Hello

I am writing about the Countrylink bus service that stops at Cooma.

My first comment would be that we should be looking at restoring the train service to Cooma with a meaningful and useful timetable. From there coach services can branch off to the coast, Adaminably, and the snowy mountains.

Apart from this I would like to talk about the existing coach service that stops in Cooma and proceeds onto Canberra.

Why oh why doesn't the coach stop at Canberra airport????

Myself and others who need to catch a plane from Canberra, have to muck about and get a taxi from Canberra Railway Station to get to the airport,

It is obviously quite logical that Countrylink coaches should stop at the airport as well as the railway Station.

perhaps someone might reply to me on the logic of restoring train services to Cooma but more importantly having coaches stop at Canberra Airport.

Thankyou
