Historic Houses Amendment Bill 1996

Explanatory note

This explanatory note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament.

Overview of Bill

The objects of this Bill are as follows:

- to more accurately reflect the role of the Historic Houses Trust in managing and maintaining not only houses of historical importance, but also various other buildings, structures and sites,
 - to enable the Trust to carry out alterations and improvements to historic buildings or places in accordance with conservation plans approved by the Minister,
 - to enable the Trust to sell or dispose of certain property (such as items in collections acquired by the Trust that are not subject to conditions) with the approval of the Minister,
 - to make other miscellaneous changes to the Historic Houses Act 1980 of a consequential or minor nature.

Outline of provisions

Clause 1 sets out the name (also called the short title) of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 provides for the commencement of the proposed Act on a day or days to be appointed by proclamation.

Clause 3 is a formal provision giving effect to the amendments to the Historic Houses Act 1980 set out in Schedule 1.

Schedule 1 Amendments

Role of the Historic Houses Trust in relation to historic buildings or places

Schedule 1 [5] substitutes section 7 of the Act (Principal objects of the Trust) to reflect the Historic Houses Trust's role in managing, maintaining and conserving the buildings, sites and other property of the Trust. The new section recognises that the Trust has responsibility not only for historic houses and house museums, but also for certain other buildings and places of historical significance.

In light of the Trust's redefined objects, references in the Act to "historic house" are replaced with references to "historic building or place" where appropriate, and references to "house museum" are updated to "museum" (Schedule 1 [1], [2], [6]–[13], [19], [20] and [22]).

Alterations to historic buildings and places

At present, the consent of the Minister is required for all alterations and other improvements authorised by the Trust to a historic house, including minor alterations. Schedule 1 [15] substitutes section 10 of the Act to enable the Trust to authorise alterations and improvements in accordance with a conservation plan approved by the Minister and prepared by the Trust in respect of the historic building or place concerned.

Miscellaneous amendments

Schedule 1 [3] makes it clear that nothing in the Historic Houses Act 1980 applies to land reserved or dedicated under the National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974 (eg regional parks, historic sites etc).

Explanatory note

Schedule 1 [4] provides that the 9 trustees who comprise the Historic Houses Trust are to be nominated by the Minister (at present, 7 are nominated by the Minister, 1 by the Minister for Public Works and Services and 1 by the Minister for Urban Affairs and Planning). The amendment also provides for at least 1 trustee to have a background in history and for at least 1 trustee to have a background in architecture.

At present, the approval of the Governor must be obtained before the Trust can sell or otherwise dispose of any property acquired without being subject to a condition. Schedule 1 [16] and [17] provide that where property (such as items in a collection) has been acquired without being subject to a condition, the Minister's approval will be required. In the case of real property acquired without being subject to a condition, the approval of the Governor will continue to be required before the Trust sells or otherwise disposes of that real property.

Schedule 1 [14], [18] and [21] repeal redundant provisions relating to the Trust's borrowing powers, its annual endowment and its annual reporting requirements.

Schedule 1 [23] and [25] contain savings, transitional and other provisions, including the power to make regulations of a savings or transitional nature consequent on the enactment of the proposed Act. Existing trustees' offices are not affected, and provision is made for the validation of anything done by the Trust before the proposed Act commences that could have been validly done had the amendments been in force.

Schedule 1 [24] repeals a provision that results in the appointment of a trustee taking effect on 1 January of the year following that in which the appointment is made.
