Tables of contributions in Schedule I.

15. (1) During the five years next following the commencement of this Act, and until other tables of contributions are prescribed as hereinafter provided, the tables of contributions for men and women according to ages set out in Schedule I shall be in force, and shall apply to both employers and employees.

Quinquennial adjustment of rates.

(2) As soon as practicable after the end of each period of five years from the commencement of this Act, the Governor may, if the Board so recommend, prescribe tables of contributions, which shall, subject to the approval of Parliament, take effect from a date to be proclaimed, and shall be in force until other tables are prescribed.

Contributions by employers.

Particulars and table of
of employers.

16. (1) Each employer shall contribute to the Fund regular payments at prescribed periods in respect of each contributor employed by him, based (except where otherwise in this Act provided) upon the number of units of pension for which such contributor contributes, upon sex, upon the age at which such contributor commences to contribute for each unit, and, in the case of a woman contributor, upon whether she contributes for a pension payable at age fifty-five or age sixty; and such payments shall be in accordance with the tables of contributions prescribed.

When to commence.

(2) Such contributions shall be paid as from the date notified as hereinbefore provided from which employees are to contribute to the fund, or from the date of commencement of an employee's service, where service commences after the said date, and shall cease when the contributor ceases to contribute to the fund.

(3) In the case of an employee over fifty-nine years of age at the commencement of this Act, twenty-four four contributions in accordance with this Act shall be paid by the employer and the employee prior to the employee's attaining the age of sixty years.

17. (1) Where a pension calculated in accordance with this Act is less than the minimum prescribed, and where this Act provides that such prescribed minimum is to be paid, the cost of increasing such pension to the minimum shall be paid to the Fund by the employer by payments at prescribed periods on the requisition of the Board.

Cost of increasing pension to the minimum.

(2) Where any employee is allowed to contribute as though he were younger than his real age, the difference between the employee's contribution and the rate for his real age according to the prescribed table shall be paid by his employer in addition to the contribution prescribed by the last preceding section, by payments at prescribed periods on the requisition of the Board.

Cost of reducing contribution of employee below rate for age.

18. (1) Where the employer is the Crown or a Minister of the Crown, the employer's contribution shall be paid from Consolidated Revenue.

From what Fund employer shall pay contributions.

(2) In the case of any other employer his contribution shall be paid from such fund of such employer as the Governor may from time to time by regulation prescribe, or, if no such regulation is made, from such fund as the employer thinks fit.

General provisions as to contributions.

19. In respect of any contributor who is on leave of absence, whether on pay or not, his contributions shall be paid during or in respect of such period of leave as for a period of service, without reduction, and the Board may recover the amount of any such contributions in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Employees on leave of absence.

20. The contributions of contributors shall be deducted by employers from the salaries of such contributors at each payment of such salaries, and shall, together with the employers' contributions, be paid without deduction for postage, forwarding, or exchange, to the Board.

Manner of payment—Deduction from wages or salaries.

33. (1) On the death of a man contributor or of a man pensioner, if his wife be dead or divorced, and if he leave children of himself or of his wife under the age of sixteen years who were dependent upon him at the time of his death, there shall be paid to the guardian of such children, to be used for their support and education, a pension at the rate of thirteen pounds per annum in respect of each child.

(2) Where pensions in respect of children are payable under this Act to a widow and such widow dies, such pensions shall be payable to the guardians of such children.

Retirement and pension of employee who at passing of Act is over 60 years of age.

34. (1) An employee who—

(a) has served for at least ten years, and

(b) is of, or over the age of sixty years at or after the passing of this Act, may be retired at any time after the passing of this Act at a pension in accordance with salary as set out in section twelve, but not exceeding four units, or one hundred and four pounds per annum, without paying any contribution to the fund.

(2) Any such pension shall be payable from the date of retirement, and shall carry widows' and children's benefits as elsewhere in this Act provided.

(3) Such pension shall in regard to employees of the Government be paid from the Consolidated Revenue Fund, and in regard to employees other than those of the Government from the funds of the employers, until the fund is established under this Act, and thereafter shall be paid from the fund so established; such payments shall be repaid to the said fund by the employer by monthly payments.

(4) This section shall come into operation when this Act receives the Royal Assent.

35.

Superannuation.

35. (1) An employee who after the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and on or before the passing of this Act, has been retired, and who at the time of such retirement—

(2) Where any employee who has been discharged or dismissed, or who has resigned, and has received a refund of the amount of his contributions, thereafter enters the service of an employer, he shall not be entitled to claim any further benefit in respect of his previous service.

Desertion, imprisonment, or insanity.

Desertion of wife or child.

39. (1) Where any pensioner deserts his wife, such wife may from time to time apply to any police or stipendiary magistrate, and on proof of such desertion such magistrate may order the payment during such period as he thinks desirable of pension under section thirty-one of this Act as if the said pensioner were dead. The Board shall comply with any such order; and may thereupon suspend payment of pension to the pensioner during the period mentioned in the order. (2)

Superannuation.

(2) Where any pensioner deserts any of his children who are dependent on him, if the pensioner's wife be dead or divorced, the guardian of such children, or the Board, may apply to any police or stipendiary magistrate, and on proof of such desertion such magistrate may order the payment of pension under section thirty-three of this Act as if the said pensioner were dead. The Board shall comply with any such order; and may thereupon suspend payment of pension to the pensioner.

40. Where any pensioner is sentenced to imprisonment for any period in excess of one month, his pension rights under this Act shall not operate during the period of such imprisonment; and Superannuation.

General provisions as to pensions.

Payments
to children.

43. Notwithstanding anything elsewhere contained in this Act, any money payable out of the Fund under this Act in respect of a child under the age of sixteen years may, at the discretion of the Board, be paid to the child's guardian or expended by the Board for the benefit of the child.

Pensions payable for a life.

44. (1) Except where otherwise specifically provided, a pension shall be payable during the life of the person entitled thereto.

(2) Pensions in respect of children shall be payable until they reach the age of sixteen years or die under that age.

Pensions payable monthly.

45. Pensions shall be payable by equal monthly instalments.

Actuarial reduction of pension of widow.

46. Except where otherwise specifically provided, in any case where in this Act provision is made for the pension of any person to be actuarially determined, any pension under this Act to his widow in respect of her own life shall be one half of the amount so actuarially determined, but not less than one unit.

No pension for widow if pensioner marry.

47. Where a pensioner marries after retirement from service, his widow shall not be entitled to pension for herself.

DIVISION 3.—Breakdown pensioners—Special provisions re.

Breakdown
pensioner held to be on leave.

48. Any pensioner who is in receipt of a "breakdown" pension, shall for the purposes of this Act be held to be on leave of absence without pay, but shall not be required to contribute in respect of the period of such leave. Notwithstanding the fact that he is held to be on leave of absence, his office or position shall be held to be vacant, and may be filled by the appointment thereto of some other person.

Continuity of service.

49. The period of such leave without pay in the case of a "breakdown" pensioner shall not count as service; but neither shall it, in the event of his re-employment under any employer, be held to constitute a break in the continuity of his service.

50.

Superannuation.

50. Any such pensioner shall submit himself for medical examination as and when required by the Board, and if he make default in complying with such requirement, pension shall cease to be payable to him during such default.

Employee retired through infirmity may be called up for medical examination.

51. (1) If, in the opinion of the Board, the health of any pensioner retired as aforesaid has become so restored as to enable him to perform his duties, the Board may communicate with the employer from whose service he was retired, or any other employer under this Act, and, if suitable employment be found for such pensioner, at a salary not less than two-thirds of his salary at the time of his retirement, or at such salary as may be agreed upon between him and his employer, may cancel the pension; thereupon the pension shall cease to be payable.

Employee restored to health may be recalled to service.

(2) In the event of the recurrence of his infirmity, any contributor who has thus been recalled to the Service shall be entitled to pension as provided in this Act, but not less than the amount of the pension at which he was first retired.

52. The Governor may, on the recommendation of the Board, at any time, by regulation, prescribe, in respect of contributors suffering from invalidity or physical or mental incapacity to perform their duties, any or all of the following:—

Governor may prescribe different provisions.

- (a) Conditions of retirement.
- (b) Pensions or other benefits.
- (c) Provisions for cancellation of pensions or other benefits.
- (d) Conditions of compulsory re-employment.

DIVISION 4.—Rights under various Acts.

Civil Service Acts.

53. This Act shall not (except as herein specifically provided) apply to employees who have the right vested or contingent to either a pension or a gratuity under the Civil Service Acts.

Rights under Civil Service Superannuation Account not prejudiced.

54.

*Superannuation.54. (1) Any such employee who—

Employee under 60 years who has such right commutable in part may elect to come under this Act for the difference.

- (a) is under the age of sixty years when this Act comes into operation, and
- (b) has a right vested or contingent as aforesaid which is commutable as hereinafter provided for new rights in respect of a less number of units than would (if he were not entitled to rights under the Civil Service Acts) be applicable under this Act

may within the prescribed time elect to come under this Act for the purpose of the difference.

(2) For the purpose of determining such less number (including where necessary a fraction of a unit) the new rights shall be the actuarial equivalent of the rights under the Civil Service Acts, and in calculating such actuarial equivalent all the rights which would be available under this Act shall be taken into account.

(3) If an employee elects as aforesaid to come under this Act for the purpose of the difference, this Act shall, for the purpose of such difference, apply as if he were an employee not having any rights under the Civil Service Acts, subject to the following qualifications:—

- (a) The contributions shall not be in respect of more than the difference.
- (b) For the purpose of the adjustment to the difference, the contributions shall, where necessary, be in respect of a fraction of a unit.
- (c) Where the contributions are in respect of a fraction of a unit, the contributions and any pension or benefit in respect thereof shall be proportionate thereto.

55. (1) Any such employee who—

Where employee does not so elect, he may come under Act for limited purposes.

- (a) is under the age of sixty years at the time when this Act comes into operation, and

(c)

Superannuation.

(c) does not elect to come under this Act for the purpose of the difference—may within the prescribed time elect to come under this Act for the limited purpose of—

- (a) a pension for his widow ; or
- (b) a pension after his death for his children under age sixteen until attainment of that age, or death if previous ; or
- (c) pension rights for both widow and children as in paragraphs (a) and (b) above.

(2) If such employee elects as aforesaid to come under this Act for the limited purpose, this Act shall apply for such limited purpose as if he were an employee not having any rights under the Civil Service Acts, subject to the following qualifications :—

- (a) The contributions shall be in respect of one, or one and a half, or two units in the case of a pension for the widow, and in respect of a half unit in the case of a pension for a child, and shall be in accordance with such rates as the Governor may prescribe ; and
- (b) there shall not be any right except to a pension for the widow or for children, or for both widow and children, as the case may be.

56. (1) Any such employee who—

- (a) is of or over the age of sixty years at or after the passing of this Act, and
- (b) has served for at least ten years with any one or more employers, and
- (c) has a right vested or contingent as aforesaid which is commutable as hereinafter provided for new rights in respect of a less number of units than four,

or over 60 years.

shall come under this Act for the purpose of the difference without contribution.

(2) For the purpose of determining such less number (including where necessary a fraction of a unit) the new rights under paragraph (c) of the last preceding subsection shall be the actuarial equivalent of the rights under

Superannuation.

under the Civil Service Acts, and in calculating such actuarial equivalent all the rights which would be available under this Act shall be taken into account.

(3) For the purposes of this section this Act shall apply, notwithstanding section fifty-three, but subject to the following qualifications:—

- (a) The employee shall not be entitled to a pension under this section of more than the difference;
- (b) for the purpose of adjustment to the difference the pension may be a pension of or including a fraction of a unit.

(4) This section shall come into operation when this Act receives the Royal Assent.

Employee of age of 60 who has been retired after 1st January, 1914.

57. Any such employee who, after the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and before the passing of this Act, had been retired, and who at the time of such retirement—

- (a) was of or over the age of sixty years, and
- (b) had served for at least ten years, and
- (c) had on such retirement a right vested as aforesaid, which if this Act had been in force, would have been commutable as hereinafter provided for new rights in respect of a less number of units than four—shall come under this Act for the purpose of the difference without paying any contribution to the fund.

Subsections two and three of the last-preceding section, and subsection two of section thirty-five shall apply to any pension payable under this section.

Old-style contributor may exchange his rights for any equivalent under this Act.

58. Any employee who has a right vested or contingent to a pension under the said Acts may, at any time within twelve months after the commencement of this Act, make application to the Board to transfer to the Board such right, and to receive in return therefor a grant by the Board of such new rights of pension for any or all of himself, his widow, and children, as may be agreed upon between himself and the Board, subject to the Board's actuary certifying that such new rights are the actuarial equivalent of his said right under the said Acts. Where any such agreement is made, the employee shall continue to contribute as provided in the said Acts. When any benefit becomes payable payable under any such agreement it shall be paid by the Board from the Fund; and the Fund shall be recouped as prescribed from the Consolidated Revenue Fund for all such payments.

59. Any employee who under the aforesaid Acts has a right vested or contingent to a refund of contributions with or without interest, or a gratuity, or both refund and gratuity, may at any time within twelve months after the commencement of this Act make application to the Board to transfer to the Board such right, and to receive in return therefor a grant by the Board of such new rights of pension for any or all of himself, his widow, and children, as may be agreed upon between himself and the Board, subject to the Board's actuary certifying that such new rights are the actuarial equivalent of his said right under the said Acts.

"Ex-contributor" or "non-contributor" may exchange his rights under 1884 Act for any equivalent under this Act.

DIVISION 5.—Existing insurance policies.

60. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any Act, it shall not be necessary for any contributor under this Act to insure his life, or to continue in force any policy of insurance on his life already taken out at the commencement of this Act.

Insurance policies may be continued or discontinued at option of contributor.

61. Any employee whose life is insured at the commencement of this Act may surrender his policy of insurance, and may pay the surrender value to the Board under the provisions of Part V of this Act relating to voluntary saving, or he may, after the expiration of two years from the commencement of this Act, transfer such policy to a person named by the board, and request the board to continue the payment of the premiums under the said policy. The board shall thereupon cause such premiums to be duly paid, and on the maturity of the policy shall hand over to the employee or to his personal representatives to be administered as part of his estate any sums received on the policy, less the amount of the premiums, with compound interest thereon at the rate of three and a half per centum per annum from the respective dates of payment.

Surrender of policies.

PART V.

VOLUNTARY SAVING.

Additional payments to Fund by deduction from salary.

62. (1) Any employee may authorise his employer to deduct from his salary and pay to the Fund any sum in excess of the compulsory contribution elsewhere in this Act provided, and may at any time cancel such authorisation.

By direct payment.

(2) Any employee may pay directly to the Fund any sum of money.

Moneys part of Fund.

63. Any moneys paid to the Fund by, or by authorisation of, any employee under this Part shall form part of the Fund.

Rate of interest allowed.

64. Such moneys shall be credited to such employee, and shall accumulate at such rate of interest, compounded annually, as may from time to time be determined by the Governor on the recommendation of the Board as the result of the quinquennial investigation; and, until such determination has been made, at the rate of three and one-half per centum interest, compounded annually.

Money withdrawable at any time.

65. Any employee may, at any time after the expiration of three months' notice, withdraw from the Fund the whole amount lying at his credit therein under this Part (both principal and interest) or any portion thereof.

Purchase of additional pensions, or of annuities.

66. Any employee may at any time apply any moneys lying at his credit under this Part in purchasing from the Board an annuity on his life, or on the life of his wife, son, or daughter.

Scale of payments for annuities.

67. Any annuity sold by the Board under this Part shall be in accordance with the table of contributions for annuities prescribed in Schedule II of this Act, or with such table as the Governor may from time to time, on the recommendation of the Board, prescribe in lieu thereof.

68.

Superannuation.

68. Any employee who has lodged moneys in the Fund under this Part may, on his retirement, allow such moneys to remain in the Fund and may add thereto as though he had not retired; or may exercise the rights conferred by the three next preceding sections.

Retired employee may continue in Fund.

69. Any employee may, if the Board approve, borrow from the Fund for the purpose of acquiring a residence for himself and family, or for any purpose approved by the Board. The Board may charge such rate of interest and arrange the loan on such terms as they may determine.

Purchase of homes.

PART VI.

BOARD OF MANAGEMENT.

70. The Governor shall from time to time appoint a State Provident Fund Management Board, which shall consist of a president and two members, one of whom shall be an actuary.

Constitution of Board.

71. Such Board shall be appointed for a term of seven years, and any member shall be eligible for reappointment.

Term of office.

72. Where an appointment is made to fill an extraordinary vacancy, such appointment shall be for the remainder of the term of the vacant office.

Extraordinary vacancies—appointments to fill.

73. In the case of the illness, suspension, or absence of the president or any member of the Board, the Governor may appoint a deputy to act for such president or member during his illness, suspension, or absence, and every such deputy shall during the time he acts as deputy have all the powers and authority of such president or member as the case may be.

Temporary appointments.

74. (1) A member of the Board may be suspended from his office by the Governor for misbehaviour or incompetence, but shall not be removed from office except as hereinafter provided. The Minister shall cause to be laid before Parliament a full statement of the grounds grounds of suspension within seven days after such suspension, if Parliament be in session and actually sitting, and when Parliament is not in session or not actually sitting, within seven days after the commencement of the next session or sitting.

Removal of

(2) A member of the board suspended under this section shall be restored to office unless each House of Parliament, within twenty-one days from the time when such statement has been laid before it, declares by resolution that the said member ought to be removed from office, and if each House of Parliament within the said time so declare, the said member shall be removed by the Governor accordingly.

Vacation of office.

75. A member of the Board shall be deemed to have vacated his office if he—

- (a) becomes bankrupt, compounds with his creditors, or makes an assignment of his salary or remuneration for their benefit;
- (b) being president, absents himself from duty for a period of fourteen consecutive days except on leave granted by the Governor; or, being a member other than the president, absents himself from three consecutive meetings of which reasonable notice has been given to him personally or in the ordinary course of post, except on leave granted by the Governor;
- (c) becomes incapable of performing his duties;
- (d) resigns his office by writing under his hand addressed to the Governor.

President's salary.

76. The president shall be the permanent administrative officer of the Board, shall preside at its meetings, and shall have a deliberative vote. He shall devote the whole of his time to the duties of his office, and shall be paid such salary as the Governor may determine.

Remuneration of other members.

77. The members of the Board other than the president shall each be paid such remuneration as the Governor may from time to time determine.

Quorum.

78. Two members of the Board shall constitute a quorum of the Board at any meeting of which reasonable notice has been given personally or by post to all the members; and any business transacted at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be valid.

79.

Superannuation.

79. Where the voting on any business is equal, such business shall be postponed till the next meeting of the Board, and notice of such business, and of the fact that the voting was equal, shall be given on the notice calling such next meeting. If the voting at such next meeting be again equal, the president may, in his discretion, further postpone such business, or may then or at any postponed consideration thereof, if the voting be again equal, give a casting vote and so decide the question at issue. Where voting equal.

80. The Board shall be a corporate body, having perpetual succession and a common seal. Such seal shall not be attached to any document except on resolution of the Board, and shall be authenticated by the signatures of two members of the Board and of the Secretary. Corporate body.

81. The Board may authorise the president to determine such matters as it may specify by resolution under seal, and may at any time in like manner revoke such authority. Delegation of power to president.

82. The staff of the Board shall be appointed under and be subject to the provisions of the Public Service Act, 1902, and any Acts amending that Act, and shall include a secretary and an actuary. Staff.

83. The cost of management shall be provided on the Estimates of the Colonial Treasurer, and shall be paid from the Consolidated Revenue. The moneys received and paid under this section, and the accounts in connection therewith, shall be kept, as part of the Public Accounts, separately from the moneys and accounts of the Fund. Cost of management.

84. The Board shall each year submit a report to Parliament, giving information as to its work, and as to any general decisions or principles adopted by it in the course thereof. Annual report to Parliament.

Superannuation.

PART VII.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Settlement of disputes.

85. Any dispute under this Act may be determined in the first place by the Board: Provided that any person aggrieved by a decision of the Board may appeal to the Minister, who shall thereupon refer the matter for opinion to a judge of the Supreme Court, and shall decide the point in accordance with such opinion. Such decision shall be final and conclusive and not subject to appeal.

Regulations.

86. The Governor may, on the recommendation of the Board, make regulations providing for matters expressed by this Act to be prescribed, and for the better carrying out of the provisions of the Act, and in such regulations may provide penalties for the breach thereof.

Returns.

87. The Board may at any time require any employer to furnish such returns with respect to his employees as the Board may decide, and may at any time require any employee to furnish such information as the Board may decide is necessary for the purpose of any investigation in connection with the Fund. If any such employer or employee neglect to furnish such information within a reasonable time, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

Assignment of pensions.

88. Pensions and other benefits under this Act shall not be in any way assigned or charged or passed by operation of law to any person other than the pensioner or beneficiary, and any moneys payable out of the Fund on the death of an employee or beneficiary shall not be assets for the payment of his debts or liabilities.

Power to recover.

89. The Board may recover contributions under the Act in any court of competent jurisdiction.

*Equation of payments.*Equation of payments.

such agreements may provide for the readjustment of such equated payments after each quinquennial investigation of the fund.

Additional regulations.

91. Where under this Act an employee may make any election or choice, regulations may be made under this Act prescribing the time within which such election or choice must be made, unless such time is stated in this Act. Additional regulations.

Extension of Act to shire and municipal councils.

92. The council of a shire or municipality or any person, corporation, or board may apply as prescribed that the provisions of this Act be extended to it or him. Extension of Act.

The Minister may in his discretion lay such application before Parliament, and if both Houses of Parliament approve, the Governor shall notify such approval in the Gazette, and thereupon such council, person, corporation, or board shall be an employer within the meaning of this Act, and the date of such notification shall be the date of the commencement of this Act, so far as it affects such council, person, corporation, or board, and its or his employees. In any such case sections thirty-four and thirty-five shall not apply to such council, person, corporation, or board, or its or his employees.

The Governor shall amend Schedule III to this Act by inserting therein the name of any council, person, corporation, or board, to which or to whom the provisions of this Act have been extended in pursuance of this section.

93. Nothing in subsection two of section twenty-one or in section thirty-four of this Act shall be taken to refer to any member of any of the bodies mentioned in Schedule Three. Certain provisions not to apply. Sch. Three.
