INQUIRY INTO SAME SEX MARRIAGE LAW IN NSW

Name: Mr Patrick Doyle

Date received: 15/02/2013

Marriage is between a man and a woman. you cannot call a man a woman and visa versa. It is not discrimination not to allow a man to marry a man or a woman to marry a woman. We should respect the rights of an individual however when those rights diminish the backbone of society which is the family, then they should respect the rights of the majority. The reason you have a man and woman as head of a family is so the children get a balanced view of the world that does not happen when the parents are of the same sex. They are entitled to have access to civil unions so that they are legal if they so want but to marriage.
