Submission 71 – Dr Paul Cooper

Commuter Parking in North West Sydney.

Trying to access parking at Schofields Railway Station is very difficult - resulting in parking great distances from the station. It is so bad that I no longer travel by train from Schofields but drive the extra distance to Seven Hills and park in the commuter parking station there. What is required at Schofields is a similar parking facility to the one at Seven Hills. If such parking facilities were available at rail stations the railway would attract many more patrons and reduce congestion on the roads.
