2012 LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTIONS

Name: Name Suppressed

Date Received: 31/01/2013

It is time to move NOW on local government reform. Far too many council's exist in NSW and for example, in Sydney's east we have three - Randwick, Waverley & Woollahra and this should become a single council. (eg. "Sydney East")

If you go through suburbs like Double Bay, very little or any street cleaning appears to be ever done. In the inner-city, Ashfield, Leichardt and Marrickville should also become one council - the civic centre in Ashfield would be ideal with it's fairly new facilities.

Frankly, I would also take the axe to state & territory government's to. Australia overall, is vastly over-governed.

Burwood, Canada Bay & Strathfield council's should also be merged.
