NOTICE OF MOTION

Bicentenary of the Legislative Council and the Frontier Wars

Mr Buckingham says—

Mr PRESIDENT:

I give notice that on the next sitting day I will move:

1. That this House congratulates the President of the Legislative Council the Honourable Ben Franklin and staff for the organisation of “The Spark” series of seminars at Parliament House that explored the Act the brought Parliament and the Supreme Court to NSW.
2. That this House notes that this conference was a precursor to a series of events planned for next year to commemorate the Bicentenary of the NSW Legislative Council, Australia’s oldest parliament and the foundation for 200 years of parliamentary democracy and the rule of law.
3. Further, that this House notes that:
 - (a) The 14th of August next year, 2024, is the two-hundred-year commemoration of the colonial government’s declaration of martial law west of the Blue Mountains on the Wiradjuri nation.
 - (b) 11 days after the Declaration of Martial law the first meeting of the Legislative Council was held on the 25th of August 1824.
 - (c) The very first decision of the NSW Legislative Council was to appoint Lieutenant Governor Colonel William Stewart, who was integral to the formation and ultimately led the New South Wales Mounted Police who enforced British rule on the Wiradjuri Nation and Aboriginal nations across the colony.
 - (d) It is vitally important to consider the history and context of the Legislative Council’s formation at the time of what was openly acknowledged by settlers and government as a period of war or ‘Gudyarra’ against the Wiradjuri people – a war of dispossession and occupation.

the end in a

4. That this House calls on the Legislature and Bicentenary organising committee to strongly consider:
- (a) The history of the Wiradjuri Nation in the Bathurst region be recognised and respected.
 - (b) The role the NSW Legislative Council played in the administration and oversight of the British Empire's prosecution of the gudyarra/Wiradjuri war of resistance, and subsequent colonisation of Wiradjuri land be recognised and remembered as an integral part of commemorations.
 - (c) The previous Governments 'support in principle' for recommendation 17 of the Standing Committee on Social Issues Report 59 – review of the Heritage Act 1977 which states: "That the NSW Government allocate specific funding for an Aboriginal war Memorial Museum and work with Aboriginal people across New South Wales, including traditional owners to progress this proposal."
 - (d) In consultation with Wiradyuri Elders and knowledge holders from Wiradyuri Traditional Owners Central West Aboriginal Corporation and Bathurst Regional Council the funding and establishment of a state significant Wiradjuri cultural and history facility in Bathurst.

General Notice - Bicentenary of Legislative Council and consultation with First Nations people

Mr Lawrence says—

Mr PRESIDENT: I give notice that on the next sitting day I will move:

- (1) That this House notes that:
 - (a) the Bicentenary of the NSW Legislative council will be celebrated in 2024, marking 200 years since the first sitting of the Legislative Council on 25 August 1824,
 - (b) 1824 was a time of extensive conflict between the new colony of New South Wales and Aboriginal people who were resisting colonial expansion and the occupation and dispossession of their land, and
 - (c) on 14 August 1824, eleven days before the first meeting of the Legislative Council, such conflict led to martial law being declared in the colony of New South Wales west of the Blue Mountains.
- (2) That this House notes that:
 - (a) the establishment of the Legislative Council was a key recommendation of a Commission of Inquiry, headed by Commissioner John Thomas Bigge, established by the British Government to carry out a wide-ranging commission of inquiry into the state of the colony,
 - (b) the Bigge Commission of Inquiry took place between 1819 and 1823, with its findings being published in three reports between 1821 and 1823,
 - (c) the Bigge inquiry also made decisive and far-reaching recommendations related to the expansion of the colony west and the further dispossession of land from Aboriginal people, and

- (d) these recommendations were swiftly acted upon and led directly to a war between Aboriginal people and the colonial state west of the Blue Mountains between 1822 and 1824.
- (3) That this House notes that in its first sitting the new Legislative Council made a decision to appoint as Lieutenant Governor, Colonel William Stewart, a British soldier charged with establishing the Mounted Police, who were to play a leading role in subsequent punitive actions against Aboriginal people resisting colonial expansion.
- (4) That this House notes that the establishment of the Legislative Council is inextricably linked to colonial expansion, war and dispossession and the legitimate resistance of Aboriginal people.
- (5) That this House notes that while the establishment of the Legislative Council is a significant milestone in the development of the colony it is also therefore a key milestone in the history of the tragic ensuing events, which included the dispossession of Aboriginal people of the land and the enactment of legislation and policies including child removal, that collectively constitute a stain on Australia's history.
- (6) That this House calls on this Parliament and the Bicentenary organising committee to consult with Aboriginal people as to whether and how to prominently recognise this history as an integral part of the upcoming Bicentenary events.
