Councillor Jean Hay AM
Mayor
Manly Council
PO Box 82
MANLY NSW 1655

Jean,

Dear Councillor Hay

Thank you for your letter of 24 May 2012 concerning mandatory membership for the Manly Liquor Accord together with an appropriate fee structure.

The NSW Government views a local liquor accord as a voluntary collaboration between licensees and community representatives who work together to develop local initiatives to support the safe and responsible sale, supply, and consumption of alcohol. Mandating membership would go against this voluntary collaboration and could be counterproductive to the effectiveness of the accord. I have also been advised that the Accord Executive was unaware of this request from Council and have indicated that they are not generally supportive of mandatory membership.

However, it should be noted that in August 2008, the then Director of Liquor and Gaming considered a similar request from Manly Police and imposed a condition on the licences of 59 premises requiring that they attend meetings of the Manly Liquor Accord. For your information I have attached a listing of these premises.

In respect to the fee structure I have been advised that the Accord already collects membership fees and receives additional in-kind support from participating venues through the provision of coordinator and secretariat services. However, should further funds be required to support the Accord then section 136 of the Liquor Act 2007 allows the Director General, Trade & Investment, to issue a direction to a licensee in an accord area (irrespective of whether they are an accord member) to contribute to the costs of the accord. It is appropriate that such a request be made by the Accord itself.

I have been advised that the Liquor Accord Delivery Unit within the Office of Liquor, Gaming and Racing has been actively working with Manly Liquor Accord over the past two years, and will continue to do so, to ensure its sustainability and effectiveness. I also note that Manly Council has played a key part in the successes of the Accord and the overall reduction in alcohol related harm and would like to acknowledge Council's efforts in this area.

Thank you for your interest in this matter. I

Yours sincerely

George Souris MR

Encl.

“Secondary Supply” is the provision of alcohol in a private home to young people aged under 18 years, usually by an adult, sibling etc. Secondary Supply is the main way young people under 18 years obtain alcohol. Almost 40% of under-age drinkers get alcohol from their parents and only 5% buy it themselves. (Australian Drug Foundation, May 2012)

The Northern Beaches Community Drug Action Team (CDAT) together with NSW Police, Manly Drug Education and Counselling Centre (MDECC), Northern Sydney Local Health District and local Councils are working together to implement the Supply Means Supply campaign.

The first step of the campaign is to survey parents/carers living on the northern beaches about their attitudes and behaviours relating to secondary supply. The survey will help CDAT to ascertain the social norms and pressures placed on this group.

Secondly, the survey results will be used to tailor an awareness raising campaign and parent/carer workshops that focus on the legislation relating to secondary supply of alcohol, communication skills, and the harms associated with underage drinking. The workshops will also allow parents/carers to link into further support programs should they need ongoing support.

NEW PUSH TO STOP MINORS' GROG SUPPLY

PARENTS are being asked to stop giving alcohol to underage teenagers in a new northern beaches campaign.

The 'Supply Means Supply' campaign is run through the Northern Beaches Community Drug Action Team - a unified group of police, the three northern beaches councils and health organisations.

Manly Drug Education & Counselling Centre (MDECC) is one of the driving forces behind the campaign - which will be run in three stages across the year.

The first stage of the campaign runs until the end of this month and includes a confidential online survey intended for parents and carers to answer questions and learn more about the dangers associated with the secondary supply of alcohol.

Centre volunteer Kayleigh-Jane Ryder, 21,

Manly Drug and Education Counselling Centre's Amanda Watkins with Northern Sydney Local Health District's Melissa Palermo.

said her parents didn't allow her alcohol until she was 18, but she believed that wasn't the case for all minors.

"I think parents who give their kids a six-pack of beer before a party, they tend to assume that they won't drink anything else and they (the children) are being safe," the Beacon Hill resident said. "But the ultimate truth is that a six-pack of beer is 'pre-fill' and it's pretty much drinking before they go out and get intoxicated."

MDECC health promotion co-ordinator Amanda Watkins said it was unknown how severe the secondary supply of alcohol was from parents and carers to minors, which is why she urged people to fill out the survey to find out.

"The whole aim of the program is to educate (people)," Ms Watkins said.

Putting teen drinking laws to work

We know through a national survey that parents are the most common source of alcohol for 15 to 17 year olds, which is why GrogWatch applauds the state governments that have brought in secondary supply laws. Critics of these laws claim that in practice they don't stop adults supplying alcohol to young people. But no laws make a difference if they're not communicated and enforced. Community action around promoting these new laws will go a long way towards making them work.

Last week we saw a good example of this action when Northern Beaches Community Drug Action

The 'Mediterranean Model' of introducing alcohol to young people less than 18 years in small amounts in the presence of parents has been popular. This behaviour model places young people at risk.

In NSW, the maximum penalty for supplying alcohol to a young person less than 18 years is $11,000 for each minor involved and/or 12 months imprisonment, or an on-the-spot penalty of $1100.

Do you have children aged:

What percentage of your son/daughter's friends do you think drink alcohol:

To the best of your knowledge, does your son/daughter drink alcohol? (This means consuming a whole glass of alcohol. It could be on a regular basis, but not necessarily)

To the best of your knowledge, has your son/daughter ever been 'drunk'?

How much influence do you feel that YOU have over your son/daughter's decision to drink alcohol?

How much influence do you think OTHER PARENTS have over their teenager's decision to drink alcohol?

Who do you think has the most influence on teenagers starting to drink alcohol?

To the best of your knowledge, how does your son/daughter currently obtain MOST of the alcohol he/she drinks?

Responses: I have been told by my child that it is normally the older sibling that supplies the alcohol.

Their friends obtain it form friends or siblings of friends, Friends who are of legal drinking age.

Have you ever given your son/daughter alcohol?

How often do you give your son/daughter alcohol?

What kind of alcoholic drinks do you normally give your son/daughter (Tick as many options as apply)

How many standard drinks would you allow your son/daughter to drink on one occasion?(For example, 1 can of pre-mix spirits = 1.5 and an average serve of sparkling wine = 1.5 standard drinks)

Thinking about your son/daughter's friends. What % do you think supply their children with alcohol?

As far as you know, is it LEGAL or ILLEGAL to give alcohol to an adolescent who is less than 18 years old in the following situations:

Thinking about alcohol and your underage children, what resources would be helpful? (Tick all that apply)

Parents had a lot to say!

- Better policing of alcohol, shops selling alcohol to minors!
- More school/parent communication about this issue
- it needs to be peer to peer, shock them and to be believable!
- I would like my son to attend a talk by Paul Dillon
- Parents just don't seem to care - yr 7 kids at Barrenjoey are smoking pot!! – a lot of them! what about THEIR parents???????
- Imposing the penalties to parents and adults that give other children or allow children to consume alcohol.

- Parents who give their kids alcohol are unlikely to attend a workshop or forum about it. A much bigger media presence about the effects of the alcohol on a young brain, as well as big signs at point of sale.

But parents on the Northern Beaches also condone their children smoking pot, so it's a difficult task to teach parents in this area.

- More electronic information and advertising. Parents don't want to admit their child has a problem they want to find information discreetly.
- Re education of the Australian public - most people think drinking is a must and you are not normal if you don't drink
- If only the parents who supplied alcohol to their kids would attend!

'Supply Means Supply'

Phase Two Raise awareness

The 'Supply Means Supply' campaign aims to raise awareness of the legislation relating to the secondary supply of alcohol within the local community and the harms related to underage supply.

Focusing on parents/carers/siblings/coaches/randoms of young people
under the age of 18 years

Alcohol – a fast way to ruin team spirit

Giving your team an alcoholic drink after a game of sport seems harmless enough, but when team members are under the age of 18 then that's when it actually becomes an illegal activity.

Many people believe that giving under-age team members an alcoholic drink after a win (or even a loss) is an accepted practice to build team spirit. However, a coach or parent who does this can face an on-the-spot fine of $1100 by the police. The coach may have no idea of the impact that alcohol will have on that individual and that's just plain wrong," stressed Phil.

Buying alcohol for <18yo friends - gives new meaning to 'mates rates'

"Come on, can you buy me some drinks, here's the money," may be the last words you hear from your under 18 year old friend before the Police slap you with an on-the-spot fine of $1100 for buying alcohol for a minor.

Scenarios like the one above where an under 18 year old asks an older friend to buy them alcohol are common on the Northern Beaches, particularly on the
