Dear Sir/Madam,

Re: Inquiry into downstream gas supply and availability in NSW

I was very interested to read an article in the Sydney Morning Herald inviting written submissions to your current inquiry into downstream gas supply and availability in NSW.

I wish to show my support into this inquiry and thank the NSW Government in their foresight to encourage an extension of existing distribution networks, particularly in regional areas.

I am a resident in the Lachlan Shire with a population of 7,500 and I live and run a medium size business in the community of Condobolin, the Shires headquarters. I positively believe that this area would benefit greatly in having natural gas connected. With the main line passing less than 50kms away it would not be hard to run an extension and pick up some smaller towns on the way. Industry and mining has increased in this area over the last few years and also would benefit from natural gas.

We hope that you consider very favourably our submission and those of our community.
