

CONCURRENCE COPY

CONVEYANCING (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1984 (No. 2)

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Explanatory Note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament)

The following Bills are cognate with this Bill:—

- Constitution (Enrolment of Acts) Amendment Bill, 1984;
- Crimes (Registration of Instruments) Amendment Bill, 1984;
- Bills of Sale (Amendment) Bill, 1984.

The objects of this Bill are—

- (a) to repeal the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897 (Schedule 3);
- (b) to re-enact, in a more modern form, the central provisions of that Act as a part of the registration provisions of the Conveyancing Act, 1919 (Schedule 1);
- (c) to make amendments to the Conveyancing Act, 1919, by way of statute law revision (Schedule 2); and
- (d) to enact other provisions of a minor, consequential or ancillary nature.

Schedule 1 proposes to insert a new Division into Part XXIII of the Conveyancing Act, 1919, dealing with the General Register of Deeds. That Division contains the following provisions:—

Clause 184A defines a “registration copy” for the purposes of the Division.

Clause 184B limits the operation of the Division in relation to instruments registered or registrable in the Torrens Register.

Clause 184C sets up the General Register of Deeds.

Clause 184D provides that any instrument may be registered in the General Register of Deeds.

Clause 184E specifies the method of registration.

Clause 184F spells out various requirements relating to the registration of copies of instruments that are to be registered.

Clause 184G provides that instruments affecting land take their priority according to registration instead of execution.

Clause 184H provides that mistakes in registration do not, in certain circumstances, render the registration ineffectual.

Clause 184I enables errors and omissions in the General Register of Deeds to be corrected by the Registrar-General.

Clause 184J re-enacts in a modified form the provisions of section 6 (II) of the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, relating to the effect of registration of previously unregistered Crown grants issued before 1863.

Schedule 2 effects amendments to the Conveyancing Act, 1919, by way of statute law revision.

Schedule 3 lists the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, and its various amendments as the enactments proposed to be repealed.

Schedule 4 contains savings, transitional and other provisions.

CONVEYANCING (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1984 (No. 2)

- (b) registration copies of instruments registered under this Division;
- (c) instruments of a prescribed class; and
- 15 (d) records required by the regulations to be kept as part of the General Register of Deeds.

(3) The General Register of Deeds may be maintained in or upon any medium or combination of mediums capable of having information recorded in or upon it or them.

20 (4) The Registrar-General may, from time to time, vary the manner or form in which the whole or any part of the General Register of Deeds is maintained.

Registration of instruments.

184d. (1) The Registrar-General may receive and register any instrument whatever, whether affecting or relating to land or not.

25 (2) Except as provided by this Division, registration of an instrument under this Division has effect for the purposes of record only.

Conveyancing (Amendment).

- 5 184E. (1) An instrument is registered under this Division in the General Register of Deeds—
- (a) by—
- (i) the original instrument and a copy of the original 10 instrument being delivered to the office of the Registrar-General; or
- (ii) the original instrument being delivered to the office of the Registrar-General and a copy of it being prepared by the Registrar-General; and
- (b) by a distinctive reference being allocated by the Registrar-
15 General to the original instrument.
- (2) The Registrar-General shall endorse on the original instrument and the registration copy such particulars and matter as may be prescribed.
- (3) The Registrar-General may endorse on the original
20 instrument and the registration copy such particulars as the Registrar-
General thinks fit.
- (4) The Registrar-General may refuse to register an instrument in the General Register of Deeds if—
- (a) the original instrument or registration copy does not comply 25 with any relevant provision of this Division or with any relevant requirement prescribed by the regulations; or
- (b) any other relevant requirements prescribed by the regulations in relation to the registration of instruments under this Division are not complied with.
- (5) Instruments are registered under this Division in the 30 order in which the distinctive references referred to in subsection (1) are allocated to the instruments.

Conveyancing (Amendment).

5 (6) Notwithstanding subsection (5), instruments registered under the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, shall be taken to have been registered in the order determined by reference to the time endorsed on the copy pursuant to that Act.

10 (7) Subject to any Act or other law, the registration copy of a registered instrument shall be retained in the office of the Registrar-General.

15 (8) Except in so far as the context or subject-matter otherwise indicates or requires, a reference (however expressed) in this or any other Act, in any instrument made under this or any other Act or in any other instrument of any kind, to registration in, or an instrument registered in, the General Register of Deeds shall be read and construed as, or as including, a reference to registration under, or an instrument registered under, this Division.

Provisions relating to copies delivered for registration.

20 184F. (1) This section applies to a registration copy delivered to the office of the Registrar-General (as referred to in section 184E (1) (a) (i)) for registration under this Division.

(2) The registration copy does not comply with this Division if—

25 (a) there is not written on, annexed to or appended to the copy a statutory declaration, in or to the effect of the prescribed form, certifying that the copy is a true copy of the original instrument; or

30 (b) the copy contains any interlineation or other alteration, unless the interlineation or other alteration is noted on the copy in such manner as may be prescribed.

(3) The original instrument to which the registration copy relates shall be produced to the person before whom the statutory declaration is made.

Conveyancing (Amendment).

5 (4) If the original instrument appears to have been executed by any party unable to write and is not a deed, a statutory declaration shall not be made pursuant to this section, unless—

- (a) the execution by that party is attested by a person, other than the party by whom the instrument was prepared; and
- 10 (b) the person attesting the execution certifies in the attestation that the person so attesting is a prescribed witness.

(5) An attestation under subsection (4) shall contain a certificate that the contents of the instrument were previously explained to the party who was unable to write, and that the nature and effect of the instrument were at the time of the attestation, to the best of the belief of the person attesting the execution of the instrument, understood by that party.

Instruments affecting land to take effect according to priority of registration.

20 184G. (1) All instruments (wills excepted) affecting, or intended to affect, any lands in New South Wales which are executed or made bona fide, and for valuable consideration, and are duly registered under the provisions of this Division, the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, or any Act repealed by the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, shall have and take priority not according to their respective dates

25 but according to the priority of the registration thereof only.

(2) No instrument registered under the provisions of this Division or the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, shall lose any priority to which it would be entitled by virtue of registration thereunder by reason only of bad faith in the conveying party, if the party beneficially taking under the instrument acted bona fide, and there was valuable consideration given therefor.

30

Conveyancing (Amendment).

Mistakes in registration.

5 184H. No registration of any instrument under this Division, or intended to be in pursuance of this Division, shall be defeated or made ineffectual by reason of any omission, misdescription or error in any case where the identity of the instrument in evidence with the one 10 alleged to have been registered is established, and the substantial requirements of this Division and the regulations have been complied with.

Correction of Register.

15 184I. (1) The Registrar-General may, subject to this section and upon such evidence as appears to the Registrar-General to be sufficient, correct errors and omissions in the General Register of Deeds.

(2) This section does not authorise an alteration to be made to a registration copy of an original instrument except to bring the copy into conformity with the original instrument.

20 (3) This section does not authorise an alteration to be made to an original instrument.

(4) Where it appears to the Registrar-General that an alteration has been made to an original instrument after its registration under this Division, this section does not authorise an alteration to 25 be made to the registration copy of the original instrument to bring the copy into conformity with the original instrument in that respect.

Provisions respecting certain Crown grants.

184J. Registration under this Division of a grant by the Crown of lands or other hereditaments in New South Wales alienated before 1st January, 1863, which has not been already enrolled in the

184E. (1) An instrument is registered under this Division in the General Register of Deeds—

(a) by—

(i) the original instrument and a copy of the original instrument being delivered to the office of the Registrar-General; or

(ii) the original instrument being delivered to the office of the Registrar-General and a copy of it being prepared by the Registrar-General; and

(b) by a distinctive reference being allocated by the Registrar-General to the original instrument.

(2) The Registrar-General shall endorse on the original instrument and the registration copy such particulars and matter as may be prescribed.

(3) The Registrar-General may endorse on the original instrument and the registration copy such particulars as the Registrar-General thinks fit.

(4) The Registrar-General may refuse to register an instrument in the General Register of Deeds if—

(a) the original instrument or registration copy does not comply with any relevant provision of this Division or with any relevant requirement prescribed by the regulations; or

(b) any other relevant requirements prescribed by the regulations in relation to the registration of instruments under this Division are not complied with.

(5) Instruments are registered under this Division in the order in which the distinctive references referred to in subsection (1) are allocated to the instruments.

Conveyancing (Amendment).

(6) Notwithstanding subsection (5), instruments registered under the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, shall be taken to have been registered in the order determined by reference to the time endorsed on the copy pursuant to that Act.

(7) Subject to any Act or other law, the registration copy of a registered instrument shall be retained in the office of the Registrar-General.

(8) Except in so far as the context or subject-matter otherwise indicates or requires, a reference (however expressed) in this or any other Act, in any instrument made under this or any other Act or in any other instrument of any kind, to registration in, or an instrument registered in, the General Register of Deeds shall be read and construed as, or as including, a reference to registration under, or an instrument registered under, this Division.

Provisions relating to copies delivered for registration.

184F. (1) This section applies to a registration copy delivered to the office of the Registrar-General (as referred to in section 184E (1) (a) (i)) for registration under this Division.

(2) The registration copy does not comply with this Division if—

- (a) there is not written on, annexed to or appended to the copy a statutory declaration, in or to the effect of the prescribed form, certifying that the copy is a true copy of the original instrument; or
- (b) the copy contains any interlineation or other alteration, unless the interlineation or other alteration is noted on the copy in such manner as may be prescribed.

(3) The original instrument to which the registration copy relates shall be produced to the person before whom the statutory declaration is made.

Conveyancing (Amendment).

(4) If the original instrument appears to have been executed by any party unable to write and is not a deed, a statutory declaration shall not be made pursuant to this section, unless—

- (a) the execution by that party is attested by a person, other than the party by whom the instrument was prepared; and
- (b) the person attesting the execution certifies in the attestation that the person so attesting is a prescribed witness.

(5) An attestation under subsection (4) shall contain a certificate that the contents of the instrument were previously explained to the party who was unable to write, and that the nature and effect of the instrument were at the time of the attestation, to the best of the belief of the person attesting the execution of the instrument, understood by that party.

Instruments affecting land to take effect according to priority of registration.

184G. (1) All instruments (wills excepted) affecting, or intended to affect, any lands in New South Wales which are executed or made bona fide, and for valuable consideration, and are duly registered under the provisions of this Division, the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, or any Act repealed by the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, shall have and take priority not according to their respective dates but according to the priority of the registration thereof only.

(2) No instrument registered under the provisions of this Division or the Registration of Deeds Act, 1897, shall lose any priority to which it would be entitled by virtue of registration thereunder by reason only of bad faith in the conveying party, if the party beneficially taking under the instrument acted bona fide, and there was valuable consideration given therefor.

Conveyancing (Amendment).

184H. No registration of any instrument under this Division, or intended to be in pursuance of this Division, shall be defeated or made ineffectual by reason of any omission, misdescription or error in any case where the identity of the instrument in evidence with the one alleged to have been registered is established, and the substantial requirements of this Division and the regulations have been complied with.

Correction of Register.

184I. (1) The Registrar-General may, subject to this section and upon such evidence as appears to the Registrar-General to be sufficient, correct errors and omissions in the General Register of Deeds.

(2) This section does not authorise an alteration to be made to a registration copy of an original instrument except to bring the copy into conformity with the original instrument.

(3) This section does not authorise an alteration to be made to an original instrument.

(4) Where it appears to the Registrar-General that an alteration has been made to an original instrument after its registration under this Division, this section does not authorise an alteration to be made to the registration copy of the original instrument to bring the copy into conformity with the original instrument in that respect.

Provisions respecting certain Crown grants.
