GETTING 2 ZERO INFORMATION FOR SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTION

NSW Legislative Council's Portfolio Committee No. 8 – Customer Service INQUIRY INTO POUNDS IN NEW SOUTH WALES

Getting to Zero (G2Z) is a national program providing free, remote and onsite, consulting and support services for local government, not-for-profit organisations and community groups to improve outcomes for lost/stray and homeless animals in every community in Australia.

G2Z welcome the opportunity to engage and advocate at all levels on topics relevant to or inclusive of companion animal management.

This information has been requested by the Portfolio Committee for the Inquiry into Pounds and is a summary of our findings conducted in a limited time frame. As such, it is possible that notable information has been overlooked and the information provided is by no means exhaustive. G2Z offer our services to conduct further investigation if necessary, and to provide support for the Inquiry wherever possible.

The following information is offered in response to the supplementary question provided by the Committee:

1. How can lay staff be utilised to perform some procedures within a veterinary clinic:

Non-Veterinarian staff in other countries (notably most States of the United States of America and the United Kingdom) are authorised to undertake more procedures and practices than here in Australia. This is due to differences in the applicable Veterinary Acts for those locations. The Veterinary Acts for each State in Australia are very restrictive and do not allow for specially qualified staff, such as Veterinary Technicians and/or Veterinary Nurses to support veterinarians to their maximum capacity.

The following links provide more relevant information on the matter.

Australia does have Veterinary Technician qualifications available however it is understood that the relevant Veterinary Acts have not been updated to recognise their capabilities. It is also possible that the courses currently available in Australia do not meet the standards of similar courses in the UK and USA.

We recommend you contact Sonya McDowell who is currently working to increase the capacities of Australian Vet Nurses and who is quite familiar with the topic
