action wrongly brought.
N.Z., 1900, No. 43,
s. 9.

9. If, within the time hereinafter in this Act limited for taking proceedings under this Act, an action is brought to recover damages independently of this Act for injury caused by any accident, and it is determined in such action that the injury is one for which the employer is not liable in such action, but that he would have been liable to pay compensation under this Act, the action shall be dismissed, and such dismissal shall operate as a bar to any other proceedings for compensation under the provisions of this Act:

Provided that the magistrate or the judge of the court in which the action is tried shall, if the plaintiff so chooses, proceed to assess such compensation, and shall, unless good cause to the contrary is shown, deduct therefrom all the costs which, in its judgment, have been caused by the plaintiff bringing the action instead of taking proceedings under this Act, and shall enter judgment accordingly.

Deductions from compensation.

Notice of accident and of proceedings.

12. Proceedings for the recovery under this Act of compensation for an injury shall not be maintainable unless notice in writing of the accident has been given as soon as practicable after the happening thereof and before the workman has voluntarily left the employment in which he was injured, and unless the proceedings for recovering compensation with respect to such accident have been commenced within six months from the occurrence of the accident causing the injury, or, in case of death, within six months from the time of death:

Provided that—

- (a) the want of or any defect or inaccuracy in such notice shall not be a bar to the maintenance of such proceedings, if it is found in the proceedings that the employer is not or would not, if a notice or an amended notice were then given and the hearing postponed, be prejudiced in his defence by the want, defect, or inaccuracy, or that such want, defect, or inaccuracy was occasioned by mistake, absence from New South Wales, or other reasonable cause; and
- (b) the failure to commence proceedings within the period above specified shall not be a bar to the maintenance of such proceedings if it is found that the failure was occasioned by mistake, absence from New South Wales, or other reasonable cause.

- (b) The notice may be served by delivering the same to or at the residence or place of business of the person on whom it is to be served.

- (e) Where the employer is the Crown, or any departmental officer acting for the Crown, the notice shall be served on the Crown Solicitor at his office in Sydney.

14. If the Registrar of Friendly Societies, after taking steps to ascertain the views of the employer and workmen, certifies that any scheme of compensation, benefit or insurance for the workmen of an employer in any employment, whether or not such scheme includes other employers and their workmen, is on the whole not less favourable to the workmen and their dependents than the corresponding scales contained in this Act, the following provisions shall apply:—

Contracting out.

- (1) The employer may, whilst the certificate is in force, contract with any of his workmen that the provisions of the scheme shall be substituted for the provisions of this Act, and thereupon the employer shall be liable only in accordance with the scheme, but, save as aforesaid, this Act shall apply notwithstanding any contract to the contrary made after the commencement of this Act.
- (2) The registrar may give a certificate for a limited period of not less than five years, and may from time to time renew with or without modifications such a certificate for the period mentioned in such renewal.

- (b) the provisions of such scheme are being violated; or
- (c) the scheme is not being fairly administered; or
- (d) satisfactory reasons exist for revoking the certificate, the registrar shall examine into the complaint, and if satisfied that good cause exists for such complaint, shall, unless the cause of complaint is removed, revoke the certificate.

(5) When a certificate is revoked or expires, any moneys or securities held for the purpose of the scheme shall, after due provision has been made to discharge the liabilities already accrued, be distributed as may be arranged between the employer and workmen, or as may be determined by the Registrar of Friendly Societies in the event of a difference of opinion.

(6) Whenever a scheme has been certified as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the employer to answer all such inquiries, and to furnish all accounts in regard to the scheme as may be made or required by the Registrar of Friendly Societies.

(7) Every decision of the registrar under this section shall, in such manner and on such terms as are prescribed, be subject to review by a judge of the District Court, whose decision shall be final.

(8) The Registrar of Friendly Societies shall include in his annual report the particulars of his proceedings under this Act.

15. (1) Where any person (in this section referred to as the principal), in the course of his trade or business, contracts with any other person (in this section referred to as the contractor) for the execution by or under the contractor of the whole or any part of any work undertaken by the principal, the principal shall be liable to pay to any workman employed in the execution of the work, any compensation under this Act which he would have been liable to pay if that workman had been immediately employed by him; and, where compensation is claimed from or proceedings are taken against the principal, then, in the application of this Act, references to the principal shall be substituted for references to the employer, except that the amount of compensation shall be calculated with reference to the earnings of the workman under the employer by whom he is immediately employed.

- (a) in any case where the accident occurred elsewhere than on or in, or about premises on which the principal has undertaken to execute the work or which are otherwise under his control or management;
- (b) unless the work undertaken by the principal involves a payment to him of at least one hundred pounds for the due and complete performance thereof;
- (c) unless the work in which the workman is engaged at the time of the accident is an employment to which this Act applies.

16. Where any employer becomes liable to pay compensation in respect of any accident, and is entitled to any sum from insurers in respect of the amount due to a workman under such liability, in the event of the employer becoming bankrupt or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors, or, if the employer is a company, of the company having commenced to be wound up, such workman shall have a first charge upon the sum aforesaid for the amount so due.

Remedies against employer and stranger.

- (1) the workman may take proceedings both against that person to recover damages and against any person liable to pay compensation under this Act for such compensation, but shall not be entitled to recover both damages and compensation; and
- (2) if the workman has recovered compensation under this Act, the person by whom the compensation was paid, and any person who has been called on to pay an indemnity under the section of this Act relating to sub-contracting shall be entitled to be indemnified by the person so liable to pay damages as aforesaid, and all questions as to the right to and amount of any such indemnity shall, in default of agreement, be settled by action.

- (e) Where the employer is the Crown, or any departmental officer acting for the Crown, the notice shall be served on the Crown Solicitor at his office in Sydney.

14. If the Registrar of Friendly Societies, after taking steps to ascertain the views of the employer and workmen, certifies that any scheme of compensation, benefit or insurance for the workmen of an employer in any employment, whether or not such scheme includes other employers and their workmen, is on the whole not less favourable to the workmen and their dependents than the corresponding scales contained in this Act, the following provisions shall apply:—

- (1) The employer may, whilst the certificate is in force, contract with any of his workmen that the provisions of the scheme shall be substituted for the provisions of this Act, and thereupon the employer shall be liable only in accordance with the scheme, but, save as aforesaid, this Act shall apply notwithstanding any contract to the contrary made after the commencement of this Act.
- (2) The registrar may give a certificate for a limited period of not less than five years, and may from time to time renew with or without modifications such a certificate for the period mentioned in such renewal.
- (3) No scheme shall be so certified which contains an obligation upon the workmen to join the scheme as a condition of their hiring, or which does not contain provisions enabling a workman to withdraw from the scheme.

15 be distributed as may be arranged between the employer and workmen, or as may be determined by the Registrar of Friendly Societies in the event of a difference of opinion.

(6) Whenever a scheme has been certified as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the employer to answer all such inquiries, and to

- (c) unless the work in which the workman is engaged at the time of the accident is an employment to which this Act applies.

16. Where any employer becomes liable to pay compensation in respect of any accident, and is entitled to any sum from insurers in respect of the amount due to a workman under such liability, in the event of the employer becoming bankrupt or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors, or, if the employer is a company, of the company having commenced to be wound up, such workman shall have a first charge upon the sum aforesaid for the amount so due.

- (b) in the case of a workman who has, in accordance with the regulations, obtained from a medical referee a certificate to the effect that his age or any physical or mental infirmity or incapacity from which he is suffering is such as to render him specially liable to accident, or to render the result of an accident to him specially serious, and who has entered into an agreement in writing with his employer as to the maximum amount of compensation to be payable to him under this Act in respect of accidents happening after the date of the agreement, the compensation shall not exceed that maximum, but the maximum shall not be less—

- 30
2. In calculating "average weekly earnings" for the purposes of this Schedule,— under this section, he shall be entitled to be indemnified by the contractor or any other person who would have been liable to pay compensation to the workman independently of this section, and all 40 questions as to the right to and amount of any such indemnity may, in default of agreement, be determined by a court of competent
- 35

- 35 agreement, be settled by action.

19. Any contract existing at the time of the commencement of this Act whereby a workman relinquishes any right to compensation from the employer for personal injury arising out of and in the course of his employment shall not for the purposes of this Act be deemed to continue after the time at which the workman's contract of service would determine, if notice of the determination thereof were given at the commencement of this Act.
