POLICE SERVICE (INSPECTOR GENERAL) BILL 1991

NEW SOUTH WALES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Explanatory Note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament)

The object of this Bill is to formalise the appointment of Mr Donald Keith Wilson to the position of Inspector General in the Police Service.

This position is within the Police Service Senior Executive Service. The appointment of persons to positions in that Senior Executive Service is covered by the Police Service Act 1990.

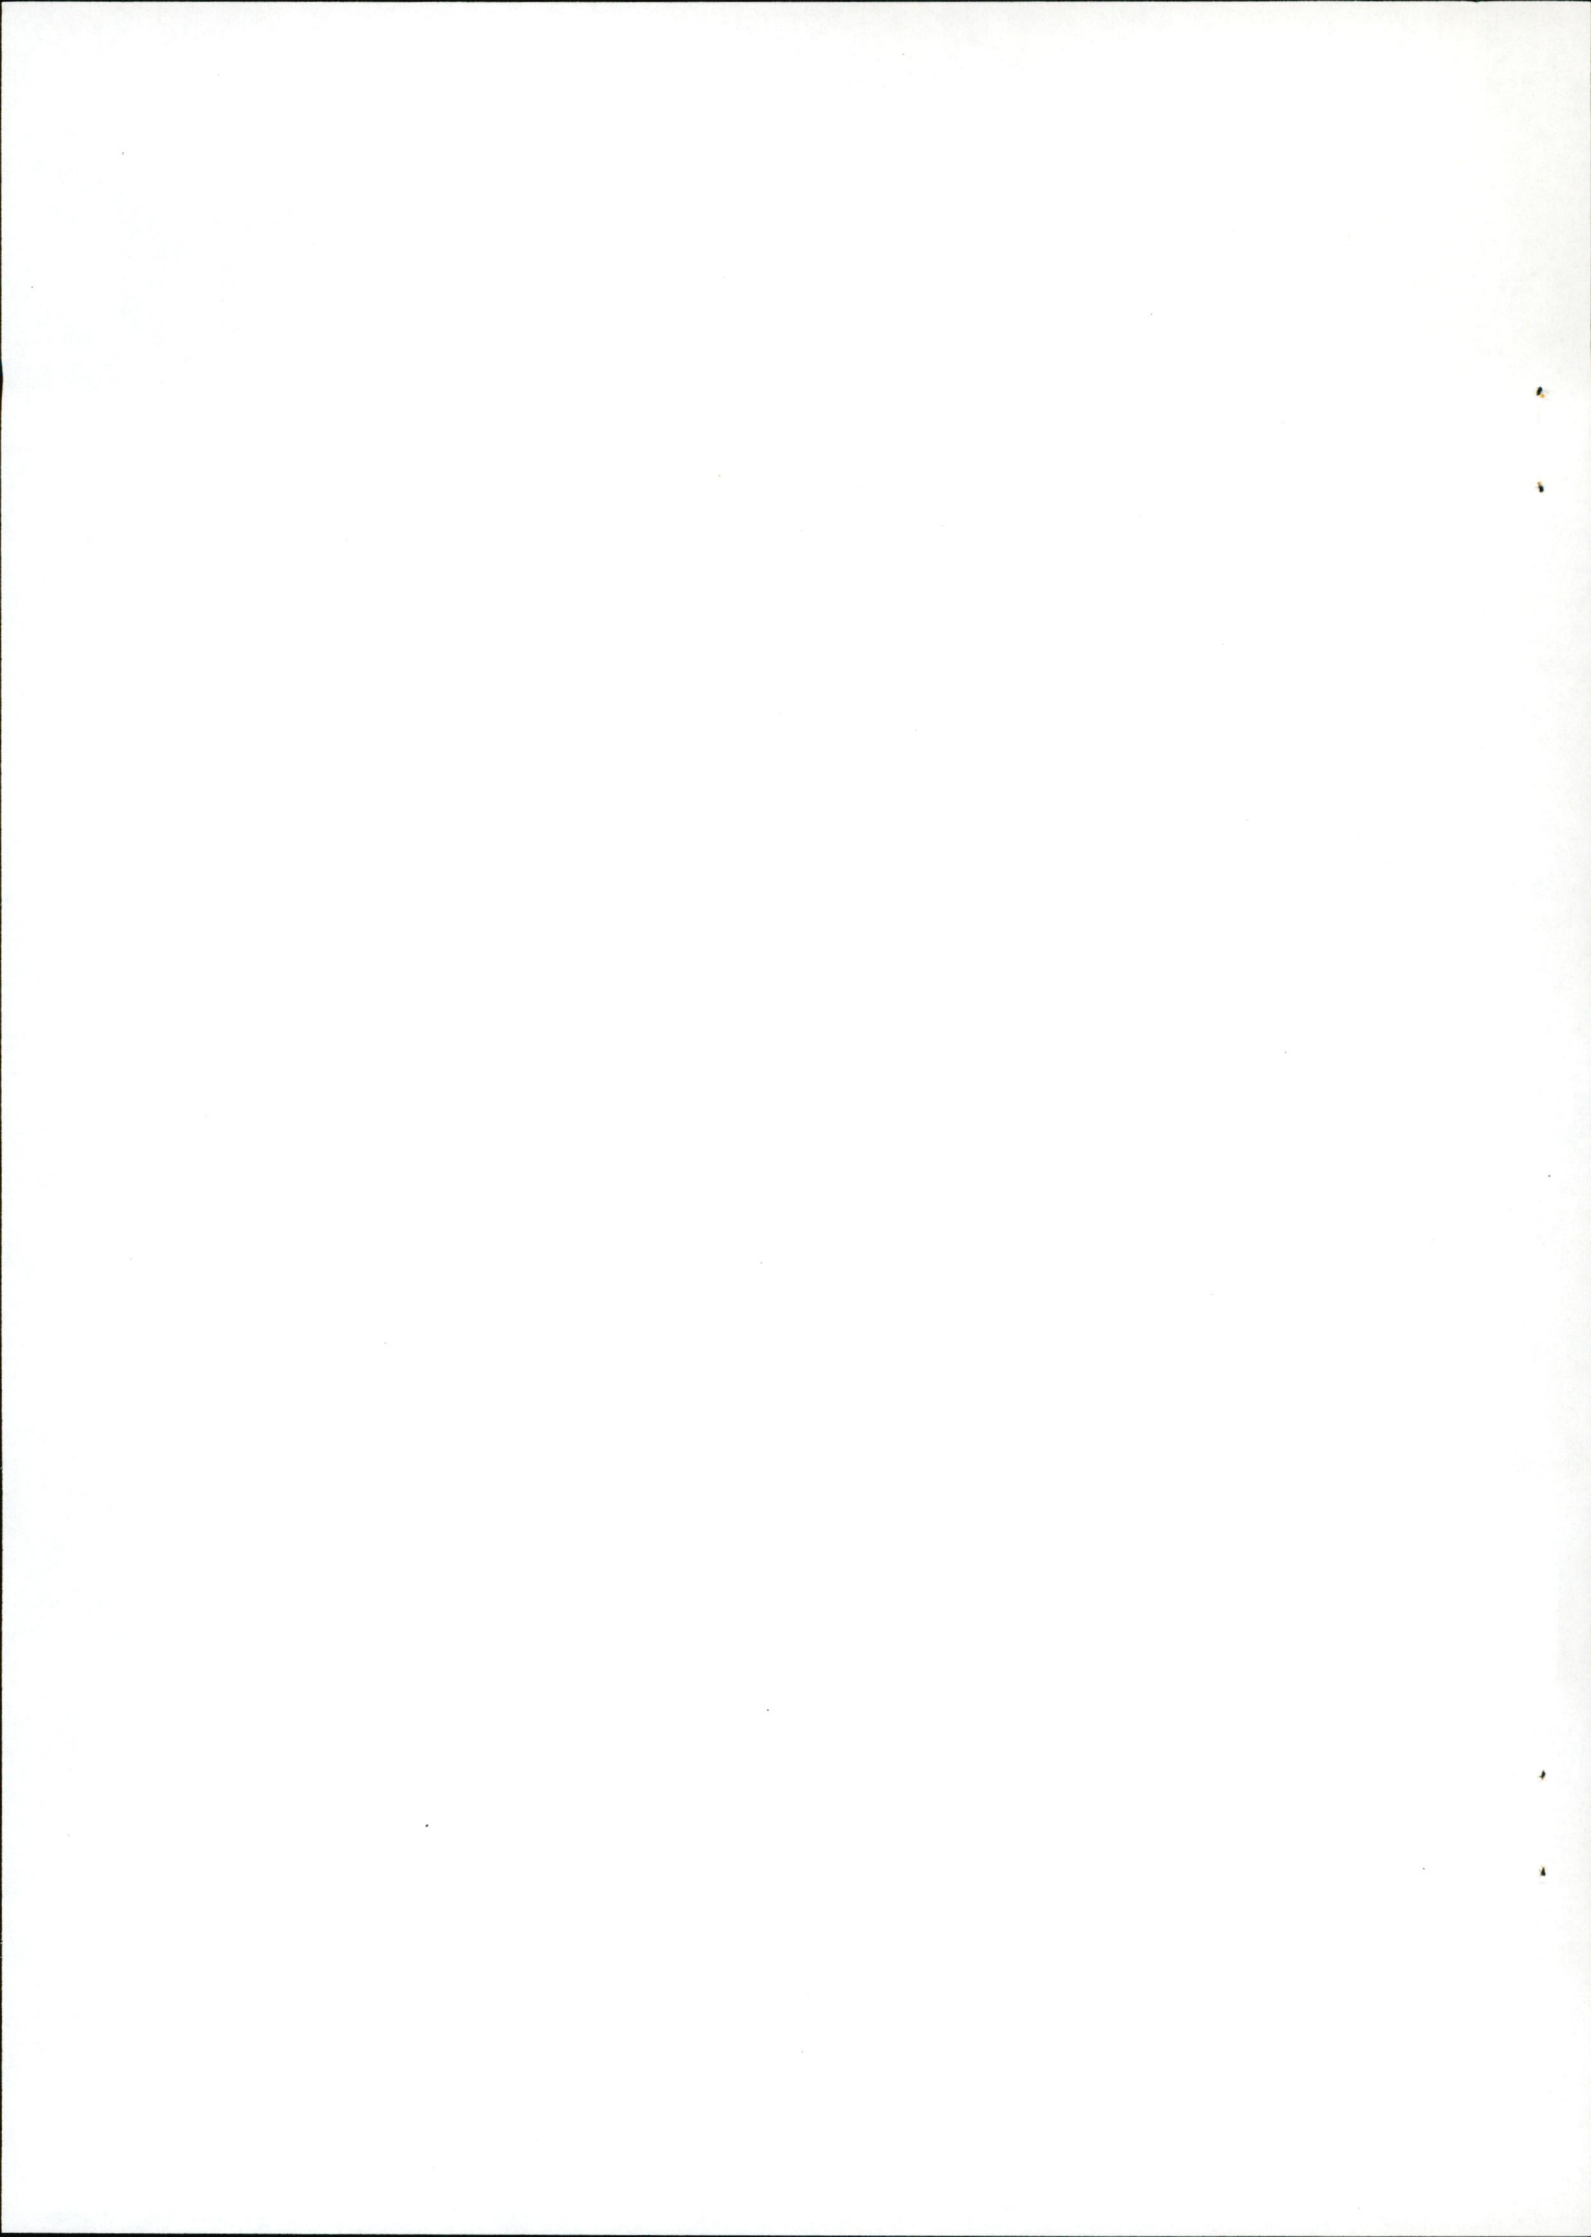

The Act provides for the appointment of a suitable person to a vacant position in the Police Service Senior Executive Service without the vacancy being advertised but only if the person recommended for appointment is employed either as a police officer or an administrative officer in the Police Service. As the vacancy was not advertised and Mr Wilson was not employed in either of those categories, his appointment is not covered by the Act.

The appointment made by this Bill will be for a period of 3 years from 29 July 1991, when he took up employment in the Police Service on a temporary basis.

Clause 1 specifies the short title of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 provides that the proposed Act commences on the date of assent.

Clause 3 makes the appointment described above.
