MANAGEMENT OF SHARKS IN NEW SOUTH WALES WATERS

Name: Mr Stephen Kambouridis
Date Received: 22/09/2015

I am very concerned that this government is even considering the management, a euphemism for culling, of sharks. Every person who enters the water does so at their own risk and the sharks have every right to be left in peace. Infinitely more people are hurt on the road as they travel to holiday destinations than they do from shark attack. The idea that we can control what happens to a miniscule percentage of humans by killing a creature that is only doing what nature intended is utterly ridiculous.
