

INQUIRY INTO SAME SEX MARRIAGE LAW IN NSW

Name: Name suppressed

Date received: 16/02/2013

Partially Confidential

Love is sacred, an institution not a constitution. It is the place where man and woman are not gratified and satisfied but intensified with efforts and due rewards for tolerance, patience, love and kindness regardless of impending issues. This is the place of a life loved through endurance by the institution of marriage.

Sexual preferences are a choice and have no place in an institution that identifies man and woman in marriage. Marriage has identified families for centuries before Christ and identified by the population of the world regardless of race or religion. It is not right to uphold homosexuality as an identification in this sacred ritual. I will never accept a homosexual marriage under any circumstances along with my family I vehemently oppose such a proposal.