LOCAL GOVERNMENT (BUILDING CERTIFICATES)
AMENDMENT BILL 1986

NEW SOUTH WALES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Explanatory Note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament)

The Land and Environment Court (Building Certificates) Amendment Bill 1986 is cognate with this Bill.

The object of this Bill is to amend Part XI of the Local Government Act 1919 with respect to building certificates. The current certificate of compliance under section 317A of the Principal Act is to be replaced by a certificate of "non-action", that is, a certificate which prevents the council from ordering the demolition or rectification of a building by reason of the condition of the building at the time of issue of the certificate.

Clause 1 specifies the short title of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 provides that the proposed Act will, with minor exceptions, commence on a day to be appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Clause 3 is a formal provision which gives effect to the Schedule of amendments to the Principal Act.

Schedule 1 (1) repeals section 317A of the Principal Act which provides for the issue of certificates of compliance by a council in relation to buildings within the council's area.

Schedule 1 (2) makes a consequential amendment.

Schedule 1 (3) inserts a new Division, Division 4D—Building certificates, into the Principal Act. The Division contains the following provisions:

Proposed section 317AA defines the terms “building certificate” and “public authority”.

A building certificate is a certificate issued by the council under proposed section 317AE in relation to a building or part of a building. A public authority includes a public authority established by or under an Act, a government department and a statutory body representing the Crown.

Proposed section 317AB specifies those persons who may apply for a building certificate and the manner in which an application is to be made. Generally, the owner of the building or part, the owner’s solicitor, architect or agent, a purchaser under a contract or the purchaser’s solicitor or agent or any person with the consent of the owner or of the owner’s solicitor or agent may apply in writing to the council. The application is to be accompanied by a fee to be prescribed by ordinance. Provision is made for applications by public authorities and applications in relation to buildings on Crown land.

Proposed section 317AC provides that the council may require the applicant to supply it with additional information to enable it to determine the application. The council is not entitled to require an up-to-date survey certificate if no material change has occurred since the date of the last survey certificate.

Proposed section 317AD requires the council to undertake an inspection of the building or part as soon as practicable after an application is made.

Proposed section 317AE provides for the determination by the council of an application for a building certificate. The council shall issue a building certificate if, at the date of the inspection, it appears that—

- (a) there is no matter in existence that would entitle the council to order demolition or rectification of the building or part or to take proceedings in relation to any encroachment by the building or part onto council land; or
- (b) there is such a matter but, in the circumstances, the council does not propose to pursue any remedy in respect of it.

Otherwise, the council shall refuse to issue a building certificate. If the council refuses to issue a building certificate, the applicant shall be informed in writing of the council’s decision and of the reasons for it. The reasons are to be sufficiently detailed to inform the applicant of the work that needs to be done to the building to enable a building certificate to be issued. The council shall not refuse to issue or delay the issue of a building certificate by virtue of the existence of a matter that would not entitle the council to order demolition or rectification or to take proceedings in relation to an encroachment. The proposed section also enables the council to inform the applicant of the work that needs to be done and to defer its determination of the application until the applicant has had an opportunity to do that work.

Proposed section 317AF regulates the contents of building certificates. The proposed section also provides that if an application is made in relation to the whole of a building, the building certificate shall relate to the whole building. Otherwise, a building certificate shall relate only to that part of the building to which the application relates.

Proposed section 317AG specifies the protections afforded by a building certificate. These are that the council, in relation to the building or part—

- (a) by virtue of anything existing or occurring before the date of inspection stated in the certificate; or
- (b) within 7 years after that date by virtue of the deterioration of the building or part solely by fair wear and tear, shall not—

- (c) make an order under section 317B of the Principal Act requiring the demolition, alteration or re-erection of the building or part;
- (d) seek a court order or injunction requiring demolition, alteration, addition or rebuilding; or
- (e) take proceedings in relation to an encroachment by the building or part onto land vested in or under the control of the council.

The proposed section also provides that an order made or proceedings taken by the council in contravention of the section shall be of no effect. The issue of a building certificate does not prevent proceedings being taken against any person under section 306, 310, 311 or 317 of the Principal Act (which generally regulate the erection of buildings), or an order being made under section 317D of the Principal Act in relation to fire safety.

Proposed section 317AH makes provision for appeals to the Land and Environment Court and for the powers of the Court on an appeal.

Proposed section 317AI requires the council to keep a register of building certificates which may be inspected free of charge during the ordinary office hours of the council. Copies may be obtained from the register with the consent of the owner and on payment of a fee to be prescribed by ordinance.

Proposed section 317AJ is a savings and transitional provision which provides that an existing certificate of compliance issued under section 317A of the Principal Act before its repeal shall continue to have effect as if that section had not been repealed.

Schedule 1 (4) amends the ordinance-making power in section 318 of the Principal Act by adding a new paragraph which enables ordinances to be made for the purposes of the proposed Division 4D in relation to—

- (a) the form and contents of building certificates;
 - (b) the making of applications for those certificates; and
 - (c) the fees to be paid for those certificates.
