This power sell-off is particularly bad: profits from the sale of electricity are being handed over to the private sector, but many of the financial risks remain with the public.

Household power bills will increase as the gentraders seek to make more profit.

The resignation of the directors of the state-owned generators is a measure of how uneconomic the deal is for NSW.

Proroguing parliament and intimidating inquiry witnesses show that the Keneally government has much to hide.

The people of NSW have a right to know what Treasurer Roozendaal and the Keneally government have done to their power assets.
