It's hard to believe the level of hypocrisy that exists in the greyhound racing industry. They give the impression that they love and care for the greyhounds but the reality is they only care about the greyhounds that win races for them and then they only care for them while they are winning. Once they are over the top, or if they never get there in the first place they are just pushed aside to be done away with.

This is a shameful industry and should be pulled into line.
