NSW inquiry into 'same-sex marriage'.

The question of changing the time-honoured meaning of marriage has been discussed and debated at length around Australia and overwhelmingly voted against in our Federal Parliament. This, despite frequent abusive rhetoric and silencing of those in favour of retaining marriage as between a man and a woman. This is the valid and constitutional place for it.

Surely our state parliament has better things to do with its time than to pursue this matter that does not come within its own terms of reference. Please represent us in matters that do pertain to state jurisdiction.
