THE TRANSPORT NEEDS OF SYDNEY'S NORTH-WEST SECTOR

Name: Mr James Fields

The Current public transport system to the North-West is a disgrace at best. The buses to the City Via the M2 are over crowd to the point that on Monday I waited 40 mins on the M2 for a Bus to stop the wasn't full. I could count on my hand how many time I've had a seat in the last year.

What I also find unacceptable is that the Bus lane is missing between the Epping Tunnel and the approach tot he Harbour Bridge. If we are not going to get Rail, please fix this missing line, and stop creating Bus lanes to already well serviced (by rail) area, such as Parramatta and Blacktown.

I agree the Metro rail is a better option than heavy rail. It works very well in Japan and London, and takes City rail that is corrupt out of the picture.
