FAZIO, THE HON. AMANDA RUTH MLC

GRIFFIN, THE HON. KAYEE FRANCESS MLC

Casting vote by Chair of Committees—PDp 5033

Decisions/rulings in committee of the whole—

Amendments

Standing order 102 (4) states that a member may request that amendments that have more than one part be dealt with sequentially. (PDp 2038)

The Committee is not precluded from agreeing to an amendment that is inconsistent with another amendment that has already been agreed to. A member cannot, however, move an amendment that is in conflict with an amendment that has been agreed to. (PDp 2096)

Technically, a member may move amendments separately, even if by doing so the result may render the bill nonsensical. (PDp 11749-50)

An amendment is not out of order simply on the grounds that if it were agreed to the bill would be unusual. (PDp 13239)

It is not in order to move that a clause be deleted. However, a member can argue that members should not vote in favour of the clause standing a clause of the bill. (PDp 16726)

The Chair referred to Erskine May and reminded members that an amendment is out of order if it is vague, trifling or tendered in a spirit of mockery. However, the Chair advised members that she proposed to allow the amendments to be moved to enable members to speak to them. (PDp 26361)

When the committee is considering a Legislative Assembly amendment to a Legislative Council's amendment in a bill, debate is confined to the Legislative Assembly's amendment to the Council's amendment. (PDp 25561)

Dissent from Chairs ruling

If a member wishes to object to a ruling of the Chair, they must comply with standing order 178, which requires that an objection must be stated at once in writing. (PD p. 8866)

Debate

Members must confine their remarks to amendments under consideration and not make broad comments. (PDp 12428)

- Rulings and Observations of, (including Deputy Pres.)—
 Adjournment of debate
 Debate on a motion to adjourn debate is confined to comments as to whether debate should or should not be adjourned. However, the substantive motion can be referred to. (PDp. 18351-3)
 When a Parliamentary Secretary speaks to the adjournment and there is no other Minister or Parliamentary Secretary in the Chamber, the Parliamentary Secretary is speaking in reply and closes debate. (PDp. 7416)
- As a matter of urgency SO 201
 When addressing the urgency of the matter, members should restrict their comments to the terms of the motion and not the substance of the matter. (PDp. 285)
 When speaking to any motion, including one seeking urgency, members should bear in mind the comments of President Johnson, who ruled on 26 February and 19 November 1987: In debating a procedural motion, members should restrict their comments to the terms of the motion and not the substance of the matter. (PDp. 9720)
- Adjournment of the House
 Special adjournment
 The provisions in the standing orders to enable the President to recall the House at the request of an absolute majority of members is not altered by the usual resolution for special adjournment adopted at the conclusion of a parliamentary session which fixes the day and time of the next meeting of the House unless the President, or if the President is unable to act on account of illness or other cause the Deputy President, fixes an alternative day or hour of meeting. (PDp. 20548)
- Anticipation
 The rule of anticipation does not apply to a question that relates to a matter the subject of a notice of motion given this day for leave to bring in a bill, as the matter is not yet on the Notice Paper. (PDp. 4371)
 It is in order to refer to government legislation that has been considered by the House, but not to government legislation that is on the Notice Paper. (PDp. 18675)
 It is not anticipation to ask a question regarding an order of the day for an item of private members' business outside the order of precedence. (PDp. 5484)
 If a Minister's response to a question anticipates debate on a bill that is currently before the House, the response is out of order, even if the response is relevant to the question asked. (PDp. 9220)
- Bills
 Second reading
 Although contributions of members must be relevant to the question before the Chair, during debate on the second reading of a bill members may make wide-ranging contributions. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 5724, 22321, 27100, 27101, 28085)
 This chamber has always allowed wide latitude to members making speeches on the second reading of bills but comments should generally be within the leave of the long title of the bill. (Numerous rulings including— PD 5728, 20179, 22321, 28085)
 Former Presidents have ruled that it is in order for members to explore various alternatives to the leave of the bill being debated. However, it is not in order for members to make broad-ranging comments that are outside that leave. (PDp. 5852)
 Contributions that are within the leave of the long title of the bill and its explanatory notes are in order. (PDp. 9206)
 With regard to debate on bills, the contributions of members must be more than generally relevant; they must be relevant. A determinant of what is relevant is the long title of the bill. Some degree of latitude is given to permit wide-ranging debate on bills, but only if the contributions of members remain relevant to the long title of the bill. (PDp. 12187)
 Members should confine their comments to matters covered by the bill before the House. Members should not speak to other bills that are on the Notice Paper. (PDp. 18682)

Although, by tradition, debates in this House may be wide-ranging, because the bill before the Chair has in its title the words “education”, “school” and “attendance” does not mean that members are free to range over anything to do with education, school and attendance. (PDp. 18696)

Urgent bills

According to sessional order, the question “that the bill be considered an urgent bill” is to be decided without debate, except for a statement not exceeding 10 minutes each by a Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, or a member nominated by the Leader of the Opposition, and a statement not exceeding five minutes each by two crossbench members. As the Leader of the Opposition has spoken, no other member of the Opposition can now speak. (PDp. 19666)

Business of the House

In the absence of a Minister or Parliamentary Secretary, according to precedent, the President must leave the Chair until the ringing of a long bell. (PDp. 16728)

Committees

Disclosure of evidence before committees

Unless there is overwhelming evidence to the contrary, the Chair is obliged to accept the advice of the member that they are not reading on to the record in-camera evidence of a committee not reported to the House. However, members should exercise restraint where there is a likelihood that their speech could interfere with the workings of a committee appointed by this House. (PDpp. 7187, 7209)

Debate—Rules of

Members must address their remarks through the Chair. (Numerous rulings including –PDp. 430, 20010, 21512)

Members speaking should not address remarks to persons in the gallery who have no right of reply. Members should address their remarks to the Chair. (PDp. 20540)

Members should not converse across the table but should address the Chair when speaking. (PDp. 409, 17678, 27658)

Members must not address members across the Chamber while the Chair is attempting to rule on a point of order. (PDp. 27065, 27645)

Members should treat one another civilly and with respect even when they are addressing a point of view put by another member with which they do not agree. (Dp. 27469)

Members should show respect to the member with the call by listening to their contribution in silence. (PDp. 27684)

There is no standing order that prohibits sarcasm. (PDp. 304)

Members are not required to physically look at the Chair while making a speech. However, they must address their comments to the Chair and not directly to another member. Members may make a general address to the Chamber provided that they do not engage in a private conversation or discussion with another member. (PDp. 10900)

The prime privilege of members is to be heard. All members must respect the right of members to exercise that privilege. Members should temper their emotions and respect the rights of other members when the House is dealing with emotional issues. (PDp. 19482)

Debate on motion to discharge an order of the day

As the standing orders do not prohibit debate on the motion to discharge an order of the day from the Notice Paper, and as this is a House of review, members should be able to debate such a motion. (PDp. 17064)

Debate on motion to suspend standing and sessional orders

On a motion to suspend standing orders, members must confine their remarks to debating whether standing and sessional orders should be suspended, and not debate the substantive motion. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 18349, 24400)

Members must abide by the standing orders and confine their remarks to establishing urgency. (PDp. 24399, 26501/2)

The case for urgency is not made by a member repeating the words, “This matter is urgent because” and then speaking on the substantive motion. (PDp. 686/7)

When making a case for suspending standing and sessional orders, members should not address the substantive issues of the matter any more than is necessary to justify the suspension of standing and sessional orders. (PDp. 4471, 15087, 18822)

Arguing the importance of the matter is not the same as arguing its urgency. (PDp. 13691)

The ruling of President Willis on 15 September 1993 relating to the latitude of debate when establishing urgency of a matter of public interest is not relevant to the latitude of debate on the suspension of standing orders. (PDp. 13692)

The only comments that are in order are those that relate to why one item of business should proceed and other items should consequently be delayed. Members must confine their remarks to why their item is more urgent than other items on the Notice Paper. (Numerous rulings including –PDp. 16649, 21273, 24728)

When speaking on the motion for the suspension of standing orders, members should speak only about the urgency of the matter, not about the motives of the member in moving the motion. (PDp. 26533)

When speaking for the suspension of standing orders, members should address why an item of business is more important than any other item on the Notice Paper (PDp. 18821, 19472, 22629)

Members should direct their remarks to the matter of urgency. However, in doing so, they are not precluded from speaking about parts of the motion. (PDp. 24557, 24942)

Dilatory motions

Members must make it clear to the House when the motion they are moving is a dilatory motion. The motion of the member “That this debate be now adjourned” is out of order as the member did not make his intentions clear. (PDp 20921)

Manner of delivery

An adjournment debate enables members to put issues to the House, but not in a manner that other members cannot understand. Members are requested to speak slowly so that Hansard and other members can understand. (PDp. 5510,11)

Repetition

The Chair is reluctant to declare the contribution of any member boring, tedious or repetitious unless it is absolutely necessary to do so. However, members must ensure that their remarks do not simply reiterate the same points. ( PDp. 8819)

Reply

As the contributions of members to second reading debates may be wide ranging, equally any reply to those contributions may also be wide ranging. (PDp. 16691)

Traditionally, wide-ranging debate is encouraged in this place thus enabling members to speak as broadly as possible. However, members speaking in reply should endeavour to speak only to matters that have been raised in the debate by other members. President Johnson ruled that when speaking in reply a member is entitled to reply to assertions that have been made by other members during debate. He ruled also that when speaking in reply, members should relate their remarks as far as possible to the debate that has already taken place. Members should not introduce new material when speaking in reply but may reply to assertions made by members in their contributions, whether implied or specific. (PDp. 17686)

- Seeking the call
- Standing orders state clearly that members must rise and seek the call. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 1459)
  - When members seek the call they should stand in their place and call out something akin to the words “Mr President”. A member will then be given the call and can either speak from where he or she is standing or, preferably, come forward and address the House from the table. (PDp. 801, 6797, 16615)
- Divisions
- There is no provision in the standing orders to withdraw leave given under SO 114(4) for bells to be rung for one minute only. (PDp. 4524)
- Formal business
- An item of business to which objection was taken to the matter proceeding as a formal motion is not, for the purposes of Standing Order 65 (3)(a), a matter that has been debated “within the current session”. (PDp. 7206)
- Interjections
- Interjections are disorderly at all times. (Numerous rulings including—PDp. 19813, 19819)
  - If members want to contribute to the debate, they should seek the call at the appropriate time rather than interject on the member who has the call. (PDp. 4233, 26741)
  - Members should be careful when interjecting as their comments may be misinterpreted. (PDp. 27829)
  - Members should allow Ministers to answer their questions without interruption. (PDp. 5067, 14320)
  - Although strictly disorderly, interjections are tolerated if they facilitate debate and meaningful discussion across the chamber. Interjections will not be tolerated if disruptive, such that members are unable to hear the responses of Ministers to questions asked of them. (PDp. 10459)
  - As noted in Odgers’ Australian Senate Practice, interjections are contrary to the standing orders and are disorderly at all times. By tradition, the Chair tolerates interjections that are not disruptive, particularly if they facilitate the exchange of views and arguments in debate. However, the Chair will not tolerate disruptive interjections. (PDp. 2072, 3363)
  - Members will not be prevented from interjecting when it is part of the flow of debate, only when it interferes with debate. (PDp. 14326)
  - A practice has developed in this House of members acknowledging interjections, which are disorderly at all times. In accordance with tradition the Chair tolerates interjections that facilitate debate and argument. However, the fundamental privilege of the member with the call to speak freely and be heard is breached when other members continually interject. The Chair will not interfere so long as the interjections facilitate debate and do not cause disruption and infringe on a member’s fundamental privilege to be heard. (PDp. 16631)
  - Members should allow the free flow of debate in this Chamber. The prime privilege of members in this place is the ability to be heard. Members should not interject solely for the purpose of preventing another member from expressing a point of view. (PDp. 18093)
  - The level of interjection should not be such that Ministers answering questions have to shout to be heard. (PDp. 19648)
  - Interjections are disorderly, whether acknowledged or not. (PDp. 1180)
  - Members should ignore interjections. (Numerous rulings including—PDp. 22510, 28060)
  - Members giving notices of motions must not respond to interjections. (PDp. 28626)
- Members
- Conduct
- Members may not converse with people in the public gallery. (Numerous rulings including –PDp. 3177, 9655, 26888)
  - It is unparliamentary to use props in Parliament. (Numerous rulings including—PDp. 3892, 20908, 28817)
  - It is in order for a member to refer to a newspaper article during debate, but it is not appropriate to display the article. (PDp. 25952)
  - Members should remain seated while the member with the call is speaking. (PDp. 685, 1451, 1811, 17530)
  - Placing bets in the Chamber is against the standing orders. (PDp. 20536)
- Conduct - noise or interruption in chamber
- If members wish to converse they should do so outside the chamber. (Numerous rulings including—PDp. 13659,66, 25818, 27436)
  - Audible private conversations make it difficult for the Chair and members to hear contributions to debate. Members wishing to engage in private conversations should retire to the members’ lounge. Such behaviour is disrespectful not only to the member with the call but to the Chamber as a whole. (PDp. 18114)
  - Members should be heard in silence. (Numerous rulings including—(PDp. 413, 19832, 25098, 25116)
  - The attention of members listening to debate should not be distracted by constant interruption from other members in the President’s gallery. (PDp. 4646, 4827)
  - The member with the call should speak through the Chair and all other members should listen to the contribution without interruption. (PDp. 11773, 18527)
  - Members who persist with disrupting behaviour will be prevented from participating further in the debate. Despite a divergence of views, members should respect the traditions of the House and allow debate to proceed in an orderly manner. (PDp. 9065)
  - It is not appropriate to clap in the Chamber. (PDp. 20928)
- Conflict of interest SO 113,210
- The standing orders of this House refer to pecuniary interest not to conflict of interest, and they prohibit members from voting in a division or serving on a committee inquiry into matters in which they have a direct pecuniary interest not in common with the general public or matters of public policy... The disclosure of pecuniary interest by a member is designed to prevent any potential conflict of interest developing between a member’s public and private interests. The fact that a member’s spouse, child, mother, grandparent, nephew or cousin is standing for election to another Parliament does not amount to a conflict of interest and does not require disclosure in the pecuniary interests register. ( PDp. 2679)
  - A member may not vote in any decision on a question in which the member has a direct pecuniary interest, unless it is in common with the general public or it is on a matter of state policy. ( PDp. 4062)
- Courtesy to the Chair SO 84
- Members should not turn their backs on the Chair. (PDp. 187)
- Use of electronic devices and cameras
- For the same reason that it is regarded as discourteous for members to read newspapers in the Chamber, it is discourteous also for members to use electronic devices. (PDp. 3025)
  - The principle to be observed in relation to the use of electronic devices in the Chamber is that their use should not interrupt or disturb proceedings. Members can bring mobile phones and BlackBerry devices into the Chamber provided they are set on silent mode, and can use them to send messages and emails. The use of laptops in the Chamber is acceptable, including the

- reading of newspapers online, provided that their use does not interrupt the proceedings of the House. The use of cameras by members in the House when the House is sitting is not acceptable, this includes the use of camera phones. (PDp. 13014_)
- Members must not use mobile phones to take or receive calls and the taking of photographs in the Chamber with a mobile phone is prohibited. (PDp. 27415)
- Members must ensure that their mobile phones are set to silent. (PDp. 19990, 20381, 27252)
- Members must not engage in telephone conversations whilst addressing the House. (PDp. 23525)
- Suspension of member for gross disorder
- A member, in refusing to withdraw remarks ruled offensive by the Chair, is guilty of gross disorder. (PDp. 1464, 1467)
- Notices of motions
- Members should not engage in discussion and debate, or respond to interjections, when giving notice of a motion. (PDp. 22274, 25214)
- Offensive expressions
- Exception to a remark made in debate must be taken by the member to whom the remark is directed. (PDp. 15779)
- When a person is in public life and a Member of Parliament, the risk of being criticised in a political way must be taken. Politics is not an area for sensitive persons. In the course of debate when Members canvass the opinions and conduct of their opponents, they must expect criticism. (PDp. 14180)
- A member cannot take a point of order that a member was using an offensive expression if the member was addressing a member privately and not addressing the House at the time the expression was used. (PDp. 19647)
- Applies to individuals, not groups
- A remark is offensive only if it was made with respect to an individual and not to a group. (Numerous rulings including - PDp. 3010, 18356, 20526)
- A number of Presidents have ruled that, with some exceptions, collective insults are allowed. (PDp. 6346)
- There is a distinction between expressions applied to an individual member and those applied to a group of members. However, some expressions may be so offensive that even when applied to a group rather than an individual they may be regarded as unparliamentary. All members should seek to use good temper and moderation when canvassing the opinions and conduct of opponents in debate. (PDp. 18989)
- Members may not refer to another member of the House as "a liar" or as "lying". (Numerous rulings including - PDp. 11153)
- It is unparliamentary to call another member a "liar", but it is not unparliamentary for a member to refer to "lies". (PDp. 28255)
- Referring to a member as "an idiot" and "a buffoon" ruled unparliamentary. (PDp. 796)
- An allegation that the member supported the Federal Treasurer in dodging taxes ruled offensive. (PDp. 1467)
- Referring to a member as a "grub" ruled offensive. (PDp. 3009 )
- Accusing a member of involvement in organised crime ruled offensive. (PDp. 3010)
- "Absolute crap" ruled unparliamentary. (PDp. 3015 )
- Accusing a member of having been in the staff bar ruled offensive. (PDp. 6374)
- Referring to a member as "a two-faced, backstabbing, double-dealing bastard" ruled unparliamentary. (PDp. 11067)
- Indicating that a member had "bowed to blackmail" ruled offensive. (PDp. 12324)
- Referring to a member as "the Underbelly of the Labor Party" ruled offensive. (PDp. 17677)
- Referring to a member as a "dunderhead" ruled offensive and withdrawn. (PDp. 19465)
- "Whinger" ruled offensive and withdrawn. (PDp. 21257)
- Allegation that a member was "working to wind down the activities of the forest industry" ruled offensive and withdrawn. (PDp. 22445)
- "Cowboy" ruled offensive and withdrawn. (PDp. 22659)
- "Bovver boy" ruled unparliamentary. (PDp. 23193)
- Referring to a member as being "happy as a proverbial pig" ruled unparliamentary and withdrawn. (PDp. 27468)
- Referring to a member's "lies" ruled offensive but referring to a "smear" ruled not unparliamentary. (PDp. 28256)
- Papers
- It is not appropriate for the Chair or other members of the House to question the member with the call when that member has assured the House that the matter being read onto the record is not material provided to the House under standing order 52 and subject to a claim of privilege. (PDp. 17266)
- Order for Papers—Administration of Justice
- Documents relating to legal action fall within the administration of justice. Under standing order 53, they may only be requested in the form of an address to the Governor. (PDp. 16638)
- Standing order 56 applies only to documents quoted by Ministers in debate and not to documents quoted by private members. (PDp. 17672)
- Personal explanations
- Personal explanations must be within the leave granted by the House. (PDp. 306)
- A member may, with the leave of the House, explain how his or her honour, character or integrity has been reflected upon but must not debate the subject matter of the explanation. Leave may be withdrawn at any time if the member contravenes the standing order. (PDp. 10468)
- Petitions
- Irregular petitions – change in procedure for suspending standing orders
- Previously, members sought the leave of the House to move a motion to suspend standing orders to allow the presentation of an irregular petition. In future, if a member obtains the leave of the House to suspend standing orders, that will be considered sufficient to allow the member to present the irregular petition. (PDp. 20675)
- Points of order
- Members may not use points of order to make a debating point. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 28258)
- It is not a point of order for a member to claim that he or she has been misrepresented. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 26289)
- There is no point of order on misleading the House. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 10903, 11338, 12189, 19465, 25100)
- Members must not take frivolous points of order. (PDp. 2858)
- A point of order is not required for the Chair to rule that a question is in contravention of the standing orders. (PDp. 7647)
- There is no point of order that a member distorted facts. (PDp. 12193)
- There is no point of order that a member distorted what another member said. (PDp. 12359)
- Members who wish to take a point of order must wait until they are given the call before they speak. (PDp. 26359)
- Debate on
- Members must relate a subsequent point of order to the original point of order. (PDp. 3898, 4019)
- In speaking to a point of order it is not in order for a member to comment on the quality or otherwise of the point of order raised. (PDp. 9747)

- Members must speak to the point of order, not to the substantive comments that were the subject of the point of order. (PDp. 18397)
- Members must speak to the point of order, not to the substantive comments that were the subject of the point of order. (PDp. 18397)
- When a point of order is taken, the member who has been interrupted must resume their seat. (PDp. 28810)
- Privilege
- Committee between the Houses
- A notice of motion for a select committee to inquire into and report on the effectiveness of current laws, practices and procedures in protecting Government employees who make allegations against government officials or parliamentarians, with particular reference to the treatment by the Legislative Assembly of a former employee, is in contravention of the principle of sole cognisance of the Houses, and the principles of comity and mutual respect between the Houses, and is out of order. (PDp. 8100/1, 8620/1)
- A matter of privilege arises if a member who intends to speak in debate is physically prevented from entering the Chamber. (PDp. 16468)
- Questions and answers
- Questions may be put to Ministers relating to public affairs with which the Minister is officially connected, to proceedings pending in the House or to any matter of administration for which the Minister is responsible. (Numerous rulings including –PDp. 6950, 26296)
- Questions may be put to Ministers relating to public affairs with which the Minister is officially connected. Matters relating to a foreign government do not come under the purview of a Minister in this House. (PDp. 14025)
- A question relating to the rewriting of a political party's platform is out of order as it is not a question relating to the public affairs with which a Minister is officially connected, to proceedings pending in the House, or to any matter of administration for which a Minister is responsible. (PDp. 14177)
- A question may be put to the Chair of a committee in regard to an inquiry on which the committee has not yet reported if it is in relation to the administrative operations of the committee. (PDp. 18949, 50)
- Supplementary questions
- Supplementary questions must be directly related to the answer given by the Minister and must seek to elucidate, that is, make the answer clearer. (PDp. 19470, 24849)
- Using the word "elucidate" in a question that contains additional information is not sufficient to make it a supplementary question. (PDp. 7650)
- Any question that does not seek elucidation of a Minister's answer is out of order as a supplementary question. A supplementary question must arise out of the answer given by the Minister. (PDp. 18513)
- A supplementary question that asks for further information is not asking for elucidation of the answer and is out of order. (PDp. 23815)
- Using the word "elucidate" in a question then repeating part of the original question does not make it a supplementary question. A supplementary question must only ask for elucidation of the answer. (PDp. 23816)
- A member cannot ask a supplementary question by repeating the original question. (PDp. 8411, 18361)
- A supplementary question that merely repeats part of the original question is out of order. (PDp. 10210, 13002)
- A supplementary question must seek clarification of the previous answer and must not contain new material. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 4207, 16276)
- A supplementary question is out of order if it seeks information not referred to in the Minister's answer. (PDp. 7059)
- When a question has been ruled out of order as a supplementary question it is not in order for the member who asked the question to then seek to ask another supplementary question. (PDp. 21264)
- A supplementary question cannot be asked to elucidate a one-word answer. (PDp. 24954)
- A supplementary question can only be asked by the member who asked the original question. (PDp. 24959, 27072)
- A supplementary question cannot be asked if the Minister answered "I refer to my previous answer". (PDp. 26291)
- A supplementary question cannot be asked if the Minister gave a formal answer such as "I will refer the question to another Minister". (PDp. 27066)
- Questions - rules for
- It is out of order for members to ask for expressions of opinion. However, a question requesting that a Minister explain the rationale behind a decision is in order. (PDp. 16279)
- Questions may not contain arguments, inferences or imputations, epithets, ironical or offensive expressions or inferences against a member. (Numerous rulings including –PDp. 13355, 21941, 24377/8)
- The part of a question alleging that a member is of an "impartial" and "unprejudiced mind" ruled argumentative and out of order. (PDp. 21136)
- A question must not ask for a statement or announcement of the government's policy, and it is a matter for the Minister to determine whether a question involves a statement of government policy. (PDp. 177)
- Questions must not ask for a statement of government policy, but may ask for an undertaking from the Minister. (PDp. 23162)
- Questions must not ask for a statement of government policy, but a question may seek an explanation of government policy; ask a Minister about the effects of a proposal on the Minister's portfolio; ask about the government's intentions and the reasons for those intentions; and seek clarification of a statement made by a Minister. (PDp. 13358)
- Questions containing statements of fact or names of persons, unless they are strictly necessary to render the question intelligible and can be authenticated, are out of order. (PDp. 4209)
- It is not possible for the Chair to determine the veracity of facts presented by members in questions. The standing orders require that any facts presented should be limited to those that will make the question understandable. Any member who makes an assertion thereby attests to the veracity of that assertion. (PDp. 4214/5)
- Answers
- Answers should be relevant to the question asked. However, some generality is always allowed in answering a question. (PDp. 984)
- In answering a question a Minister has two requirements: the answer must be relevant and the Minister must not debate the question. (PDp. 17824)
- A Minister may not debate the question, but that does not include the issue to which the question referred. (PDp. 18948, 22819)
- Although a Minister may not debate a question, he or she is not restricted from debating the issue to which the question refers. (PDp. 11341, 18948)
- The Chair cannot direct a Minister how to answer a question. (PDp. 13229, 14175, PDp. 15104)
- As long as an answer pertains to or bears upon the question it is within order. It is not for the Chair to direct a Minister how to answer a question. There is a long line of authority indicating that provided a Minister complies with the general rules of

- debate, he or she may answer as he or she sees fit. (PDp. 13348)
- A member is entitled to ask a Minister to elucidate any aspect of an answer. However, the Minister may decline to do so. (PDp. 4844)
- Although a question must not seek an opinion of a Minister, a Minister can give an opinion in his or her response to a question. (PDp. 4016)
- Members should not engage in the use of epithets when answering questions. (PDp. 8812)
- Answers should not contain inferences or imputations. (PDp. 13355)
- Answers containing imputations of improper motives and personal reflections are out of order. (PDp. 17495)
- Reflections
- Members must not make reflections on the ability of the Chair to control behavior within the House. (PDp. 25815)
- Members must not cast aspersions or imputations on another member except by way of a substantive motion. (PDp. 23639)
- Imputations of improper motives and all personal reflections on members are disorderly. (PDp. 17687, 21439, 21440)
- A member must not use a newspaper article as a means of casting aspersions against or making imputations about another member. (PDp. 2315, 12989)
- Imputations of improper motives and all personal reflections on either House are disorderly. There need not be a clear-cut allegation for comments to be out of order. (PDp. 9081)
- Usually a request for the withdrawal of remarks regarded as offensive is made by the member against whom the remarks are levelled. However, that is not a requirement of the standing orders. (PDp. 9827)
- The use of epithets by members, whilst contrary to the standing orders when asking questions, is not contrary to the standing orders when debating motions. However, it is contrary to the practice of this House to refer to other members by anything other than their correct title. (PDp. 14844)
- Although members may be tempted to respond to imputations made by others, such responses are inappropriate and contrary to the standing orders. (PDp. 18096)
- Members should exercise their privilege of free speech with good sense and good taste and seek to distinguish between those remarks that are offensive in a political way and those offensive in a personal way. (PDp. 18135)
- Asserting that a minister is ignorant of an issue is not the same as asserting that the minister is ignorant, and is not out of order. (PDp. 23317)
- Claiming that an amendment is not genuine and moved in an attempt to harm the successful passage of the bill is an imputation of improper motive and is out of order. (PDp. 25372)
- The formal title of members of the Legislative Council is "the Honourable". Members may choose not to use that title. However, in the records of the House members are formally referred to as "the Honourable". (PDp. 25239)
- There is no standing order relating to reflections on former members. (PDp. 9923)
- Reflections on members of the Assembly SO 91
- Imputations against members of this House or of another House are out of order unless raised by substantive motion. (PDp. 20044, 23639)
- It is not in order to impugn members of either House, suggest improper motives or make personal reflections. (PDp. 16633)
- While imputations against members in the other Chamber are disorderly, only a member who is personally aggrieved by a statement can ask for the statement to be withdrawn. (PDp. 20704)
- Relevancy
- The contributions of members must be relevant to the question before the House. However, by tradition, debate in this House may be broad ranging. (PDp. 18248)
- Role of President
- It is not the practice of the Chair to seek to intervene in debate. However, it is the practice of the Chair to seek to uphold the standing orders of the House. (PDp. 3895)
- Members may not canvass or flout rulings of the Chair. (Numerous rulings including – PDp. 9739, 27425)
- Standing orders
- A motion to suspend standing and sessional orders cannot be moved during debate on another motion. (PDp. 198)
- There is nothing to prevent a member from seeking to suspend standing and sessional orders to bring on another item of business during the time set aside for debate on committee reports when there is no business immediately before the House. (PDp. 6231/2)
- Strangers
- Advisors in the President's gallery should remain silent. (PDp. 15138)
- It is disorderly for a person in the public gallery to converse with a member seated in the chamber. (PDp. 11349)
- People in the public gallery must be quiet or they will be removed. (PDp. 8586)
- Members of the public are most welcome but they must not comment or disrupt the proceedings. (PDp. 15763)
- People in the President's Gallery must show respect and desist from conversing loudly while members are speaking. (PDp. 2102, 10876, 14572)
- Visitor's in the public gallery should observe the forms of the House. (PDp. 15737)
- Members of the public are welcome in this Chamber. However, it is expected that visitors in the public gallery will observe the normal courtesies that the House demands and not attempt to participate in or disrupt proceedings. Various Presidents' rulings have prescribed the behaviour expected of visitors. It is disorderly for a person in the public gallery to interject or make comments, or to attempt to communicate directly with members in the Chamber. Furthermore, visitors may not applaud, use mobile phones or cameras, or pass messages to members in the Chamber. Anyone in the gallery who does not abide by the standards of behaviour expected or who seeks to interfere with proceedings in the Chamber will be asked or directed to leave the gallery. (PDp. 15752)
- Sub judice
- When determining whether a question should be disallowed under the sub judice convention on the grounds that the matter is currently before the courts, the Chair should be persuaded by the rulings of previous Presidents, who have been guided by a presumption for discussion rather than against it. In particular two rulings by former President Johnson in 1990 enunciate the principle that Parliament should not be precluded from discussing something which is generally being discussed in the media. (PDp. 173)
- The sub judice convention is a restriction that the House voluntarily imposes on itself, rather than a rule or order that must be followed. It is designed to avoid prejudice to court proceedings or harm to specific individuals through public discussion in the House. In a significant ruling delivered in 1990, President Johnson detailed the guidelines to be followed when considering whether a matter is sub judice. I draw the attention of the House to a number of points in that ruling. (PDp. 6250/1)
