HISTORICAL DEVELOPMENT CONSENTS IN NSW

Name: Ms Janet Reynolds

Date Received: 27 May 2024

It has come to my attention that an area of environmental concern is still under an old law allowing developers to clear significant bush land that is a corridor for native wildlife. Since the laws were made we have had huge changes in understanding wildlife corridors and conservation concerns. This area on the NSW far south coast at Tura Beach is a very sensitive area and development would be disastrous for the ecosystem and wildlife. I ask that these old laws be repealed and replaced with new regulations that respond to present understanding of ecosystems and wildlife protection.
