THE MANAGEMENT AND OPERATIONS OF THE NSW AMBULANCE SERVICE

Hi

I have been an Ambulance Officer for     years and have seen ineffective management as the norm. It seems that the most arrogant, ignorant and bad communicators are the ones that are promoted to positions of power. When they get there, it is almost impossible to dislodge them, no-matter what they do. There was an incident in                     where an officer was paid a near million dollar payout, because of actions of management. These managers were never held accountable. And there is the well publicised incident at Cowra where a life was lost.
