INQUIRY INTO GREYHOUND RACING IN NSW

Name: Miss J Birch

Date received: 5/11/2013

In response to mounting evidence of cruelty to greyhounds and widespread misconduct at dog tracks, an official Parliamentary Inquiry has finally been launched in New South Wales! Unlike the United States, there is no independent body overseeing the greyhound racing industry, so the dogs have had absolutely no voice.

In the latest investigation by ABC's 7.30 Report, the massive overbreeding of greyhounds, the widespread doping of dogs with illegal drugs, and the admitted killing of 3,000 ex-racers each year has been revealed.

At a minimum, an independent regulatory body must be created, mandatory adoption programs put in place, and a moratorium placed on any new dog tracks.

Please help make this happen.
