Marriage is a relationship between man and wife to establish family and to bring children to life.

Changing the marriage act to allow gay marriage will destroy this concept.

The Government can establish any separate act for those who want a relationship under law, like any other law to bind the parties of such relationship.

So in other words, as we have Marriage Act, Tax Assessment Act, and Corporation law, so the government can establish a separate Act for Gay Relationships. It should not be considered Marriage.

The relationships of Gays should not be included to the Marriage Act, WHY MARRIAGE ACT?

They have all the rights to establish their own act or laws apart from Marriage relationship.
