AUSTRALASIAN FEDERATION ENABLING BILL.

(Resolution.)

Mr. Reid moved that the Committee agree to the following Resolution:—

Resolved,—“That” it is expedient to bring in a Bill to enable New South Wales to take part in the framing, acceptance, and enactment of a Federal Constitution for Australasia.

Motion made (Mr. Copland) That the resolution be amended by leaving out all the words after the first word “That” and inserting the words “inasmuch as the Parliament of this Colony did during the year 1890 adopt certain resolutions appointing delegates to a National Convention empowered to consider and report upon ‘An adequate scheme for a Federal Constitution for the Australian Colonies,’ and that such delegates, in conjunction with other members of such Convention, did consider and report on such scheme, and submitted the ‘Draft Bill of the National Convention of 1891,’ and on the 11th day of January, 1893, the Legislative Assembly, by a majority of 47, and on the 30th day of May in the same year, the Legislative Council, by a majority of 14, respectively, adopted the following resolutions:—

‘Resolved (1.) That this House reaffirms its opinion in favour of the Federation of the Australian Colonies, and having regard to the difficulties, as well as the necessity of reconciling conflicting interests, and coming to a common ground of agreement, it approves of the main principles of the proposals for a Federal Constitution embodied in the Draft Bill of the National Convention which met in Sydney in March, 1891, representing under resolutions, the several Parliaments of Australia.

‘(2.) That this House is of opinion that the said proposals should be considered in Committee of the Whole, and that such amendments as may be desired by the Legislative bodies of this and of the several other Australian Colonies should, together with the Draft Bill, be remitted to the consideration of a second Convention, similarly appointed by and reporting to the several Parliaments, and that the question of the final adoption by any Colony of any proposal for a Federal Constitution should be submitted to the people thereof in their electoral capacity.’ This Committee is therefore of opinion that as the intellectual labours of many of the ablest and most patriotic statesmen of the several Australasian Colonies have been embodied in the Federal Convention Bill of 1891, at considerable sacrifice of time and money, such Bill is worthy of and entitled to further consideration by this Parliament, and should now form the basis for another advance in the direction of federal union by giving effect to the above resolution (No. 2),” instead thereof.

4. The Clerk, by direction of the Chairman, read the Petition of William Stephen, Esquire, to which the Bank deposit receipt was attached, as follows:—

To His Excellency the Honourable Sir FREDERICK MATTHEW DARLEY, Knight, Lieutenant-Governor of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

The humble Petition of William Stephen, of Botany, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales.

1. That at the last General Election of Members to serve in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, John Rowland Dacey, William Stephen your Petitioner, and James John MacFadyen, were severally candidates to be elected as Members of the said Assembly for the Electoral District of Botany.

2. That at the nomination for the said election, your Petitioner was duly nominated and proposed as such Member.

3. That before and at the time of the said nomination and from thence your Petitioner was and is a person duly qualified by law to be elected a Member of the said Legislative Assembly.

4. That the Returning Officer, on the day of the Declaration of the Poll for the said Electoral District, declared the number of votes polled for the respective candidates to be as follows:—For John Rowland Dacey, six hundred and ten votes; for your Petitioner, William Stephen, six hundred and seven votes; for James John MacFadyen, one hundred and ninety votes. And further declared that fourteen of the total number of votes polled were informal. And he thereupon declared the said John Rowland Dacey to be duly elected as a Member of the said Legislative Assembly for the said Electoral District. And the said Returning Officer afterwards endorsed on the said Writ the name of the said John Rowland Dacey as the person so elected, and returned the said Writ.

5. That the said Returning Officer for the said Electoral District publicly declared that the candidate John Rowland Dacey polled six hundred and ten votes, and your Petitioner has been informed, and verily believes it to be the fact, that in consequence of many mistakes being made in counting the ballot papers, and in consequence of unqualified persons being permitted to record votes, the said John Rowland Dacey did not poll that number of votes.

6. That your Petitioner has heard, and verily believes the same to be true, that many of the ballot papers were declared to be informal, which, as a matter of fact, were not informal, and that such votes should have been counted in favour of your Petitioner, thereby giving, as your Petitioner verily believes, a majority in favour of your Petitioner.

7. That your Petitioner has been informed, and verily believes the same to be true, that many of the said ballot papers were not initialled by the Deputy Returning Officers, according to the provisions of the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893," and were therefore informal.

8. That your Petitioner has also been informed, and believes the same to be true, that the said Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers were not supplied with proper Check Rolls in accordance with the provisions of the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893," and that consequently there were no available means of ascertaining the validity of many of the votes polled.

9. That your Petitioner has been informed, and verily believes the same to be true, that the Deputy Returning Officer at the polling booth at Alexandria permitted persons to remain in the said polling booth during the taking of the poll other than the said Deputy Returning Officer, the Poll Clerks, the Scrutineers, and six voters being at the time actually engaged in voting, contrary to the provisions of the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893."

10. That your Petitioner has been informed, and verily believes the same to be true, that certain persons were permitted to record votes who should have been prohibited from voting, pursuant to the provisions of the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893."

11. That your Petitioner has been informed, and verily believes the same to be true, that certain persons were permitted to vote who were not qualified by law to vote at the said election.

12. That Your Petitioner has been informed, and verily believes the same to be true, that certain irregularities were committed in connection with the said election, contrary to the provisions of the said Act.

13. That Your Petitioner, pursuant to the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893," has caused the sum of fifty pounds to be paid into the Australian Joint Stock Bank (Limited), Redfern Branch, to the credit of the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, in relation to this Petition, and the bank deposit receipt for such payment is hereunto annexed.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays as follows:—

- (1.) That this Petition may be dealt with according to law.
- (2.) That the return of the said John Rowland Dacey as a Member of the Legislative Assembly for the said Electoral District of Botany may be declared null and void for the reasons aforesaid.
- (3.) That a scrutiny of all ballot papers may be made by the Committee of Elections and Qualifications.
- (4.) That for the reasons aforesaid, it may be declared that the said John Rowland Dacey was not lawfully elected, and is not such Member of the Legislative Assembly for the said Electoral District of Botany.
- (5.) That it may be declared and determined that your Petitioner was duly elected at the said election to serve and be a Member of the said Legislative Assembly for the said Electoral District of Botany, and is entitled to take his seat accordingly in the said Legislative Assembly.

And Your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

Mr. Camm,	Mr. Neild,
Mr. O'Sullivan,	Mr. Waddell,
Mr. Crick,	Mr. Cameron.

Henry Clarke, Esq., in the Chair.

Mr. Henry White, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Stephen.

Frederick William Webb, Esq., C.M.G., Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] Do you produce the whole of the papers connected with the election of a Member to serve in the Legislative Assembly for the Electorate of Botany? I produce the writ issued by His Excellency Sir Frederick Mathew Darley on the 6th day of July of the present year, with the certificate thereon of the returning officer:—"I hereby certify that John Roland Dacey was duly chosen a Member for the Electoral District of Botany, to serve in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.—WILLIAM PARKER, Returning Officer." I also produce three bundles, certified by the returning officer to contain the balloting-papers, used and unused, and other important documents.

F. W. Webb,
Esq., C.M.G.
2 Sept., 1895.

William Stephen called in, sworn, and examined:—

2. Mr. White.] Were you a candidate at the last election for Botany? I was.
3. In your petition you allege that you were informed and believe that many mistakes were made in counting. Will you tell me what your information and belief were? I have been informed, and I believe it to be true, that at the various polling-booths many votes were declared to be informal which should have been counted in my favour. This information has come from the scrutineers, and in one instance from the presiding officer himself.
4. Mr. Crick.] What is the name of the scrutineer? This scrutineer's name is Armstrong.
5. Mr. White.] For what polling-booth was he scrutineer? At the North Botany polling-place.
6. Mr. Dacey.] For what letters? J to M.
7. Mr. White.] Can you name any unqualified persons who voted at the last election? Their names are Murray.
8. How many Murrays were there? I have been informed that there were three.
9. What is the name of the first Murray;—is it Edward Murray? Yes.
10. And Thomas Murray is the second one? Yes; and William Murray is the third.
11. Did any other unqualified person vote, besides the Murrays? There was one other, I have been informed, named Felton.
12. Arthur Felton? I do not know his Christian name. I am informed that a man named Felton, who had been out of the district twelve months, voted.
13. Were there any others besides those whom you have named? I am not aware that there were any others.
14. Do you know a man named Brimble? Yes, a man named Brimble was challenged.
15. Did he vote? I am informed that he did.
16. Do you know of any informalities in connection with the ballot-papers? I have been informed that various ballot-papers were not initialled before being placed in the ballot-box.
17. Mr. Crick.] Who gave you that information? One of my scrutineers.
18. What was his name? John Flynn.
19. At what booth was he? At the polling-booth at Botany.
20. Mr. White.] Were there any other informalities? I am not cognisant of any other informalities.
21. Mr. Neild.] You say in your petition that the returning officer and deputy returning officers were not supplied with proper check rolls;—is that so? I have been informed that it is.
22. Were these alleged improper voters challenged? Yes.
23. Did they make the necessary declarations? I am informed that the Murrays were challenged at the Alexandria polling-place, and were refused their votes. They went out then to North Botany. The questions were put to them there, and they signed the book and voted.
24. Mr. Dacey.] Did Mr. Flynn inform you that a number of ballot-papers in A to F were not initialled by the returning officer? He informed me that some of them were not initialled at the commencement of the election.
25. Are you quite sure that that information is correct? Mr. Flynn is in waiting, and will be prepared to give the evidence correct.
- W. Stephen.
2 Sept., 1895.

William

William John Armstrong called in, sworn, and examined:—

W. J.
Armstrong.
2 Sept., 1895

26. Mr. White.] Do you remember the election at Botany on the 24th July last? I do.
 27. Were you a scrutineer at that election? Yes; at the G to M table, both letters inclusive.
 28. Do you remember three persons named Murray voting there? I remember two.
 29. Were they challenged? They were both challenged.
 30. Do you remember whether they were qualified? I believe that they were not.
 31. Do you know of your own knowledge, or do you believe, that they were not residents of the district? I am led to believe that they were not residents. I do not know for certain that they were unqualified.
 32. They voted after being challenged? Yes.
 33. Did you notice any informal votes? Yes; two. I believe they were both in favour of Mr. Stephen.
 [Witness illustrated how the names upon two ballot-papers had been treated by voters.]
 34. Why were the votes declared informal? Because the paper was punctured.
 35. How many informal votes were there? Only two at my table.
 36. Mr. Dacey.] Did you see all the votes that were cast at your table? I believe I did.
 37. Did you see a vote like that [producing a paper in illustration]? I do not think I did.
 38. Will you swear that there was not such a vote given? I believe that there was not.

TUESDAY, 3 SEPTEMBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. Henry Clarke,	Mr. O'Sullivan,
Mr. Cameron,	Mr. Waddell,
Mr. Neild,	Mr. Hogue.
Mr. Caun,

Henry Clarke, Esq., in the Chair.

Mr. Henry White, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Stephen.

Mr. Neal Collins, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Dacey.

John Flynn called in, sworn, and examined:—

J. Flynn.
3 Sept., 1895

39. Mr. White.] What are you? A greengrocer.
 40. Do you remember the general election at Botany on the 24th July? Yes.
 41. Were you a scrutineer at that election for Mr. Stephen? Yes.
 42. Do you remember a voter named Samuel Brimble coming into the polling-booth? Yes.
 43. Will you tell the Committee what you know about it? Brimble came in and I challenged him. The presiding officer then read the Act to him, and when he heard it he said, "I am not going to vote; I am in enough trouble now."
 44. What was the trouble Brimble referred to? I do not exactly know, but I know that he was under committal for something—I think it was false pretences.
 45. Did Brimble come back? Yes; about twenty minutes afterwards. Mr. Dacey and Mr. McFadyen took him in—one on each side. Mr. Dacey said, "I have had enough of this damned challenging; I will have no more of it." Then the returning officer gave Brimble a ballot-paper, and he voted.
 46. Did Brimble sign the declaration? No; he did not sign anything.
 47. Was he asked to sign when he came in on the first occasion? Yes.
 48. Did he refuse? When the presiding officer read the Act to him, he handed him the book to sign, but Brimble said, "I am not going to vote, I am in enough trouble now," and walked out.
 49. What polling-place was this at? In the A to F booth, at the School of Arts, Lower Botany.
 50. Do you remember anything about the initialling of ballot-papers? The presiding officer came to me about 12 o'clock, and said, "Flynn, I forgot to initial the papers. Have you any objection to my doing it when I open the box." "Well," I said, "I do not know, you know best. I have not often been a scrutineer. I will leave it to you." He said, "It will be all right." I said, "What about the other scrutineers?" "Oh," he said, "they are new chums at it, they will not know whether I am doing right or wrong."
 51. Mr. Cameron.] What was the name of the presiding officer? Masters.
 52. Mr. White.] What was his Christian name? I could not say. I do not know him, except by sight. He did not consult the other two scrutineers. He only consulted me and the poll-clerk. He said, it did not matter about the others.
 53. Did Dacey remain in the polling-booth that day, or was he there at any time during the day? Only when he fetched Brimble in.
 54. Were the ballot-papers afterwards initialled? Yes; the presiding officer did it when he was putting them out, counting them.
 55. When was that? About 5 o'clock or a little afterwards, when the poll closed.
 56. At what time in the day did he mention the fact to you that he had forgotten to initial the ballot-papers? Between 11 and 12.
 57. How many do you suppose there were? Nineteen or twenty.
 58. Mr. Neild.] They were initialled subsequently? Yes.
 59. Mr. Hogue.] Did you, yourself, see him initial them after they were taken out of the box? Yes. After they were taken out of the box he turned them on their backs and initialled them, and then he looked to see who they were for, and put them on the heaps.
 60. Mr. White.] Did Mr. Dacey remain in the polling-booth during the day? He only came there once with Brimble.
 61. Was he asked to withdraw? I did not hear anyone ask him to withdraw. He was in a bit of a temper. He frightened me as well as the presiding officer.
 62. Did you call the attention of the presiding officer to his presence? I said to him, "Have these gentlemen any right in here? I am informed that they have no right here except to give their votes." "Oh," he said, "that is all right," and he then said something to Mr. Dacey, who went out.

63. Mr. Neild.] How long were the candidates in the polling-booth? Seven or ten minutes, I suppose. J. Flynn.
64. Altogether? Fully that.
65. Mr. White.] Does that include the time when Mr. Dacey came in with Mr. Brimble, and Mr. 3 Sept., 1895.
McFadyen also came in with him? Yes, that was the only time that Mr. Dacey came in.
66. Mr. Hogue.] Was that after the poll closed? No, during the polling.
67. About what hour? I could not exactly say.
68. Mr. Cameron.] Was it before or after dinner? I think it was about 3 o'clock, as near as I can remember.
69. Mr. Collins.] What was said to Brimble when he went in first? I looked at my book, and I said, "I challenge." That is all that was said.
70. You did not use the words of the Act? No, I did not say anything more than that. The presiding officer then took up the Act, and read it to him. When he heard the Act, he said, "If that is it, I am not going to vote. I am in enough trouble now."
71. What did the presiding officer say? He did not say anything to me. He only said, "You know that man is entitled to vote." I said I did not know anything about it.
72. Did you not, instead of challenging the man, say to him, "You have shifted"? No.
73. Will you swear that you did not say that? That is the reason I challenged him.
74. Will you swear you did not say it? No, I will not.
75. As a matter of fact, you did say it? I did tell him that. That is the reason I challenged him.
76. Where had he shifted to? Into Bay-street.
77. From where? From Lower Botany.
78. He was still in the electorate? Yes.
79. You, as scrutineer, challenged the man on that ground? Yes. Someone told me that if a man was under committal he would not be allowed to vote.
80. You did not put that to him;—you simply put it to him that he had shifted, and on that ground you challenged his fitness to vote? Yes; I did not know better at the time.
81. Will you tell me exactly what the presiding officer said in answer to that? He said that the man was entitled to vote.
82. But he would not vote? He did not vote—not the first time.
83. How long afterwards was it that he returned? It was not a great while—I could not say exactly.
84. Will you tell us when, as well as you can remember? I could not say the time.
85. Was it at 11 or 12 o'clock in the morning, or was it in the afternoon? I believe that it was after dinner.
86. Would it be within an hour that he returned? That I could not say. I was not paying much attention to the time.
87. Did he come by himself? No; Mr. Dacey and Mr. McFadyen took him back.
88. You say that Mr. Dacey was in the polling-booth; the polling-booth was a room, I suppose;—now how far was Mr. Dacey inside the door? He was in the centre of the room. He was facing me, and I was sitting in the centre as scrutineer.
89. Mr. Cann.] Did he go near the tables? He walked over near to the presiding officer.
90. Did he go near the tables? No, he did not.
91. Nor yet the lobbies where the electors went to vote? No.
92. Mr. Collins.] Was anybody about at that particular moment? I think there were a couple of policemen looking in at the door.
93. That is all you saw? That is all I saw.
94. There were no voters with whom he could interfere? No voters.
95. What did Mr. Dacey say at this improper interference? He just said that there was too much damned challenging, and he would have no more of it.
96. Did he use the word "damned"? I am certain that he did.
97. What did you say? I did not say anything.
98. Were you not the culprit? I do not know that. It was as much to the one as to the other, I take it.
99. What do you mean? I did not know whom he was addressing.
100. You were the person who interfered? Yes.
101. Without any further objection this man was allowed to vote? Yes; I thought I had done my duty in challenging him, and I left the rest to the presiding officer.
102. Do you know the presiding officer? I have seen him.
103. Do you know if he is friendly towards any of the candidates? I do not know that.
104. Do you know his political opinions? [Question disallowed.]
105. Can you say definitely how many of the ballot-papers were subsequently initialled by Mr. Masters? I could not take my oath upon it, but as a rough guess there would be eighteen or twenty.
106. Did you or did he see the ballot-papers before he initialled them? I saw some of them when he was turning them over to initial them.
107. You could not swear to any of them as to in whose favour they were? Anyone there could have seen them. The papers were folded, but not initialled on the outside, and some of them he opened with the face towards the scrutineers.
108. Did he initial them on the back or on the front? On the back.
109. Then what necessity was there for opening them? I suppose he did that to save himself the trouble of opening them afterwards to lay them out. I saw some of them right enough.
110. Mr. Hogue.] Do you know whom the votes were recorded for? Yes.
111. For whom were they recorded? Some for Mr. Dacey, some for Mr. Stephen, and some for Mr. McFadyen.
112. Mr. Waddell.] Those were the uninitialled ballot-papers? Yes.
113. Mr. O'Sullivan.] What made you challenge this voter when he came in? Through his shifting. I thought that no man who had shifted could vote.
114. Were you ignorant of the fact that he still resided in the electorate? I knew that he lived in the electorate, but I was under the impression that if a man shifted he could not vote, and my roll was marked to that effect.
115. Did you challenge many others on that ground? I challenged about four. 116.

- J. Flynn.
3 Sept., 1895.
116. Was that on your own knowledge, or were you put up to it as a matter of bluff, on the chance of knocking someone out? There was no chance at all about it. The roll I have now has an ink-mark to show whom I had to challenge.
117. You did not know that as this man resided within the electorate he could vote? I did not think he could vote, or I should not have challenged him.
118. Mr. Cameron.] You were not advised by the returning officer to do this? No.
119. Chairman.] Had the man an elector's right? Yes.
120. And his name was on the roll? Yes.
121. Mr. Neild.] Do you say that he admitted that he had been convicted of some offence? No. He was under committal.
122. Mr. Hoque.] Before you took upon yourself the duties of scrutineer, did you make yourself acquainted with the provisions of the Act? No, I did not.
123. Had you ever acted as scrutineer before? Yes.
124. Without being acquainted with the provisions of the Act? Yes.
125. Mr. Cann.] Was it at an election conducted under the Act? I do not know.
126. Mr. Cameron.] How long ago was it? Last time that Mr. Stephen put up.
127. Mr. White.] Can you say how near Mr. Dacey went to the table;—was he 1, 2, 3, or 4 feet away from it? He was about 3 yards, I reckon, from the presiding officer. He was closer to me.
128. How close was he to you? He was about a yard or a yard and a half from me. The table was between us, and a couple of stools.
129. Mr. Hoque.] Did he go there to vote? No.

Senior-constable Richard Bruce called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Senior-constable
Bruce.
3 Sept., 1895.
130. Mr. White.] Do you remember the last polling-day at Botany? Yes.
131. You were present in the booth there? Yes; at the School of Arts, Botany.
132. Do you remember Mr. Dacey coming in with a man named Brimble? Yes.
133. Will you tell the Committee what happened? Dacey came in with Brimble, and said something with respect to Brimble's vote having been challenged. I did not take particular notice of the words that passed; but the conversation lasted a very short time, and Mr. Dacey then went out again.
134. Did you see Mr. Brimble come in upon the first occasion when he was challenged? Yes.
135. Did you see him vote then? No.
136. He went out without voting? Yes.
137. And came back with Mr. Dacey? Yes.
138. Chairman.] Was there anyone besides Mr. Dacey with him? Yes; Mr. McFadyen.
139. Mr. Cann.] Do you know where Brimble lives? Yes; in Bay-street, Botany.
140. In the electorate in which he proposed to vote? Yes.
141. Mr. Collins.] How far inside the booth was Mr. Dacey? I think he was two or three steps inside the door.
142. He was not in any way interfering with the ingress or egress of others? No.
143. As a matter of fact, there were no voters there? I do not think there were.

Constable Wesley Small called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Constable
W. Small.
3 Sept., 1895.
144. Mr. White.] Do you remember the 24th July last? Yes.
145. Were you then at the polling-booth, Botany? Yes; at the School of Arts.
146. Do you remember a man named Brimble coming there to vote? I do.
147. Did you see him challenged? Yes.
148. What took place? He was challenged by the scrutineer, and the rules read over to him. He refused to vote. He went outside and had a conversation with Mr. Dacey. I followed him out, and then they both went into the booth again. Mr. Dacey spoke to the presiding officer, and Mr. Brimble voted.
149. Did you hear what he said? No; I could not hear what was said.
150. Was there anyone there besides Mr. Dacey? Yes; Mr. McFadyen.
151. Did you hear what was said? No; I could not catch it.
152. Did you hear any of it? Mr. Dacey said that they were too fond of challenging.
153. Nothing more? I did not hear anything more.
154. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Do you know anything of Brimble? I believe that he is committed for trial.
155. Do you know his address? Yes.
156. Was he an elector of Botany according to law? Yes.
157. Were you aware of that when he was challenged? No.
158. You have since ascertained that, although he was challenged, he was really a voter? Yes; I have heard so since.

Aaron Laycock called in, sworn, and examined:—

- A. Laycock.
3 Sept., 1895.
159. Mr. White.] Do you remember the 24th July, the election day? Yes.
160. Were you a scrutineer then? Yes.
161. For whom? For Mr. Stephen.
162. At what booth? G to M, the central booth at Alexandria.
163. Do you remember challenging anybody there? Yes; I challenged four.
164. What was done? One challenge was dismissed, and the other three sustained.
165. Did anyone who had been challenged by you afterwards vote? One of them did.
166. Do you know his name? No; but I can give you his number.
167. What is his number on the roll? 770.
168. Would you know the name if you heard it? No. My challenge was dismissed, and the man voted.
169. Do you remember Mc'Ginnis coming to vote? Yes; he was the first I challenged, and the challenge was sustained.
170. Did he answer the questions put to him by the presiding officer? Yes; he answered one or two, but I do not think he answered the last question.
- 171.

171. He did not vote? No, not at my booth.
172. Mr. O'Sullivan.] On what grounds did you challenge him? It was put down on my roll that he had left the district.
173. That he had left the district, or merely that he had changed from one street to another? That he had left the electorate. When I got the roll from Mr. Stephen's secretary I was told that he had left the electorate.
174. Did the presiding officer make an inquiry? He put the prescribed questions, the last of which, I think, Mr. M'Ginnis declined to answer.
175. The last question is, "Do you still hold the same qualifications for which this elector's right was issued?" Something to that effect.
176. We have had one instance of a man being challenged because of his changing his address? I do not know about that; I asked no questions.
177. Mr. White.] You challenged him and he did not vote? No.
178. Mr. Hogue.] Did you hear many challenges during the day? There was only one by Mr. Dacey's scrutineer and one by myself.
179. Mr. Collins.] Were you a member of Mr. Stephen's Committee? No.
180. The roll was placed in your hands the night before the election? Yes; I took the chair for Mr. Stephen at one meeting.
181. But you had nothing to do with going through the lists to find out what persons should be challenged? Nothing.
182. Mr. Neild.] Will you read out the numbers of those whom you challenged? M'Ginnis, 920, and No. 677. I have only those that were sustained. 770 was dismissed.
183. Mr. Cann.] What do you mean by "dismissed"? The man voted. 849 was sustained. 583 was challenged by Mr. Dacey's scrutineer, and he also declined to answer the question.
184. Mr. White.] Did you challenge a man named Felton? No; he never came to my booth.

A. Laycock.
3 Sept., 1895.

William John Armstrong recalled and further examined:—

185. Mr. White.] What is your polling booth? G to M.
186. Do you remember a man named M'Ginnis coming to your booth and voting? Yes; I believe he did.
187. Do you know whether he was a resident of the locality? I do not.
188. Do you remember a man named Felton? He did not come to my table.
189. Have you found out anything about Felton? I have found out that he left Blucher-street, North Botany, on Saturday, March 17th, 1894. He has never resided in Botany since.
190. Where has he resided? In Redfern.
191. Mr. Cann.] How do you know he left Botany on that date? From information received from the residents in the street.
192. Mr. Collins.] You cannot positively swear that M'Ginnis voted? Not unless I see my own roll. [Witness' roll produced.]
193. Was it at your booth that M'Ginnis voted? Yes; I find that both Henry Thomas M'Ginnis and Patrick M'Ginnis voted at my table.
194. Do you know of your own knowledge that Felton is living in Redfern? I have not seen him in Botany for the last twelve months.
195. Did not anybody put the prescribed questions to either of the M'Ginnis? They were not challenged at my table.
196. Mr. Neild.] Does Mr. M'Ginnis live in Botany? I believe that he lives in Alexandria.
197. How long is it since he was supposed to have moved? I could not say. I do not know the man at all myself.

W. J. Armstrong.
3 Sept., 1895.

William Frank Dundas called in, sworn, and examined:—

198. Mr. White.] Do you remember the last election at Botany? Yes.
199. Were you a scrutineer for Mr. Stephen then? I was.
200. Where? At the North Botany Town Hall—A to F.
201. Do you remember a man named Felton coming there? I do.
202. Did you challenge him? I sang out "challenge," but the returning officer did not hear me, and the other scrutineers said that I was too late.
203. Why was Felton not qualified;—was he a resident in the electorate? He had been out of the district twelve months.
204. Do you know of your own knowledge that he resided out of the electorate? Yes.
205. For how long? I could not say for certain.
206. Can you go near to it? About eight months.
207. Mr. Neild.] Where did he live at the time of the election? I do not know, but he used to live in Blucher-street, off King-street, North Botany.
208. But you say that he lived out of the electorate? Yes; but I do not know where he lived.
209. Mr. Collins.] Can you say whether he lived up at what is known as Irishtown, or anywhere along between that and Botany? No.
210. You know that that is within the electorate? Yes; I believe that it is.
211. Mr. Cameron.] On what grounds did you challenge him? Because his name was marked on my roll.
212. Did you know anything of your own knowledge, without another person speaking to you, to justify you in challenging him? No, I did not.

W. F. Dundas.
3 Sept., 1895.

Henry Punter called in, sworn, and examined:—

213. Mr. White.] Were you a scrutineer at the last election? No.
214. What were you? Outside the Town Hall.
215. Do you remember a man named Felton? I do.
216. Did you see him vote? I saw him go in to vote.

H. Punter.
3 Sept., 1895.

- H. Punter. 217. Do you know anything about him? I know that he has been out of the district for about fifteen months.
- 3 Sept., 1895. 218. Do you know that of your own knowledge? I know it for a fact.
219. Mr. Neild.] Do you know where he lives? In Redfern, I believe. He lives out of the district, I know for certain.
220. Mr. White.] Do you remember what was done with the ballot-boxes after the ballot-papers had been put into them? They were put into the Mayor's room, I believe.
221. How long did they stop there? They were there next day.
222. Up to what time next day? They were there until 11 o'clock.
223. Was anybody in charge of them? Mr. Ellery, the Deputy Returning Officer. They were sealing them up.
224. Mr. Neild.] They were sealing them up the next day? They were packing up papers and various things on the table.
225. Mr. White.] Those were the ballot-boxes and the ballot-papers? No; not the ballot-papers, but they were papers referring to the election.
226. Mr. Collins.] Do you know the boundaries of the Botany electorate? Pretty well.
227. Can you tell them to us? I know that the boundary, as near as my memory serves, extends in one direction as far as Vickery's brick-works.
228. In what direction would that be? West. Then it goes to the La Perouse Road, and almost to Little Coogee, east.
229. I want to know that boundary; it is rather important? I could not tell you the boundaries exactly, but I know very well where to go to look for voters.
230. Did you know where to look for Felton? No; I did not.
231. Will you swear positively that Felton did not live within the boundaries of the electorate at the time he was qualified to vote—I do not mean to say on the polling-day? I will swear it. He told me, "I am not entitled to vote"; but he said, "If they had challenged me I would have got M'Grath's horse and gone all over the electorate."
232. How is it that you do not know where he resides;—you admit that you do not know the boundaries of the electorate, and yet you say positively that he does not live in the electorate? He lives in Redfern.
233. How do you know that? He told me so. I know the man as well as I know my own brother.
234. Do you remember anything more? He said that he would get a horse from a man named M'Grath and ride to every polling-place but that he would vote. Felton is a bootmaker.

James Pallett called in, sworn, and examined:—

- J. Pallett. 235. Mr. White.] You remember the last general election? Yes.
- 3 Sept., 1895. 236. What position did you occupy then? I was Deputy Returning Officer.
237. At what booth? N to Z, Waterloo.
238. Do you remember Mr. Dacey going into the polling-booth during the day? I do.
239. Did you order him out? Yes.
240. Did he go? Yes.
241. How long did he remain in? Three or four minutes.
242. What took place while he was there? When I first noticed him I said, "Mr. Dacey, you have no business in here," or "no right in here," or "You are doing wrong in being here"—I forget which. Mr. Dacey turned round and said, "You are taking a very trivial point; I know what I am doing; I have been returning officer myself." I then said, "I have no wish to injure you, Mr. Dacey, but you ought to know better."
243. Did he speak to his scrutineer? Yes.
244. Did he call him on one side to do so? It was very cold, and the man was on the floor stamping his feet to get warm, but whether Mr. Dacey called him over to him I could not say.
245. Mr. Collins.] Did Mr. Dacey speak to any one but his own scrutineer? Not that I am aware of.
246. Where did he stand in the room? Just inside the door.
247. He did not in any way interfere with any one going into or coming out of the booth? No.
248. He simply took the objection as a technical formal one, because the Act did not allow of his being there? Yes.
249. You knew that he was not doing any injury to any one; that he was not affecting any one who was voting;—as a matter of fact, he could not have done so? He certainly did not interfere in any way with any person.
250. Could you say who was in the booth at that particular time? The officers engaged in the election and the outside poll-clerk. It was wet, and we had to let him come inside of the door on account of his papers.
251. Mr. Hogue.] Were there any voters in the booth at the time? To the best of my belief there were not.
252. Chairman.] Was Mr. M'Fadyen there? No.
253. Mr. Cann.] Did Mr. Dacey go near the table? No.
254. He had no chance of interfering with any of the papers that were on the table? No.
255. Mr. Collins.] He simply spoke to his own scrutineer. Yes.

WEDNESDAY, 4 SEPTEMBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. Cann,		Mr. Neild,
Mr. Henry Clarke,		Mr. O'Sullivan,
Mr. Hogue,		Mr. Waddell.
Henry Clarke, Esq., in the Chair.

Mr. Henry White, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Stephen.

Mr. Neal Collins, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Dacey.

Simon Jordan called in, sworn, and examined:—

256. Mr. White.] Do you remember the 24th July last—polling-day? Yes.
257. What were you then? A scrutineer.
258. Where? At Waterloo—from N to Z.
259. Do you remember Mr. Dacey coming into the booth? Yes.
260. What did he say? When he came into the booth first he signed to his scrutineer, and the scrutineer went up to him, and just at the door spoke a few words. Then he took the scrutineer up to the poll-clerk's table, and was looking through the poll-clerk's roll for several minutes.
261. What do you mean by "several minutes"—how long? It might have been about five minutes he was at the poll-clerk's roll.
262. Did you do anything upon that? I rose from my seat and drew the officer's attention to it.
263. What happened then? The officer then said to Mr. Dacey, "I suppose you are aware that you are laying yourself open by coming into the booth just now?" and Mr. Dacey replied that he had been a returning officer before to-day, and knew what he was doing. The returning officer said to him, "Well, Mr. Dacey, I must ask you to leave the booth." Mr. Dacey, when he turned to go out, made some remarks which were not audible to me.
264. Mr. Collins.] Who was the deputy returning officer? I do not know his name.
265. Mr. White.] Would you remember the name if you heard it? I might.
266. Was it Pallett? I believe that that was the name.
267. Mr. Collins.] Where was the scrutineer that Mr. Dacey spoke to when Mr. Dacey went in? Inside of the booth.
268. How many yards away from Mr. Dacey? When Mr. Dacey was speaking to him?
269. No, when he went to the door? It was a very cold day, and when there was nothing doing we walked up and down the vacant space.
270. So he was on his feet? Yes; and when Mr. Dacey called him to the door he went over to the door to Mr. Dacey.
271. As a matter of fact, he was close by the door? If he rose from where he was sitting and went to walk in the open space he had to pass the door.
272. But he was on his feet. You say that you were all walking about? His scrutineer and myself were.
273. There was no voting going on? Not just at the moment when Mr. Dacey called him. One party came in to vote when Mr. Dacey was speaking to him.
274. Would you be surprised to be told that the returning officer has given different evidence as to what he said to Mr. Dacey? I do not know what he said, but what I have told you is as near as my recollection goes.
275. You are not absolutely certain about it? Yes; I do not say that the words I have given you are exactly correct; but they were words to that effect.
276. What were the words? He said to Mr. Dacey was he aware that he was laying himself open by coming into the booth.
277. And Mr. Dacey's answer was that he knew his own business, he having been a returning officer before? Yes.
278. Substantially that? He said that he had been a returning officer before to-day, and he knew what he was doing.
279. He did not go inside the booth? Yes.
280. How many feet? About 5 feet—5 or 6 feet.
281. Could you say what size the booth was? I could not give the dimensions of the booth.
282. Cannot you say nearly, seeing that you can tell to 5 feet the distance that a man steps in for a moment? The way I know that he must have been at least 5 feet within the booth is this: The door was half open, and there was a passage left so that a man could pass between the table and the door.
283. Was the booth, or room, or whatever it was, 10 feet long? Yes; it was more, I should think. I should think it would be about 15.
284. What size was the table—they generally have a table? It was a small table; it cannot have been more than about 2 feet 6 inches long.
285. If Mr. Dacey went in 5 feet from the door and there was a table 2 ft. 6 in. long, he must have gone pretty close to the table? He was at the table. He was standing with the poll-clerk's roll on the table.
286. If the presiding officer, Mr. Pallett, swore differently, he was swearing what was untrue? I am swearing what I know.
287. Do you know whether you are speaking what is absolutely correct, or whether Mr. Pallett is correct. I want you to correct yourself? I have nothing to correct.
288. You are absolutely positive that Mr. Dacey went to the table and did something at the table with his scrutineer? Yes; he turned over the poll-clerk's roll and examined it.
289. Mr. Hogue.] Was that at the table? At the poll-clerk's table. When the rain came on we said that the poll-clerk ought to come inside, because it was not comfortable for any man to stand outside.
290. Was it possible for this to have happened without the presiding officer seeing it? If the presiding officer was writing for a minute he might not have seen it.
291. Mr. Collins.] But you say that nothing was being done? Still the officer in charge of the polling-booth might have some writing in his books to do.

S. Jordan.

4 Sept., 1895.

- S. Jordan.
4 Sept., 1895.
292. Mr. Hogue.] There were no voters there? One came in.
 293. Mr. White.] You drew the attention of the presiding officer to the matter? Yes.
 294. His attention must have been directed to something else previously? It may have been; and I think Mr. Siddon rose from his seat almost simultaneously with me.
 295. Who was he? Mr. Stephen's scrutineer.
 296. Mr. Collins.] Whose scrutineer were you? Mr. M'Fadyen's.
 297. Where was the table that was brought in from outside put? A few feet from the door-way, so that it would not be near the scrutineers, the presiding officer, or any one else.
 298. Mr. Dacey went up to this table, which was a considerable distance from the other? It was on the opposite side from the other.
 299. So that Mr. Dacey did not go near the presiding officer's table, or interfere in any way with his table? I did not see him interfere further than by going to the poll-clerk's table, and talking to his scrutineer inside the booth.
 300. It was you who drew the presiding officer's attention to this occurrence? Yes.
 301. You are not quite sure that the scrutineer was not standing up with Mr. Dacey? Certainly, he was alongside of him.
 302. Not at the table? Yes; at the poll-clerk's table.
 303. Which was close by the door? Yes; a few feet from it.
 304. Mr. White.] Is the room a very large one? No; very small.
 305. About how many feet, as a rough estimate? I do not think it would be more than 16 or 17.
 306. Mr. Cann.] There were no ballot-papers or anything on the poll-clerk's table? No.
 307. Only the rolls? Yes, and the tickets for giving the voters their numbers.
 308. Was the person you are referring to a poll-clerk, or was he simply a man appointed to give their numbers to the voters? Well, he was called the poll-clerk to us.
 309. Was not the poll-clerk sitting with the presiding officer? Yes.
 310. Then the man you are referring to was employed simply in giving their number to the voters as they came in? Yes.
 311. Mr. Collins.] These men are called outside poll-clerks? Yes.
 312. Mr. Cann.] He was not the man who was working with the returning officer? No.
 313. Mr. Waddell.] Do you think that the voting was interfered with in any way through Mr. Dacey's presence in the polling-booth? It was embarrassing to the other scrutineers.
 314. Do you think it altered the voting in any respect from what it otherwise would have been? Of course that would depend upon what Mr. Dacey was drawing his scrutineers attention to. We have heard rumours since, but we cannot say anything about them.
 315. Mr. Collins.] You say that there was no voter in the booth;—how, then, could it affect the voting? There was one party who came in while Mr. Dacey was there, and had to stand back when Mr. Dacey left the booth.
 316. Mr. Waddell.] He voted afterwards, and voted in the usual way? Yes.
 317. Mr. Cann.] Was Mr. Dacey in the room when he voted? No; I think he had just left.
 318. Mr. Collins.] Mr. Dacey did not ask him to vote for him? No; I did not hear him ask any one to vote for him.
 319. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You said that Mr. Dacey's presence embarrassed the scrutineers? Yes.
 320. If, as you have sworn, no voters were there when Mr. Dacey came in, and the person who came in afterwards voted when Mr. Dacey left, how could that embarrass anyone? The party who came in to vote had to stand on one side while Mr. Dacey was being spoken to.
 321. But he voted after Mr. Dacey left? Yes.
 322. Then how could Mr. Dacey's presence have embarrassed him while he was voting? I would not say that it embarrassed him when he was voting.
 323. Well, how did it embarrass the scrutineers. Their work commenced only after Mr. Dacey left? They expected that the candidates would not be present when the voting was going on. When anything like this occurs, it must a little upset one who is not used to these affairs.
 324. Mr. Waddell.] Suppose Mr. Dacey had not been there, do you think that the results of the voting would have been different in any way? I cannot say that it influenced any man in any way.
 325. Mr. Cann.] As a matter of fact, could not the voter have gone past the table altogether to the returning officer, and then voted? No; he could not have voted before getting his number from the man attending at the table.
 326. Is it not the duty of the poll-clerk to ask the man his name, and then find out his number? No; it was laid down to us that it was the duty of the man at the table to supply the numbers. Little tickets were provided to mark the numbers on.
 327. Do you know that that is not provided for by the Act,—that it is merely an arrangement to facilitate voting? That may be so. I do not know anything about it.
 328. At many booths polling takes place without the assistance of an outside clerk? I do not know anything about that.

William Parker called in, sworn, and examined:—

- W. Parker.
4 Sept., 1895.
329. Mr. White.] Do you remember the 24th July last? I do.
 330. That was the date of the general election? Yes.
 331. What position did you occupy in connection with the election at Botany? I was returning officer.
 332. For the whole electorate? Yes.
 333. Did you preside at any polling-booth, and, if so, which? I presided at the A to F booth at the North Botany Town Hall.
 334. Do you remember Mr. Dacey coming to you? Yes; that was prior to the day of the election.
 335. Mr. Hogue.] How long before? A couple of days or so.
 336. Mr. Waddell.] Was it before the date of the nomination? Yes; about two days before the election.
 337. Mr. Neild.] Were the nomination papers in at the time? Yes.
 338. Mr. White.] What was the date? About the 22nd July.
 339. Mr. Dacey said something about his committee and Mr. Stephen's—will you tell us what it was? He asked me would I inform my officers—

340. Did he not tell you that some arrangement had been made between the two committees? Yes.
341. What did he say to you about it? He said that his committee had agreed with Mr. Stephen's committee not to challenge any electors that had moved out of the electorate lately.
342. Did he ask you to do anything? He asked me to instruct my officers not to challenge if they did not challenge.
343. What did you tell him? I said that I would not accede to any arrangement of the kind. I told him that it was trying to get me to conspire to allow illegal voting.
344. Just give us the whole conversation? I told him I would not agree to that. The Act was put into my hands to carry out, and I would not agree to anything of the kind. He said the new Act is passed. I said it was only passed in the Lower House, not in the Upper House. He said, "Who are they—only a set of nominees."
345. What Act did he refer to? The amending Act, which was before the Assembly prior to the dissolution. I told him I had nothing to do with the Upper House, whether they were nominees or not. I said the Act was put into my hands, and I have to abide by it. It is my charter. "Oh," he said, "put a beggar on horseback, and he will ride to the devil," and with that he left the place. I suppose he meant that I was trying to act with a high hand.
346. Do you remember a man named Felton voting at your booth? No. I may state that I was not presiding at the one booth the whole of the day. After opening the booth I put my substitute in my place while I went round to see how the deputies were getting on at other booths.
347. Mr. Collins.] Your principal evidence is with regard to this conspiracy that was going to be got up;—can you remember exactly whether Mr. Dacey said what you have just reported him to say, or whether he asked you, as the returning officer, to ask the other candidates if they were willing to agree to the arrangements? No. He told me that his committee had agreed with Mr. Stephen's committee not to challenge electors, and he asked me to instruct my officers not to challenge them.
348. Are you certain that he did not come to get you to ask the other candidates if they would waive this right of challenging? I am certain of it.
349. He gave you to understand that he had spoken with regard to people who had moved, people holding electors' rights, and who, as a matter of justice and morality, should have been allowed to vote? Yes; he mentioned something of that.
350. You were looking on the conspiracy aspect of the proposition, and very carefully and properly refused to grant it, knowing the provisions of the criminal law? I refused to grant it.
351. Challenges were made? Yes; challenges were made.
352. Mr. White.] You considered that it was a request to you to allow disqualified persons to vote? That is the way I took it.
353. Mr. Collins.] You have the appointing of the deputies or presiding officers? Yes.
354. Will you tell the Committee if Mr. Dacey has at any time objected to anyone who presided at the last election? He said that I had appointed two strong supporters of Mr. Stephen to one particular booth, and asked if I would alter the appointment. I told him that I had made my arrangements, and that I would not alter them for any person.
355. Did he mention the names? Mr. Bullock, deputy-returning officer, and Mr. F. Tundridge, poll-clerk.
356. A man named Masters was also employed? Yes.
357. Did Mr. Dacey object to him at any time? Yes, but I think it was prior to the election.
358. Did he give you his reason for objecting to him? Not that I am aware of.
359. Did he not say that he was a partizan of one of his opponents? I cannot say.
360. You do not remember? I do not.
361. Although he told you he was a partizan, you still appointed him? Yes.
362. Mr. White.] Had Mr. Dacey the right to object to your appointments? I think not. I did not consider the candidates at all.
363. Mr. Collins.] Have you heard that Mr. Stephen, who holds the same political opinions, now raises a question as to his competency? No.
364. Chairman.] Is it not a fact that you had the appointing of all presiding officers quite independent of anyone? Yes.
365. You appoint whom you think fit and proper persons? Yes.
366. Mr. Neild.] Did Masters ever act before? Yes, at the first election under the Act.
367. Mr. Cann.] Did you have any complaint about him then? No.
368. Or afterwards? No. I have a faint recollection of Mr. Dacey speaking to me about him.
369. That was after the first election and previous to the last election? Yes.
370. What was the complaint? I can hardly call it to mind. I do not put my mind to the elections the whole of the time.
371. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Is it not a fact that returning officers generally select one man from each side, and go as near as they can to impartiality? I tried to work quite independently of everybody. I never ask a man his political opinions.
372. Still you must know men's opinions. Is it not a fact that some returning officers, if they appoint a presiding officer from one side appoint poll-clerk from the other? Some may do it. In the Botany electorate there were officers who favoured each of the candidates.
373. Did you ever hear of the practice I have mentioned? I have never adopted that practice.
374. Mr. Collins.] Whom did you appoint at Maronbra? A man named Henry Bullock as deputy, and F. Tundridge as poll-clerk.
375. Do you know what connection Tundridge had with Mr. Stephen? He was working on Mr. Stephen's committee, but I told him he would have to give it up or I should not engage him. I told all my deputies that. I said, "You must not use your influence to induce any elector to vote for anyone."
376. As a matter of fact, do you not know that a man in that position might do a great deal to invalidate an election? I dare say he might if he were not under the eyes of the scrutineers.
377. In any case could he not? I fail to see it.
378. Mr. White.] If you carried out your duties in a proper manner it would be impossible? Yes.
379. Mr. Cann.] Although you were approached by Mr. Dacey you did not allow Mr. Dacey's conversation to influence you in the least? I never spoke of it until two days after the election.
380. Did you allow anything that transpired to influence you in carrying out your duties? No.
381. You conducted the election in the usual way, notwithstanding? Just as if nothing had transpired.

W. Parker,
4 Sept., 1895.

- W. Parker.
4 Sept., 1895.
382. Are you aware that anyone voted who was not entitled to vote? No.
383. You challenged everyone who, according to your knowledge, was not entitled to vote? Yes.
384. And if anyone challenged an elector? I was bound to put the questions to him.
385. As far as you know there was nothing invalid about the election? Not so far as I know.
386. Mr. White.] Nothing invalid came under your observation or to your knowledge? No.
387. Mr. Waddell.] Were any ballot-papers initialled by you after the polling was over? No; they were all sealed up in parcels before the poll was closed.
388. Mr. Hoque.] Do you give instructions to your presiding officers and clerks as to what to do? Yes.
389. Do you instruct them to initial the ballot-papers before issuing them? Yes.
390. You gave strict instructions to that effect? Yes.
391. Did you instruct your officials to challenge if an elector had no right to vote? I told them that the Act allowed them to do so if they thought proper. I did not tell them to do it. Of course if an elector is challenged by a scrutineer, they must do so. I informed them of the provisions of the Act.
392. Mr. Cann.] I suppose you travelled round to the different polling-booths? Yes.
393. Did you observe that they were carrying out your instructions there? Yes, just as if I had been presiding.
394. You saw no irregularity take place? None of any kind.
395. Mr. Collins.] You saw that the Chief Electoral Officer made it known that people who have removed from one place to another might vote? As long as they were in the electorate.
396. Did Mr. Dacey draw your attention to that? He told me that they had a right to vote; but I told them that they had a right to vote only if the Act allowed it.
397. Did not Mr. Dacey inform you of the notification from the Electoral Office? Not about allowing people outside the electorate to vote. I got no information from the Chief Electoral Officer on that point at all.
398. I did not say you had it from him; but did Mr. Dacey draw your attention to it? No, unless it was in that little bit of a discussion he had with me a couple of days before the election.
399. Mr. Neild.] How often have you acted as returning officer? Only since the new Act came into force—on two occasions

- W. J. Armstrong.
4 Sept., 1895.
400. Chairman.] Did you deliver a summons to Arthur Felton? Yes.
401. What did he say? He said he did not think it necessary to attend on the paper that I delivered to him, and therefore he would not come.
402. When did you serve it? At twenty minutes past 10 o'clock.
403. Where? At the corner of George and Wells Streets, Redfern, at his factory. His private residence is 67, Pitt-street, Redfern.
404. Mr. Neild.] When did you ascertain his present residence? This morning.
405. Are you in a position to swear positively that he was living at his present address at the time of the last election? No.

Harold Masters called in, sworn, and examined:—

- H. Masters.
4 Sept., 1895.
406. Chairman.] You were presiding officer on the 24th July last at Botany? Yes.
407. Mr. Neild.] Where? At the School of Arts.
408. Chairman.] Do you remember anything about the initialling of ballot-papers? Every ballot-paper issued by me was initialled before it was given out, but one or two ballot-papers were not dated before they were given out. I dated every ballot-paper. In my hurry I forgot the date of one or two at first, and I called the attention of the poll-clerk and of the scrutineers to what I thought was an omission as we were sitting at the table.
409. Were all the ballot-papers initialled before they were handed to the electors? Every one of them.
410. Are you sure of that? Quite. There were one or two which were not dated, and I was under the impression that they ought to be dated.
411. Is it a fact that you came to one of the scrutineers named Flynn about 12 o'clock and said that you had forgotten to initial some of the papers? It is not a fact. I mentioned to Flynn in the presence of the poll-clerk and other persons in the room that there were one or two, and possibly more, ballot-papers which were not dated.
412. Did you ask him, "Have you any objection to my doing it"—that is, initialling the ballot-papers—"when I open the box"? Not Flynn personally. He was a stranger to me, and it is not likely that I would put such a question to him.
413. He was a scrutineer? Yes; this was in the presence of the poll-clerk.
414. Did Flynn reply, "Well, I do not know. You know best. I have not often been a scrutineer, and will leave it to you"? I never had a conversation with Flynn alone relating to that particular thing.
415. Did you say "It will be all right," alluding to your initialling the other ballot-papers when you took them out of the box? I initialled every ballot-paper before it was given to the electors. Any conversation that may have taken place with Flynn took place with him in conjunction with others round the table. I have never spoken to Flynn, except at the table in the booth.
416. Did he say, "What about the other scrutineers," to which you replied, "They are new chums, and they will not know whether I am doing right or wrong"? No.
417. Mr. Cann.] Did you initial any of the ballot-papers when the ballot was counted? No; but I dated two of them as I was counting the papers out. I told the three scrutineers and the poll-clerk that I had omitted to date two of them. I was under the impression that they should be dated, and I asked was there any objection to my dating them. I did not ask any one of them alone, but I asked the four of them—the three scrutineers and the poll-clerk. No objection was made, and I looked at the back of every ballot-paper to see where the omission took place. They were two that I dated afterwards.
418. You swear positively that no initialling was done after the voting was over? I swear positively that every ballot-paper I issued was initialled by myself. I was absent from the room on two occasions for about the space of three minutes.
419. Were you absent during the polling? I was simply absent for the purposes of nature.
420. Who was in charge of the booth then? The poll-clerk.

421. Did you leave a sufficient number of ballot-papers with him, initialled? No. As I handed a ballot-paper to a voter I punctured and initialled it, and, in addition to initialling it, I dated it. The Act says that electors' rights must be dated, and I was under the impression that the same provision applied to the ballot-papers. H. Masters.
4 Sept., 1895.
422. Mr. Waddell.] When you were counting the ballot-papers, did you notice any that were not initialled? No; every one was initialled.
423. Chairman.] You are sure that every one was initialled before it was handed to the voter? Yes.
424. Mr. Cavn.] Would you be surprised if you were told that we had found a number of ballot-papers not initialled;—could you account for it? No. To the best of my knowledge and belief every ballot-paper that I handed to the voters was initialled by me, and none were initialled afterwards.
425. You have no reason to believe that anyone who acted during your absence issued uninitialled ballot-papers? There was not time.
426. You did not go away for refreshments? No; refreshments were served in the booth.
427. Chairman.] What polling-booth were you at? A to F. Had there been any number of ballot-papers uninitialled I would have seen them when I was looking for the undated papers, because after looking at the front of every paper I looked at the back to see if it was dated. I called the attention of the scrutineers to the few that were undated.
428. Flynn was asked, "How many, do you suppose, were initialled after the polling was over?" and he said, "Nineteen or twenty?" To make it more certain that this could not possibly have been the case, I may say that it was very early in the morning that the undated ballot-papers were given; and I counted up my roll and saw that only eleven voters had then voted.
429. Mr. Hogue.] Suppose Flynn has sworn this: "Mr. Masters, the presiding officer, asked me if I would object to his initialling the ballot-papers after they had been taken from the box," what would you say? I asked all the gentlemen around the table, not about the initialling, but about the dating; and it was only this morning that I knew that dating was not required.
430. Did you ask Flynn if he or any of the other scrutineers would have any objection to your dating the papers? Yes. I asked Flynn in the presence of the poll-clerk and the other scrutineers.
431. Chairman.] Flynn was asked "At what time in the day did you mention to him that you had forgotten to initial the papers, and he said "Between 11 and 12"? It was before 9.
432. Mr. White.] How many times during the day were you absent from the polling-booth? Twice—once about 9 o'clock.
433. At what time did you count the ballot-papers? At 5 o'clock.
434. Did you do it all yourself? No; I took the ballot-papers from the box, and, reading out the names, put them into heaps, crossing over every ten. The scrutineers checked them.
435. Mr. Hogue.] Who were the other scrutineers? I do not know. I returned their declaration and the ballot-box.

William Stephen, Esq., recalled and further examined:—

436. Mr. White.] You heard the evidence given by Mr. Parker this morning about an alleged arrangement between your committee and Mr. Dacey's? Yes. W. Stephen,
Esq.
4 Sept., 1895.
437. Is there any truth in the statement that your committee had made such an arrangement with his? None whatever. I may state that as soon as I heard about this alleged arrangement I called every member of my committee together, and I put the question to each one separately if he had authorised any such arrangement or knew anything of it, but they all denied it.
438. Mr. Collins.] With regard to this practice of committees arranging, you have heard that it has been done? No; I have heard that it has not been done, because I have inquired into it.
439. It so happens that it is done in several of the electorates? I did not hear of it.
440. Would you look upon it as invalidating the election? I would look upon it as an attempt to urge the returning officer to conspire to commit a criminal act.
441. If the Chief Electoral Officer had made it known that no objection would be taken to those who, by the fact of having removed from one electorate to another—we will say that there is only a street between them,—should make it impossible to get a fresh elector's right, would you consider that there was anything criminal or wrong in the candidates agreeing? If the agreement was in controversy of the Act, the opinion or the order of any officer could not make it lawful.
442. I asked you a question;—will you answer it? My opinion is that it would not be lawful to do it.

Arthur Felton called in, made an affirmation, and was examined:—

443. Mr. White.] Where do you live? At 67, Pitt-street, Redfern. A. Felton.
4 Sept., 1895.
444. How long have you lived there? I could not exactly tell you.
445. About how long? About ten or eleven months.
446. Did you vote at the last election? I decline to answer.
447. Mr. Neild.] Did you attend at the polling-booth for the purpose of voting? I was at the polling-booth.
448. Was your vote challenged? I object to that question.
449. Mr. Hogue.] What is the ground of your objections to answering these questions? I cannot tell you my objections exactly. I cannot quibble over the thing. I can only give you a straightforward objection.
450. Do you decline to state the ground of your objection? Yes.

John Rowland Dacey, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn and examined:—

451. Mr. Collins.] You have heard all the evidence, and it would save my time if you said all you wished to say upon any points to which you wish to refer? With regard to the evidence of the man Jordan, I might be allowed to illustrate to the Committee the position of the tables referred to, and where the officer mentioned stood. [Witness described his position in the polling-booth.] I swear positively that I was not 18 inches inside the door; indeed, I question whether I was quite off the threshold. The only words exchanged were by the presiding officer, who said, "Mr. Dacey, you know you have no right here." I said, "I have been returning officer for a number of years. That is a most frivolous point to take." With that I retired. J. R. Dacey,
Esq., M.P.
4 Sept., 1895.

- J. R. Dacey, Esq., M.P.
4 Sept., 1895.
452. Was there anybody in the booth voting? No one. Inside of me, in the booth, stood the policeman, and at the table stood the outside poll-clerk. The other officials were at the main tables where the voting took place. No one offered to pass me, and the whole affair did not take more than three or four minutes. I saw no one enter; in fact, there was no one there but the constable and the officials. With regard to Mr. Parker's statement, there was something in the Herald about challenging these voters, and I went to Mr. Parker about it. What I wanted him to do was to ask the candidates to consent to abstain from challenging. I spoke to Mr. Lewis through the telephone, and I wanted Mr. Parker to go to the telephone and speak to Mr. Lewis, but he refused. He said that he would carry out the Act, and as there was nothing in the Act about any such arrangement he would not consent to it. I did not state that there was any arrangement with Mr. Stephen and his committee. I only requested him to ask the candidates to abstain from challenging, so that those who morally had the right to vote should be allowed to exercise it. I had nothing to say with Mr. Stephen or any one else about it, that I remember. With regard to the entering of the Botany polling-booth, the man Flynn, previous to the election, boasted to me about his cleverness as a scrutineer. He had been a policeman, and, as Shakespeare says, is a man who, in his time, has played many parts. With regard to Brimble, a man by the name of Passfield beckoned to me from outside the booth. I came up to him and he said, "Look here, we have made a mistake over this business; those three people can come back." I said, "You have made a mistake." I went back to the booth, and I said to Flynn, "You have no right to address the electors at all. You should be seen and not heard. There are the proper questions to be asked by the deputy returning officer." Brimble remarked, "Yes, why did you not ask me what I had for dinner." With regard to Mr. Parker's statement, I think I could get Mr. Lewis to come here and tell you what I said to him through the telephone as to what I wanted Mr. Parker to do, namely, to ask the candidates to abstain from challenging, so that those who were morally entitled to vote could do so.
453. Mr. White.] Who is the person you described just now as Passfield? The outside poll-clerk at the School of Arts, Botany—the fellow giving the tickets.
454. He came to you? No; he beckoned to me.
455. You went to him, and he said that a mistake had been made in regard to three persons? I would not be sure whether he said two or three. He mentioned their names.
456. Who were they? There was Brimble and a man named Cook.
457. Had they been challenged? Not legally.
458. Surely you can say, "Yes" or "No"? I was not there.
459. Did he tell you they had been challenged? He did not say so. He said, "We have made a mistake." He inferred that I understood what the mistake was about.
460. You understood that they had been challenged? I understood that they had been bluffed out of voting. I did not understand that they had been challenged at all.
461. Did you understand that they had been challenged? I understood that they had been bluffed.
462. Did you understand that they had been challenged? Not legally.
463. When you were told this, what did you do? I walked up into the booth, and Brimble came after me.
464. Did Cook go with you? No.
465. You went into the booth with Brimble? Yes.
466. And Brimble voted while you were there? No; he did not.
467. Did he get his voting-paper? No.
468. You say that there was no one in the booth but a constable;—what constable? Constable Emanuel, of Alexandria.

TUESDAY, 10 SEPTEMBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. Henry Clarke, Mr. Bavister, Mr. O'Sullivan, Mr. Cameron,		Mr. Neild, Mr. Cann, Mr. Hogue, Mr. Waddell.
Henry Clarke, Esq., in the Chair.

Mr. H. White, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Stephen.

Mr. Neal Collins, solicitor, attended on behalf of Mr. Dacey.

Alfred King called in, sworn, and examined:—

- A. King.
10 Sept., 1895.
469. Chairman.] What were you during the Botany election, on the 24th July last? First poll-clerk.
470. At what booth? N to Z, School of Arts, Botany.
471. Do you remember anything that arose in connection with the initialling of ballot-papers;—do you remember some conversation which took place between Flynn and Masters, the presiding officer? None whatever.
472. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Was Mr. Flynn at your booth? No.
473. Mr. White.] Do you know what booth Flynn was in? No.
474. Was Mr. Masters, the presiding officer, at your booth? No; Mr. Mahon presided.
475. Do you remember Mr. Dacey coming into your polling-booth during the election? Yes; he crossed the threshold of the door, and called up one of his scrutineers.
476. How far inside the door did he go? Two or 3 feet;—near enough to let his scrutineer hear him.
477. Who was in the polling-booth at the time? The presiding officer, myself, three scrutineers, and three electors.

Frederick Bennett called in, sworn, and examined:—

- F. Bennett.
10 Sept., 1895.
478. Chairman.] Where were you poll-clerk during the late election at Botany? At the School of Arts, Botany.
479. Is that where Mr. Masters presided? Yes.
480. Do you remember any conversation taking place between one of the scrutineers, Mr. Flynn, and Mr. Masters? No conversation.
- 481.

481. Was there nothing at all about the initialling of ballot-papers? About 9 o'clock in the morning there were two ballot-papers not dated, and I pointed it out to Mr. Masters, the returning officer. As soon as I did so, he asked the scrutineers and myself if we had any objection to his dating the ballot-papers after the poll-box was opened. That was all. F. Bennett.
10 Sep., 1895.
482. Are you aware if all the ballot-papers were initialled before being handed to the voters? To the best of my belief.
483. But you were the poll-clerk; you should know? I did not have the signing of the papers—the returning officer did that.
484. You cannot swear positively that all the ballot-papers were initialled before being handed to the voters? I cannot swear to it, but to the best of my belief they were.
485. By the presiding officer? By the presiding officer.
486. Mr. Hogue.] Did you hear any conversation between Mr. Flynn and Mr. Masters after the poll closed about initialling the ballot-papers? Not about initialling them, only about dating them.
487. Did you hear any conversation between Flynn and Masters about dating ballot-papers after the poll had closed? After the poll had closed—no.
488. Will you swear that there was no conversation between them about the dating of the ballot-papers after the poll had closed? No.
489. Will you swear that there was no conversation between Mr. Flynn and Mr. Masters in respect to the initialling of ballot-papers? There was no conversation about initialling them—only about dating them.
490. I suppose it would not have been possible for Masters to make any suggestion to Mr. Flynn in connection with the initialling of ballot-papers without your hearing him? Yes.
491. You were there all the time? Barring the time I was called out by the requirements of nature.
492. I am referring to the time after the poll had closed. I suppose it was impossible for any such conversation to take place without your hearing it? Yes; because I was there all the time.
493. If Masters had suggested to Flynn to allow him to initial the ballot-papers after the poll had closed, you would have heard it? Yes; because I was there.
494. But you must have seen Masters initial the ballot-papers if that was done? Yes; there was no initialling done. There was only the dating of two ballot-papers.
495. At what time was that? At what time were they dated?
496. Yes? After the poll-box was opened.
497. That was after the poll was closed? Yes.
498. How many ballot-papers do you suppose were undated? Two.
499. Not more? Not more.
500. Suppose Masters had sworn that there may have been more, are you quite certain that there were only two? Yes; I can swear that there were only two.
501. And they were dated? After the box was opened.
502. Mr. Neild.] Were all the ballot-papers initialled by Masters? Yes.
503. Are you quite sure of that? Yes; I took Masters' chair on one occasion, but there were no votes recorded, and Masters signed all the rest.
504. Did you initial any ballot-papers? No.
505. Suppose there are ballot-papers before the Committee bearing your initials, "F.B.," who would have put them on if you did not? I do not suppose that any one did.
506. You are quite sure that you did not initial any? Yes.
507. Mr. Cann.] Did you relieve Masters at all? Yes; on one occasion.
508. How long were you relieving him? To the best of my belief, three or four minutes.
509. Were no votes recorded in that time? No.
510. If there are ballot-papers bearing your initials, they were not initialled by you? I did not initial any ballot-papers whatever. There were no votes recorded during the time that I held Mr. Masters' position at the table.
511. Mr. White.] At what time in the day did the dating commence;—when did the dating first take place? As soon as the poll was opened.
512. Did you not say that at about 9 o'clock some of the papers were not dated? That is the time at which the mistake was found out, and I pointed out to Mr. Masters that he had not dated them. As soon as I did so he asked the scrutineers before me if they had any objection to his dating them after the poll-box was opened.
513. Are you sure that he said "dating" and not "initialling"? Yes; dating.
514. He said that he forgot to date some about 9 o'clock in the morning? There were two at 9 o'clock in the morning.
515. You are quite sure it was not 12 o'clock? It was about 9 o'clock.
516. You are also sure that you did not initial any ballot-papers? Yes.
517. Did you see any papers initialled or dated after the poll was closed besides these two? No.
518. Mr. Cann.] Were those two initialled or dated? Dated.
519. Not initialled? No.
520. Mr. White.] How did Mr. Masters come to date them? I do not know. Masters was labouring under the impression that he had to date them, and he started to date them from the commencement. When I found that he was not dating them I pointed out the mistake to him.
521. Do you know that he should not have dated them? No.
522. Chairman.] Do you see this ballot-paper [produced];—are those your initials on it? Yes, those are my initials.
523. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Is it possible that when the presiding officer was out of the booth you might have put them on? Yes; though it escaped my memory.
524. You said that no votes were recorded during his absence? This paper must prove clearly that there was one, though it had slipped my memory.
525. Did not Masters retire more than once? Only once.
526. He has sworn that he was absent twice? He was only absent once, to the best of my memory.
527. Do you think it impossible for Masters to have initialled eighteen ballot-papers after the voting took place without your knowledge? I am positive of it.
528. Do you think he could have done so after the polling-box was opened? No.

- F. Bennett.
10 Sep., 1895.
529. Mr. Flynn said that nineteen or twenty of the ballot-papers were initialled after the votes had been recorded? There were only two ballot-papers, and they were not initialled. They were only dated. I distinctly saw Masters put "24/7/95" on them.
530. Mr. White.] Were all the ballot-papers dated? Bar the two I have mentioned, I presume.
531. Chairman.] Here is the second ballot-paper [produced];—are those your initials on it? Yes.
532. Mr. Hogue.] Are you quite certain that Masters did not retire twice, leaving the booth in your charge? I will not swear to it, but to the best of my belief he only left once.
533. Suppose that he has sworn that he left the booth twice for about a quarter of an hour or twenty minutes each time, the booth then passing into your charge, I suppose you would remember that? I cannot swear that Mr. Masters left the booth twice. I can only swear that he left it once.
534. Suppose he had left it for a quarter of an hour or twenty minutes on each occasion the fact could not have escaped your knowledge? But Mr. Masters did not leave the booth for a quarter of an hour or twenty minutes. If he left it for five minutes that was all.
535. Do you remember initialling any ballot-papers during that time? No.
536. You now recollect having initialled two? My initials are on two.
537. After the poll closed you were in the booth all the time? Yes.
538. You did not leave at all? No; I did not leave the booth until everything was sealed up.
539. Was everything sealed up immediately after the poll closed? Yes.
540. Where was Mr. Masters when he dated the papers? Mr. Masters opened the box of ballot-papers and looked for those which he had not dated.
541. When was that? When he was recording the votes.
542. When he was counting them? Yes. That is when the ballot-papers were found undated.
543. I suppose you were present during the whole time? Yes.
544. Are you in a position to swear, of your own knowledge, that only two were dated then? Yes.
545. Mr. Waddell.] Were any papers at all initialled after the ballot-boxes were opened? There was no initialling whatever.
546. Mr. Cameron.] There was dating, and this dating, according to you, took place after the poll had closed? After the poll was closed, and when the votes were being counted.
547. The dating of the papers to which you allude took place after the poll was closed? Yes.
548. Mr. White.] You have a pretty good memory? I cannot say that I have a very good memory, but I have a very fair one.
549. Chairman.] Could you tell me who initialled that paper [produced]? No.
550. Did you initial it? No.
551. Do you think the presiding officer initialled it; is that his signature? I could not swear to it.
552. Mr. Neild.] Are those Masters' initials [producing ballot-paper]?—I suppose you saw him use the pen? Yes, but I could not swear to his initials.
553. Do you think that that represents his initials [producing another ballot-paper]? No; certainly not.
554. Do you think that those are not his initials? I could not swear to them.
555. Are you an expert in writing? No.
556. Do you think that the two initiallings have been written by the same hand? There looks to be a great difference between the two.
557. Mr. White.] You saw the presiding officer initialling all day, I presume? Yes; I was next to him.
558. Cannot you tell whether those ballot-papers are distinct? No; I have no recollection of his writing.
559. You had a check-roll? No; but Mr. Masters had.
560. Mr. Hogue.] At what time in the day was it that Masters left the booth? To the best of my belief it was about 11 o'clock.
561. Chairman.] On both occasions? I only remember his leaving on one occasion.
562. He swears himself that he left on two occasions? Yes; but I would not swear to it, because I do not remember his doing so.
563. Mr. Bavister.] Were many votes recorded before 9 o'clock? Not many.
564. Some had been recorded before the two ballot-papers to which you have referred were given out? Yes.
565. Still, when it came to looking through the ballot-papers after the box was opened, you only found two that were not dated? Mr. Masters found two.
566. And only two? Yes.
567. Mr. Hogue.] In the case of the temporary absence of the presiding officer from the booth, I suppose it was your duty, as poll-clerk, to attend to the voters? Yes.
568. Do you initial the ballot-papers? Yes; in the absence of the returning officer.
569. Only? Yes. The only initialling I did was in connection with the rights.
570. Who initialled the ballot-papers when Masters was absent? I had to initial them then.
571. It was 11 o'clock in the morning when he was absent? To the best of my memory.
572. Was not that a busy time? No; Mr. Masters took advantage of a slack time.
573. Mr. White.] When the presiding officer mentioned the fact that these papers were not dated, what did he say? He said, to the best of my belief, "Well, gentlemen, I have made a mistake. There have been two votes recorded, and the ballot-papers are not dated. But," he said, "have you any objections to my dating them before your eyes after the ballot-box is opened?"
574. To whom did he say that? To all hands. It was to that effect.
575. Did he use those words, "I forgot to initial the papers. Have you any objection to my doing it when I open the box," substituting "date" for "initial"? Yes; something to that effect.
576. Mr. Cann.] Did he call Flynn aside and have a conversation with him? Not to the best of my memory.
577. If any witness swore that the returning officer and Flynn had a conversation about initialling or dating he swore what was not a fact? Not before me.
578. You did not see them? No.
579. No conversation was carried on, except such as all in the booth might have heard? Yes.
580. I suppose Flynn was sitting at the table when these remarks about the ballot-papers took place? Yes.
581. About what time in the day? About 9 o'clock in the morning.

582. Mr. Neild.] Do you think it possible for you to be in error in regard to the conversation between Masters and Flynn, or with reference to the dating? No; because I was in the booth all the time, bar the time I had to leave. T. Bennett.
10 Sept., 1895.
583. But you have had to admit, on the strength of the ballot-papers which have been produced, that your previous evidence, in which you stated positively that you had not initialled any ballot-papers, was absolutely wrong? Yes; I admit about those, because they had my signature.
584. Although you only initialled two or three ballot-papers, you clean forgot the fact, and yet you can tell us about everything else that took place to a nicety. Do you not think that it is possible that your memory is as much at fault about one thing as about another? In regard to all the questions I have stated the facts to the best of my belief.
585. I am not imputing that you intended to mislead the Committee, but is it not possible that you have made a mistake about the one thing as well as about the other? I do not think so; in fact, I am sure of it.
586. Mr. White.] When did you first hear of this inquiry? One day last week.
587. Who spoke to you about it? Mr. Masters.
588. When? I do not exactly remember the day. He drove round to my house.
589. Was it Thursday evening? I could not swear.
590. What did he say to you? He told me that he had been examined by the Committee, and that Flynn had sworn to him dating twenty papers.
591. Mr. Hoque.] Did he say "dating"? Yes.
592. Mr. White.] What did the conversation turn upon then? After that he simply told me that I should be subpoenaed.
593. Did you tell him what evidence you were going to give? No.
594. Did he ask you what evidence you were going to give? He asked me how many papers were dated after the ballot-box was opened.
595. Did he tell you how many he had sworn to dating? Three or four.
596. Then how did you come to put the number at two? Because there were two.
597. Was it not a compromise between you? No.
598. You told him then what evidence you would give? No; I did not tell him at all.
599. Mr. Cameron.] Masters went to your house to see you after he had given evidence here, and the subject of your conversation was the evidence he had given? Partly.
600. So far as it related to this matter at all? Yes.
601. You had conversation together after Masters gave evidence here, and prior to your coming here, as to the doings of this Committee? Yes.
602. What did Masters tell you? He told me that he had been examined, as I have before stated, and that Flynn had sworn to him dating twenty ballot-papers after the poll had closed.
603. He waited on you to inform you of the nature of Flynn's evidence? He stated Flynn's evidence.
604. Did he say anything to you about it—as to whether he thought it was true or otherwise? No; he simply told me that he intended to "pull" Mr. Flynn.
605. I suppose he meant "summon"? Yes; I am giving you his words as far as I can remember them—"for slander."
606. Did you hear any talk in the booth about certain persons being new chums, who would not know whether Masters was doing right or wrong? I cannot remember.
607. If there had been any conversation of that sort, would you be likely to have heard it? I might have heard it, but I might have forgotten.
608. Do you think you have forgotten? Yes.
609. Were you present during the whole of the proceedings? I was absent once.
610. For how long? About five minutes.
611. Mr. Neild.] When you say "about," do you mean more or less? It would not be more.
612. What did you do about meals—did you have any? Yes.
613. In the booth? Yes.
614. Was any voting going on during that time? There were one or two votes recorded, I believe.
615. Was there any rush of voters at any particular time during the day? Yes; there were five or six, one after the other. That was the biggest.
616. Was there no actual crowding in the booth? No.
617. Were there any events during the day that would give any explanation of a great alteration in the use of the presiding officer's initials on the ballot-papers—any extreme hurry that would account for a great difference in the manner in which papers were initialled? No, there was no great hurry; no flurry whatever.
618. Will you look at these ballot-papers [produced]*—*they are both initialled "H.M.," but there is a great deal of difference in the manner of the initialling, is there not? Yes. In regard to my former evidence I think I have made a mistake. I left the room more than once.
619. Was there any hurry, or any stress of circumstances which would cause a difference in the manner of initialling the papers? There was no great hurry.
620. Mr. Bavister.] You have stated that you initialled no ballot-papers, but two have been produced which you acknowledge you did initial. Was it customary for you to initial the papers in readiness for the voters who might come in, or would you wait until a voter required a paper before attaching your initials to it? I should wait until the voter came in.
621. There is no chance of your having initialled a paper ready for its issue to the voter, and having left it when the presiding officer came in for him to issue? No.
622. Mr. O'Sullivan.] What was the largest number of electors you had waiting to vote at one time? Four or five, I think.
623. Mr. Collins.] In respect to that interview between yourself and Masters, was any one else present? Yes.
624. What was his name? I do not know his name, but Masters had a witness in his trap.
625. Did he not tell you when he went to you that he had brought a witness to hear what you said? No; he simply said that he had brought a witness with him.
626. At any rate he did bring a witness? Yes.
- 627-8. Each question he put to you was the same as if you were here? Yes.

- F. Bennett.
10 Sept., 1895.
629. Mr. White.] He told you what evidence he had given before this Committee that day? I do not say that he told me all; he told me part of it.
630. He told you that he had given evidence, and he told you the nature of that evidence? Yes.
631. Mr. Collins.] The conversation was, in the main, questions put to you relating to what had been done at the polling-booth? Yes. He stated what had taken place partly.
632. Mr. Bavister.] Have you not sworn that Masters communicated to you what took place while he was giving evidence before the Committee? When Masters came round to me he simply said that he had been examined, and that Flynn had sworn that he had dated twenty papers after the poll.
633. I am under the impression that you said previously that Masters informed you to some extent as to what his own evidence before the Committee had been;—am I correct in that impression? Yes.
634. Mr. Neild.] Did Masters ask you what you remembered of the affair? Yes.
635. And asked whether you could give such-and-such evidence? He asked me if I remembered the number of ballot-papers that were dated. I said "two."
636. Then you had a discussion as to whether it was two or more? No; we had no discussion whatever.
637. Mr. White.] What did he say when you reminded him that it was two? He did not say anything. He said that he thought that it was about that.
638. Mr. Neild.] When was it that he told you that he was going to take legal proceedings against Flynn;—was it at the same conversation? No.
639. Did he tell you that in a conversation which took place subsequently? In a conversation which took place next evening.
640. Then you have had two conversations with Masters as to the evidence you have to give here? No; not as regards the evidence I am to give here.
641. Well, in regard to the evidence that he had given? Yes.
642. Did not Masters ask you whether you were in a position to give certain evidence? No.
643. He asked what your recollections were upon certain matters? He asked me what my recollections were as regards the ballot-papers.
644. When you told him what they were did he make no comment? No; the only comment he made was, that he thought there were three or four, I said that there were two.
645. That was the extent of your conversation? Yes.
646. Mr. White.] He told you that you were going to be summoned? Yes.
647. Mr. Collins.] Do you live far from Masters? About a mile.
648. Mr. White.] He drove to see you? Yes.
649. Mr. Hogue.] Do I understand that Masters called on you twice? No; he called on me once.
650. I understood you to say just now that he called on you twice? No; I had two interviews with him, but he called upon me only once.
651. When did you have the first interview with him? I cannot exactly say.
652. What day was it? I cannot tell you.
653. Was it the occasion upon which he drove up in the trap? It was before I received my subpoena.
654. Was it on the day he gave evidence? I could not tell you what day he gave evidence.
655. Did he say that he had been examined that day? No, he simply said that he had been examined.
656. You cannot remember what day he called upon you first? No.
657. When did you see him the second time? On the evening I received my subpoena.
658. How long was that after the first interview? One or two days.
659. How did you come to meet him the second time—was it by appointment? I went to his house.
660. By appointment? No.
661. What did you go to his house for? To ask him whereabouts I had to go.
662. You went to his house in reference to this case? Yes.
663. You have already had to admit that your recollection is not exactly correct in regard to one or two facts? As regards the ballot-papers.
664. Can you swear that your recollection is not defective as to the matter of what Masters said concerning the dating of the ballot-papers? When he called on me?
665. Yes; as to what he told you about Flynn's evidence;—did he tell you that Flynn had sworn that Masters had dated about twenty ballot-papers? Yes; to the best of my belief that is what he said—"dated twenty ballot-papers."
666. As a matter of fact Flynn has sworn that Masters initialled these eighteen or twenty papers—is it not probable that Masters told you that Flynn had accused him of initialling twenty ballot-papers after the poll had closed? As far as I remember he said "dated."
667. Are you positive on the point? Well, I am on my oath. To the best of my recollection he said "dated."
668. Will you absolutely swear that he did not say "initialled"? I will not swear.
669. You are not certain what Masters told you on that point? He said "dated;" but I will not swear to it.
670. You cannot be absolutely certain whether he said dated or initialled? "Dated," to the best of my knowledge.
671. Was there a witness present on your second interview with Masters? Yes.
672. What was the name of the second witness? Parker.
673. Mr. Neild.] He is the returning officer for Botany? Yes.
674. Mr. Hogue.] He was the witness at the second interview? Yes.
675. Who was the witness in the first interview? I do not know his name.
676. Mr. Neild.] Did he come with Masters? No.
677. Mr. Hogue.] Did you take a witness to Masters, or was the witness there? I did not bring him. I was in Masters' house when the witness came.
678. Did you send for the witness, or agree to send for him? No; he came of his own accord—for what I do not know.
679. Did he come for the purpose? I do not know what purpose he came for. He must have come for some purpose.
680. Mr. White.] Between the election and the time you heard of this inquiry, did you hear anything being said about the ballot-papers or the election proceedings? Not before I saw Masters.
681. How is it then that the word "dated" comes to be so clearly fixed in your mind; your memory is defective on other points;—had it been talked of very much to you? No.
- 682.

F. Bennett.
10 Sept., 1895.

682. Did Masters say much about the dating? He mentioned it, certainly.
683. Many times, I suppose? Not many times.
684. Are you positive he did not use the word "initialling"? Initialling the ballot-papers?
685. "Initialling." I do not say initialling anything? He told me that Flynn had sworn that.
686. He told you that Flynn had sworn that he dated them? That is what I am saying.
687. Mr. Neild.] It would appear that, on the first occasion, Masters came a mile to call on you, and brought some one with him, but who that person was you do not know; and that, on the next occasion, you went a mile to call on Masters, and Parker, the returning officer, turned up; yet you tell the Committee that, during the whole of those two interviews, which involved so much travelling, there was no discussion as to the evidence you were to give before the Committee? As to the evidence I was to give, no.
688. Nor, I suppose, as to the subjects you were likely to be examined upon? Yes, the ballot-papers and the dating.
689. Mr. White.] They told you that you were to be examined on that point? They told me that I should be examined on a number of ballot-papers that were supposed to have been signed.
690. Signed? Initialed.
691. Do you mean initialed or dated? Initialed. Signing means marking with letters, and dating, with numbers.
692. Mr. Neild.] You had a conversation when Masters called upon you;—you talked the matter over with him? Yes.
693. When you got the summons you went to talk the matter over with him again? No; I went to see him before I got the summons.
694. And you talked the matter over a second time, I suppose, in the light of Masters taking legal proceedings against Flynn? No; it was merely with regard to the number of ballot-papers.
695. On which occasion was the threat held out against Flynn? At Masters' house.
696. On the second occasion, when Parker was present? Yes.
697. Mr. White.] What induced you to go to Masters' house? Well, I do not know. I have been there before.
698. Mr. Neild.] Have you seen Masters since you got the summons to attend here? No.
699. Mr. White.] So that these two interviews took place before you got the summons? Yes.
700. Mr. Neild.] Did you think that a witness could be liable for an action for slander if he gave inaccurate evidence here? No.
701. How often have you acted as poll-clerk? On two occasions.
702. With Masters on each occasion? Yes.
703. Mr. Hogue.] You have said in your evidence that the conversation you had with Masters had reference to the points that would be brought forward before the Committee? Yes; with regard to the ballot-papers.
704. What was the point spoken of? The ballot-papers—the number of ballot-papers.
705. Did Masters tell you what you would be asked with reference to the ballot-papers? He told me I would be asked as regards the number of ballot-papers.
706. The number of ballot-papers? Being signed, and I said they were dated.
707. Did he use the word "signed"? Who—Masters?
708. Yes? He said that to me.
709. Or initialed? Initialed.
710. Do we understand that he said that you would be asked about the number of ballot-papers? Initialed.
711. Not dated? Yes.
712. How can you reconcile that statement with your statement a little time ago that he told you that he had been accused of not dating the ballot-papers. You were very confident a little while ago that he said "dated"; now you say that he told you that the evidence required would be about initialling? That is what Masters said to me.
713. A little while ago you told me that Masters said that Flynn had sworn that he had dated eighteen or twenty ballot-papers. Now you say that he told you that evidence would be required with regard to the initialling of ballot-papers. That is your statement now, is it not? Yes.
714. Did he ask you what evidence you could give? Yes, and I said I could only tell the truth; that is all.
715. Did you tell him the nature of the evidence you could give? No.
716. Mr. Neild.] Yet you differed with him as to the number of these ballot-papers? Yes.
717. You must have discussed the matter? No discussion took place.
718. I suppose it was this: Masters asked you how many papers there were uninitialed, and you said "two"? I did not say that there were any uninitialed; I said that there were two undated.
719. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Did Masters, either directly or indirectly, tell you what to say at this inquiry? No; he did not tell me what to say. He only told me the questions likely to be asked re the ballot-papers.
720. Mr. White.] Did he tell you what answers you could give to those questions? No.
721. Mr. Cameron.] He told you the questions that were likely to be asked? Yes; he said the great mistake was in regard to the number of ballot-papers.
722. Mr. Hogue.] Did he say the great mistake that was made? He said the mistake with regard to the ballot-papers, Flynn having said there were twenty.
723. Twenty what? Uninitialed. I said there were only two undated to the best of my belief.
724. Mr. Bavister.] You say that on two occasions you have served as poll-clerk under Mr. Masters;—do you know whether Flynn has also acted as poll-clerk on those occasions? He was scrutineer.
725. Mr. Hogue.] I suppose you are on very friendly terms with Masters? I am on friendly terms with him certainly—nothing more.

William Dart called in, sworn, and examined:—

726. Chairman.] Were you a scrutineer at the last election for Botany? Yes.
727. Where? At the School of Arts.
728. Mr. Bavister.] Is that North or South Botany? Middle Botany.
729. Chairman.] Who was the presiding officer? Masters, I think it was.

W. Dark.
10 Sept., 1895.

- W. Dark.
10 Sept., 1895.
730. Did you hear any conversation take place between one of the scrutineers, named Flynn, and the presiding officer, Masters, with reference to the marking of ballot-papers? No.
731. Are you aware whether all the ballot-papers were initialled before being handed to the various voters? Yes, I am aware that they were. When they came out there were some marked on the back. The paper was turned over and marked.
732. You could not swear whether it was initialled or dated? They were marked on the back.
733. By whom? By Masters.
734. Mr. Cann.] Was this done after or before the close of the poll? After the poll was closed.
735. He initialled them after the poll was closed? I could not swear whether they were initialled or dated.
736. How many were there? I should say about five. There were not any more than five.
737. Was there any conversation between Masters and Flynn and the other scrutineers. Did Masters ask the others if they would allow this to be done? He said, "Well, gentlemen, you see me marking these."
738. Chairman.] There were not more than five? Not more than five at the most.
739. Mr. Cann.] You do not know whether they were dated or initialled? No.
740. Mr. Neild.] Or both? No.
741. Mr. White.] It might have been both? Yes, I could not swear to that. I saw him turn the paper over.
742. Who were you scrutineer for? Mr. M'Fadyen.
743. Mr. Neild.] Would you recognise any of the ballot-papers again? No; I should not think I would.
744. Will you look over that little bundle [handing several ballot-papers to witness]? They were initialled in haste. I know that some were done in haste.
745. Now look at this other bundle [handing another parcel of ballot-papers to witness]. One set has been initialled, apparently with deliberation, and the other, apparently with haste. Do you think that those I refer to as apparently having been initialled in haste, are those that were initialled after the papers came out of the box? Yes, they were done rather quickly. It seemed to me that he was putting on the date, but I could not swear to it.
746. The initials are smaller and less clearly written than those on the other ballot-papers? Yes.
747. They are not done in the same bold hand? No; they were done in haste.
748. You think that they would probably represent those that were done afterwards? I should think it was so.
749. Mr. White.] You know that something was written on the back of the ballot-papers, but you cannot say whether they were dated or initialled? They may have been both.
750. Mr. O'Sullivan.] How can you swear that the papers before you probably represent those which were dealt with afterwards? Well, they look as if they were done in haste.
751. You swore that it seemed to you that Masters was writing the date. If he was writing "H.M.," it would not seem as if he were writing figures? I cannot swear that he was putting his initials or only the date on them. I know that he was writing in haste.
752. Can you reconcile the two statements? No.
753. Mr. Cameron.] Were you in the booth all day? Except when I was forced out by nature.
754. And was Masters the same? He was out now and again.
755. How often was he out? I could not swear.
756. To the best of your knowledge? I should say three times—two or three times.
757. Were these absences for any length of time? No. Of course we had to go out to the back.
758. He was not away more than five minutes at any time? I should think about five minutes.
759. Were any votes polled during the absence of the returning officer? Not that I remember.
760. You were not rushed? No.
761. Did you hear Masters ask if there was any objection to his initialling ballot-papers after the box was opened? Only when he said "You see, gentleman, that I am going to do these." That is what he said.
762. What do you mean by "do"? Well, mark them.
763. What was the impression conveyed to your mind as to what he intended to do with them? He was marking them; that is all that I can say.
764. With what sort of mark? A quick mark.
765. Did you think he was initialling them, or dating them, or what? I cannot swear what he was doing.
766. Will you swear that he was doing either? He turned the papers over, and all I can say is that he was marking them on the back.
767. Mr. Hogue.] Did Mr. Masters ask your permission to mark these papers? Well, the only thing he said was, "You see, gentlemen, that I am marking these."
768. He did it without asking permission? That is all he said.
769. Without formally asking permission he said, "You see, gentlemen, that I am marking these"? Yes; that is all.
770. Mr. Cameron.] He did not use these words, "Have you any objection?" No; not that I am aware of.
771. Mr. Hogue.] He did not ask permission? Not that I am aware of.
772. Have you acted as scrutineer before? No. This is the first time.
773. Mr. O'Sullivan.] At any time prior to the marking process that you speak of, had there been a conversation about the necessity for marking papers? Not that I am aware of.
774. What caused Masters to say, "You see, gentlemen, I am going to mark these"? That was after the poll was closed.
775. Does not that imply a prior conversation? No.
776. Mr. Cann.] When did you hear of this case first? Last Friday night.
777. Who told you of it then? I only knew of it from the subpoena that was served on me. Then I came up here on Friday at 12 o'clock.
778. Nobody saw you? Nobody saw me.
779. You had no conversation with the returning officer, or the presiding officer, or the scrutineers? No.

780. Mr. Collins.] You can recollect, and would know, whether Flynn and Masters had a conversation in the booth during the day, apart from the other scrutineers and the poll-clerk? I did not see him have any such conversation at all. W. Dark.
10 Sept., 1895.
781. Mr. Hogue.] What was the name of the other scrutineer in your booth? Moriarty.

John Francis Moriarty called in, sworn, and examined :—

782. Chairman.] You remember the 24th July last, the polling-day at Botany? Yes. J. F.
Moriarty.
10 Sept., 1895.
783. What booth were you at then? A to F, School of Arts, Botany.
784. Do you remember any conversation arising while you were in the booth between Flynn, one of the scrutineers, and the presiding officer, Mr. Masters? No. The only conversation that there was was between the whole of us. Masters, the deputy returning officer, said that he had forgotten to date a few papers, and had we any objections to his doing so. There was no objection raised.
785. At what time was that? This was in the forenoon.
786. Mr. White.] How many papers did you say were undated? Two or three. I could not exactly say.
787. Chairman.] Evidence has been given here by Flynn that there were there eighteen or twenty uninitialled, and that they were initialled afterwards—is that true? No; they were dated, not initialled.
788. How many were dated? Two.
789. Mr. Neild.] How do you account for Masters saying that there were three or four? My orders were that I was to take particular notice, and get upon my feet when the poll was to be declared.
790. Chairman.] You were acting for Mr. Dacey? Yes.
791. Are you sure that every ballot-paper was initialled before being handed to the voters? No, I am not sure; because I was a little away from the table. I was the furthest from the table of all the scrutineers.
792. It might be possible for some not to have been initialled? Yes.
793. Mr. Collins.] As far as you know? Yes.
794. Mr. White.] Did you see two or three ballot-papers that were undated? I saw them from a distance.
795. Were they held up and exhibited to you? No.
796. How do you remember the number then? I was within a yard of the table.
797. And you saw the number? I saw the date put on them.
798. You are quite sure that it was the date? As near as I could guess it was something like this—24, a long stroke, 7, another long stroke, and 95.
799. When did you get the summons? On Saturday.
800. Who served it on you? It was given to the wife at home.
801. To your wife? Yes.
802. When did you get it? On Saturday evening, at 5 o'clock.
803. What did you do then? I read it.
804. Did you see anybody about it? No. Mr. Dacey called on me and asked how it was that I did not tell him that there were a couple of papers that were not dated.
805. Did he say anything about what evidence has been given? Nothing whatever.
806. You are sure the word "dated" was not used? No.
807. Did you hear the word "initialling" mentioned? No.
808. Mr. Dacey simply asked you how it was that you did not tell him;—was that all that was said? Yes.
809. How long did he stop? About seven minutes.
810. He was seven minutes saying all that? Well, I asked him into the house. It was the first time that he had been there, and I showed him over the place.
811. The only conversation that took place was about this matter? Yes. He had some time to wait for a tram, and he said, "I may just as well stop with you as wait on the road."
812. How did you fix this dating upon your mind? I was told at the first to take particular stock of everything that occurred in front of me.
813. That is how it is that you remember it so well? Yes.
814. Did you know that any question had been raised before this Committee about the initialling? None whatever, until I received this subpoena.
815. Mr. Dacey came just after? Yes.
816. Mr. Dacey's conversation related only to the dating? Yes.
817. And why you did not tell him? And why I did not tell him.
818. You are positive that nothing else took place? I am.
819. You will swear it? I swear it.
820. Mr. Hogue.] Did you see the presiding officer date the papers when they came out of the ballot-box? Yes.
821. Are you sure he dated them? He dated them.
822. Are you sure he did not initial them? Yes.
823. How many were there? Two or three.

Owen Mahon called in, sworn, and examined :—

824. Chairman.] Were you scrutineer at the Botany election? I was deputy-returning officer in the booth N to Z, at the School of Arts, Botany. O. Mahon.
10 Sept., 1895.

To His Excellency the Honourable Sir FREDERICK MATTHEW DARLEY, Knight, Lieutenant-Governor of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

The humble Petition of John Channon, of Adelong, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

SHOWETH:—

1. That at the last General Election of Members to serve in the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, Nathaniel Emanuel, Travers Jones, Robert Albert Newman, and your Petitioner, the above-named John Channon, were severally candidates to be elected as Members of the said Legislative Assembly for the Electoral District of Tumut.

2. That before and at the time of the nomination for the said election and from thence your Petitioner was and is a person duly qualified by law to be elected a Member of the said Legislative Assembly.

3. And the said Returning Officer further declared that nineteen votes polled at the said General Election were informal. And also, further declared that the number of votes polled at the said election in favour of the said Travers Jones and your Petitioner respectively was equal. The said Returning Officer gave his casting vote in favor of the said Travers Jones, and thereupon declared the said Travers Jones to be duly elected as a Member of the said Assembly for the said Electoral District of Tumut. And the said Returning Officer afterwards endorsed on the writ for the said election the name of the said Travers Jones as the person so elected and returned the said writ.

7. That your Petitioner has heard, and verily believes the same to be true, that many of the said polling papers were not initialled by the Deputy Returning Officers according to the provisions of the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893," and were therefore informal.

8. THURSDAY, 12 SEPTEMBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. T. Waddell,	Mr. T. Bavister,
Mr. J. C. Neild,	Mr. J. A. Hogue,
Mr. J. H. Cann,	Mr. W. P. Crick.

Henry Clarke, Esq., in the Chair.

Wilfred Blacket, Esq., appeared for Mr. Archer.

C. G. Heydon, Esq., instructed by Messrs. Smith and Norton, appeared for Mr. McMillan.

Frederick W. Webb, Esq., C.M.G., Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You produce the papers connected with the election for Burwood? I produce the writ F. W. Webb, issued by His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor on the 6th July of the present year, which was Esq., C.M.G. returned to His Excellency with a certificate endorsed in these words: "I hereby certify that William McMillan was duly chosen for the electoral district of Burwood to serve in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.—J. H. LUCAS, Returning Officer." I also produce the following letter from the Returning Officer, which reached me on the 3rd September, together with an envelope containing the nomination papers:—

Sir, G, Castlereagh-street, Sydney, 2 September, 1895.

I have the honor to hand you herewith the nomination papers received by me for the late General Election, the official statement of the poll at the various booths and polling-places, and a summary of the general state of the poll for the whole electorate.

I may add that there appears to me to be no provision or direction to the Returning Officer in the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act (56 Vic. No. 38), or in the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act Amendment Act (57 Vic. No. 3), as to the disposal of the papers above mentioned.

F. W. Webb, Esq., C.M.G.,

Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, Sydney.

I have, &c.,

J. H. LUCAS,

Returning Officer, Electoral District of Burwood.

William Archer, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

2. Chairman.] Are you the Petitioner against the return of Mr. McMillan? Yes.

3. I presume that you were a candidate at the last election? Yes.

4. Mr. Blacket.] The matters stated in your Petition were so stated from information that you received? Yes.

W. Archer,
Esq.

12 Sept., 1895.

William McMillan, Esq., M.P., called in, sworn, and examined:—

5. Mr. Blacket.] You were returned as the elected Member for Burwood, and it is against your sitting W. McMillan, that this Petition is,—may I ask you when did you leave the Colony of New South Wales? On the 25th Esq., M.P. February last.

6. When did you return? I returned on the 6th September.

7. At the time you left the Colony you were the sitting Member for Burwood in the last Parliament? Yes.

12 Sept., 1895.

8. With regard to the nomination paper, would you mind stating when that was signed? I think the simplest way would be for me to make a statement as to exactly what occurred. The circumstances were these: I found that imperative business engagements called me to England, with the prospect of being away for six months, more or less. I had a very shrewd idea that before I returned there would be a general election, though I need not go into details about that. I conveyed this view to my friends, and consulted them as to the action I should take in the event of such a contingency. It was decided that a nomination paper should be drawn up according to law, being signed by, six I think is the number, of the duly qualified electors of Burwood. That document was completed as far as I know in every shape, and was put before me for my signature. I signed it, assenting to my nomination. My view at the time was that the reason of the law was to see that nobody was nominated except with his own consent, and I had the idea that that satisfied every consideration of law and equity. If I had not thought so I would not have signed the paper. The signing was done a few days before I left; I cannot give the exact date. The elections took place on the 24th July, five months after I left, and I believe that I was duly qualified to vote thereat for Randwick, if I had been here at the time.

- W. McMillan, Esq., M.P.
12 Sept., 1895.
9. Mr. Neild.] I suppose the nomination was blank as to the day of election? Well, naturally.
10. Mr. Crick.] Was not some cable sent to you to know if you would be nominated? A cable was sent to me to send my election address, or to state anything I desired. I cabled back to say that I left myself entirely in the hands of my constituents, and that the principles which I had enunciated at the last election were unchanged.
11. Mr. Hogue.] At the time you left the Colony where were you residing? At Randwick.
12. Then you were the holder of an elector's right at the time? Yes.
13. Can you produce that elector's right? It is among my papers at home.
14. Mr. Crick.] You still hold that right? Yes.
15. Mr. Waddell.] Is your name still on the roll? I presume so. There has been no revision of the rolls.
16. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You received no letters stating that your vote would be challenged? Nothing of the kind. It never struck me that there was any question about this proceeding.
17. Mr. Bavister.] The signatures of your nominators were on the nomination-paper before you signed it? Certainly.
18. Mr. Blackett.] It is stated on the nomination-paper that you are a warehouseman, of Randwick;—prior to February you had been residing at Randwick, had you not? Yes.
19. At what address? In a house called St. Albans, Addison Road.
20. Did you, either just before or just after leaving the Colony, let that house to a tenant? Yes; the negotiations had been completed, but it was not actually let until a few days after I left. It was in the hands of my agents, Hardie and Gorman, to let, and I knew that it had been let.
21. It was let furnished, I think, for the term of six months? Yes.
22. So that, as a matter of fact, the lease has not yet expired? Not until next Saturday.
23. That had been your only residence in Randwick? My only residence anywhere.
24. The nomination paper is dated 17th July, 1895;—of course, that date was filled in afterwards? Of course.
25. Mr. Heydon.] When you went away, you went purely for a temporary purpose—it was temporary business that called you away? Certainly.
26. And you went, intending to return as soon as everything was over? I went in the same way as I might go to Brisbane—simply on business, and for absolutely nothing but business.
27. And you went with the intention of returning? Yes, before the election if possible; but I could not, under any circumstances, have been back in time for the election, though I might have been back a month earlier than I was. I am the local partner of a firm here. When I go away this is my only domicile and my only place of residence.
28. Mr. Waddell.] I suppose you let your house more for the purpose of having your property taken care of until your return? Yes; I let it for that purpose, and to save the rent.

6. That votes which should have been received, recorded, and allowed as votes in favor of your Petitioner were disallowed by the respective Presiding Officers aforesaid, which were in effect legal and in compliance with the said Electoral Acts.

7. That in substantiation of the said allegations your Petitioner is prepared to bring forward evidence in support thereof, and also for the purpose of establishing that whereas certain votes which at certain polling booths were received and declared to be legal and in compliance with the said Electoral Acts, were at other booths declared and were treated as illegal and disallowed.

8. That if the votes taken at the respective polling-booths had been received and allowed in pursuance of the provisions of the said Electoral Acts, your Petitioner would have been returned as Member for the said District of Rylstone in lieu of the said John Charles Lucas Fitzpatrick.

9. That your Petitioner has, in accordance with the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893," deposited in the Bank of New South Wales, Sydney, the sum of fifty pounds to the credit of the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in relation to this Petition, and annexed to this Petition is a Bank deposit receipt showing that the said sum of fifty pounds has been so deposited.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that your Excellency will, in pursuance of the provisions of the "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893," be pleased to cause this Petition to be notified in the Gazette and laid before the Assembly, as provided by the said Act, with a view of the same being referred by the Assembly to the Committee of Elections and Qualifications to inquire into the various allegations before referred to, and the general validity of the said Election, and that it may be declared that the said John Charles Lucas Fitzpatrick was not lawfully elected and is not Member for the Electoral District of Rylstone, but that your Petitioner is the duly elected Member for the Electoral District of Rylstone to represent such constituency in the said Legislative Assembly; and to grant such other relief in the premises, if necessary, as may be considered, upon due examination and inquiry, to be requisite to carry out the legal requirements of the said "Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act of 1893" in its entirety.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

OF ELECTIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS.

ELECTION PETITION—WALL v. J. C. L. FITZPATRICK—RYLSTONE.

TUESDAY, 17 SEPTEMBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. E. W. O'Sullivan,	Mr. T. Bavister,
Mr. J. C. Neild,	Mr. A. Cameron.
Mr. J. H. Cann,

Henry Clarke, Esquire, in the Chair.

Frederick William Webb, Esquire, C.M.G., Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, called in, sworn, and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You have papers to produce in reference to this inquiry? I produce the writ issued by F. W. Webb, His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor on the 6th July last, for the election of a Member to serve in the Legislative Assembly for the electoral district of Rylstone, upon which the Returning Officer, Mr. S. G. Benson, has certified that "John Charles Lucas Fitzpatrick was duly chosen a Member for the electoral district of Rylstone to serve in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales." I also produce four bundles containing the ballot-papers and other papers used in the election. (Produced.)

William Chandos Wall, Esq., called in, sworn, and examined:—

2. Chairman.] You were a candidate at the last general election for Rylstone? Yes.

3. You were not returned as Member? I was not declared elected.

4. I presume that the grounds set forth in the petition are the general grounds upon which you petitioned against the sitting Member? Yes.

5. Mr. Neild.] You say in the 7th paragraph of your petition that you are prepared to bring forward evidence in support of the allegations contained in it;—what evidence do you propose to bring forward? Perhaps I had better make an explanation in regard to my proposed substantiation of the petition which I have lodged. First of all I propose to tender to the Committee the statutory declaration of a poll clerk that votes were disallowed as informal which were recorded and should have been counted in my favour. I then propose to ask, in accordance with the provisions of the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act, that the Committee will accept the ballot-papers as evidence in order to establish the fact.

6. Mr. Cameron.] In other words, you ask for a re-count? Yes. With regard to the 7th paragraph in my petition, I leave it to the Committee to determine whether the irregularities which I propose to prove will invalidate the election, or whether I, instead of the respondent, was the person duly elected. I propose to prove that certain persons, who were not legally entitled to vote, voted for John Charles Lucas Fitzpatrick. The Committee will doubtless ask how I am going to prove that. I am going to assume that the Committee will pursue the same course in this case as has been pursued in other cases, notably the case of the election petition, William Wilton and others versus Rouse. A copy of the Committee's report in connection with that petition was ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed on the 18th March, 1879. In this case Rouse was declared duly elected. A petition, however, was lodged by some of the electors, and it was proved that certain persons who were not legally entitled to vote had voted at that election. The names of those persons were on the electoral roll. At the revision court no exception had been taken to them, the presiding officers made no objection to these persons voting, ballot papers were tendered to them, and their votes were accepted. The petitioners, however, proved that two of the votes which had been accepted were not legally qualified to vote, because they were under age. I propose to prove that persons who voted at the last election for Rylstone were not legally qualified to vote. The Committee in the case to which I have referred insisted that the witnesses should state for whom they voted, as the following extract from the evidence will show:—

233. Chairman.] At this stage of the proceedings I think it right to state to you that you should answer the question as to who you voted for?

[Mr. Moses objected to the question. The Committee-room was cleared. Committee deliberated. Objection overruled. Parties were again called in. Examination continued.]

234. Chairman.] The Committee have given this matter very great consideration, and they are of opinion that you should answer the question? (The question was read.) I voted for Mr. Richard Rouse.

Then, further on:

264.] The Committee think it desirable, in the interests of justice, that you should answer the question for whom you voted?

[Mr. Moses objected. The Committee-room was cleared. Committee deliberated. Objection overruled. Parties were again called in. Examination proceeded.]

265. Chairman.] The Committee have deliberated on the matter of your refusal to answer the question put by me, and are of opinion that inasmuch as you are a minor and disqualified under the provisions of the Electoral Act from recording your vote, you cannot claim any privilege in regard to answering the question, and that it is your bounden duty to answer any that may be put to you; therefore, I now desire you to say for whom you voted? I shall have to answer?

266. Yes? I voted for Mr. Rouse.

W. C. Wall,
Esq.
17 Sept., 1895.

I propose to prove that a number of those who voted in Rylstone were not legally entitled to vote, and I intend to produce witnesses to show that a sufficient number of such persons voted to alter the state of the poll in the event of their votes being allowed. I propose to submit to the Committee evidence to show that electors' rights were issued within seven days of the date of polling, that persons in possession of electors' rights contrary to the provisions of the Act were allowed to vote, and that their votes were accepted and recorded. I also propose to prove that, while these rights were issued by some Registrars at some places they were not issued by other Registrars at other places, and that persons were permitted to vote on them at some places and refused permission to vote at others. That is, briefly, the evidence which I propose to tender; but I do not deem it desirable at this stage to ask a number of persons to come here when their presence may not be required. I propose first to ask for a re-count, and I tender the ballot papers as evidence to prove the necessity for a re-count. I have taken the precaution to notify the Clerk to produce those papers on my behalf. If, after a re-count has been made, it is found necessary to do so, I shall be prepared to subpoena witnesses to prove that the number of the votes which were disallowed and which would have been recorded in my favor was sufficient to alter the state of the poll, and I tender the declaration of the poll clerk to that effect. (Handed in.)

7. In the first place you ask the Committee to consider the advisability of granting a re-count? Yes.

8. Mr. Bavister.] Do you propose to call evidence to show that more than the two votes referred to in the declaration were disallowed? Of course the ballot-papers will in themselves be evidence, and I should like to direct the attention of the Committee to the provisions of the Act in regard to the rejection of ballot-papers. I am advised that ballot-papers were rejected, because there was certain writing on them. But it is distinctly set forth in the Act that ballot-papers shall be rejected if the initials on them are obliterated, or if the punctures are removed or destroyed. Now it is a maxim of law that the inclusion of one thing means the exclusion of everything else, and the Act distinctly states that every other paper in the box shall be deemed a ballot-paper, unless the presiding officer rejects it, acting in accordance with the regulations laid down for his guidance in terms of the law. The provisions of the Act to which I direct the Committee's attention are sub-section 3, of section 84, section 86, and section 91.

MONDAY, 28 OCTOBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. Cann,	Mr. Hogue,
Mr. Bavister,	Mr. Neild,
Mr. Henry Clarke,	Mr. O'Sullivan,

Mr. Waddell.
Henry Clarke, Esq., in the Chair.

B. R. Wise, Esq., instructed by Mr. W. F. Hawkins, appeared for Petitioner.
E. Barton, Esq., Q.C., instructed by Mr. Rawlinson, appeared for the sitting Member.

Adolph Cæsar Shadler called in, sworn, and examined:—

3. Mr. Wise.] You were a candidate in the electoral district of Braidwood at the last election? I was.
4. On the 17th July you were announced to speak at Welcome Reefs? Yes.
5. I believe Mr. Chapman was announced to speak there on the same evening? Yes.
6. He also was a candidate? Yes.
7. At what time did you arrive at Welcome Reefs? At about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.
8. At what time, as far as you know, did Mr. Chapman arrive there? At about 5 o'clock.
9. Did you see Mr. Levinshon there? Yes.
10. Was he talking to you when Mr. Chapman drove up? Yes.
11. Did Mr. Levinshon say anything as to what his connection with Mr. Chapman was? Yes, he was speaking to me about that matter that afternoon, and also the day before. He said he was Mr. Chapman's agent and representative in that part of the electorate. Sometimes he used the word "agent" and sometimes he used the word "representative."
12. Did he receive Mr. Chapman when he arrived? Yes; at about 5 o'clock, while he was talking to me, Mr. Chapman arrived, and he left me with these words, "Here is my boss coming. I must go and meet him." He left me and accompanied Mr. Chapman to the rear of the building. From there they went into a private room by themselves in the hotel. They remained there until tea was announced. Mr. Levinshon then came with Mr. Chapman into the public tea-room, where, with Mr. Chapman and several others, including myself, he had tea. I did not speak to Mr. Levinshon during tea-time, but he kept up a lively conversation with one or two others at the tea-table. During that conversation he repeatedly shouted in argument that he was Mr. Chapman's representative or agent.
13. Was that said in Mr. Chapman's hearing? Mr. Chapman was alongside of him, within 3 feet of him.
14. Mr. Levinshon was sitting beside Mr. Chapman at the table? Yes.
15. Did Mr. Chapman deny Mr. Levinshon's statement, that he was his agent or representative? No; he sat there quietly eating his tea. I think that if he spoke to any one at all it was to myself.
- A. C. Shadler,
Esq.
28 Oct., 1895.

- A. C. Shadler, Esq.
28 Oct., 1895.
16. Did Mr. Levinshon say anything in Mr. Chapman's hearing about drink? The evening before I had held a meeting at a place called Nerriga. Mr. Levinshon alluded to that meeting in rather an offensive way. He said that there was no drink there. In conversation with a Mr. Underwood he said, "It was very dry last night, but we will have plenty of drink to-night." Mr. Underwood questioned him as to why he made that statement. He replied, "I can speak with authority as Mr. Chapman's agent."
17. Was that said in Mr. Chapman's presence? Yes; Mr. Chapman was sitting beside him at the table.
18. Did he make any remark in reference to that statement of Mr. Levinshon? No. After the tea-table had been cleared, again under the escort of Mr. Levinshon, he took his seat at a table to begin the business of the evening—that is, to address the electors. A Mr. Chambers was elected to the chair, and Mr. Chapman delivered his address. When he had completed it, Mr. Levinshon moved the usual vote of confidence. Some one seconded it. I do not know who it was. After Mr. Chapman had retired, I think Mr. Levinshon at once got up, before any one had left the room, and said, "Well, boys, you have heard Mr. Chapman. You have still to hear Mr. Shadler with a freetrade speech, but before we can hear him it will be necessary to wet our throats; we must have a drink. I invite you all into the next room, and there we can drink Mr. Chapman's health." There were about 100 persons present, and the whole body of them then rose and left the room. I went into the bar-room once or twice while the drinking was going on, and I saw Levinshon pay for drinks two or three times. He invited every one to give it a name. After this drinking had been going on for about half an hour, I appealed to Mr. Levinshon, who had control of the people to a certain extent, to get them back again into the room in which Mr. Chapman had spoken. With a good deal of coaxing and persuasion he got a few of them to come back, and I then had to deliver my address as well as I could among a great deal of shouting and noise; in fact, it was no address at all; it ended in a fiasco. I said in my speech that I was sorry that I had to address the people under such circumstances, but that I could only take it that the thing was done designedly in order to prevent me from getting a hearing.
19. Did the drinking in the adjoining bar-room interfere with the delivery of your speech? I can best illustrate the position of matters by referring to this room and the adjoining room. The two rooms were divided by a partition. There did not appear to be a door in it, and there was free access from one room to the other.
20. Was it possible for you to give proper expression to your views while this drinking and noise were going on? It was impossible. So great was the noise that was going on that I could hardly hear my own voice.
21. Did you see Mr. Chapman in the bar while the drinking was going on? I saw him moving about while I was there.
22. Did you see any drink being paid for? Yes, only by Levinshon. I saw him on two occasions tender a £1 note over the counter. He was the only person I saw paying for drinks.
23. How many votes did you get at this particular place at the election? Only three. I might say that Nerriga and Welcome Reefs are practically one and the same locality; as far as I can judge—I am a stranger in that part of the world—the whole people of Nerriga assembled at Welcome Reefs. The vote of the two places was practically one vote.
24. Mr. Rawlinson.] You knew Mr. Levinshon before this, did you not? He introduced himself to me at Nerriga the day before.
25. Were you drinking with him there? He invited me to drink.
26. Was there anyone else with you then;—did he not shout? Yes, he shouted.
27. For whom? I do not know who they were.
28. Did you not know who were drinking with you? No; I was a stranger.
29. Was Mr. Levinshon at Welcome Reefs when you arrived? He came during the afternoon.
30. At what time? I think an hour or two after I had arrived. It would be about 3 or 4 o'clock.
31. Mr. Chapman did not arrive till about 5 or 6? It would be between 5 and 6 o'clock, I suppose.
32. Were there many people about at that time? Not many.
33. About how many people would there be about the place up to the time Mr. Chapman came? There were about a dozen, I suppose.
34. Can you tell me whether Mr. Levinshon was drinking during that time? No; I do not think he had any drink at all.
35. I suppose you could not be mistaken as to the state he was in? No; I think not—he was perfectly sober.
36. You think he was perfectly sober up to the time Mr. Chapman came? I should say he was perfectly sober all the time.
37. Up to a late hour at night? Yes; I remember seeing him on the next morning.
38. Was he quite sober then? Yes.
39. Mrs. Smith, the wife of the publican, was waiting at the tea-table, was she not? Yes.
40. Was she there during the whole of the time tea was going on, do you know? She would be going in and out of the room, I suppose.
41. You say you saw Mr. Levinshon pay some money over the bar counter that night;—how much did you see him pay? I saw him tender a £1 note on two occasions.
42. To whom? To Mr. or Mrs. Smith, or whoever was in the bar.
43. You are certain of that? Yes.
44. Did you do any shouting at Welcome Reefs or any other place? Not at Welcome Reefs.
45. Not at Major's Creek? To be perfectly accurate, I will at once admit that Major's Creek is a place I have visited a great many times. I have some personal and very close friends there, and I think I might have asked one of my friends there to have a drink either in a house or in my private room at the hotel.
46. You shouted at Major's Creek, but it was for one of your friends? Yes; outside of that I never shouted there for any of the public, or any unknown men.
47. Mr. Wise.] There was no promiscuous treating on your part? No.
48. Mr. Rawlinson.] You held a meeting at Major's Creek on the 19th, two days after the meeting at Welcome Reefs? I could not swear without looking up the date.
49. At any rate, after the meeting at Welcome Reefs you held a meeting at Major's Creek? I could not say at this moment which took place first—I held twenty meetings altogether.
50. Was Mr. Browne a supporter of yours? He is not an elector.
- 51.

51. Was he a supporter of yours? I could not say.
52. Was he travelling with you? He went to some of the places.
53. Did he go to Major's Creek with you? Yes.
54. And did he go to Welcome Reefs? Yes.
55. Did Mr. Browne shout while you were there? I never saw him.
56. Do you say that you do not know that Mr. Browne paid for any drinks at Major's Creek? Not that I know of.
57. Did you tell anyone that Mr. Browne was your agent, and that he attended to these things? What do you mean by these things?
58. The shouting? No.
59. Do you know Mr. Dunshea, of Major's Creek? Yes.
60. He acted as your chairman, did he not? I fancy he did. I am not quite sure.
61. At all events, he was a supporter of yours? Yes.
62. Did you tell him that Mr. Browne was your agent? I answered that question just now. I told nobody so.
63. Did you tell Mr. Dunshea, or anyone else at Major's Creek, that you had spent £10 or £15 in shouting in Welcome Reefs? I did not.
64. Did you say anything to that effect? I think I said that Mr. Chapman must have done so, judging from the amount of liquor which was going there.
65. But you did not say you had done so? No.
66. You were at Major's Creek on polling day? I was.
67. Did you shout for anyone then? No, I did not.
68. There was some disagreement at Welcome Reefs about your having a certain chairman, was there not? I fancy there was.
69. The first occasion of any disorder there was your refusal to have a certain chairman? No; the disorder began before that. I could not get people to attend the meeting.
70. Is it not the fact that Mr. Levinshon proposed that you should have the same chairman as had acted at Mr. Chapman's meeting, and that you refused? I do not think that that is right.
71. Mr. Wise.] Did this treating, in your opinion, at Welcome Reefs prejudice your election? Unquestionably; because wherever I went afterwards people spoke of it, and said it was not necessary to hear me, as they would not hear me at Welcome Reefs. They said that I was a mean sort of beggar, and that I never shouted.
72. Mr. Neild.] The one or two persons, whatever the number may be, for whom you provided drinks, were they personal friends of yours? Yes.
73. Did they, previous to this drinking, indicate that they were supporting you, or how they were going to vote? The gentleman Mr. Rawlinson referred to just now—Mr. Dunshea—told me he was a supporter of mine.
74. Was he giving you active assistance? I hardly think so.
75. You regarded him as a pledged supporter? Yes; he had been a personal friend for about two years.
76. You had the drinks privately? Yes; there was no political meeting or anything of that kind.
77. Was the meeting which has been referred to held subsequently? Some two or three days afterwards.
78. There was no promiscuous drinking, as far as you were concerned? No.
79. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You said just now that in your opinion your election was prejudiced, because people said they would not vote for you as the people at Welcome Reefs had refused to hear you, and that you were a mean beggar;—can you tell us who said that? I could not say.
80. Surely you would recognise persons who made an offensive remark like that? It was repeated to me that the remark had been made. The report was current.
81. Who told you that the report was current? I heard it at five or six places afterwards.
82. I should like to know who were the people who told you? I heard it at Araluen. I was in one room and I heard people talking about me in the tap-room. I heard them making a remark of the kind among themselves.
83. You said just now that persons had told you that this rumour was current outside;—who told you that? I could not say offhand, but I dare say that with a little thinking I could recall the persons to my mind.
84. Could you not recall them to mind now? No, because there must have been about half-a-dozen places at which the matter was spoken of.
85. Then would it not be all the easier for you to remember one of the persons who told you? I have already said that at Araluen I overheard the remark being made by a number of persons in the bar.
86. Cannot you remember one of the persons who told you about this rumour? The reporter who was with me in the buggy was one of the persons who mentioned the matter to me. He moved about among the people, and I remember his coming back and saying that they had a bad impression of me; that they had heard about my meeting at Welcome Reefs, and that they said I would not shout there.
87. Did you shout for any elector anywhere except at Major's Creek? Yes, at Bungonia. I shouted for a Mr. Broadhead.
88. Is he an elector? Yes; he had been a personal friend of mine for two years.
89. He might be a personal friend, and yet might be opposed to you in politics? He might be.
90. Was Mr. Levinshon sober when you first saw him at Nerriga? Yes.
91. He has the reputation of being a free-handed, good-natured man? I could not say. It was the first time I had been there in my life, and I did not know him until I got there. I do not know what his reputation is.
92. Mr. Wise.] Did you regard Mr. Broadhead as a pledged supporter? Yes. I had been staying at his house; we were personal friends; we had known each other for quite two or three years before then.
93. Mr. Hogue.] You said that Levinshon declared himself to be Mr. Chapman's representative and agent? Yes. Sometimes he used one word, and sometimes the other.
94. You are certain he used both words? Yes.
95. And you are certain that both words were used in the presence of Mr. Chapman? Yes, and he used both words when Mr. Chapman was not present.
96. Mr. Waddell.] Did he declare the fact several times during the day? Yes.

- A. C. Shadler, Esq., 97. Did it not occur to you that a man would have to be drunk in order to act in that way? I thought Mr. Chapman was a fool not to stand up and repudiate the statement at once. Many persons said afterwards the thing was done with a design.
- 28 Oct., 1895. 98. Mr. Wise.] Was Mr. Smith present at the time the statement was made? Yes; he was at the head of the table.
99. Was Mrs. Smith present? I think she was attending to the visitors—she was going backwards and forwards.
100. To how many places did Mr. Browne go with you? To about six or seven places.
101. Is he a local resident? Yes; he is a reporter for one of the local newspapers. He asked if he might be permitted to go round and report meetings. He was not even a voter. He had only been there a few months, I think. He was engaged by the local press.
102. And that was the reason for his going round with you? Yes; he was reporting, I think, for both of the newspapers up there.
103. Mr. Bavister.] In referring to the state in which Mr. Levinson was, you left it uncertain whether you always saw him sober;—did you see him at any time when he was not sober? No, I did not.
104. Chairman.] You said that the fact of your not treating at various places interfered with your election? Yes.
105. How many votes did you poll in the electorate? Three hundred and three.
106. How many votes did Mr. Chapman poll? Eight hundred odd. Wherever there were public-houses he polled very heavily.
107. Mr. Rawlinson.] How many votes did you poll at Kawarre? Not one. At this particular place there was one man who voted for freetrade last year, but he has since burnt his right, because he said his life was not safe afterwards. There is an entirely sectarian cry at that place. They are almost all Roman Catholics; there are only about half a dozen Protestants.

Sydney Herbert Browne called in, sworn, and examined:—

- S. H. Browne, Esq., 108. Mr. Wise.] In July last you were a reporter for the Braidwood and Araluen Express? Yes.
109. And it was part of your duty to attend political meetings? Yes.
- 28 Oct., 1895. 110. You attended a meeting at Welcome Reefs on the 17th July? Yes.
111. On that occasion both Mr. Chapman and Mr. Shadler were announced to speak? Yes.
112. Mr. Chapman spoke first? Yes.
113. And then Mr. Shadler attempted to speak? Yes.
114. Did you see Mr. Levinson there? Yes.
115. At what time did you arrive at Welcome Reefs? A little after midday.
116. Did you see Mr. Levinson at all in company with Mr. Chapman? I did.
117. Were you present at the tea-table at Smith's hotel that evening? Yes.
118. Did you hear anything said there by Mr. Levinson in reference to the election? Yes; I heard him having an argument.
119. With whom? Mr. Underwood.
120. Did you hear him say anything about the meeting at Nerriga? Yes; he said, "It was a bit dry at Nerriga last night."
121. Who had spoken at Nerriga that night? Mr. Shadler. He added, "But it will not be dry to-night." Mr. Underwood asked him what authority he had for making that statement, and he stated that he was Mr. Chapman's representative.
122. Was Mr. Chapman then present? He was.
123. Sitting close to Mr. Levinson? Yes; he was sitting next to him.
124. Did Mr. Levinson say this in a tone sufficiently loud for all to hear? Yes.
125. All within the room? Yes.
126. After Mr. Chapman had finished speaking, who proposed a vote of confidence in him? Mr. Levinson.
127. When the vote of confidence had been carried, did Mr. Levinson say anything to the people present? Yes.
128. Tell us what it was? He invited them into the bar to have a drink.
129. Did the audience then leave the room? The majority of them went into the bar.
130. The bar adjoined the room in which the candidates were speaking? Yes.
131. Was it possible, do you think, for Mr. Shadler to continue the meeting while the drinking was going on in the adjoining bar? It was not.
132. Did you see who paid for the drinks in the bar? I saw Mr. Levinson pay for some.
133. Was Mr. Chapman in the bar? I saw him in the bar once during the night.
134. Did you see anyone beside Mr. Levinson pay for drinks? I did not.
135. Who called for drinks when the people got into the bar? Mr. Levinson.
136. What did he say? "Now, boys, give it a name."
137. That was the invitation addressed to all in the bar? Yes.
138. How much money did you see Mr. Levinson pass over the bar? £2 10s.
139. How long was the drinking going on? From the conclusion of Mr. Chapman's address all night.
140. In your opinion had this treating any prejudicial influence upon Mr. Shadler's candidature? It had.
141. In what way? They would not give him a hearing.
142. Did it affect him in his candidature outside of this particular place? Yes; the knowledge that he did not get a hearing at Welcome Reefs followed him.
143. Was there any remarks made about Mr. Shadler being stingy and about his not treating? Yes; I heard the remark passed that he was a little bit mean.
144. Was that said in reference to any particular thing? No.
145. Mr. Rawlinson.] How long have you been in the district? About twelve months.
146. Were you acting for Mr. Shadler throughout the election? In what way.
147. In any way? No; I was not.
148. Were you acting for him at all at Major's Creek? No; I was not.
149. You were there with Mr. Shadler, I believe? Yes.

150. When was it? I believe it was on the Friday night after the meeting at Welcome Reefs.
151. Two days after that meeting? Yes.
152. Were you shouting there? I had a few drinks there.
153. Mr. Wise.] Did you see any money passed from Mr. Chapman to Mr. Levinshon? Yes.
154. When? Just after Mr. Chapman's arrival at Welcome Reefs.
155. How much money passed;—could you see? I could not see the amount; it was in notes.
156. Mr. Rawlinson.] Do you say that you saw Mr. Chapman pass some money over to Mr. Levinshon? Yes.
157. Where? It was out in the open air.
158. Was it at the back of a house? At the side of the house, near the stable.
159. Mr. Chapman came in a buggy, did he not? Yes.
160. Who was with him;—do you know? Yes; a gentleman whose name I forget at this moment.
161. Was that person present when this money was handed over? No.
162. Where was he at the time? He was standing alongside the horse, helping another man to take it out of the buggy.
163. Did you hear Mr. Levinshon say anything to Mr. Chapman? I did not.
164. Did you hear Mr. Chapman say anything to Mr. Levinshon? No.
165. You simply saw money pass from one to the other? Yes.
166. How long had you been there before Mr. Chapman came? Between three or four hours.
167. Did you see Mr. Levinshon drinking during that time? I did.
168. Did you drink with him? Yes.
169. Did he shout for you? He did.
170. Did he shout for many more during the afternoon? Yes; he shouted for three or four.
171. How many times did he shout? I could not say.
172. Do you mean to say that he shouted for these three or four persons half-a-dozen times? I only saw him shout once, and that was when I had a drink with him.
173. When he shouted at that time did he call everyone who was about to have a drink with him? No; those who were in the bar he asked to have a drink.
174. Were you in the bar all the afternoon? I was not.
175. Where did you go? I went about the place.
176. When you heard Mr. Levinshon make this remark at the table about his being Mr. Chapman's representative, was Mrs. Smith there? Mrs. Smith was in the room, but not at the table.
177. Mr. Hogue.] She was going in and out of the room, I suppose? Yes.
178. Mr. Rawlinson.] I suppose Mr. Levinshon was quite sober at this time? Yes; he was not drunk.
179. Was he drunk at all that night? Yes, he was.
180. At what time did you find out that he was drunk? Just before retiring for the night.
181. What time was that? After 11 o'clock.
182. He went to bed and you went to bed? I went to bed.
183. You say that you saw Mr. Levinshon pay £2 10s. for drinks during that night? Yes.
184. To whom did he pay this money? On one occasion I saw him give some to Mrs. Smith.
185. How much did you see him give to her? One note and half a sovereign.
186. To whom did he pay the other money? To Mr. Smith.
187. Was it all paid after the political meeting? Yes.
188. The whole of that amount? Yes.
189. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You said just now that you heard a number of persons in the electorate say that Mr. Shadler's chances were prejudiced or injured by this affair at Welcome Reefs? Yes.
190. Because the people thought him a little bit mean? Yes.
191. What were the words you heard used;—did they say that Mr. Shadler was a little bit mean, or that he was a mean beggar? I could not say what the exact words used were. Mr. Levinshon was the first who used the expression.
192. What did he say? He said that Mr. Shadler was very mean.
193. Whom else did you hear making remarks to that effect? Several throughout the electorate.
194. I should like to have their names? I could not exactly give you their names.
195. Do you mean to say that you are a reporter upon a newspaper knowing people throughout the district, and that you did not know the persons who made an observation of that kind? I dare say I knew them, but I did not put down the names of those who made it.
196. How comes it that you remember that the observation was made by Mr. Levinshon? Every one I should think could remember what was said in the room at Welcome Reefs.
- 197-8. Where did you hear the other persons make the remark;—was it shouted out in the bush; was it said on the roadside, or where? I heard the remark made at different meetings at which I attended with Mr. Shadler.
199. Was there no chance of your recognising the person who made the remark in any case? I dare say that I could have recognised them, but I did not take the trouble.
200. How many persons altogether did you hear make use of it? Three or four.
201. Were you employed by Mr. Shadler at all? I was not.
202. Neither indirectly nor directly? No.
203. How many yards were you standing away from them when you saw the notes pass from Mr. Chapman to Mr. Levinshon? From 10 to 12 yards.
204. How do you know that it was notes which passed between them? I saw them.
205. You saw them, standing 12 yards off? Yes; it was broad daylight.
206. And you say that they were passed without any remark at all? That is so far as I know. I did not hear the conversation. They were talking. Mr. Levinshon went up and shook hands with Mr. Chapman when he arrived. They had a conversation, and during the conversation the notes were passed by Mr. Chapman to Mr. Levinshon.
207. You swear distinctly that you saw Mr. Chapman pass bank notes to Mr. Levinshon? I swear it.
208. Mr. Cann.] Were the notes opened out? No; they were in a roll.
209. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Did this happen after Mr. Levinshon had shouted for you? Yes.
210. Was that the only drink you had that afternoon? Yes.

- S. H. Browns, Esq.
28 Oct., 1895.
211. And you adhere to the statement that standing 12 yards off you saw these notes passed? Yes.
212. Mr. Waddell.] You are engaged upon the Araluen Express newspaper? I was.
213. Who is the owner of the newspaper? Mr. Campbell.
214. Mr. Barton.] You swear that you were standing 12 yards away from Mr. Chapman and Mr. Levinshon when the bank notes passed between them? Yes.
215. Chairman.] How do you know whether they were £1 or £5 notes, or what they were? I do not know what notes they were. I only know that they were bank notes.
216. Mr. Cann.] And you say that the notes were rolled up in a bundle? Yes; there was a small roll of them.
217. You did not see them opened out and counted? No.
218. Mr. Hogue.] Can you swear that they were not electioneering bills or placards? Yes, I can swear that.

William Underwood called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Mr. W. Underwood.
28 Oct., 1895.
219. Mr. Wise.] You are a miner living at Nerriga? Yes.
220. You were at Welcome Reefs on the 17th July last? Yes.
221. You had your tea at Smith's Hotel on that day? Yes.
222. Mr. Chapman and Mr. Levinshon, with other people, were at the tea-table? Yes; and Mr. Shadler also.
223. Did you hear Mr. Levinshon say anything about Mr. Shadler's meeting at Nerriga? Yes. He said that the meeting at Nerriga was very dry, and he added, "We will have a livelier time at the Welcome Reefs."
224. Was that said in Mr. Chapman's hearing? Yes.
225. Was he sitting close by Mr. Chapman? Yes; between Mr. Chapman and myself.
226. Did you say anything to Mr. Levinshon when he made that observation? I said, "How do you know?" He said, "I am Mr. Chapman's representative."
227. In what tone was that said? In a loud tone.
228. You could all hear it? Yes.
229. Did Mr. Chapman stop Levinshon and contradict him? No.
230. And you say that Mr. Chapman must have heard what he said? Yes.
231. After Mr. Chapman's speech did Levinshon say anything to the audience? He asked them to come in and have a drink.
232. Did they refuse? No.
233. Was Mr. Shadler afterwards able to go on with his meeting? Not at that time—not until after they had had their drink.
234. Did Mr. Shadler afterwards attempt to hold a meeting? Yes.
235. Was he or was he not able to go on with it? He was able to go on, but he was interrupted a good few times.
236. By whom? By several of the fellows there.
237. And by the noise in the bar? Yes; and also outside. They interrupted him nearly half the time he was talking.
238. Was drinking going on at the bar all the time? Yes.
239. Did you see anyone pay for drinks at the bar? Yes; Mr. Levinshon.
240. Did you see anyone else pay for any? No, with the exception of what I paid for myself.
241. For how many would that be? A few persons.
242. For a few friends of your own? Yes.
243. You were not a voter? No; I had no interest whatever in the election.
244. The friends for whose drinks you paid were persons you had had to deal with in mining, I suppose? Yes.
245. You did not shout promiscuously for any one in the room? No.
246. Did you know Mr. Levinshon before this? Yes.
247. Had you drunk with him before? Yes.
248. Did you take him to be a rich man or a poor man? From what I had observed, I believed him to be in very poor circumstances at the time.
249. He had that reputation? Yes.
250. What is he by occupation? I do not know.
251. About how many persons were there in the bar drinking at Levinshon's expense? I should say about twenty or thirty at one time. They could not all get in the bar at one time; it is only a small place.
252. How many persons do you suppose there were at the meeting when Levinshon asked them all to come in and have a drink? From seventy to eighty, I should say.
253. Had you ever known Mr. Levinshon to stand drinks for a promiscuous crowd of seventy or eighty persons before? No.
254. Mr. Barton.] You say that after the drinks were served there was a noise in the bar and outside? Yes.
255. Have you ever been present at an hotel when two candidates have held meetings there successively? No.
256. Never in your life? No.
257. You do not know whether on those occasions there is generally an interlude for drinks between the two speeches? No; I do not know that that is usual.
258. Is it a fact, as has been stated, that when Mr. Levinshon was at the tea-table he made some remarks in almost the loudness of a shout? Yes, he spoke pretty loudly.
259. Would it be correct to say that he almost shouted? He was speaking pretty loudly.
260. If anyone has said that he shouted would that be correct? It would not be absolutely shouting—that would be simply making a noise; but he was speaking, and speaking very loudly, so that every one could hear him.
261. You said that there was a noise both in the bar and outside while Mr. Shadler was speaking? Yes.
262. Were you present at any other meeting of Mr. Shadler's? Yes.
263. At Nerriga? Yes.

Mr. W.
Underwood.
28 Oct., 1895.

264. I believe Mr. Shadler received only one vote out of thirty-three at Welcome Reefs, or all events some very small proportion, and that the same thing occurred in Nerriga? Yes.
265. He was unpopular at both places? It would seem so.
266. With regard to the meeting his unpopularity at the meeting at Welcome Reefs showed itself? Yes, both in the interruptions and in the votes recorded.
267. Were not the interruptions such as you would expect to hear made in the case of an unpopular candidate addressing a meeting? Speaking personally I would not interrupt any person. Even if it were a blackfellow I would give him a hearing.
268. But from your experience, you must know that unpopular candidates are frequently interrupted? Certainly.
269. Did not Mr. Shadler refuse to have a chairman at that meeting? No; he wanted me to be his chairman.
270. Did he go on without a chairman? No; he had the same chairman as Mr. Chapman.
271. You say you shouted for certain persons. Can you tell whether any electors were included in the number for whom you shouted? They may have been electors.
272. You are an elector, but not for this particular district? Not for that district.
273. Did you distribute handbills at Nerriga in favour of Mr. Shadler? Yes.
274. Mr. Shadler was sitting on the opposite side of the table at Smith's hotel at the time Levinshon is supposed to have said he was Mr. Chapman's representative? Yes.
275. Were you at any meeting at Major's Creek? I have never been there in my life.
276. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You were not employed by Mr. Shadler during the election? No.
277. Were you paid for delivering the bills at Nerriga? No.
278. How did you come to take up the work of delivering them? Mr. Shadler made acquaintance with me at Nerriga, and asked me to do him a favour.
279. Were you canvassing at all for Mr. Shadler? No.
280. Did you take any part in the election? No; I had no vote, and I did not take any part in it.
281. Did you bring your persuasive powers to bear upon any voter? No.
282. The whole of the work you did in connection with the election was the delivery of the handbills? That is all.
283. And when you shouted for the persons to whom you have referred, you did so entirely at your own instigation? Yes, and entirely at my own cost—it had nothing whatever to do with Mr. Shadler.
284. You have received no money from Mr. Shadler? Only in connection with the subpoena upon which I came to Sydney.
285. There is nothing included in that amount to cover any electioneering expenses? No.
286. No person has paid you any money on behalf of Mr. Shadler in connection with this election? No.
287. Mr. Barton.] You paid for drinks at Welcome Reefs, you say, on this night—did other persons shout for you? I had drinks there—I do not know who paid for them.
288. You paid several times for drinks, and your friends shouted back for you—how many drinks do you think you had? I could not say exactly.
289. You do not stick at ten or a dozen at election times, I should think? I do not think I had as many as that.
290. But you would draw the line outside the half-dozen, would'nt you? I do not know how many drinks I had. It is a thing I do not take much notice of.

Austin Chapman, Esq., M.P., sworn and examined:—

291. Mr. Barton.] You are the sitting Member for the electoral district of Braidwood? Yes.
292. On the day which has been referred to—the 17th July—did you give Mr. Levinshon any money at all either in the form of cash or notes? Nothing whatever.
293. At how many places in the electorate did you meet him? I met him at Welcome Reefs and Nerriga.
294. You do not know what passed at Mr. Shadler's meeting in Nerriga? No.
295. At what time did you arrive at Welcome Reefs on this particular day? At about a quarter past 5 o'clock.
296. As far as you could judge, were all the persons at that time resident in the neighbourhood there? There were only a dozen about when I got there.
297. What was your previous knowledge of Levinshon? I had been on friendly terms with him for a long time. He was living in the district, and he had been connected with mining speculations. He is evidently a man who has seen much better times. He has a brother who is a merchant in New Zealand, so it is reported. I first made his acquaintance when he came to the district some five years ago. It was reported then that he had made several thousands of pounds out of mining. It was reported that he had the command of plenty of money.
298. Is he a free-handed man? It is a well known fact throughout the district that he is a very free man with his money. It is currently reported that he has spent several thousands of pounds there in drinks.
299. Does he mix up very much with the miners? He knows every miner there. When he is on the spree he looks up all the miners and shouts for them.
300. And has a good time? Yes.
301. Did you know, at the time of this particular meeting, whether he was on your committee or not? I do not know whether he was or not.
302. Had any communication passed between you from which he could say that he was your representative? Nothing of the kind.
303. Did you hear him on the night referred to, say that he was your representative? No.
304. Nor at any other time? No.
305. Or that he was your agent? He was neither my agent, nor representative, and I never heard him say that he was.
306. Did you find out when you got to Welcome Reefs whether any drinking was going on? When I arrived at Welcome Reefs, I drove up to the back of the hotel, and pulled up in front of the stable. Levinshon came over and shook hands with me. I could see then that he was drunk.

A. Chapman,
Esq., M.P.
28 Oct., 1895.

- A. Chapman, Esq., M.P.
28 Oct., 1895.
307. He was able to take care of himself? He is always able to get about when he is drunk. He was so drunk that I paid very little attention to what he was saying.
308. Was he then vapouring or gasing? Yes; he was talking about the election.
309. And you say that he was in that condition that you did not pay much attention to what he said? I did not pay any attention to him at all.
310. About this question of money. How long were you travelling in connection with the election? About a fortnight.
311. And, outside your printing accounts, what did the election cost you? About £25.
312. We are told that Mr. Levinshon said several times, at the tea table, at Smith's table, that he was Mr. Chapman's representative, that he spoke with authority as his agent, and that there would be drink there that night? I did not hear him say that.
313. Did you see Mr. Levinshon pay any money for drinks at all? No.
314. Did you authorise him to pay any money on your account? No.
315. Or to ask persons to drink on your account? No. I did the opposite in several instances. Unfortunately, I did not do so at Welcome Reefs. I took the precaution of reading to the meeting the clause of the Act forbidding treating, &c., and I made an appeal to my friends at most places to be extra careful. I warned them that if any treating took place I should probably be connected with it in some way. Unfortunately I did not take this step at Welcome Reefs, but I afterwards took the precaution of seeing the landlady.
316. When did you see the landlady? I saw her on the verandah just after the delivery of my speech. We had a conversation. She said "Good night. There is a big crowd, isn't there?" or something to that effect. I said there was. We had some further conversation, and the landlord was standing by at the time. I said, "I will not be responsible for drink or anything like that." I said I could not be because the law would not allow me.
317. Were you, as a matter of fact, charged for any drink at the hotel? No.
318. Did you spend any money in drinks there? No.
319. And you have not since been asked to pay for any drinks which were served that night? No.
320. By the time you had finished speaking in what condition was Levinshon? He was very drunk then.
321. Did you hear him say anything to the audience after you had retired, or as you were retiring? Yes. As I was leaving the room I heard him say, "Well, boys, we will have a drink. We have listened to Mr. Chapman; you must be dry. Have a drink; and then, if you will come and listen to Mr. Shadler, and give him a good hearing, we will have two drinks."
322. The room in which you spoke adjoined the bar-room? Yes.
323. While you were speaking could you see into the bar-room? Yes.
324. Was the bar-room as full as the room in which you were speaking? Yes; both were full.
325. Did you hear Mr. Levinshon ask the people to drink health or success to you? No; I went outside.
326. Your audience, then, and Mr. Shadler's were the same audience? Yes; they were all in the bar and the adjoining room.
327. Had you previously contested an election with Mr. Shadler at the same place? Yes.
328. I believe the proportion of votes on this occasion was thirty-three to three? Yes.
329. What was your polling there on the previous occasion? About the same. I get nearly all the votes in that district.
330. Mr. Waddell.] They are mostly miners there? Yes. I was informed by some of my supporters there that if I was in any way busy I need not go round, because the voting would be just the same.
331. Mr. Hawkins.] I believe that as a matter of fact Mr. Shadler withdrew in the case of the previous election, so that you have never actually fought him before? Yes; he withdrew.
332. Mr. Barton.] Was Mr. Levinshon drinking and shouting about in his usual way before the tea hour at the hotel? Yes.
333. Is it a fact that you were a great deal about the bar after your part of the meeting was over? I went in once and got a drink. I think it was after Mr. Shadler's meeting. Some one asked me to go in and have a drink. That was the only time I was there.
334. When Levinshon came to meet you as you drove in, did you see the witness Browne anywhere about? No; but just after I got out of the buggy Browne came round the corner of the house and came over near the horses.
335. Was Levinshon any more your representative at Welcome Reefs and Nerriga than in any other place? No.
336. Did you ever have any conversation with Mr. Levinshon on the subject of his acting for you in any way? No; but I should mention that he always takes a lively interest in elections.
337. Was he pretty noisy at this particular time? Yes; he was very drunk—very noisy.
338. Is it not a common thing at election meetings in country districts to find people knocking about in this noisy way shouting? Yes; at a place like Welcome Reefs there would be only the hotel itself and two or three other dwellings. The miners come in for some miles, and generally it is a sort of Sunday out with them.
339. At what time did you go to bed on the night of the meeting at Welcome Reefs? I went to bed at about 11 o'clock.
340. Mr. Hawkins.] I suppose you remember it perfectly well? Yes.
341. Mr. Barton.] You do not take much to drink? I do not take anything.
342. Did you hear Levinshon use words to this effect when you arrived "Here is my boss, I must go to him"? No.
343. After your meeting, did you ask the audience to give Mr. Shadler a good hearing? Yes; afterwards I was in front, and I heard a noise going on inside. I could not get inside myself, but I asked them to give Mr. Shadler a good hearing. I told them that they ought not to make that noise when he was speaking.
344. Do you know what afterwards became of Mr. Levinshon? I believe he went to New Zealand.
345. Do you know when he left to go there? I could not say the exact date.
346. It was some time before any charge in connection with this election was brought against you? Yes.
347. You say you heard Levinshon call for drinks at Welcome Reefs? Yes.
348. Had you any reason to suspect that he was not calling for them on his own account? No.
349. Did he act differently from the way in which he had acted on other occasions of an election? No. On such occasions he is always shouting.

350. Mr. Hawkins.] As a matter of fact, was Mr. Levinshon upon your committee? I could not say. My general secretary sent round committee lists to every place. I could not say at this moment who was on them and who was not. A. Chapman,
Esq., M.P.
28 Oct., 1895.
351. I suppose we may take it that Levinshon was a strong supporter of yours? I believe he was.
352. And that he did all he could in the way of inducing people to vote for you? I could not say that. I know that he has always advocated my return for the last three elections.
353. In what way has he done so? He has always professed a willingness to support me. I have heard him say that he would always support me.
354. Has he spoken at any of your meetings? He could not do that.
355. Did he not move a vote of confidence in you at Welcome Reefs? Yes. But you know what the moving of a vote of confidence means at some of these country meetings.
356. What did you do from the time you arrived at Welcome Reefs until the tea-hour—how did you spend your time? I was in and out chatting with the miners.
357. Did you spend much time with Levinshon? No.
358. Did Levinshon go straight to you when you arrived? As soon as I arrived he came to the buggy and shook hands with me.
359. From that time how long was he with you until tea-time? We walked into the parlor, and several others—some ladies among the number—came in. I was either in that parlor with about half a dozen others talking, or I was on the verandah talking to the miners until tea was called.
360. What were you talking with Levinshon about at that time? I was not speaking to Levinshon very much—he was too tight.
361. But you had some conversation with him;—you have admitted that he was not too tight to recognise you and shake hands with you? He can always talk, although he has been drinking, and, of course, he would know me.
362. He was in your company for a considerable portion of the time elapsing between your arrival and the tea-hour? I suppose that during that interval he may have been in my company a quarter of an hour or twenty minutes.
363. You say that your election cost you about £25 outside of the printing? Yes.
364. How is that amount made up? Of travelling expenses.
365. Of travelling expenses alone? Yes.
366. Have you your accounts? No.
367. Have you any accounts at all showing what your expenses were? No.
368. Then how do you form your estimate? By knowing what money I had and what money I spent.
369. Did you draw cheques upon your bank for your election expenses? Yes.
370. And you paid the money away for travelling expenses and printing? For travelling expenses. Of course, it is necessary to have a certain amount of money in your pocket. In some of the outlying places it would be of no use to draw cheques because you could not get them cashed. Money will come into your pocket by way of business, and what with money coming in and going out you can generally have an idea of what your expenses are.
371. Have you any bills at all in connection with the election? The printing bill would be sent to my brother, who is managing my business at Braidwood. He probably has the printing bill.
372. You acknowledge that you have only a pretty hazy idea of what your actual expenses were? It is not a hazy idea. I reckon that my travelling expenses were about £25.
373. And you say you have not seen the printing bill, although the election took place in July? No.
374. Consequently you can only have a hazy idea as to what your total expenses were? The printing bill would be rendered to my brother, and would be paid by him.
375. Without reference to you? He would have a fair knowledge of whether it was right or wrong. He might refer it to me, or he might not.
376. Have you ever had any business transactions with Levinshon? Repeatedly.
377. And you were on very good terms with him? Yes.
378. Do you still adhere to your statement that you did not see Levinshon pay for any drinks at all? I am certain of that.
379. Did you not swear, at the Police Court proceedings, that you did see him pay for drinks? It is not in my recollection that I did so.
380. Did you not say that he had paid for drinks there, but that it was not with your money? No, I did not.
381. Do you mean to imply by your statement that you did not see Levinshon pay for any drinks;—that you did not hear him order any? I heard him asking the men to have a drink just after my meeting.
382. Did you hear him ordering any drinks? I did not.
383. Do you know the date on which Levinshon left for New Zealand? I could not say the exact date.
384. Did you see him in Sydney before he went? I did not.
385. Did he go to Allen and Allen's office in connection with anything in which you are concerned? Not to my knowledge. I had no business relations with him at all.
386. Did he make any declaration before he went away? Not that I am aware of.
387. Is it not the fact that Levinshon did not leave for New Zealand until after you were served with the information in connection with the Police Court proceedings? No, he had been gone some time. If I had been served with a summons before he left I should have detained him. As a matter of fact, I tried to get him.
388. Do you know his brother's address? I believe his brother is a merchant at Dunedin.
389. Did you send to New Zealand for Levinshon? I went to a friend of his and asked him to find out Levinshon's address. Levinshon wrote to him, and said that he was at a place called Timaru, in New Zealand; and he also said that he had heard before he left that proceedings were to be taken against me at the instance of Mr. Shadler, and that he called upon Mr. Shadler in consequence, and that Mr. Shadler assured him that he was not going to do anything of the kind. I sent a cable to him. I should mention that he has said that if any Police Court proceedings were to be taken he would send an affidavit. I sent a cable to him asking him to send the affidavit. I have had an answer to that cable stating that he is sending an affidavit by the "Taluna."
390. Did you see him in Sydney before he went away? Not that I recollect.

- A. Chapman, Esq., M.P.
28 Oct., 1895.
391. If some one can prove that he was in Sydney after you were served with the information, then you know nothing about it? Nothing. I do not think it possible, because his friends all tell me that at that time he had gone.
392. Mr. Barton.] As regards your election expenses, outside of printing, you paid them on the nail, just as the occasion arose? Yes.
393. And paying your expenses in that way, did you pay anything for treating anywhere during the election? No.
394. Mr. Hogue.] Before you went up to the electorate to conduct your campaign, was there any correspondence, either by letter or telegram, between yourself and Mr. Levinshon? No.
395. It has been sworn that you passed some money to Mr. Levinshon;—do you recollect handing Mr. Levinshon anything shortly after you arrived at Welcome Reefs? At this moment I have no recollection of handing him anything; but I may have handed him a newspaper, or something of that kind folded up. But that would not look like a roll of notes. Of course, on arriving at a place like that, if one had a newspaper one would naturally hand it over to persons there, who would be interested in seeing it.
396. Mr. Levinshon was not your confident or appointed agent in any way? No.
397. You did not receive any claim from the landlord or landlady of the hotel at Welcome Reefs? No. I should like to say that when I was at the Police Court the Magistrate and Mr. Hawkins asked me whether Levinshon had acted in any capacity for me at the elections. Of course, in a case of this kind, one does not know who are your scrutineers—your friends generally select them to act for you. I think I was asked at the Police Court if Levinshon was a scrutineer, and I then said that I could not say. I am told now that a man named Foster acted for me in that capacity at Nerriga, and that a man named O'Neil acted for me at Welcome Reefs; consequently Levinshon cannot have acted at all. I can swear positively now that he did not do so.
398. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You say that after your own meeting, when you were out on the verandah, you heard a noise inside? Yes.
399. How was it caused? I am told it was caused in this way: Mr. Levinshon wanted the chairman who had taken the chair for me to also take the chair at Mr. Shadler's meeting. Mr. Shadler declined, and said he wanted to put Mr. Underwood in the chair. Some one said that Mr. Chambers would act impartially as regards both sides, and Mr. Shadler then made an offensive remark to Mr. Levinshon. What I am told he said was that he would not be dictated to by a — thing like Levinshon. Levinshon resented this by standing up and making a row.
400. Were both of them sober? I should say that neither of them were sober.
401. Mr. Hawkins.] This is what you are told;—you did not hear this remark by Mr. Shadler? No, I did not hear it.
402. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You said a short time ago that Mr. Levinshon said they would have one drink after hearing yourself, and another drink after hearing Mr. Shadler; do you know whether they had the second drink? I could not say; but it is more than likely Levinshon would go on drinking while he could.
403. Did you try to get Levinshon in connection with the Police Court proceedings? I made inquiries about him, and I was told by his friends that he had gone. I tried to get him here in time for the meeting of this Committee.
404. Would it be possible to get him before this Committee? If the Committee would adjourn the proceedings for some time it would be quite possible. The cablegram, to which I have referred, was addressed to a man named Keenan, and is in these terms: "Affidavit. 'Taluna.' Come, necessary. Cable money."
405. When did you first see this cablegram? Keenan brought it to me the other day.
406. You gather from that that he is sending an affidavit by the steamer, and that, if necessary, he will come if you pay his expenses? Yes.
407. You say that you did not see Browne when you arrived in the buggy? As I got out of the buggy Browne came round the corner of the house.
408. Is it possible that he could have been within 12 yards of you, looking at you, without your seeing him? No.
409. Could he stand round a corner of a house and see you? He would be some distance away if he did.
410. Mr. Barton.] How far was the buggy when you got out of it from any corner round which Browne could have looked? About 30 yards.
411. Mr. Bavister.] You said you could not recollect at this moment whether, when you and Levinshon were together, you passed anything to him;—do you think it likely that you passed any paper to him? I am positive that I never passed him anything after I got out of the buggy. I may have handed him my bag and newspaper out of the buggy.
412. That would be from the buggy, and not out of your pocket? It would not be out of my pocket. As a matter of fact, I had no notes with me when I got there.

James Gordon Fraser called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Mr. J. G. Fraser.
28 Oct., 1895.
413. Mr. Barton.] You are a mining engineer at Nerriga? Yes.
414. Were you at the meeting at Welcome Reefs? I was.
415. You know Levinshon? I do.
416. How long have you known him? For about six or seven years previous to that.
417. You have lived in the same house with him? For about two years.
418. Was he a free-handed man in the matter of shouting? Too much so.
419. At all times? Whenever he had any money; and when he had no money he would get the drinks stuck up.
420. At what time did you arrive at Welcome Reefs on the day of the meeting? I got there, as near as possible, at 7 o'clock in the evening.
421. After tea? Yes.
422. Did you see Levinshon? I saw him on the afternoon of that day leaving Nerriga to go to Welcome Reefs.
423. And you saw him again at 7 o'clock? Yes.

424. Had he any liquor in him then? He was drunk. He was pretty well drunk before he left to go there.
425. In your opinion he might be drunk and might be still capable of moving about? Yes; I have never seen him incapable of moving about.
426. Was he noisy on this particular evening; was he talking? Yes; about the election principally.
427. Was he in a condition in which you would mind very much what he said? He was not. No one would have taken much notice of him.
428. Did you hear him after Mr. Chapman's meeting say anything about drink? Yes; I heard him say, "Come, boys, have a drink."
429. Is that all you recollect? That is all he did say, I took particular notice of it.
430. Did you see a lot of people go into the bar and have a drink? Yes.
431. Before Mr. Chapman's meeting was over was the bar full;—were there people in the bar as well as in the parlor? Yes; there were people in the bar before Mr. Chapman's meeting was over. I do not say it was full. Perhaps there were five or six persons there.
432. Did you stay there all night? Yes.
433. Something has been said about the drinking having been kept up all night—did Levinshon go to bed? He went to bed about 12 o'clock.
434. I believe there was some disturbance before the meeting was over between Shadler and Levinshon? Yes.
435. It was something about a chairman, was it not? Yes; it had been agreed that the chairman who had acted at Mr. Chapman's meeting should also act at Mr. Shadler's. The chairman who had acted at Mr. Chapman's meeting called me outside and wanted to speak to me about some private business. I heard some disturbance going on, and I heard his name mentioned. I went back to the room and Levinshon was then in possession of the floor. He had been insulted by Mr. Shadler, it seemed, and he wanted Mr. Shadler to apologise.
436. Was Mr. Shadler also angry and excited? He was. They were pretty well in the same boat, I think.
437. Pretty well in the same boat? Well, in the same boat.
438. Mr. Neild.] In what respect do you mean to say that they were in the same boat? They were both the worse for liquor, in my opinion.
439. Mr. Hawkins.] Did you hear Levinshon invite the electors to have a drink? Yes.
440. Where was Mr. Chapman when that invitation was given? He was about the doorway, I think.
441. You are sure he was not in the room? I am sure he was not then in the room—that is, he was not near Levinshon. My impression is he was near the door when the invitation was given.
442. At what particular time was the invitation given? Immediately after Mr. Chapman had done speaking. Levinshon then said, "Come, boys, and have a drink." After Mr. Chapman had done speaking he walked out towards the door.
443. Then supposing Mr. Chapman says he heard these words of Levinshon before he left the room, he is wrong? Perhaps he had not left the room. The two rooms adjoin one another. There is a partition with a door in it. I went outside when this invitation was given, and I saw Mr. Chapman at the door a few minutes after. I know that the invitation was given immediately after Mr. Chapman had done speaking.
444. Then you think he was in the room then? I should think he must have been in the room.
445. When you heard the invitation given, where were you? In the bar.
446. So that if you could hear it, Mr. Chapman must have heard it much better than you could do? Well, the distance between the ends of the two rooms would not be anything like as great as the breadth of this and the adjoining room.
447. At all events you were further away than Mr. Chapman was? Yes.
448. Consequently Mr. Chapman would be in a better position to hear what was said than you would? I dare say he might be; I was about 5 or 6 yards away.
449. Did you see Levinshon "shouting"? I did.
450. Did you see him pay for any drinks? I did not.
451. Who paid for them? I do not know that anyone paid for them. I am not in a position to know. I know that I did not. I only drink soft stuff myself.
452. Did you have any that night? I did, and I paid for it myself.
453. Did you have any at anyone else's expense? I think I had two drinks of soft stuff at someone else's expense.
454. Mr. Bavister.] You say that there was a door in the partition between the two rooms? There was a door, and it was open, leaving a free passage right through.
455. I understood another witness to say that there was simply a partition without any door? I could not say positively whether there is a door, but if there is a door, it was open all the time.
456. Mr. Neild.] The partition did not go right up to the ceiling? No.
457. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Did you see both meetings out? Yes.
458. Was there much disturbance at Mr. Shadler's meeting after the original row? There was no disturbance, considering that it was an election meeting that any one would think anything of. The only disturbance was while Levinshon had the floor, objecting to allow Mr. Shadler to speak until he had apologised for calling him a thing.
459. When Mr. Shadler's meeting was over, was there another drink? Not a general invitation.
460. Did you hear Levinshon say that they would have one drink after Mr. Chapman finished, and another drink after Mr. Shadler had finished? I did not. I was watching Levinshon knowing him so well. I considered that he actually made a fool of himself, hurting other people—Mr. Shadler as well as Mr. Chapman.
461. Mr. Barton.] You thought that he was generally misconducting himself, and that he was not to be taken much notice of? Exactly.
462. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Had you ever before seen Levinshon intoxicated? Many times, and with the exception of one occasion I never saw him worse than he was that night.
463. Mr. Hogue.] Had you frequent opportunities of meeting Levinshon before at election meetings? Yes. I was at a meeting with him the night before at Nerriga.

- Mr. J. G. Fraser,
28 Oct., 1895.
464. Did you hear him say at any time that he was the agent or representative of Mr. Chapman? I never did, and I believe honestly that if the man wanted to say such a thing, he would tell me as soon as he would tell any man in the district.
465. Was it generally understood in the neighbourhood that he was acting in any capacity for Mr. Chapman? I am sure it was not so understood. He was perfectly sober, the previous night, at Mr. Shadler's meeting at Nerriga, and in no instance did I hear him allude to such a thing.
466. Mr. Hawkins.] You did not have any drinks with Mr. Shadler? No, not myself.
467. Mr. Hogue.] Do you know whether Mr. Levinshon acted as electioneering secretary, or did any work at all for Mr. Chapman? As far as I know he did not.

Victoria Smith called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Mrs. V. Smith,
28 Oct., 1895.
468. Mr. Barton.] You are the wife of William Smith, publican, of Welcome Reefs? Yes.
469. That is the place at which both Mr. Chapman and Mr. Shadler addressed meetings on the 17th July? Yes.
470. Mr. Levinshon came there before Mr. Chapman on that date, did he not? Yes.
471. Could you say in what condition he was when he arrived? He was the worse for drink.
472. As soon as he arrived there, what did he do? He took in a few persons, about eight I think, and shouted for them.
473. Was Mr. Shadler then there? Yes.
474. Did you see Mr. Shadler drink with Mr. Levinshon at all? I could not positively swear that he did.
475. How long had you known Mr. Levinshon before this time? About three years before.
476. You knew that he was in the habit of drinking? Whenever he is in an hotel, he is always shouting.
477. Was he free-handed? He was always free.
478. Mr. Chapman, I believe, arrived at Welcome Reefs at about 5 o'clock in the evening? Yes.
479. Could you tell whether it was getting dusk when he came? Yes, it was.
480. At the time Mr. Chapman arrived do you think anyone could distinguish a bank-note 12 yards distant? I do not think so.
481. I believe they sat down to tea at 6 o'clock on that evening? Yes.
482. Were you waiting at table? I was helping to wait.
483. Was Mr. Levinshon talking much? Yes.
484. A good deal? Yes; but I paid no particular attention to what he said.
485. Why did you not do so? Because I was busy waiting at the table.
486. Was his condition such that you would not pay particular attention to what he said? Yes; he was nearly always the same.
487. Before tea-time he was pretty well on? Yes.
488. You heard what took place after Mr. Chapman had finished his meeting? Yes.
489. What did Levinshon say then? As far as I can remember he said, "Come on, boys, and have a drink."
490. Do you recollect his saying more than that? No.
491. Did Mr. Chapman come into the bar at that time? I never saw him.
492. Do you remember that as soon as he had finished speaking, Mr. Chapman gave you any instructions? He told me that he had not authorised any one to "shout" for him, and that he would not be responsible for any drinks.
493. Do you remember anything further; do you remember his mentioning the Electoral Act? I remember his saying something about the law of the land.
494. Did you make any charge to Mr. Chapman for any drinks? No.
495. Did he call for them? No.
496. You were in the bar all the time? Pretty well the whole time.
497. What did Mr. Levinshon put down for the drinks? That night they amounted to £2 7s.
498. What did he pay in cash for them? He paid nothing.
499. Before that time had he paid you anything? When he first came, a little after 2 o'clock, he changed a £1 note.
500. Had he any more cash beside that £1 which he changed? I never saw him spend any more.
501. He had his tea there, and slept there that night? Yes.
502. I suppose his account then included his tea, his bed, and his horse feed? Yes.
503. Has he often been at your place? Yes.
504. What is the longest time he has ever stayed with you? Nearly six months, off and on.
505. Have you before seen him shout for as many people as he shouted for on this particular night? Yes.
506. On more than one occasion? Yes.
507. Quite apart from any election? Yes.
508. Did Mr. Shadler keep out of all this drinking? No, he had some drinks.
509. Were you present when the disturbance took place between him and Levinshon? I heard part of it.
510. Levinshon was out of sorts long before that? Yes.
511. How was Mr. Shadler? I should say that he had had too much to drink, or else that he was excited.
512. Mr. Wise.] What gave rise to the disturbance between himself and Mr. Levinshon? It was about the chairman.
513. Where did Mr. Chapman tell you that he would not be responsible for any drink? On the verandah after he had been speaking.
514. After Levinshon had invited the crowd to come out? Yes.
515. Were you serving drinks in the bar? Yes.
516. Was anyone present on the verandah when Mr. Chapman told you this? Some were present.
517. Who? I could not tell—it was dark.
518. Did he tell you quietly, or how did he tell you? Anyone alongside could have heard what he said, I dare say.
519. Then he came into the bar and remained there while the others were drinking at Levinshon's expense? I never saw Mr. Chapman in the bar.

520. Not during the whole evening? I never saw him.
521. Where was he while the drinking was going on? On the verandah.
522. Did you serve any drinks to him? No, I did not.
523. He did not have anything? I never saw him.
524. Not after his speech? I did not see him.
525. Nor at any time during the evening? I never saw him.
526. He did not have any lemonade, or anything of that sort? I never saw him,—he may have had.
527. Did Mr. Levinshon ever pay you for these drinks? No.
528. He was not stopping at your house at the time? No, he came from Nerriga.
529. How long before that had he been stopping at your house? Some months before. He had been to and fro for the last three years.
530. Had he paid your bill when he last left? No.
531. Then he owed you money that day when he came from Nerriga? He owes us over £20.
532. Did he owe you that amount on the day of the meeting? Yes, over £20.
533. And yet you trusted him for drinks for nearly all the people there? Yes, and I would have trusted him for more.
534. Did you not ask him for any of the money owing to you that night? No.
535. How many persons, were drinking that night at his expense? I could not say.
536. And you tell the Committee that you trusted him to this further extent when so large a sum of money was owing to you by him? Yes.
537. You never asked him for any money on that day? No.
538. Have you sent your bill to him since? Before he went to New Zealand he made arrangements to pay what was owing.
539. What arrangements did he make? He had an interest in mining.
540. How did he arrange to pay? He left word with Mr. Fraser that when the mining turned out we were to get something out of it.
541. That is what you call arranging to pay? Yes.
542. You say you never sent him any bill for these drinks? No.
543. Do any other of your customers owe you as much as £20? Yes.
544. Did you hear anything said about the Nerriga meeting at that time? No; I did not.
545. Nothing at all about it? No.
546. Not from Levinshon? No.
547. Was Mr. Underwood there? He was at the table.
548. Was Mr. Shadler there? Yes.
549. And Mr. Browne? Yes.
550. Who else was in the room besides those three gentlemen, Mr. Chapman and Mr. Levinshon? Mr. Smith and a young fellow named Taylor.
551. Who else? I could not say.
552. Where is Mr. Taylor, is he in the district now? Yes.
553. Did any one else pay you for drinks that night? Yes.
554. Who else paid you for drinks? Mr. Dunshea for one paid for drinks. All who had money paid for them. Mr. Underwood paid for some, and Mr. Lindley paid for some.
555. Who else? All there who had drinks, and who had the money paid for them.
556. I thought Mr. Levinshon shouted for them? He shouted for about forty after the meeting.
557. After that for how many did he shout? I could not say.
558. Was he not bringing them in all the evening and shouting for them? Yes.
559. How much did you take that evening altogether? About £6 10s.
560. Have you any record of it in your cash book? No.
561. Have you any memorandum at all? Only as regards what was booked.
562. Did you book the whole of the £6 10s.? No; I took the £6 10s. in cash.
563. How much did you book? Very little.
564. Mr. Barton.] Did you ever hear Mr. Levinshon say that he was Mr. Chapman's representative or agent? I did not.
565. When a miner is in rather low water, or is short of money, is it a common thing for him to make such an arrangement as Mr. Levinshon made for the payment of his debts? Yes, in the case of anyone who knows him and trusts him.
566. Is there a word of truth in the statement that Levinshon passed £2 10s. to you that night? He passed no money to me that night whatever, after tea. He changed a £1-note, as I told you, in the afternoon.
567. Did he pay you anything at any time for the drinks that night? No.
568. Mr. Wise.] You knew that he had money early in the day, and yet you trusted him? Yes.
569. Did he pay you any part of the £1 which was changed? Yes; when he came he spent part of it in drinks.
570. Who was Mr. Levinshon supporting at this election? Mr. Chapman.
571. How do you know that? By what he said.
572. Was he saying it freely? All hands were saying it.
573. And Mr. Levinshon among them? Yes.
574. Mr. Chapman could hear it, I suppose? I dare say.
575. When Mr. Chapman first came, did Mr. Levinshon meet him? I could not say.
576. Do you know whether Mr. Levinshon and Mr. Chapman then went into a private room together? I could not say.
577. Did Mr. Levinshon make a speech, proposing a vote of confidence in Mr. Chapman? I was not in the room.
578. But could you not hear him? No.
579. Could you not hear his voice? No.
580. Then you swear you never heard him do so? I was in the kitchen at that time.
581. Mr. Bavister.] Was there any other person serving in the bar that afternoon or evening who could have taken £1 notes or other money from Mr. Levinshon without your knowledge? Not without my knowledge.

- Mrs. V. Smith. 582. Mr. Hogue.] Touching the £2 7s. which Mr. Levinshon stuck up that night, has that amount been paid up to this day? No, it is still unpaid.
- 28 Oct., 1895. 583. I suppose there was a good deal of talking about the election at this particular time? Yes.
584. Mr. Levinshon is rather a free-spoken man, is he not? Yes.
585. He must have had a good deal to say about the election. As a matter of fact I suppose he did say a good deal about it? Yes.
586. Did he tell you at any time that he was Mr. Chapman's agent? No.
587. Mr. Bavister.] Between this date in July and the beginning of September did you send an account to Mr. Chapman, or apply to him for any money at all on account of this affair? No.
588. Have you ever done so since? No.
589. Mr. O'Sullivan.] You did not notice Mr. Chapman arriving in the buggy? No.
590. When did you first notice him? Mr. Smith came round and said that he was at the back, and I afterwards saw him there.
591. Was it dusk then? It was getting on towards dusk.
592. What time was it? Something after five.
593. It was in midwinter? Yes, it would be about dusk.
594. Do you think that at that time of the evening in midwinter you could distinguish a roll of notes in a man's hand standing 12 yards away from him? I do not think so—not to tell that they were notes.
595. Did I understand you to say that Mr. Shadler shouted? He called for drinks for himself and for Mr. Browne when they first came.
596. But not for any later on? No.
597. Mr. Barton.] In the evening did he do so? No.
598. Mr. Wise.] Was anyone else in the bar that evening? Mr. Smith was in the bar, but he would not take any money without my knowledge. I had the key of the till.
599. Mr. Barton.] He could take money, I suppose, but he could not give any change? He could not give any change.

Mr. William Dunshea called in, sworn, and examined:—

- Mr. W. Dunshea. 600. Mr. Barton.] You are a miner, residing at Major's Creek? Yes.
- 28 Oct., 1895. 601. I believe you were a supporter of Mr. Shadler at the last election? Yes.
602. He held a meeting at Major's Creek about the 19th July? Yes.
603. About two days after the meeting at Welcome Reefs? Yes.
604. Did he tell you then that he had had a glorious time at Welcome Reefs, that he had been shouting, and that it had cost him £10 or £15? Yes.
605. Is there any mistake about that? No.
606. You are sure he was not speaking of anyone but himself? I am quite sure that he was speaking of himself.
607. Did he say then that Mr. Browne was travelling with him, and that he had shouted both before and after the meeting at Welcome Reefs? He said that Mr. Browne had shouted.
608. You know that Browne was travelling with him? Yes.
609. Do you know whether Mr. Browne shouted both before and after the meeting at Major's Creek? Yes, both before and after the meeting, he called all hands about the place to have a drink.
610. Do you remember Mr. Shadler giving a similar invitation to his supporters after the meeting? Yes; I was among them.
611. Do you remember Mr. Shadler saying who attended to these things and paid for the drinks? After the meeting was over I said to him, "Don't you think the boys had better have a drink?" He said, "That is being looked after. My agent is here looking after that."
612. Do you remember anything happening on the polling day in connection with Mr. Shadler? Yes. At about 3 o'clock Mr. Shadler drove up the town, and when he got opposite the hotel they gave three cheers for him.
613. What happened then? When he came down to the polling-booth, he asked me if I had heard them giving three cheers for him. He said those three cheers got them a drink, and that he asked them to go in and drink George Reid's health.
614. Up to that time you were a supporter of Mr. Shadler? I was a supporter of his up to that day. I was an outside scrutineer on the day of the polling.
615. Mr. Wise.] Were you at the Welcome Reefs meeting at all? No.
616. Do you say that you asked Mr. Shadler to let the boys have a drink? Yes.
617. Why did you do that? It is the general custom at election time in the country districts.
618. You do not mean to say that any of Mr. Chapman's friends said anything like that? I did not hear them.
619. You would not have thought it right if they had done so? They may have done so, but I did not hear them.
620. You did not have a drink at Mr. Chapman's expense? No.
621. Did you see any one else do so? Not that I could swear to.
622. Did not Mr. Chapman and his friends shout drinks all through the electorate? Not that I could swear to. I only saw Mr. Chapman in the public house when he arrived at Major's Creek. He just passed into the hotel, and he said, "It is a bit late. We had better get down to the hall, boys." I did not see him again that night.
623. Was Mr. Levinshon with Mr. Chapman at Major's Creek? No.
624. Mr. Barton.] When Mr. Shadler spoke of the glorious time he had had at Welcome Reefs, and about his having spent £10 or £15 in shouting, was any one else present? I could not say. There were so many about. There was a general conversation throughout the evening about the time they had had at Welcome Reefs. Mr. Shadler told me about it in the hotel, and outside the hotel.
625. Did you know that Browne was acting as agent for Mr. Shadler? The whole of the accounts were furnished to Mr. Browne as his agent.
626. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Do you know Levinshon? Casually, but not very well.
627. What kind of character has he? Whenever I have seen him, he has been very free-handed. It is generally a matter of indifference to him who is present. If he has money he will spend it in drinks.

628. You were at one time on Mr. Shadler's side? I was.
629. Did you hear anyone say at Major's Creek or elsewhere that the meeting at Welcome Reefs had prejudiced Mr. Shadler in the eyes of the electors? No.
630. And that owing to his being such a mean beggar people would not vote for him? No.
631. Whom did you understand him to refer to when he spoke of his agent? I understood him to mean Browne.
632. Mr. Neild.] You say that after the election the accounts were furnished to Browne. Was there any direction in advertisements that the accounts were to be furnished to him? After the election was over an advertisement appeared stating that the accounts were to be sent in to Browne.
633. How many hotels are there at Welcome Reefs? There is only one that I know of.
634. And you say that Mr. Shadler told you that he had spent £10 or £15 there? Yes.
635. If he had done such a thing he must have spent the money at Smith's Hotel? Yes.
636. Did you believe the statement? I was a bit sceptical.
637. Have you heard anything since which would induce you to believe that Mr. Shadler did spend the money? From what I have heard since I do not think it is true that he spent anything like that amount.
638. Mr. Oann.] How far is Welcome Reefs from Major's Creek? About 40 miles.
639. Mr. Wise.] What sort of hearing did Mr. Shadler get at Welcome Reefs; do you know? He led me to believe that he had had a good meeting. I spoke to Mr. Browne after the meeting was over at Major's Creek, and he said that Mr. Shadler had improved in his speaking since he was there last. He said, "You should have heard him at Welcome Reefs; that is where he spoke well."
640. Mr. Hogue.] Would you be surprised to hear that he swore to-day that the Welcome Reefs meeting was a fiasco? I should be surprised to hear that that had been sworn to judging from what he led me to believe.
641. Mr. Wise.] Who asked you to give evidence? I am a voluntary witness.
642. To whom did you volunteer to give evidence? As soon as proceedings were taken at the Police Court, I said I would not countenance any endeavour to unseat Mr. Chapman, and that I would do all I could to help him.
643. Was that because you knew it was the regular practice for candidates to stand drinks? I knew that Mr. Shadler had done it to such an extent himself that he had no right to cry out about it.
644. You knew that Mr. Chapman had done so? I could not say that because I did not see him do it.
645. Mr. Barton.] You wrote to Mr. Chapman telling him what you knew, having up to that time supported Mr. Shadler? Yes.

Mr.
W. Dunshca.
28 Oct., 1895.

1895.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

GENERAL ELECTION, 1895.

(24 JULY, 1895.)

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

(COPY OF LETTER FROM MR. T. M. SLATTERY, RESPECTING EVIDENCE GIVEN BY MR. H. C. L. ANDERSON BEFORE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 23 October, 1895.

T. M. Slattery, Esq., to The Honorable the Premier.

London Chartered Bank Chambers, Pitt and Market Streets,

Sir,

Sydney, 6 September, 1895.

My attention has been directed to the evidence which was given before the Civil Service Commission on the 11th March last, by Mr. H. C. L. Anderson, the Principal Librarian and Secretary of the Free Public Library. Having, by the kind permission of the Minister for Mines and Agriculture, been allowed to inspect the documents relating to the appointments referred to in Mr. Anderson's evidence, I was able to refresh my memory, and I find that nearly the whole of the evidence given by Mr. Anderson was, so far as I am concerned, either romance or invention. To me it is startling to find a gentleman occupying his high position in the Public Service guilty of giving evidence, fortunately for me, the very opposite to the facts disclosed in the public documents filed in the Department of Mines and Agriculture.

Now, what are the facts? On the 13th August, 1891, prior to my acceptance of the office of Minister for Mines and Agriculture, Mr. Anderson, then Director of Agriculture, forwarded a minute to my predecessor in office, Mr. Sydney Smith, recommending "that applications be invited from persons competent to fulfil the duties of Inspector of Agriculture." That was approved by Mr. Smith on the 14th August, 1891, and directions were then given for advertisements to be inserted in the Herald, Daily Telegraph, and Evening News, the applications to be submitted to Mr. Smith by the 15th September, 1891.

It appears that thirty-four applications were received in reply to the advertisement. Mr. Anderson recommended Mr. Smith to appoint four inspectors, and he marked with a blue pencil ten of the names of the applicants, and said in his minute, "The men whose names I have marked with a blue cross have one and all very fair qualifications for the position." Mr. Smith wrote a minute as follows:—"This matter may stand over until Estimates have been considered by Cabinet." This minute is dated 15th September, 1891. On the 11th November, 1891, Mr. Anderson resubmitted the applications, I being then Minister, and said, "Mr. Smith approved of four being appointed, but deferred the selection until the Estimates were framed. The officers are very much needed." The next day Mr. Anderson again wrote and said, "I would respectfully impress upon the Minister the necessity of appointing some men with a good practical and scientific training. * * * The applications received in response to an advertisement have been submitted." On the 19th January, 1892, in consequence of the repeated recommendations made to my predecessor and to myself, and wishing to carry out in every way the intentions of Mr. Sydney Smith, as founder of the Department of Agriculture, I appointed certain gentlemen as Inspectors of Agriculture. Mr. de la Motte, Mr. Macklin, and Mr. Hooke were three applicants whose names were submitted by Mr. Anderson as suitable for appointment. Mr. de P. O'Kelly had been engaged in the sugar industry in Fiji, and he was an expert in the cultivation of sugar-cane and other tropical plants. As far as I know he was the only applicant who had the kind of knowledge necessary to be an inspector from the Tweed to the Clarence, and accordingly he was appointed. Mr. Dunnington was an officer in the Department, and had certificates of competency to be an inspector from gentlemen in every way qualified by knowledge to judge of his fitness.

I did not personally know one of the applicants, but it is beyond question that they were all well qualified by knowledge for the positions to which they were appointed.

The facts which I have hereinbefore enumerated are, I think, a sufficient answer to the reckless statement made by Mr. Anderson in answer to Question 7253.

The Inspector of Agricultural Shows was appointed to fill a vacancy, and the gentleman appointed by me had the very highest possible recommendations, and his work for years after proved that he was an excellent public servant.

Shortly after his appointment, I felt it my duty to cancel the appointment of Mr. Macklin, in consequence of serious representations having been made to me; and subsequently I had to remove Mr. Hooke also, for grossly neglecting his public duty.

It is utterly incorrect that Mr. Anderson recommended to me that the Inspectors of Agriculture should have graded salaries from £200 to £300 per year until after the appointments were made. The sum of £300 a year was fixed by Mr. Anderson himself, and I defy him to show any record to confirm the misleading answer he gave to Question 7254. In answer to Question 7256, "And they were not required?" Mr. Anderson said, "No, because they were not agricultural experts; I could not find work for them." If "they were not required," what becomes of Mr. Anderson's minute of the 13th August, 1891, and of his blue pencil markings against certain candidates out of the thirty-four applicants; and of his minutes of the 11th and 12th November, 1891, which, fortunately for my personal reputation, are on record as a reply to his extraordinary evidence?

I address this to you as the head of the Government, and I ask you to see that justice is done me, as an ex-Minister, in this matter. I cannot understand why the members of the Civil Service Commission, who listened to Mr. Anderson's remarkable story, did not afford me an opportunity of contradicting him by his own minutes. I know of no way myself how Mr. Anderson could be publicly contradicted, except by a Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly being appointed to examine Mr. Anderson and myself and other witnesses, and to see the documents that prove Mr. Anderson's statements to be mere inventions. I purpose to ask you to assist in the appointment of such Committee, unless you can suggest some other way to enable me to give my own evidence on oath, and call witnesses to prove that Mr. Anderson's evidence is untrue.

I have, &c.,

T. M. SLATTERY.

Acknowledged.—9/9/95.

This communication might be referred for the information of the Honorable the Minister for Public Instruction. I think Mr. Anderson should have an opportunity of explaining the matter herein specified.—F.K., 10/9/95.

Approved.—G.H.R., 12. The Under Secretary for Public Instruction.—F.K., 12/9/95.
Submitted.—J.C.M., 13/9/95. Forward to Mr. Anderson for any explanation he may desire to make.—J.G., 16/9/95. The Principal Librarian (urgent) for explanation, also in connection with communication from Mines Department referred to you on the 2nd instant.—J.M.G. (for U.S.), 23/9/95. Explanation herewith.—H.C.L.A., 15/10/95. Under Secretary.

Explanation re letter from Mr. T. M. Slattery to The Honorable the Premier, referring to my evidence before the Royal Commission on the Civil Service.

I HAVE to express my satisfaction at getting this opportunity of explaining and supplementing my evidence before the Commission, for unsatisfactory as it is to Mr. Slattery, it was still more so to me. I shall now endeavour to make the purport of my evidence clear, and show the facts that ought to make a very simple issue between Mr. Slattery and myself.

I would here state that I went before the Royal Commission to represent the Committee of Civil Servants who had been formulating a scheme of life assurance to replace the present Superannuation Fund, and I therefore went prepared with minutest details of that scheme, but without any notes whatever of the history of the Department of Agriculture.

I recognised when I saw my evidence in print that it was not complete enough, and therefore tendered some further notes, which the Commission were not able to accept.

I need hardly state that I had no desire to introduce any personal element into my evidence, and resolutely refrained from allowing any names to be introduced, till the Chairman had to ask me the names of the two Ministers referred to, as my phrase "the Minister" became confusing.

I had reasons to believe that Mr. Slattery was a conscientious believer in political patronage, and I had seen him carry his belief into practical effect with, in my opinion, disastrous results to the efficiency of my own Department. During my eight years' experience in the Department of Public Instruction I had never seen any trace of outside influence affecting appointments and promotions, such a thing being almost impossible under the admirable system of examinations there in force.

I know that in forming and organising the Department of Agriculture, the first Minister of the Department (Honorable S. Smith) had absolutely refused to allow political and other irresponsible influence to guide him in his appointments, and the result had been a small, most efficient, and hard-working staff, that did excellent work that met with the approval of the great mass of the persons most concerned.

I then saw appointments made, some in direct opposition to, others without the knowledge of, and others without any reference to myself, as the responsible executive officer of the Department; and the consequence was, in my opinion, inefficiency in the Department, disorganisation, bad discipline, waste of energy, and large expenditure of public funds without adequate results.

When Mr. Slattery took office he assured me that he would decide nothing connected with the Agricultural Department without consulting me. "Just the same," he added, "as he would do with Mr. Bruce, as the head of the Stock Department."

Though I had the most intimate knowledge of every detail of the history of the Department from the day I was appointed Director of it (February, 1890), and had worked literally day and night in its interests, Mr. Slattery never once sent for me about any question affecting the Department, never once entered the Department, nor consulted nor sent for myself or any other scientific or responsible officer under me.

He preferred to be guided in his appointments by the recommendations of irresponsible persons outside the Service; and Mr. Harrie Wood, who had been appointed Under Secretary of Agriculture in November, 1891, and who was almost entirely ignorant of the early history of the Department, was acquainted with little, if any, of the immense mass of preliminary work done by myself under Mr. Smith, had never entered the Department, and was personally unacquainted with the officers, their qualifications, and their duties.

Mr. Slattery is good enough to say that "it is startling" to find me "guilty of giving evidence the very opposite to the facts disclosed in the public documents."

I hope that it is quite unnecessary for me to assure the Honorable the Premier that I would not be so idiotic as to give public evidence before a Royal Commission that I knew to be false—evidence that was to be made public, and could be tested at any time by ample evidence, documentary and otherwise.

I was not able to take the necessary notes from the departmental papers till last Friday, 4th instant, and now I can say that my evidence concerning the political and other outside influence employed in the Department of Agriculture during 1892 and 1893 is substantially true, and I shall now proceed to explain and supplement it.

In 1891 I submitted to the Minister (Mr. Smith) my Estimates, showing the total cost of all agencies suggested as worth starting during the next two years. In these, of which I have a copy now before me, I placed four inspectors at £350, £300, £250, and £200 respectively; yet Mr. Slattery says, in complete ignorance of this and all other departmental history previous to October, 1891, "I defy him (Mr. Anderson) to show any record to confirm the misleading answer which he gave to Question 7254." (I had recommended the Minister that they should have graduated salaries from £200 to £300.) I may here mention that the position of £350 had been filled up by the appointment of a most efficient officer (J. A. Despeissis), who was intended to be Chief Inspector and Viticultural Expert; hence I recommended in November that there should be four appointed besides him:

In August, 1891, I took definite action re securing the appointment of one or more of those inspectors. I said in my minute: "It will be a difficult matter to get the exact men we want, and probably it will be found necessary to get well-educated men from the best colleges at home." Although many applications had been received for such a position, the Minister (Mr. Smith) approved of inviting applications by advertisements in the three daily papers. We received thirty-four applications (not twenty-six, as I stated in my evidence), and the Minister instructed me to go over the testimonials carefully and pick out the best; he would then send for them and decide which he would appoint, but he indicated that for reasons of prudence and economy he would probably appoint only one to commence with. In fact, I was well aware that he, while approving of my scheme of dividing the Colony into four districts with an expert for each, felt it wiser to get them by degrees.

The advertisement clearly showed that there was only one position contemplated just then. As a matter of fact, Mr. Smith thought only one of the applicants practical enough, and struck out all the inspectors from the Estimates, and appointed no one.

I would here note that I never recommended any of these applicants for appointment. I had not been asked to do so, and would not have dreamt of doing so till I had checked their statements and found out their previous history. I picked out the ten who had, I thought, the most promising testimonials, and showed my guarded attitude clearly by my words: "The men whose names I have marked with a blue cross, have one and all very fair qualifications for the position." The words "very fair" are not sufficient to justify me in recommending a man. How can any one imagine that I recommended ten men when only four were needed, and when each of the ten had very distinct qualifications—two having purely sub-tropical experience, one South Australian, one American, one New Zealand, and five having varied experience (chiefly theoretical) in Great Britain and New South Wales? No one could imagine that I was recommending, indifferently, ten such men for four distinctly special positions.

On 11th November, 1891, I had to deal with a letter from Mr. H. W. Newman, M.P., in favour of T. S. Pears, one of the applicants. On that letter I resubmitted to Mr. Slattery all the applications, and remarked, "Mr. Smith approved of four being appointed, but deferred the selection till the Estimates were framed." As the Estimates for 1892 had then been dealt with and no inspectors provided for, I pointed out that "the positions would have to be temporary ones, at least till the end of 1892. Four such officers, if thoroughly competent, would very largely increase the usefulness of the Department. Herewith all applications."

On the following day I had to draw the Minister's attention to a newspaper report from Albury of a disease in wheat, and said, "I would respectfully impress on the Minister the necessity of appointing some men with a good practical and scientific training to examine these diseases, report to the Department, and impart to the farmers the results of our investigations."

On 19th January, 1892, Mr. Slattery appointed five inspectors on my minute recommending four. One of these appointments he found it necessary to cancel on 28th January, because the person concerned—Mr. Macklin—had left the Department of Public Instruction with a bad history. It was lucky for the Department that good reason was found for getting rid of at least one, otherwise we should have been saddled with five officers where only four were needed. The Minister said in Macklin's case, "Ten were marked in blue pencil (and Mr. Macklin was one of the ten), and only that his connection with the Department of Public Instruction was unsatisfactory, he would now be one of the Inspectors of Agriculture. 30th January, 1892."

May I not say that one of these five men was unnecessary? Concerning the five men appointed, the papers disclose the following facts.

It may be here interesting to note the history of this large batch of departmental papers. On 25th February, 1892, an order was received directing them to be laid on the Table of the House. They were removed from my charge and taken to the Mines Department, where they were copied by a clerk, and finished on 7th April, 1892. They lay in the Minister's room till 25th April. On 27th April, the Under Secretary wrote a minute, "The Minister will, I presume, lay it on the Table, 27/4/92." The second Session lasted from 30th August, 1892, till 13th June, 1893, but the papers were not laid on the Table during that Session, nor since.

The file of original papers—applications, recommendations, letters, minutes, &c.—has disappeared from the Department, and my notes are therefore taken from the copy made as above indicated, and in which there are palpable errors.

1. Mr. O'Kelly.—This gentleman's name was not in the list submitted by me. He applied on 17th December, 1891, three months after applications had been publicly invited by Mr. Smith. In his application he says, "I have the honor to enclose what testimonials I have in my possession, and beg to refer you to His Honor Judge Forbes, whose son-in-law I am." As a matter of fact, there were no testimonials with this application, but three were sent by him 16th April, 1892 (the copy of the papers says 1891), three months after his appointment. Mr. O'Kelly says, "I thought it advisable to send the papers which you will receive this afternoon, to attach to my application. They are the only papers I have with me. One refers to my having passed my examination as a lieutenant, the other is a letter from the managing director of a large sugar company in Fiji in whose employ I was."

The

The only paragraph in this having any bearing on Mr. O'Kelly's experience is, "I am sorry you have not had an opportunity to show your ability to manage a plantation on our estate, which you should have had if we had continued operations, but I can testify to your ability to manage Fijians and Polynesians, especially the former." On Mr. O'Kelly's application, which had not been referred to me for any report, and which had no testimonials, and referred merely to his father-in-law, Mr. Slattery writes, "Mr. O'Kelly may be appointed one of the inspectors, his knowledge of the sugar industry must make him a most valuable officer to the Department, 19/1/92."

Judge Forbes came to see me in December, 1891, about the time that his son-in-law applied, and introduced himself as knowing "my worthy father." He told me that Mr. O'Kelly had had great experience in Fiji, but had lost everything, and that Mr. Slattery would appoint him at once if I recommended him. When I asked if Mr. O'Kelly had had any agricultural education, he told me that he had passed for a lieutenant's commission. I hinted that these did not seem special qualifications for teaching our northern farmers how to grow sugar, coffee, &c., and said I should consider the whole matter when Mr. Slattery should refer it to me for my report.

Judge Forbes saw me again in January, 1892, and either introduced or sent his son-in-law up to see me. I saw at once that Mr. O'Kelly was not the stamp of man to gain the sympathy of our rough farmers, and told Judge Forbes so. He got annoyed, rose hastily, and said, "I see you are unfriendly. I shall have to get him appointed without you." I was deeply impressed with this occurrence, though I never imagined at that date that any such appointment would be made.

Mr. Slattery says in his letter to the Premier:—"Mr. O'Kelly had been engaged in the sugar industry in Fiji, and he was an expert in the cultivation of sugar-cane and other tropical plants. As far as I know he was the only applicant who had the kind of knowledge necessary to be an inspector, from the Tweed to the Clarence, and accordingly he was appointed." And yet, in my list of ten, whose qualifications seemed to me very fair, were Mr. Von der Malsburg, a highly educated sugar chemist with considerable experience in the Richmond River, and Mr. M. H. Sampson, a highly educated and experienced sugar grower and refiner in the Sugar Refining Company at Harwood.

I think it only fair to add that though Mr. O'Kelly could never be called an expert, and certainly never won the sympathy of the farmers of the Clarence and Richmond, and was much satirised to me by all classes of people, yet I must speak well of him as an official. He was most regular in his work and anxious to improve himself, and would have made a useful officer.

Mr. O'Kelly was employed temporarily in the Stock Branch of the Mines Department on 18th January, 1892, on which day he intimated that he had been appointed Inspector of Agriculture, and would not come back to that work. The Minister appointed him by minute dated the following day, 19th January, 1892, but the papers did not come out to the chief clerk till three days later, and I could not possibly take any action on them till after my return from Bodalla on 25th January. Mr. O'Kelly's appointment was therefore conveyed to him on 1st February, and he was asked to see me re duties, &c. The Treasury and Civil Service Board were informed of the date of his appointment on 1st February.

On 15th February Mrs. O'Kelly wrote:—"You told me that Mr. O'Kelly had been appointed from 19th of last month as Inspector of Agriculture under that Department. Will he be able to draw last month's pay this month, or will it be added to this month's pay on 1st of next month? An answer will oblige."

The Minister approved, on 24th February, 1892, of Mr. O'Kelly being paid £300 a year from 19th January inclusive.

I thought then that the salaries of Messrs O'Kelly, Fitzgerald, and Dunnicliff should have commenced from the date of their commencing work for the Department, but I found that it was considered correct to pay them from the date of appointment inclusive, though I was not able to get their duties defined and approved till nine days later, and official intimation was only conveyed three days after that.

2. Mr. de la Motte.—With the papers at his disposal, Mr. Slattery writes to the Premier that this man was one of "three applicants whose names were submitted by Mr. Anderson as suitable for appointment." This is absolutely incorrect, for Mr. de la Motte was not one of the ten whom I considered "very fair," and could not have been recommended by me for any important work, as I had had him on probation for a month a year before, and knew him to be worthless as an inspector. This gentleman was a teacher of very low grade in charge of a small public school at Sherbrooke. He wrote in February, 1890, asking for a position, giving references to six Members of Parliament, but to no scientific or practical agriculturist. One of these Members wrote persistently advocating Mr. de la Motte's claims, and in the fourth letter said, "He is an acknowledged expert of high standing, and his services would be of great value to the State." I knew him to be an imperfectly educated man of foreign birth, who professed scientific knowledge which was often ludicrously incorrect, but after persistent worrying from his friends, advised the Minister (Mr. Smith (to get him transferred to us from his own Department for a month during the Christmas holidays of 1890, on probation. He was sent through the country to inspect and report on the experimental wheat-plots that some farmers were cultivating. The reports were neat and laborious, but quite deficient in capacity. The Minister was then convinced that he had not the requisite abilities for an inspector, and determined not to have him transferred. I replied to a clergyman who had written to me in his favour:—"I recognise his good qualities, but I have certainly not been able to find in him the capacity that is wanted for any position now vacant. I believe he would be a useful man; but certainly he would have to start in a much humbler sphere than any he is now seeking." I knew that this was sent to Mr. de la Motte, and therefore never gave him any consideration as an applicant for an inspectorship, and was well aware that his frequent applications and commendatory letters from political friends would have no further weight with Mr. Smith. I protested, 28th January, 1892, against his appointment at £300 a year, and suggested that he should be appointed on three months' probation, at £150 a year. He was then getting £96 a year with a residence, and could have got leave of absence from his own Department while on probation with the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. de la Motte's career in the Department of Agriculture would be interesting for a student of Civil Service discipline. On 4th June he returned to head-quarters from the country, but did not report himself till Monday, 6th, when he informed the chief clerk and first clerk that he was very tired, having just returned from the country. He sent in a false diary for the week, charged travelling expenses for the 5th and 6th (24s.), and, when I reported him, was advised to be more careful in future. In August he again returned a false diary, pretending to have left Sydney on 24th August, and to have been in Albury on 25th and 26th. He did not leave Sydney on duty till the 25th, but charged travelling expenses for the 24th, which were paid to him.

On

On 27th October, 1892, I reported him for being drunk in my office. I was just leaving for Albury, and wrote only a few lines, but mentioned my two witnesses, the chief inspector and chief clerk. These witnesses were never asked for evidence, but Mr. de la Motte was called upon to show cause why he should not be suspended. I had been censured in May for suspending another drunken officer, or I should have done what any foreman in charge of a shed would have done—I would have suspended him at once, and called upon him to show cause why he should not be dismissed. Mr. de la Motte retired from active service to his own home, and did no work for eighteen days, 28th October to 15th November. Mrs. de la Motte sent a certificate, on 30th October, from Dr. Kane, of Bulli, that her husband was "suffering from fatty degeneration of the heart, which at any moment may prove fatal," and I was asked not to bring the contents of this immediately under the notice of her husband. Mr. de la Motte replied on 7th November, pleading that he had taken 15 drops of a drug in brandy three times on the day in question, as he was suffering from heart disease. This explanation was deemed satisfactory. I wrote to Dr. Kane on 14th November, and again on 4th January, asking how far this disease would unfit Mr. de la Motte for his duties. He replied on 18th January, 1893, that "Mr. de la Motte had had a severe attack of gastric catarrh; the certificate re fatty degeneration was not intended for your Department, and was sent to you in error. In my opinion, he is in no way suffering from anything likely to render him unfit for the performance of his duties."

I then had Mr. de la Motte sent to the Board of Health for examination, and Dr. Paton certified, "He has no physical signs of heart disease."

My witnesses, if asked for their evidence, could have proved that he was drunk, that he had a cab waiting five hours while he slept off his drunken stupor up in his office; yet this explanation was considered satisfactory.

3. Mr. Dunnicliff was another of the five appointed on 19th January, 1892, on the same day on which he had applied. This gentleman had been employed in the Department, under my immediate supervision, for twenty-two months, but he did not apply through me, nor was his application referred to me for report. He was first employed as a temporary clerk, and did very fair work, for which he was suitably paid, 50s. per week. In August, 1890, he applied to be made an inspector, and the Minister (Mr. Smith) sent him out on probation to inspect some sites for experimental farms. His behaviour was so extraordinary, and his reports so poor and unsatisfactory, that Mr. Smith determined that he was unfit for higher duties, and relegated him to ordinary clerical work. I afterwards gave him a chance of showing what he could do by placing him in charge of our seed distributing. He was so unsatisfactory to the botanist who had supervision over him, that I had to put him back to clerical work, and give the seed work to a young fellow, who did it excellently.

Mr. Dunnicliff did not dare to apply, in September, 1891, in response to the advertisement, for Mr. Smith knew his very unsatisfactory record, but he applied on 19th January, 1892, and commenced by saying that his original application (August, 1890) had been lost or mislaid, which was not true.

I protested strongly, 28th January, 1892, against his appointment behind my back, showing that his previous record, when on probation, should have debarred him from promotion from 50s. a week to £300 a year; I suggested three months probation at £200 a year. Mr. Slattery admitted that he should have submitted his application through me. "He did so in August, 1890, but that application was never placed before me. What then could Mr. Dunnicliff do? After Mr. Dunnicliff had been appointed the objections on this minute paper are taken. They came too late, and I decline to interfere with his promotion," 1st February, 1892. How, I may ask, could I have submitted an application of August, 1890, with those received in response to our advertisement in September, 1891; and how could I take objection to the man's appointment, when it was never submitted to me, and the appointment was made on the very date of the application, when I was at Bodalla?

I may here make another note from the papers. Mr. Dunnicliff was informed officially of his appointment on 2nd February, 1892, and did his usual clerical work up to that date; yet he was paid at the rate of £300 a year from the 19th January.

4. Mr. Hooke was one of the ten whose qualifications I considered very fair. Mr. Levien, M.P., strongly supported his application, and wrote to the Minister, 5th December, 1891, nearly three months after the application had been received, enclosing some testimonials to attach to the original application. Mr. Hooke was a very intelligent man, who might have done very fair work, had it not been for his drinking habits.

With the papers before him to refresh his memory, Mr. Slattery asserts, "Subsequently I had to remove Mr. Hooke, also for grossly neglecting his public duties." As a matter of fact, Mr. Hooke left Sydney in March to report on the tobacco industry. He returned no diary or report after 2nd April. He was reported as being drunk at Cootamundra, where he had no business to be. I found that he had been on the spree at an hotel there from 10th to 24th April, and reported fully on 3rd May. Two weeks afterwards, during which he had been out of sight, he was allowed to resign on 9th May, not removed by Mr. Slattery, as he asserts above; and drew salary for this period, 2nd April to 8th May, during which he had not done a stroke of work of any value to the Department. It may here be noted that the file of papers connected with Mr. Hooke's case has also been lost from the Mines Department. Mr. Hooke's resignation was accepted on 9th May, and on the same paper Mr. A. B. Suttor was appointed in his place—though his application was not registered in the Department till the 11th instant. Mr. Suttor had been in the Department several times before the 9th instant, had assured the chief clerk that he was to be appointed an inspector, and was anxious to know when his appointment would be made.

I was never consulted as to the necessity or otherwise of filling the vacancy, and no report was asked for as to previous applicants.

I think it but fair to say that Mr. Suttor was an intelligent and well-behaved officer, who always did his work to the best of his ability.

But in view of my previous experience with agricultural inspectors whose head-quarters were in Sydney, with no well-defined duties or district, I should have strongly recommended that the Department should struggle along with the three inspectors left.

5. Mr. Macklin was the second one of the ten whose qualifications I considered "very fair." I had examined this gentleman in the Department of Public Instruction, and knew him by repute. I noticed that he made no mention of his previous career in that Department, but I did not make any minute inquiries then, for I knew that neither he nor any of the others would be appointed without full inquiries being made as to his antecedents. His only reference was to Mr. O. O. Dangar, M.P. for his district, district, and this gentleman wrote several times and interviewed Mr. Slattery in his behalf. He was appointed 19th January, 1892. I returned from the country on 25th January, and the following day was a holiday. I made inquiries as to Mr. Macklin's character in the Department of Public Instruction. I at once wrote to the Minister, 29th January, 1892, asking for investigation. Mr. Slattery cancelled the appointment on the same day, though I was not aware of that for several days afterwards.

6. Mr. J. J. Fitzgerald was appointed on the same fateful day, 19th January, 1892, Inspector of Agricultural Shows. Mr. Slattery says, "He had the very highest possible recommendations." He was recommended by Mr. Copeland, then Minister for Lands, as a stock inspector, a position which needs an examination that Mr. Fitzgerald never submitted himself to. He also produced a testimonial from Mr. Ednie Brown, who spoke of him as a public officer in South Australia, from the service of which he had been retrenched. I fearlessly assert that this man had not a special qualification for the position of Inspector of Agriculture, for which he applied. Mr. Slattery ventures to assert, "His work for years after proved that he was an excellent public servant."

As I had most intimate acquaintance with this man's career from January, 1892, to May, 1893, I may perhaps be allowed to place my opinion against Mr. Slattery's. On 1st February, 1893, I reported, "Mr. Fitzgerald is a man of ungovernable temper and most insolent demeanour. I have seen him exhibit passion, and make grimaces more like a wild animal than a human being, and that over trifles over which he was apparently unable to reason. In the discharge of his own special duties I consider him the most inefficient man that has ever been in this Department, and his work always needs more revising and checking than that of any other officer in the Department. If this officer were out of the Department his work could be done much more efficiently and promptly, and more creditably to the Department, and with a saving to the country of £250 per annum."

I can now repeat that Mr. Fitzgerald was the most useless and inefficient, laziest, and worst-tempered man I have ever met with. I never received a report of any value from him, and his early reports were so absurd that they were returned to him for revision with the aid of a clerical officer in the Department.

I invite special attention by any unprejudiced person to the papers, which show charges of (1) assaulting the chief clerk, who had in the course of his duty drawn his attention to false entries in his diary; (2) neglecting to pay his hotel bill at Hay till I had reported the matter two months afterwards; (3) using O.S. stamps for private correspondence; (4) deliberately refusing to go to Dapto on his duty, because I had no funds from which to pay in advance his travelling expenses, which would have been about 4s.

Mr. Fitzgerald was appointed on 19th January, 1892, and though no official intimation was sent to him, he presented himself next day. I was not able to see him till 25th January, got his duties approved on the 29th, and he visited his first show on 3rd February. He did not do any work for the Department in January, but was paid from the 19th of that month.

I have given in the preceding sketch some notes to explain and supplement my evidence, all of which I have taken literally from the papers themselves. With all the papers before him to refresh his memory, Mr. Slattery says, "I did not personally know one of the applicants, but it is beyond question that they were all well qualified by knowledge for the positions to which they were appointed."

On the other hand, I can say that these officers caused very much criticism of the Department throughout the country, and were of the slightest possible value to myself, as Director of Agriculture, or to any of the scientific staff. Not one of them was an agricultural expert in any sense of the term, nor able to teach our farmers the science or practice of agriculture.

I was never more than once asked to send one of these officers back to any district which he had visited, and frequently the Presidents of Agricultural Societies refused to have a visit from one of the inspectors to meet and instruct the members.

Their head-quarters were fixed in Sydney against my recommendation, and I had great difficulty in keeping them all occupied, and sometimes an inspector had to come and ask me to give him something to do. On the other hand, the scientific officers and such officers as Inspector Despeissis had always more than they could do, and their services were in great demand throughout the Colony for lectures and conferences with the farmers, orchardists, and viticulturists; hence my explicit answer to the Commission, "They were not required because they were not agricultural experts. I could not find work for them."

But there is another answer of mine, not referred to by Mr. Slattery, which I feel demands some explanation (7294). I said, "There were many other cases of persons being put into the Department of Agriculture against my will." By this I mean that men were appointed without the necessary qualifications, when by a proper system of departmental discipline and Public Service appointments, competent and valuable men could readily have been secured.

I shall illustrate the effect of this on the efficiency of the Civil Service. Early in 1892 a registrar was needed for the Hawkesbury Agricultural College. The qualifications were special, and none of our clerks, good as some of them were, could be recommended for the promotion. We needed a well-educated young man with a knowledge of shorthand; one who could exercise disciplinary power in the college, preside at a table, do all the clerical work, help the Principal with his reports, and act, if possible, as a master in some English subjects. On the minute recommending such an appointment, Mr. Slattery appointed a Mr. Louis Grey. As the young man had not applied for any position, I had to send for him to interview the Principal and myself. That officer informed me that the young man would be quite useless to him, with which I concurred. I asked Mr. Grey if he thought he could do the work needed. He informed me that he had done no work for about fifteen months, but "Uncle" had promised him a billet as soon as he could give him one, and he thought he had as good a right to this as anyone else. I reported to the Minister that Mr. Grey was not fit for this position, and Mr. Slattery wrote on the papers, "Mr. Grey declines the position," and he was shortly afterwards appointed to a branch of the Mines Department, where he has been ever since as a temporary officer.

Another gentleman—Mr. O'Sullivan—was then submitted for the Principal's approval, whom he considered unsuitable. A third—Mr. Lush—was then submitted, and as he had a slight knowledge of shorthand, and was of mature age, the Principal accepted his appointment. I could find absolutely nothing of his past career, as he had recently been a Baptist minister, and had left the ministry under peculiar circumstances. To show the necessity of some rigid examination of such strangers' past history, I may mention that a few months ago Sir William Windeyer, on granting this man's wife a divorce from him, him, said it was a disgrace to have such a man in the Public Service of New South Wales, while so many of our young men were going idle. The papers connected with this appointment were ordered to be laid on the Table of the House, February, 1892, but they have not yet been laid there.

Another instance of what I designate political appointments I shall give. In 1892 the chemist of the Department asked for a young assistant—a probationer under the terms of the Civil Service Act, at £50 a year. It was essential that we should get a well-educated lad between 17 and 25 years of age—one who desired to make chemistry his profession, and had learned, at least, the rudiments of chemistry and laboratory work. It took us weeks to hear of a suitable lad amongst the University and Technical College classes, but at last we heard of one, Thompson, personally unknown to both of us. After very full inquiries I recommended his appointment as probationer. On this paper Mr. Slattery appointed Mr. F. W. Hughes, who was not a registered applicant for any employment in the Department. I sent for him and he informed me that he had been out of work for eighteen months, but Mr. Slattery had promised him the first opening he could find for him, and he was as willing to be a chemist as anything else. He was 27 years of age, and therefore ineligible for appointment under the terms of the Civil Service Act. He had absolutely no knowledge of chemistry, but he was sent up to the laboratory. In a few days the chemist reported to me that he was quite useless to him, being too old to commence this new study, and he would rather do the routine work himself and be without him. I reported this to the Minister, who remarked on the papers that as Mr. Hughes had been promised something, he should not be disappointed, and as extra clerical assistance was then needed, he was transferred to the temporary clerical staff at 5s. a day. Another lad was then appointed probationer, on some external recommendation, and he has been an excellent officer, and a promising young chemist. The same year the pathologist asked for a young assistant to help him in microscopic work, one who had some knowledge of science and taste for biological work. It was not easy to find such a lad. The one who was immediately appointed had had no training since leaving school a year or fifteen months before, except that gained in tending his father's bar. He was appointed probationer at £50 a year, but the pathologist found him useless for his work, and preferred to be without him, so he was employed at clerical work, at which he was fairly useful. I venture to assert that such appointments should not have been made if the responsible officers most vitally interested had been in any way consulted.

During 1892 two men were appointed to teach our fruit-growers how to deal with the codling moth and other pests, insect and fungoid. These men had no special qualifications for such work, and one of them had had absolutely no experience in any form of orchard work. He was a well-behaved young man, who soon learned the merely mechanical part of the work in the back-yard of the Department, but he was sadly at a loss when associating with practical fruit-growers, who asked for all sorts of information. We did not need these men, for we had two men specially qualified for such educational work—the fruit expert, who had lately arrived from California, and the entomological collector, who had an excellent knowledge of insect life, and was well informed in all the best methods of dealing with insect and fungoid pests.

When the 1893 Estimates were laid on the Table in January, 1893, it was found to my intense surprise, that the positions of pathologist and chemist had been left off the Estimates. These officers—men of the highest character and value to the Department—were absolutely indispensable, but the cause of this step was said to be retrenchment. At the same time two tobacco experts were appointed to teach our farmers how to grow tobacco, one at £300 a year, the other at £156. The former had been employed in the Queensland Department of Agriculture for some time, and the two heads of that Department expressed to me their surprise that this officer had been appointed here without any reference being made to the Queensland Department. The latter was a very useful practical man, whose labours were much valued by the farmers, and who was fully able to do all the teaching needed for the tobacco industry, at a time when retrenchment was being imperatively demanded.

I ventured to advise the Minister at this time of the serious consequences of abolishing the positions of chemist and pathologist, and they were restored.

In May I learned from the morning papers that my own position had been abolished, and my place was practically filled by the appointment of a chief clerk, a gentleman whose own position had been abolished in the Mines Department, and who had been a disappointed applicant for my appointment three and a half years before.

The chief clerk of my Department was retrenched, and one of the most enthusiastic and capable officers I ever met was turned adrift at 34 years of age, with a pension of about £100 a year. The first clerk, a very intelligent and able young officer, with £290 a year, was retrenched, with heavy compensation, and the next in rank, with half his service, shortly afterwards got his salary raised from £200 to £254 per annum.

The botanist to the Department was sent away, and an amateur botanist, an officer of another Department, then getting £500 a year, was appointed Consulting Botanist for Forestry and Agriculture, at £100 a year, thus getting the very position for which he had been a disappointed applicant three years before, when Mr. Turner had been appointed on the recommendation of the best botanists in New South Wales.

In conclusion, I may remark that every statement here made can be proved by papers and ample personal evidence, and will be found to be no mere "invention." I have not suffered from "hallucinations" during the last five years, during which I saw the ambition of my life-time shattered, my best work destroyed, faithful and honorable public servants degraded and dismissed from the Service, while useless and inefficient men, with bad records, have been retained, and a feeling of gross injustice engendered, which has soured many a good life and destroyed much noble esprit.

I have herein given a full sketch of the system which I characterised as "Political." Where the original papers were available I have made literal extracts from them; where no papers were available I can trust my memory, aided by that of a number of old officers of the Department, who can fully corroborate all my statements.

Mr. Slattery asks for a Special Commission to "examine me and himself and other witnesses, and to see the documents, &c."

I shall be exceedingly pleased to have the fullest possible investigation of my evidence as herein supplemented and enlarged by any Committee that is impartial and able to give the necessary minute attention to the matter.

May

May I respectfully suggest that the Commissioners who took my evidence are peculiarly fitted to test that evidence, and to pronounce whether my assertions are substantially true and made in the best interests of the Public Service of New South Wales. Probably such a tribunal would be better fitted for this special work than a Select Committee of the House, however impartially chosen.

HENRY C. L. ANDERSON.

Under Secretary, Department of Public Instruction.—H.C.L.A., 15/10/95. Submitted.—J.C.M., 17/10/95.

Let a copy of Mr. Anderson's explanation be forwarded to Mr. Slattery, with a covering letter, informing him that, as Mr. Lyne, M.P., is moving for a Select Committee to inquire into the matter, I think it desirable that copies of these papers should be laid upon the Table of the House on the next sitting day; also let copies be prepared for the Assembly.—J.G., 17/10/95.

T. M. Slattery, Esq., to The Honorable the Premier.

London Chartered Bank Chambers, Pitt and Market Streets,

Sir,

Sydney, 17 October, 1895.

On the 6th ultimo I addressed a letter to you calling attention to the evidence given by Mr. H. C. L. Anderson before the Civil Service Commission on the 11th of March last, which evidence grossly reflected on my administration of the Department of Mines and Agriculture. To that letter I only received a formal reply.

You will no doubt fully understand that it is impossible for me to allow Mr. Anderson's evidence to remain uncontradicted, and I submit that you should, as head of the Government, render me every reasonable assistance for that purpose.

The evidence given on oath by Mr. Anderson was either true or untrue. If true, I should for ever be debarred taking any further part in public affairs. If untrue, Mr. Anderson committed wilful and corrupt perjury. It is clear from my letter of the 6th September, and the public documents filed in the Department of Mines and Agriculture, that Mr. Anderson's evidence was false, and I cannot understand why any further delay should be allowed by you to take place in having such false evidence publicly refuted.

I have, &c.,

T. M. SLATTERY.

Acknowledge and say forwarded to Secretary for Mines with an expression of earnest hope that there will be no further delay in the matter.—G.H.R., 17/10/95. The Hon. the Secretary for Mines. Mr. Slattery informed accordingly.—R. M. Ross, 17/10. The Under Secretary for Mines and Agriculture.—F.K., the Treasury, B.C., 17/10/95. Very urgent. May perhaps be forwarded to the Department of Public Instruction, with a request that Mr. Anderson be required to furnish his reply without further delay.—H.W., 17/10/95. Submitted. Approved.—S. SMITH, 18. The Under Secretary for Public Instruction.—H.W., B.C., 18/10/95. Very urgent. Submitted.—J.C.M., 18/10/95. Place with other papers. Mr. Slattery has been furnished with a copy of Mr. Anderson's reply.—J.G., 22/10/95.

T. M. Slattery, Esq., to The Under Secretary of Public Instruction.

London Chartered Bank Chambers, Pitt and Market Streets,

Sir,

Sydney, 23 October, 1895.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22nd instant, with the extraordinary explanation of Mr. H. C. L. Anderson, dated the 15th instant, relating to his evidence given before the Civil Service Commission on the 11th March last, enclosed.

I do not propose to specifically answer in writing the reckless statements made in his thirty foolscap sheets of so-called explanation of the false evidence given by Mr. Anderson before the Commission. It seems to have taken Mr. Anderson nearly two weeks to prepare this remarkable document, when two hours should have been sufficient to answer the simple complaint against him if his evidence on oath before the Commission had been true.

When the Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly is appointed, I shall then, on my oath and by the testimony on oath of officers of the Department of Mines and Agriculture, and by public documents, prove every statement in my letter to the Prime Minister, dated the 6th September last, to be absolutely correct.

In order that the whole of the papers in this matter may be laid on the Table of the House in a complete form, may I request the authority of the Minister to have this letter included.

I have, &c.,

T. M. SLATTERY.

Submitted.—J.M.G. (for U.S.), 23/10/95. Prepare copy, with a view of submitting with other papers to Parliament.—J.G., 23/10/95.

CASE OF MR. A. J. C. SINGLE.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on 19th September, 1895, "to inquire into and report upon the case of A. J. C. Single, late Roads Superintendent at Cowra, who retired from the Service on account of loss of sight,"—have agreed to the following Report :—

Your Committee having examined the witnesses named in the List (whose evidence will be found appended hereto), find as follows :—

1. That Roads-Superintendent Single lost his sight in his zeal for the performance of his duties.

2. That when he became conscious that his sight was becoming impaired, Mr. Single applied for leave of absence, with a view of seeking medical aid, but the application was refused.

3. That the evidence of Mr. Single and others and the medical certificate of Dr. Thomas Evans (vide Appendix) disclose the fact that Mr. Single was under the impression at the time that ultimately he would recover his sight, and that both the Ministerial and Official head of the Department believed this to be the case, and that Mr. Single would eventually be reinstated in the Service.

4. That the retiring allowance provided at the time was not as large as it otherwise would have been.

Your Committee, considering Mr. Single's position of absolute penury, caused through loss of sight while serving the country, beg to recommend his case to the favourable consideration of the Government.

F. A. WRIGHT,
Chairman.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

CASE OF MR. A. J. C. SINGLE.

THURSDAY, 26 SEPTEMBER, 1895.

Present:—

MR. MCGOWEN,

MR. PERRY.

MR. O'SULLIVAN,

FRANCIS AUGUSTUS WRIGHT, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Arthur James Creswell Single sworn and examined:—

1. Chairman.] You were formerly in the employ of the Government? Yes.
2. In what capacity? Road Superintendent.
3. What district? Cowra.
4. What salary were you receiving, including allowances, at the date of your retirement? £475 a year.
5. When did you retire? At the end of 1884.
6. What was the immediate cause of your retirement? Loss of sight.
7. You received, I think, something in the shape of an allowance when you retired? Yes.
8. What amount? I received £500 in lieu of retiring allowance.
9. When you retired, were you conscious that your sight was permanently destroyed? No; I was given to understand by the doctor under whose care I was that in the course of a short time—say, two or three years—I would be able to be operated on and regain useful sight, sufficient to enable me to take my place again in the Department.
10. Did you consider that the Department would re-employ you if you recovered your sight? That was an understood thing with the Department—with the late Commissioner for Roads, Mr. Bennett. I was neither dismissed nor did I resign; I was merely left off, so that there would be no necessity for any reappointment.
11. Then I understand that Mr. Bennett told you that, in the event of your sight being restored, you could re-enter the Department in your former capacity? Yes.
12. Will you describe any previous event which took place when your sight first became bad, and what steps you took to obtain relief? In July, 1883, whilst in charge of the construction of two important bridges in the Cowra district, I caught a very severe cold, which brought about inflammation of the eyes. I found that instead of getting better my eyes got worse, and I at once applied for an officer to be sent to relieve me. The reply I received from the Commissioner for Roads was to the effect that no officer could be spared who could supervise the work, and that I must remain where I was for a time. I may state that the Department say that there is no record of any application of the sort ever having been made. Applications may have been considered by the Commissioner as more semi-official than official documents, and, consequently, they may not have been preserved as records.
13. Did you make more than one application? I did.
14. How many? I made not less than three.
15. Did you state in those applications that your sight was likely to be permanently impaired unless you got relief? There can be no doubt whatever about the matter, when my office work for two months before I was relieved had to be done either by Mrs. Single or by someone employed by myself. This I drew the attention of the Commissioner to on several occasions.

- Mr. A. J. C. Single.
26 Sept., 1895.
16. Then I understand you to say that you, in effect, pointed out to the Commissioner that you were incapable of then performing your duties? Yes.
17. And still he declined to relieve you? On 11th October, 1883, an officer was sent to take charge of the district, and as showing the correctness of my previous statement with regard to an officer not being spared who could supervise the work, the officer then sent was only a cadet in the Service, and he was sent merely to look after the district, although all the work had been completed.
18. What was the name of that gentleman? Mr. Oswald Morton, who was only a cadet at the time.
19. Will you narrate what took place after you came to Sydney;—whom did you see? The first thing I did on arriving in Sydney was to report myself to the office. On interviewing the late Commissioner for Roads, he at once said to me, "I had no idea your eyes were as bad as they are; why did you not leave the work and come away; why did you stop there; have you been to see a doctor yet?" I replied, "No, I have not; I came to report myself first." He said, "Go and see a doctor at once, and make application for sick leave. You should not have remained there; I had no idea your eyes were as bad." I replied, "I have been continually bringing it under your notice, and you must have known I must have been very bad when it was impossible for me to do my office work. All I could do was to sign my name to vouchers or official documents." "Yes," he said, "I know that, but I did not think you were half as bad; no officer would have remained there."
20. But still, as an officer, you could not come away without permission? I could not come away without resigning or direction.
21. Did you see a medical man? Yes; and he at once told me I had left my eyes too long, and that I would be a very long time before any relief could be given me.
22. What medical man attended you? Dr. Thomas Evans, of Macquarie-street.
23. Mr. O'Sullivan.] Had you ever suffered from weak sight before? No; I never had occasion to wear glasses or anything else. My eyes had been perfectly sound and strong before.
24. Mr. McGowen.] Was it Dr. Evans who told you you might get better in time? Yes; he told me so repeatedly.
25. Chairman.] He told you absolutely that he thought you would get better? Yes; it was solely on that account that I did not make application to the Department for pension. I could have applied for a pension and it would have been granted to me.
26. Mr. McGowen.] Were you on the permanent staff? Yes.
27. Chairman.] When you came to Sydney, did you see the Minister? No; I saw the Minister afterwards, and explained matters to him.
28. You saw me, in fact? Yes; and I saw the Minister with reference to my retiring allowance, and stated then that the reason I was only applying for a sum equal to my retiring allowance was that I had hopes, as the doctor had informed me that in two or three years, at the outside, I would be able to be operated on, and get useful sight, and that the Commissioner for Roads had informed me that I would be taken on in the Department again.
29. Are you a married man? Yes.
30. With a large family? Yes; I have eleven children.
31. What are your private means? I have nothing at all. The bank has sold the place I had, and I have no home.
32. You are, in effect, penniless? Yes.
33. Mr. McGowen.] You state that when you applied to the Commissioner for Roads, Mr. Bennett, the answer was that no one could be spared? That he could not spare an officer capable of looking after the work. It was not ordinary road work.
34. You wrote two or three letters to him calling his attention to the fact that it was absolutely necessary that you should have leave? Yes.
35. Did you point out to him in any of those letters that you were likely to permanently lose your sight? I could not say that. I pointed out to him that my eyes were in a bad state indeed, and that I should not be kept there any longer, but that I should seek medical advice. We had no doctor at Cowra. The nearest doctor was at Carcoar, and I could not afford to go there to him. Apart from that, I did not care to go to any doctors in the country, as they sometimes do more harm than good.
36. I am only asking this question because I thought, from something you have said, that you had pointed out to the Commissioner that you were likely to permanently lose your sight? I could not possibly say that, because if I had imagined for one moment that such a thing would have taken place I would have given up my appointment. It would have been far better to have done that than to have lost my sight.
37. Chairman.] In fact, until you saw the doctor you were not aware of it? No.
38. Mr. McGowen.] Of course, it was in following out your duties that you contracted this cold? Yes; I was 35 miles from head-quarters at the time, and had to ride 12 miles, night and morning, to and from my work, and stopping out late at night in cold weather I contracted a very severe cold, which ended in inflammation of the eyes.
39. You say there was an arrangement made between yourself and the Commissioner for Roads? Yes.
40. You received a grant of £500? Yes.
41. And when you recovered you were to go back to your duties? Yes; I was neither dismissed nor resigned.
42. Was that by word of mouth or in writing? Simply by word of mouth. Unfortunately my two principal witnesses are dead. Those were the two Members for the district—the late Hon. George Campbell and Mr. Andrew Lynch. They were with me at the time, and I believe Mr. Campbell was with me when I interviewed Mr. Wright.
43. Mr. O'Sullivan.] How long was it after leaving your work at Cowra that you became blind? Three months. I was in Sydney under the doctor for twelve months; but within three months of my arrival in Sydney I was as blind as I am to-day, and had to be led about.
44. Chairman.] You had a small estate near Cowra? Yes. It was only partly paid for.
45. Has it now passed out of your hands? Yes.
46. I understand from you that whilst your prospects of obtaining a living from that estate were good you never pressed any claim? No; none at all.
47. It was only when your necessities arose? Yes.

WEDNESDAY, 2 OCTOBER, 1895.

Present:—

MR. FRANK FARNELL,
MR. HUGHES,MR. PERRY,
MR. WADDELL.

FRANCIS AUGUSTUS WRIGHT, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

Denis Cornelius Joseph Donnelly, Esq., M.L.A., sworn and examined:—

48. Chairman.] Have you any evidence bearing on Single's case? I do not know much about it.
49. Were you acquainted with Single when he was road superintendent at Cowra? Yes.
50. Did you know him before his sight was impaired? Yes.
51. What condition of health do you consider he was in then? He was of splendid physique—about as fine a specimen of a man as you could see in the country—a tall, powerful man, very active and sober.
52. Was his sight perfect? Perfect in every way.
53. He was considered, I believe, a very good officer? We all thought so.
54. Can you tell the Committee anything bearing on Single's loss of sight? I knew him first in 1878, and from that to 1883 he was occupied as a road superintendent, discharging his duties seemingly to the satisfaction of the public and his employers. From 1880 to 1883 we had very hot seasons, and ophthalmia was very prevalent. In the month of July, 1883, Single was attacked with sore eyes. About August he became so bad that I strongly advised him not to work any longer, but to give up the position he was in. His eyelids were granulated, and I pointed out that ulceration might set in, and that he would stand a good chance of losing his sight. He told me he had communicated with the Department, and on one occasion, I think in August, he showed me a letter which I think was from Mr. Bennett, stating that they had not an officer at that time available to take his place. He was then wearing a green shade, and his eyes were in a very bad condition.
55. He had applied prior to that for leave of absence? Yes, and the reply was that an officer was not available.
56. Did you have many conversations of this nature with him? I often had conversations with him after his eyes became bad. I took an interest in that kind of thing. It was a matter which impressed me very much during the first rush to Forbes. A very large number of men working below were troubled with ophthalmia almost immediately upon arriving on the field. It seemed endemic to the soil in dry seasons.
57. Did you take an interest in Single as a personal friend? Yes; I may say that I took a great deal of interest in ophthalmia at the time—some of my own children suffering from it.
58. Was he, in your opinion, after he had applied for leave, in a fit state to continue his work? I think, had I been in his place, I would have done as I advised him. I said to him on one occasion, "I would not wait a second; I would leave Cowra by the first coach."
59. Then you considered he was not in a condition to perform his duties? He was not; his eyes were granulated, and anyone knowing anything of that stage of sore eyes knows it is a dangerous thing.
60. Did he tell you more than once that he had asked for leave of absence? He told me on two, if not on three, occasions. A cadet subsequently came up.
61. Was that Mr. Morton? I think so.
62. Do you know anything about Single's position? At that time he seemed to be a man in very comfortable circumstances. I do not know whether he was living on his salary or not. He was a man who always paid his way remarkably well, and he was very popular in the district. Afterwards he went in for farming and dairying, but he was not successful, having lost his sight. I have seen him following the stripper in the field, blind; I have also seen him sewing bags, and doing the most mean work in the field trying to pull his family along.
63. Working as a labourer? Yes; I often wondered how a man stone-blind as he was could possibly manage it.
64. Is he still in possession of his property? I think the banks have it.
65. If Mr. Single has sworn that he is absolutely impecunious;—do you believe it? I think he is in very poor circumstances now.
66. Would you believe that statement? I firmly believe it. I believe he is, to all intents and purposes, absolutely penniless.

D. C. J.
Donnelly,
Esq., M.P.

2 Oct., 1895.

Robert Hickson, Esq., Engineer-in-Chief for Public Works, sworn and examined:—

67. Chairman.] Have you brought any papers bearing on Single's case? Yes; I have brought all the papers I could find, and I think the whole that will be necessary.
68. Have you any personal knowledge of the case? No.
69. At the time Mr. Single left the Service you were in another branch of the Department? Yes.
70. Can you produce any papers or correspondence between Single and the Department asking for leave of absence owing to bad sight? If you will allow me, I will read a précis of the case which was made in February, 1894.

R. Hickson,
Esq.

2 Oct., 1895.

Department of Public Works, Roads and Bridges and Sewerage Branch, Sydney, 12 February, 1894.

MINUTE PAPER.—Case of Mr. A. J. Single, late Road Superintendent at Cowra.

MR. A. J. C. Single, late road superintendent at Cowra, entered the Civil Service on the 16th September, 1875, and left it on the 31st December, 1884.

During his term of service at Cowra his eyesight became affected, and eventually he became totally blind. As it appeared from representations made, and from the certificates of Dr. Evans, that this blindness was caused by the action of the climate in which Mr. Single was called upon to work, he was treated with special consideration by the Government, being given leave of absence on full pay from the 1st October, 1883, to the date of his retirement, 31/12/84 (fifteen months). He was also paid the usual retiring allowance of one month's salary for each year's service (£225), together with a special gratuity of £275, making a total of £500.

In August, 1885, Mr. Single wrote, through Mr. R. H. D. White, M.P., stating that the Premier, Sir. A. Stuart, had approved of £500 being placed on the Estimates as compensation to him for the loss of his sight, and that at the time he was given to understand that he would receive in addition his retiring allowance.

A

R. Hickson,
Esq.

2 Oct., 1895.

A perusal, however, of the minutes by the Premier, the late Sir Alexander Stuart, will show that this was not the case. The minutes referred to run as follows, viz. —

Submit to Parliament in two sums, one for the amount to which he had a right under the recognised scale of one month per year of service, the other for the difference between that and £500, as a special vote.—A.S., 29/9/84.

I see by reference to the previous papers that I was acting for the Minister for Works when I made a minute approving of a sum being placed on the Estimates. Reference to that minute will show that the £500 includes the £225, and is not additional thereto.—A.S., 28/7/85.

Mr. White was informed in terms of these minutes (30/7/85), and copies of them were sent to Mr. T. R. Smith (30/1/86), who had also interested himself on Mr. Single's behalf.

It might perhaps be mentioned that Mr. Bennett, the late Commissioner, in recommending consideration of this case, referred throughout to Mr. Single as a steady and hard-working officer; but at the same time he informed Mr. George Campbell, M.P., that there was nothing whatever to show that Mr. Single was entitled to any larger allowance than was made him.

Mr. H. Hoyle, M.P., has now given notice of his intention to move the Legislative Assembly on Tuesday, the 13th instant, to express the opinion that a further sum of £500 should be paid to Mr. Single as compensation.

Mr. Hoyle has stated to Under Secretary that Mr. Single made repeated applications to be relieved on account of his eyesight, but that his requests were not acceded to, as there was no officer who could be sent to take his place.

There is no record of these applications, but in 1883 (4/10/83), when Mr. Single applied for leave to come to Sydney for medical advice, he stated that for the past three months he had faithfully performed his duties when he should have been relieved. On this the late Commissioner wrote as follows:—"I wanted to send someone to take up Mr. Single's duty. He would not have it."

Mr. Single's leave was granted, and another officer was sent to Cowra.

71. Are there any other papers bearing on the question? No. Mr. Single wrote during the term of office of the present Minister, Mr. Young, who asked, "What is known of the officer in this case?" The précis I read is the result.

72. There are no applications in the office for leave from Mr. Single? None that we can find, beyond that referred to in the précis.

73. Mr. Single states in his sworn evidence that Mr. Bennett gave him to understand that if his sight was restored he would re-enter the Service in the position in which he left it? Yes; Mr. Single made that remark to me on the day he called upon me.

74. Supposing a similar thing took place now, and an officer met with a misfortune by which he temporarily lost his sight, would you, as the head of the Department, enter into such a contract with him? I would not do it without submitting it to the Minister for his approval, and I would not recommend it unless the circumstances were such as to warrant me doing so.

75. This is a special case: a man is in the performance of his duty, and his sight is gradually becoming worse every day, and he is refused leave of absence by the Department. In a special case like that, would you feel it incumbent upon you to say, "I am very sorry for you in this temporary affliction; you are unfit for work, and will have to retire for the time being; but if your sight is restored in the course of a few months, or a year or so, I shall be happy to recommend your re-employment"? Yes, I would under those circumstances. I would be prepared to make that recommendation to the Minister.

76. When did Mr. Single first make an application for additional assistance? I think the précis gives the date in the first paragraph. £500 was placed on the Estimates, portion being his retiring allowance and portion a gratuity.

77. When was his case first brought under your notice? In 1894, in a letter written by Single to the Minister, Mr. Young, on the 24th September, 1894.

78. So that practically from 1885 to 1894 he had made no demand on the Department? No written demand.

79. Mr. Farnell.] When was Mr. Single appointed? In 1875.

80. When did he retire? December, 1884—a little over nine years' service.

81. Chairman.] Was he appointed straight to the position of road superintendent? I think he was put at once in charge of the district.

82. Mr. Farnell.] Have the Government fulfilled their obligation in respect to compensation which should be awarded to officers of the Department under such circumstances? Yes; rather more so in his case, on account of losing his sight.

83. Do you remember what provision was in vogue as far as allowing pensions to officers in those days is concerned? There was no pension.

84. Mr. Single speaks in his evidence of being entitled to a pension if he had applied for it, and had resigned;—can you explain how he could be entitled to it? No temporary officer is entitled to a pension at all. He may get a gratuity—he is not even entitled to that—of one month's pay for every year of salary, if the Minister so approves.

85. But that is under the Act of 1885? Yes.

86. But I mean prior to that. Mr. Single speaks of having withdrawn his claim for pension which he would have been entitled to had he resigned;—I want to know by what means he could become entitled to a pension? Before 1885 no officer was entitled to a pension.

87. It was simply a matter of grace so far as the Government were concerned? Yes.

Colonel Frederick Wells, M.I.C.E., sworn and examined:—

Colonel
F. Wells,
M.I.C.E.

2 Oct., 1895.

88. Chairman.] You were formerly in the Government Service? Yes, as Engineer for Roads.

89. Do you remember a road superintendent, formerly in the Service, named Single? Yes.

90. Have you any distinct recollection as to when he left the Service? No; but I believe it was at the end of 1884.

91. Can you tell anything which led to his retirement? His blindness; it was of long duration.

92. It has been stated that Mr. Single made application on more than one occasion to be relieved, setting forth that his desire to be relieved was on account of the dangerous condition of his eyes? I heard of it, but I do not know it of my own knowledge.

93. You are not aware as to whether it was a fact or not that Mr. Single's application for leave was declined on the score that no officer was available at the time? No.

94. What reputation does Mr. Single bear in the Department? A good, steady officer.

95. Was he considered honorable and truthful? Yes.

Colonel
F. Wells,
M.I.C.E.
2 Oct., 1895.

96. I want to put a hypothetical case to you,—If it has been stated that the late Commissioner for Roads said to a man leaving the Service through temporary ailment of any kind, such for instance as loss of sight: "As I believe you are not permanently blind, you must leave the Service for the time being; but if you recover your sight in a reasonable time, I will take you back into the Department to the same position that you now occupy";—would you think Mr. Bennett would do so? I think it is quite likely that Bennett would do that.

97. Have you any recollection of a statement you may have heard in connection with Single's blindness? No. I saw Single at intervals as the blindness grew upon him, and I was aware he received assistance; even after he was totally blind an assistant was sent to him. His son was also put on at small pay to assist in carrying out the duties of the district, in the hope that he might recover his sight.

98. Then, in effect, the Department knew that his sight was gradually failing whilst he was kept at his post? Yes. He would not unnecessarily expose himself, I should think, with his blindness upon him.

99. But prior to the total blindness, have you any reason to believe that Single was kept there by the head of the Department in spite of his protestations that he wanted to get away in order to seek medical assistance? I cannot say; I do not know.

100. Did you come into immediate contact with Mr. Single? Yes. I used to inspect this district in common with that of all the other road officers.

101. What about the correspondence from him to the head of the Department;—would that pass through your hands? No. It would go to the Chief Clerk, unless it was anything the Commissioner found it necessary to refer to me.

102. If Mr. Single made application on two or three occasions to the chief you would not see those applications? No, not necessarily.

103. It was not portion of your duties? No.

104. The Commissioner would not refer those papers to you unless he wanted your opinion and advice on some particular subject? No.

105. You consider it quite likely that Mr. Bennett would have made the statement I referred to just now to an officer afflicted in the same way as Single was? I think it quite likely he would make such a statement.

106. As a matter of fact would he have had the power to re-employ him as a temporary officer without Ministerial authority? No; the Commissioner would have recommended him for re-appointment to the Minister.

107. As a rule in cases of that kind the Minister approves of the recommendations? Yes. Of course, it is to the interest of the Department to keep a man who is accustomed to his work.

108. Can you tell us what practice prevailed with reference to retiring allowances. Mr. Single, when he retired, of course under exceptional circumstances, was granted £500, made up of two sums, £225, a month's pay for each year of service, and £275 as a special gratuity? The first is the basis, I think, upon which retirements were usually recommended to the Minister.

109. That is a month's pay for each year of service? Yes. The subsequent arrangement of getting a special vote from Parliament would be a matter also arranged between the Commissioner and the Minister, and it would be placed on the Estimates.

110. Mr. Farnell.] Was there any pension fund in existence when Mr. Single retired? I think so.

111. Was he entitled from his position in the Department to apply for a pension on retiring? I think he had not been long enough in the service. He had only nine years service, and could not draw a pension.

112. Of course I am speaking of prior to 1885, when the Civil Service Act was passed? To the best of my recollection he could only have received a gratuity.

113. Did you come repeatedly in contact with Single whilst he was in Sydney? I saw him several times.

114. Did he lead you to believe that the doctor held out hopes that he would recover his sight? Yes; he was a sanguine man, and bore up wonderfully under the affliction.

115. Mr. Single speaks of having been, in consequence of the doctor's opinion, bolstered up, and that is the reason he gives why he did not apply for a pension which he was entitled to, and which he would have granted to him; do you know whether that could have been done? I do not think he could have obtained a pension. His service was not long enough.

116. Chairman.] Was he a permanent or temporary officer of the Department? A permanent officer, I believe. I may state, however, that at times promotion was given to an officer by placing him in a temporary appointment for the time being if there was a chance of extra pay.

117. Do you know of any other case which could be cited as a precedent for the action the Minister took with regard to Mr. Single's case? No, I do not.

Patrick Flynn, Esq., sworn and examined.

118. Chairman.] You were formerly Chief Clerk in the Roads Department? Yes.

119. Do you remember the case of Single? Yes. He was Road Superintendent, stationed at Cowra.

120. Do you remember the cause of his retirement? Yes.

121. Did you receive all communications addressed to the head of the Department, such as asking for leave of absence? Yes.

122. Did you ever see any applications from Single of that nature? No, I have no recollection of ever receiving any from him.

123. Would it be possible for the Chief Commissioner to receive an application of that nature, and for it not to be referred to you? No. If the Chief Commissioner received it he would send it to me with other papers.

124. It has been sworn that such an application was sent, and that an official letter from the Department was received in reply to that application. Is it possible that this could go through any other channel than yours? No. Of course a copy of the official reply would be in the books.

125. Could a communication of that kind pass semi-officially between the officer and the chief? Yes.

126. Supposing an officer who was acting in the Department wrote a private letter to the chief, and asked him to give him a reply as a friend, it would be possible for it to pass without your knowledge? Yes.

127. Was Mr. Single on the permanent or the temporary staff? The permanent staff.

P. Flynn, Esq.
2 Oct., 1895.

- P. Flynn,
Esq.
2 Oct., 1895.
128. Were there any funds available in the Department at that time by which an officer on the permanent staff could receive a pension on retirement? I could scarcely say; I cannot remember.
129. Before the passing of the Civil Service Act of 1885 there was no pension fund in existence? No.
130. Supposing a man retired through infirmity, what was the usual practice? To give him a month's pay for each year of service.
131. But in the event of an unusual case like that of Single something further was done? Yes.
132. A gratuity was given? Yes.
133. That, of course, was a matter for the Minister for the time being? Yes.
134. You have no knowledge of any official correspondence passing through your hands from or to Mr. Single on the question of being relieved from duty? No.
135. Do you know who was sent to relieve him finally? Mr. Morton, a youth in the office.
136. There must have been some papers which led up to Mr. Morton being sent to relieve him? The papers would show it.
137. But they do not, unfortunately;—you cannot recollect the matter yourself? No.
138. But there must, of necessity, have been some correspondence before another officer was sent to relieve him? Yes.
139. So that there must have been a communication from Single to the office, pointing out his infirmity, and asking that he should be relieved, before Mr. Morton could be sent? Yes; I saw a letter among the papers yesterday from Mr. Single, asking to be relieved. He applied to come down to Sydney. Mrs. Single wrote to the office first, I believe.
140. But that would not be treated as an official document? Yes, it would.
141. The papers seem to have got astray;—at all events, it must be self-evident that an officer would not be relieved unless he asked to be relieved? Certainly not.
142. So that there must have been at least one application from Mr. Single, if not more? Yes.
143. What sort of a reputation did Mr. Single bear in the office? He had the reputation of being a good, hard-working officer.
144. Would you consider him a reliable and truthful man? Yes.
145. You would be inclined to believe any statement he made? Yes.
146. Do you know anything about his position? No.
147. Did he from the year 1885 to 1894 make any application for additional assistance? I do not remember.
148. In 1885 he applied through the Hon. R. H. D. White, but the papers do not seem to show anything from that period to 1894? I have no knowledge of his making any application.
149. If it has been said on oath that Mr. Bennett, in conversation with Mr. Single, told him that if his sight was restored in a reasonable time he would re-employ him in his old position;—would you think it likely that Mr. Bennett would make a promise of that kind under the circumstances? I could not say.
150. Do you think it is likely he would make such a promise in view of the fact that there were special circumstances in connection with Single's case;—would you consider him going outside his duty in making such a promise? No; I would not.

[The Chairman left the Chair, which was taken by Mr. Farnell.]

F. A. Wright
Esq., M.P.
2 Oct., 1895

Francis Augustus Wright, Esq., M.L.A., one of the Members of the Committee, sworn and examined:—

151. Mr. Farnell.] Will you tell the Committee what you knew of this case, from your position as a Minister at the time? Some time during the year 1884, whilst occupying the position of Minister for Public Works, Mr. Vaughn, then Member for Grenfell, called to see me on some departmental matters. When leaving the office he said, "Are you aware that you have a blind man a road superintendent?" I replied, "No; what do you mean?" His answer was, "There is a blind superintendent named Single in my district. A short time ago this man had to go to the Bland Creek to inspect a bridge. I drove him across, and when we arrived at the work his sight was so bad that he had to feel the woodwork with his hands before he could pass it." I said at once, "Why has he not been relieved?" Mr. Vaughn said, "He has asked to be relieved, and his request has been refused." Immediately Mr. Vaughn left the office I sent for the Chief Commissioner for Roads, Mr. Bennett, and asked him what he knew about the case. His reply was, "Single has asked me two or three times to relieve him, stating that he wanted to get medical attendance for his sight; but I have not a good officer to replace him, and I have asked him to continue on some time longer." I instructed Mr. Bennett to have him sent to Sydney and relieved at once. I heard nothing more of the case until some considerable time afterwards, when Mr. Single was brought into my office by the late Mr. George Campbell, the Member for the district, in a partially blind condition. I had a few minutes conversation with him, and found from his own statement that his sight was considerably impaired, although he did not consider at the time that it was absolutely lost, but he was for all practical purposes quite blind. Nothing could be done with Mr. Single beyond doing what was done by the head of the Government, who gave him the usual gratuity and retiring allowance, super-adding to it a certain amount to make up the level sum of £500. Had I known at that time that Mr. Single had lost his sight entirely whilst in the execution of his duty, and through the refusal of the head of the Department to relieve him, I should certainly have recommended a larger sum being placed on the Estimates. I feel confident that Parliament, in an exceptional case of this kind, would have shown its generosity by voting it. That is all I know of Mr. Single officially. Of course what I have done privately in advocating his claim hardly affects the matter.

152. Did Mr. Bennett at the time you consulted him with regard to Mr. Single's case state that it was likely that Mr. Single would be able to resume duty at any future time? I have no recollection of any consultation with Mr. Bennett on that subject. There may, possibly, have been some consultation, but I do not remember it. I made no promise to Mr. Single for re-employment. That did not come under my notice. He had absolutely retired when I saw him, and I dealt with him as far as the gratuity was concerned; but, of course, had I understood for a moment that his sight was lost in the performance of his duty, I would have recommended a considerable increase in the amount of money paid to him. There is no doubt in my mind that this man's sight was absolutely destroyed by reason of the fact that the head of his Department refused to allow him to leave his work. He could not get medical assistance in the district.

ON CASE OF MR. A. J. C. SINGLE.

153. Mr. Waddell.] Do you think, if he had come down promptly and obtained advice, his eyesight might have been saved? Yes.
154. Mr. Hughes.] You were in office at the time this happened? Yes.
- 154½. Supposing you were in office again, would you, under the circumstances, be inclined, after the lapse of years, to recommend an additional grant of £500? Yes. I may state that I take a very warm interest in this case, for two reasons: First, owing to the man's very serious affliction and his consequent poverty, because I know of my own knowledge he is absolutely penniless; and, secondly, because, whilst he was able to work, and whilst he had a little home, and was able to do a little physical work to keep his family, he never applied for assistance. It is only when the necessity has arisen, when starvation is almost staring him in the face, that he has asked for some aid from the Government. From 1885 to 1892 he never made an application for one penny. It is his necessity which has driven him to this course, and I think, apart from that, he has an equitable claim on the people for some additional compensation. I cannot help thinking that the price of the eyesight of a man in the prime of life, pronounced by everyone to be a first-class officer, is worth more than £275.

TUESDAY, 8 OCTOBER, 1895.

Present:—

Mr. O'SULLIVAN,
Mr. SLEATH,

Mr. PERRY,
Mr. WADDELL.

FRANCIS AUGUSTUS WRIGHT, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. William Selkirk sworn and examined:—

155. Chairman.] You are an officer in the Public Works Department? Yes; in the Engineer-in-Chief's office.
156. Have you any recollection of the retirement of Mr. Single from the Public Service? Yes; it occurred a few years ago—about three years after I came to the office.
157. Do you remember what led to his retirement? He had had some trouble with his eyesight, caused, I recollect him saying, by having to work so much out of doors in the Cowra district. Eventually his eyes became so bad that after a long leave of absence he had to leave the Department.
158. Have you any papers bearing on the case? Yes; I have all the papers here.
159. Will you look over the papers and see if amongst them there are any applications by Single to the Department for leave? Do you mean in connection with the trouble with his eyes?
160. Yes; in connection with his defective sight? Yes; I have one here which led up to his resignation. The letter is as follows:—

Mr. W.
Selkirk.
8 Oct., 1895.

Sir,

Roads Office, Cowra, 4 October, 1883.

I beg to make application for sick leave for a fortnight, to enable me to come to Sydney for medical advice. For the past three months I have faithfully performed my duties when I should have been relieved from duty, and the consequence is that my constitution has completely given way under the unnatural strain upon it.

There is nothing requiring my attention for a fortnight, and my absence from the district would not be felt, so that there will not be any necessity for sending an officer to relieve me.

As I have some important matters to confer with you upon when in Sydney, will you please send me a pass by rail from Blayney.

The Commissioner and Engineer for Roads.

I am, &c.,

A. J. C. SINGLE.

The following minute is signed by Mr. Bennett on October 5th, 1883, the day after the letter was written:—

I wanted to send some one to take up Mr. Single's duty; he would not have it. Will Mr. Wells suggest some one to be sent at once to replace him pro tem. from some other district.

The following minute is signed by Colonel Wells on October 12th, 1883:—

The following minute is by Mr. Bennett on October 8th, 1883:—

I think Mr. Morton, from Muswellbrook, might be sent to do Mr. Single's duty. Telegraph to Mr. Earngey to know if he can be spared.

The telegram was sent on October 8th, 1883. There is a further minute by Mr. Bennett on October 11th, 1883, as follows:—

Mr. Morton will take charge in Mr. Single's place.

A further minute by Mr. Bennett states:—

Mr. Single to come to Sydney, and then formal application can be made.

Mr. Morton then went to take charge, and the next paper is the formal application for leave after Mr. Single came to Sydney.

161. That letter, then, was not considered as a formal application? Not as a formal application for leave.

162. Is there any other correspondence from Mr. Single or any member of his family? Yes; I think there is a letter from his wife.

163. Were there any communications prior to the one you have read? I do not recollect any.

164. Mr. Perry.] I suppose it is quite possible for correspondence to have taken place between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Single without it being made official? I think it is quite probable that it did take place. I know Mr. Single used to come down occasionally for a couple of days, and he occasionally saw Mr. Bennett. Officers often go there, and there are no papers to show what transpired.

165. So that if he made application prior to the one referred to, and it does not appear in the papers, it can be accounted for in that way? Yes.

166. Chairman.] Is it usual for the officers in the Department to hold semi-official correspondence with the head? Not so much correspondence as verbal communication.

167. But Mr. Single was at Cowra, and could not hold verbal communication;—do you think it is possible that he is likely to have written to Mr. Single, and that there has been a reply which has not been officially recorded? I think, judging from what Single said afterwards, that it is probable that that was done.

168. That letter, on the face of it, would lead one to infer that there had been prior applications for leave? Yes.

Mr. W.
Selkirk.
8 Oct., 1895.

169. Do you produce any subsequent papers to that from Mr. Single? When Mr. Single came down he got leave and applied for an extension of leave afterwards, and upon that Mr. Bennett wrote a long letter dated 23rd April, 1884.
170. What was the date of the application? 31st October, 1883.
171. That application was in pursuance of Mr. Bennett's minute? Yes.
172. Will you read Mr. Bennett's long minute upon that application?

Roads, Department of Public Works, Sydney, 23 April, 1885.

Minute Paper.

Subject:—Extension of leave to Mr. Single, Road Superintendent.

I REGRET to have to forward to the Minister another application from Mr. Single for a further extension of leave. He has now been off duty since the 1st October, and sends in a medical certificate that he will not be fit for duty for six months. His last leave expires on the first of the month. I can only recommend extension for three months, and that he be then examined by a Government doctor to determine if he will ever be fit for service again. I fear he will permanently lose his sight.—W.B.

173. Does the communication show that that was dealt with by the Minister? There is a minute by Sir Alexander Stuart, who was acting Minister at the time, as follows:—

Government agree to this second six months leave on half pay.—A.S., 9/8/84.

The then Minister, Mr. Wright, wrote, "Does Mr. Bennett recommend this leave on pay?" Mr. Bennett replied, "Yes"; and then Sir Alexander Stuart wrote, "The Government agree to this second six months' leave on half-pay." Mr. Bennett also writes on April 30th, 1884:—

Mr. Single's eyes were injured by exposure in the Service.

174. Are there any other letters bearing on the subject? There is a letter written by Mrs. Single for her husband on the 26th May, 1884,—that is, after the granting of this leave:—

Sir,

I have to acknowledge your letter of the 14th inst. attached, informing me that I have been granted an extension of leave on half-pay.

Under my present affliction—loss of sight,—I think I would not be asking too much in begging of you to request that full pay may be granted me.

I have, &c.,

A. J. C. SINGLE.

There is a minute to this letter signed by Mr. Bennett on May 27th, 1884, as follows:—

I forward this application for the Minister's consideration. Mr. Single's blindness was contracted in the execution of his duty. He was an industrious hard-working officer.

There is a further minute on the letter, signed by Mr. Wright, as follows:—

Mr. Bennett will notice that this matter has been dealt with by the Cabinet. Does he wish me to re-submit. If so, I have no objection.

That is dated May 30th, 1884. In reply to this, Mr. Bennett wrote on May 31st, 1884:—

If the Minister would be good enough to submit the application, it would give the poor man a further chance. It is a very distressing case. He was a hard-working officer. No doubt exposure in execution of his duty caused this injury to his eyes, which, I fear, will end in permanent blindness; and the man has no other means, and eight children.

This was submitted and approved by Sir Alexander Stuart on the 6th June, 1884.

175. I understand you have no knowledge of this matter further than what you know officially? No; nothing beyond what I have learnt from the papers.

176. You do not know anything personally about the matter? No; I only met Mr. Single once before, when he happened to be in the office.

177. Have you ever heard any conversation from the staff in the office as to Single's position and the possibility of him regaining his sight? No.

178. Mr. O'Sullivan.] What is the general impression amongst the officials of the Department with regard to the loss of sight by Mr. Single? I do not think there is any doubt at all that it was caused, as he said, by continued travelling over the roads. I know myself that the Cowra district is a very bad district for that kind of thing. I know that the officer who succeeded Mr. Single suffered very badly from ophthalmia. Mr. Barton also was there up to within the last two or three years, and he had some affection of the eyes. I am not sure that it was not ophthalmia, brought on by the roads.

179. Ophthalmia, I believe, is very prevalent in that district? I have always heard so.

APPENDIX.

211 Macquarie-street, Sydney, 26 September, 1895.

I CERTIFY that when Mr. A. J. C. Single ceased attending me in 1884 there was no possibility of his recovering sight in either eye. On this point my memory is clear. If I suggested to him that he might see me again at a future period with a view to operation it was because I was unwilling to crush all hope out of him, he being at the time in a broken-down condition of health.

THOMAS EVANS,

Ophthalmic Surgeon, Sydney Hospital.

WITH reference to that portion of this certificate between the asterisks, I desire to explain that I used the conditional "if" because I can't remember every incident in connection with a case which happened from ten to twelve years ago; but I have no reason to doubt that I did say that he might return in a few months, and that I did not definitely say to Mr. Single that he was blind.

THOMAS EVANS.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MARINE BOARD AND NAVAL BRIGADE ACCOUNTS.

(TREASURY-INSPECTOR BRODIE'S REPORT ON.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 23 October, 1895.

RETURN to an Order made by the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, dated 3rd September, 1895, That there be laid upon the Table of this House,—

“ A copy of Treasury-Inspector Brodie's report of the Marine Board
“ and Naval Brigade Accounts.”

(Mr. M'Elhone).

The Secretary, Marine Board of New South Wales, to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

Sydney, 16 April, 1895.

I have the honor, by direction of the Marine Board, to inform you that on their recent visit to the Solitary Island lighthouse they were informed that the keepers' salaries were in arrears two months. Complaints were also made at other places that accounts were long overdue. Other complaints have also reached the office from time to time to the same effect, and frequent admonishments have been tendered to Mr. Ernest H. Llewelyn, the accountant, for what was believed to be neglect on his part.

Matters have now arrived at a stage where suspicion has taken the place of that of a more charitable nature. The Board would, therefore, be glad if you would move the Honorable the Treasurer to send an expert here to thoroughly investigate Mr. Llewelyn's proceedings in the matter of dealing with cheques after they have been signed by the President, and handed over to the Accountant in the prescribed manner for delivery to the different owners.

I have, &c.,

GEO. S. LINDEMAN,
Secretary.

Chief Inspector,—For immediate action.—P.K., 17/4/95. Mr. Brodie.—J.J.H., 17/4/95.

117—A

Mr.

Mr. Inspector Brodie to The Chief Inspector of Public Accounts.

Sir,

The Treasury, Inspecting Branch, 21 May, 1895.

I have the honor to submit the following report on the Expenditure Accounts of the Marine Board and Naval Forces, for the information of the Honorable the Treasurer.

The present Treasury investigation of these accounts has been made on the application of the Secretary to the Marine Board, dated 16th April last.

In the Secretary's letter herewith, 95/3,697, it is stated:—

“That on the recent tour of the Board to the Solitary Island Lighthouse, they were informed that the keepers salaries were in arrear two months. Complaints were also made at other places that accounts were long overdue. Other complaints have also reached the office from time to time to the same effect, and frequent admonishments had been tendered to E. H. Llewelyn, the Accountant, for what was believed to be neglect on his part.”

The Secretary further states:—

“That matters have now arrived at a stage where suspicion has taken the place of that of a more charitable nature,” and asks “for a thorough investigation into Mr. Llewelyn's proceedings in the matter of dealing with cheques, after they had been signed by the President, and handed over to the Accountant, in the prescribed manner, for delivery to the different owners.”

E. H. Llewelyn, who succeeded Mr. Alfred Hinton, was appointed as Accountant to the Marine Board, and Paymaster of the Naval Forces, on the 1st January, 1889.

On receiving your instructions, dated the 18th ultimo, I interviewed the Accountant and Paymaster, and requested the production of all cash in hand, books of account, together with vouchers and bank pass-books.

Llewelyn informed me that he had no expenditure cash in hand, but that there were a few pounds at credit (at the Bank of New South Wales) of the Marine Board and Naval Forces Public Accounts, which I subsequently discovered were insufficient to meet outstanding cheques (vide Statement B 1 herewith.)

Llewelyn further informed me that he had kept no books of expenditure since 1st March, 1889, and that he had diverted public funds to his own use, amounting in the aggregate to about £2,250.

He then produced vouchers representing advances made by the Colonial Treasurer, unadjusted with the Auditor-General, amounting to £17,753 15s. 6d. (vide Statements B 1 and D herewith.)

All of the advances detailed in the Statements should have been adjusted within ten days of date of advance. It will be seen that some were outstanding for over four months.

Having obtained the necessary vouchers, and had the bank pass-books made up to date, it was at once discovered that there were serious defalcations that had been perpetrated by Llewelyn by the cashing of uncrossed cheques signed by the President, and in delaying the adjustment of advances with the Auditor-General.

It was impossible to at once verify, even approximately, the extent of the frauds without reference to a number of persons, as many vouchers were receipted in accordance with the prevailing custom in anticipation of payment of salaries due to pilots, boatmen, and lighthouse keepers at out-stations, and many of the cheques drawn for payment of these salaries having been stolen by Llewelyn.

On the 20th and 22nd ultimo, with the approval of the Colonial Treasurer, I laid three separate charges against E. H. Llewelyn for stealing cheques amounting in the aggregate to £138 10s. 4d.

On each of these charges the accused was committed to take his trial at the Quarter Sessions, to be held at Darlinghurst on the 27th May next (vide Reports, dated 20th and 25th ultimo).

From the result of further investigations I have proved frauds amounting to £2,294 15s. 7d., being:—

2,079	2	9	Marine Board (Expenditure Account).
208	16	10	Naval Forces (Expenditure Account).
4	0	0	Marine Board (Revenue Account).
2	16	0	Marine Board (Public Moneys Account).
£2,294	15	7	(vide Statement A, with accompanying Statements B, B1, C, D, E, and F herewith).

This sum might be further increased by £26 13s. 3d. for three cheques I cannot trace:—

No. 25,569—H. Hansen, Solitary Islands	4 14 7
No. 39,345—J. Skelton, Green Cape	19 12 0
No. 39,393—W. F. Weatherill, Newcastle	2 6 8
	£26	13	3

and a further sum on completion of my inspection of the Marine Board, Public Revenue, and Public Moneys Accounts.

I am of opinion that the cheques referred to originally formed portion of a batch of cancelled cheques in my possession, and have been destroyed.

The frauds practised by the late Accountant and Paymaster have been of such a character that, by the exercise of the most ordinary care and supervision, they would have been almost immediately discovered.

Instead of which, the result of my investigations and inquiries has satisfied me that they extend back over a period of between three and a-half and four years.

Complaints having been received from some of the out-stations of the lateness of payments of the monthly salaries. The accompanying circular, dated 16 September, 1891, marked "G," was despatched by the Secretary to the Board, on the representations made by the Accountant that there was delay in forwarding vouchers.

Notwithstanding this, it will be seen, on perusal of the accompanying telegrams (marked "H,") received in response to my directions, that the salaries have been one month in arrear since then.

It was Llewellyn's practice to cash open cheques (signed by the President and the Captain Commanding the Naval Forces for salaries and contingencies drawn against a particular advance) and convert the money to his own use, making the payments out of other cheques drawn against subsequent advances; thus, in the case of salaries, leaving one month in arrear, and protracted delay in the payment of contingencies. (Vide Statements "B" and "C" herewith.)

Prior to the direction of the Colonial Treasurer, dated the 6th December, 1894, the audit of the Expenditure Accounts of the Government has been dealt with exclusively by the Auditor-General, as prescribed by sections 28 to 35 of the Audit Act, 33 Vic. No. 18.

The Treasury Inspectors, under the terms of their Commissions, were only authorised to examine the accounts of Collectors of Public Revenue. This was generally known.

Since the direction of the Colonial Treasurer, the Expenditure Accounts of the various Departments are also being examined by the inspectors, and the accounts of the Marine Board and Naval Forces would, within the next month, have come under observation for report, the annual inspection of the Revenue Accounts being then due.

The importance of the recent direction can be gauged from the fact that no personal inspection has been made of the departmental expenditure accounts by any officer under the Auditor-General, neither have the cash balances of unexpended advances made by the Colonial Treasurer, excepting for petty cash, ever been checked.

This is a most essential duty in an audit of accounts.

Its omission leaves a door open for fraud that cannot otherwise be detected, and has been a great defect in the State audit of the Expenditure Accounts, now remedied by the recent direction given to the Treasury Inspectors by the Colonial Treasurer.

The system laid down for the guidance of public accountants in dealing with advances made for payment of salaries and contingencies, applied to the present case, is as follows:—

1. Monthly abstracts for the payment of salaries due to all officers and men under the Marine Board and Captain Commanding the Naval Forces, were required to be forwarded to the Treasury within such time as to permit of the lodgment of the amounts shown thereon to the credit of Francis Hixson, Marine Board (Public Account), and Naval Account, Bank of New South Wales, not later than the 1st of each month.
2. Vouchers for contingent expenses were required to be forwarded to the Treasury, in abstract, as soon as practicable, for an advance equivalent thereto, to be lodged to the proper account in the Bank.
3. To prevent confusion in the accounts, cheques up to the amount of each advance should have been immediately drawn out in the names of the persons entitled thereto by the Accountant and Paymaster for signature.
4. Excepting the cheque drawn for payment of salaries to be made in Sydney (vide Treasury Circular dated 25th July, 1893) which are paid in cash on the cashing of same, all cheques must be crossed before being signed.
5. All cheques required the signature of the officer to whose credit the advances were lodged, namely, Francis Hixson (President of the Marine Board and Captain Commanding the Naval Forces) in the present case, and counter-signature of the Accountant and Paymaster, Ernest H. Llewellyn.
6. On the cheques being properly signed and crossed they should have been forthwith placed to the credit of, remitted by registered letter or handed to, the persons entitled thereto, and a proper acknowledgment obtained.
7. Where moneys are remitted through a Bank, the teller's receipt is the proper acknowledgment.
8. A Cash Book, Appropriation Ledger, and Salaries Register were required to be kept, recording receipt of advances made by the Colonial Treasurer, the disbursement of same by cheque, and balances to the credit of the various items as passed under the Appropriation Act.
9. Vouchers of disbursements were required to be submitted to the Auditor-General within ten days of advances made by the Colonial Treasurer, and in adjustment thereof.
10. On receipt of the necessary vouchers, in adjustment of advances, the Auditor-General's certificate or acknowledgment would immediately issue to the President or Captain Commanding the Naval Forces.

If

If this simple system, which can very easily be checked, had been carried out, unadjusted advances should not have been in hand after the tenth day in each month of more than £200, being advances made for contingencies during the month.

Advances for salaries can always be adjusted by the 10th of each month.

Any delay in the payment of salaries must immediately come under the notice of the Secretary, and should undoubtedly lead to an immediate and searching inquiry. Any fraud in this regard would then be immediately discovered, and before any great loss had been sustained.

On the 18th ultimo, when I commenced my investigations and took charge of the late Accountant's Office, I found—

1. Ninety-two advances unadjusted, amounting to £17,753 16s. 6d. (vide Statements B1 and D herewith), of which the major portion was for salaries.
2. That the Accountant had kept no books of expenditure since 1st March, 1889, although provided with same.
3. That open cheques had been signed by the President, other than the metropolitan cheque for salaries. (Vide Treasury Circular, dated 25th July, 1893.)
4. That some undated and incomplete cheques had received the President's signature.
5. That the President has signed cheques for a considerable sum over and above advances lodged to his credit. (Vide Statements B1 and I herewith.)
6. That frequent "reminders" had been received from the Auditor-General in reference to delays in adjustment of advances, and that the President and Captain Commanding the Naval Forces was aware of these "reminders."
7. That frequent complaints regarding delay in payment of salaries, &c., from pilots and others at coastal stations, had been submitted by the Secretary to the President, which should have led to a searching inquiry several years ago.

Complaints having been received by the Secretary for a considerable time past, that have been referred to the President of the Marine Board, but which have never come before the Board as a body, and frequent "reminders" having been received from the Auditor-General of large sums advanced to him remaining unadjusted, it is incomprehensible to me that the President has not even asked for his banking account, or requested the production of his Accountant's books to ascertain beyond doubt the cause of the numerous complaints. This simple act would at once have disclosed the fact that no books had been kept, that there was not sufficient money to his credit at the bank to pay the salaries long overdue, and that his Accountant had been guilty of fraud. Instead of which, the Accountant was asked to explain and was admonished.

Every facility was afforded for the perpetration of fraud; or, if fraud had not been committed, the lax system obtaining in this Department was highly reprehensible and conducive to the worst possible results.

The Secretary, who should have exercised the necessary supervision over the Accountant, has not been allowed to do so.

I was convinced, from the knowledge of the work that I have acquired during my investigations, that the late Accountant must have been idle or out of the office the greater portion of his time, and found on making inquiries that the latter was the case, so that he has been robbing the Government in another way.

The complaints of the Secretary have been so frequent, and the late Accountant so plausible, that the President, whom I am perfectly certain never had the slightest suspicion of Llewelyn's dishonesty, thought the Secretary was too hard on him; but why the President did not investigate the causes of complaint in a simple and proper way I cannot comprehend.

There is no justification for such a laxity of proper and necessary supervision, to which the heavy loss to the Government of £2,294 15s. 7d. (less £500 from the Treasury Guaranteeing Fund) is largely attributable.

There may be a few smaller claims to add to Llewelyn's defalcations as at present discovered, owing to the fact of receipts having been signed in anticipation of salaries, no books having been kept, and the incompleteness of the data at my disposal.

I have not attempted to deal with any advances adjusted with the Auditor-General, but by proper investigation and inquiry dealt with the unadjusted advances as at 18th April last, and have satisfied myself that the claims detailed in my statements have not been paid.

Any further claims that may arise must be dealt with specially.

The work of putting the accounts in proper order has been proceeded with as rapidly as possible.

At present there is an Acting Accountant to the Marine Board, and an Acting Paymaster to the Naval Forces. I do not see any necessity for the division of these two offices; and as the present Acting Accountant to the Marine Board (Mr. Arthur Price) is a most reliable and efficient officer, I strongly recommend him for the appointment to the dual position.

I have, &c.,
G. E. BRODIE,
Inspector of Public Accounts.

The Treasury, 21st May, 1895.

G. E. BRODIE,
Inspector Public Accounts.

The Chief Inspector to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Inspecting Branch, Treasury, New South Wales, Sydney, 22 May, 1895.

REPORT of Mr. Inspector Brodie, of 21st May, 1895, on the Public Accounts of the President of the Marine Board and Captain Commanding Naval Forces, submitted for the information of the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer.

THE defalcations by the late Accountant to the Marine Board and Paymaster to the Naval Forces, as ascertained to date, amount to £2,294 15s. 7d. By postponing payments of due claims, by delaying adjustments with the Auditor-General with impunity, by obtaining the signature of the President to cheques with unaccountable facility, by an immunity from even ordinary supervision, Mr. Llewelyn was enabled to initiate and pursue his malpractices until their discovery through inquiries consequent upon the numerous complaints as to non-receipt of salaries at the out-stations.

No expenditure accounts have been kept since 1st March, 1889, although the office was provided with the proper books for that purpose, but the Revenue books appear to have been kept written up satisfactorily, in view, possibly, of the usual Treasury inspection of the Revenue Accounts. The salaries of the officers of the out-stations have been kept a month or two in arrears for over three years, and the President does not appear to have exercised the necessary caution in signing cheques tendered to him by the Accountant. This state of affairs rendered it easy for a dishonest man to manipulate a large sum of money on his own account, and the deficiency now reported was thus caused. Llewelyn has been committed for trial for embezzlement at Darlinghurst Quarter Sessions on 27th May.

JAMES J. HINCHY,
Chief Inspector.

These reports should, I consider, be forwarded to the President of the Marine Board for such explanation as he may be able to afford.—F.K., 23/5/95. Approved.—G.H.R., 25/5/95. The Secretary, Marine Board.—F.K., 27/5/95.

The President's explanation, in response to the Honorable the Premier and Treasurer's minute of 25/5/95, is forwarded herewith by direction of the Marine Board.—GEO. S. LINDEMAN, Secretary, 4/6/95. The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Memo. by the President.

I REGRET very much that my conviction of Llewelyn's dishonesty was not formed at a much earlier period of his connection with this office. He was sent here by the Treasury some six years ago with an excellent character, but I now believe he commenced his defalcations from the first. He is a very plausible, clever man, aping a considerable amount of what I took to be eccentricity. At the same time he was always most obsequious and obliging to me.

I have two or three times complained about him at the Treasury, and once asked that he might be taken back, and I always urged that frequent inspection should be exercised over his accounts. On one occasion when I became suspicious I made special application for an Inspector. The Inspector came, but as he detected no dishonesty my suspicion was allayed. I now find, but I did not know at the time, that the Inspector confined himself to the revenue portion of the accounts; so, in place of being protected, I have simply been misled by the Treasury inspections that have frequently taken place in this office.

In regard to Audit Office queries and complaints about the non-receipt of Government payments, I must point out that such cases are of very common occurrence, and do not, I fear, receive the attention they should. The Monthly Supply Bills, lately so common, have contributed largely to this state of affairs, and this Department is especially guilty in not being able to forward Audit Office acquittances promptly.

This

This arises in consequence of the isolation of some of the out-stations. For instance, the communication with the Solitary Island Lighthouse is only once a month in fine weather, and a very long time often elapses before returns can be received from there, and other outlying places, in stormy weather.

It has never been the practice to cross cheques in this office. The Accountant is held to be a responsible officer, who must countersign before a cheque can be passed at the bank, and very few of the employees have banking accounts. Men at the lighthouses and pilot stations often request the Accountant to break up their cheques to pay for supplies that have been sent them from Sydney. There are good excuses therefore for not crossing cheques; and I must here point out the inconsistency of demanding that a small cheque should be crossed on the one hand, whilst, by the order of the Government (see Treasury Circular of the 25th July, 1893), the Accountant is entrusted with something like 2,000 sovereigns to pay the people in the Port Jackson district, on the other. This late arrangement has facilitated Llewelyn in carrying out his defalcations very much. I am now informed by the Master of the Pilot Steamer "Captain Cook," that all sorts of excuses were made by the late Accountant, and that he seldom got the money to pay his ship's company until it was overdue two or three weeks.

It is quite true that I might have discovered Llewelyn's malpractices if I had examined his books, but I must respectfully point out that my duties are multifarious, and that the Accountant's office is not considered an all important branch of this large Department, and as before-mentioned I thoroughly relied on the Treasury Inspectors. Believing the Accountant to be honest and equally responsible to the Government with me, I seldom refused to sign the cheques he placed before me.

Mr. Brodie's report is somewhat sensational, as I told him that Llewelyn had admitted his frauds, and sought to make an arrangement with me before the Treasury letter was sent on. There are several matters introduced, too, which are new to me, and some of them are not correct. For instance, I know nothing about the Secretary being debarred from superintending the Accountant; the contrary is the case. The Secretary frequently reported the Accountant for irregularities, and I dealt with the cases as I thought fit at the time. No charge of dishonesty was ever made, and I know that the Secretary left his pay in the hands of the Accountant when he left Sydney with the Board on their annual tour of inspection along the coast lately.

FRANCIS HIXSON.

3 June, 1895.

Mr. Inspector G. E. Brodie to The Chief Inspector of Public Accounts.

Sir,

The Treasury, Inspecting Branch, 28 June, 1895.

Having completed an examination of the accounts of the Marine Board and Naval Forces, I have the honor to submit the following General Report for the information of the Honorable the Treasurer:—

A report furnished on the 21st ultimo disclosed frauds amounting to £2,294 15s. 7d., perpetrated by the late Accountant and Paymaster (E. H. Llewelyn), who was convicted on the 31st ultimo, and sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

These frauds had extended over a period of between three and a half and four years, owing to lax supervision, and the non-observance of the most ordinary system of departmental check.

The deficiency reported on the 21st ultimo must be reduced by the sum of £1 2s., since ascertained to have been paid by the late Accountant, per the Secretary to the Local Marine Board, Newcastle, to W. Morriss, for subscriptions to the Newcastle Herald, &c., leaving a net deficiency of £2,293 13s. 7d. The £1 2s. I have directed the acting Accountant to refund to the Treasury, having been advanced out of Sundry Deposits Account.

Having previously dealt with the Llewelyn frauds, I shall, in this report, deal with the accounts of the Marine Board and Naval Forces generally, and, for the purpose of easy reference, treat with them under their various heads, offering, at the same time, a few suggestions, with a view of placing them on a proper basis, so as to minimise, as far as possible, any danger of loss by peculation.

Marine Board.—Revenue Account.

The revenue is derivable from fees under the Navigation Act.

The latest previous inspection was made in June, 1894, and the account was reported upon favourably. Since then I found that the banking of collections has been most irregular, and the cash-book kept in a very imperfect manner.

A detailed examination showed that all moneys had been accounted for to the Treasury in the prescribed manner, with the exception of £4, being part of the late Accountant's defalcations.

The collections for the past two years were as under:—

Year ended 31st May, 1894	1,643	17	5
Year ended 31st May, 1895	1,744	18	8

The Treasury printed instructions applying to collectors of public revenue will in future be strictly adhered to.

Public Moneys Account.—Pilotage.

There is no necessity for keeping this account at the Marine Board. A lot of unnecessary circumlocution is involved in dealing with these moneys that can very easily be obviated, and the time of the public saved.

The pilots at the out-stations where there is no Customs Officer, reports to the Secretary to the Marine Board by letter, pilotage "Inwards" or "Outwards," as the case might be, but scarcely ever receive the fees. The pilot's letter showing the amount due is then referred to the Collector of Customs, who is the proper collecting officer; but on the arrival of the vessel in Sydney, the Collector's officers request the owners or shipping agents to pay the pilotage into the office of the Marine Board, where an entry is passed through the books for no practical purpose, and the money then forthwith handed over by the Marine Board Accountant to the Collector of Customs.

In

In future when money is tendered at the Customs House for pilotage from out-stations, it should be received if the Secretary to the Marine Board's report of pilotage due is to hand.

If this system is carried out in future the Public Moneys Account can be closed.

A detailed examination of the account showed that all moneys received had been handed over to the Collector of Customs with the exception of £2 16s., being part of the late Accountant's defalcations.

Expenditure Accounts.

Defalcations by the late Accountant have been fully reported in these accounts, amounting to £2,079 2s. 9d.

No books of account having been kept since 1st March, 1889, I obtained a new and complete set from the Government Printer, which I handed over to the acting Accountant (Mr. Price), with full instructions how they should be kept, and a credit of the unappropriated balances of the Marine Board votes, as shown by the Treasury books.

The cash-book is to be balanced monthly and reconciled with the bank pass-book.

Cheques.—No cheques must be signed before crossing, and, as far as practicable, made payable to order.

To obviate any public inconvenience, the cheques in special circumstances could be uncrossed by the head of the Department, who signs the cheques, writing underneath the crossing "pay.cash," initialling the alteration, and affixing the date thereof. In such cases, however, care must be taken that the cheque is handed to the true owner thereof or his agent.

Salaries.—The practice for many years past in dealing with salaries due to pilots and boatmen at the various out-stations has been to draw one cheque for the whole station, and deposit it to the credit of the Pilot's Private Account in a bank, the pilot subsequently paying his boatmen.

If any boatman wishes his salary paid into his own individual account it is done.

It also being the practice to obtain signatures in anticipation of payment of these salaries from the men, although paid to the pilot's credit through a bank, the Accountant should advise each individual on the station of the lodgment of his salary.

In future I strongly advise that the salaries for these stations be paid into a Pilots' Public Moneys Account, and, in addition to obtaining the receipted voucher from the stations, a bank teller's deposit receipt book should be kept of all bank lodgments as a proper means of check.

Where cheques are posted it must always be by registered letter, and a record kept.

Contingencies.—I strongly recommend that in future all payments, other than for salaries and wages, be paid direct from the Treasury.

In many instances vouchers have been made payable to the Secretary to the Local Marine Board, Newcastle, and, when payable, included in a monthly salary cheque for disbursement to the persons entitled thereto. I need scarcely point out the objections to this practice.

Vouchers.—All vouchers must be furnished to the Accountant in duplicate, the duplicate to be carefully filed and numbered for reference.

The Accountant will be held responsible for the careful checking of all vouchers before submitting same to the Treasury for payment.

Original authorities or certified copies thereof for expenditure must be filed by the Accountant for inspection purposes.

Stores.—Where stores are requisitioned for, other than on the Controller of Stores, and approved by the head of the Department, an order out of the proper book must always be issued and signed by the proper officer.

No goods out of contract should be obtained without care being exercised in obtaining "Price Lists" from the best business firms.

I have to draw attention to the fact that Messrs. Whysall & Co. have for some considerable time past been supplying hay, corn, and bran to the lighthouses at what I conceive to be excessive rates. I attach copies (marked "A") of six vouchers herewith, which, although passed by the Secretary, as at "current rates," I considered so high that I requested the acting Accountant to submit them to the President with the view of obtaining an explanation from Whysall & Co. respecting their high charges.

I strongly recommend that tenders be called for this supply.

General.—Monthly statements must be prepared by the Accountant for the information of the head of the Department showing:—

1. Reconciliation of balance as shown by cash-book with bank pass-book.
2. Showing dates and amounts of advances made by the Colonial Treasurer, and dates of adjustment thereof.
3. Balance to credit of the various appropriations, as per ledger.

Statement No. 1 should be compared by the head of the Department with bank pass-book, and statement No. 2 with Auditor-General's certificates of adjustment.

The statements must be carefully filed for the information of the Treasury Inspectors.

I have observed during my investigation of the accounts of the Marine Board that the acting Accountant, who is most anxious to exercise the proper and necessary supervision over the accounts submitted to him, has experienced great difficulty in obtaining from the Secretary proper authorities for expenditure, which should be filed in his office. I therefore take the further opportunity of emphasising the importance attached by the Treasury to this part of an Accountant's duty in facilitating a proper inspection of accounts.

Naval Forces.—Expenditure Accounts.

Defalcations by the late Paymaster, that have been fully reported, were discovered in these accounts amounting to £208 16s. 10d.

No books of account having been kept showing the disposal of the cash advances from the Treasury, I obtained a new and complete set from the Government Printer, which I handed over to the acting Paymaster (Mr. Rule), with full instructions how they should be kept, and a credit of the unappropriated balances of the votes for the Naval Forces, as shown by the Treasury books.

The

The same remarks as applied to the Marine Board Expenditure Accounts can be applied to these accounts in regard to the following:—

1. The balancing of the accounts.
2. The drawing of cheques.
3. The payment of contingencies.
4. The mode of keeping the duplicate vouchers, the checking of same, and the filing of authorities for expenditure.
5. The furnishing of monthly statements to the Captain Commanding the Naval Forces showing the reconciliation of the balance, as shown by the cash-book with the bank pass-book; the dates of advances made by the Colonial Treasurer, and dates of adjustment thereof with the Auditor-General. These statements to be compared by the Chief Officer with the bank pass-book and the Auditor-General's certificates of adjustment, and then filed for the information of the Treasury Inspectors.

Naval Brigade.—Trust Account.

Under sections 28 and 50 of the Volunteer Act, 31 Victoria No. 5, and Regulations for the Naval Brigade, published on 28th December, 1875 (copy herewith, "A 1"), "the Officer Commanding is held responsible for the discipline of the Brigade, and is armed with power for ordering fines to be exacted for non-attendance at drill, and for enforcing discipline by dismissal or otherwise."

These appear to be the only moneys that may be collected by the Officer Commanding, under the Regulations.

The officers and men are paid in accordance with the provision made by the Legislature for the support of the Brigade.

The account at present under review shows receipt of "Fines for non-attendance at drill," which the men are paid to attend. These fines have been deducted out of the men's allowance provided by the Appropriation Acts, after they have signed for the full amounts drawn monthly from the Treasury.

I am of opinion that the full pay, less deductions, should have been shown on the pay-sheets submitted to the Treasury, and only the net amount drawn and signed for. The fines then will be a saving on the salary vote, and the amount could be subsequently voted without increasing the cost of the Naval Brigade, to be appropriated as prize money or special contingencies for maintaining the efficiency of the Brigade, and then shown in the books of the Paymaster as properly authorised expenditure.

An examination of the accounts shows that the revenue from fines from 1st October, 1885, to 17th June, 1895, amounted to £990 13s. 11d., which has been appropriated for the supply of tunics to bandmen, extra pay to bandmaster, who is provided with pay on the Estimates, cadets' jackets, hats to A.B.'s, advances as entrance fees to sports, &c., drum and fife band, incidental expenses, and sundry gratuities, whilst only £109 13s. have been distributed as prize money.

These charges have not only exhausted the revenues received from fines, but also moneys received for extra uniform clothing supplied to members of the Brigade, which has been purchased out of the funds voted by Parliament for that purpose.

If any member of the Brigade does not make the uniform, which costs about £2 5s., last the prescribed time, he is supplied with extra articles, making up the uniform as per scale marked "B" herewith. This would be 25s. below cost price for a full uniform.

Whilst admitting that the Commanding Officer is to be commended for initiating a scheme for the preservation of Government property, it must be seen that the proceeds of that property if sold must revert to the Consolidated Revenue Fund. The men are either entitled to the extra clothing without pay, or they should pay the contract price, which should then be paid into the Treasury as proceeds of sale of Government property, and not retained to augment what have been considered the private funds of the Brigade.

Under Regulation 144 of the Volunteer Act, "it shall be competent for Officers Commanding Corps, in all cases in which uniform has been damaged, rendered unserviceable, or lost prior to the expiration of the period during which it was required to last, to cause such individual to repair, or renew, such uniform at his own cost, or in default to proceed under penal clauses of Volunteer Act in the above respect."

By Statement "C" herewith, it will be seen that £25 5s. 3d. is outstanding for extra clothing supplied to members of the Brigade.

Trust Moneys.

The sum of £1 has also been deducted from the pay of each man in the Brigade, as security for the preservation of Government clothing, which is refundable on the delivering up of same in good order and condition.

By Statement "C" herewith, it will be seen that £196 5s. is due to this fund, as per data supplied to me through the Commanding Officer, while the total assets, exclusive of outstanding amounts for clothing, only amount to £160 4s., leaving a deficiency of £36 1s.

These moneys should have been kept in a distinct account from the other receipts, instead of which they have been amalgamated with the general funds, and used to assist in meeting the general expenditure, hence the deficiency.

On the return of a uniform in good order and condition, the deferred pay of £1 is handed over to the person entitled thereto, but if the uniform shows excessive wear and tear a deduction is made, or the whole amount forfeited.

These deductions and forfeitures, I think, should be paid into the Treasury, to cover cost of damage to Government property.

A balance-sheet, the earliest produced to me, that was submitted on the 30th June, 1891, for the period from 1st October, 1885, to 30th June, 1891 (copy herewith, "D"), shows that the general funds of the Naval Brigade Trust Account have been very high, but were greatly diminished during that period by the appropriation of the large sum of £1,329 for retiring allowances, the strength of the Brigade having been reduced.

These retiring allowances were given to seventy-eight men who had served over ten years in the Brigade, being equivalent to one month's pay for each year's service.

I do not think this was a proper charge on the funds, as the men had not contributed one penny against which they could claim a retiring allowance. These

These men have received an advantage that cannot be shared by those men retained in the Brigade, as the funds have so diminished that there now remains a debit balance of £36 ls. (vide Statement "C").

I advise that the Captain Commanding the Naval Forces be instructed to take the necessary steps for recouping the deferred pay (Trust Account), and that a separate banking account be kept, together with a register showing the credit of each man.

Further, that the necessary steps be taken by the Officer Commanding for the collection of, and payment into the Treasury, the sum of £25 5s. 3d., due for extra clothing supplied to the men; and in future to cause to be shown on the monthly pay-sheets submitted to the Treasury the deductions from each man's pay on account of fines exacted for non-attendance at drill.

Although the funds of the Brigade have been mismanaged, the whole of the money (less £2 16s. 5d., being part of the late Paymaster's defalcations) has been spent on the members of the Brigade; perhaps, therefore, authority might be given to allow the deficiency in the trust moneys to be made good out of any savings that might accrue owing to deductions on account of "fines."

Volunteer Naval Artillery.

This is an account similar in every respect to the Naval Brigade Trust Account opened in September, 1892.

Herewith I hand you a balance-sheet ("E") as at 21st June last, which shows a credit balance of £580 2s. 1d.

The receipts during the period have amounted to £709 14s. 6d., whilst the expenditure has only been £129 12s. 5d.

I advise, as in my report on the Naval Account, that a separate account be opened for the deferred pay (trust money), and that the amount at credit of the Fines and Clothing Accounts be paid into the Treasury. The pay-sheets submitted to the Treasury should show clearly, in future, the deductions for "fines," and the net amount only drawn. Any saving might be subsequently applied for, as suggested in my report on the Naval Accounts.

It was impossible for me to agree the amount at credit of the Deferred Pay Account with the amounts due to the present members of the Volunteer Naval Artillery, as the accounts have been kept in a very imperfect way.

I obtained a list of the present members of the force whose pay had been deferred, which gave me an amount of £231, or £51 17s. 8d. less than the amount at credit. The present Paymaster (Mr. Waley) should prepare a list showing the names of the persons who are in credit, and the unadjusted amount should either be moneys due to men who have left the force, or forfeitures that should be paid into the Treasury.

A register should in future be kept showing each individual in credit, which should always be in agreement with the amount at credit, as shown by the "Trust Account."

Receipts on a proper form should be issued for all moneys received by the Paymaster, and no moneys should be paid away without a proper voucher being obtained.

All vouchers should be carefully filed for the purposes of audit.

In conclusion, I have only to add that if the suggestions made herein are only faithfully carried out, the next inspection of the general accounts of the Marine Board and Naval Forces will be considerably expedited, and more satisfactory results achieved.

I have, &c.,

Inspector of Public Accounts.

A 1.

Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 28 December, 1875.

His Excellency the Governor having been pleased, with the advice of the Executive Council, to make the following Regulations for the Naval Brigade, directs their publication in accordance with the 50th section of the Volunteer Force Regulation Act of 1867.

JOHN ROBERTSON.

NEW SOUTH WALES NAVAL BRIGADE.

THE Naval Brigade of New South Wales is maintained under the Act 31 Victoria No. 5, and is subject to the provisions of that Act and to all Regulations made by the authority of the Governor, in pursuance of the 50th section of the said Act.

The Brigade having been established for the purpose of securing the services of a picked body of seafaring men, who would be available for the defence of the Colony either afloat or ashore, it is essential that every member be drilled so as to obtain a thorough practical knowledge of the mode of using great guns and small arms.

The Brigade shall consist of such Commissioned Officers as may be appointed by the Governor, and such warrant and petty officers and men as may be appointed or engaged under the powers conferred by the said Act.

The Officer Commanding is held responsible for the discipline of the Brigade, and is armed with power for ordering fines to be exacted for non-attendance at drill, and for enforcing discipline by dismissal and otherwise.

General musters and company drills will take place as frequently as may be deemed necessary by the Officer Commanding for maintaining the efficiency of the Brigade.

The Brigade will be divided into companies, in charge of Lieutenants, who will be responsible to the Officer Commanding the Force, for the arms, accoutrements, and clothing issued, and for the general efficiency and discipline of their respective companies.

Officers and men will be paid in accordance with the provision made by the Legislature for the support of the Brigade.

Every applicant for enrolment in the Brigade must produce certificates of character, or otherwise give satisfactory proof of good conduct and fitness for service in the force, be a British subject, not less than 5 feet 6 inches in height, nor more than thirty-five years of age, and must take the oath of allegiance, as prescribed in the Act.

Every member of the Brigade must be free from physical defects, and no person will be permitted to remain in the force who, from age or decrepitude, is considered unfit for active service.

Members of the Brigade, when on duty, must obey the lawful commands of any superior officer, and must give the customary salute to all commissioned officers of Colonial Corps, and to officers of Her Majesty's Service, when in uniform.

In case of actual or apprehended invasion of any part of the Colony of New South Wales, the Naval Brigade may be assembled for service, and whenever they are so assembled, they will be liable to serve in any place, or on board any ships within the jurisdiction of the Colony, and will be subject to the provisions of the Articles of War, and all the laws and regulations for the government of Her Majesty's vessels and forces by sea.

The officers of the Naval Brigade shall take rank with the officers of the Royal Navy within the territory of New South Wales, as the junior of their respective grades.

The uniform of the officers and men of the Brigade shall be of such naval description as may be approved by the Governor.

Any member of the Brigade may, except when on actual service, retire from the force, on complying with the regulations in terms of the Act.

G. E. BRODIE,

The Treasury, 28th June, 1895.

The revenue accounts of the Marine Board, which have always been annually inspected, are reported by Mr. Inspector Brodie to be, on the whole, in a satisfactory state. Mr. Brodie recommends that the Public Moneys Account be closed, and the pilotage collections paid direct to the Customs Department. The expenditure accounts were in a very unsatisfactory state, as the late Accountant had embezzled a total of £2,293 13s. 7d., and no reliable accounts had been kept. Mr. Brodie, with considerable trouble, has now succeeded in arriving at an adjustment, and has made many valuable suggestions which should be be recommended to the President for his consideration and adoption. The recommendation that all payments other than for salaries and wages be made direct from the Treasury is important and necessary. The President might be asked to report further with reference to the official approval as at current rates of Whysall & Co.'s apparently excessive charges. I endorse Mr. Brodie's recommendation that tenders should be called for the supplies of produce to lighthouses. The attention of the President should be specially drawn to Mr. Brodie's suggestions with regard to future operations on the Naval Brigade and Volunteer Naval Artillery Trust Accounts, which appear hitherto to have been used for many purposes utterly foreign to the principles under which they were instituted.—J.J.H., 4/7/95. Under Secretary for Finance and Trade. Submitted.—F.K., 5/7/95. Approved.—G.H.R., 8. The Secretary, Marine Board.—F.K., 8/7/95.

The President of The Marine Board to The Under Secretary for Finance and Trade.

Sir,

25 September, 1895.

In reply to the minute of the Under Secretary for Finance and Trade, I beg to point out that the explanation previously referred to really deals with the criticisms of the Treasury officers on the Llewellyn frauds and irregularities.

Regarding the future. As the Marine Board do not intend to offer any further objection to the Contingent Account of their department being paid at the Treasury, I beg to state that I will willingly adopt the suggestion of Mr. Hinchy, the Chief Inspector, and otherwise do all that is possible so far as the public accounts of the Marine Board and Naval Departments are concerned to prevent a repetition of this lamentable case.

I must, however, take objection to Mr. Brodie's strictures and suggestions with the view of interfering with the internal economy of the Volunteer Naval Forces, the regulations for which are of necessity conducted in a somewhat different manner than those of a regular established service. What he calls a Trust Account is not a Government account at all, it is a departmental fund raised by exacting fines for non-attendance at drill and by making the members of the Naval Forces contribute a portion of the cost of their uniforms for the purpose of preventing extravagant demands for new suits and otherwise inculcating care and thriftiness. The money so contributed is given back in the event of a member leaving the corps and returning his uniform in good order. This fund is, moreover, managed by a committee of officers; it is audited every six months and submitted to me, and kept separate from the Government accounts.

It is scarcely necessary to add that the regular Government accounts are transmitted to the Audit Office and dealt with precisely similar to those of other State departments.

In conclusion, I must respectfully point out that the system to which Mr. Brodie takes objection has been in existence in the Naval Brigade for the past thirty years; it is in favour with the members of the corps, and has tended very much to maintain the discipline and efficiency which the Volunteer Naval Forces have attained.

FRANCIS HIXSON.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

SMALL DEBTS RECOVERY ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

(PETITION FROM THE MERCHANTS, STOREKEEPERS, AND TRADES-PEOPLE, OF THE COLONY OF NEW SOUTH WALES, IN FAVOUR OF, TO PROVIDE FOR THE ATTACHMENT OF CIVIL SERVANTS' SALARIES.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 12 November, 1895.

To the Honorable the Speaker of the House of Assembly of New South Wales, and the Honorable Members thereof.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Merchants, Storekeepers, and Trades-people of the Colony of New South Wales, whose names, and addresses, and occupations appear as under,—

SHOWETH:—

That for many years we deem ourselves to have been unjustly dealt with by a great many servants and employés of the Government of New South Wales, inasmuch as that we have from time to time in good faith supplied them with our goods and they have failed to pay therefor, shielding themselves by decision of our Courts that wages or other moneys payable by the Government to Civil Servants and their employés cannot be attached for debt in a similar way that other citizens' wages can be attached.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that you will with all due speed pass a Bill dealing with the matter so as to prevent Civil Servants and others taking advantage of the present state of our laws.
