The structure of life to maintain life is and always has been one male and one female in all of human history and in the animal, insect and plant kingdom. The basic structure of human society in all times is the FAMILY and a family has always been one man, one woman and their offspring and marriage is between a man and a woman - always has been. You can legislate what you like but it won't change the facts. e.g. you can legislate to call a dog a pig but it's still a dog. Leave marriage and the marriage act as it is and was meant to be.
