I am against homosexual marriage for two primary reasons. The first is that I am a Christian and I am against homosexuality itself. I believe it is a serious sin and an unnatural perversion of something God created to be enjoyed between man and woman. The next reason related to the first is that you are allowing homosexuals to adopt kids and teach their kids that this is a normal way of life, when in fact it is abnormal and perverted. What are their kids going to grow up thinking? If everybody thought like that then how are we going to be "Fruitful and multiply"? IVF, well that is just a joke.

I don't believe people are born homosexual. It is a choice they make, the same as smoking and drinking. As politicians you should know the negatives of disobeying God's laws as in the case of homosexuality. I should not have to tell you the consequences. You just have to open your eyes a bit more. Unfortunately people want to close their eyes and justify their actions by teaching lies such as that they were born that way when they really were not. It is just that they don't want to change their bad ways and are willing to go the full distance to great lengths to justify their ways. There is no justification for that.

So you really have to ask yourself the main question : Do you want to be a society with Godly and Christian values and receive God's blessing OR do you want to be a perverted society and receive God's curse such as when He destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah? You don't need to follow the US or the UK or any other nation just because they think it is a cool thing or a modern thing to do. Doing the right thing does not always look and feel cool but it is certainly worth it in the end.

Your problem is that you underestimate the God of heavens, such as many before you including the people of Sodom and Gomorrah. Have a good look at your country and compare it to before. It was a lot better before. Now ask yourself why? Why is Australia worse now than what it was before? Now you have a choice to stop it from being even worse. Will you make that choice?
