Marriage is a union between a man & a woman, this has been the norm for past ages, in all cultures & across all religions. A man & a woman is complimentary to each other physically and emotionally, to change this is going against nature. Children are procreated, and they have the right to a father & mother. and they have the right to know & identify with their biological parents. Changing the marriage status opens the gate to deviant behaviour and causes behavioural problems for future generations.
