kinds. The materials serving for the fabrication of these instruments are numberless, and the machinery and tools employed in their perfection are very varied. The wood is provided by America, Norway, Russia, Brazil, Turkey, and Asia Minor; Europe providing the oak, the pine, the beech, the maple, and the apple-tree, while the other countries furnish the cedar, rosewood, mahogany, and ebony for the outside cases. The different classes of work provide employment to a vast number of workmen in all European countries and America. Nearly all piano wire is manufactured in England, and the greatest improvement is in plating the iron and steel wire with nickel by electro-metallurgy, thereby rendering it non-liable to oxidation.

Class 14 related to medicine, hygiene, and public relief, embracing the practice of medicine and chirurgery, with the numerous products relating to hygiene.

Among the physical means which hygiene necessitates, gymnastics and hydrotherapy are of the first rank. For a long time gymnastics necessitated rather a complicated assemblage of instruments and much room for its exercise, and consequently could only be carried out in special establishments. The same might be said of hydrotherapy. Lately, however, different kinds of apparatus have been invented, occupying little room and furnished at a moderate cost, calculated to give the necessary exercise in a person's own house.

This class also comprised the necessary material for the special instruction of medicine, as well as the use of electricity and its appliances. The study of hygiene as applied to hospitals, whether temporary or fixed, and all kinds of instruments used in surgery and medicine.

Class 15 comprised mathematical and philosophical instruments, instruments of precision, for measuring purposes, optical instruments, apparatus for the study of natural philosophy and chemistry, pneumatic machinery, nautical compasses, magnetic and electro-magnetic apparatus, with all kinds of acoustic appliances and telephones. In no class have greater improvements or discoveries been made than in this. The capabilities of the telephone and phonograph are simply marvellous, and the former has already taken the place of the telegraph for short distances, and is ministering to our daily requirements.

Class 16 related to maps, geological and cosmographical apparatus. The fabrication of maps includes several operations, the drawing and engraving, whether upon metal or stone, together with the typography, and the method of printing actually employed for their multiplication. These three operations were a few years past perfectly distinct, but science with its various applications to printing has altogether changed the method of their fabrication.

Photography

Photography is applied to drawing as well as engraving, and renders most important services in the reproduction, enlargement, or reduction of plans. The usual way of printing photographic pictures by the transmission of light not having been sufficiently rapid, processes have been invented to fix the photographic design on stone or on metal and to actually etch it, or leave it in relief, by means of acids, so as to take impressions from it in the usual way. In photo-lithography, or heliography, one or another of these processes are employed, and there are many different inventions and processes by which these means are accomplished, all more or less valuable—chromo-lithography and chromo-engraving, two processes for making coloured impressions, are indispensable for the production of geological maps. Without the assistance of these inventions it would be next to impossible to provide any geological map at a price sufficiently cheap to be within the reach of everyone. During the last ten years the various processes of heliography have made this an easy matter, and thanks to the combined efforts of science and industry, we have here inventions which enable a drawing to be made on metal, and engraved in such a manner that thousands of impressions can be made from it in the cheapest possible way.

It may also be mentioned that terrestrial globes and maps are very largely produced in relief, showing the elevations and depressions on a somewhat distorted scale, but rendering geography far more intelligible to young pupils and more easy of acquisition than is possible by means of a plane surface.

GROUP 3.—Class 17 comprised furniture of all kinds, whether in solid wood or veneered,—billiard-tables and furniture in iron, such as bedsteads, cradles, chairs, and garden tables. The manufacture of furniture in France was until lately an entirely Parisian industry, but during the last few years factories of importance have been founded at Lyons, Bordeaux, Marseilles, Nantes, Caen, Toulouse, and several other places; nevertheless Paris continues to be the most important centre of this manufacture.

The woods employed in making furniture are oak, beech, pine, and walnut, besides foreign wood such as rosewood, violetwood, the different acacias, and ebony, of which the price varies from 20 to 70 francs the 100 kilos, or from £8 to £28 per ton.

There is also a considerable quantity of marble used for table-tops, as well as bronze, in the ornamentation which enters into the manufacture.

In France a great many women and children are employed in this manufacture, which is generally carried out by piecework. All kinds of mechanical appliances are employed,—chiefly introduced from America, where the manufacture of cheap furniture has long been an established industry, but in the manufacture of furniture of the highest order, with the exception of sawing up the stuff, most of the work is done by hand.

Much beautiful work in this latter class was exhibited by the celebrated English makers—Gillow and Co., Jackson, Graham, and Co., Shoolbred and Co., Johnson, Jeanes and Co.

The furniture exhibited by Messrs. Gillow and Co. in the Prince of Wales' Pavilion was arranged for an English mansion of the 17th century. The dining-room was in black inlaid walnut; drawing-room in satin-wood, thuya, and carved boxwood; morning room decorated in "modern English" style in rosewood, with Japanese

Japanese panels of lac upon ivory. The bed-rooms were in the 18th century style, and furnished in the "modern English" style, executed in solid walnut and inlaid oak. The designing of this furniture was by H. C. J. Henry and J. W. Hay.

Messrs. Jackson and Graham designed and made the furniture for "Lascelles House," in the old English style, with fire-place and stained glass windows. The chimney-piece was made by machinery in solid wood with inlaid work.

James Shoolbred and Co. furnished the house built by Messrs. Doulton, to the north of the Prince Wales' Pavilion. Dining-room in oak, with fire-place, side-board, &c. Library in walnut and rosewood. Bedrooms in teak and inlaid work. A small drawing-room on the ground floor was in the "English style," with satin-wood furniture, all very elegant and chaste. None of these makers left anything to be desired, either in the quality of work or beauty of design.

Class 18 comprised upholsterers' and decorators' work, and was divided into five sections—(1st) The work of the upholsterer proper, such as bed furniture, stuffed chairs, canopies, curtains, and other hangings; (2nd) decorative furniture of costly stone and marble work, &c.; (3rd) cornices and decorative objects in plaster, carton pierre, papier mâché, &c.; (4th) frames of all kinds; and (5th) panel decorations and church furniture. The two last sections comprise industries which are almost entirely Parisian. In the work of the ornamental sculptor the object is modelled in clay and the cast in plaster, or if in carton pierre or papier mâché it is stamped into matrices by presses made for the especial purpose. The ornaments which are made in carton pierre and papier mâché are very beautiful, and well adapted for purposes of ventilation. Another excellent feature is they are so light that there is no danger on account of their weight as with plaster when suspended from high ceilings. During the last ten years this industry has progressed rapidly. The impulse which has been given to the construction and restoration of churches over England and the Continent has created entirely a specialty for the manufacture of church furniture, and a number of works have been established specially for this class of work, which comprises statues, bas-reliefs, marble, stone, and terra-cotta, impressions in metal and plaster, carton pierre and papier mâché, objects of a religious character, either coloured or gilded. The furniture of altars, pulpits, and baptismal fonts, executed either in marble, stone, wood, metal, or in mosaic work, painted or gilded, is also supplied by these firms. By the modern method of manufacture, which employs a number of automatic machines, this class of art objects can be made at a very cheap rate, and most of the orders which come from all parts of the world are executed in France and Belgium, where such important progress has been made in this industry. Archæological studies have contributed largely in forming the taste of purchasers, for the most part people of fortune, who from religious motives gratuitously present these objects to the churches. These circumstances have contributed to induce the manufacturers to study the best models, and to introduce a variety of subjects. As a consequence we are supplied with a much better class of art.

Class 19 included crystal glass and stained glass. The products of these industries are of the most varied form and description. They were divided by the jury into eight different sections:—

1st.—Glass for household use; lustres and candelabras; cut glass—plain, coloured, gilded, and stained.

2nd.—

- 2nd.—Decanters and goblets for the table, and articles generally used in restaurants; bottles for aerated water, retorts, and all appliances for the laboratory.
- 3rd.—Glass for mirrors; crystals for optical purposes, coloured glass, and apparatus for lighthouses.
- 4th.—Window glass, plain and coloured; cylinders and globes, and glass tubes.
- 5th.—Bottles for beer, wine, and mineral waters; bell-glasses for gardens, &c.
- 6th.—Enamel in bulk and in tubes, for the working jeweller and glass-blower.
- 7th.—Mirrors and looking-glasses.
- 8th.—Painted glass-work.

Glass-working had arrived at a degree of perfection among the ancients, but its decadence was complete after the fall of the Roman Empire. It was towards the twelfth century that Venice commenced the establishment of the celebrated glass-works, the prosperity of which did not decline until the end of the seventeenth century. During the sixteenth century the glass manufacture in Bohemia developed itself rapidly. Colbert, the celebrated minister of Louis XIV and XV, created the establishment of Saint Gobain towards the end of the seventeenth century, and manufactories were established in England about the same period. In France the principal centres of manufactures are in the Départements des Nord, de l'Aisne, de la Saône, de Meurthe et Moselle, du Rhône, and de la Loire. Paris is the great market for the sale of crystal ware, whether in cut or common glass, or mirrors. She also exports very largely. The price of ordinary bottles is 15 francs per hundred, and of champagne bottles from 20 to 30 francs. These latter are all annealed, and subjected to a pressure of six atmospheres before they are sent out of the works. The great difficulty in the manufacture of glass is to obtain the high temperature required in a sufficiently economical manner. Gas has been employed for heating the crucibles, and lately an endeavour has been made to do away with crucibles altogether and use an open hearth. This open furnace has been made to melt from 12 to 14 tons of glass, and is heated by an intermittent regenerative gas apparatus. In making mirrors the manufacturers have nearly all adopted gas furnaces, and the different apparatus and machines employed, as well as processes for annealing the glass, are objects of incessant study.

Class 20 was devoted to the various forms of pottery. This industry has applications in great variety, and was divided into four categories: (1st) white and decorated porcelain; (2nd) faïence stone ware both white and decorated; (3rd) common brown ware; (4th) terra-cotta.

The materials employed in the fabrication of porcelain are the various kaolins and white flints, the price of which varies from £3 to £6 sterling a ton, according to quality. Various types of these substances were exhibited of the most beautiful color and quality by England and France.

The first manufacture of porcelain created in France was established in Vincennes in 1730. This establishment was transported to Sévres in 1739, where the manufacture was acquired by Louis XV, and has ever since remained the property of the French Government. It contains a complete collection of all foreign porcelains, and the substances from which they are made, besides a collection of all kinds of French porcelain, faïence, and potteries, together with the clays used in their manufacture. There is also a collection of samples of all vases, ornaments, services, figures, and statues which have been made in the manufactory since its establishment. The beauty of the material, and purity of the designs, have long since constituted this establishment the most important in Europe. The manufacture of faïence has not quite the same character as that of porcelain. The material is composed of pure white clay and kaolin, felspathic sand, and pebbles of silica. This industry is of very much greater importance in England than in France. The exhibition of Messrs. H. Doulton & Co., of Lambeth, both in ornamental ware and terra-cotta, was exceedingly good and varied. The specimen of a house built in terra-cotta, adjoining the Prince of Wales' pavilion in the Rue de Nations, from designs by Messrs. Tarring and Wilkinson was greatly admired. This construction was simply a portion of the large building erected at Lambeth for the Messrs. Doultons' works. Wedgewood's Portland vase, decorated cabinets, chimney-pieces, and the imitation of red granite, vigornian ware, were all charmingly beautiful, while Minton's majolica, and imitations of Palissy, Indian, and Persian ware could not be surpassed.

Class 21 treated of carpets, tapestry, and other stuffs for furniture. This class was divided into three categories—(1.) Fabrics for curtains, and furniture stuffs of cotton, wool, and silk, plain or figured. (2.) Other fabrics and leather, which are used in upholstery for covering chairs, sofas, &c. (3.) Carpets, matting, Indiarubber floor-cloths, &c., &c.

The manufacture of the first of these is susceptible of infinite variety, both in the patterns and the fabrics. Many new sorts are made every year, and fabrics of the richest class are employed. One beautiful fabric has lately been made in jute, which gives the necessary solidity for curtains in almost all patterns at a comparatively low price. Another in the refuse of the silk manufacture, which is mixed in and worked up with other textile substances. Fabrics for upholstery generally, and especially for chair covers, necessitates great excellence, both in quality and manufacture, on account of the wear and tear to which the articles are subjected. Leather and oil-cloth are very largely used for this purpose, and upon the former the most beautiful designs are worked by means of heated tools. Velvets of all kinds, and silk—either alone or as a mixture with other material—are fabrics also largely employed for first-class furniture.

There was a grand display of carpets at the Exhibition, very beautiful in design and excellent in quality, but this class of goods does not seem to have altered much for a number of years.

In floor-cloth material there are some new inventions: "Boulinikon," which is composed of animal and vegetable fibres, making an elastic warm cloth, and it is said impervious to damp. "Linoleum" is also a good floor-cloth, and a warm fabric, upon which is rolled a material composed of solidified or oxidised linseed oil combined with powdered cork, printed on the face and waterproofed at the back. "Corticine" is another form of floor-cloth made in a somewhat similar manner to the last.

From an artistic point of view there has been considerable progress made both in design and colour, giving a better class of art; and from an industrial stand-point the new materials which are employed, and the various mixtures which have been successfully manufactured, especially jute and the debris of the silk manufacture, which have been introduced during the last ten years, evidence a great advance, and can largely be traced to the influence of technical schools.

Class 22 consisted of paper-hangings. This class was sub-divided into (1) common room-paper, (2) fancy paper of all kinds, and (3) painted or printed blinds.

The manufacture of room-papers in France was a few years ago an industry almost entirely Parisian. Factories have, however, been lately established at Rouen, Monty, Rennes, Caen, Châlons-sur-Marne, and Espinal, but the most important manufactories of France are still in Paris.

Everything used in this industry can be procured in France. The exportation of the article has more than doubled since 1867, although enormous quantities are produced in England and Germany. Fancy papers have become more common and are much more economically produced. Embossed flock and watered papers, some of which are of a very high class, have much contributed to the advance of the trade. The increase of production is accounted for by a superior article being produced at a much cheaper rate by the use of modern machinery.

Painted and printed blinds have become an industry of itself—painted blinds are mostly made by hand. The best are expensive, and often artists of considerable talent are employed upon them; the common ones are stamped with impressions in a similar manner to room-paper. Like other work where taste forms an essential element of success, this industry has marvellously improved since art schools have placed the instruction necessary within the reach of the humblest individual.

Class 23 was devoted to cutlery, comprising the manufacture and commerce of all the instruments used in domestic economy, and may be classed as follows:—(1) Table cutlery; (2) cutlery made with joints and springs—such as pocket knives pen knives, and other necessary articles of a like nature; (3) cutlery, with fixed blades, such as butchers' knives, hunting knives, &c.; (4) scissors; (5) razors; (6) polished steel ware—such as that used for the toilet, dressing-case instruments, corkscrews, &c.

The great centre of the manufacture in England is Sheffield, and in France, Thiers (Puy-de-dôme), Chatellerault (Vienne), Langres-et-Nogent (Sur Marne), are famous for their cutlery works.

The change that has lately been made in automatic tools has brought about a great amelioration in the fabrication of cutlery. Much of the forging is now stamped, and that which twenty years ago was considered entirely an article of luxury can to-day be sold at a price within the reach of the poorest peasant.

Thiers has lately risen to considerable importance in the manufacture of cutlery, and produces annually over thirteen million francs worth, of which fully a fourth is exported, the market being the Colonies in South America and the coast of Africa.

Langres-et-Nogent and Chatellerault are also towns whose chief article of manufacture is cutlery. The fabricants in the above-named places compete in a manner with Sheffield, and although the steel is dearer the price of labour is cheaper, which more than compensates for the extra price of the raw material.

Class 24 comprised goldsmiths' and silversmiths' work, and may be divided into two principal groups:—(1) All ordinary goldsmiths' work, table plate, ornamental plate, and electroplate, plate of all kinds, including plated ware, and (2) all kinds of goldsmiths' work used for church plate and religious purposes. Workmen in these industries have also made great alterations of late, both in their tools and the manner of using them. Steam is used in almost all manufactories for working the hammers and rollers, and also for wire drawing and forge work. The introduction of steam automatic tools, electro-metallurgy, and mechanical appliances, have very much lowered the cost of the finished article, and considerably developed the manufacture.

Class 25 embraced bronzes, various art castings, and repoussé work. These industries entirely depend upon the art of design, all the models, whether appertaining to statuary or ornamental sculpture, being due to the work of the artist. The celebrated bronzes which Greece produced eight centuries before the Christian era, and which are now the wonder of our museums and the admiration of art students, show how this class of art was appreciated by the ancient Greeks, and to what a pitch of perfection it had arrived at that period.

These arts, which for a long time were either entirely lost or fallen into disuse, have, during the nineteenth century, received a new impulse, and by an improved taste and new methods of fabrication, sculptured bronzes have become an important article of manufacture. The making of art castings in zinc, coloured to imitate bronzes, is also a great Parisian industry. The Veille Montagne produces a zinc which has been found to be eminently adapted to the production of art castings, and the better class of these articles are plated with a thin coating of real bronze by means of electro-metallurgy. Many objects of art are also gilded, silvered, or nickelised.

Cast-iron has also been applied to the manufacture of objects of art, and many makers have, by means of a great choice of models, made the industry a somewhat important one. It is necessary that the iron used should be exceedingly fine in the grain, soft, with a nice surface, and a bluish colour. From the fact that molten iron expands at the first moment when poured before it commences its contraction, a sharp impression is given to the casting. Iron is therefore eminently adapted for taking good impressions of models. These works of art in cast-iron can be galvanised or bronzed by means of electro-metallurgy, which not only gives them a better aspect but protects them from oxidisation, and ensures their preservation for an indefinite period of time.

Class 26 pertained to clocks and watches, the manufacture of which has always been a somewhat celebrated industry in France, but commercially it is to some extent connected with other industries pertaining to bronze, zinc, wood-carving, and the marble work of chimney clock-cases. It comprised—(1) the separate parts of clocks of large and small size; (2) watches, chronometers, and the various time-keepers working by springs or weights, regulators, metronomes; (3) astronomical clocks, marine chronometers, travelling clocks, and alarums, water clocks, and sand glasses, electric clocks, turret and church clock.

The first clock made with weights and a common escapement is attributed to a French monk named Gerbert, who became Pope under the name of Sylvester II. Before that time the measure of time was made by sun-dials, sand, water glasses, &c. For a long time the progress of this industry was very slow, the first belfry clock dates back to the twelfth century, and the first public clock erected in France appeared in 1370 upon the Clock Tower, "Tour de l'horloge," at the corner of the Palais de la Cité. It was during the reign of Louis XI that small pocket watches and alarums were first made.

The regulator of the first clocks was the circular balance-wheel, which modified and improved, is still used in all portable time-measurers at the present day. The idea of using a pendulum for common clocks was not utilised till many years after Galileo had noticed its isochronism in 1583, and had applied it to his astronomical determinations. He pointed out that the pendulum could be used as a regulator to clocks, and the application was realised in 1689 by his son Vincenzo, and several years later by Huyghens, the celebrated Dutch-clock maker.

Great interest was taken in the exhibit of the American Watch Co. of Waltham, Massachusetts, which consisted of over two thousand watches in gold and silver. The peculiarity of these watches is that they are made wholly by machinery, special tools having been invented for making each particular part. A complete organization and comprehensive system of fabrication divide the labour, which is automatically performed, into the same number of operations as there are pieces in a watch. Thus for the same class of watch the arbors, wheels, springs, and plates are made by the thousand and are all exactly alike. They can therefore be put together and finished very rapidly. The Company is, consequently, quite independent of that exquisite handicraft skill which in all other methods of watchmaking is so indispensably necessary. It will be easily understood how wonderfully accurate every piece must be made, and that the special tools for making these pieces must be marvels of mechanical perfection. It is stated that this Company makes over eight hundred watches daily, or about a quarter of a million during the year.

Class 27 consisted of apparatus and processes for heating and lighting, and comprised (1) apparatus for heating and ventilation, (2) apparatus for lighting, (3) accessories of heating and lighting, and (4) portable forges.

The manufacture of heating appliances requires the co-operation of the smith, the founder, and the maker of faïence or stoneware. A great variety of stoves were exhibited at the exhibition from all parts of England, France, Belgium, and America, but in iron stoves, more especially from England and America, the products of these latter countries were much cheaper and superior in manufacture to those exhibited by the French. Perhaps this applies with greater force to cooking stoves, as for the ordinary continental stoves of stoneware, France and Germany are most celebrated. This latter country did not exhibit, but the stoves of Meissen and Dresden are famous all over the world.

The study of heating and ventilation forms a specialty which has only been taken up by a small number of manufacturers. The progress now being made in the heating and ventilation of public buildings, hospitals, theatres, &c., has powerfully contributed to the importance of this industry during the last ten years. Heating by means of gas is used very largely when the cost of the gas is not too high. Apparatus for the purpose is varied and numerous, but generally well adapted to its work. In Paris alone the quantity of gas consumed for heating purposes is estimated at 39,301,042 cubic mètres, equal to 423,036,416 cubic feet, which corresponds nearly to one-fifth of the total consumption of the year. Gas furnaces are very convenient and afford the greatest services to the founders of precious metals, tinsmiths, hatters, and many other trades.

Steam, hot air and hot water are largely employed for heating purposes, and in large establishments can be used economically.

Lighting

Lighting apparatus may be divided into three heads:—(1) apparatus using either vegetable or mineral oils, (2) gas apparatus, and (3) electric apparatus.

The most noticeable progress in lighting is in the apparatus necessary for the application of electricity to the lighting of streets and lighthouses. At the Paris Exhibition of 1867, the only serious application of electricity for the purposes of lighting was at the lighthouses of Havre. During the last three years improvements of dynamo-electric machines have been so numerous, and the cost so much reduced, that many applications have been made of this method of lighting, not only for marine and war purposes, but also for towns and great industrial establishments. Besides this, the invention of electric candles, which would appear to constitute the first practical solution of dividing the light produced by any determined current of electricity, has already developed itself considerably, and the Avenue and Place de l'Opera, the Place de la Concord, the Arc d'etoile, and many other places demonstrate how beautifully a city can be lighted by means of this imponderable agent. No doubt in the future the electric current will be used to transmit power as well as light to considerable distances; while therefore the current could be used for a source of lighting during the night, it could carry motive power for industrial purposes throughout the day; already its uses are great and varied. For lighthouse illumination it is superlatively excellent, and for large open spaces it is without a rival. In Paris it was not only used in the streets but in shops, where by its light the different shades of blue and green could be as well distinguished as during the day.

The electric light is produced by the transformation of energy either through chemical or mechanical means. Energy converted into an electric current is made to give a light by passing between carbon points or rendering incandescent solid bodies such as iridium, compared with gas for the purposes of lighting, its superiority is generally admitted but unfortunately its economy is more than doubtful. In a few of its applications it has been found to be cheaper than gas, but in nine cases out of ten gas has the advantage. The electric light has not yet been sufficiently developed to compete with gas for domestic purposes.

The manufacture of matches gives employment to a great number of hands. A variety of these useful articles were exhibited in this class both in wood and wax.

The little portable forges which render such services to metallurgy, chemical laboratories, and other industries, have been brought to great perfection. Some of these are worked by means of gas, and are preferred by enamellers, coppersmiths, goldsmiths, and jewellers from their convenience and cleanliness.

Class 28 consisted of perfumery, an industry which has been largely developed in France and Germany. To such an extent has this industry increased in France that while in 1836 there were 800,000 kilos (1,760,000 lbs.), of the value of 6,000,000 francs (£240,000), exported from France, in 1876 the quantity exported amounted to 2,500,000 kilos (5,500,000 lbs.), of the value of 17,000,000 francs (£680,000), while a quantity valued at 12,000,000 francs (£480,000 lbs.), was consumed in the French market. The exportation is divided amongst the following countries:—England 225,000 kilos (495,000 lbs.), Belgium 185,000 kilos (407,000 lbs.), the Spanish possessions in America 172,000 kilos (378,400 lbs.), Brazil 150,000 kilos (330,000 lbs.), Germany 135,000 kilos (297,000 lbs.), and the United States 135,000 kilos (297,000 lbs.)

The

The perfumery industry in France gives employment to from 3,500 to 4,000 workpeople, besides numberless auxiliaries in other trades, such as engravers, artists, decorators, glass-blowers, makers of porcelain, &c., in order to give to the bottle, parcel, or envelope that elegance and attractiveness which serve to increase its value.

Class 29 related to leather work, fancy articles, and basket work, and was divided into four categories :—(1) leather work for purses, card cases, and other works of that class ; (2) little articles covered with leather, such as pipe-cases, pouches, and other articles for smokers ; (3) brushwork ; (4) basketwork for the table.

The first of these categories, namely, the fabrication of fancy articles, dressing-cases, portfolios, purses, &c., is almost entirely carried on at Paris, and in many German and Belgian towns, where with modern appliances and an abundance of the cheap labour provided by women and children, these goods can be turned out at incredibly low rates, rendering it impossible for any country to compete where cheap labour cannot be obtained, excepting for articles of a very superior class, which may command high prices.

GROUP 4 comprehended the whole of the textile fabrics, clothing, and accessories, embracing industries indispensably necessary to mankind, and one of the great sources of the wealth of nations.

Class 30 includes cotton-thread and its fabrics. The display was very beautiful and highly attractive. The great home of the cotton manufacture is England, although France has made considerable progress since the first Exhibition, consuming at present upwards of 90,000 tons of raw material, and giving work to nearly 5,000,000 spindles. Very little more than a century ago America sent the first bale of raw cotton to Europe, while in 1877 she not only exported 3,391,795 bales but worked up enormous quantities in her own factories.

Class 31 treated of linen thread, and fabrics manufactured of flax, hemp, &c. The principal countries for the production of linen are Great Britain, Belgium, Russia, France, and Algeria. Hemp is produced mostly in France, Austro-Hungary, Belgium, Italy, and Russia. Jute is grown in India and China ; many fine specimens, both in flax and hemp were exhibited by different countries. Those in the French agricultural annexe merited especial attention. I would remark that excellent flax can be grown in New South Wales, and with the improved heckling machinery now in use, would in all probability be sufficiently remunerative to warrant its cultivation. Many other fibrous substances, such as phormium, manila hemp, china-grass and banana fibres, have been more or less experimented upon for the manufacture of textile fabrics. Of all these, jute has given the most satisfactory results, and in the manufacture of curtains, table-covers, and other upholsterers' fabrics it may fairly be classed as one of the most valuable.

Classes 32 and 33 comprised woollen yarns and fabrics, and these were considered by the jury in two categories :—(1) The spinning of the wool, and (2) the weaving of the yarns into the different fabrics for which wool is used. The spinning of wool is divided into two branches, viz., combed wool and carded wool, and is performed by different machines and processes. In working up carded wools all the refuse of the combing process is utilized. The first of these comprised all tissues of pure combed wool and woollen yarns, combed and carded, such as the beautiful merinoes and fancy stuffs manufactured for ladies dresses, and tissues mixed with other materials. Carded wool is manufactured into broadcloths, livery-cloths, billiard and coach cloths, fancy paletot and ladies cloths, articles for jackets and fancy trouserings. A large portion of the wool employed by the French manufacturers is grown in Australia, and its use is rapidly increasing. New methods of combing and spinning have given a great impulse to this industry, while the almost universal application of the power-loom and aniline colours, have enabled the manufacturer to reduce the price of his fabric, and still be in a position to pay a comparatively high price for his wool. France was represented by 377 exhibitors, and has succeeded in preserving her first position among the manufacturers of the world, in the production of novelties in merinoes and fancy materials for ladies dresses. The tweeds and shawls exhibited by Mr. John Vicars, of Sydney, excited a good deal of attention both for their quality and manufacture. The jury expressed themselves in the most favourable manner in speaking of Mr. Vicars' exhibition, and adjudged him the silver medal. In the Belgium section there were many exhibitors, who occupied a good position. Liège and Verviers are the centres of the wool industry in Belgium. There were also some excellent cloth exhibits from Austrian manufacturers, who very closely imitated the French in their products.

Woolworking is one of the most ancient industries of the world, and the marvellous improvements in spinning and weaving machinery made during the last century have enabled manufacturers to produce an excellent article at very moderate prices. Female labour is largely used, and it is calculated that fully two-thirds of the persons employed are women. In all fancy goods, continental manufacturers evince great taste in colour and in beautiful designs. This taste has been much encouraged and developed by means of the technical schools of weaving and dyeing, which were established on the continent much earlier than in England. Their taste in designing patterns was so superior, that the manufacturers of Leeds found it absolutely necessary to establish a school modelled upon the same plan as those of Liège, Kremnitz, and Mulhaus. It was stated that the various processes have not altered much during the last ten years, except in the superior construction and the care displayed in turning out excellent machinery.

Class 34 comprised silk and silk fabrics, and was divided into three categories: (1) spun silk; (2) thread from silk refuse; and (3) stuffs of pure silk, or silk mixed with other materials. About 500 years ago this industry was imported from Italy to the Valley of the Rhone, where it took root at once and has flourished ever since, Lyons still remaining the centre of its manufacture and the great market for the fine silks of the south of France and Italy. In 1877, which was a very poor year, the quantity of silk spun in France amounted to 510,000 kilos (1,122,000 lbs.), produced by 2,400,000 kilogrammes (5,280,000 lbs.) of cocoons. Besides this there was imported 4,050,000 kilogrammes (8,910,000 lbs.) of spun silk, which was worked up into French goods. The silk industry in France occupies during a great part of the year 7,647 men, 51,136 women, and 10,985 children. The cocoons are spun and the silk prepared by women and children, who sometimes work in factories but mostly at home, and by the piece. The exhibitors of raw silk were from France, Algiers, Italy, Austria, Spain, Portugal, Russia, India, America, and the Australian Colonies. In silk stuffs there are three categories:—(1) Silks in piece; (2) ribbons; (3) silk mixed with other materials. In the production of these fabrics, machinery is rapidly replacing manual labour, while the beautiful designs and colours show to the best advantage the taste and skill of the French manufacturer.

Class

Class 36 comprised four distinct groups:—(1.) Laces; (2.) net; (3.) embroidery; and (4.) trimmings. Lace was divided into two classes:—(1.) Cushion lace, which is made with bobbins, and set out with pins on a cushion; and (2.) point lace, and which is made by hand and with a single needle. The most celebrated lace is made in France, and known as “French point,” or point d’Alençon. The manufacture was introduced into France by Colbert to avoid the importation of lace from Italy and Flanders. French lace is mostly made in Normandy, Lorraine, and Auvergne; the exhibition was of the highest order. Lace of a beautiful character is also made in Belgium, and known as Brussels point. Honiton lace made in England, is also a marvellously beautiful hand production. Large quantities of hand-made lace are produced at Malta and the Isles of Greece, and known as Maltese lace, while the Limerick lace is very handsome and highly appreciated. One of the finest exhibits was a complete set of Honiton lace trimmings, by Howell and James, of wondrous delicacy and beauty. There was also a vast variety of machine-made lace exhibited. The curtains with which the British section was hung, exhibited by Copestake, Hughes, Crampton and Co., manufactured at Nottingham, were exceptionally beautiful, and demanded special notice for their great size and excellent quality. Lace-work and trimmings of silk, floss silk, worsted, mohair, horsehair, thread and cotton were also largely exhibited.

Class 37 comprehended hosiery, underclothing, and accessories of clothing—hosiery of cotton thread, wool, cashmere, silk or floss silk, pure or mixed—all kinds of elastic fabrics for belts, braces, and garters, which require especial manufactories for their production—underclothing for men, women, and children, baby-linen, &c., with flannel of all classes, and woollen garments. The accessories of clothing comprise corsets and stays of all kinds, scarves, gloves, gaiters, fans, screens, umbrellas, parasols, walking-sticks, buttons, &c.

Nearly all the articles above mentioned, especially gloves, buttons, umbrellas, and fans, require special manufactories for their production.

The best class of fans is almost exclusively made at Paris, where the manufacture seems to have centralized.

A fan is composed of a leaf fixed to a mounting. This leaf, single or double, is either of paper, silk, crape, feathers, or lace, or even of kid leather. For ordinary fans the design with which the leaf is ornamented is engraved by any of the usual methods of printing, but the most beautiful and recherché fans are designed and painted by artists.

The mountings are either in wood, horn, bone, ivory, tortoise-shell, or mother-of-pearl. They are also made of gilt wood, or wood ornamented with gold or silver, and also of aluminium or bronze, and are often set with diamonds and precious stones.

This industry alone gives occupation to over 4,000 work-people in Paris and the Département de l’Oise, and the annual value of the production is about 10,000,000 francs (£400,000), of which 2,000,000 francs’ worth (£80,000), are sold in France, and the remainder exported, principally to England, Spain, Italy, and America.

Class 38 consisted of clothing for both sexes, men and women’s ordinary and waterproof clothing, men and women’s head dresses, artificial flowers and feathers, wigs, frizettes, &c., in hair, boots and shoes, children’s clothes, clothing peculiar to various trades and professions, with native costumes of different countries. All the industries peculiar to the production of these articles were represented.

The manufacture of artificial flowers and feathers has always been one of the most interesting industries of Paris. It is almost exclusively the work of women and children. There are at the present time more than 3,000 manufactories for their production, the annual value of which is estimated at over a million sterling.

France has also always been famous for its millinery and dressmaking, which employ 8,000 workwomen in Paris alone, with salaries varying from £3 to £20 a month. It is estimated that in Paris a million sterling is annually paid in wages to women engaged in this business.

The samples of boots and shoes exhibited were very numerous and beautiful, and it would be difficult to say which country or nation produced the finest specimens. This trade has grown very much in France during the last ten years, although the price of labour and leather have risen fully 15 per cent. It is estimated approximately, that over 540,000,000 francs (£21,600,000) is annually spent upon boots and shoes in France, besides a value of 100,000,000 francs (£4,000,000) exported, making a total value of 640,000,000 francs, or £25,600,000.

Class 39 included jewellery and precious stones, consisting of articles and trinkets in precious metals, chased, filigreed, set, decorated or enriched with precious stones, &c., plated and imitation jewellery, ornaments in jet, amber, coral, mother-of-pearl, steel, &c., diamonds, precious stones, pearls, and imitations.

The business of the jeweller is to mount the gems, &c., which are cut by the lapidary, and his trade is especially one of taste, modelling and chasing the precious metals, or enriching them with enamel. There is also a lot of work executed by means of machine tools, especially in plated work.

The School of Design founded several years since by the Syndical Chamber of Jewellers, has powerfully contributed to develop in the apprentices and young workmen the elementary notions of art and taste. Very remarkable progress has been made in this truly artistic industry. In order to compete successfully, each maker is obliged to give to his productions a particular style, so as to distinguish his make from that of others, and it is not only necessary to have the most graceful and original designs, but also to educate the workman faithfully to execute the work in a manner peculiar to his patron's establishment.

The exhibition of jewellery from India, Turkey, and Egypt convince us that with them the art is stationary. Mr. Bridwood says—"The jewellers and goldsmiths' art in India is of the highest antiquity, and the forms of the jewellery, as well as of the gold and silver plate, and the chasings and embossments decorating them have come down in an unbroken tradition from the Ramayana and Mahabharata." The Indian collections of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, together with the supplementary collection exhibited by the Indian Commission, were most interesting and instructive.

Steel jewellery, which was so fashionable in the eighteenth century, has during the last few years come into favour again. These ornaments are either made of soft steel or iron, which is afterwards case-hardened. It is chiefly stamped in steel matrices, and mechanically polished.

False pearls are made in France with so much art that it is impossible even for the eye practised in jewellery to distinguish them from those which are real.

This

This industry has already reached an annual value of 2,000,000 francs (£80,000 sterling) in Paris. Diamond cutting should doubtless have been placed in this class, but owing to some misconception was exhibited in Class 59.

Class 40 comprised portable weapons, and hunting and shooting equipments. It was divided into four distinct groups:—(1) fowling-pieces and rifles; (2) side-arms, foils, swords, sabres, bayonets, lances, axes, hunting-knives, cuirasses, and helmets; (3) percussion-caps, priming, cartridges, and ammunition generally; (4) hunting and sporting equipments. All these classes were well represented, in such variety that that it would be impossible even to enumerate them.

Class 41 consisted of travelling apparatus and camp equipage, and comprised trunks, valises, saddle-bags, dressing-cases, travelling-rugs, cushions, caps, costumes, and boots, iron-shod sticks, grapnel-hooks, sunshades, &c., together with portable apparatus,—specially intended for scientific voyages and expeditions—travelling photographic apparatus, instruments for astronomical and meteorological observations, equipments and implements for geologists, mineralogists, colonists, pioneers, &c., with tent and camp equipage, beds, hammocks, folding-chairs, &c.

The manufacture of most of the articles in this class has had a comparatively recent origin. Travelling has become so much more general since the introduction of railways, that the economical manufacture of articles especially adapted to travelling requirements is absolutely necessary. What was once simply an accessory to the saddlers' and upholsterers' trades has become a most important industry of itself, and we have now special works for making the numerous articles adapted for travelling and camp purposes.

In the manufacture of these articles England is very much ahead of all other nations, which may possibly be accounted for by the fact that English and American travellers are more numerous than those of any other nation. Travelling equipments are however made largely in France, and a considerable quantity exported. There was an excellent display of articles in this class by England and France. Canada also had a fine exhibition of portmanteaux and other travelling appliances.

Class 42 related to toys, including dolls and playthings, games for the amusement of children and adults, automatic toys and instructive games. Most of these latter, which include the scientific toys, puzzles, conjuring tricks, electromagnetic toys, working models of agricultural, locomotive, and domestic machinery, are comparatively of recent date, and are invaluable as out-of-school object lessons to young children; they have been brought to great perfection, and among the automatic toys the singing birds are perfect, while swimming and walking dolls are types of a class of toys in which French makers take the lead.

Paris has always been famous for its dolls, which are mostly made by hand labour, and command large prices. They are expensively dressed, with great taste and elegance. The making of dolls clothes alone, occupy hundreds of women, who earn from fifteen to twenty pence a day.

There were in 1872 in the Department of the Seine 1,600 toymakers, employing 1,250 men, 2,500 women, and a considerable number of children. The value of the annual production was over 8,500,000 francs (£340,000).

A great many scientific toys and apparatus for the instruction and amusement of youth are manufactured in Germany and Switzerland.

GROUP 5 related to mining industries, raw and manufactured products.

Class 43 represented mining and metallurgy, the products from which are extracted from the ground, in the various mineralogical regions of the world. This class included not only metals and minerals, but stones, earths, and clay, of all classes, sulphur and salt, mineral fuel, all kinds of coal, coal dust, and pressed coal, asphalt, bitumen, mineral tar and petroleum, also the products of these minerals, such as rough castings, bells, wrought-iron of all classes, sheet iron coated with zinc or lead, manufactured metals and blacksmiths' work, wire drawing, wire ropes, wire gauze, perforated sheet iron, needles and pins, hardware, edge tools, ironmongery, copper, sheet-iron, tin-ware, and all other metal manufactures, as electro-metallurgy, objects gilt, silvered or coated with nickel or copper, by the galvanic process.

Gold, silver, copper tin, bronze, and iron were manufactured both in England and France long before the Roman conquest. Under the Roman government the working of metals increased, but it was not until the wars at the end of the eleventh century that mining became of any great importance.

From the fact that in England the ore and fuel necessary for the production of iron were found existing together in immense quantities, she has always taken the leading position among iron producing nations. She has for nearly a century been able not only to provide for her own enormous consumption, but to supply the market for iron in almost every country of the world.

Latterly the great inventions of Bessemer, Dr. Siemens, Martin Perrot, and others have enabled the iron-master to produce steel at actually a less cost than that of iron, where magnetic oxide or hematite ores can be cheaply obtained.

The ores of iron, tin, copper, and lead from New South Wales were second to none in the Exhibition, and obtained the gold medal. Our mineral collection, as arranged by Professor Liversidge, was admired as much for the variety of the ores as for their excellent quality; while the gold-bearing quartz of Hill End, from the "Star of Peace Company," exhibited by the Commissioners, was by far the richest and the most beautiful in the Exhibition. California made a very fine display of argentiferous minerals; in short all countries had comprehensive mineralogical collections.

Belgium is comparatively rich in minerals, and has been able to produce cheap iron. Although her coal is dearer and of a worse quality than that of England, she possesses an abundance of cheap labour. Difficulties have existed in France on account of the distances which separate the ores and the fuel necessary to their reduction. Nevertheless these obstacles have been surmounted, and the works of the Messrs. Schneider & Co. at Creusot may be justly reckoned among the wonders of the world.

The Russian section exhibited the most marvellously beautiful objects in malachite, jasper and rhodonite, worked into tables, cabinets, sideboards, and other pieces of furniture. In the Italian exhibitions were also exhibited beautiful objects in lapis-lazuli marble and mosaic work, as well as a grand collection of ores and minerals.

After the thirteenth century, mining, which in France had arrived at considerable importance, was abandoned on account of the continual wars which devastated the country. The workmen were dispersed, and as a consequence the industry was lost.

lost. It was never recovered until the commencement of the sixteenth century, a short time after the discovery of America, when, chiefly in the Vosges Mountains and the Pyrenees, a commencement was made to work the minerals of those localities. The Thirty Years War and the religious wars which followed, again put a stop to the work. In the eighteenth century, however, particularly under Louis XVI, several prosperous attempts were made in different parts of France to manufacture iron. Powder was introduced to assist in the work, and various mechanical inventions enabled the miners to work at greater depths. This prosperity, however, was only temporary, and it was not until 1781-3, when a corps of mining engineers was created, and a school of mines founded, that the mining industry commenced to prosper. Iron mines have been worked in France from the time of the Gauls in numerous localities. Wherever the mineral was rich enough to be treated by the direct method, with wood charcoal and the Catalan process, there a furnace was set up. After the French Exhibition of 1855, it was seen it would be impossible to compete with England, Belgium, and Germany, unless efforts were made to establish works on a similar scale to those which existed in those countries. This had been done at Creusot to some extent before this period, but generally France was very much behind the countries above mentioned. At the 1878 Exhibition, however, both Creusot and Terre Noire had gone ahead of all competitors. They exhibited their products in pavilions of their own, erected in the immediate vicinity of the main Exhibition building in the Champ de Mars, Schneider & Co.'s special building being the largest in the grounds. This company exhibited not only their raw produce in coals and ores, but also every variety of cast-iron, wrought iron, and steel, together with steam engines, machinery, cannon, and armour plates made at the works. The object which most attracted the attention of visitors was a full-sized model in wood of the 80-ton steam hammer which was erected at Creusot in 1877. This hammer, which is the largest in the world, is stated to be three times more powerful than the celebrated 50-ton hammer of Krupp at Essen. It is calculated to work iron forgings up to 100 tons weight, which can be easily handled by the four powerful hydraulic cranes which command the anvil. It cost £120,000, and has principally been used for reducing the enormous steel ingots which have been manufactured by the Siemens-Martin process, in order to convert them into forgings for different kinds of machinery. The height from the bottom of the foundation to the top of this steam hammer is 112 feet, while the height of the portion above ground is 62 feet. The diameter of the cylinder is 6 feet 6 inches, and the length of stroke 16 feet 6 inches. Its weight is 1,280 tons, inclusive of the anvil and block. A wooden model of one of these ingots, which weighed 120 tons, was exhibited, together with a finished steel armour plate, weighing 65 metric tons, and measuring 13 feet 10 inches long, 8 feet 6 inches wide, and 2 feet 7 inches thick. Magnificent examples of locomotives and marine engines, one of which latter was 2,640-horse power, were also exhibited. There were samples of iron and steel rollers, plates, sheets, bars, angle-iron beams, and wire, all of excellent quality. There was also an exceptionally large cast-steel shaft for a screw propeller 60 feet 4 inches long, and 17 inches in diameter, weighing 44,651 pounds, or nearly 20 tons. Their exhibit was superior in size and variety to any that have been previously made, and excited the astonishment and admiration of all. It showed conclusively how French skill and enterprise had progressed in the manufacture of iron and steel, and that in the most advanced forms of this industry she had been successful beyond all expectation. The buildings at the works of Messrs. Schneider & Co., including furnaces, brick works, rolling mills, steel works, constructing and other shops, occupy a space of 60 acres. The area occupied by the works, dwellings of workmen, and railroads, is 1,058 acres. They employ twenty-seven locomotives, 1,518 cars, 281 steam engines, in addition to the locomotives, fifty-eight steam hammers, and 1,058 steam machine tools. During the year previous to the Exhibition they produced 155,000 tons of pig-iron, 126,000 tons of wrought-iron and steel, and 25,000 tons of iron and steel were used in the constructing shops. During that year they raised nearly 600,000 tons of coal and smelted 400,000 tons of iron ore in thirteen blast furnaces. The coal existing in the locality is of a very impure description, so much so, that it has to be mixed with other coal and crushed, before it can be converted into coke or is fit for the manufacture of iron. The iron ore is poor, only yielding about 28 per cent. of iron, and the difficulties in working the coal mines are of such a nature that the expenses of pumping and timbering the mine, amount to a larger sum per ton than that at which the best coal can be delivered at Welsh furnaces. Such, however, is the organisation of these stupendous works, under the direction of M. Henri Schneider, that in spite of unparalleled and apparently insurmountable difficulties, they have attained their present state of comparative perfection.

The Terre Noire exhibit was also exceedingly instructive and magnificent. It showed every grade of steel and all the results of the company's varied and numerous experiments. They exhibited samples of their ores, coal, pig-iron, and spiegel-eisen; cast-iron pipes of all diameters up to 3 feet; rolled beams, 68 feet long, steel ingots, steel castings, locomotive axles, tires, and numerous other objects. The works of this company are at Terre Noire and Tamaris, near St. Etienne. Their steel is made by a process peculiar to Terre Noire, but which is in reality a modification of the ordinary Siemens-Martin process, producing admirable close steel, free from flaws and air-holes. The company has nineteen blast furnaces, fifteen Siemens-Martin furnaces, eight Bessemer converters, eighty-four puddling and fifty-five re-heating furnaces, twelve steam hammers, and twenty-eight roll trains for iron and steel.

The Saint Chamond Company, whose works are situated in the department of Saône-et-Loire, exhibited railroad and marine material, iron and steel beams, bars, plates, sheets, steel tires, and springs, &c. They also exhibited locomotives and cars, and a beautiful collection of polished and fractured iron and steel rails, together with armour plate and steel cannon. They also showed a 40-ton cast steel ingot, and a ship's keel of wrought iron, 49 feet long, and weighing 5,170 lbs. The steel is made by the process of Siemens-Martin-Pernot, and iron is also puddled in the Pernot furnaces. This company makes a speciality of girders, which are rolled up to 2 feet in width, and 50 feet long, by a peculiar universal train for this particular purpose.

The chief iron and steel producing countries range themselves in the following order according to their production:—

1. Great Britain, which in 1878 produced 6,300,000 tons of iron and 1,100,000 tons of steel.
2. United States of America, which produced in the same year 2,301,215 tons of iron, and 735,000 tons of steel.
3. Germany, of which statistics only to 1876 could be obtained, made during that year 1,816,672 tons of iron, and 384,159 tons of steel.
4. France, whose production in 1878 was 1,417,073 tons of iron, and 281,801 tons of steel.
5. Belgium, which in 1876 produced 562,086 tons of iron, and 100,000 tons of steel.
6. Austro-Hungary, which in the same year made 443,689 tons of iron, and 113,152 tons of steel.
7. Russia, which in 1875, the last year of which statistics were obtained, produced 420,035 tons of iron, and and 12,720 tons of steel. 8. Sweden, whose production in 1876 was 346,955 tons of iron, and 20,000 tons of steel, while all other countries in 1877 made 200,000 tons of iron, and 20,000 tons of steel, making a total of 13,807,725 tons of iron, and 2,770,524 tons of steel.

It will thus be seen that Great Britain makes 45·63 per cent. of the whole quantity of iron, and 39·70 per cent. of the whole quantity of steel manufactured in the world, the United States coming next with 16·67 per cent. of iron, and 26·53 per cent. of steel. America has made a wondrous progress in the iron and steel manufacture since her civil war, while Germany is producing largely both iron and steel of excellent quality.

The English exhibit of iron and steel and their products was not as complete and satisfactory as it should have been, nor was it worthy of the vast mineral resources and the metallurgical progress of the country. Certainly no other nation except France made so large a display of iron and steel products—engines, machine tools, agricultural implements, and machinery—but considering the enormous proportion of the iron industry which England commands, it must be confessed that the exhibit was not such as was due to her character. England is the home of the Bessemer and open-hearth processes for the manufacture of steel, and therefore should have had the best assortment; on the contrary, however, it was noticeable that the exhibits of the products of these processes were altogether unworthy. One would necessarily have thought from the exhibits, that England had not adopted the Bessemer and open-hearth steel for the manufacture of articles for which other steel and iron had before been required. Such, however, is not the case, for in no country in the world have these processes attained greater perfection, or can the products be more beautifully or cheaply made. Bolckow, Vaughan, & Co. exhibited steel rails from their works at Esten, which were established the year previous. These works are very extensive; they use four 8-ton converters, and make 2,000 tons of steel rails weekly. The ore employed chiefly comes from the west coast of England, and Bilbao in Spain, as up to the present time no process for the dephosphorisation of iron has been sufficiently matured to enable the manufacturers to use their own iron ores. It is reported that a process has been invented which has been successful by means of a basic lining to the converter. I am not aware, however, that this has been carried out on a sufficiently large scale to warrant its being considered an accomplished fact.

Brown, Bailey, & Dixon, of Sheffield, exhibited most beautiful specimens of Bessemer-steel rails, tires, axles, plates, bars, &c. A single rail 130 feet long was exhibited by this firm, rolled from one ingot and bent into 4 lengths of 32 feet each, forming a sort of gridiron $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet across, showing the quality of the materials they employ when rolled direct from the ingot. They exhibited also tires 9 feet in diameter, while their locomotive springs were of most excellent quality.

Steel armour plates, Bessemer rails, axles, &c., were exhibited by the celebrated firm of John Brown & Co., of very superior make and size. Bessemer steel boiler-plate was also exhibited by the West Cumberland Iron and Steel Company, of a quality indicating the greatest excellence.

The steel known as Whitworth metal, invented by Sir Joseph Whitworth, and which is manufactured by the Siemens-Martin process, and cast under hydraulic pressure, was exhibited in considerable quantity. The object sought to be gained has

has been to produce a steel perfectly solid and free from air-holes. It is stated that this result has been attained by casting the ingots under hydraulic pressure. The most beautiful products of this metal were exhibited, one of which, a propeller shaft, forged hollow, was 33 ft. 7 in. long, $17\frac{1}{2}$ in. outside diameter, with a bore of $11\frac{3}{8}$ in. It was forged from a hoop of pressed steel. A cylinder for a hydraulic press was also shown, which had been proved to have stood a pressure of 4 tons to the square inch.

There were many beautiful exhibits of crucible steel castings, among which the Hadfield's Steel Foundry Company, at Sheffield, exhibited castings in almost every form, principally, however, for railroad appliances, including very light wheels for street railroads.

England has to import a very considerable quantity of the ore she employs in producing Bessemer steel. Only two districts in Great Britain—North-west Lancashire and Cumberland—can supply ores in quantity suitable for this purpose. The importation of foreign ores is therefore absolutely necessary. During the year 1877 she imported 1,142,308 tons from Spain and Algeria for this purpose.

The wonderful rapidity of Great Britain's progress in the manufacture of steel cannot but be noted, as at the period of the first French Exhibition of 1855 her annual production of all kinds of steel only amounted to 50,000 tons, while in 1878, 23 years later, she made no less than 850,000 tons by the Bessemer process, and 174,000 tons by the Siemens and Siemens-Martin processes, while the quantity produced by all other processes brought the total production of steel in Great Britain in that year to about 1,100,000 tons, or nearly 40 per cent. of the whole world's production.

Germany is rapidly acquiring a place in the front rank amongst iron and steel producing countries. She possesses extensive and varied resources. She has iron ore and coal in abundance of a quality comparing favourably with that of England, far superior to that of France and Belgium. The coal is equal to that of England both for generating steam and coking for blast furnaces. The coal and ore are mostly found in Silesia and Saxony as well as in Westphalia and Rhenish Prussia. As, however, these districts are situated at long distances inland, great expense is rendered necessary for the transportation of the iron. The water carriage from England is much cheaper to German seaports than the railroad or canal transportation from the German mines and ironworks to the same market, therefore English competition is a serious obstacle to the development of these industries. It is to be regretted that Germany did not take a part in the industrial classes of the Paris International Exhibition, as the exhibits from Krupp's establishment at Essen would doubtless have been equally remarkable with those from the Creuzot works in France and the Seraing in Belgium.

It is only some 28 years ago that Krupp, the great Prussian iron-master of Essen, by means of an invention to make large ingots of crucible steel, gave a great impulse to the steel manufacture. At that period it was thought a marvellous thing to make an ingot of 2 tons, and $2\frac{1}{2}$ tons was the maximum weight of Krupp's ingots. Now, by means of the Bessemer, of the Siemens-Martin processes, ingots are made of 120 tons, while the casting of 40-ton ingots is an every-day occurrence. The Bessemer process consists of charging melted pig iron of a quality nearly free from sulphur and phosphorus into a vessel called a converter, which is a large cast-iron vessel lined with fireclay. Air is then forced through the melted metal with considerable velocity by means of powerful blowing machinery. This is continued until the iron is completely oxidised, or the carbon blown out. A certain quantity of ferro-manganese is then added so as to give the exact amount of carbon necessary to make good steel. Blowing is again resorted to but simply to mix the metal thoroughly, when it is cast into ingots and are taken away to be rolled into rails or tyres, or to be hammered into forgings as the case may be.
large

The Siemens-Martin, or open hearth process, is begun by charging good hematite pig on to the bed of a regenerating reverberatory furnace, and the oxidation is performed by adding to the molten mass ore rich in oxides of iron in proper proportions. When the decarbonisation is complete ferro-manganese is added, as in the Bessemer process.

I may mention that M. Henri Schneider, the head of the great firm of Schneider & Co., of Creuzot, in an examination before a Commission appointed to inquire into the particulars concerning the iron trade, expressed himself as follows as regards German competition :—

“Germany is a more dangerous rival than England in a number of articles she manufactures and exports into France. The Germans are our great competitors, and their prodigious development may be attributed to several causes. In the first place they enjoy better conditions for the production of iron. Germany possesses great mineral wealth, which has been developed under healthy conditions independent of the speculative tendencies of late years to increase the production. In the provinces of Nassau and Liegen there are most excellent kinds of ore producing a good quality of iron in a most advantageous manner. Germany has now also in Lorraine the finest deposits in the world for making iron economically. I think ordinary pig-iron can be made at the present time in Lorraine at a lower price than in any other locality in the world. The iron ores they procure from Spain to make their steel can be brought very cheaply by sea, and in the railway and canal carriage to the interior the rates are very low.”

It is therefore highly probable that before long Germany will not only make sufficient iron and steel for her own consumption but that she will compete seriously with Great Britain in the Dutch, Spanish, Italian, and Russian markets.

I mention this to show the character of the future rival England, Belgium, France, and the United States are likely to have in Germany.

In the manufacture of steel, however, the United States of America have made greater progress than any other country in the world; even Great Britain has not kept pace with her. The Bessemer process was not introduced into the United States until 1864 and 1865, and the first steel rails were not made until the latter year. Siemen's process was not applied to the manufacture of steel until 1867, and the Siemen's-Martin's process not until 1868, yet in 1878 the United States produced 735,000 tons of steel, or 26·53 per cent. of the production of the entire world.

Belgium exhibited largely, and showed conclusively the great prosperity of the iron and steel industries. While trade in far more favoured countries was found to be more or less depressed, Belgium seemed to be highly prosperous, and in all probability this is to be chiefly attributed to cheap labour and technical education. The principal exhibit of iron and steel was made by the John Cockerill Company of Seraing, and comprised extraordinarily fine specimens of rails, rolled girders, tires, axles, and iron castings. It exhibited a 40-ton 8-wheel goods locomotive, a 300 horse-power pumping-engine, and a 500 horse-power rolling mill engine. Two sets of rolls were also exhibited, one of which had rolled 10,500 tons of rails, and two rails, each of which was 180 feet long. This company was the first on the continent to adopt the Bessemer process, and converters for this purpose were erected in 1862.

It will be interesting to notice the rise and progress of these works which were originally founded by John Cockerill, whose father was an English mechanic and who had himself been brought up as a mechanical engineer. These works were at first confined to the construction of steam engines, but in 1823 it was considered advisable to commence the manufacture of iron, and a blast furnace for its production with coke was erected and blown into in 1826. This was the first blast furnace to use coke as a fuel on the continent of Europe, and until 1830 was the only furnace of its kind in Belgium. Forges and boiler-shops were added in 1823 and 1824, puddling-mills in 1826, and foundries in 1828. They commenced to make locomotives in 1835, and in 1836 a second blast furnace was erected. Cockerill died in 1840, and in 1842 the works were re-organized as "The John Cockerill Company," and have since been greatly extended. Purchases of mines and coal lands have been made from time to time, and the company is now the owner of iron mines in Spain, as well as the iron mines and collieries near the works. These at present comprise blast furnaces, two large foundries, a rolling mill, a Bessemer plant with eight converters, a Bessemer rolling mill, and steam hammers for large forgings, locomotive, and other machine shops. They have also very extensive boiler-making establishments and works for the manufacture of girders, bridges, roofs, and all kinds of rivetting work. They employ 8,850 workmen, use 250 steam engines with a daily consumption of fuel of about 1,100 tons. They usually build 100 locomotives annually, and have frequently rolled 365 tons of rails in 24 hours. The works at Seraing cover 220 acres, and are in every particular the representative works of the Belgium iron and steel industry.

Class 44 comprised the products of the cultivation of forests, and the trades appertaining thereto. This class was divided into two principal categories: (1), samples of natural woods, and (2) timber sawn up into stuff for building, including mouldings, clap-boards, staves, and other split woods. The timber samples were cut into the form of small scantlings, so that the transverse and longitudinal sections could be easily examined, and the quality of the timber properly judged.

The principal locality of timber production in France are the forests of Fontainebleau, Compiègne, Rambouillet, Villers-Cotterels, and Mormal in the North; Haye, the Vosges and Jura Mountains, Chaux and Grande Chartreuse in the East; the forests of Lyons, Bercé-Percoigne, and Ecouves in the West; the forests of Orleans, Tronçais, Vierzon, Château-roux and Bertranges-Guérigny in the centre; and in the south the forests of Quillau, Soule and Lannes.

The forests of France cover a superficial area of 9,187,304 hectares (22,701,828 acres), of which nearly a million hectares (2,500,000 acres) belong to the State, and over 2,000,000 hectares or 5,000,000 acres, to municipalities and public institutions, while something over 6,000,000 hectares or 15,000,000 acres, belong to private individuals. The annual production of these forests amount to 20,000,000 cubic mètres (706,340,000 cubic feet), of which 2,500,000 mètres, or 88,292,500 feet, are worked up for constructive purposes, and 17,500,000 mètres, or 618,047,500 cubic feet feet, for firewood, France, however, requires for constructive and industrial purposes 9,410,000 cubic mètres, or 332,332,970 cubic feet, of timber; and nearly 29,000,000 cubic mètres, or 1,024,193,000 cubic feet, for firewood. She has therefore to import 6,500,000 cubic mètres, or 229,560,500 cubic feet, of timber adapted for constructive and industrial purposes, and 11,500,000 mètres or 406,145,500 cubic feet, for firewood. Although the use of coal is becoming every day more general, the demands for wood fuel are constantly increasing, and it is from Norway and Sweden, Germany, Italy, and Belgium, that France has to procure this enormous amount of timber and firewood to meet her requirements.

The principal forest industries are those for the preparation of cork, tan bark, charcoal, resins, &c. The cork industry in France is chiefly confined to the southern districts, and the oak can be stripped every nine or ten years. Corks used to be made almost exclusively by hand, but the introduction of machine tools has augmented the production of the cork-cutter from 1,200 to 5,000 a day. There are also other machinery driven by power that will turn out about 2,000 per hour. This class also included coarse basket-work, such as hampers, creels, and all other objects made of osiers.

The administration of woods and forests was admirably represented. A Special Commission was appointed, divided into three sections, as follows:—

- 1.—Principles and scientific data upon which are founded the science of Forestry.
- 2.—Methods of working forests—planting, culture, felling, &c. This section also embraces the fixing of shifting sand-hill, "dunes," by means of planting and grassing the sides of mountains.
- 3.—Results of forest work—Timber, and its use in building, and the industrial arts.

There are Schools of Forestry—Ecoles Forestières—in France, where the persons, who are engaged in Forest Culture are specially educated and where forest statistics are collected. The pupils are taught agriculture, chemistry, and botany, surveying and levelling, in addition to the courses of general and technical instruction. There are also museums attached to these schools, containing collections of woods, seeds, herbs, processes of conducting forest works, saw-mills, construction of houses, &c., &c.

Under the first section was exhibited all the statistical information that could be collected from institutions of this class, together with a large number of scientific collections of herbs, samples of wood, seeds of forest trees, entomological specimens, and meteorological apparatus, with all books, pamphlets, and publications relating to forestry since the year 1867.

The shifting sand-hills, "dunes," on the coast, and more especially in the Bordelais, where there they have buried towns and villages, have always been a constant source of trouble and expense to the inhabitants of those districts. Fixing the sand by means of planting has been found to be efficacious, and the most serviceable methods were shown. Plans showing the situation of the "dunes" in 1800, before the work of planting had commenced, and also in 1862 after the special service had been undertaken by the administration. Models of these localities in relief were exhibited both before and after the planting, together with a large number of photographic views.

The

The second section comprised the methods employed to check the drifting of these sand-hills, the various processes of forest industry, the construction of buildings, carpentry, saw-mills, planting, with plans, drawings, and models in relief. It also exhibited all sorts of tools used in forest work.

The third section exhibited the products furnished by forest industry—timber, and the various processes for its conservation, fuel, charcoal, potash, tar, and pyroligneous acid; barks used for tanning and dyeing, and medicine; paper-pulp, &c., &c.

An immense amount of information was collected by the Commission indicative of the natural, economical, and agronomic conditions connected with the exhibits. Statistics were also given of the approximate industrial value of the products, with memoranda as to their abundance, locality, and means of transport from the place of production.

The importance, variety, and extent of these collections were too great to find sufficient space for their exhibition in the main building. The administration therefore obtained a concession from the Commissioner General of 5,000 square metres—53,820 square feet—in the Trocadéro Park, upon which they erected a beautifully designed pavilion in rustic wood-work, where the whole of the collections were exhibited.

Class 45 was devoted to the products of hunting, shooting, fishing, and uncultivated products, together with machines and instruments connected therewith. This class included a large number of natural products. Skins and furs, especially made-up furs, were largely exhibited. The French furriers seem to have more knowledge in making up furs than any other nation. They combine more taste in arranging them for dress trimmings and furniture. Paris and Lyons are the principal centres of commerce for this industry. The Parisian trade employs the most beautiful as well as the most ordinary kinds of skins, from black fox, seal, and sable, to rabbit skins. The skins of the swan, the grebe, and the goose are also used largely for muffs and trimmings.

Skins are submitted to many operations—dressing, glossing, and dyeing—before they are fit for the market. These are performed by special workmen, as the skins when they arrive at the shops have rarely undergone any preparation whatever.

The price of furs is exceedingly variable, from the rabbit skin worth only about 4d. to 6d., to the skin of the Siberian sable, which is worth about £20, to say nothing of the rarer golden seal and black fox skins of America, which fetch fabulous prices. Russia, America, Canada, Norway, and Sweden had fine collections of furs, but the assortment exhibited by the Parisian dealers was far superior to that of any other country.

The other natural products belonging to this class were ivory, tortoise-shell, mother-of-pearl, sponges, &c.

Class 46 comprised agricultural products not used for food, comprehending textile plants, agricultural products employed in manufactures, chemistry, and domestic economy, tobacco, tanning matters, matters for making tinctures, forage, and articles specially adapted for the food of cattle. The principal objects in this class were cotton and wool, flax and hemp, silk cocoons, hops, plants from which oil can be expressed, honey, wax, and tobacco. The

The production of olive oil is a great industry in southern Europe, and so important is it that were the crop to fail it would cause a famine. The tree requires but little attention, nor does it require a rich soil. It flourishes well in most parts of New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia. It generally grows well where maize can be profitably cultivated, and is extremely long-lived. At Peschio there is an olive tree which can be proved to be 700 years old. The best olive oil is from Lucca in Tuscany. South Australia exhibited some very good samples of oil; and in all probability Australia will become in time a large producer of olive oil.

The cotton used in France is imported from America, Egypt, and the East Indies. For a few years past, however, Algeria has furnished a small quantity. In 1876 France imported 90,000 tons of raw cotton.

The wool production in France was about 46,000 tons, representing a value of nearly 100,000,000 francs (£4,000,000), while the importation amounted to 127,000 tons, valued at 286,000,000 francs (£11,440,000), and the exportation was under 18,000 tons.

The extraordinary beauty and quality of the New South Wales wool made a remarkable impression upon all connected with its manufacture. No less than nine medals and seventeen diplomas of honorable mention were adjudged for wool by the International Jury, and to the Honorable E. K. Cox was awarded the Grand Prix for the best wool in the Exhibition. Thus for its staple production New South Wales occupied the highest position in the world. (See Appendix G.)

Hop culture in France has made considerable progress during the last ten years. In the departments of the Nord, Pas-de-Calais, l'Aisne, Meurthe-et-Moselle, Vosges, and Côte d'Or, the cultivation has acquired some importance. About 4,409 hectares (10,894 acres) have been planted with hops, giving a crop of about 5,500 tons.

Oil is obtained from the seeds of hemp; flax, colza, rape, poppy, and other plants, as well as from the olive and palms, and the residuum known as oil-cake is largely used for feeding cattle. The value of the oil and oil-cake industry is about 55,000,000 francs (£2,200,000).

The culture of tobacco has rapidly developed in France, always following the increased consumption in those departments where its cultivation has been authorized by the State, which has the monopoly of the manufacture and sale of tobacco. The area cultivated is about 15,000 hectares (37,065 acres). The monopoly by the Government was established in the year 1815, during which year there was sold 9,754,000 kilogrammes of tobacco (21,503,668 lbs.) for 54,000,000 francs, or £2,160,000, leaving to the State a profit of 32,000,000 francs (£1,280,000). In 1876 the sales of tobacco were 31,400,000 kilogrammes (69,224,440 lbs.), which realized 322,000,000 francs (£12,880,000), and left a net profit for the State of 262,000,000 francs, or £10,480,000 sterling.

Of all matters containing tannin employed in the preparation of leather, bark is the most largely used, especially oak-bark. Bark is an article of considerable export from France, as in 1876 there were exported 57,117,000 kilogrammes (125,920 lbs.), having a value of 14,879,000 francs (£595,160 sterling).

Class 47 consisted of chemical and pharmaceutical products. The manufacture of chemicals comprise a number of absolutely dissimilar branches, and may be arranged arranged into five principal divisions—(1) chemical products properly so called; (2) colours, varnishes, and sizes; (3) the manufacture of stearine and fatty bodies; (4) the manufacture of soap and classification of oils; and (5) pharmaceutical products.

Class 48 treated of the chemical processes for bleaching, dyeing, printing, and dressing. These four industries, having for their object the preparation of textile matters for our varied uses, whether animal or vegetable, may be cited as having made a remarkable progress. The most noticeable are the improved methods of engraving designs, the application of heliography and electricity to the engraving of printing rollers, and electro-metallurgy for covering cast-iron with copper to replace the old solid copper rollers, and for the restoration of old engraved rollers. There are also economical methods of bleaching, dressing, and washing machinery, improvements in the manufacture of dyeing materials—especially in the application of the aniline colours, or those made from coal tar—and the use of zinc in dyeing with these colours, all of which assist to decrease the net cost of production, while they enable the masters to increase the wages and contribute more largely to the comfort of the workmen.

Class 49 was devoted to leather and skins. The products of this class were divided into nine sections, comprising, (1) tanned leathers, including strong sole leather and leather intended to be curried; (2) curried leather for boots, shoes, saddlery, and machinery; (3) black and coloured varnished leathers; (4) goat-skin and imitation morocco; (5) tawed leather for boots, shoes, and gloves; (6) chamois leather; (7) tanned Hungarian leather; (8) parchment; (9) strings for instruments, goldbeaters'-skins, articles employed in surgery, &c.

Leather is manufactured in France from the hides and skins of indigenous animals, and from raw skins imported from England, Ireland, Holland, Russia, America, East Indies, and Australia. The imported skins represents a value of 160,000,000 francs (£6,400,000), and the indigenous skins worked up are valued at 600,000,000 francs (£24,000,000 sterling.)

The use of machinery is becoming general in its application to all the branches of tanning and currying. The manufacture of leather is one of the most important of French industries. The wages of the workmen vary from 4s. to 8s. a day. It is difficult to value, even approximately, the importance of this manufacture. The only exact information to be found is in the imports and exports. The importations in 1867 amounted to something over 58,396 tons, representing a value of 143,000,000 francs (£5,720,000), while in 1875 they had amounted to 79,000 tons of a value of 245,000,000 francs (£9,800,000) sterling. The exportations in 1867 were 18,876 tons, with a value of 90,000,000 francs (£3,600,000); and in 1875, 20,855 tons of the value of 117,000,000 francs (£4,680,000). This great progress has been accomplished by the continual efforts of the French manufacturers to be in a position to meet the foreigner in successful competition. No absolutely new processes have been invented, but the constant adaptations of mechanical power to the various divisions of the manufacture, together with the constant improvement of tanning materials, have shortened considerably the time necessary for the process of tanning, and so lessened the net cost of production.

In the manufacture of morocco and coloured leathers the employment of the aniline colours has given excellent results. Altogether it may be said that the chief

chief improvements of late years is in the increased skill and dexterity displayed in the various operations and in modifications of the utensils and instruments with which these operations are performed.

Ornamental leather work, or what we may term embossed leather, of which the ornaments were modelled by depressing the leather, was exceedingly fashionable in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The most beautiful specimens were manufactured at Venice, whose commercial relations with the East had compelled the Venetian workmen to imitate the work of the Orientals. This embossed leather work was often coloured, silvered, or gilt.

The Arabs excelled in this work, of which the trappings of their horses and arms give ample testimony. They carried to Spain the taste for this kind of decoration, and from thence it gradually spread over Europe.

There are many methods of embossing leather, according to the use for which it is intended, whether required for furniture, bookbinding, or fancy work; but where the same patterns can be very largely employed, this is done by means of matrices cut in metal, heated and pressed upon the leather by means of hydraulic machinery.

Leather employed in bookbinding is usually worked by hand, by means of hot irons and matrices, and other tools.

Chiselled leather can only be made by hand work; and M. Charton has conceived the idea of making this class of work as fashionable as in the olden time by making a class of tools which would leave the artist's hand free, and permit him to utilise his talent in designing on leather as easily as on any other substance.

The exhibits of Messrs. Alderson & Sons and Messrs. Davenport & Alcock excited much attention, and were awarded respectively silver and bronze medals.

GROUP 6.—In group 6 were exhibited all the apparatus and processes used in mining and in the common arts.

Class 50 comprised the apparatus and processes of the art of mining and metallurgy. In value and utility the product of the mine are little less than those of agriculture.

Ores, which are frequently disseminated in irregular masses and lodes, have to be extracted from the earth and submitted to several mechanical operations in order to free them from the worthless matter with which they are mechanically mixed. After this mechanical preparation, they have again to be submitted to the combined action of chemistry and mechanics which constitute the metallurgical process, and which reduces the crude mineral to a metallic state adapted to industrial requirements.

The Russian exhibition of minerals was a most remarkable one, as it not only contained private exhibits and splendid specimens, but that of the Council of Mines of St. Peterburg, consisting of its extensive and interesting collection of Russian minerals. These with maps showing the geological features of the empire, gave a tolerably correct idea of the producing capabilities of the country. The coal mines of Russia are extensively worked, and give every variety of coal. Iron is also produced in the same district by the new Russian Company and M. Pastoukhoff.

The

The Government of France have of late years been occupied in boring for minerals in the departments of the Nord and Pas de Calais in order, if possible, to extend their coal-fields. The new system of boring by the diamond drill is now commonly employed in Europe, although it is much more costly than the old system. Not only can the boring be done more rapidly but an unbroken core of the various strata perforated can be brought to the surface, enabling the engineer to determine with precision the nature and quality of the minerals as well as to make a correct section of the ground gone through. The application also of the new process invented by Kind & Chaudron for sinking pits of a large diameter in the same manner as with the old boring apparatus, is now generally used in France. In the coal basin of Valenciennes it has been found to be much more economical both in time and money, rendering it possible to sink pits in situations where the old methods would have been impossible, on account of the great cost. This invention is simply to jump out the rock by percussion, using a tool of the same diameter as the pit to be sunk.

The use of rock drills worked with compressed air is now becoming general in making mining headings and tunnel work. These were not known in Europe, excepting at the Mont Cenis tunnel ten years ago, where they had been applied for the first time. These tools make it possible to carry out works of the above-mentioned class three times more rapidly than by hand labour, besides reducing the expense fully 25 per cent. The apparatus and appliances used for this purpose are varied, but all work upon the same principle, viz., by percussion, the compressed air working a piston which carries the tool, and striking a light blow very rapidly.

Compressed air is also used extensively in the interior of mines for working locomotives or stationary engines for inclines or horizontal roads, thus largely increasing the output, and contributing in a great degree to properly ventilate the mine. Where fire-damp exists in coal-mines it lessens considerably the chances of explosion. At Montceau-les-Mines the Blanzly Company use an air-compressing apparatus of 380-horse power, for rock boring, underground transport, and local ventilation. The application of compressed air to underground transport is illustrated by a specimen of the locomotive to be employed. Compressed air mains are laid down in each principal gallery, so as to enable the locomotive to charge its reservoirs at given points. There can be little doubt but that considerable economy results from this system of haulage as compared with horses.

At the Epinac mines a system of extraction has been established called the "atmospheric." With this system the pit with its guides and cages is replaced by a tube from top to bottom of sufficient diameter to carry on the work of extraction within it. Inside of this tube works a piston carrying in a cage, depending from its lower side, the charge of coal to be raised. On making a partial vacuum in the upper part of the tube the atmospheric pressure raises the load. This system applied to pits of great depth, appears to offer considerable advantages. Among these the advocates of the atmospheric system claim that whereas the raising of minerals by cables is impracticable beyond certain depths, with atmospheric extraction it becomes easier as the depth increases. It also contributes greatly to the ventilation of the mine and the removal of explosive gases. There is no doubt that the difficulties of mining increase rapidly in proportion to the depth of the mine. In the first place the winding engines have to haul a much greater proportion of dead weight to the useful load, as the weight of the cables has to be directly added added to the load, and to work economically the useful load must necessarily be as great as possible. To work at such depths as have been already attained at Charleroi, Bohemia, and the Hartz mountains, viz., over three thousand (3,000) feet, require that the winding apparatus should be of the most perfect kind in order to work economically and safely. It has been ascertained by scientific men, who have made this question a special study, that the limit of length for a hemp cable is 2,500 feet, for an iron wire cable 3,000 feet, and about 50 per cent. more for steel wire cables. The pneumatic system avoids this difficulty as the load is raised by the action of the air.

The Epinac Colliery Company exhibited a full-sized specimen of the atmospheric column used for raising coal, with all the details of the plant used at the Hottingner shaft, which is nearly 2,000 feet in depth.

This shaft was sunk about 14 feet in diameter, within which was a wooden framing of about 11 feet square. This was divided by two other partitions into three divisions, in one of which the tubes are fixed, and in the other the pumps, &c., &c. The tube had a total weight of 342 tons, as follows:—

Weight of tube	Tons, 245·5
Miscellaneous parts...	12·5
Connecting bolts	9·7
Exhaust pipes...	22·0
Iron work carrying tube	51·5
Rubber joints...	825
						342·025
				Total	...	342·025

M. Blanché, the Company's engineer, claims for this system that it can be "adapted to shafts of any depth, and that its superiority over the ordinary mode of working by cable, increases rapidly with the depth of the shaft. It greatly assists the ventilation and consequently does much towards reducing the temperature of the air in mines; it permits not only without expense of power the descent of workmen, iron, timber, and materials of all kinds, but it also utilizes the work produced by each descending train, by imparting a portion of the velocity of the air coming from the tube. It can be used equally for draining mines by substituting tanks for the ordinary cages." The arrangement at the Hottingner shaft gives only a speed of 18 inches per second to the piston, which is altogether insufficient. It is in contemplation to erect a more powerful engine, capable of exhausting 12 cubic metres of air per second, which will then give a velocity equal to 20 feet per second. This will be of 960-horse power. The engine in present use is only a temporary affair, and raises a train of 6 tons in 20 minutes from a depth of 1,970 feet. When this engine worked the old-fashioned winding engine it only raised half a ton every 8 minutes. It has therefore, as far as the experiment has gone, resulted in a great economy. This system had been working over a year without any appreciable wear, and was used by the miners both for descending and ascending. As the invention, however, is confined to this one pit, it will be necessary that it should work a much longer time before its value can be properly determined.

Many improvements have also been made of late years in the mechanical ventilation of mines, the classing and cleaning of ores, washing of coal and dressing metallic minerals, also in the apparatus used in the mechanical preparation of materials for blast furnaces, and in the manufacture of compressed fuel. I may also mention the display of drawings of metallurgical establishments, and the special apparatus for the reduction of metals, the carbonisation of coal, and the crushing and mixing machinery used for the purpose of making a strong hard coke from very indifferent materials.

The supply of air at high temperatures has been generally adopted in metallurgical processes since 1867. The great economy effected by its use has brought about the perfection of apparatus for heating the blast in furnaces for the reduction of iron and the manufacture of steel. The process of making steel, invented by Siemens, viz., of melting cast iron in reverberatory furnaces, and dissolving wrought iron in the molten bath, and the process of Pernot, which makes mineral, such as hematite, react upon a bath of cast iron in order to convert it into steel, require very high temperatures which can only be economically supplied by the regenerative gas furnace.

In the fabrication of cast-iron there are two capital facts noticeable, the constant increase of the individual proportions of blast furnaces which permits the production of from 50 to 100 tons of cast-iron in 24 hours, and the heating of the quantity of air sufficient for the blast by means of the waste gases of the furnace itself. The apparatus invented by Cooper, or the late Mr. Whitwell, are those generally adopted where these large blast furnaces are employed. The expense of labour is thus reduced to a minimum, for not only is there sufficient waste gas to heat the air necessary for the blast, but also for generating the steam necessary for working the blowing machines and other mechanical appliances necessary to the economical working of blast furnaces.

Where the cast-iron is of sufficient purity, that is to say, where it is manufactured from hematites or magnetic oxides, the Bessemer apparatus can be adopted at once for its conversion into steel. The converters are generally erected in such a position as to receive the cast-iron directly upon its being tapped from the blast furnace, so as to render unnecessary its re-melting in the cupola furnace. After being converted into steel, it is poured into ingots and taken at once to the rolling-mill to be converted into rails, tires, axles, bars, or other forgings without ever having been permitted to cool, so that in the modern production of heavy forgings we may say that no heat is necessarily lost from the time the cast iron leaves the blast furnace until it has become the finished steel product.

In order, therefore, to compete successfully in the production of iron and steel, it is absolutely necessary that appliances should be adopted which not only save time, and consequently wages, but at least 100 per cent. of fuel. It is impossible to produce the finished iron and steel at prices that will command a market unless their manufacture be effected on such a gigantic scale as alone gives the means of employing labour and fuel in the most economical manner. Many improvements have also been made in the processes for producing wrought iron direct from the ore. Of these the most noticeable are those of Dupuy and Blair. In the first of these processes the ore is mixed in certain proportions with the reducing agents and fuel after pulverization, and packed in sheet iron cannisters, containing each about two hundred-weight. These are placed in the flame of a reverberatory furnace, either regenerative or otherwise, for a period of time sufficient to reduce the ores to a pasty substance consisting of the reduced iron and a thick slag. This mass can at once be taken from the furnace and subjected to the action of a squeezer, either of the usual type or rotative, which squeezes the slag from the iron and brings it to a rough bloom, which can at once be hammered or rolled into muck bar. Mr. Dupuy claims that that he can make wrought-iron by this process cheaper and of far better quality for the production of steel by the Siemens-Martin process, than can be made by the indirect method of using cast-iron. Blair's process is the application of superheated carbonic oxide, forced through pulverized ore, stacked in a high retort, by which it is reduced to a metallic sponge. This is in fact a process somewhat analogous to that invented by Chenôt in 1855. Mr. Blair claims that he can make merchant bar-iron by means of his process for about £4 per ton, irrespective of the cost of ore and fuel. These are the greatest novelties made in the production of iron; there are however many appliances and modifications of the highest value, which contribute largely to the remarkable success attained in the iron manufacture. The New South Wales minerals proved themselves worthy of the special attention they commanded. The collection had been most carefully prepared by Mr. Wilkinson, the Government Geologist, and really represented, in a practical manner, the immense field open for mining enterprise in the Colony. The trophy composed of masses of copper, tin, and iron, surmounted by the pyramid indicating the quantity of gold obtained, showed conclusively the richness and variety of our mineral resources.

Class 51 treated of agricultural implements and processes used in the cultivation of fields and forests. The objects exhibited in this class were of a most important character. Locomotive steam-engines, water-wheels, turbines, pumps, horse-powers, all classes of agricultural machines and implements, machinery for forest cultivation and timber working. Plans were also exhibited of farms, agricultural engineering works, such as those for irrigation, drainage, and road making. The materials for viticulture, the plantation and culture of forests, and the manufacture of tobacco were also shown. In all works of this class France has made the most marvellous progress since the period of her first Exhibition.

Class 52 comprised the apparatus and processes used in agricultural works, and in establishments for the preparation of food. Flour-mills, starch-factories, oil-making-establishments, sugar-works, distilleries, manufactories of artificial manures, ice-works, and generally the material for the fabrication of alimentary products, were all exhibited, many of them in full work.

In making flour the greatest improvement seems to be the use of cylinders, either in porcelain, cast-iron or steel, instead of millstones. This system, which is especially the method employed by the millers of Hungary to make the fine flour which is used all over Europe for making the best pastry, seems to be coming into general use in England, France, and America. In order that these cylinders should perform their work in a proper manner, it is necessary that they should be made absolutely true, and although this is apparently a simple operation there are only a few engineering firms who have machinery adapted to their manufacture. They are similar to calendar rolls, and must be made of exceedingly hard material. It is claimed that mills on this system produce from 5 to 10 per cent. more fine flour than can be obtained by the old system of grinding with millstones. The operation of making rolls of this kind perfectly true is perhaps one of the most difficult imaginable. Rollers when first mounted, even after the most careful turning, are never truly cylindrical, and several methods have been invented to accomplish this desideratum. The most successful is that invented by Messrs. Poole and Porter, of Wilmington, United States of America, and which consists of a pair of emery wheels mounted in one frame and connected together like a pair of callipers. These are driven at a high speed and made to traverse the roll from end to end, making it absolutely parallel.

Another

Another method of making flour is by means of "Carr's disintegrator," called also a "sling mill." Two rows of steel pins are fixed into the faces of wheels which revolve in opposite directions to each other, with a circumferential velocity of from 75 to 100 feet per second. The grain is admitted at the centre, and by the centrifugal action is thrown with such violence between the pins that it is at once converted into flour. This class of mill is said to do more work than twenty pairs of ordinary millstones, and its inventors claim as its principal merit the superior quality of the flour produced and its fitness for baking. No doubt the flour is more granulous than that produced from millstones, where it is possible to overgrind the flour; but the power absorbed in driving this mill is entirely out of proportion to the work performed. It has been admitted that 63 horse-power is required to work it at the proper speed when empty, which extraordinary waste is more than sufficient to outweigh any advantages it may possess in making flour of a better quality.

The production of alcohol is a most important industry in France. Not only is it a source of revenue to the State, but it is also intimately connected with farming in connection with beetroot culture. Most of the French distillers have made a change in their method of working during the last ten years. The Savalle system is now almost exclusively chosen by those who are erecting new distilleries, as by its means the cost of labour is much reduced, and a spirit of 30 degrees over-proof made at one operation. Many beautiful specimens of stills were exhibited of colossal proportions, all of which were arranged to work continuously.

The beetroot sugar industry has attained an unprecedented success, being able to compete successfully against Colonial-produced sugar. Beautifully refined, it is exported to England in enormous quantity, at a price for the finest loaf of from £26 to £28 per ton. Mechanical processes of the greatest simplicity have recently been submitted to the Society of French Agriculturalists, which enable the farmers to experiment in the field and determine for themselves the richness of their beet-roots in saccharine matter. The continuous presses and triple action evaporating apparatus have effected an enormous economy in fuel and hand labour, while the system of double pressing the cane trash after maceration produces a larger proportion of sugar. These improvements have contributed to lower the price of the finished article, although the wages of the labourer have considerably increased.

Consumption of sugar in France has since 1867 been stationary. In 1867 she consumed 269,170,000 kilos, and in 1876, 266,384,000. The reverse has been the case both in England and the United States. In the former the consumption has risen from 600 millions to 900 millions of kilos, and in the latter from 360 to 650 millions of kilos. The French journals attribute this to the very heavy excise duty, which is more than equal to its value, the price of sugar being 52·75 francs the 100 kilos in bond, against 118·27 out of bond. M. Pellelier de Saint Rémy gives the solution of this problem as follows:—"Not only," says he, "is the sugar industry of France plethoric in producing 500 millions kilos, she ought to produce 1,000 millions and consume it. If the Legislature had the will, men of 30 years of age would see this state of things before the end of their career, because the laws not only limit the quantity made but also the quantity consumed."

In 1826 the production of beet sugar in France was about 2,400 tons, while in 1876 it had amounted to 462,320 tons. This shows the rapid increase of the sugarbeet industry during the last fifty years, and no doubt the production would be far far greater were it not for the enormous excise tax placed upon the article, which makes sugar so dear in France. In the arrondissement of Cambrai, Department du Nord, 1876, there were thirty-two factories, in which the motive-power was 3,248 horse-power, using 93,900 tons of coal; 7,000 workmen are employed in these establishments. The quantity of Beet worked up was 694,500 tons, yielding 38,470 tons of sugar, 173,750 tons of pulp producing 1,700 tons of meat, 24,525 tons of molasses, which yielded 60,000 hectolitres (1,320,000 gallons) of alcohol.

Ice-making is comparatively a new industry but has already become the object of most important applications. The economical production of cold occupies the attention of all those engaged in the manufacture and preservation of alimentary substances, breweries, and distilleries. The artificial production of cold is one of the most important problems of the day as it enables the manufacturer to regulate the temperature in such a manner as to defy decomposition, and to preserve the most perishable substances for an indefinite length of time.

A large business is at present carried on between the United States and England in the transportation of fresh meat and other perishable articles of food. The first successful experiment was made by Mr. John J. Bate, of New York, in February, 1875. This was followed by Mr. Eastman, in October of the same year, by much larger shipments and more complete arrangements. Col. F. D. Curtis, of New York, a gentleman largely interested in the breeding of stock, investigated the system employed, which is known as the Bate process. I give this gentleman's description in his own words:—

“In October, 1875, Mr. Timothy C. Eastman began his first shipments of fresh beef from America to England. Mr. Eastman is the pioneer in this enterprise, which has now assumed extensive proportions. His first shipment consisted of forty-five cattle and fifty sheep. In December following he continued the export, increasing the number of cattle to 100, and from that time to the present he has made weekly consignments of from one to several hundreds, gradually increasing the trade until during the close of 1876 and the beginning of 1877 his shipments were from 600 to 1,000 per week. The first week in February, 1877, he shipped 1,022 cattle and 700 sheep. Mr. Eastman ships by the Williams and Guion, the White Star, and Anchor lines of steamships. He has shipped about 30,000 in all, and has opened a market in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Sheffield, Birmingham, Leeds, Newcastle, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dundee, and other towns in England and Scotland.

“The meat is kept fresh by a process on which a patent was obtained by Mr. Bate, of which Mr. Eastman is the sole owner. The patent is for preserving meat fresh by enclosing it in an air-tight chamber, and forcing among it a current of dry air. Refrigerators, or air-tight chambers, are constructed between decks, according to the capacity of the steamers or the demands of trade, the largest one being on the ‘Wisconsin’ (Williams and Guion line), which is 40 feet wide, 100 feet long, and 7 feet high. These immense air-tight chambers are surrounded on all sides by three air-tight walls made of matched lumber covered with air-tight paper, which is made so by being saturated with resin. Between these surrounding walls there is an open space of an inch and a half, making the walls as perfect non-conductors as possible. An ice-house is constructed on one side or end of the refrigerator, as is most convenient, and filled with ice. The ice-compartment is in proportion to the size of the refrigerator, and lined with galvanized sheet-iron. 50 tons of ice are required by the Bate process for saving 60 tons of meat. A cast-iron fan or blower is placed inside of the meat-chamber, connected by a belt to a small steam-engine on the deck above. The fans vary in size, according to the work required ; the belt is enclosed in an air-tight box. Flues or air-passages, 10 inches high and 16 inches wide, made of matched boards, extend from the fan along the bottom of the floor to the sides of the refrigerator, where they connect with upright tubes or pipes of half the size, which stand against the outer wall, into which the air of the refrigerator is drawn by the suction of the fan and driven into the middle of the ice-chamber through a large flue made of matched boards, where it circulates through the ice and is drawn down and passed back into the refrigerator through an open space about 3 inches wide left at the bottom of the ice. The fan makes about 800 revolutions a minute, and is kept constantly going. In this way a constant circulation of cold air is kept up during the entire voyage. A thermometer, suspended in a tin pipe which reaches from the upper deck down into the refrigerator, indicates the temperature, which is kept as near 38° as possible. A cap is kept over the top of the pipe to prevent the escape of the cold air from the meat-chamber. A more rapid circulation of air, which can be made by increasing the speed of the fan, will lower the temperature. The steam to run the fan engine is supplied from the steamer's boiler. As soon as the meat is received and put into the refrigerator it is closed, not to be opened until the steamer is ready to discharge her cargo on the other side of the Atlantic. The quarters of beef are suspended on hooks and also laid on the floor. When hogs are shipped they also lie on the floor, and the meat being packed closely, does not move about when the steamer rolls at sea. If the supply of ice should run too low it can be added to from the stock kept on all steamers. Usually, however, more or less ice remains in the ice-chamber and is sold at the port of destination.

“The meat is generally loaded at night, on account of the cooler temperature and the less liability of delays in getting the trucks to the docks and alongside of the steamers.

“Only the best and heaviest bullocks are selected to be sent to Europe.

“To be the most profitable they should weigh when dressed not less than 800 pounds, although lighter ones are sent on account of the scarcity of first-class animals.”

Dr. Craven's process is for radiating cold air in the store-room, and so preserving the meat fresh. In an air-tight chamber galvanized iron pipes of $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches diameter are placed one above the other and connected together from the ceiling to the floor. They extend all around and through the middle of the room. Brine is made with 40 tons of ice and 20 sacks of Liverpool salt, which is found to be a sufficient quantity to last thirteen days. This brine is pumped into the top pipe and runs by its own gravity down through all the pipes, returning again to the reservoir, from which it is again pumped to the top. It is calculated that the pipes will radiate a cold temperature for 18 feet sufficient to keep the meat, and for any distance beyond 18 feet another tier of pipes must be erected. The temperature should be kept at 36° F., for if permitted to rise to 40° F. the meat will soon spoil.

The system of Kennard Knott is to force air of a temperature about 33° F. into an air-tight chamber by means of a fan blast, which also acts as an exhaust to extract the air from the chamber. The air thus extracted is passed through a refrigerating medium, dried by the deposit of its moisture inside of the pipe, from which

which it is washed by the cold brine at fixed intervals, passed through several layers of charcoal, and returned to the chamber. This process is continuous in its action, easy to manage, and comparatively economical.

Messrs. Bell and Coleman's process is a compressed-air cold-producing machine, driving cold air into an air-tight chamber similar to the others, and reducing the temperature to considerably below the freezing point.

It is clear, however, that whatever process is adopted in the transportation, and whether the meat is frozen or kept in cold dry air, it is absolutely necessary that stores should be furnished of the same character as the refrigerators, or "chilling rooms" as they are called at the abattoirs. Meat can be discharged from the ships into these stores, and supplied therefrom to the different purchasers. Without stores of this description where the meat can be preserved fresh, there is considerable loss from the large quantity placed at once upon the market.

Class 53 comprised the apparatus used in chemistry, pharmacy, and tanning, and the variety of the exhibits was most interesting to experts. Efforts are being constantly made to cheapen the fabrication of acids, and to economically concentrate them by means of platinum stills, so as to enable the manufacturers to transport their finished product with greater facility and at less expense. Great improvements have been made in distilling apparatus and adapting it to special purposes.

In the manufacture of soap special apparatus worked by machinery is now being almost everywhere employed. The old system of making candles has also been abandoned, and the makers have adopted copper vessels, made to resist the pressure of from eight to ten atmospheres, for the saponification of the fats with the aid of lime. This process is worked in connection with the distillation which constitutes the principal element of the fabrication of stearine. The distilling apparatus has been made to work better and more economically by means of superheated steam. Double presses, both hot and cold, are almost invariably used, and the machinery for moulding candles has also been improved as regards inequalities of heating and cooling the moulds. These and other important modifications have reduced the cost of manufacture fully 25 per cent., and the consumption of stearine candles has increased over one-third.

In glass works the most remarkable improvements are the employment of gas as a combustible for the fusion of the glass, and a current of hot air for cutting it. There is also a process for tempering glass so as to make it less brittle and consequently less liable to be broken. It is however of such recent discovery that no opinion can be definitely formed as to its practical value.

In class 54 machines and apparatus in general were shown, and class 55 was devoted to machine tools. Steam-engines in great variety were exhibited by almost every European nation, and the progress of contemporary mechanism could be approximatively determined by an attentive consideration of the exhibitions made by the various countries. The steam-engine, always the same in principle, has received numerous improvements. Combined engines upon the Woolf principle have been greatly improved. This system consists of two steam cylinders of different diameters separated by a reservoir. In the small cylinder the pressure of steam is direct, while in the larger it is used expansively. Most notable among the different arrangements are those of Corliss & Sulzer, but the engine which attracted most attention from experts was one with improvements on the Corliss type, by Jerome Wheelock,

Wheelock, of Worcester, Massachusetts, and which was employed for driving the machinery in the American section. Appended is the report on general machinery by Sir John Anderson, LL.D. (See Appendix L.)

What are usually known as machine tools are those employed generally in working woods, metals, and other substances, such as lathes, planing, slotting, drilling, screw and wheel cutting, moulding, and carving machinery, &c. This class of machines was very largely exhibited at the Paris Exhibition, and tools for the performance of different operations in the preparation of wood and metal, such as making casks, carriage-wheels, spokes, axe-handles, were shown at work.

The United States of America have always been famous for special tools, and an American who has invented a machine does not think he has completed his work until he has schemed a set of more or less automatic tools, in order to produce the work required at the cheapest possible rate.

There were several beautiful machines for cutting common corks, by which a man could make from five to ten times as many as he could cut by hand.

Messrs. Ransome & Co. had a set of special tools for cask-making which worked uncommonly well, turning out casks rapidly and perfectly well made.

Classes 56 and 57 comprised the apparatus, machinery, and processes used in spinning, weaving, and rope-making, as well as the various kinds of hand-spinning machines. It also included the materials used in the rope manufacture—round, flat, and tapering cables, cord and twine, wire rope and cables with wire cores.

Platt Brothers, of Oldham, exhibited their first-class machinery for the preparation and spinning of cotton, and Messrs. Dobson and Barlow's cotton machinery was of the most beautiful construction and worked like clock work. Barber and Coombe, of Belfast, Ireland, also exhibited machinery for making flax yarns, while in the French section Messrs. Pierrard-Parpaite et fils, of Reims, exhibited machinery for scouring, carding, and spinning wool of a most perfect description. This latter firm use scarcely any but Australian wool, and have succeeded in spinning yarns so fine that 600 of them would go to the inch. In France there are 8,399,000 spindles at work, of which 4,610,000 spin cotton, and 2,648,000 wool, while 663,000 are employed in spinning flax and hemp. In silk and other materials there are 478,000 employed. The weaving industry is very ancient, and the old shuttle and beam—no doubt imported from Asia—date back to the earliest times. There is still a great deal of hand-weaving done in the country districts of France, at the homes of the peasantry, who combine this industry economically with their work in the fields. A very large proportion of the machinery used in the cotton and woollen manufacture is imported from England.

Class 58 included the apparatus and processes for sewing and making up clothing, such as the ordinary implements used by tailors and seamstresses,—sewing, quilting, hemming, and embroidering machines, implements for cutting out materials for clothing, and leather for boots and shoes. Machines were also shown for making, nailing, and screwing boots and shoes, and processes for the application of india-rubber. The French claim the merit of the invention of the sewing-machine, although most of those used in France are either English or American. Nevertheless, during the last few years, the manufacture of these useful machines has become an important business in France, and a very excellent article is made. There are also

also great numbers made in Germany, but by far the greatest quantity is made in England and America. Great progress may be noticed in the machines for cutting out garments, as well as in sewing different kinds of material, while in the manufacture of boots and shoes the use of machinery has become universal. Greenwood & Batley, of the Albion Works, Leeds, exhibited a system of patent boot-sewing machinery invented by Mr. Keats. This machine makes the old-fashioned hand-stitch, and fills the hole made by the needle with melted wax. It is altogether in advance of every other sewing-machine for heavy boot-work, and rivals successfully the best hand-made work.

In class 59 were exhibited the apparatus and processes used in the manufacture of furniture and objects for dwellings, and comprehended all kinds of machine tools for cutting-up timber into the shapes and sizes used for building purposes and for furniture. Machines for working stucco, papier-mâché, carton-pierre, bone and horn. Also automatic machines for copying, carving, printing, and engine-turning, and those for copying and reducing statues, carvings, and engraving. All machines and appliances for making bricks, tile, and artificial stones, also for sawing, dressing, and polishing stones, marble, &c.

In this class was also shown the machines for cutting diamonds and other precious stones. The machines were divided into three distinct series, (1) machines and tools for wood-working, (2) machines for making bricks, pipes, and tiles, (3) machines and apparatus for engraving marble, cutting and engraving wood and metals generally, as well as cutting and polishing diamonds and crystals. The wood-working machinery was exceedingly well represented by the most celebrated English, American, and European makers. Ransome, Worssam, Western, Robinson & Son of England, Fay of America, Perin, Arbey and Guillet of France, as well as numbers of other first-class firms, had their machinery constantly at work in the machinery halls in the preparation of mouldings, carvings, spokes, axe-handles, shoemakers' lasts, sabots, casks, buckets, and numbers of other utensils of wood, all of which were finished in the best possible manner.

In the manufacture of common furniture, where thousands of pieces are made of the same size and form, machine tools have to a considerable extent superseded hand labour, while, however, the choicest and most beautiful furniture of unique design and quality is still made by hand.

Brick and tile making machinery was also well represented, and a number of very excellent machines were exhibited, especially for the manufacture of tiles and large sanitary pipes.

A great number of machines for wood and stone carving, engraving, and seal-cutting, were also exhibited, as well as diamond and crystal cutting and polishing in all branches of the trade. Until very recently Holland was the only country in which the cutting of diamonds was carried on or understood; at the present time however, Paris possesses three establishments for this purpose, of which one has 125 apprentices. These on commencing to learn the business perform the most simple operations, and receive two francs a day. The wages increase according to the progress made, until a skilful workman eventually earns from fifteen to twenty francs a day. Two of these houses, Roulina and J. A. Menard, had workshops fitted up in the Exhibition. These were made of plate glass, through which could be seen every operation of cutting and polishing the rough gem into the perfect brilliant. A great deal of the work in diamond cutting is done by a special tool, which permits one workman to superintend the cutting of several diamonds at the same time.

Class 60 included all apparatus and processes used in paper-making, dyeing, and printing. Paper-making machinery has varied little during the last decade, except in the size, length, and number of drying cylinders, which have been modified according to the exigencies of the manufacture. There are, however, two machines which may be considered as new, a rotative purifier, invented in Scotland, doing much better work than those in ordinary use, and a new kind of calendar roll invented in Austria.

Very beautiful specimens of dry compressed wood pulp ready for paper-makers were exhibited by America and Norway and Sweden. The apparatus used for making paper pulp of wood, straw, and other materials, has been much improved upon, and attained great perfection.

In printing, the greatest novelty is that of heliographic engraving, a process which competes very successfully with wood engraving. Many beautiful specimens of heliography were exhibited, and many processes are actively engaged in making illustrations for books as well as for newspapers.

The methods of type-founding and the machines used for making type were exhibited, from the heaviest kinds to the finest and most delicate. The production of type has doubled since 1867. All kinds of printing presses were exhibited, many of which were in motion.

Class 61 comprised machines, instruments, and processes used in various works, such as coining, the manufacture of buttons, pins, pens, envelopes, playing cards, &c., packing machines, brush-making machines, and machines for corking bottles, tools and processes for making clocks, toys, baskets, machines for binding books, and writing machines.

Class 62 was devoted to carriages and wheelwrights' work, and was divided into four principal groups :—(1) private carriages, (2) carriages for commercial use and public service, (3) common wheelwrights' work, wagons, tumbrils, and drays for the transport of industrial and agricultural products, velocipedes, &c., (4) mechanical carriages for the use of children and sick persons.

A very large business in the carriage manufacture is carried on in Paris, which is the centre of French production; the number of workmen employed is about 60,000, and the annual value of the production is about 100,000,000 francs (£4,000,000.) No important modifications have lately been made in the construction of carriages, but the style and execution of the work is beyond all praise.

Class 63 comprised harness and saddlery, with all kinds of saddles, bridles, and harness, for saddle horses, draught horses, and other beasts of burden. Stirrups, whips, and spurs. Chief among the improvements of late years may be mentioned the introduction of nickel plating. This metal from its non-liability to rust is now largely used for plating on iron and brass work. It saves an immense amount of labour in cleaning, as a simple wiping with a duster is all that is required to keep it perfectly bright.

Class 64 related to railway apparatus. Many beautiful locomotives were exhibited showing the marvellous progress made in their construction in England, Belgium, Austria, &c. In successively examining each branch of railway work there are many important improvements to be noticed. The principal ones consist in the substitution of steel for iron in the manufacture of rails, in experiments made for the employment of metal sleepers, the general application of the block system upon all lines where the traffic is heavy. In railway signalling apparatus and the use of continuous and automatic brakes.

Class 65 was devoted to telegraphic apparatus, including appliances for pneumatic telegraphy, telegraphs for military purposes, as well as the apparatus and processes for the electric telegraph in all its details,—posts, wires, stretching apparatus, &c., &c.

Class 66 related to civil engineering, public works, and architecture, with the apparatus and processes employed. This class comprised all tools and materials, whether natural or artificial, employed by the engineer or architect in the construction of public or private works, also the apparatus used in the preservation of wood, in testing building materials, machines for making earthworks, excavators, locksmiths' work, pile-drivers, pumps, pneumatic apparatus, dredging machines, apparatus used in the supply of water and gas, lighthouses, all kinds of public and private buildings, models, plans, and drawings, of public works, bridges, viaducts, aqueducts, drains, canals, dams, and weirs.

Great improvements have been made in cements and hydraulic mortars. Test blocks were exhibited by the Burgh Castle Portland Cement Company, which bore a tensile strain of 1,120 lbs. on $1\frac{1}{2}$ square inches after seven days' immersion in water. William Henry Lascelles exhibited thin slabs of concrete, to be used as building material instead of brickwork; also for paving, tank-making, and other purposes. Slabs were made quite plain, and of a pattern to resemble wall-tiles, only one-sixth of the thickness and weight of an ordinary brick wall. They are screwed to upright wood scantlings. Specimens of concrete were also exhibited by the Patent Selenitic Cement Company, consisting of one part selenitic cement, six parts ballast, and one part sand. To show its suitability for building purposes generally, specimens of selenitic cement and sand, pressed in a semi-wet state into plain and ornamental bricks, were shown, apparently excellently adapted for almost any class of work.

I mention these particularly as they appear to me to be well suited to Colonial requirements, and to afford the means of erecting a cheap, substantial, and comfortable house.

Class 67 related to navigation and the saving of life. Drawings and models of slips, graving-docks, floating-docks, vessels of all kinds, boats, and barges, materials for the rigging of ships, flags, signals, buoys, beacons, apparatus for swimming and diving, floats, swimming belts, submarine boats, rocket apparatus, life-boats, and apparatus of all kinds used for saving life from fires and other accidents, were exhibited in great variety.

Class 68 consisted of apparatus and materials for military purposes, and was divided into five sections, comprising—(1) military engineering and fortifications; (2), artillery, gun carriages, weapons and projectiles of every kind; (3) military equipments, clothing, and encampments; (4) military transport service; (5) military topography and geography.

GROUP

GROUP 7.—Group 7 comprised all alimentary products.

Class 69 was devoted to cereals, farinaceous substances, and the products derived from them.

At the commencement of this century the work of the millers was performed by innumerable little mills wherever a fall of water could be obtained sufficiently powerful to put them in motion, or by windmills. This, however, has been entirely changed, and the flour manufacture is carried on in large mills driven by steam, in order that it might be produced more economically. It is not, however, by the old-fashioned mill-stones that the finest flour is made, but by the method before mentioned, viz., by means of porcelain or iron cylinders, as used in Hungary and other countries on the continent. In 1874 the quantity of land in France under crops of cereals amounted to 14,905,380 hectares (36,816,288 acres), of which 9,944,614 hectares (24,563,196 acres) were wheat, 1,844,220 rye (4,555,223 acres), 1,083,053 barley (2,675,140 acres), 3,246,124 oats (8,017,926 acres), while the rest was maize, millet, &c. The total value of the cereal crop was 4,892,166,460 francs (£195,686,658).

The fabrication of starch is a most important industry in France, and great improvements have been made in its manufacture. Instead of being produced by fermentation, as in the old method, which causes decomposition of the gluten, it is obtained by means of washing, a process producing a much larger percentage of starch, without deteriorating the gluten, a substance altogether too precious to be lost, and which can be easily separated from the starch. The cost of the manufacture is considerably reduced, and the use of mechanical appliances for drying in the open air produces an article that will keep perfectly well for any length of time. Starch is not only used for laundry purposes but in the cotton manufacture, in pharmaceutical productions, confectionery, and perfumery. An immense amount of starch is made from the potato. Starch is also converted into dextrine, or artificial gum, and glucose or grape sugar. This latter takes the place of cane sugar in many industries, such as brewing, distilling, confectionery, &c. Glucose is sold either in a liquid or a solid state. For the manufacture of fermented drinks it is used chiefly on the Continent as a liquid, while in England and America brewers and distillers, as well as confectioners, use it in a solid state. During the years 1874, 1875, and 1876, there was exported from France 24,270,804 kilogrammes of starch, or nearly 24,000 tons; and in the latter year there were twenty-one establishments for making glucose, producing 24,556,704 kilogrammes, or 24,550 tons, a very large proportion of which was exported to England.

Class 70 related to bread and pastry, inclusive of all kinds of bread with or without yeast, fancy bread, and biscuits, together with all kinds of cakes capable of being preserved. The French are famous for their bread-making. It is universally admitted that Paris has acquired a perfection in the bakers' business that has never been attained elsewhere. The consumption of bread is very variable in the different regions of France; in the centre there is the least consumption, but according to statistics 582 grammes is the mean daily ration of each person in France—about $1\frac{1}{3}$ lbs.

Class 71 consisted of fatty substances used as food—fresh and preserved milk, fresh and salt butter, cheese, and eggs of all kinds. The number of milch cows in France is over 6,000,000, producing about 55,000,000 hectolitres (1,210,000,000 gallons) of milk, varying in price according to the locality from 10 to 40 francs the hectolitre, or from 4d. to 1s. 4d. per gallon. The annual production of butter in France is about 170,000,000 kilogrammes (374,000,000 lbs.), with a value of about 440,000,000 francs (£17,600,000). The amount exported in 1876 was 39,847,244 kilogrammes (87,663,936 lbs.), of the value of 103,785,185 francs (£4,151,407). The annual value of the cheese produced in France is about 100,000,000 francs (£4,000,000). The consumption of eggs in France is immense, and their production is a very important business among the small farmers. In the manufacture of biscuits and pastry there are annually consumed 30,000,000 eggs, worth about 2,500,000 francs (£100,000). In 1876 France imported eggs of the value of 8,655,456 francs (£346,218), while it exported eggs worth 46,698,624 francs, or £1,867,944.

Class 72 comprised meat and fish, and class 73 vegetables and fruit. Taking into consideration the close connection existing between the products of these two classes, they were submitted to the consideration of one jury. The consumption of meat increases every day in the towns and country districts of France, and its price has in consequence considerably advanced. According to the statistics of 1874 the annual mean consumption of fresh meat per habitant was 68 kilogrammes (149 lbs.) in the north, 63 kilogrammes (138 lbs.) in the south, and 62 kilogrammes (136 lbs.) in the centre. Fish also enters largely into consumption as an article of food. The fisheries in the North Seas are objects of considerable importance, varying however very considerably in their production, while the coast fisheries have a large extension about the western parts of France. Paris is the central market for fish as well as for vegetables and fruit.

Preserved meats and vegetables were exhibited largely. The system invented by Appert is the one most generally used. It consists of three series of operations, (1) washing in boiling water, (2) putting the ingredients into vessels that can be hermetically closed, and (3) expelling the air remaining in the closed vessel by boiling for a longer or a shorter period at a degree of heat varying according to the substance to be preserved. In the report of a committee appointed to investigate this process, it is stated that the theory of preserving substances by the French method, which has been propagated in all the countries of Europe and America, appears to be founded on the observations of M. Pasteur on the destruction by exposure to a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit of the vitality of microphytic and microcosmic germs which in their living state engender alcoholic acid, as well as putrid, and other fermentations.

Usually the manual labour, general expenses, and price of the vessel in which the materials to be preserved are enclosed, amount to about 50 per cent. of the value of the preparation when ready for use.

Another description of preserved food has of late been largely introduced into France from South America—the concentrated extract of the meat of slaughtered animals, of which the grease and skins alone were previously used in those countries. This extract can be preserved in vessels which are not hermetically sealed, on the condition that they contain no fat, which would cause rancidity; nor gelatine, which would produce mould. It is reduced from an amount of solid substance equal to thirty times its weight in fresh meat, and largely consumed in Germany, where it is supplied to the armies on service.

The preserving of sardines and fish is generally carried on upon the Brittany coasts, while that of mushrooms is carried on exclusively at Paris, and that of truffles at Périgord and Dauphiné.

In

In preserved meats, butter, lard, fruit, and vegetables, the United States of America were excellently represented, and exhibited products of the most perfect description. Foremost amongst the exhibitors of this class of goods we may mention the Wilson Meat Packing Company. In Appendices H. and I. I give M. Rebours-Guizelin's Report, and also that of M. Fritz Robert, the Austrian Commissioner.

Class 74 included condiments and stimulants, sugar and confectionery, comprising sugars, teas, coffees, spices, chocolates, syrups, fruits preserved in brandy, liqueurs, confectionery, table salt, and vinegar. Sugars were divided into two categories, raw and refined, of which the industry is very considerable, both in France and in the French Colonies. The beet-root sugar industry is carried on principally in the departments of the Nord, l'Aisne, Somme, Pas-de-Calais, and the Oise. There are 520 beet-root sugar manufactories and thirty-four refineries in France, giving employment to 60,000 workpeople, of whom three-fifths are men, one-fifth women, and one-fifth children of both sexes. The industry employs 2,080 steam-engines, representing a force of 104,000-horse power. The men earn about four francs a day, the women a franc and a half, and the children about a franc. The greater amount of work, however, is done by the piece, when they usually make more money. France produces about 8,000,000,000 kilogrammes of beet-root annually, say 8,000,000 tons, and the colonies 1,800,000,000—1,800,000 tons of canes. The sugar industry in the year 1876 amounted to a total value of 406,240,000 francs—£16,249,600. Of late years the manufacture and refining of beetroot sugar have made great progress, and had the effect of producing sugar at a lower price. The processes of double carbonization, triple action vacuum pans, centrifugal drying machines, and improvements in the bleaching, have brought the price of sugar down to an unprecedentedly low figure, and France has had to find a market in England and other countries.

The manufacture of chocolate employs much labour and capital in France. In 1876, 20,000,000 kilogrammes (44,000,000 lbs.) were made of the value of 64,000,000 francs (£2,560,000). During the same year the exportation amounted to 698,218 kilogrammes (1,539,291 lbs.) of a value of 2,792,872 francs (£111,714). The establishments where the work is carried on by manual labour are gradually dying out, and huge works where the manufacture is automatic and carried on by hydraulic or steam power, have been established in and about Paris, as well as the Departments of the Nord, the Somme, Gironde, Loire, Rhône, and the Pyrenees. First among these is the establishment of Menier, upon the Marne, where the most perfect system exists, and the organization leaves nothing to be desired.

Class 75 treated of fermented drinks, comprising all kinds of wines, beers, spirits, &c., of which there was an extensive and varied collection from all parts of the world. Statistics show that the culture of the vine constitutes one of the principal sources of wealth in France. About 2,600,000 hectares (6,422,000 acres) of vineyards exist, producing 56,388,000 hectolitres of wine (1,240,536,000 gallons), thus giving on an average $21\frac{1}{2}$ hectolitres per hectare, or something less than 200 gallons to the acre. This average has varied from 35,770,000 hectolitres (786,940,000 gallons) in 1873, to 83,632,000 hectolitres (1,839,904,000 gallons) in 1875. This last year was the largest crop of wine ever grown in France. The wines of Bordeaux, Burgundy, and Champagne are the French wines of most repute. Their qualities vary according to the nature of the soil, the climate, and the choice of the sorts of grape grown. The production of Bordeaux wine gives an annual average of 3,400,000 hectolitres (74,800,000 gallons), while the Burgundy gives an annual production of 3,874,000 hectolitres (85,228,000 gallons), and Champagne, which is represented by the department of the Marne, gives an annual production of 443,000 hectolitres or 9,746,000 gallons. It is to be remarked that the consumption in France of Champagne wines has rested almost stationary since 1857, whilst its exportation has increased very considerably. From the 1st April, 1857, to the 1st April, 1867, the exportation was 86,281,232 bottles, while from the 1st April, 1867, to the 1st April, 1877, 147,022,182 bottles were exported.

3,874 000

Besides these three regions many other departments produce wines which have a fair reputation, but which are generally mixed with other wines before they are sent into the market. In France there are about 2,600,000 wine-growers, and 300,000 wholesale and retail dealers in fermented drinks.

Of late years a terrible scourge has ravaged many of the French vineyards, against which no remedy, practically efficacious, has yet been discovered. It is calculated that the phylloxera has destroyed 280,000 hectares (691,000 acres) of vines, and that a further area of 30,000 hectares (74,130 acres) is affected by this disease.

The production of alcohol is also considerably on the increase, and the average exportation from France has been, during the last ten years, about 425,000 hectolitres, (9,350,000 gallons) a year.

The production of beer has not increased since 1867, while the importations have increased from 64,989 hectolitres (1,429,758 gallons), in 1867, to 300,703 hectolitres (6,615,466 gallons) in 1876.

Normandy, Brittany, Maine, and part of Picardy produce large quantities of cider of very good quality; the average production during the last ten years has been about 11,016,085 hectolitres or 242,353,870 gallons.

The wines exhibited in the New South Wales section excited great attention and were well spoken of by the jury.

GROUP 8 related to agriculture and pisciculture, live stock and specimens of agricultural buildings.

Class 76 comprised specimens of farm buildings and agricultural works. In the pavilions on the Quai d'Orsay, France exhibited specimens of her agriculture, the various methods of culture and particular implements employed in the different departments. In an agricultural point of view the soil and climate of these departments are varied, giving different productions and acquiring a class of agriculture peculiar to the locality. In order that its productions might be properly exhibited and appreciated, France was divided into nine regions, the first of which was called the orange, the second the olive, the third the maize, the fourth the region of the mountains of the centre, the fifth that of the east, the sixth the region of the plains of the centre, the seventh that of the west, the eighth the hop region, and the ninth that of the north. These were all represented by their natural products, with plans and models of their agricultural buildings, and specimens of rural engineering. Their implements, soil, and samples of produce were arranged excellently and formed a most interesting and instructive exhibition.

The Agricultural Section comprised not only all the vegetable products of the farm, useful animals, and insects, beneficial or otherwise, but all the material, machinery, tools, and instruments used in agriculture, sylviculture, and pisciculture, shown

shown by either their makers or those who use them. These were all considered from an agricultural point of view, and an accurate examination was made of all seeds and grain. Cereals were exhibited as dried specimens of the complete plants, roots, stalks, and grain, in order that the exact variety should be ascertained, and the manner of its growth in a well-cultivated good soil.

That portion of the Quay d'Orsay situate between the Port d'Alma and the Avenue de la Bourdonnayé was placed at the disposition of the International Commission by the Parisian municipal authorities for the purpose of erecting suitable buildings for the Agricultural Exhibition. The space thus conceded was over 22,000 square metres, or 26,180 square yards. These annexes were arranged in two lines of buildings, separated by the rows of trees growing on the quay. They covered a space of over 10,000 square metres, or 11,900 square yards, and were connected with the Champ de Mars by a bridge over the Avenue de la Bourdonnayé.

In agricultural implements England and America are immensely superior to other countries. This may be accounted for chiefly by the subdivision of real property in France, Belgium, and Germany. Where a man owns only a few roods of land spade husbandry prevails, and the class of machinery employed is very inferior; the spade, hoe, sickle, and pruning-knife are all the tools absolutely required to keep the land in the best possible condition as regards tillage.

In all new countries where farms are comparatively large, and in England where estates are entailed, and the law of primogeniture obtains, farms cannot be economically managed without employing expensive machinery. Moreover, wages are much higher in England and America than on the Continent of Europe. These combinations have caused the countries I have named to become at an early date constructors of agricultural machinery of such a superior class that virtually they have monopolized the manufacture, and supply all countries with improved farming implements.

Where labour is cheap nothing succeeds better than hand labour; and where the portion of land belonging to the peasant-proprietor partakes more of the character of a garden than a farm the heavy machinery used in countries where the holdings are extensive would be altogether out of place. Farming implements, tools, and machinery are consequently of a class adapted to the exigencies of the situation, which are altogether different from those in England and America. Nevertheless, the implements used for barn and indoor work, and the small ploughs and harrows, are generally fairly adapted to the requirements of the rural population.

Class 77 comprised horses, asses, mules, &c.; class 78, oxen, buffaloes, &c.; class 79, sheep and goats; class 80, pigs, rabbits, &c.; class 81, poultry; and class 82, dogs.

For the exhibition of animals the municipal authorities conceded four out of the six large rectangular blocks constituting the esplanade of the Invalides. Arrangements were made to receive from 1,200 to 1,500 cattle, with pens for sheep, goats, pigs, rabbits, and fowls. These blocks were laid out to the best advantage, and the sheds—twenty-four in number—subdivided into stalls of an excellent character. The drainage was capitally effected by means of gutters laid in cement, and nothing offensive to the sight or smell could be discovered by the most fastidious.

The

The area of the sheds was about 14,000 square metres—equal to 16,660 square yards. The race of cattle known as the “Charolais” is the most beautiful type of all French cattle. Pure white in colour, they are straight-backed, deep in the girth, square in the shoulder and haunches, their legs fine but rather long, much of the Durham type, but standing higher, and with longer horns. They appear to exactly resemble each other, and relatively have the same value in France as the Durhams have in England. I append the report of Sir Brandreth Gibbs. (See Appendix M.)

Class 83 included useful and noxious insects.

Bee culture has lately made a sensible progress, and the producers of honey have been trying to recover from the blow the industry sustained by the development of the beet-root sugar manufacture. They have adopted better methods for taking the honey, avoided killing the bees, and also protected them from the ravages of other insects. The value of the productions arising from bee-culture fell to about 14,000,000 francs (£560,000) about twenty-four years since. It has, however, now recovered, and produces honey to the value of about 23,000,000 francs (£920,000). The number of hives in France amounts to about 2,500,000. In good years the number of hives increase from one-fourth to one-third, but in bad years they decrease quite as much. Twenty-five years ago there were bee-keepers who had as many as from 1,000 to 1,500 hives, but now it is unusual to find one having more than 400 or 500. Bee-keepers of late years have given great attention to improving the race of bees where the indigenous kinds have degenerated from constantly breeding in and in. The Ligurian bee stands first among the improved races, while the Italian and the Carniolian have been, during the last twenty years, eagerly sought after, and introduced more or less into every country of Europe, America, and Australia, where they have invariably been successful.

Great improvements have been made in silkworms, and much has been said about replacing the ordinary silkworm with other varieties. It has, however, been determined that no other sort is capable of furnishing the same class of silk as that which the mulberry silkworm produces. It would be far wiser in the introduction of other silkworms to produce a material which would furnish special stuff, of an entirely different character. The Ailantus (attacus cynthia) has been tried on a large scale, as well as the Chinese silkworm (bombyx yama-mai), but the result has not been commercially a success. This may, perhaps, be attributed to the silkworm disease, which has for so many years been the scourge of the silk-growing regions. In 1864 the silk-producing districts of Europe, and a part of those in Asia, produced nothing but infected grain. The Japanese seed alone continued healthy over the whole of the east. In 1865 Pasteur commenced his experiments, and in 1870 he formulated rules which enable growers, by microscopic inspection, to reject those which were infected. This method of selection has given good results.

The apparatus and processes used for the destruction of noxious insects were chiefly exhibited in the French section. The number of these enemies to culture augments yearly. Among the worst of them may be mentioned the phylloxera. Experiments are being constantly made on the various nostrums advertised to cure this scourge; none of them, however, have been considered by the Commission appointed by the Government to be efficacious. From information I personally obtained in the department of the South, it was considered that when a vineyard could be flooded for a considerable time with water, a permanent cure could be effected.

Class 84 treated of fish, crustacea, and mollusca. An aquarium of fresh water was constructed in the Trocadéro Park, and one of sea-water upon the banks of the Seine, on the Quai d'Orsay. The French maritime fisheries gave employment in 1876 to 80,488 men, and 21,263 boats. Besides these, 45,777 men, women, and children made a living by fishing on the coast and banks of rivers. The sale of the products realised the sum of 88,990,591 francs in place, or £3,559,623. The improvements introduced into the various processes of oyster-culture which have been made since 1867 are due to the intelligence of the owners of the oyster parks. Areas of land have been utilised for this industry which previously were unproductive and unhealthy marshes. Oyster culture when conducted intelligently is highly remunerative, and contributes largely to the natural resources of any district adapted to its development.

GROUP 9 was devoted to horticulture.

Class 85 comprised conservatories and horticultural apparatus, gardeners' and nurserymen's tools, apparatus for watering and keeping turf in order, large conservatories and the apparatus appertaining thereto, room and window conservatories, aquariums for aquatic plants, fountains and other means for ornamenting gardens. This exhibition was very extensive and complete, from the modest flower-pots for the decoration of cottage windows to the most complete and magnificent conservatories. Rustic wood-work, straw-work, and wire-work contributed to the beauty of gardens and parks. Everywhere might be seen aquariums and fountains for the ornamentation of lawns and gardens. The apparatus for watering shows great improvement, and the number and variety of pumps and machines for raising water were almost innumerable.

Class 86 related to flowers and ornamental plants; class 87 to vegetables; class 88 to fruit and fruit-trees; class 89 to seeds and saplings of forest trees; and class 90 to plants for conservatories. These classes were all represented by different juries, and the exhibits in each class were numerous and well arranged.

It must be stated, with reference to the statistics, that the weights given in pounds avoirdupois are only approximatively correct, the equivalent of a kilogramme having been generally taken at 2 and 2-10ths lbs., instead of 2.2046.

The historical and ethnographical exhibition in the galleries of the Trocadéro Palace was most interesting and instructive. It furnished detailed information to all those interested in the study of ancient history, and exercised an active efficiency in the production of ornaments. Fabricants of jewellery found new patterns in the trinkets worn long before the Christian era, while new systems of decoration were devised from the careful study of the exhumed examples of ancient art which had been for thousands of years buried in oblivion.

The collections exhibited in these galleries were of the most interesting and varied character. Collections of the rarest and most valued objects of antiquity vied with each other in their endeavours to make these galleries attractive. Foreign Governments and exhibitors lent their powerful aid to this great and good work, and amateurs of every nation loaned the works of art which they had so carefully collected and treasured with such religious care. With such wondrous resources the historical and ethnographical exhibition of 1878 was a brilliant success, comprising as it did the most varied and complete existing collections of ancient art treasures.

The

The galleries of the Trocadère contained about 2,000 square metres of floor space, equal to 21,528 square feet, in which were exposed ceramic products of every description, specimens of goldsmiths' and enamellers' work, examples of architecture, sculpture, medieval furniture; arms, stuffs, and carpets from the East; old musical instruments, by celebrated makers; and cartoons, for tapestry, by the old masters. Here were shown the arts and industrial processes from the most remote period of Egypt and of both eastern and western Asia. Ancient Greece and Italy contributed rich stores of recovered treasures. Besides all these, stone implements and tools of a pre-historic age, when the earth was in its infancy, were exhibited. Never before had historians and archaeologists such opportunities of study and research, or was such a fertile field of observation offered to artists and workmen. Many of the most beautiful works of Bernard Palissy, and those of his two sons, who afterwards carried on his pottery, were contributed. These works are peculiarly French and eminently original. They are so characteristic in detail that the cleverest imitators of the present time have only succeeded imperfectly in their reproductions.

The various exhibits of French sculpture of the Middle Ages and Renaissance periods show the state of art at that time, and are very interesting and instructive.

The objects of ancient art were numerous, and in order to class and examine them with clearness, so as to render them most instructive to the visitors, it was necessary to adopt a principle, and that which was decided upon by the Commission was that the arrangement should be chronological for every country. Thus, for example, for France a commencement was made by objects belonging to an age undeterminable (pre-historic), which were found mixed with objects made after ancient processes, but which in reality belonged to an historical age. Afterwards came the epoch of the Gaul; then Gallo-Roman; then successively the epochs of the Mirovingiens, the Carlovingiens, the French under the third race down to the end of the Fifteenth Century; then the period of the Renaissance; and last that of the time from Louis XIV, XV, XVI, comprised under the name of "modern time," and which stops at the end of the last Century. The historical exhibition is not brought lower down than 1800, the artistic products of the Empire being too well known and distributed in France and all over the world to need a special exhibition.

In exhibiting, and uniting to each particular race, objects belonging to the same epoch, these were not confusedly thrown together, but were shown in subdivisions, according to the substance of which they were made. Thus, pottery, money, arms, jewellery, formed separate subdivisions.

Ten sections were thus separated:—

1. Primitive art and Gallic antiquities.
2. Sculpture, Glyptics, or engravings on precious stones.
3. Coins, medals, and seals.
4. Ceramics, porcelain, and other ware.
5. Manuscripts, early examples of books, designs, and bookbinding.
6. Arms and armour.
7. Gold ornaments, ivory, glass, and jewels.
8. Furniture, stuffs, and tapestry.
9. Ethnography of other than European races.
10. Ancient instruments of music.

Conformably

Conformably to this principle the commission for the organization of this exhibition was subdivided into ten sections, presided over by one of its members, under the general presidency of the director.

The French Colonial productions of Algiers, Guadaloup, Nouvelle Calédonie, are exhibited permanently in Paris at the Palais d'Industry, but for their exhibition at the International they were installed in an edifice built in the Moorish style. This building was situated in the Trocadéro Park, with its principal façade towards the Quay Billy. Mr. Charles Wable was charged with its construction. This gentleman lived in Spain for a number of years, and was perfectly conversant with the chief specimens of Moorish architecture in Europe, Asia, and Africa. In the centre of a façade beautifully simple, a door 13 feet wide opens upon a grand vestibule leading into a vast hall magnificently decorated, and opening on the same level to the interior garden. Right and left from this vestibule are doors leading, the one to the administrative offices, and the other to a minaret serving as a chapel in which the religious duties of the Mahometan are performed. This minaret occupies the eastern angle, and is a work of perfect elegance. At the other angles are towers of similar construction, but not so high. The architect reserved the richest and most charming decorations for the interior, following exactly the examples of Moorish art, which he took for examples.

This palace forms one of the most imposing objects in the Trocadéro grounds. Its great size and brilliant whiteness attracting the eye at once. It is in perfect keeping, and altogether forms an excellent imitation of Moorish architecture.

During the period the Exhibition was open there were instituted eight groups of conferences and congresses, for the purpose of arguing questions of agriculture, engineering, applied chemistry, manufactures, and in short everything relating to the products exhibited.

These conferences were held in the Trocadéro Palace, under the control of a special committee.

To organize and prepare these conferences and congresses, commissions corresponding to the various groups of products were created, and each of these commissions chose from its members a president and secretary.

A central committee composed of the whole of the presidents arranged and centralized the work of the commissions, fixed the order and nature of the conferences and congresses, and selected the papers read at these meetings for publication. This committee was presided over by the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, or by the Under Secretary of State.

Professor Liversidge, Mr. Jules Joubert, and myself, attended and took part in several of these International Congresses, viz. :—those connected with Geology, Agriculture, and Civil Engineering.

The exhibits were disposed of at the close of the Exhibition in the manner indicated by the Commission.

While New South Wales is the oldest and most wealthy of the Australian Colonies, previous to the Paris Exhibition of 1878 it was very little known or appreciated in Europe as an eligible field for emigration. This may be accounted for, in a great measure, from the fact that public opinion in Europe has for many years connected Australia with gold, and Australian gold with Victoria,—that colony's colony's gold exports having been so much in excess of all the others put together. Another common error, tending in the same direction, was that all the wool shipped from the port of Melbourne was supposed to have been grown in Victoria. The objects shown by New South Wales will to a considerable extent do away with this feeling. The numerous applications for information of all kinds relating to the quality of the land, the manner of purchasing it, the crops, minerals, industrial occupation, &c., lead me to believe that the result of the Paris International of 1878 will a thousand times repay the expenditure incurred on its account.

A large quantity of printed information, both in English and French, was distributed among the visitors. These consisted of special numbers of the Sydney Morning Herald and the Sydney Illustrated News; the Progress and Resources of New South Wales, by C. Robinson; An Essay on New South Wales the Mother Colony of the Australias, by G. H. Reid; Remarks on the Sedimentary Formations of New South Wales, by the Rev. W. B. Clarke; The Financial Statement of the Treasurer, for 1878; Mineral and Agricultural Maps with General Statistics; Coal Sections of the Various Coal Districts of New South Wales, by J. Mackenzie, and many others, besides a collection of statistics printed at Paris, altogether numbering nearly 150,000. Information of all sorts was sought after with avidity, and ten times the quantity of printed matter could have been got rid of, so numerous were the applications. This will be readily comprehended, considering that the average daily number of visitors exceeded 82,000.

The special attention of the jurors was directed to the samples of wine. There were twenty-three New South Wales exhibitors in this class, and over a hundred samples of wine were tasted by the jury. They were also brought prominently forward in order that they might be examined and tasted by the various Foreign Commissioners and other leading men connected with the Exhibition. The verdict passed upon them was invariably to their advantage, and they will no doubt be favourably reported on by these gentlemen. The list of awards show that thirteen medals and four diplomas of honourable mention were obtained by the exhibitors in this class.

In the month of October I received a copy of the following telegram, which had been received from the New South Wales Government by the Agent General:—
 “International Exhibition will take place as gazetted; do all you can to further matter. Instruct Combes and Secretary Joubert to issue forms of entry, and wire space as soon as possible.” I thereupon consulted Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen, the Secretary of the British Commission, who advised me to make application to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, requesting his assistance in accrediting me to Her Majesty's Ambassadors at Brussels, Berlin, and Vienna, in order that I might personally explain to intending exhibitors matters relating to the projected Exhibition, and give them some general information with reference to New South Wales. I followed this advice, and received every assistance from Sir Michael Hicks Beach, who obtained for me letters from Lord Salisbury to Her Majesty's Ambassadors at Belgium, Berlin, and Vienna. On visiting these cities I received every attention and assistance in carrying out the purport of my mission, which I performed to the best of my ability, giving the information that was required and endeavouring to interest manufacturers and others in the Sydney International Exhibition. I may be permitted to add that I believe my visit was successful in promoting the object we had in view.

Circulars

Circulars in several languages were printed and distributed, through the various Chambers of Commerce in France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Holland, and Italy. Active and intelligent agents were appointed to disseminate information, distribute forms of entries and solicit exhibits; and at the solicitation of Sir Daniel Cooper and the London Committee, I permitted Mr. Joubert to leave Paris to take charge of the London office of the New South Wales International Commission, where the work was then concentrated. On the arrival of the cablegram from Sydney, in February, 1879, informing Sir Daniel Cooper that the Government of New South Wales had taken over the management of the Exhibition, and had appointed a new Commission, Mr. Joubert was instructed to take his passage to Sydney. The change of Ministry in Paris had caused the arrangements which had been made for the Sydney Exhibition to fall through, and I deemed it necessary to telegraph for Mr. Joubert to assist me in re-arranging matters with the new minister, M. Le Pere. Mr. Joubert left Southampton to do this, and joined the mail steamer at Suez. We however succeeded in arranging this important matter, upon which actually depended the representation of France at the Sydney International Exhibition. I give these particulars in order to testify to the services rendered by the gentleman who acted as Secretary to the Representative Commission at Paris.

On taking charge of the exhibits I found no provision made to furnish funds for the arrangement of the Court, the supply of show cases, or to defray current expenses. Of necessity this matter had to be settled at once, and a cash credit was arranged at the Branch of the Bank of New South Wales in London. By this accommodation I was enabled to meet all the liabilities incurred by the Commission. The statement of receipts and expenditure shows the total amount expended, inclusive of decorating the Court, hire of show cases, salaries, wages, labour, &c., &c., to have been £2,784 6s. (See Appendix D.) If to this be added the allowance to the Executive Commissioner, viz., £2,587 12s., which included the expenses incurred in collecting the information for Mr. Combes' Report on the "Lighting, Heating, and Ventilation of School Buildings," and also those contingent upon the Executive Commissioner's mission on the European Continent to promote the object of the Sydney International Exhibition, it will be found the entire cost of the representation of New South Wales at Paris to be £5,371 18s. It will, therefore, be at once apparent how strict an economy was observed in carrying out the duties with which I was entrusted.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, in his capacity as President of the British Commission, appointed me to the position of British Juror for Class 59 of the International Jury. My colleagues elected me their vice-president, and gave me the direction of the Jury work in that class. Professor Liversidge was also appointed a Supplementary Juror in Group V. This work occupied a considerable portion of my time, as in the capacity of Acting President I had to follow the proceedings of the sixth Jury Group. For this I was specially thanked by His Royal Highness. After the close of the Exhibition work I occupied myself, in accordance with instructions from the Government, in collecting information having reference to School Buildings, upon which I have made a separate report.

In a despatch addressed by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, H.R.H. alludes to the exhibitions of the Colonies, as follows:—

"Perhaps one of the most striking exhibits from the Colonies was the representation made by Her Majesty's dependencies at the antipodes. Australia and New Zealand have advanced with great strides since the last Exhibition in Paris. These provinces of the Empire, with a population of over two and a half millions, have an external commerce exceeding ninety millions a year, the greater part of which is with Great Britain and her dependencies. It is not, therefore, surprising that the enterprise of these Colonies should have brought them prominently forward at this international competition, and that each made a creditable display of its own products and industry."
and

His Royal Highness, in particularizing New South Wales, goes on to say :—

"New South Wales, the oldest Australian Colony, exhibited the magnitude of her natural resources in her splendid display of wool, for which she gained a grand prix; in her display of coal, with which she supplies the countries of the Pacific; for her scientific display of mineralogical and natural history collections, by Professor Liversidge; and for the excellence of her varied branches of manufactures."—(See Appendix N.)

Altogether the New South Wales Exhibition was most successful; and as Executive Commissioner I was honoured with the congratulations of His Royal Highness the President of the British Commission and those of the Marshal-President of the French Republic. After the close of the Exhibition His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales addressed the following autograph letter to each of the Commissioners, expressing his thanks for individual services and congratulations at the satisfactory results produced by the Mother-Country and her Colonies at the Paris Exhibition :—

Marlborough House,
Pall Mall, S.W.,
12 December, 1878.

Sir,

As the work of the Royal Commission for the Paris Universal Exhibition is now drawing to a close, I wish to thank you again for the invaluable services you have been kind enough to render as a member of the Commission for New South Wales, and, while expressing my personal obligations for the able manner in which you have striven to render the participation of the Mother-Country and her Colonies worthy of the British Empire, beg to offer for your acceptance the accompanying proof of my portrait, as a record of our connection in the work of the Paris Exhibition, which has been attended with such satisfactory results.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

ALBERT EDWARD P.,

President of the Royal Commission for the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878.

These letters and portraits were obtained by me at the offices of the British Commission in London, accompanied by a letter from the Secretary of the Royal Commission, Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen. This I duly acknowledged, and distributed the letters and portraits according to His Royal Highness' instructions.

It is a pleasing duty in closing this Report to be permitted publicly to express my obligations to the Secretary of the British Commission, Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen, C.B., K.C.M.G., for the valuable assistance he afforded me on all occasions, and which conduced largely to the success of the New South Wales Exhibition. It is also eminently satisfactory for me to acknowledge the uniform courtesy and attention I received from the General Commission of France and its officers, especially from M. Georges Berger, the Commissioner in charge of the Foreign Sections. I would further beg to offer a willing and grateful testimony to the assistance

assistance afforded me by my colleagues, the Honorable William Forster, Sir Daniel Cooper, the Honorable John Frazer, Messieurs Samuel Hebblewhite, Donald Larnach, Jacob Levi Montefiore, Edward Levi Montefiore, Louis Francois Sentis, the Honorable Thomas Ware Smart, the Honorable John Brown Watt, Mr. Peter Nicol Russell, Mr. George Russell, and Professor Liversidge. To Messieurs Sentis, Edward L. Montefiore, and Professor Liversidge, M.A., my thanks are especially due for much valuable assistance in the discharge of the duties entrusted to me. I would also wish to express how much I have been indebted to the Secretary, Mr. Jules Joubert, whose indefatigable industry contributed greatly to the successful issue of our labours.

I have the honor to be,
Your Excellency's very obedient, humble servant,
EDWARD COMBES.

APPENDIX A.

London, 3 Westminster Chambers, Victoria-street, S.W., 16 March, 1877.

Sir,

I have the honour to enclose herewith copy of correspondence received to-day from the Secretary of the Royal Commission for the Paris Exhibition of 1878, with a printed list of the members of the Royal Commission, and a translation of the general regulations.

The Hon. Chief Secretary, Sydney, New South Wales.

I have, &c.,
WILLIAM FORSTER.

Offices of the Royal Commission, Canada Buildings, King-street, Westminster, London, S.W., 16 March, 1877.

Sir,

As you are probably already aware, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, President of the Royal Commission for the Paris Exhibition of 1878, has appointed a Committee of the Royal Commissioners specially charged to report to His Royal Highness on the arrangements to be made to secure the proper representation of the Colonies. His Grace the Duke of Manchester, as Chairman of the Committee, having suggested for His Royal Highness' consideration that copies of the correspondence which has passed between His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and the Secretary of State for the Colonies should be furnished to you for your information, I am instructed by the Prince of Wales to transmit to you the same, from which you will perceive the steps taken to secure the object in view.

Should you receive any instructions from your Government, His Royal Highness has desired me to inform you that the same will be submitted to the Committee of Her Majesty's Commissioners, who will advise His Royal Highness as to any assistance it may be possible to render.

William Forster, Esq., Agent General for New South Wales.

I have, &c.,
P. CUNLIFFE OWEN,
Secretary.

Marlborough House, Pall Mall, S.W., 23 January, 1877.

My Lord,

I beg, as President of Her Majesty's Commissioners for the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878, to transmit to your Lordship the enclosed printed document containing an extract from the London Gazette of the 23rd January, nominating a Royal Commission appointed by Her Majesty for advancing so far as Great Britain, the Indian Empire, and the Colonies and Dependencies are concerned, the objects which the Paris Exhibition has in view.

I beg further to enclose, for your Lordship's information, the general summary of the French Regulations, showing the conditions under which the Exhibition will be administered, and Her Majesty's Commissioners would be glad if your Lordship would officially announce the part to be taken by Great Britain at the approaching Exhibition to the Governor General of the Dominion and to the Governors and authorities of the Colonial Empire, and at the same time express the pleasure I shall feel in learning that the various Governments have determined to take a prominent part in making a suitable representation.

I have instructed Mr. P. Cunliffe Owen, C.B., whom I have appointed Secretary, to place himself at your disposal, and he will attend to all communications.

I trust your Lordship will be good enough to accredit him to the various authorities requiring information respecting the Exhibition.

I have, &c.,
ALBERT EDWARD,

President of the Royal Commission for the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878.
The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, &c., &c.

Sir,

Downing-street, 16 February, 1877.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the letter, which your Royal Highness has been pleased to address to me, respecting the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878, and I have to enclose copies of circular despatches which I have addressed to the different Colonial Governments, intimating the interest which your Royal Highness has been pleased to express in the worthy representation of the Colonies at this Exhibition, together with my own hope that no effort will be wanting on their part to respond to the wishes of your Royal Highness.

I venture to express the satisfaction with which I have learned that your Royal Highness has been able to place at the disposal of the Colonial Governments the services of Mr. Owen, C.B., whose distinguished services in connection with undertakings of this description are so widely known.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., &c., &c.

I have, &c.,
CARNARVON.

My Lord,

Marlborough House, Pall Mall, S.W., 23 February, 1877.

1. I have to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's letter of the 16th instant, enclosing copies of circular despatches which your Lordship has had the goodness to forward to the different Colonial Governments, intimating the interest which I take in the worthy representation of the Colonies at the forthcoming Universal Exhibition to be held in Paris next year.

2. I have now to request that your Lordship will take the earliest opportunity of communicating to those Governments the printed regulations issued by the French Government, and that I may be apprised through your Lordship, and if possible by cable, of the intentions of the various Governments, and the amount of space that they consider can be profitably occupied in the Exhibition.

3. If I urge the necessity of immediate action, it is to enable me to arrange for the earliest possible transmission to the Colonial Governments of the plans of such space as it may be practicable to assign to them, and thereby to facilitate the necessary arrangements for occupying it.

4. I should explain that the space available for Great Britain and the Colonies has been allotted to the collective British Empire, and that it is essential that applications for space from different parts of the Empire should be made through the Imperial Executive. I shall use my best endeavours to promote the equitable distribution of the available space between the United Kingdom and the Colonies in proportion to their several requirements. Beyond this I do not desire in any way to interfere with the independence of action of the Colonial Governments, but I have instructed Mr. Cunliffe Owen, as Secretary of the Royal Commission, to place his services, if required, entirely at their disposal. In offering this assistance I particularly wish it to be understood that Mr. Owen will take no part, unless asked to do so, in the Executive work of the Colonial sections, which will belong to the Commissioners whom I shall be happy to recognize as accredited by the various Governments.

5. I may add that upon this occasion it will not be possible to erect a separate house in the park by which office accommodation could be provided for the various Colonial Commissioners, as was the case at the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1876.

I have, &c.

ALBERT EDWARD.

The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon.

Sir,

Downing-street, 1 March, 1877.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of the letter dated the 26th February, with which your Royal Highness has honored me, enclosing the printed Regulations issued by the French Government relating to the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878, and I have the honor to enclose copies of two Circular Despatches which I have addressed to the various Colonial Governments requesting, in compliance with the wishes of your Royal Highness, that I may be informed by telegraph of the amount of space likely to be required by the several Colonies.

I have, &c.,

CARNARVON.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., &c., &c.

Sir,

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 6 April, 1878.

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to transmit herewith for the information of the Paris Exhibition Commissioners, a despatch from the Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, concerning the space allotted to New South Wales at the Exhibition.

I have, &c.,

M. R. ALLAN.

Charles Robinson, Esq.,
Secretary to the Paris Exhibition Commission.

Sir,

Downing-street, 6 February, 1878.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your despatch, No. 174 of the 10th December last, and your telegram of the 20th of that month, with reference to the space allotted to New South Wales at the Paris Exhibition.

2. In reply, I have the honor to state that His Royal Highness has transferred to New South Wales seven-tenths of the block of 40 by 36 feet which had been allotted to New Zealand, on the understanding that New South Wales is prepared to take charge of such private contributions as may be sent from New Zealand.

3. His Royal Highness has also been able to assign to New South Wales the trophy space of 840 feet originally allotted between Queensland and South Australia, instead of the trophy space of only 630 feet at first assigned to New South Wales.

4. I have to add that a communication has been received from Mr. P. Cunliffe Owen, C.B., stating that the authority of the French Commission has been obtained for the trophy space in the Tower, to include the columns which support the roof, and which threatened to hide from view part of the objects exhibited, and to spoil the effect of the trophies.

5. The Agent General for New South Wales was informed of these arrangements on the 15th ultimo, and was requested to communicate them to your Government. This I understand was done by a telegram sent on the 16th, and a letter sent on the 18th January.

I have, &c.,

MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH.

Governor Sir Hercules Robinson, G.C.M.G.,
&c., &c., &c.

APPENDIX D.

To the Chairman of the Royal Commission for the Paris Exhibition, 1878, Sydney, New South Wales.

Sir,

1, Rue Desaix, Paris, the 13th February, 1879.

By decree of the French Government, the final closing of the Exhibition was postponed from the 1st to the 10th November; this delay necessarily entailed upon the Commission in Paris many new and unforeseen duties, which however were entered upon with the same spirit which I am happy to report has throughout animated all those who have co-operated so zealously with me in carrying out to a satisfactory conclusion the representation of the Colony of New South Wales at the Paris Exhibition.

All accounts in connection with the New South Wales Commission have now been closed. Such exhibits as were to be returned to the Colony have been carefully packed and shipped, having been duly insured against all risks. Accounts, vouchers, policies, and bills of lading, will be handed over to the Royal Commission in Sydney by the Secretary, who returns by the out-going mail.

Our labours in Paris having now been concluded, I have the honor to lay before you, in as concise a form as it is possible to make it, a report of the work which has been entrusted to me. It must however be understood that the official report, which I shall make to the Government upon the Paris Exhibition of 1878, and for which I have collected all the necessary material, will require considerable time in its preparation, and will not be completed until after my return to New South Wales.

Upon the arrival of the Secretary in Paris on the 17th March, 1878, a small portion only of the shipments of exhibits per "Hankow" had arrived; this consisted of some packages containing tin and copper ingots and a few cases of wool, wine, and sundries. From advices at hand however the Commission were informed that other shipments had been made, and a fortnight after my arrival in Paris the bulk of the goods per "Stadt-Amsterdam" reached the Champs de Mars. From the first day it became evident that the space allotted to the Colony of New South Wales would be inadequate to the requirements of the Commission; applications were made to the proper authorities, and I am happy to state that the granting of an extra space at the southern end of the court as well as the closing of the transverse thoroughfares, enabled the Commission to adopt a plan of double show cases, which had the twofold advantage first, of materially increasing the frontage at our disposal, and secondly, of giving to the court a much larger appearance than it really possessed.

In order to carry out this plan the Commission decided to enter into a contract with a firm for the hire only of as many glass show-cases as would completely enclose the space allotted to the Colony, and besides these a large octagonal stand also under plate glass for the proper display and safe keeping of the wine exhibits. These together with the cases lent by the Agent-General, and those ordered to be made in Paris for the Department of Mines, and also the wool cases sent from Sydney, which were raised on polished mahogany stands, filled up the court. Of the general effect you will have been enabled to judge from the photographic views which were taken at the time and forwarded to you.

The lateness of the arrival of the exhibits, and the miscarriage of the detailed information relating thereto, caused much anxiety to the Commission in Paris, and to a certain extent unavoidable expense.

At the time of my arrival in Paris the Commissioners had made no provision for defraying current expenses, or meeting the payment of the contracts they had entered into; arrangements had to be made with the Manager of the Bank of New South Wales in London, and through him we had a credit opened at the Caisse Generale of Paris, where the account of the Commission was kept until the close of the Exhibition.

As soon as all the exhibits had been arranged, classified, and labelled, samples from each were set aside in accordance with the official documents furnished to us by the "Comité des Jurys." For upwards of fourteen weeks the Court was daily visited by individual jurors who took it in turns to examine the exhibits in each class, preparatory to the final and official inspection by the full jury. Nearly all the products shown in the New South Wales Court had been so carefully selected on your side that they attracted the attention of the Judges from the first, and as the day for the final decision approached we were gratified to notice that the Australian exhibits and ours more particularly were still at the head of the lists; and at every visit from the jurors we heard flattering remarks as to the excellence of our products.

It

It was not only from the gentlemen so carefully selected by the authorities to act as Judges, that we heard such praises bestowed upon the exhibits under our charge. The millions of visitors who day after day spent hours in carefully examining the contents of our Court, incessantly sought information relating to the Australian Colonies, evincing throughout the most lively interest in the replies they received from the staff in charge, our constant care being to furnish detailed information in the readiest and most cordial manner possible, the great desideratum being to make New South Wales known to the whole world. The inquiry and demand for pamphlets, journals, statistics, and illustrated papers increased as the exhibition advanced. Up to the very last day this interest never abated, and on holidays several intelligent employés were required to attend solely to this part of our work.

When deputations of the working classes from the departments of France, England, Germany, and Belgium, came to the Champs de Mars it was gratifying to find that the persons in charge of these public bodies came direct to our Secretary for the purpose of obtaining for the men whom they had to guide through the Exhibition, copies of the works I have already alluded to. This gave an evident proof that the few copies which had been sent to the various parts of Europe, where it was thought they might be of use, had been read and appreciated.

Among the many visitors who thronged our court and were more particularly attracted by the goods exhibited, I may mention the leading woollen manufacturers from France, Germany, Austria, and Belgium. The sheep breeders of Spain, Hungary, and France made numerous and protracted calls. The fineness of our merino wools, the length and quality of the fibre, the weight of the fleeces, were subjects of constant admiration, but above all the statistics showing the extent of our wool industry riveted their attention on the growing importance of the Australian Colonies.

The impression made by the marvellous beauty of our staple and the extent of our pastoral wealth has been commented upon in many leading scientific publications; discussions at the Agricultural Congress, held in the great hall of the Trocadero during the Exhibition, and a paper read there by the Secretary on the subject of the "Agricultural and Pastoral resources of New South Wales," will all tend to popularize the Colony and lead to the most useful species of emigration, viz., that of capital and intelligence combined.

As might be naturally expected in a great wine-producing country like France, more especially when the vine throughout the country is threatened with utter destruction by a hitherto unknown and practically irremediable disease, the wines exhibited in our court, selected as they were from the choicest vineyards of New South Wales, well got up, carefully attended to on their arrival, maintained at an even temperature for several months prior to being tested, soon became the subject of particular and careful study.

Of all the wines exhibited, and with the exception of those from the Rhine provinces, those of New South Wales, containing a lesser quantity of alcoholic spirits, at once gained favour with the juries. The vigneronns from both Burgundy and the Bordelais come in numbers to taste the wines in that section. The gradual but marked increase of the wine industry was freely discussed by them, and in many instances an opinion expressed that New South Wales would prove the most dangerous rival to France.

It was to be regretted that the cereals were so damaged by weevil that it was almost impossible to show them in a proper manner; with very few exceptions these insects had completely destroyed the grain. The flour also had in many instances been injured by insects. By very careful manipulation and picking we managed to obtain sufficient sound wheat, maize, &c., to fill up small glass jars for the inspection of the judges; but the public had no chance whatever to satisfy the often expressed desire to secure samples of seeds. Whatever could be spared of the latter were carefully divided among the Agricultural Model Farms and Schools of France, Germany, and Italy. Had the whole of the grain sent from Sydney arrived in good condition it would not have sufficed to supply the demand.

The leather exhibits, as well as the tweeds and plaids, were highly esteemed; unfortunately the higher class of manufactured articles in the former, both from Messrs. Alderson and Davenport & Alcock, had suffered from heat on board the steam-ship, some of the skins being utterly destroyed and others much damaged.

Among the most attractive and prominent portion of the New South Wales exhibits was the admirable collection of minerals so ably arranged under the personal supervision of Professor Liversidge. Scientific men and students were always to be found crowding round the show cases to examine the specimens of gold, tin, copper, iron, and other minerals, which were laid out for inspection in such perfect and instructive order. Here again the immense value of the statistical pamphlets and maps was proved. The coal sections and plans showing the coal-beds of the Colony formed a centre of attraction in the great hall at the north end of the Exhibition building. Here also the gold trophy, with its substantial pedestal of tin and copper ingots, backed up with wool and cotton bales, and crowned by the noble specimens of the tree ferns, led the public to inquire for the New South Wales court.

The book which was kept at the entrance of the court, filled with names of some of the principal visitors who desired to notify their appreciation of the courtesy shown to them, will tend to prove that the labours of the Commission have not been without results. You have been already made acquainted with the flattering words of praise which fell from the lips of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, H. E. the President of the French Republic, H. J. H. the Arch Duke Charles Louis of Austria, and the many high functionaries who paid long and oft repeated visits to the Australian section of the Paris Exhibition. The personal thanks sent by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales through me to each individual member of the Commission, accompanied by the portrait of His Royal Highness, proves undeniably that the Royal President of the British Commission is fully satisfied with the manner in which the representation of the Colony has been carried out.

During the whole period of the Exhibition each nation and colony represented vied with the other in endeavours to attract public notice. It will be gratifying to you to hear that New South Wales was the first in the field with its printed and illustrated notices, which were distributed largely but with discrimination. It was not until the last two or three months that other countries adopted the same course, and even then in a much less extensive way than ourselves.

The official list of awards has been duly telegraphed, and since then posted to Sydney. The Commissioners and Exhibitors in the Colony will doubtless have taken into consideration the value of the statement which was sent at the time, where it is shown that, with a lesser number of exhibitors, the Colony of New South Wales took away comparatively a much larger number of awards and prizes of a higher rank than any of the other colonies. In the Grand Prix and Gold Medal awards it held its ground even with some of the older countries of the world.

The Exhibition of 1878 is now a matter of history. It has conclusively shown by its unparalleled success what can be achieved in the way of peaceful progress by an industrious nation. Great Britain held the most important position in this great gathering of all nations. Her colonies, as repeatedly expressed by the Royal President of the British Commission, not only materially assisted but chiefly contributed to the success achieved, and it is generally admitted that amongst the latter New South Wales held the position which was due to her as the oldest and most prosperous of England's possessions in the Southern hemisphere.

APPENDIX F.

REGULATIONS FOR DETERMINING THE NATURE OF THE AWARDS, AND FOR ORGANISING THE JURIES CHARGED WITH THEIR DISTRIBUTION. (Approved by Decree of 14 August, 1877, and modified by Decree of 19 April, 1878.)—Journal Officiel du 15 Août, 1877, et du 20 Avril, 1878.

CLAUSE I.—General Arrangements.

ART. 1.—A sum of 1,500,000 francs (£60,000) has been set aside for awards to be made on the occasion of the Universal Exhibition of 1878. An International Jury is constituted for the purpose of making the aforesaid awards.

ART. 2.—The International Jury will consist of 750 members; viz., 400 foreigners and 350 Frenchmen. The foreign jurors will be divided among the various nations, according to the proportion of superficial space occupied by each of them, the number of their exhibitors, and the importance of their exhibits. 325 supplementary jurors will be named besides, viz., 175 foreigners and 150 Frenchmen, divided in the same manner as the jurors (jurés titulaires).

ART. 3.—The foreign members of the International Jury are appointed by the Government of each country. The French members are named by a Decree, on the proposal of the Superior Commission. The supplementary jurors are to be appointed in the same way as the jurors (jurés titulaires). They will take the the place of absent jurors, and will be summoned, whenever their presence is necessary, by the jury of the Class to which they belong, or one of the Classes of the Groups to which they have been named. Their duties will cease upon the return of the persons they have represented. All nominations must be made before the 15th of May, 1878. The Superior Commission, after having consulted the various Foreign Commissions, will divide the members of the jury into the several classes.

ART. 4.—The duties of the International Jury must be performed between the 1st of June and the 1st of September, inclusive. But with regard to such things in the Classes of Group VII. (Alimentary Products, Classes 69 to 75 inclusive), Group VIII. (Agriculture and Pisciculture, Classes 76 to 84 inclusive), and Group IX. (Horticulture, Classes 85 to 90 inclusive), as necessitate partial competitions, the duties of the jury will continue during the whole course of the Exhibition, as will be mentioned in Clause V. of the present Regulations.

ART. 5.—The date fixed for the distribution of awards is the 10th of September, 1878.

CLAUSE II.—Arrangements regarding the Group of Works of Art.

ART. 6.—The awards for Works of Art placed at the disposal of the International Jury are distributed as follows:—

17 Medals of honor and art objects of French production.
32 First-class Medals.
44 Second-class Medals.
48 Third-class Medals.

ART. 7.—The awards instituted in Art. 6 are distributed in the following way among the four sections of the Fine Arts which correspond to the Classes of Group I:—

1st Section.—Class 1 (Oil Paintings), and Class 2 (various Paintings and Drawings) united.
8 Medals of Honour.	20 Second-class Medals.
15 First-class Medals.	24 Third-class Medals.
2nd Section.—Class 3 (Sculpture and Die Sinking).
4 Medals of Honour.	12 Second-class Medals.
8 First-class Medals.	12 Third-class Medals.
3rd Section.—Class 4 (Architectural Drawings and Models).
3 Medals of Honour.	8 Second-class Medals.
6 First-class Medals.	8 Third-class Medals.
4th Section.—Class 5 (Engravings and Lithographs).
2 Medals of Honour.	4 Second-class Medals.
3 First-class Medals.	4 Third-class Medals.

ART. 8.—The Jury for the Group of Fine Arts will consist of 63 members. The numerical proportion of foreign and French members in each of the four sections will be fixed by a decree issued on the proposal of the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce. The French members of the four sections will be appointed by a decree issued upon the proposal of the Superior Commission from among the members of the Jury of Admission. Exhibitors having accepted the duties of a member of the International Jury for Works of Art are not debarred from competing for awards. Each one of the four sections will be presided over by one of its members named by the Minister upon the proposal of the Superior Commission. Two of the Presidents must be Frenchmen.

ART. 9.—The four sections may unite, if occasion should arise, to propose modifications in the distribution of the awards, as is established in Arts. 6 & 7.

The President of the four sections when united will be named by a decree upon the proposal of the Superior Commission, and he will be chosen from among its members.

CLAUSE III.—Awards for Industrial and Agricultural Products.

*ART. 10.—The awards placed at the disposal of the International Jury for collective or individual exhibits of products of Agriculture and of Industry are as follows:—

100 Grand Prizes and exceptional awards in money.
1,000 Gold Medals.
4,000 Silver Medals,
8,000 Bronze Medals.
8,000 Honourable Mentions.

All the Medals will be of the same design.

ART.

* N.B.—At a meeting of the Superior Commission, and of the Jury of Presidents, held at the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce, on the 27th of July, and presided over by M. Teisserenc de Bort, it was determined to double the number of gold medals, and to increase in a lesser proportion the other medals and awards. One of the reasons being the unexpected number of exhibitors, stated as amounting, in round figures, to 53,000. The following is the list as amended:—

130 Grand Prizes.
2,470 Gold Medals.
6,400 Silver Medals.
10,000 Bronze Medals.
10,000 Honourable Mention.

29,500 Total number.

The present number of recompenses is in excess of this figure, there being:—

2,510 Gold Medals.
266 Rappels of Gold Medals.
363 Diplomas equivalent to Gold Medals.

3,139 Total for Gold Medals alone.

But duplicate Medals, &c., have to be deducted.

† See circular letter addressed to the Presidents of Class-juries, 29th June, 1878, § 4.

ART. 11.—The Superior Commission, after having consulted the Presidents of groups, will, before the 1st of June, 1878, distribute temporarily the total number of medals and mentions among the various groups.

ART. 12.—The grand prizes are for the purpose of recompensing—

(a.) The merit of inventions or improvements which have considerably improved the quality of products or the processes of manufacture.

(b.) Collective exhibitions which, considered as a whole, show exceptional merit or improvement.

ART. 13.—The allotment of the awards instituted in Art. 10, for the groups of industrial and agricultural products will follow the successive decisions of the juries of classes, the juries of groups, and the juries of Presidents.

ART. 14.—The numerical proportion between the foreign and French members in each jury of classes will be fixed by a decree issued on the proposal of the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce.

CLAUSE IV.—Special arrangements regarding the Groups of Industrial Products.

ART. 15.—Each Class-jury will meet on the 1st of June, 1878. At its first meeting it will name a President, a Vice-President, and a Secretary; the election of a reporter must take place before the 15th of June.

ART. 16.—Class-juries may call to their council, upon certain defined questions, members of other classes of the International Jury, or experts chosen from without the jury. In the latter case the nomination of the expert must be approved of by the President of the group. Members associated in this way and experts will have no deliberative power.

ART. 17.—Exhibitors, who have accepted the duties of members of the International Jury, will, by this very fact, be placed "hors concours" with regard to awards. Exhibitors who may be summoned as associates or experts in Class-juries are likewise placed "hors concours" with regard to products of the class upon which they are called to give their advice.

ART. 18.—Each Class-jury will proceed to examine the products, apparatus, or processes placed before them, and will, without regard to nationality, class together such exhibitors as seem to them worthy of awards. They will draw up a list of the exhibitors, who, by Arts. 16 and 17, are placed "hors concours." And they will classify, without regard to nationality, the assistants, foremen, or workmen whom they think ought to be pointed out, either on account of services rendered to Agriculture or Industry, or for their participation in the production of remarkable objects in the Exhibition. The lists of these classifications, signed by the members who took part in the work, and by the President and the Secretary of the Group-jury, must be placed by the latter in the hands of the General Commissioner upon the 9th of July 1878, at the latest. If a class-jury has not sent in its list at the above-mentioned time, the Group-jury will make out the lists.

ART. 19. The Presidents and the Reporters of the Class-juries will, when united, form Group-juries which will meet on the 10th of July 1878. In case of absence, the place of a President will be taken by a Vice-President. A President and two Vice-Presidents, taken from the members, will be appointed for each Group-jury. The division of the Presidents and Vice-Presidents among the various nations will be determined by a decree issued upon the proposal of the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce. Foreign Presidents and Vice-Presidents will be named by Foreign Governments; French Presidents and Vice-Presidents by a decree on the proposal of the Superior Commission. The Secretary of each Group-jury will be appointed by a decree upon the proposal of the same Commission.

ART. 20. Each Group-jury, after having examined the claims which fall within its province, will decide finally upon the lists of classification (drawn up by the Class-juries). It will successively admit each Class-jury to the deliberations which concern it. The members thus admitted will have deliberative power. The result of its labours must be placed in the hands of the General Commissioner upon the 31st July, 1878, at the latest; if the labours of a group are not ended at that date the Jury of Presidents will take measures for their completion without delay.

ART. 21. Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the Group-juries, when united, from the Jury of Presidents, which will meet upon the 1st August, 1878. The Presidency of this Council will be undertaken by one of the Presidents of the Superior Commission. The duties of Secretary will be undertaken by the Secretaries of the Superior Commission. The labours of the Jury of Presidents must be completed by the 10th of August.

CLAUSE V.—Special arrangements for Alimentary Produce, and the Products of Agriculture and Horticulture.

ART. 22. As Group VII. (Alimentary Products), Group VIII. (Agriculture and Pisciculture), and Group IX. (Horticulture), include products which may vary up to the close of the Exhibition, and be the subjects of successive competitions, it will be sufficient for the Class-juries of the above groups to send in reports upon the number of awards which it would be fitting to grant to each class at the dates mentioned in Clause IV for the other groups.

ART. 23. During the whole course of the Exhibition the Minister, upon the proposal of competent Sub-Commissions of the Superior Commission, will appoint, every fortnight, temporary Associates, whose duties will be to aid the members of Class-juries in the examination of the products comprised in the partial competitions which may be held for certain classes of the Groups VII, VIII, IX. As soon as these partial competitions are ended, each temporary committee, consisting of the temporary jurors and associate jurors, will classify the exhibitors, assistants, and workmen whom they judge worthy of awards, and will divide them into four categories under the titles of:—1st Prizes; 2nd Prizes; 3rd Prizes; Honourable Mentions of partial competitions. This classification may be immediately made public.

ART. 24. From the 15th to the 20th November, 1878, the juries of Groups VII, VIII, IX will draw up, according to the lists of Prizes and Honourable Mentions awarded by the temporary Committees conformably with the preceding Article, the complete list of the exhibitors, as well as that of the assistants and workmen of each class, and will grant the awards placed at their disposal by the Superior Commission. The diplomas will bear on them a statement of the Prizes and Honourable Mentions which temporary Committees may have bestowed upon the recipients during the course of the Exhibition.

ART. 25. The preceding arrangements are not applicable to the products of Classes 77 to 82 (Horses, Cattle, Dogs, &c.), which are regulated with regard to awards by the Appendices to the General Regulations.

CLAUSE

CLAUSE VI.—General arrangements.

ART. 26. As soon as the work of the Jury of Presidents shall have been laid before the Superior Commission the latter will decide definitely upon the number of medals to be allotted to each Group. The Group-juries will subsequently meet to distribute these awards amongst the classes.

ART. 27. The Class-juries will decide definitively upon the Bronze medals and the honourable mentions within their province. They will pronounce a preliminary judgment upon the gold and silver medals. The Group-juries will pronounce the final judgments, with the same reservations, upon the gold and silver medals. The Jury of Presidents will decide upon awards of an exceptional character. The Superior Commission will take cognizance of all claims, and will decide upon them. It will decide definitively upon all difficulties or differences of opinion as to awards which may arise during the course of the labours of the International Jury.

ART. 28. An Administrative Report upon the Universal Exhibition of 1878 will be published by the Commissioner General. The General Report of the International Jury will be published under the direction and supervision of the Superior Commission.

ART. 29. The Minister for Agriculture and Commerce is entrusted with the execution of this decree.

No. II.

REGULATIONS dated the 10th June, 1878, regarding JURIES OF CLASSES.

(The first six Articles concern the Buildings and rooms to be occupied by the various juries.)

ART. 7. The Director of the French Section and the Director of the Foreign Sections will come to an understanding with the Presidents of the Class-juries in order to regulate the order of the visits and meetings of the said juries. The Secretaries of Class-juries will summon the various members, giving at the same time a detailed notice of the orders of the day. These orders of the day must be decided upon at least five days beforehand, and communicated to the Directors, who will take proper measures in order that the Exhibitors interested in the matter may have timely notice of the visit of the jury.

ART. 8. Class-juries who visit the Exhibition building in the morning will meet for deliberation in the afternoon of the same day, and the Class-juries that go round in the afternoon will deliberate the following morning. This order may be modified in the case of certain Class-juries, who may be able, on the same morning or afternoon, to visit the exhibits and deliberate on them.

ART. 9. Conformably with Art. 18 of the Regulations for determining the nature of the awards and for organizing the juries charged with their distribution, each Class-jury, after having examined the products placed before them, will, without regard to nationality, class together such exhibitors as seem to them worthy of awards.

ART. 10. The reporters of Class-juries must prepare separate slips of paper for each exhibitor, on which will be noted the opinions of the jury and such observations as may be judged worthy of being written. Each slip will bear a numerical co-efficient from 1 to 20, with fractions, if necessary, to mark the order of merit of the exhibitor. No. 20 will indicate the most favourable, and No. 1 the least favourable, judgment.

ART. 11. Each Class-jury must, before the 20th July, 1878, place in the hands of the Directors a form on which the names of the exhibitors are written in the order of merit corresponding to the co-efficient which they have obtained.

ART. 12. The slips of paper, placed in the same order, will be kept among the archives of the international jury for examination by Group-juries when they come to take into consideration the claims of protests that fall within their jurisdiction, or when they are united to Class-juries for deliberation in common. (Art. 20 of the Jury Regulations.)

ART. 13. A copy of the present Regulations will be placed in the hands of each one of the members of the International Jury of Awards.

The Directors :

Seen and approved :
The Minister of Agriculture and Commerce.

No. III.

CIRCULAR LETTER addressed to the PRESIDENTS of CLASS JURIES.

Sir,

29th June, 1878.

We have the honor of informing you of the modifications which the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, acting upon the resolutions passed at the meetings of the Presidents of Groups, on the 11th, 22nd, and 26th of June, has thought fit to introduce into the regulations regarding the awards.

1. The principal of the recall (rappel) of gold medals granted at the Universal International Exhibitions held in France is admitted. These rappels may be awarded with or without mention of the place in order of merit in which the exhibitor has been ranked on the list of classification presented by the Class-juries.

2. Diplomas may be awarded to collective exhibitions, whether the names of the individual exhibitors are not mentioned, or whether they are made known and retain their right of receiving personal awards. But in neither instance can an individual exhibitor apply to his personal use the diploma granted to the collective exhibit.

3. In order to associate the members of Class-juries more completely with the duty of conferring the awards, Class-juries are authorised to submit to the Presidents of Groups their proposals—

A. For the general classification of exhibitors.

B. For the nature of award that each exhibitor may seem to deserve.

4. No exhibitor will have the right to declare himself "hors concours;" the only persons placed "hors concours" are :

A. Exhibitors who are Presidents, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, or Reporters of Groups or Class-juries.

B. Exhibitors who are titular Jurors, supplementary Jurors, associates, or experts in the Class in which they exhibit.

C. Members of the Superior Commission of International Exhibitions,

5. Class-juries have no right to exclude any exhibitors from competition; they must examine the products of all the exhibitors in their class, and, as far as possible, deliver a written judgment upon each one of them.

6. Collective official exhibitions, such as those of a state, department, town, &c., are not placed hors concours by the fact of their representatives being members of the Jury; but a private collective exhibition can obtain no award if it has a representative among the members of the Jury.

7. Official collective exhibitions will not compete with private industries; special awards will be granted to them conformably with the arrangements indicated above.

8. Supplementary Jurors will only be entitled to deliberate with a Class-jury, in the absence of a titular Juror, and by the express decision of the President.

9. The French supplementary Jurors are entitled to accompany the Class-jury to which they are attached in their visits round the Exhibition. The foreign supplementary Jurors, being named to groups, are free to follow, at their choice, the visits of any of the Class-juries in their group.

The present arrangements are not applicable to the group of Fine Arts, which has its special regulations.

I am, &c.,

GEORGES BERGER,

Director of Foreign Sections.

DIETZ-MONNIN,

Director of the French Section.

No. IV.

Notice issued to the Presidents of Class-juries, dated 12th July, 1878.

CONFORMABLY with the deliberations at the meeting of Presidents of groups, and as a sequel to the circular of the 29th June, we beg to inform you of the following decisions:—

1. The recall (rappels) of medals obtained at the Universal International Exhibitions held in France apply to gold, silver, and bronze medals.
2. When a product is exhibited at the same time in several classes, the Juries of these classes will name, to examine it, an equal number of delegate Jurors from each class.
3. A Class-jury can only name one official reporter to draw up the definitive report on the class.
4. In case the President of a Class-jury does not know the French language, he may request one of the Vice-Presidents to take his place.

The Council requests that the forms stating the number of gold, silver, and bronze medals and honorable mentions desired for each class, may be sent in on or before the 15th instant. In order to facilitate this work you may perhaps find it useful to refer to the Catalogue of Awards previously granted in France. These papers are at hand in the offices of the French section, and at the Technological Library.

GEORGES BERGER,

Director of Foreign Sections.

DIETZ-MONNIN,

Director of the French Sections.

TISSERAND,

Director of the Agricultural and Horticultural Sections.

REPORT on the Australian Preserved Meat at the Paris Exhibition, by M. Rebours-Guizelin, Member of the International Juries.

As Jurors of Classes 72 and 73 at the Paris Universal Exhibition, we submitted the Australian preserved meats to a careful examination, and we came to the conclusion that the Australian manufacturers have remained a long way behind the progress which this interesting and useful industry has for some time been making elsewhere. And yet the nature and importance of their product deserve that they should search for and apply to it all the improvements which to-day are in use; and it is with the view of rendering a service to the country that we venture the following criticism and advice:—

The Australian preserved meats obtained at our Exhibition a high award; but we feel certain that the same was granted principally as an encouragement, for the meats submitted were found to be very defectively (sic) made.

The quality of the Australian meats when fresh is evidently first-class, and we know that they can be purchased at rates exceptionally cheap. The only thing required in order to profit by the richness and plenty of the country is that the meat should be well preserved.

The first defective point with these Australian preserved meats is their being over-cooked, the second the bad make of the tins.

In dealing with meat, jams, fish, vegetables, or fruits, the substances which it is desired to preserve must, in all cases, first undergo a preliminary cooking, which carries off a large proportion of the putrefying gases which they contain. The first cooking decides very often the good or bad quality of the product. This first cooking should always be very slight. It may be obtained for meats either by roasting them or boiling them exactly as if it were intended to make soup of them. We prefer the latter process as being the most practicable, and because it yields an excellent broth, with which an admirable extract of meat can be made.

With respect to tinning the meats, the choice is between the American system of compression and the ordinary French system, which is preferred in the army. On this point the opinion of the best makers is divided.

The compressed meat can be very easily transported, in consequence of the small space which it occupies; but we are of opinion that by compression the most precious and most nutritive qualities of the meat are lost. The non-compressed meats, having undergone the semi-cooking which we have before indicated, will contain all the elements of good and nutritive food, and we will therefore explain the process of preserving.

The meat must be carefully unboned and cleaned from fat and gristle. The tins must be carefully filled with the half-cooked meat. Each should have in it a little clarified broth reduced to a state of jelly. The tins are then soldered down and, lastly, boiled, in order to ensure their keeping.

In the United States, in England, and in many other countries, this boiling takes place in boilers and cauldrons exposed to the air, the water being saturated with common salt or with chloride of calcium. These methods, primitive but expensive, do not permit a perfect preservation of the meat unless the tins are boiled such an exaggerated length of time that the contents are always too much cooked, of an acrid taste, and of an appearance the reverse of appetizing; and besides, the prolonged boiling always destroys the tins.

Appert's is the basis of all systems.

Boiling by the bath is Fastier's method. It consists in leaving a small opening in the centre of the lid of the tins and protecting the same by a piece of tin in the inside.

This system is preferred for meats. Care must be taken that the cans remain in the bath for not more than an hour or an hour and a quarter, according to their size, in order to expel the principal gases. The opening is then closed by soldering it, and the operation is finished in the autoclave boiler by raising the temperature to 230 or 235 degrees for from 5 to 15 minutes and then lowering it to 210 degrees in order to withdraw the tins.

In this manner excellent preserved meat is obtained, which may be sent to any climate.

The autoclave boiler—that is, the boiler hermetically closed—which allows the temperature of the water to be raised to any height, and effects very little the condensation of the gases or fermentations contained in the substance—is the only practical and certain means now used in France for the manufacture of our preserves; and the experience of the Exhibition of 1878 has proved that they have attained the very highest perfection.

Fish—salmon, for instance—is preserved in a very simple manner.

A slight preliminary cooking in water a little seasoned with salt; next put in tins, and boil in the same manner as the meat, or in the autoclave boiler without leaving any opening in the lid. We prefer the last system, as being the more rapid.

Vegetables and fruits undergo a similar treatment for a length of time, calculated according to their hardness or their ripeness. Great care must always be taken with the preliminary cooking.

• In conclusion, we would suggest to the Australian meat preservers—

1. For meats: The use of the bath for the first boiling, and for the second operation, after the opening in the lid of the tin has been soldered, the use of the autoclave boiler at from 234 to 260 degrees Fahrenheit.

2. The use of the autoclave boiler only for fish, vegetables, and fruit, at a temperature of 220 or 222 degrees Fahrenheit.
3. The use of steam for all the cookery, by means of boilers with double bottoms.
4. An improved plant for the manufacture of tins, and the adoption of the band system for the more easy opening of the tins.
5. The use of tin not thicker than three-tenths of a millimetre (one eighty-third of an inch).
6. Soldering by steam with the special soldering irons used in France.

REPORT OF THE AUSTRIAN COMMISSIONER.

Mr. Fritz Robert, a Hungarian gentleman resident in Vienna, has forwarded to Austro-Hungarian Government a lengthy report upon the preserved meat exhibited at Paris, from which the following extracts have been made.

The Appert system is applied in Australia to every description of preserved meat in tins. Meat extract is considered unimportant in Australia, because the price of beef is high; for this reason nearly all the meat preserved is tinned. The tinned meat from the Argentine Republic and Uruguay is not to be compared with that of North America and Australia for quality and nutritive properties.

Queensland.—The Commissioner was unable to let me taste the meat exhibited by the Hogarth Meat Preserving Company, so I can form no opinion about it.

Victoria is more advanced than any of the other Australian colonies, in consequence of the gold mines, which, however, may now be considered worked out. The chief industry is stock. In 1876 there were in Victoria 1,228,865 cattle and 11,278,893 sheep; in New South Wales, 3,130,000 cattle and 24,503,300 sheep; in Queensland, 2,079,729 cattle and 7,365,000 sheep. The companies established in Victoria occupy themselves generally much more with the production of boiled mutton than of boiled beef, soups, soup extracts, sheep tongues, rabbits, and game. The price for cattle is higher in Victoria than in New South Wales or Queensland. The exportation of preserved meat in 1877 was 6,710,395 lbs., valued at £166,570, and the tallow 5,700 tons, valued at £174,507. The wine commerce has become important during the last few years, and the principal growers are very proud of the diploma of honor they got at the Vienna Exhibition. The quality is so similar to our Hungarian wines that they are unlikely to be introduced here. McCall and Co., 137 Houndsditch, London, representatives of the Melbourne and Western Meat Preserving Company, also import some meat from South America. As mentioned before, boiled mutton is the chief product in the way of preserved meat which come from Victoria. This would be of little use in Austro-Hungary, in consequence of the dislike of our people to mutton. The beef of Victoria is not so good as that of America or even of New South Wales, in consequence of beef being so much dearer in Victoria. Victorian corned meat is inferior to that of the United States.

APPENDIX K.

NOTES ON THE GENERAL MACHINERY OF THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION AT PARIS, 1878.

By JOHN ANDERSON, C.E., LL.D.

BRITISH SECTION.

Introduction.

JUDGING by the manifest eagerness which has been evinced to obtain space at the French International Exhibition of 1878, more especially in the machinery section, we are warranted in assuming that the deepest interest is taken by the nation generally in its ultimate success. To the English as a manufacturing people the machinery question, in all its bearings before the world, is of the most vital importance. Our annual production production of machinery is now so enormous as to determine in a great measure the means of obtaining a livelihood for a large proportion of the population. Hence the anxiety which has been manifested that we should produce a good impression by the character of our productions, and the keen desire that we may hold our own in a friendly rivalry with the other competing nations.

In drawing attention to the General Machinery Catalogue, the Royal Commission, knowing the great efforts which have been made by individual firms, much desire, both for the advantage of exhibitors as well as for the national interest generally, to reinforce the necessarily brief information which the Catalogue affords. But, owing to the great paucity of statistical information which can be relied on concerning the annual production of the manufactories of the United Kingdom, its value, the numbers of workmen engaged thereon, and its ultimate destination, and owing also to the somewhat insufficient replies received from exhibitors, in reference to the forthcoming display—the introductory remarks to the Machinery Catalogue will necessarily have to be of a more general nature than was originally contemplated.

To cultivate the habit of examining machinery from the intellectual point of view, rather than from the stand-point of its material fabrication, will greatly add to the interest which the intelligent non-professional visitor will derive from the contents of the machinery hall at an International Exhibition. To the more limited class of visitors, those who are experts in mechanical questions or who are chiefly interested in the commercial aspect of the subject, an entirely different order of considerations naturally suggests itself for inquiry. Other motives of a technological nature step in, and secure the most earnest attention voluntarily, as a mere matter of business. Such experts seize, each one for himself, upon the particular class of machines or other objects in which they are severally more especially interested; and for them a varied store of printed information is usually provided by the exhibitors. Such experts, however, constitute but a small minority of the interested crowds who throng the passages of an exhibition. There is comparatively little done to aid the great majority of visitors in appreciating the wonderful things that are to be seen in the section set apart for the display of machinery. It consequently seems to many a hopeless task to try to examine and unravel the apparently intricate labyrinth of mechanism, and still more hopeless to endeavour to comprehend its aim or the mechanical functions and contrivances that are employed to accomplish the object. As a general rule, the leading features of machinery may be readily understood; but for some reason the difficulty of understanding them is much overrated. If the examination is approached in a systematic manner a machine will soon appear very simple, at least in so far as its leading features are concerned, and the more technical details of the mechanism are not essential to the ordinary amateur.

The first thing to know is the object which the machine is intended to accomplish. This is a definite point. It may be for making shoes for horses, for knitting a stocking, for carving a bust, for printing a newspaper, or for any other of the thousand purposes to which machinery has been applied. Having clearly realised this primary object of the machine, the next point is to understand the natural laws or principles, which have been made available by man to accomplish the particular objects. In almost every case this can be told in a few words, and is as a rule so simple that anyone of ordinary intelligence can understand it without difficulty.

When the first and second points have been comprehended, the third point to know is the particular sort of mechanism that has been resorted to, or may have been contrived by the inventor himself, in order to carry out or apply the principle. This mechanism may at first sight appear to be slightly complicated, but it is much more likely to be of a more familiar character, and therefore to be more easily understood. Our aim should be to master the immediate working mechanism, as generally there are a number of moving parts not essential in the strict sense of the word, besides a variety of structural parts that only contribute indirectly to the ultimate result. Hence it is, that as a rule the vital mechanism, the essential device or devices that are employed to carry out the principle, when divested of accessories, will be found extremely simple; and when the three points, the object, the natural principle, and the mechanism, are thus brought together in the mind and understood, the pleasure derived from the inspection of the machine will be most satisfactory to the eager inquirer.

In the examination of machinery, after the foregoing points have been thoroughly realized, there arises a fourth point for consideration, namely, the combination of a series of distinct machines into a systematic whole, for the carrying out of some great manufacturing operation. Even the principle of grouping machines will be found simple when it is examined in detail.

Let us select the cotton manufacture as an illustration, because, firstly, the machinery of that important branch of industry is probably more extensively displayed at Paris than that of any other of the textile manufactures, at least in so far as it relates to the British section, and also because the machinery used in cotton mills is perhaps the most perfect development of the manufacturing system. This machinery has been the subject of more improvements and patents, and is the result of more hard thinking than any other that can be named. It is a branch of industry upon which the utmost efforts of man have been expended, and for which service man has fully earned and obtained his reward; and the result of his work, when considered as a whole, has been of inestimable value to countless millions of the human race. The raw cotton upon its arrival in England, is very different in its characteristics from the fleecy web that we purchase from the apothecary, or which is used by the jeweller to protect his delicate wares. In order to facilitate stowage, and for the convenience of all who are concerned in its conveyance, the cotton wool is compressed excessively in the country where it is grown, in order to reduce the bulk. Consequently, it arrives at the manufacturing locality in the semi-clotted condition of hard lumpy tufts or masses which have become a good deal interlaced, and with the fibre in no sort of order for being spun into yarn. These hard masses of cotton have therefore to be opened out, cleaned, and made loose and fleecy, as a preliminary step. In past times this was accomplished by women beating it with yellow wands upon an open or perforated sort of table whereby the cotton was made soft; any remaining seeds were detached and the dust contained in the wool eliminated, the dust and seeds passing through the table. In the modern cotton manufacture, the foregoing and all other operations are done by machinery. The cotton passes first to a connected series of four distinct classes of machines which are employed at this early stage to beat, tussle, and spread the soft fleecy wool. The last machine of the class not only spreads out the soft wool into

into a long web, but deftly winds it up into a beautiful roll. At this stage of the manufacture there is no apparent approach to yarn, the fibre is not lying in any one particular direction, but crosses in all manner of ways, the position being due entirely to chance; the rolled web of wool, however, is in a soft and fleecy condition and ready for the second stage of the manufacture.

The object of the next class of machines is to lay the fibres side by side in a longitudinal direction, with the ultimate intention of twisting a given number of the parallel fibres into a continuous thread of yarn. The duty of the first machine is to comb the wool most carefully, of the second to combine two or more combings in the parallel direction, and of the third machine to elongate them gently. This doubling and drawing out is repeated a number of times until the wool is in the required condition.

The mechanism employed for these several processes is the well-known card, a sort of steel wire comb made with fine teeth, mounted on a drum, which revolves at high velocity and is almost in contact with stationary or revolving cards, while the web of wool, although held fast in one sense by a pair of rollers, is at the same time gradually advanced to the carding action of the above combination, and is delivered in the condition of a soft fleecy cord or filament, which has distinctive evidence of constructive skill in its general character; but the respective fibres are as yet only approximately parallel to each other. This soft cord of wool is united with a number of other cords and passes to the drawing-out machines, whose chief feature consists of consecutive pairs of rollers moving at different surface velocities, the second pair going faster than the first, and the third pair faster than the second; consequently, when the soft cotton cord is passed through them it is necessarily extended by most gentle means. A number of such elongated cords laid parallel with each other are passed through other and similar sets of drawing rollers, a process which is again and again repeated until at length they become a fine beautiful cord of wool, with the fibre nearly side by side, yet without any twist to give coherence or strength.

Then comes a third-class of machines whose object is to draw out still further the untwisted cord or filament until it becomes of small diameter or approximates towards the substance of the ultimate yarn. This cord being so small in diameter requires a certain amount of twist to give it the necessary strength to carry its own weight. The effect of twisting it is to entwine one fibre with another, thus introducing the element of friction and consequent strength. This new element of twist and strength is the great feature to note. It acts as the key because it serves to interlock the fibres into each other, giving a tensional strength that is appreciable to the sense of feeling. The mechanism employed in the third class of machines for drawing out the cord to a finer filament is similar to that of the second class, namely, successive pairs of rollers moving at different velocities, but with the addition of a revolving spindle to give the twist. In this third class of machines some most ingenious pieces of mechanism are to be found. In the "bobbin and fly frame," as it is termed, there has been embodied within itself the faculty of adapting all its working arrangements to an ever changing condition of circumstances. The machine has the power of continually varying its rate of motion to suit the altered dimensions of the reels of rove or filament, and when the reels are quite full, it stops of its own accord.

When the cotton has passed through the third class, it is still susceptible of being further extended before receiving the final twist into the state of yarn. This operation is accomplished by the self-acting mule, which, as a piece of mechanism, is the greatest triumph of the whole manufacture. In this fourth order of machine, the rove from the "bobbin and fly frame" again passes through a series of drawing rollers, and is reduced to the substance of the required thread of yarn, being gently held by the revolving spindle, which spins it round and round, and thus gives it the last constitutional change before it passes to the power-loom to be woven into calico.

The question of the best mode of spinning yarn has received much attention during the past century, and many different machines have been invented in order to deal more and more tenderly with the untwisted yarn. The self-acting mule, however, still seems to hold its old place as the crowning machine of the textile manufacture. It has come down by hereditary descent from Hargreaves' jenny and Crompton's mule, but hundreds of earnest minds have exhausted their energies over its gradual improvement. As an automatic machine, its first great designer was the late Richard Roberts, whose mark is still deeply impressed on many of its leading features.

This important machine, however, likewise embraces the embodied ideas of many other deep thinkers, whose united efforts have brought it to its present state, a condition of marvellous mechanical excellence. Lancashire, which has been the head-quarters for the development of this remarkable piece of mechanism, has sent a fine collection of the most modern specimens to the great gathering at Paris, and one exhibitor alone shows a complete set of machines, such as above described, which will be seen in active operation, commencing with the raw cotton as it arrives in Europe and delivering it in woven calico ready for domestic use.

Let us select one other example, as an illustration of modern machinery of a different nature, which approaches in character to almost an ethical standard, and which always occupies an important place at International Exhibitions, namely, that of machine tools. This is a class of machinery which originated in Great Britain, and in the manufacture of which we have taken and hitherto maintained the lead, and our types of machines have been copied more or less by the greater number of competing nations. This department of machinery is of the highest consequence, because it lies at the root of all other kinds of machinery construction, hence the reason why machine tools attract so much attention from the expert class of visitors at an International Exhibition.

Of late years a great change has come over the character of general machinery in regard to soundness and truth in the relationship of all the parts composing its structure. And although to the superficial observer this great change may not be apparent, still it affects the conduct of the machine through all its actions, especially in regard to its endurance, and hence its appreciation by all who understand the subject. Where the machine-tool system of construction has been introduced in its entirety, as it has been in some of the larger manufacturing houses of England, the several parts of the structural skeleton are so planed or otherwise shaped by accurate machine tools that, when the several parts are brought face to face for the first time, they fit each other exactly, without adjustment.

In the construction of certain kinds of machinery, such as steam-engines, accuracy in the machine tools is the cardinal virtue, whenever the aim to a high standard is paramount. Consequently, the employment of machine tools of the highest class and most correct workmanship is absolutely necessary, in order that the same good qualities may in some measure be transmitted to the work proceeding from them. Tools are essentially machines for transferring their own qualities to other things produced by their means.

Another question which comes in for a large share of discussion among experts at International Exhibitions is in regard to the proper strength of machinery structures, and the correct proportions to be given in the disposal of the material throughout. Of late years a great advance has been made in the extended knowledge of the principles here involved, so that we rarely see the wide departures from natural laws which were formerly so prevalent, more especially among some of our foreign competitors. Constructors now recognise the truth that correct form is derived from nature, and consists in giving to each part of the structure the exact proportion of substance that will enable it to fulfil its respective share of the duty imposed; and in placing or disposing of each portion of the materials under the most favourable conditions of which the circumstances will admit. When, however, a constructor obtains the requisite strength by heaping on material, regardless of the natural principle, his productions are clumsy and at the same time expensive.

Turning to the British section of the Official Machinery Catalogue, it will be seen that England is fairly well represented in regard to the machine tool class of mechanism in each of the several branches, metal, wood, and stone. It seems unnecessary to single out any special exhibit for distinction. Planing machines, lathes, shaping machines, drills, &c., are exhibited by most of the leading houses; steam and other hammers are also largely shown, and some special machinery, in which hydraulic power is utilized, will well repay a careful examination.

In machine tools for working wood, the British division contains several large collections from the leading firms. This is an important branch of manufacture and is being rapidly developed, year by year approaching more closely to the height of perfection.

Stone-dressing machinery should also be carefully examined as it is becoming more and more necessary owing to the difficulty experienced in controlling the skilled labour which is required to prepare the expensive stones for building and other purposes; and it is only at Exhibitions that the general mechanic can see the working of stones by machinery. In various existing machines the action of the stonemason is nearly copied, and in some Italian machines it is literally imitated, even to the hammer and chisel. But the greater number made in England are founded on a system of extreme pressure combined with slow motion. In the granite and stone sawing machines, in which the teeth are formed of diamonds, the saws are driven at high velocity, and a deluge of water is employed to keep down the temperature.

In regard to machine tools for shaping stones, the supply is still limited. Of those for rock-boring with diamonds as the detruing instruments, several are shown at Paris; but the most interesting shaping machinery in the British division will probably be that for shaping stones, either to flat surfaces or into irregular forms, as in the production of columns by turning, as in a lathe. Machines for working granite are shown in actual operation.

The largest and by far the most complete exhibition of machinery in the British division is in connexion with the several manufactures of textile fabrics. Both Lancashire and Yorkshire are well represented, and to show the extent of this trade it may be mentioned that one firm of machine makers alone employs upwards of 10,000 men.

This section contains several looms of the most advanced types, arranged for weaving intricate and difficult patterns, the peculiarities of which are referred to in the Official Catalogue.

On looking at the Official Catalogue, the words "stop motions" or "electric stop motions" will be seen, but those words convey to casual observers no idea of that which is thereby intended to be conveyed. On careful examination it will be found that some machines have almost authority to control the attendants who wait upon them.

In one case, if the correct and required number of plies are not passing inwards so as to furnish the necessary substance to the yarn in process of manufacture, then the machine stops itself, or if on the delivering side of the machine any thread is broken the same effect is produced; and even if the cans which hold the cotton are full to overflowing it also stops until those objectionable conditions are rectified. This apparatus instead of being complicated is extremely simple, consisting of small electro-magnetic apparatus and the usual copper wire.

As will be seen in the Official Catalogue, the display of different classes of steam engines in the British section is numerous and varied in its characteristics. The largest and most prominent engine in the British department is that which gives motion to the greater proportion of the mechanism in that section. It is on the horizontal compound system suitable for working up to 300 indicated horse-power, with a boiler pressure of five atmospheres, the high-pressure cylinder having a bore of 20 inches, and the low pressure a bore of 34 inches, with a stroke of 3' 0". This engine is fitted with valves on the plain flat surface system, so arranged as to be almost frictionless, and having an instantaneous cut-off motion attached, regulated directly by the governor without the intervention of any throstle valve; this admits the full boiler pressure upon the piston. It will be noticed that the steam passages between the face of the valves and the cylinders and between one cylinder and the other are reduced to a minimum; this is a point of great importance.

This engine drives, by means of one strap, the whole of the main line shafts and various counter-shafts in the British section. It is well adapted for either strap or rope driving, owing to the perfect balance of its various working parts, and the great regularity of the turning.

The whole of the steam required in the British section is provided by three "Galloway" boilers, each being 28 feet long by 7 feet diameter, containing two internal flues 2 feet 9 inches diameter, going into one oval flue, which contains 33 "Galloway" tubes.

A model of this description of boiler is exhibited in the building, on a stand adjoining the engines above referred to.

It may here be mentioned, incidentally, that the general practice in the largest manufacturing establishments in England is to work with a boiler pressure of about 80 lbs. to the square inch, and such boilers and engines as above mentioned are ordinarily working at that pressure with a consumption of coal of about 2 lbs. per indicated horse-power per hour. An impression was prevalent abroad some few years ago that the higher the pressure the greater the economy, and boilers were made for working at 150 to 200 lbs. to the square inch. It has, however, been found from experience that this increase of pressure has many drawbacks, which more than counterbalance the small theoretical advantages it possesses.

England is the birth-place of the locomotive engine. Judging from the Official Catalogue, the British machinery section at Paris gives fair promise of a good representation in respect to locomotive engines of various sorts. The list includes engines designed for both fast passenger and goods traffic, and also small engines constructed with narrow gauge for special purposes. There is also a locomotive steam tram engine said to be adapted for working with little noise. Lastly, there is a steam tram-car of improved construction. Still, it will probably be found that the mark of George Stephenson, which was impressed so deeply upon the earlier locomotive engine, is not to be readily effaced by those who come after him, and who are now endeavouring to meet the requirements of new necessities for another generation.

In the British section there is likewise found one of the caloric or hot-air engines, which holds out the hope that some of the more formidable practical difficulties which have hitherto prevented these engines from becoming generally useful have at length been overcome; hence it is likely that this engine will be an object of the utmost interest to engineers.

There is, further, a fair display of hydraulic machinery, which for many purposes possesses important practical advantages over any other arrangement. This is a department which will repay careful examination.

Several firms exhibit hoists, lifts, and elevators. It is a kind of machinery which is now extensively employed in raising men and materials from one elevation to another. One important point to be carefully examined in connexion with such apparatus is their relative safety. In past times many accidents occurred through them, until public opinion compelled close attention to be given to this most essential condition of perfect security. There are some of them now at work so absolutely safe and so well prepared for every possible contingency that an accident seems impossible.

These devices take many directions; some are mechanical and act spasmodically on the instant of fracture of the lifting gear, whilst some are precautionary; but all have the same object in view.

An indicating assay balance, worked by water power to ensure regularity in speed, is worthy of notice. In this balance the counterpoise is a constant weight. At the other end of the beam are divisional weights, in their sum equal to the weight of the fixed counterpoise. When a load is to be weighed, divisional weights nearly equivalent to it are removed; the sum of these added to the indication on a dial gives the weight of the load. The indication on the dial is given by means of a pointer, and represents the measurement of the arc of oscillation of the beam and the weight to which the extent of the oscillation is due.

A machine for coin and coin-blank weighing and classifying is also exhibited. The coins are placed in a hopper or reservoir and they pass, one by one, on to the weighing place. The beam, actuated when a light coin is being weighed, makes an electrical contact, and through an electro-magnet a classifying distributor is acted upon to direct the coin into the proper receiver; the heavy coins pass on to the receiver prepared for them.

Many other productions, of equal interest to those which have been referred to in the foregoing remarks, might be mentioned if space and opportunity permitted.

Both machinery and materials are displayed, which, upon careful examination, will be found to illustrate many different pages of the interesting book of nature and art, and will likewise show, in some measure, the wide range of application which has already been given to natural law in connexion with machinery construction and the mechanical arts.

Perhaps it is not in accordance with the popular notion to say that the machinery of man's devising is thus under the dominion of natural law; such is the case, however, and a full recognition of the fact will explain many of the phenomena which are to be seen in connexion therewith. From long experience, men can readily recognise that anything left to itself will fall to the ground, and that, if the law of gravitation is disregarded, a penalty consequently follows; so, with machinery, the natural laws, although under control, are paramount, and any transgression of these laws, even through ignorance, cannot escape the consequences which naturally arise therefrom. In machinery there is no such condition as that which is termed "chance"; the same circumstances will always produce the same result.

Even in the matter of fracture or derangement, which men are disposed to ascribe to an evil genius, the cause can be traced to natural law. In a figurative sense, the genius may be supposed to wait among the molecules of a structure and, if it finds that the elasticity and ultimate strength of the weakest point has been overstrained by man's imprudence, then the irrevocable sentence goes forth. The machinery genius is just and impartial in all its judgments, and never makes a mistake through ignorance of the facts involved, even in the case of a complicated structure.

During our visit to Paris it behoves all earnest and intelligent men to bear in mind the serious depression of trade which now exists all over the world, and which affects Great Britain especially in her most vital interests. We seem to require a new point of departure by the addition of new classes of articles to manufacture of those kinds which we are best fitted to contribute our share, so that as one class of industry closes another door may be opened. The present crisis in trade shows that, even with all our mechanical advantages, commercial prosperity is at the best but a perishable commodity, for we seem to be subject to external influences which seriously affect the warp and woof of the entire texture of the working world of applied mechanics; and the intricate web of commercial reciprocities is a difficult task to unravel and apparently lies beyond our control.

This great display of textile and other machinery made by Great Britain at the Paris Exhibition, cannot fail to impress the minds of all who take the trouble to examine it in detail; and—when we bear in mind that it is the fruit of long-continued self-denying efforts of many thousands of clever inventors, whose life-work, in many instances, has terminated in sad disappointment, due to want of practical success, and, in the larger number of cases, offering only a poor reward to the immediate contriver—we cannot help feeling that it unfolds much of the romance of modern life. Still here it is, the grand epitome of a century's hard mental work, with the chaff eliminated from the wheat, a rich profusion of art and nature, and certainly a great sight, calculated to interest the men and woman of all nations, our fellow workers over the face of earth.

SHORT NOTES ON BRITISH AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY, PARIS, 1878.

BY B. T. BRANDRETH GIBBS,

General Superintendent of the British Agricultural Section.

Membre Honoraire de la Société des Agriculteurs de France. Vice-President of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, and late Honorary Director of its Shows, and Honorary Secretary of the Smithfield Cattle Club. Superintendent of Agricultural Machinery, Great Exhibitions, London, 1851 and 1862, and Paris, 1855 and 1867, and of Live Stock and Agricultural Machinery, Philadelphia, 1876. Special Commissioner for the United Kingdom for Agriculture, Paris, 1867, &c., &c., &c.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

IN the Official Catalogue the space assigned to each exhibitor is too limited to admit of a detailed description of the machines sent to the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878. There can, however, be no doubt that amongst the vast multitudes visiting it, there will be many thousands who do not possess any special knowledge of the contents of the various sections into which it is divided.

A few prefatory remarks may therefore not be altogether uninteresting to those who may wish to understand the British agricultural machinery. It must, however, be understood that the following observations are merely intended for general visitors. Those who are already conversant with implements of husbandry, or who may require detailed explanation of the uses and construction of individual machines, will, no doubt, get full information from the descriptive catalogues issued by the exhibitors, or verbally from the representatives in charge of the respective stands, whilst visitors desirous of becoming acquainted with the minutiae of construction, either as regards scientific principles, or the registration of dynamometrical and mathematical results obtained from special and elaborate trials, are referred to the annual reports published during a long series of years in the "Journal of the Royal Agricultural Society of England."*

Agricultural machinery may be conveniently arranged under the following heads:—

I.—Implements and machines for the Preparation of the Soil.

Such as drainage apparatus, tile machines, draining ploughs, &c. Ploughs, including wood, iron, swing, wheel, ridging, skim, paring, one way or turn wrest, double furrow subsoil ploughs and pulverizers. Steam ploughing and cultivating machines. Harrows (various). Chain harrows, &c. Rollers. Clod-crushers. Scarifiers, &c.

II.—Implements and Machines for Sowing the Land and cultivating Crops.

Such as drills, including general purpose drills, corn drills, turnip on the ridge and on the flat, drop drills, pressers, hand drills, seed barrows, &c. Dibbles. Manure distributors (dry and liquid). Water drills. Horse hoes (on flat and ridge). Turnip thinners. Hop cultivating machines, &c.

III.—Machines for Harvesting Crops.

Such as reaping machines (various). Sheaf-binding machines. Mowing machines. Haymaking or tedding machines. Loading machines. Horse rakes. Potato ploughs or lifters. Carts, waggons, &c.

IV.—Machines for preparing Crops for Market, and for food for Animals.

Such as steam engines (portable, fixed, and traction). Horse gears and intermediate motions. Thrashing machines (hand, horse, and steam), &c. Straw and hay elevators. Straw shakers. Barley hum-mellers. Corn screen (rotary). Dressing or winnowing machines. Smut machine. Mills, grinding, crushing, and kibbling. Chaff cutters. Root cutters and pulpers. Oil-cake breakers. Gorse bruisers. Food steaming apparatus. Corn drying apparatus.

V.—Miscellaneous.

Such as hand tools, straw weaving machines, cheese pressers, churns, &c. Hop kilns. Sack elevators, &c., &c.

I.—PREPARATION OF THE SOIL.

Drainage Machines.—The importance of thorough drainage of land cannot be over estimated; it is, in fact, the first step in successful cultivation. Excess of water, whether caused by springs or the stagnation of rain water, must be removed. Whilst in a wet state the land cannot be properly tilled, and frequently from this cause it is not ready for sowing at the proper season, the beneficial atmospheric influences are counteracted, the temperature of the soil is reduced, manuring loses much of its effect, and the roots of plants cannot perform their functions whilst encased in a mass of soddened earth. By drainage the land is improved, crops which it would not otherwise have grown can be cultivated, the expenses of tillage are considerably lessened, and the health of live stock feeding on it is promoted. Even on land where the surface becomes "baked" the advantages of draining are felt, because by disintegration of the surface it allows the absorption of moisture from the atmosphere. It is unnecessary here to describe the different systems of drainage that have been in use from time to time. That now commonly adopted is by means of drain tiles or pipes of burnt clay made by the machine now to be described.

Drain-tile Machines.—There have been various forms of this implement, some working vertically and some horizontally. The general principles, however, have been similar.

Usually the clay, after having been pugged and screened to remove stones, &c., is placed in the box or closed trough, in which work pistons, forcing out the clay in a continuous length at each end of the machine alternately through dies. This pipe travels forward on a platform of rollers, &c. Whilst the clay is being forced out at one end of the trough the other is filled ready for the reverse action.

Dies of different sizes and shapes can be fixed according to the description of tile to be made.

The

* NOTE.—It may be stated that British agricultural machinery has for many years been periodically tested by careful trials with costly dynamometers, &c.

The increase in the number of implements had some years back become so great that it was found necessary to classify them, so as to bring the trial of each variety once in seven years, whilst the improvement in others had been so great as to admit of their further trial being postponed indefinitely.

The continuous pipe is cut into portions of equal length by wires which are set in a frame at equal distances apart, thus forming the complete tiles or pipes ready for the kiln.

These machines are chiefly suitable for hand-power.

The clay can be screened by being passed through the machines, iron plates (with either circular or rectilinear orifices) being fixed at the mouth in place of the dies above alluded to. In a recent form of machine working from one end only, instead of the clay being forced by pistons, it is fed between two powerful rollers capable of adjustment; this saves much time in the preparation of the clay. Many machines now make bricks also; in consequence, however, of the additional weight of clay those worked by steam-power are most suitable for this purpose.

Draining-plough, &c.—Several forms of plough have been invented to accomplish drainage by first removing the top furrow, and by one operation taking out the lower spit.

The old "mole" plough was worked by a one-horse capstan fixed by a portable anchor dragging a chain, to which was attached a plough somewhat in the form of a subsoiler, but with a conical shaped mole. This evidently gave rise to the drain plough brought out shortly before the Great Exhibition of 1851, and it was regarded as one of the greatest agricultural novelties on that occasion.

The drain-plough apparatus consisted of a capstan (worked by two or more horses moving in a circle) which hauled a strong plough, similar to a subsoiler, and which was so arranged as to insert a line of pipes strung upon a rope into the earth at the required depth. The wire rope being afterwards withdrawn a continuous drain was left, and subsequently there was an arrangement to regulate the depth, so as to compensate for any inequalities in the surface, and thus secure a level drain.

The operation of forming drains and laying the tiles, however, is usually performed by hand labour, with specially constructed spades and tools, and the draining plough is now chiefly remarkable for having been the forerunner of one of the most important inventions of the present day, viz., apparatus for the cultivation of the soil by steam-power (hereafter described).

Ploughs.—These implements are too well known to require much description; they are constructed either of wood and iron combined, or solely of iron. The latter are now mostly in use. In the best ploughs many of the parts liable to wear are made of steel. Ordinary ploughs may be divided into swing ploughs and wheel ploughs.

The Swing-plough has no wheels, but as it were swings between the horses and the ploughman, and is solely under his control. It has therefore long handles and a short beam, in order to increase his power over it; it is more useful in rocky or newly cultivated land than in that which is wet and sticky.

Some swing ploughs are capable of also being used with a wheel, and have various fittings suitable for different operations, such as adjustable breasts for forming either a whole compact furrow, or a broken one, as required; also with bodies for subsoiling, double-breasted for laying the land in ridges, for opening water furrows, and with special pronged fittings for raising potatoes, &c.

Wheel Ploughs, i.e., having two wheels, are those now generally used, and have many advantages. All the operations performed by the swing plough can be accomplished by the wheel plough, but it is more of a self-acting machine. The two wheels forming the front carriage regulate the depth, and carry the weight which would otherwise swing upon the horses, the advantage being that a less experienced ploughman can work it.

Turn-wrest or One-way Plough is an implement in use in certain districts of the country, and differs chiefly from an ordinary plough from its ability to lay the furrows all one way, commencing at one side of a field, and returning with the next furrow. The breast and share of the plough are turned over at the end of each furrow, so as to cause it to lay over the earth on either side of the plough alternately.

Some ploughs combine subsoiling. The subsoiler working the bottom of the furrow stirs it, and leaves it without the impress of the horses' treading. A subsoil pulverizer may also be adjusted in the same manner. Various fittings are also in use, such as small rotatory harrows attached to pulverize the soil and form a seed bed, &c.

There are also ploughs for leaving the furrow slice in a pulverized state, thus forming a seed bed, where sowing is to take place immediately after ploughing.

Subsoil Ploughs or Pulverizers.—The subsoil Plough is used to break up and render easily permeable by water the bottom of the furrow, which in some soils is left by the plough compressed and solid. The form of the subsoiler is, as regards the beam and handles, similar to an ordinary plough, but it has only one prong in place of the plough body. It is sometimes fitted with one wheel, near the head or fore end, and sometimes with another wheel at the rear, both travelling in the furrow. The power, however, required to work it is so great as to make it in most cases advisable to perform this operation by steam-power.

Double-furrow Ploughs have recently attracted much attention. Although known for many years they have only of late come into frequent use, which has no doubt been accelerated by the present scarcity of labour and the high price of horses, as one man with three horses (and in light land with even two horses) will plough as much land as could be done by two ploughs, two ploughmen, and four horses. There are also other advantages which secure the improved cultivation of the land.

The double plough is in the form of two ordinary ploughs, placed in a frame running on wheels and capable of being raised or lowered by the action of levers. On some descriptions of land the plough will run entirely on its wheels, lessening the friction. The furrow-horse only walks in every second furrow, thus saving half the land from the treading of his feet.

On hill sides one furrow can be taken going up hill and two coming down, three being thus done in one "bout" (outward and return journey) instead of two as by the single plough.

At the headlands the plough is raised for turning by the levers.

The body can be removed and subsoil fittings substituted.

When tested by the dynamometer it was found that a saving of 25 per cent. was effected on the total work done by the double plough as compared with the single, probably owing to the plough being in a great degree suspended from the frame, thus reducing friction.

The most approved British ploughs lay the furrow slice when turned over at an angle of 45°, quite unbroken and solid. This is effected by the extra length of the mould board. The object of this unbroken furrow slice is to expose an increased surface to atmospheric influence for a longer period. Other forms of ploughs are constructed by British makers to break up the soil and leave it in a state similar to spade husbandry.

Harrows.—

Harrow.—These implements do not require a long description. They may be classed as follows :—Light, heavy, drag, chisel, and duck-foot pointed, and chain harrows. One of the chief objects to be secured is that each point or tine cuts a fresh track, so that all the land is worked. Some are jointed to suit uneven lands, &c.

The Chain Harrow is a series of links intertwined, and is useful in some soils for forming a fine tilth and for covering seeds, such as grass, clover, &c., also for working in manure on grass land; being flexible it works over inequalities of the surface.

Some have small discs working under the links, and others have a combination of links and harrow tines. These are useful on rougher lands than can be cultivated by the plain chain harrow.

Rollers differ very little in construction, except that some have the rolling cylinder made in two or more pieces, so as to turn without clogging or dragging the crop or the soil. The water ballast roller is a most useful invention, as it serves either as a light or heavy roller by using it empty or by filling it with water.

Clod Crushers consist of a series of rings or discs working loosely on an axle; in some cases the alternate discs vary in size to prevent clogging. The outer or crushing surface in some is serrated, whilst in others it is fluted; the former break the clods effectually on strong soils, whilst the fluted are very suitable for lighter land. There is another purpose for which clod crushers are most useful, viz., pressing young wheat in the spring, so as to consolidate the roots which may have been drawn out of the ground by frost, &c. Pressing the land also checks the wire-worm.

The Norwegian Clod Crusher, or harrow as it is usually called, consists of two or three axles on which numerous spiked wheels or stars rotate in opposite directions, thus crumbling the soil, and producing a fine tilth, and leaving it very loose.

This implement is not, however, much in use, though it would possibly be very valuable for market gardening purposes on a large scale.

Cultivators, Drags, Scarifiers and Broad-Shares.—The implements although made in great variety as regards details, are similar in principle and general construction. There is a frame carried on three wheels, with prongs projecting downwards into the earth, and having an arrangement to regulate the depth or to lift the prongs entirely out of the ground. The nature of the work performed is regulated by the form of the point, which in most cases is made movable, and varies from a narrow or projecting prong to broad-shares, whose aggregate width nearly covers the whole surface over which the implement passes. The broad-shares are used for paring stubbles, by which the weeds are exposed to the action of the sun and destroyed. When fitted with narrow points the implement is used as a grubber, and stirs the land as required. It is most useful for spring cultivation, and is a great auxiliary on the farm.

Steam Cultivating Machinery.—The successful application of steam power to the cultivation of land being of comparatively recent date, a few particulars respecting it may be interesting. For many years the importance of applying steam power to ploughing had been felt, and several attempts had been made even before the Great Exhibition of 1851. Indeed, an engine with apparatus was exhibited in the building in Hyde Park. But it was not until after that period that the present system, which was no doubt suggested by the application of steam power to the draining plough, came into practical use. The advantages of cultivation by steam power are almost too manifest to require recapitulation. By its use the land can be cultivated rapidly at the seasons of the year most suited to each operation of farming. This cannot be done by horse-power, as the land will not always bear the treading of horses; from the large amount of work performed by steam power in a given time loss of season can be avoided, and the land subjected to atmospheric influence for the requisite period. When the land requires to be stirred to a greater depth, and to be more thoroughly worked than would be possible by horses, the benefit of steam power is obvious. By this extra cultivation the benefits of drainage are increased; retentive soils become more porous, whilst a farmer employing steam is enabled to dispense with one-third to one-half the number of his horses, thus saving considerably in keep, &c. A volume might be written on the details of its advantages, but even the general observer will understand the enormous value of steam, not only in the cultivation of the land, but also in the varied subsequent operations of agriculture.

The chief impediment to its general adoption is the great cost of the necessary tackle, but on large occupations it is an advantageous investment of capital, whilst the requirements of those who do not possess steam apparatus of their own are being met by companies and individuals who supply them on hire. The chief disadvantage of this, however, is that the farmer cannot always obtain the steam tackle at the precise period he may require it, and by having to wait his turn may lose some of the benefits which the fortunate possessor of a set can always secure.

Different systems have been tried, some with self-moving engines drawing a row of ordinary ploughs behind them, others working a rotating pronged cultivator or "digger" have been followed by other inventions, all of which have been abandoned in favour of those now in use, and which may be shortly described as follows :—

1st. The Double Engine or direct pull System.—Two traction engines, each fitted with a drum on which wire rope is wound, are placed on opposite sides of the field. Each engine works alternately winding the rope round the drum, hauling towards it the plough, cultivator, or other implement, whilst at the same time the rope is unwound from the drum of the other engine.

The direct pull is considered an advantage, as it does not require the intervention of anchors or pulleys, as in the "roundabout" system (described hereafter).

The double-engine system has also the advantage of requiring a shorter length of wire rope than the roundabout, and as the rope is the part most liable to wear this is an important consideration.

There is no fixing of anchors, &c., as in other systems. The whole apparatus is easily moved to other fields by the traction engine without extraneous assistance. Large implements can be used, and as none of the apparatus has to be fixed, work can be commenced without loss of time.

It has been calculated that two engines each of 20 horse-power (nominal), each with apparatus, will perform as much work as would take 107 horses to accomplish in the same time.

2nd. One Traction Engine and Anchor.—This is a modification of the double-engine system, and consists of one traction engine, say 12 horse-power, fitted with two winding drums on the engine, and an anchor on the opposite side of the field. The engine and anchor both move so as to be always opposite each other. The forward movement of the anchor is effected by the same rope that draws the plough, &c.

3rd.

3rd. An ordinary portable or self-moving or Traction Engine with a detached Windlass (commonly called the "Roundabout" system).—The windlass is worked either by a driving band or connecting shaft from the engine. The engine is made stationary at one corner of the plot of land to be cultivated. A wire rope is taken from each of the two drums in the windlass, one rope is passed round a snatch block at an opposite corner of the plot, and thence round a moving anchor or hand snatch block to the cultivating implement, to which the other rope also is attached. When the cultivating implement reaches the end of the furrow the action of the winding drum is reversed, and the return journey is made.

This system enables the small farmer to avail himself of his ordinary portable engine for cultivating his land.

In the two last systems small "rope porters," on wheels, are used at intervals to keep the rope off the ground and prevent its becoming worn by friction. Boys are in attendance on these porters to move them forward from time to time as the plough comes on fresh ground. In the first system the porters are used only when the land under cultivation is very uneven.

Various improvements have recently been made in anchors. Some are self-moving and not requiring manual labour, but are brought into the requisite position by being acted on by the rope from the engine.

On some windlasses and coiling drums there are ingenious contrivances for insuring that the rope shall be evenly coiled.

4th. The flying rope System.—In this system the implement is hauled between two movable anchors, but these anchors contain also the windlasses, and motion is given to them by a light flying rope, which reaches the pulleys on these windlasses through the guidance of light pulleys fixed on stakes round the outer side of the field. The flying rope is made of Manilla hemp, is endless, and passes round a V-shaped groove in the fly-wheel of an ordinary portable or traction engine. It travels at the rate of 30 to 40 miles per hour, which is about $12\frac{1}{2}$ times the speed of the plough.

Space will not admit of any minute description of the various combinations and arrangements to accomplish all the above movements, and, indeed, any description, however long, would be comparatively unintelligible without being illustrated by diagrams.

Anchors.—A grooved pulley or small snatch block is fixed on a frame, which is carried on four disc wheels with sharpened edges. These wheels cut into the ground and thus form a firm and secure anchorage when pulled against laterally. The wire rope is passed round this pulley to the drum on the opposite side of the field. When the cultivating implement is drawn away from the drum the anchor remains fixed, but on the return journey the reversed action of the rope moves the anchor forward so as to keep it parallel with the engine.

In some cases two anchors are used on the opposite side to the engine, which then remains stationary.

The above are general descriptions of the systems of steam cultivation, but there are many modifications, especially in matters of detail.

Implements for Steam Cultivation.—Implements of almost all kinds are now specially constructed of extra size and strength for use by steam power. Various contrivances to facilitate their speedily turning at the land's end, and also automatic means for raising the machine during this operation, are employed.

The ploughs, however, ordinarily used are of peculiar construction, and are called "balance ploughs." They vary in the number of breasts from 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8, as circumstances may require.

The frame is V-shaped and is balanced on the axle of a pair of large wheels, and is fitted with double the number of ploughs which are to be worked, so that the half of them on one branch of the V operate on the outward journey and the other half on the return, thus turning the furrows one way. There are two seats for the ploughman, viz., one nearly at each end of the plough, and being at a considerable distance from the balancing points he, when seated, acts as a lever weight, so that on his shifting his place from one to the other his weight assists in depressing the end on which he sits and in keeping it in position, also the peculiar manner in which the draft rope is attached draws the plough into the earth, and the tail rope being hung on the hind part of the plough still further contributes to its remaining in position. There is a steering apparatus enabling him to lay the furrow evenly, and also various means by which the width, depth, &c., of the work can be regulated. The ploughs are made of different forms, such as for extra deep ploughing, &c. For heavy work the number of furrows is proportionately lessened, and sometimes only one is made; in this case the land can be ploughed from 12 to 18 inches deep, and a subsoil tine will pulverize an additional 6 to 12 inches in depth, thus cultivating at one operation from 18 to 30 inches below the surface.

Cultivators worked by steam power are not made on the balance system, but are fixed in frames like the horse implement, and have peculiar arrangements to enable them to turn at the head-land. The man does not leave his seat. He has control over the implement by a steering apparatus which acts instantaneously. Cultivators "smash" the soil, leaving it in such a rough state that it can be acted on by frost and the atmosphere generally; thus it becomes disintegrated and capable of being easily worked during subsequent operations.

There are also ditching machines for wide drains or irrigation, and these are useful in sugar-cane and cotton plantations, &c.

Sub-soilers and grubbers, which work 2 ft. deep; reclamation ploughs, with peculiar disc fittings to lift the plough over large stones or other obstacles, &c.

"Discers" for cultivating newly reclaimed land without bringing the under soil to the surface; steam-harrows of various forms; rollers; clod-crushers; consolidators or pressers, drills, &c., and recently a form of reaping machine, hereafter described, has also been constructed to be propelled by steam.

II.—DRILL HUSBANDRY.

Many years back the seed was generally sown broad-cast over the land and afterwards brushed in with a bush harrow.

Drilling, that is sowing in equi-distant parallel rows, introduced a new system of farming. It has the manifest advantage of allowing frequent hoeing, which both destroys the weeds and stirs and break up the surface of the land between the rows, thus allowing the soil to be benefited by absorption of nitrogen and moisture from the atmosphere. There is great saving of seed and artificial manure, which can be deposited so as to be in immediate contiguity with the young plants, and thus exert a quicker influence on their growth. It is a great desideratum to get the young plant of such root crops as are subject to the ravages of the fly forward as quickly as possible. The horse-hoes (described hereafter) now used are generally made of the same gauge as the drill they have to follow.

The

The Corn Drill consists of a long trough or box carried between a pair of travelling wheels fitted with a spindle carrying cups on discs, or with an endless chain for delivering the seed. The box or trough is kept supplied with seed-corn. The spindle is put in motion by cogs on one of the travelling wheels. In its revolution the cups catch up a few of the grains and empty them into the tubes, by which they are conducted downwards and deposited in the drills (or grooves) made in the surface of the earth by coulters attached to the machine and working in connection with the seed-tubes. The seed is afterwards covered with soil, either by an arrangement following the tube and attached to the machine, or by harrows following as a separate implement.

This system of cups and coulters, &c., is the chief feature in all drills. There is a great variety of form to suit different circumstances and kinds of seed. They may be enumerated as follows:—

Corn Drills, for sowing wheat, oats, barley, and seeds requiring similar cultivation.

Turnip, Mangel-Wurzel, &c., requiring to be planted in rows of greater width, either on flat ground or ridges.

Small Seed and Rye Grass Drills, which require to be more generally distributed over the soil.

The General Purpose Drill is a combination of the separate implements used for corn, turnip, mangold, clover, and other seeds, and also for artificial manure. It requires, however, some changing and alteration of parts to adapt it to each purpose, and therefore, on large farms, the separate drills are more frequently used.

Drills are also made for manual labour upon a small scale for single rows of turnips and mangolds, and for the market gardeners' use. There are drills specially adapted for hill sides and for small farms.

Ridge Drills.—It may be explained that in some places it is found advantageous to grow the root crops on a ridge of fine soil. The ridges having been formed by the ridging plough, the drill is fitted in front with small concave rollers which immediately precede the coulters (which form the drills or grooves in the soil in which the seed is deposited.) These rollers consolidate the ridge, whilst smaller ones are fixed to follow last, to press the seed into its place and cover it with earth. The various contrivances for adjustment, regulating the quantity of manure, seeds, &c., are far too numerous to be explained, and would be almost unintelligible, without complicated details and diagrams; the requisite regularity, however, is generally obtained by means of different sized cog-wheels altering the speed of the cup barrels.

There has lately been introduced a new invention for the same purpose as the seed cups in drills, &c., a disc discharger. The disc is waved or spiral, and discharges from each wave through a hole over which it works. The barrel only works as the drill advances, so there is no waste in turning at the headlands.

The Drop Drill is for turnips and other seeds with manure on the flat or ridge. It is constructed so as to drop the manure at any intervals or depth required and covering it with mould, and then to drop the seed in any minute quantities directly over the manure, leaving a portion of mould between them.

Artificial and Liquid Manure Distributors, Water Drills, &c., are all more or less on the same principles as the drills before alluded to; they are used for applying water or liquid manures to turnips, thus enabling the soil to absorb the powdered or artificial manures, thereby preventing them from burning the rootlets of young plants.

Manure Distributors are very useful for top dressing crops with guano, nitrate, soot, &c. They prevent the light manure being blown about by high wind, and secure regularity in distribution.

Drill Pressers have a heavy iron wheel with convex periphery for forming and consolidating seams or hollows in the furrows of newly ploughed land for receiving seed, corn, &c.

Land Pressers are also used (like the clod crushers) for pressing the young plants of wheat when drawn out of the earth by frosts, and are useful to prevent wire-worm.

Horse Hoes of large size are made with hoes fitted to levers and suspended from a framework carried on travelling wheels. They are made to match (in width and number of rows) the drills by which the seed was sown, so that the hoes pass between the growing crop. Whilst each hoe by means of its lever has a certain amount of independent action, the whole of them can be simultaneously raised, depressed, or moved laterally by the labourer, and be guided between the rows without damage to the plants. Smaller horse hoes are made to take two or three rows only; also hoes with two or three knives to take a single space of greater width for root crops, &c. The effect of horse hoeing is most beneficial, not only by destroying weeds, but by loosening the top surface and thus promoting the growth of the crop and retaining moisture. This operation is also cheaper than hand hoeing, and being quicker the work can be finished off at the time when it is most required, and frequently when labourers could not be spared to do it by hand.

Turnip Thinners.—The object is to thin the plants and leave them the proper distance apart in the rows. This operation, however, can only be partially completed by a machine, because it leaves the plants in bunches, rendering it necessary for the superfluous plants in each bunch to be removed by hand labour. There is some disadvantage in using these implements on crops when the young plants are thin and irregular, because the machine, in consequence of its working uniformly, may cut up those which a labourer using a hand hoe would see it necessary to retain. In most of the machines the operation of thinning is performed by revolving hoes working at fixed intervals and cutting across the rows. The process can be applied to turnips either on the ridge or flat, but on the flat an ordinary lever horse hoe can be worked at right angles across the rows with good effect.

MACHINES FOR HARVESTING CROPS.

Reaping Machines.—Many years back attempts were made to reap crops by machinery, and as early as 1827 Bell's reaper was invented in Scotland; other forms were tried, but much attention was not given to the subject till the Great Exhibition of 1851, when two American reapers were exhibited (McCormick's and Hussey's) which, although far from perfection, were certainly a great advance in the right direction. The cutting portion of Bell's machine (undoubtedly the original reaper) was formed of a series of shears or scissors, the shanks of which were connected to bars, so that the whole series could be worked at once. The American improvements consisted in forming the cutters of triangular pieces of steel, firmly riveted to a bar, one angle pointing forward and the edges made sharp. These cutters were moved by a reciprocal action through slots in a row of projecting points (called fingers), which on entering the standing corn hold the stems in position to be cut, and they also act as a protection to the cutting edges of the knives. Hussey's and McCormick's knives were similar in action, but whilst one formed an acute angle with a sharp smooth cutting cutting edge the other was at an obtuse angle, with a serrated edge or sickle cut. The American machines also differed from Bell's, as the horses walked by the side of the reaper instead of propelling it before them.

Bell's machine, however, was so little known that at that time reapers were considered the greatest agricultural novelty of the Exhibition. Ever since 1851 improvements have constantly been made in these machines. The corn was laid either in a swarth, i.e., continuous row, by the side of the machine, or in heaps at the rear of it, by means of a large hand rake worked by an attendant riding on the machine.

From time to time different methods of delivering the crop have been brought to notice.

Manual labour on the machine with the rake has been superseded by automatic machinery, and the corn is now laid in bunches at the side ready for binding into sheaves. This process is accomplished by self-acting rakes, two or more of them being used as gatherers, acted on by a "cam" motion, answering the double purpose of first pressing the standing corn gradually towards the knives, and carrying it, when cut, over the quadrant-shaped platform, and depositing it on the land at the side of the machine. It might appear that the rakes or gatherers when coming in contact with the standing corn would cause the grain to shed, but their action is so gradual and regular that they only gently bend the straw towards the knives. During high wind this arrangement is most useful. The gatherers can be regulated so as to deliver more or less frequently, according to the thickness of the crop. By causing all the rakes to be used as gatherers, a swath or continuous line of cut corn can be produced; this is usual in the case of barley, which is not generally tied up in sheaves like wheat.

There are adjustments for various purposes, such as varying the height of the gearing, altering the angle of inclination so as to raise up laid corn, &c.

The form of knife now in general use is the same as that introduced by Hussey in the 1851 Exhibition; modifications in the angle of cut and other matters of detail being adopted by different makers. The sickle-edged cutter appears to have gone out of use.

Steam Reaper.—The machine propelled by horses is that which has been adopted as a steam reaper, i.e., to be driven before a traction engine. By means of a gib or crane in front of the engine the whole of the reaper is raised off the ground when turning at the end of the field, or when being removed from place to place. It cuts 12 feet wide. The motion of the knives is obtained direct from the steam-engine, and is not in any way dependent on the travelling wheels of the reaper, as in that for horse-power. It will cut about 33 acres in a harvest day. The steam reaper being only of recent introduction, it will require the test of experience to determine whether it will become practically useful.

Sheaf-binders.—Quite recently a further addition has been made to the reaping machine by mechanical means to actually bind or tie the sheaf. The cut corn, after falling on to the platform, is collected to the side of the machine, and there tied either with string or wire before it is thrown off on to the ground. The invention originated in America, brought into existence by the peculiar requirements of that country; it is most ingenious, and will well repay careful inspection.

Mowing Machines for mowing grass, clover, lucerne, &c. The principle of the cutting parts is the same as in the reapers. Of course the fans or rakes and the platforms for receiving the corn are dispensed with, and the crop is left in a wide continuous swath, being well distributed for drying.

Hay-making or Tedding Machines consist of an arrangement of forks revolving round an axle between a pair of travelling wheels which give motion to the whole.

The forks, which revolve rather rapidly on the axle, as the machine travels forward, catch up and toss the newly mown grass over the machine, or by reversing the action of the rakes throw it out behind the machine, thus opening it out and lightly distributing it over the ground,—an operation formerly performed by manual labour with hand forks. The tedder, drawn by one horse, can perform the work of about 20 men.

Horse Rake.—The machine is constructed of iron, and is worked by one horse. It is carried on two wheels, and consists of a number of long tines, each hung so as to work independently, rising or falling, so as to suit any inequality in the surface.

At intervals the attendant raises the whole of the raking tines (i.e., the whole raking part) by pressing a lever handle, so that the hay or corn which the rake has collected is released and left lying on the ground in a row. The rake is then immediately lowered again, and proceeds to collect as before. Recently machines have been made with an automatic apparatus to act on a lever which regulates the raising or falling of the rake.

Loading Machine.—Newly invented, for loading crops of corn, hay, &c. It is to be drawn by one or two horses at the side of the waggon. A fixed rake gathers the produce, which is taken up by a series of revolving rakes attached to an endless band which elevate it to the top of the waggon. When perfected this machine may become useful as a labour-saving machine at the busy time of harvest.

Drying Machine for Hay, Corn, &c.—Within the last few years newly-invented machinery has been constructed to dry hay, corn, &c. in wet seasons. A gigantic fan draws hot air (temperature from 300° to 500° Fahrenheit) by means of an air duct into two large troughs; into the upper ends of them the grass or wet hay is fed by the combined action of an oscillating floor and cranked tines, and passes down to the lower end. The tines are adjusted so as to lift up the grass or hay incessantly and let it fall again, so that the streams of hot air rushing from the ducts have free access to every part.

The hottest air and greatest force of the blast is delivered on to that portion of the hay, &c., which is in its wettest condition, and the heat and force are both gradually reduced as it passes along. The temperature of the air and the rate of volume of the hot air are under control, enabling the workman to deal with products containing all percentages of moisture.

The machine can be worked by a $3\frac{1}{2}$ horse-power engine by a single belt from the fly-wheel.

The inventor calculates that hay with 35 per cent. excess water can be dried at the rate of 24 loads per day, and green crops with 70 per cent. of excess water at the rate of eight loads per day.

The system might be applied to the drying of straw-crops, flax, hops, rice, coffee, &c., &c.

IV.—MACHINES FOR PREPARING CROPS FOR MARKET AND FOR FOOD FOR ANIMALS.

Steam-engines are too well known to require explanation. Those used in agriculture differ but little if at all from those used for other purposes; they are 1st, fixed, 2nd, portable, (i.e., moved from place to place by horses), 3rd, self-moving, or traction.

It is only within the last 40 years that portable or movable engines have been used on the farm, and their introduction may be regarded as forming a special epoch in the history of agriculture. For thence have resulted steam threshing, grinding, &c., whilst the further improvement of making them self-moving by their own steam, and converting them into traction engines, has been a great step in advance, and has materially promoted the application of steam power to the cultivation of the soil.

Many improvements have been introduced from time to time, and great perfection has been attained.

Straw-burning Engines.—As the Paris Universal Exhibition is for all nations, it may be well here to refer to a variety of the steam-engine which, however, is useful only where no ordinary fuel is procurable. Straw is utilized as fuel. Several plans have been invented to effect this, some to be worked by hand. The straw is fed into a large fire-box through a hopper, either at the ordinary fire-door or at the bottom of the fire-box. There is also a self-acting arrangement by which the straw can be fed through the ordinary fire-box door by the action of rollers fixed in the end of a trough in a similar manner to the feeding arrangement of a chaff cutter.

Most of these engines are constructed to burn either coal or wood when procurable.

When not required for straw-burning the feeding apparatus is removable, and the ordinary doors, &c., for coals are affixed.

Horse Gears.—Horses are attached to long shafts and walk in a circle, thus giving motion to a large cog-wheel which drives a pinion and cog-wheels which communicate a rotary motion to a shaft from which can be driven a horse-power threshing machine or other implement. By the addition of what is termed an intermediate motion more than one machine can be driven at the same time.

Threshing Machines.—Formerly the corn was threshed by the flail, and the stacks had to be removed to the barn, whereas now it is usually threshed in the field by the stack's side. So great has been the progress in agricultural improvement, that at the present time very little indeed of the threshing or even dressing is performed in any other way than by steam power.

Taking the machines in the order of invention they stand as follows:—

The Hand-power Threshing Machine is a miniature of the one driven by horses; it consists of a small skeleton drum with longitudinal bars or beaters on its outer circumference; it is driven by a toothed wheel and pinion, causing it to revolve at as great a speed as the power to be applied (two men) will allow.

This operation simply beats out the corn from the straw, but makes no further separation.

The Horse Threshing Machine is an enlarged form of the hand machine, and is more efficient, because the power applied being much greater, a larger-sized drum can be used and more work done in proportion to the number of men employed; also, in consequence of the larger size of the drum, the straw is delivered in a less broken condition.

The portable steam-engine, however, which replaced the horse works, created quite as great a revolution in threshing as in many other branches of industry. It was found that the machine made to be driven by horse power could not stand the strain of the greater power of steam. It therefore became necessary to construct threshing machines of greater strength. Additions and improvements now followed rapidly. The machines were made not only to separate the straw from the corn, but also the chaff from the straw. Then the cavings (or broken ears and pieces of straw) from the chaff. Barley awns or hummellers for taking the awns off the grain, &c., were added, until at the present time the machine called the "combined threshing machine" was constructed to perform all the operations of dressing as well as threshing. It is in very general use, both in Great Britain and other parts of the world where corn is extensively grown.

Combined Double-blast Threshing Machine.—The most perfect machine now has a drum usually 4' 6" wide, and about 20 or 22 inches diameter; upon this drum are six or eight longitudinal beaters, and it makes from 800 to 1,000 revolutions per minute. The beaters remove the corn and chaff from the straw. The straw then falls on to shakers, by which any corn remaining loose in it is shaken out, all the corn and chaff descend and pass through a series of riddling and dressing apparatus until the whole is finally delivered in different parts of the machine as follows. The straw from the machine passes on to an elevator or stacking machine by which it is carried to a height of (say) 25 or 30 feet, and delivered on the stack. The corn, which is still mixed with short pieces of straw and broken ears (called "cavings"), and also with the chaff, is passed on to a riddle, where the cavings are separated. The corn and chaff falling through the riddle are then subjected to the action of a blower or winnow which separates the chaff, whilst smaller riddles separate the seeds of weeds, and other extraneous matter commonly called "spoutings." Lastly, the grain is conducted on to a screen, which can be adjusted as required, even whilst the machine is in motion, to separate the small corn, &c.

Some threshing machines are also fitted with straw-bruisers, preparing it for feeding cattle, and leaving it in a state similar to straw from which the corn has been trodden out by animals, whilst others can have also a chaff-cutter attached.

Self-acting feeders and guards, &c.—It should here be stated that recently an important addition has been made to threshing machines by adding a self-acting feeding apparatus. The machines were formerly fed entirely by hand, and numerous accidents occurred to the men engaged in this duty. By this somewhat complicated apparatus the danger is removed, there is less waste, and ordinary labourers can do the work which hitherto required a skilled workman, whilst in case of any accident or derangement the apparatus can be instantly stopped. Very simple and efficient guards are also now commonly applied to threshing machines.

Straw Elevators.—The straw, after passing from the threshing machine, is received on to the straw elevator (which is worked by a band from the spindle of the threshing machine), and is thus conducted upwards for the purpose of being stacked. The elevator does the work of several men. Some of the machines are folding, and all are capable of being removed with the threshing machine by the ordinary traction engine.

Stacking Machines.—These are constructed on a similar principle to straw elevators, but are so fitted as to be able to stack straw, hay, or sheaf corn. They can be worked by the ordinary horse gears or other power. There is, however, another form, i.e., "pitchforks," worked by horse-power. Two poles are fixed in the ground and secured by ropes; large double forks clutch the hay, &c., which is then by means of ropes and pulleys raised till over the stack, when, on the attendant pulling a rope, the hay becomes released and falls in the position required. However, the elevator principle has the advantage of not requiring poles and ropes to be fixed, but the fork apparatus is very inexpensive, and therefore may be suitable for small farms.

Seed-drawers.—The clover seed in the haulm is threshed by the ordinary threshing machine. The drawer consists of a conical-shaped drum with twisted beaters, and revolves in a conical-grooved shell.

The position of the drum can be varied by projecting or withdrawing it within the conical shell.

The cob (or seed head) is introduced into the large end of the cone, where the seed is drawn, and the final operations of elevating, winnowing, or blowing, riddling, &c., are similar in principle to those in finishing threshing machines.

Winnowing or Dressing Machines need but little description. The undressed grain is poured into a hopper (or receiver) at the top of the machine, whence it falls into a narrow flat stream, the volume of which can be adjusted by a screw apparatus. The grain is subjected to a current of air, produced by fans placed on a revolving spindle. The blast removes all light substances, and its intensity is capable of regulation. The grain passes over one or more riddles, which separate it into different qualities as required.

Corn Screens.—Some are rotary, others flat. The former consists of a wire cylinder set at an inclination. The wires are arranged at different intervals apart, and are capable of regulation. There are various means, such as an Archimedian screw, &c., for causing the grain to move forward at a proper speed. The flat screens are on a sharp inclination, and by crank action have an oscillating motion. There are various contrivances for regulating the distance of the separating wires and keeping them from becoming clogged. Some corn screens are fitted with a small blower in addition to the screen.

Mills.—The uses of this class of machinery scarcely require mention.

The oldest and (in its modern form) still the most effective mill for grinding grain into the finest meal or for only breaking or kibbling it, is that with a pair of flat stones made from "burs" imported from France, or produced in Yorkshire and Derbyshire.

There are, however, various mills constructed of cast iron or steel, which do the work for agricultural purposes extremely well, the principle being to rub the grain between two conical roughened surfaces of metal instead of stones.

There is also a variety of crushers, which squeezes the grain between the peripheries of two rollers, some having smooth and others fluted surfaces.

These mills or crushers are adapted to kibbling barley, oats, beans, linseed, &c.

Crushers for bruising oats and splitting beans. Corn-crushing by steam or horse-power. Linseed crushers, flax-breaking mills, bone mills, coprolite mills, and stone-breakers, for breaking stones for road making, and other machines too numerous to mention.

Chaff-cutters are made for steam or horse-power, and others for hand. Chaff-cutting is very essential to successful feeding of live stock. Many of the machines vary in details, but the uses of the chaff-cutter are too familiar in every stable to render much description necessary. The general form is that large knives are fixed on a fly-wheel which is made to revolve either by hand or other power, so that the knives come down on the straw placed in a box or trough, the straw being brought forward by means of rollers and an endless web in the interval between the cutting of each knife. Some of the larger sizes, driven by steam, are fitted with elevators for sacking the chaff, and others with self-acting sifting apparatus, so that any long pieces of straw or cavings are brought back to the machine to pass under the knives again, whilst by the sifting apparatus the dust is also removed before the chaff is sacked up.

Oil Cake Breakers are worked by steam or horse-power, and smaller sizes by hand. They break thick on thin cakes. When for feeding cattle the cake passes through one pair of spiked rollers, but when required smaller for sheep a slide is moved, allowing it to pass through a second pair. Some machines, however, accomplish this at one operation.

Turnip or Root Cutters.—There are two principles chiefly in use, viz., that having a barrel or cylinder with knives on the surface, the other a disc carrying cutters or knives projecting. The cylinder or the disc is made to revolve, and coming in contact with the roots which press down from a hopper (or feeder) are cut into slices or strips which pass through openings made in the surface for this purpose. By adjustment they cut either for cattle or sheep.

Pulpers are similar in principle to the foregoing, with extra knives for stripping, slicing and pulping.

V.—MISCELLANEOUS IMPLEMENTS.

These are numerous, but as all the agricultural implements of most interest and importance have been alluded to under their respective headings, there appears but little necessity, even if space permitted, to enumerate them here.

SHORT NOTES ON SOME OF THE PRINCIPAL BREEDS OF BRITISH LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE.

SHORT-HORN.

THIS breed was formerly called the Durham, or improved short-horn. The breed originated in the north of England, and its history can be distinctly traced back for upwards of a century to certain tribes which the breeders of that date greatly improved by strict attention to the selection of animals capable of transmitting the best points to their progeny.

This breed has always been famous for early maturity and rapid feeding properties, which are indicated by the mellowness of its skin to the touch, for abundant milking qualities, symmetry, and perhaps above all for the remarkable faculty of impressing its own characteristics upon other breeds with which it may be crossed. Bulls from the best herds have been in great demand, and have been the means of developing and extending the short-horn breed gradually throughout the kingdom, and of imparting to the common cattle its useful feeding and milking qualities.

Its value is appreciated not only in Great Britain and Ireland, but in almost all parts of the world.

Breeders

Breeders in America and the Canadian colonies have imported valuable and high-priced animals, whilst large numbers have been sent to all the countries in Europe, to Australia, to India, parts of Africa, and even to Japan. Some idea of the estimation in which the breed is held may be gathered from the fact that in 1875 as much as 4,500 guineas (118,125 francs) was given for a bull, and in 1877 4,300 guineas (112,875 francs) for a yearling heifer, and 4,100 guineas (107,625 francs) for another nearly related to her, whilst the herd of a deceased tenant-farmer, consisting of 71 cows and 13 bulls, realized the large sum of £42,919 16s., being an average of £510 19s. per animal.

As the name indicates, the horn is short, semi-circularly curved, and rather flat. The colour of the animals varies from a white to a yellowish tinge of white, some are red, others red and white, and sometimes the white and red are blended, forming a beautiful variegation called "roan," formerly strawberry colour. The head is handsome, intelligent, and the expression docile; the eye is bright and full; the ears are thin and fine, well covered with hair; the neck is short, carrying the head gracefully, and springing straight from the back, which is also straight and broad and round. The ribs arch roundly from the backbone, the hips are well covered and not very prominent; the hind quarters are long and full to the tail, which hangs straight and square from the body; the thighs are full and deep and broad; the legs are short and straight, the under line is even; the shoulders are well laid, oblique, and falling well on the body, so as to form a round deep chest, with a full swelling bosom; the udder is large and soft, coming well forward, and the teats hang squarely from it. The body is well covered with fine soft hair, and the hide is mellow, with a rich appearance indicating the excellent quality of the beef. Altogether the animal, owing to the evenness with which it lays on its flesh, forms nearly a parallelogram; its strong constitution makes it adaptable to all soils and climates, and its excellences are so great that its admirers claim for it the title to be placed as the first of our national breeds.

HEREFORD CATTLE.

The Hereford is supposed to be an aboriginal race, indigenous to the county from which it takes its name. Animals of this breed are, however, kept largely in the adjoining counties of Shropshire, Montgomery, and Brecon, &c., and are fed extensively in many other parts of England, and some parts of Scotland and Ireland; also in Australia, America, &c.

They are remarkably good feeders, laying on flesh abundantly in proportion to the amount of food consumed, and their great aptitude to fatten is favoured by their general placidity of temper. They come early to maturity, whilst the beef is well mottled or marbled, fat and lean, and is highly prized.

In the early part of the present century Hereford cattle carried off a larger proportion of prizes at the great fat stock shows than any other breed. They are handsome, their uniformity of appearance making a herd of them very picturesque in parks. There was a tribe of the mottled-faced, among which were many extremely well-formed animals, and other tribes called the light grey, the dark grey, as well as the red with white face Herefords; but the attention of breeders has been given to securing uniformity of type, and the prevailing characteristics now are as follows:—

White face, throat, chest, udder, dew-lap, mane, lower part of body and legs and tip of tail; the other parts of the body red; frequently a small red spot on the eye, and a round red spot in the midst of the white on the throat.

The body is covered with long soft glossy hair, with a tendency to curl. The horns, which are beyond the medium length, are tapering, and have a yellow or white waxy appearance, frequently dark at the ends. Those of the bull spring out straightly from a broad flat forehead, whilst those of the cow or ox usually have a graceful wave with a slight spreading upward tendency. The eye is full.

The chest is expanded, full, and deep, and projecting firmly; the ribs are well-sprung; the back is broad and legs short, indicative of the hardness of constitution for which these cattle are esteemed; the bone is small, and the offal is light.

The production of steers for grazing purposes having been the chief aim of the breeders, but little attention has been paid to the milking properties of the cows; in order to secure success with the progeny, the calves have usually been allowed to run with their dams, and perhaps thus the cows have obtained the character of being indifferent milkers. They are, nevertheless, kept on many dairy farms in the western counties of England. The Hereford crosses with almost any breed, and imparts an aptitude to fatten.

DEVON CATTLE.

This is perhaps one of the oldest breeds in England, and has always been the favourite stock in Devonshire and the adjoining counties, and they are also kept in other parts. It may be termed a middle-horned breed. This race possesses a hardy constitution, which enables the animals to thrive in a cold poor district, whilst they answer well on almost any soil or in any climate. They have great aptitude to fatten, are small consumers, come early to maturity if kept well from their birth, and the meat commands a first-class price in the metropolitan and other great markets. They produce milk of great richness, containing a large volume of butter, and it is from this milk that the celebrated Devonshire clotted cream is made.

When oxen were generally worked these cattle were much prized for the purpose, as they were very active. They are distinguished also by elegance of appearance, which makes them great favourites.

Formerly there were two very distinct types of Devon cattle—viz., the small compact North Devon, and a larger animal sometimes passing under the title of Somerset. Some are, however, now much more nearly assimilated in general character, the size of the former having been increased, and yet the essential of quality retained.

The Devons are comparatively short but thick and heavy for their height; the carcass is cylindrical, and the skin has a beautiful touch to the hand.

The colour is a pure rich red, with fine silky hair.

The horns have a yellowish waxy appearance, tapering and gracefully curved upwards and outwards. The head is small and well put on; the muzzle is very fine. The eye is clear, bright, prominent, and shows a good deal of the white round it.

The chest is very wide in proportion to the size of the animal. Legs are short, small, and very fine in the bone, and the animal altogether possesses a very neat and beautiful symmetry.

LONG-HORN

LONG-HORN CATTLE.

The original breed of long-horn appears to have sprung from Yorkshire, thence to have subsequently receded to Leicestershire, Warwickshire, and Derbyshire, but they have of late frequently passed under the name of Leicestershire long-horns.

The horns fully bear out the name of the breed; they grow in such a manner as to be very distinctive, they curve forwards and hang down towards the muzzle, and sometimes actually grow so much inwards as to touch the cheek.

The colour is generally dark red, brindled, and pied, with white along the backs. The coat is good and the back straight. The females are very broad in the hips and are good milkers. Many of the cross-bred milch cows in various parts of England show that they have a dash of long-horn blood in them.

There are, however, but very few herds of this variety now kept.

It crosses well with other breeds.

NORFOLK AND SUFFOLK POLLED CATTLE.

From time immemorial the polled cattle have been in the county of Suffolk, and they have always been described as great milkers. In colour they are either red, brindled, or of a yellowish cream, but now only the red are recognized as the pure breed.

No doubt the present polled breed was the result of a cross with the Galloway cattle, large numbers of which were formerly brought to the Eastern counties to be grazed. The tuft of hair growing downwards on the forehead is common to both breeds, whilst occasionally a black nose, a "slug" horn, or a spot of white on the face, or more frequently on the udder or belly, gives an indication of the original blood. The Norfolk and Suffolk have of late years been so much inter-bred that they have become practically identical.

Among the good qualities which the red polls possess is hardiness of constitution, which enables them to thrive on scanty pasturage, and to withstand the severe winters and cold springs usually experienced in the Eastern counties.

Their milking properties are unquestionable, as they have not a tendency to go dry like many other breeds having a reputation as dairy cattle, and it not unfrequently happens that the cow will continue to yield a good quantity of milk from one calving to another.

The beef is extremely good.

In order to ensure uniformity of type, the breeders have determined on the following characters which they should possess.

"The colour red. Tip of the tail and udder may be white, and the extension of the white of the udder a few inches along the inside of the flank, or a small white spot or mark on the under part of the belly by the milk veins shall not be held as disqualifying an animal whose sire and dam form part of an established herd of the breed, or answer all other essentials of the standard description.

"There shall be no horns, slugs, abortive horns."

SUSSEX CATTLE.

Formerly this breed was used in place of horses for working, ploughing, &c. They were very active and well suited to such purposes; however, of late the working of oxen has decreased in a marked degree, and the breeders of Sussex cattle have turned their attention to the improvement of the animals with great success. They resemble the Devons in many respects, but are larger.

Formerly they were not, as a rule, grazed till after they were done with for working, but now they are got to early maturity and produce good beef.

They are very hardy, and do well on poor pastures.

The cows are not good milkers. They are, like the Devon, all red, but have larger horns, heads, and bones. They are kept chiefly in Surry and Kent.

GALLOWAY CATTLE.

The Galloway cattle are of ancient origin. They were formerly partly horned and partly polled, but by selection have now become polled, though occasionally some have small "slugs" or stumps which are not affixed to the skull. They are kept throughout the Galloway district, Wigtonshire, Kirkcudbright, &c., but are not so universal there as formerly, more of the Ayrshire being now kept in their place.

They are sent south extensively to Norfolk and Suffolk for grazing, to which they are well suited, as the meat is of excellent quality. They are not good for dairy purposes, the quantity of milk they yield being small in proportion to the size of the animals.

They are extremely hardy, having a thick coat which fits them for their native climate, which is cold and moist.

They are frequently crossed with short-horns, and the produce attains early maturity. Then the colour is frequently a greyish slate, especially along the back; also they are sometimes crossed successfully with Ayrshires.

The pure Galloway, however, is usually black, the eye is rather dull and sleepy; the ear is thick and very hairy; the back is straight; the head is crowned with a semispherical knob, tufted with hair; the legs are short and strong.

POLLED ANGUS OR ABERDEEN.

There is some resemblance between these and the polled Galloways.

This Angus breed is supposed to be descended from what were formerly termed "Angus doddies," or Aberdeen hummies. It is numerous represented in Aberdeenshire, Forfarshire, Kincardineshire, &c.

Great improvement has been made of late years in this breed by careful selection, and very beautiful animals have been exhibited at both breeding and fat-stock shows.

They are very hardy, docile, large, coming early to maturity, and good breeders, and the meat is of excellent quality.

Their coat is short, smooth, silky, and glossy, and almost always black, though occasionally some animals have small dull white spots, and still more rarely some are red or brindled. The head is tufted with hair, the ears are rather thick and hairy, the muzzle is somewhat coarse, the legs are well boned, and of moderate length. A cross between this breed and the short-horn results in a good grazing animal, which fattens well and evenly.

AYRSHIRE.

AYRSHIRE CATTLE.

This breed takes its name from the county of Ayr, situated on the south-west coast of Scotland. The origin of it is not thoroughly known, but for a considerable time breeders have taken great pains, by selection and judicious breeding, to increase the properties for which Ayrshire cattle are famous, and which are in a great degree indigenous. Ayrshire has a very moist atmosphere, but these animals are so hardy that they bear almost any variation of climate, thriving well on high-lying districts without losing their milking properties; whilst a milder atmosphere and rich pasturage suit them perfectly.

They are not confined to the county from which they derive their name, but are spread over the adjoining counties of Renfrew, Lanark, &c., and other parts of Scotland, and are now to be found largely in England and elsewhere.

Their great attribute is their excellent milk, which is good in quality and extraordinarily large in quantity.

They may be denominated a rather small breed.

Their colour is usually red, or brown and white, in large patches; or all red or brown, and sometimes black and white.

The horns are fine, curve upwards, and are placed on wide apart at their base. The neck is straight from the head towards the top of the shoulders, which are very thin on the top; the back is straight.

The body becomes larger, both in width and depth, as it approaches the hind quarters. The tail is long, fine, and bushy at the end. The legs are short and small in the bone. The eye is mild, and the udder very large.

They have extremely docile dispositions, a quality most desirable in milk cows. Certainly milk is their speciality.

As grazing (i.e., meat-producing) animals the pure breed does not pay so well as many other kinds, but they are sometimes crossed with the short-horn, and thus their size is increased.

The produce combines some of the size of the short-horn with the hardiness of the Ayrshire, and attains early maturity; whilst this cross is but little, if at all, inferior to the pure breed in other respects.

WEST HIGHLAND (OR KYLOES).

As their name denotes, these animals are natives of the West Highlands of Scotland, and were formerly known as North Argyleshire cattle. They are celebrated for their grazing properties, the meat being of the finest quality, and commanding the highest prices in the principal English markets. For dairy purposes they do not rank so highly, because the milk, though good in quality, is deficient in quantity. They are extremely hardy, vigorous, quick, and active, and capable of enduring both the damp and cold boisterous climate of the Highlands. They thrive admirably on low lands, where they are generally fattened, and are in great demand in England for grazing. Their hardy nature does not require that they should be housed, and they will consume and thrive on coarse pasturage which sheep and many other kinds of cattle would leave untouched.

It is best to graze them for a time before putting them to fat, as they require being gradually accustomed to yards or boxes. Of late years much care and attention has been paid to improving the breed, and frequently handsome animals are exhibited at fat-stock exhibitions; whilst both on their native hills, where their appearance is somewhat wild, and afterwards when being grazed in pastures, their picturesque beauty is always highly appreciated.

Their stature is usually somewhat small. They are clothed with a thick skin, having abundance of long, glossy, and shaggy hair, indicating hardiness of constitution in the highest degree. This thick coat is a protection against the atmosphere of winter and from flies in summer. The colour varies; some animals being black, others red dun, yellow, and brindled (red and black). The head is short, and has a profusion of long shaggy and curly hair, coming down below the eyes. The muzzle is fine, and the nose slightly turned up.

The eyes are prominent, and have a quick piercing glance. The horns are wide apart, long, curved, and pointed; the body is straight, thick, very deep, compact, and well formed.

The legs are short, and extremely muscular.

The attributes of this breed may be summed up as a combination of great hardiness with splendid quality of meat.

WELSH CATTLE.

The Welsh Runts, as they are sometimes called, may be considered as an aboriginal breed, but they have been found to vary very much in quality. This arose from sufficient care not having been taken formerly in selecting them for breeding.

They are apt to be somewhat ragged in outline, though fairly good specimens are occasionally to be found, especially of late, as more attention has been given to form and quality.

They may be denominated a middle-horned breed, rather inclined to long. The horns are wide spreading, white tipped with black, and curving upwards.

The colour of the animals is usually black, and some have a little white. The meat is good.

These animals, even when fattened, seldom show that cylindrical form which is so desirable; they usually run narrow in proportion to their height, as compared with most other breeds.

They are hardy, and from not being costly when bought as lean stock, they are frequently resorted to for grazing.

There are also the Glamorgan, Pembroke, and Anglesea cattle, but as it is not probable that any will be exhibited at Paris, it may be sufficient just to have alluded to the Welsh Runts, as above.

KERRY CATTLE.

The Kerry (Irish) is a small breed, handsome, and very docile.

The cows are good milkers for their size; from the ease with which they are kept in a limited space they are often called the poor man's cow.

The butter is good.

The Kerrys fatten rapidly on indifferent pastures, and the beef is excellent.

The head is fine and small, the eye quick and animated.

Frequently the animals do not exceed 40 inches in height.

CHANNEL

CHANNEL ISLAND CATTLE.

The stock passing under the name of Channel Island comprises two distinct breeds, viz., Jerseys and Guernseys, which for a long time were accepted in England under the general title of "Alderneys," the probability being that they were first introduced from the island of that name. It has only been of late years that the difference existing between them has become generally known.

The origin of these cattle cannot be traced to any particular locality. They are supposed to have existed in the Channel Islands from very remote times. In all probability they are the descendants of cattle from the neighbouring coasts of Normandy and Brittany. They have been for centuries kept to a certain uniform type; this, with the effects of climate, soil, and management, has established fixed specialities.

The Jersey cow is too well known for its neatness of form, slender frame, its deer-like head, its gentleness, and the richness of its dairy produce, to require comment.

In early times the Jersey cow did not possess the attractive appearance it now does.

Very great improvement has taken place, and proportionately the money value of the breed has increased. The symmetry which the Jersey cow should possess is determined by a scale of points which has been drawn up by the Royal Jersey Agricultural Society.

It will be seen that such characteristics as denote milking qualities, including richness of milk, receive the greatest number of points. In short, the Jersey cow is intended to be, and is, essentially a dairy animal.

The cow of the sister isle, Guernsey, is different in appearance, being considerably longer. The type is coarser, the colour is almost uniformly red and white. The muzzle, the skin round the eyes, the tips of the horns are generally of yellow or brownish tint, whereas in the Jersey breed these are black. The Guernsey is, however, better calculated for meat forming than the Jersey; it is a valuable dairy cow, but a greater consumer of food. The characteristic features of the two breeds are unmistakable, though occasionally some individual exceptions which resemble the one breed or the other are met with. The latter remark applies more to the females than to the males. In both breeds a yellowness is observable inside the ears, about the horns, the udder, and tip of tail. These characteristics are considered to indicate the richness of the milk produced. The Channel Islands cattle are healthy, breed well, and last long. The principal malady to which they are subject is milk fever, which, if prompt measures are not taken, proves a sure destroyer.

In both islands the entry of foreign stock for breeding purposes is prohibited. The law enforcing this has been long in existence and most rigidly observed; this accounts for the purity of the breeds in these islands. The animals are narrow between the shoulders, have short smooth coats, and eyes have a mild docile expression.

The importance of breeding from pure bred animals possessing not only good type and points but also having a good pedigree is now becoming daily more and more recognized by the best breeders, and therefore it may be well here to observe that at the present time almost every leading British breed has a regularly published herd book, to which the attention of foreign purchasers should specially be given.

SHEEP.

LEICESTER.

The old Leicester sheep kept in the county of that name during the first part of the last century were large coarse animals coming late to maturity but having abundance of coarse wool. Those now in use are descended from the Dishley stock, which was bred chiefly to rectify the faults in the carcass by improving the symmetry, and to obtain early maturity. In accomplishing this, however, at first a corresponding diminution in the quality of wool resulted. This defect, however, has been remedied of late years, and a good body with a moderately abundant fleece has been secured; but it is not so heavy as that of the old Leicester and some other breeds. The fleece may be said to be not an absolutely long wool, but rather inclined to middle length. It is not so valuable as formerly, now that Australia sends to England the best quality merino, adopted to finer kinds of fabrics.

It is used for serges, carpets, &c.

These sheep are earlier in maturity than most other long-woolled breeds, and the fat and lean are generally more equally distributed. They are, nevertheless, usually rather apt to lay on too much fat; for this reason the mutton is not so highly prized as Southdown, &c., but still it is of excellent quality. They succeed on land where they can be well fed, and their constitution and habits indicate them as suited to a highly cultivated and fertile soil, but not to poor thin land. Rams are largely exported to New Zealand and Australia. There are many points of resemblance between the Leicester and Lincoln sheep. The Leicester are more symmetrical but not so large as the Lincolns.

The Leicesters are valuable for crossing, and the mutton resulting is excellent. On this account they have been used for improving many of the existing breeds.

The head and ears are covered with short white hair. Some are rather bald on the forehead, but this is generally caused by their having been housed. The ears are long and thin; the eyes full and quick; the chest deep and wide; the backs broad and straight; the bone fine.

The wool is the best of the long-stapled bright coarse wools, and is used for making the best quality lustre yarns.

BORDER LEICESTERS.

This breed is much esteemed in the north of England. It is probably a cross between Leicester and Cheviot; the fleece, however, is very good when they are kept on rich land, and have shelter; they will do well on a small quantity of food, and they come early to maturity.

The flesh is somewhat coarse in grain with a large proportion of fat.

They cross well with Cheviots, Blackfaced, and Southdown, &c.

LINCOLNS.

The Lincolnshire sheep were formerly chiefly valuable for their wool, which grew 8 to 10 inches long, and the fleece was extremely heavy. In consequence, however, of the carcass not being good but few of the old sort are now kept. The Lincolns have been greatly improved by careful breeding and crossing, and in many respects they much resemble the Leicesters, though they are larger and still continue to produce heavy fleeces, a point in which they also excel the Cotswold and other breeds.

They

They have good symmetry, substance, and flesh, and they come early to maturity, with a tolerably fair proportion of fat and lean.

They have hardy and good constitutions. They thrive on bad clayey soils, and where the land is wet. Their hardiness and general good qualities recommend them for increased cultivation. They are generally bred on the higher lands and grazed on the lower.

They are valuable for crossing and are exported for this purpose to Australia, New Zealand, South America, and other parts. Some of the cross-bred Lincoln wool from Australia is extremely long, and of very superior quality.

The Lincoln wool is a long-stapled, bright, coarse wool, differing from the Leicesters in being longer and coarser, but it has better lustre, and is used for the same purposes.

COTSWOLD.

They derive their name from the Cotswold Hills, a range from 1,100 to 1,200 feet above the level of the sea, and running through the eastern side of Gloucestershire. They are one of the oldest breeds in England. The Cotswold sheep are kept in Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire, Herefordshire, &c. They are a very large hardy race, specially adapted to cold and exposed situations and to rough pastures. They come early to maturity, and produce a large amount of good mutton; they are, however, rather apt to lay on too much fat. The frames are large, and when fattened are surprisingly wide and flat on the back. The hind quarter and thighs are full, and the rumps frequently overhang. The chests are very prominent and wide.

The face is white and the countenance fine. They carry a heavy fleece of beautifully curled white wool, long in staple, and of a lustrous character, used for "combing," and generally for the same purposes as that of the Oxfords.

They are excellent for crossing with other kinds.

From a cross between Cotswolds and the black-faced or the Hampshire Downs has been established the breed called Oxford Downs. They are frequently crossed also with other varieties.

SOUTH DOWNS.

The name is derived from the Southdowns in Sussex, a range of hills extending about 60 miles, and are of moderate elevation and abounding in short fine herbage. The atmosphere is dry and healthy.

Large flocks of Southdown sheep are kept here because they will exist on short keep when the pasturage is hard stocked, and from their hardy constitution they are capable of enduring the bleak winds in winter and the drought in summer.

They are adapted to a dry hilly country, and are active, having often to walk far for a scanty supply of food, and they thrive on most other dry soils, hence they have been found to succeed well elsewhere, such as in Cambridgeshire, Norfolk, Essex, &c. They are exported to many of the Colonies and other countries. They are small consumers of food, and come early to maturity, with an aptitude to fatten. The Southdown mutton is held in the highest estimation, and commands the best price. They possess a symmetrical and neat form, which is greatly admired.

The bone is small, the body thick and cylindrical, the ears wide apart. Both the ears and forehead are well covered with wool, which forms a protection from fly.

The eye is full, bright, and quick, the chest wide, deep, and projecting, the back flat to the tail, which is set on high, the hind legs are very full on the insides, and wide apart.

The Southdowns are not only valuable as a pure breed, but also are admirable for crossing with others; when crossed with long-woolled sheep an animal is produced having a large frame and yielding excellent mutton. The fleece is short, close, curly, and fine. The wool may be classed amongst the finest qualities, and is the shortest staple wool of Great Britain. It is now used chiefly mixed with Australian wools.

HAMPSHIRE OR WILTSHIRE DOWNS.

The Hampshire or Wiltshire Downs formerly possessed an unsymmetrical form and coarseness of head. These characteristics they inherited from their progenitors, the old Wiltshire horned sheep of the last century.

By careful breeding and judicious crossing, however, they now have neat heads and are of a uniform type. The carcase is weighty, well formed, and the mutton is excellent.

The great improvement thus effected of late has caused them to become very popular, especially within the last ten or fifteen years. They now approach much nearer than formerly to the Southdowns, which breed they greatly resemble, but they are larger and stouter. They are very profitable sheep, prolific, and good mothers, and from their hardy nature they can withstand the exposure and cold of the Wiltshire, Hampshire and Buckinghamshire hills. They are largely kept in Dorsetshire, Oxfordshire, Gloucestershire, &c. They are very valuable for crossing with other breeds, and are extensively used in the Midland and Eastern counties for this purpose.

The fleece is of average weight and quality, of middle staple, but rather wasteful, thus inferior to the Southdown.

KENTISH OR ROMNEY MARSH.

For centuries the Romney marshes have had a breed of sheep peculiarly suited to the district, which is a flat low-lying alluvial tract of some 60,000 acres. The great characteristics of these sheep have always been, and still are, their extreme hardiness and power of enduring all weathers, particularly the strong winds that sweep so keenly across this marsh, to whose rich pastures they are specially suited. They are also bred on the grass lands in the interior of the country, and the marsh farmers often renew their strains from these localities. These sheep are to be found in many parts of Sussex, Essex, &c.

Formerly the type of this breed was a deep but narrow animal with sharp shoulders and the fore legs close together; it is, however, now much improved. Possibly there may have been a cross with the Southdown, as in many flocks known to have kept for many years scrupulously pure there is occasionally an appearance of a sheep possessing the characteristics of that breed, and perhaps formerly there may have been other crosses, such as Dorset and even Cotswold long wool, nevertheless the sheep have not suffered in hardiness. They are not large, and therefore have not been so extensively exported as some other long wool breeds. They are, however, occasionally sent to the Falkland Islands, South America, &c. They come early early to maturity, and in this respect are quite equal, if not superior, to other long wools; but in point of symmetry they are not so good as some other breeds, nor is the handling of the shoulder and back so perfectly level (except in the most improved flocks), nevertheless in respect of the depth of shoulder and thighs, and thickness of actual flesh, will compare favourably.

The fleece is heavy and long, and possesses fineness of fibre, good lustre, with a curl in the staple which gives it the "spring" which is so much prized. Its special feature is its good spinning properties. It is used to mix with mohair.

SHROPSHIRE SHEEP.

The county from which they derive their name is situated in the midland district of England. Till within the last forty years they were but little known beyond the border of their native county. They were then, however, hardy animals of good size and quality, and good wool-growers, consequently profitable sheep, but they were wanting in symmetry, and the spotted legs and faces gave them a want of uniformity to which sheep breeders from other districts objected. Of late years, however, these defects have been remedied by great care in selection for breeding. Thus much style and character, together with a dark face and legs, have become established in the breed. The result has been that they attained much popularity, and have become the favourite breed in the midland counties. They have been introduced into other parts of England, also into Scotland and Ireland.

They retain their original hardiness of constitution, weight, and quality of flesh and wool, with aptitude to fatten. Perhaps the most valuable peculiarity is that they thrive well when kept thickly on vale land not naturally adapted to sheep.

They are very prolific, good mothers, produce fine mutton, and yield a good fleece close and fine in staple, of middle length and medium quality, above the average softness of English wools, and it is used for mixing with Irish and other wools for export yarns.

OXFORDSHIRE.

This breed possesses the characteristics of a combination of the Cotswolds and Hampshires, or of the Sussex Down, from the admixture of which breeds they are no doubt derived, but by a uniformity of type having been adhered to they have now become a recognized breed.

They succeed on mixed soils, and feed on the green crops of arable land better than on sheep runs. They are good mothers and very prolific, and come early to maturity. They are dark in colour, the poll is well covered with wool, with a top-knot on the forehead; the legs are dark.

They are sometimes crossed with Hampshire ewes to produce early lambs. The fleece is thick and the wool is somewhat long in staple, coarse and hard in quality, and is manufactured with other wools for home and export yarns.

RYELAND.

This old breed originated in the valley of the Wye, a tract on which rye was formerly largely cultivated, and hence their name is supposed to be derived. They are bred in Herefordshire, the neighbourhood of the Malvern Hills, Monmouthshire, &c. They are not, however, now kept extensively as a pure breed. The heads are small; they have no horns; the wool is soft and fine, and is of good quality for carding purposes, but the fleece is very small, and consequently not remunerative to the farmer.

WELSH-MOUNTAIN.

The Welsh sheep are a small horned (i.e., males) breed, wild and active, and they frequent the highest parts of the mountains, thriving on scanty food, and feeding on Alpine aromatic herbs, which no doubt are the source of the fine flavour of Welsh mutton, which is highly prized. The faces are usually white, but sometimes speckled or grey.

The fleece varies, some being black, and others brown or grey.

The legs and face are covered with black hair, which is also found on parts of the body. They are slender and very long in the hind quarters. This formation gives them the power of jumping from rock to rock. The tail is long.

They are good nurses and prolific. There is also a large variety of Welsh sheep; they too are active. They roam and cannot be confined within ordinary enclosures. They have a softer wool than the small breed, or indeed many other of the mountain breeds, and it is less hairy in its nature. From this wool the celebrated Welsh flannel is usually made.

The mutton is very small and highly prized for its excellence.

THE RADNOR SHEEP.

Are kept on the hills of Brecon, Montgomery, and in their native county. Some are horned and some not—the type not being very distinctive. They do well on the unenclosed hills on which they are chiefly kept.

The Radnor sheep are excellent nurses. They are hardy, and capable of enduring mountain storms. The mutton is fine flavoured. This breed is often crossed with Leicesters, Shropshires, or Cotswold, to produce fat lambs.

CHEVIOTS.

They derive their name from the Cheviot Hills, a mountain range on the borders of England and Scotland. They are kept in the Southern Highlands of Scotland, and have spread even further to some of the heathy mountains of that country as well as to some parts of England. When kept on the low lands they increase in size; and of late years they have become very much improved by careful selection. They are active, especially those kept on the mountains. The lowland breeders prefer the larger types of this breed with short legs. They are not so wild as the other mountain breed, being generally docile, nor do they feed so much as the blackfaced breed on the young shoots of the heath, and they therefore require more grass pasturage. Hence it may be that the mutton does not possess the venison flavour for which that of the blackfaced breed is famous; nevertheless it is extremely good.

They have no horn. The faces are large and white; their thick wool makes them very hardy. It is short or middle staple and of medium quality, with good spinning qualities. It, however, varies much, and is chiefly used for making a soft yarn.

BLACKFACED

BLACKFACED MOUNTAIN.

Blackfaced sheep were formerly the only kind kept on the heathy mountain ranges of Scotland, and in some of the northern parts of England.

Formerly, from being left comparatively wild and at large on the mountains, there was little selection exercised for breeding, and therefore not much improvement was effected, but of late more attention has been given to correcting defects. The blackfaced are adapted to wild mountains and barren moors, but unlike the Welsh mountain sheep they do not keep exclusively to mountain tops, and they are not so wild in their nature.

They feed largely on the young shoots of heath, especially when keep is scarce. They also will eat coarse herbage. The mutton is excellent, and possesses a flavour nearer to that of venison than perhaps any other breed.

They are extremely active and hardy, capable of enduring cold and hunger, and they thrive on scanty food, having frequently to scratch through the snow to obtain it. They are good mothers.

They have a shaggy fur and coarse wool of middle length or rather long, inclined to curl, but it is hempy, and only fit for the coarsest description of manufactures, such as carpets, &c.

The face and legs are black.

The males have large spirally twisted horns, and the females also are mostly possessed of horns, but smaller.

By a cross with the Leicester or Lincoln breed good animals are produced, having the hardy constitutions of the mountain sheep, combined with the early maturity of the Leicester and Lincoln. This cross-bred mutton is very good.

The first cross, however, is the most successful.

DARTMOOR.

These sheep are small, the wool is soft, and the faces and legs are white.

They grow slowly; the mutton is extremely good, and is highly esteemed.

EXMOOR.

These are similar sheep to the Dartmoor, but are rather smaller; of late years they have been very much improved; some beautiful specimens have been exhibited at live-stock shows.

The mutton is excellent.

They are hardy and withstand any weather.

They are short, thick, and compact, and have short legs, close fleece, curled horns, white faces, legs, and fleeces.

They cross well with Leicesters.

DORSET.

From a remote period the Dorsets have been recognized as an established breed in Dorsetshire, Wiltshire, &c., and they have become scattered over other parts.

They are extremely prolific, and their fecundity is so great that they often produce lambs twice in the same year.

Their great peculiarity is that they lamb very early, and it is this breed which produces lamb mutton fit for eating as early as Christmas. The early lambs are fed on artificial food as well as suckled by the dams, and great care is taken to keep them "warmly housed." Dorset are horned, and have white faces. The body is tall and light, and the legs are long.

The wool is short and not abundant, but the quality is good. From it are made the fine cloths manufactured in Wiltshire.

SOMERSETS.

These sheep are similar to Dorsets but larger. The nose has a peculiar pink colour. They are active and prolific. The wool is longer than the Dorset, but the texture is equally fine.

ROSCOMMON.

This breed is said to have resulted from a cross between the pure Leicester and the old Connaught Irish sheep. Much attention has lately been given to improving the breed. They are reared entirely on grass and hay, and come to heavy weight at an early age. The wool is soft, and the staple deep.

HERDWICK.

This breed is a native of Cumberland (one of the northern counties of England). It is supposed that it derives its name from the fact of the flocks of the district having in former times been let out to "Herds" at a fixed price per annum.

The males are sometimes horned, but not always, unless they are crossed with other breeds. The horns then are white and waxy in appearance, rising out of the back of the head and curled once or twice. The faces and legs are speckled black and white.

These sheep are small, hardy, wild, and surprisingly active. It is difficult to retain them within any enclosure, for they will return incredible distances if removed from their native runs. The fleece is thick and matted together. The wool is rather shorter in staple and finer in quality than that of the blackfaced mountain sheep. In other respects it is very similar, and it is used for the same purposes.

PIGS.

BERKSHIRE.

This is a very valuable breed, usually rather above the medium size, and therefore it is ranked as a large kind. The prevailing colour is black and white, the white generally being on the nose, feet, and end of the tail. Some Berkshires are, however, almost all black.

They are a hardy useful kind for general purposes, but not suited either for killing as small pork or for producing large carcasses for curing as bacon.

The bacon, however, though not large is of excellent quality, the fat and lean being well distributed, the heads are moderately long, the ears somewhat projecting but not drooping, the skin has a slight tinge of pink, the eyes are large and intelligent, the hind quarters often droop rather too much, the legs are short, the hair is abundant and indicates great hardiness of constitution.

LARGE

LARGE WHITE.

The large Yorkshire, as they are frequently called, are an improvement on the old Lincolnshire; they still however have some of the characteristics of the original breed, viz., a long head, overhanging and drooping ears, very large bodies but narrow in proportion to the length. They are therefore flat sided, and the hind quarters usually droop.

They do not come early to maturity, and they are therefore usually kept till they attain their full growth; they then attain a large size, and are specially suitable for curing as bacon and large hams.

MIDDLE SIZED WHITE.

These have no doubt been produced by a cross between the large and small white breeds; they possess many of the good qualities of each breed, and are very useful.

They combine aptitude to fatten quickly, having plenty of flesh without coarseness, and hardness of constitution. They are good breeders, being more prolific than the small white breed, and they are good mothers.

They vary a good deal in characteristics, sometimes approaching the large and sometimes the small varieties, and may be said to be more fitted for bacon than for pork.

SMALL WHITE.

This breed differs from the large white in many respects.

These animals have very short noses, slightly turned up, their ears are sharp and project forward, and may be termed "prickears."

The body is covered with curly white hair, which is usually rather long, but in some cases it is thick and short. This breed, however, is generally rather delicate in constitution, and will not bear exposure.

The shoulders very wide and full, the back straight, the tail is set on high, the legs are deep and square. The bone is fine, the carcass is thick, compact, and very symmetrical. The small white breed possess a wonderful aptitude to fatten, so much so that the eyes often are almost hidden, but there is an undue proportion of fat in comparison with the lean; this breed, however, is extremely useful for crossing with larger and coarser varieties of pigs, and they generally improve the quality. Its early maturity makes it a breed specially adapted for dairy farms, and for killing as small "pork."

SUFFOLK.

These pigs are of a small breed, well coated with long soft hair, the abundance of which indicates that they possess good constitution. The nose and ears are short, the shoulders are excellent, the back is straight, the tail is set on high, and the general form is that of a parallelogram, and is very symmetrical. The skin is not apt to crack as in some breeds.

They possess great aptitude to fatten.

DORSET.

This is a black breed, showing a great resemblance to the Neapolitan. No doubt it originated from a cross with the Neapolitan and other black breeds.

These pigs are deficient in hair; their skin is dark; they are very handsome, thick, wide, and symmetrical, and they possess a great aptitude to fatten.

Their ears point forward, their noses and legs are short, and the animals are usually very handsome.

IMPROVED ESSEX.

There is a great similarity between the Essex and Dorset breeds, both evidently possessing a good deal of the Neapolitan blood. The Essex have rather longer heads with straighter noses. Their aptitude to fatten is excessive. They are extremely handsome in every respect.

IRISH.

The native pigs of Ireland are a large kind, with coarse bones, very hardy, and thriving well on scanty food. The ears large and long, strong hair; some are white, some black and white, and some spotted, but of late they have been very greatly improved by crossing with Berkshires and other varieties, and a large number of useful animals resulted, thus a vast amount of cheap and useful food has been produced.

APPENDIX M.

THE ADDRESS TO THE PRINCE OF WALES FROM THE COLONIAL COMMISSIONERS.

To His Royal Highness Albert Edward, Prince of Wales and Duke of Cornwall, K.G., K.T., K.P., G.C.B., G.C.M.G., G.C.S.I., &c., &c.

THE Commissioners representing the British Colonies that have participated in this year's Paris Universal Exhibition are so deeply sensible of the benefits derived from the active personal interest which Your Royal Highness has been, as President of the Royal British Commission, graciously pleased to show, in furthering every effort made to secure on this great occasion a worthy representation of the Arts, Manufactures, and Products of every part of Her Most Gracious Majesty's widespread Empire, that they would not willingly separate without offering to Your Royal Highness an expression of their heartfelt gratitude.

The prominent part so efficiently taken by one in Your Royal Highness's exalted position has sufficed to overcome many difficulties. Inspiring perfect confidence, it has produced unity of action, it has stimulated zeal, and created in all an anxious desire to follow loyally and worthily where Your Royal Highness led. To us it has been a fresh proof of the solicitude regard entertained by our beloved Sovereign and by the people of the mother-country for all that concerns the welfare and progress of the Colonies. Colonists everywhere value and cherish these feelings. They desire to strengthen and to perpetuate them, and seek the means of fostering the ties of interest and sympathy that bind them to Great Britain.

We

We believe that the erection of a permanent Colonial Museum in London, where the products and manufactures of Her Majesty's more distant possessions might at all times be on view, would diffuse throughout the mother-country a better knowledge of the nature and importance of the resources of the several dependencies of the Empire, would facilitate the commercial relations and aid the researches of men of science. It would assist in marking the progress achieved from time to time, and afford valuable information to intending emigrants.

We therefore venture to approach Your Royal Highness with the earnest prayer that Your Royal Highness may be pleased to further the movement by giving to it your personal interest and co-operation.

The nucleus of such a collection as is contemplated might at once be commenced with articles now in Paris, and we beg of Your Royal Highness to prevent their dispersion by using your influence to secure at least temporary accommodation for their exhibition in London until further steps can be taken.

We also take this opportunity of expressing our obligations to Your Royal Highness for having granted us the assistance of the Secretary of the Royal British Commission, Mr. Cunliffe Owen, C.B., whose unwearied attention to the interests of Colonial exhibitors has done much to realise Your Royal Highness's wishes on our behalf.

We have the honor to be, sir,
Your Royal Highness's most obedient humble servants,

T. C. KEEFER, Canada,
ED. COMBES, New South Wales,
G. C. LEVEY, Victoria,
J. BOOTHBY, South Australia,
ARTHUR HODGSON, Queensland,
PURVIS RUSSELL, New Zealand,

C. P. LAYARD, Ceylon,
SPENCER TODD, Cape of Good Hope,
L. G. ADAM, Mauritius,
W. WALKER, British Guiana,
J. COURT, Trinidad.

His Royal Highness then replied as follows :—

MR. KEEFER AND GENTLEMEN,—

I receive with great satisfaction the address you have presented to me on behalf of your respective Colonies.

In your loyal mention of Her Majesty the Queen is expressed that sentiment which is felt by every subject of the Sovereign, and nowhere more devotedly than in her Colonial Dominions.

I avail myself of this opportunity of expressing my warm acknowledgments to the Governments of the Colonies you represent for the cordiality with which they acted on my invitation, as President of the Royal Commission, to participate in the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878; and my thanks are no less due to you and to your fellow Commissioners for the hearty and efficient co-operation afforded during its progress.

The remarkable display of Colonial produce and manufactures cannot but have impressed all who have witnessed it with the rapid progress which the different Colonies have made, and with the great future which awaits them. But while the Colonial Courts are a fitting illustration of the enterprise and advancement which exist in the outlying portions of Her Majesty's Dominions, even higher results will flow from your participation in the Paris Exhibition. It has given the Colonies opportunities of becoming better acquainted with one another, opportunities of which you with your varied products and resources are so well able to take advantage; and, above all, has tended to promote unity of Colonial feeling and to strengthen those ties of loyal affection that now so happily bind together all portions of Her Majesty's Dominions.

I most heartily thank you for the share you attribute to me in achieving the measure of success we have together attained, notwithstanding the many difficulties which have beset so vast an enterprise.

I am equally gratified at your appreciation of the services of the Secretary, Mr. P. Cunliffe Owen, to whose efforts and those of the able and zealous staff engaged with him we all owe so much.

I agree with you in thinking that many advantages would flow from the establishment in London of a Museum displaying in an adequate manner the varied and rich products of the Colonies. The practicability, however, and the mode of carrying into effect such a scheme must necessarily require mature deliberation on the part of your respective Governments, and its success must depend upon their readiness to provide means to found and support it. But wishing to promote an idea containing so much to recommend it and presented to me by my fellow workers in the Exhibition, it will give me pleasure in the meantime to apply to the Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851 to place at your disposal the space requisite for the preservation during the ensuing year of such goods as you may desire to retain as a nucleus for a permanent collection. During this interval time will be afforded to your Governments for the necessary consideration of the scheme; and meanwhile I can but assure you of the warm interest with which I shall continue to regard every proposal tending to knit more closely the Colonies with each other and the Empire at large.

APPENDIX N.

DESPATCH and enclosures from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies relative to the part taken by the British Colonies in the Paris Exhibition.

The Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor of Victoria.
(Circular.)

Sir,

Downing-street, 30th December, 1878.

I have the honor to transmit to you the accompanying copy of a letter (dated 9th December, 1878) which I have received from His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, relative to the part taken by certain of Her Majesty's Colonies in the Paris Exhibition, together with a copy of the letter which I have addressed to His Royal Highness in reply.

I have the honor to be, sir,

The Officer Administering the Government of Victoria.

Your most obedient humble servant,

M. E. HICKS BEACH.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure No. 1.]

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to Sir Michael Hicks Beach.

Marlborough House, Pall Mall, S.W.,
December 9, 1878.

Sir,

The labours of the International Juries of the Paris Universal Exhibition having been completed and the Exhibition brought to a close, I desire to bring under your notice the action taken by the various Colonial Governments in response to the invitation forwarded to them to take part in the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1878.

Notwithstanding the numerous calls made upon the British Colonies of late years to take part in the various International Exhibitions, the amount of zeal and energy that have been shown in their response on this occasion has not been previously equalled and is highly gratifying to notice.

Influential local Commissions were appointed by the representatives of Her Majesty in the several Colonies, the necessary funds were liberally voted by the respective Legislatures, and administrative and executive Commissioners appointed to select and arrange contributions that should be worthy of the occasion, and to carry out their other responsible duties.

The success of the general and individual efforts thus made is shown in the satisfactory results of the collective exhibits arranged by the Colonies.

The aggregate expenditure of the Colonial Commissions that has been provided for by the sums voted by the various Legislatures and Crown Colonies is estimated at £80,000. The demands made for space on the part of the Colonies, especially the Dominion of Canada and Australia, were so large that great difficulty was found in providing for them, and ultimately a part of the grand vestibule in addition to the dome, which was the post of honor allotted to the Indian Empire, was ceded to some of the smaller Colonies.

The arrangements of the Dominion of Canada, which included all Her Majesty's possessions on the American Continent, were carried out by Mr. Thomas Keefer, C.E., C.M.G., on a scale far surpassing any previous representation of British America.

The cases and fittings of native woods were most effective and striking, as were the enormous sections of Douglas Pines sent from British Columbia. The woods and minerals, the products of the fisheries, of agriculture, and of manufacturing industry, so successfully arranged by Mr. Selwyn, Director of the Geological Survey, were of a very important character, and received high awards from the juries. The Educational Department, under the skilful superintendence of Dr. May and Mr. W. E. Archambault, was particularly well represented, and gained two diplomas of honor and six gold medals, and the Ministers of Public Works and of Agriculture were also honored with diplomas and gold medals.

The African Colonies were represented by the Cape of Good Hope, under the management of Mr. Spencer Todd, C.M.G., and by Lagos, under Mr. Arthur H. Porter. The unsettled position of affairs in the Colony operated unfavourably upon the South African exhibition, and prevented the Colonial Government from devoting to it so large a parliamentary grant as would have been necessary to secure a really perfect display of the resources of this Colony and of the great progress it has made since the date of the last Paris Exhibition. Samples of almost every South African product were, however, shown. Three exhibitors of wines gained gold medals. Wool, mohair, Angora hair, hides, and leather, were represented by small but well-chosen specimens, and the only undressed ostrich feathers to be found in the Exhibition were in the court of the Cape Colony, illustrating an industry which has developed in a most remarkable manner of recent years. Carefully selected specimens of the diamonds found in the mines of Griqualand West were also exhibited, and the mineral wealth of South Africa was well represented by a beautiful nugget of Transvaal gold, by coal from Queenstown, copper ore from Namaqualand, manganese ore from Wellington, and cobalt ore from the Transvaal.

The Educational Class was also well filled with maps, drawings, specimens of printing and book-binding, and interesting ethnological studies.

Perhaps one of the most striking exhibits from the Colonies was the representation made by Her Majesty's dependencies at the Antipodes. Australia and New Zealand have advanced with great strides since the last Exhibition in Paris. These provinces of the Empire, with a population of over two and a half millions, have an external-commerce exceeding ninety millions a year, the greater part of which is with Great Britain and her dependencies. It is not, therefore, surprising that the enterprise of these Colonies should have brought them prominently forward at this international competition, and that each made a creditable display of its own products and industry.

New South Wales, the oldest Australian Colony, exhibited the magnitude of her natural resources in her splendid display of wool, for which she gained a grand prix; in her display of coal, with which she supplies the countries of the Pacific; for her scientific display of mineralogical and natural history collections, by Professor Liversidge; and for the excellence of her varied branches of manufactures. The Hon. Edward Combes, M.P., C.M.G., late Minister for Public Works, the Executive Commissioner for New South Wales, remained in continuous care of the exhibits of this important Colony during the whole period of the Exhibition.

The energy and industry of the colonists of Victoria are remarkably shown by the great number and varied character of her exhibits. Representations of the enormous wealth attained through her gold discoveries are only evidences of the future riches which will accrue to her from the encouragement of her industrial resources. Wools, woollen fabrics, silks, wines, carriages, preserved meats and provisions, and almost every branch of industry was here represented. The Hon. J. J. Casey, M.P., C.M.G., President of the Victoria Commission, superintended the arrangement of the collections sent from his Colony, until his return to Victoria, after which his duties were performed by Mr. G. Collins Levey, C.M.G., the Secretary to the Commission.

The great natural resources of South Australia are shown by her exhibits of wheat, wool, gold, copper, wine, and oil. South Australia, as on some former occasions, received the highest award for her magnificent collection of wheat and a gold medal for flour. The granary of Australia, she also furnishes to the mother-country some of the finest description of grain. For her merino wool, amongst other prizes, a gold medal was awarded. The exhibits of gold and of native and manufactured copper attracted considerable attention and received suitable awards, whilst the wines and oils shown give promise of a rich reward to capitalists and labour. Mr. Josiah Boothby, C.M.G., Under Secretary to the Government of South Australia, ably represented the Colony throughout.

Queensland

Queensland has shown the variety and magnitude of her resources in a display of wool, sugar, minerals, pearl shell, and other articles of indigenous produce, which secured a large number of awards.

Queensland was represented by Mr. A. Macalister, C.M.G., Chairman of the Commission, the Agent-General in London, and by Mr. A. Hodgson, C.M.G.

Western Australia exhibited a small collection of general products, but was exceedingly important in its splendid exhibit of Jarrah-Jarrah and other forest timber not surpassed for its imperishable qualities, and which is obtainable in great abundance. The exhibits of this Colony were placed under the charge of the Secretary of the Royal Commission.

New Zealand, represented by Mr. T. P. Russell, sent only a small collection.

The International Juries have placed on record the merits of the above-mentioned Colonial exhibition by the number and importance of the medals and honorary rewards voted, which far exceed those granted at any previous Exhibition.

The youngest of our British possessions, the Fiji Islands, was awarded several gold medals for the quality of its cotton.

Of the Eastern Colonies, Ceylon sent the finest collection of produce, native manufactures, and jewellery ever yet exhibited. These were arranged by Sir Charles P. Layard, K.C.M.G.

The Straits Settlements, for the first time since their establishment as a separate Colonial Government, made an interesting representative collection. Mauritius with its dependencies, the Seychelles Islands, represented by Mr. Gustave Adam, Mr. Alphonse Lucas, and Mr. Edward Elias, obtained relatively the highest awards in general, and especially for the article upon which the industry of their population is concentrated, and the only grand prize awarded to cane sugars was won by Mauritius, in addition to five gold medals for the same produce and a gold medal for vanilla.

The only West India Colonies which took part in the Exhibition were Jamaica, British Guiana, and Trinidad. The principal products shown were sugar, rum, coffee, and specimens of woods. Each of these Colonies gained a considerable number of medals, indicating a fair average of excellence.

British Guiana was represented by Mr. William Walker, and Trinidad by Dr. J. Court. These exhibits from Western Australia, Jamaica, the Straits Settlements, and Seychelles, with British Guiana, Trinidad, and Lagos, were placed under the charge of Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen, as Secretary of the Royal Commission. He has been mainly assisted by Captain Harris, Royal Engineers, whose valuable and efficient services to the Colonies generally Sir Philip has never failed to bring specially under my notice, whilst for the technical arrangements and immediate superintendence of the collection from these above-mentioned Colonies, Mr. P. L. Simmonds was well qualified, by his official services at previous Exhibitions and his thorough knowledge of Colonial products, to bring these collections prominently before the International Juries.

Nearly all the Colonies published and circulated valuable descriptive catalogues, which afforded most useful information to visitors, and these were freely distributed with many other Colonial publications of scientific or popular character.

Considering that the number of exhibitors was more limited the Colonies have carried away a larger proportion of medals than the mother-country.

Taking advantage of the presence in Paris of a number of gentlemen qualified by their personal experience to judge Colonial produce I secured the services of the following Colonial Commissioners upon the International Juries :-

Mr. Thomas C. Keefer, C.E., C.M.G.	} The Dominion.
Dr. S. P. May
Mr. Alfred Selwyn, F.R.S., F.G.S.
Mr. W. E. Archambault	} New South Wales.
The Hon. Edward Combes, C.M.G.
Professor Liversidge...	} Victoria.
Mr. G. Collins Levey, C.M.G.
Mr. Josiah Boothby, C.M.G.	} South Australia.
Mr. Gustave Adam
Mr. Alphonse Lucas	} Mauritius.
Mr. Edward Elias
Mr. Spencer Todd, C.M.G. Cape of Good Hope.

I am further glad to acknowledge the valuable services upon the Jury of Mr. Colville Barclay, C.M.G., a well known officer in the Colonial Office.

These gentlemen at the same time gave valuable assistance to the Juries of their respective classes, were watchful for the interests of the several Colonies that they represented, and no less careful for the interests of the exhibitors from the mother-country.

In conclusion, I desire to bring under your notice the copy of an address from the Executive Commissioners of the Colonies which I had the pleasure of receiving at the British Embassy during my last stay in Paris. In the copy of my reply you will observe that I have expressed my satisfaction at the proposed formation of a Colonial Museum, and my readiness to co-operate in any scheme which may have received the mature consideration of the respective Colonies.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) ALBERT EDWARD, P.

The Right Hon.
Sir Michael E. Hicks Beach, Bart., M.P.,
&c., &c., &c.

[Enclosure No. 2.]

Sir M. Hicks Beach to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the letter dated the 9th instant, which Your Royal Highness was pleased to address to me with reference to the part taken by the British Colonies in the Paris Exhibition.

Downing-street, December, 1878.

2. The hearty response of the Colonial Governments to Your Royal Highness's invitation to them to take part in the Exhibition, the able and zealous co-operation of their representatives, and the distinguished success of the Colonial representation have afforded me the greatest satisfaction.

3. I am very sensible of the great advantage to the Colonies of Your Royal Highness's active and friendly attention to their interests at the Exhibition, and I have already received from gentlemen connected with the Colonies, officially and otherwise, warm expressions of gratitude for the trouble taken by Your Royal Highness on their behalf. I am confident that the Colonial Governments feel deeply indebted to Your Royal Highness for the valuable services which you have rendered to them.

4. I feel sure that the ready assistance and co-operation given at all times by Sir P. C. Owen and the members of his staff are also fully appreciated by the exhibitors and official representatives of the Colonies.

5. With reference to the proposed Colonial Museum in London referred to in the address from the Executive Commissioners of the Colonies to Your Royal Highness, I have the honor to state that I shall be ready to co-operate on the part of the Crown Colonies, so far as their means will permit, on learning that the important Colonies enjoying responsible Government are prepared to deal with the suggestions made by the gentlemen in Paris in a manner which would appear to me to promise success.

6. I shall have much pleasure in transmitting a copy of this correspondence to the Governors of all the Colonies, and in including it among the papers to be presented to Parliament in relation to Her Majesty's Colonial Possessions.

His Royal Highness, The Prince of Wales, K.G.,
&c., &c., &c.

(Signed) I have, &c.,
M. E. HICKS BEACH.

ROYAL

ROYAL COMMISSION FOR THE PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION OF 1878.

Canada Buildings, King-street, Westminster, London, S.W., 1879.

THE subjoined Minute explains the reason of the French Authorities for not issuing a Medal as well as a Diploma for Collective Exhibits and for not issuing more than one Medal to the same Exhibitor.

Sir,

Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce, Paris, 5 May, 1879.

I have the honor to send you, as requested, the extracts from the Minutes of the meeting of the Council of Presidents of the International Jury.

I have, &c.,

G. BERGER.

Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen,

Secretary to the Royal British Commission.

MINUTES of the Meeting of the Presidents of Groups held on the 23rd July, 1878, at 9 a.m.

Present: Mr. Feray in the chair—Messrs. Tullo Massarani, Meissonier, Jules Simon, Leopold Delisle, Professor White, Ferdinand Duval, Dr. Hirsch, Dieterle, Victor Tesch, Fremy, Hyffe, Tresca, Wischnegradski, Boussingault, His Excellency M. de Quintana, Hervé, Mangon, Klerck, Joigneaux, Berger and Dietz-Monnin, and the Secretaries of Groups.

The minutes of the meeting were read and confirmed.

M. Jules Simon observed that in the matter of official collective exhibits, it appeared to him that the solution was easy. Each special section of a collective exhibit might receive an award in the form of a Diploma, which would mention the merit of the exhibit.

As to private collective exhibits and exhibitors, the question was a more delicate one. It is thoroughly understood that one and the same article cannot receive an award in different classes; for instance, a geographical map, rewarded in class 16, cannot likewise be a subject for award as an apparatus for secondary instruction. But a collective exhibit, or an exhibitor who has exhibited different objects, ought to be able to receive several awards for objects which are of quite a distinct character. Thus, should they have deserved a grand prize in one class, and gold medals in others, it does not seem fair to deprive them of the right to be put into possession of a Declaration of the Jury that they have deserved the medals. The actual reward will not be given to them, but only a Certificate that they have been adjudged worthy of it. This solution becomes imperative in the case of a collective exhibit, or of an exhibitor who has merited a recommendation for a grand prize in several distinct classes.

M. Ferdinand Duval took note of the adoption by the meeting of the interpretation, that collective exhibits and exhibitors receiving awards in different classes should be entitled to receive in substance (en nature) the highest medal only out of those for which they were recommended, and for all others simply Certificates or Diplomas.

EDOUARD HEPP,

Secretary to the Presidents of Groups.

Seen and certified a correct copy.

The Director,—

G. BERGER.

Sir,

Sydney, 11 December, 1879.

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day received the enclosed letter from Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen, the Secretary of the Paris Universal Exhibition, of 1878, British Section, informing me that he had delivered to the Agent General the Silver Medals and Diplomas awarded by the International Jury to New South Wales exhibitors.

I would respectfully suggest that as the Paris Exhibition Commission has closed its labours, you would give such instructions as would lead to the distribution of these Medals and Diplomas to the exhibitors mentioned in Sir Philip Owen's letter.

I have, &c.,

MEMO.—The cost of keeping the Exhibition open (based on approximated calculations) is at the rate of £3,000 per month.

1879-80.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

(FIRST GOLD, SILVER, AND BRONZE MEDALS—ACCEPTANCE OF, BY HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.)

Presented to Parliament by Command.

Sir Daniel Cooper to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir,

3, Westminster Chambers, Victoria-street, S.W., 27 February, 1880.

I have the honor to forward herewith, for the information of the Government, a letter in original, together with a copy of my reply thereto, which I have received from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, intimating that the Queen has been graciously pleased to accept the first Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals of the Sydney Exhibition which I did myself the honor to forward on behalf of the Commissioners, and that Her Majesty has in addition expressed her satisfaction at the success of the Exhibition.

20 Feb., 1880.
25 Feb., 1880.

I do not doubt this communication, indicating as it does the interest manifested by the Queen in the first International Exhibition in Australasia, will be gratifying both to the Government and people of the Colony.

I have, &c.,

DANIEL COOPER.

[Enclosures.]

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach to Sir Daniel Cooper.

Sir,

Downing-street, 20 February, 1880.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated the 27th of January, enclosing for presentation to the Queen the first Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals of the Sydney International Exhibition.

I duly submitted this present, as tendered on behalf of the Commissioners of the Exhibition, for Her Majesty's gracious acceptance, and I now have it in command to express to you Her Majesty's thanks for the gift and Her satisfaction at the success of the Exhibition, to which your own exertions have in no small degree contributed.

I have, &c.,

M. E. HICKS-BEACH.

Sir Daniel Cooper to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

Sir,

3, Westminster Chambers, S.W., 25 February, 1880.

I have the honor to thank you for your letter of the 20th instant, acquainting me that you have it in command to express to me Her Majesty's thanks for the gift of the first Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals of the Sydney International Exhibition, which I had the honor, on behalf of the Commissioners, to forward for Her Majesty's gracious acceptance with my letter of the 27th January last, and that Her Majesty had expressed Her satisfaction at the success of the Exhibition.

I propose to send your communication to the Honorable the Chief Secretary by the next mail, and it will be most gratifying to the Government and people of the Colony to learn that the Queen has manifested such deep interest in the success of the first International Exhibition in that distant portion of the Empire.

I have, &c.,

DANIEL COOPER.
