COERCIVE CONTROL IN DOMESTIC RELATIONSHIPS

I am a highly experienced professional with functioning as a Physician in Australia for 20 years. I have rarely realised the extent of coercive control and was made aware of this as abuse until I was advised to set boundaries in the relationship.

As an Professional I was astonished to discover at the other end of accepting abuse, which I defend at my work place. Relentless demonstrated coercive tactics that now I am aware of being used against males as me , and has taken a lot to bring it in open and loss if my loving children despite no events of any misdoings and potential homicide thatI had to extract myself out to survive.

All documents and rules favour woman and put men in negative light.

A gender neutral document (in full sense , not even covert way of favouring any sex) would be way to go.
