Marriage as the union of a man and a woman has existed across cultures, religions and millennia, reflecting the biological complementary of the sexes.

Marriage existed before parliaments – the state has no business in redefining something that has naturally existed in almost all times and places.

Redefining marriage creates the presumption that a child no longer has the right to be raised within their biological family. This is a serious human rights issue for our most vulnerable.

Redefining marriage leads to the suppression of freedom of speech and freedom of religion.
Marriage is a federal issue – the New South Wales parliament should not be attempting to redefine marriage.

As a primarily Christian society we should be protecting the historical cultural and social values that have shaped our country- the degradation of these is eroding the country's social values.
