To Whom It May Concern;

Why are we even visiting this issue in NSW? Were not all citizens recently canvassed by our Fedral politicians? Was the vote in Fedral Parliament not 2 - 1 against changing the definition of marriage, based on those gathered opinions ? I think it would be extremely devisive to the nation for NSW to try and "go their own way" on the issue of marriage. I think it's a massive waste of the NSW parliament's time to even debate or engage this issue at all, let alone so soon after a resounding "No to Change" vote in the Fedral parliament.
