

Answer to the following question taken on notice is attached below.

Mr ROBERT COOMBS: I am trying to get an idea of the overall cost. Has any modelling been done? I know it would be pretty rough, but you might base it on those candidates who got more than 4 per cent of the primary vote maybe get 50¢ or $1. Can you give us an idea of the overall cost involved in going to a public funding model?

Mr DeCELIS: No, there has not been any modelling done at this stage. The most substantial difficulty we have is that the disclosure obligations cover now a six-month period. I have figures that can tell me that for the disclosure period 1 July to 31 December 2008 what their full expenditure and income was for the six months. If you want to draw assumptions that that is all local government general election related, that might in itself have difficulties because that is probably not the case with parties.

CHAIR: It would be good if we had the evidence.

Mr DeCELIS: I can give those figures and then I can go back and extract figures as to who got 4 per cent. If you happen to draw the correlation between the two I can construct those, but I do not have them at the moment. I do have the figures for the disclosure amounts but we have not gone back and extracted and related those as to who did or did not get 4 per cent.
