Registration of Births, Deaths, and Marriages (Amendment) Bill, 1934.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

THE object of this Bill is to effect certain amendments in the law relating to the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

The more important of these amendments are designed—

- (a) to provide for the appointment of deputy district registrars;
- (b) to enable the particulars required for the registration of births and deaths to be obtained more readily;
- (c) to enable the Registrar-General or a District Registrar to refuse to supply information concerning any entry in a register which may be sought merely to satisfy idle curiosity or to be used for improper purposes;
- (d) to extend the time (subject to certain safeguards) within which a birth may be registered;
- (e) to amend the provisions relating to births and deaths at sea, as navigation law is now a Commonwealth matter;
- (f) to provide for the furnishing of medical certificates of the cause of death;
- (g) to subject the disposal of human bodies to certain safeguards;
- (h) to amend the provisions relating to the registration of ministers of religion as ministers for celebrating marriages, so as to obviate the possibility of a recurrence of recent trouble concerning one minister who obtained registration for one denomination to which the official head claimed he did not belong; and
- (i) to require the registration of still-births, adopting a resolution carried at a Conference of Health Authorities and Government Statisticians, Melbourne, 1928.
