The first of these is the fact that the New York State Constitution of 1892 has been amended in many respects since its adoption. The process of amendment has been a continuous one and has resulted in a number of important changes. The most notable of these are the amendments which have been made in the provisions relating to the powers of the governor, the judiciary, and the legislature. The amendments have also made provision for the election of the governor and the judges of the supreme court by the people. The amendments have also provided for the creation of a new office, that of the comptroller, and have made other changes in the structure of the government.
