

Submission
No 232

INQUIRY INTO PERFORMANCE OF THE NSW
ENVIRONMENT PROTECTION AUTHORITY

Name: Ms Wendy Gillespie

Date received: 29/08/2014

Dear Sir/Madam,

New South Wales needs a fearless and independent Environment Protection Authority that puts the interests of the community and natural environment first.

Most importantly, it must be adequately resourced so that it can effectively meet its objectives and enforce compliance with conditions of licence or approval, defend regulatory policies and actions through law when required, or prosecute offenders.

Increased growth and industrial development are placing enormous pressure on the air we breathe, the water we drink and the ecosystems which support our well-being and survival.

The EPA has an important role to play in protecting, restoring and enhancing the quality of the environment in New South Wales. However a number of recent incidents highlight the EPA's failure to regulate or prosecute polluters and stop environmental breaches. Following these incidents there is strong public perception that the EPA has been captured by industry, and does not act in the public interest.

I commenced research on the human impacts on pelicans on the Central Coast in 2010.

Unfortunately the majority of my time for the past 4 years has focused on sick and dying pelicans and other aquatic birds in a very localised area. It took 3 years to get any interest and a phone call from the department on the issue. The lack of a coordinated, on ground environmental investigation has resulted in continuing morbidity and mortality and resolution on the suffering in sight.

We look to this inquiry to address the specific concerns raised by the community and to make recommendations to ensure that the EPA is capable of putting the environment and healthy communities ahead of polluters.

Yours sincerely

Wendy Gillespie MTropEnvMgmt, BSc(AES)
Pelican Rescuer and Researcher