5. Details of breaches of move on directions (intoxication).

Pursuant to section 198 of the Law Enforcement Powers and Responsibilities Act 2002 (LEPRA), NSW Police officers can issue move on directions to persons who are intoxicated in public places.

Section 198 of LEPRA allows a police officer to give a direction to a person who is intoxicated in a public place, to leave the place and not return for a period of time (not exceeding six hours), if the police officer believes on reasonable grounds that the person's behaviour in the place, as a result of the intoxication (the relevant conduct):

- is likely to cause injury to any other person or persons, damage to property or otherwise give rise to a risk to public safety, or
- is disorderly.

A direction given by police under this section must be reasonable in the circumstances for the purpose of preventing the continuance of disorderly behaviour in a public place, preventing injury or damage, or reducing or eliminating a risk to public safety.

Police must comply with the safeguard requirements in section 201 of LEPRA when giving a move on direction. In addition to the general warnings to be given under section 201 (2C), a person who is given a move on direction for being intoxicated and disorderly must also be warned that it is an offence to be intoxicated and disorderly in that or any other public place at any time within 6 hours after the direction is given.

The penalty for continuing intoxicated behaviour after a move on direction is a penalty notice of $1100.

In the Sydney City Local Area Command there have been 67 instances where persons have breached move on directions issued under section 198 of LEPRA (Annexure 5).

In the Kings Cross Local Area Command there have been 165 instances where persons have breached move on directions issued under section 198 of LEPRA (Annexure 6).

6. *The time period for move on directions (intoxication).

A move on direction under section 198 of LEPRA is valid for 6 hours.

7. *Is there a cost recovery fee associated with the Sobering Up Centre?

The Sobering Up Centre issues a cost recovery notice to every person who is admitted to the facility, with the current cost of each notice being two hundred dollars.

In relation to the two supplementary questions posed in your correspondence, the NSW Police Force is of the view that these are best answered by those with transport responsibilities.

I trust this information assists the Inquiry.

Yours sincerely,

A P Scipione APM
Commissioner of Police
