BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY LONG SERVICE PAYMENTS (AMENDMENT) BILL 1986

NEW SOUTH WALES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Explanatory Note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament)

The objects of this Bill are to amend the Building and Construction Industry Long Service Payments Act 1986 to provide for—

- (a) the entering into of agreements containing reciprocal arrangements for the recognition of long service benefits payable to workers engaged in the building and construction industry in New South Wales and in other States and Territories of the Commonwealth; and
- (b) the reinstatement of the long service credits of certain workers whose registration as workers under that Act has been cancelled since 30 September 1981 by virtue of not having been credited with service for a period of 4 years where they establish that they were engaged in performing building and construction work in the Australian Capital Territory during that period of 4 years, and to make other amendments to that Act of an ancillary or consequential nature.

Clause 1 specifies the short title of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 provides that the Building and Construction Industry Long Service Payments Act 1986 is referred to in the proposed Act as the Principal Act.

Clause 3 is a formal provision which gives effect to the Schedules of amendments to the Principal Act.

Clause 4 is a formal provision to give effect to Schedule 5 which contains a transitional provision.

Schedule 1 effects amendments to Part 1 of the Principal Act, which deals with preliminary matters.

Schedule 1 (1) and (2) amend section 3 of the Principal Act, which defines certain expressions for the purposes of that Act. Under the amendment, definitions of "corresponding authority", "corresponding law", "reciprocating State or Territory" and "year's service" are being inserted into that section. A "corresponding law" is a law of another State or a Territory of the Commonwealth declared by the Governor-in-Council to be a corresponding law for the purposes of the Principal Act. Such a law can be declared only if it provides for the payment of long service benefits to workers engaged in the building and construction industry in that other State or that Territory and there is in force an agreement containing reciprocal arrangements for the recognition of service credited to workers engaged in that industry in New South Wales and in that other State or that Territory. A "reciprocating State or Territory" is a State or Territory of the Commonwealth declared to be such by the Governor-in-Council. A State or Territory may be declared to be a reciprocating State or Territory only if an agreement containing reciprocal arrangements of the kind just mentioned is in force. A worker is regarded as having a year's service for the purposes of the Principal Act when 220 days' service is credited to the worker in the register kept under that Act or in a similar record kept under a corresponding law and the expression "year's service" is being defined accordingly.

Schedule 2 effects amendments to Part 3 of the Principal Act, which provides for the registration of workers and service credits.

Schedule 2 (1) provides that section 19 (1) of the Principal Act, which requires the Building and Construction Industry Long Service Payments Corporation to cancel the registration of a worker in respect of whom no service credits have been credited for at least 4 years, will not apply where the worker has been credited with service in a record kept under a corresponding law.

Schedule 2 (2) amends section 24 of the Principal Act, which limits the length of service with which a worker may be credited in the register of workers to 220 days in each year ending in 30 June. The amendment is designed to ensure that, where a worker would be entitled to be credited with service under a corresponding law and under the Principal Act, the total length of service actually credited to the worker does not exceed 220 days. Schedule 2 (2) further amends section 24 of the Principal Act by replacing subsection (3). The existing subsection provides that a worker who applies for a long service payment before completing 15 years' service, on the grounds that he or she is leaving the building and construction industry, is retiring or is totally incapacitated, is not entitled to accrue service credits for a period of a year after making the application. The new subsection extends the operation of this provision to workers who have applied for long service benefits under a corresponding law, but it no longer applies to a person who leaves the industry on the ground of total incapacity.

Schedule 2 (3) amends section 26 of the Principal Act, which makes it an offence for a person to make a false or misleading statement in relation to a claim for a service credit or any other specified matter. The amendment makes it clear that knowledge of the falsity or misleading nature of the statement is a prerequisite to a conviction for such an offence.

Schedule 3 amends Part 4 of the Principal Act, which provides for long service payments.

Schedule 3 (1) repeals section 27 (2) of the Principal Act, which provides that a worker has a year's service credits for the purposes of the Act when 220 days' service is credited to the worker in the register of workers kept under that Act. This matter is now dealt with in the proposed section 3 (5) of the Principal Act (Schedule 1 (2)).

Schedule 3 (2) replaces section 28 of the Principal Act, which entitles workers to long service payments after working in the building and construction industry for certain specified periods. The section is being revised to take into account service performed in the building and construction industry in a reciprocating State or Territory. When, for example, a worker employed in New South Wales has accrued 8 years' service credits in the New South Wales register of workers and has 7 years' service recorded in the record of building and construction workers' service kept under the corresponding law of the Australian Capital Territory, the aggregate of those periods will qualify the worker for the payment of long service benefits.

Schedule 3 (3) amends section 31 of the Principal Act, which provides that a person is not entitled to benefits under the Principal Act in respect of a period of service in the building and construction industry if that person has received benefits under the Long Service Leave Act 1955 for the same period of service. Under the amendment, the section will be extended so as to prevent a person from receiving benefits under the Principal Act in respect of such a period of service and also receiving benefits under a law of a reciprocating State or Territory corresponding to the Long Service Leave Act 1955 for the same period of service. A further effect of the amendment will be that an employer who has provided benefits to a person under such a law in respect of a period of service in the building and construction industry performed in New South Wales will be able to claim reimbursement under section 32 of the Principal Act for provision of those benefits.

Schedule 3 (4) provides for the insertion into the Principal Act of proposed section 32A, which is complementary to the substituted section 28 and provides for the Building and Construction Industry Long Service Payments Corporation to make payments of long service benefits payable under a corresponding law. Where such payments are made, the Corporation is to be required to seek reimbursement from the responsible authority established under the corresponding law. Conversely, where, under a corresponding law, a corresponding authority pays an amount that is payable by the Corporation, the Corporation will be required to reimburse the corresponding authority.

Schedule 4 amends Part 7 of the Principal Act, which provides for miscellaneous matters.

Schedule 4 (1) replaces section 55 of the Principal Act which provides for agreements between the Minister charged with the administration of the Principal Act and the Minister charged with the administration of a law of another State or a Territory corresponding to the Principal Act. The revision of the section is largely consequential on amendments effected by Schedules 1-3. However, the new section provides for the variation or revocation of an agreement made under the section and provides that an agreement entered into by the New South Wales Minister for Industrial Relations and the Commonwealth Minister for Territories which contains reciprocal arrangements providing for the recognition of workers' service in the building and construction industry is to be deemed to be an agreement entered into under subsection (1) of the new section.

Schedule 5 contains a transitional provision which will enable a worker whose registration under section 19 of the Principal Act has been cancelled to have the worker's name restored to the register of workers if he or she is able to establish that the worker had, during the period of 4 years after the worker was last credited with service in that register, been credited with service in the building and construction industry in a record of workers' service kept under a law of the Australian Capital Territory corresponding to the Principal Act.
