I believe a system ( in this case that marriage is a covenant between a man and a woman) that has worked very well for 1000s of years should not need change. A child has a right to have a mummy and a daddy who will provide a secure and stable home without confusion. There will be many more divorces after 'same sex marriage' as statistically they often have more then one 'partner'. Marriage re-defined could in future also cover under-aged marriages, sibling marriages, incestuous marriages and relationships between humans and their pets and the list could go on. Say NO and preserve the moral fabric of our society, for the sake of our future generations. (Or naturally there won't be any)
