

INQUIRY INTO THE NSW GOVERNMENT'S USE AND MANAGEMENT OF CONSULTING SERVICES

HEARING – WEDNESDAY 6 SEPTEMBER 2023

HUNTER WATER

QUESTIONS ON NOTICE

QUESTION ON NOTICE 1

The CHAIR: Thank you very much. I start by thanking you for two different reasons; one is for having the managing director and CFO attend. I'm sure you will be able to answer our questions, so thank you for taking the time out at that senior level. Secondly, thank you for not having sought those exemptions and for providing annual reports that have a level of detail around your use of consultants already. One issue, though, that I'd like to bring up with you is that under the tables—at least for the last three years—under "consultancies", under the heading "consultant", when we get to the project level, on at least one occasion in every year you've written "various consultancy services", which is not particularly useful. We already know that they're consultants sitting under a consultancies table. For example, GHD was the largest consultancy spend in 2020 at $1.6 million, and it just says "various consultancy services". What can you tell me about that?

DARREN CLEARY: I can take that on notice and provide a more detailed breakdown. The reason that it is aggregated—and it goes to this issue which was raised in the previous questioning, and I'm not trying to be difficult—is the definition between "professional service" and "consulting". GHD is a major service provider for Hunter Water, providing services across a range of activities, including things we would identify as professional services—for example, design services—through to advisory services such as our dam safety work and providing expert advice on dam safety risk assessments. So the aggregation is because it's across a range of services. In some cases, it could be one engagement that covers both consulting services and professional services. I don't have the specifics so I'll take it on notice and we can provide a more detailed breakdown.

ANSWER:

Hunter Water reports its consultancy expenditure to the Parliament annually as part of its Annual Report, consistent with the requirements of the Government Sector Finance Act 2018 and related Treasury policies. Consultant expenditure forms part of the Financial Statements, audited by the NSW Auditor General (for example, see Note 24 of Hunter Water's 2022 Annual Report).

In response to Supplementary Question on Notice 1, Hunter Water has provided a detailed spreadsheet documenting all professional services engagements since 2017 (inclusive of consultancies).

Since 2017, GHD Pty Ltd has undertaken 52 professional services engagements for Hunter Water, including providing detailed expertise for the Chichester Dam Safety Review and Risk Assessment, future biosolids management options, and providing advice to inform a new framework to service future growth areas.

Further detail on GHD Pty Ltd and other professional services engagements is provided in the spreadsheets responding to the Committee's Supplementary Question on Notice 1.

QUESTION ON NOTICE 2

The CHAIR: Are you able to tell us how many professional services contractors you have working at Hunter Water?

DARREN CLEARLY: In terms of the number of people, the answer is no. I don't have that information readily available. The reason being is, frankly, we don't track it. To the earlier questioning, obviously we track who comes into our building. But if we're talking about a professional service contract, many of the people, for example, working on a design for us—they don't come to our building. And it goes up and down; it fluctuates. I'm not trying to be difficult, but in terms of the number of people at any one time working for us, it's not a number that we specifically track. What we could do is get the total expenditure. And, of course, we can come up with an estimate based upon an averaging of a salary, so we can provide that information. But we don't track the numbers of people for that reason.

The CHAIR: That's very interesting. That's useful, because I think we're talking at cross-purposes then. What we're interested in here is the numbers of people who are basically sitting within Hunter Water next to employees, who would otherwise look and smell like employees. I don't know what employees smell like. They would otherwise appear to be an employee but actually, because of the specialty that they're providing or some other reason, they're technically on a contract.

DARREN CLEARLY: That's fine. What I can do—and we will have to come back with some specifics.

We do have a number of arrangements where we do have those sorts of arrangements in place. For example, in our capital delivery part of the business, we have an engagement with WSP. They supplement our capital delivery team—project managers, inspectors, some technical advice. We have an internal team that manages the capital delivery works. WSP supplement that workforce, and they sit alongside our people.

The CHAIR: Perfect example.

DARREN CLEARLY: I apologise. I didn't bring the numbers.

The CHAIR: That's okay.

DARREN CLEARLY: We have Veolia operating and maintaining our wastewater and water treatment facilities. They have a substantial workforce and they provide that core function to us. They have for the last nine years. We're about to go to market to renew that contract. Again, I apologise I don't have the specific numbers, but we absolutely have those arrangements in place.

The CHAIR: I think then we understand the problem I was having with the last witness, because it would seem relatively clear that, for example, if you're hiring PwC to do something and they all sit somewhere else at PwC doing their work, I don't expect you to know how many of them are doing the work you have asked for that they're contracted to do for you. But if you've got people sitting within Hunter Water who are providing services alongside employees, I would expect you to know how many there were—not off the top of your head, I appreciate that. But, yes, if you could come back to us with that, that would be very useful.

DARREN CLEARLY: Will do, yes.

ANSWER:

As at 30 June 2023, Hunter Water's workforce was comprised of the following:

	Number of individuals
Ongoing roles
Permanent - Enterprise Agreements	445

Permanent - Individual Contracts	79
Temporary - Labour Hire Contractors temporarily filling permanent roles (backfill)	17
Contractors
Contractors	70
WSP partnership employees*	26*

*WSP personnel primarily assigned to Hunter Water projects. Further detail on this engagement is provided in Question on Notice 3.

QUESTION ON NOTICE 3:

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: On evidence this morning, we heard that some of the contractors at Sydney Water are actually getting paid a lot more than the internals. Is that similar for Hunter Water?

DARREN CLEARLY: Look, there would be—

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: I mean, if they're paying contractors more than internals and they're charging you, how do these companies make a profit? I don't understand the maths.

DARREN CLEARLY: The hourly rate, obviously, would be higher because they've got to recover their costs and make a profit. Yes, some of these contractors would be getting paid more than our people but they're under different employment arrangements and they're working for a different business. So some of them are but—

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: I would like to see the spreadsheet, but anyway.

DARREN CLEARLY: Of course. And the advantage of the WSP arrangement is that, like I said, if we don't need the workers—if something happens—they go back to WSP. That's a significant advantage.

The CHAIR: Can I just clarify? We have a variable number of employees under this contract—I understand that. But over the length of the contract, what is the minimum number of WSP contractors who have sat within Hunter Water that whole time?

DARREN CLEARLY: The exact number who have been there the whole time, I'd have to take on notice.

The CHAIR: But it's not zero?

DARREN CLEARLY: No, it's not zero.

The CHAIR: So there is a number of them that have been there the entire time. Some of them are peak and trough—I understand that's for the excess—but there is still a minimum number who have been sitting there the entire time.

DARREN CLEARLY: Well, there is a minimum number of roles. In some of those cases we've had turnover in those roles, as we have turnover in our own business. In terms of the number of roles that have been there for the entire time of the contract, I would have to take that on notice but we can provide the information.

The CHAIR: Thank you.

JENNIFER HAYES: Madam Chair, if I can add—importantly, this is about infrastructure. This is about building infrastructure. We use WSP to help us deliver infrastructure. At times we have new plants that we're building, at times we are doing plant upgrades and at times we don't. They have also had turnover within their business and they will upscale and downscale within their own organisation to meet the needs of our contract and infrastructure delivery.

The CHAIR: I guess the concern here is that we're not using contractors where we could otherwise be using employees. I absolutely understand what you're saying. Sometimes there is a peak and you need to get more people on. But to the extent that under this contract we have people who are—similar to what we heard yesterday—working for year after year within an organisation where otherwise perhaps that could be an employee, that's something we are very interested in. So if you could maybe just come back on notice.

JENNIFER HAYES: We will.

DARREN CLEARLY: I understand. We can provide that information on WSP.

ANSWER:

Hunter Water initiated its Program and Project Management (PPM) partnership with WSP Australia Pty Ltd (WSP) in 2018/19, following a competitive tendering procurement process. The PPM aims to support efficient and effective delivery of Hunter Water's capital program, while managing risk and delivering organisational benefits. The partnership was established to provide complementary internal project management support and improved systems. This was required to support an uplift in capital works expenditure due to a range of larger, more complex projects.

11 positions have remained consistent across the duration of the partnership, with remaining resources being variable in response to project requirements. Of these 11 positions, only one (1) individual has remained engaged continuously via the PPM since 2018/19.

The table below summarises the yearly variation in staff resources provided by the PPM. This matches the variable profile of Hunter Water's capital portfolio expenditure.

	Year 1 18/19	Year 2 19/20	Year 3 20/21	Year 4 21/22	Year 5 22/23
WSP personnel working at least 3 days per week for Hunter Water work (headcount)	8	8	25	26	26
Total number of individual resources engaged via the PPM at some point during the year (headcount)	107	139	114	85	119
Total annualised hours worked by WSP employees on Hunter Water projects (FTE hours per year)	19.67	32.17	29.96	29.04	30.67
Mean remuneration ($/hr)	$139.27	$135.86	$128.15	$105.93	$119.43

The arrangement with WSP enables Hunter Water to access a range of engineering and project delivery technical specialists in a flexible and agile way. As noted in the table above, many of these resources do not necessarily work on Hunter Water projects on a full time, nor on an ongoing basis.

This provides significant cost advantages over an employment model with Hunter Water, enabling access to deep expertise for brief periods, and eliminates cycles of hiring and potentially costly redundancies. The arrangement also enables project management expertise to match the volume, size and type of projects being delivered by Hunter Water, which changes over time.

The activities undertaken by WSP cannot be performed by Hunter Water employees through provisions such as overtime. This is for a number of reasons including:

- We are sourcing specialist capabilities that we would not be able to recruit in the marketplace nor would we be able to utilise their specialisation on an ongoing, full-time basis.
- The WSP personnel supplement, and work alongside, our Hunter Water employed workforce of 26 FTE in Asset Solutions. These 26 Hunter Water employees are the only available employees with the required capabilities and skills and they are fully deployed against the asset creation / infrastructure program. Overtime is not a viable option in that these employees would be placed at risk in terms of fatigue management. Overtime is also impractical in that the times that our employees may be able to undertake overtime would not coincide with the resourcing needs as construction work hours are reasonably uniform.

QUESTION ON NOTICE 4:

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: I'm not sure if you heard my question about the Treasury standard accounting codes. I think in your opening statement you indicated that you comply with all of those. Is that how you report back?

DARREN CLEARY: I'll pass over to Jennifer.

JENNIFER HAYES: Yes, we do. I am absolutely familiar with the financial reporting codes—

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: You're doing better than Sydney Water.

JENNIFER HAYES: —particularly TPG23-03 in terms of the definitions around consultants and contractors and employees. Our accounts are prepared in accordance with those. As part of my CFO attestation, I attest to that and the controls around that. And our accounts are audited. So they also go through a rigorous audit.

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: If we were to ask you for a breakdown based on codes, you would be able to give that to us on notice?

JENNIFER HAYES: There are a lot of codes. But in terms of that reporting code specifically around consultants and contractors, yes: TPG23-03

For reference – earlier question from the Hon Mark Buttigieg to Sydney Water:

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: Do you know if you use those codes when you're reporting back to Treasury?

The Hon. WES FANG: Is there a suggestion they don't?

PAUL PLOWMAN: Sorry, which code—I wouldn't know the codes. Can you explain what those codes are? Then I can tell you.

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: Sure. There's a requirement for State government agencies and State-owned corporations to prepare financial statements in line with AASB, which is the Australian Accounting Standards Boards, and Treasury actually specify a whole list of quite specific codes. AE is the common nomenclature. AE208020001, for example, is "Consultant Expenses"; AE208040001 is "Contractor Expenses". Then there's a whole list that goes through. I just want to know if Sydney Water is complying with that specification from Treasury so, when it goes back to Treasury, Treasury has a like-for-like snapshot of what's going on in the contractor/consultant space.

PAUL PLOWMAN: Yes. I'm not the CFO, so I didn't do the attestation of it, but, yes, we would, as a general comment, comply with everything that the Treasury would ask us to do.

The Hon. MARK BUTTIGIEG: That being the case, then that information should be already available for the Committee because they'll all be broken down into codes. Could you provide that for us on notice?

PAUL PLOWMAN: Yes

ANSWER:

Hunter Water's financial statements are prepared in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards (and Interpretations) issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB), mandates issued by NSW Treasury and other mandatory and statutory reporting requirements, including NSW Treasury Circulars, the Government Sector Finance Act 2018 and the State Owned Corporations Act 1989.

Hunter Water's financial statements are audited by the NSW Auditor General, tabled in the Parliament, and available on Hunter Water's website.

The two codes cited by The Hon Mark Buttigieg are NSW Treasury PRIME codes. Hunter Water submits returns into the PRIME system each quarter, at the half year, and at the end of each financial year. The system is designed to ensure consistency across the NSW General Government Sector, to table the production of Consolidated Financial Statements for NSW and the Total State Sector.

The two PRIME codes provided, are consistent with the detail reported within Hunter Water's Financial Statements:

- AE208020001 "Consultant Expenses" reflects details provided at Note 24 in Hunter Water's audited Financial Statements
- AE208040001 "Contractor Expenses" reflects 'other' operational contractor expenses detailed in Hunter Water's audited Financial Statements.

INQUIRY INTO THE NSW GOVERNMENT'S USE AND MANAGEMENT OF CONSULTING SERVICES

HEARING – WEDNESDAY 6 SEPTEMBER 2023

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTIONS

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTION 1:

Please list every professional services engagement undertaken since 2017. In your answers, please detail:

- the agency or individual engaged,
- the details of the work requested for each engagement,
- the details of the work undertaken for each engagement,
- the tendering process for the engagement,
- which other agencies were approached for a quote or tender for each engagement,
- the initial value of the engagement,
- the contract period relating to the engagement, and whether the engagement period was extended. If the engagement was extended, the additional length of that engagement as a result of the extension and the additional value of each subsequent extension,
- the total value of the engagement, and
- whether a post-engagement evaluation of the work was completed.

ANSWER:

Hunter Water reports consultant expenditure within its Annual Report in accordance with Treasury Policy TPG23-03 Financial Reporting Code for NSW General Government Sector Entities. Under TPG23-03, a consultant is defined as 'a person or organisation engaged under contract on a temporary basis to provide recommendations or professional advice to assist decision making by management'. For consultants engaged by Hunter Water, it is the advisory nature of the work that differentiates them from other professional services.

This supplementary question seeks details of every 'professional services' engagement undertaken by Hunter Water since 2017. The term 'professional services' is not defined in the question.

To ensure consistency in the information provided, Hunter Water has utilised the definition applied by the NSW Procurement Board (<https://info.buy.nsw.gov.au/categories/professional-services>). Under this definition, professional services are:

...a type of external labour that provide specialist advice and assistance. Government agencies engage professional services providers, including consultants, to:

- provide strategic direction
- independently review a proposed course of action
- provide recommendations for organisational change
- strengthen a team
- implement a new system or process.

Hunter Water's enterprise management system does not record engagements that directly address the requested characteristics. Hunter Water has, however, via a manual collation process prepared the attached response to detail professional services engagements entered into since 2017, as requested by the Committee.

In the time available to Hunter Water, best endeavours have been made to ensure the accuracy of the information provided. The spreadsheets provided may, however, record some transactions that extend beyond the definition of 'professional services', for example, some engagements may incorporate both professional services advice (labour) as well as goods.

Hunter Water's enterprise management system does not record the post-engagement evaluation outcomes (where one is undertaken). Should the Committee seek this information regarding a specific engagement, we will be able to review and respond on a case-by-case basis.

Request for Confidentiality

Two versions of the attachment related to this response are provided for the Committee.

The first, titled Confidential Attachment A, provides a complete non-redacted response to the Committee's question.

The fourth column of this spreadsheet (titled 'Which other agencies were approached for a quote or tender for each engagement') includes the names of all suppliers that were invited to quote or who tendered for the various engagements, including parties that were unsuccessful.

This information is commercially sensitive. The Government Information (Public Access) Act 2009 (GIPA Act, at s32) specifically notes that details of any unsuccessful tender are protected confidential information.

Hunter Water respectfully requests that this information not be published by the Committee. This request for confidentiality is consistent with the protections provided under the GIPA Act (had the request come via GIPA), and under Privilege (had the request come via the Legislative Council's powers under Standing Order 52).

The public release of this confidential information could undermine Hunter Water's ability to obtain the most appropriate services and value for money. This, in turn, would impact Hunter Water's ability to meet one of the principal objectives of a state-owned corporation under the State Owned Corporations Act 1989, which is to be a successful business and, to this end, to operate at least as efficiently as any comparable business and to maximise the net worth of the State's investment in the Corporation.

The disclosure of details regarding unsuccessful tenders would have adverse effects on Hunter Water's current and future competitive tenders, and to obtain favourable commercial terms or prices in relation to a particular contractual or commercial negotiation.

For the benefit of the Committee a second, redacted version of the spreadsheet is provided with only this fourth column redacted Public Attachment A. Hunter Water does not object to this version of the spreadsheet being published.

Since 2017, how many times has the services of an independent probity advisor been engaged to provide written advice determining the propriety and/or recommend any mitigation/treatment action for engagements where there could be potential or perceived conflicts of interest or subsequent probity issues?

ANSWER:

Hunter Water's enterprise management system records that probity advisors have been engaged on 10 occasions since 2017. Some of these engagements provided advice on multiple procurements.

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTION 3:

How many people employed by a consulting or contracting agency have been onboarded and are currently operating within the agency?

ANSWER:

See response to Question on Notice 2.

SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTION 4:

1. What is the total headcount of external contractors working in Hunter Water?
  - a. How many of those are in senior management positions?
  - b. How many of those external contractors have been engaged for a period longer than 12 months?
  - c. What is the average annual payment made in respect of each individual contractor? What is the mean annual payment? Please provide any other cost details recorded by Hunter Water.

ANSWER:

1. See response to Question on Notice 2.
  - a. Nil
  - b. Since 2017, Hunter Water has entered 379 individual engagements to provide external contractors. Of these, 164 engagements have been for a duration greater than 12 months. The average engagement duration is 1.25 years.
  - c. Average (mean) annualised payment of external contractors engaged at 30 June 2023 is $168,804. This assumes external contractors were working on a full-time basis for Hunter Water.
