Dear Members,

My submission for opposing Marriage Equality is comprised of the following beliefs:

“marriage” is a concept used by society to help define the ongoing organisation, stability and procreation of itself.

by definition, a same sex “marriage” is sterile for the ongoing dynamics and population needs of society.

Also by definition, a same sex “marriage” is therefore shallow and incomplete for society’s needs.

A same sex couple can enjoy each other fully, and even agree to commit to each other faithfully, but as for “marriage”, society would be compromised if it allowed these couples to marry and so gain equal status with the “natural order” of heterosexual couples who procreate and nurture children for society’s ongoing needs.

Children adopted into a contrived, artificial “marriage” could not be provided with the role model balance that can be provided by a conventional heterosexual marriage of a mother and father.

If same sex couples were given equal status in “marriage” (which can never be part of the natural order of life) would it not be part of that same reasoning to suggest that “marriage” also be allowed for multiple people in the one union; or a “marriage” between a human and a pet animal? This first decadent step of allowing same sex marriage reduces the dignity and integrity of marriage as a fundamental, primary social institution.

A nation that tinkers with its fundamental institutions is treading a dangerous path towards moral decline. Marriage is one of those institutions
